

Atomic Energy Is Being Brought Into Ordinary Peaceful Uses

By RELMAN MORIN
 WASHINGTON (AP)—Building the atomic bomb was a ferociously complicated process. But it is beginning to seem like child's play compared with bringing atomic energy to ordinary peaceful uses. Take electric power, for instance.

This may be the first great field where the atom goes to work. America's power consumption tends to double every 10 years. The economy demands more and ever more electricity.

Technically, you could have atom-generated electricity in your home today. Engineers know how to hook a nuclear reactor to a generator and take off electric power. But it is too expensive to be competitive with ordinary power.

Suppose you are the president of a big electric power company. The Board of Directors is in session. One of them asks:

"How big is in the difference in cost?"

"Pretty big," you answer. "Power rates vary all over the United States. On the average, however, I'd say that with present techniques, atom-electricity would be at least twice as costly. That's only an estimate."

Q. Will new techniques cut costs sharply in the future? A. Let's take just one big phase of the problem. Nobody yet knows how to transmute atomic energy directly into electricity. You still need turbines, generators and all the conventional equipment. The nuclear reactor merely takes the place of one part of the machine. Now suppose a method is found to convert atomic energy into electric power without those intermediate steps? Then, no doubt, atomic electricity would be more than competitive with the processes we are using now."

Q. Apart from that, what will it cost to build a nuclear reactor? How long will it take? A. Between 40 and 50 million dollars, and four to five years. It depends on the size of the reactor.

Q. So if we started today, it would be around 1960 before we had any atom electricity. A. That's right. And you've touched on another part of the problem. We decide to build a reactor and it's about half finished when somebody comes along with a new design, more efficient, lower operating costs, and so on. In a technical field moving ahead as rapidly as atomic energy, that can easily happen. In other words, our reactor could be obsolete before it ever turned out a kilowatt.

Q. You mentioned operating costs. What about them? A. That's an uncharted sea. No private industry has operated a reactor. So we just don't know much about the costs, or amortization factors.

output, personnel expenses, safety. C. Safety? What's the problem there? A. Well, fortunately, there hasn't been a serious reactor explosion in America. But suppose one did explode near a city. The blast itself could be serious. Now picture, in addition, a radioactive cloud boiling down on a crowded community, poisoning the air, the food, even the water.

Q. Suppose we decide to go into the atomic business? Where do we start getting the information? A. Mainly from the AEC. We would need a license. And we would have to get security clearances first for the engineers and everybody else who might be directly connected with building the reactor."

Q. As a broad, general question—would you say the government really wants private industry in the atomic energy business? A. Everything seems to indicate it does. For instance, if we come forward with a workable proposition, the AEC will give us certain advantages—the loan of fissionable fuel without charge, and making available their laboratories for specific research studies, and so on.

Q. Well, finally, do you think we should come in? A. I don't see how we can stay out. Here's a big, new field with tremendous potentialities. Sure, the costs and the problems are staggering. But this isn't the first time American industry has taken on a big tough job—and it won't be the last."

Family Moves In As Skunks Leave

CHICAGO (AP)—Mrs. Helen Luther and her four children are back in their home in suburban Winthrop Harbor after more than a month's battle with a family of skunks underneath the house.

Mrs. Luther, the village clerk, said the last of the skunks finally was trapped after she had received more than 75 suggestions from persons in 20 states.

Then followed a deodorant spraying of the entire house, chemical treatment of the ground underneath, and washing or dry cleaning of all furniture and other objects inside the house.

PRIVATE INDUSTRY ASKED FOR HELP
 JACKSONVILLE (AP)—The University of Florida dean of engineering called upon private industry Monday to finance construction of a nuclear reactor at the university.

Dr. Joseph Weil told a civic club that the State Board of Control has ruled it cannot be built with state funds in emphasizing that its cost of 14 million dollars would be "a mere pittance" compared with the benefits it would produce.

Varied Proposals Confront Members Of Legislature

CHICAGO (AP)—Every day someone somewhere vows "there ought to be a law" for or against something close to his heart.

As a result state legislatures are confronted with proposals embracing a strange assortment of persons, places and things. These range from bear cans, bear traps and seagulls to wild horses. For instance:

Nebraska has pending a bill providing a 1-cent bounty on empty beer cans returned to the county clerk. Its sponsors say it would help keep empty cans off the roads. Residents of Maine planning to set out bear traps may have to surround them with two strands of barbed wire bearing signs "Bear Trap" and "Trapped Ours." Reason is that the traps are supposed to snare bears, not French-Canadian woodsmen working the forests.

Inland Utah has a bill to make the seagull the state bird. In Nevada anyone wanting to hunt wild horses can't do so with an airplane. And he has to advertise his plans in a newspaper in the county where he intends to hunt.

Drunken drivers in Iowa have escaped special distinction. The House killed a bill to require those convicted to carry on their windshields a yellow label with a scarlet "X."

Alabama has a proposal for a $25 tax on divorces as a means of getting extra money for old age pensions.

Colorado has one setting up special license plates for 25-year-old automobiles. The antique cars could be used only in parades. Rep. T. W. (Buckshot) Lane, a former county sheriff, wants Texas to tax telephone poles 50 cents apiece. And in Rhode Island small type would be banned from insurance policies.

Midges Warned To Be On Alert

Midges, beware! Life is going to get tougher for you. Dr. Terry Bird, County Health Officer, and V. J. Robbins, sanitarian with the Health Unit, are now armed with the latest methods of controlling the pesky flying insect.

Odham Declares Civic Campaign Needed For Roads

"The only way we can hope to have U. S. Highway 17-92 four-laned within the near future," Bralley Odham declared last night, "is to start a civic campaign to have as much right of way donated or given free of charge as possible."

Odham, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's long-range roads planning committee, made the statement at a dinner meeting of the committee last night at Elmer's Restaurant.

Calling attention to the fact that $860,000 has been appropriated for the project, Odham said this is enough to begin construction. But the project, he added, will be made prohibitive if all right-of-way has to be purchased.

Unless the owners of property abutting on the highway cooperate in the right-of-way movement, he said "we might as well sit back and wait for a bypass to be built."

Present at the meeting from the district highway office at Deland were C. A. Benedict, head of the drafting department, and Kenneth Kimsey, assistant to District Engineer Richey Green.

Green was unable to attend because of other business.

Benedict reported that the center line for the four-lane highway has been fairly well established, barring a few possible minor changes. He said the right-of-way acquired in past instances, would be 130 feet from the center line of the present road.

Kimsey said the total cost of the project from the Orange County line to Five Points would be approximately $1,100,000.

Hobbs said lethane has been used on a limited scale in Seminole County, but pointed out that the chief fear is in using it in bedrooms. Prolonged exposure can be injurious to humans, he said.

"The biggest reason we went to the meeting," Dr. Bird said, "was to gain data to get the city and county commissions to take some kind of action to control all types of insects."

John Dunlap Dies At Thornton Home

John W. Dunlap, 61, died in the home of his daughter Mrs. Beulah W. Thornton, 206 Magnolia Ave., at 5:35 p. m. yesterday.

He has been in ill health for the last two years and had lived in Sanford approximately 15 years after coming from Canton, Ohio.

Born in Sevatapool, Indiana Dec. 19, 1893 he was a retired building contractor. He was also a member of the First Christian Church of Sanford and a Woodman of the World member. He is survived by one daughter, one sister, Miss Minnie Thompson of Coffeyville, Kansas, and several nieces and nephews in Washington, Kansas, Missouri and New Mexico.

Funeral services will be at 8 p. m. Friday at the Brison Funeral Home with the Rev. V. H. Grantham and the Rev. David Carnes officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Hubbard Alderman Dies In Longwood

Hubbard Alderman, 63, died yesterday afternoon after an illness of six weeks. He made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Alline Barwick, and had lived in Longwood for the past 31 years.

A retired carpenter, Mr. Alderman was born on Sept. 2, 1871 in Moultrie, Ga., and was a member of the Baptist Church. He is survived by his daughter, one brother, Ben Alderman of Sylvester, Ga., and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 3 p. m. at Brison Funeral Home with the Rev. Louis Futch of the Longwood Baptist Church officiating. Burial will be in the Longwood Cemetery.

Governor Accepts Gay's Resignation

TWISTED METAL is all that could be determined at the scene of the crash of a private plane. Exclusive photos were taken by Carl Overstreet of The Herald staff.

Young Flier Found With Wrecked Plane

Only the cows heard as the Globe Swift plane of Fred A. Scudellari came to a screeching halt, burying its nose five feet deep in the muddy ground about one mile south-southeast of May Town near Osteen; and just the incoherent cries of the crumpled and broken body of the pilot were heard as the plane crashed.

The wreckage was sighted around noon yesterday by Everett Vaytes and Marlon Canada, ranchers from Cocoa who were driving their cattle through the desolate damp wood. Noticing something out of the ordinary, the men approached what they thought was a pile of scrap tin that someone had dumped there. As they drew closer they found out how wrong they were. There about 50 feet from the wreckage was the body of the man which was identified.

While he did not say so directly, he indicated he felt the threat of death in the electric chair may have saved the lives of the guards.

"If there is ever a bill in the Legislature to abolish capital punishment, I'll be the first to oppose it," Anderson said.

While he did not say so directly, he indicated he felt the threat of death in the electric chair may have saved the lives of the guards.

The company said the cable was one of the largest damaged since the strike started March 14. South Carolina law enforcement agencies are investigating the incident, officials said.

INCOMES RISE

LONDON (U-P)—Personal incomes in Britain rose 6 per cent last year, from 38 1/2 to 40 1/2 billion.

Mamie Sends Note To Little Linda

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower has sent a bouquet of roses and "my prayers" in a part 6-year-old blonde girl suffering from a brain tumor.

The girl, Linda Carpenter, of nearby Kent Village, Md., is not expected to live. The tumor was discovered after she injured her head last month in a sledding accident.

The White House said yesterday the First Lady sent the roses to Linda in George Washington University Hospital after reading about the little girl's plight. Accompanying the bouquet was a note.

Florida's constitution now provides that the Senate president succeed to the governorship in an emergency.

"It certainly is only right that the people of the whole state, rather than the people of a single district, should vote on the man who would succeed the governor in an emergency," King said.

"My personal belief is that a line of succession should be set up in the cabinet."

"I will vote for a lieutenant governor since that seems to be what the governor wants, but it appears to me we would be creating a useless job. I am opposed to a lieutenant governor presiding over the Senate because I don't believe we should intermingle the executive and legislative branches."

King said he would oppose the lieutenant governor presiding over the Senate. In many states the lieutenant governor is elected by popular vote in statewide election and presides over the Senate.

Ray Green Appointed To Post

Comptroller Will Return To Orlando

TALLAHASSEE (U-P)—Gov. Collins today announced acceptance of the resignation of Comptroller Clarence M. Gay effective April 11 and said "I will forthwith appoint Mr. Ray Green to fill the unexpired term."

In a brief statement dictated to a secretary in his office, the governor said he is accepting Gay's resignation with reluctance and yet I can understand his compelling personal reasons for taking this action.

The governor said Green, now assistant to Gay, is a man of proven integrity and ability.

"I have full confidence in him and his experience will assure the orderly continuance of the business of this office."

Gay announced his resignation at a news conference. He said he was giving up his cabinet post to return to his Orlando banking business.

Gay released a letter to Gov. Collins which said they had agreed on the appointment of Green because of "his general qualifications and his experience as my first assistant, both in respect to the work and personnel of the office."

In his letter of resignation, Gay said he would be available in an advisory capacity at all times. Gay told reporters that after a quarter of a century in public life he felt it was his duty to his family and business associates to return to private life.

He said his business interests had been neglected because of his public service.

Gay conferred with Gov. Collins prior to releasing his statement.

Bulgarian's Regime Undergoes Another High-Level Change

MOSCOW (U-P)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev's government underwent another high-level change yesterday with the removal of Konstantin M. Sokolov as soviet construction chief. He was replaced by V. A. Kucherenko, one of the four new deputy premiers appointed March 1.

Sokolov, 51, was chairman of the State Committee of the Soviet Council of Ministers for Construction Affairs. He had headed the Soviet building program since 1949.

It was uncertain whether Sokolov's removal spelled his ouster from the ruling Kremlin group or whether he was only being given another post. He was elected a candidate member of the Central Committee of the Soviet Communist party in October 1952.

The construction ministry has been under fire for the past few months from Nikita S. Khrushchev. The Communist party boss accused Russian builders and architects of wasteful, inefficient construction work.

All are charged with conspiring to evade payment of the excise tax on wagers accepted by or for the Trafficante brothers and Perrone.

The Trafficante and Perrone also are charged with evading payment of about $200 on $2,000 in bets. Asst. U. S. Atty. Vernon W. Evans Jr. called this sum "ridiculously low" compared with the total operations of the group. He said it is only a token figure.

MIAMI BEACH (U-P)—The Florida State Bar Assn. opens its annual convention here today with State Supreme Court justices on hand.

Among matters to be discussed will be the legislative program adopted by the bar's board of governors yesterday.

These include a law permitting life sentences for incurable or habitual child molesters and a bill to make parents more responsible for the actions of delinquent children.

CONCRETE MIXER GONE

DENVER (U-P)—Richard Landsh, owner of a rent-all company, said he had a large concrete mixer to the rear of a building Tuesday. When he went to work yesterday, the chain was broken and mixer gone.

Strolling In Sanford

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Davis have received word that their son James has been initiated into Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity at Florida State University in Tallahassee. He was also presented the "Outstanding Pledge" award of his fraternity at a founder's day dinner Saturday.

A used playpen is needed for the two bear cubs at the Sanford Zoo. Mrs. Arnold Hood, keeper, said today. She said the Zoo will accept one as a donation or will purchase it if the price is reasonable.

'Fair Trade' Laws Repeal Is Proposed To Stop Cut Rates

WASHINGTON (U-P)—A government-sponsored committee today proposed repeal of "fair trade" laws designed to prevent cut-rate retail sales of nationally advertised, brand-name products.

If the administration and Congress should follow through, the law would be open for discount houses to spring up everywhere. Merchants would be able to charge whatever they wished for electric mixers, cosmetics, fountain pens and the like—regardless of prices manufacturers want to impose.

The recommendation by the National Committee to Study the Antitrust Laws brought praise from Rep. Celler (D-NY) and some question from Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.).

Other portions of the committee report were criticized vigorously by them and Rep. Patman (D-Tex.). Celler heads the House Judiciary Committee; Sparkman and Patman are chairmen of Senate and House small business committees.

The study committee also called in somewhat heavy language for legislative curbs on labor union activities that may restrict trade and competition.

Dr. Bird Reports Letters Sent Out

Dr. Terry Bird, director of the Seminole County Health Unit, announced that letters were being sent to a few people in Sanford whose x-rays taken during a mass x-ray survey were unsatisfactory for interpretation, probably due to over exposure.

If you receive a letter go to the trailer that will be parked at the Seminole County Health Unit, 113 S. Palmetto Ave. on April 4 between the hours of 10 a. m. to 1 p. m.

This is the only time it will be here for another two years, and we urge you to take advantage of the opportunity to have your x-ray taken over," Dr. Bird said.

REPRESENTATIVE SUGGESTS TWO-YEAR LEAVE

WASHINGTON (U-P)—Rep. Curtis (R-Mo) has proposed a constitutional amendment requiring senators and House members to take a two-year leave after 10 consecutive years of service. After the leave, they could return if re-elected. He said the plan would get long-time members out of "a fascinating

Sixty Dozen Eggs Donated To Jaycees For Easter Hunt

Sixty dozen eggs have been donated for the Easter Egg Hunt to be held Easter Sunday at Ft. Mellon Park by the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Dave Thrasher, hunt chairman, made the announcement at the chamber's weekly luncheon meeting today at the Yacht Club.

The largest donation, 15 dozen, came from Celery City Grill, Thrasher said.

He said raw eggs will be received up until Thursday.

Twenty-six prizes have also been donated for the hunt. They were donated by Powell's Office Supply, Robson Sporting Goods, Garrett's, Firestone Store, Frank Noell, Cowan's, Yowell's, Walgreen's Drug Store, Western Auto Store, Jacobson's Department Store, Hanson's Shoe Shop, Hill Hardware, Touchton Drug Co., J. C. Penny Co. and McCrory's.

John Melch, chairman of the county commission, gave a talk on taxes and labor.

Now that Seminole County has the new hospital, Melch said, a re-evaluation of county property is needed to raise more tax revenue to operate the hospital and the school system. He pointed out that the County is growing at the rate of between 1,200 and 1,500 people per year.

Tom Lemon Seeks Mayor Nomination In Bloomington

Thomas L. Lemon, former City Manager of Sanford and one-time Mayor of Bloomington, Ind., announced last week that he will seek nomination on the democratic ticket at Bloomington may or in the City election in November.

Lemon's decision was influenced, he reported, by the thousands of names on hundreds of petitions that had been circulating since his announcement that he would not be a candidate.

After relating that he would seek nomination, a full slate of candidates fell in line and indicated they were solidly behind the young politician.

Lemon resigned his position as Sanford's City Manager in January, 1954.

Civilians Cleared As Security Risks

WASHINGTON (U-P)—The Army says it has cleared 27 of 35 Ft. Meamouth, N.J., civilian employees who had been suspended as suspected security risks. The other eight have been fired, according to Army records.

The Pentagon disclosed last night the completion of action in the cases of the 28 workers who were suspended under government loyalty procedures. The Army said all 27 of those cleared were reinstated but that three later quit.

LIONESS GIVES BIRTH TO SIX CUBS

ST. LOUIS (U-P)—Lena, the lioness at St. Louis Zoo, gave birth to six cubs, not five as announced earlier this month. Attendance disclosed there were six yesterday. Zoo Director George P. Vierheller said he'd never heard of octuplets and promptly passed around a box of cigars to celebrate the event.

SENATE MAJORITY LEADER Lyndon B. Johnson (D-Tex.) raises his fist in Washington to charge that there appeared to be "official collusion" in the way Yalta documents were "leaked" to a newspaper. He said the resulting release of the conference papers revealed nothing new except unguarded comments of men dealing with the problems of 1945 "and not the election of 1954." Senate Minority Leader William F. Knowland has denied "any ulterior purpose."

U. S. President Does Not Share View On Red China

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower does not believe Red China is prepared to cause any major conflict in the Formosa Strait in the weeks just ahead. The President does not share the view that a Red Chinese attack might be made on the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu by April 15. He has rejected this estimate of the situation by some military sources, reported from Washington during the weekend. Information reaching the White House indicates Red China lacks air bases and supplies to back up an amphibious assault on the islands. Just off the Chinese mainland.

These views were outlined by an authoritative administration source in a discussion of key current issues in the foreign relations field. As for the possibility of a Big Four conference, the source said the administration sees all signs as pointing to a meeting of some type. The question is when, where and what form it will take. On the question of war or peace in the Formosa Strait, the source said the administration was disturbed by the weekend report that the Communists would be capable of an early attack on Quemoy and Matsu.

The report, the source said, gave an erroneous and possibly alarming picture which might lead some to believe the United States would soon be in a full-scale shooting war with atomic weapons. Also, he said, it was felt that such talk could damage the American position with some foreign nations that take issue with parts of U.S. policy in the Formosa area. The source said Eisenhower does not minimize the danger in the Far East. He was said to feel that the situation is likely to become increasingly serious and that nobody can predict what Red China might do.

A decision whether the United States would go to the defense of the offshore islands rests with Eisenhower. The decision probably would come before any actual attack but it hasn't been made yet, the source said. As for the prospects of a big power meeting, the administration was said to feel that a summit conference likely would precede a meeting of chiefs of government.

Trappers Show Sign Of Making Profit After Prices Drop

By DION HENDERSON
The Associated Press
The trappers, the fellows who put their wits against the wild for fun or fortune, show signs of making a profit again. During the past decade, wild fur prices declined to the point where a boy could make as much money and have as much fun—carrying a paper route as he could running a trapline for muskrats along the creek. Prices dropped as low as 75 cents for a red fox, $6 for a silver just a few years after a red brought $40 and a silver could practically pay for a college education.

However, Canadian provincial authorities are telling their trappers—the so-called "loneliest men in the world" who patrol the wilderness of the old fur empires—that even the long-haired furs are coming back into fashion. And they're offering a few reminders to newcomers. A trapper's problems, it seems, are just beginning when he figures out a way to catch his fur—mink, fox, beaver or whatever.

In the first place, he must have caught it at the right time of year. For instance, a beaver taken too early may show a dark blue skin, be hard and brittle. But the same animal taken later could present a light, pliable leather, with full length hairs and thickly developed under fur. When the fur on a prime pelt is stroked from tail to head, it should fall back into place with a flowing motion. It is what fur experts call "alive."

Since many furs bring a price according to their size, many a trapper tries to stretch his catch. However, since the number of hairs on the pelt remains the same, according to F. L. Hall, district forester at Cochrane, Ont., the pelt then has a less, poorer fur feel and is classed as second grade or knocked down to original size. Mink, of course, furnish only a narrow strip of fur for the best costs, and other furs like Fisher demand higher prices for smaller pelts. Some furs actually have come back so fast they're in short demand, Cochrane said. Ontario lists beaver in this category. South of the border, there's a ready crop since in some states beaver have gone untrapped so long they've nearly become a pest species on trout streams. But at any rate, the wild trapping business still has a fur piece to go. The flightless kiwi bird of New Zealand lays an egg that is a quarter its own weight.

who can't be located, unclaimed real estate and the like. He plans to bring the owners and their unclaimed property together on a TV show tentatively entitled Billion Dollar Bankroll. He estimates he can restore an average of at least $30,000 a week to the rightful owners with the aid of a firm that specializes in locating people who have moved about a lot. The unsuspecting owner of unclaimed money or property would be persuaded on some pretext to attend the telecast as part of the regular studio audience. Then during the show he'd be called to the stage and presented with his windfall.

THIS GLOBE SWIFT plane crashed several days ago on the marshlands about 1 mile south-southeast of May Town near Osteen. The pilot was killed. (Staff Photo) by his pilot and driver's licenses. The two addresses given were 420 Eastern Ave., Springfield, Mass., and P. O. Box 1654, Miami. His age was listed as 26. The picture on his identification card showed a handsome man with dark hair.

Young Flier

Yates and Canada immediately returned to May Town where they called "Pete" Peterson of Osteen who notified the New Smyrna Police Department. Investigating officers were J. W. Wells, of the Florida Highway Patrol and Leo Farout of the Volusia County Sheriff's Department.

According to Judge R. H. Matthews of Volusia County, Scudclari had been dead for about four days and the general opinion seemed to follow the belief that he had been dead at least since Sunday or before.

The news of the crash came into The Herald office as a late bulletin that gave no details. Thinking there might be a story involved, our boss sent us out to track it down. These things usually turn out to be a routine check so I grabbed my car keys, Sandra Dunn, our society editor, reached for a hand full of paper and pencils, and circulation manager Carl Overstreet jumped into the car with the loaded camera, and we were off!

Driving over many miles of sandy roads through, only Heaven knows where, we finally managed to swallow our pride long enough to ask someone where we were and if they had heard about the crash. Lucky for us, they had.

Back-tracking about 12 miles we finally came upon the group of men including officers and game wardens.

After explaining how we stumbled way out there and identifying ourselves, the gentlemen very graciously gave us the information we wanted. Everything was fine except for one thing. We had no picture. Where was the wreckage?

"About a mile and a half through the woods and swamps," we were told, "and I doubt that you all will be heading that way. That car," pointing to my old faithful Susie, "will never make it." I didn't argue because I wasn't particularly interested in finding out if she would be able to plow through.

Being further informed, we were told that we'd have to take off our shoes and step high in order to get to the plane. That was in addition to all the other hazards of the natural surroundings and inhabitants. After trying all known verbal methods of discouraging us, and seeing the look of hardest determination on the faces of the newspaper trio, Canada good-naturedly offered to drive us out there.

Climbing into the '48 Ford pickup, Sandra and I in the cab with Carl and Yates in back, we once again were on our way. Driving over the longest three miles in history we encountered mud holes, undergrowth with a vague sign that civilization had passed that way before, and just plain old rough land that gave no hint that the human race even existed.

The cows perked up their heads at this strange sight of intrusion by man, who was driven only by curiosity and sturdy jeep tires that not only went backward and forward but sideways as we skidded in the mire and slippery muckland that had been nursed by drenching rains just a short time before.

Palmetto fans and pine boughs seemed to reach out trying to hold us back as we crept deeper into the unfamiliar surrounding where at times the afternoon sun seemed to all but disappear.

During our ride Sandra and I found out many things about the crash business. What amazed us most is that it takes 100 acres for each cow. Canada also told us again the untiring story of how the plane was found and that Saturday, he noticed two planes circling over the area. But it may have been mere coincidental and "I doubt that they had anything to do with it," he reiterated.

Canada formed the theory that the private plane had come down in a tail spin either Friday or Saturday. Our capable driver informed us that the pilot was carrying a check from Pan-American Airways in Miami that was made out March 25, so the crash must have occurred shortly thereafter.

Our seemingly endless journey halted abruptly as a few rays of the sun managed to seep through the trees and cast a reflection on the aluminum wreckage.

Getting out, we were shown where the body had laid about 20 feet from where it apparently had first bounced after leaving the plane. It was from there that the body was put in a zippered plastic bag and placed on Canada's truck the very one which had brought us here, to be taken back to the ambulance, Colonial Funeral Home of New Smyrna is in charge.

"An ear was the only recognizable part of his head," Canada grimly related while Yates was explaining how the luggage had been torn open and clothes that looked as though they had never been worn were strewn over the ground. The heavy hand of death still held down the rain-soaked grass stained with blood as we were getting our story.

Grotesque objects reminded us of the tragedy that befell this young man. I quickly returned to the truck and turned my back on the twisted heap that once was neatly assembled to do a job which was never quite completed.

The trip back to May Town didn't seem as long as we talked with

No Report Written On Vaccine Trials

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Thomas Francis Jr., head of the ultra secret task of compiling the results of the Salk polio vaccine trials, says the official report scheduled for release April 12—has not been written.

He said yesterday from the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor that "we know nothing about" a New York World-Telegram and Sun story saying the vaccine trials proved 100 per cent effective. The newspaper, in a copyrighted story, said it received its information from an "unimpeachable source."

Said Francis: "No information has been released from the polio evaluation center. The official report has not been written, and if there is any question I refer all persons to the same unimpeachable source from which the allegedly original information came."

Demo Sen. Neely Refuses To Offer Apology To Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Neely (D-WVa.) said today Republican critics of his blast at President Eisenhower haven't heard anything yet. He said he doesn't intend to apologize for questioning Eisenhower's churchoing. Such an apology was suggested in the Senate yesterday by Sen. Edward Martin (R-Pa.), who said Neely had "struck the lowest of blows" at the President.

Contestant Killed In Auto Collision

ST. PETERSBURG (AP)—The annual Sunshine Festival continued today despite the death of a contestant for the Goddess of Sunniness title.

Janet Miles, 21, representing Nevada among 49 contestants, was killed last night when her car collided with a truck at an intersection.

Miss Miles was riding in a car driven by her mother, Mrs. Muri Miles, 45. Driver of the truck was Shelley H. Crawford, 21. All are residents of St. Petersburg.

Both Mrs. Miles and Crawford were hospitalized with serious injuries. No charges were filed.

Jelke Vice Trial Goes To Jury Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke vice trial goes to the jury of 10 men and two women today.

Jelke, 25-year-old heir to oleomargarine millions, is charged with inducing Pat Ward, now 21, into cafe society prostitution. He also is charged with attempting to do the same with Marguerite Cordova, 26, a former hatcheck girl.

Each count carries a possible penalty of 20 years. At his first trial two years ago, which was reversed on appeal, Jelke was sentenced to from three to six years. Defense and prosecution lawyers made their summations yesterday in the four-week-old trial.

Opinions Divided On Court House

CARTHAGE, Tex. (AP)—This east Texas area is sharply divided over what to do with the 70-year-old Panola County Courthouse, says Miss Margie Neal, a former state senator.

Some want to raze the castle-like old building. Others want to preserve it intact. County officials moved into a new building about a year ago, but the old structure has been used for community meetings and singings.

Funeral Procession Is Held For Stinky

SOUTH MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—There was a funeral procession, flowers, tears and silent prayers yesterday for Stinky.

"Some people might think it silly that we could love a dog so much, but he brought us so much happiness and enjoyment," said Miss S. Wilhelm.

She and her husband, who own a funeral home, made burial arrangements. There was a custom-made casket.

Stinky, a 7-year-old brown and white mongrel, had been unofficial canine mayor of South Miami for six years, since the day a group of University of Miami Students left him here. He was killed by an automobile.

Death came unexpectedly. Only Tuesday night he had attended an annual gridiron dinner of the St. Louis Advertising Club. He was at his office yesterday, working at his desk throughout the day and leaving at his usual time.

Medical Mission

Dr. Douglas Tofflemier, orthopedic surgeon and retired Captain in the Navy Medical Corps, has embarked on a medical mission to Indonesia. The mission is the result of a plan conceived jointly by the World Veterans Federation and the United Nations. Dr. Tofflemier will be the first orthopedic surgeon to practice in Indonesia, a country with about 85,000,000 inhabitants.

In addition to Dr. Tofflemier the mission will consist of an orthopedic nurse and a number of United Nations technical specialists. It will be built around a nucleus established by an Indonesian surgeon in a garage shortly after the country won its independence.

It is impossible for Americans to imagine the misery that exists in countries where people do not have even the most elementary medical treatment. It must sometimes sound hollow to them to be lectured about the fruits of the democratic way of life when they are in such desperate need.

The task of the mission to Indonesia will not be easy. It will have to overcome native ignorance and superstition as well as to perform its medical function. But if this mission can go forward to those who are pioneering the development of others. The good wishes of all Americans go with it to those who are pioneering in this important work.

Who forsooketh all things iniquitous.— Psalm 103:3.—Who of us does not fall of perfection because of selfishness, pride, envy, egotism or by some gross neglect in facing an opportunity to help some one who needs our help?

Europeans Have Great Incentive

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Europeans particularly are very sophisticated in the atomic energy field. They don't need our secrets to make progress.

When he made this statement in a recent speech, Dr. Lawrence J. Hafstad was director of reactor development in the Atomic Energy Commission. He went on to say:

"Furthermore, they (European nations) have a great deal more incentive to be serious about this field than we have in this country."

Hafstad was not talking about atomic weapons.

He was talking about using atomic energy for industrial purposes.

The United States is only beginning to move in this field. Until last fall, when a new Atomic Energy Act was passed, the U.S. government held a tight atomic monopoly. Now private industry is preparing to spend millions on atomic energy applications. The results may change the face of America.

But is the United States keeping pace with other countries in peaceful uses of the atom?

The European table has been cracking with meaningful news-

Nylon Snags

Wonders probably never will cease, but sometimes the wonderful can go too far. Recently the du Pont Co. announced they had produced paper from nylon. This may sound exciting. But what if newspapers should decide to use this nylon paper instead of the tried and true wood and rag pulp product? A fine thing it would be to turn to the sports section and find a wide run extending from the latest track dope through today's box scores. Paper boys would be put to it to deliver without snagging the headlines. And Rover's cute trick of bringing in the paper would have to be abandoned for fear of the mayhem his teeth marks could make of the world news.

Actually du Pont does not claim to have become that wonderful yet. Thus far their nylon paper is for heavy duty use. Reported as three to ten times stronger than pulp paper, its suggested use is for large bags.

There ought to be something clever one could say about large nylon bags and the nylon dresses and hose of certain ladies, but perhaps it would be better to let du Pont develop the bags and let the gals work it out from there.

Bevan Bounced

The action taken by the British Labor Party against Aneurin Bevan bodes well for the future of Anglo-American relations. Bevan has been a harsh and very often ungracious critic of the United States and his fiery statements have sometimes had a bad effect on co-operation between the two countries. His expulsion from the Labor Party means that both British parties are now controlled by people who see the mutual hope of the United States and Britain in a policy of close co-operation.

The expulsion of Bevan, however, may mean the end of any possibility of a Labor government in Britain for some time. The closeness of the vote on Bevan—141 to 112—indicates the amount of strength Bevan still has in the Party. Without that strength it is unlikely that the Attlee faction can replace the Conservatives.

Bevan is loud and he is an orator of no small talent. He has a certain amount of popular support and he is a fairly astute politician. It may very well be, as he expressed it after the vote against him was counted, that the leaders of the Labor Party have won a hollow victory.

Something in Your Eye? Be Sure Not to Rub It!

By HERMAN H. WILSON, M.D.
ONE has a natural tendency to rub the eye the moment a speck of dirt or some other foreign body gets into it. Don't do it.

Blebbing Solution
Blebbing will cure it. It is a chemical solution that can be removed without a knife or a scalpel. This, of course, means a trip to your doctor.

I can't overemphasize the fact that it is important to have a foreign body removed from your eye quickly. If the membrane is damaged, permanent damage to the vision of your eye may result. He can anesthetize your eye and probably remove the material with an aspirator or a corneal suction, or perhaps he can wipe it off with a piece of cotton.

Other Measures
If these measures fail, he can usually remove it with instruments or a scalpel.

An electrolytic magnet is now being developed for removing bits of non-ferrous metal not attracted by ordinary magnets, such as aluminum, brass, copper, silver and others.

It could be especially helpful in military service. During the Korean War, fragments of non-ferrous metal were responsible for about one-fourth of Army eye injuries.

Removal May Not
In the past year eye injuries in the United States were reported to be about 100,000.

substances is likely to break up into several tiny fragments. If they are metallic, they can even rust right there in your eye. Then they'll have to be scraped out.

Corneal ulcers sometimes form and the fragments may go deep that you'll need surgery.

Usually, though, your physician or eye specialist can remove the particle painlessly.

Yanking for Usher
After he does so, he'll want to check to determine whether an ulcer has formed. He may use a few per cent fluorescein solution in your eye. If an ulcer has formed, the solution will stain green. Then he knows you need additional treatment.

Keeping It Covered
He'll probably get antibiotics in your eye and order you to keep it covered for 24 hours or so. It's an inconvenience. But so is the loss of an eye.

Preventive Aid Approved
Mrs. G. E. I have developed a screen film on my head at the base of my neck. There is no pain. What causes this?

Answer: Infections in the teeth, tonsils, or nasal sinuses, or other chronic infections may be a contributing cause for such trouble.

Remember the old will high school teacher. He was known to a certain extent by this doctor. It may be due to some allergic reaction.

There has been a certain amount of discussion of a certain eye condition. It may be due to some allergic reaction.

Beyond that, the United States has vast reserves of coal, oil and natural gas; they are re-existential policy also provides more incentive.

But the implications go much further than mere domestic economics.

They affect you, directly, in two ways.

One comes under the heading of cold war.

Look around the world. Most nations are power-starved. In Asia, particularly, teeming millions of people in China, India, Indonesia, Indochina and Korea are struggling to build industries. But they have the problem of getting power.

The answer throughout the Far East—and no less the Middle East—may very well be "the atom."

Suppose the Russians come forward with offers to build nuclear reactors for these nations, to provide them with the original fissionable fuel, and the technicians to teach them? Powerful and practical propaganda or not?

And in the field of international trade:

At this point, few countries have the knowledge and facilities to build their own reactors. They will look for them in foreign markets. They do now for steel mills and aircraft.

A spokesman for a New York engineering firm, Babcock and Wilcox, said recently the company has had more than 800 inquiries from abroad about reactors. The figure, from one firm, gives some idea of the gathering momentum of the whole atom program.

Next August, in Geneva, Switzerland, 21 nations will meet in a great "atoms-for-peace" conference. The United States plans to set up an actual reactor. Russia may do so also, although Moscow has not yet requested authorization from the U.S.S.R.

From this conference may come the answer to the question: Who's ahead in the big international atom sweepstakes? Dr. Hafstad has warned that the Europeans will be "very aggressive."

HAL BOYLE

Leading Actor Is Without Oscar

NEW YORK (AP)—Pore old Duke, Hollywood has handed out its annual Academy awards and again Duke was passed by.

This year Duke—better known as John Wayne—knew in advance he wasn't going to win one of those prized $50,000 Oscars. Although theater owners voted him the top boxoffice star of '54, he wasn't even nominated for an Academy award.

Wayne has been in some 150 pictures but never won an Oscar. As a matter of fact he has been nominated only once—for "Sands of Iwo Jima."

Yet he has been among the "Golden Ten" boxoffice kings for six straight years. He has topped the list three times, a record exceeded only by Bing Crosby (5) and Shirley Temple (4).

While a number of Oscar winners have risen to fame and then disappeared, old Duke keeps riding along to the plaudits of the people who matter most in the movie business—the popcorn public.

Over a shirt-sleeve breakfast of three eggs and a chunk of ham the size of a cocktail table the rangy 6-foot-4 actor seemed undiminished as an Oscar has eluded his trophy shelf for another year. Chin up—that's old Duke.

My New York

By MEL HEIMER
NEW YORK — A new school has just opened in Manhattan. A searching look into my crystal ball indicates that it is headed for tragedy and disaster.

Patterned after similar set-ups in Los Angeles and Detroit, this institution is called the New York City traffic court school. Its students, presently numbering 20, are drivers who have admitted to guilt in such offenses as driving without a license, failing to buy an auto use stamp and so on. In a way, they are compulsory enrollees in the school for a seven-week course. If they say no, they've faced jail and-or a fine.

Operating under the aegis of an optimistic chief magistrate, name of John Murtagh, the school will try to pound into their heads the need and the way to observe traffic regulations. The students—who include a couple of caddies and some truckdrivers—will be psyched, lured by hearing, sight and reactions and lectures.

It is, Murtagh says, an attempt to "substitute education for punishment." At term's end, the students will be tested and given marks. "Good students," Murtagh adds, "will get good treatment." Had students, it is assumed, will get the clink.

Odd note is this: All 20 members of the first group—Class of early March, to speak—are men. Exactly what will happen when the first woman driver is enrolled?

I mean—can't you just say the reaction when a lecturer, say a traffic officer, begins by saying, "Now in the first place, all New York automobiles must display an auto use stamp"? There would be the clear, candid look on the woman driver's face, the raised hand and then shriek, "Why, teacher?"

So the traffic officer will try to tell her why, and she will say with finality and scorn, "The whole idea seems silly, to me."

Perhaps an instructor will be gin with, "You people must understand that parking summonses are not tagged onto your cars to give traffic cops exercise in writing. If a summons says you have parked by a hydrant, that means you park in your check for 10 bucks. Is that clear?"

"Our female friend's hand will go up again and she will say, 'I have a right in theory, teacher, but after I've driven around the block twice and there's no place to put my car except on top of another car, I'm going to park it at a hydrant. Is that perfectly clear?'"

Getting down to mere rudiments.

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP)—Two of the biggest stories of the past few days—that the Red Chinese would, and wouldn't, attack in the Formosa Strait by mid-April—must have left a lot of newspaper readers bewildered.

The stories not only appeared to contradict each other but in neither story, as it first broke, could the individual doing the talking be named. In both cases the men doing the talking held high official positions.

Both, but separately, did their talking at off-the-record dinners with newsmen. Both spoke with the understanding they would not be named in news stories.

This agreement applied only to the newsmen at the dinners. Others not there were free, if they could find out after the first stories appeared, to identify the diner speakers. That has happened before in Washington. It happened this time.

Adm. Robert Carney, chief of naval operations, spoke at the first dinner Thursday night and stories were printed Saturday.

James C. Hagerly, President Eisenhower's press secretary, has been named by the New York Post and the New York Daily News as the one who did the talking at the second dinner Monday night.

Stories coming out of the Carney dinner said the government believed Red China would begin its campaign to capture the Matsu and Quemoy islands by the middle of April.

Stories from the second dinner, appearing Tuesday, said Eisenhower himself did not believe Red China is prepared to start any major fighting in the Formosa area in the weeks immediately ahead. This threw down the Carney story.

These off-the-record dinners have become a kind of Washington institution among a limited number of newsmen who invite public officials to dine with them and talk without fear of being quoted directly or too closely identified. Such dinners were held in the Truman administration too.

Sometimes the speakers are mentioned behind the mask of a "authoritative source" or a "highly placed government official" or a "high military authority." Sometimes the writer leaves all that out and says what he says on his own.

The dinners are held with the idea that in this way newsmen can get out to the public information which government officials would not provide if the origin of it could be traced directly back to them.

That's the theory. Whether the net effect is good or bad is debatable.

The newsmen attending these dinners are giving an official a blank check to say what he pleases without fear of being held responsible, unless later identified, for what he wants to put across.

And what he wants to put across may sometimes be, without the newsmen realizing it, a personal or special point of view. Or he may want to grind an axe for the administration in office. In short, newsmen can be used to sound out "planted" stories.

And when flat statements are made by the reporter writing a news story—without identifying the individual who gave the information—the newspaper reader is left in the position of being told something whose worth he can't evaluate.

Conservation News

By JAMES R. SARGENT
Soil Conservation Service
Soil conservation to some people is just merely a couple of words one small and one large. But to all of us it is a definite effect on our everyday lives. Without top soil we would soon perish. In mentioning a few of the things derived from the soil, we find food falling in a prominent category. Without it we couldn't survive very long.

So if we expect to get something out of the soil we must conserve it and keep it in good fertility by replacing the elements taken out by the plants that we in turn use for our existence.

The primary method of keeping soil productive is keeping the top soil in place. Do not allow it to blow, wash or leach away. This is prevented by providing a cover crop of a building nature, such as clover and alfalfa, to hold the soil in place and proper fertilizing.

Soil is made by nature, taking many decades to build one inch of top soil. So let's practice conservation farming and provide protection for the top soil that we now have so that our future generations may use it.

Brando, Kelly Win Oscar Awards At Gala Presentation Last Nite

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD UP—"On the Waterfront" the movie that Hollywood almost turned down, today held eight Oscars—including Marlon Brando's first—to tie the all-time Academy Awards record.

The brutal, often-sadistic story of labor racketeering on New York's docks made a rout of the 17th annual awards presentation last night. The eight awards, plus one honorary plaque, equaled the record of "Gone With the Wind" in 1939.

Only Grace Kelly, the dowdy wife of "The Country Girl," was able to steal a smattering of the glory away from the hard-hitting drama of the longshoremen's unions.

The reserved Miss Kelly, with tears in her eyes, took home the best actress award. Even the honor could not shake her ladylike composure. When photographers asked her to kiss Brando on the cheek, she rebelled politely.

"I believe he should kiss me," Brando, with unrestrained pleasure, enthusiastically kissed Miss Kelly time after time while flash-bulbs popped.

Right up to awards time, it had been an unpredictable race for the top actress and actor awards. Bing Crosby, who played an alcoholic actor in "The Country Girl," was in the running against Brando, and Judy Garland was given a 50-50 chance of beating out Miss Kelly. Judy was the sentimental choice for her role in "A Star Is Born."

Last night's Brando's first visit to the Oscar festivities. He had been nominated three times before.

"I guess I should go to these things more often," he told a reporter. "I honestly thought Bing Crosby would win. There seemed to be such a profound well of sentiment in favor of both him and Judy Garland. I didn't think Grace and I stood a chance."

"For me it is a wonderful moment, and I shall cherish sincerely forever."

Miss Kelly said, "I am overwhelmed and grateful. I'm a very lucky girl."

Asked if she was nervous, the Philadelphia debutante dabbed at a tear and replied: "Naturally."

Miss Garland viewed the awards by television in a hospital where her son was born Tuesday. She said afterwards that she was disappointed when Miss Kelly won.

"After all, I was presented with my own special Oscar," she said in reference to the new baby. "I thought Grace Kelly deserved it. She did a magnificent job in 'The Country Girl.'"

Crosby, who apparently had a ball at the first Academy Award function he has attended in years, wasn't the least dismayed when he lost.

"I know all along Marlon would win it," he said, laughing. "And he deserved it too. I had honor enough just being nominated."

Bing attended the ceremonies in a set of tails and sported the only top hat seen. He escorted Kathie Grant, a young Columbia starlet whom he dates often. Quip-trading with actress Bob Hope, he was the entertainment highlight of the season's latest show.

"Waterfront" was named best picture of the year. It also received awards for best actor, film editing, art direction, cinematography, story and screenplay, best direction and best supporting actress. And it won a plaque for set decoration.

The winning movie was conceived by director Elia Kazan, writer Budd Schulberg and producer Sam Spiegel. But it was spread over by two major companies. Then Columbia volunteered to release it and it was produced for the comparatively small budget figure of $700,000.

Eva Marie Saint, who supplied the romantic interest to Brando's smoky pug in "Waterfront," was named best supporting actress for her first film role. She was named in maternity dress and exclaimed happily at New York's Center Theater.

"I'm so happy I may have my baby right here."

Remond O'Brien, the only nominee the forecasters agreed on, won the best supporting actor Oscar as the harried procuring press agent of "The Street Carriers."

In other awards, Will Disney made his final trip to the podium. He added two more Oscars this year, bringing his all-time total to 24.

"I know now why he always drives here in a truck," commented a friend.

"There Comes in the Morning" was named the best song and "The High and the Mighty" the best picture.

music score. This brought a satirical thank-you speech from Dimitri Tiomkin, who said: "I want to thank all my collaborators, Johann Strauss, Richard Strauss, Brahms, Beethoven, Mozart and George Gershwin."

The Academy, via an honorary award, partially rectified one of its most grievous oversights. It made a special award to Greta Garbo "for her series of luminous and unforgettable performances."

Miss Garbo, often acclaimed as the screen's greatest dramatic actress, never won an Oscar in her long career.

Passport Division Chief To Retire, Take Trip Abroad

By JANE EADS
WASHINGTON — Ruth B. Shipley, chief of the Passport Division of the U. S. State Department since 1945, will be retiring soon and plans to issue the necessary papers for her own next trip abroad after her retirement the last of April.

"I expect to wrap everything up in a bundle and leave it alone," Mrs. Shipley told me. "I've had a wonderful experience, wonderful associations, but I expect to seek a change of tempo, but not one of violence. I shall get another job."

Mrs. Shipley, who has made many trips abroad, plans to visit Spain in May. "And of course, I will go to Florence, Italy, I couldn't miss that," she mused. "I'm also planning to go to Constantinople."

Mrs. Shipley, who first entered government service at 18 as a clerk in the U. S. Patent Office in 1903, has been in charge of the formulation and confirmation of policy affecting American citizens on their entrance and departure from the United States and its territories.

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) says he's not a party man (cocktail party, that is), but he seldom disappoints any of the numerous parties he's attended.

Spanish Ambassador Jose Maria Arellano, just returned from a trip to Madrid, says he found a "beautiful but little known" portrait of George Washington hanging in the Royal Academy of San Fernando, which he is having sent to grace the walls of the newly redecorated embassy here. The portrait was done by an Italian artist named Perugino who was commissioned by the first Spanish ambassador to the United States and was painted during Washington's lifetime.

The new ambassador, who is eager to have Americans know more about the art and culture of his country, is completing preparations to have the work of the great Spanish artist, Goya, brought here for the first time. Now in the Prado Museum in Madrid, the exhibit will be shown here in April at the National Art Gallery.

REMOVE-AND-WASH BATHROOM CARPETING
Did you know that any home-maker can install her own wall-to-wall bathroom carpeting without calling in professional help — and can remove it in easy-to-handle sections that can be washed by machine?

Washable, preshrunk bathroom carpeting can be had by the yard, along with an instruction kit complete with cutting knife, measuring device, and pattern square. Once installed, 36-inch widths which are securely taped together can be "un-taped" and picked right up off the floor and dumped into the washer whenever necessary.

The cost isn't out of bounds either — just figure you'll spend about the same amount of money a dozen good bath towels would cost. Naturally, bathroom carpeting is made to take it — and shines on soap and water as any bathroom accessory should.

Latin Club Banquet Is Held In SHS Gym Tuesday Evening

By EVA SPEARS
No doubt you have the idea that slavery is an illegal and undemocratic custom. But on Tuesday night in the Seminole High School gym, all first year Latin Students were slaves to second year students, teachers, and other guests for a Roman banquet.

Around this annual banquet commemorating Caesar's conquest of Gaul, hung an air of the old Roman days when food was enjoyed to its fullest extent and the arts of sculpture were being to make impressions on the world.

To make an even more impressive ceremony the students and Mrs. Boyd Coleman, the Latin teacher, were dressed as Romans. Part of the program consisted of reclining jewelry, wreaths of flowers, reclining pillows, and low tables changed the SHS stage into a Roman banquet hall. For those who did not wish to recline there were tables on either side of the stage. Others were at a long, low table in the center.

These modern-day Romans enjoyed, as did those of old, their slaves had to carry out their slightest commands and wishes. A delicious three-course dinner was served by the slaves. The main course consisted of barbecued chicken a la farcy from the Roman's roasted grass hoppers, green beans, french-fried eggplant, and rolls. Fruits and other delicacies were served. Of course this was all eaten without silver, as only a Roman could do.

Caesar, portrayed by Al Stanley, and Brutus, Randall Robbins, conducted the entertainment supplied by the Freshmen. Nan Cushing was the beautiful Capurnia, Caesar's wife. R. T. Millwee and Mrs. Maxwell were two honored guests called upon to speak.

Following the banquet and after everyone was transported back to the modern world it was agreed that we all like the Roman way of doing things, but only for a night.

Nations Can Agree On U. S. Swim Suit
By DOROTHY ROE
There's one thing on which the nations of the world are in complete accord, says Louella Ballerina, of Portland, Ore.—the American bathing suit.

Head of a staff of nine designers turning out three million bathing suits a year, Mrs. Ballerina has been doing some extended globe-trotting lately, studying the swim fashions of the rest of the world. Her conclusion:

"No matter what language they speak or what their native styles may be for street wear, people of every country do their swimming in American style."

Louella was doing a business which grossed a million dollars a year on her own in Los Angeles designing casual fashions before she joined with the Jantzen bathing suit firm a couple of years ago.

Her first big designing success in her native California was the introduction of the Bulgarian peasant skirt for American casual wear.

TAMPA (AP)—For thousands of fans here on the west coast of Florida, the baseball season now has come and gone for another year and they can settle down to their fishing and their shuffleboard until the big league clubs come this way again.

If you want to know what is happening to a game which once was played in every town large enough to have a public water system, that is about the best way we know to tell you. Here in a rich, populous area which includes Tampa, Clearwater, St. Petersburg, Bradenton and Sarasota, baseball is dead and gone. There is talk of reviving the corpse, but nobody seems to take it very seriously.

Ironically, both this city and Clearwater have just dedicated modern new baseball parks which in their appointments equal anything in the major leagues. Yet neither was erected with any real thought of housing a local team. It is probable that neither ever will.

The locker rooms were constructed to specifications supplied by the clubs which use them for a month in the spring, the Chicago White Sox and the Philadelphia Phils. The distances of the fences were even made to match as closely as possible those in the Sox's and Phils' home parks.

The only thought, in other words, was to make sure that the big leaguers will be happy and will continue to come this way. There was no thought of helping minor league ball to survive.

There was a time before Branch Rickey dreamed up the farm system when an independent owner could have operated in this city and the others named above and gone along making himself a comfortable bit of money year after year, largely through the sale of the better players he produced in the big leagues. He had something they wanted, he could wait for the highest bid.

The farm system has, of course, corrected that, and the few independent owners who have survived the tentacles of the big fellows are harassed individuals, working at a terrific disadvantage against the other clubs in their leagues which just now are receiving reinforcements from the mother teams by every bus and train.

Shantz Suffers No Ill Effects After Being Hit

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—Bobby Shantz, the Kansas City Athletics' little southpaw, apparently suffered no ill effects from being struck in the head by a batted ball.

He was released from the hospital yesterday and will be able to start throwing again tomorrow. He was struck while pitching in an exhibition game against Pittsburgh Tuesday.

The A's leave tonight for Savannah, Ga., where they resume their exhibition schedule against Savannah of the South Atlantic League.

AMHERST WINS
WINTER PARK (AP)—Amherst scored seven times in the first four innings off Rollins' Don Tauscher and won yesterday's baseball game 8-3. Gerry Ayres allowed Rollins only five hits.

Proceeds To Go To Hospital Fund

Tonight is Fred Ganas Appreciation Night.

A top-notch baseball game is on tap, and pre-game exercises will include playing of selections by the Seminole High School band.

Meeting in the game at 8 o'clock will be the Richmond Virginians and the Minneapolis Millers. All proceeds from the game, as well as from concessions, will go to the Ganas hospital fund.

Ed Higgins, representing the Elks Lodge, is general chairman of Appreciation Night. Other participating organizations include the Lions, Kiwanis and Rotary clubs and the Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Tickets may be obtained from members of the organizations or at Jim Spencer's Angel's Eat Shack, the Smoke House, McReynolds' Drug Store, H. B. Owen's Service Station, Rountilist & Anderson Drug Store, Touchton Drug Co., B. L. Perkins Men's Store, and Robson Sporting Goods.

Anyone wishing to contribute to the fund may send donations to the Elks Club or The Sanford Herald.

W. Palm Beach May Be 8th Club In State League

WEST PALM BEACH (AP)—The eighth club in the Class D Florida State League this season may be West Palm Beach.

Paternal C. Reese, president of the Indians, said last night that Rummy Mick of Tampa, formerly in the New York Yankee farm system, may be manager.

"We realize it's very late to be organizing a team to start play in two weeks but I believe it can be done," Reese said.

He added he had contacted "baseball people" about player help and said deals from the club of last season will be paid off before the new season opens.

Earlier in the day, Tampa enthusiasts announced they had abandoned plans to raise funds to field a team.

Other teams in the FSL are Orlando, Daytona Beach, Cocoa, Sanford, Gainesville, Lakeland and St. Petersburg.

Chicago, N. Y. Intercity Bouts To Open Tonight

CHICAGO (AP)—The nation's best amateur boxers will mix it up tonight at Chicago Stadium in the 28th annual Intercity bouts between Chicago and New York.

The big show is expected to draw 18,000 fans. It climaxes more than three months of city and sectional tournaments in 48 states and Cuba and will bring together the best available 16 amateurs from an original field of 25,000.

New York will be trying for an unprecedented second straight team victory in the series, having won 5 matches to 3 in last year's intercity bouts.

The Gotham battlers, however, lag far behind in the rivalry, having won only six times while Chicago has piled up 14 triumphs. There have been seven ties.

Chicago's chances for a 1955 team crown may have been lessened by the loss of two outstanding team members, Jess Bowdry, St. Louis 160 pound winner of Chicago's Tournament of Champions, was dismissed from the squad for disciplinary reasons. Dick Wall of Idabel, Okla., the 147-pound titlist, had to pass up the intercity competition because of studies at the University of Oklahoma.

Eight preliminary fights, starting at 8:30 p. m. EST, will be followed by the championship competition. Team points are awarded only in the title fights.

Youth Movement Set To Pay Off For Detroit Club

By JACK HAND
LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Bucky Harris takes over a "coming" ball club at Detroit where a youth movement is about ready to pay off in first division dividends.

Shortstop Harvey Kuenn, outfielders Al Kaline and Bill Tuttle and catcher Frank Louse already have made the grade. Harris thinks J. W. Porter will make it in left field and counts on solid pitching help from a crop of hard-throwing rookies.

"Everybody seems to think it's between Boston and us for fourth place," said Harris. "I think we've got a good chance of beating out Boston and, if Chicago slubs its toe, we could move up into third."

"We're coming with a flock of good kids and some fine prospects in the organization. Maybe in two or three years it will be us instead of Cleveland or New York that they'll be picking to win the pennant."

"If Ferris Pain is sound, our infield will be all right. I would like to come up with a good, solid utility infielder and the front office is trying to buy one. As it is now, we've just got to hope nobody gets hurt."

Harris is taking his second whirl managing Detroit where he was boss man from 1929 through 1933. He left to go to Boston in '34, the year the Tigers won the first of two pennants under Mickey Cochrane. When Harris was cut loose by Washington last fall, owner Spike Briggs grabbed him as a replacement for Freddie Hutchinson.

Once again Harris finds himself with a young club, well along in the rebuilding process, and a front office that is determined to go all the way.

"I've got five kid pitchers, who can really throw hard," said Harris. "All of them won't make the jump from the minors this year, of course, but I don't see how they all can miss I may go North with as many as 15 pitchers."

The five Harris mentioned were Frank Lary (15-11 at Buffalo), Bill Fooks (7-5 at Buffalo), Duane Moss (11-3 at Wilkes-Barre and 7-4 at Buffalo), Paul Foytack (4-7 at Buffalo) and Bill (Bud) Black, just back from the Army after losing only one game in two years at Ft. Leonard Wood in Missouri.

Intercollegiate Tourney Begins

CORAL GABLES (AP)—More than 50 freshmen representing six Florida colleges tee off today in the State Intercollegiate Golf Tournament at the Coral Gables Municipal course.

Both a team and individual champion will be crowned in the 72-hole medal play tournament with 18 holes today, 36 tomorrow and the final 18 on Saturday.

The University of Miami is host. Others competing include the University of Florida, defending champion; Rollins College, Florida State University, Stetson University and Florida Southern College.

Heading the University of Florida team is Pat Schwab, who won the crown last year with 284 for 72 holes.

Pitcher Gene Conley is the tallest and heaviest player on the Milwaukee roster. He is 6 feet 8 inches and weighs 225.

Yanks Sell 3 To Athletics

Some folks think the New York Yankees blew their chance for a sixth straight American League pennant last year when they sold Vic Raschi, star right-handed pitcher, to the St. Louis Cardinals before the season opened.

It's hardly likely that George Weiss, the Yankees' general manager, will be criticized for his latest deal—the sale yesterday "in excess of $50,000" for three players to the Kansas City Athletics.

Two of the players not only have dubious futures, but dubious pasts as well. It was a straight cash transaction.

The deal sent veteran Ewell Blackwell, reliever Tom Gorman and first baseman Dick Kryhoski to the Kansas City Athletics. Blackwell, now 33, established himself as the right-handed "whip" in 1950-51 with Cincinnati. But he's had his trouble since. The Yankees just put him back on the active list—he voluntarily retired last spring with a sore arm—but he appeared destined for a release.

Gorman, 29, has been up and down in the Yanks' system since 1946. He had a 10-7 record in three tries with the Bombers. Kryhoski, 30, has been known to swat a ball out of the park, but at other times he's hit around .260.

While the deal was being settled, the Yankees were involved in their final Florida game of the spring. It was an atrocious thing, finally ending in a 10-10 tie with the Philadelphia Phillies after 15 innings. Johnny Kucks, the Yankees' bright rookie pitcher, and Jim Owens, the Phils' promising young hurler, were slapped around for the first time in the exhibition trials.

Baltimore and Pittsburgh split a double-header. The Orioles made off with the first game, despite only three hits, as Hook Evers homered with a man on for a 3-1 decision. Pittsburgh got the nightcap 2-0, with rookie southpaw Ford Konno, Ohio State's diminutive Hawaiian, has passed up defense of the strength-sapping 1500-meter championship he won last year, aiming his sights instead on retaining his 220 and 440-yard freestyle crowns.

Swimming Event Showdown Looms

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Two of the world's great freestylers were headed for a showdown today as the National AAU swimming championships open at the Yale Pool.

Ford Konno, Ohio State's diminutive Hawaiian, has passed up defense of the strength-sapping 1500-meter championship he won last year, aiming his sights instead on retaining his 220 and 440-yard freestyle crowns.

Azalea Tourney Gets Under Way

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—Golfers and flowers vied for attention today as the seventh annual Azalea Open, a $12,500 tournament, got under way.

The city's million azalea blossoms, hit by a severe weekend cold wave, were not at their normal peak of beauty, but the sponsoring Wilmington Athletic Assn. was pleased by the golf prospects after corraling its finest batch of talent in the tournament's 7-year history.

The 4-day, 72-hole chase for top money of $2,200 listed most of the active tournament stars, nearing the end of their winter grind which began in Miami last December.

Even little Bob Toki is here seeking to repeat his 1954 Azalea triumph when his 273 led the field by three shots. Toki, last year's No. 1 money man, has been on an almost exclusive exhibition diet since he won the world championship tournament last summer. But he's here to tighten his game for next week's Augusta, Ga., Masters as is Lloyd Mangrum, hark in competition after a spell of illness.

They'll have their hands full with the competitively sharp Mike Souchak, Gene Littler and Tommy Bolt, each a double winner this season, as well as Rhelly Mayfield, Bob Rosburg and Eric Monti, all of whom have collected winner's checks during the tour.

Pressing them are Ted Kroil, Johnny Palmer, Fred Haas and Billy Maxwell who, although lacking a first place finish, rank with the leading coin collectors.

Three National Open champs, Ed Furgal of the U. S.; Pat Fletcher of Canada and Australian Peter Thomson, the British titlist, also lead class to the field of about 150.

The field will be shaved to the low 60 pros and ties and 10 amateurs after tomorrow's second round.

Twins Convention Planned By Town

OSIRSCHOT, Netherlands (AP)—This town of 7,750 population, including 43 sets of twins—is afraid of being forgotten when a new main highway bypasses it this year or next.

In order to keep on the map the town is holding a European congress for twins May 19-20. Thus far 300 sets of twins have said they will participate and 1,000 are hoped for.

A European convention of twins is planned in Osirschot every two years. Prizes will be awarded the best-natured twins, the oldest, the most musical—and to the pair least resembling each other.

PEACH ELIMINATION SHOULD HELP GRAPEFRUIT LAKELAND—Florida Citrus Mutual says sales and prices of Florida grapefruit should be helped by the freeze damage to peaches.

"The elimination of peaches from the market should definitely strengthen the fresh grapefruit price picture from here on out," said Robert W. Rutledge, general manager of the cooperative. "Processed grapefruit, particularly sections, also should be more in demand."

A-Bomb Survivors Produce Children Without Ill Signs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Japanese who lived through the hottest part of the atom bombing of Hiroshima have produced children who show no significant signs of hereditary ill effects after 10 years, say medical investigators.

Among offspring of 185 women who were pregnant and were in the area closest to ground zero only eight have shown signs of radiation injury, said Dr. Robert H. Holmes, director of the U.S. Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission.

The affected youngsters have heads slightly smaller than average and are somewhat mentally retarded. But thus far there is no significant evidence that they or any of the youngsters have been damaged genetically, Dr. Holmes reported.

Adult survivors in the hot zone, an area of 2,000 meters radius directly beneath the bomb target center, developed 16 times as much leukemia, a cancerlike condition of the blood, as did un-radiated Japanese, but even these added up to only 44 cases.

Eyes of radiated adults suffered more. Cataractlike spots have been found in 41 per cent of the 6,000 individuals in the bomb commission's study group, as against only 8 per cent in nonexposed Japanese. No case of blindness has been found.

Some of the more heavily radiated adults became temporarily infertile but regained their ability to produce children.

Not enough time has passed to tell definitely what the long-range effects of the bomb will be, Dr. Holmes said.

The report was made Tuesday night to a nationwide television audience in a film recording made by a drug firm with the cooperation of the bomb commission and the Atomic Energy Commission.

TWO AIRMEN DEMONSTRATE the flight weight of the Air Force Falcon, smallest guided missile now in production for the United States. At bottom, the Falcon is shown in action as the supersonic rocket leaves a smoke trail (left) after a downed QB-17 bomber. Equipped with its own power plant, the Falcon is fired from an intercepter plane by an automatic electronic control system, locked on the enemy by radar. The missile's guidance mechanism then directs it to a hit on a moving target, such as the QB-17 (right). The Falcon has also been tested successfully on jet aircraft. (International)

News Of Men In Service

NORFOLK, VA. — Charles A. Johnson, machinist's mate first class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Johnson of Sanford, and husband of the former Miss Kay F. Bass of Kistimnee, arrived here March 21 aboard the landing ship dock USS Casa Grande, after participating for the past two months in Atlantic Fleet amphibious training exercises in the Caribbean.

Under realistic battle conditions calling for defense procedures against submarine, aircraft and atomic attack, the Casa Grande transported Marines to the Caribbean area and made three assault landings on the island of Vieques, Puerto Rico.

Nashua Classed With Citation

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Arcore, the nation's No. 1 stakes jockey, thinks Nashua is capable of becoming as great a horse as Citation—maybe even greater.

But, said Arcore today, the future book favorite for the Kentucky Derby still has to prove it, and he would rather withhold the superlatives until he sees what the Belair stud beauty does in the Derby and the other triple crown classics.

"Certainly, I've got to be awfully high on this dude, but it's a little premature to try comparing him with Citation. We know what Citation could do. He would smother his field."

"Now this Nashua, he could be anything—nobody can tell what the future will bring. He's not as good

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Mrs. Helen Saint has an old upright piano for sale. The asking price is $55,000. Sounds like a lot of money. She has been advised to insure it for "not less than $75,000."

U. N. Employees Work Desperately To Meet April 15

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — John Doe is one of the 1,700 Americans employed by the United Nations. Like other Americans, he is trying to get his income tax returns in the mail by April 15. But there's a difference. Doe's tax is not simply his own problem. It's an international sore spot.

Since 1948 U.N. members have up to 10% million dollars to reimburse U.N. employees for taxes. Virtually 100 per cent of this went to Americans, although they make up only about half the secretariat. Other countries object to being assessed for United States taxes.

The difficulties began when the first General Assembly called on member nations to exempt U.N. officials from national taxation. Most agreed. The United States has refused, on the ground that such exemption is contrary to national policy. In practice, the United States is the only country actually taxing its U.N. employees.

On the assumption that all countries would approve the exemption, the U.N. fixed salaries in the beginning on a tax-free basis. The U.N. in addition reimbursed Americans for their tax payments. Then there were complaints that this created separate standards. If John Doe got a tax-free salary of $10,000 and his colleague Ivanov got a flat $10,000, the U.N. had to put up perhaps $2,000 for Doe while paying Ivanov $10,000.

To avoid individual inequalities, the U.N. adopted a system of staff assessments. This works something like a withholding tax. It applies to all members of the secretariat.

It is based on a sliding scale, depending upon salary level. So as not to reduce the net take-home pay of any workers, the U.N. created a new larger salary—called the gross salary. It takes the withholdings from that. They go into a miscellaneous fund. From that the U.N. reimburses American employees for their tax payments. Whatever is left after the reimbursements goes into U.N. general funds. The non-Americans never hear of their withholdings again.

This plan, effective in 1949, achieved its main purpose of eliminating individual inequalities. There remains, however, the problem of assessing non-American governments to pay a share of the new salary levels. The U.N. Advisory Committee of Budgetary Matters estimates that the 58 U.N. members other than the United States must pay more than a million dollars to take care of American tax reimbursements for 1954.

As he will be later—he won't level out and do his best—just enough to win.

Arcore pointed out that last August when Nashua defeated Summer Tan by only a neck in the should have won easily. Nashua Hoopful Stakes at Saratoga, he beat the same colt by a scant head in the Belmont Futurity.

By the end of 4 1/2 years, the ranch was in fine shape. When an airline heiress offered to buy it, Edna put a price three times what she paid for it. To her amazement, it was accepted.

After a long European vacation, Edna figured she had learned enough about people and returned to her acting career. She played Esther Williams' sidekick in "Easy to Love" and has appeared in 20 "Topper" TV films.

Information For Veterans

Here are authoritative answers from the Veterans Administration to four questions of interest to former servicemen and their families:

Q. I mailed VA a letter applying for disability compensation, and VA sent me a form to be filled out. Since I have been out of service more than a year, my compensation can be effective only to the date I applied. Which date will that be—the date of my letter or the date of my formal application?

A. If your claim is approved, your compensation payments may date back to the date your letter was received by VA.

Q. I am studying for a graduate degree under the Korean GI Bill. I have to satisfy a foreign language requirement, but my school does not offer foreign language courses. May I take such a course in a different school?

A. Yes, provided your school does three things: (1) certifies to VA that you are a graduate student; (2) designates the subject you are to take at the second school, and (3) agrees to allow full credit for your language course in partial fulfillment of your degree program.

O. I intend to file a claim for a pension, based on the death of my husband, a World War I veteran. Is there any deadline for applying?

A. There is no deadline for applying for a death pension. However, if you apply within one year of your husband's death, the payments may be made retroactive to the day following his death. If you wait longer than one year, the payments are effective as of the date you filed your application.

Q. I am a World War II veteran and I have gone back on active duty. My National Service Life Insurance premiums are being waived while I am in uniform. Even though I am not paying premiums, will I collect dividends on my policy?

A. No. During the period of war-

QUESTION: I carry Medical Payments coverage with my automobile insurance and I would like to know whether there is any limit per person or per accident in that insurance.

ANSWER: The limit of Medical Payments coverage for each person is set by you when you buy the insurance. There usually is no limit set for any one accident. Have a good insurance agent check your policy and give you the exact figures.

"If you'll address your own insurance questions to the office, we'll try to give you the correct answers and there will be no charge or obligation of any kind."
