Easter parties usually begin with an egg hunt and this one is no exception. Vary the usual hunt, if you wish, by cutting dozens and dozens of small oval shaped "eggs" from stiff colored paper. Hide them about the living soom, hall or any place desired.

Have larger eggs in the same colors, decorated with paper lace designs. The large eggs should be attached to narrow ribbons long enough to slip around a child's neck. Give one to each child and explain that each should hunt for small eggs the same color as the large egg he holds. If he find one of any other color he must not touch it or tell anyone where he saw it.
