Some Seminole Students Face Transfer In '83

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Some students attending elementary schools in the southeast and southwest portions of Seminole County may be going to class elsewhere next year under an attendance plan scheduled for review Wednesday by the Seminole County School Board.

The board will hear plans to establish an attendance zone for Alan F. Keeth Elementary School in Winter Springs and to reduce the number of students at Wekiva Elementary School in Longwood.

In a proposal submitted by Superintendent Robert Hughes, Keeth Elementary, now under construction, will house 457 students when school opens this fall. Most of those students will come from Red Bug Elementary School in Maitland, but Eastbrook and Sterling Park elementary schools, which serve the Casselberry area, will also be affected by the zone change.

Keeth will receive 434 of Red Bug's 845 students under the Hughes plan. Additionally, Keeth will get 8 students from the Lake Jesup area now attending T.W. Lawton Elementary School in Oviedo and 15 will come from Sterling Park.

Thirty-five students from Sterling Park will be transferred to Red Bug, which serves the fastest growing section of Seminole County, bringing Red Bug's enrollment to 446.

Sterling Park will have 730 students under the plan, 67 less than are currently attending the school. Also, 17 students living in Semoran North Apartments in Maitland will be transferred to Eastbrook, bringing the school's enrollment to 767.

According to a school board staff report, the realignment was recommended because it affects the least amount of students, provides a balance at all schools in student enrollment based on growth potential and history, transportation costs to the district are minimized and subdivisions are not split.

In the Wekiva area, Hughes' plan calls for 155 students to be transferred from Wekiva to Forest City Elementary School. The transfer would drop enrollment at Wekiva to 713 students and increase enrollment at Forest City to 730.

Bear Lake Elementary near Apopka will receive no additional students. Two subdivisions now being developed in that area will seriously affect enrollment at Bear Lake in the next few years, the staff committee said.

The staff report said the Hughes plan was endorsed because it will reduce overcrowding at Wekiva, a high growth area, and bring Forest City up to capacity.

Pickets At Restaurant Continuing

The picket lines around Bahama Joe's Lobster House at 2508 S. French Ave. will remain on site until the owners return to the bargaining table, said Harvey Totzke, secretary-treasurer of Hotel Employees and Restaurant Employees union, Local 737, Orlando.

Totzke said the owners, Dennis and Craig Buckley of Daytona Beach, have refused to return to the bargaining table since November, ignoring requests to do so from a federal mediator.

The union official said the Buckylys want to maintain the status quo and are offering the employees nothing beyond what they have. "They are offering no standard benefits such as paid holidays and group insurance."

Totzke said that Bahama Joe's policy requires waitresses to pay the firm 2 percent of gross sales, regardless of the amount of gratuities made that day. "This is in addition to the federal tax which went into effect in January, requiring the employees to pay 8 percent tax on gross sales," he said.

"The employers requiring the employees to pay them 2 percent of gross sales and the change in the tax laws are having a devastating effect on the employees' ability to earn a decent wage," Totzke said.

When a party comes into the restaurant and eats, then leaves without giving the waitress a tip, it is conceivable and has happened that it has actually cost the waitress money to serve that guest, the union official said. He commented that he deems this "grossly unfair."

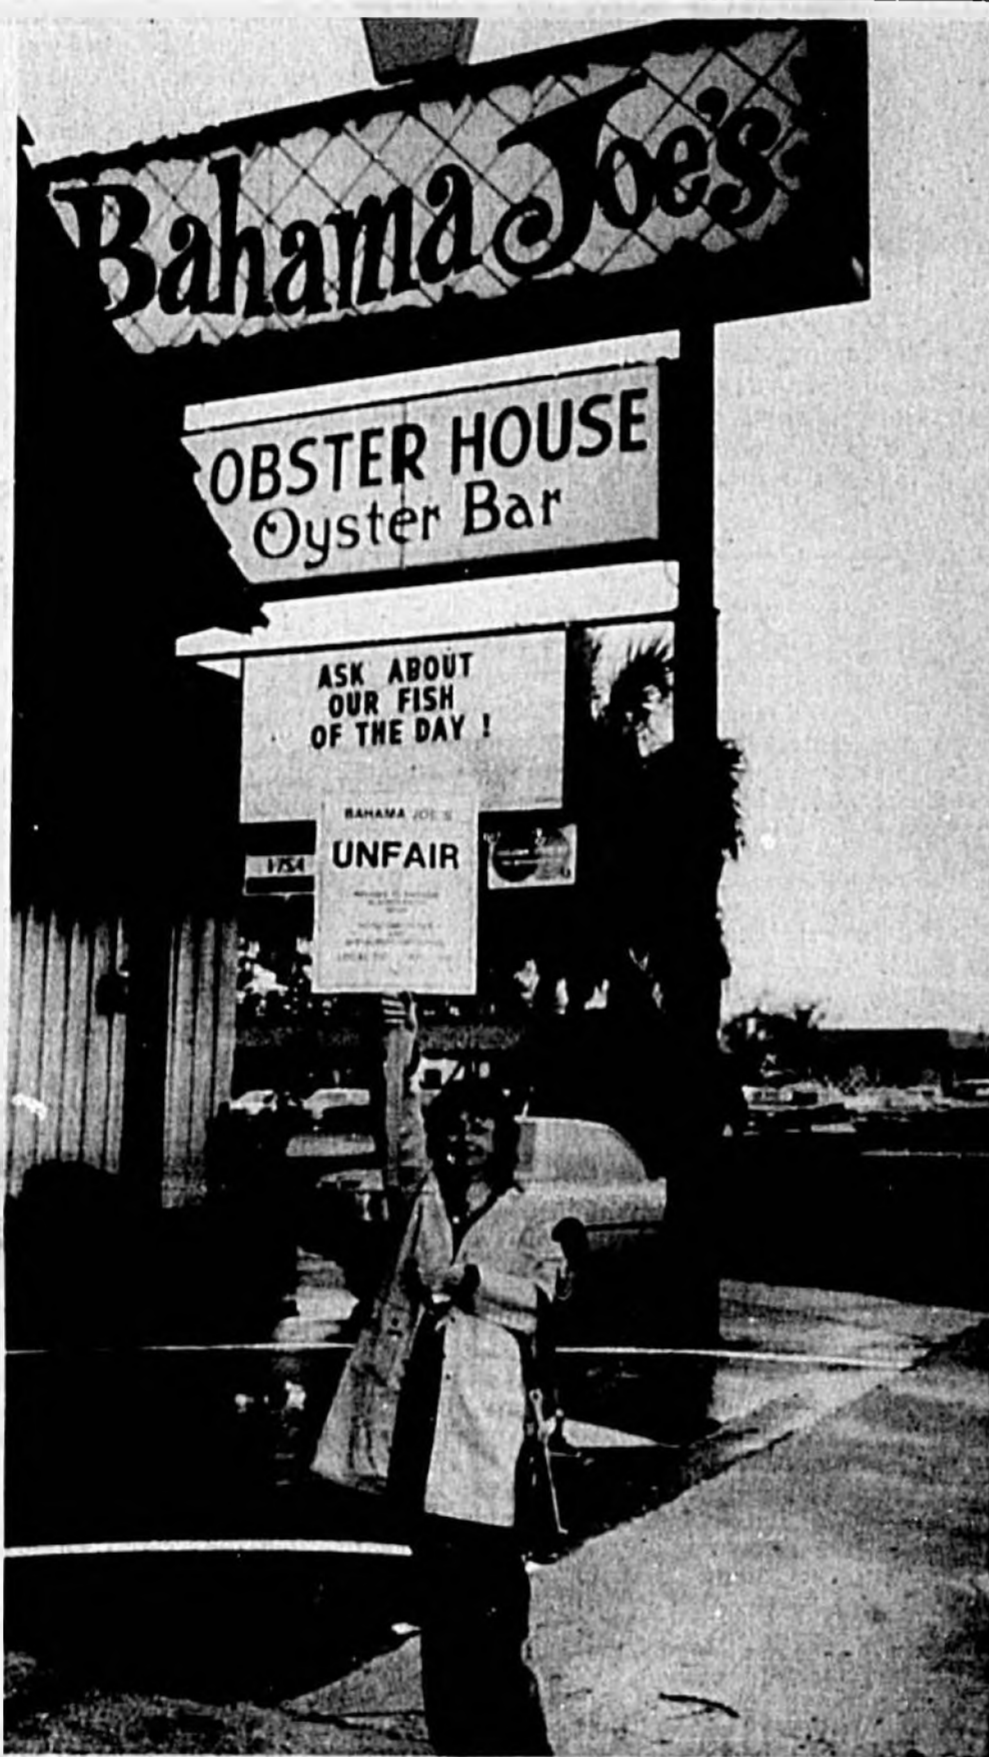

"All we want is for the Buckylys to return to the bargaining table and continue to bargain in good faith with the union," he said. "We will stay out there on the picket line as long as it takes."

Late last week, Dennis Buckley said an offer which could "not exceed the norm" had been made during negotiations.

Buckley refused to give details of the offer or the wage and benefit structure for the 60 or so employees at the restaurant.

"Basically, we are disagreeing over what they want and they are disagreeing over what we want," Buckley said. "They simply want more wages and benefits and we don't want to exceed the norm."

"We feel they are being paid commensurate with the rest of the restaurant workers in the area. We can't exceed the norm," he said.

Vikki Franks, a member of Hotel Employees and Restaurant Employees Local 737, walks the picket line outside Bahama Joe's Lobster House on French Avenue carrying signs declaring that the restaurant's owners refuse to bargain in good faith with the union. A union official has pledged to continue the picket line until the owners return to the bargaining table.

Lake Mary Commissioners Change Their Minds; Rescind Fire Truck Purchase

The emergency declared by the Lake Mary City Commission last Thursday night to waive its bid procedures to purchase a fire truck to fight brush fires was rescinded by the commission at a special meeting Monday evening.

The commission decided instead to: —Look into repairing the 27-year-old brush truck which broke down nearly two weeks ago.

—Instruct fire department volunteers to prepare specifications for a newer brush truck and then accept bids on those specifications.

Commissioner Ray Fox asked Mayor Walter Sorenson to call the special meeting because of his concern about waiving bid procedures and because a replacement truck to fight brush fires would take two weeks for delivery.

Fire Chief Jim Orloles said last week that a reconditioned military vehicle with six-wheel drive could be modified by the volunteers to serve the purpose. He said such a vehicle, some 20 years old, was available from Southeastern Equipment for $8,300.

If a brush truck were an absolute necessity for the city's fire department, Fox could not understand how the city could be without the use of one for two weeks while another was being ordered.

Fox questioned the city's mechanic, Ralph Locke, to determine whether the old truck, which had been loaned to the city by the Florida Forest Service more than 20 years ago, could be repaired temporarily.

Locke said it is possible that the truck might be repaired. He was instructed to examine the engine carefully to see if it could be fixed inexpensively. Sorenson told Locke the commission's motion meant that up to $1,000 could be spent on the repairs. "If it costs more, I'll call a special meeting and the commission will make a decision," the mayor said.

Locke said the truck most likely had a cracked head or a blown head gasket, and it would take a half day's work to determine which it is.

Commissioner Russ Megonegal said that replacing the old truck isn't going to get cheaper, the longer the city waits. Sorenson added that there comes a time when one should quit "pouring money down a rat hole."

Orloles earlier told the commission that in exchange for the Lake Mary department using the brush fire truck to assist the county fire department at fires, the county department offers equipment for use in fighting city fires.

He said the city truck has been taken as far as Geneva and almost to Altamonte Springs to fight forest fires.

Commissioner Burt Perinichief said by taking more time the city might be able to acquire a better piece of equipment. "Perhaps we can do some better shopping, if we are not too hasty," he said.

When it appeared that Fox was not persuading his colleagues to his way of thinking about repairing the old truck, he offered to pay the "cost out of my own pocket" for tearing down the engine to find the problem. Ultimately the commission agreed on a 4-1 vote with only Commissioner Charlie Lytle opposing.

After Orloles was instructed to prepare specifications for another truck, he said a "brand new" truck which the volunteers could modify would cost about $17,000.

And Fox said, "You're better off in many cases to spend a little more money."

Proposed LMHS Stadium On School Board Agenda

Lake Mary High School officials want to build a $200,000 stadium on campus, but they have to get permission from the Seminole County School Board first.

School officials want to build the 3,000-seat facility for sports events, band concerts and graduation ceremonies as well as an outdoor assembly hall for the school's students.

The stadium, part two of a three-part building program, calls for 3,000 permanent seats on the home side of the field. Portable bleachers which provided seating for about 2,000 people during the school's first season of varsity football competition, would be moved to the visitors' side.

But before the school can begin the ambitious project, school board members must give approval to the plan. It is scheduled for discussion at Wednesday's board meeting.

The first phase, construction of a concession stand, has already been approved by the board and building will begin soon, according to Assistant Principal Jay Stokes.

The third phase of the project will be construction of locker rooms, offices and storage space.

Stokes said the school's athletic boosters have raised about half of the necessary $200,000 for construction of the stadium. The booster club has been soliciting contributions from area businesses and individuals for more than a year. The other $100,000 will come from a loan to the boosters.

Stokes said he hopes the stadium can be completed before football season begins this September.

The school board will meet at 3:30 in the board's office at 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford. —Michael Beha

Sanford Will Go Green For St. Pat

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

March 17 will be a great day for the Irish in Sanford as the city goes all out again this year to pay honor to St. Patrick, patron saint of Ireland, with a parade through downtown.

Sons and daughters of the Emerald Isle (and would-be Irish) will gather at the parking lot of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce at 400 E. First St. at 3 p.m. for the pre-parade festivities. There will be plenty of free green beer and Kool-aid and snacks available and music and dancing.

Ed McGinnes will be on hand with his shillelagh to dub non-Irish "Irish for a day" and present them with green beads.

The event is sponsored by the city of Sanford and the chamber of commerce and is open to the public.

The parade is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. and will proceed west on First Street from the chamber to Oak Avenue; then north on Oak to Commercial Street and east on Commercial back to the chamber for more festivities.

Among those scheduled to participate in the parade are the Elks Motorcycle Unit, Dolly the Trolley and bagpipes. Grand Marshal John Kader will have James Wood as his personal piper.

Trophies will be awarded to the best units and costumes. All true Irish folks are being invited by the chamber to dress green for the occasion and to march or ride in the parade.

Ted Stone

Ted Stone has come to town. Ted who? Well, he's very well known in Raleigh, N.C., and likely as not he'll be pretty well known in Sanford by the time he leaves Wednesday.

Stone is a one-man crusade against the abuse of drugs and he knows what he is talking about. For this one-time preacher served time for attempted murder and seven armed robberies of convenience stores when he was high on amphetamines.

Stone, a burly 6 footer who wears a cross on a gold necklace like a talisman, is a fast talker in the best tradition of the reformed.

He is a convincing orator with an unshakable argument that drugs can kill and cause untold misery as the addict plumbs the depths of human degradation.

One of Stone's main planks of his convincing arguments against drugs is that the devastating effects of drugs creep up on the user who finds out what he thought could be controlled turns out uncontrollable.

He started taking amphetamines on his short-lived trip to the "big time" after he quit as a Baptist preacher in Raleigh about 10 years ago and went into business for himself.

He was a man in a hurry, eager, in his own words, to be a "big shot" so he willingly took a couple of amphetamines offered by a friend to keep him going. He was 33 years old and not an impressionable teenager, which makes his message even more urgent.

"I wanted to be a big shot. I was 33 years old when I became hooked. A well-meaning friend gave me a couple of amphetamines and I rationalized that it would not hurt anyone else. It made me feel free. I started out with two a day and by the end of six months I had worked up to six a day," said Stone.

Within 14 months of starting to take drugs, he had robbed seven convenience stores and was to shoot a man, nearly killing him, before being arrested and charged with attempted murder.

"About a year after taking them I started robbing convenience stores and jewelry shops for the thrill of it. I finally shot a man in a convenience store. He was 5 feet away from me and wouldn't give me the money."

"I was freaked out....." Stone breaks off at this part of the story as though trying to blot out the memory of the man crumpling before him as he squeezed the trigger.

It takes a few more questions to elicit the answer to the question: What were you thinking of when you fired at another human being?

Obviously struggling with the memory he replies: "I had no feelings of being sorry. I remember the .25-caliber automatic going off. I became obsessed with becoming a master criminal to make my mark. I did things for the thrill of it. He refused to give me the money. He kept smiling at me....."

"A speed freak is very nervous and if drugs have destroyed your mind you are not able to reason logically," added Stone.

Eight days later after the shooting of the convenience store owner in January 1971, Stone was arrested and charged with attempted murder and seven counts of armed robbery.

Happily for him, the convenience store owner did not die but Stone was to be sentenced to seven terms of 15-25 years imprisonment concurrently for the

$1 Billion Cut From House-Passed Jobs Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seeking to head off a possible veto from President Reagan, the Senate Appropriations Committee cut $1 billion worth of "pork" from the House's jobs bill and sent a $3.9 billion package to the full Senate.

The House approved a $4.9 billion bill last week. After that action, White House deputy press secretary Larry Speakes said Reagan would take a "close look" at the House bill and fight for one costing less. Reagan's original jobs program called for spending $4.3 billion.

A key committee aide said the bill might create up to 600,000 jobs.

The Senate committee, seeking to quiet charges much of the money was for "pork barrel" projects, voted to target $2 billion in areas of high joblessness. A third of the $2 billion would go to states based on how many people were out of work and a third would be distributed according to present law.

'Mrs. Burford Can Stay'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan, irritated by reports his aides want Environmental Protection Agency chief Anne Burford to resign, insists she may keep the job as long as she likes.

White House spokesman Larry Speakes made it clear Reagan has laid down the law to his aides to stop speculating in public about Mrs. Burford's future. "I think they understand," Speakes said.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., who chairs the House Energy and Commerce oversight subcommittee, plans to meet today with Justice Department officials to discuss procedures for turning over disputed EPA documents.

Dingell's subcommittee scheduled a private meeting this afternoon to interview more EPA employees testifying under subpoena. The panel is investigating charges that EPA allowed political favoritism and close business ties to influence its cleanup of toxic waste dumps around the country.

No-Nukes Vote Today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supporters of a nuclear weapons freeze mobilized their forces on Capitol Hill today, expressing confidence they can win key votes on a freeze resolution despite opposition from the Reagan administration.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, which has held several hearings on the issue, planned a vote on the freeze resolution, and supporters scheduled a rally on the steps of the Capitol.

The resolution, sponsored in the Senate by Sens. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., proposes a comprehensive nuclear weapons freeze with the Soviet Union, followed by substantial reductions in the nuclear arsenals on both sides.

The administration opposes the resolution, saying it would undermine U.S. defenses and efforts to negotiate a significant reduction in nuclear arms.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: Freezing temperatures and chilling winds whipped a 7-inch snowfall into a traveler's nightmare in a revival of winter in the Northern Plains but residents of West Virginia and Ohio enjoyed record high temperatures in the 70s and 80s. Coloradans had to dig out Monday from 2 feet of weekend snow in the midst of dangerous avalanche conditions in the mountains while Florida and Michigan residents had to contend with drenching rains. Up to 3 inches of rain caused street flooding in Tampa Bay, and rivers across the southern portion of the state rose to between 4 and 8 feet above flood stage. Heavy rains drenched Michigan and whirling winds ripped off a barn roof. Flint was pelted with hail 1 1/2 inches in diameter. North winds gusting to 40 mph churned up a 7-inch snowfall that blanketed North Dakota and temperatures plunged into the teens.

AREA FORECAST: Cloudy today with a 40 percent chance of showers or thunderstorms. Highs mostly mid 70s. Wind south to southwest 10 to 15 mph. Tonight continued cloudy with a 30 percent chance of showers. Lows mostly upper 50s. Wind mostly southwest near 10 mph. Wednesday mostly cloudy with a 30 percent chance of showers. Highs in the mid 70s.

BOATING FORECAST: St. Augustine to Jupiter Inlet out 50 miles — Wind south to southwest around 15 knots today and southwest to west 10 to 15 knots tonight becoming west to northwest 10 to 15 knots Wednesday. Seas 4 to 6 feet today and 3 to 5 feet tonight. Mostly cloudy with a few showers and chance of a thunderstorm through tonight.

 armed robberies, he served four years and three months of a prison term for the attempted murder and was released at the end of 1976 and paid his victim $4,000 compensation.

He spent the next few months in and out of psychiatric hospitals fighting the aftermath of his drug addiction.

His wife stood by him and his family life with three children managed to survive the severe strain.

"One way you can repay society is to help others avoid the mistakes I have made," says Stone, who started out his Drug Enlightenment Program about a year after leaving prison.

He now lectures on drug abuse all over the country and is greatly encouraged by the response to his warning over the abuse of drugs.

"I don't feel that it's hopeless. Some only learn the hard way but others do listen and they are learning that it is dumb to take drugs. I was dumb and I made some bad choices and I paid the price," he said.

Stone said that he was impressed by the number of young people who had approached him to ask what they could do to help their friends on drugs.

And he had a word of advice for parents: "I try to urge parents after they have found out a child has taken drugs to sit down and talk with them and then to trust them again. To me for the child to feel trusted is very important. Trust works miracles," said Stone.

Miracle or not, Stone's crusade has helped some youngsters realize the dangers of drug-taking and will help many more.

He was invited to speak in Sanford by Deputy Chief Duane Harrell of Seminole County Sheriff's Department, who had heard him speak in Leesburg.

"There is a drug problem in Seminole County as there is everywhere else today. I think he has a story to tell and I think everyone should hear it. In nearly 30 years in law enforcement I have heard a lot about drugs. Ted Stone has the best, most comprehensive testimony on drugs I have heard. As a law enforcement officer I think he has a message," said Harrell, who is a deacon at the Lake Mary Church of the Nazarene.

Stone, who has appeared at a number of churches and functions since his arrival in Sanford on Wednesday, will speak Wednesday at 7 a.m. at a Sanford Rotary Breakfast at Sanford Airport Restaurant, followed at noon by a talk to the Sanford Kiwanis Club at Sanford Civic Center and a 7 p.m. talk at the Longwood Church of the Nazarene in Longwood.

'Quincy' Has Nothing On The Gang At The Sanford Crime Lab

The Sanford Crime Lab had its busiest year yet in 1982, with 9,406 reports issued to law enforcement agencies.

This represents a 33 per cent increase over 1981 when 7,082 reports were issued to agencies in the 29 counties for which the lab undertakes forensic investigations of crimes.

"This is the greatest number of reports we have issued and I am very proud of the staff that we were also able to reduce our backlog of cases by 57 per cent," said crime lab director Claude Trubey.

At the end of 1981, there was a backlog of 948 cases, Trubey said, adding that the number had been reduced to 407 by the end of 1982.

The Sanford Crime Lab far outstripped the three other labs in the state, Trubey said. The Jacksonville facility was a distant second, issuing 4,905 reports; 3,262 reports came out of the lab in Tallahassee, while the Pensacola crime lab issued 2,152 reports.

A large number of the cases handled by the Sanford lab involved the chemical analysis of drugs, Trubey said.

BURGLARY PROBED

The Sanford Police Department is continuing its investigation of a Friday burglary at the home of Dennis R. Lambert, 2826 Central Drive.

Removed from the home was a rabbit coat, a gold chain, diamond ring, $250 in cash, a portable color television set and a cassette tape recorder.

'PIGNAPPING' REPORTED

A Geneva man told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that two pigs, weighing about 100 pounds each, were taken from a pen behind his house and slaughtered.

Raymond Permaul, 50, of 1200 Old Mims Road, said the pigs were killed in the pen, dragged about 75 feet and field dressed. Permaul said the pigs were stolen between 6 a.m. and 6 p.m. Friday.

CHURCH OFFICE RAIDED

A burglar smashed a window in the pastor's office on the east side of the First Baptist Church Education Building, South Park Avenue, Sanford, but nothing was stolen. The break-in happened between 8:30 p.m. Monday and 12:38 a.m. Tuesday.

FBI Given Freer Hand To Spy On Americans

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General William French Smith says new FBI guidelines governing surveillance of domestic groups supporting violent social change may trigger investigations of those merely advocating criminal acts.

Smith approved the new rules Monday, making it easier for the FBI to open probes of domestic groups advocating violence to further social or political goals.

He said the rules would not trigger an investigation of someone who is exercising his constitutional rights to free speech. But a person advocating a criminal act or making statements that "create an apparent intent to commit a crime could trigger an investigation."

"If someone threatens to kill the president, that is something we certainly would have to look into," Smith told reporters. "And in the guidelines here we have clarified that point."

The rules, to go into effect on March 21, replace 1976 guidelines issued by Attorney General Edward Levi following disclosures the FBI engaged in widespread spying on Americans in the civil rights and anti-war movements in the 1960s and 1970s.

John Hotis, a top FBI official, discounted concerns that the guidelines will allow the FBI again to spy on Americans exercising their constitutional rights.

"We don't infiltrate political groups," Hotis said. "We infiltrate criminal groups under these guidelines."

But the American Civil Liberties Union and a Democratic congressman immediately attacked the rules, arguing the FBI may now be allowed to open a full-scale investigation based on a person's statements.

"Unless narrowed or clarified, the FBI may slide back into the business of monitoring those who engage in merely heated debate or advocate unpopular activity," ACLU official Jerry Berman said in a statement.

Smith said the new guidelines clarify the scope of FBI probes into domestic groups advocating violence to achieve political or social change.

"These new guidelines will clarify the standards governing these investigations and reaffirm the importance of gathering criminal intelligence about violence-prone groups, while retaining adequate protections for lawful and peaceful political dissent," he said.

Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., said he was concerned because the guidelines permit the FBI to launch an investigation based solely on what a person advocates.

"The Supreme Court has made it clear that mere advocacy is not enough to warrant a prosecution, yet the FBI wants to investigate speech if such investigations cannot result in prosecution, then what purpose can they serve other than to chill legitimate First Amendment activity," he said.

Agent Orange Congress Readies Compensation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than a decade after Agent Orange was used to defoliate Vietnam battlefields, an effort is under way on Capitol Hill to compensate some veterans exposed to the herbicide.

The Veterans Administration maintains there is no conclusive proof Agent Orange caused any long-term health problems, but Rep. Thomas Daschle, D-S.D., believes there is enough evidence to warrant some presumptive relief.

Daschle, with the backing of the 2.6 million-member American Legion and the 1.9 million-member Veterans of Foreign Wars, today planned to introduce his bill that is expected to draw more than 100 sponsors, aides said.

Under the measure, "presumptive compensation" of up to $1,200 a year would be paid to an estimated 3,000 vets who have one of three illnesses that have a "strong correlation" with the herbicide, an Daschle aide said.

The illnesses are a liver disorder, a skin condition and a soft-tissue cancer.

Overall, nearly 16,000 vets have requested compensation for a bevy of conditions they contend were caused by Agent Orange, ranging from impaired sexual activity and headaches to hypertension and paralysis.

This past January, under pressure from veteran groups and members of Congress, the government announced that the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta would conduct a $3 million study on the effects of Agent Orange.

Results are not expected for several

Daschle said his measure, which could later be expanded to cover other illnesses, would initially cost the government up to $4 million a year in additional compensation costs.

Agent Orange contains dioxin, the same chemical that poisoned the town of Times Beach, Mo. The government recently offered to buy the homes of the residents in order to help the people move out.

Daschle, in a statement prepared for delivery on the House floor, said:

"If the government is willing to accept the responsibility for Times Beach, it has even more of a responsibility to provide compensatory relief to veterans it was directly responsible for exposing to the very same chemical in Vietnam."

James Currie, commander-in-chief of the VFW, in testimony prepared for delivery today before the House and Senate veterans affairs committee, lobbied for Daschle's measure.

"I urge the early consideration and all possible support for Mr. Daschle's new bill," he said. "It is easy for those not affected to say wait, but our Vietnam veterans whose lives are affected can wait no longer."

Al Keller Jr., national commander of the American Legion, said in a statement:

"It is now high time that Congress take up the issue of compensating these veterans."

IN BRIEF

Slowdown Suggested For 'Save Our Coasts' Project

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A citizen's task force investigating Gov. Bob Graham's "Save Our Coasts" program says the Cabinet should sell another $25 million in bonds, spend the money, then bring the program to a temporary halt.

The remaining $150 million in bonds proposed by Graham to raise money to buy beaches should not be sold until the implementation of recommendations by House Appropriations Chairman Herb Morgan, the group said Monday. Morgan's recommendations - intended to make sure the state can retire all of the bonds it sells - include a new look at whether the documentary stamp tax will produce the $30 million a year in payments that will be necessary once all $200 million of the bonds proposed by Graham have been issued.

The Cabinet will consider the committee's findings March 15.

Stano Confesses...Again

STARKE (UPI) — The man who may be the most prolific mass murderer in U.S. history pleaded guilty Monday to his fourth, fifth and sixth murders and was immediately given three more sentences of life in prison.

Gerald Stano, 31, a former Ormond Beach short-order cook, has confessed to killing 34 women between 1969 and 1980, all but two of them in Florida.

On Monday, Stano, who already was serving life sentences at nearby Florida State Prison for the murders of three Daytona Beach-area women, entered guilty pleas in the deaths of three 17-year-old girls.

The state previously agreed not to seek the death penalty.

Stano, a native of New Jersey, still faces charges of murdering at least two dozen other women in various counties across central Florida.

Court Gives Police New Immunity

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Police officers who lie on the witness stand to help convict a criminal are absolutely immune from paying damages to the person for claims the perjury violated his civil rights, the Supreme Court has ruled.

The justices, splitting 6-3 in an Indiana case, said Monday afternoon a convicted state defendant may not use a post-Civil War federal civil rights law to win money damages from police officers for alleged perjury at trial.

Justice John Paul Stevens wrote for the majority that while "some defendants might indeed be unjustly convicted on the basis of knowingly false testimony by police officers," that danger is outweighed by the broader public interest in stopping a flood of lawsuits against police by disgruntled criminals.

Stevens also said that opening police officers to such federal liability "might undermine not only their contribution to the judicial process but also the effectiveness of their other public duties."

In other actions Monday before beginning a two-week recess, the justices:

—Upheld, 7-2, an environmental ruling bolstering the federal government's power to acquire huge tracts of land for wildlife refuges.

—Voting 9-0, exposed the government to the threat of lawsuits over building defects overlooked by federal inspectors in government-financed homes.

—Refused to block a Florida court ruling that gives custody of a 5-year-old girl to her natural father. The girl's mother claimed she was being denied custody because she had married a black.

—Agreed to decide in a drug possession case whether police need a search warrant before subjecting a suspected illicit substance to an on-the-spot chemical test.

—Turned down, for the fourth time, a case aimed at settling the legal confusion over at what point insurance companies are liable for claims against asbestos companies.

In the perjury case, the high court extended to police officers the same protection from suit under the Reconstruction-era law previously given to judges, prosecutors and others performing official judicial functions.

However, police still may be sued under the law — the 1871 Ku Klux Klan Act — for certain acts other than perjury that violate a person's rights.

Justices Thurgood Marshall, William Brennan and Harry Blackmun dissented.

The perjury dispute was brought to the high court by three men who wanted federal trials in lawsuits against two Indiana police officers.

One case was brought by Carlisle Briscoe, convicted in Bloomington, Ind., in 1976 with burglarizing a house trailer. His conviction later was overturned because of insufficient evidence.

Briscoe then filed suit against Bloomington police officer Martin LaHue, claiming LaHue testified falsely about a fingerprint found at the scene of the crime.

A federal district judge threw out Briscoe's suit in 1978 and the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld that decision, agreeing with LaHue's argument that as a public official testifying in court he is entitled to absolute immunity from civil rights suits.

The other case was an appeal by Chris Vickers and James Ballard, who sued Cedar Lake police Sgt. James Hunley. They claimed Hunley testified falsely at their sexual assault trial.

Synthetic Hormones Are Linked To Early Puberty

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ten thousand to 15,000 American children annually develop "precocious puberty," the premature manifestation of adult sexual traits, it was reported.

Mother Jones magazine, published in San Francisco, reported synthetic hormones used in cosmetics and food may be connected to the early development of puberty in children age 9 and younger.

"These children — girls under the age of 8 and boys under 9 — show signs of sexual maturity, including enlarged breasts, menstruation, growth of pubic hair and enlarged testes," the article said.

"These changes are often accompanied by such burdens of adolescence as body odor and acne. Sexual development has even been seen in 6-month-old babies," it said.

The magazine reported that some scientists believe the condition is inherited.

Doctors have reported that children who are sensitive to sex steroids and synthetic hormones have shown signs of premature sexual development after exposure to pills, lotions and cosmetics containing hormones.

Researchers are hesitant to say the syndrome is affecting more children each year, but Dr. Felix Conte, a pediatric endocrinologist at the University of California in San Francisco, told the magazine, "Now that we're doing research on the subject, I'm seeing a lot more patients with symptoms."

Mother Jones also said that scientists are looking into suggestions precocious puberty might be linked to hormones approved by the Food and Drug Administration that are used to fatten cattle, pigs and poultry.

Investigators suspect the use of diethylstilbestrol, a hormone known as DES and banned by the government in 1979 because it was linked to cancer, is related to an outbreak of breast enlargement in Italian children in 1977 and 1978, the magazine said.

IN BRIEF

Police Searching For Kidnapped Texaco Exec

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Police today checked fingerprints found on an abandoned getaway car to determine the identities of gunmen who kidnapped Texaco oil executive Kenneth S. Bishop.

By late Monday, no group or guerrilla organization had claimed responsibility for the kidnapping and the slayings of Bishop's two bodyguards.

Bishop, who is married and the father of three children, is the 70th person currently in the hands of kidnapers in Colombia. He is the latest victim of a rash of kidnappings since Jan. 1.

Bishop's car was ambushed in a fashionable residential area in the north of the capital, about 1.5 miles from his offices, where he serves as head of Operations and Exploration for Texaco in Colombia.

Blast Kills 67 Miners

ANKARA, Turkey (UPI) — Two deep underground explosions triggered rockfalls that killed 67 miners and injured 86 others in a coal mine in northern Turkey, the provincial governor said.

A total of 223 coal workers trapped in the Armutcuik mine near the Black Sea town of Ereğli were freed in a seven-hour operation Monday.

The rescue was called off at midnight Monday but resumed an hour later to double-check the whereabouts of 30 other miners, said Galip Demirel, governor of Zonguldak province.

Doctors said the death toll, which stood at 67 late Monday, could go higher. Of the 86 injured, about 30 were in serious condition. The severely injured were airlifted to a hospital in Istanbul, about 125 miles west of the accident scene.

Missile Development Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A classified Air Force study looking ahead to the 21st Century urges development of antiballistic missiles based in space and raises the possibility that a nuclear war might not destroy the superpowers.

Titled "Air Force 2000: Air Power Entering the 21st Century," the document was prepared at the direction of the former Air Force chief of staff, Gen. Lew Allen, and completed in June. The Air Force "conservatively estimated" several hundred military and civilian personnel contributed to it.

Taking a leaf from a secret Pentagon paper drawn up a year ago, the Air Force document sets a war-winning goal for the United States in the event of a "massive exchange" of nuclear weapons, including denying the Soviet Union "or other nuclear-armed nations the ability to coerce an unfavorable settlement."

The U.S. objective, the document stated, should be to retain enough offensive nuclear capability after the onset of a war to ensure destruction of Soviet strategic and army forces.

The Air Force study predicts 11 nations will join the six that now possess nuclear weapons by the end of this century: Pakistan, Iraq, Libya, Taiwan, South Korea, West Germany, Japan, Israel, South Africa, Brazil and Argentina.

The "nuclear club" now includes the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain, France, China and India.

"Shifting alliances, ideological pressures, the reduced utility of previously formidable weapons, an explosion in technologies associated with avionics and data processing and the potential of the medium of space are examples of forces that must be comprehended and adapted to."

The study is based on the following basic assumptions, mostly optimistic:

—A "general war," which would have "incalculable" effects, will not erupt this century, although "this does not mean that superpowers could not find themselves in confrontation."

—There will be no worldwide disarmament.

—There will be no worldwide economic collapse.

—No technological breakthrough will be made "that unexpectedly provides any power with the 'ultimate' intimidation or killing mechanism."

The Air Force document urges preparations for a nuclear conflict with the Soviets within the framework of the secret "Fiscal Year 1984-1988 Defense Guidance," the Reagan administration's blueprint for rearming America that calls for winning an extended nuclear war.

"Should deterrence fail and strategic nuclear war with the U.S.S.R. occur," the Pentagon document said, "the United States must prevail and be able to force the Soviet Union to seek earliest termination of hostilities on terms favorable to the United States."

The Air Force summary paper does not delve into details about fighting a nuclear war, but poses the possibility of massive nuclear exchanges and "the protracted phase of the conflict," while stressing the need for the United States to emerge in control of events.

It urges the development of space-based weapons that would help ensure the survival of the National Command Authority and its ability to direct the outcome of a nuclear war once it has begun.

Reagan To Tell Conservatives That He's Still One Of Them

ORLANDO (UPI) — Using futuristic Walt Disney World as a backdrop, President Reagan hoped to use a brief trip to Central Florida today to promote economic growth through high technology and reassure conservatives he has not deserted them.

The main event on Reagan's schedule was an address to the 41st annual convention of the National Association of Evangelicals, the latest in a series of moves by the president to reaffirm his ties to the political right.

But before touting tuition tax credits and prayer in schools, Reagan planned to use the surroundings of Walt Disney World's $1 billion EPCOT Center to offer his own views on the future and an economy in transition.

The 260-acre EPCOT (Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow) was built as a showcase for innovation and Reagan was to join 500 junior and senior high school students — selected for their proficiency in math and science — in viewing a presentation covering three centuries of American progress.

The underlying theme, drawn from Reagan's Jan. 25 State of the Union address, was to be the need for a new national commitment to math and science education to help exploit the economic potential of high technology.

It is a topic Reagan has mentioned repeatedly over the last six weeks and one he has offered as a partial response to high unemployment caused, in part, by the deterioration of basic industries.

Reagan, after first cutting aid to math and science education, has proposed increased funding for fiscal 1984 and in recent statements about high unemployment has called for "training today's work force for tomorrow's jobs."

The 3.5 million-member association, in claiming to represent the broad range of evangelism, positions itself somewhere between the mainline churches and the new religious right, which gave Reagan strong support in the 1980 election.

White House aides viewed the speech to the evangelicals as another opportunity for Reagan to trumpet social issues that conservatives accused him of shunting aside during his first two years in office, when budget and tax matters dominated his relations with Congress.

NOTICE OF SCHOOL BOARD ACTION

The Seminole County School Board has received input from principals and parents and at the regular meeting on March 23, 1983, will act on the Superintendent's recommendation to adjust elementary zone lines between Wekiva Elementary, Bear Lake Elementary and Forest City Elementary. Adjustment will involve the change of schools for approximately 150 students attending these schools. Also the board will adjust the zone lines of Red Bug Elementary, Eastbrook Elementary, Lawton Elementary and Sterling Park Elementary in order to create the attendance zone of the new Allan F. Keeth Elementary School. These zone line adjustments will involve a change of school attendance for approximately 500 students. All changes are to be effective with the opening of school for the 1983-84 school year. Plans to be considered will be available after March 9 at the Administration Offices at 1211 Mellonville Avenue, Sanford, Florida.

Violence Haunts Gandhi's India

Women's bodies littering fields, beheaded children, old people struck down on roads. These are among the 3,500 victims of anti-moslem riots that began Feb. 18 in Assam, in the northeast corner of India.

The killing of moslem refugees by predominantly Hindu Assamese marks the worst sectarian violence since the bloody partition of India in 1947.

In gaining independence from Britain, India was divided into predominantly Moslem Pakistan—which later subdivided into Pakistan and Bangladesh—and predominantly Hindu India.

Rivers of dislocated people flowed, and roads were choked with the bodies of tens of thousands of victims of religious violence.

Now the roads are crowded with Moslem families fleeing sword-wielding Hindu marauders.

The hostility between ethnic groups is ancient, but the pretext for the raids was a state election. Hindu students angry at the influx of moslem refugees from Bangladesh wanted them disenfranchised from voting, as illegal aliens.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, whose Congress Party stood to gain from the election, ordered it to go on.

The Assamese rioted, raiding Moslem villages while the men were gone in the fields, and butchered helpless women, children and old people. Mrs. Gandhi sent troops to quell the riots—which continue to flare up sporadically—and later toured the region.

When asked by a reporter if she had moral responsibility, she replied: "Why should we? It is the agitators who are responsible. They may not like the elections, but do they have the right to stop them?"

People who have seen the film "Gandhi" can recognize the scenes of religious slaughter today as repeating such scenes in the movie.

They may wonder what the father of Indian independence and proponent of nonviolent resistance would have done. Gandhi was assassinated in 1948 by a Hindu zealot who opposed his campaign to reconcile Hindus and Moslems. From the beginning of his struggle for independence, Gandhi dreamed of one India: "Moslem and Hindu are the right and left eyes of India."

When anti-British rioting broke out, Gandhi halted his campaign of non-cooperation and fasted until the killing stopped. He said: "An eye for an eye only makes the whole world blind."

And again, after the British left, when religious rioting broke out in India, Gandhi fasted to the brink of death, until rioters laid down their swords.

In the film, a desperate Hindu who avenged the killing of his son by dashing a Moslem baby against a wall asked Gandhi what to do. Gandhi replied: "I know a way out of your hell. Find a child whose mother and father were killed, a boy who was born a Moslem, and raise him as one."

Gandhi died before he could stop the religious killings. But his teachings may offer the only path toward reconciliation between Moslems and Hindus.

Mrs. Gandhi, the daughter of Gandhi's protegee and India's first prime minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, faces the challenge of reconciling the idealistic India of Gandhi and the nightmarish India of Assam.

India, already suffering hunger, must not doom itself to the blindness of religious intolerance.

BERRY'S WORLD

REGULAR CIGARETTES:

ULTRA-LOW-TAR CIGARETTES:

By Sam Cook

Covering the Seminole High School baseball team has become a painful experience...literally.

The Seminoles have lost four games in a row, which in itself isn't much fun, but when they start taking out their frustrations on a poor sports writer, they've gone too far.

While covering Friday's game from my usual perch (a lawn chair atop a picnic table in Wes Rinker's panoramic celebrity area at Memorial Stadium), my life, or at least my leg, was threatened.

It was about the fourth inning and Seminole was losing. Coach Bobby Lundquist sent three or four players down the right-field line to warm up. Knowing a couple of the youngsters from past years, I should have been leery. Especially of Chris Colon, since he's left-handed and none of those guys who throw with the wrong hand ever exhibit much control. Since the area is surrounded by a fence about eight feet high, I felt pretty safe.

Anyway, I was sitting in the plush area keeping my scorebook with another gentleman from another paper. Although he doesn't normally write sports, he seems to have a lot of time on his hands and he was taking in the game.

All of a sudden, the lower part of my right leg seemed like it was no longer there. It had been replaced by a searing pain. I immediately yelled for Tribe trainer James "Doc" Terwilliger to come to my aid. He asked for my student I.D. card, however, and when I couldn't produce it, he went back to the dugout.

Seminole athletic director Jerry Posey then wandered by to express his concern and I immediately told him the high school better have a good lawyer ready after my leg is amputated.

Posey just laughed and told me to see Mr. Rinker.

After uttering a few profanities and now understanding how this team could lose four games in a row, I started to search for the culprit. I didn't want to charge him or anything, I just needed a name for future reference.

When I found out it was catcher Steve Dennis, I began plotting my revenge. No longer would it be, the final run scored on a passed ball. No, it would be, the final run scored on a passed ball by catcher Steve Dennis who also struck out three times and hit into a double play.

The fact that a player who hasn't exactly been Hank Aaron at the plate this year would hit a sports writer is beyond belief. Come on Steve, you need help, not hindrance.

And another thing I couldn't understand. That gentleman next to me presents a much bigger target, so why did you hit me?

Presidency Seekers: A Sorry Lot

NEW YORK (NEA) — I will, of course, plead guilty to political bias on the subject, but isn't the array of Democratic presidential candidates just about the sorriest, most bedraggled crowd you ever saw?

Fritz Mondale is the front-runner, according to the media. Somebody wrote me a letter in which he said that Mondale reminded him of "the sun shining on a vacant lot." I wish I had said that. Mondale seems a decent enough fellow, but he hasn't got enough leadership qualities to lead a Boy Scout troop to the dinner table. And can't you just see him bargaining sternly with Andropov?

John Glenn, who hasn't officially declared his candidacy yet, is made of much tougher material. He is the candidate to whom the Democratic convention may well turn if Mondale doesn't wrap up the nomination by winning the lion's share of the primaries. But Glenn has all the charisma of a pet rock, and no amount of lessons to improve his speaking style can alter that dispiriting fact.

Alan Cranston is three and a half years younger than Ronald Reagan, but looks easily 10 years older — not exactly an advantage, if Reagan is the opponent and the Democrats want to get a little mileage out of the age issue. Gary Hart, on the other hand, is only 45, which might be considered a bit young for the presidency, though not without its historical precedents. Hart's biggest problem, however, is the fact that he served as campaign manager for George McGovern's presidential bid in 1972 — a datum that calls into serious question Hart's basic judgment.

The rest of the Democratic line-up, declared and undeclared — Askew, Hollings and Bumpers — run the gamut from inconsequence to anonymity.

Do these lackluster souls all seriously think they can beat Ronald Reagan? Of course not, but that's not quite the point. In the first place, if the Democrats are really lucky, Reagan may decide not to run again.

In the second place, though Mondale and one or two of the others may be in earnest about wanting the 1984 nomination, most of the Democratic candidates are rather obviously out to acquire a little national name recognition in preparation for a more serious effort in 1988. And even Mondale, in seeking the 1984 nomination, is undoubtedly aware of the precedent set by New York Gov. Thomas Dewey in 1944. The Republicans had to nominate somebody to run against FDR that year, even though the country was in the midst of World War II and in no mood to sideline its longtime president at that delicate juncture. Dewey took on the assignment, and discharged it with dignity — a service for which the GOP rewarded him with a second nomination in 1948, under far more promising circumstances. Mondale, too, therefore, may in a sense really have his eye on 1988.

DOE Official's Relationship Probed

The Washington lobbyist for a Department of Energy contractor has been traveling to industry conferences with a woman who happens to be a DOE official. Questions about the propriety of their relationship have been raised in two separate federal investigations.

The lobbyist is Walter Flowers, a former Alabama congressman, who once chaired an energy subcommittee. He is now vice president in charge of government relations for Wheelabrator-Frye Inc., a reputable conglomerate that recently merged with Signal Companies. Wheelabrator-Frye has a single contract with DOE to design a demonstration plant in Kentucky to produce synthetic fuel from coal.

The multimillion-dollar contract barely survived the Reagan administration budget cuts last year. Wheelabrator-Frye, which had already spent $131 million of DOE money, was allowed an additional $55 million in closeout costs.

Flowers' traveling companion is Beverly Burns, who is deputy director of DOE's congressional liaison office. She

Patients Carry beepers

By Sharon Rutenberg

NORTHBROOK, Ill. (UPI) — Patients at a health care center in a suburban shopping mall carry the electronic beepers — not the doctors.

Instead of sitting in the waiting room, patients of The Doctors of Northbrook Court can shop at Neiman-Marcus or meet a friend for lunch in the fashionable mall along Chicago's North Shore.

Patients stick the small, lightweight pager into their purse or clip it onto their clothing. When they hear a "beep beep," they know it's time to head back to see the doctor.

"The reason for the beepers is to show people that we respect the value of their time so much that if there should be a wait for reasons beyond our control, that they are free to take a personal pager, wander throughout the mall and do an errand so we can page them," marketing coordinator Jane Stein said.

"We don't want anyone to have to wait. We try very diligently to avoid waiting."

The paging system is part of the "convenient medical care" provided by the walk-in private facility, she said. "The very fact that we carry them provides a message — a very caring attitude. And the doctors are really reaching out to the patients."

But sometimes "days on end go by where we don't use them at all. Just the fact that they're here shows that we're so accommodating to our patients," Ms. Stein said.

The facility's staff also uses the six beepers, in case they step out or go to lunch within the mall.

Patients usually are gone between 10 minutes and a half hour before their beeper goes off.

"People are planning their visits so they can get an errand done, perhaps purchase a gift or buy a cup of coffee at a local restaurant," she said. "They look forward to the extra time."

Pagers even are given out to patients' companions.

One patient came with her teenage son who wanted to shop for new athletic shoes.

"She wanted him to take the pager, so she could page her son when she was done. She didn't want her son wandering aimlessly throughout the mall," Ms. Stein said.

"It accommodated the patient's need. She needed to know she could find her son as soon as she was ready to leave."

Ms. Stein believes they are the first in the nation to provide beepers for patients.

"To our knowledge, we are indeed the first," Ms. Stein said. "We've had a warm, wonderful response from many health centers across the country about the pager system."

The facility opened last Oct. 4.

"Way, way early in our conception, the wife of the entrepreneur suggested it," Ms. Stein said, referring to Diane Burman, wife of executive director Dr. Sheldon Burman.

"And I think it's important that the suggestion came from a woman who is a working woman with a family herself and very cognizant of her time and how it is spent."

"Anyone who has spent time in a waiting room can empathize with that aggravation ... being misused. They resent the waste of their time or the lack of respect for it that is shown by having to wait for so long."

"People have actually come in here and told us about 1 1/2-to-2 hour waits. And because of those long waiting times, they have decided to change doctors based on that alone."

"And they find that intolerable. People simply won't cope with that anymore," she said. "It's just against our basic philosophy to make people wait at all."

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

LONDON, England—While Britain has a strong conservative government, leftism is deeply entrenched in the country's churches and intellectual establishment.

I was reminded of this by a sign officials of St. Mary's Anglican Church, Piccadilly, posted on the iron fence outside the church. It was captioned "Karl Marx and the Beatitudes" and read "The Sermon on the Mount seems to be opposed to everything Marx stood for—but is this really so?" People were invited to come to the church and hear a talk by Irene Brennan, who was described as "Roman Catholic Secretary of the Religious Advisory Committee of the Communist Party of Great Britain."

This sign was an indication that trendy churchmen in Britain don't hesitate to allow headline leftists to use their churches for political action.

This anti-deterrence, unilateral disarmament movement seems to be the principal interest of many churchmen, though the Church of England has rejected unilateralism for the time being. If one goes into churches in London, one finds a variety of anti-defense pamphlets. Publications of the Peace Pledge Union, for example, are available in churches. They condemn Britain's expenditures on defense and ask: "Why shouldn't we spend that money on helping children?" Organizations such as this ignore the fact that protecting young Britons against totalitarianism is a humanitarian effort.

The situation in the universities also gives cause for concern. In late January, the Manchester Guardian, which favors Left causes, published a long letter to the editor by V.L. Allen, professor of industrial society in Yorkshire. It was captioned "Why the U.S. is More Of A Threat Than The Soviet Union."

In his letter, Prof. Allen complained about the linking of the peace movement to "the human rights issue in the socialist countries." He dismissed the Moscow Group of Trust, a group of Russians who raise human rights issues in the USSR. He spoke of "traveling freely throughout all the main areas of the Soviet Union" and finding the Soviets preoccupied with bettering educational facilities, disease prevention.

This statement is in conflict with the fact that much of the USSR is closed to foreigners and that even in open areas virtually every visitor must be accompanied by an official guide. As for the image of the USSR concentrating on humane activities this argument runs into the hard fact that the Soviets are waging war in Afghanistan and employing a poison gas.

Prof. Allen makes plain where his sympathies lie. He says he is "convinced that the Soviet Union is sincere in its effort to reduce world tension; that it is insane to bracket that country with the U.S. as a threat to world peace." Yuri Andropov, the Soviet leader, he describes as concerned with peace, while he cites what he calls "the belligerence" of President Reagan and Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

quiet investigation of his relationship with Burns. So are investigators for the DOE and the U.S. Synthetic Fuels Corporation. Their questions are basic:

Did Burns give Flowers inside information about DOE? Did Wheelabrator-Frye unwittingly pay any of Burns' hotel or travel expenses, which would be against government rules? Was she on official leave of absence on all her trips with Flowers? Was it wise for her, as a federal employee, to appear with a federal contractor at conferences aimed at promoting synthetic-fuel development by the government?

The chief lobbying organization for synfuels is the National Council on Synthetic Fuels Production; Flowers was its first chairman and is now a board member. It is Burns' attendance at the council's semiannual meetings that is being investigated.

Flowers admitted that Burns was with him at the council's meeting at the Basin Harbor Yacht Club in Vergennes, Vt., last October. He denies they were together at last April's meeting in Palm Springs, Calif., or at the San Francisco meeting in February 1981. But eyewitnesses place Burns at both meetings.

Although Burns and Flowers insist that she always paid her own way, sources charge that Flowers billed Wheelabrator-Frye—without the company's knowledge—for some of Burns' expenses, including double-occupancy rooms.

WHIRLWIND TOUR: To shivering constituents, a congressional investigation to Sun Belt spots in the middle of the winter often carries the taint of that dreaded word, "junket." But five House members looking into the drug traffic took no chances last month. In recognition that time on the ground can be grounds for suspicion, their breathtaking itinerary went like this: to Key West for a two-hour stopover; to Miami for two days of hearings, then back to Washington.

The non-junketing quintet were Reps. Glenn English, D-Okla.; Edolphus Towns, D-N.Y.; Buddy MacKay, D-Fla.; Dan Daniel, D-Va.; and Thomas Kindness, R-Ohio. The State and Defense Departments paid for their trip.

UCF Recruiting Knocks Down Door For Johnson, Poor

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

The University of Central Florida didn't exactly break down the recruiting door this year for Seminole County football players — but first-year head coach Lou Saban does feel he landed two pretty good ones.

Oviedo's all-county, all-conference and third-team all-state linebacker Tommy Johnson will join the Knights this fall along with Lyman's all-county and all-conference tight end and punter John Poor. Sanford's Vince Edwards returns for his sophomore year as a defensive back to make up the county trio.

Johnson is on a full-ride scholarship while Poor is on a partial, "with a chance to get a lot more," said receiver coach Tod Goodyear. Saban and Goodyear feel both have a chance to move right in and play or maybe start right away.

"Johnson has good size and height and he's going to get bigger," points out Goodyear, the only holdover coach from last year. Goodyear, whose been with the program since its infancy as a player or a coach, sees Johnson as a possible replacement for departed linebacker Billy Giovanetti, a four-year starter for the Knights.

"Tommy's got a lot bigger frame than Giovanetti had but he's not as quick," said Goodyear. "Both of them like to hit you which is what you want from your linebackers." Johnson is 6-2½ and 205 pounds. He's weight lifting for football coach Jack Blanton at Oviedo and that has put 10 pounds on his frame. "We'll get him up to 220 easy," says Goodyear.

The thing that UCF liked best about Johnson was his agility. "Johnson was double or triple teamed just about every game," said Goodyear. "But I don't ever remember him getting knocked off his feet. He might not make the tackle but by taking two or three guys out, someone else did."

The Knights are looking at Johnson as an inside linebacker because there is one area of concern, it's the blond-haired senior's pass defense which might be suspect.

"We're looking at Tommy more as an inside linebacker because he doesn't have great speed," said Goodyear. "But you never can tell, he might surprise us and be able to handle the outside, too."

UCF lost both of its top linebackers — Giovanetti and Dave King. UCF recruited four linebackers and returns two from last year's 0-10 team.

While Johnson figures to challenge for a starting slot on the defensive side of the line, the same is true of Poor on the opposite side of the line.

The Knights lost probably their best tight end since the program started in Mike Carter. Only one is left over and UCF only recruited two.

College Scene

"We got two players in one when we signed John Poor," said Goodyear. "Because of all the talent Lyman had this year, John kind of got overlooked. He's not afraid to block and although he's not a burner, he's got good speed."

It's Poor's versatility, however, which has the Knights impressed. Poor was a key member of Lyman's first Five Star Conference team, often plying the opposition in poor (no pun intended) field position with his kicks and letting Lyman's awesome defense take over.

He also made several clutch catches during the year, one, in particular, which kept a drive alive against Lake Howell in a game Lyman needed to win and did to hold off the Hawks and Apopka during the conference race.

Poor is 6-2½ and 190 pounds, but like Johnson, he has the frame to add weight. "One look at his father (6-5 Robert) and you can see John's going to get taller," said Goodyear. "He's very muscular for his build and he reminds me a lot of Carter when he came to UCF. Poor could get as big or bigger than Carter (6-4, 220)." Punting-wise, Poor should be as good as anyone the Knights have. That phase of the game was a weak one for UCF last year and Saban would like to get a good leg to complement his excellent place kicker Scott Ryerson.

BIG GATOR — Saban and Goodyear probably wouldn't mind it one bit if Johnson and Poor grew to the size of former Lake Brantley standout Scott Trimble. Trimble, a junior offensive tackle for the Florida Gators, is a monstrous 6-6 and 285 pounds at last report.

Trimble started one game last year, against Vanderbilt, and is expected to push for a starting job this fall for coach Charley Pell's Gators.

Vanderbilt, incidentally, is where former Lake Howell star Chuck Scott had such a banner year. Scott was a wide receiver-defensive back for coach Sam Weir before incoming coach Mike Bisceglia took over. When he saw what he was losing, he almost cried.

"A player like Chuck Scott can make a big difference in a game," said Bisceglia who struggled through six losses during his first year as Hawk boss. Scott started at wide receiver last year for Vandy and Coach of the Year George McIntyre. SEC experts are touting the junior-to-be as an all-conference choice for the upcoming season.

Also in the SEC, Sanford's Lenny Sutton made the Tennessee Volunteers as a walk on last year and also got some playing time. The Vols, however, didn't come through with any aid and the former second-team, all-state fullback is reportedly looking elsewhere. Sutton, 6-0 and 210 pounds, played defensive back last year. Carson-Newman is interested.

Another member of coach Jerry Posey's Five Star and district champions of two years ago, Issac Williams, was an All-America choice on the Football News Freshman All-America squad. Williams has blossomed into a 6-2, 255-pound nose guard for the Florida State Seminoles. He played offensive tackle for the Tribe. Ex-Brantley linemen Mac Lantrip and Danny Morris are also at Tallahassee. Lantrip is a sophomore defensive end while Morris is a sophomore offensive guard. Also at FSU, but in a different sport, Sanford's Alice Bennett has qualified for the NCAA long jump championships. Bennett is also a member of the Lady Seminoles excellent 400-meter relay team.

A third member of that Seminole team, defensive back Butch Carter, completed a successful year for Sioux Falls, (S.D.) College. Carter saw considerable playing time as a freshman last year.

Going back a few years, ex-Seminole Reggie Branch expects to challenge for the starting tailback spot for East Carolina University. Branch, 6-0 and 230 pounds, combines power and quickness for ECU. Given a starting nod one time last year, Branch ran for over 100 yards.

A couple of more Patriots—sophomores-to-be Fred Baber and Kyle Davis—had good years at Furman. Barber, in particular, was named the most valuable defender on the junior varsity.

Lake Brantley also has senior flanker Richard Salem at Georgia Tech, sophomore defensive tackle Ricky Campbell at Eastern Kentucky, senior center Jimmy Kremer at Troy State and junior quarterback Tony Constantine at Tennessee Tech. The ex-Patriot signal caller is joined there by former Oviedo running back Marvin McClellon.

Monstrous Robin Graham has transferred from Miami to Livingston (Ala.) State where he will be a sophomore offensive tackle.

If you've noticed a repetition of former Lake Brantley, ex-Patriot and so on during the past few paragraphs, you're not alone. Just how does Lake Brantley get all these kids scholarships?

"Well, good coaching, of course," laughs Lake Brantley coach Dave Tullis.

Falcon, Siebmann Earn All-State Soccer Honors

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

The 1983 season was an outstanding one for Seminole County soccer teams. One player from each team was named to either the 3A (Lake Mary and Oviedo) or 4A (Seminole, Lyman, Lake Howell, Lake Brantley) All-State squads.

From the surprising Seminole High team that stunned state power Trinity Prep and county power Lyman, senior mid-fielder Juan Falcon was named to the 4A all-state squad. Also named to the 4A team were: Lyman's outstanding senior goalkeeper John Pinkley, Lake Howell's fine senior midfielder Paul Chmieliewski and Lake Brantley's brilliant senior defender Dave Martin.

Selected to the 3A all-state squad were Oviedo's talented senior defender Evan Cantrall and Lake Mary's junior midfielder Marcus Siebmann.

"Marcus did an outstanding job this season," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "He was responsible for setting up most of our offense."

Coaches Honor Martin, Nooney And Hawkins

Not long after the all-state team came out, the Seminole County coaches selected their all-county team. Receiving top honors were Seminole's Ricky Nooney for Most Valuable Offensive Player, Lake Brantley's Martin for Most Valuable Defensive Player and the Tribe's Howard Hawkins was named Coach of the Year.

"We got off to a pretty bad start, but I was pleased with the way the guys stayed in and fought," Hawkins said. "This year's team is probably the finest group I've ever coached as far as attitude and determination goes."

Joining Nooney and Martin on the all-county first team were, Falcon, Siebmann, Chmieliewski, Cantrall and Pinkley from the all-state team along with Jim Gray and Kevin Hines of Lyman, Larry DeLong of Lake Brantley, Glenn Phillips of Lake Howell and Donald Kelly of

Barnes Leads Girls

Although Seminole County has only three girls' soccer teams (Lake Mary, Lyman and Lake Brantley), there were numerous notable performances during the 1983 season. And, with seven freshmen on the all-county first team and three freshman on the special mention team, the future for girls soccer in Seminole County is a bright one.

Taking top honors was Lyman's freshman sensation Alyson Barnes who was selected Player of the Year for her impressive play for the Lady Greyhounds at the forward position. Lake Mary's Larry Betsinger was named Coach of the Year.

Sanford Soccer Club Sweeps 5 Wins

The Sanford Soccer Club opened the 1983 season in fine form as all five Sanford teams that played came away with victories.

Sanford 800, under 8 age division, scored two second-half goals to squeeze by Maitland 801, 3-2. Stephen Swanson's goal in the first half tied the game at 1-1 and Daniel White and Matt Lovering each had goals in the second half for Sanford 800. Christopher Giles, Valerie Bengt, Tony Schanel and Jason Kaiser led the defensive effort. Sanford 800 faces College Park Saturday at 9 a.m. at Fairville Field.

Sanford 780, under 10 division, got two goals from Matt Teague and assists from Jon Williams and Josh Letchworth en route to a 2-0 blanking of SOE 002. Sanford 780 scored one goal in each half while goalkeeper Joshua Ferguson handled 16 saves for the shutout.

Collier Tosses 3 Interceptions, Stallions Fall, 9-7

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Birmingham Stallions quarterback Reggie Collier says his introduction to professional football wasn't what he expected, three interceptions in a 9-7 loss to the Michigan Panthers Monday night.

But the No. 1 draft choice and former Southern Mississippi star wouldn't admit that his often questioned pacing ability was the problem.

Soccer

Defenders Jason Walraven, Amy Williams and Ryan Dickey all helped in shutting down their opponents. Sanford 780 will go up against Maitland 781 Saturday at 10:10 a.m. at Maitland Junior High School.

In the under 12 division, Sanford 180 lit up the scoreboard with four second half goals and came away with a slim 4-3 victory over Maitland 202. Scottie Burton, on an assist from Matt Williams, scored the clinching goal for Sanford. Other goals were scored by Williams, Chet Culp and Jay Feuerhahn while Mark Barrett, Randy Bowlin, Jennifer Bengt, Steve Cann and Heather Pegram all contributed to Sanford's second-half offensive surge. Goalkeeper Bill Schanel along with defenders Shane Temperly, Jackie Hansen, Chris Morse, Chuck Tulp and Ashley Schanel kept Maitland from scoring the tying or go-ahead goals.

Also in the under 12 division, Sanford 280 upended Winter Park 131, 3-1, behind goals from Troy Deppen, Phillip Perez and Nick Pastis. Assists were by Bruce Boyer, Pastis and Mike Altizer.

In the under 14 division, J.J. Partlow came up with the season's first hat-trick as Sanford 380 ran past Downtown Orlando 403, 4-2. Oberto Piedra scored Sanford's first goal and Partlow ripped off the next three. Andy White and Rachelle Denmark were the top defensive performers in Sanford's victory. Sanford 380 will go up against Maitland 301 Saturday at 10:30 a.m. at Lake Destiny.

Pro Football

"Personally, I feel like I have to work on my overall game," he said. "I feel as the season progresses, we will all get better. We'll get better with time. We've got to work on everything, work a little harder."

While rushing 13 times for a game-high 76 yards, Collier only completed six of 14 for 49 yards and had three passes picked off. He also lost a fumble, but scored Birmingham's only touchdown on a 3-yard run.

Michigan was unable to score a touchdown Monday night, but Yugoslavian native Novo Bojovic, a rookie kicker out of Central Michigan, hit field goals of 49, 49 and 48 yards, while missing a fourth attempt from 50 yards away.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Ewing, Georgetown Spurt Past Syracuse In Finale

LANDOVER, Md. (UPI) — Second-half spurts that produce victories are part of the Georgetown Hoyas' reputation, and Monday night they closed the regular season by living up to their reputation.

The 14th-ranked Hoyas outscored Syracuse 16-4 in the first four minutes of the second half to erase the Orangemen's eight-point halftime lead and went on to take an 80-75 Big East Conference victory.

Syracuse must wait only three days for revenge since the same two teams collide Thursday night in New York in the opening round of the conference post-season tournament.

Monday night's game was rescheduled from Feb. 12, when a major snowstorm prevented the Orangemen from reaching the Washington area.

The Hoyas, 21-8 overall and 11-5 in the conference got 24 points and 11 rebounds from 7-foot sophomore Patrick Ewing. Ewing went down with a bruised knee with 6:50 to play, but returned three minutes later.

"I don't think it's anything to worry about," said Georgetown Coach John Thompson, "but if it is, it probably won't show up for 24 hours. We'll just wait and see."

Amazing Bird Delivers Win

United Press International

Larry Brown doesn't place much stock in the NBA's Atlantic Division standings, which show Philadelphia leading Boston by seven games. The New Jersey coach prefers to handicap the teams according to what he has seen the past two days.

Brown's Nets bowed to Larry Bird and the Celtics 121-114 Monday night after toppling the 76ers 112-106 Sunday. Following Monday's game at Hartford, Conn., Brown said he saw improvement despite the loss.

"We're getting better. Tonight we could have beaten any team but Boston," Brown said. "Bird was amazing. When it came down to winning or losing the game, Bird delivered every time. We never had the luxury of having the lead."

Bird scored 30 points, including 13 in the fourth quarter, and put the finishing touches on with consecutive field goals for a 113-107 lead with 43 seconds remaining.

"Larry's developing a bad habit of running the ball in tight spots," said Celtic assistant coach K.C. Jones, who took over when head coach Bill Fitch was ejected in the third quarter. "Naturally we want to get the ball to him. But we have two or three options in case we can't."

Albert King, who had 19 of his game-high 31 points in the second half, cut the lead to 98-96 before Bird hit a field goal, free throw and 3-pointer to give Boston a 104-98 edge. With 1:37 left, Nets guard Darwin Cook sank a pair of free throws to cut the lead to 109-107 before Bird countered with two baskets.

Cedric Maxwell had 19 points for Boston and Kevin McHale added 18. Buck Williams finished with 24 points for the Nets and Cook added 17.

Lions Claim Weight Lifting

Oviedo's Lions won their third straight Orange Belt Conference Weight Lifting title this past weekend as Tommy Johnson, John Zabel, Bobby Lomax and David Thompson took individual championships.

Johnson, who is headed to the University of Central Florida on a football scholarship, took the heavyweight despite competing against an opponent 50 pounds heavier while Zabel took the 181-pound title. Lomax, who lifted over 300 pounds, won the 165-pound crown and Thompson took the 132-pound title.

The Lions are coached by Jack Blanton.

'Meadows' Is No Joke To Recovering Dodgers

Milton Richman
UPI Sports Editor

VERO BEACH (UPI) — You know ballplayers. No subject is that sacred to them except maybe money.

They've already got some jokes about The Meadows. That's the drug and alcohol center in Wickenburg, Ariz., which not too many people knew about until Dodger pitcher Bob Welch went there to be rehabilitated in 1980. Two other Dodger players, Steve Howe and Ken Landreaux, also spent time in The Meadows to get themselves straightened out since the end of last season.

One of the things you hear at some of the other camps is that the Dodgers now lead the league in get-well cards. You also hear that they ought to move one of their minor-league clubs to The Meadows.

Naturally, the Dodgers themselves do not look on the subject as any joke.

Also, for the record, they are not the only big-league club whose players are known to have spent time at The Meadows. Nor is there any positive evidence that more of them have checked in there than players from other clubs since the center itself does not make such information public.

When Howe talked to the media here the other day for the first time about what an uphill battle it was against cocaine and alcohol, the jokes about the Dodgers started all over again.

In a way, it was a reprise of last summer's declaration by Don Newcombe on pretty much the same problem. Newcombe, once the ace of the Dodgers' pitching staff and now director of their community relations program, declared the present Dodgers had a "serious" drug problem and the players challenged him on it.

Now, Rick Monday, beginning his seventh season with the club, is challenging the notion that the Dodgers are all a bunch of potheads, or that they are necessarily beset with more drug and alcohol problems than any other club in the majors.

"In that regard, I certainly don't think we're any worse or better than any other club," says Monday.

"Insofar as Steve Howe or any other ballplayer is concerned, I believe it is their personal business and not anyone else's. If a guy goes through a program as Steve did and it helped, I couldn't be happier for him. But I still think it's his own business.

"Our profession isn't any different than so many other professions around the country when it comes to what is called chemical dependency. I heard a doctor not long ago who is doing a book on the subject and he said the rate of chemical dependency in the medical profession is extremely high. He said more than 30 per cent of medical practitioners engage in the use of controlled substances."

Getting back to Newcombe's charge of last summer, Monday said the Dodger players were "livid" when Newk made his allegation.

"We demanded he come down and explain to us what he meant," Monday said. "He did come down and explain and he was correct — but it was a matter of definition. He said that the expert definition of a drug was anything ranging from heroin to wine. What we were upset about was that the article was written in layman's terms and the expert definition was not included. The article made it seem as if a lot of us were using hard drugs and that simply wasn't true."

Monday has his own personal feelings about drugs like heroin, cocaine, speed and amphetamines.

"I'm not a saint," he owns up, "but I've never tried anything like that. You make certain decisions in life. A decision I made a long time ago was to leave that crap alone. To tell you the truth, I'm afraid of it."

Speaking for the Dodgers' front office, Fred Claire, the club's execufive vice president, praised both Howe and Landreaux for coming to the club for help. The Dodgers have their own assistance program for all their employees.

Steve Howe, Dodger relief ace, went to The Meadows to overcome his drug dependency.

"I think some of the things Steve said were a little strong, but they were honest in his viewpoint and I have no problem with that," Claire said about the news conference held by the Dodgers' 25-year-old left-handed reliever last Friday. Among things Howe said were that you can walk into most any bar in the country and get drugs and that sports arenas weren't that much different.

"It was Steve's choice about what he wanted to do insofar as making his experience public," Claire added, "and whatever his decision was, we supported him totally."

One of the most "heartwarming" moments surrounding Howe's rehabilitation, according to Claire, took place at Dodger Stadium last month when the team played the University of Southern California in a public workout.

That was shortly after it had first become known Howe had been in The Meadows for his drug and alcohol problems.

"There were about 30,000 people at the game and you should have heard the ovation he received when he came into the game from the bullpen," Claire recalled. "What the fans were saying was 'Steve, we're with you. You did something to help yourself and that in a way will ultimately help many others.'"

Rangers Pound Yankee Pitching

By United Press International

Several new New York Yankees' pitchers took a pounding Monday courtesy of the Texas Rangers.

The Rangers bombed four New York pitchers for 19 hits, including an inside-the-park grand slam by rookie Pete O'Brien in the eighth inning, to post a 12-7 triumph at Pompano Beach in Texas' first exhibition game.

Buddy Bell went 3-for-3, including a two-run homer as the Rangers teed off against Shane Rawley, Steve Comer, Clay Christensen and 35-year-old Jesus Hernalz.

With Texas ahead 8-7 in the eighth, Mickey Rivers, Jim Anderson and Bill Stein singled against Hernalz to load the bases. O'Brien, an outfielder-first baseman, lined a shot off the center field wall and circled the bases when the ball bounced past Yankees' center fielder Jerry Humphrey.

O'Brien opened the seventh against loser Christensen with a single and took second when Tommy Dunbar was safe on an error. Rookie Nick Capra singled home O'Brien to tie it 7-7, and Dunbar scored on catcher Juan Espino's passed ball.

Willie Randolph, who hit the first pitch of the game for a homer, had three RBI for the Yankees.

Frank Tanana pitched the last three innings to pick up the victory for Texas.

Elsewhere:
 At Sarasota, Chris Nyman scored a run in the seventh inning to give the Chicago White Sox a 1-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers in the rainy exhibition opener for both clubs. Nyman's sole run of the game came on a single by Ron Kittle after Nyman pinch ran for Greg Luzinski, who had doubled with two out.

At West Palm Beach, Montreal scored a first-inning run without the benefit of a hit and then four pitchers, including Bill Gullickson, made it stand up as the Expos blanked the Dodgers 6-0 in an exhibition game. Tim Raines reached on an error by third baseman Pedro Guerrero, stole second, advanced on a groundout and scored as Roy Johnson grounded to second.

Raines, attempting to come back after being plagued by cocaine addiction last year, is off to a hot start. Sunday, the 23-year-old left fielder rapped two doubles and stole two bases.

At Miami, rookie center fielder John Shelby hit a home run, collected two RBI and scored three runs to lead Baltimore to a 7-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

At Dunedin, rain canceled the first exhibition game of the Toronto Blue Jays' camp. The Blue Jays were scheduled to play St. Leo's College. Dave Stieb will start Tuesday against Minnesota.

Philadelphia third baseman Mike Schmidt underwent successful knee surgery in Philadelphia and his doctor said he would be sidelined no longer than two weeks, the Phillies announced.

The Chicago Cubs announced the hiring of Charlie Fox as a special baseball consultant to Dallas Green, the club's executive vice president and general manager. Fox spent 35 years in the New York-San Francisco Giants organization as a player, minor league manager, major-league coach and manager and scout.

At St. Petersburg, Fla., New York Mets' manager George Bamberger named Rick Ownbey and Mike Torrez as his starting pitchers in a pair of exhibition openers Thursday. Ownbey is slated to face Toronto at Dunedin, Fla., while Torrez is scheduled to pitch for the other half of the split squad at Lakeland, Fla.

Outfielder David Green signed a one-year contract with the champion St. Louis Cardinals, meaning all roster players have reached agreement. Green batted .283 in part-time duty in 1982 and is given a chance to win a regular outfield job this season.

Cal Ripken Jr., the 1982 American League Rookie of the Year, signed a one-year contract with the Orioles. General Manager Hank Peters said. Peters said that third baseman Leo Hernandez also signed a one-year pact, leaving pitcher Storm Davis as the only unsigned player.

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Billy Martin is gone, but controversy still swirls about the A's plot who left the team to rejoin the New York Yankees.

Or as Oakland coach Clete Boyer said Monday, "Billy has never been able to let things alone."

Former A's pitching coach Art Fowler, now also with the Yankees, was quoted Monday as saying that Boyer had caused Martin's firing. There was growing suspicion in the A's camp that Fowler's comments originated with Martin.

Boyer said, "Art called me up about two weeks before spring training. He was mad; he said a lot of things, some of which I can't get into. But he accused me of being a pipeline to Roy (A's president Roy Eisenhardt)."

Eisenhardt and executive Wally Haas were at the A's camp Monday and shrugged off Fowler's tirade.

Mary Reddick, P.M. Hammond Repeat Vows

Mary Teresa Reddick and Paul Mark Hammond were married Feb. 5, at 2 p.m., at All Souls Catholic Church, Sanford. The Rev. Frederic P. Gehring C.M. performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Peter Reddick Jr., 114 W. Crystal Drive, Sanford. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows an original formal gown fashioned with a mandarin neckline and long sleeves. Schiffl embroidery and Venise lace enhanced the neckline, yoke, chapel train and veil. She carried a bouquet of white anthuriums, stephanotis and baby's breath centered with a removable corsage.

Patricia R. Ackley attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a royal blue taffeta gown and carried a bouquet of white daisies, mums, mini carnations and blue baby's breath. Her headpiece was a replica of the bouquet.

Megan Cluff Hammond, daughter of the bridegroom was maid of honor. Her bridal attire was identical to the honor attendant's.

Harry Kane, Dallas, Texas, served the bridegroom as best man. Ushers were Marlon Brooks, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, and David G. Ackley, brother-in-law of the bride. Lt. James P. Reddick III was the groomsmen.

Christie Ackley, niece of the bride, was the flower girl. Following a reception at the home of the bride's parents, the newlyweds departed on a honeymoon cruise to the Caribbean. They are making their home in Dallas where both are employed by American Airlines.

MS Victim Should Tell Family

DEAR ABBY: A friend told me that a couple of years ago you ran a letter from a woman who had just learned that she had multiple sclerosis and was debating whether to tell her young daughter, fearing it might upset her. My friend said you responded by printing a very helpful letter from another woman who had faced the same problem. Abby, please find that letter and run it again. I need it because my sister has just been diagnosed as having MS, and she's in the identical situation. Thank you.

CONCERNED SISTER
DEAR SISTER: With pleasure.
DEAR ABBY: This is in response to "Prepared for the Worst," the woman with MS (multiple sclerosis) who was told by her doctor that eventually she would be paralyzed and confined to a wheelchair. How right you were to tell her not to accept her doctor's gloomy prognosis. She was debating whether to tell her 13-year-old about her disease in the hope that she might be more cooperative and understanding — yet she didn't want to frighten or upset her younger children. I think all her children should be told. She should also contact her local MS society. Members will invite her to meetings, put her in touch with other MS victims and provide her with a lot of helpful information. "Prepared for the Worst" should also read "The Pursuit of Hope," an excellent and inspiring book by Miriam Ottenberg, a journalist, with MS. I know first-hand about MS because I have it, too. My 8-year-old daughter and 11-year-old son were told what I have and how they can help. They are among my greatest assets. Without their help and my husband's constant assurance, I wouldn't be able to do the things I do today. I'm a substitute teacher, Brownie leader, team mom for my son's baseball team and active in my church and PTA. I manage to keep my home going and keep up a moderately active social life. I realize that someday I could be paralyzed and in a wheelchair. But right now I am not, and I intend to use to the fullest everything I have. Every day I fight to keep my body on its feet and walking. It's a struggle, but it's well worth the effort when I see what I can still accomplish.

PAT HERMAN, OXNARD, CALIF.

Spring Is In The Air At Second Image Shop

Spring is in the air at Second Image consignment shop and June weddings can't be far behind. Brides-to-be will find beautiful new and like new wedding gowns in a variety of styles at the unheard of sale price of $39.95.

There is no need to spend a small fortune for the wedding gown of your dreams when Second Image has a large selection of traditional gowns for sale or rent at affordable prices.

Located in the Pine Crest Shopping Center on Highway 17-92 at 27th Street in Sanford, Second Image will be celebrating its second anniversary on April 13. Co-owners Margie and Aubrey Combs, relocated the business from South Sanford Avenue last year to its present location next to Medco Drug Store and Jewel T to better serve their customers. There is plenty of convenient parking space.

They are now specializing exclusively in fashionable women's merchandise including lingerie, jewelry and accessories, such as shoes, handbags, hats and scarves to complete the outfit.

For expectant mothers Second Image recently received a consignment from an area maternity shop of 30 brand new maternity garments and they are now available for half of the former price. Hurry in today—these are too good to last.

Margie is now featuring spring and summer clothing such as bathing suits and sun dresses beginning at $3. She is also accepting new and "like new" warm weather merchandise for women on consignment from local individuals and retailers.

The price is agreed upon by the consignee and Second Image, which receives 60 percent of the sale price after the sale. Any items not sold may be picked up at the end of 90 days by the consignee. Consignment items are reduced up to 25 percent after 30 days and up to 50 percent after 60 days.

Second Image has women's clothing from size 3-56. Fashions range from long and short formals to sportswear, including famous name brand dresses and designer jeans.

Visa and Master Charge cards are accepted and Second Image offers a convenient lay-away plan. The store is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Friday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. For further information call 323-9421.

Drastic Drugstore Changes Are Seen

By LeRoy Pope
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The drugstore business, which has undergone great change and considerable shrinkage in the number of stores in recent years, faces even more drastic changes in the 21st century.

The drugstore will become highly automated and will be operated largely with the use of computers. There will be fewer pharmacists than now and at least half of them will be women.

Moreover, the pharmacist in the 21st century will have a degree equal to a university doctorate and the profession may have limited rights to prescribe as well as to dispense medicines.

There will be considerably less prescription compounding on the premises of the drugstore. Most drugs will be targeted to specific physical conditions. The total number of drug items available to the public at any given time may be reduced from 25,000 to 8,000-10,000 as improved scientific knowledge causes many marginal drugs to fall by the wayside.

These conclusions were advanced in a special edition of the magazine Drug Topics devoted to the future of pharmacy.

Naturally, not all the prognosticators the editors talked with agreed about the future trends. Some doubted if pharmacists ever would get to prescribe medicines even to a limited degree or take down medical histories or do anything now customarily done by the physician because the number of physicians is increasing steadily.

But there was general agreement that, in addition to the things he or she learns now, the 21st century pharmacist will have to be well trained in immunology, biochemistry, pathology, environmental health, preventive medicine, data processing and information retrieval.

Drug Topics turned up some other interesting predictions:

—A practical male birth control pill eventually will be a big item in the drug business.

—Some drugs may be manufactured in space vehicles in orbit in order to get maximum purity or meet other specific manufacturing requirements.

—The average human life-span will be well above 80 years and may approach 100 years, so geriatric products will be an ever increasing part of the pharmacy business.

—Many families will have their routine medical requirements recorded in the drugstore's computer. The family's preferences in toothpastes and cosmetics may even be recorded.

—Some of the forecasters said there will be specific prescription drugs to prevent or cure cancer and high blood pressure and these will be important to the drug store business.

—Doctors will depend on pharmacists for referral, for patient education and for the monitoring of long-term therapy.

—The corner drugstore may continue to become less important and most pharmacies may be located near hospitals or clusters of doctors' offices. And they may carry less general merchandise than they do now. But then clusters of doctors' offices will become more numerous and this could mean the number of drugstores will remain fairly large.

—Customers visiting the pharmacy may carry plastic health cards as people carry bank cards now. These will enable the pharmacist to call up the customer's medical case history and check to see if appropriate therapy is being employed. That would catch errors in prescriptions.

—Drugs will be dispensed increasingly in aseptic single-dose units.

—Competition will remain free in merchandising prescription drugs; that is, as between branded and generic versions of the same drugs.

Connie Dye (standing), owner of The Cut Shop in Sanford, and hairstylist Deanna Wilson, want to help you keep your hair healthy, natural looking and beautiful.

The Cut Shop Cares About Customer's Hair

If you really care about your hair, "The Cut Shop is your kind of place. Owner Connie Dye says, "I care more about my customers' hair than they do." The Cut Shop is located at 2557 Park Drive, Sanford (between 25th Street and French Avenue.)

Connie gives her clients consultations and has all of them on a continuous hair care program, so that their hair always looks nice.

She keeps records of what is done for their hair and when. "They know what I am doing for their hair, and I expect them to do their part to keep their hair healthy and natural looking," Connie explains.

Formerly a hairstylist with Hair Now for five years, Connie has had her own shop for eight months. Deanna Wilson of Winter Springs, a graduate of Woody's Hairstyling Institute, is on her staff as a hairstylist. Deanna specializes in haircutting.

The Cut Shop specializes in natural looking custom cuts, perms and coloring. They do all the advanced styles of haircutting, permanent waving, hair coloring and hair chemistry.

They use quality Jhirmack hair care products in the salone and also have them available for home use.

The Cut Shop has a clean, wholesome atmosphere with contemporary decor that the whole family will enjoy. Connie employs only the highest Christian ethics and professional standards in her business dealings.

The shop is open Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Appointments are preferred. They are also open some evenings by appointment. Call 321-CUTS (321-2887).

Americans Compare Japanese, U.S. Cars

DETROIT (UPI) — U.S. car buyers believe Japanese autos are more dependable, more fuel efficient, of superior quality and less costly than American cars, a survey shows. American models were preferred for style and safety.

The findings came from a study released Sunday on the image of automobile manufacturers. The study, by J.D. Power Associates of Westlake Village, Calif., involved interviews with 5,000 people nationwide.

The survey was conducted in September 1981 but researchers said the quantity of information collected and the length of time involved in data analysis resulted in the long time lag before the study's release.

Japanese companies were ranked first in dependability, fuel economy, value, engineering, low purchase price, the ability to build subcompacts and overall leadership-management. U.S. firms got top marks for safety, styling, parts and service.

"Despite a technological changeover towards downsized fuel efficient cars, the like of which Detroit has never seen, its image is slipping while that of Japan has undergone dramatic improvement," the study said.

European companies also are perceived as producing dependable cars that are a better value for the money than American models. But they get below average ratings on price and parts-service availability.

First Search Of Its Kind

Extra-Terrestrials Call Collect

HARVARD, Mass. (UPI) — Scientists armed with highly sophisticated electronic equipment are scanning the galaxy for transmissions from extra-terrestrials — a project they say could lead to the most important discovery in history.

"Now it's up to them," Harvard University physicist Paul Horowitz said Monday as he flipped the switch that turned on the 84-foot radio telescope that will monitor the Northern sky constantly for the next four years for any indication of life.

"We are now receiving transmissions from outer space," he said, his eyes glued to a video display terminal that graphically portrayed the information received by the dish at the Harvard-Smithsonian Oak Ridge Observatory.

Cornell University astronomer Carl Sagan said the project, known as the Search for Extra-Terrestrial Intelligence (SETI), was the first sustained, long-term, highly sophisticated search for intelligent life outside Earth.

"The day after tomorrow we will have caught up with every other SETI project in the states," said Sagan, a Pulitzer Prize winner who is head of the Planetary Society, a private group of international astronomers that has partially funded the project.

Horowitz designed the telescope's special receiver, which can monitor 128,000 frequencies simultaneously, but still the scientists called the project a "long shot."

There are millions of millions of frequencies, they said, but they will concentrate on the "magic frequencies," where communication is the most efficient because there is little background noise, or cosmic static.

Although the scientists are realistic about their chances of picking up a communication, they are optimistic life exists outside the Earth. They say that life form is highly evolved and would have plenty to say to "a backward civilization like ours," Horowitz said.

"Life almost certainly exists near many of the 300 billion stars of our galaxy," said Horowitz. "Nature never does anything just once."

A highly sophisticated computer will monitor the transmission, sending anything that looks interesting to the archives to be recorded on tape. Initially, Horowitz will go to the observatory to look at the tapes, but soon he will be able to phone in and ask the computer what's happening.

If there is anything interesting there, the scientists will be called in to double check.

"First, we'll have to verify the transmission," Sagan said, adding it must be received more than once and at other observatories to be scientifically valid.

"Then the fun begins," he said, as scientists try to decode the signals to determine whether they were sent by intelligent life and, if so, what they mean.

A decision also would have to be made about whether to respond, they said.

The telescope can pick up signals sent from as far away as 1,000 light years, which is the distance light waves, moving at 186,000 miles per second, can travel in one year. Thus, the conversation might take 2,000 years.

"I think it is not an exaggeration to say that communication with an extraterrestrial intelligent species would be the greatest single discovery in the history of mankind," Horowitz said.

Urban Leaders Say: Cut Military

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Both the Republican and Democratic leaders of the nation's cities say they see a national consensus developing about the nature of and the solution for the country's economic ills.

The name of the problem: runaway deficits.

The solution: slowed growth in military spending and non-needs entitlement programs such as Medicare and coordinated efforts to bring down interest rates.

"First, we believe that the rate of real growth in defense spending must be reduced substantially," Mayor George Latimer of St. Paul, first vice president of the National League of Cities, told a news conference Monday.

"This is not a call to cut back our military preparedness; it is a call to trim its rate of growth," he added.

But President Reagan, meeting with leaders of the league later in the afternoon, stood firm — as Cleveland's Republican Mayor George Volnovich predicted he would — on the defense issue.

"I don't think we'll be able to convince him on this issue," Volnovich said before the meeting. He said every time he had met with Reagan, "He indicates we don't have the facts and he does."

Following the meeting, Latimer said Reagan told the mayors their thoughts on the defense budget might be different if they were privy to classified information concerning Soviet military capabilities.

Asked if he found the reasoning persuasive, Latimer replied, "You can't be swayed by an offer of information. You're swayed by information."

Today, 1,300 delegates attending the league's annual legislative conference spread out across Capitol Hill to carry their message to Congress.

Latimer said the league's position on slowing military spending "reflects a growing consensus about what is needed in this country."

In addition to the urging reducing Reagan's military spending proposals, the league called for delaying cost-of-living increases for the non-needs entitlement programs and for repealing the third year of Reagan's tax cut, scheduled to go into effect July 1.

"The National League of Cities believes the large and growing federal deficits are the major cause of high, long term interest rates," the league said in a priorities statement. "NLC urged in the administration, the Congress and independent agencies of government to adopt a coordinated approach to reduce interest rates during 1983."

The League also criticized the proposed budget for continuing to seek deep reductions in federal aid for the needy.

"The budget proposes further reductions in such programs as food stamps, aid to families with dependent children and low income energy assistance," the priorities statement said. "NLC strongly opposes these cuts and urges Congress to reject the president's budget requests."

'Morning-After' Pill Is More Available In Britain

LONDON (UPI) — A "morning after" contraceptive pill, aimed at reducing the demand for abortion, soon will become available at doctors' offices throughout Britain, health officials said today.

The pill, which tests have shown to be 98 percent effective, currently is available only on prescription from a few doctors and is practically impossible to obtain in some parts of the country, officials said.

"We want to see post-coital contraception made more widely available," a Family Planning Association spokesman said. "It is of great help to someone who has used a barrier method of contraception which has failed, to a rape victim or to someone who says they unexpectedly got carried away."

Association officials said they believed the pill could help reduce the demand for abortions.

Opponents of the pill, which can be taken up to 72 hours after unprotected intercourse, fear it could lead to increased promiscuity.

A association spokeswoman Romie Goodchild said that was unlikely since the pill was for emergency use only.

"One side effect in some women is that the pill can

Reader Fears Mom Too Tranquilized

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm worried about my mother. I don't want her to be a junkie. She's 59 years old and had to have a hysterectomy 10 years ago. Since then she's been taking Equanil, 400 mg, and Premarin once a day or as needed. Plus she has a hormone shot once a month. The hormone shot I can understand but I don't know anything about the Equanil and Premarin. I want to know if she really needs them and if she can be hooked on them without knowing it.

She asked her doctor's nurse once what would happen if she stopped taking the Equanil. The nurse told her she would go crazy. Is this so?

DEAR READER — Equanil is a tranquilizer and was once one of the more popular ones. Its action is similar to phenobarbital and it is a depressant of the brain's actions. In this respect it is similar to alcohol. That is why a person taking Equanil should not also drink alcohol, even on a social occasion. The effects are additive.

I do not like to see anyone take a tranquilizer on a regular basis if there is any other solution available. However, one Equanil a day is well below the dosage that we usually see in problem cases.

If a person is taking large doses and stops abruptly, there will be a reaction. It may be heightened anxiety, tremors or even convulsions. We see the same thing in a person taking large amounts of phenobarbital who suddenly stops it. Premarin is a hormone preparation. It is commonly used to replace the loss of female hormone production. It is not habituating or addictive but replacement therapy. It has the same effects as your mother's hormone shot. How much she needs, if any, depends upon how much female hormones her body produces as from the adrenal gland. The questions here are the usual ones related to replacement therapy. I'm sending you The Health Letter 12-2, Sedatives, Hypnotics and Tranquilizers: The Pill Problem, which discusses this all too common situation. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me. In care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Your mother might not need a tranquilizer if she is using coffee and other sources of caffeine and is willing to stop them. Caffeine has the opposite effects from tranquilizers.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 79-year-old widow and want to know how often should I douche. I do not have a boyfriend or have any men friends. Also, what is the object of a vinegar douche? I hear people talk about it. Hope you don't think I am a dumb one for writing you.

DEAR READER — Many gynecologists think douching is unnecessary as a routine. But women often think it improves hygiene. Certainly unless you have a medical condition that requires special douching it is unwise to do so too often. More than once or twice a month, except under special conditions, is probably excessive.

The vagina has its own protective bacterial flora and some chemicals may affect this leading to problems. Vinegar is used because it is a little acid. The usual amount is four tablespoons of white vinegar in two quarts of warm water. It may not make too much difference because the solution is in contact with the lining such a short time.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY

WEDNESDAY, March 8

You could be rather fortunate this coming year in picking up projects or ventures which others have abandoned and bringing them to fruition. You'll know how to add the touches to spell success.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)

Try not to let associates put you in a position today where you may be partially blamed for their errors, or requested to help pay for their mistakes. Order now: The NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Pisces astro-Graph predictions for 1983. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)

Do not enter into agreements today halfheartedly. It's best to say "No" up front rather than to leave another hanging with a "Maybe."

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)

Little of value will be achieved today if you and your coworkers can't get together on the way things should be done. Strive for harmony.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Your prudent judgment may find itself in conflict with your extravagant urges today. Unhappily, the more wasteful side of your nature may prevail.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)

You could miss some

WEDNESDAY, March 8

warm human experiences today if you let your practical nature prevail over your charitable instincts. Let your heart rule your head.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)

Your good intentions and your industrious drive might not be up to what needs doing today. You could seek reasons to put aside your duties.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)

Your ability to assess the value of merchandise will be on-track today. However, you may disregard your prudent judgment in order to achieve temporary gratification.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)

If you are too demanding of others today chances are they'll comply with your wishes, but will do as little for you as possible instead of really helping.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

When seeking a favor today, be direct and sincere. If you beat about the bush or embellish your story, you might be rejected.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)

Don't be stingy with friends today. By the same token, don't be the only one who grabs the tab. Be fair to them as well as to yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)

Study important matters thoroughly today to avoid miscalculations. There's a chance you'll comprehend the boldface type but misread the fine print.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

Beware of tendencies today to magnify that which you do for another. If your contribution isn't what it should be, it will cause you embarrassment.

West was mighty lucky to get off the losing fork after South passed to his partner's takeout double of one club. Still, his one heart escape struck oil. East gave a very unsound raise to two and if South had doubled, the slaughter would have been terrific. South decided to go after his own game and went to two no-trump, which North raised to three.

South rose with dummy's queen of hearts at trick one and led the queen of clubs to West's king. West led another heart to South's ace.

South took the ace-jack of clubs while discarding two spades from dummy and stopped for long study.

He could lead a spade. Surely West held the ace, but that would have been an acceptance of down one and no one wins by accepting penalties. So South tried for game by playing diamonds.

He would have made an overtrick if the suit had broken, but it failed to behave and South was down two for minus-200 and a very bad score.

East and West were lucky indeed to have gotten off the losing fork, but East had made his own luck with his raise to two hearts with a balanced one-point hand. (NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)
