REPEAL OF DRY LAW IS ASKED BY WITNESSES

Transfer Of Regulation To States Demanded At Hearing
Before Committee

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and a transfer to the states of the power to regulate intoxicating liquors was demanded by witnesses today before the House Judiciary Committee, which adjourned after several days of hearings to the hearing of witnesses in charge of the dry law.

William H. Clayton, president of the board of directors of the American Foundation, the largest foundation in the country, was the first witness to speak throughout the country had been asked for the government to consider the resolution and because of its inefficiency.

The witness favored the amendment that the government had employed that it could not defend in enforcing the dry statute and said no amendment could continue to subject the people under such conditions.

Clayton was the first of a long list to be heard in the committee room, and the possible demands to represent their side of the case. When they came in, the friends of prohibition will have an opportunity to present their views.

Before Clayton started, Senator Graham of the committee ruled that William A. Smith, Attorney General for the state of Kansas, could not question Walter E. Eggers, a Washington magazine writer, on January 20, 1920, even the Committee decided that "it would be a sin within 15 minutes of his arrival there. Graham said such cross examination would prolong the hearings and further that Eggers was out of the city.

Crack Golfers To Meet In Exhibition Match Tomorrow

Tomorrow morning at the Sanford Hotel golf club will be the scene of an exhibition match between John Malloy, amateur champion of Michigan for the last three years, and Arthur Miller, champion of the San Joaquin Club, Calif., according to an announcement made yesterday by Arthur Miller, general manager.

The match promises to be the most interesting of the day, for it is understood that Mr. Malloy, a leading player in the country, is to be accompanied in the exhibition by four members of the Michigan team, who are to play in the individual competition. In the event the local professionals win, the Allen Shantz team will probably be pitted against them.

Mr. Miller, 30, a native of Boston, is to be the captain of the local team, and he has planned a card for the local links and courses nearly during the day.

Prohibition Officer Is Shot In Ohio Town

BELMONT, Ohio, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Guy Carlson, 37, Belmont county under cover prohibition officer and reputed to be a relative of Eggers, was in a critical condition in a hospital here today from two bullet wounds received last night when he was shot down in a city street.

County authorities said the shooting was reprisal for information furnished by Eggers before the Belmont county grand jury recently which resulted in the indictment of 13 persons on charges of local liquor law violations. Eggers was indicted recently for a minor violation but the charges were dismissed on the request of State prohibition agents.

GANGSTERS HAVE CHICAGO POLICE WORRIED AGAIN

South Side Building
Wrecked Last Night
By Bomb Explosion

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Chicago police were worried again yesterday over the possibility of another bombing, this time of the South Side Building, the headquarters of the Chicago gangsters, which was dynamited by the police in December.

Police officers, however, were not so worried as they had been when the gangsters dynamited the building in December. G. W. Wilson, chief engineer and manager of the building, said:

"Two days ago we received information that a bomb would be exploded in the office of Mrs. Agnes Edwards, a woman who had been instrumental in the Prohibition legislation. Her husband, W. E. Edwards, a former legislator, was then in Washington with a delegation of 100 members of Congress, and he was not in town. We know that he was in a meeting of the House yesterday, and we believe he would not be there."

John Stenger, chief of police, said:

"I am not worried about the building, while dynamiting it, the North side of the building, I think, was under guard, because I found a wandering anarchist near the entrance. He had been dynamited, but he was not in town. We know that he was in a meeting of the House yesterday, and we believe he would not be there."

The killing of Dong Pei, a man Chinese by birth, and a Chinese Communist, is the central charge. Christiansen has brought charges to the bleeding of his life.

City Golf Tourney Put Off To Allow Bigger Entry List

Local golfers, who have expressed their desire to compete in the tourney, have been asked to postpone the competition to March 12, in the event the local professionals win, the Allen Shantz team will probably be pitted against them.

Most of the golfers who have entered the tourney, and have expressed their desire to compete in the tourney, have been asked to postpone the competition to March 12, in the event the local professionals win, the Allen Shantz team will probably be pitted against them.

It was said that the local professionals will be invited away from the Sanford golf course to the golf course in the city, and the tourney will be held on another date.

Several hundred persons, including Chilton Ambassador, 120 lb., saw the departure of the plane, which was expected to reach Santos today and possibly continuing to Rio de Janeiro. The plane is scheduled to reach Miami via Havana in seven days.

CHARGES NEGLIGENCE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Senator McMillan, Democrat of Tennessee, brought the charges in the Senate today that Senator Mellon "has never really tried to enforce" the dry law, and that no President since their enactment had been "really interested" in their enforcement "except for political considerations."

OTT IS IN GOOD "SEEN BETTER DAYS"

English Champion Has Fine Chance To Whip Sharkey This Month

MAMI, Fla., Feb. 18.—You can sure of at least one matter on night of Feb. 27 when the Miami Square Garden corporation stages its all international heavyweight carnival here. Phil Scott, English champion, will produce the greatest fight of his career when he faces Jack Sharkey in the final and leading attraction.

They say that never before during his career in the ring—a period of about twelve years—has Scott gone about his fistic business in such serious vein. Nor, they say, has he ever demonstrated such viciousness and an ardent willingness in his commanding stunts.

Phil Scott, to be sure, has reached that point in his career when it is a matter of do or die. His meeting this month with Jack Sharkey comes in the form of the crucial moment in his fistic life. If he wins he may go on to the heavyweight title. But if he loses oblivion will probably envelope Mr. Scott.

Realizing the circumstances of his stand against Sharkey on the 27th, the Englishman can be counted upon to leave no stone unturned in his efforts to prepare himself properly and, subsequently, to present Jack Sharkey with the fight of his life.

Phil Scott has a real incentive in his titanic aspirations. It has been many, many years since the English have produced a big bad man in the ring and were he to ever bring a heavyweight title back to the British Isles nothing indeed would be too good for him.

And, what is more, Phil Scott has an excellent chance to realize his ambitions. He is a big man, a great boxer, a vastly courageous and a fairly good puncher. These attributes, at least, greatly many believe, will prove the undoing of Sharkey.

Primo Rivera's Son Exiled Because Of Dueling Tendency

MADRID, Feb. 18. (AP)—Miguel Primo De Rivera, son of the former dictator, has been expelled from Spain because of inclination to challenge nobility of his father to death.

Spanish police yesterday placed him on an express train for Madrid and Holidays, and a companion to him to the Foreign Office. An official explanation of the deportation said it was to prevent his fighting back with army officers in Madrid, who he said had insulted his father.

Miguel is 26 years old and lieutenant in the army cavalry corps. Last week, he bought the coat of General Quince D'Alba in a fashion's shop and challenged him to a duel for sending an "insulting" letter to the signed dictator. Since the was very off-color, a royal Madrid was threatened with disciplinary measures instead of having his challenge accepted.

General Primo De Rivera, father of the young man until a day or so ago was in Paris this day with his two daughters. He since has gone to San Remo, Italian Riviera. His elder son, Antonio, a lawyer about 27 years old, is under house arrest in Madrid, also to prevent his fighting duels with those attacking his former relatives.

Aviator Will Seek To Break Speed-Records

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 18. (AP)—Lee Schoenbar, Akron Ohio, airplane pilot, stood ready today to start an attempt to better several existing speed records over a course between Mayport and St. Augustine.

The records for passenger carrying airplanes, which Schoenbar expects to attack are held by Germany, France, and England. He intends to make an attempt against the 100, 500 and 1,000 kilometers, and possibly the 2,000 kilometers records, carrying added weight of 500 kilograms (1,102 pounds), on each attempt. He also expects to try for the records for 100, 500 and 1,000 kilometers, with added weight of 1,000 kilograms.

The speeds he expects to exceed range from 127.63 miles an hour to 144.662 miles an hour.

TIGERT APPROVES PLAN TO OBTAIN BIG STATE PARK

Tropic Group Tries To Get National Park In Cape Sable Region

GAINESVILLE, Fla., Feb. 18.—President John J. Tigert of the University of Florida is actively supporting the Tropic Everglades Park Association in its efforts to bring about the establishment of a national park in the Cape Sable region of South Florida.

Dr. Tigert recently wrote Hon. Horace M. Albright, Director of the National Park Service, as follows: "I am very much interested in the proposition to establish a national park in South Florida. Having visited many of the national parks I have been much impressed not only with their natural beauty but also with the pouches of education afforded to the people."

"As nearly all the national parks are west of the Mississippi River, the popular Atlantic and Gulf coast areas have been neglected in the development of park service. The establishment of the Great Smoky Mountains and Shenandoah Parks recently we're helpful, but no national park has yet been established in the southern part of the country. Florida is one of the states where exceedingly large numbers of tourists come each year. Likewise, this part of Florida would possess a type of rock which is not elsewhere duplicated. It would seem to me that this new park in South Florida would be a great national asset, and would render the maximum amount of benefit to the largest number of people."

I hope that this project is speedily carried thru by Congress in the Park Service."

In replying, Director Albright wrote, "I sincerely appreciate your letter, coming as it does from a former head of a bureau of the department. I note what you say regarding the proposed Tropic Everglades National Park project and am glad to have your opinion in this connection as it carries great weight with me."

Mr. More, who recently was appointed by President Hoover to be America's first ambassador to Poland, died here yesterday following a brief illness with bronchial pneumonia. He was 63 years old.

Mr. More recently while resting at Palm Springs, Southern California desert resort, with what appeared to be a severe cold, the former ambassador to Spain and later to Peru, was removed to a Monrovia, Cal., sanitarium where an examination revealed an unexpected lung infection which rapidly spread to the throat. He later was removed to the California Hospital here, where his condition grew worse.

TRUMBULL WILL AGAIN ATTEMPT TO PILOT GLIDER

Yesterday's Crash Has Not Hurt His Faith In Motorless Plane

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 18. (AP)—Nothing daunted by the crash which ended his first attempt to fly a glider, Governor John H. Trumbull of Connecticut was looking forward today to another try at piloting a motorless plane.

As he stepped away from the wreck of the glider which crashed with him at the hangar of the American Airways Inc., after a flight of less than 100 feet yesterday, Connecticut's flying governor reaffirmed his faith in a motorless aircraft and said he would make another flight.

"This confirms my opinion," he said, "that gliders are safe even when they do crash. Every time a glider goes down it is the power that fails. Yesterday in a few minutes I was in a very slender boat in a pond. This won't bother me."

Although his injured body

Barnes was sent up from Marion county on Sept. 16, 1926, at the age of 26. He was given 10 years for assault to murder and was paroled by the pardon board on Dec. 1, 1929 to the government hospital at Lake City for treatment.

Terwilliger was sentenced on Dec. 17, 1927 in Seminole county to 2 years for breaking and entering, and was given a commutation by the pardon board and released on Dec. 29, 1928.

First reports received here from Orlando stated that Terwilliger, who had died of his wounds, but they proved to be erroneous. Barnes died several hours after being taken to the hospital, according to a report. His home was said to have been at Land Grove in Marion county. He was 29 years old. Terwilliger gave his age as 27 and said he came to Sanford, the glider shot up to an elevation of 25 feet threw his feet from the rudder bar. Then as the plane nose downward he fell forward against the control stick at the end of the glider, tipping the nose of the glider at a still more acute angle.

He was struck in the seat of the glider and suffered a fracture of his legs and hand. Governor

Trumbull refused medical attention after the mishap.

What's In A Name?

With all due reverence to Shakespeare, we do not agree with his "What's in a name" philosophy and feel that a rose by any other name would probably not smell as sweet, at least we would not think it smelled as sweet. The picketed rose may be as lovely as the hyacinth but it takes a broad minded person to realize it. In short, we believe that contrary to the notion that there is nothing in a name, that there is a great deal in one.

There is, perhaps, no class of persons who realize this more fully than people of the stage. A name with appeal and charm, a name peculiarly suited to the type of actor who wears it, is a long step forward on the road to popularity. The almost inevitable illustration in the movie world is, of course, Mary Pickford who was born Gladys Smith. Gladys being a clever girl knew that she was a born "Mary" type, certainly not a "Gladys", and also that "Pickford" had more individuality than "Smith", so she took her grandmother's name of Mary Pickford.

John Crawford was born Billy Cassin. The story goes that when she was in the Follies, she took the high-sounding pseudonym of Lucille LaSueur until a Frenchman told her that it meant "Lucille The Perspiration" and she wisely changed to Joan Crawford.

Producers say that many a lame duck play has eked out a Broadway run because of an intriguing name, and many a good show has been injured by a poor title. The names of many plays are changed after they have opened outside of New York and just before they see the lights of Broadway. This is often because the playwright, the producer, or the melody man has a last minute inspiration and hits upon the "just right" name in the nick of time.

"Journey's End," Robert Sherif's English war play, which is laid in a dugout and ends in the death of all the characters, is a peculiarly connotative title. Noel Coward's new play, "Bitter Sweet" has a charming name, and Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude" an interesting one.

It seems to us that with the time work being done in some of the new movies that the men who name the pictures lag behind the actors in subtlety and imagination. Not long ago we saw one of the finest bits of acting we have seen done by Ruth Chatterton in a film version of the Barrie play, "A Half Hour", but instead of leaving this title unaltered, some high powered press agent had changed it to the cheaply suggestive "Doctor's Secret". Barrie's "Admirable Crichton" suffered the same fate and was given the red hot appellation "Male and Female". We notice, however, that the Discraft picture bears the same name as the play, and surely, it is a name to conjure with.

The choosing of a name for a new baby, fraught as his occasion is with all the possibilities for war between two tribes, should be handled with great care. Suppose for instance, that great Uncle Ebeneezer, who is to be the baby's godfather and perhaps remember him substantially in his will, would be complimented if the baby were named for him, the family could do nothing else but comply. But, at least, the parents could be chary and ring in a simple Henry, and long after dear Uncle Ebeneezer is laid to rest, people will wonder what the mysterious "E" stands for in E. Henry Jones's name. We once knew a resourceful mother, who under heavy pressure from the "in-laws", named her son Ezekiel after her husband's father, but she always called him Jack, as did everybody else and insists to this day that Jack is an abbreviation for Ezekiel, frequently used in biblical times.

We are keen about the custom of using the family names, but we feel that the old pedigree book on the library table could yield up more appropriate and prettier names than are often dug out of it. When an American mother names her son, she should use especial care, as he may be fishing in Long Key some day with his name emblazoned in tall letters in every newspaper in the country.

A-Big-Season

Florida is now in the midst of marketing its best known crop, a crop which this year, according to all reports, will exceed all past seasons. We refer to the tourist crop and to the Tampa Tribune, Florida will set a new record this year as the mecca for snow disgusted tourists from the North. The Tribune says:

"Tourist travel in Florida is at a high peak, according to all reports received by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, with the southbound movement continuing unabated."

"The number of foreign cars traveling South over the St. John's river bridge at Jacksonville during January was 15,610, carrying 42,501 passengers. This figure increase in passengers of approximately 48 percent over 1929 and 69 percent over 1928. Reports from the tourist centers of the state indicate that the present season is one of the best in several years and apparently more people are enjoying Florida today than is usual at this time of the season."

"Optimistic reports from tourist centers are substantiated by the blanket estimates of rail and steamship lines serving the state, which place the southbound travel for the present season at around 10 percent increase over 1929. Bus company tabulations indicate that January 1930 was the heaviest in their field of transportation since 1927 and required the establishment of extra schedules."

"The heavy influx of overflow Pullman and special rail movements through the Jacksonville Terminal, while pending southbound movements during the present month, indicate that total figures for the season in transportation circles will show substantial increase in travel over a longer period than in several years."

"With a number of Florida's largest special sports and entertainment attractions to be staged during the present month and up to early April, every inducement is offered the visitor to take advantage of Florida's unique early spring weather instead of returning northward to a dumbering climate."

Fish, fishing and bathing in Florida wait its best during the spring months. The Easter season is one of the most enjoyable periods of the year in Florida for the visitor."

TELLING THE WORLD

BY NEIL OHARA

Mr. Hoover has gone fishing again. This time he left Florida with a secretary, a Supreme Court Justice, a personal physician and a political writer.

The object of the trip was to leave Congress at home.

The hot boxes on Hoover's private car had just wheeled off when the opposition wheeled into action. The Democrats are sending James Walker to Florida to denounce his opposition fishing. Jimmy will be accompanied by a tailor, a private spit master, a valet, a ladies' dresser, a barber, a butter and a private cedar closet.

Mr. Coolidge is also in Florida but he is not fishing. He is sawing wood, Hoover's Florida party would give a nickel to know whether it is a Mediterranean fruit fly or a Presidential beetle that is buzzing in Mr. Coolidge.

Realistic Painting

Accompanied by a squad of gendarmes a police "commune" recently entered the Grand Palace where the annual exposition of the Independent Artists is Open during January and February and removed a canvas. The painting in question was not a pleasant one to look at. Everyone who saw it admits this. It showed a battle scene which the artist declared in excuse of their arbitrary action. "Women fainted when they looked at it." It is difficult to imagine what a canvas the removal of the tableau has caused in artistic circles in Paris. "It was too realistic," say the painters. "For years we have been treated by artistic anæsthetics to entire collections of hideous, incomprehensible and stupid canvases which had only a vague connection with painting and nothing else."
