years,

could have a second child. They considered adoption, but in February choose fertility treatments instead.

The results were sooner than they expected.

Tont found out in April she was pregnant.

A month later, she was told to expect twins.

Make that triplets.

In June, she was told she would have quadruplets.

"This was very overwhelming," Toni Murphy said Friday. "All we wanted was one healthy baby. We prayed for one healthy baby. And here is God giving us

The odds against quads is high. Of 4,442 births in Seminole County in 1997, there were 141 sets of twins, 18 triplets and no quadruplets. In the whole state of Florida there were only two quadruplet births a year ago.

Because Tont Murphy's pregnancy - or any multiple birth - is considered high-risk, some have suggested she should have the bables aborted.

"No way" Murphy told these advisors, enthused her four babies are going to be born Nov. 11 - Veteran's Day.

"They're girls - four girls," she said. "We've already got names -Erin Nicole, Casey Rence, Kelly Christine and Rachel Michelle."

A wisp of a woman at 5foot-2 who weighed 115 pounds before her pregnancy, Murphy is determined to have the faith and courage to endure. Her physician would like her to gain 75 pounds. She's gained 26. "Make that 26 1/2 pounds," Murphy

Doctors had to hospitalize her recently because of severe rib pain from where two of unborn bables are positioned. Murphy is home now, uncomfortable but grateful the babies are growing and that they have no defects.

"Someone is looking out for us," Murphy said. "Whenever we've felt it was too overwhelming, there's been help." She and Chief Machinist's Mate Michael Murphy rent a three-bedroom home in Oviedo. They have a 12year-old daughter, Lyn. Her birthday was Friday.

"We go to All Souls Catholic Church," Toni Murphy said, "and I had heard Father Al talk about the Sanford Crisis Pregnancy Center. I was afraid to go in and must have driven past the place six times. I kept thinking the center was mainly for young single mothers with no where to turn."

Morris to hop aboard the synergy express

By Russ White HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - When Seminole County Commisstoner Chairman Randy Morris went to Portland, Ore., this month, he was confident he knew a great deal about transportation and light rail.

After some initial meetings and conversations at an event known as Rail-Volution '98, Morris realized his education was just beginning.

Morris and a delegation of officials from the Metro Orlando region were trying to do the groundwork for a light rail system that eventually will extend from Volusta/Seminole counties to Orange County. They were among 1,050 attendees at the Radi-Volution.

The purpose of the event was to have the attendees engage in lively debate, conjure solutions to livability issues, discuss the synergy that can happen when transit and land use walk hand in hand.

This synergy is what Morris contends is needed in the Metro Orlando region. A southem light rail route from Orlando to the attractions is going to be the first happening. The northern route won't be for 10 or more years, Morris said.

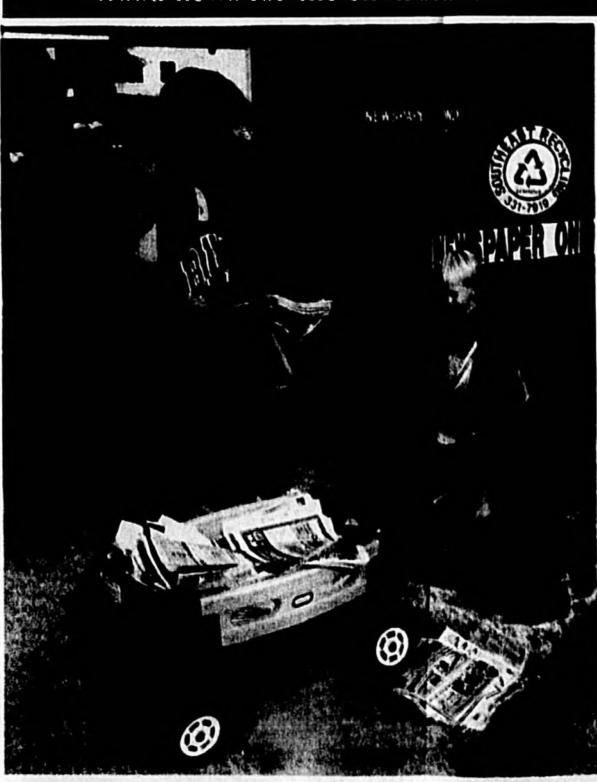

"We're going to be the seeond phase of the program." how many similarities there are with our region and Portland, Oregon.

They've build the model light rail system," Morris said. To ser this thing, to see the people using it is actually intimidating. They built the first part 10 years ago, and they've. just added a western route 10 years later,"

One day, Morris said, restdents of the entire Metro Orlando region would travel on a light rail system like the one in Portland. We've got a long way to go - a lot of things to work out. We don't pretend to have the answers and we don't have Please see Rail, Page SA

Good news for the environment

According to Seminole County Solid Waste Division, U.S. residents use 65 million tons of paper per year, which requires 1.4 billion trees to be harvested to meet current needs. Recycling newspaper goes a long way toward easing the need for raw trees in paper production. And, it can make money for organizations such as the Idyllewilde Elementary School PTA. Cindy Pate is the recycling coordinator for the school's PTA and last week she got a little help from her 2-year-old son Travis, as she hauled a load of newspapers to the school's dumpster. The school has been involved in recycling education for years, said Pale. Last year, the PTA earned about $800 on the program. Some of the money goes back to the classrooms, as an incentive to recycle even more newspaper. For more on the award-winning recycling program run by the county, please see Page 1C.

Park group reports fund-raising efforts a surprising success

By Maria Orem HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - Supporters of the hotel/conference center at Fort Mellon Park are making a concentrated effort to luform residents of the facts before they go to the polls in November.

Lon Howell, chartman of the Committee to Promote the Conference Center, reported, so far, $41,500 in contributions from businesses and citizens to his group's political committee.

"We're ecstatte over this," Howell said, adding that the money continues to come in to support the project. "We had no idea this kind of money would come in."

City Commissioners last year approved conceptual plans for the hotel project as proposed by PRA Development Corporation of Connecticut. All but about six acres of the park would become part of that project with $2 to $3 million being earmarked for park improvements, which include a boardwalk and fishing piers. In response to the Society For the Preservation of Fort Mellon Park. a group that opposes the site plan, the city decided to put the issue to the voters on a referendum. Howell said he was encouraged by the response from residents, who want to see the project come to fruition. "We have a mayor and a city commission that are very progressive and want to do something positive for the city and that's what we want," he said. The hotel complex and the improved park will blend into the historical ambiance of the city and also contribute to the local economy, he said. An information packet, available through the city manager's office, should help citizens separate facts from rumors, which have been circulating, he said.

"I think the city is doing a great job trying to get the truth out," Howell said.

Howell said his group, which held a raily to raise funds in August, will make a concentrated effort to 'get the facts out" through matters, signs, and advertising.

Get up early and have a breakfast with the birds

By Shari Brodie HERALD FEATURE EDITOR

LONGWOOD - There are plenty of cliches that are appropriate to the event. "The early bird gets the worm" and "getting up that early is for the birds" are the first two that come to mind. But Lorne Malo, an environmental specialist with the St. Johns River Water Management District, says if you join him for breakfast on Oct. 4. you'll likely see "loads and loads of songbirds" and not too Malo will lead a hike through Seminole County's Soldiers Creek Park, an activity sponsored by the Friends of Environmental Studies Center.

The first community activity of the newly-formed support group, "A Breakfast with the Birds" begins at 7:30 a.m. and includes a continental breakfast after Malo's hike. The first two weeks of October is the peak time for migrating songbirds to be seen in this area.

Flying down from Canada, northern New England and the Appalachian Mountains, the songbirds feed and rest in the lower canopy, shrubs and undergrowth. These birds are easy for birdwatchers to spot. with or without binoculars. Pieses ses Birds, Page SA

Zoo closed

SANFORD - The Central Florida Zoological Park was closed Saturday but was scheduled to reopen Sunday.

Zoo officials announced the closing Friday, in anticipation of bad weather. This prudent measure will provide staff the opportunity to address anything that may occur overnight," said spokesperson Andrea Farmer. "Also, being an outdoor facility, little or no visitation is expected due to anticipated heavy rain fall."

Precautionary measures were taken to ensure the safety of the zoo's animal collection, and den enclosures are constructed to provide a safe environment.

Andrea Krazeise, the director of the center, was pleased Murphy stopped. The fact she refused to abort any of the babies says a lot about her and her family," Krazeise said.

The Murphys aren't dirt poor but neither are they wealthy. Tont was going to work longer but because of the quadruplets she was forced to leave her nursing job much earlier. Bills are piling up, and and it's going to take four times as much baby formula and diapers for the babies.

"We know there are people out there who are much worse off they we are, so we're trying to keep that in mind as we deal with new challenges," Murphy said.

The real squeeze will occur in February when Michael Murphy reports for sea duty on the U.S.S. Dallas. That's when the Murphy girls will be on their own. "Not entirely," Tont said, "God will be with

Allegedly during the argument the defendant punched the victim several times. It wasn't until a few moments later, the victim told Seminole County deputies. that he realized he'd been stabbed. ## Hotels to accommodate critters during the storm

By Vicki Belluccia HERALD STAFF WRITER

It's raining cats and dogs down in the southern parts of the state.

And people are heading this way with their pets, hoping to find a place to stay. Around Central Florida, some hotels and most shelters, however. are not accepting critters along with people.

Most hotels in Seminole County are more accepting of the animals than they have been in other locations.

The Humane Society of the United States has called on hotels and motels to try to be more pet-friendly during this crisis and to accept those animals which accompany their humans on the trek out of the areas affected by Hurricane Georges.

A representative of the HSUS has commended Florida hotels for their acceptance of peta during disasters in the past and he has asked that they again show the same compassion.

We know that many hotels and motels in Florida have welcomed people with pets, regardless of their usual pet policies during times of disaster," said Christ Champine, HSUS director of disaster services.

Emergency shelters run by the county and the American Red Cross are not allowed to accept pets, but a shelter set up at Sanlando United Methodist Church in Longwood will accept pets. The HSUS wants to encourage people not to abandon their pets, which would put the animals' lives at risk during a hurricane. Neither do they want people to put their own lives in danger by staying at home with their pets. Henry Danish, general manager of the Homewood Suites Hotel in Lake Mary, said they are welcoming most pets in their facility with no additional charge during the evacuation period.

We want to make this unfortunate situation as comfortable as possible for the people who come to us," Danish said.

He said dogs, cats, birds and even snakes would be acceptable guests in their rooms during this time. Large farm animals will, unfortunately, not be welcomed so readily there.

Terry White of the Marina Hotel said pets are welcome to stay with their people for an additional $20 fee. "We want people to be able to bring their pets with them," they said.

Unfortunately for those still on the road with furry, scaled or feathery friends, there are few hotels rooms available for man or beast in Seminole County. County tourism representatives estimated on Thursday there were fewer than 200 hotel rooms still available.

Most of those rooms probably filled up by now with more evacuees arriving from the coast every hour.

We're all filled up through the weekend," Danish said. There are no rooms left here or much of anywhere."

Some of the birds he expects to see are gray catbirds, veeries, palm warblers, prairie warblers, black-throated blue warbler, northern waterthrush, Swainson's thrush, Northern parula, American redstarts, blackpoll warblers, common yellowthroats, white-eyed and red-eyed vireos and the enpidonax flycatcher.

Malo said there is a wide varicty of resident birds to be found in and around the park and Lake Jesup. These include pileated woodpeckers, barred owls, red-shouldered hawk, white ibis, great blue heron, green heron, the common moorhen, ospreys and bald ea-

There are really a lot of possibilities," Malo said. Hope for cooler weather, Malo said. Birds like to fly with a cold front. "If the weather's good, we should have a decent showing." Participants are encouraged to wear long pants and closed-toe shoes. The cost is $6 for adults and $4 for children ages 6 to 14.

This is the first activity of the group which hopes to expand the reach of the ESC.

A cooperative effort between the Board of County Commissioners and the public school system, Soldiers Creek Park and Spring Hammock Preserve is open to the public year-

Every year, more than 11,630 students, teachers and parent chaperones tour the ESC, which includes the Natural History Museum, and hike the interpretive trail. The highlight of every student's fifth grade year is a chance to slog through the famous Mud Walk.

The friends group formed to raise awareness of the ESC. which would like to open some of its programs to families. The Natural History Museum Is open only during school hours and is usually booked with student tours. To open at hours convenient for family use would mean an expanded budget, ESC officials said.

The group hopes to mise the money through corporate donations, grants and fundraising activities such as, "A Breakfast with the Birds," so that staff can be available and facilities can be expanded.

Advanced registration for the breakfast is required. For rescryations, call the Environmental Center at (407) 320-0467 or 682-7811.

The Environmental Studies Center is located at 2985 Osprey Trail, Longwood.

A nature-friendly sign points the way to the Environmental Studies Center, where 'A Breakfast with the Birds' will be held Oct. 4.

No way to treat these women

When drawn with taste and integrity, political cartoons are freasures of journalism. Most major newspapers have two or more fine cartoonists whose work enhances the editorial content et a publication.

On Sundays, the New York Times runs a portfolio of cartoons from other newspapers in its Week in Review Section. This past Sunday it can one that was neither tasteful nor appropriate. It was lifted from Jeff Danziger of the Los Angeles Times

Danziger's idea of a laugh was picturing Hillary and Chelsea Clinton sitting on a bench, talking about the family's wees. "Of course. I could have left your father back during the Gemiller-Flowers thing, but where would we be now?" Mrs. Clinton asked her daughter (who looks frightened to death). Neither figure is

It's a shame the Los Angeles Times would give an inch of space to this drivel, and a crime the New York Dines would reprint it. Take all the shots at the president for his sins but why bring Mrs. Clinton and Chelsea into the fray? Cheap shots like this shouldn't get by the editorial page editor.

The White House has become a big joke, of course, Leno and Letterman are having a field day each night. Bill Maher on Polittcally Incorrect has been more irreverent than ever but neither be or the late show guys have resorted to tasteless jokes about the Clinton women. They've got enough with Bill and Monica and

Some office managers have banned Clinton jokes or chatter at the workplace, which sounds like a good idea. Anyone needing this type of amusement can get it somewhere else - on TV or the Internet. Whatever.

We suggest that everyone keeps his or her comments fasteful. A Nickelodeon survey of kids from 8 to 14 indicates that more than 60 percent are aware of the White House scandal. Only 17 percent were aware of the Mark McGwire-Sammy Sosa home runcompetition. That means these children probably are funed into the jokes and have seen some of the newspaper cartoons. Some might even being drawing their own.

And that's scary.

Revival of bigotry

As we approach another century mark, it is frightening to realize that we in Seminole County are experiencing a revival of bigotry that is threatening to permeate our county government. The subject that is provoking this attack is adult entertainment, specifically mide dancing. It is easy to get lost debating the controversial way that some may not feel regarding the subject of adult entertainment. We all hold personal views both for and against numerous matters that either attack or embrace, what we feel is morally acceptable. To allow such an emotional charged battle to land on the stage of local government is a recipe for political and societal upheaval.

Adult entertainment unequivocally falls into the category of taste and choice. Like it or not, support it not, indulge in it or not, it still boils down to a matter of preference. There are some that feel that. in order to save society, the choice must be denied, the temptation removed. However, we are too diverse of a community to homogenize everyone's personal taste, in addition, that type of a solution places our most treasured freedoms in jeopardy. As adults, if we allow the right of choice to be taken away, we subject ourselves to a possible repeat of the same assault on another personal freedom in the future.

We have struggled too hard in this country to maintain the personal freedoms that allow us to grow as individuals. If you doubt that, ask anyone that has been denied their freedom, regardless of the circumstances. Frequently, we are confronted by those who feel they know best. They plead with emotions to convince whoever they can to surrender their personal rights for the good of all-so we can all be protected. However, we must revive the pain from the past to remember that just a few short decades ago, the South was a breeding ground for self anointed supertority. We must commit not to allow the revival of that old ignorant mindset that we struggled so hard to overcome. Show this community that Seminole County welcomes and protects diverse interests and personal freedoms. Mary Wilkin

Presidential scandal damages entire country

BOSTON-It was the most surreal of Mondays.

On the world stage the prestdent of the United States was speaking about the petils of terrorism. On the television set, he was being asked to define sexual relations.

At the United Nations, a July of international peers gave Chinion a standing ovation On videotape, a grand jury demanded to know "Did she or did she not profess her love to you in these cards and letters?"

In millions of offices, cars, homes, the drone of testimony ran for four hours. Unedited, unexpurgated, a background static to everyday life.

As Americans put the wash in the machine or went down the hall for coffee, they could look up just in time to hear him being quizzed under oath about breasts touched or kissed, under or over clothing.

Are we supposed to get used to this endless barrage that noone seems able or willing to conclude? Up in the morning, out on the job, any news about oral sex today?

Earlier the grand pirors had bonded with Monica Lewinsky, extending a comforting hand to the tearful 25 year-old.

ELLEN GOODMAN Syndicated Columnist Boston Globe

There was enough in this video tape to satisfy those who regard the whole matter as an unconscionable invasion of privacy: "Mr. President, if there is a semen stain belonging to you on a dress of Ms. Lewinsky's how would you explain that?"

And there was more than enough in her transcribed words and his televised words to prove that in some perverse way they knew the end. Monteasensed that he had a Saturday night personality and Sunday morning personality. Bill knew "she would talk about this. She would have to. She couldn't help it. It was, it was a part of her psyche."

But these four hours were not enough to change the polling numbers that seem frozen by the public's equally balanced dismay at Clinton's behavior and Ken Starr's behavlor, by appalling private acts and the appalling invasion of privacy.

The one thing that seems to be nearly universal in the world beyond the Beltway is the desire to be done with this scandal.

But in Washington, public opinion still comes second to partisan opinion. Despite all the morning after media talk of a deal, in the Republican Congress, there is a more powerful desire to keep the president weak, the campaign issue strong, than to close the cur-

What will happen now as the public's destre for an end-any end--meets Congress' desire to destroy the administration? Is this a calculated strategy that sooner or later our desire for finality twill have the public clamoring for Clinton's head? As the only way out?

Count me among the deeply disappointed, the folks who don't want to look Bill Clinton in the eye, don't want to be in the same room with him anymore. At best, this damaged man will imp through the next two years

Maybe the country would be better off-tomorrow-if he resigned.

But I'm convinced the country would be worse off-the day after tomorrow or the decade after tomorrow-if an elected president were forced out by the prosecutors of private behaytor.

Do we want a government to be overthrown by those dead set on proving that Clinton lied whether he "physical contact with those areas of the body with the specific intent to arouse or graf-Ify"? In this bizarre sexual revolution, I still have the grimfeeling that we are approaching the guillotine phase.

All killing is wrong no matter how it is done

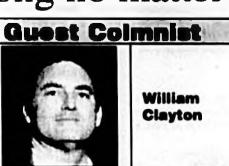

He way lying there, in pain, not far from the portal of death. His breathing was labored and his vital signs, those indicators of life that we in the health care field monitor so diligently, while steady; were very weak. He was only 21 years old and already a cancer both rare and victous was eating away at the very marrow of his life. He was dying and there was nothing I nor anyone else could do about it. I was his nurse and his eyes begged for the relief that I could provide. Just a little too much of the right drug and he would slip off into the eternal sleep where there would be no more pain and no more worry. No one would ever know. It would be so easy and he was begging me for the relief that only 1 could give. Yet in spite of his pleas and the desire to help case his suffering, I did nothing.

Legally it is a violation of all civilized codes of law to take the life of another no matter what the reason. To do so with willful intent is called murder with premeditation; or in our society murder in the first degree. It is by far the most belnous of crimes against man and is universally condemned in our society. So much so, that the penalty for such a crime is death itself for the perpetrator. To be sure, this was one of the overriding considerations that was weighing on my decision at the time: but as I have had time to reflect on that experience, I have found a deeper reasoning other than the law or the social stigma attached to such acts, to not help him slip into that great beyond.

Using the sanctity of life as an argument runs into trouble in our society. An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth mentality seems to run through us all. It would seem sometimes that we have not evolved much at all on the social scale. I understand this thought process and I would be remiss if I did not admit to having those same feelings. When I have been struck I have wanted to strike back. I also have come to understand, a society that holds the life of its citizens as cheap cannon fodder, for the scrape pile of history, is ultimately doomed to self destruction.

We must stop the killing of all people; be they sick or well, born or unborn, civilian or soldier, citizen or criminal. All killing is wrong no matter how it is done or who does the deed or what the circumstances. We can try to justify the act by any number of excuses but the fact remains that the death of one individual tat the hands of another is wrong and should not be tolerated by any civil society.

Well said, you might say, but you live in an ivory tower and do not live in the real world with the rest of us struggling pitifully day to day for our daily bread. This is a dog cat dog world and nice guys finish last. We cannot afford to turn the other cheek, and the world is a dangerous place. There are people who will kill you because its Tuesday and no other reason. We must protect ourselves from these predators. You would have us give away all our securities for a pie in the sky ideal.

To be sure, there have been times when armed resistance was used to protect the sanctity of life. We have seen in this century where the acts of a few mad men have caused the deaths of millions. I would like to know however, where the vigilance of the world was when these people came to power and were busy destroying their own societies. Why did we sit by and let that happen? Why haven't we realized that the death of one peasant is a death that affects us all.

We are all our brothers keepers whether we want to be or not. It is in our own best interest to be interested in the health and welfare of those who live on this planet with us. By taking an active interest in the state of others we are able to stop mass destruction and genocide before it reaches the proportions that history has been allowed to reach in the past centuries.

It is not the littler's of the world that brings us to the brink of war but our own benign neglect. We live like ostriches with our head stuck in the sand. We know full well that If we can't see the pain it must not exist. We look for and claim complete deniability. It is not any wonder that we are condemned to repeat the ravages of history over and over again.

How do we justify state sponsored execution? We think that the threat of death will stop the killing of others. Well, the murder rate is still with us and we still execute people because they kill people. It is a viclous cycle that has continued throughout history until this day.

Is our own lust for retribution the real motivation for the death penalty or do we just want simple answers to very complex questions? Would it not be a much more humane solution to give them life without parole instead of death? Ostracize the offender from society. Being found no longer fit to walk among the civilized, the offender would sit for the rest of their life and think about the deed that was done and the consequences of the act.

Why should we care about these few of us that do the ultimate crime? Why shouldn't we just get rid of them permanently? After all, the need for retribution is served and society has one less bad apple. Besides its cheaper this way. Who wants to keep a convict on death row for his entire life. That is making us the taxpayer pay for his crime.

We pay either way. One way, keeping them under lock and key, we pay with our money; with the other, we pay with our soul. We are the ones who create the problems of our own realities. We can correct the problems that we face with very little effort. All that is required is to realize that we are the ones in charge. We have no excuses for our own neglect. We can continue to look for the answers outside of ourselves; but in the final analysis we are the ones with blood on our hands and we cannot wash it off.

For very person condemned to die for the crimes they committed; we are responsible. What the State does in our name bears our responsibility. We premeditate the death of another human being in the most cold and calculating manner possible. We put on a show called a trial by a jury of 12 persons, good and true. We parade witness after witness before this august body. After due deliberation the accused, if found guilty, is condemned to death; in the name of the people of the State in which they are tried. After which they are taken out and a lengthy appeal process begins. This can sometimes last for a decade or more. If after all appeals are exhausted; the guilty person is put to death. You could not be more cold and calculating than if you plotted the murder in the first place.

The death of the individual brought about by other than natural means robs that individual of the chance to advance as a spiritual entity. It is not mans place to say who completes their spiritual path and who doesn't. We must once and for all realize that there are certain natural laws that we all are responsible for and this is one of them. The old testament law says and I quote, "Thou shalt not kill." Notice if you will that it says nothing about parties of the first part or are there any codicils or provisions made for any other circumstances. This law supersedes and replaces. all others foreign or domestic, state or federal. We cannot escape the undentable fact that when we cause the death of an individual we cause the death of us all.

Morris said he knows there are a number of critics who want no light rail at all. They think it is a big boondoggle," he said. "And others are arguing that the CSX route where the tracks now exist, is the best route through to Orlando while others prefer an I-4 route."

Ratt, he satd, moves more than people. It provides definition and helps shape how a community can grow. As part of the growing recognition between land use and transit, Congress and the Federal Transit Administration now give special consideration to land use in decisions to fund rall lines.

Randy Morris

Does Seminole County need to have light rail now?

"No," Morris said, "Not now -1-4 isn't that bad yet but how soon is it going to be more than anyone can handle? When it gets worse and the other roads can't handle the traffic, that's when we better have viable plans. All this will be driven by the fatture of the road system. We know it's going to get worse."

What Morris fears most is having too many leaders "bury their heads in the sand like ostriches." Their stalling and non-interest could prove extremely costly, he said.

MetroPlan Orlando paid for his Portland junket, and Morris said he believes the money was well spent. Not only did he learn a variety of facts about transportation, he was overwhelmed by the enthusiasm of those who built the Portland MAX Light Rail System and by those who commute daily.

"You know how Orlando and

"Another factor is that the light rail helps create livable communities and sustain a high quality of life. When our system is built it will help with the redevelopment of areas such as that along U.S. Highway 17-92. It's going to be a good thing, and it's coming. # Insurance agents face fraud charges

Special to the Herald

TAMPA-A joint investigation by wrate and federal agencies has resulted in criminal charges against three Tampa Bay area insurance agents for alleged securities fraud in a Ponzi scheme that claimed more than $3 million from Florida investors. Six other Florida agents face civil administrative charges.

Comptroller Bob Milligan. Insurance Commissioner Bill Nelson, and Hillsborough County State Attorney Harry Lee Coe II announced that arrest warrants have been issued for Marvin E. Moses, Sr. of Crystal River, officer and director of MEM and Associates. doing business as Independent Financial Associates (IFA) of Tampa, Taft Womack, Jr. and Robert S. McMillian, both of St. Petersburg, and independent agents of IFA.

As a result of investigations by the Florida Department of Banking and Finance (which the Comptroller directs), Florlda Department of Insurance. US Securities and Exchange Commission, and the Hillsborough County State Attorney, it is alleged that IFA. Moses, McMillian, and Womack used licensed Florida insurance agents to sell fraudulent unregistered securities in the form of "private trust agreement" and "private placement agreements' to 70 Florida investors, totaling $3,076.917. individual investments ranged from $2,200 to $125,000, with promised interest rates ranging from 10 to 40 percent. Investors were told the agreements were exempt securittes, secure and risk free. The funds were to be maintained in the Bank of America, and of fered to major brokerage companles as collateral for guaranteed insurance contracts. which in turn were supposed to guarantee the investment contracts. However, it is alleged that investor funds were not invested in guaranteed insurance contracts, but were used to make interest and principal payments to earlier investors, pay commissions to the agents, and pay personal expenses of officers and directors of a Nevada-based company that instituted the scheme.

The Department of Banking and Finance also filed civil administrative complaints against Womack, McMillian, William G. McNamara of Tampa, Gerald Lee Wilkins of Port Charlotte, Leon M. Streetman of Plant City, and William Rac of Largo, alleging violations of the Florida Securities and Investor Protection

The Department of Insurance filed administrative charges, alleging several violations of the State Insurance Code, Moses. against McMillian, McNamara, Wilkins, Streetman, Rae, and Arnold E. Schmiel and William R. Gignilhat, both of Tampa.

The US Securities and Exchange Commission filed a civil lawsuit in the US District Court for the Middle District of Florida seeking a permanent injunction and civil money penalties in connection with the alleged sale of unregistered securities. Moses and IFA entered into joint agreements with the Department of Banking and Finance, consenting to the issuance of permanent cease and desist orders. Schmiel, Gignilliat, and Gladys Godbey of St. Cloud have also entered into joint agreements with the Department of Banking and Finance, consenting to the Issuance of permanent cease and desist orders, and have paid fines for their involvement in the scheme.

Special students at Winter Springs

Hy Tony Tizzio HERALD CORRESPONDENT

WINTER SPRINGS - With the concept of giving every child a good education, Winter Springs High School proves that education knows no boundaries. It is there that students with various types of disabilities are given a chance to not only learn but thrive and prosper.

This, in turn, enables them to lead rewarding and productive lives. In fact, the Winter Springs High Schools mission statement says, "In a technical world where boundaries are disappearing, we will strive for excellence and the acceptance of diversity."

Guidance counselor Nancy Hagerty works with exceptional students, or ESE.

Hagerty says that she is proud of the school's state of the art facility in Winter Springs. The major part of this, says Hagerty, is the people who work there.

"Everyone in our school is wonderful," says Hagerty.

In addition to ESE, other special education areas are broken down into categories such as:

EME-Educable Mentally Disabled, which assists the mentally challenged, also referred to as the academically limited. These students learn as everyone else, but at a slower rate.

TMD-Trainable Disabled. where the goal is to have these students equipped with the proper skills to help them gain employment.

PMD-These are the profoundly mentally disabled. A side not to this is that many of these students become disabled due to diving accidents, PI-Physically Disabled.

Other types of disabilities to be helped are, speech and language classes for students with these disabilities and a class for the hearing impaired, taught once a week. Aside from these definitions, one need only see these eager young faces to know that this program is working.

There are services for emotionally disturbed individuals. These are otherwise average students who because of an emotional disability have various issues they are dealing with. One of the brightest faces at the school is Amber Roberts, a 16-year-old who has Cerebral Palsy. That does not seem to stop this sociable 10th-grader.

Amber alternates between a wheelchair and crutches. Although the Florida native says, "most kids think my wheel chair is the coolest thing in the world," one reason for her scholastic success might be due to the fact that Amber has been mainstreaming for ten years now.

Mainstreaming is the process in which students are placed into non-disabled classes to help them assimilate into society. When asked how she likes being in these classes Amber explains, "It helps me live a normal life and be a normal teenager."

Last year she was one of Disney's Dreamer and Doers. This award was started by the Walt Disney corporation for all schools. The Dreamers and Doers program looks for students who are confident, courageous, courteous and consistent. This achievement is highlighted by a breakfast in which the selected students are hon-

Students are also given tickets to Disney World. That's the best part," Amber says. Among her other achievements include being named student of the month by the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce. One reason for Amber's scholastic success might be due to the fact that she has been mainstreaming for ten years now.

Scott Pyatt

The usually positive teenager admits, "I don't like when people stare at me (because of her disability)."

Scott Pyatt, 15, is an extremely polite young man. This mentally challenged teenager is also a weight lifter, softball player and assistant head coach. He goes to dances and is a drummer. Scott also spoke of his best buddy. The Best Buddy program is a national activity. This program pairs exceptional students with nondisabled students.

Scott comes from a family of four children. A native of Alabama, his family recently moved to Winter Springs. As important as it is for the disabled student to interact with society, it is also important for the average young person to know that the world is made up of many different kinds of pro-

Another activity designed for interactivity is the peer coun-

These non-disabled students get 1/2 extra credits for working with their disabled peers. Hagerty says it works out well for both students.

Pamme Davis, department chair for the ESE says "mainstreaming works differently for some students, but every student should be taken separately. Inclusion for the sake of inclusion is wrong. These kids have to function as adults.

Brian Halweck

"We are very lucky to be in this school system in Seminole County and in this district, Davis said. "They support our needs. I have the highest regard for the students."

Two of the many people responsible for the success of the school are principal Wayne Epps and vice principal Karen Coleman.

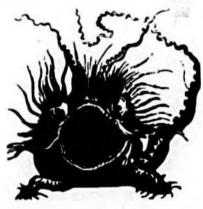

Another exceptional activity at the school is the JET-Job Education and Training program. Says teacher Linda Ellis, "It teaches students survival skills, like cooking, money counting, telling time, etc." "I have three students who are currently at Publix, Albertsons and Target." These stu-dents are not paid, but can work when they are 18-yearsold. Others are also proud of the accomplishments of Winter Springs High Schools Special Education curriculum.

Paul Finnegan is chairman of the Winter Springs High School Advisory Council. Of the school and staff Finnegan says, "They are very pro-active in everything. We also have one third of our staff CPR certified." Finnegan says that number is growing. Hagerty was also quick to mention the beautiful, spacious surroundings of the school.

This lends itself to the orderly and polite conduct displayed by all of the students. Hagerty also pointed out the cooperative way the disabled and non-disabled students get along. These young people, no doubt, are learning that the world is made up of many different kinds of people.

Give up THE home run ball? I'm a nice guy, but I'm going for the million

SANFORD _ I'm a really nice guy, at least that's what my mommy says.

But here's how I really am: I have a dream.

I'm sitting in Busch Stadium or the Astrodome where, this weekend, Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa are trying to hit the most valuable baseball in the history of the game.

And the ball comes toward me and it bounces and my hand gets crushed and my beer gets spilled and I grab the ball and stick it in my pocket.

Dozens of security guards come after me to take me to a special presentation.

And they escort me, without buying me a new beer or taking care of my broken hand, to the field where the new Home Run King is standing there with a giant smile on his face.

They walk me onto the field with thousands of photographers taking my Some guy prompts me to look into a

Everything is beautiful in its own way. Except for one thing:

I ain't givin' him the ball. Are you crazy?

The thing's worth a million bucks at least. Since the sluggers got close, I thought it was wonderful that everyone who ended up with the historic baseball's were turning down hundreds of thousands of dollars and giving them back for free, or in exchange for a jersey and a bat.

But then I thought about it and realized that those humanitarians are stupid.

Did I mention those baseballs are worth at least a million dollars?

HERALD SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD _ It's better to be safe than sorry. The administrations and coaching staffs of the Seminole county high schools may be kicking themselves this morning because they did not play football Friday night.

But they shouldn't because you can never be too careful where the weather is concerned.

Because of the threat of dangerous weather and torrential rain from Hurricane Georges, the Seminole Athletic Conference schools decided by mid-day on Friday to postpone there gridiron contests.

Late Friday and early Saturday morning it was decided that four of the five scheduled games involving county schools will be played Monday night.

All of the rescheduled games will have earlier starting times.

Cook a link to the past for Seminole

By Jeff Berlinicke ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD _ She's the last one remaining.

Two years ago, the Seminole girls' volleyball went undefeated in conference play and had the most successful season in the history of the school. Sitting at the far end of the bench, rarely seeing action was then-sophomore Amanda Cook.

Every one of the starters from that powerhouse graduated in 1996. Cook was left as one of the few returning players and the team struggled mightily last season.

Now, it's time for a new crop of Noles and, with Cook leading the way, they have turned into one of the county's surprising teams, running off five straight wins before losing to Winter Springs Thursday.

Cook wasn't surprised by the team's success this year. "I thought we could do well," Cook said. "Our main problem last year was inexperience. It was a rebuilding year and I knew we could be a lot better this year."

Seminole took the game seriously over the summer in an effort to return to SAC glory. Four of its players played club ball, including Cook for teams in the Orlando Volleyball Academy. The experience gave the Noles a chance to compete this season.

We wanted to finish over .500 this year," Cook said. "Now, with each game, we talk about where we are and what we expect to do from now on. We expect to play our hardest and play with our hearts." Cook learned a lot watching that 1996 team. She didn't play much, but learned a lot about teamwork. "I learned so much from them," Cook said. 'It was the first time ! ever played on a really good team. They always cheered each other on and had better team spirit than any other team. They taught me a lot about attitude."

Cook was thrust into a leadership role last season and said the losing was tough. She also knew the team was young and had a chance to be ready for this scason.

Using the examples she got from the 1996 team, Cook has taken an even stronger role as a senior. She has some flaws in her game, she admits.

"I have to be more aggressive at the net," she said. "I don't feel like an intimidator at the net, but then I know some teams always try to tip or just miss when I'm at the nct."

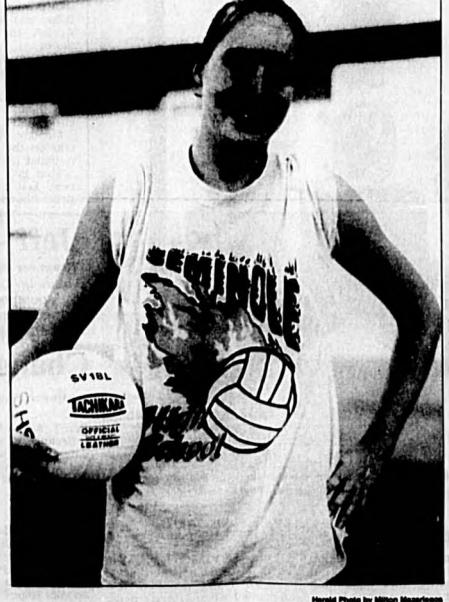

5-foot-10, Cook can intimidate, but she also takes her time to lead the rest of the 'Noles.

"I try to keep everybody with a positive attitude and make them

Coach Beth Corso says Cook is vital to her team's success

"She's the last remaining person from that team and she's a great athlete and a joy to coach," Corso said. "She just has so much potential."

So do the Seminoles.

Amenda Cook was a seldom-used sophomore on a senior-laden 1996 Seminole High volleyball team that went undefeated in the Seminole Athletic Conference. Now she is the leader of a young team that is unbeaten in Class 5A-District 5 play.

SANFORD _ This weekend marks the beginning of Week Four of the N.F.L. season, and I'm fired up!

My selections last week were an impressive 11-2, and my LOCK OF THE WEEK once again came through as the KANSAS CITY CHIEFS routed the SAN DIEGO CHARGERS.

As the CRYSTAL BALL OF FOOTBALL promised, quarterback Ryan Leaf had the worst game of his entire life. How did I know that he would perform so poorly? Personally give up five tumovers? This week promises to be exciting as teams that have been doing well will look to pull away from the competition, while the bottom-feeders attempt to turn things around. Let's take a quick look at our teams here in Florida before we get to the schedule.

Tampa Bay, as predicted here in this column, destroyed the visiting Chicago Bears after a sluggish start. The win only moves them to 1-2, but does get them back in the Divisional race.

Trailing 12-0, Differ and Company impressed me with a come from behind victory. We'll see if they can keep it up as they travel to Detroit for a Monday Night affair.

I realize that Miami is 3-0, but don't get your hopes up. They do this every year .... Quick start, Marino gets hurt, team collapses. It's getting old, and this year I won't make the mistake of getting excited early in the season.

The Jaguars look very good after their victory over the Rayens. This team could win the Divisten and that is saying a lot, because except for the A.F.C. West, this is the most competitive in entered the N.F.L.. Carolina wanted to compete immediately, while Jacksonville looked for youth to build on. It's a no-brainer who made the better decision. I look for this young, but matured, team to have a nice run at, and through, the playoffs.

I remember the year the Jags and Panthers

BRADY LESSARD

Let's take a look at the CRYSTAL BALL OF FOOTBALL and find some winners.

GREEN BAY (-6) AT CAROLINA I look for Favre and the Packers to beat this team thoroughly. The Panthers have looked terrible this year, and things will get worse against a very good Green Bay team. Did you know that Lawrence Phillips worked out for the Packers Thursday?? Packers 31. Panthers 9.

DENVER (-7) AT WASHINGTON

The Broncos proved they are capable of winning without Elway, while the Redskins have yet to prove they can win with anybody. This one is etched in stone. Broncos 23, Panthers 6. DALLAS (-5) VS OAKLAND

The Cowgirls come off a win against an anemic Giants squad, while the Raiders gave the Broncos a tough time until the fourth quarter. I guess Dallas will win, but they don't deserve to. Cowgirls 16, Cheaters 13.

KANSAS CITY (-9) AT PHILADELPHIA Rich Gannon gets the start for the Chiefs while Rodney Peete goes for Philly. I like the Eagles and the points in this one.

I can't remember the name of their coach, but I know he's on his way out if they get blown out in this one. Take the points, line your pockets, and hustle off to the bank! Chiefs 15, Eagles

JACKSONVILLE (-3) AT TENNESSEE This game is going to be a fight! Sticks. knives, and chains will be on the field for this one. The Oilers realize that they need to win this game if they are going to remain as con-tenders for much longer. The problem is that the Jags may just be too good. Jage 23, Offers

INDIANAPOLIS (-1) VS. NEW ORLEANS

Mike Ditka has the Saints playing great, and Jim Mora has the Colts scoring about nine points per game. The only thing that will keep the Saints from an amazing 3-0 start is if they show up at this one drunk.

With the Superdome three blocks from Bourbon Street, this is always a concern. Saints 26, PITTSBURGH (-3) VS. SEATTLE I would love to be at this game.

The Steelers are coming off an embarrassing loss at Miami, and will look to take it out on a very talented Seahawka squad.

This game, in my opinion, represents a potential changing of the guard in the A.F.C. If Seattle can win this one, they will make a loud and clear statement that they are for real. If the Steelers lose, they need to examine their entire game plan.

This is the game of the week from a spectators point of view. TOO CLOSE TO CALL

NEW YORK GLANTS (-2) AT SAN DIEGO How in the world can the Giants be favored on the road? This is the team that lost to Oakland two weeks ago, and the Chargers have a better defense.

This game provides a possible LOCK selection, take the Bolts and the points. Chargers

SAN FRANCISCO (-10) VS. ATLANTA Both teams come off the bye week looking to stay undefeated.

The Falcons have had the benefit of playing weaker teams, and it will catch up with them in this one. The Niners have owned this squad at home for the last six years and I don't look for any surprises. Niners 29, Falcons 10.

MINNESOTA (-6) AT CHICAGO

The Bears have managed to keep games close with very little talent. Coaching and heart have kept this squad together, but this is a Divisional

I said in Week One that I think Chicago will only win three games this season, this won't be one of them. Vikings 24, Bears 17.

BALTIMORE (-5) VS. CINCINNATI

E.S.P.N.'s night game provides an interesting opportunity to see how the Bengal offense will perform against a real defense. They have put up a bunch of points, but without Sanford na-tive Jeff Blake at the helm, they'll lose this one. The Ravens are the best 1-2 team in the League, but will miss the injured Harbaugh.

Defense and special teams will win this game. Ravens 16, Bengals 10.

TAMPA BAY (-1) AT DETROIT

Tony Guru loves the Bucs in this one. Detroit comes back with Charlie Batch at quarterback and the Bucs will be ready. Tampa needs this win to get back in the Division race and will look to end the game early.

If Sapp and Nickerson can stop Barry Sanders, this one will be over by half-time. Bues 27, Lione 10.

Today should be a great day of football and the favorites should have another nice outing. With my LOCK record standing at an impressive 3-0, I've decided to make it a little more difficult on myself. Instead of going with my first or second choice this week. I'm going with the game I feel is the third best selection of the

Today I'm going with the PHILADELPHIA EAGLES (+9) OVER THE KANSAS CITY CHIEFS as my patented LOCK OF THE WEEK.

The Eagles will come into this game with everything they've got and I think that will be enough to cover this line.

Take the Eagles, the points, and the cash, in this one folks, it's why I get paid the big bucks here at the Herald.

Enjoy your football, and remember, everything else can wait.

JACKSONVILLE _ Two weeks ago, everyone wondered why all the hoopla. Former Florida Gator Fred Taylor signed with the Jacksonville Jaguars during the summer after being taken with the ninth pick in the NFL draft.

At the time, the Jaguars were reeling from the loss of workhorse Natrone Means to free agency and the iffy play of former first-rounder James Stewart.

Taylor was going to be the answer, right? The Jacksonville boo-birds could leave Stewart alone and pick on a new tailback.

But something wacky happened to the much-maligned Jacksonville running game which, except for the wild playoff run of 1996, has been non-existent.

First of all, a new James Stewart came to camp and fifth-round pick Tavian Banks out of lowa wowed everyone during sum-

Taylor's emergence, Stewart season-ending injury makes Jaguar brass look brilliant

during pre-season and Stewart started playing up to his long-awaited expectations, everyone, from the coaching staff on down, started wondering why a pick was wasted on Taylor instead of a defensive lineman.

They got their answer last week. in a dominating win over Baltimore, Stewart fumbled on his first carry and suffered what is being called a sprained knee on his second. He's out for the year. Banks is still trying to leave coach Tom Coughlin's doghouse after fumbling on his only possession in a Week I squeaker over

So, despite seeing a lot of pine for the illust two weeks, laylor got the call from Coughlin last Sunday and ran wild, racking up 112 yards on a soggy Alltel Stadium

He's also earned the title of The Man in the improved Jacksonville running attack that was actually featured in a national television pre-game show last week. It's a far cry from the usual slug it out offense of Brunell-to-whoever. The Jaguars entered the season with Super Bowl hopes and an iffy running game, never a good combination.

Now, they have the balanced offense that can take them to Miami in January, assuming Taylor is up to the challenge.

JÁGUAR NOTES:

The defense continues to rest, mostly due to injuries. This Sunday the Jaguars head to Tennessee without ends Tony Brackens and Jabbar Threats. Tackle Seth Payne is also out, but the Jaguar's patchwork line recorded three sacks last week.

Defensive tackie John Jurkovich missed practice Wednesday to be with his wife for the birth of their second son.

Defensive back Aaron Beasley was fined $5,000 by the NFL for an illegal hit on Kansas City's Tony Conzales two weeks

Finally, Bucs win a game

TAMPA BAY _ Wowl Where did they come from? Last week, the Buccaneers looked like a real NFL team, complete with offense, defense, special teams and a little enthusiasm. They beat the Chicago Bears, 27-15.

Coming back from a 15-0 deficit in the third quarter took a lot more than talent and a good play book...it took heart.

The same heart that took the Bucs to their first playoff game in over to years. The same heart that won the adoration of fans who had previously only attended games to root for the opposing team.

The same heart that will no doubt carry them through the rest of the season.

In a home opener, in a new stadium, Tampa Bay showed that they may be down but they were certainly not out. Last weeks game put them in a must win situation and they accomplished what thought many couldn't...they won.

Trent Dilfer led his team to one of the most important wins of the franchise ... a win that proved last year wasn't a fluke and the Bucs really weren't the schmuks any-

Next up is a big one also. One that could keep Tampa Bay as one of the laughing stocks of the NFL or could win them the respect of an entire nation.

Monday night, the Bucs take on the Detroit Lions on national television.

That is a big deal. However, last week the Buccaneers showed what they are capable of if they put their minds to it. There is pure talent on that team. Shoot, they have had terrific draft choices for several years and have been able to scoop up some of the best young players the NCAA had to offer.

In addition, head coach Tony Dungy has done a very good job with the team and seems to know what it takes to motivate his troops. Hopefully, Detroit will be enough of a motivation on its on and the Bucs can Improve their 1-2 record in the division, conference and league.

While the Lions are going to try and stop that from happening, ali markers points to the Bucs taking this won to even their winloss ratio.

NOTES:

Tampa Bay-Detroit series history _ 41st meeting. Lione lead, 22-18, in the most closely contested series of any Bucs opponent. The teams split last season, with each winning on the road. The Bucs then defeated the lions, 20-10, in the NFC wildcard game at Tampa.

Fullback Mike Alstott had his first career 100-yard game against the Bears, but his penchant for fumbling is a concern. Alstott lost his second fumble in games.

Bucs place kicker Michael Husted needed just seven points to pass Donald Igwe-buike as the team's all time scoring leader when the season started. He still is four points away.

Persistence and hard work paying off for goaltender Grobbins

By Kellie Werner HERALD STAFF WRITER

LONGWOOD _ It's a long way from a small town to the National Hockey League.

Thanks to natural talent, hard work and persistence, Nathan Grobbins had made the trip ... and quite successfully. After completing this season as a goalie for the Orlando Surge, a professional roller hockey team, Grobbins set off for Utah to try out for the NHL affiliate team, the Utah Griz-"I think what has kept me going all these years is something Dan Marino (professional football quarterback with the Miami Dolphins) told me he passes on to all of his rookies," Grobbins said. 'He said he tells them to Things haven't really been so bad for Grobbins.

He was born and raised in a small town in British Columbta, Canada called Houston. Very young, he began playing street hockey and everyone realized that Grobbins had a talent for the game.

After completing high school and playing two years of junior hockey, Grobbins attended the Athol Murray College of Notre Dame, a prep school geared toward athletes in the Canadian town of Wilcox, Saskatchewan. He took all of the skills he learned and improved upon, returned to his home town and entered the Bantam Hockey League.

It was there that his father realized he needed to get out of his small town in order to be recognized and have a chance to play in the big leagues.

So Grobbins attended the Boston Bruins' free agent training camp, he placed first out of 36 goalles who attended and was recognized by Doug Keens, the coach of the Jack-sonville Bullets. He invited Grobbins to come to the Sunshine State and play for him. From there, Daytona was where Grobbins headed and although he enjoyed his time there, Daytona is special to him for one reason...it's where he met his wife, Dory.

A trip to South Carolina followed and then Grobbins again found his way back to Florida when he decided to play roller hockey for the Surge as a way to have fun, stay competitive and remain in condition in the off season.

*Some people ask me if I'm upset by the fact that I was really the back-up on the team and didn't play very much." Grobbins said. I am not upset by that at all. It was something that I wanted to try and I was just happy to be a part of the team. This was both competitive and recreational for me and I played with a lot of great guys. We were one goal from winning the championship and I placed second in the league in save percentage and goals ugainst average. In all, it was a great experience and if I can awing it. He went to training camp with the Florida Panthers, but unfortunately they had just signed two players and just didn't have room for him.

Grobbins also practiced with the Surge a few times, but again, players were already in place and the decision makers just weren't ready to make any changes.

This hasn't had any negative effect on Grobbins, though. While I was definitely dis-

One chance, however unlikely

Sherlock Holmes observed that when you have eliminated the impossible, whatever remains, however improbable, must be the truth. The declarer in today's deal, Sonny Moyse, applied this principle.

Moyse was one of the three deceased players inducted into the Hall of Fame this year, along with Johnny Gerber and Peter Pender. Moyse worked for The Bridge World magazine for many years in several capacities, eventually being the publisher and editor from 1956 to 1966. His particular penchant was for deals in which a 4-3 fit was ideal - now known as a Moysian fit. How did Moyse deciare three notrump after a spade lead to East's queen?

Moyse's one-no-trump overcall in the balancing, or fourth, position showed some 12-14 points. It was weak, not strong, as it would have been in the direct, or second, position.

DON'T BOTHER ME. I'M USING MY POWERS OF CONCENTRATION TO TRY AND IMAGINE THE WOMAN MADAME BAKLAYA DESCRIBED AS MY PERFECT

SOUL MATE ..

BRIDGE PHILLIP ALDER

The natural reaction is to take the first trick because it guarantees two spade tricks. However, Moyse realized that to win nine tricks, he had to drive out both missing red-suit aces. And from his opening bid, West had to hold those aces. So, if Moyse won the first trick, he knew he would go down. West would establish his spade suit when in with the first ace, and cash the suit when in for the second time.

There was just one chance: that West had begun with six spades. So, Moyse ducked the first trick. Success! East had no spade to return, and Moyse still had two spade stoppers if West led the suit.

The duck risked an extra undertrick, but it was a worthwhile investment as it gave declarer a chance to make the contract.

SANFORD - It's not a glamorous job, nor one with a lot of amenities, but Keith Henderson said he gets a lot of satisfaction from the people he meets.

Twe been doing this for five years because of the people," said Henderson, who can be found in rain or in shine in a semi-tractor traffer in the Pincerest Plaza parking lot off U.S. Highway 17-92.

Henderson handles the bustest aluminum ecycling site in three counties. Metals (formerly Reynolds Aluminum). Henderson has been at the site for five years, preferring to deal with the heat and the cold, rather than working inside, it's the variety of people that keeps it interesting. he said. You kind of see everything when you do this."

Henderson said there are many regulars who bring in anything from cans to custom wheels and other extruded products. The recycling center accepts aluminum, copper and brass. The biggest problem, said Henderson is that most people don't realize how many things there are that can be recycled.

But many do, and make regular trips to see Henderson. He said one man brings him up to 200 pounds of cans every week, for which he is paid on the average of 35 to 45 cents a pound. "I think he does it just to

Recycling program receives award, is one of best

By Shari Brodie

LONGWOOD - What do you get when you process 85 tons of glass, plastic, metal, afuminum and newspaper a day, and manage to talk two companies into instituting a telephone directory recycling program that inspires nationwide participation?

You get national recognition. In October, the Seminole County Solid Waste Division will receive the 1998 Recycling Excellence Silver Award at the 36th annual International Solid Waste Exposition in Charlotte, N.€

The award is given by SWANA - Solid Waste Associates of North America - and recognizes outstanding performance in the operation, design, efficiency and standards in an integrated solid waste management system.

"We're really excited about the award," said Sherry Newkirk, the county's recycling contdinator. We've always felt like we had a excellent program, now we have confirmation of it from a national entity.

Semuole started residential curbside collection in November of 1990, in accordance with state laws that require the county to recycle 30 percent of its solid waste

We've gone from the first week, of handling 5 tons day," said Newkirk, "Last week, our big day was 85 tons. We've increased our business

Newkirk said, out of the curbside program. about 85 percent of the county's residents are participaling. That's really high. We're really getting a lot of coverage out of it."

When the recycables are collected from the curbside, they are taken to the transfer station at State Road 419 in Longwood. All materials are funneled through a six-foot by sixfoot hopper, into the Small Materials Recycling Facility. Separated by kind on a conveyer belt, a human hand touches the material only once. The rest of the system is auto-

"Our goal in the SMRF operation is to handle the material just once," sald Newkirk. That keeps our expenses down and makes sure that we run efficiently."

Plastic milk jugs are ground into flakes and plastic beverage bottles are compacted into large cubes. Brown, green and clear glass is sorted; and a magnet carries the metal cans to a separate container. Aluminum cans are separated similarly. Newkirk said the separated materials are sold to processors all over the world. "Wherever we have a market, that's the best we can get, we sell it for the highest price."

Education is critical to the success of the county's program.

It's a trashy job but someone's got to do it. Sherry Newkirk is the recycling coordinator for the

"We go to the schools and through our educational program, we talk to students and teachers to try to impart to them the importance of recycling," said Newkirk, "It may not seem important today, but we're doing this for a lot of reasons. We're doing it to conserve landfill space, which ultimately is a savings of money. If we don't have to build a landfill tomorrow or next year, or the year after that, the residents don't have to come up with that money." Newkirk said the county's current landfill site, on Osceola Road, in Geneva, can accept that we recycle 30 percent plus, we're extending that life span. Our residents are really doing great."

Newkirk knows show and tell is the favorite time of the day for elementary school children, so she is prepared when she visits a school.

"When we go to the schools, we try to take something that will help get the message across. If you have something in your hand, it's a lot easier (for the students) to understand, so we take items that are made from recycled material. We've found that it works great, because the children take these items home to their parents and it instills a conversation with their parent."

"Most of the parents didn't learn this in school," said Newkirk. "We never practiced recycling. The children can go home and teach their parents about recycling.

"We get wonderful letters from the parents, talking about how every time they go to the grocery store their children are telling them to look for the recycling logo and make sure (the item) is made from recycled material. It's really an affirmation that our program is working in the schools."

The Seminole County Recycling Program includes curbside recycling collection to all single family homes in Seminole County; voluntary commercial recycling; the SMRF, to process recyclables; an international mar-keting program to sell the recyclables; an accounting system to track labor, transportation, tons received, tons sold, market name and revenue generated; an interlocal agreement with all seven cities to ensure uniformity throughout the county; yard waste and metal recycling at the landfill; used oil collection a county-office recycling program; a public education program; recycling of waste tires into playground surfaces in county parks; construction of a plastic lumber environmental walkway to demonstrate the usefulness of recycling plastic; and a regional telephone directory recycling project, which includes Orange and Osceola counties and Orlando, that helped inspire the phone companies to recycle nationwide.

"To the best of my knowledge, it's the first large-scale telephone recycling program in the nation," said Newkirk. "Once we got into the program and they saw the magnitude (of the problem, the phone companies) stopped delivering their residential (books) in the competing district. The two companies still overlap on the business directories.

"We all learned a lot in this program," said Newkirk. The companies now recycle all the books that never get delivered, as well. They recycle all the new ones that never get delivered, and they recycle as many of the old ones as they can.

"It's been a really good effort for everybody. We've all learned, and worked, on a joint agreement."

The Division of Forestry segment of the trail, which runs from Lockwood Road east, through the forest, to old State Road 13, is a portion of one of 11 nationally certified recreational, historic and secnic trails in the United States. The Florida National Scenie Trail, when completed will span 1,300 miles of the state. The recently-opened Cross Seminole Trail is part of that larger plan. It will eventually run from State Road 419 in Chuluota to Soldier's Creek park, in Longwood.

Senior Forester Mike Martin has helped organize the dedication ceremony, to be held at the County Road 426 and Barr Street trailhead. Martin said it would be appropriate to dedicate the trail, since the opening of the Cross Seminole Trail received a similar recognition.

With this ring, I thee wed for... 60 happy years

Randall and Edna Priest. longtime residents of Sanford, usually mark their anniversary with a couple of days alone at New Smyrna Beach _ the site of their honeymoon 60 years ago (Aug. 9.

This year their six children included themselves in the festivities. After settling in to adjoining rooms at a beachside hotel in New Smyrna, the group met at a scafood restaurant for dinner, and then reassembled at the hotel for more celebrating.

Two daughters had collaborated on the creation of a videotape of select photos that included family mile-stones of the past 60 years; graduations, first cars, weddings, military service and the like. The showing of the video, complete with piano background music proved to be the highlight of the get together.

The honorees were surprised with a shower of over 50 greeting cards from relatives and friends. Refreshments including a lovely tee cream cake were served. It was decorated with a multicolored cascade of ribbons and "bride and groom" figurine from the Priest's original wedding cake.

Reminiscing continued when a box of photos, some of which had been used in the video, was opened. There were moments of nostalgla. hilarity, and embarrassment as the photos were passed around.

Randall and Edna agreed that it was the best anniversary yet in their 60 years together. Enjoying the weekend along with the Priests were Randall Priest, Jr., Sarah P. # Home fire drill is important preparation for the real thing

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet the majority of your readers think they'd beable to find their way out of their home quickly and safely if a fire broke out late at night. The sad truth is, only a small percentage of the population is actually prepared to do so. If there were a real fire, that lack of preparation could cost them their lives.

Let me share some frightening numbers with you. The nonprofit National Fire Protection Association asked a similar question in a survey, and our worst fears were confirmed. Although most people feel relatively safe from fire, only 16 percent of those who responded had planned and actually practiced how they'd escape if they had a fire in their home. That means nearly 85 percent of the population will be woefully ill-prepared if fire strikes.

And ill-prepared they are: The fact is, eight out of 10 fire deaths in the United States take place in the home. For that reason, it's critical that all of us practice how we'd escape in the event of a home fire; and then practice an alternative escape route in case the first one is blocked. The only sure way to know is to physically practice escaping before there's a fire. In other words: Hold a home fire drill

Abby, your readers will have an opportunity during this coming Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 4-10, to join others in their communities in planning and practicing their own home fire drills at 6 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 7, during the North Americawide Great Escape Fire Drill. As the official sponsor of Fire Prevention Week for more than 70 years, NFPA has teamed up with fire departments all across the United States and Canada that will sound their plarms to signal the start of this first unified community fire drill. Individual families can then begin their fire drill at home. Information about each community's locally.

Fire drills are the "Great Escape." I hope none of your readers will have to experience escaping a real fire. But it's something they all need to know they can do, and the Great Escape fire drill is a safe way to find out.

GEORGE D. MILLER. PRESIDENT, NATIONAL FIRE PROTECTION ASSOCIATION

Crowds go wild over arts festival in its 12th year

By Vicki Belluccia HERALD STAFF WRITER

They are in with the in crowd.

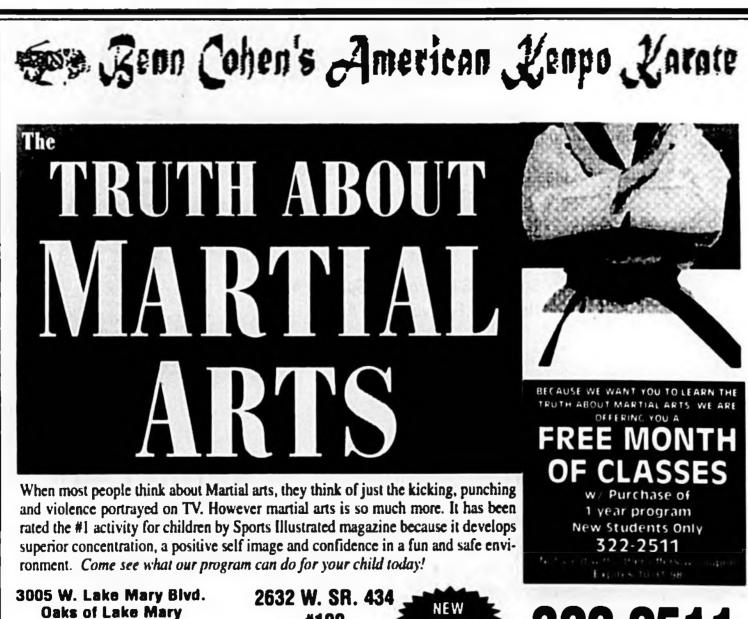

The Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts has become a strong tradition in Seminole County over the last 12 years. Supporters of the arts throughout Central Florida and from across the southeastern United States have put the event on their fall calendars for many years.

Co-founder Joanne Lucas-Bourg said she believes the event is one of the premier arts events in Central Florida. Though it is not nearly as old or as established as the Winter Park Arts Festival, the Lake Mary Heathrow event is as well-known and attracts artists of equal caliber.

This year's event, on Oct. 3 and 4, will showcase the works of more than 300 world-renowned artists who produce some of the best work in a variety of media. This year's event includes exhibitors who work in media including watercolor, pastels (including poster artist Rac Marie), oils and acrylics, sculpture, jewelry, pottery and photography.

"There are going to be some really wonderful items," Lucas-Bourg said.

While many who come to the event are mere browsers (which is fine with all of those who exhibit at the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts), there will be plenty of options for those who want to make an investment in some of the quality pieces that will be for sale at the event.

Lucas-Bourg is quick to point out the Lake Mary Heathrow event is not a craft show. The artists who show off their work are artisans who are among the best in their chosen fields of expression. The original works exhibited at this event are some of the best produced in the art community today.

"We have world-renowned artists participating in this event," Lucas-Bourg said. "These are not amateurs."

Arts festival boosts economy by $1.5 million

Art festival patron Richard Zullo takes a look at the chip carving of Berry Snyder of Deland. Snyder will be an artist at this year's festival as well.

By Vicki Belluccia HERALD STAFF WRITER

The organizers of the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts say they have invested $1.5 million in the Seminole County economy over the last dozen years.

And that's not even counting how much the artists and art aficionados have spent, said co-founder festival Joann Lucas-Bourg.

The festival organizers have made it a point since its inception to give as much back to the community as they could.

*Of course we have our expenses," Lucas-Bourg said. "We have put back as much as we could in scholarships and community efforts.

The festival attracts world-renowned artists and many people travel from across the southeastern United States to see the show and to purchase paintings and other artwork. Lucas-Bourg said the people who travel such a long distance are often willing to spend other money in the area.

"I'm sure that a lot of the people who come to the festival spend a lot of money in other places in Seminole County as well," she explained.

One of the most Important contributions to the county has been the investment in future artists and scholars in Seminole County schools, she said.

According to Lucas-Bourg, the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts scholarship committee has given out more than 319 scholarships since the festival first began in 1986. Students from all seven of the county's high schools who are interested in the arts have been helped along in their studies by festival moneys.

The school art departments have also benefited financially. she said.

"We give them 75 cents out of every dollar when they sell tickets to the festival," she said. 'And this year, they're selling so well that we're having trouble keeping up with the demand.*

Lucas-Bourg said the festival is not a profitmaking event.

*Every penny that is profit goes right back into the community arts programs," Lucas-Bourg said.

The festival is a juried art exhibit and artists who participate are competing for more than $20,000 in cash prizes. Many of the top winners return to the area for this festival year after year, she noted

"We like to reinvest in the arts in a number of different ways," she said.

Seminole County has not kept specific records on the economic impact of the festival on the local economy, but the Tourist Development Office reports that the festival is one of the many events which draw people to the county each year. Strong. traditional events such as the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts make the county a favorite destination for people who visit Central Florida in the fall. officials said.

Poster artist showcases love of animals

By Vicki Belluccia

HERALD STAFF WRITER

Rae Marie has always been drawn to nature and has always drawn

Now the Winter Springs artist whose work is leatured on the i2 annual take Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts poster, is happy that she is able to combine her love of art with her love of animals for this year's commemorative art work.

The artist paints with pastels on suede and said her work in that medium is constantly evolving. She said she loves to experiment with the textures and with color

"I know when I tell people I paint on suede they think of pictures of Elvis on velvet," she said, rolling her eyes, adding assurances that it is nothing like that. The soft texture of the cloth takes on the appearance of fur when painted with the soft pastels under the artist's delt hand.

Indeed, the detailed paintings are alive with color and the subjects seem ready to jump from their framed environment. The subjects of this year's art festival poster are a pair of Florida painther cubs born recently in captivity.

Kacha and Itora were born earlier this summer to Kesha, an endangered panther being cared for by the Foundation CARE (Creating Animal Respect Education). They are a playful pair of kittens and Rae Marie said she had a lot of hin playing with them. as she photographed the pair in preparation. for doing her painting.

"We went to the library in Altamonte Springs and just let them run around out there," she said. "They ran all over the place. They were so cute."

Christin Burford of the CARE Foundation, who has worked with the cubs since they were born, said they are very used to people, having been around humans their whole lives.

Their playfulness is very apparent in Rae Marie's painting that was used for the poster. Ears at attention and eyes mischtevously dancing, the pair is shown climbing through branches and a galaxy of morning glories. Born in England to military parents, Rae Marie spent her teen age years in Seminole County, graduating from Seminole High School. She went to Seminole Community College before going on to the Art Institute of Atlanta where she graduated in 1985 with a degree in visual communications

She has long been associated with the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts. having studied at SCC under the tutelage of William Henkle, who serves on the festival's board of directors. In 1996, another painting she produced of a Florida parither became the official t shirt design of the festival That design was one of the biggest selling items in the festival's history, officials said.

Her work has been exhibited and sold at some of the most recognizable festivals, including Fort Collins, Colorado, the International Roswell Fine Arts League Show and the Southern Women's Convention in Orlando.

Rae Marie said that one of the keys to her art is that she takes the time to observe the world around her be-See Artist, Page 11A

Group brings humans, animals together

Artist David G. Semones shows off his talents to Conner Theisen at the last yea'rs event. He is expected to return this year.

By Vicki Belluccia HERALD STAFF WRITER

We, as humans, often fail to see how our own existence is intertwined with that of the other animals with which we live.

Teaching the need for respect—and—understanding between humans—and other animals has been the focus of the CARE Foundation since its inception—three years—ago. Through education, the group has tried to help people—understand animals.

They don't try to use classrooms or propaganda. The group simply brings man and beast together under friendly circumstances allowing them learn about one another.

"It' a very beautiful thing," said Christin Burford, who heads the foundation. "We just bring the animals out and they teach people about caring and conservation and tolerance by just being themselves."

The foundation's main attraction is a family of Florida panthers. Kesha and her cubs. Kacha and Itora, will be at the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts this year.

Kacha and Itora are featured on the commemorative poster painted by Rae Marie in pastels on suede.

As cuddly and playful as the pair look in the poster, they are in real life. They will, along with their mother, be out periodically throughout each of the two days of the festival.

"People will be able to touch them, ask questions and watch how they interact with each other and with people." Burford said.

When they are not on stage or available for the public, the panthers will still be on site for people to view.

Burford will be on hand to tell people about panthers in the wild, about their fight against extinction and about how they interact with people. She said she will answer whatever questions people might have about the animals.

The CARE Foundation is a not-for-profit organization that tries to educate the public about how it can benefit from showing respect to animals like the panthers. They also provide a safe and permanent home for those animals which need protection in a safe environment. Many of the animals live with Burford in her home.

Artist Rae Marie will be on hand at the festival with the panthers she has immortalized on this year's commemorative poster.

This will be a great place to take a break," said J.C. Campese, promotions coordinator for the radio station. "We'll have kids' activities and a Parent Lounge' where adults can kick back and relax, have some fun and let their kids work of some excess energy."

Campese said the MIX105.1 area will include character artist Mandel doing free pictures of the children, who want to have their likenesses preserved for posterity.

There will be tunities for the children to do their own drawings and paintings as well. Like the art festival participants themselves, the youngsters' art work will be entered into a juried exhibition. While the prizes won't be cash, there will be

Ballingall received a $1,000 scholarship as part of the festival, which bills itself as "Florida's Festival for Art Scholarships."

The Seminole High School graduate has been involved in community and school organizations for years. It is her dedication to the community at large, as well as her artwork, that earned her favor with the scholarship committee.

She served as a Gallery Assistant at SCC while she was a student there and represented the college at leadership conferences.

Ballingall said she is grateful for the scholarship assistance

"(The scholarship) was a great help in keeping me focused on my goal," she said.

Katy Tate, a student at Lyman High School won a scholarship grant for her participation in the 1997 National Festival Art Competition

By Vicki Belluccia HERALD STAFF WRITER

A dancer since her first steps. Katy Tate has been involved in the arts her whole life. Even at the age of three, she said, she realized that dance would be a driving force in her life.

The Lyman High School graduate has high stepped her way Into a scholarship from the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

The scholarship winner said she was laught to work hard and to pursue her dreams by her parents, her teachers and her friends. She said it was that dedication that has brought her where she is today.

Tate will attend Florida State University with an additional $1,000 to use toward her educational expenses this semester.

"For me, the best reimbursement I can give my teachers, families and friends who have been so supportive would be to continue the work ethic they have instilled in me." she said. "As long as I do that. I know the rewards will be many."

Beyond her interest in dance as an opportunity to perform, she said she hopes to continue her education in the area of kinesiology so that she can help other dancers stay in top physical condition. Tate said she is "frustrated by the growing lack of support for the arts" in the school system. She said she was pleased that the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts continues to support those scholars who are dedicated to performance and visual arts.

New site designed with artists in mind

By Vicki Belluccia HERALD STAFF WRITER

For a decade, the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts has been the premier site for fine arts to be exhibited and sold in Seminole County.

With the exception of the first year, when it took place in the town center area of Heathrow, the festival has spread pastorially across the 40-acre site at L&L Acres. This year, it will debut at a new location: Oval Park, about one mile north of its former home.

Oval Park, owned by Pizzutti, the real estate investment and development company with projects in Heathrow and the Heathrow International Business Center, has never hosted a festival, but representatives believe it is the perfect site for the Lake Mary Heathrow art festival.

"It is a wide open space with an oval sidewalk set around the perimeter where the artists can set up their booths for people to just walk around and shop and enjoy," said Mark Evans, a spokesman for Pizzutti.

The park is a bit smaller than the L&L

Acres site, but it is ideally suited for a festival like this. Evans said, because there are sidewalks and beautifully landscaped areas around the areas where the artists will be set up. There will also be plenty of room for entertainment stages and food vendors.

"We designed this as a festival park," Evans said "This is the first event of what we hope will be many in the park. It was designed to complement the Heathrow International Business Center and be used as a site for all sorts of festivals."

The LAL Acres site was owned by Leo Trepanier until recently. It was Trepanier who lent the land to the festival organizers starting in their second year.

That place over there at Heathrow was just too small for what they were doing," Trepanter said. "They were going to need a bigger place, I could tell, so I offered them my place out there,"

L&L Acres became the traditional place for the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of the Arts as well as a number of concerts and community events. But, Trepanter said, it was the art festival that started it all.

"It was a real pleasure having them out there," he said. "I liked going to the festival myself."

Trepanier sold the site at the corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Interstate 4 to developers following last year's art festival The once pristine area has been buildozed and homes are being built on the acreage.

The former owner said he made a business decision in selling the property and regrets that it won't be available for the festival, but he said the new site promises to be a very nice one.

"I think they've got a good place over there," he said, adding he intends to attend this year's festival in its new home.

Because of development along the 1-4 Corridor in the Heathrow area, parking problems that didn't exist at L&L Acres could arise, but organizers are working with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office and with businesses in the area to accommodate those who want to attend the festival.

Evans said Pizzuti will do whatever it takes to make sure organizers are able to assure festival-goers that they will have no
