Iran About-Faces To Give Mossadegh All Powers Of Dictator

TEHRAN, Iran & — Iran's Sen-ate in a complete about-face today voted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh authority o govern the country for the next six months as he sees fit.

The upper house gave final approval to the sweeping grant of power which on Saturday it had refused to adopt without further Atudy.

The Majlis (lower house) already had approved the measure, which now is enacted into law. It gives the premier the right to govern by decree in nearly every phase of Iranian life.

The Senate, after refusing the final action Saturday, had sent a delegation to the aged nationalist leader asking for more information about his plans and asking also that he modify his demand for power.

Mossadegh, however, refused to scale down his request for the sweeping authority, which he con-tended was necessary to save the near-bankrupt country from eco-

Not a single deputy in the lower house voiced support of the gov-ernment bill. They declared their continued allegiance to Mossadegh was needed. After the heated, one sided debate, the deputies rfused to vot on th masur.

Hints to Housewives By ALICE L. CROMARTIE

Keeping bread fresh and mold-free is no problem to the house-wife with home freezer space for it. Many women who once had to make frequent trips to buy bread now buy a supply for one or two weeks at a time and put the wrapped loaves in the freezer with the assurance that they will be safe from mold and staling, according to Philip Taibott of the Production and Marketing Administration.
Mr. Taibott an expert on bakery

Mr. Talbott, an expert on bakery products, reports a study made by the American Institute of Baking under the Research and Marketing Act, which showed that bread should be kept either frozen or warm to hold its fresh softness. Bread frozen and stored at well below freezing temperature will keep fresh about a year. Such long-keeping isn't practical in the home. It is uneconomical use of freezer space and also requires special moisture-vapor-proof wrapping to prevent bread from drying out. To keep bread in the freezer week or two, the waxed-paper wrapping it sells in is enough.

Bread should be left in its wrapper wrapping it was a sell way and way and way are the way and way are way and way and way are way and way and way are way and way are way and way are way.

per until it thaws out so moisture from the air will condense on the wrapper rather than on the bread wrapper rather than on the bread. For toasting, ready-sliced loaves peedn't be thawed. The bread can e taken from the freezer at breakfast time because the frozen slices are easy to separate and can go directly into the toaster.

Whether to keep bread in the home refrigerator is a question for the housewife to decide, Mr. Talbott says. It depends on whether she likes her bread soft or firm and also on how fast she uses it. Bread in the refrigerator loses the softness which to many records.

Bread in the refrigerator loses the softness which to many people means freshness. Some families, however, like the firmer texture of day-old or older bread. Bread must be kept either very warm or frozen to retain softness.

If bread must be kept several days, it's safer from mold in the retrigerator than in a breadbox.

As a help against mold in the breadbox, keep this container clean, free of old scraps of bread, and well-aired, with occasional scalding and sunning. After washing the breadbox, be sure it is thoroughly dry before using it.

Rural Common Sense By SPUDS JOHNSON

combining old-fashioned rural vitrues with new scientific knowledge has enabled farming in Florida and elsewhere to make vast progress in the last two or three decades. The same program will help it to continue to progress and will aid farm families to obtain higher incomes and live better lives.

Dr. Clarence Poe, Raieigh, N. C., editor of one of the South's leading farm papers, was bonored recently by the American Association of Agricultural College Editors for outstanding service to agriculture. He emphasized this program of combining old-fashioned rural virtues with new scientific knowledge. As to the old-fashioned virtues, he quoted as saying by Josh Billings many years ago:

One of the best attested factall history is the resurrection Christ. Its electrical effect on Peter and the rest made heroes out of cowards. It transformed them in an hour. Now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first fruits of them that slept.—1 Cor. 15:20.

'Go Easy' Sign Put On Plans For Toll Road

State Road Department Tells ICC To Move Slowly In Determining Action

TALLAHASSEE UP - The State Road Department today advised the State Improvement Commis sion to move slowly in considering the building of a Florida tollpike system. In a formal report to the commission, the road board said it is not "altogether in agreement" with the recommendation of a New York consulting engineering firm that a toll turnpike project should be started immediately. Once this had been done, the next step would be consideration of possible financing of the project through revenue certificates.

Before the row! board report was submitted to the commission, Gov. Warren put himself solidly behind the turnpike proposal. He told the commission he feels the proposed turnpike "offers the greatest po-tential for Florids" of any project

"I have the feeling that a turn pike is inevitable at some time," he said. "It is just a question of when, it will come sooner or later growth of Florida."
