The Gator Has Landed

Will the alligator replace the eagle as mascot of Sterling Park School in Casselberry? This foot-long gator showed up at the school door this morning to apply for the job and was captured by Educable Mentally Handicapped Primary Class teacher Ola Thompson, shown introducing him to pupils, Ebony Gooden and Gregory Telu. In background, left, Sareeta Wylie and Richard Hearn were a little more cautious. The friendly little reptile will be turned over to wildlife officers. Unless he or she wants to enroll for classes. School officials aren't sure what they would do, however, if the gator's mama shows up for a PTA meeting.

Budget Gets Final Okay

$67.9 Million Spending Plan Contains Tax Cut

By Micheal Beha
Herald Staff Writer

A $67,914,613 operating budget which includes a slight tax reduction has been approved by Seminole County commissioners for the coming year.

The tax cut won't amount to much however, because reappraisals will up the tax bills for most county property owners.

Commissioners voted 3-2 Tuesday night to approve the budget along with a $4.42 per $1,000 of assessed value countywide property tax rate. Last year's tax rate was $4.44 per $1,000 of value. Also approved for the unincorporated areas were tax rates of $1.80 per $1,000 for fire and rescue and $.53 per $1,000 for road and bridge repair.

Commissioners Robert G. "Bud" Feather and Bill Kirchhoff voted against the budget because it includes $1.4 million borrowed from a health trust fund for renovations to the old Seminole Memorial Hospital and the courthouse. The hospital will be used for county offices and the courthouse will be converted into courtrooms and offices for court personnel.

Feather and Kirchhoff have opposed the plan to borrow from the trust fund throughout three months of budget hearings but for different reasons.

Kirchhoff favored an increase in the tax rate, claiming the board's decision to borrow from the health trust fund could eliminate that fund which is designed to pay for indigent and Medicaid care in the county.

The board has included $593,000 in the budget to partially repay the trust fund and plans to make additional payments during each of the next four years. But Kirchhoff says there is no guarantee the money will be repaid. He points out that commissioners will be trying to avoid a tax increase next year when he, Feather and Commissioner Barbara Christensen are all up for reelection, and the temptation not to make next year's payment will be strong.

Feather has opposed renovation of the hospital, period. He favors building a new administrative complex at Five Points. "It's unwise to invest in capital expenditures for the hospital when the most effective site is at Five Points," he said Tuesday night.

The budget contains nearly $6 million which will be carried over from the 1982-83 budget. Those funds have been approved for projects which were not completed during fiscal 1982-83.

The largest of the carryover projects is a new health clinic which will be located on Airport Boulevard adjacent to the Zayre Plaza in Sanford. Construction on the clinic, budgeted at a cost of $2,270,044, is due to begin soon.

The spending plan includes $5,641,317 for commissioners and staff offices, $3,743,181 for central services, $8,177,021 for Public Services and Development, $6,626,423 for Public Safety, $7,181,287 for Health and Human Services, $9,234,758 for Public Works, $4,164,795 for Environmental Services, $8,376,026 for the Sheriff's Department and $4,819,229 for other constitutional officers. Another $8,357,387 is budgeted for the courts and court-related offices.

County Boosts Child-Care Subsidy Following Working Mothers' Pleas

After listening to mothers who said child-care assistance is the only thing keeping them off the welfare rolls, the Seminole County commission voted 3-2 Tuesday to boost its subsidy for Community Coordinated Child Care by $6,000.

The agency, better known as 4C, provides funds to low-income families so their children can attend day care centers allowing the parents to work or enroll in job training programs.

Commissioners Barbara Christensen and Sandra Glenn voted along with Sturm to increase the group's subsidy from $30,000 to $36,000. Commissioners Robert G. "Bud" Feather and Bill Kirchhoff voted no. Feather said the county has no excess funds. Kirchhoff said private industry should fund the agency's efforts.

At the county's final budget hearing, about 30 day care center operators, mothers who receive assistance through the agency and others who would like to be enrolled, told commissioners, sometimes tearfully, just how important the agency is to them.

Although 4C was scheduled to receive for the coming year the same amount, $30,000, it was allocated from the county last year, the agency expects to be hit by a reduction in state funds. It will probably not receive all of $11,000 of a state grant which it received through the county last year. Several cities in the county are competing for the funds and only about half of the $11,000 available has been designated for 4C.

The agency currently serves about 240 families in Seminole County but many more qualified applicants can't get into the program because there isn't enough money, according to Phoebe Carpenter, director of 4C. She said 160 qualified families were turned away last month.

But 88 families would have to be dropped from the program if the agency does not receive additional funding, said Sue Foreman, a member of the agency's board of directors.

"I have five children and have been working for two years at Rush-Hampton," said a tearful Brenda Hewitt of Sanford. "If I don't get help, I'll have to leave my 12-year-old at home to babysit the others."

An Altamonte Springs daycare center operator said enrollment at her center has already dropped from 40 to 16 because of the agency's funding shortage.

Several women who can't get 4C assistance have asked her for help, said Florence Ehrlich, but there's little she can do without 4C funding. "In not giving them an extra dollar you're taking away peoples' dignity, she said."

Republicans Start Voter Drive; Democrats Lead In Registrants

Seminole County Republicans are planning an intensive voter registration drive Friday and Saturday with a goal of signing up 500 new voters.

Jim Ocque, chairman of the committee in charge of the drive, said 35 members of various county GOP organizations have been trained and deputized to conduct the voter registration.

Meanwhile, the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee is continuing with a voter registration drive it has been conducting every Saturday and Sunday at Flea World since July 4.

Ocque said that in accordance with law there will be no partisan advertisement at the voter registration booths and citizens may register under the party label of their choice.

"We do believe, however, that a substantial proportion of those registering will choose to belong to the Republican Party to better support President Ronald Reagan and to continue the trends of the last three years away from the liberal doctrines of the past," Ocque said.

In July and August, however, some 1,115 new voters were registered to bring Seminole's voting strength to 79,744. Of the newly registered voters 613 designated their political party of choice as Democrat, while 502 preferred the Republican Party. The number of new voters does not reflect just those registered by the Democratic Party, but also includes those who have registered at the offices of Elections Supervisor Sandy Goard in the courthouse and the Interstate Mall and at the Lake Mary, Oviedo, Casselberry, Altamonte Springs, Longwood and Winter Springs city halls.

Through the end of August, registered Democrats in the county totaled 39,960 while Republicans totaled 33,060. The balance of the registered voters include 3,689 independents, 2,890 non-partisan and 145 others.

Marvin Meltzer, chairman of the local Democratic Party said his party's drive will continue into 1984. Earlier he announced a goal of 10,000 new voters before the 1984 elections.

Within the next month, Meltzer said the party's deputized workers will be going into the neighborhoods, to the unemployment office, the malls and shopping centers to register new voters.

Noticing that an almost equal number of new Republicans as Democrats have registered since the Democrats began their voter registration drive, Meltzer said, "That just shows how democratic we are."

Booths set up by the Republican committee will be open from 4 until 9 p.m., Friday, at the first floor center court of the Altamonte Mall and on Saturday at seven other sites around the county.

On Saturday, booths will be open at the following seven sites from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m.: the shopping center at U.S. 17-92 and Lake Mary Boulevard; the shopping center at the intersection of State Road 436 and Red Bug Road; Willa Shopping Plaza Publix at Red Bug Road and Tuskawilla, Eckerd Drugs, U.S. 17-92 and SR 434; Publix at Longwood Village Shopping Center, SR 434 near Interstate 4; at the Little Professor Book Center in the Springs Plaza, SR 434 and Wekiva Springs Road; Publix at the Hunt Club Corners, SR 436 and Hunt Club Boulevard.

Old School Bites Dust

A student's chair-desk is the lone evidence that this pile of rubble was once a school. Debris being bulldozed Tuesday is all that remains of what was the T.W. Lawton Elementary School built in 1922 in Oviedo. The old building was torn down to make way for a new one. Meanwhile the classes formerly housed there are temporarily meeting in portables.

Lake Mary To Consider Fire Hydrants, Police Car

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Commission will meet in special session at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, to consider five items left over from last week's regular meeting agenda, including expenditures for fire hydrants and bids on a new police car.

With the public hearing and consideration of the city's proposed $1 million budget for the 1983-84 fiscal year last week, there was no time to take action on the items, explained City Clerk and Acting City Manager Connie Major.

The commission gave the budget preliminary approval after reducing many line items and settling on a tax rate of $4.10 per $1,000 assessed valuation of real property. The proposed new tax rate is a reduction of 5 cents per $1,000 over the current year's $4.15.

The first proposed budget for the new year submitted to the commission by Mayor Walter Sorenson and City

Treasurer Madeleine Minns, called for a tax rate of $4.76 per $1,000 which would have meant an increase in the tax rate of 61 cents.

Mrs. Minns explains that the higher rate was originally proposed because once the figure was advertised, it could not be increased, but it could be reduced which the commission did.

A final hearing on the budget and adoption is scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Sept. 29.

At this Thursday's special meeting the commission will consider: approving expenditures for fire hydrants on Lake Mary Boulevard and Rinehart Road; bids on a new police car; amending an ordinance on connection fees to the city water system; a pension plan for general city employees and an amendment to the city personnel

Since the developer of Feathers Edge, a condominium community near Lake Mary Boulevard and Rinehart Road, will be extending the city's water line from The Forest, Public Works Director Jim Orloles said today it is usual city practice to install fire hydrants at the same time.

He estimated that six or seven hydrants at a cost of $6,000 to $7,000 should be installed along the stretch of Lake Mary Boulevard and Rinehart Road. He noted this will also provide additional fire protection to the businesses and other structures in that area.

The city has received a bid from only one dealer for the new police car. Chief Harry Benson estimates the new vehicle will cost in the $9,800 to $10,000 price range. The city last bought new cars for the police department two years ago. Police personnel have said that patrolling Lake Mary's 26 miles of unpaved roads is hard on vehicles.

The amendment to the city's code, which is slated for consideration, would increase connection fees to the water system from an average of $310 to $450. City staff some weeks ago conducted a survey showing that Lake Mary's water connection fees were among the lowest in the area.

The commission will also consider adopting an amendment to the city's personnel policy to pay employees, such as those in public safety, who must work on holidays, rather than having those employees accumulate compensatory time.

Mayor Walter Sorenson said that at one point recently the city actually owed police personnel some $6,000 worth of compensatory time and this was a factor in deciding to pay those employees for the time instead and get the matter over with.

It was not difficult for the compensatory time to accumulate, Sorenson said, considering 10 police department officers and dispatchers and seven paid holidays a year.

Various city commissions have been considering a pension plan for city employees for several years. Action on a plan is expected at Thursday night's meeting.

NATION IN BRIEF

Beef Ban Ordered Pending Investigation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary John Block has ordered an immediate halt to all distribution to the school lunch program of ground beef that was processed by two related firms.

The firms are Cattle King of Denver, Colo., and Nebraska Beef of Gering, Neb.

Block's action was prompted by television reports that ground beef from Cattle King came from substandard cattle and may have been processed under less than sanitary conditions. Block said the results of tests on meat samples should be available within a few days.

Routine samples taken from those plants since October 1981 showed no health threat and there have been no reports of illness associated with beef from the two plants, the Agriculture Department said.

Dow Hits All-Time High

NEW YORK (UPI) — A late burst of buying sent the Dow Jones average to an all-time high Tuesday and some analysts said the bull market that started last year was beginning its second leg.

The Dow Jones Industrial average climbed 15.25 points to a record 1,249.19 Tuesday, topping its previous mark of 1,248.30 set on June 16. The Dow, which has hit new highs 24 times this year, has jumped 34.15 the past three sessions and is 472.26 points higher since the bull market began Aug. 13, 1982.

"A decline in interest rates and projections of a small drop in the money supply this week were big factors in the move today," said Harry Vilcek of Sutro & Co. in Palo Alto, Calif.

A group of analysts predicted the Fed would report a $200 million decline in the nation's money supply Friday, which would make conditions ripe for easier credit.

Book Fair At Goldsboro

The Goldsboro Elementary School Student Council is sponsoring a book fair through Friday in the school's media center.

Compromise Reached On War Powers Flap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration and Congress, with the only resistance coming from Senate Democrats, are working quickly to complete action on a compromise on the war powers act that would keep U.S. Marines in Lebanon for 18 more months.

The Senate and House foreign affairs committees swiftly scheduled hearings today to take up the compromise resolution. Secretary of State George Shultz was set to testify in morning and afternoon hearings to outline administration policy and goals in Lebanon.

The compromise under which Congress is expected to approve the Marines' stay in Lebanon was agreed to reluctantly by President Reagan and House Democratic leaders. It was announced Tuesday by House Speaker Thomas O'Neill and later at the White House.

Despite complaints from Senate Democrats who object to keeping the Marines in Beirut for so long, the package appeared to have a good chance of passing both chambers, possibly next week.

Robert Byrd Ronald Reagan

...Byrd says he won't support compromise unless Reagan comes up with a better justification for the need for U.S. Marines to stay in Lebanon for another 18 months.

The plan would allow the Marines to stay in Lebanon another 18 months but would restrict their role.

Congressional leaders said the compromise was a victory for them because Reagan agreed to acknowledge the 1973 War Powers Resolution. The White House said it means Congress has agreed with Reagan's Lebanon policy.

The compromise also defines the Marines' mission in terms of their participation in the multinational peace-keeping force and restricts them to the Beirut area under the pact. But it is flexible enough to allow U.S. involvement in "such measures as are necessary to protect the Marines." This would permit the use of naval gunfire and tactical air support.

The compromise was promptly introduced in the House and Senate and Democrats on the House Foreign Affairs Committee agreed to support it. Senate Republican leader Howard Baker asked for "expedited proceedings" on the resolution in the Senate.

Reagan said he would sign the measure if it passes Congress as it stands.

"While I have substantial reservations ... I am pleased that this agreement among the congressional leadership supporting our presence and policies in Lebanon has been reached," he said.

Reagan called O'Neill from Air Force One shortly before returning to Washington from Columbia, S.C. Tuesday night "to express appreciation for his work on the compromise." White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters.

The compromise resolution says that Reagan should have invoked the War Powers Resolution following the deaths of two Marines among the U.S. peacekeepers Aug. 29. The compromise provides for Reagan to sign the resolution while declaring his disagreement with the war powers act.

"The signature of the president, no matter what his disclaimers are, is acknowledgement of the war powers act," O'Neill said.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd said his minority Democrats were not "wired into" the plan and he would not support an 18-month extension unless the administration offers "a better justification" of the need for it.

17-Year-Old Sanford Youth Charged In Rape

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy broke down a bedroom door at a Sanford area house Tuesday night and arrested a 17-year-old Sanford youth whom the deputy said was raping a 22-year-old woman in her home.

The deputy's report gave this account of the incident: Responding to a report of a rape in progress at a house in Sunland Estates, the deputy looked in a bedroom window of the house and saw a male and a woman having intercourse at about 10:31 p.m.

The deputy entered the front door of the house, which was unlocked, and found the bedroom door locked. He kicked the door in and handcuffed a male he found in the room.

The woman told deputies the youth raped her, the report said.

The youth was arrested and charged with sexual battery and placed in the Seminole County Juvenile Detention facility.

DEPUTY ATTACKED

A 29-year-old woman struck a Seminole County sheriff's deputy with her car door and wrestled with him when he attempted to arrest her for drunk driving near Sanford early Tuesday.

Elizabeth Ann Conley, 430 South Ridgewood Ave., Daytona Beach, was arrested on a charge of battery on a police officer and was being held in the Seminole County jail today in lieu of $5,000 bond.

Deputy James W. Virgin gave this account of the incident:

Virgin saw a woman drive into the Imperial gas station on State Road 46 at Interstate 4 at about 1 a.m. The woman got out of her car, staggered, entered the station and used loud and profane language when she saw Virgin.

Virgin advised her that she should not be driving in her condition and advised her to call someone to pick her up. Virgin left the station and 15 minutes later he spotted the woman's car, westbound on State Road 46, and saw it cross the center line several times.

Virgin pulled the car over, and as he approached the vehicle, the woman pushed her door open "as hard as she could," striking Virgin's legs. She got out of the car, grabbed Virgin around the neck and "started to fight." He wrestled with her, she knocked his eyeglasses off, and he finally handcuffed her.

Another deputy arrived and assisted Virgin in placing the woman in the back seat of the patrol car and taking her to the Seminole County jail.

At the jail, she became violent again, and it took four correctional officers to place her in a holding cell.

WINDOW SHOT OUT

A woman said her car window was shot out as she was driving on State Road 419 just west of Tuscaawilla Road at about 10:55 p.m. Saturday.

Patricia Hedgecock, 25, of 740 E. Michigan Ave., Orlando, said she was eastbound in her 1982 Oldsmobile Cutlass when the passenger window was shot out by what appeared to be a BB gun projectile.

She said she thought the person who fired the gun was hiding in thick underbrush along the roadway.

Mrs. Hedgecock was not harmed, according to a Seminole County sheriff's report.

PURSE SNATCHED

Two men on bicycles grabbed an 85-year-old Sanford woman's purse and knocked her to the ground at 9:50 a.m. Monday as she was walking on Holly Avenue near West Sixth Street.

Maude Fields, 206 W. Third St., sustained a small cut on her forehead and a bruise on her right foot, police said.

Mrs. Fields said the two men on bikes approached her from the rear and pulled her purse from her arm, knocking her down. The purse contained $10 in cash.

She said she got up, walked to a nearby business and called police.

ARREST

A 19-year-old Orlando man was being held in the Seminole County jail today without bond on a charge of committing sexual battery on a 7-year-old Seminole County girl.

Jailed was Rodney Dean Surratt of 9701 Forest City Road. According to the arrest report, the girl told sheriff's investigators that the sexual assault occurred between March and July.

The girl's parents reported the assault to the sheriff's department last week, according to Capt. Jay Leman who declined to give any further information about the case.

MONEY VANISHES

A blue Flagship Bank money bag which contained $4,584 in cash was taken from Jim's TV shop on West State Road 434 in Longwood.

Dorothy Muir Dellavalle, 53, an employee of the shop, said the money bag disappeared between 5:50 p.m. on Sept. 10 and 4:44 p.m. Tuesday.

CHURCH BURGLARY

A 50-gallon capacity propane gas tank was stolen from the east side of the New Bethel A.M.E. Church on North Cockran Road in Geneva between 10 a.m. Sept. 3 and 10 a.m. Sunday.

Nuke Freeze, 'Build-Down' Before Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In an unusual parliamentary situation, the Senate now has before it two arms control proposals that were both rejected by its powerful Foreign Relations Committee.

The first proposal is for a bilateral nuclear weapons freeze. The second, the "double build-down," calls for destruction of old nuclear weapons as new ones are deployed, taking into account their actual destructive power as well as the number of nuclear warheads.

The committee at first defeated both proposals, but then voted Tuesday to send them to the Senate with negative recommendations.

The turn of events came at a long-awaited meeting of the committee to vote on a resolution calling for a mutual, verifiable freeze and reduction in the testing, production and deployment of nuclear weapons.

The House last spring passed a heavily amended version of the resolution, which is strongly opposed by the administration on grounds that it would tie the hands of U.S. negotiators at the arms control talks in Geneva.

But as the meeting began, Chairman Charles Percy, R-Ill., offered an alternate resolution calling for the "double build-down" and scheduled a vote on both.

The original build-down concept calls for destruction of two old nuclear weapons for every new one deployed. Percy's "double build-down" would consider the destructive power as well as the numbers of warheads as an alternate to a freeze resolution.

President Reagan has endorsed the general idea of a build-down, but has not agreed to any specifics.

In the end, however, the committee voted 10-4 to send both measures to the full Senate with negative recommendations.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Orphan Millionaire Keeping Low Profile

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Eric DeWild, an orphan who became a millionaire when he found a sack of jewels by a railroad track, didn't show up for a police news conference to announce the deal had been sealed because he fears for his life, his lawyer said.

But now that the jewels are formally his and are safe in a bank, the 16-year-old boy is expected to return to school and resume a normal life, attorney Charles Morgan said.

DeWild found the bag full of $1.3 million in jewels 184 days ago, and under Florida law he had to wait 180 days to give people who believed it was their stolen property a chance to claim it. No one presented a verified claim.

"He was involved in a hit-and-run accident a few days after he found the jewels," lawyer Charles Morgan said. "There's been some strange cars by the house and some people have come up and said 'Give me a diamond tomorrow or I'll kill you.'"

Ministers vs. Liquor

MILTON (UPI) — Ministers calling drinking a "sin" are ready to battle a new effort to make liquor sales legal in "dry" Santa Rosa County, officials say.

"The Bible is against any kind of sin whether it is legal or illegal, and the Bible is certainly against drinking," the Rev. Mac Johnson said Tuesday. "Anybody would be un-Christian to take a drink."

More than 20 representatives of county churches gathered at a Santa Rosa County Ministerial Association meeting Monday and approved a resolution condemning plans for a petition drive seeking a referendum on the liquor sales question. Johnson is president of the association.

Similar referendums were defeated by a 380-vote margin in 1972 and by 2,576 votes in 1977.

A Doggone Mess

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) — St. Petersburg dog owners have one month to equip themselves with the necessary gear to clean up after their animals whenever they make a mess outside their own yards.

The City Council approved the so-called "Pooper-Scooper" ordinance last week and it takes effect Oct. 15.

City officials said dog owners are supposed to take the feces home, not toss it in the nearest trash container.

The ordinance provides for fines up to $500 and 60-day jail sentences, although some council members said they would favor warnings for first offenders.

Teacher Testing Shelved

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Cabinet has shelved, perhaps for good, an Education Standards Commission proposal to test teachers when their certificates are up for renewal.

It decided Tuesday to put off until next March any action on the plan and require that it be restudied and reworked.

Gov. Bob Graham, who favors recertification testing, dissented and called the decision "a very serious turn of events."

"It's not going to speak well of how we carry out our duty as the chief administrative board of public education of Florida," Graham said.

The standards commission, chaired by University of Florida education dean David Smith, proposed that requirements for recertification of teachers be stiffened and the new standards include passage of a written test on the subject matter being taught.

The Cabinet adopted a resolution by Secretary of State George Firestone rejecting the commission's plan and instructing Smith's group to develop a much more detailed proposal which may or may not include testing.

While the resolution was not a specific rejection of the concept of testing veteran teachers, Firestone made clear his feeling that the idea is bad. He called the plan "an over-simplification" and said he is tired of teachers "being made the whipping boy" of critics of the schools.

Education Commissioner Ralph

Ralph Turlington

...says legal obstacles may prevent recertification tests

Turlington interpreted the resolution not as a rejection, but as a requirement that the Smith panel look further at the concept to see if it is, in fact, feasible.

Turlington, who believes testing might be appropriate for teachers of certain subjects, but not for teachers of other subjects, says the commission may find after further study that testing is not practical.

"I think, quite honestly, you're going to run into some legal difficulties that are going to cause you to have to give up, at least in part, some of these concepts. I might regret that, but I think that might well be the case."

Graham had wanted the commission instructed to come back in January with a plan to implement its current recommendation, including the testing.

He wanted the Cabinet to be in a position to adopt a new recertification system or at least propose one before the Legislature begins its study of the area.

Current teacher certification laws "sunset" in 1985. The legislative review necessary because of this expiration will begin early next year.

The teachers unions have fought bitterly to shelve the commission's plan since it was proposed this summer. They showed up Tuesday to condemn it once again.

People applying for a Florida teaching certificate for the first time must pass a test, but recertification requirements are limited to completion of a certain number of continuing education courses.

The current recertification requirements clearly are inadequate and don't ensure that only high quality teachers remain in the classroom, Smith told the Cabinet.

And, he added, "the quality of our schools can rise no higher than the quality of our teachers."

Orlando Collects More User Fees Than Any Other City In The State: Study

ORLANDO (UPI) — Rapid growth in the past decade has prompted Orlando to take the lead among Florida cities in the user fee race, according to a university study.

Overall, the state of Florida is pioneering a national movement toward user fees. A Florida State University report showed that Florida collected twice as much in user fees per resident as the annual national average of $79.

Proponents tout user fees as a way to force city residents to know the true costs of public services — building inspections, sewage treatment, recreation, garbage, parking, bus fares, street lights and zoning permits.

User fees also help local governments replace their traditional dependence on property tax and offer an appearance of fairness since people who benefit from a public service are charged for it, supporters say.

The report said Orlando, the state's seventh largest city, collected more money in user fees on a per resident basis than any other city in Florida.

According to 1980 figures, Orlando collected $212 in user fees per resident compared to $33 in Miami, $126 in Tampa and $114 in St. Petersburg. Pensacola was second to Orlando, collecting $207 in user fees.

Orlando's place at the top of the state list can be attributed to its rapid growth, city officials said.

The city's quick expansion gave officials a chance to try new ideas for financing its services with an emphasis on making newcomers pay their own way.

"You really have an abhorrence of property taxes in this state," said Lex Hester, Orlando city administrator.

Higher environmental costs for such things as sewage treatment and water protection also encouraged local government officials to pay the operating costs of treatment facilities with user fees rather than driving up property taxes, said Hester.

S. Florida Becoming 'Dodge City Of Consumerism'

MIAMI (UPI) — A new breed of hustlers and scam artists is turning southern Florida into "the Dodge City of consumerism," fraud investigators warn.

Mall fraud and land swindles are nothing new to the Gold Coast but in the past six months, prosecutors have traced back to Florida dozens of firms suspected of bilking unsuspecting clients out of millions, authorities said.

The scams include everything from illegal charities to "boiler room" operations that sell various goods at exorbitant rates or sell items but never bother to deliver them.

"I've always considered this area the Dodge City of consumerism," said Walter Darland, Dade County's consumer advocate.

"We get calls continually," said Carl Yeagan, an inspector at the U.S. Postal Service regional office in Memphis, Tenn. "The number of boiler rooms has been increasing in the south Florida area for the past several months and it does not appear to be leveling off."

According to a survey conducted in March by the U.S. Senate Special Committee on Aging, consumer fraud nationwide is a $5 billion-a-year industry.

South Florida has become a haven for many of those shady operators for several reasons, authorities said.

"It's a nice place to do business," said Mike Pasano, chief of the U.S. Attorney's fraud division in Miami. "The sun has a lot to do with it."

A heavy influx of money from Latin America, the drug industry and the elderly also provide ample fleeing grounds, officials said.

"Where there's new money around for investment, it draws fly-by-night operators like flies," said assistant U.S. Attorney Leon Keiner.

A lack of manpower to fight white-collar crime is an important factor in the proliferation of scam operations, investigators said.

"There's no question we've had a traditional resource problem on the federal level," said Pasano, one of six attorneys assigned to the fraud section of the U.S. Attorney's Office in Miami.

Just last week, three Miami-based companies were accused of bilking investors across the country out of $56 million by telling prospective investors they had an inside track to obtaining lucrative oil and gas leases from the government.

One of the 24 people indicted in the scam was Henry S. Harris, the president of the Better Business Bureau of south Florida. Harris surrendered to authorities last Friday and pleaded innocent to charges that he took bribes from the oil and gas companies to BBB records.

The demise of Fort Lauderdale's International Gold Bullion Exchange also attracted nationwide attention. Operated by two brothers, William and James Alderdice, the company went bankrupt after they were accused of defrauding customers out of up to $40 million.

The Alderdices are now in jail on a New York indictment and a federal indictment, charging them with a total of 53 counts of fraud.

Law enforcement officials say new cases are piling up so quickly that they can't keep up with them.

"We're up to our ears in cases," said postal inspector Norris Penland. "We're not opening new cases because we can't finish the ones we're already on. The Postal Service could double its manpower here and still have more work than we could handle in white-collar

Coalscam

SHAMOKIN, Pa. (UPI) — Police in Northumberland County are looking for whoever stole 400 tons of anthracite from a coal company during the weekend.

Coal Township Police Chief Jesse Weaver said the thieves used a payloader belonging to Top Grade Coal Co.'s to move the coal into trucks and then returned the vehicle to a garage Sunday.

"It must have taken six to eight hours at least to load that much coal."

The 400 tons of hard coal, which sells for $72 a ton, had a value of $28,800, the police chief said.

Afghan Refugees Burden Pakistanis

The turmoil in Afghanistan, where rebels are battling the 100,000 Soviet troops occupying their homeland, is beginning to take its toll on neighboring Pakistan.

Since the Soviets invaded in 1979, more than 3 million Afghan refugees have fled across the Khyber Pass to Pakistan. Many settled in Peshawar, a border town ideally located for the rebels' hit-and-run attacks on Soviet positions inside Afghanistan.

But the presence of so many refugees and the resentment they stir among the natives threatens the stability of the regime of Pakistani President Zia ul Haq.

Pakistanis complain the refugees compete for jobs and food. They are accusing some of the Afghans of drug and arms trafficking.

The rebels believe, with good reason, that these internal pressures will prompt Pakistan to seek an accord with Afghanistan's government that would solve the refugee problem, even at the expense of the Afghan resistance.

They fear that if Pakistan sours on the refugees and the world loses interest in their rebel cause, the Russians might grow increasingly bolder, infiltrating or even attacking the refugee camps.

Afghan rebels view with suspicion the possibility of an agreement between Pakistan and the Soviet-backed regime in Afghanistan.

Nevertheless, we support these talks, recognizing that the conflict in Afghanistan must not be allowed to poison its neighbors with violence and revolution.

Currently, negotiations under the aegis of the United Nations are under way which, if successful, could lead to withdrawal of Soviet troops from Afghanistan. In exchange for troop withdrawal, the agreement would call for repatriation of the rebels, an Afghan government friendly to Moscow and an end to aid to the Afghan guerrillas.

While progress on an accord is admittedly slow, there are some encouraging signs. U.N. negotiators, for instance, plan to bring Afghan refugee leaders into the talks, a move that we hope will alleviate some of their suspicions.

An agreement cutting off aid to rebels obviously will be distasteful. But if Russian troops leave Afghanistan, the terms may be worth the price.

The war against the Soviet-backed Afghan regime of President Babrak Karmal has gone on for more than three years.

If it drags on several years more, as it threatens to do, growing Pakistani resentment against the refugees could make their camps an inviting target for attack.

We have seen how such hatred led to the massacre of innocent civilians in Lebanon's Palestinian refugee camps. We do not want history to repeat itself in Peshawar.

Best-Kept Secret

Bad boys get the teacher's attention. Trouble-some countries dominate the headlines.

Costa Rica is the Central American country Americans hear least about. It isn't ravaged by a civil war, like El Salvador. It doesn't have death squads, like both El Salvador and Guatemala. It doesn't have a repressive leftist regime, like Nicaragua. It's not the scene of U.S. military maneuvers like Honduras. It doesn't contain a strategic shipping canal, like Panama.

Costa Rica doesn't even have an army, like all other countries in Central America.

What does Costa Rica have? A democracy that has functioned since 1949. A tradition of political tolerance. A commitment to social progress. An ability to live with its neighbors, be they right-wing or left-wing.

Costa Rica is a haven of sanity and moderation in a region racked with violence and extremism.

What is Costa Rica's secret?

It must have something to do with moderation and respect for law. It must stem from an ability of Costa Ricans to live together without resorting to violence or ideology to settle differences. It must be based on a broad group of small landowners and shopkeepers not an oligarchy of huge plantation owners and reigning families.

As America contemplates a military buildup in Central America to defend our flank, as some advocate, it would be well to ask why a tiny nation of 2.2 million, located next to Nicaragua, sees no need for an army.

We hope that Costa Rica never needs one. We hope the domino effect begins in Costa Rica and heads north, spreading democracy, non-violence and social progress across Central America.

If it doesn't, we just hope Costa Rica remains so peaceful it stays out of the news.

"You're not LOSING a DAUGHTER, you're GAINING a PUNK!"

By Jane Casselberry

The various high school boosters groups are busy raising big bucks for their pet projects these days.

Lake Mary High School Booster Club has scheduled a Monte Carlo Night on Oct. 1 at the Eastmonte Civic Center, Altamonte Springs, to raise money for construction of the school's new Sports Complex now underway. The event, which will begin at 7 p.m., is open to the entire community. There will be a $5 donation and those attending must be 19 or over.

Lake Howell High School's Silver Regiment Band will benefit from an auction to be held at 1 p.m. on Oct. 8 at Butler Plaza on State Road 436, Casselberry. All sales will be absolute and inspection and registration will begin at noon. Items will be auctioned off by professional auctioneer Dav Manor. Among the things being auctioned off is a used car donated by Jimmy Bryan Toyota.

If you have anything to donate for the auction call Betty Lou Dorf at 657-2919. Proceeds will go to buy equipment and instruments for the marching and concert bands.

Are you new to Seminole County? Are you confused about such things as voter registration, the public school system, or who to call in an emergency? Answers to these and many more questions have been compiled by the League of Women Voters of Seminole County in its Newcomer's Guide to Seminole County.

Available without cost to county residents, the Newcomer's Guide lists facts on county government, parks, libraries and schools, emergency services and telephone numbers of county agencies.

It is available at county libraries, voter registration and driver's license offices, major personnel offices, Seminole Community College, chambers of commerce, some city halls and county realtors and offices of Freedom Bank, which underwrote printing costs.

Both the Seminole County and Orange

County voter registrars are cooperating to sign up voters from the two counties in something of a first for this type effort. Residents of the two counties who are not yet registered to vote may do so at the Goldenrod Craft Fair and Flea Market Bazaar to be held Oct. 1 at the Goldenrod Civic Center on Palmetto Avenue, one block south of Aloma Avenue.

The community is located partly in Orange and partly in Seminole. Individual crafts persons will sell and display their work in many media including wood, metal, glass, clay, collage of neolework, quilting and homemade items such as jellies and jams. Deadline for entry is Sept. 25. For information call 678-8080.

Proceeds from sales will go to artists with space rental fees going towards improvements for the civic center. Refreshments, hot dogs and other snacks will be available. The rain date for the event has been set for Oct. 8 in case the weather man is unkind.

VIEWPOINT

How To View The 'Massacre'

By John Patrick Cregan

(Editor's Note: Mr. Cregan, a former legislative assistant to the late Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio, holds a MA in Soviet and East Europe history from John Carroll University. His columns are distributed by the USBIC Writers Group.)

With each day, the horror produced by the incomprehensible downing of the Korean commercial airliner recedes a little — deferring to new crises and limited memories.

All the adjectives used to communicate the barbarity of the Soviet action have been exhausted. What is less clear is how the world community — and more specifically, the U.S. — should respond to the incident. In a nationwide address last week, President Reagan charged the Soviets with "massacre" and then listed a litany of U.S. countermeasures not commensurate with the angry tone of his rhetoric. This disturbed those who urged the President to respond in ways that would rival in drama the provocation itself. One suggestion favored by many conservatives was to immediately sever diplomatic ties with the Kremlin.

The Reagan administration had determinedly stressed that this was not an issue involving only the two superpowers, but one requiring an international response. This perception is a correct one. The world should not focus on mere retribution. This latest Soviet aggression should chillingly reveal the true nature of its system as one that rejects entirely the accepted world order.

That is why it is wrong for some conservatives to call for the breaking off of relations over this particular incident. The indiscriminate "massacre" of 269 civilians, as tragic as it is, is not an aberration on the part of the Soviets. If the termination of diplomatic ties is to be the logical consequence of such an atrocity, then the U.S. has passed up far too many chances to do just that with Moscow in the past. The U.S. formally recognized the USSR exactly 50 years ago during the bloody Stalinist purges which claimed a far greater amount of innocent lives.

The sad reality is that, when dealing with the Kremlin, all such reprisals are essentially cosmetic. Whereas the suspension of relations would be clearly disadvantageous for other nations, such is not necessarily the case with the USSR. They will always treat the paraphernalia of formal diplomatic relations as meaningful only to the extent that it suits their interests. The West has never been successful at "punishing" the Soviets for breaking the rules of international law because the punishments are devised with the presumption that the Soviets will abide by those same rules.

Strength is one law adhered to by Moscow. The President was correct to remind Americans during his address last week of the necessity of his defense programs. Beyond that, the airline incident should awaken the freeze proponents here and in Europe to the folly of directing their efforts against the deployment of the Pershing missiles.

Assad Toys With U.S. Diplomats

WASHINGTON — Syrian President Hafez Assad has been running our diplomats in circles as they scramble with growing frustration to bring peace to Lebanon. Once again an American administration is being humiliated by a second-rate strong man.

Two months ago, largely to please Assad, the White House withdrew special envoy Phillip Habib and turned his thankless job over to the president's deputy national security adviser, Robert McFarlane. But the ex-Marine colonel has had no better luck with the Syrian prima donna.

There were a few meetings, which accomplished nothing. Then Assad simply refused to see McFarlane again. At press time, despite the efforts of our Damascus embassy to arrange another meeting, the Syrian leader wouldn't budge.

The reason that is given shows calculated contempt: Assad is at the beach, the embassy was told. American

Turn Down The Sound

By Jan Ziegler
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wearing personal stereos with earphones while jogging or commuting may be a good way to learn a language or put pep in your step, but it may also endanger your hearing.

People tend to play personal stereos at levels much higher than considered safe by the federal government, according to one audiologist. By blasting the sound directly into their ears, they may slowly, almost imperceptibly at first, grow deaf.

"I know that on most units I have tried, the volume controls go up to nine. If you turn it up above three, you're probably too loud," said Dr. Jane Madell, director of audiology for the New York League for the Hard of Hearing.

We live in a noisy society. Thanks to airports, industry, traffic, construction and other necessities of modern life, an estimated 20 million or more Americans are exposed daily to noise that is permanently damaging to their hearing, according to the Environmental Protection Agency.

Besides attacking the ears, too much noise has been found to increase stress. It has been linked to such stress-related illnesses as high blood pressure and ulcers. It impairs concentration, disrupts sleep and increases jitteriness.

The Occupational Health and Safety Administration says the highest average decibel level a person should be exposed to over eight hours on the job is 85 decibels, about the amount of noise you'd be exposed to in the subways of Manhattan. Beyond that, hearing protection is required. Higher exposure levels are allowed for shorter periods of time.

Dr. Madell found when she went into the street in 1980 to test personal stereo units most people were playing them at levels of 120 decibels or higher. During another test last year, the average volume went down slightly but was still high enough to damage hearing if the sound level was maintained for several hours at a time.

"I think the problem is that when they go into the street, if they turn the personal stereo up loud enough to block the noise, it's too loud," Dr. Madell said.

The problem with noise-induced hearing loss is that it's painless and insidious, so people usually don't notice it until the damage is already done, Dr. Madell said.

"It's not like turning down the sound, it's more like muffling. It's sort of like trying to read and having half the print chopped off," said Dr. Shirley Conlbear, vice president of an occupational medical consulting firm in Chicago.

The hearing specialists said these are some things you should watch out for:

—A temporary threshold shift. You may play the car radio on the way home from work in the evening, and then in the morning, turn it down because it's too loud. If you leave a noisy nightclub, you may have difficulty understanding what people are saying. If the shift is significant, the sound has probably been at a harmful level.

If you have to raise your voice or the people you're talking to have to raise their voices, the sound you've just been exposed to has been too loud, said Dr. Madell.

—Ringing or buzzing in the ears after exposure to sound or after taking medication. Although this can be a symptom of another sort of illness, it still merits medical attention. It could be a sign your auditory nerves are being damaged.

—Difficulty in understanding conversation in a noisy environment or confusion of words. People beginning to lose their hearing may mix up words that sound alike, hearing, for example, "What time is it?" when someone says "What kind is it?" said Dr. Conlbear.

The audiologists said casual exposure is probably not going to harm your hearing. But combined with workplace noise, it all begins to add up. They suggest taking these measures:

—If you're going to be exposed to a source of loud noise over a period of time, such as the subways in New York, a lawn mower in the backyard, a chain saw or a motorcycle, wear ear protection. This means good ear plugs, or headphones, not cotton.

—If you're at a rock concert or in a disco, wear earplugs or leave from time to time.

—Take your personal stereo and other other sound units to a speech or audiology center and have them tested to find out what volume levels are safe.

—If you're young and healthy, have your hearing tested every two years. More frequent examinations may be required if you're older or have health problems.

There is one more thing you can do, of course: Turn down the sound.

"We as a public have requested stuff louder and louder and louder."

JEFFREY HART

Campus Mood Is Changing

Every college campus is distinctive: there are colleges in the cities, suburbs and countryside, large ones and small intimate ones, and of course they have their own personalities; but they all participate in the larger cycles of national mood, and at Dartmouth College, where I am in the English Department, the mood this fall is decidedly upbeat, and there is a growing sense of what can only be called social conservatism. I would be very surprised if this were not a national phenomenon, and I expect to find it confirmed as I travel around the country this fall.

Ten years ago, the campus still felt the shock waves of the 1960s. The Vietnam draft had ended, and Saigon had fallen, but the atmosphere of protest was still in the air. Beards, long hair, physical sloppiness, and pot were commonplace.

The younger faculty at the time was composed of people who had taken their graduate degrees during the '60s, and such younger faculty had the energy to intimidate many of their elders.

The current generation of students, emphatically including minority students themselves, desires an education in the traditional essentials. They are more interested in studying Shakespeare than in hearing about "The European Invasion of America" — that is, the early settlers — in some Native American Studies course.

Along with this, I sense a renewed respect for property. During the late '60s and early '70s, there was a good deal of theft, even on the so-called elite campuses. Casual theft took place at the local retail stores, and books disappeared in substantial quantities from the library shelves. Student stereos were often "borrowed" for lengthy periods of time that were difficult to distinguish from outright appropriation. Dormitory buildings and fraternity houses were abused and sometimes seriously damaged.

All of that seems to be part of some distant past. At Dartmouth during the past couple of years that has been a great improvement in the physical appearance of the campus. Old buildings have been repainted and handsome new ones started, the grass has been tended to, streets repaved and sidewalks rebuilt. All of this corresponds, in my opinion, to a general rise in morale.

A colleague of mine at another New England campus tells me that at one point back in the '70s his faculty actually wanted to import a ghetto. That is, they wanted to uproot a couple of dozen black urban families somewhere and transport them to rural New England. The idea was that they would make life more "real" for the students.

Things like that are no longer being proposed. The ersatz "studies" courses are firmly embedded in the curriculum, and the people who teach them have tenure, so they will be with us for a while. But since their appeal is declining so is their overall impact and their power to dilute serious work.

Change has come slowly to the college campus, but on the whole this fall the news is very good.

Marines are being killed; Lebanon is being torn apart by factional violence; the whole Middle East is about to blow up — and the man who has been inciting the insurrection is enjoying the sunshine and surf at Syria's Mediterranean resort of Latakia.

State Department sources told my associate Lucette Lagnado that U.S. Ambassador Robert Paganelli begged the Syrian foreign minister, Abdel Halim Khaddam, to set up another meeting between McFarlane and Assad. The foreign minister refused, explaining that the president was resting at Latakia.

According to a classified report, Ambassador Paganelli protested that surely, at a time of such crisis, Assad could make himself available to the American envoy. Khaddam was unmoved. He offered to meet with McFarlane himself, which of course would have accomplished nothing. Assad alone makes the decisions.

The affront is deliberate, of course. The crafty Syrian dictator is playing a waiting game. He already has the Reagan administration kowtowing ignominiously; Israel has pulled back its troops; Lebanese President Amin Gemayel, the last faint hope for a peaceful, independent Lebanon, has one foot on a banana peel. Just a little longer and Lebanon will fall into Assad's hand like a ripe fig.

The White House is desperate, and Assad knows it. President Reagan is under congressional pressure to pull the Marines out. He is improvising policy day to day as his discomfort grows. Assad figures a few more American casualties — which he can easily arrange — will raise such an outcry in the United States that Reagan will have no choice but to pull out of Lebanon.

An embarrassing reflection of U.S. impotence in Damascus is the fact that Paganelli has considered asking the Saudis to use their influence to arrange a meeting between Assad and McFarlane.

Unfortunately, the Saudis have no real influence with the Syrian dictator. Though they continue to provide him with millions in aid, the Saudis are really terrified of Assad. They know he could foment serious trouble for the shaky Saudi regime through one or more of the Palestinian terrorist groups under his thumb. The effort to use the Saudis as mediators with Assad was described by a State Department official in one word: "pathetic."

With the Syrian president frolicking in the Mediterranean surf, there's a growing feeling at Foggy Bottom that McFarlane's peace mission is doomed, just as Habib's was before him.

Footnote: Even when Assad makes himself available, he gives U.S. peace seekers the runaround. For the past year, he has been playing coy while rebuilding and bolstering his power in Lebanon.

Former Reagan Aide Says Women Find Rape A 'Cherished Fantasy'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's former top speechwriter has given leading feminist politicians a new excuse to vent their wrath on the White House by writing that millions of American women find rape "a cherished fantasy."

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., went to the floor of the House to assail what she called the "shocking, sickening and unbelievable" comments by Aram Bakshian, who resigned his post three weeks ago.

He made the statements in a review of a new book about romantic fiction.

Ann Lewis, political director for the Democratic National Committee, said with such insensitive remarks, it is "no wonder the White House keeps being surprised by gender gap certificates."

Bakshian defended his review as being simply a description of a new book by Helen Hazen — not his own opinions.

In a commentary titled Two Cheers for Rape, appearing in last week's edition of the National Review, Bakshian said Ms. Hazen's book provides insight into why women are reading "rawer romantic fiction that is based on real seduction, abduction, degradation and outright rape."

"Rape, especially, seems to strike a deep, instinctive chord in millions of female readers, a cherished fantasy that is not confined to air-headed bits of fluff or frustrated dowds," Bakshian wrote.

Commenting on Ms. Hazen's description of a woman's fantasy of being carried off by a nobleman to a "bed of bearskin rugs," Bakshian stressed the "romantic rape... bears little resemblance to the real crime."

But, he said, such fiction "seals like hotcakes to the ladies," and "I suspect those of us willing to slog through seas of treacle could pick up a few handy tactical tips."

Lauding the book, Endless Rapture: Rape, Romance and the Female Imagination, Bakshian stressed it was written by a woman "who says things I have long suspected but would never have dared publish."

Ms. Schroeder earlier issued a statement attacking Bakshian's review as "bizarre pathetic drivel" that would be ignored "except that Mr. Bakshian was, until recently, Mr. Reagan's speechwriter."

"Next shall we hear, 'Two cheers for child abuse.' 'Two cheers for murder.' 'Two cheers for nuclear war?'" she asked.

Ms. Lewis said Bakshian's review "really makes me feel queasy in my stomach."

Bakshian, who left his White House job about Sept. 1 to write a column to be syndicated by the Washington Times, said in a telephone interview he wrote the article while still at the White House but "knowing it would not appear while I was a government spokesman."

He asserted most of his comments merely described what Ms. Hazen wrote and his critics "really should direct their furor — if that's what it is — at the person who was the source of the ideas."

He said the review "doesn't say women want to be raped. Men don't want to be killed or to flirt with death" — but they read adventure novels.

At Least 1 Government Agency Doing Good Job

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A consumer group that wants to maintain the independence of the Consumer Product Safety Commission has issued a report concluding the agency has made life safer for Americans.

The Consumer Federation of America said federal statistics show the number of deaths and disabling injuries from household accidents have dropped by about 27 percent since the commission was established in 1973.

"The totals behind the rates are staggering — five million fewer injuries and deaths... which means a $14 billion savings in medical costs and lost wages," said Ann Lower, the group's information director and an author of the report.

The study, On the Safe Track: Deaths and Injuries Before and After the Consumer Product Safety Commission, was designed to serve as ammunition against an amendment now on Capitol Hill.

The proposal by Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., would reduce the commission's power by requiring all of its orders, recalls and bans to be approved by the House and Senate, as well as the president.

Since its inception a decade ago, the commission has had free reign in taking action that it deemed necessary to safeguard the public from hazardous goods.

"The Levitas amendment would transform the CPSC into a weak study commission with absolutely no teeth to back up its findings on product safety," said David Greenberg, legislative director of the federation that has 200 member organizations.

"By requiring regulations to be approved by both Congress and the president, the amendment would throw each attempt by the commission to create strong safety requirements into the middle of a legislative dogfight," he said.

"Campaign contributions and special interest lobbying could frequently outgun the facts and figures about product safety," Greenberg said.

He said approval of the amendment "would move us from the safe track onto the wrong track."

Discovery of The Century?

Brain Action Photos Seen As Healing Key

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Johns Hopkins University researchers have photographed for the first time chemical reactions in the living human brain that may hold the key to the improved treatment of many diseases and mental disorders.

"This could be the discovery of the century, depending of course on how far it goes," Dr. Henry N. Wagner said of a new technique that has given researchers their first glimpse at how the brain uses certain drugs to ward off disease.

Wagner, who heads a 13-member research team that developed the technique, said it employs a PET-scanner to produce a metabolic portrait of the brain's chemical communications network that will help physicians diagnose disease and monitor the effects of drugs.

Parkinson's Disease, Huntington's Disease, Alzheimer's Disease, schizophrenia and stroke depression are among the disorders being studied by researchers.

Wagner said the relationship between chemicals in the brain and disease has intrigued scientists in recent years as it became apparent that chemical abnormalities preceded physical abnormalities and changes in personality.

The PET-scanner (positron emission tomography) traces the decay of radioactive isotopes placed in a given drug. The drug's effect on chemical switches in the brain can then be traced and mapped out on the color-coded computer image of the brain.

The switches, called neurotransmitter receptors, are tiny structures on the brain cell where all drugs elicit both therapeutic and side effects, and which signal the brain to trigger motion and emotion, Wagner said.

Until now, research on the brain's chemical functions to show responses between receptors and drugs previously was limited to studies of cadavers or animals.

Wagner said research so far has shown correlations between the presence of chemical switches that receive and interpret drugs and some diseases.

Other differences were noted in how long it took the switches to be activated in patients with certain diseases as compared to a control group of patients, he said.

Moving Truck Nets Bike

William O. Blalock tries his new Harley Davidson Sportster on for size. Blalock, of Sanford, drives a truck for a living and stock cars as a hobby. But he'd never driven a motorcycle — until winning the 1983 Harley XLH-1000 in Truckstops of America's Move Your Truck — Win Our Truck contest. Making the presentation are, left to right, Jim Conley and Mike McDonald of Truckstops of America, Brunswick, GA and George Adamec and John Shea of Regency Harley Davidson, Jacksonville. After 25 years in the Naval Civil Service, Blalock has been an owner operator, doing business as BMB Trucking Company, since 1981. He entered the winning game ticket at truckstops of America in Brunswick, Georgia, one of 29 TA locations participating in the year-long contest.

Slot-Machine Caper Said Well-Planned

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Hi-tech criminals accused of triggering a $1.7 million slot machine jackpot probably planned the caper for years before staging the crime in a busy Lake Tahoe casino, a manufacturing executive says.

"This operation probably took five years to plan and cost $400,000," Ray Pike, vice president of International Games Technology, said. His firm made the slot machine used to manipulate the Aug. 19 jackpot at Harrah's Hotel-Casino.

"Once you have purchased one of these machines there are devices, not inexpensive, that assist in working on and analyzing these machines," he said.

Pike stopped short of saying organized criminals actually purchased a machine similar to the one on which Gus Econopoulos, 51, a retired San Francisco warehouse worker, won the record jackpot last month at the same time a surveillance camera at Harrah's broke down.

But Pike said company records showed 2,000 to 3,000 such machines were sold to individuals in Nevada in the past several years.

Econopoulos collected only the first $200,000 of the $1.7 million jackpot before Nevada Gaming Control Board agents discovered the plot.

Thieves would have to get through outside and inside locks on the machine, then tamper with the computer-board heart of the slot machine to trigger a payoff.

"If they changed a chip, then they replaced it," Pike said. "The chips we compared (on the rigged machine) were valid, good chips. There are several ways to alter a machine."

Pike also said it was possible the computer program was somehow bypassed.

"This machine is not a child's toy," he said. "It is sophisticated hardware that has been literally tested millions of hours."

"This is the first instance in billions of plays that someone gained access to the board and changed it."

Reagan Camp Plotted To Get Carter Papers: Albosta

By Gregory Gordon

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators have evidence of an organized effort by Ronald Reagan's 1980 campaign to obtain Carter White House materials, and that there was more than one Reagan "mole" among Carter's staff, Rep. Donald Albosta says.

Albosta, D-Mich., said he is drawing those conclusions from 75 interviews of former Reagan campaign and Carter administration officials by investigators for his House Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee.

"My belief ... is that it was not Reagan people taking material from the Carter White House; it was Carter people removing material from the Carter White House," he said in a session with reporters. "No one has said that anything was stolen."

Albosta told reporters he will ask two key witnesses to testify under oath about leaks of Carter papers at public hearings in October, and predicted the panel will "get to the bottom" of how Reagan's campaign obtained the materials. He declined to name the witnesses, but sources said they may include a Reagan campaign official and a former Carter administration official.

When the investigation ends, Albosta said, "I believe that we will be able to indicate that someone did it. Whether or not we will find the exact person and whether or not we will have someone who had a reason — and the reason — that remains to be seen."

"It would be wrong for me to indicate at this point in time that we have the person."

Asked if there has been a pattern in the subcommittee interviews to date, Albosta said, "I would think that we could see that there was an effort on someone's part to acquire material from the Carter White House ... for the Reagan-Bush campaign. The trend seems to indicate that there would be some organized effort to obtain the material."

He said the subcommittee plans to conduct 30 to 35 more interviews.

Albosta announced that the White House and the subcommittee have reached a new agreement allowing investigators for his panel to review files of presidential counselor Edwin Meese. Including post-election transition documents, and other former Reagan campaign officials. He said the others include Adm. Robert Garrick, who was director of campaign operations.

The investigators for the General Accounting Office, working with the subcommittee, previously reviewed personal files of most of a dozen Reagan campaign officials listed in an earlier agreement allowing the panel access to files at the Hoover Institution Library at Stanford University, Albosta said.

Many files, including those of James Baker, Reagan's coordinator for the Oct. 28, 1980, presidential debate and now White House chief of staff, were not kept at Hoover and the panel had to reach separate agreements for reviewing them at the individuals' offices or homes, he said.

Albosta expressed concern that material leaked to the Reagan campaign may have come from National Security Council meetings, including economic or defense data. Albosta hopes through the investigation to plug possible loopholes in the Ethics in Government Act to make it illegal to pass White House material to a political campaign.

At Albosta's urging, the House Monday approved legislation that would extend the life of the Office of Government Ethics through 1989.

Abortion Safer For Teenagers

BOSTON (UPI) — Abortion is safer for teens than women in their 20s or older and the risk of death from abortion in teens is nearly six times less than from childbirth, researchers report.

"There's been a belief that because young girls have a smaller cervix, (the mouth of the womb) abortions are more dangerous for them," said Dr. David Grimes of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta.

"But we've found that teenagers have generally the same rate of serious complications as older women in the first three months and lower complication rates than older women in later abortions. And they have a significantly lower death rate."

A study in the New England Journal of Medicine reported that for every 100,000 abortions among teens there are 1.3 deaths — compared to 2 or more deaths per 100,000 for women over 20.

Each year American women — one-third of them teenagers — have more than 1.2 million abortions.

Robey Runs Up Rushing Lead

Lake Howell's Jay Robey had his second consecutive 100-yard game Friday against Spruce Creek to run his county-leading rushing total to 251 yards on 27 carries. Robey is nearly 100 yards ahead of second place Barry Williams of Oviedo. The Silver Hawks' senior is looking for his second straight season of rushing for over 1,000 yards.

Darin Slack remains the county's top quarterback followed closely by Oviedo's Kevin Thompson. Oviedo's Howard Lingard caught three more passes Friday to run his total to six, three better than any other receiver. Lyman's Jody Foster had the caught the young season's longest pass, an 81-yard scoring strike Saturday against Lake Brantley.

Defensively, Oviedo's Ed Norton, a transfer from Lake Howell, moves into the lead in tackles while Lake Mary's Tim Curtin takes over the lead in turnovers. Seminole's Bryan Debose leads in quarterback sacks with five.

Hungry Lady Seminoles Sweep Rams, 15-2, 16-14

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

The musical groups Survivor and Duran Duran would be proud of Seminole High's Lady Seminoles. Tuesday night the Lady Tribe was "Hungry Like The Wolf," and had the "Eye Of The Tiger," en route to a 15-1, 16-14 sweep of the Lake Mary Rams in prep volleyball action at Seminole High.

Seminole also defeated Daytona Beach Seabreeze, 15-6, 15-12, in Tuesday's first match to raise its record to 3-1 overall and 3-0 in the Five Star Conference. Lake Mary defeated Seabreeze in Tuesday's second match, 15-2, 19-17, and the Rams came away with a 3-2 record, 2-2 in the Five Star.

"We attacked really well in the first game," Seminole coach Beth Corso said. "I think we got a little overconfident after winning 15-1 and we abandoned our attack in the beginning of the second game. We got it working again near the end, but we need to stick to it the entire match. When we get momentum going, we have to keep it up."

The Lady Tribe has the rest of the week off and will get back into action next Tuesday in a tri-match with Lyman and Daytona Beach Mainland at Seminole High. The Seminole junior varsity will be in action today at 3:30 when it hosts Trinity Prep. Lake Mary has a match with Winter Park tonight at Lyman High.

Lake Mary's troubles began before its match with Seminole. The Lady Rams, after beating Seabreeze, 15-2, in their first game, were riddled by mistakes in the second game but managed to come away with a 19-17 victory and the match. That game was draining, both emotionally and physically for the Lady Rams and it showed in the early going against Seminole.

With Katy Barbour serving, the Lady Tribe built an early 3-0 lead before the Rams got the serve. Genee Stallworth gave the Seminoles the serve right back as she drilled a spike into the hardwood floor.

A spike by Peggy Glass gave the serve back to the Rams with the score still 3-0. Laura Glass, however, couldn't get her serve in and Seminole took over. Beth Nelson started a string of four straight points with a service ace and the Lady Tribe went on to take a 7-0 lead before Laura Glass gave the serve back to the Rams with a dink over the Seminole front line.

The Rams' service problems continued as Robyn Christensen couldn't get her serve in. By the time Lake Mary won back the serve though, Seminole had built a 14-0 lead.

With Janet Hauck's line-drive serves forcing numerous Lake Mary mistakes, Seminole reeled off seven straight points. Lake Mary managed to avoid the shutout, but Seminole closed out the game, 15-1, with Barbour serving the last point.

"We were sleepwalking in the first game," Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said. "We had a lot of costly missed serves and we didn't seem to want it as much as Seminole."

The Lady Rams came back in the second game and looked as if they would tie the match at one game each. However, three missed serves near the end, one at game-point, enabled Seminole to claw its way back and eventually win the game, 19-17.

With Lake Mary holding a slim 7-6 lead, Mae Ravenel came off the bench for the Lady Rams to take over the serve. Ravenel was effective in relief as she served for five straight points, including one service ace, to give Lake Mary a 12-6 lead.

Prep Volleyball

Five straight Lake Mary errors, however, enabled Seminole to pull within a point, 12-11, on Nelson's serve. A service ace by Donna Burkhead put the Rams up by two, 13-11, but Seminole got back the serve and tied the game at 13-13 before a spike by Laura Glass gave the serve back to the Rams.

With Lisa Simkins serving, Lake Mary took a 14-13 lead, one point away from tying the match. However, Simkins failed to get her next serve in.

Dee Goebelbecker then served out the match for the Lady Seminoles who scored three straight points for a 16-14 second-game win.

In Tuesday's first match, Seminole rolled up a 12-2 lead on the serving strength of Stallworth, Nelson and Hauck and went on to a 15-6 first game victory over a poor-serving Seabreeze team. The second game was a back and forth struggle, but Seminole snapped a 12-12 tie with three straight points for a 15-12 victory and the match. Hauck clinched the match with a game-ending spike.

In the two games against Seminole, Seabreeze didn't get its serve in on 10 occasions. Seabreeze had the same problem against Lake Mary, with four missed serves in the first game alone.

Lake Mary rolled up a 10-0 lead in the first game with Robyn Pinnock serving seven straight points, with a devastating spike by Peggy Glass highlighting the rally. Michelle Loudermilk served the last point as Lake Mary won the first game convincingly, 15-2.

The second game was a see-saw affair with numerous missed serves and hits. With the score tied, 17-17, Pinnock served two straight points as Lake Mary took a 19-17 victory and the match.

In other action Tuesday, Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks overpowered Apopka, 15-3, 15-1, at Apopka. The Lady Hawks now stand 2-0 overall and 2-0 in the Five Star Conference. Lake Howell hosts Spruce Creek Thursday with junior varsity action beginning at 4 p.m.

Consistent serving by Caryn Krumwiede, Cathy Saunders and Kathy Barma highlighted the victory for Lake Howell. Kim Montegny served the last five points in the second game to clinch the match for the Lady Hawks.

"They (Apopka) have an inexperienced team," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "They didn't return our serves too much and consistent serving is all it took for us to win."

The Hawks' JV wasn't as fortunate as the varsity Tuesday, losing in three games, 15-12, 6-15, 10-15.

Lyman's young Lady Greyhounds dropped a 15-11/15-8 decision to Lake Brantley Tuesday night at Lake Brantley. Lyman now stands at 1-3 overall and 1-2 in the Five Star Conference. The Greyhounds are back in action tonight, hosting Winter Park at 4 p.m.

"We didn't do anything outstanding, but we're continuing to improve," Lyman coach Annette Griffin said. "We're still lacking consistency but I'm pleased with the progress we've made so far."

Lyman's junior varsity swept by the JV Patriots Tuesday night, 15-10, 15-11.

Expos Win Fourth Straight, Still 2 Games Back

N.L. Baseball

MONTREAL (UPI) — Montreal manager Bill Virdon knows that to worry effectively, you have to deal with today before tackling tomorrow.

Virdon's Expos won their fourth game in a row Tuesday to remain in a second-place tie with Pittsburgh and two games back of Philadelphia in the National League East. The big test comes tonight, however, as Montreal starts a two-game, home series against the Phillies.

"As a whole my club is better now than it's been all year," Virdon said. "But tomorrow (Wednesday) is an important day because there's a game we must win."

"After that you can't look too much ahead. You've got to play them one at a time," Virdon said.

Montreal rode Bill Gullickson's 16th victory and his first major league home run to a 10-1 romp over St. Louis and handed the slumping Cardinals their seventh straight defeat.

Tim Lincecum was 1 for 4 with a run scored and a double. He also stole one base to run his National League leading total to 80.

Gullickson, 16-11, won his fifth game in a row and the right-hander has been victorious in eight of his last nine contests.

"I'm happy to contribute now," said

Gullickson, whose home run made the score 1-0 in the third inning. He also singled in a run in the seventh to give his team a 9-1 lead.

"I feel since the second half of the season I'm doing my part. I realize I was struggling at the start of the year," said the 24-year-old.

Terry Francona and Gary Carter each drove in two runs as the Expos clubbed out 14 hits and caused the Cardinals to make two errors, sending right-hander Bob Forsch down to his 12th defeat in 20 decisions.

"Once we got ahead, we just kept adding to our lead," said Carter, who felt that the Cardinals, last year's World Series champs, didn't let down.

"I feel that the players on their team know their chances are tough to make it this year," Carter added. "But I know there's a lot of pride involved and they want to play out the season the best they can."

St. Louis is in fourth place, eight games behind, and Cardinals manager Whitey Herzog took the defeat with a great deal of bitterness.

"I've got nothing to say about this game," Herzog snapped.

Herzog was thrown out of the game for arguing a close play at the plate when Carter scored the second run in the fourth inning.

Tangeman And Blythe Blaze Trail For Lake Mary

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

Although "Tange Man and Blythe" doesn't sound like much of a "Dynamic Duo," they have a front seat in the "Rammobile." Senior distance runners Derek Tangeman and Mark Blythe are blazing the trail for Lake Mary's cross country team in 1983. Tuesday at Lake Mary High, the two finished first and second to lead the Rams to a 21-38 dual meet victory over an inexperienced Seminole High squad.

Tangeman, the fourth ranked runner in the Seminole County Honor Roll, paved the way with a first-place clocking of 16:16 on a brand-new Lake Mary course.

Blythe, the county's seventh ranked runner, turned in a fine performance as he out paced Seminole's Billy Pennick for second place. Pennick was ranked fifth in the county going into Tuesday's meet.

"It wasn't as close as I thought it would be," Seminole coach Ted Tombros said. "Tangeman and Blythe did really well. Their experience was a big factor in beating our top two guys (Pennick and Kent Troutman)."

Pennick went out good and led the first three-fourths of a mile, but Tangeman came on well.

Both Lake Mary and Seminole, as well as all other Seminole County teams, will compete in the Lake Brantley Patriot Invitational Saturday at Seminole Community College.

"Derek and Mark do a lot to help out the other runners on the team," Lake Mary coach Mark McGee said.

"We're coming along well, after Derek and Mark, the three, four, five and six runners are running in a pack.

Cross Country

and that's the way we want it."

Seminole had Pennick finish second at 17:02 and Troutman was third at 17:19, but the Tribe didn't have another runner come in until ninth place. Running in a pack enabled the Rams to take the fifth through eighth places and clinch the meet. In fifth place was sophomore Ken Rohr who finished at 17:21, just one second off the sophomore record. Rohr was followed by Dominic Rundle (sixth place, 17:22), John Amrhein (seventh at 17:27) and Matt Palumbo (eighth at 17:38).

"Rohr really surprised me," McGee said. "He improved by 30 seconds on his best time."

After the wave of Rams, Seminole's Larry Cosby came in ninth at 17:42 and the Tribe's Kelly Faint was 10th at 18:01 while Kelvin Abney was 12th at 18:27 and Ray Hardy was 14th at 19:37. Cosby's time is a new Seminole High sophomore record.

"He (Cosby) has made more progress in the last two weeks than any other runner I've coached at Seminole," Tombros said. "He has gone from the low 19's to the high 17's in just four meets. He has a lot of potential and can be as good as he wants to be."

Other top finishers for Lake Mary included Brian LaVigne (11th at 18:20), Eric Hissam (13th at 18:49) and Bob Howard (15th at 19:51).

In the girls meet, Sue Kingsbury was all alone as she outdistanced the rest of the pack by more than a minute with a time of 12:24, the first runner to finish on Lake Mary's new course. Five of Lake Mary's top six finished ahead of their Seminole opponents to lead the Lady Rams to a 26-30 victory.

Seminole's Debbie Coleman finished a distant second to Kingsbury with a time of 13:52. Lake Mary's Tracy Blakely was right behind Coleman as she finished third at 14:07. Seminole's Sarah Ellmore was fourth at 14:44 while Lake Mary's Nikki Hays was fifth at 14:45, giving the Lady Rams three of the top five finishers. Seminole's Sharon Jenkins was sixth at 14:48 and the Tribe's Crystal Caldwell was seventh at 14:50.

"Inexperience cost us the meet," Tombros said of the girls meet. "With half a mile to go in the race, our fourth and fifth girls were ahead of Lake Mary's, but Lake Mary's experience paid off. They knew what it would take to overcome our girls in the end."

Seminole's Sheila Crawford and Katrina Walker were ahead of Lake Mary's Fran Gordon, Shannon Weger and Andrea Beardslee with half a mile to go, but the Lake Mary trio put on the afterburners and passed Crawford and Walker at the finish.

Gordon finished eighth at 14:52. Weger was ninth at 15:18 and Beardslee was 10th at 15:23. Crawford was 11th at 15:53 followed by Walker (12th at 16:09). Other Seminole times included: Glenda Bass (13th at 16:11), Jackie Johnson (14th at 16:23), Andrea Sessions (16th at 17:34), Andrea McKay (18th at 17:55) and Traci Brown (19th at 19:42).

For Lake Mary, Kim Wager was 15th at 16:42, and Michelle Okonski was 17th at 17:39.

Mancini, Chacon Have Unusual Pre-Fight Meeting

NEW YORK (UPI) — If you didn't know better, you'd think Bobby Chacon was playing a joke on Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini, setting him up, but he wasn't. This wasn't a gag, it was the McCoy.

Before leaving for Monday's news conference, where it was going to be announced that he and Mancini would be meeting for Boom Boom's WBA lightweight title sometime in late November or December, Chacon's 21-year-old sister-in-law, Julianne, asked him to do her a favor.

"Sure, said Chacon, who has been the WBC featherweight champ and junior lightweight king at different times. What favor did she have in mind?"

"You're going to be with Boom Boom Mancini," she said to him. "I think he's real cute. See if you can bring him home with you."

Chacon didn't quite do that, but he did do something he felt his sister-in-law might appreciate. He asked Mancini if he'd autograph one of his personal fight photographs for her and the baby-faced, 22-year-old lightweight champ was happy to oblige.

"To Julie," he wrote in that fine flowing hand of his. "Lots of love and happiness. Ray."

Then he handed the photo back to Chacon, who looked at the inscription and thanked him.

"You ought to see her, Ray," the 31-year-old challenger told Mancini. "She's a doll."

Down through the years, I've been at more of these pre-fight get-togethers than I can count, but I can't remember any other one where the two principals liked each other more. This was no hoked-up friendship, but a genuinely honest one. Bob Andreoli, the Providence, R.I., costume jewelry manufacturer and real estate man promoting the bout, said he liked it much better this way.

"They don't have to call one another names and be at each other's throat," Andreoli said with sound logic. "Certainly not outside the ring. When they get in the ring, that's different. I'm sure they'll give everybody their money's worth."

Chacon and Mancini are equally sure although the exact date and site of their meeting is yet to be determined. Madison Square Garden and Las Vegas are both interested. Wherever it's held, it should be a good one.

"People say we take a lotta hard punches," Chacon commented. "How do they know? Maybe we like it."

He laughed.

"I took a brain scan," Chacon said. "I have nothing to worry about. I have no brain."

You can't help liking the two of them, Chacon and Mancini, because they have a natural ingenueness and impishness about them that comes through despite the fact both their lives have been marked by personal tragedy.

Oldest of seven children, the 31-year-old Chacon fought in the streets of Los Angeles as a boy until his girlfriend, Valerie, showed him how foolish he was fighting for nothing. He turned pro in 1972, ran off 18 victories in a row, 16 by knockouts, and won the WBC featherweight title two years later by knocking out Alfredo Marciano.

Ruben Olivares took that crown away from him in 1975, and Valerie, who was now Chacon's wife, brought pressure on him to retire in 1980. He did, then un-retired and won two fights the following year, only to be stopped in 13 rounds by Cornelius Boza-Edwards in a bid for the WBC junior lightweight title. His wife kept pleading with him to quit the ring, but Chacon felt he could become champion again. A year ago, one day before he was scheduled to fight Leon Smith, she shot and killed herself.

Chacon has remarried since. He won the WBC junior lightweight championship by outpointing Bazooka Limon last December, but the WBC subsequently stripped him of that title when he refused to meet Hector "Macho" Camacho. Chacon says he'll be glad to fight Camacho if he beats Mancini, but not for promoter Don King, whom he is suing for trying to tie him up contractually. In his last fight on May 15, one of those real wars, Chacon came from behind to earn a 12-round decision over Boza-Edwards.

Mancini has won 26 of his 27 bouts, beaten only by Alexis Arguello. His life hasn't been an entirely happy one, either.

The death of his brother, Lenny, Jr., was followed not long afterward by his tragic bout with South Korea's Duk Koo Kim. The Korean never regained consciousness and died after losing to Mancini in Las Vegas. Kim's mother then committed suicide.

But neither of the fighters talked about his misfortunes Monday. They spoke instead about each other and how they were such good friends now, but how all that would stop once they get into the ring.

"I know it's not gonna be an easy fight with Ray," Chacon conceded. "If Ray beats me, it'll be my last fight."

Morgan, Phils Stay Hot; Tigers Pour It On Birds

PHILADELPHIA — Joe Morgan's familiar rendition of "September Song" is keeping the Philadelphia Phillies at the top of the chart.

The 40-year-old Morgan, a disappointment for most of the season, has always been a torrid hitter in September under the pressures of a pennant race and this year is no exception.

The victory enabled the Phillies, who completed their home stand with an 8-2 record, to maintain their two-game lead in the National League East over the Pittsburgh Pirates and the Montreal Expos.

Morgan, who had two homers and four RBI Monday night, cracked a two-run single to highlight a three-run fourth inning and later doubled home a vital insurance run in a two-run eighth.

"Personally I've had success in clutch situations, especially in September, my whole career," Morgan said. "With the Reds, last year with the Giants and with the Astros I seem to have had a good month of September. I'm able to pick myself up and concentrate harder. Concentration is the key."

Although he is batting only .219 on the season, Morgan is hitting .327 with 14 RBI in September.

Morgan delivered his two-run single in the fourth after the Phillies loaded the bases on a single by Gary Maddox, a walk to Ivan DeJesus and a single by Von Hayes. Hayes scored on a sacrifice fly by Pete Rose.

Willie Hernandez, 8-4, the second of four Philadelphia pitchers, worked three innings to gain the victory and Ron Reed pitched the ninth for his seventh save. Reggie Patterson took the loss in his first 1983 decision.

A.L./N.L. Baseball

Pirates 4, Mets 0

At New York, Larry McWilliams pitched a two-hitter and Mike Easler drove in two runs with a double and a triple in leading the Pirates to victory. McWilliams, who raised his record to 15-6, struck out a season-high 11 batters and got home run support from Dave Parker.

Giants 8, Padres 1

At San Francisco, Darrell Evans' two-run single in the first inning started the Giants on their way to victory. Rookie Mark Calvert and Andy McGaffigan combined on an eight-hitter with Calvert, who gave up five hits in six innings, notching his first major-league victory in four decisions. Tom O'Malley homered for the Giants.

Astros 15, Dodgers 2

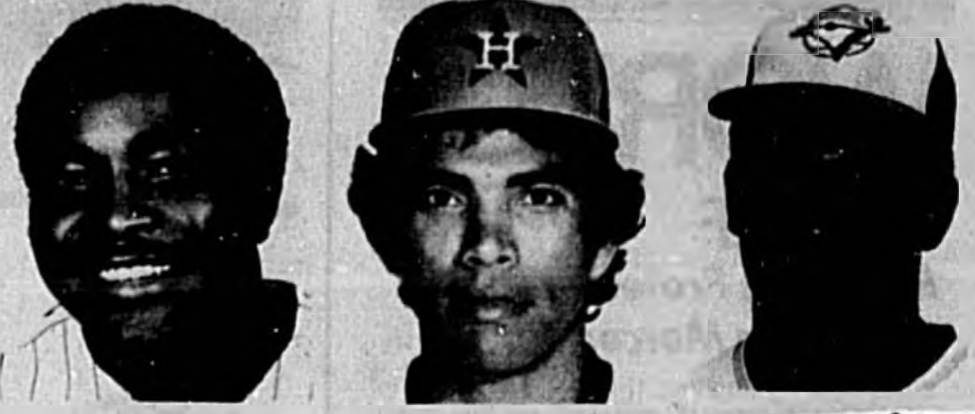

At Los Angeles, Jose Cruz drove in six runs with a grand slam and a single and Denny Walling added a three-run double to propel the Astros to victory. The loss reduced the Dodgers' lead in the NL West to 3 1/2 games over Atlanta. The Braves' game against Cincinnati was rained out Tuesday. Nolan Ryan, 14-8, went six innings to get the victory. Pedro Guerrero hit his 30th homer for Los Angeles.

Tigers 14, Orioles 1

Detroit (UPI) — At least Mother Nature had mercy for the Orioles. The Tigers certainly didn't.

While Detroit can be thankful the rains didn't arrive until the fifth inning Tuesday night, Baltimore is just glad the downpour came when it did.

After second place Detroit opened up their scheduled double-header with an 11-run first inning against American League East-leading Baltimore, the skies opened up in the fifth to save the Orioles further embarrassment from a 14-1 bombardment.

JOE MORGAN

JOSE CRUZ

WILLIE UPSHAW

Baltimore's only regret was that the rain halted the game after five innings, an inning too late for a postponement. The second game also was called off and will be made up as part of a double-header Wednesday night.

Lou Whitaker hit a three-run homer and Larry Herndon added a two-run blast to cap the record-tying 10 straight hits in the first. The 10 hits in a row had been accomplished only once before in AL history when in 1901, the Boston Red Sox accomplished the feat in the ninth inning against the Milwaukee Brewers. It was the Brewers' only year in the league until 1970.

Detroit manager Sparky Anderson, not fazed by the distance between the two teams, is optimistic seven will be the Tigers' lucky number. "We're one-seventh of the way to a seven-game sweep," Anderson said of what his team has to accomplish in its seven games against Baltimore to possibly prevent the Orioles from winning the division. "We've got no choice. They've got us in a pretty good position."

Peiry raised his record to 18-9 while Martinez, 7-15, was rocked for seven runs on six hits in one-third of an inning. Palmer gave up nine hits and seven runs, one unearned, in 4-2-3 innings.

Blue Jays 7, Mariners 3 At Toronto, Willie Upshaw drilled a two-run single to become the first player in Toronto history to reach the 100-RBI plateau and Jorge Orta and Lloyd Moseby also drove in two runs each to lead the Blue Jays. Dave Stieb, 16-12, pitched his 13th complete game. Mike Moore, 5-8, absorbed the loss.

Yankees 3, Red Sox 2

At Boston, Ken Griffey and Don Baylor each drove in a run in the third inning to lead the Yankees. John Montefusco, 3-0, scattered eight hits in 6 1-3 innings for the victory. Rich Gossage finished for his 21st save. Boston starter Bruce Hurst fell to 12-11.

Brewers 11, Indians 7

At Cleveland, Ted Simmons' eighth-inning infield hit scored Robin Yount from third base with the go-ahead run and Ben Oglivie followed with a two-run pinch double to pace a 20-hit attack that helped the Brewers snap a 10-game losing streak. Jim Slaton, 13-6, was the winner and Bud Anderson, 1-5, took the loss.

Angels 6, Royals 4

At Kansas City, Doug DeCinces doubled home two runs in a cameo first-inning appearance to propel the Angels. Tommy John improved his record to 11-12 with his 10th complete game. The loser was Paul Splittorff, 11-8.

Rangers 3, A's 2

At Arlington, Texas, pinch hitter Bobby Jones belted a two-run homer with one out in the ninth inning to cap a three-run rally and give the Rangers their victory. Keith Atherton, 2-4, allowed the game-winning homer. Charlie Hough, 15-12, pitched a complete game.

Pell Warns SEC Prophets, 'Don't Forget Mississippi State'

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Florida Coach Charley Pell said Tuesday Southeastern Conference preseason prophets might have forgotten about Mississippi State, the 13th-ranked Gators' opponent this week.

Mississippi State is 2-0 with victories over Tulane and Navy and the Bulldog defense has been outstanding, especially against the run.

"With all the talk about Georgia, LSU and Alabama, it seems that Mississippi State has been overlooked," said Pell during his weekly news conference. "But they haven't been by us."

Pell takes his Gators, 2-0-1, to Starkeville, Miss., for the Saturday afternoon contest. Florida struggled to a 17-13 victory over unheralded Indiana State last Saturday night in a driving rain. Only a tie with Southern California mars the Gator record.

Pell said the Bulldog speed, particularly wide receiver Danny Knight, frightens him. Knight caught touchdown passes of 44 and 80 yards in last year's 27-17 Florida victory.

"You can't cover Knight with one guy, but you also can't cover him with two because they run the ball to that side," said Pell. "It's dagdum if you do and dagdum if you don't."

Pell also called State's John Bond the "best" wishbone quarterback in the country. "He's improved tremendously since the first time we saw him four years ago," Pell said.

Pell has never enjoyed much success at Scott Field in Starkeville as Florida coach. His only two appearances there — in 1979 and 1981 — ended in Gator losses.

"We don't look forward to going to Mississippi," said Pell. "For some reason, we just haven't done well there. I don't know if it's the altitude or the drinking water. I just know we don't play very well up there."

The Gators should have the services of sophomore fullback John L. Williams and senior linebacker Wilber Marshall, Florida's defensive stalwart.

Both sat out the Indiana State contest with injuries — Williams a hairline fracture of the foot and Marshall a broken bone in his hand — but both have practiced this week and are considered probable for the Bulldogs.

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Notre Dame quarterback Blair Kiel and University of Miami coach Howard Schnellenberger agree the Irish will be a much tougher football team Saturday after last week's loss to Michigan State.

"We're going out to try to redeem ourselves," Kiel said Tuesday during a telephone news conference. "It's for our self-pride. For ourselves, we know we're a better team. We're going to work real hard this week."

"It's going to be a real test for us to bounce back," said Kiel, who threw three interceptions in a 28-23 loss to the Spartans. "We were flat against Michigan State. The captains could tell and so could some of our players. We're going to have to come back."

The 28-23 loss last Saturday at South Bend knocked the Irish from fifth to 16th in this week's UPI coaches' poll, and made them even more of a concern to Schnellenberger.

"They're going to come in here to salvage or to regain the national respect they had at the level they had before they lost to Michigan State," Schnellenberger said. "We expect Notre Dame to be even more difficult to deal with after that game than had they been able to win."

The Irish, 1-1, will meet the Hurricanes, 2-1, in the Orange Bowl in a 9 p.m., nationally televised game. Schnellenberger called it the most important college football meeting in south Florida in about 25 years.

"This is another of those milestone games," Schnellenberger said. "We have a young ball club, which doesn't know how good they are or how good they can be."

While the Hurricanes' coach spoke of the importance of the game, Notre Dame coach Gerry Faust said, "One game isn't going to make a season for anybody."

He outlined his goals for avoiding another poor showing.

Saturday's game will be broadcast on Sanford's AM radio station, WTRR (1400 on your dial) at 2 p.m. and again at 5 if a second game is played.

Mourning Protesters March On Marcos' Palace

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Thousands of screaming protesters marched on the presidential palace today and pelted police with rocks during a day of rallies called to mourn slain opposition leader Benigno Aquino.

More than 1,000 riot troops, some in full battle gear and others backed by armored cars, blocked all approaches to President Ferdinand Marcos' Malacanang Palace as the crowd abandoned the square where they had rallied for a "National Day of Sorrow."

Protesters, chanting "Marcos resign!" lit a bonfire in the road and pelted police with rocks. Several Molotov cocktails also were thrown but the riot police stood their ground.

There were no immediate reports of injuries.

U.S. Troops At The Front

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Robert Dillon returned today to his residence outside Beirut after American gunships silenced a rebel artillery barrage that forced U.S. officials to flee the area.

The shelling Tuesday occurred hours after U.S. Marines increased their involvement in Lebanon's civil war by sending four to six "observers" in full combat gear to the front with government troops battling Syrian-backed rebels.

In Washington, Reagan administration officials confirmed the Marines had "artillery observers" at Souk el Gharb helping direct naval gunfire so Lebanese civilians would not be hit.

A U.S. spokesman said only Marines were sent to the mountain ridge overlooking Beirut, but a UPI photograph showed a soldier in a U.S. Army uniform with the Ranger, Pathfinder and Combat Infantryman's badges.

The decision by Col. Timothy Geraghty, the Marine commander, to send Marines to the front appeared to support the U.S. view that the Lebanese army's success in holding the position was vital to the safety of U.S. forces. The army has been struggling to hold the village for two weeks.

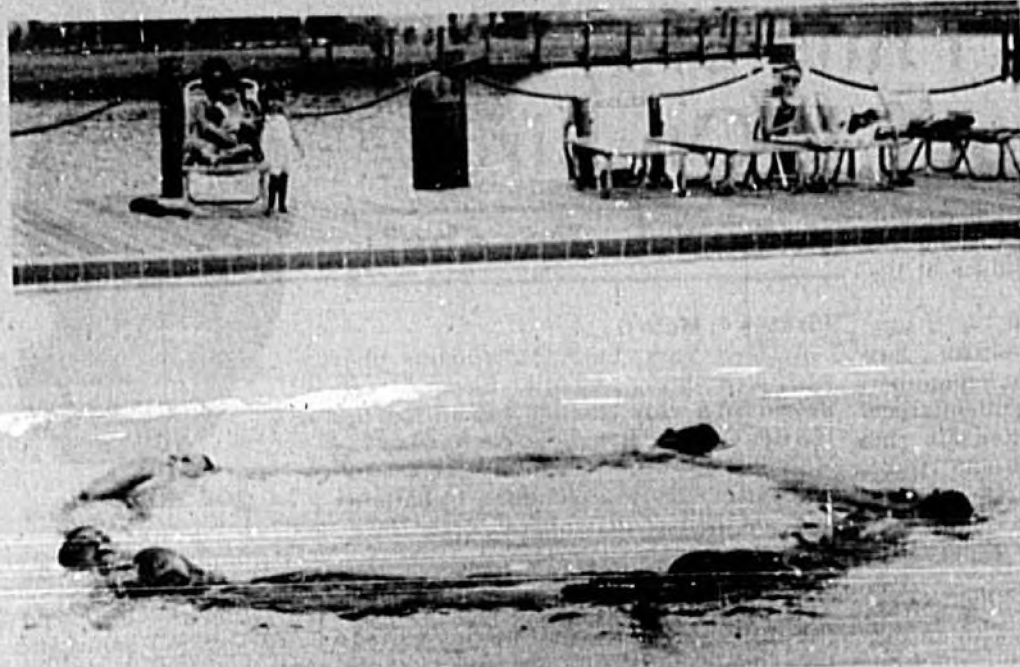

American Priest Killed

United Press International

Honduran military officials say an American priest was among 38 guerrillas killed in combat with the army and Honduras's top military leader charged the Nicaraguan government is sponsoring a new four-front leftist rebel movement.

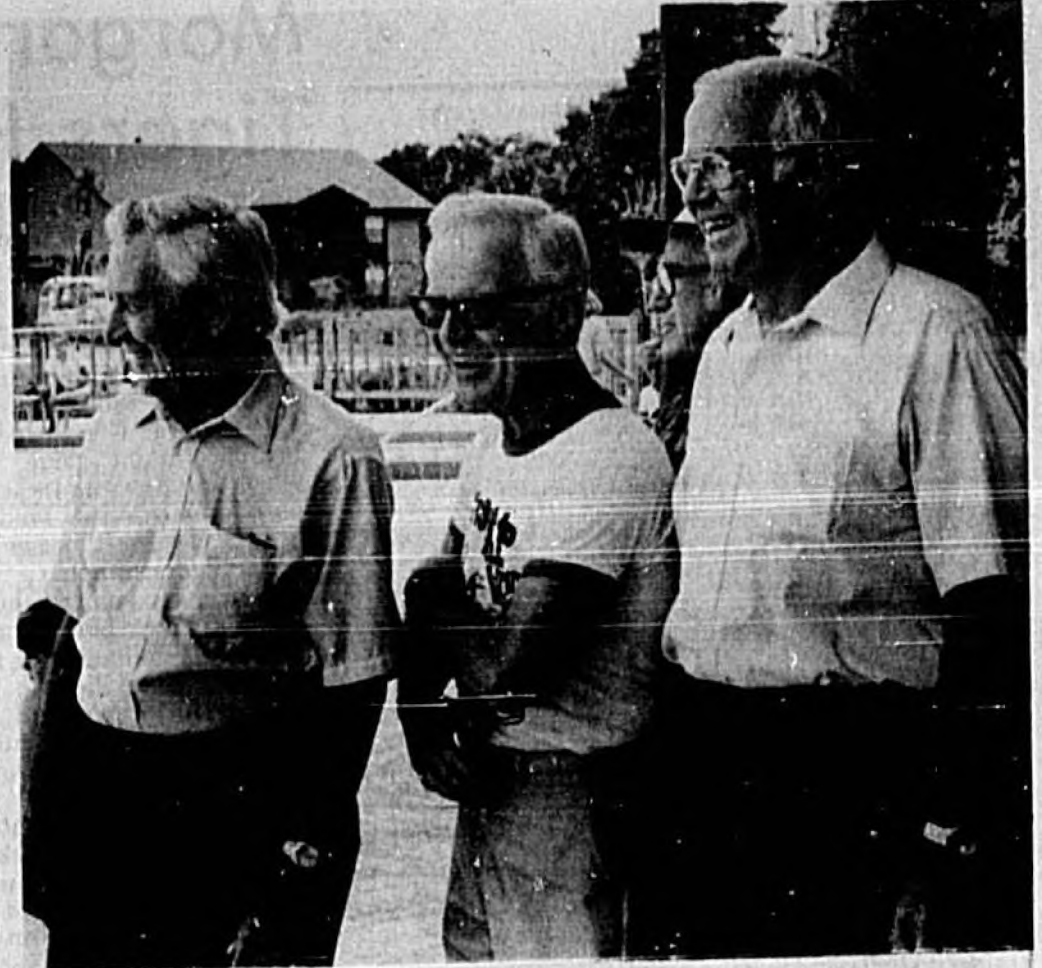

The priest was identified as Guadalupe Carney, a Honduran military spokesman said. A spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in Tegucigalpa said it was trying to determine if the priest, who lived in Honduras from 1964 until 1979, holds U.S. citizenship.

The man was expelled from Honduras in 1979 by the then-military government for his alleged links to leftist movements, local sources said. He is believed to have returned to the United States, leaving again in 1980 to live in Nicaragua.

Shamir To Form New Government

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israeli Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir was named prime minister-designate today and asked to form the next government, virtually assuring continuation of Menachem Begin's hardline policies on Lebanon and the Palestinians.

President Chaim Herzog called Shamir to a meeting at the president's official residence to name him prime minister-designate. Shamir has 21 days to present a new government to parliament for approval.

Shamir, 68, was expected to present a new administration for approval by Israel's parliament within 10 days. He first will ask the opposition Labor party to start negotiations on joining a national unity government.

Begin, 70, resigned last Thursday, reportedly in ill health and despondent. He will remain as caretaker premier until Shamir's new government is confirmed by the Knesset.

The move was a blow to the Labor Party, which hoped its leader, Shimon Peres, would be called on to lead the nation.

Labor's hopes were dashed by astute political maneuvering by Begin, who delayed his formal resignation for two weeks, buying Shamir time to rally a fractious six-party coalition and gain pledges to join a new administration.

Barring last-minute developments, a Shamir-led coalition is assured of 64 seats, a majority of

Yitzhak Shamir

...expected to continue Israel's hardline policies set down by Menachem Begin four in the 120-member Knesset.

In his reply, Shamir said he would immediately ask the Labor Party to join a national unity government, which he hopes can be formed without delay.

"I am deeply convinced that the situation in the nation and among the people makes it incumbent to establish a government that will include all the Zionist elements in the country," he said.

Shamir said he telephoned Begin to inform him of his decision, asking the caretaker premier for advice in the future.

"He promised to stand by me, whenever I ask him to," Shamir said.

Chances appeared slim that Labor and the ruling Likud could settle their differences over the major issues facing the Jewish state.

Shamir has vowed to continue Begin's tough stand on leaving Lebanon only when the Syrians and Palestine Liberation Organization do and expanding Jewish settlement in the West Bank and Gaza. Labor, though, favors a unilateral Israeli withdrawal from Lebanon and restricting Jewish settlement in the occupied territories.

If Labor refuses, Shamir will seek the votes he needs from five smaller parties. He received a written pledge of that support two weeks ago.

In Israeli politics, a coalition is a bloc of parties that will possess more than 60 votes, or a majority, in the 120-member Knesset. Because Shamir's Herut Party has 46 votes in the Knesset, he needs the support of other parties to put him over 60.

But Israel television said sources in the coalition predicted Shamir's government would be short-lived because of unavoidable crises.

The sources predicted the government would dissolve and forecast early elections before Shamir completes Begin's second term in office, which expires in 1985.

Dissidents Accused Of Plotting Overthrow To Be Tried By Military

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Polish authorities ordered trials for 11 dissidents accused of plotting to overthrow the Communist government and a Solidarity leader went on trial on charges of breaking martial law.

Chief government spokesman Jerzy Urban said Tuesday that four members of the banned Workers' Defense Committee (KOR) and seven leaders of the outlawed Solidarity free trade union would be tried in a Warsaw military court on a date to be announced.

In the western town of Posnan, local Solidarity activist Januse Palubicki appeared in a military court on the first day of his trial on charges of distributing illegal Solidarity leaflets, the official news agency PAP said.

Palubicki, 35, an art historian and student at Adam Michlewicz University in Posnan, ran the local Solidarity branch between August 1982 and his arrest last December, the court was told.

State prosecutors said the leaflets had a "false and hostile content that could have aroused public disquiet" — an offense under martial law imposed Dec. 13, 1981. The Communist government lifted martial law July 22 but many restrictions remain in effect.

He said the four KOR leaders would be tried on charges of attempting to overthrow the state. If found guilty, they could face anything from a five-year jail term to a possible death penalty.

Urban said the seven Solidarity members would be tried on similar charges under a less serious section of Poland's penal code. If convicted, they could face five-year to eight-year prison terms.

Cook Of The Week

Homemaking Designer's Top Priority

By Lou Childers
Herald Correspondent

Patti Zelsman is a homemaker by choice, and she loves it, she says. Even though she has a degree in commercial design from FSU, Patti says that being the "best Christian wife, mother and homemaker" she can be is her priority and not a career.

"If every woman who had a degree and a career worked, who would be the role-model for women who will be fulfilled as homemakers?" Patti asks.

Patti was born in California to military parents, Cy and Millie Rogers, who now live in Tampa. "My mother was trained by the famous Cordon Bleu Cooking School in France. Unfortunately, I never cooked much in Mom's kitchen, so when I got married I read a lot of cookbooks and did a lot of experimenting," Patti says.

Evidentially Patti's "experimenting" wasn't too hard on her over the years. She says, "I've been blessed with friends who are good cooks who love to pass their know-how on freely." The Zelsmans have three children Mark, 13, and Chris, 11, both students at Altamonte Christian School, and daughter, Adele, 14 months.

Patti says she is aware of the importance of giving her family a well-balanced diet, one that is nutritious, but lately she admits, "We've been eating a lot simpler than ever before because of busy schedules." Patti and Jack lead a fellowship group that meets in their home once a week. She attends the lady leaders' luncheon at her church, and then there is the list of endless activities that normally fill a wife-mother-homemaker's day.

She says, "We still eat a lot of fresh vegetables and fruits as well as whole grains," their favorite whole grain being bulgar wheat.

Like many other Americans, Patti always has her eyes open for low-cal recipes, and she found a real winner in Spinach Lazagna. No pasta in this casserole dish, but the Italian spices and tomato sauce are still there. Patti says, "believe it or not, this is a favorite for my boys."

Recently when Patti got inventive in the kitchen of her Longwood home, she came up with a one-dish meal she calls Patti's Pan Chicken. The chicken (she uses thighs) with the skin removed is placed in a baking dish and surrounded by new potatoes and small onions. Next everything is marinated with a combination of Patti's favorite spices and oil and baked until tender. Yummy!

If you've never cooked soybeans and always wanted a recipe that would appeal to your family, perhaps Peace Buttons will do the trick. Patti's friend, Patsy Hall, shared this recipe with her for "soybean cookies."

There are two methods for cooking soybeans, and both require a time span of "overnight" in the instructions, so be sure to plan ahead when you want to make the Peace Button Cookies.

PATTI'S PAN CHICKEN

8 to 12 chicken thighs, skins removed
10 to 12 tiny new red potatoes
4 small onions
1/2 cup oil
1/2 cup water
1 tablespoon choice of seasonings (majoram, oregano, poultry seasoning, salt, pepper and garlic salt)
Place thighs in 9x13 pan, adding potatoes and onions. Combine oil, water and spices, stirring well. Pour over all ingredients and place uncovered in a 350 degree oven. Bake about 1 1/2 hours until tender.

BULGAR-BEEF CASSEROLE

1 pound lean ground beef
2 stalks celery, chopped
1 large green pepper, chopped

Patti Zelsman uses her imagination to create different meals for her family and friends. She says she likes to experiment.

1 medium onion, chopped
1 clove garlic, minced
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 16-oz. can tomatoes, cut up
1 cup bulgar wheat
1 cup water
1/2 cup raisins
1/2 cup shelled sunflower seeds
Cheddar cheese slices, halved diagonally (optional)
In skillet cook ground beef, celery, green pepper, onion, garlic, salt and pepper till meat is browned and vegetables are crisp-tender. Drain off excess fat. Stir in undrained tomatoes, bulgar, water, raisins and sunflower seeds. Turn mixture into a 2-quart au gratin dish or casserole. Bake covered in 375 degree oven for about 35 minutes or till bulgar is tender and mixture is heated through. If desired, uncover and top with cheese during the last 5 minutes of baking. Serves 6.

SPINACH LAZAGNA

1/2 cup chopped onion
1 8-oz. can tomato sauce
1 teaspoon basil

Teodor J. Lopatkiewicz, Longwood, president of the Polish American Cultural Society of Metro Orlando Inc., left, presents a check for $500 to Thaddeus Seymour, president of Rollins College, as the first Music Department scholarship granted by the society.

Polish Benefit

The Polish American Cultural Society of Metro Orlando Inc. announces three events of the fall season, according to Verna M. Lopatkiewicz, program chairman. The society established a first-time music grant, the "Chopin-Wieniawski" Scholarship for a piano or violin musician, preferably of Polish descent, Mrs. Lopatkiewicz says.

Other events scheduled to help with the continuation of the music scholarship and medical supplies for a children's hospital in Poland are a piano recital by Polish-born piano virtuoso Adam Wodnicki combined with the Polish Masters Art Exhibit, for the first time in a national display.

The art exhibit opens in the Rollins Cornell Fine Arts Center on Saturday, Oct. 8, at 1 p.m., and continues through Oct. 23. It is free and open to the public.

The benefit piano recital is scheduled Sunday, Oct. 9, at 4 p.m., in Keene Music Center, Rollins College. Reservations are encouraged by calling the following numbers: 862-2187, 671-5092, 830-9186, and Rollins Music Department, 646-9419. Donation is $10.

Adam Wodnicki, left, has been playing the piano since he was 5 years old. He studied under master teachers in Italy, Finland and his native Poland. Wodnicki arrived in the United States in 1977 at age 26. He is an associate professor in the Department of Music at North Texas University, Denton, and will teach a master class to Rollins music students on Oct. 10.

Dates Turn Deaf Ears To Girl's Money Talk

DEAR ABBY: My parents wouldn't let me date guys until my 16th birthday last April, so this is a new problem to me. Who should pay for the date?

Dear Abby

All the guys I've gone out with insist on paying for everything. I've offered to pay for my own pizza, movie or to contribute for whatever it costs, but I'm not allowed to. Some even take my offer as an insult. If a girlfriend asks me to eat out or to see a movie with her, I would automatically assume we will go Dutch, right? Why should it be any different with a guy? My parents and friends say I'm crazy — the guy always pays. Why should he? I have a job, too, and can pay my own way.

MONEY MATTERS IN IOWA

DEAR MONEY: When a guy asks a girl for a date, he is asking her to be his guest — so he pays. Feeling as you do (and I think it's a great idea), if you want to treat a guy in return for his treating you — ask him to be your guest.

You're not "crazy," you're just ahead of your time.

DEAR ABBY: This is for the lady who had the swimming pool dilemma. The neighborhood kids climbed over her fence to use her pool. She couldn't afford to feed the whole neighborhood, and she didn't have time to play lifeguard every day. Years ago I had a friend who had the only pool in the neighborhood. This friend called a neighborhood meeting and invited all the children and their parents in the block — on both sides of the street. Everyone who wanted to use her pool showed up.

This is what she told them:

"1. If you want your child to use our pool, you will accompany your child.

"2. You must provide your child with his own towel.

"3. You will feed your child at home before he comes to swim. No eating here!

"4. When the pool is open for guests, you will see a flag in my front yard. If you do not see the flag, that means the pool is closed to visitors."

Needless to say, my friend had made herself clear. The kids in the neighborhood loved swimming in her pool, and she was never pestered by ringing doorbells or telephone calls asking if "we" can come over to swim.

I think she handled the situation beautifully. Print this if you think it will help others with this dilemma.

P.M.

DEAR P.M.: I think it's a great idea, though a tad tardy for some this year.

But there's always next year.

Mexican Favorites

Try South Of The Border Venture

As you probably know, Mexican food is the fastest growing ethnic food in the country. It is now second only to Italian food in grocery store sales. For years Mexican food has been a staple in the Southwest and West, but now it is gaining popularity in the rest of the country. You see this in the growing number of Mexican restaurants and Mexican items on the menu in other eating places.

When you start cooking Mexican dishes at home, you discover that it isn't all hot and spicy. Usually the sauce adds the heat, and you control that with hot, medium or mild varieties. One advantage of Mexican cooking, besides the delicious flavors, is that it is relatively inexpensive and very nutritious. And, you never have the problem of "picky eaters" when you serve tacos or enchiladas.

Adapting Mexican food to family menus isn't difficult with the sauces, tortillas, chilies and other products available in your supermarket. But one question often asked is, "What do you serve with tacos, enchiladas, and chimichangas?"

One popular item, of course, is guacamole. There is also rice, corn and refried beans. The latter is as popular in Mexico as potatoes are here. To serve refried beans as a side dish, you can simply open a can, heat and serve. Or you might like to add extra seasonings to the beans such as taco sauce, chilies or cheese.

Fresh vegetables also go well with Mexican dishes. Serve tomato wedges with chopped cilantro or parsley, avocado slices, cabbage slaw with chopped green chilies or simply a mixed green salad.

Although you may not immediately think of soups as Mexican, in Mexico a soup is often served at the beginning of a meal — or as a one-dish meal. Light soups such as Gazpacho or Tortilla Soup, below, are excellent starters for a Mexican meal.

And for dessert, you can serve any number of "sweets" — such as flan, lime or chocolate pie. Fresh fruits also make an ideal ending to Mexican meals. Try sliced oranges with chopped almonds, melon balls (or wedges), strawberries, fresh pineapple or bananas.

Carry Out A Pumpkin Theme At Fall Party

A party-for-all ages with a festive pumpkin theme spells fun at the drop of an invitation. Why not plan one this fall? Entertaining at home is a sensible safe alternative to youngsters traipsing the streets for tricks-or-treats. On Halloween or any fall weekend, it's a wonderful way to mix kids and parents with fun and games — ending with delectable pumpkin treats for all.

Start the festivities by bobbing for apples in a basement or rec room decked with traditional fall decor. Candle-lit Jack o' Lanterns and cornstalks heaped in the corners help create the mood. Youngsters have brief attention spans, so plan a variety of party diversions such as a spooky indoor treasure hunt, or a "Picasso-of-the-Pumpkin" decorating contest. Let older children help in the planning too: often they can add lively game and sing-a-longs learned at school or summer camp.

An upstairs table holds special Pumpkin Party treats, made from recipes developed in the test kitchen of Libby.

GREAT PUMPKIN COOKIES

- 4 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 2 cups quick or old fashioned oats, uncooked
- 2 teaspoons baking soda
- 2 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/4 cups butter or margarine, softened
- 2 cups firmly packed brown sugar
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 can (16 oz.) solid pack pumpkin
- 1 cup real semi-sweet chocolate morsels
- Assorted icings or peanut butter
- Assorted candies, raisins or nuts.

Preheat oven to 350°F. Combine flour, oats, soda, cinnamon and salt; set aside. Cream butter; gradually add sugars, beating until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla; mix well. Alternate additions of dry ingredients and pumpkin, mixing well after each addition. Stir in morsels. For each cookie, drop 1/4 cup dough onto lightly greased cookie sheet; spread into pumpkin shape using a thin metal spatula. Add a bit more dough to form stem. Bake at 350°F, 20-25 minutes, until cookies are firm and lightly browned. Remove from cookie sheets; cool on racks. Decorate using icing or peanut butter to affix assorted candies, raisins or nuts. Yields about 32 large cookies.

Variation: Substitute 1 cup raisins for morsels. Note: Dough may be frozen in an air-tight container. Thaw in refrigerator; bake as directed.

PUMPKIN COOKIE POPS

- 1/2 cup butter or margarine, softened
- 3/4 cup maple syrup
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract
- 1 cup solid pack pumpkin
- 2-1/2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- Lollipop or popsicle sticks
- Candied green cherries, sliced

Preheat oven to 350°F. In large bowl, cream butter, syrup and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg, vanilla and pumpkin; mix well. Combine flour, baking powder, baking soda and spices; mix well. Add to pumpkin mixture; mix well. Stir in nuts. Drop rounded tablespoons of batter onto greased baking sheets. Insert sticks into side of unbaked cookies, insert cherry slices at opposite end, for stem. Bake, 15-20 minutes. Remove from cookie sheets; cool on rack. Frost with Pumpkin Icing and Chocolate Glaze. Yields about 30 cookies.

Pumpkin Icing: Combine 1-3/4 cups confectioner's sugar with 2 tablespoons water, two drops of yellow food coloring and one drop red food coloring; mix until smooth. Frost cookies, allow to dry. Chocolate Glaze: Melt 1/4 cup semi-sweet real chocolate morsels with 1 tablespoon butter, mix well. Using small clean paint brush or toothpick dipped in glaze, apply pumpkin features.

Hardy Favorites Can Be Put Together Easily

Just a few days of cooler weather will set my mind to thinking of those good main dishes that we associate with the fall. Since the spring, most of us have been preparing food that is light, simple and hot off the grill.

To be ready for the fall, here are a few hardy favorites that can be put together easily. Bread, salad, and dessert will complete the menu with these one dish meals.

SPAGHETTI AND MEATBALLS

- Meatballs:
 1 lb. ground chuck
 1/2 cup Parmesan cheese
 1/2 cup Italian bread crumbs
 1/2 cup milk
 1 tablespoon parsley flakes
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/8 teaspoon pepper

Midge Mycoff
 Home Economist
 Seminole Community College

Combine ground chuck, Parmesan cheese, crumbs, milk, parsley, garlic, salt and pepper. Mix well. Shape into meatballs and arrange around edge of a 9-inch glass dish. Cover with wax paper. Microwave at 100% power for 6-8 minutes or until just slightly pink. Drain and add to sauce.
Sauce:
 1 medium onion, chopped
 1 cup grated carrot

- 1 tablespoon parsley flakes
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1/4 cup water
 1 (15 oz.) tomato sauce
 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 1/2 teaspoon sugar
 1/4 teaspoon basil
 1/4 teaspoon oregano
 8 oz. spaghetti

In a 2-quart casserole, combine carrots, onion, parsley, garlic, and water. Cover. Microwave at 100% power for 5-8 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Stir in tomato sauce, sugar, basil and oregano. Cover. Microwave at 100% power for 10-12 minutes or until bubbly. Cook spaghetti as directed. Drain and rinse. Serve meatballs over spaghetti. Bread sticks, tossed salad and fresh fruit complete this favorite face menu.

BAVARIAN KRAUT AND WURST
 2 apples, cored and chopped
 1 medium onion, chopped
 2 tablespoons butter
 1 can (16 oz.) sauerkraut, drained
 2 tablespoons brown sugar
 1 tablespoon flour
 1 teaspoon caraway seed
 1/2 cup white wine
 1 lb. fully cooked bratwurst
 Combine apples, onion, and butter in a 2-quart casserole. Cover. Microwave at 100% power for 5-7 minutes or until tender. Drain sauerkraut and rinse. Squeeze out excess liquid. Add onion and brown sugar, flour and caraway. Mix. Stir in wine and water. Press the brats into the sauerkraut. Cover.

Microwave at 100% power for 12-15 minutes or until heated through. Rearrange the brats once.

Weiners can be substituted for the bratwurst and apple juice can be substituted for the wine.

This recipe for a one dish meal has been a favorite in the microwave class at the college. It is a layered dish that can not be stirred during the cooking. If using a square or rectangular baking dish, shield the corners of the dish with strips of aluminum foil to prevent over cooking.

POLISH NODLES
Makes 6 Servings
 8 oz. noodles
 1 pkg. ground beef (1-lb)
 2 8 oz. cans tomato sauce

- Salt and pepper to taste
 1/4 cup chopped green onions
 2 Tbsp. chopped green pepper
 1 cup dairy sour cream
 1 8 oz. cottage cheese
 1 8 oz. cream cheese

In 4-quart casserole, cook noodles in 2 1/2 quarts boiling water until tender; drain. Cook beef by microwave about 4 minutes, stirring once to break up chunks of meat; drain excess fat. Add tomato sauce, salt and pepper; cook 5 minutes by microwave. Combine onions, green pepper, sour cream and cheese. In casserole, layer half the noodles, and all the cheese mixture, the remaining noodles; then all the meat sauce. Cover with plastic wrap; cook by microwave 15 minutes.

Chicken and Vegetable Kabobs served on Herb Rice and Crunchy Apple Salad are ready to serve in less than 40 minutes.

Kabobs Go To The Table In Minutes

The old question, "What shall we have for dinner tonight?" is often answered with, "I don't care." And the whole conversation usually starts because we have run out of menu ideas. Planning menus today is even more difficult because so many women work and most dinners have to go together in less than an hour.

Here is a menu that solves the problem. It contains an interesting contrast of textures and flavors and, best of all, from start to serving it requires less than 40 minutes.

The entree features chicken, which appeals to many families today looking for economical sources of protein. Chicken and Vegetable Kabobs start with frozen chicken nuggets, which are strung with vegetables on skewers, then seasoned and baked for a total of 12 minutes. The breaded chicken nuggets, made of tender juicy chicken, may be heated and served for an easy snack anytime, or they're excellent for quick recipes such as the kabobs.

A good flavor complement for the kabobs is rice cooked with a subtle combination of herbs. Then, rather than the usual tossed salad, serve Crunchy Apple Salad. Set the table, bring out milk for the children and before the 40 minute buzzer rings, dinner is ready.

- CHICKEN AND VEGETABLE KABOBS
 1 package (12 oz.) frozen prepared breaded nugget shaped chicken patties, thawed 20 minutes
 12 cherry tomatoes
 2 small zucchini, cut into 1/4-inch slices
 12 fresh mushrooms
 1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
 1 teaspoon garlic powder
 Grated Parmesan cheese (optional)
 On eight metal skewers, alternately place chicken nuggets, tomatoes, zucchini and mushrooms, using about five nuggets on each skewer. Combine butter and garlic powder and brush on kabobs. Bake on cookie sheet in 375° oven 6 minutes. Turn kabobs and bake an additional 6 minutes or until nuggets are crisp. Sprinkle with cheese, if desired. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

- HERB RICE
 1 1/2 cups uncooked long grain white rice
 3 cups chicken broth
 1/2 teaspoon ground marjoram
 1/2 teaspoon ground sage
 1/2 teaspoon crushed thyme leaves
 1/2 teaspoon crushed basil leaves
 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
 In medium saucepan, combine rice, broth and seasonings. Cover and simmer 15 minutes or until all liquid is absorbed. Add butter and fluff with fork until butter is melted. makes 4 to 6 servings.

- CRUNCHY APPLE SALAD
 3/4 cup mayonnaise
 4 teaspoons lemon juice
 1 tablespoon sugar
 3 medium red apples, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
 1/2 cup sliced celery
 1/2 cup chopped nuts
 Combine mayonnaise, lemon juice and sugar. Stir in apples, celery and nuts. Serve chilled or at room temperature. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

Persistence The Key To Shedding Pounds

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a widow, 72 years old, in good health. I'm 5 foot 6 and weigh 165. I have a roll around my stomach that I can pick up. I know I'm too heavy but I simply cannot shake it. What would you suggest? I gain weight on a 1,200 calorie diet. I walk a lot but that doesn't seem to help.
I don't know what your issue of The Health Letter on losing weight is all about but I would like to know how to successfully lose weight. If I just lost 10 or 15 pounds I'd be happy. I'm afraid to take a lot of over-the-counter weight control pills.
My doctor said my body does not retain calcium so I take a calcium tablet three times a day along with a 400 milligram tablet of vitamin D. Will this hurt me?
DEAR READER—I appreciate your desire to lose weight but your letter does not provide a single important reason for it from a health point of view. Do you have low normal or normal blood pressure? Is your cholesterol level normal? If your pressure and cholesterol are both in a good range you are doing fine.
However, if you want to lose weight for appearance, I am sure you can. You will lose weight on a 1,200 calorie diet if you follow it strictly for a long enough period of time and are reasonably active.
I'm sending you The Health Letter 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, which you asked about. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me. In care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. I am confident you will lose body fat if you really stick to it. Many others have.
The diet includes a quart of fortified skim milk a day, which will be good for your calcium problem. And the amount of calcium and vitamin D you are taking will not hurt you.

Try to build up your walking, if you could walk a mile and a half twice a day for one year, your walking would use about the number of calories in 20 pounds of body fat.
DEAR DR. LAMB—Would you give us some information on leakage of the heart? Just what is it and what causes it? What are the symptoms of leakage of the heart? How is it treated? Will one get over it and can one continue working, like farm work?
DEAR READER—As you know, your heart both contracts and relaxes. It contracts to propel blood forward and relaxes so it can fill again.
Each time it contracts it forces blood forward. You have valves to keep the blood from simply leaking backward when the heart relaxes. If one of these valves does not close the opening entirely, then you will have backward leakage when the heart relaxes.
Most of the problems are related to the aortic valve that guards the outlet from your heart and the mitral valve that guards the passageway between the upper and lower chambers of the left side of your heart.
A little leak may not have any significant consequences. A large leak can compromise the heart's efficiency in pumping blood forward. A leak usually means a damaged valve that can occur from many things. Rheumatic fever may damage either valve and cause the leak. Or a chamber of the heart may dilate making the valve fit improperly.
Mild leaks may require no treatment. More severe ones may require heart medicine or even open heart surgery.
