Woman dies in traffic accident

SANFORD - An elderly woman was killed and three other people were injured in a two-car accident this morning on West State Road 48 at Orange Boulevard.

The Florida Highway Patrol was still investigating the accident which was reported at 6:30 a.m., said Trooper Jim Brazee. No details of the accident or names of the victims would be released before this afternoon, said Brazee.

The four victims were transported to Central Florida Regional Hospital where the woman was later pronounced dead, said hospital spokesman Susan Prather. The other victims, an elderly man and two boys, were in stable condition, she Ed Wells, manager of the Handy Way convenience store at the corner of SR 46 and Orange Boulevard, said a small white car containing the elderly couple was apparently traveling east on SR 46 and a Camaro containing the two youths was driving south on Orange Boulevard. The Camaro had damage on the right side. Wells said.

OCEAN SPRINGS, Miss. - Visitors might wonder whether all the men wearing beards lately meant this Gulf Coast city had run out of Actually, it's part of a beard contest sponsored by the city's Centennial Commission that aims at recreating what townsfolk looked like in 1892, the year the city was founded.

Among the participants — called The Woolly Bunch — are Mayor Kevin Alves and assistant Fire Chief Ed Twilbeck.

Police regulations against beards were waived and three officers now have trimmed whiskers. Detective Sgt. Ken Summers said he would like to see the policy rewritten to allow them all the

The contest Saturday will end eight months of celebrating the 100th birthday of Ocean Springs, located on the Gulf of Mexico about 60 miles northeast of New Orleans. Prize categories include fullest, reddest, neatest and wildest.

SANFORD - Seminole County sheriff's investigators are seeking the killer of a Deliona man found dead behind the wheel of his still running car in Goldsboro last night.

The victim has been identified as Guy Albert Taylor, 25, 1036 N. Harbor Drive. Sheriff's spokesman George Proechel said Taylor apparently died of a single gunshot wound to the upper p.m., said hospital spokesman Susan Prather.

Procedel said Taylor has a conviction history involving drug use and investigators suspect he may have been in the community, which is in the county on Sanford's eastern edge, to buy drugs. The area near the intersection of Southwest Road and 18th Street is known for street-side drug sales, said Procchel.

Sanford Police Chief Sleven Harriett said this morning that his department has assisted sheriff's investigators in drug sales activities in the area. Harriett said police assisted in a neighborhood search last night, but referred questions to the Sheriff's Office.

Martin Miller, 84, said he hears gunshots in the neighborhood so often he didn't think too much about the single shot he heard at around 10 a'clock.

Seminole's new lunch policy is going down nice n'easily

By VICKI Decome Hersid Staff Writer

SANFORD - Verna Jackson had said before the start of the school year she thought there might be some opposition to the new Seminole High School rule prohibiting stu-dents from leaving campus for lunch.

During the first two weeks of school, however, she said there haven't been any incidents of students trying to break the rule.

'No, we've seen kids doing thinks like having picnics on the grounds and our cafeteria has been full;" said Jackson, an assistant to principal Gretchen Schapker.

She said the atudents have not voiced any complaints about the system, though she is sure there may be some grumbling under their breath.

'They're being very quiet and cooperative about this," she said.

Jackson said teachers and administrators have been patroling the parking lots and keeping an eye on the exits from the school, but have not had to stop anyone attempting to leave.

"I think they've pretty much accepted the rule and are learning to live with it," Jackson said.

She said one young man was peturbed when he was told he couldn't eat his lunch in his car in the parking lot.

"He told me that he wouldn't be there if he could leave campus, but he took his things and went back on campus," Jackson said. 'So, that was OK.'

She said the policy was introduced in order to reduce absenteeism during the period following lunch. Enrollment figures have not yet stabilized.

Jackson said, so it is hard to say if they policy is achieving its intended purpose. "But the kids really don't seem to mind," she said. "They're making the best of it."

Jackson said the students have been making the best of the situations and they may be starting a new tradition of picnics on the grounds.
"I think the kids really going to enjoy this new rule," she said.

Lake Mary budget talk this evening

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The first reading of the proposed 1992-93 budget will be held tonight at the Lake Mary City Commission meeting. The total budget expenses as presently listed is $6,745,279.

During a special called meeting of the Commission last week, a number of items were discussed as possible changes in various line items. They included a possible reduction in costs of Commissioners health and life insurance, reducing the City Manager's travel pay by $1,000 per year, a reconsideration of the pay scale for the Finance Director, and a $5,000 reduction in uniform allowances for the fire department.

Also to be considered were various pay increases planned for City employees, which may be dropped from five percent to three percent.

Several other items could add costs to the budget however. Parks and Recreation Director John Holland had projected the hiring of additional personnel to operate and maintain the sports complex, once construction work is completed. □Bee Budget, Page SA

The results showed 33 percent of the county's 122,136 eligible voters cast ballots Tuesday or submitted absentee votes, a 33 percent turnout. Elections supervisor Sandra Coard had predicted a 32 percent turnout.

In the District 1 race, incumbent Pat Warren defeated John Tracy in all but three Sanford precincts, 120, 123, and 124. Warren defeated Tracy in Lake Mary and Longwood precincts but lost in Geneva, where residents were angered about her support for horrow pits over their fragile water supply, the "Geneva Bubble."

Warren also lost the three Markham Woods Road precincts. Residents there have been upset about her support of higher housing densities in their suburban neighborhoods. Dick Van Der Weide defeated his GOP opponent Jerry Korman in most north Beminole County precincts.

McLain, Warren and Ven Der Weide will now face Democratic opposition in November.
In the sheriff's race, Sheriff Don Eslinger won most precincts in Seminole County with the notable exception of Precinct 3, which includes Midway. There, former sheriff's Capt. Beau Taylor defeated Eslinger 34-22.

Midway residents were angered by Eslinger's raid on a boarding house last July after a white Sanford woman said she was raped by up to 15 black men last July. Glee McLain, Page SA

Group finds patterns of racism

JACKSONVILLE - Young black males fail in Jacksonville because of ruelsm, school desegregation, unemployment and the declining influences of church and family, a study by a citizens group found.

"Today in Jacksonville - in fact, everywhere in our country — the problems experienced by young African-American men have reached a crisis level." said Chester A. Aikens, co-chairman of the study.

Young Black Males: A Report to the Citizens of Jacksonville," by Jacksonville Community Council Inc., offers an in-depth look at the causes of failure in young black males

"Established patterns of racism might prevent blacks from access to equal employment opportunities in education, employment or housing." the report said.

Dye poured in river as part of study

JACKSONVILLE - Water quality experts dumped dye in a small part of the St. Johns River and took water samples at 90 locations from Palatka to Mayport as part of an ongoing effort to evaluate the river's health.

The sampling was all done Tuesday as part of a local, state, regional and federal effort to diagnose the river's ailments.

The officials hope, among other things to determine whether sewage treatment plants can be expanded and dump more treated sewage in the river.

"We have to know how much is enough and how much is too much," said Bob Brody, an ecologist with the St. Johns River Water Management District.

Consumer confidence dips again

GAINESVILLE - Florida's consumer confidence index, fucled by fears of a triple-dip recession, dropped for the fifth month in a row in August, a University of Fiorida economist said.

The index fell to 72 last month, down from 76 in July, said Dave Denslow, an economist with UF's Bureau of Economic and Business Research

Of the 518 Fiorida adults surveyed by the bureau in August for the monthly index. 56 percent said they expect bad times in the nation during the coming year, up from 47 in July and 40 in June.

Only 25 percent expected good times. down from 33 percent in July and 38 percent in June. The rest expressed uncertainty about the direction of the U.S. economy.

Hurricane Andrew didn't cause the decline, Denslow said.

"Andrew did not depress the index," he said. "Náturally, we did not attempt to reach households hit by the hurricane, so our sample includes very few people who suffered the blow directly."

Floridians also are worried about the nation's economic health over the long haul. Only 29 percent said they foresee prosperity during the next five years, while 55 percent expect times to be bad.

'Over the past four years, respondents' confidence in the long-run course of the national economy has plunged," Denslow

When asked to compare Florida's economy with the nation's, 39 percent of the respondents said the state was better off than the country, while 30 percent said it was worse off.

Despite the August drop, buying plans for cars and houses edged up. The share of respondents contemplating buying a car during the next six months rose to 16.3 percent, up slightly from 14.7 in July. The share contemplating buying a house rose to 8.9 percent in August, up slightly from 8.7

the month before. "Falling interest rates are austaining buying plans," Denslow said. "With mortgage rates around 8 percent, people want to lock in the low monthly payments."

The national index was 76 in August, unchanged from the month before.

The Florida index is modeled after the national index of Consumer Sentiment at the University of Michigan.

Using 1966 as a base year with a 100 index, numbers below 100 indicate that consumers are less optimistic than they were in that year. Numbers above 100 show consumers are more confident than in 1986.

Jacksonville censorship capital

By ROW WORD

JACKSONVILLE - The title of censorship capital of the United States has been bestowed on Jacksonville because its school system censored more books in the past school year than any other district in the country.

"School censorship in Florida has become epidemic and Jacksonville is the busiest city in the nation in restricting the freedom to learn," said Susan Olickman. Florida executive director of People for the American Way.

Twenty of the 34 cases of censorship in Florida docu-mented by the Washingtonbased constitutional rights organization occurred in Jacksonville.

"What you have in Jacksonville is a smaller, vocal minority of people which come from a religious perspective having an extraordinary amount of influence," she said.

The organization, with 12,000 members in Florida and 300,000 nationwide, documented 376 instances of censorship nationwide during the 1991-92 school year, including 348 incldents of attempted censorship.
After Florida, Texas and California followed with 27 cases

The most frequent reason for challenging books, Ms. Glickman said, were that the materials were at odds with the challengers' religious views.

The second most common reason for a challenge was that the works were profane or con-tain objectionable language.

The third reason was that the treatment of sexuality was offensive.

The organization said among the works challenged in Jacksonville were John Knowles' "A Separate Per and Maurice Sendak's Night Kitchen." Both books, however, were kept on school library shelves after they were reviewed by a committee. Ms. Glickman said the most frequently challenged book was "Of Mice and Men," by John Steinbeck. Others included "The Catcher in the Rye," "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn." and "Fahrenheit 451."

Report: Blacks unfairly targeted

Resociated Press

TALLAHASSEE - Blacks are unfairly targeted for prosecution as habitual offenders in most areas of Florida, a legislative report says.

And men are more likely than women to be prosecuted under the law designed to lengthen sentences for career criminals, said the report done at the request of House Criminal Justice Committee Chairman Livin Martines, D-Tampa.

Some prosecutors said the report just showed enmity between lawmakers and prosecutors and judges over funding for the criminal justice

The report, released Tuesday, said only two of the state's 20 judicial circuits used non-racial guidelines in applying the habitual offender law. Only Dade and Barasota counties ignored race.

ed only in Dade County has the law been used more frequently against the very worst offenders than those charged with less serious crimes, it said.

In cases of murder and rape, a black defendant is 50 percent more likely to be prosecuted as a habitual offender than a non-black with a similar background, the report said.

"This is a diagrace to the standards of fairness and decency expected of our criminal justice system and must be fixed in the next legislative eion," Martines said.

He and House Corrections Committee Chairman Willie Logan, D-Opa-locka, said they'll introduce bills aimed at solving the problem next year.
"I have always known there was racial discrimination in the criminal justice system." Logan said.

But Pinellas-Pasco State Attorney James Russell called the report an example of the Legislature "teeing off on state attorneys" because some lawmakers were investigated by Leon County State Attorney Willie Meggs.

Twenty-four legislators were charged and paid fines after Meggs investigated lawmakers who accepted trips and gifts from lobbyists without reporting them as required by law.

"They won't fund prisons, they won't fund anybody properly," Russell said.

Area's federal judge angry over appeals court reversa

Associated Press

ORLANDO - Fifteen months ago, U.S. District Judge Judge G. Kendali Sharp threw out what he said was a "piddly" drug case that should have been tried in state courts.

An appellate court reversed that decision, ruling that Sharp had exceeded his authority and ordering him to handle it.

The judge did that on Tues-day, and following the hearing he had some choice words for the appeals court ruling:
"I think it sucks — and you can quote that." Sharp told a reporter.

'They might as well shut down the state courts. Just like big brother, the government wants us to do everything."

Sharp has in the past criticised minor cases and recurring capi-tal-punishment appeals by Death Row prisoners. He believes they are clogging up the federal system.

In this case, he dismissed charges against a man whose lawyer argued was arrested on state coculine trafficking charges. Attorney Ed Leinster wanted his client tried in Orange County Circuit Court, which has more lenient penalties.

Sharp agreed. But the ap-pellate court reinstated the

After the Tuesday hearing, the judge said he does not like the precedent, particularly when it precedent, particularly when involves relatively minor case

"The only reason they do it is because of the breakdown in the state prison system. Everyone knows that," Sharp told The Orlando Sentinel. The Ucciferri case began in June 1980 when agents of a tri-county police unit called Met-ropolitan Bureau of Investigation charged him with possessing six ounces of cocaine and suspected he was distributing the drug through the mail. Ucciferri also was accused of being a violent offender who carried a sawed-off shortern. shotgun.

Ucctferri's lawyer argued that the wiretap order, search war-rant and arrest in the case all were handled by state judges and investigators. He said his client was entitled to a trial in the state system.

MBI assets said they took the case to the U.S. Attorney's office in Oriando because of state prison crowding, yearlong delays with trials and the fact that inmates often serve as little as one-quarter of their terms. In federal court, prison terms are much harsher and inmates serve more than 80 percent of their sentences, often with mandatory terms ranging from 5 years to life.

Performace

According to conventional wisdom, National Basketball Association players with their grace, speed, power and disdain for gravity, are the world's greatest athletes. Yet that same conventional wisdom also holds that Larry Bird, who retired recently after 13 brilliant seasons with the Boston Celtics, was not athletically blessed. That contradiction is a measure of how little weight some people give to mind, will and discipline in athletic

The most commonly used words to describe Bird in motion are slow, gangly, gawky. earthbound. Larry Bird perhaps would not have been a candidate for a solo with the Joffrey Ballet.

But such words speak more to style than performance. And even then they do not tell the whole aesthetic story. To see the arc of Bird's jump shot or watch him make a no-look touch pass on the fast break sent shivers of pleasure up fans' spines. Those who watched Bird time after time step bck and push is fall-away shot through a forest of defenders' arms saw magic every bit as improbable as the wizardry that earned Earvin Johnson his monicker.

More important, standards that measure individual performance alone are skewed. Basketball is not a solo in the spotlight, but a team game. Where Bird the artist excelled, though, was in the fierce choregoraphy he created through his intelligence, energy and Like Johnson, Bird elevated the play of everyone around him. Coming into the NBA together in 1979, he and Johnson helped re-invent and redefine a game that, in the 1970s, had drifted toward becoming a mindless display of solo bravado divorced from the team concept.

When Bird was on the court it became ballet again, with grace, timing, structure and surprise no slam-dunk can equal. Bird has left a game that is different, stronger and far more engaging than it was when he first put on the kelly green.

Senate ethics

The Senate Ethics Committee has finally closed its 14-month-long investigation of Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore. It found the senator had "demonstrated a serious lack of concern for. and peglistence in connection w obligations to disclose (such) gifts."

That's putting it mildly, though the rebuke the committee administered is probably sufficient punishment.

Hatfield failed to report more than $42,000 in gifts received over several years, in blatant violation of the Ethics in Government Act of 1978, as well as Senate rules, which oblige members to report any gifts amounting to more than $100 in a single year. It is hard to imagine how Hatfield could be so oblivious to his manifest obligations.

The only plausible excuse is that in no instance did the senator permit the gifts to influence his legislative behavior, even though some of the gifts came from those indirectly interested in the actions of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which Hatfield chaired during part of the period in which he received the gifts. Nonetheless, there is nothing in the record to indicate that he showed favoritism.

Hatfield's explanation — "My mistakes were many and my omissions were serious. There is no one but myself to blame" - tells us nothing. But he does have a record of financial carelesaness. Not only did he fall to report expensive gifts, his wife took a real estate fee from someone seeking her husband's support for a pipeline project.

Apparently, Hatfleld, while impervious to improper influence, doesn't take the rules very seriously. Perhaps that's because he is basically honest; his long career is free from scandal or misbehavior in any other respect.

But the senator's belief in his own integrity is no substitute for following the rules. In a time of serious public distillusionment with Congress' morals, he has done the Senate no

Who's included in 'family values'?

In view of the Republicans' Introduction of "family values" into the campaign, it behooves us to make sure we know what we are talking about, and exactly where we stand.

Many Democrats show every sign of sincerely believing that the only "real issues" in the campaign are the economy and their usual laundry-list of liberal ideas on how to make America better (nationalized health care, etc.). On such a view, the Republican preoccupation with such matters as the protection of unborn human life, Murphy Brown's casual decision to have a child out of wedlock, and the aforemen-tioned "family values" strikes some Democrats as little short of pure demagogy.

But it lan't demagogy. These issues are the first rumbles of a new storm that is fast approaching the American political arena. It will quickly replace the old battles over the conduct of the Cold War and the superiority of a free-market economy, both of which the Republicans, by sticking to the principles of conservatism, have won hands down.

The new battle is often called "the cultural war." In form it is a dispute between those who acek to uphold the so-called "traditional values" of American life and those who argue that these must be replaced by new values.

That is the philosophical basis for the Democratic Party's recent tactic of seeking to build a coalition of "disadvantaged" minorities

(blacks, ul trafeminists homosexuals, American Indians, the further-out environ-mentalists and more recently even the handicapped and the deaf), and winking indulgently at bizarre "lifestyles" and the recreational use of drugs.

A person would have to be deaf, dumb and blind (in other words, "disadvantaged" in three different ways) not to recognize that the underlying implica-tion of that factic is derogation of the traditional American values. Deny it as they may, the attack is visible in contemptuous references to "white males" is majority of whom. by the way, haven't voted Democratic in over a quarter of a century) and scornful declarations that the "Ozzie and Harriet" family — two parents of opposite sexes, with children, a dog and a car — is no longer the American norm.

Conservatives, however, know very well that in a nation of 250 million people there are bound to be all sorts of living arrangements, that many of these contrast sharply with the traditional family, and that some of them deserve our full respect. It is important to make this clear, because the Democrats are trying hard to persuade anyone not a member of a typical family—single parents, bachelors and spinsters, and hence trying for make the service for the servi and homosexuals for whom traditional marriage is simply not an option — that conservatives are their enemy. That just isn't true.

What conservatives do contend is that the traditional family, where it is possible, offers by far the best conditions for raising children and transmitting to them the nation's common cultural heritage. This not only assures the health and strength of the society, but provides by far the best basis for the development of the children themselves (as the pathetic sags of Woody Alien, Mia Parrow and their miscellaneous holdings in the next generation is currently demonstrating). It is, therefore, altogether proper for the government to en-courage and strengthen the traditional family.

Worrier start your engine

Every August, I grind my teeth to little nube worrying about what I'm going to worry about after Labor Day when the summer is over and the worrying acason starts up again. You know what the French do? They take the month off. They pack up their Renaults and head down to Provence or someplace and don't worry about anything until the beginning of September.

What is wrong with these people that they can't worry properly? I read somewhere that the French wine industry is suffering because of foreign competition and the trend toward non-alcoholic beverages. Do you think the French are concerned about it? No air, they just shut the country down and go to the beach for a month. These people need some worrying

Let me spell it out for them. The official worrying season runs from the day after Labor Day to Christmas, picks up again after New Year's, then goes to Memorial Day. Amateur worriers then take the summer off. Seriou Worriers, the true artistes, begin nibbling nails again in August when they start worrying about what they're going to worry about in September.

Let me give a few examples of some vexatious things that have come to light in recent months and some of the questions Normal People could be asking themselves about these vexations things if they cared even a with these vexations:

a whit about worrying:

Does my dentist disinfect his drills add ly? Is there a harmful toxin to my Dun crab viecers? Will British judges and lawyers quit wearing wigs? Will Jay Leno find his niche? What will comedians do if old Potatos Head loses? Was Martlyn Monroe murd keep her from revealing her affairs with the Kennedy brothers and did the White House. Justice Department. CIA, FBI, Maña and numerous doctors, lawyers and journalists conspire to cover it up?

Bee what I mean? The world sags with things Normal People could worry about. And if they wanted to turn up the anxiety meter a notch, they could ponder these things:

Do memories of foul odors mean I had an unhappy childhood? What will we do about the shortage of college presidents? What can symphony orchestras do to attract young people? What will we do for caviar if the Russian sturgeon population breps dwindling?

Will rising ocean levels wipe out the Marshall lalands? la Ross running or not?

Even that is piddling stuff for us Serious Worriers, trained as we were on our mamas' knees to contemplate how long the earth can survive if it is slowing down at the rate of 1 second per year. Here are a just a few of the things that have kept SWs preoccupied in the past few months:

What will we name the '90s? I mean, we had the Roaring '20s with the bathtub gin, and the Age of Aquarius with the hair and beads, and the Me Decade with Ronnie and Nancy. What will the '90s be called? (I see stories about people blaming Prosac for their hyperactive libidos and I want to call it the Not Me Decade. but I'm only one vote.)

What level of cholesterol is OK? High has been a no-no for a long time; now low is bad, too. If this seeps somebody will have to invent a digntick to invent a digntick that can be in in our sers for a daily reading. "You're two eggs low today." What does God re-ally think about sex?

Time magazine posed the question in June and told us what Catholics think Evangelicals think and What Baptists and Methodists and and Methodists and Epincopalians and Presbyterians think. But for some strange reason. Time forgot to ask Pat Robertson what God thinks.

Where is good, oi' George Bush

There was once, in Washington, an honest and decent politician who would have been outraged to hear a president lie to us - as when President Bush unblinkingly declared what he knows is untrue: his claim that Bill Clinton raised taxes 128 times.

And because this fellow was not a typical Washington pol. he would have found it impossible to even defend a president who demagogued about religion when President Bush unabashedly pandered to Christian fundamentalista in Dallas by saying the Democrata' platform "left out three simple letters. G-O-D. My party is proud to celebrate our Judeo-Christian heritage, unrivaled in the

That's why, from the night we first met in 1967, I liked and respected that decent pol, the tall, akinny congressman from Houston: George Bush.

That night in 1967 proved even more memorable than this 24-year-old reporter (newly assigned to Washington by Newsday) realised at the time. My grand guide to the Grand Old Party, Rep. John Wydler of New York, said I ought to get to know two men— so, in the dining room of the GOP head-quarters, he introduced me to two future presidents in one awoop: Gerald Ford and George Bush.

(Being a conscientious rookie, I remember asking House Minority Leader Ford which aide he wanted me to bother on a weekend if I needed a Republican reaction to a news story. He gave me a phone number — "call any time" — and when I queried whom I should ask for, Ford chucked: "You'd better ask for me. That's my home.")

Ford became a frequent and always friendly weekend telephone contact; Bush became what, in this city of politicaljournalistic symbiosis, is called a close acquaintance, or friend. Bush was my guest at the White House Correspondents' Dinner and a valuable source in his years in Congress, at the United Nations, and as

Republican Party chairman.

Bush seemed to be a politician who had the courage of his convictions. He'd voted for the Fair Housing Act when Southern con-servatives didn't do such things lightly - and paid the price. (He was also pro-choice on abortion, but nobody saked about that back then.) Bush lost the conservative vote and with it. a 1970 Senate election, to Democratic usinessman Lloyd Bentsen. Back then, Bush was not a pol who would say just anything, true or false, to gain political favor. When Richard Nixon was treading Watergate, GOP Chairman Bush, who desperately wanted a top Cabinet job, emerged from a private session with Nixon thoroughly conned into believing a white-paper press release that whitewashed Nixon. On the White House driveway, Bush told me he was elated; this proved Nixon was clean. When I disagreed, Bush asked me to explain. Walking through Lafayette Park, across from the White House, I said I'd tell Bush only what I'd tell my readers—a point by point analysis of where Nixon's statement didn't source with Nixon's tases and other testimowho desperately wanted a top Cabinet job. square with Nixon's tapes and other testimony. The next day, on TV, Bush opted for integrity over ambition; his let-the-chips-fall-where-they-may statement won him no points with Nixon.

The Old George Bush was still in his tell-it-like-it-is mode as recently as 1980, when he warned us of Ronald Reagan's "voodso economics"— tax cuts for the rich and trickle-down for the rest. Then he decided the only way he'd ever get anywhere to politics was to hitch his sidecar to Reagan's bandwagon.

Voter turnout was a bit better than preedictions

Promittell, Wire Reports

TALLAHASSEE - Voters in Seminole and other counles turned out in higher-than-expected numbers in Tuesday's statewide primary, and officials now turn their attention to completing the election next week In Dade County.

State elections supervisor Dot Joyce said 36 percent of eligible voters took part in the election, a figure she de-scribed as "wonderful," for the fall primary which has registered an average of 33 percent dating back to 1970.

"It was really a good turnout for a first primary, particularly in view of all the confusing with new pre-cincts," she said. More than 1.7 million voters took part. including nearly 1.1 million in the Democratic primary.

In Seminole County, the supervisor of elections office released precinct-by-precinct voting tailles for Tuesday's primary election. The results showed 33 percent of the county's 122,136 eligible voters cast ballots Tuesday or submitted absentee votes, a 33 percent turnout. Elections supervisor Sandra Goard had predicted a 32 percent turn-

Although the U.S. Senate nominations were settled in both primaries Tuesday, Dade voters will still have several congressional, legislative and local races to settle.

Dade County officials are combining 101 precincts de-stroyed by Hurricane Andrew into three schools in South Dade

"We're pretty well set in that regard," said county elections supervisor David Leahy, who like Joyce is reluctant to predict turnout in the storm-ravaged area.

"We're not even going to guess," said Leahy, "It's fruitless to guess."

Secretary of State Jim Smith, however, doesn't think the postponement will boost turnout among the 620,000 eligible voters in the state's largest county.

"I don't think a week is going to make a bit of difference," said Smith.

Senate: Grant faces role model

By DRENT KALLESTAD Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - Republican Senate nominee Bill Grant once promoted Bob Graham to be vice president. Now he wants to make him an ex-senator.

Grant, given up for dead politically just two years ago, wants to oust the incumbent Democrat from the U.S. Senate. In 1988, then-U.S. Rep. Grant pushed to get Graham on the Democratic presidential ticket with Michael Dukakis.

"I think he (Graham) is genuine in what he does, but I do question his concept of government and what kind of public policy we establish for our people," said Grant, who switched to the Republican Party nearly four years ago.

Grant clinched the Republican nomination after Tuesday's partial primary, also highlighted by former federal judge Alcee Hastings' tenuous second-place showing in a congressional race and Broward County Sheriff Nick Navarro's stunning loss in the Republican primary.

Grant captured 55 percent of the vote in Tuesday's Republican primary election in a three-man field to earn a shot at Graham. Both have already said they want to debate nometime next month. The message will take style any day and we've got the message," said Grant. "The message is Fiorida and America wants limited government, individual responsibility and iraditional values. Graham, who has been involved in hurricane relief efforts in his home county, said Wednesday he had "sero" reaction to the primary. "I really haven't focused on it yet,"

It was Grant's changing parties that got him into trouble with voters in the 2nd Congressional District where Democrats handily outnumber Republicans.

"I did what I thought was best for North Florida," said Grant.

"I expect after their study, they will be coming back to the County and explaining what options we might have," he said. "We may even end up putting the whole thing back up for bidding, but I doubt it right now. I would predict the surity company will probably obtain another contractor."

Sellers could not estimate when work might get re-started. "It depends on how quickly a new contractor can be obtained, then how quickly the new contractor can get to Lake Mary and start the actual work."

Sellers said he is still optimistic that the project may possibly be completed by the original July 1993 deadline.

The only good comments relating to the construction project come from Lake Mary's Acting Police Chief Sam Belflore. "Since they started construction," he said, "our traffic stops on the boulevard between Interstate 4 and Country Club Road have dropped by almost 75 percent."

"The reason." he said, "is because fewer cars are using the

Prior to the start of construction, most of the two lane boulevard was a 40 mph zone, with some areas at 45.

"Even if we do catch a speeder on the boulevard," Belflore added, "There isn't even any place to pull someone over unless we went into the ditch."

On a serious note, Belflore is anxious for the widening project to be completed. "Traffic problems, especially during pick-up time at Lake Mary Elementary School, will continue to be bad until this entire thing is completed and all lanes reopened," he said.

By VICKI Describ Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Though he only won two precints district-wide (none of them in the northern part of the county), District 4 school board candidate Bob Goff has made it to the general election in November.

SANFORD - Larry Strickler.

who took nearly 40 percent of the vote in Tuesday's primary

"I think I did really well," said Goff. "Now we just need to determine how much grass roots support we have."

Goff earned 7.342 votes. Larry Strickler, who he will face in that election earned 13,709 votes.

"I'm just very, very pleased that I was able to get this kind of support so quickly." said Strickler who entered the race only four weeks ago, at the end of the qualifying period.

Strickler won 123 of the 133 precincts across Seminole County. In the county's northern precincts, he won 25 of the 31 precincts.

While Dr. Donald MacCulsh has pledged his support to Strickler, Jennings and Kilcourse have not made any such commitments.

MacCutah took Precinct 62. most of which is in Sanford. He took the second and third spot in several precinct races.

Norris Jennings, who took seven precincts in all of Seminole County, won five in the northern part of the county, all of them in Sanford.

Goff took a second place to Strickler in mont districts. though there was often a wide gap between the first and second

In northern Seminole County, Strickler's main support was in Lake Mary, Longwood and 4 school board race, gained support from those associated with school board administrators and from people active in Sanford politics.

'Butcher' tackles Shiite rebels

By 80 BLANONS Associated Press Writer

NICOSIA, Cyprus - Saddam Hussein has dispatched his de-fense minister — known as "the butcher" for ordering poison gas attacks on Kurds - to southern Iraq, apparently to lead opera-tions against Shitte rebels.

He has also launched a widespread crackdown in most Shitte areas, including the lowincome suburbs of Baghdad. according to travelers from Iraq.

Maj. Gen. Ali Hassan al-Majid, Seddam's cousin, has set up headquarters in the southern port of Bears and is touring the turbulent region seeking to rally Shiites behind the Baghdad regime, the travelers said.

The travelers, including well-informed Iraqis who spoke on condition of anonymity in Jordan and Cyprus, said al-Majid's command includes Republican Guard, a pillar of Saddam's regime.

Their reports could not be independently confirmed, but fract opposition groups have reported continuing clashes in the south despite the imposition of a U.S.-led ban on Iraqi air operations below the 32nd parallel.

U.S. pilots patrolling southern Iraqi airapace say no Iraqi aircraft have entered the "nofly" zone since it was established last week to protect the Shille population.

fragi officials have denied that the army is still in action against an estimated 10,000 rebels who took refuge in the country's southern marshes after a Shitte uprising was crushed by Saddam's forces last year.

The "no-fly" zone was de-clared by President Bush under the terms of a U.N. resolution that demands Baghdad end respecial forces from the elite pression of its civilian popula-

Continued Iraqi ground operations in the marshlands and elsewhere in the Shittedominated south could open the way for further allied action against Saddam.

The travelers said al-Majid's appointment last week as overall commander of military and security operations in the south reflects Baghdad's growing concern over the possibility of widespread political unrest.

He is one of Saddam's most trusted lieutenants and is notorious for savagery. Thousands of men, women and children died in poison gas attacks during his scorchedearth campaigns against the northern Kurds in 1987-89.

Al-Majid also played a key role in crushing the Shiite and Kurd rebellions that followed Saddam's Persian Gulf War defeat last year.

Census: Poverty increasing

WASHINGTON - The number of Americans living in poverty increased sharply last year as the recession dragged on, an analyst says.

The 1991 Census Bureau poverty and income figures. expected to be released today, will depict the state of the nation in the second year of the current economic downturn.

The figures are sure to become another weapon in the partisan political arsenal this election year.

In 1990, there were 33.6 million poor Americans, up about 50,000 from the previous year. More than one American in seven had income below the federal poverty line — $13,359 a year for a family of four.

The president, on a whirlwind campaign day in which he doled out new export subsidies to wheat farmers and lifted a ban on the sale of advanced jet fighters, also turned up in cotton country to release $755 million in crop disaster assistance.

And while many of the beneficiaries applauded those decisions, others grumbled that they amounted to too little, too late. Some farmers, here and elsewhere, also questioned why Bush hadn't noticed their plight until this juncture in an election year - and after Hurricane Andrew blew in.

The $755 million in crop disaster aid was authorized by Congress last year but withheld by the Bush despite protests from farm groups long before the hurricane made matters

Sears settles auto repair claims

CHICAGO — Sears, Roebuck and Co. is offering $50 coupons to hundreds of thousands of its auto repair customers to settle allegations it did shoddy and unnecessary work.

The coupons, good for Sears merchandise or services, are part of a settlement announced Wednesday. It ends 19 class-action lawsuits against Sears and a move by California to close all 72 Sears auto shops in that state.

The offer could affect 933,000 transactions nationwide and cost Sears an after-tax $15 million, the company said.

The $50 coupon is available to anyone who had Sears Install a master brake cylinder, an idler arm, a pair of shock absorbers, a pair of brake calipers or a pair of coil springs between Aug. 1, 1990, and Jan. 31, 1992.

Study: more divorce for co-habitants

By JIM ABRAMS Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - The notion that marriages will last longer if people first live together to find out if they are compatible is wrong, according to research by two sociologists. Attitudes registered in a 23-year study pointed to "the pos-sibility that cohabitation weakens commitment to mar-riage as an institution," said professors William G. Axinn of the University of Chicago and Arland Thornton of the University of Michigan. The sociologists, writing in the August edition of the journal "Demography," said the experience of setting up unmarried households "produces attitudes and values which increase the probability of divorce.

Axinn, in an interview Wednesday, said the study dealt primarily with the attitudes of young people and did not pro-duce results on the rates of failed marriages. But he cited other studies showing the divorce rate for those who first live together is 50 percent to 100 percent higher than that for those who don't.

The study by Axinn and Thornton covered 867 families of mothers and their children interviewed from 1962 to 1985.

Axinn said attitudes toward divorce affect whether a person decides to move in with a companion, while the experience of living together may have an equally strong influence on the willingness to split if a marriage doesn't go well.

"Because cohabitation often is viewed as a trial relationship. It probably attracts people who are, on average, more accepting of the termination of intimate relationships," the researchers wrote.

They added that the breakup of a relationship may "reinforce the view that intimate relationships are fragile and temporary.

The sociologists said young people who are committed to the institution of marriage and who would be disappointed if they don't marry are more likely to marry without first living

They also found that children of parents who are less positive about the joys of matrimony are more likely to move in before getting married.

"Daughters of mothers who believe that married people are happier cohabit at significantly lower rates than daughters of mothers who believe the opposite," they said.

Census Bureau figures showed that in 1990 there were 2.9 million unmarried couples living together, up 80 percent from 1980. Also in 1990, there were 142 divorced adults for every 1.000 married adults, three times the ratio in 1970.

Axinn said the numbers of people living together may have leveled off in recent years, but there's "no decline in tolerance and certainly no evidence of a decline in cohabitation behavior. "Demography" is published quarterly by the Washington-based Population Association of SAC boys' jamboree a very rough exhibition

By TONY Descrime Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY - Preseason contests are supposed to be for experimentation, trial and error, ironing out wrinkles and basically getting your game in shape. As a result, they're not expected to be well-played or things of beauty.

Wednesday night's Seminole Athletic Conference boys' volleyball jamboree at Lake Mary High School certainly wasn't.

With coaches trying almost every mathematical combination their rosters offered and the officials working on improving their skills. Wednesday's exhibition was a test of endurance and patience for players, coaches, referees and fans, the six schools playing six games that took over three hours.

"Ugly is the word," said Lake Mary coach Bill Whalen after watching his team struggle with Semi-nole and lose to Lake Brantley in a pair of error-filled contests that capped the evening's workout.

Even so, there were some very real highlights, all the teams exhibiting some quality that should serve them well when the regular season cranks up next week.

For example, after watching his Lyman team take a 15-11 win from Oviedo and drop a 15-9 decision to Lake Howell in the first two games of the evening, Greyhound coach Norm Ready was pleased with the athletic ability his team showed.

"We looked OK." said Ready. "We have a lot of holes to fill from last year. We have some kids up from the junior varsity and a new kid that we're trying to fit into the system.

This was real good for us. This helped us find out the things we really need to work on."

Lake Howell, perhaps the physically smallest of the six teams, gave an impressive exhibition of defense, following up its win over Lyman with a 15-13 victory against Oviedo The Lake Brantley Patriots were the big winners in the second pool, knocking off Seminole 15-5 and besting Lake Mary 15-10. Lake Mary earned a split, holding on to beat Seminole 15-13 after having led 12-4.

"I'm not pleased at all with our performance," said Whalen. "I knew we had a long way to go before the jamboree. What we did tonight only reaffirms that.

We have good individual players. They just haven't played together as a team before. By mid season, I think we could be a very good team. It's just going to take a little bit of time."

Time is also going to be an important ingredient for Sylvester Wynn's Seminole squad.

"In the first game, we just had jitters," said Wynn. "I think we're going to be more competitive this year. We have a few things to work on. We gave away a lot of points tonight and we had a lot of calls against us at the wrong times.

"We've got a lot of guys who play soccer, baseball, everything but guys who play only volleyball. The big thing right now is just getting them ready for games. But I think we're going to be all right."

Lyman and Seminole will both open their seasons at DeLand. Lyman playing there next Tuesday night with Seminole coming in next Wednesday night.

Bishop Moore will be the first match of the season for both Lake Mary and Lake Brantley, visiting Lake Brantley next Tuesday and going to Lake Mary next Thursday.

Oviedo opens at home against Cypress Creek next Tuesday. Lake Howell doesn't play its first match until Wednesday, Sept. 16, when the Silver Hawks will take on perennial boys' volleyball power Kissimmee-Osceola.

Roach cops Late Model record, win

Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - Veteran Late Model driver Ronnie Roach had a night to remember last Friday at Orlando Speedworld. Not only did he set a new track record for the fastest lap in qualifying, he scored his third win of the season in the main event.

After notching a lap time of 13.998 seconds in qualifying (which eclipsed the record of 14.111 set by Dick Anderson several years ago). Roach assumed the lead at the drop of the green flag in the feature while Anderson, the outside pole sitter, faded to fifth. Several laps later, a blown head gasket caused

Anderson to spin, bringing out the first caution of the

But on lap 34, something broke on Meredith's car. sending him into a spin and bringing out the caution flag for a second time.

On the restart, a tangle involving Tank Tucker and Mack Hanburg gave Meredith enough time to make eary repairs and rejoin the race on the lead lap. The effort was wasted as Meredith once again suffered hanical problems with five laps to go and had to retire from the competition. Roach led the rest of the way, holding off a late charge

Finishing behind Roach and Schoenfeld were, in order, Pete Orr, Longwood's Jeff Burkett and Scott

The Limited Late Model feature was also a green-tochecker run as Timmy Todd dashed to his seventh win of the year. Jacob Warren came back from an early scrap to finish a close second ahead of Mike Todd, Ron McCreary and Gary Schlichter.

The Modified main event got off to a rocky start when heat race winner Jon Compagnone Jr. tangled with Skip Honaker, putting both cars in the pits for the rest of the evening.

Wally Patterson jumped to the lead and held off every challenge from Glen Carter. But with two laps to go, Patterson went high to pass a lapped car, got loose and spun.

Carter inherited the lead and the victory, his third in a row and 15th of the season. Patterson blasted back to take second with Carl Green crossing the stripe in third. Dana Darveau and Colin Joiner rounded out the top Gene Van Alstine made a wild first-lap pass on half of the field and went on to coast to his eighth Mini Stock win of the season. Bobby Sears of Osteen finished second while series point leader Richard Newton came in third. David Lecklitner and J.D. Duncan claimed fourth and fifth, respectively.

seeking his first national championship after a halfdozen near misses - can hardly wait. "We do need to play a ballgame." Bowden said

Wednesday on anticipation of meeting Duke. "We're tired of practicing against each other and seeing each other." Bowden said the Seminoles are entering the ACC in a season when the league ap-pears strong top to bottom, noting North Carolina State's victory over lows in the Kickoff Classic.

"I think they just let the world know, 'hey you guys better open your eyes,'" said Bowden, who has coached the Seminoles to 10 or more victories in each of the last five seasons, including an 11-2 campaign in 1991.

"I think they (North Carolina State) made a statement, a statement so many people have overlooked: The resurgence of football in the Atlantic Coast Conference," Bowden said. "People cannot seem to realize that a national champion (Georgia Tech) came out of the ACC two years ago. Several other schools were number one in the nation like Virginia."

And Bowden, who has never before coached in a conference during his 26 years as the head man, is anxious to find out if the Seminoles are as good as he hopes.

"I've got a team with a potential, I can't deny that." Bowden said. "If they can put □See Seminoles, Page 23

Showers, Francis divide Twin 25's

BARBERVILLE - David Showers of St. Augustine and Jacksonville's Ken Francis were the victors in the Twin 25 Late Model Stock features that highlighted a full card of racing action at Volusia County Speedway this past Saturday night.

In the first of the two Late Model features. Showers rocketed to the lead with David Browning Jr. of Jacksonville right on his rear bumper. The two continued to run nose-to-tail with Francis close by in third.

By the halfway point, Showers had begun to pull away from the field. Meanwhile, Francis tried to dive inside Browning with Or-mond's Greg Ward trying to follow suit, only to have Browning shut the door on both of them.

Ward continued to try the inside of Browning until he got loose and spun in turn four to bring out the caution flag on lap 21. On the restart, Showers retained the lead and held on to the rounded out the top five.

The second Late Model main saw Browning, Francis, Showers and Hunter battle for the lead before Browning established the early advantage. Browning held tough for several circuits as Francis kept breathing down his neck. With more than half of the feature completed. Francis poured on the pressure and took Browning on the high side. Once out in front, Francis began to put several car lengths between himself and Showers, now running in second, and held strong right to the finish.

Bill Morris of Deltona had the early in the Sportsman main. How-ever, it didn't take long for Bun-nell's David Clegg to take over the int. Clegg hung tough until the previous week's winner. Jim Winks of Edgewater, came charging up through the field into second place, then dove inside Cleggfor the lead.

From that point on. Winks was untouchable and drove to his second consecutive win.

The Street Stock feature saw Rod Gammon Sr. of Ormond take the early lead, only to have Chris Lawrence of Orange City take the top spot away on lap three.

About midway through the race.
Gammon began to battle back and made several attempts to get by Lawrence on the inside. On the final lap. Gammon tried one last time but didn't have enough motor to overtake Lawrence and had to settle for second. Lawrence and Gammon were trailed across the finish line by current points leader Scott LeCates. Paul George and Gene Pellicer. . Orange City's Derrick Luthe came on strong right from the drop of the green flag of the 15-lap Ranken's Repair Mini Stock main and apparently went on to win his second feature in as many weeks.

for his ninth victory of the season.

Following Colgan to the checkers were Mike

Fritts, Jim Robinson, Rick Johns and Bill Loomis.

George McKinnick led a wild charge to victory lane in the Bombers main event, claiming his the field of hungry Charger drivers and went out to a commanding lead in the 15-lap feature. As the laps wound down, frequent winner Tony third win of the 1992 campaign. Greg Noe had a career-best second place finish over Jeff Darby.

Mike Hughes and Rick Van Alstine. Chuck Vola was a first-time winner in the Run-About feature event with Dave Stevens, Bob Myers. John Delosch and Charles Graybeal rounding out the top five.

Newsom of Orlando and Jim Heffner of Ormond

By the 12th circuit, Newsom was right on Young's rear bumper and challengeing the front-runner. But it wasn't to be for the Newsom has Young hung on to take the checkered flag. Newsom was second ahead of Heffner, Bobby

Tim Raines is a Senford native and Seminole High School graduate now playing for the Chicago White Sox. His stats are for the 1992 season in the first column, personal-best season tor the 1962 season in the first countil, personal-pest season lotals in the second column and current career totals (including 1982 games) in the third column.

On Wednesday night, Raines contributed a single in four at bats as the White Sox trimmed the Toronto Blue Jays 3-2. Chicago opens a series with the Kansas City Royals tonight. The game can be seen on cable television station WGN.

IN BRIEF

Drumming up donations

Local drummers from around Central Florida will be sponsoring their Fourth Annual Drum-A-Thon in Sanford to benefit the Muscular Dystrophy Association. The drummers plan to begin playing this coming Sunday at 5 p.m. and will play until Monday, Sept. 7 at 5 p.m. at the Wal-Mart Plaza on SR 17-92 in Sanford.

Tom Miller, originator and coordinator aof the event for the past four years is excited at how his annual event has grown. Friends and businesses in the community have all pitched in to support the drummers' efforts to raise money for Jerry's Kids.

This event is part of MDA's yearlong efforts to raise funds.

Girl Scouts: Good deeds, more

By BEL PRESMAN Herald Correspondent

SANFORD - We think of cookies and good deeds, but Girl Scouting is much more than those things to the youngsters who participate. Like its counterpart. Boy Scouts, the Girl Scout Council Organization builds character and develops independent potential for its members, while providing broadening social interaction.

It's an important activity for young girls, and troop leaders and administrative personnel first formed the support service. Gifts for Girls, as a means of offering the delights of girl scouting to children who, for economic or other reasons, might otherwise be unable to participate.

GPG annually enables more than 1,200 troops to participate in girl scouting, and is supported by the generosity of individuals and corporations from the surrounding community. Sanford residents contributed and showed their support at Shoney's Restaurant, 3150 S. Orlando Dr., in Sanford this past Tuesday from 5 to 9 p.m., when the restaurant earmarked a portion of all cash register proceeds to be donated to GFG. Girl Scouts from the Citrus Council of Girl Scouts of Winter Park were on hand to greet customers, and the restaurant exhibited Girl Scout displays throughout the evening.

"Last year was a particularly hard year for many people, and Girl Scouts was no exception," said Sanford troop leader. Julie Yankowenberg, and this event is an attempt to buoy up contributions so that the Council may go on supplementing membership husband and I had the worst scare of our lives: We became separated from our 2-year-old daughter while attending an outdoor festival in a park.

Abby, no words can describe the panic that takes over when parents discover their child is missing! Minutes of searching seem like hours. We were among the lucky ones - we found our child within 20 minutes. Not all families are that lucky. Every year, someone's child will be kidnapped, sexually abused. tortured or killed.

In warm weather, more children and their families enjoy group activities: amusement parks, fairs, concerts and festivals. In order to prevent tragedy, please advise your

This is the third time I've been told that anytime within the year of the wedding date is considered a proper length of time to get written "thank-you" notes

The person who told me this said she had read it in Dear Abby's column. True or false?

NEEDS TO KNOW DEAR NEEDS: Absolutely faire. I quote from my booklet. "How to Write Letters for All Occasions":

"It is imperative that wedding gift received be acknowledged as soon as possible. even if you have already thanked the donor in person.

And from another bookiet. 'How to Have a Lovely Wed-

"Thank-you notes should follow within a month, whether the donors have been thanked in person or not.

DEAR ABSY: I read in your column about "Baffled in Beaverton, Ore.." who was rebuffed by a woman for holding a door open for her.

I had a similar experience when a woman actually cursed me as I held the door open for her. I replied, "I'm sorry, I mistook you for a lady."

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday, a friend called to tell me that her husband said he had heard some vicious gossip about me at the club - and he defended me.

What really bothers me is why on earth she would tell me this. She never did tell me what was suppreedly said about me, or who said it.

M.I.B. IN TUCSON DEAR M.L.B. I don't know. But it's a pretty safe bet that it wasn't because she wanted to make you feel good.

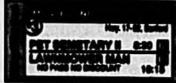

DEAR ABBY: The letter asking if it's against the law to bury a man with a fifth of bourbon in his casket brings to mind my pad, four glasses and a pint.

When the Day of Reckoning comes, she will be ready to start in all over again. Why not prepare for the afterlife now? It would be awful if we all had to start from scratch as the world once did.
