Four die in fiery crash

HIGHLAND PARK, Ill. — A tractor-trailer apparently lost its brakes and slammed into a passenger car late Thursday, igniting a 50-foot high wall of flames and killing four people, police said.

The accident happened where a heavily-traveled interstate highway ends at an intersection with a suburban thoroughfare.

The tractor-trailer appeared to have lost its brakes and plowed into a passenger car, said Illinois Department of Transportation spokesman Byron Takahashi. The truck and the car then burst into flames, and 10 other vehicles careened into the wreck, he said.

Gunman takes women hostage

OMAHA, Neb. — A gunman dressed in camouflage was holding four women hostage in a hair salon Friday, refusing to make any ransom demands or tell police negotiators when he would let the hostages go, police said.

The gunman, an Iowa City, Iowa, man who took his grandparents' car and drove to Omaha, detained the hostages at Possibilities Hair Salon about 3 p.m. Thursday and was still holding them after 5:30 a.m. Friday, police said.

"He hasn't requested anything so far," police Captain Robert Pfeiffer said Friday morning.

Gators bowl over Illinois

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — Emmitt Smith made big plays early and late Thursday night to lift Florida to a 14-10 victory over Illinois in the All-American Bowl.

Smith, who carried 28 times for 159 yards, broke down the left sideline for a 55-yard touchdown on the first play from scrimmage to open the scoring and then capped a comeback for the Gators with a 16-yard run and 2-yard TD sweep with 4:28 left.

"I like playing at Legion Field," said Smith, who burst onto the college scene in his first start as a freshman by rushing for 224 yards in a victory at Alabama last year.

Villanova upsets Seminoles

ORLANDO — It's amazing that a team that shot the lights out on Wednesday night couldn't throw the ball in the ocean on Thursday night if it were standing on the beach. Actually, that's not amazing — that's basketball.

The normally sharpshooting Florida State Seminoles, hampered by 36.7 percent shooting, fell to the Villanova Wildcats, 68-67, on Thursday in the championship game of the Red Lobster Classic Basketball Tournament at the Orange County Convention and Civic Center.

Housing official quits

Slams city program as costly, stagnant

By LAURA BULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Richard Woods, the city Community Development Officer, resigned Thursday, calling the city's housing rehabilitation program "too costly, time-consuming and stagnant."

Woods' resignation, effective Jan. 13, comes after the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development last week issued a report criticizing Sanford's management of community development block grants and funds.

Woods, who began the housing rehabilitation for the Goldsboro area in August 1986, said the urban-county community development program is bogged down in needless paperwork and regulations.

"It's a racial thing. I know it and I can prove it," Woods said.

The per-unit spending ceiling, raised Dec. 13 from $16,000 to $20,000 upon HUD urging, was kept at a minimum, Woods said, because low-income black families are the primary recipients of community development aid.

Woods said he had complained in Seminole County Community Development officials to raise the ceiling because "we can't just do cosmetic work. We need to fix these homes."

Woods accused the county community development office of rejecting minority contractors. See Housing, Page 5A

Local band has Sugar in future

LAKE MARY — All 273 members of the Lake Mary High School Marching Rams band, flags corps, and marionettes dance team boarded buses this morning en route to New Orleans and a Jan. 2 Sugar Bowl performance.

"It hasn't hit yet," Hollie Leaman, a sophomore and flag corps member, said last night. "I think I'm ready, but I'll probably get there and find I've forgotten something, then it'll be 'm-mom where are you?'"

It began last spring with a telephone call to band director Terry Pattishall. The caller was the organizer for the pre-game show. A list of the nation's best bands had been compiled, and Lake Mary's consistent superior ratings at marching band and concert festivals earned the school a top spot, and an invitation to the birthplace of jazz.

Pattishall says students perform well because they're talented, intelligent and work hard. "They like to do well at whatever they're doing," Pattishall said. "Right now that happens to be band."

Three high school bands from Alabama, Arkansas, and Georgia, in addition to Florida State University and Auburn University, will also be participating.

For Lake Mary's Marching Rams, it's an honor that has meant hours of practice. Students split among three rooms last night for a final rehearsal before the big event. Flag corps members practiced rifle drills, marionettes sweated out rigorous routines, and band members polished up their tunes. This year's Sugar Bowl theme is the history of New Orleans. Music includes: "When The Saints Go Marching In," "Lady Of Spain," and "Can-

Local Olympic athletes honored

By VICKI DeSORMIER

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — For the 1988 Summer Olympic Games in Seoul, South Korea, the state of Florida produced 50 athletes and two were from this city: hurdler Schowanda Williams, who was a member of the gold-medal 440 relay team, and gymnast Brandy Johnson.

They have done their hometown proud and were honored by the city government and the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce in a pair of ceremonies Thursday evening.

Fans of both athletes crowded around a small stage in the center of the Altamonte Mall to catch a glimpse of their heroes and to get autographs and pose for photos.

Mayor Dudley Bates presented each of the athletes with a framed copy of the city's proclamation in which

Dec. 29 was declared as Olympians Appreciation Day. Williams and Johnson also were presented plaques and keys to the city.

"The Olympics were a real great experience," said Williams, flashing a brilliant smile. "I loved it."

A graduate of Lyman High School, she is a second-semester junior at Louisiana State University, majoring in psychology and sociology. She plans to pursue a career in counseling, but will keep competing in track and field events with an eye to the 1992 games in Madrid.

She is not sure where she will make her home after graduation, but she thinks she'd like to return to Central Florida. "I've been to the Olympics. I'm a Louisiana resident, but this is always home," she said.

Johnson, a tiny, 15-year-old dynamo, is a little shy and unused to the publicity she has received since the summer games. While she didn't bring home a medal,

Efforts under way to keep drunk drivers off streets

By CAROL J. RUMSEY

The cost is just too high. That's the message on drunk driving from the Florida Highway Patrol and several local organizations, which is why CareCab posters are up in area hotels, and bars, and why a designated driver campaign is under way this holiday season.

"Over the past 10 years, approximately 60 percent of traffic fatalities have been in some way attributable to alcohol," Steven Harriett, Sanford Police Chief, said, this week.

It's a problem focused on this time of year, when families are on the road, and friends gather to usher in the New Year. No one is asking that good times be canceled, merely that arrangements be made to ensure a safe trip home; thereby, making it safer for all traveling busy roadways.

The Sanford Police Department will make those arrangements, if called in advance. Harriett says he and other officers have zero tolerance for those caught on the road after having had one cocktail too many.

The police "safe ride home" effort is offered in coordination with the Central Florida Safety Council, an organization that is also sponsoring CareCab for the CareUnit of Orlando.

Victim's mother who got MADD now shares her daughter's story

By CAROL J. RUMSEY

A young woman named Alice died eight years ago — 12:20 a.m., Nov. 30, 1980. Her death was sudden, and unnecessary, which is why Alice's mother, Mary Wiley, formed the first Florida chapter of Mothers Against Drunk Driving.

Today there are 32 state chapters, and Wiley spends 40-to-60 hours a week speaking, and writing on the subject. She has shared Alice's story hundreds of times, but says she never tires. It is a full-time occupation born out of a need to talk, a need to try and make sense of a tragedy that is senseless in nature.

"Eventually your friends don't want to hear anymore," Wiley said. "You get numb, lose weight, have crying spasms. It's all normal. You're not going crazy, but you think you are."

A 1:30 a.m. knock on the door changed Wiley's career, outlook — everything. Also affected were her children, Kathy, 24, Hank, 23, and Linda 18. It was Thanksgiving, their sister Alice was home from the University of Florida, and going out for an evening at the movies.

She was a pretty girl, 20-years-old, a student of biomedical engineering with a 3.8 grade point average, and popular to boot. She was not the kind of young person parents worry about. And, Wiley hadn't considered who

Don't sacrifice religious freedom

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

These 16 words, enshrined in the First Amendment to the Constitution, have become a perennial legal battleground as groups and individuals around the country seek to bar creches and other religious displays on public property during the holiday season.

In Pittsburgh, The Third Circuit Court of Appeals recently put an end to the customary nativity scene at the Allegheny County courthouse and also banned an 18-foot menorah in front of the nearby City-County Building.

The appeals court ruled that the Holy Name Society, a Catholic organization, and Chabad, a Jewish group, violated the Constitution's "establishment" clause by displaying religious symbols in a public place.

Fortunately, the U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to consider the case.

Somewhere amid the lawsuits and lengthy court appeals, the paramount purpose of the First Amendment seems to have been forgotten.

The sole reason for the "establishment" clause is to guarantee religious freedom by insuring that the government does not adopt a single religion and thereby exclude the practice of others. Yet, far too frequently this single sentence is applied in ways that inhibit, rather than protect, the "free exercise" of religious values.

Those who demand an absolute separation of church and state often are quite willing to sacrifice the right of others to express their religion freely in public.

Consequently, the American Civil Liberties Union and others who adopt an extreme stance would bar Christmas carolers from public parks.

Indeed, such groups line up on the side of the Polish government, at least theoretically, in its prohibition against crucifixes in public classrooms.

Never mind that the Warsaw regime's intent is to suppress religious views, not safeguard them.

The Supreme Court's celebrated 1984 decision in a case from Pawtucket, R.I., sought to resolve the constitutional questions by permitting nativity scenes and menorahs on public property so long as they are accompanied by secular symbols such as Santa Claus and elves.

This opinion, rightly ridiculed as the reindeer rule, trivializes religion and sometimes produces some rather tortured reasoning.

What should not be forgotten is that the First Amendment bars not only the establishment of religion but also any law "prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

Stay away from steroids

Ever since a bully kicked sand in the face of Charles Atlas, boys have looked for the easy road to bulk. It isn't hantiness anymore. The Journal of the American Medical Association reports that 6.6 percent of high-school boys surveyed have taken anabolic steroids to build muscle strength. For short-term results, they could pay a long-term price in stunted growth and sterility. Teen-agers don't think about the long term. But their adult role models should, and it doesn't help to have those role models on steroids too.

Welcome to Earthquake Town, USA

PARKFIELD, Calif. — The first earthquake that Donalee Thompson clearly remembers took place in 1934. She was 9 years old at the time, attending a grade-school variety show at the town hall, and she says that "it scared everybody so bad that a lot of the kids jumped off the stage and ran for cover."

Since then she's been through thousands of smaller tremors. And one more big one Parkfield sits atop the San Andreas Fault, the fabled geological crunch that runs through Southern California.

The small, isolated town is located about halfway between Los Angeles and San Francisco. It is about 50 miles inland from the Pacific Ocean. Generally speaking, the community has been rocked by sizable ground disturbances every 20 years since the middle 1800s.

In fact, the shudders have been so regular that Parkfield has come to be known as the "Earthquake Town." And science is trying to see if it can take advantage of the curiosity. Researchers have turned the settlement into a sort of seismographic centerpiece where they hope to learn how to predict earthquakes.

The researchers have already made one specific forecast along these lines. They say a significant quake will "probably" hit Parkfield before 1993. There have been big tremors here in 1857, 1881, 1901, 1922, 1934 and 1966; and the scientists think they "should be able" to technically feel the next one coming.

No one knows for sure, of course. Predicting earthquakes is at best an infant technology. It is also sullied by a remarkably goofy history. The ancients thought earth tremors could be predicted by watching for the gods, who, when they came down from the mountains, shook villages with every step that they made.

In addition, the notions have also been misused by charlatans and the simple-minded.

They are the ones who delight in fanning worry with dire prophecies. They were out in force not long ago. Armed with "astrological signs," they said Los Angeles would be destroyed by fire, hail and an earthquake.

Small wonder then that even the legitimate researchers hedge their bets in this respect. But they say it's still important to make the effort. Earthquakes have killed an average of 20,000 people during every year of the 20th century, and the scholars believe the number could be readily cut by accurate forecasting.

Ergo, the mission at Earthquake Town. It's at least better than looking for the gods. The San Andreas Fault is the juncture of two of the major plates that make up the Earth's crust — one supports the North American continent and the other the Pacific Ocean — and, whenever the plates move, Parkfield does the same.

Which is to say often, Parkfield residents like to claim they live on a massive trampoline. Donalee Thompson points out that most of the tremors are minuscule — "they can only be measured by machines" — but, in terms of sheer numbers, "there are 2,000 to 3,000 earthquakes a month in Parkfield, or 70 to 100 every day."

Thompson is a native. She is also the local diarist. She has published a book about this part of central California, high in the Cholame Hills, and she keeps scrapbooks on the earthquake activity. She says the researchers began coming here after the 1966 rumble, and "now they listen to every leaf that falls."

Science is trying to see if it can take advantage of the curiosity.

GEORGE F. WILL

God's grace or green slime?

WASHINGTON — All is quiet along the Potomac just now, the federal community having given itself over to seasonal indolence and indulgence. Such enjoyment came to this city surprisingly late in its history. President Grover Cleveland in 1894, for the first time, gave civil servants Christmas Day off.

Among the many routes and reveals that leaven our civilization, those associated with Christmas sometimes test one's capacity for taking life philosophically. The task of eating a peppernose cookie without coating yourself with powdered sugar is as difficult as spelling peppernose, but it is easier than eating fruitcake, which is the worst feature of this season.

Christmas, which — let us be fair — should not be judged by fruitcakes, is, of course, a lot older than almost all the rituals that now enervate it. But then, Christmas, like mankind, is a late arrival, as reckoned by Harvard's Stephen Jay Gould, who take the long view, as paleontologists are wont to do.

The human species, he says, has been around for about 250,000 years, approximately 0015 percent of the history of all early life. "The last inch of the cosmic mile." The planet, indeed the universe, got along swimmingly without us until, as it were, just the other day. This makes our arrival look awfully like a cosmic afterthought, an accident rather than the culmination of a plan.

Furthermore, says Gould, the many evolutionary factors that produced us are "quirky, improbable, unrepeatable and utterly unpredictable." However, unpredictable does not mean random. "It makes sense and can be explained after the fact. But wind back life's tape to the dawn of time and let it play again — and you will never get humans a second time."

Well, "never" is a tad, if only a tad, too strong. What Gould means is that getting human beings on a second run through the evolution of life would be a statistical long shot with the odds approaching infinity-to-one. If, that is, it were possible to "approach" infinity, which it isn't — but never mind, you know what I mean.

So how come we humans are here? "Because," says Gould, "one odd group of fishes and a peculiar fin anatomy that could transform into legs for terrestrial creatures; because the earth never froze entirely during an ice age; because a small and tenuous species (he means us), arising in Africa a quarter-of-a-million years ago, has managed, so far, to survive by hook and by crook."

Actually, we are not as tenuous as all that. Gould's "hook and crook" means mind, which is a formidable thing. True, mind has produced, among other things, fruitcake and modern physics, both potentially lethal to the species. Still, "tenuous" does not do us justice.

Actually, Gould gives us generous justice by noting the exhilarating aspect of the lowly and improbable (fins and all that) explanation of us. The explanation may be superficially deflating, but it is ultimately liberating. "We cannot read the meaning of life passively in the facts of nature. We must construct these answers ourselves — from our own wisdom and ethical sense."

Gould may be right, but for many people the meaning of Christmas is that there is a "higher" answer, a providential purpose to the evolutionary outcome. For some people, the origin of religious sentiment — awe — is in this thought: The stunning improbability that produced us is itself an intimation of some special intention.

Tom Stoppard said that it may be slightly less improbable that a deity intended us, and planned our wayward path to existence, than that green slime began to change and gave rise, in time, to Shakespeare's sonnets.

Anyway, no matter where life came from, or why, the fact is it beats the alternative and makes things interesting. Alice Walker put philosophy in its place and gave consolation for a universe afflicted with fruitcakes when she wrote in one sentence almost all that need to be said on the subject of life: "Life is better than death, I believe, if only because it is less boring, and because it has fresh peaches in it."

No matter where life came from, or why, the fact is it beats the alternative.

Defective guns take their toll

WASHINGTON — Guns are designed to inflict bodily harm, but not in the way that Roger DeLuca experienced it.

The Arizona man was on a hunting trip when his revolver, tucked in its holster on his hip, blew a hole through DeLuca's right leg. He says in a lawsuit that he and a friend were hunting a deer carcass when the animal's antler bumped the gun or the holster. The bullet damaged nerves in DeLuca's leg and the resulting limp has aggravated a back problem.

DeLuca can't look to the federal government for help. Federal safety watchdogs keep tabs on the safety of everything from baby dolls to jumbo jets — every thing except guns. The Consumer Product Safety Commission, the Federal Trade Commission and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms have no authority to keep defective firearms off the market.

It's up to the alleged victims to ask the courts to decide who is at fault, after the fact. DeLuca has sued the maker of his gun, Sturm, Ruger and Co. Although the model that DeLuca carried was discontinued in 1973, an estimated 1 million of them could still be in circulation. Numerous lawsuits have been filed alleging a dangerous defect in the design. The company has refused to launch a recall, blaming the accidental shootings on misuse or negligence.

Whether the federal government should protect consumers from defective guns may be the next big gun fight on Capitol Hill. Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, is known for his battles with the gun lobby. He has asked the General Accounting Office to investigate whether better safety devices on guns would prevent accidental shooting deaths.

Questions arose in Congress in the mid-1970s about the jurisdiction of the Consumer Product Safety Commission when it came to guns and ammunition. The National Rifle Association and lawmakers such as Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, and Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., successfully fought efforts to regulate gun safety. They claimed it was back-door gun control. But others, including Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., questioned why even gun enthusiasts wouldn't support a measure that simply protected them from defective merchandise.

The NRA is proud of saying that it represents the consumers, not the gun industry. But an NRA official testified before the Senate in 1975 supporting measures to keep the Consumer Product Safety Commission out of the gun-inspection business.

NRA attorney Richard Gardiner told our associate Scott Sleek that lawsuits filed involving gun accidents are effective in stopping defective guns from being produced.

That means consumers are solely responsible for challenging the safety of guns and they can't do it until it's too late.

Numerous gun manufacturers have weathered lawsuits over guns that malfunctioned. More than 230 claims have been filed against Sturm, Ruger over accidental discharges of the "Old Model" (the one DeLuca owned) single-action revolvers. Those guns were introduced in the 1950s and are considered collectors' items. Many of the alleged incidents have resulted in injuries and 25 ended in deaths.

The company stopped making the gun, but never recalled the ones on the market. Sturm, Ruger attorney Stephen Sanetti says the firm has acted responsibly in notifying the Old Model owners about a safety enhancement device that can be added to the gun.

Numerous lawsuits have been filed alleging dangerous defects in the design.

Bomb blast kills four

AMRITSAR, India — Suspected Sikh extremists exploded a powerful bomb Friday outside the home of a police official in northern Punjab, killing four people and wounding nine others, authorities said. Police blamed the explosion on Sikh radicals fighting to establish an independent nation called Khalistan, or "Land of Pure," in Punjab state. The violence has left more than 2,300 people dead in the past year. The bomb was carried by bicycle through the congested center of Amritsar, a Sikh holy city 250 miles northwest of New Delhi, police said. The bike with the bomb still attached was left outside the home of a police official.

Bakkers prepare for return to television

United Press International

PINEVILLE, N.C. — Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker, who lost the PTL television ministry in a sex and money scandal, are scheduled to return to the airwaves Monday with a new program. Bakker, who celebrates his 49th birthday Monday, refused to talk to reporters Thursday about the new program, which will be live and filmed at his secluded home about 15 miles south of Charlotte, N.C.

A spokesman said the show will be aired on a limited number of stations and will not be seen in most markets unless the viewer has a satellite dish.

Bakker was indicted by a federal grand jury earlier this month for criminal fraud for the way he raised and spent money at PTL.

The grand jury charged Bakker and his former right-hand man Richard Dortch with 24 counts each of mail fraud and wire fraud, conspiring to give themselves huge bonuses out of ministry monies and using more than $260,000 of PTL donations to buy the silence of Jessica Hahn, the woman with whom Bakker had a one-time sexual fling in 1980.

Hahn, who claimed Bakker robbed her of her virginity, has since appeared in two issues of Playboy magazine. When she learned that the hush money had come from the ministry, and not Bakker, she returned the $190,000 that remained.

Bakker's new program will not be aired on the PTL television network, which reaches millions of homes and sells air time to various ministries.

86 military bases to be closed

Commission recommends military base closings, realignments to save money

United Press International

WASHINGTON — A special commission recommended Thursday that 86 military facilities across the country be closed and that others be scaled down in a move estimated to save the Pentagon $693 million annually. The move, which also includes the "realignment" or shifts in manpower and responsibilities at another 54 bases, is expected to cost thousands of civilian jobs in communities near the installations, but officials said they expect Congress to go along with the plan.

If accepted by Defense Secretary Frank Carlucci, the plan can be blocked only if both the House and Senate vote against it and override an anticipated presidential veto.

Under the law authorizing the commission, the recommended list must be accepted or rejected as a single package. Individual bases cannot be deleted or added.

The hit list was developed by the 12-member Commission on Base Realignment and Closure, which since May has been working in secret in order to avoid the kind of political pressures that have thwarted previous efforts to shut down unneeded bases.

Angry lawmakers have one loophole they could try to use to keep bases in their states from being closed. The commission said it will take up to $300 million to enact the base closings, an expense that would have to be approved by Congress in a separate bill.

The large number of facilities involved in the report was a surprise.

One of the larger bases affected was Fort Dix, N.J., which would go into semi-active status. Among the bases to close are the Presidio of San Francisco, plus Chanute AFB, Ill.; George Air Force Base, Calif.; Mather Air Force Base, Calif.; Norton Air Force Base, Calif.; and Pease Air Force Base, N.H.

Seventh year of industrial expansion forecast

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The Commerce Department forecast Thursday a seventh straight upward year for the U.S. industry in 1989, based on continued strong exports and a competitive dollar.

"We expect economic growth to continue for an unprecedented seventh straight year," said Deputy Commerce Secretary Donna Tuttle.

In its "1989 U.S. Industrial Outlook," the department predicted manufacturing shipments would increase by about 2.3 percent in 1989, slower than 1988's growth but spread across more than 70 percent of all manufacturing industries. "The current U.S. export boom will continue to grow in 1989," Tuttle said. "It is now fueled in part by the lower dollar, product quality improvement and stable labor costs."

"At this point there is little evidence our export growth is running out of steam," agreed Allan Moore, Under Secretary of Commerce for International Trade.

The 556-page study, based on the administration's mid-year economic projections and surveys taken during late summer, also forecast another year of growth in service industries, such as financial institutions, transportation companies and healthcare.

Only construction spending was expected to decline by about 1.5 percent in 1989, bringing with it the steel industry and other related sectors.

"The major uncertainty, of course, is interest rates," Tuttle said. Higher interest rates could further depress the construction and housing industries.

The survey forecast a continued downturn in residential construction with housing starts declining to about 1.4 million units, most of that in interest-sensitive single-family houses.

Tuttle said manufacturing, which accounts for only 22 percent of the nation's gross national product, would continue to account for a lion's share of economic growth.

"It continues to be a major driving force of our economy," she said.

The survey of 206 manufacturing industries concluded that electronics and other advanced technology areas would do especially well in 1989.

Shipments of semiconductors, used in the exploding computer industry, are expected to rise 13 percent in 1989, shaking off tough foreign competition.

Capital goods industries are also expected to profit in the coming year from other industries' needs to improve their facilities and expand capacity.

Rescuers hold out hope for six missing seamen

United Press International

BOSTON — Searchers held out hope Friday they could find six crewmen who disappeared off the coast of Nantucket when their cargo ship suddenly capsized and sank in heavy seas. Three others were rescued and two died.

The Coast Guard Cutter Tamaroa and a C-130 airplane were searching an area Friday 200 miles north to south and 90 miles east to west.

"The weather has improved — the winds are only 25 knots and seas have died down to 10 feet. It's overcast, but it's not raining," said Lt. Mike Humphreys of the Coast Guard's Boston station, which is coordinating the rescue.

"It's tough to speculate whether they're alive, but we're still optimistic about their survivability in the raft," Humphreys said Friday. "The raft was equipped with a cover. But it is possible they were just in life jackets."

Officials said the water temperature in the area of the accident was believed to be 45 to 50 degrees.

Coast Guard spokesman Gregory Creedon said the chances of the crew members surviving "depends on how well they are clothed, whether they are in the raft or floating on debris. If they are in the water and are protected, they could go for quite awhile."

"We're optimistic," Creedon said. "That's why we have such an intensive search effort going on."

Three crewmen were rescued Thursday from the 254-foot cargo ship that capsized and sank in stormy, 25-foot seas south of Nantucket, but two crewmen died.

Six planes from the Coast

Guard, the Navy and the Air National Guard battled winds of up to 40 to 50 knots as they searched for more survivors among the 11 crewmen who were aboard the Cypriot-registered Lloyd's Bermuda when its cargo shifted shortly after 7 p.m. Wednesday. The crew abandoned the container ship in two life rafts minutes before it capsized at about 7:15 p.m.

Four volunteer merchant ships were also searching a 5,700-square-mile area about 200 miles east of Barnegat Light, N.J., and 160 miles south of the resort island of Nantucket.

By 10:30 p.m. Thursday, a Coast Guard spokesman said seas had subsided to 5 to 10 feet and winds were down to 25 to 30 knots, but there was still no sign of the six missing crewmen.

One dead crew member in a lifejacket was spotted about 17 miles southeast of the accident site at 10:30 a.m. and a Coast Guard helicopter was dispatched to pull his body out of the water, said Chief Petty Officer Bill Ball of Boston Coast Guard station.

Yugoslavian prime minister resigns because of economy

United Press International

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — The government of Prime Minister Branko Mikulic resigned Friday under heavy criticism over a disastrous economy fueled by runaway inflation in the communist nation, government officials said.

Mikulic, 59, submitted a letter to Parliamentary Chairman Dusan Popovski informing him about the "collective resignation" of Mikulic and his 30-member cabinet, unprecedented in Yugoslavia since the communists came to power after World War II in 1945, parliamentary officials said.

Later Friday, Mikulic was to address a joint session of the two-house Yugoslav parliament to explain the action of his independent communist government, officials said.

Mikulic's government will remain in power until a new prime minister is named by the Yugoslav nine-member collective presidency. The prime minister-designate would then nominate a new government and submit it to the national parliament for approval.

Raif Dizdarevic, a member of the collective presidency, is currently head of state and the nation's most powerful politician.

Mikulic was elected prime minister, whose chief duty is governing the nation's economic affairs. In May 1986 when the annual inflation rate was about 90 percent. Economic experts estimate inflation now stands at 250 percent, with fears that in the next 12 months it might reach 300 to 500 percent. The government owes Western creditors $21 billion.

The deteriorating economic situation has led to a surge of labor unrest throughout Yugoslavia, where more than 1 million people are out of work. In 1987, there were 1,685 strikes involving some 300,000 workers, and this year the number of strikes rose to about 1,500 involving about 400,000 workers.

New Japanese justice minister named as bond scandal widens

United Press International

TOKYO — Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita picked a veteran jurist Friday to succeed Justice Minister Takashi Hasegawa, who resigned earlier in the day amid the nation's worst political scandal in more than a decade.

The government announced the appointment of Masami Takatsuji, 78, a former Supreme Court justice, to become Japan's third justice minister in less than a week.

"I have just accepted the offer from Mr. Takeshita and I have no special comment on the scandal at the moment," said Takatsuji, who served as a Supreme Court justice from 1973 to 1980. "I have nothing to do with the scandal."

Hasegawa, the second Cabinet minister to resign since the scandal broke six months ago, quit his post after admitting he had accepted political contributions from a company embroiled in the so-called "Recruit-gate" affair.

Newspapers said Hasegawa received a total of $48,000 over the last 12 years from Recruit Cosmos Co., a real estate subsidiary of major information and publishing firm Recruit Co.

Recruit Cosmos was accused of selling its unlisted shares to prominent politicians and business leaders at bargain prices in 1986, allowing the buyers to make huge profits.

"I keenly felt political responsibility for the case," Hasegawa told a televised news conference after his resignation. "It is deeply regrettable that I, as a Cabinet minister in charge of investigating the scandal, had received political donations from Recruit Cosmos Co."

Hasegawa's tenure as Justice Minister was the shortest on record for a Cabinet minister in postwar years.

11 dead, 25 injured in explosion

United Press International

MANILA, Philippines — An explosion rocked a clandestine firecracker factory in a crowded village just north of Manila late Thursday, sparking a fire and leaving at least 11 people dead and 25 injured, police said Friday.

Police and witnesses said the blast in an apartment where firecrackers were being manufactured illegally shook the Buni district in the town of Bocaue just outside the capital at 10 p.m. Thursday, and set ablaze or destroyed 10 nearby houses.

At least 11 people, including four women, were killed by the explosion and fire that demolished the secret factory. Police Lt. Jesus Lava said the factory was one of hundreds in Bocaue, where making fireworks is a thriving illegal industry in small houses and apartments.

Six of the victims were found wounded shortly after the blast but died at hospitals where they were being treated for severe burns and shrapnel wounds. At daybreak, police found the remains of three men and a boy burned beyond recognition in the smoldering ruins, as well as the mangled body of a woman hurled 230 feet away.

Hospital sources said 25 others remained hospitalized for burns or shrapnel wounds. Firecrackers are illegal in the Philippines. But authorities wielding stiff fines and prison terms have failed to stop their production or traditional, widespread use by Filipinos who explode them to greet the new year.

A week ago, a fire sparked by firecrackers revelers smuggled aboard set a domestic ferry ablaze, killing one of at least 129 people aboard and sinking the vessel in the central Philippine sea.

Residents said Thursday's explosion was so powerful it damaged wooden houses 660 feet away. Glass windows were smashed and at least one roof collapsed.

DRINKING AND DRIVING DON'T MIX!

when you drink... DON'T DRIVE!

The life you save may be your own!

As little as two drinks can affect your driving ability. Four or more can make you legally drunk. Contrary to popular beliefs, coffee and fresh air will not sober you up — only time will. It takes approximately one hour for your body to neutralize the effect of one alcoholic drink. In other words, it takes four hours to completely sober up from four drinks. In between that time you are a danger to yourself and to other drivers on the road.

THE SIMPLE SOLUTION IS DON'T DRINK AND DRIVE! Ask a friend to drive you — they'll be happy to because they care — or call a taxi. The fare is small compared to the cost of your life or someone else's. Remember, a drunk driver is a dangerous driver.

Drinking and driving kills! The only solution is DON'T!

IN BRIEF

BASKETBALL

Mavericks club Celtics, 131-115

In Larry Bird's first prolonged absence since joining the NBA, the Boston Celtics have reached a low they hadn't hit since the season before he arrived.

The Dallas Mavericks beat Boston for only the second time ever Thursday night, 131-115, to give the Celtics their first losing month since April, 1979, a string of 61 straight months. Bird, who is out for three months with bone spurs in his heels, joined the team in the 1979-80 season.

With only San Antonio to play before the new year, the Celtics have a 4-7 record in December.

"We were able to fight our way out of a hole, but we couldn't stop their hot hand," Boston Coach Jimmy Rodgers said. "We had a tremendous effort to close as much as we did. It is tough to win on the road when the other team hits such a tremendously high percentage."

Elsewhere on Thursday night, Washington beat Houston 126-109, Chicago nipped New York 106-106, and Seattle routed Miami 129-99.

Levy named AFC's top coach

ORCHARD PARK, N.Y. — Marv Levy, who took over the Buffalo Bills in the midst of a 4-12 season two years ago and guided them to an AFC East title this year, Thursday was named United Press International's AFC Coach of the Year.

Levy, who finished the 1986 season with a 2-5 record after replacing Hank Bullough, directed the Bills to a 7-8 record a year ago before this season's 12-4 finish.

He was named on 29 ballots of 42 pro football writers in AFC cities. Cincinnati Coach Sam Wyche finished second with 12 votes and New England's Raymond Berry received one.

Although Levy's 21-17 record with the Bills can be attributed to an influx of talent, including quarterback Jim Kelly, linebackers Shane Conlan and Cornelius Bennett and defensive end Bruce Smith, his coaching style has had a strong effect on the veterans.

BASEBALL

Boggs cut during confrontation

GAINESVILLE — Boston Red Sox third baseman Wade Boggs and another man were threatened with a knife and Boggs received a minor cut on his neck during a confrontation outside a Gainesville bar, according to police and accounts by the American League batting champion.

"Luckily, no one was seriously injured," said Boggs, who lives in Tampa. "It was a volatile situation that could have grown into something big."

Two men and one woman were arrested following the incident, which took place outside Dub's Steer Room, a Gainesville nightspot. Boggs was in Gainesville, about 120 miles north of Tampa, to host a fishing tournament held at a fishing camp he owns.

HOCKEY

Canucks crown Kings, 6-3

The Los Angeles Kings have such an explosive offense that sometimes it backfires on them.

The visiting Vancouver Canucks took advantage of opportunities the Kings gave them Thursday night and skated off with a 6-3 victory.

"They're an explosive hockey team, and when you play the way they do, you're going to give up some chances," Vancouver Coach Bob McCammon said. "We just tried to capitalize on those chances when we got them. We just tried to stay even in the first period and not let it get away."

"We haven't gotten four or five bounces all year, we've just been unlucky. Tonight it was our turn."

Jim Sandlack scored two goals to lead the Canucks. Sandlack's first goal came at 4:29 of the second period, just 29 seconds after Wayne Gretzky had given the Kings a 2-1 lead. Sandlack added an empty net goal with 49 seconds remaining.

Elsewhere, Montreal held off Calgary 4-3, Philadelphia surprised Pittsburgh 3-2, Boston routed New Jersey 6-2 and Toronto outscored Quebec 6-5. In an exhibition game, the Soviet Red Army nipped the New York Islanders 3-2.

Rams conquer Killian

By CHRIS FISTER
 Herald sports editor

ORLANDO — A victory over the defending state champion and current No. 1 ranked boys soccer team is quite a feather in anybody's cap. For Lake Mary's Rams, however, the celebration of Thursday's 2-1 victory over Miami Killian's Cougars was a short one.

The Rams still have some unfinished business to take care of.

"As far as we're concerned, we haven't done anything yet," Lake Mary senior John Mora said. "We have to first win the championship and then come back in the second half of the season and prove we're No. 1."

Mora scored both of the goals for Lake Mary in Thursday's win over Killian before 731 fans in the semifinal round of the Pizza Hut Invitational at Boone High School, Lake Mary, 100-1, advanced tonight's championship against Clearwater Central Catholic, which snapped

(3-0) against Killian intact, they will now look to turn the tables on Clearwater Catholic, Lake Mary's all-time record vs. CCC is 0-2-1.

"CCC really has the motivation in this tournament," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "And when they're motivated, they pounce on you. We'll definitely have to be at our best."

It was Killian that was at its best in the early going of Thursday's semifinal game. The Cougars had several good scoring chances in the first 20 minutes, including one that they let get away that ended up costing them later on.

At the 32-41 mark, Eric Exalbert had a breakaway opportunity but was taken down inside the penalty area. Killian was awarded a penalty kick and Jaime Martinez took the kick. Martinez had Lake Mary goalkeeper Steve Sharp guessing the wrong way, but Martinez's shot was wide of the goal and the Rams weathered a major storm.

Villanova drops FSU

By TONY DeSORMIER
 Herald sports writer

ORLANDO — It's amazing that a team that shot the lights out on Wednesday night couldn't throw the ball in the ocean on Thursday night if it were standing on the beach. Actually, that's not amazing — that's basketball.

The normally sharpshooting Florida State Seminoles, hampered by 36.7 percent shooting, fell to the Villanova Wildcats, 68-67, on Thursday in the championship game of the Red Lobster Classic Basketball Tournament at the Orange County Convention and Civic Center.

Playing before a sellout and Classic-record crowd of 6,201, FSU (now 8-1) turned a five-point halftime deficit into a five-point advantage with 8:47 left to play, only to have the Wildcats (8-4) stage a comeback rally.

"A sign of a good team, in my eyes, is when we play well and go ahead, go behind, then bounce back and win on foreign territory," said Villanova coach Rollie Massimino. "That was the No. 10 team in the country, you know. They're an outstanding basketball team."

Not on Thursday night, it wasn't. In fact, except for the crowd-pleasing performance by backup quarterback-turned-shooting star Brad Johnson (4 for 8, including 3 for 6 from three-point range, as well as a pair of free throws for 13 points), there wasn't much for FSU coach Pat Kennedy to be pleased about.

"We knew we had to shoot well coming out of the gate," said Kennedy. "And this is the worst that this group has shot in a long time. We just didn't play well."

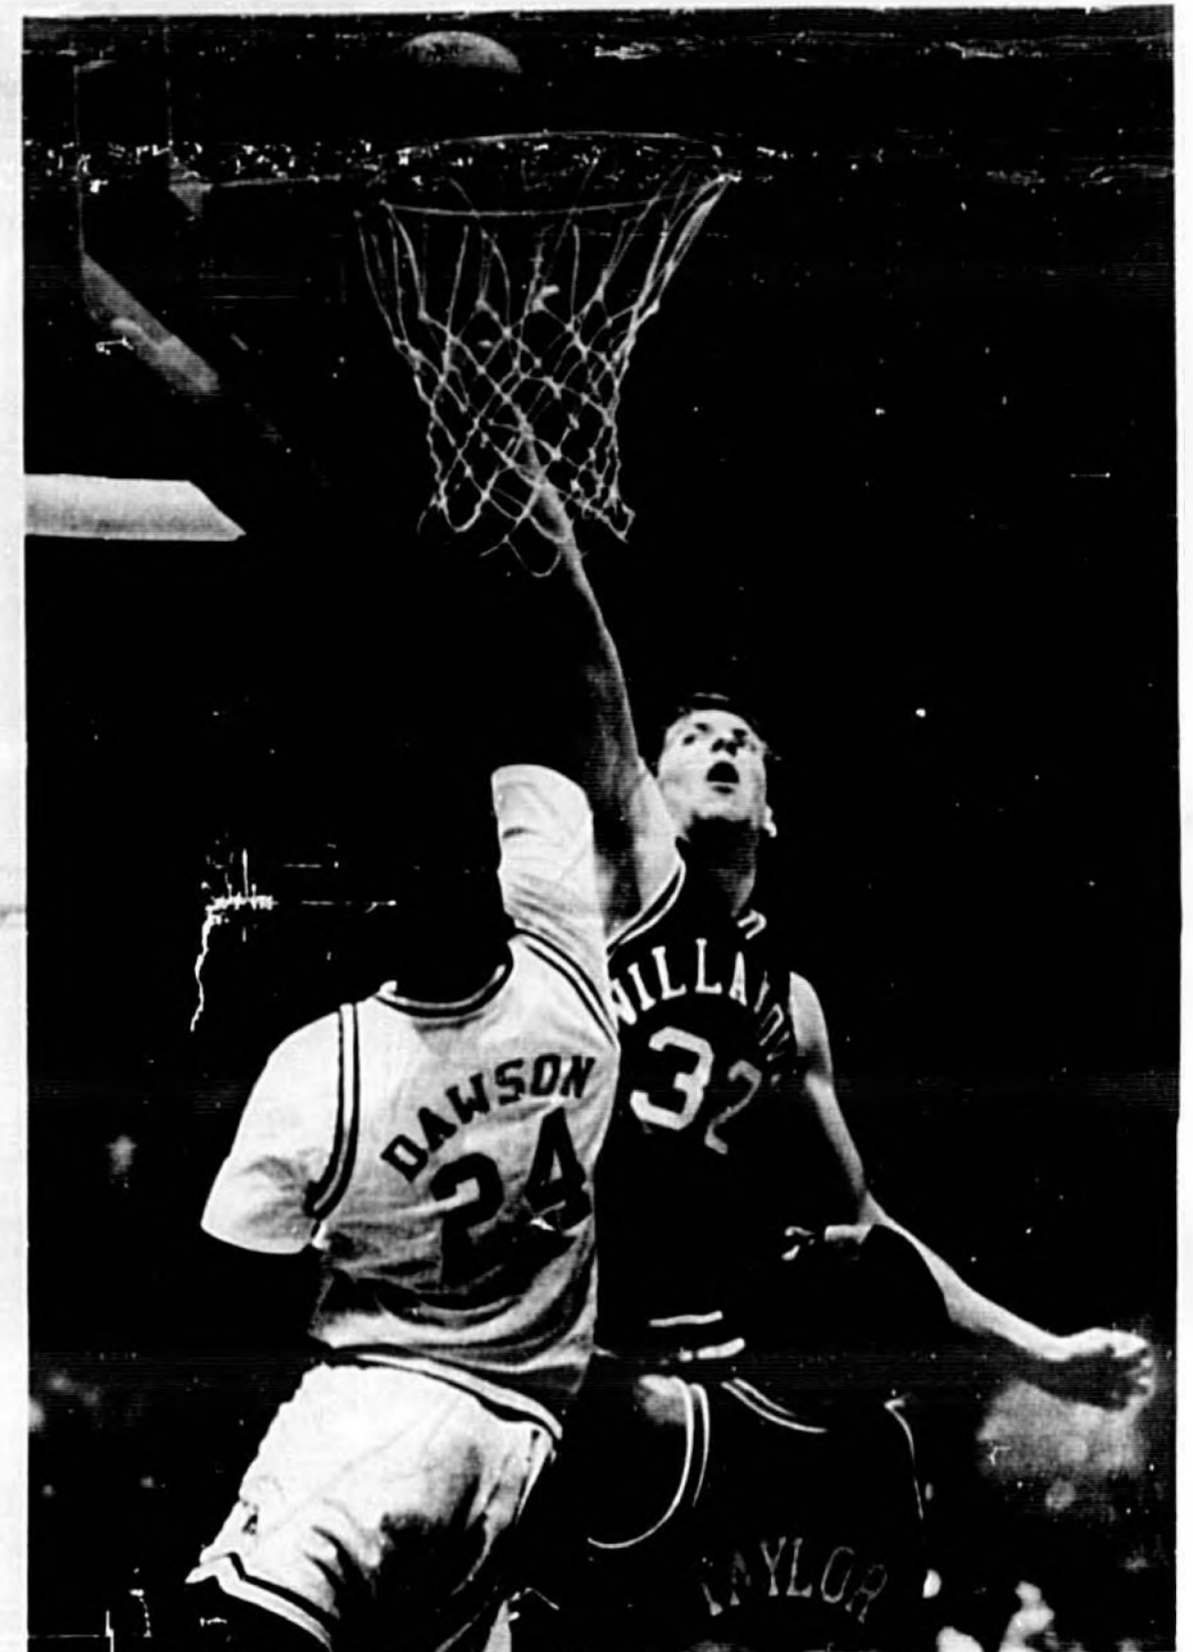

"Every Metro Conference will be just like this. This was a good game for us. I told the guys it would be a possession by possession game. We just missed some open shots that normally we don't miss."

You could almost say that FSU shot itself in the foot, although hitting a target that close would have been a challenge for the Seminoles on Thursday.

Still, despite that, FSU came within inches of pulling out an improbable victory. Trailing by seven with 2:55 remaining, the 'Noles scored five consecutive points to close within two at the :55 mark. Then, with 12 seconds left, Villanova's Chris Walker was fouled by Theron Mayes with two seconds on the shot clock.

Walker hit both ends of the one-and-one to put the Wildcats up by four, 68-64, but George McCloud drilled a three-pointer home to cut the gap to 68-67 with seven seconds left. Villanova tried the run out the clock, but Walker was fouled

Rollins teaches SUNY a lesson

By JIM RICKENBACHER
 Herald Correspondent

WINTER PARK — Education is essential at Rollins College and men's basketball Coach Tom Klusman is tickled that the Tars' GPA first semester was in the neighborhood of 3.0. Once his players step onto the court at Enryart Alumni Fieldhouse, the focus doesn't shift.

Education is equally necessary given the challenges of a schedule that includes some of the nation's best NCAA Division II teams. Lessons learned now pay immediate dividends, like Thursday night's 82-67 triumph over SUNY-Utica, N.Y. before 201 fans — and of equal importance they ensure getting the most mileage against the Florida Southern's and FIT's later.

Last night's lesson came courtesy of the Wildcats, who scrapped until Greg Eckstein swished a long-range jumper at the buzzer.

"We found out that if a team hustles like SUNY did, you can't shake them," Klusman said. "When we play certain teams, we're going to have to hustle and do the things they did tonight.

"If our guys don't play as hard as they can every minute, we'll have someone in that can do the job or we'll be in for a long night."

"We want our starters to understand that they don't have to look over their shoulders every time they do something wrong. But at the same time we want our bench to be ready and confident they can produce."

"I saw growth from Wednesday night's 110-57 win over Milwaukee School of Engineering and tonight's game, but as a team we want to gain, gain and maintain and not take any steps backwards."

Klusman realizes that long before Rollins (4-3) launches their Sunshine State Conference schedule against Tampa, Jan. 11, there's teams like Monday's opponent (University of the South) that have the personnel to beat the Tars. Teams from up north don't come to Florida for strictly sunshine anymore.

ORLANDO — Clearwater Central Catholic needed only 10 men and a miracle goal by Kevin Dally, who scored with 38 seconds left in regulation, to advance the Marauders to the finals of the Pizza Hut Invitational and snap Tallahassee Leon's 37 game winning streak with a 3-2 heartstopper over the Lions in a boys soccer thriller at Boone High Thursday night in front of 601 fans.

The victory improved the Class 2A number one Marauders' record to 11-0 on the season as they take on the Lake Mary Rams, who were 2-1 winners over Miami Killian, in the finals of the Pizza Hut tournament. The Lions were dealt their first defeat in 33 games and dropped to 10-1 on the year.

In a day that saw two number one teams in the state fall, it was only appropriate that Dally's heroics would come with only a few seconds remaining. The Lions' winning streak was bound to come to an end with the way the team has been walking the thin line between winning and losing, according to Dally.

Dally's incredible feat occurred after Leon's Sean Walker had tied things up with 6:20 remaining in the game. Taking a corner kick from teammate Ryan Klessig, Walker went down the middle of the penalty box, dove completely horizontal, and headed the ball past the Marauder's Shawn Kelly to tie things at two apiece.

"Sean (Walker) is a kid that can play for anybody," Leon head coach Ambrose Ofuani said of his senior midfielder. "He was sitting on the bench and told me to let him go in because he was going to get in there and score a goal for us. I couldn't believe it when two minutes later he tied things up. He's an incredible athlete."

The goal put a momentary damper on Clearwater's chances of ending the Lions' winning streak, but with 2:26 left in the game, Dally broke loose, took a shot, but Leon's goalie Doug McDaniel stopped the shot with a sliding save at the top of the goalie box.

Both teams rushed to push the ball to the opposing team's net, but unsuccessfully took shot after shot in the waning moments of the heated matchup. But with 38 ticks of the clock left to go, Dally broke open once again and this time made the shot count as he boomed a bullet into the net for the game-winner.

"On the first shot their goalie made a great save," Dally said of his miss-hit on the first attempt. "I knew once I got the second chance that it was going in. There was no way I was going to miss two in a row. We played great all night long."

Dally put the Marauders on the board quickly as he put a shot in the upper 90 of the left hand corner of the Lions' goal with only five minutes of play elapsed. Dally got the opportunity when the ball squirted into his possession, he turned around, and kicking the ball with his left foot, drilled a shot just over the outstretched arms of M. Daniel.

Forty-four seconds later, after taking a 1-0 lead on the defending Class 3A state champions, CCC's Kyle Vosen put in a header that left his head like a rocket being shot straight at McDaniel for the second score of the night and a Marauder 2-0 lead.

Ofuani's wish to score came true 22 seconds after Clearwater's Karl Groth was given a red card for verbal abuse of a referee at the 14:10 mark of the first half. After the red card, which eliminated Groth from the rest of the game and tomorrow's game against Lake Mary, the Lions took advantage of the 44-minute power play.

With 13:48 to play in the half, Walker went for the goal, had the ball stripped from him, regained possession, and while dribbling past two defenders hit the shot. Kelly came out to try and cut down the angle of the shot, but Walker's shot was too hard to handle.

Only four minutes into the second half, Leon's Tony Vaughn scored a goal with a hard header, but the referee sounded the whistle before the shot indicating an infraction of the Lions in the penalty area.

Oviedo dominates Greyhounds, 3-0

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

ORLANDO — The Lions of Oviedo came together brilliantly and totally dominated the Lyman Greyhounds, 3-0, in the consolation bracket of the Pizza Hut Invitational Thursday afternoon before 501 fans at Boone High School.

Oviedo improved to 8-3 and will return to action for the third place trophy today against Tampa Leto. Leto advanced with a 3-1 victory over Jacksonville Fletcher. The Greyhounds fell to 5-4-1 on the season. Lyman returns to action against Lake Mary this Tuesday.

"We knew we could play with them. It was a matter of getting it by (Lyman goalkeeper) Kelly (Walden)," Oviedo coach Dave Jekanoski said. "We controlled everything today, everything came together for us and we're just happy to have a game tomorrow with Leto."

For the Lions it was a sweet win for a pair of reasons as it avenged one of their three losses this season and proved to everyone that they belong in this tournament.

Oviedo ruled the match from the opening till the final buzzer as Lyman could never get on track. The Hounds will now have to regroup for what promises to be another tough week.

"We're not a very physical team and when we have to play three days in a row we tend to become real tired," Lyman coach Ray Sandidge said. "Everyone here has played that many games, though. Oviedo just came out and played a strong game. They had more incentive to win, they had lost to us before and wanted to prove they could play with the best."

The Lions' dominance showed in the shot department as they took 19 shots to Lyman's seven. Oviedo came out strong and set up three good scoring chances with Jeff Griffin and Tim Waisenan just missing the mark.

The teams then battled with neither team making any serious advances until midway through the opening half. Alex Ballaudo intercepted a pass from Lyman's Bernard Harden and made a run down the left side of the field where he passed off to Waisenan.

Waisenan then sent a shot right at Walden and it bounced off his leg right to Rob Mills who put the ball in the net to give the Lions the lead for good with 21 minutes to play in the first half.

Jeff Derose, who played an outstanding game for Oviedo, then gave his team some breathing room when he took a pass from Waisenan and ripped the ball into the back of the net to up the lead to 2-0 with 15:46 left in the half. Derose had a chance to up the lead when he had a penalty kick for obstruction in the box, but the shot went wide and the Lions went into the intermission with a two goal lead.

Oviedo picked up right where it had left off in the first half by controlling the tempo of the game and working the ball around for good scoring chances. The Lions got those chances Derose had a one on one with Walden but his shot went just wide and Hector Mejia lofted a shot in from 30 yards out that nearly found the mark.

Derose, after missing another chance that bounced off the crossbar, finally found the net again as he fielded a punt from Jeff Hoffman and led Mejia on the wing. Mejia then took ball into the corner and served the ball to the middle, and Derose sent in a half volley to increase the lead to 3-0 with 9:20 to play.

Oviedo kept pressing and did not allow Lyman any scoring chances late in the game.

Lake Mary got some good offensive runs early from Travis Betsinger, Jon Brooks and Mora, but could not get into scoring position. Killian, meanwhile, continued to create the chances on offense and finally cashed in with 17:38 left in the first half when Ricardo Mogollon headed a ball off a Lake Mary defender, it deflected out to Martinez and he knocked it into the goal for a 1-0 lead.

That lead didn't last long at all — 30 seconds to be exact. Lake Mary immediately went on the attack after the Killian goal as Manny Roldan made a nice move to get free on the right wing and served the ball to Mora just outside the penalty area. Mora touched the ball past two defenders, saw the opening and blasted a shot past goalkeeper Mike Magno for his 19th goal of the season.

"We've been good about responding after teams do something against us," McCorkle said. "It's a good sign of the team's maturity."

Lake Mary, as it has done in practically every Pizza Hut game, then put on an offensive flurry in the early going of the second half and got the tiebreaking goal out of it. Mora got the ball deep down the right side and was tripped in the box, giving the Rams a penalty kick.

Killian then cranked up its attack and went in search of the equalizer. And then it was Lake Mary's turn to show what its defense was made of.

Sweeperback Scott Klavins anchored a solid defensive effort while Bill Governale and Eric Ryndal were their usual consistent selves and James Nobile marked out Killian's top offensive player, Exelbert. Jimmy Abbott also did a good defensive job dropping back from midfield while Jim Spicher, Pete Cassella and Mike Murray had good efforts in substitute roles.

Killian did get its crack at the tying goal with 20:13 remaining and that's when Lake Mary's Sharp had his best series of the tournament in the cage. Martinez broke free on the left side and had a one on one with Sharp who came out and blocked the shot almost right off Martinez' foot. The ball bounced to Killian's Charles Murias and Sharp blocked his shot as well to preserve the Lake Mary lead.

"Killian always keeps you on the defensive so Steve (Sharp) was alert at all times," McCorkle said. "He made the right decisions throughout the match."

Lady Tars mow down SUNY, 84-47

By JIM RICKENBACKE
Herald Correspondent

WINTER PARK — When you pick up your newspaper today, don't be surprised that Kim Tayrien scored only 10 points in Rollins College's 84-47 thrashing of SUNY-Utica, N.Y. Thursday night. No need to call your optometrist or the sports department. It's neither a case of poor sight or a misprint.

Tayrien, who sustained a torn knee ligament in a pre-season pickup game, played sparingly and took a backseat to freshman center Kendra Lasher and sophomore guard Carissa Andres, among others.

It's not a position Tayrien's accustomed to, having averaged 23.7 points on her way to eight school records last season and selection as a first-team AWSF All-American. Then again, she's never been injured either as a high-school player or in college.

"It's (being injured) the hardest thing I've ever had to deal with to tell the truth," said Tayrien, who aggravated the injury three weeks ago. "Like coach (Glenn Wilkes, Jr.) said, that's 25 points our team is going to have to make up."

"My being injured has made us stronger as a team and given us confidence we didn't have."

Rollins' Kathy Warner moves the ball upcourt against SUNY's Ann Verostek. The Lady Tars rolled to an 84-47 victory over the visitors from Utica, N.Y.

Said Wilkes, "Remember that we're not talking about an all-city or all-county player here."

We're talking about an All-American.

"I'm blessed to have such a good group of kids, and they've adjusted really well because Kim's been so supportive. But we're going to struggle at times until some people get established in new roles."

Almost all the Lady Tars (3-2) appeared in sync against SUNY (3-8).

Lasher, who hit 4-of-5 field goals and 8-of-9 free throws, led the offensive onslaught with 16 points. Andres, 5-of-8 from the floor, finished with 12 points as did freshman guard Kathy Warner. Seniors Kirsten Dellinger (10 points) and Eileen Tobin contributed to the Lady Tars' rebounding dominance with 19 between them. And senior guard Jeri Ferree dished out six assists.

What concerns Wilkes is not teams building programs such as SUNY but rather upcoming opponents on this current 10-game homestand. Beating Division I Eastern Kentucky (Jan. 2) and Division II Stonehill, Mass. (Jan. 4) is as imperative as winning 20-plus games if Rollins is to receive its first invitation to the 32-team NCAA Division II tournament.

And Tayrien is indispensable if the Lady Tars are to achieve that goal.

again with three seconds left. This time, he missed the first shot of the bonus. Tony Dawson grabbed the rebound for FSU, dribbled a couple of steps and heaved a three-quarter court desperation shot that hit the rim.

"That's all we needed," said Massimino. "It's about time one went our way. We're close to being back. Some people had written us off. It was a heck of a win for the kids."

"This was a great ball game, a matchup of offensive and defensive skills. Hey, it's still a kids' game, so let the kids play. We just sit on the sidelines and think we can coach."

Kenny Wilson of Villanova, who was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player, led all scorers with 17 points. McClellan — who was named to the All-Tournament team along with teammate Dawson, Villanova's Doug West and Tom Greis, Keenan Carpenter of Auburn and the University of Central Florida's Ken Leeks — led the 'Noles with 15 points.

Surprisingly, the first half of the consolation game on Thursday between the Auburn Tigers and the University of Central Florida Knights contained almost as much tension as the Tigers led by just six at the intermission. Then the Knights scored the first bucket of the second half to cut the lead to four.

But Auburn quickly took control and, using a 56-point outburst in the second half, defeated the wireless Knights (0-8) 95-68 to up its record to 7-2 and claim third place in the tournament.

"There was some talk about Alaska-Anchorage beating Michigan on Wednesday and how it could happen to us," said Auburn coach Sonny Smith. "We're nowhere near the team that Michigan or Alaska-Anchorage is. That had nothing to do with us."

Rollins

SUNY assistant Kevin Grimmer admits his team spent the last three days at the beach, but at times it was difficult to detect the Wildcats hadn't played since Dec. 12.

In the long run, the Tars' superior rebounding (36-22) and depth took its toll.

SUNY (6-3) trimmed the Tars' 41-34 halftime advantage to 43-39 before seniors Dan Wolf (game-high 19 points) and Eckstein (18) starting hitting three-pointers that shot the lead to 55-43. When junior Sam Arterburn (17) connected on two free throws with 14:27 the cushion inflated to 61-43.

The Wildcats began chipping away, cutting the lead to 65-56 with 9:48 remaining thanks to reserve guard Richie Toran's hot hand.

Arterburn answered with a three-point play and the Tars' advantage quickly climbed to 16, but less than five minutes elapsed before SUNY cut the Tars' lead to 76-65.

Scott Martin (13 points, 6 assists) canned a pair of free throws and Mike Reeves followed with a block that Eckstein turned into a layup at the other end to finally finish off SUNY.

For a second consecutive game, the Tars' shooting was torrid. They connected on 27-of-47 field goals (57.4 percent), including 6-of-11 three-pointers, as well as 22-of-28 free throws (78.6 percent). SUNY, meanwhile, hit 23-of-55 from the floor (41.8 percent) and 16-of-26 from the line (61.5 percent).

Manatees winter at Blue Springs

Creatures steal hearts of all ages

By Vicki DeSormier
Herald Correspondent

OFANGE CITY — It is often difficult to find an activity that can capture the hearts and imaginations of people of all ages.

Difficult, but not impossible. Enter the manatee, a one-and-a-half ton lumbering sea creature who will steal your heart.

There are precious few of the giants left.

The West Indian species, one of four remaining, is indigenous to the warm Florida waters, though they are found as far south as Brazil and have been sighted as far north as Virginia. Some estimates put their numbers at less than 12,000.

In this area, the herbivorous aquatic animal can be found munching on shallow seagrasses along the St. John's River. A refuge has been set up in the Blue Springs State Park in Orange City to protect the animals from sportsmen who often unknowingly, injure or kill the beasts with motor boats and fishing line.

Florida residents are charged $1 for the driver and 50 cents per passenger to enter the park. Out-of-staters pay twice that amount. Children under five are admitted free.

Once inside, visitors can walk along a boardwalk constructed along the shore or sit on the pier that overlooks a quiet spot favored by the manatees.

The creatures are shy, however, and often stay several hundred yards away on the distant shore. Despite their invertebrate behavior, they are easy to spot as they come up for a breath of air every three to five minutes.

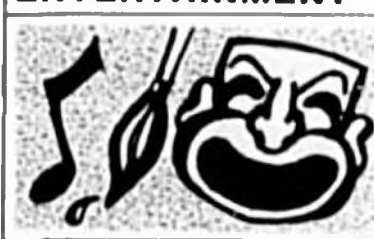

Swimmers and divers are not allowed to frolic with the manatees. They are easily frightened and may harm themselves if approached by an unknown person.

The animals are not territorial. They roam freely in the inland waterways and the coastal waters of the state. They live in warm water and, in the winter, they migrate to warm-water areas, such as natural springs and discharge canals of power plants.

On most days between November and March, there will be at least one manatee in the refuge observation area. Often a mother and her calf will make their way slowly from one patch of seagrass to another. A manatee will eat up to 15 percent of its body weight in a day.

As the temperatures rise they will head back into the open rivers, away from the constant 72 degree temperatures of the springs.

Diana Schocklin, a staff member at Blue Springs, said that at this time of year there are usually very few of the animals outside the refuge area.

This year is very warm and there are some up and down the St. John's River, but they are easier to observe from here," she said.

Schocklin pointed out that the crowds are often heavy during the holiday season, but they slow down after New Year's.

The manatee appeals to everyone," she explained. "Kids, parents and grandparents all love the cuddly manatee."

A film describing the animals and their environment is presented several times daily for those who want to learn more about the gentle creatures.

For those who are not however, attracted to the park to see the manatees, there are other activities as well.

A guided tour of the St. John's River from the comfort of a canopied boat is available at a cost of $8 for adults and $4 for children ages five to 12. Children under five may ride at no cost.

There are two two-hour rides

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone with whom you weren't too friendly at a social gathering recently might have an opportunity to even the score today. Unfortunately, what goes around somehow seems to come around.

ADVICE
ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

I hope you will run it every year. I'm sure it will benefit many others as it has me.

NEVER TOO OLD
DEAR NEVER: My "resolutions" column has become an established annual tradition.

DEAR READERS: These New Year's resolutions are based on the original credo of Alcoholics Anonymous. I have taken the liberty of using that theme with some variations of my own.

Just for today I will live through this day only and not set far-reaching goals to try to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for 12 hours that would appall me if I felt that I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

Just for today I will be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them with happy thoughts.

Just for today I will adjust myself to what is. I will face reality. I will correct those things that I can correct and accept those things I cannot correct.

Just for today I will improve my mind. I will not be a mental loafer. I will force myself to read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today I will do something positive to improve my health. If I'm a smoker, I'll make an honest effort to quit. If I'm overweight, I'll eat nothing I know to be fattening. And I will force myself to exercise — even if it's only walking around the block or using the stairs instead of the elevator.

Just for today I'll do something I've been putting off for a long time. I'll finally write that letter, make that phone call, clean that closet or straighten out those dresser drawers.

Just for today, before I speak I will ask myself, "Is it true? Is it kind?" And if the answer to either of those questions is negative, I won't say it.

Just for today I will make a conscious effort to be agreeable. I will look as good as I can, dress becomingly, talk softly, act courteously and not interrupt when someone else is talking. Just for today I'll not improve anybody except myself.

Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it, thereby saving myself from two pests: hurry and indecision.

Just for today I will have a quiet half-hour to relax alone. During this time I will reflect on my behavior and get a better perspective on my life.

Just for today I will be unafraid. I will gather the courage to do what is right and take the responsibility for my own actions. I will expect nothing from the world, but I will realize that as I give to the world the world will give to me.

Have a happy, healthy New Year. And pray for peace!

LOVE, ABBY

Breast reduction caused problems

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm 59 and a year ago had breast reduction surgery because of back and shoulder pain. What a mistake. I've had to have skin grafts, scar tissue causes me no end of pain, and there are places which have still not healed. The plastic surgeon came highly recommended. Where did he go wrong? And what do I do now?

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR READER: No surgical procedure is free of risks and complications. The disastrous result you experienced from your breast reduction operation may not have been due to anything you or the surgeon did wrong. Nonetheless, you are left with an unacceptable consequence that needs treatment.

You could possibly be helped by a surgical revision. Seek a second or third opinion from qualified plastic surgeons. Specialists in medical centers, for example, are often quite skillful at restoring patients to normal after unsuccessful surgery. Ask for a referral to the plastic surgery department of a teaching hospital or university health center. There, using sophisticated techniques, super-specialists may help you solve your problem.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach to Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: At 73 I've started to have spells of epilepsy. What can I expect in the future?

DEAR READER: Epilepsy rarely begins in people over the age of 50. When older adults develop seizures, doctors usually look for causes other than epilepsy. For example, drugs (such as anti-depressants), head injuries, brain tumors and certain forms of stroke are much more likely to provoke seizures than is epilepsy.

To answer your question I'd have to know the cause of your seizures. Some would be curable, others preventable.

Epilepsy itself — periodic abnormal electrical brain discharges of unknown cause — is entirely treatable, using a variety of modern anti-convulsant drugs. Ask your doctor to discuss your situation with you; this should give you a clearer idea of what to expect in the future.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've been told by vets that humans do get heartworms, but that they can't complete their life cycle in our bodies and so die off. What do you think?

DEAR READER: Right on the mark.

Dirofilaria immitis (heartworms) is a disease of dogs, caused by a wormy parasite transmitted by infected mosquitoes. The parasite grows inside the heart and eventually reproduces, releasing tiny worms (microfilariae) that circulate in the blood and are taken up by mosquitoes that bite the dog. These microfilariae can be spread by mosquitoes to humans, but this is an exceedingly rare event.

In humans, the microfilariae find their way to the lungs, where they cause distinct areas of inflammation called nodules. This is not serious. The parasites do not complete their life cycle in humans; thus, the unusual case of human infection needs no treatment.

HAPPY NEW YEAR
 For a kid's
 New Year Sync

When the "old year" ends, it's time to say "thanks." Think kindly of the past year. It has probably given you more than you realize. There is a "new year" ahead. Greet it with a cheerful "welcome." Look forward to it.

It is faith that has carried you this far. It will carry you further. Faith in Jesus with love and kindness will meet all your requirements and you will accomplish all that's needed without effort.

A kind and loving God will not be outdone. His generosity is vast in amount. He will give you peace, health, happiness and take care of all your special needs as he has in the past and for years to come. Believe and trust. This is faith.

With greater determination and your faith intact, there is a better year ahead. And with it, we'll take a cup of kindness yet... for soul-land sync.

A question of success

Pro-life advocates have a good shot at reversing Roe V. Wade, but then what?

United Press International
 As the effort to overturn the 1973 Supreme Court decision legalizing abortion picks up new steam, a key Roman Catholic leader is asking the movement a critical question: "What will we do with success when it comes?"
 The question was posed by Virgil Dechant, Supreme Knight of the 1.5 million member Roman Catholic lay group, the Knights of Columbus. It comes as the movement, sidelined during much of the presidential election, has taken on new — and sometimes controversial — life at the local level.
 In particular — with either anticipation or apprehension — both sides believe that under a Bush administration, the composition of the Supreme Court will change, tipping the balance of power toward further erosion

Perhaps we shall see restored to the states the rigidly decentered them by Roe to regulate and restrict abortion," he said. "If so, pro-life Americans must be ready to press their elected representatives for prompt action to give the unborn the maximum legal protection possible."
 For his second point, Dechant underscored what has been a sensitive issue for some conservatives in the anti-abortion movement who have a long history of opposing government social programs designed to alleviate poverty and provide for the poor.
 "The first thing to bear in mind," he said, is that the "success" in question is if it is realized at all, is likely to guarantee a long legislative struggle in Congress and especially in the state legislatures.
 Dechant outlined the program for the movement in the coming months.
 "Success, of course, is not assured."
 Public opinion remains sharply divided and remains unclear if, even under a new administration, a Bush, justices would want to reopen the issue.

Did Jesus visit ancient England?

This legend goes back many centuries. It tells of a visit by Jesus to England when he was somewhere between the ages of 12 and 30. These are known as the "hidden years" in Jesus' life about which the Gospels say nothing.
 The legend pinpoints the site of Jesus' visit as Glastonbury in Somerset County in southwest England. There today fragments of the ancient ruined Glastonbury Abbey. At the gate to the abbey grounds, now a popular tourist attraction, are souvenir shops.
 One in a tale in one of the shops a newspaperman, John Justin Smith of the now defunct Chicago Daily News, picked up a pamphlet entitled, "Did Our Lord Visit Britain As Jesus Say in Cornwall and Somerset?"
 Published in 1934, the pamphlet was written by an Anglican clergyman, Rev. C.C. Dolson. The legend, which the cleric says is centuries old, goes like this:
 Joseph of Arimathea — who is spoken of in the gospels as the man whose tomb was used for the body of Jesus — was an uncle of the Virgin Mary, the younger brother of Mary's father. He became wealthy in the tin trade which existed between Cornwall, England, and Phoenicia on the coast of Syria.
 One of his voyages to England he took his nephew Jesus then a boy, with him. The legend is not clear on whether Jesus stayed in England until he became a young man or whether he went home and returned later. But he is said to have lived a life of quiet retirement in a cave during his 20s, living in a house he made for himself out of tree branches held together with mud.
 More than 300 years after the crucifixion, in 63 A.D., the story says Joseph of Arimathea came to Glastonbury with 11 other men and founded the first Christian church in England on the spot where Jesus' house mountain green? And was the holy Lamb of God/On England's pleasant pastures seen?"

 Is there any proof for this? The Chicago newspaperman could find none. But he decided that Jesus could have visited England with Joseph. Fairly recent archaeological findings indicate there was trade between far parts of the world during and even before the time of Jesus.
 And then there is the mystery of the flowering thorn in Glastonbury which unlike any other flowering thorn blooms each year — one of those times being at Christmas. Botanists have linked it to the eastern Mediterranean but they have no explanation why it blooms twice a year.
 According to tradition, Joseph of Arimathea, having arrived in England in 63 A.D., made his way to Glastonbury and, once there, stuck his traveler's staff into the ground. The staff promptly sprouted.
 The legend also says that on one of his trips he brought with him from Jerusalem the Holy Grail, the chalice from which Jesus and his disciples drank during the Last Supper.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Against North-South's routinely bid three no-trump, West had a good suit to lead but was not sure which card of that suit to lead. Fourth-best works out well when partner has the ace or the jack. It could also be right to lead the king, which works when partner has the 10 and no higher honor. In theory it knocked out East's ace of clubs. East now returned the spade seven. South played the jack, losing to West's queen, and won the 10 when West continued spades. Eventually West got in with the ace of diamonds and cashed two more spades.

if West had five spades, could set them up and could then get in to cash them. Had declarer ducked the opening lead, he would have retained his second spade stopper. West could lead a second spade, but now if East got in and had another spade to lead, it meant spades were divided 4-3 and were therefore harmless. And if spades were 5-2, East would not have another spade to lead. So South's spades would be safe.

James Jacoby's books "Jacoby on Bridge" and "Jacoby on Card Games" (written with his father, the late Oswald Jacoby) are now available at bookstores. Both are published by Pharos Books.

This was another case of playing too quickly at trick one. Declarer could see that the only thing that could defeat him was
