King George Borne to Tomb as Great Britain Mourns

While thousands of mourning subjects lined the streets, the casket of King George V, mounted on a gun carriage, is shown in this radiograph as British sailors drew it from Westminster Hall to Paddington station en route to the tomb at Windsor. After a simple funeral service, the body was placed in the royal vault of St. George's chapel, the burial crypt of British monarchs. (Associated Press Photo copyright 1934)

U. S. Builds Strategic Link With Panama Canal

WITH 700 miles of sea distance between Atlantic coast ports and the Panama canal eliminated on its completion, the Florida canal is considered to have the most important military value to the United States of any project that has been launched in recent years. Plans for the canal were worked out by army engineers.

The photograph at top shows a fleet of Ford V-8 trucks engaged in hauling dirt out of the excavation. The view at right shows the type of truck being used in this work.

Inset is a map showing the course of the Florida canal. This new waterway will be 195 miles long in its entirety. From Jacksonville on the Atlantic side it will follow the St. John's river inland, pass through a series of lakes and then follow the Withlacoochee river to the Gulf of Mexico. Only about 40 to 50 miles of actual canal will have to be built. The cost is estimated at $145,000,000. Surface width will be 600 feet, tapering to 300 at the bottom with a water depth of 35 feet.

The importance of this waterway to shipping is indicated by estimates that it will carry, when completed, one-third more tonnage than the Panama canal.

INSURGENT DEMOCRATS ORGANIZE TO WAGE WAR ON ROOSEVELT

Southern Democrats opposed to the Roosevelt administration organized their "grass roots" conference in Macon, Ga., by inviting Gov. Eugene Talmadge of Georgia to become their presidential candidate. The governor, long a bitter critic of the New Deal, smiled, puffed away on his cigar but declined to comment. Some of the crowd, estimated at 2,400, is shown above during the conference. Evening Dinner At The Mayfair

Irving Bachellor To Represent Members Of Sanford Family

Next Saturday, Feb. 8, is Founder's Day in Sanford, and it will be celebrated under the auspices of the Florida Historical Society and the Sallie Harrison Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. The high point of the celebration is to be an evening dinner in the Hotel Mayfair.

Details of the program are being worked out by Joshua Coffin Chase, president of the Historical Society, with the assistance of State Senator A. M. Taylor of St. Augustine and Mrs. Roy V. Ott of Ocala, both directors of the society.

Irving Bachellor, noted author whose grandmother was a member of the Sanford family, will represent the founder's family at the dinner, according to Mrs. H. J. Lehman, representing the local chapter of the D. A. R. The Sanford family is interested in the approaching Founder's Day exercises, but it will be impossible for John Sanford, 86, present head of the family to attend.

Mr. Sanford is president of Stephens Sanford & Sons, Inc., of Amsterdam, N. Y. He married one of the daughters of Gen. Henry S. Sanford at Belair 43 years ago. Their son, "Laddie" Sanford, is a noted polo player.

No Trace Found Of Abductor By Sanford Police

Following a thorough search in and around Sanford last night, city police came to the conclusion that the abductor of a Winter Park man did not reach this city. Orlando police notified Chief Williams that the abductor, thought to be a negro, was headed for Sanford.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hough, prominent residents of Winter Park, their two children and Mr. Hough's mother were kidnaped for a short time after an unknown man robbed them of $150 in their home while they were listening to the radio. The Orlando police reported. He found the entire family in Mr. Hough's automobile and with a gun held on Mr. Hough, forced him to drive the car.

Collision On Street Kills Rich Tourist

Car Was Demolished By Impact; Wreck Called Unavoidable By Coroner's Jury

Driving at a terrific speed, Willard Otis Colvin, 84, scion of a wealthy Chicago family, hit a heavily loaded truck on Lake Front Boulevard Sunday morning and received injuries that caused his death less than a half hour later in the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital.

A jury impaneled by Coroner J. C. Roberts brought in a verdict of "unavoidable accident" shortly before noon today.

The crushed body of the victim of the collision will be sent by the Erickson mortuary tomorrow to Chicago where funeral services will be held.

The accident was at 4:45 Sunday morning at the intersection of French Avenue with the Boulevard. Hans Fischer, driving a heavily loaded truck and trailer, had just driven into the Boulevard from the Avenue, headed north, when the lights of the Colvin car coming from the north were seen at a curve several hundred feet ahead, he told the coroner's jury.

Three witnesses at the inquest today—George W. Williams, Frank Spry and C. W. Quinn—testified that Colvin was drinking intoxicants at Short's Camp near DeLand shortly before the fatal accident. Colvin had been to DeLand where a brother, E. Richard Colvin, is spending the winter, and was enroute to Tampa where his wife resides at 1909 Bristol Avenue.

The jury was composed of W. J. Thigpen, Charles Hamill, C. C. Williams, W. C. Woodruff, C. E. Chorpensing and L. J. Wilson. John Paulsen of Sanford is a first cousin of the Colvins. He told Coroner Roberts that the Colvins had hatched with the former Prince of Wales, now King Edward VIII of England. Mrs. Paulsen is the former Miss Jean Maxwell.

A farmer fills
the world with tillage;
 moves the village
 the quilted hills
 In even seams
 he works the soil;
 the valley teams
 with vital toil.
 The earth is rich,
 the season vernal;
 in every stitch
 he sows a kernel
 The land's the loom,
 the plow's the shuttle,

Who Gets Burned?

Now that the soldiers' bonus bill has been safely passed, the question naturally arises of how to pay for it. A powerful bloc is active in Congress with the proposal to start the printing presses not only to raise the necessary two and one-half billions for the bonus but also the 500 millions for farm relief and the six billion dollars of new financing which the Secretary of the Treasury announced the other day. And then there is the Frazier-Lemke bill which would print three billions in greenbacks to refinance farm mortgages. And after that, a veritable flood of printing press money.

Many sincere people seem to believe that thus increasing the amount of money in the United States would benefit the great mass of the people. They take the position that if there were more money in the country, the common man would have a better chance of getting some of it, and would then be better off than he was before. But in this view they are exactly like the housekeeper, who, not having enough milk to go around, poured water into it, only to discover that this did not increase the amount of real milk and only ruined that which she already had.

What some people seem to forget is that money itself is not wealth, but is simply a measure of wealth. If you had a thousand crates of celery, you could increase that to two thousand crates of celery simply by cutting the size of a crate in half; but you would not thus increase your celery, or your wealth. You do not eat your celery crates; you eat your celery. And in the same way, you do not eat money, you eat the food, or wear the clothes, which a given sum of money will measure out for you over the sales counter.

Every time the government issues a single dollar that is not raised by taxation, it shaves a part off the value of every other dollar already in circulation. This is an infinitesimal part, to be sure, but it is nevertheless a part. When the government issues several billion dollars of so-called new money, it cuts a rather substantial portion off the value of all outstanding dollars. Now the important question is, who suffers whenever a government, financing itself by printing press money, thus destroys the value of money already in the hands of its people.

It should be everlastingly kept in mind by everyone considering this subject that the very rich do not keep very much of their wealth in the form of cash. Most of their assets consist of beautiful residences, huge office buildings, or other forms of real estate, diesel yachts and automobiles, the ownership of big businesses, stocks and other equities, jewels, paintings, tapestries, and so forth. The dilution of money by printing greenbacks does not hurt any of these properties. The rich still own their office buildings and their corporation stocks. And the value of these things increases as fast as more money is issued.

The fellow who gets burned is the one who has most or all of his wealth in a savings deposit in the bank, or in a coffee can on the pantry shelf, or who is living on a certain fixed sum of income such as a war service disability allowance or a Spanish war pension, or the annuity from a life insurance policy. These people find the cost of living rising rapidly, but their income remains at the same old number of dollars. A pension of $30 a month may have once been adequate, but when prices have risen three or four hundred percent, it may not be sufficient to buy a pair of shoes.

Almost as badly hit are the wage earners. Prices can be raised day by day. The merchant can fix the price of his merchandise at any figure he wishes, any time he wishes. But the wage earner cannot get a raise until his employer is willing to give it to him. Most wage earners have had the experience of learning that wage increases lag considerably behind the rise in prices. Many wage earners work under contracts by which wages are fixed for two or three year periods.

And so we say that inflation does not help the little fellow. It hurts him. People have had some experience with rising prices during the past two or three years. Those who work on salaries, wages or other fixed income know only too well that a given sum of money will not go as far as it did three years ago. But when the printing presses start grinding money out, prices will rise many times faster than they have in the past. It might even reach the point it did in Germany where it took a hundred thousand marks to buy a loaf of bread.

Look Out For Bicycles

All ideas to the effect that the bicycle had gone out with the passing of the horse and buggy era have been dispelled by the Miami Herald which points out recently that the wheels are still with us and are an important factor in the annual accident toll.

"While much stress is properly placed on the motoring dangers," the Herald declares, "it is not amiss to remind the public that the bicycle is still with us and is a factor in the accident records. One champion and pioneer rider died of recent injuries and two persons were seriously hurt on one day this week by bicycle accidents."

"In one case a pedestrian was knocked down and suffered a skull fracture, while the bicyclist, like some reckless motorist, left the scene. The other victim was a bicyclist, who likewise suffered a skull fracture when his wheel crashed into the side of an automobile."

"Bicycles are a threat both to the riders and to pedestrians. People can be badly injured, crippled for life, even killed by being run into by a bicycle, while bicyclists are a constant peril to themselves in heavy automobile traffic. Many riders, especially young people, carelessly weave in and out of lines of passing cars, pedal suddenly into the street in front of automobiles; fail to have guiding lights at night. For the sake of themselves and others, bicycle riders are warned to beware, exert all necessary precautions, and this applies also to motorists and pedestrians."

THE SANFORD FORUM

Sanford, Fla.
Feb. 2, 1936

The Editor,
Sanford Herald.
Unless you can do better in your attempts to influence your readers against the Townsend Plan than you are doing, and possibly in your editorial in last Saturday's issue, you will not accomplish more than Senator Fletcher, Mark Weaver, Davenport and others who have tried but failed to do more than show misdeeds and against something that they see positively vague about.

Most of your readers are probably actually gaining the impression that those opposing the Townsend Plan are opposing a form of socialism, and not because the sign in the best so far offered to end the continued misery of a people lives, or rather existing in a kind of abundance; with abundance of money to distribute the abundance if it were only made so abundant instead of being held in miserly bulk by the few that have the power to so hold it. The Townsend Plan asks for not a thing but that!

Mr. Davenport seems to have tried his art on the Townsend Plan quite a lot, but he has so nearer an understanding of it than does Senator Fletcher or Mark Weaver, and we have seen how Senator Fletcher displayed his ignorance of the Plan in his letter to Mr. Kintz and Mr. Peri of Orlando recently, as printed in the Orlando Sentinel Jan. 29 last, and Dr. Townsend's letter as printed in your Herald last Friday. Now you bring in a Mr. Abernethy of Alberta, Canada, who, Mr. Davenport tells you has made such a failure of a plan to give everyone in that part of the world $25 a month as some sort of a dote. They found they hadn't the money Mr. Davenport says. Now what on earth has that got to do with the Townsend Plan in this U. S. I surely would like to know it appears from the source of your information that "they didn't have the money!" Most emphatically that is not the case here. We have abundance of money. Abundance of the wherewithal to do what we

Editor's Note: The Herald has freely devoted many columns of type to Mr. Douglas' letters and to other arguments in favor of the Townsend Plan. It has also quoted extensively from responsible persons opposed to the plan. The Editor's opinions are of course his own. If we do not think the Townsend Plan will work, would Mr. Douglas have us say so?

Trade At Home

"The chief argument in favor of home trade is the fact that it not only rebounds to the benefit of all residing in the adjacent trade territory which is a part of every community but pays in dollars and cents," said Harry M. Papworth today. "Every dollar sent away to build up business in some big city is just that much taken away from the resources of the home community."

"If people will only figure up the incidental costs and inconveniences occasioned by sending out of town for anything that can be purchased in their home town they will readily see that it pays to trade at home," Mr. Papworth stated. "It is customary to ignore such items, but they are there just the same and are part of the cost of the goods that are purchased in that manner. For instance, the cost of a trip to the city, hotel bill, time wasted away from employment, goods brought home that are not really needed, higher prices actually paid for the goods as a result of the transportation overhead of the big city stores. All this means cost and must be charged up against the purchases. Hence, it is best to trade at home."

"It is only necessary to use common sense in dealing with these problems," Mr. Papworth concluded. "The field is open to all who may wish to enter any line of business, and if there were big profits to be made that condition would not last for very long. The business is carried on, and competition is reduced everything to the level of lowest possible price."

The production of machinery in Germany jumped 210 percent between January, 1935, and January, 1936.

Big Sea Battle Was Fied For Capt. Blood

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

The old Arabella, wind-jamming pirate cruiser lumbered her archaic Culverins, demi-Culverins, Sakers, Swivelguns, Cannons and Murderers, as a cocky bearded French war-sloop tried to capture the spotlight in the Cosmopolitan production, "Captain Blood," now showing at the Milane Theater.

The scene was the highlight and fadest of this epochal pirate drama. The war pieces mentioned are the technical names for the clumsy cannons used to become the Spanish Main in the 17th century in search of yellow gold and precious loot.

As the mammoth frigates built entirely by engineers and artisans at the First National studios poured barrage after barrage of 32 and 62 pound iron balls, grape shot, and cannister into each other's mid-riff, ugly-visaged pirates and sailors, enacted by Hollywood's best troupers mixed with swinging cutlasses, pikes, hangers and grappling hooks in one of the bloodiest of all cinema farces.

Fire-grenades and ugly stink-pots, forefathers of the present day flammen-werfers and poison gas shells, showed like rain on the sea, shooting hand-to-hand fighters.

Several hundred took part in the battle, while a phalanx of cameras—both mobile and still—recorded the affair for the picture.

"Captain Blood" is Rafael Sabatini's most powerful drama. It is a colorful romance with the wildest adventure, a tale of seventeenth century sea piracy, produced on a tremendous scale.

The all star cast includes Fred Flynn, Olive de Havilland, Ross Alexander, Basil Rathbone, Roy Stephens, Robert Barrat and hundreds of others.

Seminole County At Florida's Exhibit

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

To be seen in New York to write about the Florida Exhibit is such a thrilling experience for me, and then to come straight from the train, hop out of a cab into an key wind, hurdle a huge snowdrift by the sidewalk, enter the International Building and find Florida, leaves me breathless and big-eyed, a bewildered and enchanted Alice in Earl Brown's Rockefeller Center Wonderland! Although I learned more about Florida and what it produces in an hour here than I have in several years, living in that state, I was struck with what I might call "the unexhilarated atmosphere." People learn but they learn passively and delightfully. The magic scent of orange blossoms, the muse of Suwannee River, the call of a brilliantly colored macaw, the peasant sound of water splashing in a fountain, the sharp pungent, familiar smell of freshly peeled oranges, all contributed to the illusion that this was not an exhibit at all but the fascinating house of a friend in Florida, a friend whose interests are as wide and varied as those of the state.

When I saw the celery, crisp and fresh, and green, it was like a green gem from Seminole County and made me feel as if I were riding home out Celery Avenue to the St. Johns River. There were other vegetables, too, vivid purple cabbages, bright yellow carrots, great sunny yellow plums, English peas, and corn. And I do wish some of you city growers could see your fruit up here, ruddy gold oranges and pale gold grapefruit, and each one an alluring recommendation for our product.

"Fount of Youth" To Be Given Thursday

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

Sponsored by the Seminole County Girl Scout Council, the General Marionettes will present the "Fount of Youth" Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Junior High School auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

Miss Julia G. Severance and Miss Permelia Allen, operators of the show which has been presented throughout the country with such sponsors as the Cleveland Art Museum, the American Association of University Women, and the Old White Art Colony at White Sulphur Springs, Va., are spending the winter season in Winter Park and have consented to present the marionettes in Sanford this week.

Marionettes have been known for hundreds of years and antiquarians are not certain when the first little figure, jointed, operated by strings in the hands of an unseen person who supplied the dialogue, first appeared or who first thought of it. They have been found in Egyptian tombs and Rome is known to have brought back these quaint figures from Greece. They are much liked in India and China now and for centuries they were important in Europe.

Founders' Day Observance Is Next Saturday

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

(Continued From Page One) work more closely with the various sections of Florida. It is the plan to hold similar meetings in other congressional districts of the state on anniversaries as important as that to be observed in Sanford next Saturday.

The date of Feb. 8 was chosen as a significant anniversary for the City of Sanford as it was on Feb. 8, 1837, that Capt. Charles Mellon was killed in battle on the shores of Lake Monroe. This resulted in naming the camp and fort in his honor, and the subsequent settlement of Mellonville which later grew into the City of Sanford.

I never dreamed we made so many things in Florida, wine in Orlando, Surinam cherry juice and tropical furniture in Miami, oranges, of course, in Tampa, honey from Dunedin, Barrow, and Deland, tung oil in Gainesville, great colored sponges from Tarpon Springs, every imaginable kind of jelly and citrus conserve from all over the state. It made me feel like sending out a questionnaire, "What do you know about your state?" In spite of all the information and the perfect business management, the visitors do not see the wheels go round, and one somehow feels the glamour is atmosphere that is really Florida. It greeted me like a presence, warm and familiar, in sharp dramatic contrast to the snow and ice of Fifth Avenue and Park City, New York. I can feel the olive branch charm of the tropics, the haunting lure to which Stevenson, Gauguin, and I surrendered. It's incredible, but it's true. It's true because these men working under the guiding genius of Earl Brown as artists and they created something not just work, and stone, and paper mache, but something alive, exciting, and unbelievably beautiful.

I had another little personal thrill when I saw the green cans of Eckersley's grapefruit, the brushes that I believe were made by the Arch Fibre Brush Company (perhaps I jumped at conclusions "in a pack of local products" as O. O. McIntyre says) and Sanford's Byron Stephens at work on a beautiful dorama. Then in the Sunshine Theater, a vivid gray room in Dabnetter red and silver. I saw a picture of Helen Marentette Carraway and Camilla Celestine lending glamour to a celebrity field and one of Paul Buggers' dogs, Sadie and Queen, in a perfect point out in the "hall pone." There is a map of Florida made of butterfly wings, and I noticed Semolee is a lovely brown color. I wondered if that was to represent our rich muck land.

I can feel the olive branch charm of the tropics, the haunting lure to which Stevenson, Gauguin, and I surrendered. It's incredible, but it's true. It's true because these men working under the guiding genius of Earl Brown as artists and they created something not just work, and stone, and paper mache, but something alive, exciting, and unbelievably beautiful.

I never dreamed we made so many things in Florida, wine in Orlando, Surinam cherry juice and tropical furniture in Miami, oranges, of course, in Tampa, honey from Dunedin, Barrow, and Deland, tung oil in Gainesville, great colored sponges from Tarpon Springs, every imaginable kind of jelly and citrus conserve from all over the state. It made me feel like sending out a questionnaire, "What do you know about your state?" In spite of all the information and the perfect business management, the visitors do not see the wheels go round, and one somehow feels the glamour is atmosphere that is really Florida. It greeted me like a presence, warm and familiar, in sharp dramatic contrast to the snow and ice of Fifth Avenue and Park City, New York. Who Gets Burned?

Now that the soldiers' bonus bill has been safely passed, the question naturally arises of how to pay for it. A powerful bloc is active in Congress with the proposal to start the printing presses not only to raise the necessary two and one-half billions for the bonus but also the 500 millions for farm relief and the six billion dollars of new financing which the Secretary of the Treasury announced the other day.

Many sincere people seem to believe that thus increasing the amount of money in the United States would benefit the great mass of the people. They take the position that if there were more money in the country, the common man would have a better chance of getting some of it, and would then be better off than he was before.

Every time the government issues a single dollar that is not raised by taxation, it shaves a part off the value of every other dollar already in circulation. This is an infinitesimal part, to be sure, but it is nevertheless a part.

It should be everlastingly kept in mind by everyone considering this subject that the very rich do not keep very much of their wealth in the form of cash. Most of their assets consist of beautiful residences, huge office buildings, or other forms of real estate, diesel yachts and automobiles.

Almost as badly hit are the wage earners. Prices can be raised day by day. The merchant can fix the price of his merchandise at any figure he wishes, any time he wishes.

And so we say that inflation does not help the little fellow. It hurts him. People have had some experience with rising prices during the past two or three years. Those who work on salaries, wages or other fixed income know only too well that a given sum of money will not go as far as it did three years ago.

Look Out For Bicycles

All ideas to the effect that the bicycle had gone out with the passing of the horse and buggy era have been dispelled by the Miami Herald which points out recently that the wheels are still with us and are an important factor in the annual accident toll.

"While much stress is properly placed on the motoring dangers," the Herald declares, "it is not amiss to remind the public that the bicycle is still with us and is a factor in the accident records. One champion and pioneer rider died of recent injuries and two persons were seriously hurt on one day this week by bicycle accidents."

"In one case a pedestrian was knocked down and suffered a skull fracture, while the bicyclist, like some reckless motorist, left the scene. The other victim was a bicyclist, who likewise suffered a skull fracture when his wheel crashed into the side of an automobile."

"Bicycles are a threat both to the riders and to pedestrians. People can be badly injured, crippled for life, even killed by being run into by a bicycle, while bicyclists are a constant peril to themselves in heavy automobile traffic. Many riders, especially young people, carelessly weave in and out of lines of passing cars, pedal suddenly into the street in front of automobiles; fall to have guiding lights at night. For the sake of themselves and others, bicycle riders are warned to beware, exert all necessary precautions, and this applies also to motorists and pedestrians."

THE SANFORD FORUM

Sanford, Fla. Feb. 3, 1936.

The Editor, Sanford Herald. Unless you can do better in your attempts to influence your readers against the Townsend Plan than you are doing, and notably in your editorial in last Saturday's issue, you will not accomplish more than Senator Fletcher, Mark Wileox, Davenport and others who have tried but failed to do more than show mistakes and suggest something that they are positively vague about.

Most of your readers are gradually gaining the impression that those opposing the Townsend Plan are opposing it from class motives, and not because the Plan is the best so far offered to end the continued misery of a people living, or rather existing in a land of abundance; with abundance of money to distribute the abundance if it were only made so abundant by the few that have the power to so hold it.

Mr. Davenport seems to have tried his art on the Townsend Plan quite a lot, but he has not nearer an understanding of it than does Senator Fletcher or Mark Wileox, and we have seen how Senator Fletcher displayed his ignorance of the Plan in his letter to Mr. Rinal and Mr. Peri of Orlando recently, as printed in the Orlando Sentinel Jan. 29 last, and Dr. Townsend's letter as printed in your Herald last Friday. Now you bring in a Mr. Aberhart of Alberta, Canada, who, Mr. Davenport tells you has made such a failure of a plan to give everyone in that part of the world $25 a month as some sort of a dose.

Editor's Note: The Herald has freely devoted many columns of type to Mr. Douglas' letters and to other arguments in favor of the Townsend Plan. It has also quoted extensively from responsible persons opposed to the plan. The Editor's opinions are of course his own. If we do not think the Townsend Plan will work, would Mr. Douglas have us say so?

Trade At Home

"The chief argument in favor of home trade is the fact that it not only rebounds to the benefit of all residing in the adjacent trade territory which is a part of every community but pays in dollars and cents," said Harry M. Papworth today. "Every dollar sent away to build up business in some big city is just that much taken away from the resources of the home community."

If people will only figure up the incidental costs and conveniences occasioned by sending out of town for anything that can be purchased in their home town they will readily see that it pays to trade at home," Mr. Papworth stated. "It is customary to ignore such items, but they are there just the same and are part of the cost of the goods that are purchased in the manner. For instance, the cost of a trip to the city, hotel bill, time wasted away from employment, goods brought home that are not really needed, higher prices actually paid for the goods on account of the transportation overhead of the big city stores. All this means cost and must be charged up against the purchases if one is honest with oneself."

"It is only necessary to use common sense in dealing with these problems," Mr. Papworth concluded. "The field is open to all who may wish to enter any line of business, and if there were big profits to be made that condition would not last for every opening for business is carefully watched out, and competition has reduced everything to the level of lowest possible prices."

Big Sea Battle Was Fought For Capt. Blood

The old Arabella, wind-jamming pirate cruiser unlimbered her archaic Cutters, demi-Culverins, Sakers, Swivelguns, Cannons and Murderers, as a cocky be-cannased French war-sloop tried to capture the spotlight in the Cosmopolitan production, "Captain Blood," now showing at the Milane Theater.

The scene was the highlight and fadest of this epochal pirate drama. The war pieces mentioned are the technical names for the clumsy cannons used to boom the Spanish Main in the 17th century in search of yellow gold and precious loot.

As the mammoth frigates built entirely by engineers and artisans at the First National studios poured barrage after barrage of 32 and 62 pound iron balls, grape shot and cannister into each other's mid-riffs, ugly-rivaged pirates and sailors enacted by Hollywood's finest trouperes mixed with swinging cutlasses, pike hangers and grappling hooks in one of the bloodiest of all cinema fire-fights.

Fire-granades and ugly stink-pots, forerunners of the present day flammen-weepers and poison gas shells, showed like rain on the seething, shouting hand-to-hand fighters.

Several hundred took part in the battle, while a phalanx of cutters—both mobile and still—recorded the affair for the picture.

"Captain Blood" is Rafael Sabatini's most powerful drama. It is a colorful romance with the wildest adventure, a tale of seventeenth century sea piracy, produced on a tremendous scale.

The all-star cast includes Paul Flynn, Olivia de Havilland, Ross Alexander, Basil Rathbone, Ross Stephens, Robert Barrat and hundreds of others.

By NINA OLIVER DEAN

To be seen in New York to were also the Florida Exhibit in such a thrilling experience for me, and then to come straight from the train, hop out of a cab into an icy wind, handle a huge snowdrift by the sidewalk, enter the International Building and find Florida, leaves me breathless and big-eyed, a bewildered and enchanted alien in Earl Brown's Rockefeller Center Wonderland! Although I learned more about Florida and what it produces in an hour here than I have in several years, living in that state, I was struck with what I might call "the unorthodox atmosphere." People learn but they learn painlessly and delightfully. The music scent of orange blossoms, the music of Suwannee River, the call of a brilliantly colored macaw, the pleasant sound of water splashing in a fountain, the sharp pungent, familiar smell of freshly peeled oranges, all contributed to the illusion that this was not an exhibit at all but the fascinating home of a friend in Florida, a friend whose interests are as wide and varied as those of the state.

When I saw the celery, crisp and fresh from Seminole County, and made me feel as if I were picking home out Celery Avenue in the St. Johns River. There were other vegetables, too, vivid purple egg-plant, bright yellow carrots, green string-beans, English peas, and green beans. And I wish some of your corn growers could see your fruit up here, ruddy gold peaches and pale gold grape fruit, all Florida's best, and each one an alluring recommendation for our food in this city. There is to be a demonstration of the citrus fruit on by Andrew Sogner French chef of the Roosevelt, who will show the cooking of oranges how to make Long Island Drying Biscuits and Orange Blossom Petal Biscuits, and how to make them in a variety of ways. New York's people are to arrange tables at the exhibit to demonstrate and exchange recipes.

I had another little personal thrill when I saw the green cans of Eckersson's grapefruit, the brushes that I believe were made by the Arch Fibre Brush Company (perhaps I jumped at conclusions "in a moment of local pride" as O. O. Meloye says) and Sanford's Byron Stephens' work of a beautiful diorama. Then in the Sunshine Theater, a vivid gay room in Dabnnet red and silver, I saw a picture of Helen Marentette Carraway and Camilla Puleston leading glamour in a celery field and one of Paul Rogers' dogs, Nadye and Queen, in a perfect point out in the "ball park."

There is a map of Florida made of butterfly fish and I noticed Seminole is a lovely brown color. I wondered if that was to represent our rich muck land.

I never dreamed we made so many things in Florida, with an Orlando, Suramam cherry juice and tropical furniture in Miami, oranges, of course, in Tampa, honey, from Dunedin, Barrow, and Deland, long-rod in Gainesville, great coconut sponges from Tarpon Springs, every imaginable kind of jelly and citrus conserve from all over the state. It made me feel like sending out a questionnaire.

What do you know about your state? In spite of all the information and the perfect business management of the exhibits, do not see the whole go round, and one somehow feels the glamour as atmosphere that is really Florida. I greeted me like a passer-by, warm and familiar, in sharp dramatic contrast to the snow and ice outside, for here in New York, at Fifth Avenue and E. 42nd Street, one can feel the electric grandeur charm of the tropics, the haunting lure to which Stevenson, Gauguin, and Van Gogh succumbed. It is impossible, it is amazing, it is incredible, but it is true, because these men worked under the guiding genius of Earl Brown, an artist and they created something not just work, and some, and popular music, but something, alive, exciting, and unbelievably beautiful.

"Fount of Youth" To Be Given Thursday

Sponsored by the Seminole County Girl Scout Council, the General Marionettes will present the "Fount of Youth" Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock at the Junior High School auditorium. The public is invited to attend.

Miss Julia G. Severance and Miss Pamela Allen, operators of the show which has been presented throughout the country by such sponsors as the Cleveland Art Museum, the American Association of University Women, and the Old White Art Colony at White Sulphur Springs, Va., are spending the winter season in Winter Park and have consented to present the marionettes in Sanford this week.

Marionettes have been known for hundreds of years and antiquarians are not certain when the first little figure, jointed, operated by strings in the hands of an unseen person who supplied the dialogue, first appeared or who first thought of it. They have been found in Egyptian tombs and Homer is known to have brought back these quaint figures from Greece. They are much liked in India and China now and for centuries they were important in Europe.

work more closely with the various sections of Florida, it is the plan to hold similar meetings in other congressional districts of the state on anniversary parties as important as that to be observed in Sanford next Saturday.

The date of Feb. 8 was chosen as a significant anniversary for the city of Sanford as it was on Feb. 8, 1857, that Capt. Charles Mellon was killed in battle on the shores of Lake Wales. Mellon's death resulted in naming the camp and fort in his honor and the subsequent settlement of Mellonsville which later gave to the City of Sanford.

principal when he became involved in a collision with a car in the city of Sanford. In August, 1922, Col. J. H. DeLand, a suburban Wilmette society man, was married in Wilmette, Ill. In 1928 Mrs. Col. DeLand separated maintenance, but the couple was withdrawn. She was divorced in 1934 on allegations of being drunk.

Last August, however, she was reconciled and was returning to Daytona Beach, Fla., in a Packard sedan. She was driving on the highway, left by plane yesterday for DeLand, Fla., to attend a funeral arrangement with Col. DeLand's brother, Richard.

Woman Physician Killed
MIAMI, Feb. 2.—Dr. Mary Freeman, 48, of Perrine, physician in that area for the Florida East Coast Railway, was killed yesterday in an automobile collision 22 miles south of here. Her sister, Mrs. Margaret Calver, and nephew, Mrs. Ada Vent, also of Perrine, were seriously injured.

The automobile in which they were riding was struck by a car driven by Allen Handy, negro.

Van Swearingen Injured
WEST PALM BEACH, Feb. 2.—Van C. Swearingen, former Florida attorney general, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident yesterday, was carried to a Miami hospital.

Physicians said Swearingen, who recently announced his candidacy for state comptroller, received severe lacerations about the face and head and would be under the care of a physician for at least two weeks.

John K. Williams and J. I. Clifton were killed when the automobile in which they and Swearingen were riding, was said to have struck a parked truck near Clewiston.

"Univ. Of Fla." Tags On Sale In Sanford

A quantity of front automobile tags will be for $2 each, for benefit of the University of Florida Scholarship Fund, have been placed on sale at the Roumiflak & Anderson drug store. They are of the same size and color as the official state license plates and bear in addition to a serial number the words "Univ. of Fla."

These are a number of deserving and needy students in the University of Florida and it is the hope of University authorities that through the sale of these front auto tags a sufficient fund may be established to provide assistance to these deserving students.

Pope Pius Is Better, Able To Attend Mass

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 2.—Pope Pius XI, his cold apparently improved, attended Mass in the Sistine Chapel.

The Pope is expected to be able to attend Mass on Thursday and Friday and was forced to cancel public appearances.

Funeral services must be taken for the Pope in Rome on Feb. 9, as the Pope is 78 years old.

Meeting Tonight Is For All Fans Who Like Baseball

Session Not Limited To Committeemen, Says Rex Packard

The baseball meeting called for 8 o'clock this evening in the Chamber of Commerce building is for all lovers of baseball and is not restricted to members of the baseball committees, Rex Packard stated today.

Several attempts have been made within the last two or three weeks to get the fans together, but without success. It is said that unless some interest is shown in the meeting tonight the baseball question will be dropped and some other city that is clamoring for a place in the new Florida League will be allowed to grab Sanford's franchise.

April 8-11 Date For State Golf Tourney

LAKELAND, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Dates for the state men's amateur golf tournament were set today for Apr. 8-11 by directors of the Florida State Golf Association.

The directors set a goal of 100 entries and agreed to try to get players from all sections of the state.

Clarence Camp of Ocala, president of the association, said he was pleased with the condition of the Cleveland Heights course, where the tournament will be played.

Jack Toomer, now a professional, won the last state tourney held here in 1932. Directors present today in addition to Toomer were James Swan and James Warren of Tampa, G. W. Spencer of Sanford, Carl Jackson of Orlando, Bob Harlow of St. Petersburg, R. E. Ferris of Lakeland, and Secretary W. W. Alderman of Lakeland.

Daytona Beach Is Declared Winner Of Basketball Title

Daytona Beach basketball quintet, which defeated Sanford 32 to 17 in the Northeast Conference semi-finals at DeLand last Saturday afternoon, won over Leesburg 25 to 22 in the Saturday evening game and thereby won the conference basketball title. It was the last game of a two-day tournament held at Stetson University.

In addition to playing a brilliant offensive game, the winners successfully held the Yellow Jacket scoring stars in check. The Sanford Celery Feds got into the semi-finals of conference play by defeating Lake City 38 to 20, but the contest tired them to such an extent that they were unable to put up a hard battle with the Bucs. The local team has been crippled by severe colds and attacks of the flu suffered by several members of the five.

50 Pct. Cut In WPA Payroll Is Asked By City

Request Is Made By City Commission; Labor Shortage Is Becoming Serious

Relief Workers Won't Take Jobs Swope Asked To Lay Off Men At End Of This Work Period

Fifty percent reduction in the common labor payroll on Sanford streets was to be asked today of the Works Progress Administration by the municipal government. The labor shortage, reported as becoming all the more serious in recent weeks, is said to be approaching an acute stage, and men employed on WPA projects are needed in private employment.

The request to be made today by O. P. Swope, WPA administrator in Orlando for this district, that he make a 50 percent slash in the relief payroll in this city at the end of the present work period next Friday, was voted unanimously by the City Commission last night. City Clerk F. S. Lamson was instructed to communicate the wishes of the Commission to the WPA official.

Only common labor will be affected by the City's request, and the Commissioners hope that arrangements can be made whereby sufficient labor to meet the needs of private employers can be taken from the streets without disturbing the gangs engaged in laying the sewers. It is the desire of the board that the sewer work be pushed through, but members of the Commission expressed the opinion that the street work should proceed as rapidly with one-half as many men employed as are engaged on that project at present.

Skilled labor, such as employed on the Army and the green-house, will not be disturbed by the request the municipality is making of the WPA.

Louise Johnston Will Be Crowned As Miss Sanford

Miss Louise Johnston was declared the winner of the beauty pageant sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Woman's Club last night, and will be crowned as "Miss Sanford" for such will represent this city in a state-wide contest to be staged in Orlando next month when "Miss Florida" will be selected.

Twenty-six young women appeared in the beauty parade, and the most beautiful was selected by the process of elimination. The out-of-town judges finally whittled the number down to four—Miss Johnston, Miss Christine Stoudermire, Miss Margaret Ingley, and Miss Catherine White. The last two were finally eliminated, and Miss Stoudermire was chosen as Miss Johnston's alternate.

Little Betty Roberts, 4, was awarded a silver loving cup as the prettiest little girl, and Lora Dennis, two and one-half years of age, was adjudged the prettiest baby.

During the revue Mrs. Robert Glen, sang several popular songs, Marjorie Cogburn gave a tap dance, and Evelyn Nipper played a party solo. About 300 persons were present.

Party Committee Won't Get Balance Of Filing Fees Of Candidates This Campaign

The Democratic County committee will not run the campaign this year on balances left over from filing fees paid by candidates for office. Such balances were turned over to the committee for the year campaign, but E. F. Housholder, secretary for the Board of County Commissioners, told the board this morning that it had no "right" to do, and advised against similar action this year. The board voted to take the attorney's advice.

"You turned the balance over to Bob Holly to run President Roosevelt's campaign last time, but you had no right to do it," Attorney Housholder stated. The filing fees are paid by candidates to defray the costs of the primaries and the general election, and not for campaign purposes.

Orlando Brokers Ask Pay For Bond Sold By Douglass Before Next Meet

But County Will Try To Get Securities Back In Its Vaults

Seminole County Commissioners were today asked by a firm of Orlando brokers what they expect to do about a County bond which the brokers bought from Vance E. Douglass, former clerk of courts now serving a three-year term in the state penitentiary for embezzlement. The bond question is one of those emphasized by the former official.

The reply to be made the Orlando brokers is that Seminole County will seek the return of the stolen bond.

The Seminole County Chamber of Commerce is today in receipt of the directory covering the second session of the 74th Congress as of January, 1936, which has been placed in the library of directories maintained in the Chamber of Commerce building for the use of the public.

Commander L. F. Boyle of the local post of the American Legion today sent to Commander Kelly K. Wild of the Fernandina post a Legion cap as a trophy won by the Fernandina post when it scored the highest percentage membership gain at the close of a contest on Jan. 16. Fernandina made a gain of 350 percent to Sanford's gain of 285 percent, though since the contest closed Sanford has reached the 350 percentage mark.

Legion Cannon To Be Put In Place

City Will Help Build Base, Celebration Planned For Feb. 17

American Legion men at their meeting last night decided to proceed at once with the building of a concrete foundation for the big cannon given the Post by the federal government, and a crew of Legionnaires under the direction of Park Superintendent James Moughton will start construction work tomorrow. Commander L. F. Boyle appeared before the City Commission last night and that body agreed to assist the former service men.

The piece of heavy artillery given the local Legion Post is much larger than those usually seen in public parks. It is also of a much later model, manufactured in 1918. The barrel is 12 feet long and weighs more than a ton. The full length of the cannon is 21 1/2 feet and it is 6 1/2 feet wide. It is now in storage in the St. Johns River line, warehouse where it arrived last Saturday, transportation free, from Jacksonville, thanks to Otto Caldwell, manager of the line. The gun was shipped from the proving grounds at Aberdeen, Md.

It is planned to have the cannon in place in front of the Legion Hut on Lake Front Boulevard, and the tall flag staff erected before the next meeting night on Feb. 17 when the post will put on a celebration. State Commissioner Arthur R. Boring and State Adjutant Howard Howman have promised to attend that meeting, and business men who donated transportation funds through Commander Boyle will be guests. Either a Chinese chop suey or Italian spaghetti dinner will be served.

The Legion last night also accepted the donation from Rupert Strickland of the Strickland Motors of a Ford Model A chassis and rear tandem wheels, and on this the Forty and Eight locomotive will be rebuilt. A tender will be built out over the tandem wheels, and accommodations for eight men (two in the engine cab and six in the tender) will thereby be provided. The locomotive is to be rebuilt in time to take it to the state convention in Sarasota in April.

Library Building To Be Repaired At Once

Immediate necessary repairs will be made to the City Library building, under the instructions given by the City Commission to Superintendent James Moughton last night. Through repair of the building would require an expenditure that the City could not afford at this time, Commissioner W. A. Laffler stated, but he declared that some repairs must be made at once if the building is to be saved. Among these repairs will be the roof on the one-story wing, and the window frames that are rotting out. Under Mr. Laffler's motion $300 will be expended on the library building.

Back Taxes If Collected Will Avoid New Tax

Proposal To Assess Operator's License Held In Abeyance For Another Month

Payment of delinquent taxes on adjusted basis will avoid the levying of new taxes to support the municipal government, the City Commissioners decided last night, and therefore the proposal to license operators of motor vehicles or to put a tax on meters was held in abeyance for another month.

Under a resolution adopted a week ago, the Commission will sit as a "tax adjustment board" on the second and fourth Monday evenings of every month during the next year. The first meeting will be on Monday evening of next week, Feb. 10. Blanks for applying for an adjustment of taxes delinquent for the year 1933 or prior years will be available in a few days, and these may be filed next Monday evening or at other meetings of the board. An effort will be made to adjust those taxes, and the applicant must then pay the adjusted tax within 30 days.

The probable reduction in delinquent taxes would be such that it is believed that many will avail themselves of the opportunity to settle their debt to the city at the lower figure, and if enough pay up it will not be necessary to levy new taxes, Commissioners stated.

City Clerk F. S. Lamson reported that with funds now in the treasury and "in sight" the municipality will have enough money with which to carry on for about two and one-half months. Thirty days' trial will indicate whether enough money can be brought in by that means. If after 30 days it is found that delinquent taxes are not being paid in sufficient amounts to be of material aid to the operators' license ordinance or the proposal will be revived. The proposed operators' license fee ordinance has already been prepared and it will be held in the clerk's files for future action if necessary.

Commissioner W. R. Dupree made a new suggestion at the meeting of a way to increase the City's revenues, and that was for a City tax on cigarettes. The suggestion was discussed by every member of the Commission, but it was laid aside until it can be seen whether property owners who are delinquent in their tax payments accept the municipality's offer to adjust old levies.

Bachelors In Kansas Mourn For Benedict

BALDWIN, Kan., Feb. 4. (AP)—Baldwin's bachelors dined again last night, preparing their own meals. A feature of the meeting was the "memorial service" for brothers "who have departed this life as single blessedness."

Library Building To Be Repaired At Once

Immediate necessary repairs will be made to the City Library building, under the instructions given by the City Commission to Superintendent James Moughton last night. Through repair of the building would require an expenditure that the City could not afford at this time, Commissioner W. A. Laffler stated, but he declared that some repairs must be made at once if the building is to be saved. Among these repairs will be the roof on the one-story wing, and the window frames that are rotting out. Under Mr. Laffler's motion $300 will be expended on the library building.

Lindbergh Passes His Birth Date In Quiet Seclusion

Won't Be Disturbed In Welsh Mansion Of Family Friend

ELANDAFF, Wales, Feb. 4. (AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh passed his 34th birthday unobtrusively today with his family in seclusion in the home of their Welsh host, J. Llewellyn Morgan. The household that Lindbergh was not to be disturbed.

The family is apparently finding no difficulty in maintaining the privacy for which they crossed the Atlantic. A police guard around the Morgan mansion has been removed.

Congressman Says Lobby Is Fighting Neutrality Bill

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. (AP)—A charge that a powerful lobby is seeking to block the Administration's permanent neutrality bill because it might reduce foreign trade was made before House rules committee today by Chairman Melby.

He added that some members of the House don't want to vote for the section providing for discretionary embargo on shipments of war materials to belligerent nations "because it would interfere with some classes of trade."

Melby's spokesman for right of way in the House for the legislation in an appeal before the rules committee.

Fruit And Vegetable Shippers Oppose Construction Of Cross-Florida Canal

Finding from evidence collected by a committee indicates that the Florida Cross-State Canal might "detrimentally affect the artesian water supply," the trade-artesian committee of the American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers Association recommends to the association and its members that they "do everything possible to discourage the construction of this canal until it can be definitely determined the value of the project and the measure of possible loss to the fresh fruit and vegetable industry" of Florida.

The American Fruit and Vegetable Shippers Association is composed of shippers controlling more than one-half million cars of fruits and vegetables, or one-half of the tonnage in the United States.

Because of the uncertainty of the result of the canal a committee was appointed to conduct an investigation, and this committee reported to the board of directors of the association in 19th annual session in Chicago. The report was discussed and unanimously approved by the directors and members of the association present. It reads as follows:

"Your committee has been requested to give consideration to the effect of the possible construction of the so-called Florida Cross State Canal which, under present plans, contemplates a water-way through the state of approximately 202 miles in length at a tremendous cost, $8,000,000 of which has already been appropriated by the President out of the relief fund.

"Evidence collected by your committee indicates that the building of this canal may detract from the production of citrus fruits in Florida.

Population Of United States Is 127,521,000

Figures Released By Census Bureau Show Gain Of 4,746,000 Since 1930's Count

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4. (AP)—The census bureau today officially estimated the United States population at 127,521,000. The official count was taken as of the mid-year on July 1, 1935. The gain was 4,746,000 from 1930 when the last actual census was taken.

Total births between April 1, 1930 and last July was 12,420,000 including an allowance for an under registration. Deaths numbered 7,423,000 also making an allowance for under registration 251,000 persons left the country.

The net gain for five and one-quarter years was 4,746,000. The 1930 population was 122,775,000. At the rate of increase the 1940 population would be around 131,000,000.

Visitors Gather Around Seminole Celery Exhibits

Seminole County's celery exhibit on the Tampa State Fair, placed there by the Future Farmers of America, attracted much attention yesterday. It is an unusual exhibit, and many other celery exhibitors, it was reported today by John Senkowsky, one of the boys who helped build the display. Throngs of visitors were around the big double booth all day yesterday, he said. They were in the fields and one showing the Zachary crane factory, were in place today, he said.

The exhibit from the county has one of the most choice locations at the fair—at the left of the entrance to the agricultural building.

John and Jerry Senkowsky, 14, and Gustavson, Boyd, Green and John Jones, together with Alex E. Johnson, instructor of agriculture in Seminole High, put in several hard days' work building the exhibit. The boys returned home today, but Mr. Johnson will remain at the fair until it closes.

Mussolini Meets With Advisors To Oppose Sanctions

Confronted with the fear of future actions, Premier Mussolini today conferred with Italy's two highest advisory groups, the Supreme Defense Commission and the Fascist Grand Council. Those two bodies are to help him decide upon the next step in the war with Ethiopia and the manner of fortifying the populace at home against privations due to shutting off of supplies from League of Nations' members.

As for actual battle news there is little reported.

Senator Copeland Is Appealed To By Wire To Fight State Canal

H. M. Papworth, as president of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, today telegraphed U. S. Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, asking him to "press" father work on the Atlantic-Gulf ship canal across the Florida peninsula. Mr. Papworth's wire reads as follows:

"The Seminole County Chamber of Commerce on behalf of our people desires to protest in the most vigorous manner against further work being done on the Cross-State Canal unless the federal government will guarantee our farmers and citrus growers for damage done by contamination of our water supply we request that this protest be entered in your hearing."

C. M. Hand Makes Announcement For Office Of Sheriff

C. M. Hand, three times sheriff of Seminole County, today announced his candidacy for that office, to succeed Sheriff J. F. McCulland. He stated he would campaign on his record as an enforcement officer.

Mr. Hand was a deputy sheriff of Orange county for 21 years when Sanford was in that county, but when Seminole County was created out of Orange county in 1913 he was appointed this County's first sheriff. Since then he served in that office a total of 11 years. In 1919 he asked the electorate to put him in the office, and he was elected for a four year term and was re-elected for another four year term in 1923, relinquishing the office in 1928. Before he was deputy sheriff or sheriff Mr. Hand served as mayor of Sanford in 1906.

Seminole County has been Mr. Hand's home nearly all his life, as he was brought here as a baby by his parents in 1870. He belongs to the Masons, the Shrine and the Elks.

In making his announcement Sheriff Hand stated that he would co-operate with police officers, game wardens, and all other officials to secure the enforcement of all laws of the county and state, and further declared that "his record as a law enforcement officer in this county would show that lawlessness during his administrations had been kept to a minimum."
