Vote Nov. 23

County Employees May Go Under Social Security

More than 20,000 state and county employees will vote Nov. 23 on whether or not they want Federal Social Security coverage.

The election is being held under a law passed by the legislature allowing state and county employees who are in the State Retirement System to also be covered by social security. Although only some 20,000 employees will vote, the decision will affect all state and county employees.

EFFECTIVE JAN. 1

It takes a majority of the 20,000 to obtain social security coverage — but each employee then makes his own decision as to whether or not he wants to participate. If the vote carries, the social security coverage will go into effect on Jan. 1 and the necessary payroll deductions will be made in January salary payments. Employees will have coverage retroactive to Jan. 1, 1956 — last year.

All state and county employees who choose to receive the social security benefits will have to obtain social security numbers, unless they already have one. Present employees have a choice, but all new employees after Jan. 1 will be automatically covered if the Nov. 23 election passes.

MUST DECIDE

State and county employees have until the middle of December to decide whether they want to accept or reject social security. However, State Comptroller Ray E. Green urges all employees to study the program prior to the November election so they'll be ready to make their decision soon after the election.

Employees under social security will contribute 4 per cent to the State and County Officers' and Employees' Retirement System and 2 1/2 per cent into the social security fund. Presently,

Winter Coming Livestock Feed Prospects Good

Gainesville — Supplies of livestock feed in Florida are improving each year, and the outlook for the coming winter is good, according to the report of the Florida Agricultural Outlook Committee.

J. R. Henderson, agronomist with the Florida Agricultural Extension Service and chairman of the sub-committee on crops and feeds, says prospects for 1957-58 indicate adequate supplies of farm grains and other concentrates. The supply of hay will be larger than in 1957, due to favorable soil moisture conditions in some of the major hay-producing areas.

In Florida, intensive fertilization and better management of pasture has contributed to improvement in the overall supply of feed. More winter pastures and temporary summer grazing crops are being used, and increasing acreages are being irrigated. Decided increases have occurred in the preservation of forage crops as silage.

MORE PASTURE

Improved pastures now total more than 1.6 million acres in Florida, with continued expansion in prospect. Some increase will occur in the use of oats, rye, and wheat, grown alone or in combination with winter legumes, for winter grazing and for chopped green forage. A slight increase is expected in the production of tame hay.

The supply of dried citrus pulp is expected to equal or exceed that of the past canning season. There is a trend among dairies to move onto soils better suited for production of pasture, hay, and silage. This will continue.

Ike's Meeting With Defense Chiefs Expected To Deal With Missiles

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower confers today with his defense chiefs, presumably on plans for speeding U. S. missile research. The meeting followed an official admission this country cannot hope to catch up with Russia soon in earth satellite development.

The President, due to leave Walter Reed Army Hospital after an over-night stay for a physical check-up, scheduled a later afternoon meeting with Defense Secretary Neil H. McKroy and Deputy Defense Secretary Donald A. Quarles.

While the purpose of the meeting was not announced, it was expected to deal with plans for speeding U. S. missile and satellite work.

Quarles said Sunday night outer space control is going to be "increasingly important and I think that we must undoubtedly move energetically into this area."

Asked in a TV interview NBC's

"Youth Wants to Know" whether this country would be "up with" Russia by March when the first fully instrumented U. S. satellite is slated for launching, Quarles replied:

Expect Russian Advance
"I would expect we will not, because I would expect they would do other things in the meantime along this general line." He did not elaborate.

Quarles said, however, he did not consider Russia's space advances as serious a threat to U. S. security as some leading American scientists and rocket experts claim.

He also said this country has rockets as powerful as the missile apparently used by Russia to launch its second Sputnik, and predicted the two countries will not be far apart in attaining "operational capability" of "very long-range" ballistic missiles.

He said the United States is ahead of Russia in military electronics, atomic weapons and much of its aviation.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was due back this afternoon from a "working vacation" at his Duck Island, Lake Ontario, retreat. He was expected to have ready a tentative blueprint for following up the President's call for wider military-scientific cooperation with the nation's Free World allies.

President Eisenhower flies to Oklahoma City, Okla., Wednesday to make his second "shin up" speech on the nation's scientific situation. He is expected to deal with plans for promoting long-range advancement of science education in schools and colleges.

The Russian concentration on science was emphasized Sunday night in a report by the U. S. office of Education showing Russian students get 10 years of mathematics, five years of physics, four years of chemistry, five years of biology and one year of astronomy by the end of high school.

By the end of the week Dr. James B. Egan, president of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, is expected to set up shop here as the President's full-time scientific adviser and coordinator of government military-scientific programs.

In other developments in the missile-satellite field:

—The Navy claimed its new ballistic missile, the Polaris, would reduce Russia's defense "in almost impotency" in any nuclear war.

—Dr. John F. Hagen, head of the U. S. satellite "Project Vanguard," told the United Press it appeared "something went wrong" with Russia's Sputnik II. He based this on the reported death of the Sputnik's canine passenger and the silencing of its radio signals. Hagen indicated this country may be cracking the code by which Sputnik II transmitted data on the dog and space conditions.

Christmas. Parade Float Entries Are Starting To Come In

"Entries of floats in the forthcoming Jaycee-Merchants Association Christmas Parade are beginning to come in," John Alexander, general chairman for the gigantic event staged by the Jaycees, said today.

However, Chairman Alexander said this morning, "we hope that local organizations will not wait until the last minute to enter floats so that our plans can be enlarged along with the number of floats that will appear."

Jaycees this year are enthusiastic over the 1957 Christmas Parade being "bigger and better" than ever before.

Already 10 bands have agreed to march and play in the Sanford Christmas Parade which has grown each year and is now expanding to be one of the biggest and finest in the Central Florida area.

There are 17 committees in the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce Christmas Parade organization with nearly 100 percent participation of Jaycees in the planning and staging of the Dec. 4 event that will bring children and parents from all over Central Florida to Sanford.

Organizations throughout the county are planning to enter floats in the gigantic parade that will be more colorful this year than ever before. Churches, schools, civic clubs, fraternal organizations as well as veterans groups, boy scouts, girl scouts and many other groups will be represented.

The theme of this year's parade, Chairman Alexander said recently, is "Christmas Through the Eyes of Children."

Exactly how Santa Claus will arrive in Sanford has not yet been heard since Santa Claus is perhaps preparing his schedule of appearances so that he can visit with children everywhere briefly during the holiday immediately prior to Christmas.

Christmas lights are being put into shape by city crews and the gay colored bulbs, along with Santa's faces, decorative bells, and other decorations are expected to be lit by the big day Wednesday, Dec. 4.

"There are many, many details yet to be worked out," Chairman Alexander said this morning and every committee is busily engaged in trying to complete all necessary arrangements so that the parade will begin promptly at the announced time.

"We are going to be ready," said Alexander, "and we are hoping to experience one of the biggest crowds ever to line Sanford streets to witness the annual Christmas Parade financed by the Sanford Merchants Association and staged by the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce."

Over 400 Attend Lion's Benefit Variety Show

CASSELBERRY—An estimated crowd of more than 400 attended the Casseberry Lions Clubs' second annual benefit variety show, held in the new Lyman School auditorium Thursday night, C. K. Fisher, co-chairman of the affair in charge of ticket sales said after the performance. Fisher also said that it was too early for the committee to give a report of net proceeds, which will be used by the club in its sight conservation and welfare programs.

A surprise event of the show was the awarding of a prize of $25 for the best performance, judged by the rating registered on an applause meter. The Jones Boys Band, a popular dance band composed of Boone High students was favored by the audience over the other participants.

Joe Weimer, producer of the show said yesterday that he was well pleased with support given the show and complimented each of the performers who helped stage a successful and entertaining variety presentation.

The cast included accordionists, vocalists, tap and ballroom dancers, baton twirlers, pantomimists and pianists, some of whom performed in the clubs' first variety show given last year.

By United Press
A new war scare swept through Syria today with reports of large-scale Turkish maneuvers along a wide stretch of the border. All Syrian army units along the border were alerted. The Syrian Cabinet held an emergency session after midnight.

The Foreign Office in Damascus said Turkish troops massing took place at four points on the frontier early today.

The points were said to be in the general area of Bab el Hawa north of Aleppo. Extensive troop movements were said to have been carried out under cover of darkness.

The Syrians said an estimated 300 Turkish vehicles including tanks were seen moving along the border through the darkness of early morning. Villages and border posts on the Turkish side of the frontier were reported blacked out.

The maneuvering of troops and vehicles was said to have lasted several hours. No incidents were reported.

Informed sources in Damascus said it appeared the Turkish military activity was related to reported growing unrest in Jordan, where there was said to be more outspoken opposition to King Hussein.

Full Agenda Will Be Placed Before City Board Tonight

A full agenda will be placed before members of the Board of Sanford City Commission tonight at its regular meeting.

Also to come before the Board of Commissioners is a letter from the engineering firm of Gee and Jensen in regard to rates for the proposed docks and terminals project.

Parallel parking on Magnolia Ave. will be discussed along with the other 12 items appearing on tonight's order of business.

Anti-King March

Some 3,000 Palestinian Arab students and school children marched through the streets of Damascus today chanting anti-Hussein slogans, including "Hussein must go" and "Hussein is a traitor."

Western diplomats feared new attempts to overthrow Hussein or even to murder him and said there were indications the anti-Hussein forces were gaining strength in the Middle East.

The Egyptian newspaper Al Gahmouriya reported today in Cairo that tension was growing in Jordan and that "some army units refused to carry out orders to go to west bank refugee camps and intimidate refugees."

Government May Be Cracking Sputnik II's Code

WASHINGTON — The head of the U. S. satellite launching program indicated today the government may be cracking Sputnik II's code.

Dr. John P. Hagen, head of Project Vanguard, also said "something appears to have gone wrong" with Russia's second earth satellite.

Hagen expressed no surprise at Sunday night's report by the Italian Communist newspaper L'Unita in Rome that the dog Laika inside the second Sputnik was dead — poisoned by its last drop of food.

"I thought that was probably the case," he told the United Press. Hagen questioned the scientific value of Laika's brief sojourn in space, although he said results of her pioneering flight are not known here.

Can See Little Value
"It's hard to see how any real scientific value can be derived from the short time she was up there," he said. He added chances of recovering the dog's body for a post-mortem examination are "very slim."

Hagen said the coded radio messages sent from Sputnik II until its radio became silent were "subject to the code cracking process."

He said U. S. officials were "not yet in a position" to say anything about their conclusions from Sputnik's signals. He said the code was difficult to analyze and required "a lot of cross-checking."

But he added, "much more difficult things than this have been cracked in the past."

Moscow Radio said teletexting instruments aboard Sputnik II which sent forth coded information about Laika and conditions aloft had stopped functioning. It said the reception had been planned for only seven days to start with and the time was up.

Thinks Something Went Wrong
Hagen suggested, however, "something went wrong" with Sputnik's II's recording and communication system.

"Put two and two together—the dog's death and the cessation of signals—and it appears something has gone wrong with the experiment," he said.

In questioning the value of Laika's voyage, the Navy scientist said no one has ever observed such a highly-advanced animal during a prolonged state of weightlessness such as exists in space. He said that could have been a useful result of Laika's flight "if all had been successful."

Members of the State Road Board, including Wilbur Jones, will be present for the occasion.

The free barbecue which will be open to the public will begin at 4 p. m. at Osteen.

Dr. R. S. Williams, chairman of the New Smyrna Beach Roads Committee and Earl Higginbotham of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, were in charge of the arrangements which are being sponsored by the two chambers of commerce, the Volusia County Commission and the Seminole County Commission.

The Chief's Wives Club met last Wednesday evening, November 6, at Morrison's Imperial House, in Winter Park, for another of their popular "Dutch treat" dinners. Reservations were made well in advance, and the girls enjoyed their choice of those famous prime ribs of beef, or a seafood platter. An extra added favor was supplied by Marie Hippo, the club's social director.

Courses of "mums" and autumn leaves were presented to all those present by Marie, who bought them herself. (A very nice gesture on her part.) Those present were: Betty Brian, Charlotte Aeder, Louise Phillips, Dorothy Colter, Marie Hippo, Florence Bowers, Margaret Johnson, Ethel Petch, Bernice Boynton, Jerry White, and June Erickson. Everyone was sorry that the club's president, Marie Sundvall, was too ill to attend. The girls met at 7:30 P. M., and had a most enjoyable evening.

On Thursday, November 14, the First Methodist Church is having a bazaar. It will get under way at 2:00 P. M., and will also be open during the evening. You'll be able to find everything from baked goods, (baked by some of the best cooks in town) to a variety of items and fancy-work. With Christmas so close, what could be nicer than a handmade gift for someone? Everyone is invited to come in and "browse around", and there will be a coffee and cake booth that you may enjoy at the same time. Remember, that's this coming Thursday, November 14, starting at 2:00 P. M.

Seven Reasons Why Children Misbehave

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of three 31-page articles in which Dr. Fritz Redl, a noted health specialist, offers down-to-earth advice to parents in coping with youthful misbehavior.

By LOUIS CASSELL
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UP) — There are seven reasons why children misbehave.

If you understand these reasons, you can head off many disciplinary problems before they arise. And you can cope intelligently with those you cannot prevent.

This advice comes from Dr. Fritz Redl, chief of the Laboratory for Child Research at the National Institute of Mental Health. Redl, one of the world's foremost psychologists, is particularly noted for his research on the behavior problems of normal and disturbed children.

No Fat Theory
Wise discipline, Redl said in an interview, begins with the realization that there is "no nice pat theory, no simple rule of thumb" that you can apply to every instance of misbehavior.

Some parents seem to regard all misbehavior as a "harmless phase of development" to be ignored until the child "grows out of it." Others go to the opposite extreme. They treat all misbehavior as a rebellion against authority which must be stamped out with stern punitive measures.

"All such generalizations are poison," Redl said. "Misbehavior is not all alike. It can't be handled in the same way. There are times when a child needs to be punished—and times when punishment does more harm than good.

"When your child acts up, ask yourself, 'Why did he do that? What's behind this misbehavior? What does it mean to him?'"

"Figuring out the meaning of a child's misbehavior doesn't require a degree in psychology. All it requires is a little thought, a little common sense, and a willingness to look a few inches below the surface of a child's annoying conduct to find out what prompted it. Then you will know how to handle it."

Seven Basic Reasons
Here are the seven basic reasons for misbehavior listed by Redl:

1. Some objects and places cast an "almost hypnotic spell" over children. This is true of older children as well as the very young toddler who grabs for the vase left on a low table. To the normal child of 6, 8 or even 10, "a pair of scissors says 'cut with me' and a hammer says 'hit with me.' A big echoing room, like an art museum, whispers 'run and about in me.'"
2. Children are "extremely susceptible to the influence of other people's behavior." When they are playing in groups, a kind of "gang intoxication" may be set up which will cause all of them to do things which none of them would do on their own. This is particularly true of pre-adolescents. In meeting out discipline for group misbehavior, it is important to enforce the principle of "collective responsibility." Trying to single out the child who "started" it will only make him a hero to the others.
3. Some conduct that parents find very annoying—for example, the "emancipation acrobatics" of the teenager—is a "waste by-product of normal development." The parent must set limits and enforce them, but he should also remember that "growing up is a process of finding things out the hard way and necessarily involves a lot of foolishness."

4. Any child will misbehave if he is frustrated too long by any normal need. Moving around, making a little noise and letting off steam is a normal need. That's why a child who is cooped up in a car for a long trip, or who has to mind his manners through a long company dinner, often goes off the gold standard with a vengeance.

5. Misbehavior may be a child's way of communicating a normal worry or trouble that he can't put into words. For example, a child who is jealous of a new brother or sister may misbehave by acting like a baby himself. Punishing a child for "acting out" his feelings in this way usually worsens the trouble. Instead, "let him know that you are getting his signal and are ready to help him."

6. When a child is under heavy strain, or is confronted with demands that he cannot meet, he may resort to misbehavior as a gesture of "psychological self-protection." Being "bad" helps him to cope with his own inner tensions. It's a safety valve for him and a warning to you to ease the pressure on him.

7. Sometimes misbehavior is a symptom of real emotional illness — neurotic fears, anxieties and tensions which are far below the level of the child's own consciousness. Unlike the other six kinds of "normal" misbehavior, this is potentially serious. It may require professional help.

(Tomorrow—How to spot misbehavior that is symptomatic of emotional illness.)

Taxpayers Must Itemize Every Cent Of Expense Money

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Internal Revenue Service has warned taxpayers they must itemize every cent of expense money they received in 1957 when they file their income tax returns next spring.

An IRS spokesman said the new regulation works this way:

The total money a taxpayer receives from his company to reimburse him for taxi fares, newspaper, entertainment and the like must be entered as extra income on a new line on the 1957 tax form.

Money actually spent on the company's behalf is entered as usual as a deductible expense.

An attached sheet must be included giving a breakdown to money spent on company business and the money received as reimbursement.

The spokesman emphasized that it is up to the individual taxpayer to keep a record of both amounts.

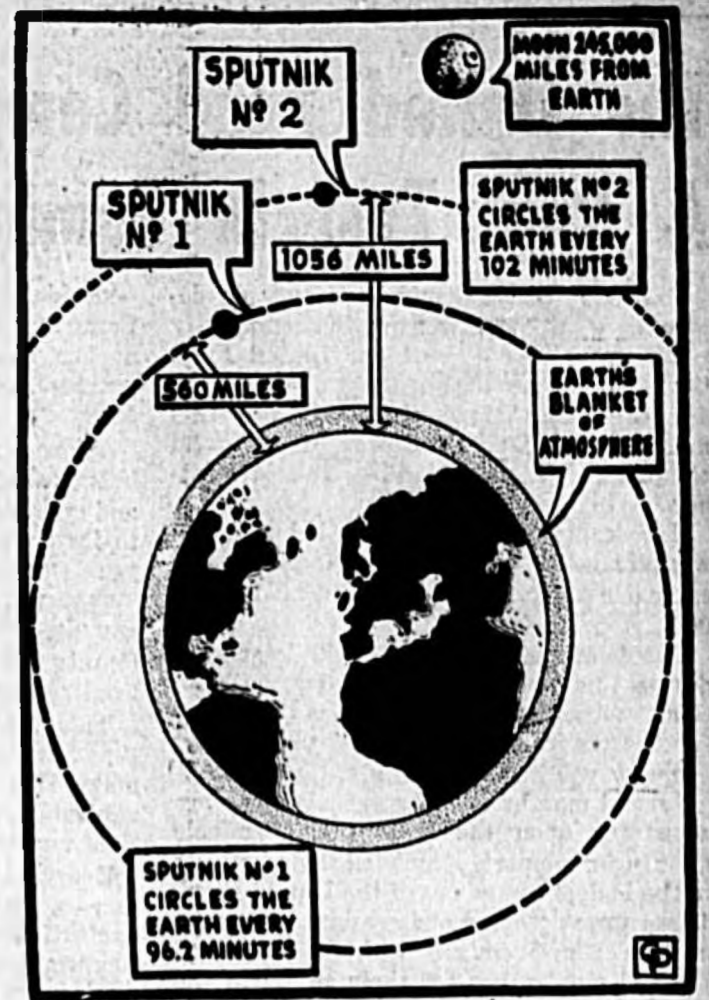

The law requiring a complete accounting of all expense money has been on the books since 1921, but taxpayers with relatively small expense accounts generally have ignored it.

The spokesman said the new and more stringent rules to enforce it were adopted on recommendations of the joint congressional committee on internal revenue taxation. They are aimed primarily at taxpayers who turn in big expense accounts as a deductible expense.

Addition of the new line on the form's first page, he said, will make it possible to spot exceptionally large amounts so officials can check on the itemized breakdown.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UP) — Eleven is an important number for Jimmy Willis of Grand Rapids. Jimmy will be 11 years old Monday at 11 p. m. on the 11 day of the 11th month.

TULSA, Okla. (UP) — Three tombstones have been turned over to the stolen goods division of the Tulsa police department in recent years after having been left on lawns as a prank. In a report to his superiors on the grave markers Wednesday, Sgt. I. B. Strecko observed "none of the owners have shown up to claim them."

CHAPTER 30
STORM after storm blew down from the Rockies, each burying Fort Butterfield under another covering of snow, and for days at a time the thermometer hovered around zero, or plunged far below.

Colonel Randall kept Chad confined to his quarters for two weeks, and then released him without a word of explanation. Isabelle Randall, as far as Chad knew, did not leave her cabin. She was confined to her quarters as effectively as Chad had been.

Chad's relations with Colonel Randall were even more coldly formal than they had been. When he stood at attention in front of Randall's desk, he was a puppet on a string, never knowing what turn the man's twisted mind would take.

The storms ceased up in February, but the problems grew. There were always fights. Chad ignored them as much as possible. Zack said, "They gutter work off their cuspidness some way. They'd better bust each other up than lose their hair to Cut Lip."

There was a tangible thing showing even in Sergeant Anderson, the one man Chad thought he could count on. Then—and it hit Chad hard when he realized it—the same symptoms were showing in him: short temper, angry words that should never have been said, and sleepless nights when he rolled and turned until he wore himself out enough to sleep. Only Zack seemed unchanged.

The food situation, next to the personnel problem, was Chad's greatest concern. The last steer had been butchered in February, and Zack brought in little game. There was much spoiled food in the last shipment that had come up the river, the canned goods almost entirely ruined.

Rations were cut, and cut again. Unless a boat reached Butterfield by the middle of May they would be entirely dependent on game, and that, as Zack pointed out, was that Cut Lip was waiting for.

"All Cut Lip's gotter do is set atop yonder ridge and see to it we don't get no buffer," Zack said. "When we're too weak to pull a trigger, he'll come a-vittin' again."

Chad did not tell Randall how bad conditions were. So he was surprised when he received an order to come to the Colonel's office on a day in mid-March shortly after the last blizzard had blown itself out and the air was still and cold.

Randall motioned Chad to a chair. It struck Chad that the running back and forth if I have to close Blaine up. I'll tell McPherson that, face to face." He scratched his nose, then added, "I'll see about buying supplies, too. If I'm refused, I'll send you with a company to capture the fort and take the supplies we need."

Today he meant to restock his own supply of whiskey. Later, when he wanted the fort attacked, he'd send Chad.

"May I suggest you take Corporal Tolliver," Chad said stily. "He's the only one here besides Zack who has had some experience in this country."

"Good suggestion. Endicott. While I'm gone, I want you to drill the men for at least an hour."

Half an hour later, Randall, followed by Zack and Corporal Tolliver, left the fort and Chad took over the command. Following Randall's orders, he drilled both companies; to his surprise, there seemed to be an air of buoyancy among the men, now that Randall was gone.

There was no sullenness, no lagging compliance to orders, no resentful stares from the ranks. The men liked him and he knew it. He reciprocated the feeling and the men knew that. It was enough to make him ponder the whole philosophy of army regimen and discipline. Regulations, he told himself, had their purpose. Without them, there would be no uniformity, no order.

But there were places, particularly here on the frontier, where it was harder to fit the regulations to the men than the men to the regulations. At Butterfield, men worked together through a common desire for survival. It was the Randall type, schooled in routine, that could not make the adjustment. And in this new, wild country, man made the adjustment, not the land.

It was late afternoon by the time the gun drills were finished. Chad stood for a few moments in the stockade gate, watching the guard change, and then walked around the post to be sure that all was secure for the approaching night. Satisfied, he went to his quarters.

He stamped his feet before the door, knocking off the snow, and threw open the door. He stood there, motionless, his eyes on Isabelle Randall. She sat on his bunk, tense and white-faced, nervously tearing at a tightly knotted handkerchief which she held in her

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"The Lord is merciful and gracious, slow to anger, and plentiful in mercy."

The United Fund Campaign Meets A Real Test In Seminole County

The real test in Seminole County to determine what the citizens of the community really want to do about the United Fund Campaign began today.

A Clean-Up Campaign got underway this morning under the direction of the fund campaign's general chairman, Harold Kastner.

The campaign's volunteer helpers and workers goal is to push the total for the campaign up to the expected goal of $35,000.

People of Seminole County will determine, during this week, by their gifts, contributions, subscriptions and pledges just how far the programs of the seven participating agencies will go during the coming year.

Several months ago, the agencies who are depending upon the citizens of Seminole County for support, submitted their budgets to the budget committee of the United Fund. These were accepted and combined to make up the figure toward which the United Fund Campaign has set their sights in the current drive for funds.

Should Seminole County—in their gifts from citizens and those who support the charitable and countywide service agencies —decide not to support the United Fund Campaign to the extent of the amount set at the outset of the campaign—then the programs of each of the agencies will necessarily have to be cut back.

Those who have not yet contributed are being asked to be generous in their pledges and subscriptions in order to boost the total to its biggest figure at the climax of this year's campaign.

The United Fund Campaign leaders do not intend to harass the people of Seminole County indefinitely for funds to swell the total to the anticipated goal.

This week's Clean-Up Campaign is to be the final effort, a gigantic last effort to make the United Fund the worthwhile organization to benefit the entire community that community leaders know that it is.

Every citizen is asked to make a contribution—a generous one—so that the seven organizations depending solely upon public financial support may operate during the coming year with just the one drive annually.

The United Fund can be just as big as the community wants it to be.

Praise Is More Than Words

Words of praise and recollection are fitting when the nation honors those who have served in its armed forces, and particularly those who made the supreme sacrifice of life itself. Words alone are not enough.

It is good to honor those dead whose lives were given on the altar of freedom. It is good to remind ourselves that, but for them and for those who also served yet survived, our liberties would be ground into the dust by tyrants. But when all the words have been spoken it is time to think:

What next?

The sincerest tribute we can pay those who have served on the field of battle is the tribute of devoted service to the things for which they fought. If our words are not to ring hollowly across the graves of the fallen, we must think through and restate our dedication to the cause for freedom and individual human worth. And beyond that, we must work for this cause and not content ourselves with words.

Recreation: Today - Yesterday

The number of people in the United States is going up very rapidly. The amount of leisure is also on the increase. Put these two facts together, and it becomes apparent that there will be a rising demand for recreation.

The concurrent growth of population and leisure time means that there will have to be more and bigger recreation areas in the future. The contrary fact of the matter seems to be that recreation space is not growing nearly fast enough to keep up with demand.

Many American towns and cities are fortunate in having good park areas which were set aside at the insistence of men of vision decades ago. But even communities most favored in this respect will find it hard to expand their recreation space to meet future needs. The only solution, in many cases, will be to set aside and develop areas outside the towns and cities.

This will require planning, and it will be costly. Though many citizens may not look kindly on the outlay of time and money for this purpose, our generation owes it to the future. Most of us have benefitted richly because of the foresight of previous generations which made present recreation areas possible. We can do not less for those who are to come.

Sanford will soon take its first step into the trained leadership and planned program for recreation in Sanford. In the not too distant future, a trained recreation director will be selected to plan recreation programs in the Sanford Civic Center for children of pre-school age on up through the adult age group and from the Sanford Civic Center will eliminate programs that will be citywide in scope—age-wide in benefit.

The program has come none too soon as the community anticipates its enormous growth in population during the next five years.

Recreation areas were made possible by those men of vision of past decades—the program of planned recreation is being made by modern men of vision.

As children grow from the Christian leadership afforded them, strong characters and physical strength will be built to cope with the problems of tomorrow's growing communities.

DIVORCE OR TEMPORARY SEPARATION?

How To Plan Federal Income Tax Deductions

This is the second in a series of four articles on federal income taxes. The articles are based on information provided by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants and the Florida Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

By waiting until after the first of the year to decide whether to itemize your deductions or take the standard 10-percent deduction, you run the risk of losing your greatest tax-saving opportunity.

When you are forced to take the standard deduction because your deductible expenses are less than 10 per cent of your adjusted gross income, you literally "waste" your expenses for tax purposes. Don't let this happen to you every year. Plan your expense outlays so that you go over the optional 10-percent deduction occasionally.

For example, assume that you expect to have an adjusted gross income of $7,000 for this year and actual deductible expenses of about $600—or $100 less than what you would be entitled to deduct if you took the standard 10-percent deduction. Not included in your actual expense estimate, however, is $250 in state taxes and $100 in home-loan interest charges that will have to be paid early in 1958 but which can be paid in advance.

Best The Standard Deduction. If you act quickly and pay these expenses before Dec. 31, you can bring your total allowable deductions for 1957 up to $950. By itemizing deductions this year and taking the standard deduction next year—when your actual expenses would be somewhat less because of what you have prepaid—your total deductions for both years will be approximately $1,650. Had you taken the standard 10-percent deduction in both years, the total would be only about $1,400.

A salaried worker who has difficulty finding enough deductions to make itemization worthwhile might consider carrying the pyramid plan one step further. He could set up a system of "lending" and "borrowing" year-end items that would make it possible for him to throw three years of deductible expense into one.

A Three-Year Pyramid. You can begin your own three-year pyramid by postponing payment on as much 1957 deductible expense as possible and planning to take the standard deduction on this year's tax return. The expenses you have postponed—or "loaned"—will increase your 1958 deductions, and in the final months of 1958 you can "borrow" from 1959 by speeding-up the payment of deductible items.

As a result of your pyramiding, you maximize your expenses for 1958 (when you should be able to

Foreign News Commentary

By CHARLES H. McCANN, United Press Staff Correspondent. Soviet Russia celebrated the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution this week while its two earth satellites spun round the world.

"Sputnik II" was projected into its globe-circling orbit by means of "new sources of power," Moscow said.

In the new satellite was sealed a dog, the world's first space passenger, along with scientific instruments to record and broadcast its reactions as it sped at the rate of 17,885 miles an hour, 1,026 miles above the earth.

Communist leader Nikita S. Khrushchev was the orator at a special meeting of the Supreme Soviet, the parliament. Khrushchev boasted of Russia's scientific successes and derided the United States for its slowness. He boasted also that Russia would overtake the United States in industrial production, and he called again for a conference of capitalist and Communist countries on world issues.

Marshall Rodion Y. Malinovsky, the new defense minister, reviewed an impressive military parade. In this, new weapons including two rockets, about 75 feet long, and numerous smaller rockets were displayed.

The French National Assembly, the controlling house of parliament, confirmed Felix Gaillard as premier after a 31-day cabinet crisis. The vote was 327 to 173. Gaillard heads a coalition cabinet based on the Socialist, Conservative and Popular Republican groups—which cordially detest each other and disagree radically on all big political issues.

Gaillard's first act as premier was to win Assembly approval for a 600-million dollar loan from the Bank of France to get urgently needed cash for the treasury.

In the United Nations, Russia threatened to boycott disarmament negotiations unless the present 12-nation committee was scrapped in favor of a committee comprising all 49 members.

Unimpressed by the threat, the U.N. Political Committee voted 59 to 9 to maintain the present 12-member committee. The committee and its five-member subcommittee, which conducts actual negotiations, were instructed to continue their work with Western disarmament proposals, introduced at the recent London conference, as the basis.

Syria continued industriously, with like-warm support by Russia, to keep alive the accusation that Turkey threatens it with attack. The latest allegation was that unidentified planes—presumably Turkish—were violating the Syrian frontier. A border skirmish between trespassing Turkish troops and Syrian "public resistance forces"—armed civilians—also was reported.

In Washington, President Eisenhower and scientific and military officials studied the implications

Mental Health Expert Speaks In Sanford

The Southside PTA meeting on November 7th was highlighted by the appearance of Miss Annie Laurie Crawford, a Psychiatric Nurse from the Jacksonville Board of Health; Miss Crawford has an outstanding background of achievement in the field of health to her credit. She was introduced to the audience by George Touhy, Seminole County Mental Health Chmn. Miss Crawford spoke informally and illustrated her talk with many stories which helped the audience to visualize with familiarity the various situations she presented.

In her first sentences Miss Crawford stated, "Every child needs to be loved and to know that his parents want him and care what happens to him. A child must be accepted first by his parents, then by his neighbors, grandparents and other children. He needs to know that even if he does something that his parents do not approve, they still LIKE him." These points were brought to light by the association of the theory with an actual happening. Miss Crawford continued, "Every child needs to know that he has a safe place to come home to and adequate protection; but, you cannot forget that a child needs a chance to become independent. We should give our children guidance with an example to go by for positive good, and yet a child needs to know that there are limits. My own favorite definition of intelligence," continued Miss Crawford, "is 'Intelligence is the ability to see the ultimate result of the present action'." By keeping this in mind and trying to give the child the added protection of the Faith to believe in people and The Power for Good, our children's basic needs are satisfied. They have a better chance to grow up, a well adjusted adult."

OSTEEN—The Osteen Baptist Church was the scene Nov. 2, when Miss Shirley Land became the bride of Pvt. David G. Hosack in a single-ring ceremony at 3:30 p. m. with the Rev. Jose Cardona officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Henry Whidden, Jacksonville, and Monroe Land of Perry. Mr. Hosack is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hosack of Osteen. The couple spoke their vows before an arch of greenery dotted with white baby mums, flanked by tall baskets of white and pink gladioli and pompos.

Miss Rosemary Lodge of Paola, maid of honor, was gowned in a blue taffeta dress with bouffant skirt accented by white accessories. Her bouquet was made up of white carnations centered with yellow carnations.

G. C. Hosack acted as his son's best man. For her daughter's wedding, the bride's mother chose a grey suit and black accessories. Her corsage was made of pink carnations. Mrs. Hosack wore a navy suit with light blue accessories and on her left shoulder a pink carnation corsage. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Osteen school auditorium. Baskets of white and pink gladioli were placed around the room. The lace-covered table holding a tiered wedding cake was centered with an arrangement of pink and white carnations.

Mrs. Clarence Hopkins of Jacksonville, the bride's aunt, kept the bride's book while Mrs. J. S. Peterson and Mrs. George Hurt served the cake. Mrs. Robert Williams and Mrs. John Helms presided at the punch bowl. After a short honeymoon the couple will reside in Perry. ## Junior Varsity Beats DeLand Eleven 21-6

By JERRY COVINGTON

Last Wednesday night the Baby Seminoles traveled over to DeLand and proceeded to tear the baby Bulldogs to pieces. After a shaky start this year the Jr. Varsity has rebounded and has shown great signs of progress. The line refused, just like their big brothers, to be moved and stopped the 'dogs cold. Charles Fox, Billy Alford, John Whichel, Chester Fawley, Terry Christenson, Jimmy Markham, and Truman Troutner made up the bulk of the great defensive work. Troutner showed signs of greatness as he made nine tackles unassisted. Freshman, Johnny Whichel also showed that he has the potential of being even greater than his older brother Mike.

In the opening of the game DeLand picked up their only score when they recovered a Sanford fumble. They carried the ball over on three plays. After this, they never threatened seriously again.

The first Sanford TD came in the first quarter on a beautiful pass play. They had the ball on their own 30 when quarterback Mike Roberts threw a long, beautiful pass to end Terry Christenson who ran the entire secondary for the TD.

The second score came in the second period after being set up on two Roberts passes to Fawley and Lundquist made good for 65 yds. Lin Risner scored on a two yard buck. Roberts then passed to Lundquist for the second time to add the PAT.

The third and final TD came on a 20 yard run by shifty Ray Lundquist. He tore around left end, side stepped several tacklers, and went all the way. Roberts then added the point by kicking.

It was a very fine team victory with Roberts, Lundquist, Risner, and Christenson leading the offense. The defense was led by Troutner, Whichel, Fox and Markham.

Christenson has proved to be one of the best pass receivers to show up in a long time and should have a great future. Roberts has found himself as a passer and should be great.

These Baby Seminoles play the Winter Park JV's tomorrow night at Memorial Stadium in their last game of the season. Game time is set for 7:30 P. M. and everyone has a treat in store when they see these young lads as they attempt to add another victory.

Jim Hawkins Will Try Out For SUC Basketball Team

WADLEY, Ala.—Pigskins are still popping around the Southern Union College but another major sport is preparing to move into the limelight.

Coach Earl J. Bentley announced today that basketball practice for the 1957-58 season has opened and it appears that the Bisons will have a great deal of building to do in order to equal last year's record. Only two lettermen, Amos Robinson of Roanoke and Gene Watson of Georgia are returning to the squad. The majority of the 1956-57 team were sophomores and will be playing basketball with senior colleges all over Alabama.

Jim Hawkins, Sanford high school star, will be candidating for a team position.

The freshmen prospects for the year are drawn heavily from District four, Class A, schools. They include several standouts from mid-Alabama: Pat Watkins, Huntsboro; Jack Gaston of Tuskegee; Don Herring from Beaufort; Jim Hudson from Beaulah; Jim McGill and Roger Rhodes from Union; Bobby Welch, Bill Nelson and Bobby Bailey from Hackneyville and Jack Peters from Newville. Rusty Porterfield from Greenville will be one of south Alabama's representatives. North Alabama has four Bison prospects: Jim Lemaster from Grant; S. L. Stone and Bill Perry from Scottsboro and Tom Noah from Gadsden (Southside high school).

The Bisons open the season with a strong squad from Livingston State on Monday night, Dec. 2, at the Davidson high school gymnasium, near Wadley.

Today's Sports Parade

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (UP)— Archie Moore, the Old Man River of the ring, is bouncing around the country today picking up soft touches in a campaign aimed at wiping out the remainder of his light heavyweight challengers and getting another shot at heavyweight king Floyd Patterson.

Archie, according to the record book, will be 41 in December. There are those who consider this to be not only a strain on credulity but also the understatement of the century.

Yet Archie has no thought of calling it a career and, according to manager Charley Johnston, seems likely to go on fighting until he is 60.

Not Expecting Too Much
"Considering the type of fighter we have around and about today," Johnston analyzes, "that should not be expecting too much from a fellow of Archie's talent."

Meanwhile, it can be revealed that Archie is not the poorhouse case which, when he was seeking a shot at Patterson, he was supposed to be. That pose was all a matter of economics.

"When we were after a title shot at Joey Maxim, when he held the light heavyweight championship," Johnston revealed, "they made us put up a $100,000 guarantee. Every time you try to get a shot at somebody who holds the upper hand, you've got to pay through the nostrils. Now if I may say so, the shoes are on other feet—meaning ours."

So ancient Archie demanded, and received, a $100,000 guarantee when he recently risked his bumble against Tony Anthon. Archie as you'll remember, kept his elating collateral by fetching young Master Anthony a good night swat on his glass chin.

Anthony had earned the dubious pleasure of box-fighting Archie for the title by beating Chuck Spleser of Detroit. But come the latter part of January, Archie is going to give Spleser a shot at the silverware. This is not being done out of sheer benevolence.

Price Set High
The price, as for Anthony, is a $100,000 guarantee.

But you can't say that Archie's mouthpiece, Johnston, isn't helping to make it look like a solid go.

"Spleser has a lot of ability," Charley insisted. "He didn't want to fight Anthony, wanting instead to merely wait his turn at Moore, and so he wasn't in shape for that bout. He should be formidable."

So formidable in fact, the Johnston is looking toward the time when Patterson will be forced to invite Archie for a return engagement.

"Eddie Machen is the only one left for Patterson to box," Johnston explained. "Archie, of course, has knocked over just about all the other heavyweights around. After all, Moore has fought heavyweights 75 per cent of the time in the last 15 years. The light heavies didn't want anything to do with him. So eventually they'll have to come to us again."

If this seems to destroy Johnston's early pitch on the Spleser fight, you're right. But, as the man explained, you can't expect too much these days for a mere $100,000.

Group To Clarify Some NCAA Rules Will Be Created

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UP)—Walt Byers, executive secretary of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, said today a committee will be created for clarifying NCAA rules on aid to prep students.

Byers made the announcement after officials at Annapolis admitted they might be breaking current NCAA rules by allowing prep students to receive aid from Navy alumni.

Committee members for the new group, set up at the NCAA council meeting in October, have not yet been named.

Naval Academy officials have appeared before the NCAA council to discuss the problem, Byers said, but "it is not a case of the NCAA council attempting to find a solution for only one member institution."

At Annapolis, Rear Admiral William R. Sriedley, Academy superintendent, said the Academy was attempting to work out its differences with the NCAA.

Commander Marcy Dure said the question involved prep students at such institutions as Bulls Preparatory near Annapolis.

About 90 per cent of the Navy's students, he said, were graduates of schools such as Bulls or the Navy's School for Enlisted Men from the Fleet at Baltimore, Md.

Some prospective athletes at Bulls received aid from the Naval Academy Alumni Association, Dure said. However, under the Academy's understanding of the rules, he said, an individual can grant aid to a student but it is not clear whether a group, such as the Alumni Association, can do so.

By JERRY COVINGTON

The magnificent Sanford Seminoles continued their winning ways last Friday with a terrific 26-0 victory over a miserable Leesburg Yellow Jacket team. The offense went it's best since the opening tilt of the season and evenly matched the already proven, great defensive unit. Under the direction of the "Little General", Cecil Dandridge, Sanford backs Eddie Barbour, Bob Johnson, Al Collins, and Johnny Yeackle all enjoyed a good night and completely dominated the offensive show. The great line, led by Billy Tyre, Tom Brown, Teddy Walker, and Dave Stanley, stopped Ed Parker and company cold, allowing them only one first down and eight yards rushing. Until this contest, Parker had a phenomenal 116 yd. per game average. Parker gained 23 yards on 13 carries but his team mates managed to lose it back down to eight yards.

With this victory under their belts, the Seminoles seem to be well on their way to the schools greatest season in many a year. They now sport a great 5-0 record and a Sanford team has not won better than six games since 1946 when Willis Anderson was carrying the mall for the locals. They have now amassed a total of 97 points to the opponents 13 and have rolled up 1385 yards rushing to the opponents 282. This is, indeed, something that no other recent team has done. When you are discussing the chances of the Melbourne game this Friday night, take these things into consideration and it should be a toss-up.

After the game, all you could hear in the dressing room was "let's get Melbourne". If they keep this enthusiasm and spirit, they should be able to do just about anything they want.

The action got off with Sanford kicking to the Jackets. Parker took the ball and a host of Seminoles met him and shook the ball loose. Stanley recovered. In turn, the Jackets fumbled and Stone gobbled it up. Two plays later, Eddie Barbour, who had a great night, went 22 yards to the six. Sanford moved the ball to the one but on the fourth down, Dandridge threw a pass and Parker intercepted. Leesburg had the ball again for two plays, but the Sanford line knocked the ball loose and took over. On the first play, Barbour broke off left tackle and went eight yards for the first TD of the night. Tyre converted and the score read 7-0.

In the beginning of the second quarter, the Jackets were again stopped cold by the Sanford line. The next score started with an eleven yard pass play from Dandridge to Barbour. Yeackle also added a beautiful 19 yard run to move the ball to the 8 yard line. Fullback Bob Johnson then went off left guard for the TD. Tyre, again, kicked successfully and the score read 14-0.

In the beginning of the second half Sanford chose to receive and it turned out to be the most thrilling play of the game. Barbour, who has now scored a total of 48 points, took the kick, picked up several nice blocks, and outran Parker for a 70 yard TD. Tyre just missed the point. From this point of the game the entire squad played a great ball game. The reserves took charge and did a very exceptional job. John Alfred, Tommy Butler, Walter Middleton, Jerry Henson, and Don Carter, who will all be back next season, showed that they really are going to be tough. Al Collins also enjoyed one of his best nights, making five tackles on defense and running the ball like a "pro". Vernon Kirk also looked good running the ball.

Late in the third quarter Collins made a beautiful 35 yard run to the Leesburg 10. Sanford was just before scoring again but lost the ball on a fumble. Leesburg was unable to do anything and kicked out.

In the last period, Yeackle started things with a 15 yard run. On the next play, Barbour went 18 yards. But on the next play Barbour fumbled and Leesburg took over. They were eaten up by big Mike Tamny, Dave Stanley, Tyre, and Brown and lost the ball on downs.

The next TD was set up on a pass from Dandridge to Barbour. This moved the ball into Leesburg territory and on the next play Dandridge hit end Allen Swain, who shook two men and traveled 40 yards for the score. He really earned the TD as he went the last few yards with two men hanging on it was Allen's first score of the season and it was indeed, a thrilling one. Don Carter attempted to convert but it was wide. This was the last score—a very dramatic way to finish.

HATS OFF:
MIKE TAMNY—Mike stepped in for injured Jack Stotky and did a tremendous job on offense and defense. Mike has been one of the most valuable assets to the Seminoles by being able to adapt himself quickly to aid in several positions—a real utility man and a great competitor.

POUNDS WAY TO CHAMPIONSHIP—Alphonse Halimi of France lands a flurry of punches that has Eraldo Macias of Mexico holding his head in the 11th round of their title bout in Los Angeles. The Frenchman was awarded a split decision in the 15-rounder to become the World Bantamweight Champion. (International)

Saves time and money with "go-anywhere" dependability!

The Universal 'Jeep' is at its best when the going is toughest. With the extra traction of its 4-wheel drive and a special low gear range when needed, it gets passengers and cargo through sand, mud, snow and soft earth—on or off the road—in all kinds of weather. For travel at highway speeds it shifts quickly into conventional 2-wheel drive. It hauls heavily loaded trailers, and, with power take-off or hydraulic lift, operates a wide variety of farm implements and industrial equipment.

THE CARD OF THANKS
Very often a Card of Thanks in The Sanford Herald meets a need which is difficult to fill in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes but also courteously acknowledges the services and kindnesses of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed.

Newspaper Cards of Thanks are accepted as socially correct. Emily Post, the noted authority on etiquette, feels they serve many good uses.

There is no prescribed form for a Card of Thanks. It can be as brief or as detailed as you desire. When the occasion comes you will find a sympathetically understanding member of our staff to assist you.

THE "IN MEMORIUM" NOTICE
It is the custom of many families in this country to commemorate a bereavement by an "In Memorium" notice in newspaper classified columns. They find a real solace therein. Preparation of a suitable verse brings back to them tender, pleasant recollections. As Eliza Cook, the English poet has so beautifully expressed it:

"How cruelly sweet are the echoes
That start
What memory plays an old tune
On the heart..."

Most frequently an In Memorium is inserted on the anniversary of death. However, other dates, which it is felt are appropriate or meaningful are also selected. The birthday of the departed, the wedding anniversary, Memorial Day, even Christmas are among other significant occasions chosen.

If you are hesitant to express your tender thoughts in poetic form, you may avail yourself of the Herald's collection of original verses. These express in poetic beauty the emotions of the heart-strings. Among them are verses appropriate to any circumstance.

THE RATE
Cards of Thanks and In Memorium notices, due to the fact they may run to considerable length, are billed at $1.00 per column inch.

 incorporated communities, but for the entire county as a whole.
 Approval of the countywide road program to provide better access from one community to the other was an outcome of the get-together.
 Mayor M. L. Gary of Oviedo expressed unusual interest in a road program to extend Sanford Ave. across Lake Jessup for a direct route from Sanford to Oviedo. "It would certainly make Sanford and Oviedo neighbors," Mayor Gary said.
 "There is no better way to create friendliness and goodwill between our communities than to continue these meetings and to recommend meetings be continued on a regular basis," said Mayor David Gatchel of Sanford, following the close of the more than three-hour session held on an informal basis. It is expected that the next meeting of the Mayors of Seminole County will be held about the first week in February.

2 Sanford Men At Ft. Jackson For Basic Training

James M. Warner, son of Commissioner and Mrs. Merle Warner of 2417 Myrtle Ave. and Samuel B. Jacobson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Jacobson, of 230 Scott Ave. have been assigned to Company 8, 4th Battalion, of the 1st Training Regiment at Fort Jackson, S. C. for their basic infantry training.

Upon their arrival at Fort Jackson, the two Sanford men were initially assigned to the U. S. Army Personnel Center where they were issued clothing, given complete physical examinations and a comprehensive battery of aptitude tests to determine the Army duty assignment for which they will be best fitted.
 Fort Jackson is one of the country's largest infantry training centers and conducts a program for training for men under the provisions of the Reserve Forces Act of 1935.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports commercial and farm production of red meat set a record of 29.1 billion pounds in 1936, four per cent higher than the record set in 1935.

Cotton Production

Estimate For '58 11,788,000 Bales

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department estimated today that 11,788,000 bales of cotton will be produced this year. The estimate was down 615,000 bales, or 5 per cent, from last month's forecast.
 The estimate, based on conditions Nov. 1 when the crop was virtually harvested, compares with last year's output of 13,210,000 bales and a 10-year average production of 13,000,000.

This year's prospective crop, added to a carryover of about 13,000,000 bales, will meet consumption demands, both domestic and foreign, for more than two years.
 The Crop Reporting Board estimated cotton yields this year will average 415 pounds of lint an acre, compared with last year's 400 pounds and 10-year average of 390 pounds.
 The national acreage allotment for the 1938 crop already has been set at 17,201,300 acres, the same as for the 1937 and 1936 crops. Under 1936 arm law, an additional 163,254 acres will be apportioned among the states, thus permitting an actual acreage of 17,364,554 acres.
 The 1937 crop actually was grown on 13,006,000 acres. The remainder of the allotted acreage either was put in the soilbank or abandoned.
 Farmers on Dec. 10 will vote in a referendum whether to accept marketing quotas for the 1938 crop. Regardless of whether quotas are approved, 1938 acreage allotments will remain in effect as a condition of eligibility or price support.

Following is the estimated production, in bales, for major producing states:
 North Carolina 240,000; South Carolina 245,000; Georgia 280,000; Tennessee 450,000; Alabama 332,000; Mississippi 1,200,000; Missouri 215,000; Arkansas 1,100,000; Louisiana 305,000; Oklahoma 290,000; Texas 3,300,000; New Mexico 250,000; Arizona 600,000; California 1,500,000.

Major Expansion Of Aluminum Plant In Florida Seen

CHICAGO (UP)—A multimillion dollar contract signed in Chicago will likely result in a major expansion of an aluminum plant in Mulberry, Fla.
 The International Minerals and Chemical Corp. announced Thursday it signed the big contract to supply the new Kaiser aluminum plant at Mulberry with 10,000 tons of fluorine compound annually. Kaiser officials indicated the big boost in production would require early expansion of the plant, which was opened last June.
 The compound will be used by the Florida plant in the first stage of producing synthetic cryolite, a by-product of the aluminum company. The Mulberry plant will convert the compound acid into a fluoride and ship it to the company's Chalmers works near New Orleans for final processing.
 H. F. Roderick, International's vice president, called it a "big step toward a new, full-scale industry for Florida's growing and diverse economy."

VA vocational counseling to help me make sure my new course will be the best for me?

Moscow Radio Joins Attempt To Drive King Hussein Off Throne

Moscow Radio joined Egypt and Syria today in attempts to drive King Hussein off the throne of Jordan. Cairo newspapers said "King Hussein's fate is sealed." Arab language broadcasts by Moscow Radio beamed to the Middle East appeared aimed at stirring up Palestinian refugees against Hussein in the campaign of assassination begun by Cairo Radio.

In Amman King Hussein moved to bolster his shaky throne by receiving a delegation of Palestinian refugees and thanking them for "their faithfulness to the throne." Jordan's state radio at Ramallah announced.

Moscow said Hussein was an "ally and a friend of the bitterest enemies of the Arab world — the USA, Britain and Turkey." It said he had plotted secretly with Israel and was an enemy of Arab unity.

New Charges by Egypt: The Egyptian press heaped new insults on the smouldering fire today with charges that only American support keeps Hussein on the throne.

The Cairo newspaper Al Shuhab said the United States engineered a coup against the Jordanian people to keep Hussein on the throne and said the same power "urged and is now backing up Israel."

The newspaper Al Ahras warned in a severe column headline: "King Hussein's Life in Danger." It quoted Damascus reports that security measures were increased around the King's palace.

The official government newspaper Al Qomhouria said Hussein used "cruel and repressive measures against the Jordanian people" and said he was "seeking the protection of the Eisenhower Doctrine and the Baghdad Pact."

Cairo's Voice of the Arabs said Monday night Hussein had betrayed the Arab nationalist front to serve "American imperialist interests in the Mideast." It said Egypt and Syria were determined to aid Hussein "until he booted the Arab crown and took arms from the United States."

His Support of Saudi Hussein was believed to still have the support of King Saud of Saudi Arabia and his cousin, King Faisal of neighboring Iraq, but whether those two monarchs could halt a propaganda-spurred revolt against Hussein remained to be seen.

Syria remained tense because of what it called "abnormal and unprecedented" troop movements along the Turkish-Syrian border. An official communique Monday night said "necessary precautions" had been taken following Monday's emergency cabinet meeting.

In the United Nations the United States and Syria were disclosed to have begun talks aimed at patching up their diplomatic differences and perhaps replace the ambassadors withdrawn by both nations.

Relations between the United States and Syria have been strained since last October when Syria announced discovery of an American "plot" to overthrow the Syrian regime. Since then Moscow has joined Syria in securing the United States of urging Turkey to attack Syria.

Real Problem Of Space Travel Said To Be Cost

"The real problem is not technological," Robert W. Roney, a design engineer with Douglas Aircraft Corp. at Patrick Air Force Base near Cocoa, told the Sanford Rotary Club yesterday at its noon luncheon meeting.

"It is economic," Roney told his audience.

Rockets are extremely expensive, the design engineer said as he spoke to the local club on the subject of "The Space Age."

The American satellite program may cost well over 100 million dollars, he said. "Consider what the cost would be, if instead of a 20-pound sphere in a close orbit around the earth... we placed a 20-man expedition plus all the required equipment on the moon and had to provide the means for

Board To Start Securing Funds For Docks Project

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners will get right down to the business of securing funds for the proposed Docks and Terminals Project.

Commissioner Merle Warner requested that an early meeting be set with the Florida Development Commission to explore the possibilities of securing funds from the state for the construction of the "100 year dream" of the City of Sanford.

A meeting is planned with the Seminole County delegation Thursday evening to talk over the possibilities of a meeting with Governor LeRoy Collins and the Development Commission.

The entire commission will meet with Senator Douglas Stenstrom, and Representatives Mack N. Cleveland Jr. and Gordon Frederick.

In other action of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners last night, City Manager Warren E. Knowles was instructed to give John Kennedy of Fern Park three days in which to raise a sunken boat at the bandshell and move it away from the area.

Commissioner Merle Warner advised the board of commissioners of the possibility of securing Osceola Air strip for use by the city as an airport. "This is a half-million dollar field and there is a possibility of securing it for $1 a year," he said.

The City Attorney was also instructed to prepare an ordinance preventing gasoline retailers from putting gasoline in glass jars. "This is a dangerous practice," warned Commissioner Warner, "and it should not be allowed."

After considerable argument, the stop sign at the intersection of First St. and Mellonville Ave. will be removed and a Yield Right-of-Way sign erected.

Ordinances were approved rezoning three areas in the city. Following a public hearing the ordinances will rezone from R-1 to C-N, Lots 1, 2 and 3 in Block 2, 2nd Section of Dreamwood; rezone from R-1 to C-N, Lots 4 through 16, Pine Heights and Lots 1 through 8, Teagas Addition; and rezone from R-2 to C-N that area between 1st and 2nd Sts. bounded on the east by San Carlos Ave. less those lots presently zone C-1 of the block south of 1st St. between San Juan and Lakeview Aves.

Attorney To Study Possibilities Of New Photography Law

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners last night authorized the City Attorney to "explore the possibilities of a new ordinance regulating photography and the licensing of photographers in Sanford."

City Attorney William C. Hutchinson told the Board of Commissioners that the information in the present ordinance is not nearly complete. He also advised the commission that a similar ordinance had been found unconstitutional.

Local photographers have appealed to the Board of Sanford City Commissioners to adopt an ordinance that would limit the possibilities of itinerant photographers "who are taking business out of Sanford."

The City Attorney advised photographers attending the meeting last night that they would be required to abide by whatever measures were included in any new ordinance.

Gen. LeMay Sets New Jet Distance Record

BUENOS AIRES — Gen. Curtis E. LeMay set a new jet distance record today when he flew here non-stop from Westover, Mass., in a giant Stratofortjet. It was a dramatic demonstration of United States intercontinental striking power.

LeMay, who helped develop the U. S. Strategic Air Command into the West's chief deterrent against Communist aggression, displayed a speed in America's hydrogen bomb striking power. He flew the eight-jet KC-135 tanker to Buenos Aires in 13 hours and two minutes.

It was a 8,300-mile non-stop flight, the longest ever made without refueling in flight. He took off from Westover at 4:40 p. m. Monday and landed at 4:50 a. m. Tuesday.

The presence of LeMay—second in command of the Air Force—added to the surprise show of air versatility in answer to Russia's Sputniks.

Hit 500 M. P. H.

During the flight the Air Force said the big tanker hit speeds of more than 500 miles an hour and flew at an altitude of more than 35,000 feet. The KC-135 carried a crew of 19 including LeMay, Air Force vice chief of staff.

The Air Force did not announce the flight publicly in advance. But some newsmen were alerted that it might be attempted.

The historic flight was originated as a highlight of Argentina's National Aviation Week.

But it also dramatically turned the world spotlight back on America's chief retaliatory weapon. Its long-range Strategic Air Command, after weeks of space missile talk generated by Russia's launching of two earth satellites.

The programs, which will be available to members of the association only, will include performances by Gerson Yessin, pianist, the Little Choral, Village Players and Rosalinda.

Aiken expressed his gratitude to all who have shown their interest in continuing to have Mutual Concerts in Sanford. "It is a pleasure to have so many people interested in the cultural life of the community," Aiken said.

Knight: American Press Superior

BOCA RATON, Fla. — John S. Knight, president of the Knight Newspapers, told southern publishers today the American press "is infinitely superior to the press of any other era or of any other country."

"It is increasingly less biased and more informative," Knight told some 350 delegates to the annual convention of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Assn. here.

"At no time in the history of journalism have professional standards been so high," he said, and "with conspicuous exceptions" the newspaper in America today endeavors to chronicle the news of its community and the world with objectivity and fairness."

Knight said the most encouraging development of the press in his experience has been in the field of public service. He cited examples of newspaper exposes of wrong doing in public office and in labor unions and said that "new-

Typhoon Fails To Disrupt Today's Election

MANILA — Typhoon Kit struck heavily populated Luzon Island with winds up to 140 miles an hour today but failed to disrupt the Philippines general elections.

Pro-American President Carlos Garcia was heavily favored for re-election.

Government authorities predicted a record vote although the typhoon roared out of the Pacific during the night and swept across Luzon Island, killing at least one person and inflicting heavy damage on homes, businesses and communications.

Damage was estimated in the millions.

The Manila Weather Bureau said the fury of the storm had diminished slightly as it moved on Baguio, the summer capital, but winds of 110 miles per hour were still blowing.

Election officials expected a trend to be established by tonight but said communications disrupted by the typhoon may slow vote counting for two or three days.

The publisher said newspapers are breaking away from "traditional concepts of the past" and that the press has made advances comparable to those of other professions. He cited better type, improved use of color, and better knowledge of market and consumer buying.

But Knight said that modern publishers must be profit-minded. "There is no place in today's journalism for profitless newspapers" because a newspaper must be profitable in order to maintain its independence.

Knight called on papers to give "depth and interpretation" to the news. He said newspapers "can have warmth and understanding without being common scolds and muckrakers."

He greeted the American press "the greatest bulwark of freedom we have in this country."

Magnolia Between 1st, 2nd To Be Parallel Parking

The last of the angle parking areas will disappear soon when the block between First and Second Sts., on Magnolia Ave., is changed from its present angle parking status.

An attempt was made last night to prevent the change when Dr. Henry McLaughlin presented a petition signed by merchants of the one-block area requesting that angle parking be allowed to remain.

However, commissioners ordered the angle parking removed. Mayor David Gatchel said "streets are for the orderly flow of traffic and the present angle parking in the area is causing a bottleneck."

Commissioner Merle Warner objected to the move. He said "I can't see where Magnolia Ave. is a bottleneck."

Commissioner Earl Higginbotham asked that "angle parking be eliminated and parallel parking be installed."

In making the move, a short half-block area on Second St. between Palmetto and Sanford Aves. will also be changed.

'57 Acreage Report For Area Is 2,060

There are 2,060 acres planted in celery and other vegetable crops in the Sanford-Oviedo-Blair sections as of Nov. 1, according to a statement released by Fruit Growers Express.

This year's acreage, according to the release, is only 7 acres less than the 1956 report covering the same period.

Enumerated in the report, planted in the area, are beans, cabbage, celery, cauliflower, escarole and chicory, lettuce, romaine, peppers, cucumbers, squash and miscellaneous vegetables.

The report shows that there are 122 acres of beans planted, 844 acres of cabbage, 680 acres of golden celery and 31 acres of golden heart celery. There are 54 acres of cauliflower, 89 acres of escarole and chicory, 54 acres of boston lettuce, 66 acres of iceberg lettuce, 8 acres of romaine, 33 acres of peppers, 48 acres of cucumbers, 23 acres of squash and 19 acres of miscellaneous vegetables.

Farming is maintaining its share of the economy in Seminole County, according to the report and is providing for a big portion of the income of local labor.

It is estimated that Seminole County farmers have already paid for labor, seed, fertilizer and equipment, necessary to plant this year's crops, a total of $1,771,850.

Ironically, the acreage planted in Seminole County this year, even though seven acres smaller than last year's plantings, would be an area 3 1/2 miles long and one mile deep. Or, one acre wide and 80 miles long.

If planted in a single row, Seminole County's vegetable crop would stretch from Sanford to Alaska, a distance of approximately 6,720 miles long.

Volunteer Firemen Urged To Attend Tonight's Session

The Lake Mary Volunteer Fire Department will hold its regular monthly meeting tonight at 8 o'clock at the Lake Mary Elementary School.

President Ed Zimmerman particularly urges all members to attend as next year's officers will be nominated during this meeting.

Zimmerman further stated that urgent business would be presented before the members of the fire department for action at this time.
