HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Saturday, January 17, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
JANUARY 17, 1981
A second year may be found this coming year to supplement your income. It's likely to develop as a spin-off from something in which you are already involved.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Even though coworkers may be a bit slack, that's no reason for you to follow their example. Take pride in your work. Find out what lies ahead in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify your birth date.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
You'll be in a social mood today and want to get out and circulate, but if you find yourself in the company of shallow people they could take the edge off your fun.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
In business or commercial situations you tend to be rather lucky today, but perhaps not in the way you may first anticipate. Play it loose.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
A misunderstanding could arise today between you and someone of whom you're quite fond. The reason is apt to be rather trivial, so make amends promptly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
An associate whose business instincts have previously proven wrong may try to manage something for you today. It's best to keep this party out of your picture.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
You're very popular with your peer group today, but you should still be careful how you conduct yourself socially. Don't give one who is a trifle jealous reason to carry tales.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You could experience some minor but frustrating delay today, yet eventually everything should work out to your liking. Don't lose sight of objectives.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
An opportunity may arise today to give you a chance to improve your relationship with a friend whom you feel has been drifting from you lately. Use it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Some self-doubts could seep into your thinking today and lead you to believe you're not capable of doing something which, in reality, you are. Ignore them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
The flaws and shortcomings of persons with whom you're involved will be very obvious to you today, but you won't call them to their attention.

Smart move!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
In order to get what you want today it may be necessary to first cast a little bread upon the waters. Give so that you may receive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
It isn't necessary to prove yourself today, so if associates have a better way of doing things than you do, follow their lead.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

South analyzes the lead and decides that he doesn't like it. The defense is going to get spades set up with two leads, and given time can get three spades and two aces. South counts winners and sees that if he scores four diamond tricks, he still needs three clubs to get to the magic number of nine. He must play the hand with the hope that East will hold the club king. If not, the hand will collapse and the defense will score a profit.

After this study, South is ready to act. He leads a diamond to dummy's jack. West starts an echo with the seven to show that he holds an even number of diamonds. Now South leads a club and plays his queen.

It holds and he returns to dummy by leading the deuce of diamonds to dummy's 10. West completes the echo and East ducks. If he doesn't South will wind up with five clubs, four diamonds and two spades.

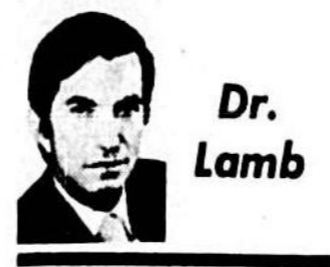

The club finesse is repeated and South can run all five clubs. Now he can afford to lead a heart. East wins and leads a second spade, but South has two spades, two diamonds, one heart and five clubs for an overtrick. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Vegetarian Women Need Iron In Diet

DEAR DR. LAMB — My daughter, 18, has been a vegetarian for about five years. She does not eat meat, fish or eggs. What is a good diet for her and how about vitamins?

DEAR READER — It depends on what her vegetarian diet includes. You can have a reasonably satisfactory diet and still omit meat, fish and eggs. The complete protein in this instance must come from milk and milk products such as cottage cheese. The other alternative is to have a sufficient variety of vegetable proteins that complement each other. Mature bean seeds, particularly soybeans, are often very helpful in this regard.

As a young woman she could have an iron deficiency unless she's very careful. Women in the childbearing age tend to require about twice as much iron as men do anyway. The other possible deficiency would be vitamin B-12. She can avoid both of these problems by taking one of the general purpose, daily vitamin tablets that also contain iron.

It's a bit more difficult to manage children on a vegetarian diet because those are the years when they need increased amounts of protein for growth and two of the amino acids that are not as important to adults. Protein requirements are also increased during pregnancy and during lactation. There are a lot of misconceptions about diet so I know you'll be interested in The Health Letter, number 18-2, Dangerous Dieting, which I'm sending you. Other readers who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

Send your request to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Help. Our daughter-in-law had two Caesarean sections and two or three miscarriages. Now my husband is blaming her for not trying to have a son. Our daughter-in-law and our son have told him that the doctor advised against another pregnancy. My husband says another child would not kill her. Is this true? I'm very dependent about the whole problem.

DEAR READER — Apparently I missed something. I was under the general impression that the prospective parents were the ones who decided whether they wanted another child or not rather than the potential grandparents.

It's a good idea to follow your doctor's advice on such matters. I know nothing else about your daughter-in-law's problems but it is true that a woman who has had one caesarean section often must have another one. There are several reasons for this. If the first Caesarean section was done because the pelvic outlet was too small for the passage of the baby, that condition will still be present for all subsequent births. Then, once there's a scar from an incision in the uterus, it's more likely to rupture. Some women are able to have subsequent normal deliveries provided the basic reason for the first Caesarean is no longer applicable, but this has to be decided on an individual basis.

Finally, why does your husband think the daughter-in-law is responsible for having a son? The sex of a newborn baby is determined by whether the ovum was fertilized by a female or a male sperm cell from the man.

The Orlando Pipes and Drums, led by Pipe Major Clint DeMarsh, in the blue shirt, will be the host band as a dozen other pipe bands converge Saturday for the Fourth Annual Orlando Scottish Games.

Sounds Of Bagpipes To Fill The Air

The thrilling sounds of the great highland bagpipe will fill the air Saturday as 13 pipebands from across the nation gather to celebrate the Fourth Annual Orlando Scottish Highland Games.

Pipers, drummers, dancers and athletes will be competing for trophies in the day-long games starting at 9 a.m. at the Central Florida Fairgrounds on West Colonial Drive in Orlando.

The host band for this year's games will be the Orlando Pipes and Drums. The 20 pipers and drummers who make up the local band are under the direction of Drum Major Jack Bisland of Longwood and Pipe Major Clint DeMarsh of Deland. Bisland, who started his piping career as a boy in his native Dumbarton, Scotland, will be honored as the Drum Major of the Day and his portrait will grace the cover of games' official program.

In addition to the music and dancing, kilned athletes will compete in various field events designed to test their strength and skill. The events will include the 22-pound hammer throw, the 16-pound stone put which is similar to the shot put, and the 28 and 56-pound weight loss. Another contest involves using a pitchfork to toss a 16-pound sheaf of hay over a bar which is raised at 6-inch intervals until all but one contestant is eliminated.

Perhaps the highlight of the athletic events is the tossing of the caber. It takes strength, accuracy and skill to properly toss the 100- to 200-pound, 18-to-20-foot-long wooden pole end over end and have it land in a straight line from point of toss.

Actress Mirrors Her TV Role

"Jenny Piccolo is so like me it's frightening — loud, open, honest, obnoxious and with an answer for everything," Cathy Silvers says with a smile. This season, the second-generation comedienne is bringing to life a character long an off-stage presence on ABC's "Happy Days," Joanie Cunningham's independent-minded, boy-crazy best friend, Jenny.

The daughter of Phil and Evelyn Silvers, Cathy was born in New York City, where her father was starring on Broadway in "Do Re Mi." She moved with her family to Los Angeles when she was just 6 months old. "I always wanted to perform," says Cathy, who credits both her parents with influencing her career. One of five girls born in just seven years, the close-knit sisters were "always on." As youngsters they not only used every holiday as an excuse to create a little show at home, but frequently staged children's plays for the community.

"We were the traveling Silvers," Cathy recalls. They haven't stopped entertaining. Tracey, Cathy's oldest sister, is an associate producer. Her older sister, Nancy is an actress, as is Cathy's twin, Candy, who is currently building her career in New York. Laury, the youngest, is in high school.

At first considered the shyest of the five, Cathy showed her penchant for the stage when she was just a toddler. Her father was headlining at a Las Vegas hotel, and during one of the shows called his daughters up on stage. While the others ran behind the curtain in embarrassment, Cathy entertained the audience with the national anthem and the t.v.ist. "My dad said, 'That's little phil,'" recalls Cathy, "and I've been little Phil ever since."

Cathy is proud of the performing instincts she inherited from her father, and the comic skills and timing she developed, joking, singing and just growing up with one of the country's entertainers. But, she says it is her mother "who really kicked me off."

Preparing her junior high school valedictory speech launched Cathy in the arena of public speaking. Encouraged by her mother, who had been a high school orator, Cathy competed throughout her four years at Beverly Hills High School in forensics, at the local and state levels. Dramatic and humorous interpretations was her main event. "It was a great way to get confidence. It really teaches you to use your inner feelings," says Cathy. "I know since I was basically winning just about every tournament that there was something there, whether it was acting ability or speech ability," Cathy explored both, adding starring roles in numerous high school plays to her forensics experience. Cathy continued her dramatic training at California State University at Northridge, where she appeared in "Beauty and the Beast," and played the lead role of Bunny Flingus in John Guare's "The House of Blue Leaves." Among the "rooting section" of 25 her mother brought to the opening night was actor

Dudley Moore, who was so impressed with Cathy's performances that he arranged an interview for her with his agent, who sent her out on several casting calls. "The second was 'Happy Days.'" Energetic Cathy has worked part time since her freshman year in high school.

Brunettes Dominate TV? Reader Should Look Again

Ask Dick
 Kleiner
 By DICK KLEINER

DEAR DICK: What has happened to all the lovely brunettes and Auburn-haired women who used to grace our TV viewing? So many blondes we see these days look much alike, not natural or pleasing to one's eye. BLANCHE BUJLDE, Astoria, Ore.

You look at what you like to look at and leave the blondes to us. My eye seems to be pleased to view Lori Anderson and Suzanne Somers. But I think you'll find plenty of dark-haired ladies around, too. What about Victoria Principal of "Dallas" or Stefanie Powers of "Hart to Hart" or Marilu Henner of "Taxi" or Jaclyn Smith of "Charlie's Angels"? I would guess that an objective survey would indicate plenty of equal time for brunettes.

DEAR DICK: About two years ago, I read an article where Jerry Lewis was supposed to visit a retirement home. When he arrived, he insulted the people and one old lady had a box of candy for him and he pushed her aside. She was in tears. My family won't believe that I read this. I have never had any respect for him since. MARGARET HOUSNER, Cranbury, N.J.

Arthur Forrest, his associate, says it doesn't sound like Lewis. He is, Forrest says, generally particularly pleasant to older people. Forrest's theory is that this is just another story made up by the Lewis-haters, of which there are many. I find no story such as you recount, which is not to say that it is untrue. I just can't find it.

DEAR DICK: Did a TV series called "Run, Buddy, Run" ever exist? My roommate insists it didn't. If it did, who played the lead role, and when did it air? ERWIN R. SCHRECK, Kalamazoo, Mich.

It certainly did exist, and ran in the '65-'67 season on CBS, with Jack Sheldon, the trumpet player-actor, playing Buddy.

DEAR DICK: I recently watched Buddy Hackett on "You Bet Your Life" and there was a question asked if Gummo was a Marx Brother. Was he? I never heard of him. I was aware only of Chico, Harpo, Zeppo and Groucho. Who's Gummo? ROBERT WALLS, Jr., Warsaw, Ind.

Gummo (Milton Marx) was yet another brother. He left the act early, before the brothers came to Hollywood; he never made a movie.

DEAR DICK: Can you tell me if Robert Foxworth, who was in "Act of Love" on NBC, is the same actor who played the father on the TV series, "The Brady Bunch"? DEBBY RUNCO, Pueblo, Colo.

No, Foxworth wasn't involved in "The Brady Bunch;" it was Robert Reed.

DEAR DICK: Is Margaux Hemingway a sister of Marjet Hemingway? Also, is Tracey Gold, of "Eight Is Enough" and other shows, any relation to Missy Gold, who is on "Beano"? TINA SUOZZO, Stockton, N.J.

DEAR DICK: Are Harvey and Michael Lembeck related? ANN COOMBS, Vancouver, Wash.

Everybody is related. The Hemingways and the Golds are sisters, and Michael is Harvey's son.

DEAR DICK: Please tell me who played the old man in "The Days of Wine and Roses" with Jack Lemmon and Lee Remick. I believe he portrayed Lee's father. DENNIS WEEVER, Calcutta, Ind.

The late Charles Bickford played that role.

Regional Agency May Regulate Water Use

By DIANE PETRYK
 Herald Staff Writer

Water usage by cities, farmers, developers and others in Seminole County may soon be regulated by a regional agency. But at least one Seminole County official objects to the plan.

The St. Johns River Water Management District governing board has directed its staff to rewrite and expand its water-use rules. The board's intent is to require permits for those who use an average of more than 100,000 gallons of water per day throughout the board's 19-county jurisdiction.

But Seminole County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said he thinks such regulation should be left to local authorities.

"I can say for myself that I would not like to turn over any of Seminole County's authority to an outside agency, period," Sturm said. "I think we can do a better job because we are more familiar with local needs, past, present and future."

"I see it as another layer of bureaucracy that is not needed," Members of the water management district governing board, however, feel the regulations are necessary to stop overuse or destruction of Central Florida's water resources, said district spokesman Connie Phillips.

Governing board member-at-large Fran Pignone, of Orlando, called the board's directive, issued Wednesday, a "landmark action" on the part of the regulatory agency. Pignone has pushed for regional water use regulation as a tool to direct development.

The district currently enforces water regulations in the Upper St. Johns River Basin and the Oklawaha Basin, which include portions of Seminole County from Oviedo east.

But the rest of Seminole County will be affected by the proposed regulatory expansion.

In addition to requiring permits for those who pump more than 100,000 gallons per day, the district would regulate those who have systems that could pump a million gallons per day, Phillips said.

She said the regulations, if approved, would not affect homeowners or small businesses. They would affect large users, such as those involved in agriculture and municipal suppliers.

To take effect, the regulations first will have to go through a public hearing process.

Sturm said the county may register an objection. It has already informed the water management district that it intends to keep issuing its own well drilling permits, he said.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn said she agrees with Sturm that whatever regulations are deemed necessary, local government should continue to have a hand in the process.

Sonny Vergara, St. Johns River Water Management district executive director, said local governments should control local concerns.

"Water management isn't just a one-county problem. The real concern is what is happening to the total resource in the State of Florida."

"The St. Johns River extends 210 miles from Indian River County to Duval County. Seminole County need only look to the east to see the dire straits of Volusia and Brevard counties are in as far as water resources go."

"And there are parts of Seminole with the same problems," Vergara pointed to a dispute between Seminole and Orange counties over a dam.

Without a regional water management district, "how are such inter-county problems to be resolved?" he asked.

Seminole County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said agricultural interests and the cities probably will be interested in scrutinizing the district's proposals. If the regulations are within the rights of the district and seem to be beneficial they should be considered, he said.

Phillips said a permit system is a means of providing for "reasonable and equitable" use of water while preventing the destruction of the area's water resources.

"It's the most significant thing this district has ever done," she said. "It's a reaction to low water levels and drying river basins. The alternative is running out of water."

She said although the district has never denied anyone a water-use permit, people remain scared of such regulation.

"They think we're trying to take their water away. That's not the case," she said. "In reality, no one has ever been denied a permit, although the amount may have been cut down."

She said the regulations are primarily a tool to monitor water resources and are not anti-growth.

They allow for growth, she explained, because they prevent people from coming in and then finding out they don't have enough water available for their needs.

"It lets them know in advance so they can move somewhere else," she said.

Pignone agreed that the proposed regulations are not an attempt to stop growth but a means to "get a technical handle

New Faces On Soap Operas

By NANCY M. REICHERDT
 HOLLYWOOD — There have been numerous cast changes in the soap world since the beginning of the new year, including the addition of Jerry Casaban as John Gibson on "The Young and the Restless."

More exits from the "Another World" cast include Kevin Conroy as Jerry Groves, Michael Stone as Craig Caldwell and Jack Farris as Brad Garrick.

Veteran actor Fred J. Scully (Charlie Hobson) made the fifth fatality on "AW" thus far. New head writer, L. Virginia Brown, seems to be making a clean sweep of the "AW" cast. As future changes come our way, we'll pass them on to you.

From "Texas" the word is out that Chandler Harben (Max Dekker) will be replaced after receiving his pink slip. No reasons for the dismissal were given. Back on "Texas" is Steven D. Newman as Barrett Marshall. If you search your memory, you'll remember he portrayed Mike Maraski when the show made its debut.

Two exits from "Edge of Night" include Frances Fisher from her long-time role as Deborah Saxon. Frances is hoping to catch some roles out in Los Angeles after exiting New York City.

The second "EON" departure was Jayne Benson (Nicole Cavanaugh). Jayne will be on her way to Boston by the time you read this column and perhaps working in a new stage production. Jayne came to "EON" as the replacement for Maeve McGuire, and amid speculation that Jayne would never make the grade, she proved the critics wrong.

The decision to leave "EON" was strictly her own.

LETTERS:
 I would like to know what George Reinholt and Jacqueline Courtney (formerly Alice and Steve from "Another World") are doing. — A.S., Holiday, Fla.

Jackie, in case you don't watch, has been appearing on "One Life to Live" since shortly after her departure from "AW," which occurred after a dispute between Jackie and the show's producer, Paul Rauch. George Reinholt appeared in a Broadway show after leaving "AW," but the vehicle he was involved in received bad reviews and closed almost as soon as it opened. No one seems to have heard from Reinholt since.

SCC President Proud Of School's Accomplishments

By CHARITY CICARDO
 Herald Staff Writer

The Word is out about Seminole Community College, said its president, Earl Weldon.

"I've been told, 'Why don't you tell people about this or that.' Somebody knows about us because we have more than 20,000 students going through our doors a year," Weldon said.

Weldon, a soft-spoken man shows a deep concern and love for the college he has headed since its opened in 1966.

The college quietly-nestled between bustling U.S. Highway 17-92 and Interstate 4 bursts with activity — activity that seven out of 10 years the tennis team ranked in the top ten junior colleges in the nation; the telephone technology training program is the largest in a public institution east of the Mississippi River; and registering for classes, usually a dreadful task, runs smoothly. The list runs on.

The school is one of 28 community colleges in the state. The colleges serve anywhere from one to seven counties.

Because of the anticipated growth in Seminole County, the college was built to serve only this county, Weldon said.

In 1966 the college began with 800 students in 17 portable buildings.

"My children and I were assembling desks the night before the first day of classes," Weldon said.

In only 15 years, the college has grown to 6,000 students a term, packing 10 buildings.

Everytime we get a new building finished, we need another one, Weldon said.

Besides the main campus, which houses vocational, technical and transfer classes, another area of the college houses adult education classes in the original portable classrooms.

A variety of programs ranging from nursing to welding is offered. "We try to offer what the community needs," Weldon said.

And the college isn't just for recent high school graduates anymore. If I would have to say an average student, it would be a 28-year-old female," Weldon said.

But the president is quick to add the college has a broad range of students.

The average age of a student in a vocational program is 35, while 45 is the average age of an adult-education student.

Weldon said a very high percentage of the county population takes courses at the college.

Weldon said the age of students shows why few people participate in extracurricular activities at the school.

The school's basketball team is ranked number one in the state among junior
