

PETER PAN MINSTREL WONDERFUL SUCCESS
BY SANFORD LADIES

lady and they were not disappointed.

Interspersed among the songs were many good local hits sprung by the black face girls and they brought out much laughter from the ones who were hit and their friends. In this respect the show was different from the usual run of minstrel shows for the hits were purely local and new.

A grand ensemble closed the first part in a blaze of glory. The old opened in polite vaudeville the first number being a reading by Mrs. R. C. Maxwell and it was so good that she was compelled to return and give another.

"Tales of a Stroll," a strolling song by Miss Martha Fox and Miss Sadie Williams was a most dainty little sketch well rendered and brought forth generous applause.

A cornet selection by Miss Stu mon who still posed as Adah Jones in black face was given true to usual form of this popular musician and as usual she was forced to appear again and give another one.

Miss Aspinwall in a vocal number gave one that pleased her many admirers and was called for an encore.

The Jig Dancers followed being an exposition of fancy steps by the black ladies of the company and they pleased the audience so well that they were recalled and had to give it again and again until they literally danced themselves down and were obliged to retire for refreshments. These ladies were the real thing in minstrelsy and have been receiving congratulations from their many friends ever since.

The grand finale was in the shape of a rose garden scene with all the ladies present on the stage in beautiful evening costumes, carrying large bouquets of roses. Miss Rogers was the soloist and sang the Rose Song, at the close of which all the ladies present showered her with their bouquets and the curtain descended for particulars. 69-1tp upon the close of another distinct triumph for the ladies of Sanford not only in histrionic ability but in their aptitude to arrange something to please the public and get the money.

The Welfare Department of the Woman's Club has been enriched by several hundred dollars and the good work of beautifying the city can go merrily on, thanks to the committee and the good ladies who took part in the minstrel show.

Thanks are also due to Mrs. B. F. Bower who assisted at the piano Tuesday evening and also at all the rehearsals. To Mrs. Gerror and Mrs. Morgan and Mrs. Housholder and Mr. W. W. Abernathy of the committee.

Just before the last act Mrs. R. A. Terheun came forward and thanked the audience for their patronage and upon behalf of the club presented Mrs. Gerror with a magnificent bouquet of roses. The Peter Pan Minstrels was by the ladies and of the ladies and even the ushers were ladies being Mrs. John Dickens as doorkeeper, Mrs. H. C. Gerror, Mrs. W. W. Abernathy, Mrs. R. J. Holly, Miss Mabel Hand, Miss Gladys Morris and Miss Anna McLaughlin all dressed in white with red sashes and white caps. Mrs. W. L. Morgan and Mrs. Housholder at the ticket window.

The minstrel idea was even carried out to the parade in the morning, when all the ladies rode through the streets in autos dressed in white with the cute Peter Pan red paper caps on their heads and they attracted much attention and made a good advertisement for the performance.

It was in all a distinct triumph for the ladies and the Woman's Club of Sanford and presented in a good cause.

Beautiful Autumn.

There are those who shudder at the approach of autumn, and we feel a slight grief stealing over their spirits like an October haze. But is not autumn the manhood of the year? Is it not the ripest of the seasons? Do not the proud flowers blossom—the Gold-encro, the Orchis, the Dahlia, and Bloody Cardinal of the swamp land?—D. G. Mitchell.

MOVE THE CORN BELT SOUTH

SOUTHERN STATES CAN RAISE AS MUCH TO THE ACRE AS ANY OTHER SECTION

The first edition of 25,000 copies of "Farm Truth No. 1," issued by the Southern Settlement and Development Organization, bearing the title "Ground Limestone for Southern Soils," by Dr. Cyril G. Hopkins, Director of Agriculture of the Organization, is being distributed throughout the Southern States. It is going to farmers, live stock raisers, newspapers, farm journals, agricultural colleges, Board of Trade and kindred organizations and individuals who are interested in quickening the development of the south. It is a pamphlet of 38 pages, written in simple language and goes into the details of the methods of using limestone to correct soil acidity, giving the reasons for its use.

The author, until recently was head agronomist and chemist of the College of Agriculture of the University of Illinois, and is the originator of the Illinois system of agriculture based upon the use of lime.

The opening paragraph sets forth the situation in the southern states as the author sees it, as follows:

"Limestone country is a rich country. This is a proverb and a truism much older than American agriculture. But everyone can be made a limestone soil simply by liberal applications of powdered limestone. The initial application of four tons per acre of ground limestone, with subsequent applications of two tons per acre every four years, will break and maintain a fine topsoil, every four tons limestone, and this is the first great economic step to be taken in that positive soil enrichment which is needed to triple the average acre yield of the land now under cultivation and to restore to profitable agricultural use the vast areas of tillable land now lying neglected or agriculturally abandoned in most southern states."

Taking up the question of the intimate relationship between limestone and agriculture, Dr. Hopkins writes:

"With liberal applications of lime-stone and phosphorus or potassium added if needed, most southern soils can be made to produce abundant crops of such valuable biennial legumes as red clover, alfalfa, vetch, sweet clover, millet, Indian corn, beans and others when introduced into the soil. Proper manure has about as good a twelve months in the year for the mechanical supply of nitrogen to the soil. This animal and mineral fertilizer store of 300, which stores nitrogen and organic matter in their roots, than do the annual plants and the crops, and the methods, combined with a nurse crop and with an extra preparation of the seed bed, are sure to bring you a crop to exceed the yield for 1000 bushels per acre."

"The American nation will have lost considerably by buying utilized in the production of more material wealth the last year of a great part of its valuable warland when the nation itself is so much in need of sons and sons have been under the flag and saved all the traditions of all that has made the United States progressive, powerful and enduring." —Sir Thomas D'Unger.

Bric-a-Brac.

One charming housewife sits in her parlor a little cabinet with leaded glass doors, in which she keeps extra vases for flowers, photographs of friends, interesting postcards, and the keepsakes that too frequently litter the living rooms of the family. Here they are close at hand, and free from dust, while her rooms are doubtless attractive because of their absence. Some such plan is practicable in every house.

Trucking in DeLand

Three years ago, Dr. S. R. Love, an Osteopath physician of this place, decided that there was money to be made in the business of truck farming here. Although at that time the business had not been tried out in this section to any extent and there were many who thought that it would prove unsuccessful here, the doctor decided to engage in the business. He selected a piece of land upon the Lake Beresford peninsula, which is in the flowing well district, and had 100 acres cleared. He also had a deep well put down, an irrigation plant installed, buildings erected and thus laid the lines for the establishment of a truck growing business. He was at that time absolutely without experience as a truck farmer. The only capital he had command was the income from his practice, a dozen determination to succeed and the ability to work long hours.

He was obliged to buy his land and to borrow the money with which to make his improvements. As his practice was his only source of revenue, he has been obliged to work both day and night, rising before daylight to go to his farm and superintend the work there and working until late hours at night at his profession.

Many have been the obstacles which he has had to overcome, many discouragements he has encountered. There were times when a man with less grit would have faltered, but the doctor is not of the latter kind and nothing less than success would satisfy him.

He had this season, seven acres in cultivation. Up to the present time, considering this season only, he has sold over Seven Thousand Dollars worth of produce, and at the close of the season, including the spring crop of Irish potatoes and tomatoes, which were planted after the celery was removed, the total will likely be over Twelve Thousand Dollars.

He had five acres in celery which produced 1,000 crates per acre and sold for $10 per crate, or $10,000. He had two-thirds of an acre in cauliflower which brought at the rate of $500.00 per acre. He also brought over $1,000, and cost for 250.00 per acre to produce, one-third acre in cabbage brought $1,000. He had two-thirds of an acre in cauliflower which brought at the rate of $500.00 per acre. He also brought over $1,000, and cost for 250.00 per acre to produce, one-third acre in cabbage brought $1,000.

one-third of an acre in strawberries and has three acres Irish potatoes and three acres of tomatoes coming on.

He has cleared enough this season to pay for his entire farm and make a snug bank account as well, but instead of keeping the money in the bank will use it in extending his farm operations. He has purchased more land, and will increase the acreage in cultivation from year to year until he has from fifty to seventy-five acres producing. He believes that a larger acreage will produce better returns proportionately than a small place. He believes thoroughly in the possibilities of the business and will put both his time and money into it until he carries out the plans he has in mind for building up an extensive industry.

Proof of Bird's Age.

While the periods for birds have been variously stated at from two years for a wren to one hundred for the eagle and crow, such figures have lacked authority. Prof. L. Petit, has lately brought to the notice of the Zoological Society of France some birds accurately known aged, and these include a sparrow of eight years, a blackbird of eleven, a small cardinal of fourteen and an Amazon parrot of twenty-five.

Tale of a Horse.

"Why," said the man from Florida, who was regaling his auditors with tall tales of the wonders of his native state, "ought to show you how everything develops down there, a hair fell from the tail of a horse down there one day and fell into a stream of water. This was in the early summer. It grew into a snake, then into a bigger snake and kept on growing until one day late in August it swallowed the horse that originally had shed it!"

To Pop Corn.

Very often corn will not pop quickly even over a very hot fire. If you will put the corn to be popped in a sieve and pour cold water over it, not allowing the water to stand on the corn, it will not only pop quickly but the open kernels will be larger and thicker and more tasty than they otherwise would have been.

Brightening Flower Pots.

Flower pots frequently take into a dusky color from the original bright and cheerful brick red. They may be easily brightened again by painting ordinary red ochre in water until it is about as thick as paint, then painting the flower pot which absorbs the color and holds it.

AS AGENT OF FARMERS

Unique Bill Introduced By Senator Borah; Clearing House for Scientific Marketing of Products.

Washington.—A popular government institution for the scientific marketing of farm products, to be known as the Agricultural Capital, to be separate from any existing branch of the government, was proposed in a bill by Senator Borah.

Designed primarily to eliminate middlemen and reduce the cost of living, to arrange transportation facilities and otherwise improve conditions of the farmers and consumers, the bill aroused considerable interest among senators by its radical suggestions, and was referred to the agricultural committee.

The institution would be controlled by a board of 15 directors. It would be made up of county organizations requiring at least 50 farmers in each county to form a branch association, each to conduct the marketing of all the crops of its members under rules and regulations to be drawn by the general board, which would be elected by the individual members every five years.

Earnings in excess of expenses, when it should become self-sustaining, and 3 per cent would be returned pro rata to the members. Each branch organization would be controlled by a board of trustees and a general director and would serve not only as a clearing house for marketing and standardizing the farmers' products, but would also be authorized to loan capital to its members and to assist in the production of crops.

Senator Borah explained that he had not written the measure, but had introduced it together with a memorial at the request of E. H. Rettig, a farmer of Opportunity, Wash.

In the memorial Rettig submitted that farmers were neglected by the government and he made the declaration that the big trusts had done more good for the public than the government.

Asserting that competition is the mother of waste, Mr. Rettig said:

"The law of business success is operation."

"Think of the stupidity of our national government," he continued, "in enraging its citizens to produce wealth and after it has been produced insisting on these same citizens competing against each other for possession of the things they have produced."

I am going to venture the assertion that the Standard Oil company, International Harvester company, the Steel Trust and other so-called trusts the government has sought to disrupt have done more real disservice to the country for the benefit of the masses than our government."

DUG LIVE QUAIL FROM SNOW

Massachusetts Hatter Keeper Found Prize Birds Buried In Deep Drift.

Somerville, Mass.—During the quiet days of winter last year, in 1920, a man upon which to look with suspicion, but that was what the keeper at the state hatchery at Woburn did after the recent snow storm.

The fact that the keeper buried the birds taken beneath a foot of snow is taken as an indication that something must have been done to the birds to make them stay and survive.

The keeper took the birds out and that is allowed to remain at will on the game farm. After the big storm he noted that the quail had disappeared. A search of outbuildings failing to reveal them he took a shovel and proceeded to dig in a field not far from the house where he had noticed that the small sparrow had most of their time.

Finally he struck the birds. They could have perished in a few days if he had not found them. He was unable to find them away through the drifts that covered them as they were huddled together. First aid to the injured resulted in quick fashion restored the birds so that they are now apparently as healthy and as lively as possible.

DRYING FOR FORTY YEARS

Strange Story of Wandering of a Set of Old English Court Records.

London.—A strange tale of the wanderings of the records of the Court of Arches is told by Sir Lewis Dibdin. For some time prior to 1801 they were in a hired room in a house in Knightbridge street; and when that house was rebuilt they were removed to St. Paul's cathedral, where they remained until 1865. It was a tradition that they were stored in an unused well.

In 1865 they were taken to Lambeth palace, where they were spread out on boards so that the air might get at the rocks and rotting paper. Here they remained for 40 years getting dry, but also becoming embedded in a deep stratum of London soil, so that when he became dean of Arches and explored the room in which they were stored, a spade was almost required to dig them out.

Wealthy Sought Cheap Groceries. Chicago.—In the crowds that flocked to the municipal market, to the city of Chicago, to buy meat at cut prices, County Agents discovered many a dozen mutton and butter who admitted they were buying for families whose incomes are more than $200 a week. He refused to sell groceries to them.

Hart Schaffner & Marx Young Men's Clothes

There are lots of makers, and dealers in clothes who are having a good deal to say about their "young men's styles;" and the subject is really a very important one. We have something to say on it ourselves.

YOUNG MEN want smart, lively young styles; there's a requirement, in clothes for young men, of ultra fashion; something smart and distinctive in pattern, color, cut. The importance of these things to young men, has led, in some cases, to forgetting everything else; the quality of the fabrics, the tailoring, the other materials is sometimes made secondary.

Young men are offered stylish looking stuff; which is stylish only; and that's the very thing young men can't afford to buy.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

make the smartest, best styled clothes ever shown; but in addition to that they put the sound sterling quality into the goods which gives the young man the service and economy of wear he ought to get.

The people of Sanford, Heights demand "fire protection." They pay as much in taxes out there as if they were living in the heart of the city and get nothing in return.

The City Council last night placed the finishing touches on the bulkhead project and this great work will start at once. The dredge is at the docks ready for business.

Now that the bulkhead is about to be started would it not be a good thing to start the new tourist hotel and have both of them finished in time for the winter tourists next October?

The candidates of Seminole county prefer a "gum-shoe" campaign and are afraid a picnic or two would cost them something. They also hate to face "critics" and have a bad case of stage fright.

The work being accomplished in the city park is worthy of commendation and is something that should have been done many years ago and kept up. Our parks are one of our most valuable assets and should be kept in condition.

It is no wonder that but very little is said in the public press about the editorial meet at Fort Myers. Billy Boggs, Bob Holly and the vice-president being present there was but mighty little left to print after that trio had chewed the lagnage. — Palm Beach Post.

The Press Association were definitely entertained at Ft. Myers, and the boys did themselves proud when they elected Bob Holly of the Sanford Herald president. The most important business transacted was the passing of a resolution making only editors eligible for membership. Editors and printers do not mix well. — Tampa Herald.

We long for the time when we can have some of those good old fashioned political campaigns where the candidates will get up and tell the people something. These gum-shoe campaigns may be all right for the parsimonious candidates but the people want to hear from them and have picnics and big times in the open. The idea of the Bryan-Pinchey Law is for the candidates to have these open meetings and the money assessed by the county bank account for that purpose.

The Florida Press Association had a gay old time at Fort Myers last week and the editor of the Times regretted that he had to be absent, but under the circumstances could double that sum.

That the printing establishment which was operated upon a weekly expense of $150.00 a few years ago now has assumed an expense of not less than $1,000.00 a month.

The Sup. Ed. of the paper

now has to pay $150.00 for the paper.

The editor of the Sun tried to work for £25.00 a month and pay more than one of his employees to day receive $30.00 weekly salary.

We used to buy eggs for ten cents the dozen and grown hens for 25 cents each, but who can buy eggs or chickens for double that price today?

All of us "used to" live for about one-half of what it costs us to subsist upon today, and none of us can afford to work for the same we "used to" work for and eke out an existence for ourselves, much less support a family.

Remember, friends, when getting with the printer, that things are not what they "used to" be, and that the printer has got to live as well as the balance of humanity. — Gainesville Times.

WILLIS AT THE BAT

Willis Powell, Poshing Powell, Push and Smile Powell, and all the rest of them are at Clearwater and Willis is getting out the Clearwater Evening Sun, an eight page afternoon daily that is just as nifty and neat and sparkling as Willis can make it. He states that his force is all home grown and hand picked and that if the public will keep off the glass for a few weeks the Sun force will be strong enough to resist an armed invasion of intruders who fail to find their names in the paper. Some people might wonder why Willis ever left the streets of Cairo for the simple life but remember that Clearwater is growing, is one of the real tourist towns, is the new county seat and has much to command it and Powell knows something about the newspaper game, having served 75 years in the business and 25 years in Florida. The Evening Sun will never set as long as breath remains in the seven feet and six inches of Powell's body and Clearwater is to be congratulated upon getting the best booster in Florida and his estimable wife as citizens. Success to you, Willis.

Our first Mexican War lasted a little more than two years. We had engaged in the fighting 80,941 regulars and 73,776 militia and volunteers, a total of 142,230. It resulted in the acquisition of 522,000 square miles of territory by this country, for which Mexico was paid $15,000,000 under the terms of the treaty of peace. In that war the most illustrious names in American military history were first rostered in actual service—Robert E. Lee, Stonewall Jackson, U. S. Grant and W. T. Sherman, all of whom had their first experience as soldiers in the battles of this campaign.

ELECTED A NEW PRESIDENT

Aside from the fact that the Florida Press Association selected Richard Jerome Holly of the Sanford Herald as its head for the coming year, the meeting of the association at Fort Myers does not seem to be obtaining the publicity which was anticipated prior to the gathering. The choice of president was most apt one, and will meet the approval of the fraternity throughout the state. But there seems to be a lack of enthusiasm over the meeting in some way. It is customary for all those attending such demonstrations to have extensive meetings in their rooms for a few weeks following the date. But if one is to judge of the excellence of the convention and the gay city life shown the visitors by the laudations of the country press, then it must have been a good deal of a Quaker meeting.

Palm Beach Post.

Since you were not closer to the meeting than Palm Beach you evidently knew all about it. We hope that next year Bro. Conkling can "Get Over" as the meeting will be held at Miami, which was as close to Palm Beach as we dare place it for fear the Press Gang would be contaminated by Thorndyke, the heavy headed monster who writes that "Hole in the Blanket" stuff for the Post. The meeting at Fort Myers was not Quaker meeting, although some of the boys may have noted a difference between the previous one at Tampa, but the last meeting was a good business session and general good get together time. We expect to have a little hubbub everything at Miami next year and Conkling and Thorndyke will be expected to aid in the good work of keeping the boys on the joy ride every moment.

"USED TO"

Not infrequently persons asking for prices for advertising and job printing express surprise that prices are higher today than they were four or five years ago, and remark that "You used to do it for such a price." These people never once consider that the expense of printing has advanced to a greater extent, if not greater, than that of any other class of business. They seem to forget.

That the farmer turned to only from one-half to one-third what he now gets for big pork, beef, sausages, eggs, poultry and other farm products.

This is the sort of evil thing in creation we almost doubled except the subscription price of newspapers and reading matter generally.

April, Our War Month

Seventy-eight years ago today the first shots were fired, opening our hostilities with Mexico in the war of 1846-1848.

The anniversary finds the country busting with preparations for another invasion of Mexico, with one of that country's ports already in our hands and prospects of an actual struggle war between the two countries.

And the results will be much in United States favor.

For our war will begin in April.

The war of the Revolution began on April 19, 1775—and, by the way, ending the same month, April 31, 1783.

The Black Hawk Indian War began April 23, 1831.

The war with Mexico began April 26, 1846.

The Civil War began April 12,

1861, when Fort Sumter was fired upon.

It ended April 9, 1865, when Lee surrendered at Appomattox.

The Spanish-American War began April 21, 1898, although the first real engagement was fought May 1, when Dewey sank the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay.

Our first Mexican War lasted a little more than two years.

We had engaged in the fighting 80,941 regulars and 73,776 militia and volunteers, a total of 142,230. It re-

Troops About to Sail to Mexico; Army Mules Are Still In Use

Photos by American Press Association

UNITED STATES troops were being prepared to move to Mexico. When the word came that the fleet had been ordered to sail from Galveston, the transports at Galveston began loading supplies and stores into Texas City, where port officials require that all stores be stored for months. Such a scene as here pictured was witnessed yesterday. All the mules were also brought into service for the transportation of supplies from Fort Bliss to the harbor.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS ARE HIT

Miss Sonya Levin, an Emigrant Girl Demolishes Suffragists at Washington Meeting.

New York.—Miss Sonya Levin, the charming young girl who posed for this photograph, is the product of what may well be the "brightest pair" in New York. Coming to this country from Russia at the age of two, she has been reared by the flattest kind of parents to enter the public until she has reached an eligible position. She is a very comely girl, a well-known figure which, perchance, has attracted her with important missions to Europe, because, as they say, "she always comes back with the goods." Miss Levin was a delegate to the Women's Suffrage convention held in Washington, and hotly defended the anti-suffrage statement that the working woman do not want to vote. Both, an indefatigable worker herself, having labored since the age of ten years old, both in factory and in other she has had experience which has made her a quick study. She deserves credit for her stout and plucky defense of women and especially women who fall from virtue.

BACK TO THE HOLY BIBLE

White Crosses Still Found for Hanging, Just As in the Days Long Past.

New York.—Spirits of our wives and mothers long dead now are still found hanging from trees in the woods of the Bronx Park, Bronx, N. Y. These spirits are believed to be those of the dead who have come back to life again to continue in despair. The dead are said to be afraid to go to heaven, so they remain here, hanging from the trees in the woods. They are said to be afraid to go to hell, so they remain here, hanging from the trees in the woods.

These spirits are said to be the souls of the dead who have died in poverty and misery. These spirits know the human heart. They saw man broken by his toll and his grief. And for this too they had the answer. They told of a being of love, called God, of this rule and of their misfortune. This love, however, is the secret of how the little ones and the old ones are seeking for one to come close to them.

These spirits are the things that we know in such telling words such as "the love of home life, the loss of love from the heart of his home and far some in shame such true stories of how the little ones and the old ones are seeking for one to come close to them."

CURBSTONE GLEANINGS

BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEL IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH.
"HE'LL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

It has just been called to my day. Very likely the hens have attention that Hon. Lewis O'Bryan reached the conclusion that setting of Kissimine, a rising young barister made a most felicitous address of welcome to the Press Club when it organized in that city, and made B. J. Holly of the Herald, the to do the setting.

President: The welcome by Mr. O'Bryan was a gem and has been widely copied, being as follows:

"While entirely appreciative of the honor tendered me in opening the program this evening, I am likewise conscious of my inadequacy to do justice to a real salutary on this occasion. However, I trust that the avocation of these gentlemen, our guests, shall serve as an inspiration, for had I possessed in any degree the qualifications, I would have essayed a journalistic career, so being denied the privilege of participation I am doubly appreciative of the opportunity to pay tribute to their power and prestige."

"It is a matter of current comment that charity begins at home, and this being true I am satisfied that an offshoot of the family soon wandered away and found lodgment in the minds and souls of you knights of the type, for the only real charity, which passeth understanding is that charity of the press which can clothe the naked truth in a garb of flowery verbiage, transforming with the magic of its pen the pettibugging and briefless barister into the brilliant and successful attorney, the vinegar-visioned, old maid into the piquant and saucy debutante, and the hots-shaving and the various old men into the philanthropic financier; and for these linguistic charities I rise, gentlemen, to call you blessed, and I believe that the recording angel will feature in "scare-head" type your names upon his honor roll."

"I am here to welcome you to Kissimine, but to express in words a welcome would be only a trite and time serving platitude, so I shall not dwell thereon, nor even hesitate but shall briefly express to you the conception of your magnificent responsibilities. During a debate in the English parliament, Richard Brinsley Sheridan exclaimed in a burst of eloquence, 'Give them a corrupt house of commons, and a venal house of lords, give them tyrannical prince and servile courts, but give them an unshaded press and he would dare them to encroach one hair's breadth on the liberties of the people,' to an unconditional endorsement of the sentiments. I will add that they may exhort our social and fraternal organizations for their personal advancement; they may dare debunk our churches for political preferment and power, but so long as the American newspapers continue to express the ideals and sentiments of American men based in God-fearing homes, so long will the immortal principles of liberty enunciated in 1776 remain the standard of our independence, and the religious teachings and tenets of our motherland, our spiritual guides; and while I make no pretense of personal piety I am confident from the recollections of childhood memories, that we all here reverence the same divine Creator reverenced by our ancestors, and despite the prevalence of agnostic creeds and atheistic cults, we know that the same simple, direct and eternal Divinity of the Ages is still in His heavens and all is well with the world."

We daresay that Mr. Bryan's rigid attitude in favor of grapefruit embittered Huerta and stampeded his mangy little goat.

Is it possible that in all this Mexican crisis and incidental excitement the coal dealers and miners are going to forget to whigaw the public with the customary strike?

An Enterprise man, who is somewhat of a chicken fancier, tells me that never in all his experience, has he known the hen to be so reluctant to set. Notwithstanding the favorable weather they have absolutely refused to do their duty, whereas, formerly, they were so determined to set that there were not enough eggs to go around. My friend wants to know if, in my study of the Gainesville bulletins I have discovered any explanation of this. I must confess that I know very little about chickens, either hens or roosters but the explanation occurs to me that perhaps this season the hens are influenced by the feminine movement which figures so prominently in the literature of the

TREATED OLD VETS AND VISITORS TO GOOD TIMES

Jacksonville, Fla., May 8.—Hundreds of persons were turned away from the entrance of Morocco temple at the first official session of the United Confederate Veterans' twenty-fourth annual reunion. The seating capacity of the building was taxed to the utmost and all available standing room was occupied.

Veterans and members of allied organizations were welcomed to the "neutral" state by Governor Park Trammell. Representative Frank Clark and Mayor Van C. Swearingen. Responses were made by General Bennett H. Young, Commandant-in-Chief of the United Confederate Veterans; and Gen. George S. Harrison, commander of the Department of Tennessee.

Reference to the impending crisis in Mexico was made in the welcoming speeches of both Governor Trammell and Representative Clark. The former assured the veterans that "our men would at a moment's call, gladly rally to the flag, and again, undaunted face death upon the battle field."

Representative Clark declared, "The boys of the south are only waiting for a summons, and if it should unhappily come, our full quota will be promptly furnished and no braver troops will march to the attack of the Huerta soldiers than the sons of those who fifty years ago, unflinchingly followed the fortunes of their countrymen."

Representative Clark lamented the fact that so many were missing from the ranks of the Confederate veterans. "Some," he continued, "the fat Confederacy soldier will cross over the river to the great reunion. The few of you who still are left should be supremely happy that you have lived to see this day, happy because the government of every Southern state is in the hands of our people and because you know your southland never again shall be overrun by an infamous horde of carpetbag vultures and scots of power shall never again be disgraced and discredited by inaction of an ignorant, brutal and inferior negro race."

Your struggles were not in vain now that we are in full possession of our own we will maintain it. The best blood of the south was spilled in the defense of the flag in 1865 when the sons of men who followed Lee and Jackson stepped to the front in the defense of the flag. And even now, while we clasp our hands over the river to Mexico, the boys of the south are rallying for the summons. If it should unhappily come, our full quota will be promptly furnished and no braver troops will march to the attack of the Huerta soldiers than the sons of those who fifty years ago unflinchingly followed the fortunes of their countrymen."

Many social features of the reunion took place during the week. One of the most spectacular events was the parade of the masts and spars.

Routine business sessions were held by the Sons of Veterans. While there is no way by which a roster of the visitors could be made, it is estimated that there will be close to 100,000 visitors here.

All is excitement and bustle along the banks of Hogan Creek, where Camp Kirby Smith is situated. The big camp, well-drained and nicely shaded is pronounced by the veterans as being one of the best ever afforded by a reunion city. The known facts of which the tents are made does away with the glare that would accompany the use of a Hitler-colored material.

Memphis, Tenn., which is in the field as a candidate for the reunion in 1915, sent perhaps the biggest delegation of any city. Headed by a brass band the delegation from the Tennessee city arrived on Wednesday. It carried a huge banner

Washington, D. C., May 8.—Not long O'Shaughnessy, late chargé of the American embassy at Mexico City, arrived in Washington early today with his family. He was given immediately to a hotel. He planned to confer with Secretary Bryan later.

Reduction in State Tax

Tallahassee, May 8.—Governor Jack Trammell early yesterday signed into law a bill which he had introduced in the state legislature for the reduction of the tax millage which the law provides that the Governor may reduce the tax millage when, in his opinion, the same can be done without impairing the credit of the state. It was of the opinion from his investigation that he could in conformity with the law reduce the tax millage as much as one-half.

He then wrote a letter to Hon. W. V. Knott, comptroller, advising the comptroller of his desire to reduce the millage, and asked for certain data upon the subject. In reply to the Governor's letter, the comptroller yesterday in a letter to the Governor gives it as his opinion that the present millage for 1914 can be reduced one-half.

Governor Trammell says he will consider the information which he received from the comptroller, and carefully consider all information he has upon this subject, and will undoubtedly make a reduction of one-half in the January tax for 1914, and will do this major reduction. He further states that this reduction will not affect the amount paid by him. They will receive the same tax payment.

Frank Depled New Trial

Atlanta, May 8.—Daniel, the defendant's plea for a new trial for Lee M. Frank, the factory superintendent, under sentence of death for the murder of fourteen year old Mary Phagan, was made here yesterday by Benjamin H. Hill, judge of the superior court.

The court's action was taken immediately after the conclusion of arguments of attorneys for the defense, which followed the completion of evidence introduced by the defense and the state.

Judge Hill indicated that he did not care to hear arguments from the state's counsel.

News of the latest reverse was taken immediately by Frank, who is confined in the jail awaiting the final action in his case, which has been in the courts continually for more than a year. His wife was with him at the time.

"I had expected that action," said the former factory superintendent. "I have nothing to say now, but I may have later."

Healey Wants Meetings

Mr. R. J. Holly, Editor Sanford Herald, Sanford, Fla.

I have read with interest the remarks about the "Gum Shoe Campaign" in your last issue, also Tax Assessor Bates' letter on the same subject. I desire to go on record as not being in sympathy with the gum shoe method decided upon, but not having qualified when the county committee met, took no part in the matter. I wish there could be meetings held in each precinct so the candidates could go before the voters and give the reasons why they should be elected. I will gladly do my part in bearing any expense of these meetings and will welcome the opportunity to meet the candidates for the office of county treasurer and discuss the reasons why I should be elected.

SECRETARY MCADOO
WEDS MISS WILSON
AT NATION'S CAPITALTHIRTEENTH WHITE HOUSE
BRIDE WAS GIVEN AWAY
YESTERDAYGROOM MIDDLE AGED.
BRIDE TWENTY-FOURSECRETARY OF TREASURY WELL KNOWN IN POLITICAL CIRCLES
BUILT HUDSON TUNNELS

Washington, May 8.—The wedding of Miss Eleanor B. Wilson to the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. William Gibbs McAdoo, took place at the White House yesterday afternoon. The wedding party was very small, only the vice president and Mrs. Marshall, the cabinet and the immediate members of the two families being present. The plans were disappointing to many in Washington, who had hoped for a large and brilliant wedding. Mrs. Wilson's illness caused a curtailment of the original plans. This is the fourteenth wedding at the White House, but the first time in history that a cabinet member has won the hand of a President's daughter. Mr. McAdoo is 50 years old, while Miss Wilson is 24. He is a widower and has six children. He is the builder of the Hudson river tunnels, and knew the Wilson family before his entry into the cabinet. Miss Eleanor Wilson, the President's youngest daughter, is tall and dark, unlike her sisters, Mrs. Francis B. Sayre and Miss Margaret Wilson, and is fond of dancing, tennis and horses. The secretary and Miss Wilson played tennis together nearly every day last season, and at dances it was remarked that McAdoo's name was on Miss Wilson's program more than any other man's.

The following ordinances were read by title only and placed on their second reading: An ordinance regulating the care and sale of milk and providing a penalty for the violation of any of the provisions thereof. An ordinance regulating and defining the practice of midwifery in the city of Sanford. An ordinance establishing a city board of health and providing for the appointment of city health officer.
