Police investigate sexual assault

The sexual assault of a 7-year old girl, who is in foster care, by a Longwood 12-year old boy is under investigation by the State Department of Children and Families. Investigators reports indicate the two children were playing with others at Sandalwood Park when he allegedly led her into nearby woods and attacked her. The sexual nature of the attack was discovered when the girl was examined by the Child Protection Team the following day. The boy also resides at a foster home. Both homes are overseen by Deveraux Florida Treatment Network.

Security officials retire from schools

By Bill Kerns

Three to form national school security company

SANFORD — Three leading officials of the Seminole County school district are resigning to lead a newly formed national training institute.

Wolfgang Halbig, director of security, will become President and Chief Executive Officer of the National Institute for School and Workplace Safety, to be based in Orlando. Joining Halbig are Richard Wells, director of secondary education, and Chief Investigator Ron Davis.

Davis will be vice president of the institute, and Wells will serve as secretary and treasurer. International Management of America, Inc. of Tampa is funding the institute, which will serve school districts and private corporations.

"This is just a tremendous opportunity," Halbig said. "School violence has spilled over from workplace violence. Kids today think that's an OK way to resolve conflicts. We need to teach that you don't solve problems with violence."

The institute will provide workshops on school and workplace safety, perform assessments of security programs, and assist in designing security systems at new facilities.

"The facilities being built in Seminole County are a model we can take to other districts," Halbig said. "A clean and safe environment causes a change in the behavior of students."

The institute will have an office in Heathrow, and training will be conducted in Orlando.

"We have several contracts already nationwide," Davis said.

The institute will also assist school districts and corporations to design emergency management plans, and to resolve conflicts and tension before they escalate into violence.

"Corporate America is made up of parents who want safe schools and safe work environments," Halbig said.

In addition, the institute will host national conferences on school and workplace safety.

"We will bring in leading experts nationwide and discuss hands-on solutions," Halbig said. "From the workplace to day care centers to corporations, do

Local board follows state decision

SANFORD — Seminole County high schools are free to once again allow carbonated beverages to be sold on campus during the school day, following approval Tuesday by the School Board.

A ruling by Florida's Cabinet on Aug. 12 changed the State Board rules to enable the sale of carbonated beverages, at the high school level, during the school day.

Because of a change in state regulations in January of 1998, carbonated beverage machines in high schools statewide were turned off from the beginning of the school day until one hour after the last lunch was served.

Seminole County high schools were not obligated to wait until the board's decision on Tuesday to turn beverage machines on. No formal vote by the Board was required. Carbonated beverages still cannot be sold in areas where reimbursable meals are eaten or sold, under Federal regulations.

Florida's Cabinet also said that full strength juice must be sold in the same area as the carbonated beverages.

Selling carbonated beverages provides schools with revenue to be used toward extracurricular activities, such as field trips and purchasing athletic equipment and uniforms. Local school boards now have the option of

Missouri man nabbed at I-4 rest area

LONGWOOD — A routine stolen vehicle check along I-4 near Longwood has led to the arrest of a Missouri man wanted on a murder charge.

Seminole County Sheriff's deputy Randy Spittler was running license tag numbers during a spot check at the Longwood rest stop on I-4 at about 6:20 a.m. Tuesday morning when he encountered a van with a Massachusetts tag. The tag came back clean but information about the owner prompted Spittler to call for back-up. The van was registered to 48-year old Alberto Mesa Reyes, wanted in Kansas City since July, 1998 on a murder charge.

"After I ran the check he exited the van and went into the men's room," said Spittler of the arrest. "When he was in the bathroom in a compromising position we told him to come out with his hands up."

Spittler said Reyes reacted to his apprehension in a matter of fact manner. "He didn't seem surprised about it — kind of like he knew what he was being arrested for," said the deputy.

Spittler said Reyes offered no resistance during his apprehension and didn't talk much on the way to being booked into the Seminole County Jail.

Sheriff's department public information officer Steve Olson said word out of Kansas City has Reyes connected to the murder of a fellow worker at a steak house.

"The incident took place on July 17, 1998," said Olson.

"Authorities there tell us witnesses saw Reyes, a cook at the steak house, get into a fight with a dishwasher at the restaurant. The witnesses in Kansas City told police Reyes grabbed a knife and stabbed the victim 20 times."

Reyes is expected to make his first court appearance today during his initial arraignment.

He is then expected to be

"I'm trying to approach the new position the same way I would a reporting position," said Olson.

"Sherrif Don Eslinger wants this position to be pro-active, for the department to get out there and tell what can be told with a sensitivity to on-going investigations."

 Halbig said employees throughout the school districts and corporations, including secretaries and bus drivers, will receive training through the institute.
 "School bus drivers carry our most precious cargo everyday, and yet they too often lack training on how to deal with school safety situations," Halbig said.

Halbig has served the school district since 1986, as well as for one year in 1973. He previously was an assistant principle at Lake Brantley, Lyman, and Lake Mary high schools. He also was the first director of the Project Excel alternative education program.

 whether to allow carbonated beverages to be sold in high schools.
 Seminole County high schools generated $300,000 in revenue through the sale of carbonated beverages during the 1997-98 school year, the last full year that the machines were in operation, according to the Food Services department.
 "I don't know if any citizens understand the number of dollars these machines bring in," said Board member Diane Bauer.

However, Bauer said she had "mixed emotions" about allowing carbonated beverages to be sold.
 "A lot of people have legitimate concerns over whether this is appropriate," Bauer said.

The Seminole County School Board has a current policy on vending that was written to comply with Federal regulations, and is in compliance with the new State Board rule, said John Pavelchack, executive director of finance and budgeting for the school district.

 The policy was placed on hold last year when the more restrictive state rule was in effect. Schools are now free to again operate under the School Board's policy, Pavelchack said.
 "We will simply go back to doing what we were doing before," Pavelchack said.

So why are we so curious about George?

Watch out folks, or George W. Bush may pull out of the great race. If the media meanies don't stop hounding W., they'll be stuck with Libby and Stevie. George W. keeps saying tain't nobody's business what he did whenever he did it.

For him to tell others to "Do as I say, not as I did?" He's considered to be a good Christian who says he has grown up, matured, changed his life and his past ways.

a big bore without the media gamesmanship.

The press doesn't just cover the news, it dissects and destroys. It's a game to some. Once the Washington Post was the chief rival of the New York Times. Today, the Times has to compete with a dozen cable TV channels and a fellow named Drudge. There used to be a press bus. Now there's a dozen. Each hint of scandal become excessive.

Wouldn't you love to see FDR deal with today's media? "Scram," he'd command to Bob Woodward. "Fudge on you Drudge." "Barbara, shut up."

More than likely - provided the guy is the right one for the White House, Bush will thrive on the media frenzy. He will have to answer questions about policy, about the economy, about school violence, about abortion, about foreign relations. That's how he'll be judged by the majority of those who vote in 2000.

He'll have to name a running mate, too. Probably, Libby. It would be a hoot he choose Dan Quayle. Poor chap can't even spell cocaine.

Russ White's column appears Tuesday through Saturday in the Seminole Herald.

Russ White

W.'s refusal to answer the cocaine question, however, has led many to believe that he did. His top supporters don't think he did, and are sticking by their man. It's early in a long, long race. No one expected W. to maintain the enormous lead he has had. The key now is not to let the cocaine/privacy issue become too severe a distraction.

On Tuesday night, Ted (What me worry?) Koppel devoted Nightline to the Bush story. He said that an ABC poll showed that 84 percent of those surveyed said they were not concerned about what W. did as a younger man. Still, ABC was concerned. W. was their man of the hour even though he declined Koppel's invitation to appear.

To be sure, he'll have other invitations. Maybe, he'll learn to like the attention - even about cocaine. His campaign would be

It, in this case, is cocaine.

Apparently, young W. was no Eagle Scout. When he went off to college, he felt he was entitled to have a good time.

"When I was young and irresponsible, I behaved young and irresponsibly," he says, electing not to elaborate.

W. doesn't want to say whether he has ever committed a felony. He won't respond to "gossip" and "rumor." Since no one has come forward and accused him of having used cocaine, he is not going to comment. Not even on the Twelfth of Never.

Cocaine use is a serious matter - even for the spoiled rich who grew up in the 60s and 70s. The state of Texas has 13,000 cocaine users behind bars. W. is the governor of the state. Many are curious about W.'s Is it right

Longwood commissioner huddle to discuss lawsuit

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — Longwood city officials emerged tight-lipped from a closed 45-minute executive session Monday night, dealing with a pending lawsuit against the city over the annual Fall Arts Festival.

Commissioners Rusty Miles, Annamaria Vacca, and Dan Anderson along with mayor Paul Lovstrand met with city administrator John Drago, city attorney Richard Taylor and a court reporter prior to a workshop session. Commissioner Steve Miller was absent from the executive session.

Longwood officials huddled in an attempt to head off a court appearance sparked by a complaint filed against the city three weeks ago by Winter Springs attorney Mike Jones.

The complaint, filed on behalf of Warren Avenue resident Beatrice Morris and five other property owners in the city's Historic District, claims the city is violating the property owners' right by closing off Warren Avenue for the annual two-day Fall Arts Festival. The suit contends the civil rights of the property owners are being denied, they are being denied access to their property, the city illegally entered into a contract to host the festival with the Central Florida Historical Preservation Society, and that the property owners have failed to profit from the inconvenience. The suit is asking for $15,000 in actual damages, plus court costs and attorneys fees.

City attorney Richard Taylor would say only that, "the suit is still pending."

In brief comments following the executive session city administrator John Drago said, "City officials will meet again individually with the property owners in an attempt to ascertain the exact nature of the complaint by the homeowners in an attempt to resolve the situation."

Two additional developments have occurred since the suit was originally filed. One of the plaintiffs, William DeRosa of Warren Avenue wrote the city informing officials he wants his name removed from the legal action against Longwood.

City attorney Taylor also filed a motion in Seminole Circuit court to have judge Tom Freeman precluded from hearing the case if it goes to litigation. Freeman and Taylor are past rivals for a seat on the Florida Bar's Board of Governors.

Anybody Got Milk?

A sugar and caffeine buzz don't make for a healthy school environment

The Seminole County School Board wrestled with a sticky issue this week before finally deciding whether or not to sell carbonated soft drinks in public schools. Those quarters, nickels and dimes our students plunk into the metal marketing tools of corporate giants account for about $300,000 a year into school board coffers after soft drink companies get their share for stockholders.

That $300,000, which represents less than one-percent of the school board's proposed budget of $362.1 million budget, is earmarked to help offset some of the costs of extra circular school activities such as band, the purchase of athletic uniforms and equipment and other programs.

The fact the school board even chose what kind of sugar and caffeine products our school kids pump into their systems during the school day leaves us with a sour taste.

Did any one of the decision makers have the spine to ask why the question was even considered? Did anyone stop to ponder whether the $300,000 is worth prostituting our collective student bodies over? Is our budgeting process so cheap as to sell 58,000 school children down the drain to corporate marketing tactics? Could we not make a more mature and prudent decision to place health food and fruit juice machines in school hallways?

The school board says if the soft drink machines come, fruit juice machines will be placed beside them, giving students a choice. Our guess is that students, like regular consumers, will vote heavily in favor of throwing their pocket change into the vending machines for the high octane products filled with sugar buzz ingredients.

Any of our readers born before 1980 knows that public school students once had two choices to quench their thirst. The water fountain in the hall, or the nickel pints of milk sold with cafeteria lunches. School kids of that era did not "get" through the day juiced on a sugar buzz to face algebra in the morning or social studies in sixth period. Funny, but test scores for reading, writing, and arithmetic seemed higher in the days when the student body was fueled by peanut butter and jelly or baloney sandwiches, a piece of fruit, and maybe an extra dime for an ice cream sandwich.

If the school board is so readily willing to sell our kids to soft drink makers for what amounts to less than one-percent of the budget, what can we expect from them next? Burger King logos on basketball jerseys? The senior prom brought to you by Surge?

What a marvelous revenue generating pawn our students have become. How convenient it is to let the junk food drive of adolescents and teenagers make up for cowardly budget decisions on the part of adults who should, and do know better.

The school board's decision is one that should leave every parent crying over spilled milk.

It leads us to believe the school board should be sent to its room for an ill-conceived thought process. The health and welfare of our students is worth far more than the fizz provided by a one-percent boost to the budget.

Of government for the developers?

Where were you at 2 a.m. Thursday, August 5th? Like most Floridians you were probably sleeping. However, your Seminole County Local Planning Agency was not asleep, instead, they were making important decisions affecting all of us.

Major growth and development issues, lumped together under "Miscellaneous Text Amendments," (last agenda item for the 7 p.m. meeting) were voted on and passed at 2 a.m. by the LPA. One of these amendments changes the definition of Seminole County's residential density from net to gross.

According to a county's 1998 vacant land survey document, this density change from net to gross would allow 34,649.51 dwelling units in unincorporated Seminole County instead of 19,210.25 units. So, without changing land use plans the county would be able to add 15,439.26 dwelling units! (at 3 people per unit this would be about 46,317 additional residents!)

Other additions to the amendments deal with property rights, tourism, the environment, and definitions of "Rural Area" and "Rural Subdivision."

Who knew about these "Text Amendments?" Obviously, the LPA Board knew about them. However, Bob West, an LPA board member running for County Commissioner, readily admitted that he just got back from vacation and didn't have much time to look at them. (This did not stop him from voting for them!)

According to the "Issue Paper" dated July 22, 1999 prepared by Frances Chandler, Director of Planning and Development, others also knew about the "Text Amendments."

The "Issue Paper" states: "Over the past 12 months County staff has been working with the Development Advisory Board (DAB) to review various proposed amendments to the Seminole County Land Development Code (LDC). These amendments were varied in their scope and nature and were generated by issues that were identified by several different sources including County staff, the County Commission, the local Planning Agency, and the DAB. There were several amendments that were identified and discussed that could not be addressed without amendment to the Seminole County Comprehensive Plan.

These items include: ... About 24 pages of the "Issue Paper" and "Text Amendments" follow.

It is very disturbing that the County staff, the County Commissioners, the Local Planning Agency and the Development Advisory Board all knew about the "Text Amendments;" but Seminole County residents most impacted by these amendments did not!

That night only about 15 citizens, most of them from WATCHDOG (Worried And Terribly Concerned Homeowners Disgusted Over Government) stayed until the "bitter end" of the 2:15 a.m. meeting. Despite citizens' pleas to deny the "Text Amendments" or table them until residents could be properly notified to allow input, the LPA unanimously approved the Amendments!

Most of us knew that the LPA Board members were "hand picked" by County Commissioners; but we did not know who was on the Seminole County Development Advisory Board until that night. During the meeting one objector named the Development Advisory Board members: "Mike Hattaway, Allan Goldberg, (CFG Real Estate Group, Inc.) Bob Foley (Crest Properties, Inc.), Bill Miller (SUDA, Inc.). See Eberle, Page 5A

America has a gun madness

Charlton Heston, president of the National Rifle Association, gets at least one thing right when he talks about gun control: Gun laws already on the books ought to be enforced more stringently. Of course, Heston has no opposition on the point. I've never heard anyone argue that gun thugs ought to be given a free ride.

The man who once played Moses is a big fan of Project Exile, which uses tough federal laws to give automatic five-year prison terms to felons caught in possession of a firearm. Started in Richmond, Va., where the program has been credited with a dramatic reduction in the homicide rate, Project Exile has now been copied by several other cities.

Heston is not the only advocate of Project Exile. President Clinton has praised the program. So has Handgun Control chair Sarah Brady. But only Heston and the rest of the gun lobby would end the discussion there, declaring the problem solved by locking up known criminals. Most of us are stuck with the nagging sense that the problem goes much deeper — that putting known felons behind bars for five years is a step in the right direction, but only a small step.

Most of us know of too many cases in which a gun — so handy when an argument starts or a grievance rags — converts a law-abiding citizen into a felon. Most of us have a gut-level sense that America's romance with guns tempts not only the known troublemakers into violence but also the steady, taxpaying types.

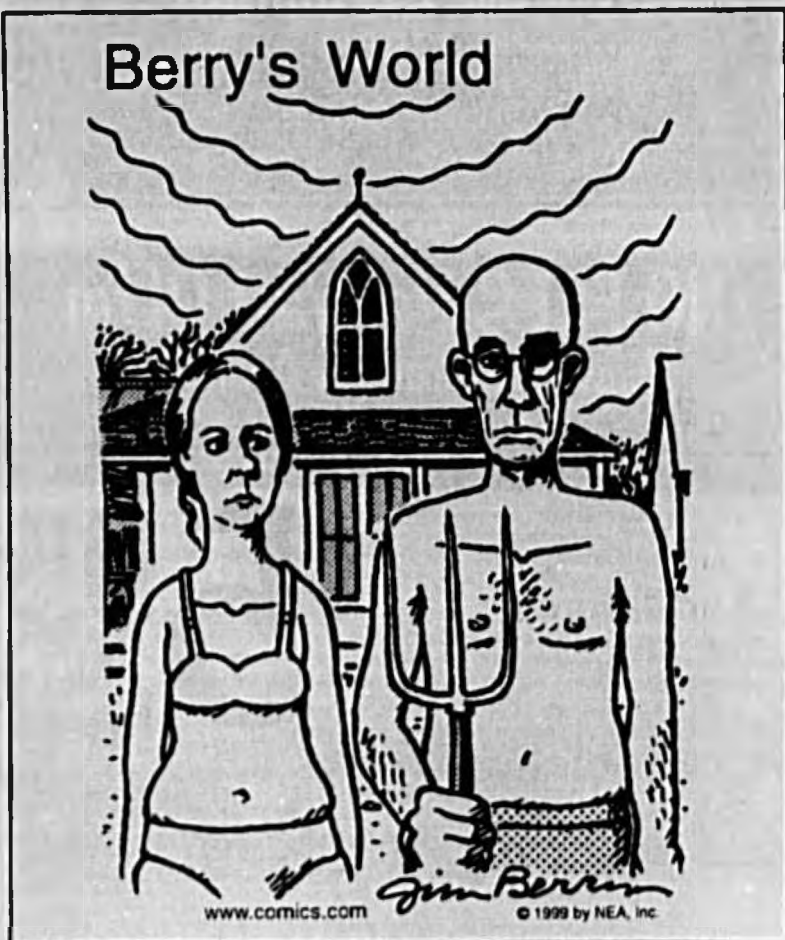

Consider a recent homicide in an Atlanta suburb, in which a high school baseball star was shot dead by an enraged man stalking his ex-wife. Karen Turner, a radio disc jockey, ran to a neighbor's house when her ex-husband threatened her. High school senior Rex Moncus let her in and hid her in a bedroom closet. James Wilson, armed with a shotgun, a .38-caliber pistol and an automatic handgun, blew the lock off the front door of Moncus' house and stormed inside.

When Moncus refused to disclose Karen Turner's location, Wilson shot the young man in the back of the head. Moncus died shielding his younger brother, who was struck in the shoulder. Police, who had by now surrounded the house, shot Wilson dead.

Better enforcement of current gun laws would not have stopped James Wilson. Project Exile can offer no punishment. Nor would criminal background checks have interfered with his purchases. He had no criminal record. All of his guns — including, incredibly, the automatic handgun — were quite legal. He had a federal license for it.

Perhaps no new laws would have stopped Wilson either, no more than new laws would have interfered with the Columbine High School massacre so meticulously planned by Eric Harris and Dylan Klebold. But all three of them — like so many of the people who pick up guns and, See Tucker, Page 5A

Back to what kind of school?

The students — new ones and survivors of last April's shooting — have returned to Colorado's Columbine High School. Numerous security precautions designed to keep out bad influences and weapons failed to prevent the drawing of swastikas on some bathroom walls.

Will tighter security make up for looseness in other areas?
Sen. Sam

Brownback (R-Kan.) wants to establish a bipartisan congressional committee to investigate the causes for our cultural decline. It's a good idea. Brownback can save some time by viewing a new video series created by attorney and Rutherford Institute President John Whitehead (yes, Paula Jones' lawyer) titled "Grasping for the Wind."

The seven-part series looks at the historic, intellectual, artistic and social forces that have contributed to Western humanity's cultural crisis. It is a sweeping work that covers such events as the two world wars, Vietnam and the Great Depression and traces how underlying philosophical concepts in art, music, science and world events have helped shape the present world view, which is now being taught to yet another generation.

This is no polemic. It is a serious, highly informative work that is even entertaining. It asks humanity's ancient questions: Who am I? Where did I come from? Why am I here? Where am I headed? The series asserts that modern man can no longer answer these questions, and the result is a chaotic world in which young people search for meaning in alcohol, drugs, promiscuity and violence.

Cal Thomas

New orthodoxies that have failed replaced old orthodoxies that mostly worked. Yet those responsible for the new orthodoxies do not want to relinquish their power, and so they persist in the failed ways, even as children kill and are killed. Attending school can now be more dangerous than crossing the street used to be. If life has no objective meaning, the series suggests, then it means only what someone says it means at the moment, and that can change as quickly as wind direction. With no anchor in their lives, many young people see schooling itself as irrelevant, especially since the process is frequently barred from offering significant guidance. The First Amendment, you know.

"Grasping for the Wind" traces humanity's search for meaning over the last 200 years and is shot on location where the artists painted, philosophers thought and wrote and politicians schemed to dominate the planet by evil means. Familiar and not-so-familiar philosophers, writers, painters and musicians are shown to have contributed far more than their art to the cultural decay. The series ought to be mandatory viewing in homes and schools for it awakens and provokes thought in our image-obsessed age. More than most anything else I've seen recently, this series answers the old questions and presents profound new ones that must be answered in order to reverse what metal detectors, surveillance cameras and guards in the halls cannot reverse.

The nihilism that has dominated much of Western thought and culture for the last two centuries is the cause behind the school shootings and other social tragedies. "Grasping for the Wind" exposes many of them.

At $39.98 for all seven installments on two videocassettes, it may seem pricey, but you won't think so when you view it. What it provides in one package is priceless. It can be ordered on the Web at www.grasping.com or by calling 800-225-1791. You won't be disappointed.

It will be disappointing if the decline continues and we stubbornly cling to ideas that have not worked and cannot. No new laws, no studies, no commissions, not even congressional panels, can reverse the slide. In order to chart a new course, we have to know how we got to where we are. "Grasping for the Wind" is a mirror reflecting the past and, for those who will take it, a road map out of the pit.

using them to kill someone, become criminals — are products of a culture that romanticizes, even venerates, firearms.

When CBS's news magazine show "48 Hours" did a piece on the Columbine massacre, it showed a photo of a 9mm Hi-Point carbine, one of the weapons used by Harris and Klebold. Almost immediately, orders for the gun shot up.

When President Clinton proposed a new law that would limit gun purchases to one a month (that's 12 a year!), he ran into resistance. Those are symptoms of a culture that worships the gun.

Like Heston, I want to put violent criminals behind bars. Every city in the country ought to adopt a hard-core approach to felons with firearms. But that won't be enough to stop the bloodshed in our schoolyards, in our streets, in our homes. That won't stop as long as we make guns sacred, as if the right to ownership of multiple, high-powered weapons were engraved on a stone tablet and brought down from a mountaintop.

Hugh Harling (Harling Locklin & Associates), Kevin Spolski (Spolski General Contractors, Inc.), John Howell (Maguire, Voorhis & Wells, PA), Bill Holmes (Conklin, Porter & Holmes), and Larry Dale (Developer and Mayor of Sanford). So, the DAB is comprised of lawyers, developers, engineers, and real estate companies.

The proposed "Text Amendments" will go before the Board of County Commissioners on Wednesday, August 25th at 7 p.m. in the County Commissioner's Chambers at 1101 E. First St. Sanford, Florida. Be There and tell the Commissioners to vote "no" on the "Text Amendments."

Once again government has violated the public's trust by not informing the citizens and including them in the process. Instead of Seminole County's motto - "A Natural Choice" their new motto must be, "Seminole County - Government Of The Developers, By The Developers And For The Developers."

Commission wants park checked for environmental problems

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Sanford City Commission wants to make sure the proposed site of a park on 13th Street is not environmentally contaminated before taking title to the land.

The commission is considering accepting just under three acres of land, located in the 800 block of 13th Street, as a donation and developing it into the new 13th Street Recreation Complex.

However, the land is also the former site of a gas station. So far, 322 tons of contaminated soil have been removed at the expense of the current property owners, and environmental tests are on-going.

"I have no problem with building a new park in that area," said Commissioner A.A. "Mac" McClanahan. "I do have a problem with the city taking title to anything that has any kind of contamination."

The new Recreation Complex would feature five basketball courts, lighting, and a picnic shelter with picnic tables and grills. The total cost of the project is estimated at $287,512. The site is currently fenced and vacant.

"I wouldn't have a problem at all with accepting the property contingent upon a final (environmental) report," said Sanford Mayor Larry Dale.

If the City Commission accepts the property, funding would be sought through grants and donations.

"We do not have funding set aside in the budget for this," said City Manager Tony VanDerworp.

Construction of the park would begin this fall, and be performed in three phases that could take two to three years to complete, said City Landscape Architect Howard Jeffries.

Four-foot fencing, a drinking fountain, bike rack, waste receptacles, lighting, three basketball courts and player benches, irrigation and sodding would be installed during the first phase. The cost of the initial phase is estimated at $101,000.

A multipurpose play area, restrooms, the picnic area, a paved parking area, park benches, and additional waste receptacles would be installed during the second phase.

Finally, two additional basketball courts, perimeter fencing, complete landscaping and irrigation, and additional player benches and waste receptacles would be installed in the third phase.

"The problem is that we only have a finite amount of money," said Commissioner Brady Lessard.

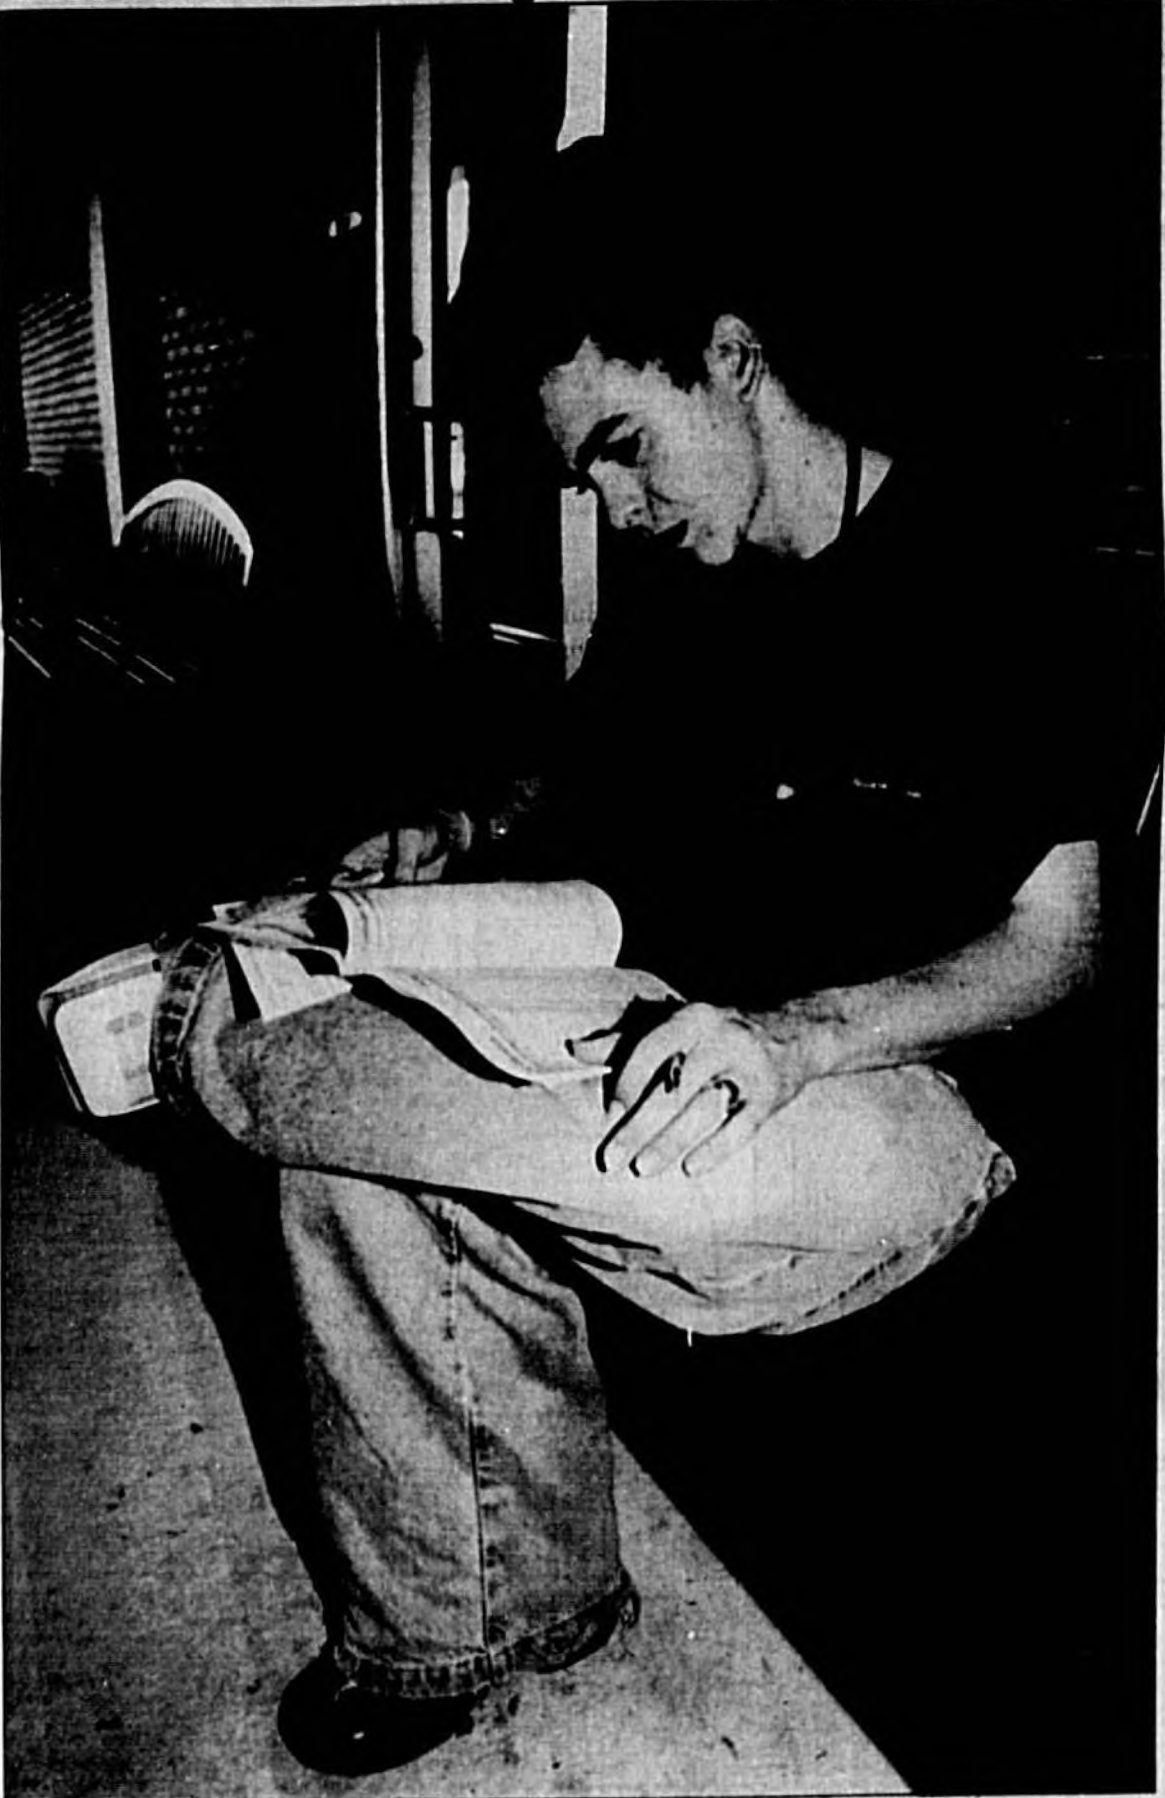

The annual maintenance for the facility, including mowing the grass twice per week, is estimated to be $2,500. Sanford currently spends $2 million on park maintenance per year, city officials said.

VanDerworp said that a detailed maintenance analysis on the proposed facility will be performed after October.

The commission has been considering developing the 13th Street property into a community park area since April.

Sanford currently has 35 designated parks, plus 25 other recreational areas, and more than 310 acres of park land.

HOROSCOPES

Although an arrangement might be foisted upon you by chance in the year ahead, the possibility is that you will end up forming a very fruitful alliance with this person. Both parties will benefit.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There are always moments when things can get a trifle difficult over who accommodates who in dealings with your mate. However, if some type of compromise isn't made, the situation could get worse. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Although you might be confronted with duties at work today that are far more difficult to perform than usual, there will also be greater compensation than usual for work well done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It might be wise today to forego large gatherings, even if you're in a sociable mood. They'll eventually get on your nerves, while small groups of pals could make you feel at ease.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll only be asking for defeat if you impulsively allow yourself to get into a mismatched competitive involvement where the other guy has the edge. Why take on a no-win arrangement?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try to select companions today who do not take themselves or life too seriously. Being around people who are ego-oriented could become down right uncomfortable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) The loss column could be waiting for you if you don't handle your resources carefully today. If financial trends appear a trifle uncertain, don't get involved in any long-term joint ventures.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A presumptuous companion might take it upon him or herself to make a critical decision for you today if you appear the least bit uncertain. Maintain control.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) There isn't any reason why you can't achieve your financial aims today, but it won't be worth it if you swap your principles for profit. Don't forsake your high standards.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If there is someone you don't like who is part of a group you do like, be careful not to show impatience with this adversary's antics when in their company today. Maintain a class act.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even if you feel you are right over a disagreement with an authority figure today, back off a pace or two. Everything will turn out fine if you don't try to fight city hall.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You can expect an unpleasant response today if you try to impose your methods or opinions on friends. Nobody every wins points by being a know-it-all.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Any deal is likely to collapse when there is an absence of patty, so if you get involved in a collective endeavor today, make certain there's an equality of input by all.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Another debatable double

By Phillip Alder

It is strange the way things go in groups — threes, some would say. I cannot stop seeing deals containing dubious penalty doubles. In this deal, though, the double had no effect on the number of tricks won by declarer, only on the score he received at the end.

Against your four-spade contract, West leads what you know from the auction to be the singleton heart jack. You win with the queen, then cash the spade ace, East discarding a heart. How would you continue?

East's three-heart opening bid wouldn't meet with universal approval, but the modern tournament player loves to preempt whenever the opportunity presents itself.

The declarer was Patrick Huang, most people's pick as the best player ever from the Far East.

After a heart to the queen and the spade ace, suppose declarer continues with another trump. West goes in with the king, puts his partner on play with a low diamond to the king, and ruffs away the heart ace. As South still has a heart loser, the contract fails.

Instead, before playing the second trump, Huang cashed the three club winners ending in hand. Now, when West won with the spade king, put his partner on lead in diamonds, and received the heart ruff, he was end-played. If he returned a club, declarer would ruff in one hand and discard his heart loser from the other. Yet when West tried to cash the diamond ace, Huang ruffed, played a trump to dummy's queen, and threw his heart loser on the established diamond jack.

Huang had found a variation on the Dentist's Coup.

ASK DR. GOTT

Mid-life crisis affects wife

DEAR DR. GOTT: What can I, as a wife, do to save my marriage? I want to help my husband through his mid-life crisis, yet preserve my own sanity.

Our family doctor thinks my husband needs help. He is 50. Each year, he has been getting worse. He has had a total change in personality, argues over everything, is sarcastic and selfish. Previously, he was soft-spoken, considerate and attentive. The perfect man! I want to get him through this. What can I do?

DEAR READER: The causes of so-called mid-life crisis are varied and complicated. I'm not at all convinced that you will be able to get him through this without the intervention of a counselor, psychologist or psychiatrist. In essence, your husband is not going to change until he recognizes that he is "out of synch" with himself, and takes action. I wonder if your vision of him as a "perfect man" may, in fact, be placing intolerable burdens on him. He may need your "permission" to be human — that is, flawed and imperfect.

I believe you could help him most by helping yourself. Interpersonal problems such as these are rarely one-sided. If you independently seek counseling to take care of yourself, you may discover useful ways to manage a difficult home situation. You may also learn, to your surprise, that you are inadvertently contributing to his crisis. When he sees you taking a constructive step, he may be encouraged to take responsibility for his own actions. By helping yourself grow, you may be astounded to experience the many positive and healthful consequences that can result.

DEAR DR. GOTT: After frequent swimming in a pool, I often develop a red rash that itches. Could this be from the chlorine?

DEAR READER: Chlorine can cause skin reddening and itching. So can an improper pH balance in the water. If the acid-base balance in the pool is correct and if the antibacterial solution is not excessive, you may be reacting to other components in the water. Some people are allergic to even minute amounts of swimming-pool additives. I suggest that you modify your exposure to the water, wash thoroughly with fresh water after swimming, and use emollient skin cream once you have dried off. If your rash persists, you may have to consider swimming in lakes or sea water.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Why does my 76-year-old husband chew his tongue? The habit is very annoying.

DEAR READER: He should see a doctor. Tongue-chewing could reflect a neurological disorder, such as Parkinson's disease, or it may simply be one of those unfathomable habits that older people pick up as they age.

King's Auto Service: It pays to love what you do

Just because King's Auto Service was established in 1988 doesn't mean they haven't kept up with the ever changing world of automotive repair.

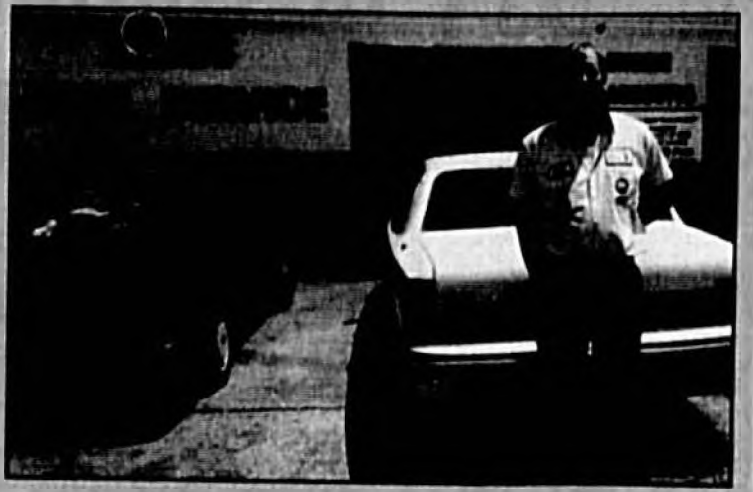

In fact, the staff of Kings is some of the most educated and up-to-date in all of Seminole County.

That's because owner Craig Smith has committed himself to the business and to keeping his people well trained.

"Training is a very important part of today's auto repair business," Smith said. "Keeping current information on hand and investing in the best quality equipment to ease in repairs helps us to keep our labor costs down and provide prompt, guaranteed service."

All of this is possible because Smith honestly loves what he does and where he does it. It's hard to run a business for 31 years and not love what you do and grow attached to the area in which you do it.

"I have had a love for cars since I can remember, actually for anything mechanical," Smith explained. "I also love Longwood. It's a wonderful town with great people and a wonderful history. Through the years, Smith's dedication to increased training and education has allowed his business to become nationally recognized by the ASE for master auto tech, master collision tech and H.D. truck tech. King's Auto Repair is also Chrysler and Ford Motor Company certified.

Every car deserves the attention and dedication given at King's Auto Repair.

Every car deserves the attention and dedication given at King's Auto Service. It's worth the trip to Longwood.

Reese will always be known as 'Pee Wee'

SANFORD - He was the captain and shortstop for a fascinating baseball team - the Brooklyn Dodgers. His name was Harold but no one called him that. From the time he was a Louisville schoolboy playing marbles with a pee-wee shooter, he was "Pee Wee" Reese.

Reese, who died recently, had 2,170 hits and made three times that many brilliant fielding plays. If Reese hadn't missed three seasons during World War II because of Navy duty, he probably would have been the Dodgers all-time hit leader.

No Dodger was more popular than Pee Wee Reese.

No Dodger played a more significant role in accepting Jackie Robinson to the big leagues.

One day when Robinson was being insulted by voices from the opposing team's dugout, Reese walked to Robinson and put an arm around him.

"I never forgot that day," said Robinson.

At 81, Reese was besieged by health problems. He had battled prostate and lung cancer. He made it to a few of the recent Hall of Fame ceremonies. He was inducted to the Hall in 1984. His many friends kept in close touch by letters, phone calls and visits.

As a 17-year-old Naval Reservist on two-weeks duty on the destroyer escort Decatur in the summer of 1957, I was with a bunch of crewmates who went to see the Dodgers play the Chicago Cubs in a doubleheader at Ebbets Field. That was the Dodgers' last year in Brooklyn. They moved to Los Angeles a year later, Reese's last as a player.

The Dodgers were concluding an infield drill when we came into the park.

The captain - Pee Wee Reese - was gobbling up fungoes and throwing strikes to first baseman Gil Hodges. Reese's fresh white uniform had a big No. 1 on it. No name - just a big No. 1.

It was 25-years later when I spotted Reese in one of the dugouts at the stadium in Montreal. He was there for the 1982 All-Star Game.

He was 64, greying and weighing 30 pounds more than his 1941 playing weight of 140. He had on a suit and a tie.

We began talking about Gil Hodges. It was apparent Reese thought highly of the late Dodger first baseman and manager of the 1969 Miracle New York Mets.

"Gil would be alive today if he hadn't gone into managing," Reese said. "That's what shortened his life. That's what made that big heart quick ticking."

Hodges had a fatal heart attack in April, 1972.

Reese was a coach one year but never wanted to be a manager.

"I don't know if I could have handled 25 guys," he said. "I never wanted to manage."

Reese said he had an offer to manage the Dodgers but he said, no. Walt Alston got the job. Reese did some broadcasting work and went back to his home in Kentucky.

Championship at Civic Center

Capone to battle The Player on SCW card

Special to the Herald

SANFORD - The monthly return of Southern Championship Wrestling (SCW) to Sanford will be this Friday at the Sanford Civic Center.

Last month's 'Summer Daze' event was a huge hit not only for wrestling fans but for people just wanting to get out of the house to see a great night of sports entertainment.

SCW promoter Chris Carson assures local fans that this week's event will indeed be a night that the Sanford audience will definitely enjoy.

Friday's scheduled card will be headlined by a title bout with SCW Heavyweight Champion Frankie Capone facing 330 pounds of The Player.

In tag team action, Freak Foundation member's O.G. Scarface and Shank Devlin will battle Billy X-Treme and "Mr. Hardcore" Al Bino, who will be accompanied to the ring by Sanford's own Sabrina Sapp. "Black Nature Boy" Scoot Andrews makes his return to Sanford to face SCW newcomer Havoc.

On the undercard will be matches with Bryan Austin, The Latin Knight, Jeff Peterson as well as many other wrestling favorites squaring off.

To top everything off, the ladies of the SCW plan to dance the night away as the SCW Main Event Dancers make a return to Sanford.

The wrestling action begins at 8 p.m. this Friday night at the Sanford Civic Center located at 401 E. Seminole Boulevard.

Tickets are available at various locations including, Billy Boy's (407) 321-0833 and Rays Appliances at (407) 328-0083.

Tickets are going for the popular prices of $7 in advance and $9 at the door.

A portion of the proceeds will benefit the Sanford Police Explorers as SCW strives to keep Sanford a safe community.

Nurmi nets hat trick for Knights

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - Senior Ari Nurmi (Helsinki, Finland/Hameenkyla High School) tallied the natural hat trick of three first half goals Tuesday, leading the University of Central Florida men's soccer team to a 5-2 victory over Lynn University in preseason action.

The Golden Knights struck quickly for a pair of goals in the first 11 minutes of the game.

Nurmi received a cross from classmate Arno Nurmisto (Helsinki, Finland/Hameenkyla High School) in the open on the left side just 1:32 into the contest.

Senior Rami Vehmas (Rovaniemi, Finland/Ounasvaara Sport High School) scored on a penalty kick at the 11 minute mark.

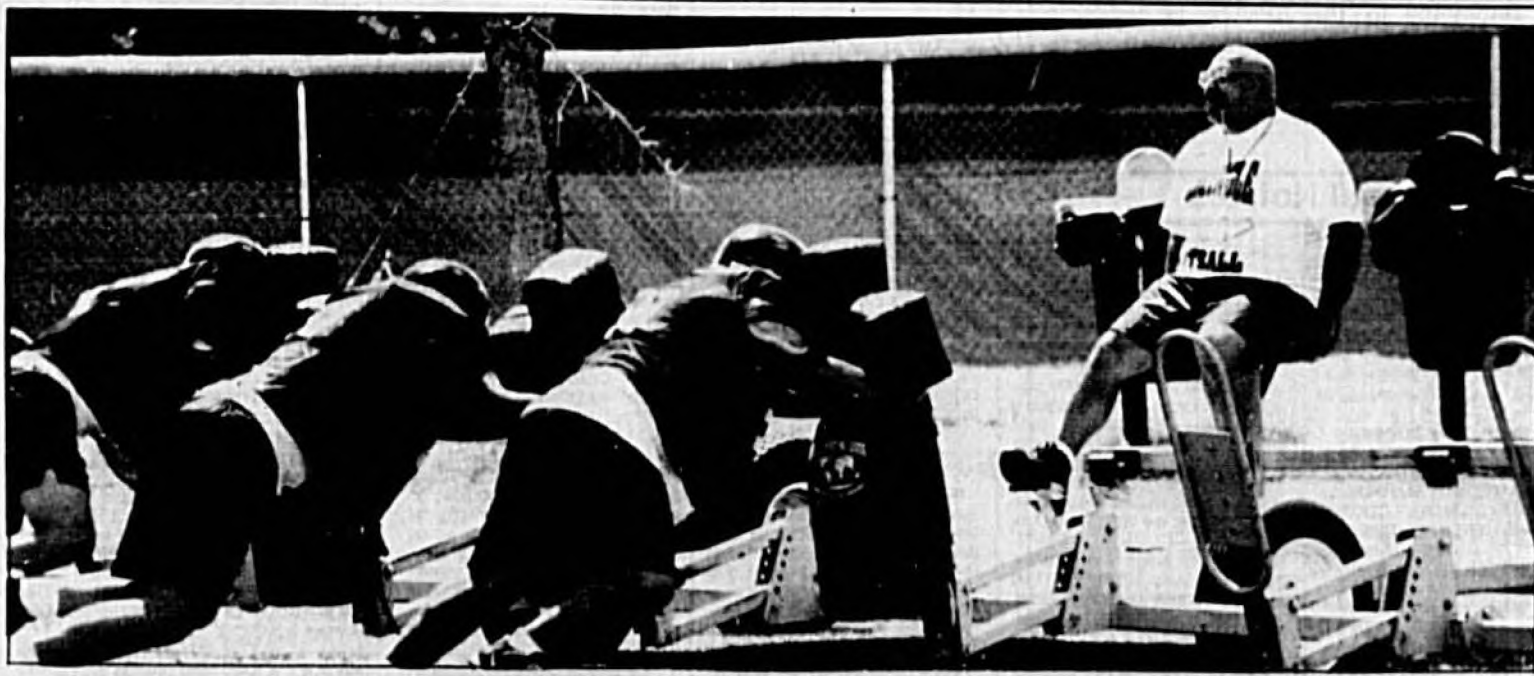

Nurmi added another goal in the 37th minute to make it 3-0 UCF before Ian Irving (Newcastle, England/George Stephenson High School) and Josh Kristowski (Tampa Catholic High School) put Lynn on the scoreboard with two goals.

Irving's goal came on a bicycle kick and Kristowski's on a rebound following a clean breakaway.

However, Nurmi put the Golden Knights ahead by two goals again just before halftime.

SANFORD - Seminole High School offensive line coach Adam Stansbury (above) rides the sled as he puts his charges through their paces during practice.

The Fighting Seminoles' effort on the hot afternoon brings a slight smile and a congratulatory hand from head coach Jim Worthington (right) as the Tribe continues to get ready for Friday's Kick-Off Classic.

Seminole will battle long-time rival, DeLand High School, starting at 7:30 p.m. at Spec Martin Stadium in DeLand this Friday.

That game should be a very good tune-up for next Friday's (September 3rd) regular season opener against another old rival, Lake Mary, at Don T. Reynolds Stadium starting at 7:30 p.m.

Solar Bears re-sign defenseman Dreger

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - Orlando Solar Bears (IHL) General Manager John Weisbrod has announced that the club has re-signed defenseman Berry Dreger.

Per team policy, terms of the deal are not disclosed.

Last season, Dreger played in eight regular season games with Orlando, tallying 57 penalty minutes. He also tallied four points (1-3-4) and 38 PIM's in 13 playoff games, helping the Solar Bears capture the Eastern Conference championship.

Dreger began the season with Adirondack of the AHL, the top affiliate of the Detroit Red Wings, recording four points (2-2-4) and 259 PIM's.

"We are very pleased to get Barry (Dreger) back in the fold," said Weisbrod. "He's been a large part of our team over the past four years, and played the best hockey of his life in last year's playoffs."

Now entering his ninth professional season, Dreger is one of three original members remaining from Orlando's inaugural squad in 1995-96 (Mark Beaufait, Todd Richards). He has appeared in 232 career games with the Solar Bears and stands as the all-time franchise leader with 1,143 PIM's. Dreger also ranks fifth on Orlando's all-time list in games played.

RDV/Sports, named for chairman Rich DeVos, is the parent company of the Orlando Magic of the National Basketball Association, Orlando Solar Bears of the International Hockey League, Orlando Miracle of the Women's National Basketball Association, the RDV Sportplex, Magic FanAttie retail outlets and Magic Carpet Aviation.

Female driver takes the wheel at Daytona International Speedway

Special to the Herald

DAYTONA BEACH - Only a limited number of women have driven Winston Cup stock cars at Daytona International Speedway. Monday, Sandra-Lee Whitson of Roy, Utah, became one of them.

Whitson is the second driver to complete the Richard Petty Driving Experience (RPDE) at Daytona International Speedway. The first RPDE driver to tackle the 31 degree high banks of the world famous superdewdway was Ed Neighoff of Mt. Airy, Maryland, who drove Saturday, August 21.

"Daytona is the Mecca of the racing world and I wanted to drive it," said Whitson after her first 8-lap round on the superspeedway. "I've driven the RPDE at Las Vegas Motor Speedway and Daytona is a greater challenge. The banks are steeper, the track is longer. I'm really impressed with Daytona and I'd like to do this again."

Since 1949, when Winston Cup racing got its start on the hard-packed sands of Daytona Beach, 11 women have competed in the Winston Cup division at Daytona.

Whitson's husband Sid sat along Pit Row and cheered her on.

"I love it," he said when asked about his wife driving at Daytona International Speedway. "When we got the information in the mail and she showed it to me I told her 'do it!'"

In July, Petty Enterprises and DAYTONA USA, "The Official Attraction of NASCAR," announced they had teamed up to provide a driving program at the track. The driving program at Daytona International Speedway will run each of the full days remaining in the RPDE's 1999 Daytona "Ride-Along Program" schedule.

Drivers must prequalify for the Daytona Experience. Criteria for prequalification includes the successful completion of a RPDE driving program at another motorsports facility. The Daytona Experience costs $2,499.99 plus tax.

Continuing for its second successful year at DAYTONA USA is the RPDE Ride-Along Program. This popular $99 ride gives fans a unique chance to strap on a helmet and experience a high speed, three-lap thrill ride - right from the passenger seat of a specially designed stock car. No prequalification is required.

The 1999 Daytona Experience schedule is: Aug. 26-30; Sept. 3-8; Sept. 9-13; Sept. 10-20; Sept. 2-24; Sept. 26-27; Oct. 7-8; Oct. 10-11; Oct. 29-31; Nov. 11-12; and Nov. 14. The RPDE Ride-Along Program runs on each of the dates above, as well as from 1-5 p.m. on Sept. 26, Oct. 9 and Nov. 13. All schedules are subject to change without notice.

For more information on the Daytona Experience at DAYTONA USA, call 1-800-BE-PETTY. For a schedule of 1999 RPDE Ride-Along Program dates, call (904) 947-6800 or visit www.daytonausa.com.
