Did Judge 'Misinterpret' Law In Dismissing Case?

By MARK VOGLER
Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi may have "misinterpreted" the state's Speedy Trial Law when he dismissed vehicular-homicide charges last month against an 18-year-old Longwood man accused of killing a teen-age pedestrian, according to an official in Gov. Bob Graham's office.

Richard Schoditsch, executive director of prosecution coordination for the governor, said today that his office questions whether the judge took into consideration an apparent time ex-that case, the state should not be penalized," Schoditsch said.

"We have not made a final determination of this yet, but supposedly there are some valid legal reasons for the state's delay. And it appears the judge may have a different version of the law than the state does. We're going to look into it," he said.

Under the Speedy Trial Law, the state has 180 days to try a case after making an arrest. But that time period is extended in the event of a continuance, according to Schoditsch.

Meanwhile, the governor's office continues to investigate whether Seminole-Brevard State Attorney Douglas Cheshire and his staff acted properly in the prosecution of Jerome Alexander Jowals, who was charged with manslaughter in the death last May 17 of a 14-year-old girl and the injury of four others.

State Rep. Dick J. Batchelor, D-Orlando, Friday asked Graham to review the prosecution's handling of the case to determine whether Cheshire's office acted irresponsibly and thus contributed to the dismissal.

"This is the second case to be dismissed in this area in recent months, and these two cases have involved the deaths of four people," Batchelor wrote Graham in a Jan. 29 memorandum.

"It is imperative that someone be held accountable, and if there is misfeasance or malfeasance, the attorneys or state attorney involved should be charged with such misfeasance or malfeasance. I would like your expeditious response to this request," Batchelor said.

Schoditsch said he talked with Cheshire's office Friday and asked the state attorney to file a report on the prosecution's handling of the case.

Preliminary evidence appears to point toward a misunderstanding "by someone" on how the Speedy Trial Law operates, and the judge would seem to be at fault if he failed to extend the 180-day period to compensate for a continuance, Schoditsch said.

Salfi declined today to comment on Schoditsch's remarks.

"Since the case is still pending, it would be inappropriate for me to comment at this time," he said.

However, the judge did say that "there was nothing ever presented by the state" to support any questions raised over interpretation of the Speedy Trial Law.

Chief Assistant State Attorney Chris Ray last week said the state was considering an appeal of Salfi's dismissal on the grounds that the defense asked for and received additional time to prepare its case and therefore should have waived its right to a speedy trial.

Salfi said he was unaware the state planned to file an appeal of his decision.

Jowals was charged in the May 17, 1981, death of Laurie Anne Hebel, 14, of Longwood. She was killed after a car ran into a group of five girls who were walking along Wekiva Springs Road in Longwood at about 1:20 a.m.

Police investigating the accident later testified Jowals' blood-alcohol level tested at .24 percent two hours after the crash. Under state law, a person whose blood-alcohol level tests at .10 percent or higher is legally drunk.

Mary Anne Hebel, Laurie's 10-year-old sister, injured her arm, clavicle and pelvis in the crash. Three other girls, all from Longwood, were treated for minor injuries received in the accident.

tension before ruling the state had taken too long to bring the case to trial.

"As I understand it, the judge incorrectly assessed a grant of continuance for the defense which would extend the Speedy Trial Law beyond the 180 days. In

Policeman Charged In Arson Case

By TONY YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Following his arrest today on charges of solicitation for arson and insurance fraud, suspended Sanford police officer Walter L. Jones was granted a pre-trial release on his own recognizance.

At about 10 a.m. today, Jones, accompanied by his lawyer, Jack Bridges, turned himself in to jail authorities to face charges in connection with the 1980 arson of Jones' home at 1839 Jerry St.

The arrest follows Tuesday's Seminole County grand jury indictment in the arson case. Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler ordered the indictment sealed Tuesday afternoon until Jones was taken into custody.

According to Sanford police officials, Jones' status as a suspended police officer with pay remains intact pending further investigation of the incident or additional court action.

Jones' arrest follows in the wake of two guilty pleas and one conviction of persons who testified Jones paid them to burn the Jerry Street home so Jones could collect a $30,000 to $40,000 insurance policy.

Sharon Meeker, 31, of 606 Park Ave., Sanford, was found guilty of second-degree arson Jan. 25 after she testified in court it was for love of Jones and not for money that she helped two other people burn the 12-year police veteran's home.

James Michael Williams, 25, of Union Park, and his ex-wife Patricia, 34, of Lake Mary, confessed prior to Ms. Meeker's conviction of their participation in the arson.

against Ms. Meeker during her January trial before Leffler.

The three co-defendants have not been sentenced, but could face up to 15 years in state prison for their involvement in the incident. Williams and Ms. Williams are scheduled for sentencing March 11.

During her trial, Ms. Meeker said she helped set fire to Jones' home in the Goldsboro section of Sanford and that she intended to give the $2,000 promised from Jones for the torching to the other two defendants.

Williams and his ex-wife denied Ms. Meeker's assertions. Williams said he participated in the arson only in an effort to win back the love of his former wife, Patricia.

Ms. Williams testified during Ms. Meeker's trial that she went with Ms.

Meeker and Williams, at that time her husband, to purchase kerosene to fuel the fire. Prior to picking it up, they drove past Jones' girlfriend's home before going to the Jerry Street residence, she said. She added that the reason they drove past the girlfriend's home was to provide Jones with an alibi in the incident.

During Williams' trial, he said he and his wife separated early in 1980 but that he continued efforts for reconciliation. A week or two before Christmas that year, Williams said, he visited his ex-wife and Ms. Meeker in Sanford.

During that meeting, he said he was recruited to participate in the arson. He added that the two women appeared desperate for money and food, since they were unemployed, and the $2,000 payment for the arson was needed. Williams said he also saw the act as a chance to regain his wife's love.

On the evening of Dec. 29, he said, he, his ex-wife and Ms. Meeker met in Sanford, purchased fuel for the fire and a can of spray paint, then drove to the home on Jerry Street.

Reports indicated the spray paint was used to paint a racial slur on the front door of the home to confuse investigators as to the motive for the fire. (Jones is black.)

Williams said he and Patricia got out of the car and entered the house while Ms. Meeker drove around the block.

He testified the valuables had been removed from the home earlier but that he was instructed to remove some items for proof they had been in the home.

Major Flea Market Set For Five Points

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Construction is scheduled to begin Friday on the Orlando-Seminole Million Dollar Farm and Flea Market, to be located on a 12-acre site on U.S. Highway 17-92 across from the Seminole County Operations Complex at Five Points, south of Sanford.

Scheduled to open in early April, it will be the first flea market to be entirely under one roof in Seminole County. There will be 75,000 square feet of sales space for 300 merchants and free parking space for more than 800 cars.

The market complex also will include five permanent buildings for permanent salesrooms. The complex will cost an estimated $1 million.

The site already has been cleared, and asphalt will be poured Friday in the booth areas, as well as the parking lot. The market shed, which will have a galvanized roof and be open on the sides, will begin going up next week, according to the developer Syd Levy, owner of the United Trophy Manufacturing Co., with headquarters in Orlando and a branch in Seminole Plaza, Casselberry.

United Trophy will have a permanent sales showroom at the Orlando-Seminole market.

Levy said more than 150 merchants already have spoken for booths. Booths also will be available without charge for individuals wanting to clean out their attic or churches and non-profit groups, such as Little League, to raise funds, he said.

He said the market will be patterned after one in Daytona Beach and there will be a country fair-type atmosphere, with hot dogs, hamburgers, taffy apples and cotton candy.

Levy said he anticipates 40 to 50 percent of the space will be taken up by farm produce and the balance in new and used merchandise and services. "It's really a mini-mall, and the roof will protect shoppers and merchants from sun and rain," he said.

Double-Taxation Study Launched By Consultant

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

Research has begun on behalf of Seminole County's seven municipalities to determine whether the tax dollars their residents pay benefit only those people living in the county's unincorporated area.

To accomplish this goal, each municipal government appropriated a portion of $20,500 to pay for the detailed study. Kelton & Associates, a DeLand consulting firm specializing in "double taxation" research, was contracted in January to complete the six-month study.

Richard Kelton, president of the firm, says he knows local government. Prior to establishing his own consulting business, Kelton logged 13 years of experience as both a county and city budget officer, he says.

Kelton & Associates did 16 previous studies of taxing structures in Florida counties.

"We found evidence of double taxation to varying degrees throughout all the counties we've studied," Kelton said.

Florida is the only state that constitutionally prohibits spending countywide funds for services which do not provide countywide benefit, Kelton said.

One of the 16 studies his firm contributed to eventually led to a lawsuit on behalf of the cities in Palm Beach County. That county's municipalities asserted that countywide funds were being spent on services that did not benefit all residents equally, Kelton said.

The circuit court ruled in favor of the cities in the case and directed Palm Beach County to set $4.2 million aside in escrow for possible refunds. Meanwhile, the county has appealed the case to the 11th District Court of Appeals.

"Nobody's talking lawsuit here (in Seminole County)," Kelton said. "All we're talking is research to see whether double taxation exists."

Research on the issue will begin with Kelton's review of Seminole County's budget and financial records. Only revenues from the unincorporated part of the county will be studied to see whether the amount retrieved from taxes in those areas covers the cost of services provided there, Kelton said.

Sanford, Casselberry and Altamonte Springs are each paying $6,170 toward the study. Oviedo, Lake Mary, Winter Springs and Longwood are each paying $2,000.

Seminole's three largest cities are paying the majority of the study's cost because they originally proposed it, Kelton said.

If Kelton does determine the existence of double taxation in Seminole, city officials hope to negotiate a reduction of the county's 5.237 millage rate for property owners. One mill equals $1 tax for every $1,000 of taxable property a person owns.

Kelton is the only expert witness on double taxation certified to testify in trial court, he said.

Blanton Coach

Oviedo High School Principal Charlie Webb announced today that Jack Blanton will replace Joe Montgomery as head football coach at Oviedo.

Blanton, currently an assistant coach at Lake Brantley High School, was chosen "because of his years of coaching and he had paid the price experience wise."

Blanton replaces Joe Montgomery, who took a head coaching position at Pensacola Pine Forest and began his new job on Wednesday. Blanton will start Monday at Oviedo.

Lake Brantley High School's Patriots pulled the upset of the Five Star Conference race this far this season by knocking off previously unbeaten Spruce Creek. See Sports.

Etchberger Taking Over

Following the City Commission's confirmation Tuesday night, Altamonte Springs City Manager Jeff Etchberger will assume direct administration of the police department in the wake of Police Chief Barry Cook's resignation Monday.

The commission voted unanimously to authorize Etchberger, under city charter provisions, to serve the dual role of city manager and police administrator until such time as a new chief can be obtained.

Cook, 36, submitted his resignation to Etchberger Monday afternoon, citing "personal reasons" as his reason for leaving the $23,500-a-year post. Etchberger accepted Cook's resignation contingent on the receipt of the undated resignations of Cook's three police management support personnel. The undated resignations of Lt. Steven W. Garver, Edward J. Overman and Richard Laese were submitted to Etchberger, also citing "personal reasons" as their reasons for resignation.

"Barry (Cook) will begin transitioning out this week," Etchberger said. "But, because of his accrued vacation and leave time, his resignation will not be effective officially until April 1."

Etchberger said he has a management support team "intact, which was selected several weeks ago by Cook." The team will be in charge of the day-to-day operation of the department.

"I don't intend to play cop," Etchberger said. "I won't carry a gun. I won't wear a badge. And I won't drive the police chief's car. I will leave the actual law-enforcement operation to those who have been entrusted with those duties."

Garver has been named to head the police management team comprised of four sergeants and a reserve officer, until the anticipated three-month search for a new chief can be completed.

Overman and Laese have been assigned to the patrol division as shift supervisors," Etchberger said.

Etchberger said he will appoint a new chief, following the commission's confirmation of the appointee, without utilizing a police-chief selection committee as has been the practice in selecting other city department heads. He said the chief's position is "unique" and "I want a person in there whose management philosophies mesh with those policies I have."

"Barry did an outstanding job as chief in a very tumultuous time," Etchberger said. "He was appointed by then Mayor (Norman C.) Floyd (Sr.) as the mayor's final official act under

Bush 'Assassination' Try Just A Falling Stone

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A "loud bang" on the roof of Vice President George Bush's car triggered fears of a possible assassination attempt. But hours later, authorities determined the noise was caused by a fallen rock or stone.

"There was no assault on the vice president," law enforcement officials concluded, saying the object apparently dropped from an overhead construction site.

Slave Boss Gets Life

NEW BERN, N.C. (UPI) — Saying he wanted to "sound a warning heard throughout eastern North Carolina and the nation," a federal judge sentenced a man Tuesday to life in prison for plotting to enslave workers in a camp where one man died.

U.S. District Judge W. Earl Britt also sentenced John Lester Harris, 39, of Bullock County, Ala., to consecutive five-year prison terms on three other counts involving the kidnapping of one worker and the enslavement of three laborers.

Ford Offering Rebates

DETROIT (UPI) — Ford Motor Co. is going against its sales philosophy and offering car buyers rebates ranging from $2,000 to $750 to compete with industry-leading General Motors.

The announcement Tuesday came just after the conclusion of a day of negotiations between Ford and the United Auto Workers on an early contract agreement designed to help pull the auto industry from its worst slump since the Great Depression.

Reagan Meets Mubarak

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House spotlight focuses on the troubled Middle East today, with President Reagan meeting with Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak.

Mubarak, in the United States for the first time since the assassination last fall of his predecessor, Anwar Sadat, is expected to discuss what he considers unkept promises of U.S. aid and Palestinian autonomy.

Boy's Death Leads To 'War'

CHARLTON, Mass. (UPI) — The death of a 5-year-old boy apparently strangled by dogs tugging on his scarf has prompted town officials to declare war on stray dogs.

Benjamin Mazza, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Mazza of Charlton, was found unconscious Jan. 25 on packed snow about 75 feet from his home. He died the next day at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center in Worcester.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: A South Plains snowstorm smothered northern Oklahoma with 16 inches of snow, left Panhandle Texans up to their hip pockets in drifts and set off on a well-worn path today for the beleaguered Midwest. At least 56 deaths were blamed on back-to-back storms since the weekend. Oil City, Pa., was living under the threat of more flooding today as damage estimates from weekend floods of up to 8 feet rose above $4 million. Huge hunks of jagged ice were removed by bulldozers from town streets Tuesday. Pennsylvania also is the home of Punxsutawney Phil, the nation's kingpin groundhog forecaster. Phil's fat, exceptionally dark shadow Tuesday foretold of six more weeks of winter. The latest onslaught of the savage winter weather hit the Southern Plains Tuesday and was expected to move rapidly across the middle Mississippi Valley into the Ohio Valley today. Storm watches for between 4-8 inches of snow extended all the way north to Michigan's Upper Peninsula. The Northern Plains suffered under 20-below-zero temperatures and flooding became a worry in the Midwest from snow runoff. In contrast, a warm front moved into the Gulf Coast producing heavy rain over much of the South.

5 Charged In Kidnapping

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Four Seminole County residents and a Hialeah man were being held in the county jail without bond today for the Sunday night kidnapping of a man from an Orlando restaurant in that city.

Helen D. Reese, 20, Mary Ann Brown, 19, John A. Pyatt, 22, and Kendall G. Williams, 18, all of the Plantation Apartments, 2100 Howell Branch Road, Winter Park, were arrested and charged with the abduction of Carl I. Vitner, 20, of Orlando. Billy W. Wheeler, 23, of Hialeah, was also arrested in connection with the kidnapping, deputies said.

Sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said Vitner was abducted from Chi-Chi's restaurant on Maguire Boulevard at about 10 p.m. Sunday. Vitner was taken to the apartment complex, tied up and locked in a closet in the apartment rented by Ms. Brown, Pyatt and Ms. Reese, Spolski said.

Vitner was also threatened with a handgun and robbed of his wallet during the incident, he added.

Vitner managed to free himself and drove to the Winter Park Hospital for treatment of minor injuries sustained during the kidnapping.

Deputies said the abductors left no notes or ransom during the ordeal. Spolski said the incident may have been somehow drug-related.

The five arrestees could face a sentence of life in prison if convicted of kidnapping, a first degree felony, Spolski said.

OFFICER SUES LONGWOOD

Undercover narcotics officer Danielle Michele Dow has filed a civil lawsuit against the city of Longwood for demoting her to patrolman, thereby subjecting her to what she calls "grave personal danger."

Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. has issued a temporary restraining order preventing the city from going ahead with Ms. Dow's demotion.

In her suit, Ms. Dow alleges that Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning informed her Jan. 7 that she was being pulled off special assignment with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department as a narcotics investigator and placed on patrol duty.

Manning gave no reason for his decision, in violation of a state law called the Policeman's Bill of Rights, the suit says.

Ms. Dow says the demotion was "arbitrary, capricious and without foundation." She says in the suit that she will suffer loss of benefits and be exposed to "grave personal danger" if her identity is made public.

The demotion was all the more unusual, the suit points out, because prior to downgrading Ms. Dow's status Manning had described her drug investigating work as "exemplary."

RACE FILM STOLEN

Thieves broke into a Longwood man's home at about 8:30 a.m. Monday, stealing numerous items including a roll of 35mm film of the 24 hours of Daytona car race.

Paul A. Troia, 28, of 165A Springwood Circle, said someone pried the molding and lock from his door, ransacked his home and stole two cameras, one containing the film, a stereo, cassette tape decks, a man's watch and a man's class ring, sheriff's deputies said.

SILVERWARE STOLEN

Burglars broke into a south Seminole County woman's home sometime between 6:55 a.m. and 4:40 p.m. and stole silverware and other items.

The thieves broke into the home of Ruth Ward, 47, of 2814 Casa Alorna Way in Winter Park, by removing the bathroom

Boat Ramp Denied For Bear Gully Lake

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

Only a certain number of boats will fit on a 138-acre lake at one time. That's why a 560-square-foot boat ramp requested to service a new 38-unit subdivision on Bear Gully Lake near Goldenrod was denied by the Seminole County commission Tuesday on a 4-1 vote.

Commissioners based the denial primarily on residents' arguments that extra boat traffic (the ramp) would cause serious safety hazards.

Commissioner Robert "Bud" Feather was the only opponent of Commissioner William Kirchhoff's motion to deny a dredge and fill permit request from Hazel Mathers. The boat ramp would have been part of a recreational complex planned by developers of the Gully Bay Subdivision.

Feather said he voted against the motion because part of the benefits of Florida's lifestyle involved watersports. People should not be denied access to a lake simply because they do not own waterfront property, he said.

Six of the 38 Gully Bay lots will border on the lake and their owners will be allowed to build boat ramps. If other residents want access to the lake, perhaps, those six waterfront residents will allow others to use their ramps, the commission said.

Based on his own research, Raymond A. Seifert, representative of the Bear Gully Lake Home Owners Association, said the lake could only safely accommodate seven or eight power boats at one time.

"There are already 24 power boats owned by various people around the lake," Seifert said. "A 38-unit subdivision is going to far exceed our capacity. We're already exceeding our capacity."

Bear Gully Lake is very clean, with little bacterial or algae growth, according to Commissioner Sandra Glenn. Additional boat traffic on the lake and the people who accompany it might be detrimental, she said.

Commissioner Kirchhoff said the Bear Gully Lake bottom is owned by each of the residents on its shore, not by the county. If the county permitted the boat ramp, it would have to accept some responsibility for complications it would cause, he said.

"Lakefront lot owners suffer the most. They complain about noise and litter and the hours of the people using the lake," Kirchhoff said. "Where's the county going to get the money to police that lake?"

Suspending Students May Soon Be Easier

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Senate will soon take up a bill making it easier for public school principals to suspend troublesome students.

The Senate Education Committee approved Melbourne Sen. Clark Maxwell's bill (SB 107) Tuesday and sent it to the Senate floor.

The committee did agree to an amendment requiring the principal to hold a brief hearing before the youth is kicked out of school.

Currently, principals can suspend a student only after employing "parental assistance or other alternative measures" except in the case of "emergency or disruptive conditions."

Principals and teachers have complained that the law was too tight to let them deal immediately with students who are causing trouble or chaos although not to the point of an emergency.

TV, JEWELRY STOLEN

Thieves broke into the home of Stanley Stanly, Jr. 31, of Longwood, at about 5:49 a.m. Monday and made off with two television sets and a box of jewelry.

Deputies said the burglars broke into the home, at 114 Ledbury Drive, by breaking a lock on a door.

The broken door was discovered by a neighbor who heard a loud noise and called deputies.

Stanly is slated to provide deputies with a complete list of the stolen items soon.

WHO CALLED THE MOVERS?

When Joan Carol Mancina, 35, of Longwood returned to her home after picking up her daughter from school at about 3:30 p.m. Monday, she discovered a man loading his car with her property.

Deputies said Mrs. Mancina, of 166B Springwood Circle, came home and saw a man was putting her TV into his car. When she asked him what he was doing, he reached into a bag and removed a pry bar and threatened her. Mrs. Mancina backed away, then bent his license plate so that only one letter and number were visible, and drove away, deputies said.

Deputies said the man had broken into the apartment by kicking in the door. Once inside, he stole the TV, a telephone, and several pieces of jewelry.

HIDDEN MONEY STOLEN

Thieves broke into a Fern Park man's home sometime between 8 a.m. and 11:30 a.m. Monday and stole $300 hidden in an 8-track tape deck.

Deputies said burglars broke into the home of Rouben Sami, 60, of 2455 Carleton Road, by removing the bedroom window pane. Entry had also been attempted at three other windows, deputies said.

The home was ransacked and the money was taken from the victim's son's room, deputies said.

SANFORD HERO

Everyone has their heroes and Kathleen C. Hardy, 77, of Sanford found one in a Sanford man Monday.

Mrs. Hardy of 608 Palmetto Avenue was accosted by an unknown man as she was walking north on the sidewalk in front of 221 Magnolia Avenue, Sanford police said. The man grabbed her purse which contained about $120 and ran.

Mrs. Hardy's cries for help fell on ears of neighbors who rushed to her aid. One of the Good Samaritans, Tony Flowers, 25, of Sanford, found Mrs. Hardy's purse, at the alleyway on 4th Street between Magnolia and Palmetto Avenues, deputies said.

Apparently, the robber dropped the purse in his haste to make his escape, deputies said. The $120 was still in the purse, and was returned to Mrs. Hardy by Flowers.

House And Senate Tell Drunk Drivers: 'Go Directly To Jail'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Some legislators are willing to risk having to raise taxes later to get tough on drunk drivers now.

A bill jailing most people arrested for driving while intoxicated was approved by the Senate Judiciary-Civil Committee 5-3 Tuesday. It (CS-SB 39, 285, 312, 351, 432) is scheduled to be taken up by the full Senate Thursday.

A similar bill has cleared House committees and is ready for the House floor.

Virtually all drunken or drugged drivers would spend two or three days in jail upon the first offense and longer on subsequent offenses under the Senate bill, whose prime sponsor is Senate Majority Leader Pete Skinner of Lake City, who pleaded no contest to a drunk driving charge shortly before the 1982 session began.

Tampa Sen. David McClain said many Florida counties already are under court orders requiring them to reduce the inmate population in their jails to eliminate overcrowding. Jailing drunk drivers will severely worsen the situation.

"If you're going to vote for this bill, I think you had better be ready to pass the one cent sales tax to give the counties the facilities that will be necessary," McClain argued.

Mandatory jail terms should have such a deterrent effect on drunk driving that the actual number of people being jailed might be minor, countered Skinner and Judiciary-Civil Chairman Harry Johnston of West Palm Beach.

Whatever the strain imposed on local jails, the benefit to the public will be worth it, they argued, because drunk driving cases and alcohol-related traffic accidents will go down.

Johnston, who tried unsuccessfully to win legislative approval of a similar bill several years ago, said a friend of his who once served as a Seminole County judge put drunk drivers in jail and the result was a dramatic decrease in DWI arrests and booze-related accidents.

"He had little old ladies in tennis shoes in jail on weekends and it worked."

Current law requires a mandatory jail sentence for second or subsequent offenses of DWI, but many judges ignore it.

Senate Judiciary-Criminal Chairman Ken Jenne, whose committee approved the proposal last Thursday, said the public will demand enforcement of mandatory jail terms for first-time drunk driving offenders as well as repeat offenders.

Under the proposal, people with a blood alcohol content of .05 percent — the result of two or three beers or drinks in a half-hour or 45 minutes — would go to jail for at least two days and be fined $250. People with a blood alcohol content of .10 — the result of four to six drinks in an hour, would be jailed for at least three days and be fined $500.

The plan says someone refusing to take a urine test to detect the presence of drugs in the bloodstream, loses his or her driver's license for three months on the first offense, and six months on later offenses.

It abolishes the "work permit" currently given to people losing their driver's license, which allows them to continue to drive to and from their jobs.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Sales Tax Hike Unlikely Despite Growing Support

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Despite an upswell of support from big business, educators, transportation groups, real-estate brokers and even a few ordinary citizens, House Finance and Tax Chairman Steve Pajcic says an increase in the sales tax is not likely this year.

Pajcic says he doesn't expect the Legislature to vote either the half-cent local option sales tax hike proposed by Gov. Bob Graham to help cities and counties fight crime and provide property tax relief — or the general penny sales tax increase proposed by some legislative leaders to raise $800 million a year in new state revenue.

A 'Routine Hijacking'

KEY WEST (UPI) — A "scared" young Latin man gulped down a cocktail, then hijacked an Air Florida jet to Cuba with a cigarette lighter and a plastic bottle he said contained gasoline. Less than three hours later, the passengers and crew had returned safely.

It was the first successful hijacking in the United States in nearly seven months and Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Jack Barker said it was "a routine hijacking... the best kind."

Publicity Kills Crackdown

ORLANDO (UPI) — State farm-labor officials have called off a proposed weeklong sweep of citrus groves and vegetable fields in central and southern Florida, saying publicity had made the operation ineffective.

Teams from the Florida State Employment Service joined local police and deputies Monday in setting up roadblocks and making checks in at least 12 counties. The sweep was to combat criticism that Florida doesn't enforce its farm-labor laws. Officials were seeking illegal aliens, substandard conditions and labor-law violations.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Poles Praying For End To Martial Law

WAISAW, Poland (UPI) — Poles packed Roman Catholic churches to pray for an end to martial law in a show of religious solidarity called by the church hierarchy to push military rulers into restoring civil rights.

Justice Minister Sylwester Zawadzki said Tuesday 4,177 Poles still held under martial law will be released only if they sign loyalty pledges or agree to go into foreign exile.

Gen. Dozier Coming Home

VICENZA, Italy (UPI) — U.S. Gen. James Dozier blamed himself for not heeding Italian warnings of a terrorist plot, but left Italy today for a hero's welcome in Washington and a prayer breakfast Thursday at the White House.

At a wide-ranging news conference Tuesday on his 42 days of captivity, Dozier, 50, described his Red Brigades captors as "well organized" and "smart" — criminals "near the top of the heap."

SEATTLE (UPI) — Postal Service employee Robert Green is now sorting the mail with his left hand — four months after being told he must do it the "right" way or lose his job.

Green first thought his superiors were joking when they told him he had to hold the letters with his left hand and sort them with his right — the way the postal manual says it should be done.

But they were serious, enforcing rules aimed at increasing manual production under a Postal Service program called "Back to Basics."

"I thought it was asinine," Green said after four months of doing it the wrong "right" way. "It still bothers me. But it won't anymore."

Green kept his job by putting up with the frustration of doing a less efficient job while his union and Lefthanders International lobbied for an unusual change in the regulations.

"It's not very often they change the Postal Service manual," Green said Monday, after Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., announced the Postal Service had made peace with its left-handed workers.

"It was an arbitrary rule," Green said, citing the passage: "The mail will be held with the left hand and cased with the right hand."

"But that regulation is going to be taken out of the manual and there will be no reference to left or right anymore. I was told a new manual will be coming out in a few months."

Green said he was informed Postmaster General William F. Bolger would make a statement today that all postal clerks will be able to sort mail with either hand.

Jackson appealed a regional Postal Service policy on behalf of Green and other left-handers who said they can sort mail more efficiently with their dominant hand.

"This is a great victory for left-handers," Jackson said. "There obviously is no place in this country for discrimination against left-handers."

Green said publicity of his predicament, including interviews by newspapers and radio talk shows from coast to coast, helped bring about the unprecedented victory for lefties.

He also expressed thanks to Sen. Jackson's office and to Lefthanders International, a Topeka, Kan., organization he said "tries to have fun with being left-handed but occasionally becomes involved in a cause when a left-hander is not being dealt with correctly."

Newsman 'Not Always A Spectator'

VIENNA, Va. (NEA) — Like Kilroy, the unforgettable character of World War II fame, Boyd DeWolf Lewis was there.

He was there at the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti in Massachusetts in 1927; he was there at the German surrender at Reims; he was there through the years of Eisenhower, Kennedy and Johnson.

For 45 years Lewis saw events unfold and visualized them in the form of pictures recorded in his mind for later use. As a reporter, war correspondent and editor, he recorded many of those events onto paper for the world to see and read.

Ten years ago Lewis retired from the newspaper business, but he did not retire from life.

At age 76, he lives on the fringes of Vienna, Va., with Hazel, his wife of 52 years. Their home is a Thoreau-ish haven on a four-acre "splendid island of isolation" on Spring Lake.

It is there, in the northeast light of his study, that Lewis continues to create pictures. His tools and talents have grown over the years to include oil paints and brushes for portraits, pens for sketches and a typewriter for his writings.

From newspaperman and sometime cartoonist to a portrait and maritime painter, Lewis has taken another step with the recently published story of his life.

The idea was born a few years ago when he awoke from a sound sleep and thought "Not Always a Spectator." It became the title of his autobiography and, he says, the theme of his life. "I suddenly realized that in spite of my objectivity, I was not always a spectator of events. I like objective reporting, but I know now that it is impossible for a sensitive, feeling reporter not to get involved," Lewis says.

Lewis, whose twinkling eyes and hardy frame belie his years and gray hair, talks excitedly about his creation — his "child," as he refers to his book.

Not only did Lewis write and illustrate "Not Always a Spectator." He even set up his own company (Wolf's Head Press) to publish the 327-page book.

Like his reporting, he says, his book deals with the human side of news.

"It has been a fulfilling way of life, being not just an onlooker but a participant in life. I could have gone on painting and playing golf — and I considered it at the time — but it seemed while I had full vitality that I should write about my life. It meant a great deal to me and it meant a great deal to a lot of people," he says.

Lewis takes the reader back in time to his beginning in the newspaper business at age 21. He chuckles when he recalls how he "blundered" into journalism by answering a tiny help-wanted advertisement that offered "opportunity unlimited" to a qualified editorial assistant who was "intelligent and ambitious."

He decided he was both and managed to convince a United Press editor that he was right. His career catapulted with electrifying speed into the tumultuous '20's and '30's.

Looking back at his career, Lewis is almost incredulous. He writes breathlessly:

"What youngster could imagine himself propelled, with dizzying swiftness, off the Bostonian springboard to New York, Chicago, London, Paris, Berlin — a thousand datelines. To meet presidents, generals, aviators, scientist, spies, soldiers, surgeons. To write thousands of dispatches and be published on thousands of front pages. "To cover combat as a front line war correspondent, sampling, as recipient in London and Antwerp, the rocket war of the future. To be an eyewitness to the ignominious German surrender at Reims and to the incredible German postwar recovery. To maneuver his reporters behind Russia's Iron Curtain and into Communist China before any others."

One of his first assignments was to cover the last days of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, who were convicted of murder and executed. Lewis was the reporter who obtained from Vanzetti, in his prison cell, his famous "testament to the world."

He is also the reporter who wrote sympathetically of soldiers suffering from trench foot during World War II in Europe because the U.S. Army made a mistake in supplying winter clothing to its men.

At age 39, he became executive editor of Newspaper Enterprise Association, a cousin of the United Press, and 18 years later became its president.

Despite his distinguished past, Lewis is a humble man, still awed by innovations and world events, by their greater small. He is still impressed by ingenuity and talent, touched by the beauty of life and love.

In his studio filled with his own portraits of family members and friends, he points with pride to an autographed photo of Charles Lindbergh, to shelves of autographed novels by such great authors as Cornelius Ryan ("A Bridge Too Far") and to original drawings by famous cartoonists ("I was one of them gone wrong").

Lewis describes himself as a "doer." He cherishes moments with his children, grandchildren and great grandchildren, and he continues to play a "mean" game of tennis and an awful game of golf.

"I want to be a doer until I can't do any more. Then I will happily go wherever I am destined to go," he says.

Of Time And The Soviets

Although not generally recognized, the great struggle of this generation between the Communist Empire and the Free World is joined most decisively, for the moment at least, on the economic front. And the history-making good news that we should keep in perspective is that the Communists are in difficulties so enormous that their whole system is being called into question.

Comparing U.S. economic woes, as intractable as they may seem, to Soviet shortages, is to describe the difference between a mere chill and double pneumonia.

The Soviet Union's annual economic report for 1981, issued recently, was so bleak that it broke with precedent and withheld grain harvest figures, judged to be politically embarrassing. To make up this shortfall, the worst since 1975, the Soviets must import 40 million tons of grain, including 23 million tons from the United States.

The recurring grain shortage in turn adds to increasing shortage in meats and milk. Food so scarce must be rationed and it can be purchased only by standing interminably in lengthening queues — a distinguishing feature of communist societies. Economic laws being immutable even in the Soviet Union, such scarcity bids up prices to the point that the average Russian family now spends 50-70 percent of its budget on food. And the Soviet government itself spends an astonishing 27 percent of its entire investment allocations on the faltering, state-run agricultural sector.

Production lags overall, thanks to the Soviets' flawed central planning system, which tends to make a sort of Russian postoffice of the entire economy. Soviet growth averaged only 2.9 percent during the last six years compared with a U.S. rate of 3.5 percent; it could fall as low as two percent this year. With an average monthly income fixed by the government at $237 and without incentive, labor productivity continues to decline.

Thus oppressed by low income and scarce consumer goods, Soviet citizens are lapsing into wholesale loafing and drinking — drinking on a scale that is endangering national health. Even the Communist Party newspaper Pravda observed earlier this month that "We obviously have an abnormal situation here ..."

The abnormal is becoming more so because of mighty forces outside the Soviet Union. The Polish crisis during the last two years has drained off about $10 billion in Soviet economic assistance, including food shipments to prevent public disorders. Moreover, the Polish difficulties have further dislocated the already-disordered Soviet bloc economies. The mounting cost of maintaining far-flung Soviet outposts in Cuba, Africa, and Asia cost 10 billion tons of oil last year and forced an increase in gold sales from 90 tons in 1980 to 200 tons in 1981. The strains, on the Soviet economy, in short, are beginning to be quite painful.

It is no wonder, then, that the prospects of a renaissance America, recovering its neglected military strength, are viewed with dismay by the aging Kremlin leadership. There is, therefore, reason to believe some authoritative Moscow watchers who say Leonid Brezhnev for once would like to negotiate an arms reduction with the United States.

Other observers warn that the Soviets may lash out to ward off an internal collapse and seize the oil fields around the Persian Gulf. This short-term danger is not to be minimized and can be guarded against only through renewed U.S. strength. But beyond our immediate concerns, there is real encouragement because communism is everywhere discredited. Time is on our side. This emerging reality is perhaps the most significant development in the waning decades of the 20th century.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I'm not qualified to do ANYTHING, but I am VERY lucky!"

DON GRAFF

It's Leak City

Every president has the right to attempt to run a tight-lipped ship.

Which is another way of saying that the most notable aspect of Washington's current flap over information leaks is its familiarity. We've been there before, with almost every president in recent memory.

But that's not necessarily the bad news. If Ronald Reagan can rise above his understandable pique of the moment, there are a number of how-to and how-not-to pointers to be picked up from his predecessors.

To start with, leaks are not the exception but the rule in any administration. Information is power in Washington — power to shape policy, power to advance some programs and careers and to do others in.

A super-zealous press corps is usually credited with — or blamed for — making public confidential information about public affairs. Some members of the press like to think of themselves in such a role, and can put a great deal of effort into acting it out.

But when real masters of the game are in action, the press is usually merely being used as the most convenient channel to get the desired word around.

The calculated but unofficial disclosure of information is an effective technique of practical politics employed at every decision-making level of government right up to the Oval Office. At less-elevated levels, it is sometimes the only way of getting a hearing for dissenting views, particularly in administrations characterized by powerful presidential personalities or dogmatic philosophies in which dissenters tend to be steamrollered in internal councils.

Dealing with this situation is essentially a matter of administration housekeeping, but you'd never know it from the way most presidents suddenly discovering leaks as a problem go about resolving it. Controlling the flow of information is elevated to a matter of national policy, ostensibly justifying measures ranging from the ludicrous — lie detector tests — to the disturbing and sinister — restricting access to official information and officials, punitive legislation, wiretapping and worse.

Such measures are usually undertaken in the name of national security, but very rarely with real justification. If threats are posed by leaks, they usually are to reputations and egos of those presently or formerly in office.

When you get right down to the heart of the uproar, that was what possibly the biggest leak of all — the Pentagon Papers — was all about. And the would-be controllers, it should be remembered, lost that one. In court.

The effort to control can lead to worse than leaks, as Richard Nixon discovered. And it can take a particularly unpleasant turn when an angered president takes the situation personally.

Lyndon Johnson of the immense ego and short fuse is the classic example, as we've had no end of reminders recently. Incensed when word got out through sources other than his own as to personnel and policy decisions in which he had taken a personal interest, he was known to call off appointments to major government posts and change or delay implementing the leaked policies.

Taken to that extreme, the effort to control the flow of information for the sake of public ends up in making policy for the purpose of controlling information.

That is no way to plug a leak — let alone to run a ship.

Integrity Panel Probed For Claims

WASHINGTON — The President's Council on Integrity and Efficiency, of all things, is the target of a congressional investigation. Its integrity and efficiency have been called into question.

The council was formed with great fanfare by President Reagan to coordinate the efforts of the government's inspectors general — the "junkyard dogs" the administration sipped on crooks and incompetents in the federal bureaucracy. It is made up of the IGs themselves, plus additional representatives from the far corners of the administration. The man in charge is Edwin Harper, No. 2 man in the Office of Management and Budget.

The president himself appeared in the White House press room last December to express his personal delight with the council's work.

"I promised we'd follow every lead, root out every incompetent and prosecute every crook

Open wide and show us those pearly white teeth ... this is National Dental Week. To celebrate local dentists and their assistants will be making house calls (schoolhouse, that is) spreading the gospel of good dental hygiene to elementary school children.

They will be speaking, showing dental health films, providing visual examinations and teaching preventive techniques. Poster contests will also be conducted on the local and state levels to promote dental health awareness.

So kids, the word is: "Teeth are meant to last a lifetime!" If you brush properly, floss, practice good nutrition, use fluorides and have regular dental checkups you can keep your smile healthy and clean and, hopefully, you'll be able to utter those famous words, "Look, Mom, no cavities!"

Should you get a cavity, you'll find the dentist office a far cry from the drab, severe torture chamber of my childhood. Today's dentist offices are brightly decorated, have contour ouches, hi-fi music and head phones, sweet young things to clean your teeth and take their picture with a fancy X-ray machine and new techniques and equipment which speed up treatment and minimize the pain. My dentist even has current magazines!

So, if it's all that great, why do they have to keep sending reminders it's time for my checkup? Don't ask. Besides it takes time to get a second mortgage on your home to pay the bill.

Concerned about drug abuse? Parents of Lake Mary High School students and all other interested persons are invited to attend a two-part informative program on chemical abuse to be held at the Lake Mary High School auditorium this Monday 7:30-8:30 p.m. and Tuesday 7:30-8:45 p.m.

In addition to the latest factual information, guest speakers are included in the program. Testimonies will be given by a parent and a student who have been involved in chemical abuse. The Altamonte Springs Police Department will be on hand on Tuesday evening with a display of drug paraphernalia and, if available, burning marijuana.

One of the most positive influences on the young men and boys of this country has been — and still is — Boy Scouting, which celebrates 71 years of serving America this month. Boy Scout Week will be observed Feb. 7-13.

The alumni of this organization is 60 million strong and has provided 65 percent of the Air Force Academy graduates, 68 percent of the West Point graduates, 70 percent of the Annapolis graduates, 72 percent of the Rhodes scholars, and 26 of the first 29 astronauts.

The first man to set foot on the moon was an Eagle Scout. During World War II one-third of the military men were Scouts, but they earned two-thirds of the medals issued for bravery.

OUR READERS WRITE

On Reapportionment

This past Sunday afternoon a bipartisan committee met at Democratic State Committeeman Bill Wark's office to discuss reapportionment of Seminole County. The committee was comprised of the mayors of each city in Seminole County or their representatives, the chairman of the county commission, former Democratic State Senator Mack Cleveland, Troy Piland, Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee, Jack Horner from the Sanford Chamber of Commerce, John Squires from Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and president Com Bank - Seminole County, various city commissioners, Helen Schnelker of Seminole Citizens News, Donna Estes of Sanford Herald, Representative Bobby Brantley, Representative Bob Hattaway, and concerned citizens.

The purpose of this meeting was to transcend party lines and arrive at a consensus as to the best possible plan to reapportion Seminole County for all citizens of our county.

Representative Bobby Brantley presented a modified plan which kept the majority of the cities in the county intact. The Brantley plan received widespread support as the best way to redraw the district lines within Seminole County. Representative Hattaway's plan only kept two cities intact. Senator Mack Cleveland made a motion and Commissioner Bob Sturm seconded it that supported the Brantley Plan and directed Representatives Brantley and Hattaway to work together to implement this new plan. The vote was unanimous.

On Monday morning Representative Brantley presented his plan to Representative Fran Carlton, who is responsible for drawing the Central Florida Regional lines, and informed her that a bipartisan committee of local mayors and elected officials as well as himself and Representative Hattaway were in total accord on this plan.

Later on Monday Representative Hattaway said he did not support the plan because it split Altamonte Springs and Sanford. Hogwash! Pete Knowles from Sanford stated at the meeting on Sunday that Sanford would be represented by two Seminole County Representatives and he could agree to the plan with Highway 17-92 being a natural boundary between the two districts. Altamonte Springs mayor Ray Ambrose and city Commissioner Dudley Bates both agreed to the plan. The main split in Altamonte was as a concession to Representative Hattaway so he wouldn't be in the same district as Representative Brantley.

Why would Bob Hattaway agree to support the wishes of the elected officials and the bipartisan committee on Sunday and then go back on his word on Monday? Obviously to serve his own interests. His excuse about splitting Altamonte Springs and Sanford is a dog that won't hunt. Representatives of both cities agreed to the plan.

Representative Hattaway's plan is an extension of his dislike for Bobby Brantley as he would have Brantley run in a district with approximately 15,000 Seminole County residents and about 68,000 in Lake and Marion counties. Representative Brantley has served Seminole County admirably and deserves to serve in a predominately Seminole County seat. Hattaway probably doesn't want to run against Bobby Brantley and he probably doesn't want to run against Troy Piland. In he trying to carve out a favorable seat for himself and sacrifice a fair reapportionment for the citizens of our county?

I also feel that Representative Fran Carlton should implement the plan supported by the mayors and city and county officials. I resent that she would go along with Representative Hattaway, acting as a maverick, simply out of loyalty to a fellow Democrat.

The Clark Matter

They laughed when William Clark, a California supreme court justice, was named to the number two spot in Alexander Haig's State Department.

Clark had no experience in foreign affairs and at his Senate confirmation hearings could not even name the prime minister of South Africa. Ha, ha, ha.

Within a year, however, Clark had gained the respect of Haig and of the professionals with whom he dealt at State, and today no one is laughing about Clark's appointment as Reagan's national security advisor.

As a matter of fact, though he has heretofore not been much noticed by the national media, Bill Clark has had one of the more remarkable careers in American government, and his track record is very impressive. In every public post he has held, he has far exceeded all expectations in his performance on the job.

In 1966, Ronald Reagan swept to a million vote victory over Pat Brown in the California governorship race. Reagan had not been long installed in Sacramento when a homosexual scandal rocked his staff. Clark stepped in, completely unflappable, and got the Reagan operation back on the tracks.

I myself worked for Reagan as a speech writer in his unsuccessful presidential campaign of 1968, and I found Clark, as chief of staff, to be one of the most effective administrators I have ever met. He is, religiously, a conservative Catholic but — like Caspar Weinberger, he came to the Reagan staff from the moderate wing of California Republicanism.

Clark's ability to deal with and reconcile very different sorts of people comes not only from his intelligence but from his palpable good nature. Through all the crises of that weird year of 1968 — Berkeley riots, Black Panthers in Oakland, the Bobby Kennedy and Martin Luther King assassinations, and cities burning — Clark remained a pillar of sanity and common sense.

Some eyebrows were raised when Reagan appointed Clark to the California Supreme Court, since he had no notable legal reputation, but his performance as a justice earned the admiration of the critics and skeptics.

The rationale for his appointment as national security advisor is clear enough.

When he took office a year ago, Reagan was determined not to have a two-headed foreign policy operation. He did not want a repeat of the feuds between Kissinger and Rogers and between Brzezinski and Vance. He therefore downgraded the security advisor post, and named Richard Allen to it.

At the end of the first year, agreement was reached in the White House that the new system was not working. Allen, with a reduced staff and without regular access to the president, lacked the clout to coordinate the administration's foreign policy. Haig, Weinberger and others frequently issued contradictory statements; no foreign policy anchor existed at the White House.

But if the post of national security advisor were to be upgraded, in effect adding a fourth man to the Meese-Baker-Deaver troika, then that would be a delicate operation indeed. The troika itself defies all sound administrative practice. Only because of the unique personal chemistry involved has it worked well.

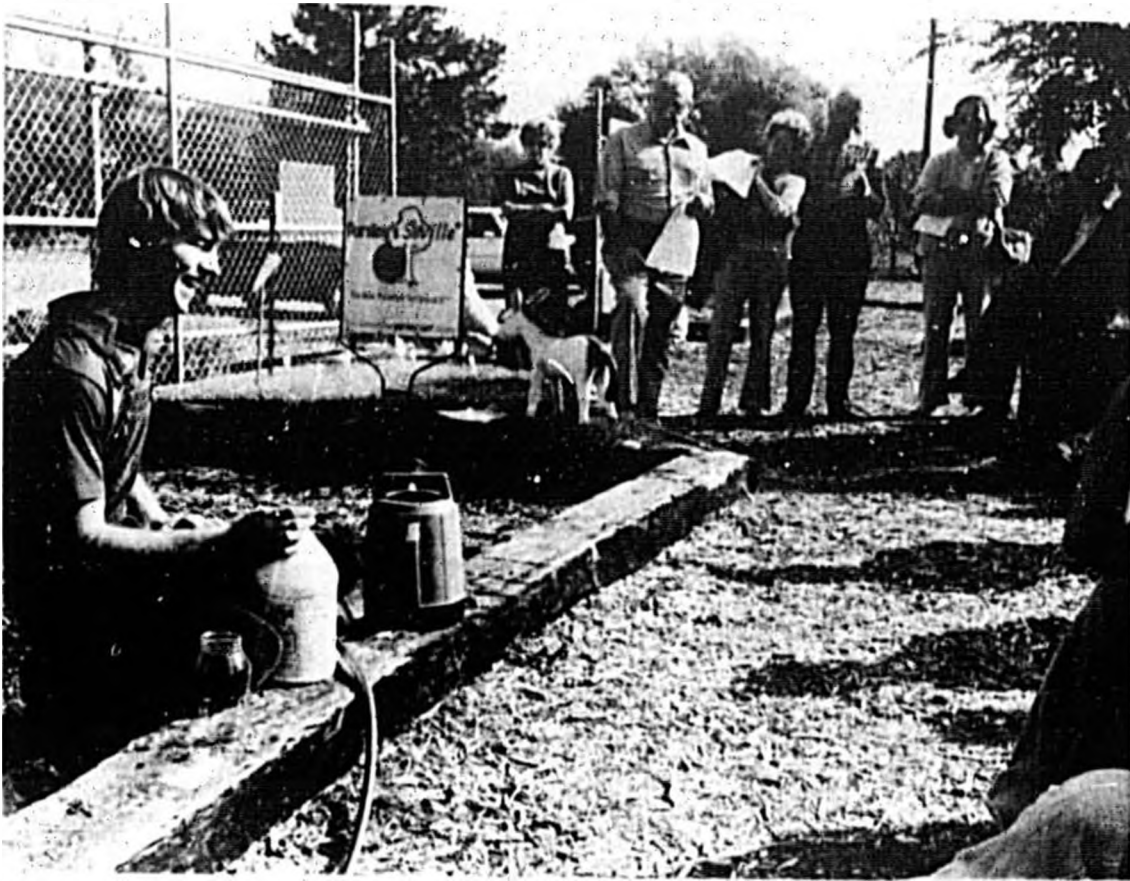

The members of the troika like and trust Clark. Meese and Deaver, in particular, have known and worked with Clark for years.

together as if they were separate cases.

—The lack of hard data on which the glowing percentages were based. Dingell noted that the fact sheet accompanying the second report claimed "a 46 percent increase in recoveries, a 50 percent increase in indictments and a 28 percent increase in convictions over the past six months." But the congressman complained: "Unfortunately, one cannot independently verify these percentage increase figures. . . ."

—The second report's claim that "phoned-in tips of possible wrongdoing were up 80 percent" over the previous six months. Dingell wants to see some documentation to support this assertion.

Footnote: A spokeswoman for the OMB said: "The council welcomes the GAO audit." She added that, if anything, the council erred on the side of caution, and its figures were "too conservative."

Texan Hunts Continent Of Atlantis

TRINITY, Texas (UPI) — A Texan whose discovery claims include the Ark of the Covenant, the resting place of Noah's Ark and the true site of the Tower of Babel has lowered his goals — he's going underground in search of evidence leading to the Lost Continent of Atlantis.

"We believe our work in Trinity will expose the fact there was an Atlantean civilization and they migrated throughout the area," said Tom Crotser, leader of the Institute for Restoring Ancient History International.

Crotser, 49, who led an expedition last year which made a disputed claim of finding the gold-covered Ark of the Covenant in the Middle East, is following what he believes is a subterranean shaft to rooms once used by Atlanteans.

"So far we've found some pretty good drawings and writings," said Crotser, a native of Denton, Texas.

"We've been searching for a number of years. We believe Atlantis existed — that it was a real continent and there's been migrations to this area."

For centuries Atlantis has been believed to be a mystical island inhabited by an advanced race in the Atlantic Ocean and was mentioned in Plato's Timaeus. Legend holds that the island empire was destroyed and disappeared during an earthquake.

As a youth, Crotser learned his parents' sleight-of-hand trade from the vaudeville circuit and at age 17, was ranked the third best illusionist in the world by the International Brotherhood of Magicians.

But he also is a former minister with the Disciples of Christ and now heads a mission of about 150 believers with communities in Glenbuck, Scotland; Winfield, Kan.; Pauline, S.C.; and his present base of operations in nearby Frankston, Texas.

Crotser's latest venture was generated, he said, when he came into possession of a portion of an ancient map during a visit to Istanbul, Turkey.

Their Plan: No Boundaries

By TOM TIEDE

VANCOUVER, B.C. (NEA) — When Ronald Reagan speaks of improving hemispheric relations, he means fostering the conditions which promote intergovernmental dependence. He says the United States and its neighbors should strive to reach across their boundaries with the hands of mutual cooperation.

But what if the boundaries were not there?

What if North America was a single sovereign state?

The concept is not new. It has, in fact, been around since President Reagan was a pup, established and encouraged by a group known as Technocracy, Inc. Technocrats believe the United States, Canada, Mexico and Central America should unite under one flag; their Canadian headquarters is located here near the Pacific.

The headquarters is a modest building, and it's occupied by a small staff of volunteers. There is nothing diminutive about the group's aim, however. Members say that a unified North America would be the largest political entity on earth, and the most universally prosperous nation in history.

Think of it. The "Technate of North America," as it might be called, would stretch from the Arctic to the Amazon, from Hawaii to Haiti. It would comprise 19 percent of the world's land, but only 10 percent of its population (about 400 million), and there would be space and resources for all.

The latter point is most important. For it forms the fundamental of the Technocracy notion. Members insist there is plenty of wealth and opportunity in the hemisphere, but competitive nationalism limits distribution. Unification, on the other hand, would guarantee a society that is free of want.

What a society it would be, they say. Politics would be purged, money would be done away with, and no one would have to work for more than 20 years of their lives. "We have it all thought out," says John Darville, director of Canadian Technocracy, "after all, we've been planning it for more than 60 years."

Think of it. The Technate of North America, as it might be called, would stretch from the Arctic to the Amazon, from Hawaii to Haiti. It would comprise 19 percent of the world's land, but only 10 percent of its population (about 400 million), and there would be space and resources for all.

Sixty-two years to be exact. The movement was conceived in 1919 by a New York industrial engineer named Howard Scott.

He was taken by the phenomenon that the continent's resources (rivers and energy seams) run north to south, but national borders are east to west. His theories took root from there.

At first, Scott's theories were dismissed as rubbish. But by the 1930s, when the Depression set in, his message was reconsidered. Scott promised a new beginning for a continent that was out of work and out of hope, and, for a while, Technocracy, Inc. was the fastest growing organization in the Americas.

But then, as times got better by other means, Scott's visions came once again under attack. He proposed that the government of the "Technate" be made up of scientists, not politicians, and critics pointed out correctly that it would mean the end of democracy, the vote, and representative leadership.

Also, the critics decried Scott's ideas concerning money. Technocrats would take wealth from the rich, give it to the poor, and create an egalitarian nation. No one would own anything in the "Technate"; instead, the new government would lend its citizens everything they wanted for as long as they needed.

After World War II the Technocrats began to be called communists. They proposed a society of community ownership, as Moscow was doing, and few in North America were in a mood for it. Despite protestations to the contrary, Scott faded from view, and Technocracy, Inc. was condemned to the same fate.

Today, only the remnants of the group remain. The continental headquarters is a 20-acre farm in Savannah, Ohio, peopled by a handful of elderly loyalists. There are small branches in Seattle, Wash., and Long Beach, Calif. The only post left with its own office facility is the one here in Vancouver.

Director Darville describes the Technocrat's role now as educational. The Savannah staff produces one publication, and Vancouver another. "We also print analysis papers," Darville says, "and once a month we invite people here to a discussion. Not many come anymore. I suppose we average about 20."

Those who do come to the discussions are told of ominous things. Darville says the continent as currently constituted is heading for catastrophe. He says the history of bickering between the nations has led to the Haves and Have Nots, and the hemisphere is on the brink of war, petrification and famine.

Money can't help, Darville adds. Neither can changing politics. "The only solution is to apply unity to the social order, as Technocracy advocates. Nationalism has created waste, poverty and insecurity in North America; it has also created crime and corruption. We're convinced all that can be changed."

It probably won't be changed, however. At least not by Technocracy, Inc. The leftover members are advancing in age, and the dues-paying ranks are getting short. Technocrats say they may not last the decade, most certainly not the century, but then, they add quickly, neither may the present North America.

Better TV Group Sets Boycott For March 2

The Rev. Donald Wildmon, head of the Coalition for Better Television, says the coalition will launch March 2 a twice-delayed nationwide boycott of television programs by sponsors of sex and violence-filled TV shows.

Wildmon, whose coalition of more than 1,400 groups has monitored sex, violence and profanity on television for months, said, "We're tired of playing games with these folks. We've given network executives all the time in the world to show us they're trying, but we haven't been satisfied. There will be no delays this time."

The Rev. Jerry Falwell, leader of the Moral Majority, says he feels television networks are cleaning up their act and he won't join the boycott.

A Really True Fan

Loretta Witt wants to show Bobby Vinton how devoted she is by returning his $5,000 gold-and-diamonds identification bracelet.

Mrs. Witt, 33, who runs a supermarket in Coleman, Wis., found the bracelet — it spells V-I-N-T-O-N in 48 diamonds — after attending his concert in Green Bay. She thought at first it was a throw-away rhinestone souvenir and started wearing it. Then her husband got it appraised, and they put it in a safety deposit box until they can arrange for its return.

Says Mrs. Witt, "I feel some people would never give it back, but I want him to know what a good fan I am."

Hijacking For Love

A lovelorn French teen-ager who couldn't wait 'til summer to see his Dutch girlfriend, hijacked a school bus last week and forced the driver at pistol-point to take him from France across Belgium and into Holland for a brief rendezvous with his lady-love.

Philippe, 16, was arrested in Holland after a three-nation police search with helicopters and roadblocks failed to stop him before he got to see his Marita briefly.

The youngster, whose full name was withheld because of his age, fell in love last summer when Marita visited France with school chums. Marita had invited him to visit her this summer, but he couldn't wait and hijacked his school bus with a .22-caliber pistol.

Lewisies Lost Love

Jaren Lewis plans to file another divorce suit against entertainer Jerry Lee Lewis, this time in Mississippi. She earlier filed suit in Memphis, but it was dismissed because Lewis was a resident of Mississippi.

Lewis filed for divorce in Hernando, Miss. In 1979, and that suit is still pending. The couple was married in 1971. They have a 10-year-old daughter.

Bits And Pieces

Arnold Palmer has agreed to design and build China's first golf course, part of $50 million tourist resort complex the Chinese are developing. . . . Eric G. Larson, who joined the magazine in 1954 as a salesman, has been named publisher of TV Guide magazine. . . . Mickey Rooney's new NBC-TV series gained a 20.7 rating and a 32 share of the audience in its Jan. 23 premiere. . . . Tony Curtis, Rita Moreno and Leslie Ann Warren star in the CBS made-for-TV movie "Jillian: Portrait of a Showgirl," to be filmed largely on location at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

4th Canoe-a-thon Set For April 10

The Fourth Annual Florida Audubon Society Canoe-a-thon is scheduled for April 10 along the Wekiva River. Canoeists from throughout Florida are invited to participate in the day-long activities beginning with launching at 8 a.m. and concluding with entertainment and food at Katie's Landing at approximately 6 p.m.

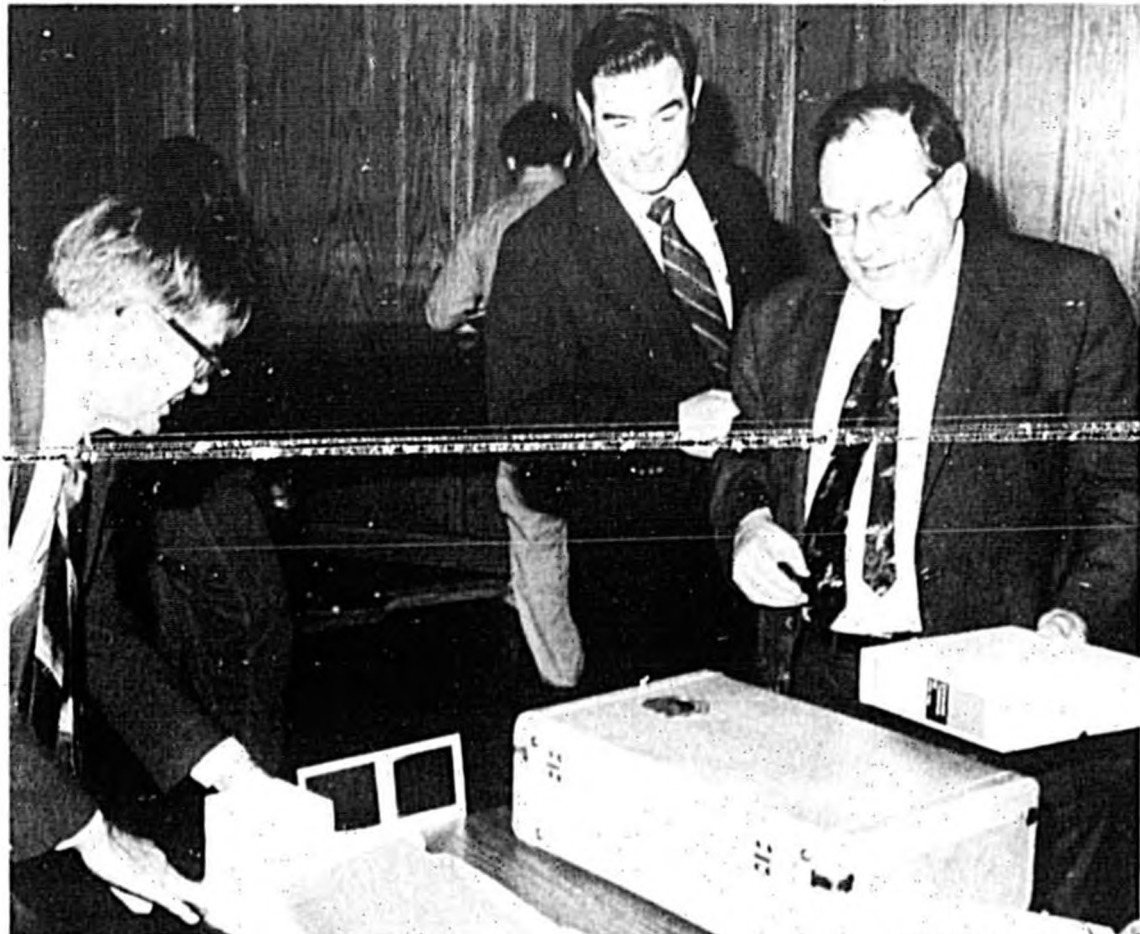

The Canoe-a-thon is open to anyone 15 years of age or older. Participants need not be experienced canoeists and may bring their own canoes or one may be rented at the site.

Canoeists will participate as two-person teams in one of five categories: corporate, public service, school groups, individual, and Florida Audubon chapters. Entrants can register for either the 8-mile run from King's Landing to the Wekiva Marina or the 19-mile run from King's Landing to Katie's Wekiva River Landing.

Participating canoeists will secure pledges from throughout their communities for specified amounts per mile and will have until April 30 to complete collections. Winners of the Canoe-a-thon will be the canoeists who collect the largest dollar amount in pledges. Proceeds from the event will be used by Florida Audubon Society to fund environmental programs in Florida.

Custom-quality hand-made canoes from Wekiva Canoe Company will be awarded to winners in each of the five categories.

To register, contact Rita Lee at the Florida Audubon Society, 1101 Audubon Way, Maitland, 647-2615. Deadline for registration is April 5.

Dr. Arthur Schawlow (right), co-inventor of the laser and the 1981 Nobel Prize winner for physics, was at Seminole Community College Monday lecturing on laser technology. Schawlow, the parent of an autistic son, was at SCC helping to raise funds for an area residential and teaching program for autistic children and adults. Helping Schawlow set up a laser hologram demonstration is Norris Miner (left), past president of the Central Florida Society for Autistic Children, and Dr. Earl Weldon, SCC president.

We could actually send you a check to help pay for an energy-efficient central system.

This is the label that FPL will put on your new central air conditioner or heat pump system if you qualify for our new incentive payment. It means that the contractor-installed system meets our high-efficiency standards, and operates using less electricity.

The plan applies when you replace a cooling or combined cooling-heating system installed before October 1980, and could mean a payment to you of several hundred dollars. Following on-site verification by FPL of the installation, a Watt-Check™, made payable to you for the amount of your incentive, will be mailed.

Contact your local FPL office for more information and the names of participating dealers. Will everyone benefit from Watt-Wise™ incentives?

Yes. These incentives are less costly than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient homes. Every 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity not used is a barrel of oil no one has to pay for. This also helps us postpone the building of expensive power plants. The less oil we use, and the less new building we have to do, the more we can help hold the line on everyone's electric bill.

Awsome Animalistic Fun

Matmen Come To Seminole

Metro Conference champion Evans comes to Seminole High tonight for a dual wrestling match with Scott Sherman's Fighting Seminoles at 7:30. Junior varsity action begins at 6:30 p.m.

In addition to claiming the Metro title, the Trojans have captured the prestigious Lyman Christmas Tournament and also hold a victory over Lake Brantley, the Five Star's best.

"They are animals," said Sherman Tuesday afternoon. "They have a tough wrestler in every class. They're just awesome."

The Noles stand at 8-5 in duals with recent victories over Flagler Palm Coast and New Smyrna Beach. Junior Ronnie Watson '88 has been the Tribe's most consistent.

"Ronnie looks the best on the team," said Sherman about his first-year matman who has a 12-4 record.

The Seminoles also boast two other grapplers who are unbeaten since dropping in weight. Tony Williams has shed 12 pounds from 135 to 123 and has been victorious in three tries at his new weight.

Nate Woodget, a solid wrestler at 142, dropped to 136 and is also 3-0. Mike Thorman, second in the conference tournament, is 4-2 at 158 and 325-pound Eric "Shamu" Martin is 5-0 at unlimited. Vince Clark (128) is 9-6.

After Wednesday's battle, Seminole travels to Deland on Friday for a match with the Bulldogs. Starting times are the same as tonight.

Pony Garage Sale Saturday

The women are getting into the act. Seminole Pony Baseball's newly-formed Women's Auxiliary is sponsoring three garage sales this Saturday to accumulate funds for this spring's softball and baseball.

There are three locations. One is at the Tropic Bank on State Road 434. Another is at Babcock Furniture on U.S. 17-92 in Casselberry. The third is at Hunt Club Corners on State Road 436 and Wekiva Springs Road west of Forest City.

The hours are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. All proceeds will go to Seminole Pony Baseball located in winter Springs.

'Sunrises' For Lions, Lake Howell In Kiwanis Frosh Tourney

Something had to give at the Seminole Kiwanis Sunrise Freshman Basketball Tournament Tuesday night at Lake Brantley.

Oviedo's Lions and Leesburg's Yellow Jackets were both winless going into the opening round of Tuesday's fifth annual tourney.

It did give Oviedo's Kevin Thompson hit a basket in the closing minute and came up with a key steal to help the Lions of Pete Crowley past Leesburg, 59-56.

Thompson led the Lion way with 20 points, while Charles "Pop" Bowers added 15 and Vincent King 14. Daron McPhee had 20 points and Pat Bailey 15 for the Yellow Jackets who finished the season 0-7.

The 1-13 Lions face 19-0 Crooms in Thursday's 2 p.m. quarter-final game. "I told the kids I want to see Crooms beat us three times before I'm convinced how good they are," said Crowley.

Seminole guard Vernon Law heads for the other end as time runs out in the first half. Steve Alexander (left) follows.

In the other opening round game, Lake Howell broke a 38-38 tie with three free throws by Keith Woodridge to hold off Bishop Moore, 44-38.

Coach Keith McAuley's squad will battle Lake Mary in Thursday's 8 p.m. game. No games are slated for today.

Crockett Behan paced Howell with 14 points. Jeron Evans had nine and Woodridge eight.

Joe Frana led the Hornets with 20.

Stiffey, Lawrence Key JVs Past Howell

Sophomores Tom Stiffey and Tim Lawrence hit key baskets in the fourth quarter Tuesday as the Seminole junior varsity held off Lake Howell, 54-43, at Lake Howell.

Third Quarter Blues Haunt Silver Hawks

Lake Howell basketball coach Greg Robinson has been hearing the same tune so long, it's making him tone deaf. He has a basketball team which seems stuck on the same song. The ex-Crooms High standout calls it the "Third Quarter Blues."

Prep Basketball

Payne, whose club snapped a five-game losing streak to improve to 7-16. "But I thought our second half defense was the difference." Richard Grey did a great job on the press. After the two breakdowns when (Mark) Layton scored on the backdoor, we shut them off pretty well," noted Payne. Layton, per usual, was impressive. Howell's "One Man Band" scored 20 points from all angles, controlled the tempo in the first half and ripped down 12 rebounds. He's definitely a great player," observed Payne. "We didn't have anyone to guard him. We tried a box-and-one, but he didn't have much trouble with that." Layton and John Hamrick took turns beating Seminole's zone in the first quarter as Howell held leads of two points four different times until 6:3. Fred McNeil picked up his second foul and went to the bench at 2:46. On the next two possessions, Mitchell and Bryant muscled inside for offensive rebound baskets to deadlock the game at 12-12 after eight minutes. Tim Rae and Layton hit buckets for a brief 16-14 edge in quarter two, but Mitchell hit a key three-point play and fireplug Marvin Butler swished, that's right swished, two free throws for a 19-16 edge. Rae, Layton and Hamrick combined for five points to pull Howell even at 23, but Alexander pulled out his long-range cannon for a bucket from past the top of the key for a 25-23 edge which the "Noles never relinquished thereafter. After Hamrick hit a free throw, Alexander popped one from the corner with just two seconds left to take the Noles into halftime up by 27-24. "We've been practicing that play all year," said trainer Jim "Doc" Terwilliger. "But that's the first time it worked." The closest Silver Hawks came after that was on a slam dunk by Layton on a fastbreak with 2:21 to play in the third period to bring the Hawks within two at 35-33. Payne, however, immediately signaled a time out and Howell went scoreless the rest of the quarter plus the first minute of the fourth period while Sanford ran off eight in a row.

Last-Second Shot Blemishes Hawks

Pats 'Lynch' Spruce Creek

By JOE DeSANTIS, Herald Sports Writer

When is an upset not an upset?

When Lake Brantley and Spruce Creek meet. That's when.

Bob Peterson's Patriots pulled the stunner of the Five Star Conference season Tuesday night, using a torrid final period to topple conference front runner Spruce Creek 75-73 on Robert Lynch's last second-basket at Altamonte Springs.

Lake Brantley's win was a measure of revenge for an earlier one-point loss at Spruce Creek and had to go a long way in erasing the memory of six losses by less than four points for the Patriots.

"It was a great win for the program and a great win for the kids," said a happy Peterson, who saw his club improve to 3-9 in conference play and 7-13 overall.

The loss was the first blemish in Spruce Creek's conference record, 10-1, while setting the Hawks at 14-4 overall.

His Patriots had to work all night long, and appeared out of the contest at several points in the game. But the snake-bit Pats finally broke the jinx of tight ball games, slamming 32 points on the scoreboard in the final period, including a clinical 18-20 effort from the charity stripe to erase several big Spruce Creek leads.

After a see-saw first period that saw

Prep Basketball

Spruce Creek emerge with a 17-14 lead, Edgar Scott's Hawks looked like they'd had enough of the pesky Patriots and flashed evidence of why they lead the Five Star Conference. Hot outside shooting by guards Jimmy Paxton and David Howard along with the inside play of center Marc Brown, bolted Spruce Creek to a 31-18 advantage with 3:37 left before the half.

Then the Patriots slammed Spruce Creek's scoring door shut for the remainder of the period and began chipping away at the Hawk's lead.

Fred Baber muscled inside for a couple of buckets while Bill Powers connected from outside along with Mike Gregory 'o pull Lake Brantley within 31:27 at intermission.

Behind the outside shooting of Payton, the Hawks again pulled away from Lake Brantley in the opening moments of the third period and built a 39-31 advantage at the 5:12 mark. But Paul Hoffman came off the bench and delivered solid rebounding play while canning three short jumpers while Mike Gregory connected from outside to keep the Patriots within range.

Trailing 50-43 as the final period got underway, the entire Patriot lineup seemed to come alive and began banging the boards, chasing down loose balls and hitting clutch baskets while continually chopping away at Spruce Creek's lead.

Tim Heath fired in a couple of baskets and Gregory connected on a pair of long jumpers that helped Lake Brantley knot the score at 57-all with 5:17 to play.

Then the lead swapped hands nine times down the stretch. Working against Spruce Creek's press, Lake Brantley earned 20 tries at the charity stripe in the final quarter, and made the most of the visits by hitting 18 times.

Lake Brantley converted six of seven one-and-one situations to offset Spruce Creek's outside shooting. Then it was Spruce Creek's turn to go to the line.

Trailing 73-71 with 13 seconds left, Payton went to the stripe and hit both ends of a bonus situation, knotting the score at 73-73.

The Patriots worked the ball to half court before Bill Powers appeared to be tied up in a Hawk trap. But he then spotted teammate Tim Heath breaking up the right side and squirted a pass through Spruce Creek's press. Undermanned due to the trap play, Heath fed a wide open Robert Lynch who laid in a soft off-the-grass layup to seal a 75-73 victory.

"Lake Brantley's record doesn't reflect the kind of team they are," said Spruce Creek's Scott. "We only beat them by one point at our place. They match up well against us and we match up well against them. We had a couple of big leads but they kept coming back."

"It was a team win for us again," Peterson pointed out. "Paul Hoffman was instrumental coming off the bench for us, Fred Baber came in and did another outstanding job and Tim Heath really came alive for us after the second quarter."

"Then Bill Powers got hot for us and that helped us a lot, especially since we had so much trouble getting the ball inside. Spruce Creek is just so quick we had a lot of trouble getting the ball into our key-post."

Gregory and Heath paced five Patriots in double figures with 16 points each. Powers added 11 while Lynch and Baber chipped in with 10 each.

Spruce Creek's Payton led all scorers with 24 points while Brown added a solid 19 and Howard connected for 16.

Murphy's 26 Rebounds Pace Lions; Lake Mary Girls Run Up 95 Points

Oviedo's Lions only had two players on the backboards Tuesday night when they battled the visiting St. Cloud Bulldogs. Fortunately, one of them was Ronnie Murphy and the other was Bill McCartney.

Murphy collected a school-record 26 rebounds and scored 30 points as the Lions held off St. Cloud in the closing quarter, 69-63.

"They better rebound," said a relieved coach Dale "Digger" Phillips Wednesday morning. "They're the only two we had doing anything on the boards."

In addition to his rebounding and scoring, the 6-4 Murphy dropped in four free throws in the final 29 seconds to turn away any upset hopes of St. Cloud.

Junior McCartney ripped off 11 caroms and pumped in 14 points as Oviedo jumped to a 47-35 bulge with just 3:33 remaining until intermission.

The Lions, however, squandered the lead in the second half and had to bail themselves out at the foul line to hold on to victory no. 12 against 10 losses.

Point guard Gene Angel missed the game with ligament damage in the knee. He may be lost for the season.

Prep Basketball

Phillips, a stickler for good free throw shooting, saw it pay off again as Oviedo hit 21-of-27 charity tosses. The Lions were outscored from the field by two baskets.

Seniors James Hamilton, Karl Jones and Mike Ohlinger combined for 8-for-8, while Murphy, not known for his foul line accuracy, converted 12-of-14. McCartney, usually an 80 percent shooter, missed all three of his attempts.

Two Murphy freebies at the 29-second mark put Oviedo ahead, 67-63. With three ticks left, he hit another pair to produce the final six-point margin.

On Friday, the Lions travel to the Golden Dome to meet the Bishop Moore Hornets. A loss would knock the Hornets out of the Orange Belt race with undefeated Osceola-Kissimmee.

Elsewhere in action involving Seminole County teams, coach Willie Richardson's Lake Mary Rams dropped a narrow, 70-68 decision to Florida Central Academy.

The Rams played duplicate halves, trailing by one, 29-28, before being outscored, 31-30, in the final 16 minutes.

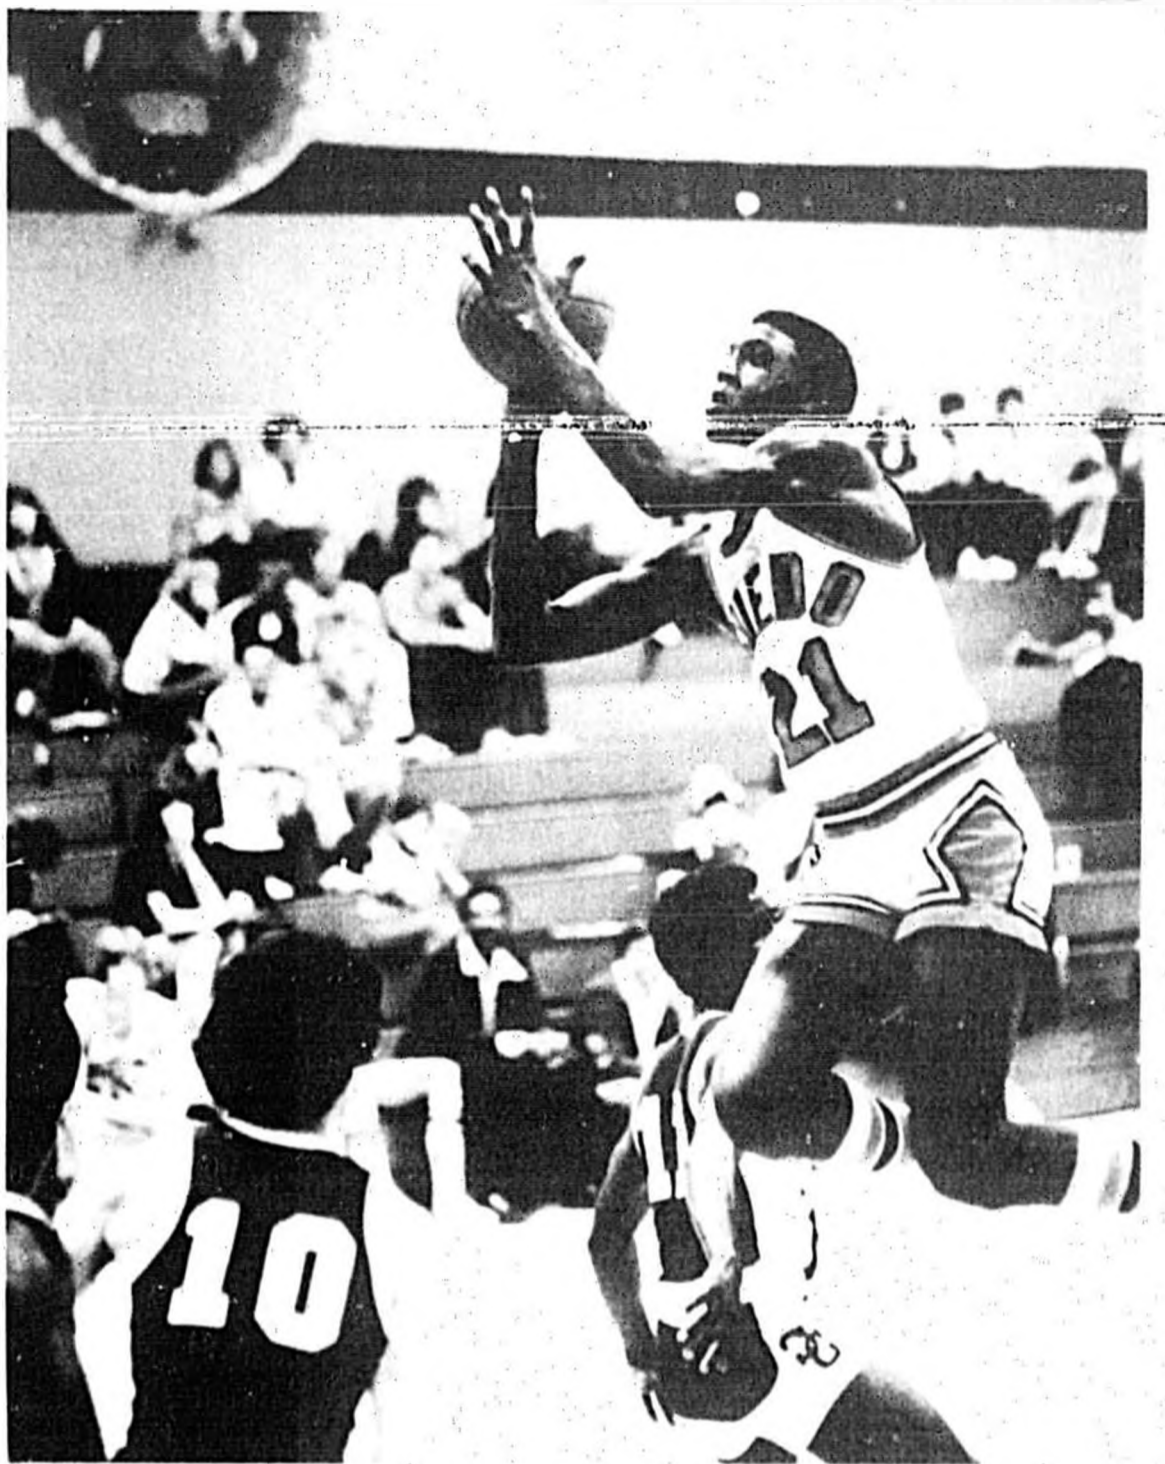

Darryl Merthie threw in 18 points to pace Lake Mary and point guard Kyle Frakes added 15. The Rams play the Lyman junior varsity Friday at Longwood.

While Richardson's boys had their problems at Sorrento, coach Bill Moore's girls poured in a school-record point total in thrashing Florida Central, 95-23.

Six players hit double-figures for the Rams who improved their record to 13-4. On Friday Lake Mary travels to Umatilla to meet its chief opposition for the 3A playoffs.

Sophomore Lisa Gregory (17), freshman Kim Averill (14), Laz Stone (14), Michelle Swartz (10), Laura Hall (10) and Donna Peterson (10) were the Rams in twin digits.

Florida Central only had two players score. Rona Alforda had 22 of the 23 points.

Biddy League Tries Playoff Again Today

After a period of slipping and sliding, a scheduled Sanford Biddy Basketball League play-off game was postponed Tuesday.

The Hawks and the Bulldogs were battling for the first half championship, but a wet floor at the Westside Recreation Center forced postponement.

The game is rescheduled for 4 today at the same location. A play-off between the same two teams, for the second half championship, is slated for Thursday.

The first half title game will resume today with 5:34 left in the second period and the two teams deadlocked 6-6.

Chamberlain Made Right Decision Declining Offer

NEW YORK (UPI) — There isn't the slightest doubt in my mind Wilt Chamberlain can come back and play right now.

Nor is there any in his. At 45, after having been away nine years, he doesn't merely THINK he can do all right with the Philadelphia 76ers, he's positive he can, and because he's so completely sure in his own mind, he finally decided not to.

Chamberlain made the right decision when he wired Harold Katz, the 76ers' owner, Monday and declined his offer with thanks.

If he has any question about that, he should talk sometime with Willie Mays, who is 50 and occasionally is asked whether he thinks he could come back and play again.

"I'm sure I could play a few innings or even a whole game, but what about the next day?" Willie laughs.

When he began hearing Katz was thinking about making him a substantial offer to rejoin the team he helped to the NBA title in 1968, he started turning around the idea in his mind rather idly.

Then, Katz made several calls to Chamberlain asking if he would have any interest in playing for the 76ers again.

At first he was inclined to laugh off the idea, but the more he thought about coming back to play in Philadelphia the more the notion began appealing to him.

"I was positive I could do it," Chamberlain told me from his home in Los Angeles Monday. "My physical condition certainly was no barrier ... Since I retired from basketball with the

Milton Richman

UPI Sports Editor

Lakers in 1973 — I'm in much better physical shape than when I quit. If you remember, I wasn't too bad then and even led the league in three or four categories.

"Harold Katz came to Los Angeles to see me four days ago and we met and talked. I was honored and flattered by the offer to come back and play after so many years. One of the reasons I thought about coming back was because I've always felt there is no age limitation on what a person can do if he works hard enough and sets his mind on doing it. I am a firm believer in that and so is Dr. Leroy Perry, with whom I'm associated here in the Foundation for Athletic Research and Education.

"Another reason I gave some thought to playing with the 76ers is because coming back to Philadelphia would have been something of a blessing for me. There are so many people there I know and love."

But after Harold Katz came to talk with me and I told him I'd let him know, I saw some things in the paper. Things like 76ers' Coach Billy Cunningham saying he didn't think I'd fit in and "Dr. J," (player Julius Erving) inquiring publicly if the team needed a man with so many different goals. "Those statements gave Chamberlain some pause.

"I like Billy and I like Dr. J," he said. "Without putting any dig on them, if I thought my coming back was going to create a problem even for a second, there was no great need for me to do it. (However, I just don't think my coming back would've worked."

"I thought it might've been fun to go back and play basketball at its highest level ... but I didn't see where I had anything to prove."

Will Chamberlain, who led Kansas to the NCAA finals and later toured with the Harlem Globe Trotters before playing on championship teams with the 76ers in 1968 and Lakers in 1972, still is the NBA's all-time scoring leader. He poured in 100 points in a single game against the New York Knicks in 1962 and was the greatest player of his era. Katz was talking about a $500,000 contract plus fringe benefits. But Chamberlain, who has established his own track and field team for kids and donates substantially to charity, doesn't need money.

"Since the passing of John F. Kennedy, Wilt Chamberlain has done more for youth development programs than anyone else I can think of," says Perry, one of the country's top chiropractic consultants.

"He literally led the way to opening the door for others to follow in support of grass-roots youth programs. He gives away enormous amounts of money to help underprivileged kids."

Chamberlain seldom talks about money. "I never found out how much he (Katz) wanted to pay me," he said. "He kept trying to tell me and I kept telling him my decision wouldn't be predicated on money. It wasn't."

Wrong Application Right For Boxer Wade

Sanford's Glen Wade (left) gets set to deliver a shot to the body of Marion Oriab. Wade won a unanimous decision.

Every day in the mail people get application forms. Most of them you throw away. Some you mail back because you want the product. In most cases, though, the majority of the forms are slam dunked into file 13.

Sanford's Glen Wade received an application form last spring. Wade, a 100-pound Five Star Conference champion at Seminole High in 1979, was considering entering the Sunshine State Games at Gainesville to see if he could pick up some more wrestling laurels.

There was only one hitch, however, the application form was for boxing, not wrestling.

Undaunted, Wade filled out the form and sent it back. "I've tried everything else," he said to himself. "Why not boxing?"

Before he could earn his Gainesville invitation, though, he had to qualify in the Regional Tournament at Orlando. Weighing 125 pounds, he whipped Hughes Grant on a split decision.

Then in July, he was off for Gainesville. In the finals, he once again met Grant, and beat him in a similar split decision. When the 132-pound fighter didn't show for the next fight (next day), Wade disposed of him, too.

Just a month ago, it became application time again. This time he filed for the Sanford District Golden Gloves Tournament. This time, however, he wasn't in shape.

"I was out running before the tournament when I ran into Sherman Ware," remembers the 21-year-old former Seminole. "He told me a bunch of guys were working out at the Second Street Gym."

With just a few days until Friday's bout, Wade tried to rush himself into shape. It didn't work. Once again, he battled Grant. But this time the tall Orlando boxer won the split decision.

Despite his condition, Wade came back the next night and whipped up on Marion Oriab of the Naval Training Center. His victory earned him a shot at Thursday and Friday's Golden Gloves Regional at the American Legion Coliseum (Ivanhoe and I-4) in Orlando. He will join Frank Mann, Jerry Dickerson, Glen Robinson and Donnie Perry from Victor "Taco" Perez's Sanford stable.

Wade is the possessor of a wicked left hook. "It's my best punch," he insists. "I'm a body puncher. I'm like (Wilfred) Benitez. I like to get in close and bang away."

Unlike the 5-foot-10 Benitez, however, Wade is only 5-foot-5. "I used to aim at the head, but I kept coming up a little short," he laughs. "Taco told me, 'Concentrate on the body. That's the kind of fighter you have to be.'"

The personable 21-year-old has plans past this week's Regional meet too. "I want to win the state championship (at Tampa)," he said. "Then I heard you get to go to the Nationals in California. Now, that would be a good time."

Almost as good as filling out applications, right Glen?

Commission Alters Sewer Hookup Fee Payment Schedule

By LEE DANCY
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Commission has changed the rules of the building game slightly, requiring developers to pay sewage hookup fees when sewage permits are issued, not when building permits are granted as had previously been the case.

When the state Department of Environmental Regulation issues a sewage hookup permit with the remaining $75 of the total $525 fee being paid in 12 equal installments, plus an extra $1 monthly billing charge, the commission decided unanimously Tuesday.

Nearly four months of heated debates between area builders and county officials was concluded with the commission vote.

A "money up front" policy for sewage hookup fees was originally passed by the commission Oct. 6, 1981. A shortage of available treatment capacity at the county's sewage plant prompted the action.

The commission hoped to force the use or release of more than 350,000 gallons in unused capacity held by developers with its new ordinance.

Instead, builders met the edict with strident protests. Developers holding 1,075 unused sewage permits already installed the necessary sewer lines but have not connected them and so could not be forced to return the unused permits, the builders said.

After the initial confrontation and three postponements of the original deadline to pay for, or return the permits, builders and county officials achieved a compromise Tuesday.

Builders resisted the original requirement to pay the entire $525 fee in one lump sum. The commission wanted some way to ensure retrieval of the permit if not used within one year.

A palatable solution evolved for both parties with the $450 down, $75 monthly proposal. Builders were spared from paying the $525 at once and the commission can recall a permit if payments are not made on time, according to Ken Hooper, county environmental services coordinator.

Those 1,075 permits held by developers currently will remain in force on two conditions. If a builder is granted a hookup permit before Oct. 1, 1983, he must pay the county's $75 share of the $525 fee and begin paying the basic $7 per month flow fee.

If developers holding sewage permits already issued do not decide to build by Oct. 1, 1983, they must begin paying the $7 monthly fee anyway. The $75 incremental payment will be due when the developer does decide to build, Hooper said.

After the commission passed the original ordinance requiring hookup fee payment when sewage permits are issued, approximately 400 tap fees were promptly paid by developers. The commission decided Tuesday to refund $18,000, or each of the basic $450 fees, paid on the 400 permits.

If those refunds were requested today, the county's $75 slice of the fee would also be refunded. Should developers who paid the fees wait until next month to apply for refunds, $7.25 of the $525 would be held to cover the first monthly payment, Hooper said.

The county will also hold money already paid on the permits as credit for future hookup requests, he said.

County officials must immediately shift the basic $450 payment on hookup permits upon receipt to pay the former owners of the Consumers Utilities Plant. Approximately $170,000 remains due on the plant, which has a capacity of one million gallons daily, Hooper said.

CLIMBING THE LADDER

A Sanford Fire Department lieutenant's badge is pinned on Larry Helman by Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles as Fire Chief William C. Galley looks on. Helman, a senior firefighter, was promoted to fill the vacancy left by Tom Hickson when Hickson was promoted to the assistant chief's post in January.

.. 'Police Chief' Etchberger

adverse conditions and above many of his peers. He has overcome many obstacles far beyond what I thought he would be able to overcome. However, he feels, and I feel, he has done as much as he can do.

"He got the police department on the right track," he said. "Now we need someone to come and put his hand on the engine and guide the department into the future."

The City Commission voted 4-1 at Tuesday's meeting to commend Cook for an outstanding job as police chief and to present him with a plaque at the Feb. 9 meeting.

Mayor Ray Ambrose, a former police sergeant with the Altamonte Springs department, cast the dissenting vote.

"I do not feel Chief Cook's service to the city has been outstanding," he said. "If anything, he maintained the status quo which was, at the time of his appointment, less than satisfactory. I've had numerous complaints from officers and area residents concerning their discontent with police service and operations and cannot support a commendation for him."

Cook, 36, entered the Police Department as a patrolman in September 1971 and rose to the administrative helm in October 1980. He replaced former Police Chief Justus East in the wake of a departmental shakeup concerning unsubstantiated allegations of misconduct of Floyd and former police investigator William Doyle.

Although Cook said in his resignation letter to Etchberger that he is resigning "to pursue other opportunities for my personal growth and benefit," he said Tuesday he has no plans concerning future employment.

"I've got 10 years in law enforcement, and I don't know if I will try to stay in enforcement by taking a lower-level police position," he said. "At this point I don't know what I'll do."

Cook added, though, that he has no intention of returning to a lower-level position with the Altamonte Springs department.

"I supported Barry for 15 months," Etchberger said. "He has received my thanks and support."

Etchberger said he will begin his search for a new chief immediately by posting the opening in local law-enforcement agencies and professional police journals throughout the state and the Southeast.

Commissioners asked Etchberger whether he felt he had the time to devote to a police chief search and whether a committee would not be more beneficial to narrowing his selection to a few.

"I feel I have the time," Etchberger said. "I put in about 55 to 60 hours a week now, and expect that to increase to about 80. However, my family and I are prepared. I am undertaking it myself because I feel it is important to accomplish the final steps in unity. I don't want to do it any other way."

Etchberger said Cook's resignation is "not a spur-of-the-moment thing, but something Barry and I have considered previously."

'Come To Sunny Florida'

TAILAHASSEE (UPI) — The state today launches a major mid-winter advertising blitz in 26 Eastern markets to boost Florida's sagging tourist industry.

The effort to attract visitors to the state follows Cabinet action Tuesday in which $750,000 in emergency funds were allocated for the ad campaign.

The Cabinet also hired a law firm, which represents companies accused by the state of illegal phosphate mining, to arrange a $200 million environmental bond issue that will raise money for Gov. Bob Graham's "Save Our Coasts" program.

The tourism money will be used to finance a four-week television advertising campaign in major markets including Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Philadelphia and New York.

Industry officials have said the tourism situation may be worse than last year when the Cabinet had to be asked for emergency funds.

In the past two months, tourism has declined nine percent.

Graham said Tuesday the ads would be directed at potential visitors who delayed their vacation plans during heavily promoted summer months.

Besides boosting the slack winter season, it is hoped the ads will attract more visitors during the traditional lull between late winter and Easter.

In other action, the Cabinet: —Gave its support to legislation that would expand the state's investment authority to include commercial and industrial real estate.

—Directed the Department of Education to alert college-bound high school students in a new law wiping out Social Security survivor's education benefits.

Under the law, passed last year, students qualified for assistance must be enrolled full time in college before May 1 or lose future payments.

Cook Of The Week

His Domain Is The Little Kitchen At Crossroads

By LOU CHILDERS
Herald Correspondent

This week's cook, Steve Rentfro, is excited about getting a handle on his life while he gets a handle on the pots and pans at the Crossroads Alcoholic Treatment Center.

The Crossroads, 591 Lake Minnie Drive, Sanford, is part of the Metropolitan Alcohol Council (MACO), which serves Orange, Osceola and Seminole counties. It contains a detox unit, a halfway house, a three-quarters house, and several "on-campus personnel cottages."

Steve has been through the "29-day program" himself, and is a recovering alcoholic. His cooking expertise goes back to his youth when he learned to cook "in an Italian restaurant in Pensacola." He is continuing his cooking education at Seminole Community College in the Food Service Management program.

For four months now, Steve has been the "chief cook and bottle washer" at Crossroads. He does all the ordering, nutritional meal planning and he actually cooks the evening meal six nights a week, as well as doing "all the prep work for the lunches (sandwiches, potato salad, etc.)."

His "30-hour work week" at Crossroads is in addition to the full time culinary arts program at SCC.

Steve has learned that especially for the alcoholic, "what you eat and how you eat profoundly affects your physical and mental well-being."

Many alcoholics suffer from hypoglycemia, or low blood sugar, he says. Therefore, Steve provides the men at the center with a "high protein, low carbohydrate diet."

The foods he must help them avoid are coffee, sugar and junk food snacks. The best snacks for anyone on a high protein diet are "nuts, milk, cheese, and fruit". The worst snacks are "sweet rolls, coffee cake, candy, potato chips, etc."

Of the "high protein" recipes Steve is sharing, he says, "Sweet and sour pork is my favorite."

Since meats are usually the most expensive source of protein, poultry, which is slightly more economical, is sometimes a welcome high protein substitute. Steve's Chicken Cordon Bleu is a great way to perk up the most common member of the poultry family, and you'll feel like a gourmet cook once you have successfully prepared it, he says.

In case you haven't seen the consumer prognostications for 1982, ham and pork prices are supposed to be going out of sight. Try Steve's Ham Croquettes while ham is still reasonably priced. He guarantees you'll like the croquettes — the Mustard Sauce is the secret, he says.

When Steve is not cooking at Crossroads, or learning some new technique at SCC, he enjoys camping and swimming. Some of his "free time" is spent as a volunteer with Alcoholics Anonymous. This organization holds three weekly meetings at Crossroads, Tuesdays and Wednesdays at 8 p.m., and Sundays at 5 p.m.

Steve likes the domain of his little kitchen at Crossroads. The center receives federal and county funds, but citizen's groups and individuals may make contributions.

SWEET AND SOUR PORK
1 1/2 lbs. lean pork cut in 2 1/2" strips
1 No. 303 can pineapple chunks
1/2 cup brown sugar
2 tablespoons corn starch
1/4 cup vinegar
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup strips of green peppers
1/4 cup thinly sliced onions

Brown pork in 1/2 cup hot oil. Add 1/4 cup water, simmer until tender, about 1 hour. Combine sugar and corn starch. Add 1 cup pineapple juice, vinegar, soy sauce and salt. Cook over low heat until thickened. Pour over pork, add green peppers, onions and pineapple. Cook 15 minutes. Serve with rice.

CHICKEN CORDON BLEU
6 whole chicken breasts
1/2 lb. thin sliced ham
1/2 lb. thin sliced swiss cheese
1 stick butter
1 cup bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon paprika

Open breasts under ribs to make a pocket. Place 1 slice ham and 1 slice cheese in each pocket. Roll up and secure with toothpicks. Melt butter in pie plate. Mix crumbs, salt, pepper, paprika in second plate. Roll chicken in butter, then in crumbs. Place in buttered casserole. Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes. Serves 6.

HAM CROQUETTES
1/2 lb. chopped celery
1/2 lb. chopped onions
1/2 oz. chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Saute all of above in 3 oz. margarine. Mix together with the following:

1 teaspoon dry mustard
1 lb. ground ham (cooked)
4 oz. flour
1 egg
Shape into cones — dip into milk and egg wash. Coat with bread crumbs. Bake or deep fat fry. Serve with Mustard Sauce.

MUSTARD SAUCE
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk

Prepare white sauce with above ingredients, adding 1 tablespoon prepared mustard and salt and pepper to taste. Serve over ham croquettes.

Miss Fairfield, James A. Rhodes Exchange Vows

Debra Kaye Fairfield and James Alan Rhodes were married Dec. 5, 1981, at the First Baptist Church, Sanford. The Rev. Paul E. Murphy Jr. performed the 7 p.m. double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy M. Fairfield, Sanford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marian B. Rhodes, Longwood.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of reembrodered Chantilly lace fashioned along the Queen Anne silhouette. The skirt featured five tiers of wedgewood lace ruffles which terminated into a double cathedral train. A lace cap secured her waltz-length veil of illusion. She carried a cascade of burgundy roses interspersed with mauve-colored baby's breath and white snowflake pompons.

Cynthia E. Fairfield attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a mauve colored gown with a floral headpiece to match her bouquet of white snowflake mums and mauve and white pompons with wine colored streamers.

Bridesmaids were Karen L. Fairfield, sister of the bride, Deborah Muntwyler and Karen Rhodes. They wore wine-colored gowns and carried flowers similar to the honor attendant's.

Scott P. Rhodes attended his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Kenneth LaFleur, Mark Reedy and Edward Benton.

Lisa Trapp was the flower girl. Ring bearer was Steven Edwards.

Following a reception at the Sanora Clubhouse, Sanford, the newlyweds departed on a wedding cruise to the Bahamas. They are making their home in Winter Park. The bridegroom

Mother's Devoted Friend Written Off In Write-Up

DEAR ABBY: My mother died last week following a two-year battle with cancer. She was 75. Mom had been widowed at 50 and she lived her last 19 years with a male friend in his home. He could not have been more devoted to my mother. He nursed her during her illness and rarely left her side.

Dear Abby

This is a rather small town, and everyone was aware of the situation. After Mom died her relatives gave the obituary to the local newspaper and completely ignored Mom's devoted companion.

I know it would have meant a great deal to Mom's friend to have been listed in the write-up as one of her survivors. Just a simple mention, such as, "Mrs. (—) was also survived by her long-time friend, Mr. (—)."

Do you think it would have been wrong or improper to have given that dear and generous man a small mention in the press? Please print your answer.

HER DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: It would have been neither wrong nor improper. Some friends are far more important in a relationship than relatives. Apparently your mother's friend was, and mentioning him as her long-time friend would have harmed no one and given him some well-deserved praise.

DEAR ABBY: A girl wrote to say she was getting married and felt entitled to take her bedroom set with her since her parents had given it to her for her 16th birthday. Her parents disagreed, saying it was "hers" only as long as she lived at home. You said, "Leave the set, and don't argue." That's all the poor girl could do. She had no choice.

That letter interested us because we had exactly the same situation in our family. We redecorated our daughter's room when she was 15, and when she decided to get married at 17, she demanded to take "her" bedroom set with her. We said no. However, the bedroom set was not the real issue. The bottom line was that we did not think the boy she wanted to marry was right for her. As it turned out, he wasn't, and the marriage didn't even last a year.

SAME STORY, CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA

DEAR SAME: You make a valid point. When parents are pleased about a marriage, usually they can't do enough for "the kids." If they're not pleased, it's a different story.

DEAR ABBY: Since you're letting your readers have their say about what they don't like about your column, may I add my 2 cents' worth?

Stick to the problems people send you and your solutions. I am not interested in reading letters from readers telling how they would have answered "Helen from Hicksville." If their answers were as good as yours, they would be writing your column instead of you.

And while I'm griping, I might as well tell you that our newspaper never prints your address. How does a person get a letter to you anyway?

LONG-TIME READER

DEAR READER: My address: Dear Abby, P.O. Box 38 923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. For a personal, unpublished reply, please enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope.

DEAR ABBY: You've printed letters from wives and "other women," but I've never seen one from an "other woman" who is being dumped for another "other woman," so this could be a first.

Tom is an ex-priest who gave up the priesthood and married soon after. He was 50 and knew very little about sex. I met him shortly after he was married and we fell in love. That's when his "lessons" began. He was a slow learner. It took me three years to make an accomplished lover of him. (He was very inhibited.)

Imagine my surprise when he introduced me to his new girlfriend! We struck up an immediate friendship, and I discovered that he is using the same line on her that he used on me. I don't want to interfere with his marriage (he has a small child), but I feel sorry for the new girlfriend because I know the heartache she is in for.

Should I have a private talk with her and tell her what a funk he is? Or should I let her be hurt as I was?

DOUBLEDUPED

DEAR DUPED: Regardless of your motivation your warnings will be unappreciated, misunderstood and probably unheeded. Let the lady learn the hard way.

Young American A Maestro At Violin Making

ABOARD QUEEN ELIZABETH 2, AT SEA (UPI)—In Gregg T. Alf's stateroom aboard the luxury liner Queen Elizabeth 2, the top bunk is for violins.

This 24-year-old American is one of the world's leading makers of violins and cellos—he's even been recognized by the Italian state. When, as now, he comes home for a lecture tour, his bedfull of exquisitely hand-crafted instruments fully deserve their own berth.

"There's a thousand dollars of wood in this cello," Alf said in a shipboard interview. "That's just for the wood."

That figure takes no account of the hundreds of painstaking hours Alf carves, shapes, scrapes and inlays blocks of wood into precisely curved, dime-thin pieces. Or assembling them with glues he makes himself. Or the 50 coats of varnish he also makes, individually applied and rubbed down.

Violin making is an art which has changed little since the 17th century days of Antonio Stradivari, whose "Stradivarius" instruments are the most famous ever made.

But few makers have come to the art by Gregg Alf's unusual road.

At 17, he said, he found himself in Cremona, Italy—home of the greatest makers like Stradivari, Amati and the Guarneri dynasty—as one of the few foreigners admitted to the Cremona international school of violin making.

"They were very, very difficult years, those first years," Alf said. "I was young, I had nowhere to live, I had no money, I spoke no Italian at all."

"For about four days I ate only spaghetti because that was the only food word I knew." Reading Italian street signs, he told a friend he was at the equivalent of Walk and Don't Walk streets.

"I had no work bench, no workshop to build a work bench, no tools... It was cold and wet and miserable."

All, a stocky, sandy-mustachioed native of Encino, Calif., was pitched into this situation because of a lifelong passion for string instruments.

"I paid my way in college playing bluegrass music at night and working at instrument repair shops in the day," he said. He also made a violin, and it was so promising that American dealers bulldozed his way into the Cremona school.

Struggling with Italian, Alf gave violin lessons to survive—and made a cello. It promptly won a gold medal, the first of three he has collected, at an international competition in La Jolla, Calif. Alf was 19.

"That helped a lot in a number of ways," he recalls. "I first met Rostropovich there, for instance." Mstislav Rostropovich, the world-renowned cellist, later bought a Gregg Alf cello.

Most of the 40-odd students entering the Cremona school each year never finish the course. Alf graduated and then, after three weeks of exams in everything from acoustics to biology, metallurgy to the history of violins, was awarded the title "maestro" by the Italian state.

This distinction, which allows him to teach and have apprentices, is rare for a foreigner. For a foreigner not yet 24 it is rarer still. But it hardly guaranteed Alf success.

"There are so many reasons why a violin maker doesn't make it, no matter how talented he is," he said. "You have to put so many things together."

Alf leaves nothing to chance. He goes personally to the Yugoslav mountains to buy trees, hoping those he picks will provide one useable block of "flamed" curly maple. He makes his own tools, glues—his best is based on a French fish gelatin used for salads—and his all-important varnish.

"And I make a big effort to talk to musicians," he said. "Too many of them have to buy an instrument off the hook. I try to find out what they want in an instrument."

Then, once a year, his instruments cushioned in an upper bunk—this time he had two cellos, three violins and three violas—Alf returns to the United States to deliver instruments and lectures. This year he's speaking in New York, Washington, New Orleans and Mexico City.

"That doesn't really bring me anything," he said. "The main purpose is to present the case for new hand-made violins. People are losing their sense of quality, and they need reminding that quality can still be found."

Caviar Crepes

Easy On Budget

Caviar is also surprisingly affordable, or about 60 cents a serving in the caviar crepe recipe. For a relaxed evening, prepare crepes and filling; assemble and refrigerate. When you are ready to serve, the crepes can be warmed in a matter of minutes. Enjoy with a bottle of chilled white wine.

RUSSIAN STYLE CAVIAR CREPES
 Blini Crepes: (Makes 8 to 10 crepes)
 2 cups pancake mix
 1 package active dry yeast
 2 eggs
 2 tablespoons butter, melted

2 cups milk
 Mix blinis in order given. Stir only long enough to blend ingredients. Set aside for 2 hours. keep warm.

Filling For Crepes:
 1 cup finely chopped onions
 1 tablespoons lemon juice
 2 cups sour cream
 4 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
 1 4-ounce jar whitefish caviar, drained
 1/4 cup butter

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Wednesday, Feb 3, 1982 - 20

Parsley, lemon slices and sour cream for garnishing.
 Sauté onion in butter until soft; cool. When cool, combine onion, lemon juice and sour cream. Place 1/4 cup filling in center of crepe. Place 3 to 4 egg slices on top. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons whitefish caviar. Roll crepe and place seam side down in ovenproof serving dish. Repeat with remaining crepes.
 Melt butter, pour over crepes and bake at 400 degrees F until warm, about 5-8 minutes. Garnish with parsley, lemon, sour cream and caviar.

'Root' Uses Vary

Although a close relative to stalk celery, this round, brownish root is not the root of the more familiar celery. What confuses the issue is celeriac is sometimes called celery root or celery knob and is topped with green stalks similar to celery. However, celeriac's stalks are not edible, and is grown for its root which has a flavor reminiscent of celery.

Celeriac is primarily a winter vegetable and well adapted to hearty soups and stews. It may also be prepared as a vegetable side dish, topped with cheese, or a Hollandaise sauce. Combine celeriac with boiled potatoes and whip into an interesting mashed medley.

Raw celeriac is the starring ingredient in a French salad called celeri-rave remoulade. Julienne strips of celeriac are marinated in a light and delicate dressing.

To prepare celeriac, peel and cut into cubes or slices. To prevent darkening, squeeze fresh lemon or lime juice over cut surfaces. Cut celeriac can be cooked in boiling, salted water for about 20 minutes or until tender.

Buy celeriac roots that are small for larger ones tend to be woody. Celeriac is often sold with the tops. Remove these before storing in the refrigerator.

WHIPPED POTATOES AND CELERIAC

1 pound celeriac, peeled and quartered

juice of 1/2 lemon or lime
 2 medium potatoes, peeled and quartered
 4 tablespoons butter or margarine

1/2 cup milk
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 Paprika

In large saucepan, bring salted water to a boil. Peel and quarter celeriac. Immediately squeeze lemon or lime juice over cut surfaces to prevent browning and place in saucepan. Peel and quarter potatoes and add to saucepan. Cover and cook over medium heat about 20-25 minutes or until potatoes and celeriac are tender. Drain the vegetables and mash well or put through a food mill or food processor. Add the butter and mix well. Gradually add the milk, beating well. Season with salt and pepper. Garnish with paprika, if desired.

CELERIAC SALAD

2 medium celeriac, peeled and shredded
 2 tablespoons fresh lemon or lime juice

1 large apple, peeled, cored and shredded
 1 large carrot, peeled and grated

1/2 cup chopped walnuts
 3/4 cup mayonnaise

In mixing bowl, combine celeriac and lemon or lime juice and toss to coat. Add apple, carrot and walnuts. Stir in mayonnaise and mix well. Chill at least one hour before serving.

CELERIAC REMOULADE

2 small celeriac, peeled

juice of 1/2 lemon

1 1/2 teaspoons salt

2 tablespoons Dijon mustard

3 tablespoons boiling water

one-third cup light vegetable oil

2 to 3 tablespoons white wine vinegar

Peel celeriac and cut into julienne strips about 3 inches long and 1/4 inch thick. Place in a mixing bowl with lemon juice and salt. In a separate bowl, add mustard. Add water a few drops at a time whipping constantly with wire whisk or electric mixer. Add oil a few drops at a time and continue beating until thickened. Gradually beat in the vinegar. Pour over celeriac and chill for at least 3 hours. Garnish with parsley and chives. Makes 4-8 servings.

Cake Says 'Happy Valentine's Day'

Future Food Aired

By GAYNOR MADDOX
Special to the Herald
Will there be enough food for all of us in the future? "Good times and good food today don't assure us that it will always be that way," says Agriculture Secretary John Block in the 1981 Agriculture Yearbook.

These are some of the problems to be solved: the loss of prime farmland, the leveling off of agricultural resources from producing food to meeting energy requirements, water and soil pollution, and food shortfalls elsewhere in the world.

The 1981 Yearbook - titled "Will There Be Enough Food?" - provides a wealth of information about U.S. food production for our country and our trading partners. The book contains 344 pages (including a 32-page color section), 30 chapters and more than 100 black-and-white photos.

Some chapters are of particular interest to the consumer: "Food, Famine and a Realistic View," "A World That's Fed Better Than Ever Before," "U.S. Agriculture and World Security," "Ways That We'll Continue to Be Well Fed" and "The Land and Water Squeeze on our Food."

A total of 44 authors contributed to the book. Most are specialists from the Agriculture Department and state land-grant universities.

Some are optimistic about the future of American agriculture; others are not.

Two of the authors predict that world dependence on the United States for agricultural supplies is likely to increase significantly.

But a number of writers say that developments on the frontiers of science may boost farm productivity in revolutionary ways.

In the book's final chapter, Don Paarlberg, professor emeritus at Purdue University, says that "no one doubts that our farmers will be able to satisfy the food needs of domestic consumers; concern arises about our ability to meet the projected needs of other countries."

The 1981 Yearbook may be purchased for $7 at government bookstores across the country or from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. Be sure to use a check or money order if you order the book by mail.

Microwave

Creamy

Beef Dip

Hot party foods such as creamy beef dip are easy to make in a microwave oven.

This dip gets its snappy flavor and body from Italian seasonings and tomato soup.

To soften the cream cheese, remove the foil wrapper and microwave the cheese on HIGH 10-20 seconds.

CREAMY BEEF DIP
In 3-qt. round glass casserole, combine 1 lb. ground beef, 1/2 c. chopped onion and a clove of garlic, minced. Cover with glass lid.

Microwave on HIGH 3-4 min., stirring once to separate meat. Drain. Stir in a can of tomato soup, 1 tsp. Italian seasoning, 1 tsp. lemon juice, 1/2 tsp. hot pepper sauce, 8 oz. pkg. softened cream cheese and 1/4 c. grated Parmesan. Microwave on HIGH 5-7 min. or until hot, stirring occasionally. Garnish with chopped parsley. Serve with crackers. Makes about 3 1/2 cups.

VALENTINE CHERRY CAKE

- 1 can (17 ounces) pitted dark sweet cherries
- 1/2 cup chopped walnuts
- 1/2 cup angel flake coconut
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 2 cups flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda

- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 3/4 cup shortening
 - 3/4 cup buttermilk
 - 3 eggs
 - 1 1/2 cups powdered sugar
 - 4 to 6 teaspoons lemon juice
- Drain and halve cherries, reserving syrup for Hot Cherry-Cranberry Punch (below) or another use. Combine cherries with walnuts, coconut and lemon peel; set aside. In a large mixer bowl, combine flour, sugar, salt, soda, cinnamon, shortening, buttermilk and eggs. Blend at low speed until moistened; beat at medium speed 3 minutes. Pour half of the batter into a well-greased, 10-inch fluted tube pan. Spoon cherry mixture over batter. Top with remaining batter.

Bake at 350 degrees 55 to 60 minutes, until top springs back when lightly touched in center. Cool 10 minutes; remove from pan. Cool. Make glaze by combining powdered sugar and lemon juice. Drizzle over cooled cake.

'Heavenly Heart' A Brunch Treat

Heavenly Heart For Two is perfect for a special Valentine's Day brunch celebration. Brimming with shrimp, Swiss cheese and almonds, this recipe is delicately flavored with a mushroom-wine cream sauce, quickly prepared with instant cream of mushroom soup mix.

HEAVENLY HEART FOR TWO

2 envelopes instant cream of mushroom soup mix
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup white wine

1 1/2 cups chopped cooked shrimp
1/2 cup shredded Swiss cheese (about 2 oz.)
1/4 cup chopped almonds
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1/4 teaspoon dill weed
1 package (8 oz.) refrigerated crescent rolls
In medium bowl, blend instant cream of mushroom soup mix with water and wine; stir in shrimp, cheese, almonds, pimiento and dill.

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Wednesday, Feb. 3, 1992—5B

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Separate dough in half. On floured board, roll each half into 10-inch square. Cut in slightly on 1 square to form heart shape; place on ungreased cookie sheet. Spoon filling on heart, leaving a 1-inch border and mounding slightly in the center. Top with remaining square and cut to fit bottom heart; seal edges tightly with fork. Use trimmings, if desired, to form "arrow" for heart. Bake 15 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 2 servings.

BRANDY APRICOT MOUSSE
1 (16-oz.) can apricot halves
1 (6-oz.) can apricot nectar
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
4 large eggs, separated
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 tsp. salt
1-3rd cup California brandy
1 cup whipping cream
Drain apricot halves. Set aside 3 halves for decoration. Turn remaining halves into blender, and blend to a puree, (or force through a strainer). Turn nectar into top of double boiler and sprinkle with gelatin. Let stand 5 minutes to soften. Beat egg yolks lightly, and add to nectar, along with 1/4 cup sugar and salt. Set over boiling water. Cook 5 to 10 minutes, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and coats back of spoon. Remove from heat and stir in pureed apricots and brandy. Cool until mixture begins to thicken and jell. Beat egg whites to a fine foam. Gradually beat in remaining 1/4 cup sugar, continuing to beat to a stiff meringue. With same beater, beat cream stiff. Fold meringue and cream into gelatin mixture. Turn into a souffle dish 8 inches in diameter, 3 inches deep (about 5 cups capacity), fitted with a foil or waxed paper collar extending at least 1 inch above the rim of the dish. Chill until firm, at least 3 hours. At serving time, remove collar and decorate top with reserved apricot halves. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Give Meals A Lift

Desserts with spirit do more than give the average meal a lift, they add a touch of elegance that says to guest and family alike, "here's something special for someone who is special."

BRANDED PINK APPLE SOUFFLE

1-1/4 cups apple juice
2 tbl. red cinnamon candies
2 large or 3 medium cooking apples (about 1 1/2 pound)
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup California brandy
2 tbl. lemon juice
1 envelope unflavored gelatin
3 large egg whites
1/4 tsp. salt
Brandy Custard Sauce

Combine 1 cup apple juice and cinnamon candies in large skillet and beat slowly until candies dissolve. Meanwhile, pare, core and slice apples. Add 1/4 cup each sugar and brandy to skillet along with the lemon juice, and stir until sugar dissolves and mixture reaches a boil. Add apples and simmer about 10 minutes, just until tender and translucent, turning once. Remove apples with slotted spoon, saving syrup. Set aside a few apple slices to decorate top of souffle. Blend or sieve remainder to make 1 cup. Sprinkle gelatin over remaining 1/4 cup apple juice to soften. Turn the rousy cooking syrup into measuring cup. Add more apple juice or water, if needed, to measure 1/2 cup. Combine with softened gelatin, set over boiling water, and heat until gelatin dissolves. Remove from heat and stir in remaining 1/4 cup brandy and the blended apple. Cool until mixture begins to thicken and jell. Beat egg whites with salt to soft peaks. Gradually beat in remaining 1/4 cup sugar, beating to a stiff meringue. Fold into apple mixture. Chill a few minutes, until mixture mounds on a spoon. Turn into serving bowl, and chill firm. At serving time, decorate with reserved apple slices. Serve with Brandy Custard Sauce.

BRANDY CUSTARD SAUCE:
Beat 3 egg yolks lightly in top of double boiler. Stir in 1 1/4 cups half-and-half (thin cream), 3 tbl. sugar, 1 tsp. cornstarch and 1/4 tsp. salt. Set over boiling water, and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and coats back of spoon. Remove from heat, and stir in 2 tbl. California brandy and 1/4 tsp. vanilla. Chill before serving.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Thursday, February 4, 1982

February 4, 1982
This coming year you may have the opportunity to take that trip of considerable distance which you always hoped someday to make. Dig your ditches and begin now to target a time for your departure.
CANCER (June 21-July 21) You are likely to coast and take things easy today unless you are confronted by challenge. Situations which test your mettle will awaken your success drive.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Play to win in situations which are fun and competitive today, yet don't make winning too important. You could be the victor at the expense of wounding a friend's feelings.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be optimistic and hopeful today, but keep your expectations within realistic bounds. You'll accomplish what you set out to, yet you could be disappointed if you expect too much.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) In situations where you have strong self-interests things may not work out too well today, but in areas where you think "we" and not just "me," the reverse will be true.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Where you are willing to work in order to receive today, your returns should be as you anticipate. In matters where you expect things to be handed to you, you could be disappointed.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Try to avoid lethargic or indecisive companions today. They could slow you down considerably. Energetic, enthusiastic associates will inspire you to move onward.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're a very astute observer today. You should be able to spot flaws in the thinking and ideas of your associates. Wisely, you won't put them down for it.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Rather than dip into your reserves today, try to make the most of what is presently available. You're imaginative and clever enough to get the necessary mileage.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In joint ventures it's unimportant today who conceives the best ideas; the thing that matters is working in harmony to make them count for your collective benefit.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Much can be accomplished today provided you schedule your tasks intelligently.

Dizzy Spells? See Neurologist

DEAR DR. LAMB — What does it mean when you are told by an ear doctor that your reflexes are off balance a little? I had the ENG test done and he called me and told me to go see a neurologist for an evaluation.

I talked it over with my doctor and he said he does not see what a neurologist could do for me. I also had the CAT scan and it was Ok. The ear doctor said my inner ear was normal for a woman of my age, 62. My doctor says it is my nerves along with hormone trouble.

I would go to a neurologist if I thought for one minute he could help me but if he told me to take any kind of tranquilizers after paying him a large fee I would feel like kicking myself. Sometimes I seem to have trouble walking straight and I have nausea and a light-headed feeling.

DEAR DR. LAMB — There is a very good reason your ear doctor recommended that you see a neurologist. The ENG test you had measures your eye movements. These are connected to nerve mechanism from your balance canals in your ears. From your comment it sounds like the ENG showed some abnormal movements. These are sometimes seen in people who have dizzy spells.

The point is that dizziness or position sense, related to feeling like you are walking straight or your sense of motion, is not just related to the ears. The ear balance mechanism, the visual reference from your eyes and the position sense signals from nerves all over your body send signals to your brain.

Sometimes the dizzy problem is the balance canals. In other instances it is because of some defect within the brain where all these impulses from the ears, eyes and body position signals are integrated. Some studies show that the majority of patients over 40 years of age who have dizziness have it on

Microwave Magic

Meat, Vegetable Entrees Work Well With Conventional Methods

By 1983, 50 percent of all American households will have a microwave oven, so the marketing experts tell us.

That leaves 50 percent without a microwave oven. For those homemakers, who for one reason or another do not own a microwave, I would encourage you to try some of the microwave recipes by converting them to the conventional methods of cookery.

In many instances it is simply adding more cooking time and additional liquid to a recipe, because moisture is lost through evaporation when dry heat is used for cooking.

Not all microwave recipes are convertible, but when there is one that will convert well, I will tell you how it can be done.

These meat and vegetable combination entrees will work well with conventional methods of preparation as well as microwaved. The recipes, however, will not be as low in calories when prepared conventionally because fat will be needed for browning.

BEEF BURGUNDY

- 1/4 cup water
- 1 tablespoon corn starch
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 1/2 lb. sliced fresh mushrooms
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/4 cup burgundy wine
- 1 lb. boneless sirloin, cut in 3/4 inch cubes
- 1/2 teaspoon salt

1/4 teaspoon pepper
Blend water, wine and cornstarch in 3-quart casserole. Stir in remaining ingredients, cover. Microwave 20-30 minutes or until meat is fork tender. Stir 2 times. Let stand 5 minutes. Serve over rice or buttered noodles.

Conventional Method: Brown meat in 1 tablespoon of fat, add 1 cup water, wine, onion and seasonings. Simmer until meat is tender. Add mushrooms and continue to simmer 6 minutes longer. Add 2 tablespoons of cornstarch and cook until thickened.

PEPPER STEAK

- 2 tablespoon water
- 1/4 teaspoon kitchen bouquet
- 1 tomato, cut into wedges
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1 lb. flank steak, sliced thin, across grain of meat
- 2 tablespoons soy sauce

1 tablespoon cornstarch
4 small green onions, sliced diagonally
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
1 medium green pepper, cut into thin strips
In 2-quart casserole, blend water, soy sauce, and kitchen bouquet, cornstarch, ginger and garlic powder. Add flank steak, stirring to coat. Stir in green pepper and onion. Microwave at 100 percent power 8-10 minutes, or until meat and green pepper are tender, stirring 2 or 3 times. Stir in tomatoes. Microwave 100 percent power 1-2 minutes or until tomatoes are heated through. Serve over rice.

Conventional Method: Stir-fry the meat in 1 tablespoon peanut oil, add green pepper, and onion and stir-fry. Add other ingredients except tomato. Mix well and cook till juices are thickened, add tomato and cook till heated through. Serves 6 - 122 calories per servings.

Next week: Chicken.

Serve your family "Buffet Chicken." Then enter your favorite recipe in National Chicken Cooking Contest.

Favorite Chicken Dish May Win $$

If you want to be among the 51 contestants competing in the 1982 National Chicken Cooking Contest in Texas this summer for a total of $20,000 in prizes, now's the time to get out your favorite chicken recipe and get in on the fun.

The deadline for entering the 34th annual competition is April 1. A winner from each state and the District of Columbia will be chosen to take part in the national cook-off August 18 at Loews Anatole Dallas. And a prize of $10,000 awaits this year's best chicken recipe.

The big chicken cook-off has been held each year since 1949. The National Broiler Council, sponsor, says it's easy to enter. Just write your name, address and telephone number on each recipe and mail before April 1 to: Chicken Contest, Box 28158 Central Station, Washington, DC 20005.

In addition to the top $10,000 prize, there will be four other big winners: $4,000 second prize; $3,000 third; $2,000, fourth and $1,000, fifth. Each state winner will receive an expense-paid trip to the national competition.

If you have a chicken dish that brings raves each time you serve it, why not send it in? It may be a recipe passed down through generations, one given to you by a friend or one you perfected through several revisions. The only required ingredient is chicken and you may use it whole or any part or parts. Recipes should be written for four servings.

In some states, finalists are selected in preliminary cook-offs. In states where no cook-off is held, the winner is chosen by an independent recipe judging procedure. At all levels, recipes are evaluated on four equal points: taste, appearance, simplicity and appeal.

Last year's $10,000 recipe was "Impossible Chicken Pie," entered by the South Dakota contestant. To help you start thinking about a recipe that could make you one of this year's winners, serve your family "Buffet Chicken" (below), a dish that meets all contest requirements.

BUFFET CHICKEN

1 whole broiler-fryer chicken, cut in pieces
3 cans (16 ounces each) Italian tomatoes, drained; reserve liquid

- 1/2 cup flour
- 2 eggs
- 2 tablespoons white wine
- 2 tablespoons parmesan cheese
- 1 tablespoon chopped parsley
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 1/4 cup margarine
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1/4 teaspoon basil
- 1/2 teaspoon oregano

In blender container, place flour, eggs, wine, 2 tablespoons liquid from tomatoes, parmesan cheese, parsley, salt and pepper. Blend until thoroughly mixed, about 30 seconds. In large frypan, place oil and margarine; heat to medium temperature. In blender container, dip chicken in batter one piece at a time. Brown slowly in frypan, turning, about 30 minutes, or until brown on all sides. Remove chicken to warm platter. Drain off oil except for 2 tablespoons; add onion, green pepper and garlic. Sauté until onion is clear. Add drained tomatoes, basil and oregano. Cook over medium high heat until liquid is almost absorbed. Add remaining liquid from tomatoes and cook over high heat for 5 minutes. Add chicken parts and cook another 10 minutes, until only a little liquid remains. (Note: Do not cover at any time during cooking process.) Serve on spaghetti noodles. Makes 4 servings.

Corn Bread Layers Tasty Casserole

An eggplant casserole is much easier to make than it sounds. It's a hearty dish that will especially appeal to those who like cheese and tomatoes. The flavors meld well and none is overpowering. This version is made with cornbread to appeal more to American tastes.

EGGPLANT CASSEROLE

Corn Bread Layer: 2 1/2 cups crumbled corn bread
Eggplant Layer: 1 large eggplant, peeled, 1/2 cup vegetable oil, 1 teaspoon salt
Meat Layer: 1 pound ground beef, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 1 clove garlic minced, 1 one 8-ounce can tomato sauce, 2 tablespoons red wine or water, 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon oregano leaves crushed
Topping: 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 1 2/3 cups milk, 3 eggs, beaten, 1 cup ricotta cheese, 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
For corn bread layer: Sprinkle 1 1/2 cups crumbled corn bread in bottom of ungreased 11-by-7-inch baking dish. For eggplant layer: Slice eggplant 1/4-inch thick, cut large slices in half. In large skillet, saute eggplant in oil for 3 to 4 minutes on each side; drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with salt. Pour all but 1 tablespoon oil from skillet. For topping: In medium saucepan, melt butter; add flour, salt and nutmeg. Cook 2 minutes over medium heat. Add milk; cook and stir about 1 minute or until thickened. Stir small amount of milk mixture into eggs; return to milk mixture. Add cheeses; stir until melted. Remove from heat. To assemble casserole: Heat oven to 350 degrees. Layer 1/2 of eggplant slices over corn bread layer. Spread meat mixture over eggplant; layer with remaining 1 cup crumbled corn bread. Layer remaining eggplant slices over corn bread. Pour topping over eggplant. Bake for 40 to 45 minutes or until golden brown. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 8 servings.

CORN BREAD

1 cup enriched corn meal, 1 cup all-purpose flour, 1/4 cup sugar, if desired, 1 tablespoon baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, beaten, 1/4 cup vegetable oil
Heat oven to 425 degrees. Grease 8-inch square baking pan. In medium bowl, combine corn meal, flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. Add milk, egg and oil; mix just until dry ingredients are moistened. Bake in prepared pan for 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Makes 8-inch square pan of corn bread (about 6 cups crumbled).

Beef, Olive Dish Fit For A King

Carbonne of Beef is a rich and tasty dish fit for a king. The cream-based sauce is delicately flavored with thyme and includes onion, mushrooms and black ripe olives.

CARBONNE OF BEEF

4 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 8 small cube steaks, or thin slices round steak, 5 tablespoons butter or margarine, 2 large onions, sliced, 1 cup sliced mushrooms, 1 cup beef bouillon, 1/4 teaspoon thyme, 3 tablespoons light cream, 1 cup pitted ripe olives
Preheat oven to 325 degrees F. Mix together flour and salt. Rub 3 tablespoons of the flour mixture into steaks. Melt 4 tablespoons butter. Add steaks and brown on both sides. Put steaks in medium size baking dish. Add onions to skillet and brown lightly. Spoon over meat. Melt remaining butter. Add mushrooms and brown lightly. Stir in remaining flour. Add bouillon, thyme and cream to mushrooms and cook, stirring constantly, until sauce boils and is slightly thickened. Drain olives and add to sauce. Spoon sauce over meat. Cover baking dish. Bake for 1-1/2 hours or until meat is tender. Makes 4 servings.

Put Romance Into Cozy Dinner-For-Two

"Lupercales" was an ancient Roman festival held on February 14 celebrating lovers, who drew names from urns to decide on their true loves.

Coincidentally, it was on that day in 270 A.D. that a Christian martyr named St. Valentine died for refusing to give up Christianity. He later became associated with the "love lottery" and was designated its patron saint.

Valentine's Day has new meaning, especially today - romance is making a comeback! The self-centered "me" generation has turned into the "we" generation, having realized it's more fun to be cozily aligned with someone other than oneself.

Fine dining is a great part of the romantic ambiance two people can create for each other on this holiday. And with today's skyrocketing prices at restaurants, why not prepare a luscious, special dinner at home?

A romantic repast for two can be an instant success with Idaho potatoes, those delectably fluffy-textured and enticingly flavored spuds knowing restaurateurs use for their most exquisite dishes.

SAUCY POTATO PORK CHOPS

2 pork chops, cut 1-inch thick, 1 egg, 1/2 teaspoon salt

1/2 teaspoon paprika, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1-3/4 cup unseasoned bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons vegetable oil, Potato Sauce

In shallow dish beat egg with salt, paprika and pepper. Dip pork chops into egg mixture. Coat with bread crumbs. In skillet heat oil. Brown pork chops lightly on both sides. Reduce heat. Cook uncovered 20 to 25 minutes or until tender. Spoon Potato Sauce (Below) over chops. Serve additional sauce with pork chops. YIELD: 2 servings.

POTATO SAUCE

2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/2 cup diced carrots, 1/2 cup thinly sliced scallions, 2 cloves garlic, minced, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 1/2 cups milk, 2 Idaho potatoes, cooked, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch cubes, 1/4 cup chopped parsley, 1 1/2 tablespoons Dijon mustard, 1/4 teaspoon salt. In medium saucepan melt butter; saute carrots, scallions and garlic until tender. Blend in flour. Add milk. Cook over medium heat until sauce thickens slightly, stirring oc-asionally. Stir in potatoes, parsley, mustard and salt. Continue cooking until heated through.

MAHARAJ POTATOES

2 Idaho potatoes, cooked, peeled and cut into 1/2-inch slices, 1 whole chicken breast, boned and skinned (about 8-ounces), 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/2 cup chopped onion, 1/2 cup coarsely chopped green pepper, 2 cloves garlic, minced, 1 teaspoon grated fresh ginger root, 1 can (8-ounces) tomato sauce, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon ground cumin, 1/2 teaspoon fennel or anise seeds, 1/4 teaspoon cayenne pepper, 1/4 cup plain yogurt, 2 tablespoons freshly squeezed lemon juice

Arrange potato slices on heated serving dish and keep warm. Cut chicken into thin strips. In large skillet melt butter, saute chicken over medium heat until golden brown. Add onion, green pepper, garlic and ginger; saute until tender. Add tomato sauce, salt, cumin, fennel and cayenne. Simmer 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in yogurt. Spoon chicken mixture over potatoes and sprinkle with lemon juice.

Chase Away The Blues Of Mid-Winter

Holiday parties are over and a long winter looms ahead, but it's also the start of an exciting, brand-new year. So plan to make the most of it by creating your own special occasion for entertaining.

Cheer up friends with a dinner sure to chase away mid-winter blues! This menu for eight, planned around colorful, fun-to-eat kabobs, proves it's possible to put on a festive spread without blowing the budget.

The inviting, hickory-smoke aroma of Glazed Sirlean Kabobs coming from the kitchen is sure to arouse weary appetites.

The kabobs are served on a bed of corn bread stuffing. Conveniently packaged corn bread stuffing mix is blended with a combination of sauteed fresh vegetables and chopped pecans to make a delicious, attractive side dish.

Cheese and garlic croutons enliven an already interesting salad combination, adding crunchy texture and tangy flavor. Chocolate filled coronets crown the meal. The elegant pastry shells are easily made using frozen puff pastry sheets that can be thawed, unfolded and ready to shape in just minutes. All the time-consuming work of making pastry "from scratch" is eliminated, yet results are equally light, flaky and delicate.

The luscious, creamy filling is made with unsweetened cocoa, chocolate in its most concentrated form, so flavor will be extra rich. Since cocoa is ready to use — there are no squares to pre-melt — and combines smoothly with other ingredients, you'll blend up the delectable chocolate glaze in a very few minutes.

GLAZED SIRLEAN KABOBS

- Kabobs:
2 packages (12 ounces each) pork breakfast strips carrots, pared and cut into ¼ inch pieces
green pepper, cut into 1 inch squares

- Glaze:
1 cup packed brown sugar
½ cup white wine
2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
1 teaspoon grated orange peel
Broil strips 4 inches from heat source about 2 minutes on each side. Drain on paper towels.

Meanwhile, cook carrots and green pepper in boiling salted water until just tender crisp. Drain.

Combine glaze ingredients in small bowl, mix well.
On long skewers thread strips with alternating carrots and green pepper. Allow 2 strips, 1 piece carrot and 2 pieces green pepper per skewer. Brush one side with glaze. Broil glazed side up for 2 minutes. Turn and brush second side with glaze. Broil 2 minutes or until strips are done.

Yield: Approximately 16 kabobs

VEGETARIAN STUFFING

- 1-½ cups broccoli florets
1 cup sliced mushrooms
1 cup sliced zucchini
1 medium clove garlic, minced
½ cup (1 stick) butter or margarine
1 package (8 ounces) corn bread stuffing
1 cup chopped spinach
½ cup sliced green onion
½ cup chopped toasted pecans
½ teaspoon ground ginger
1-½ cups water

In a large saucepan, cook broccoli, mushrooms, zucchini and garlic in butter until vegetables are tender. Add remaining ingredients; blend well. Spoon into buttered 2 quart baking dish. Cover and bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. Makes about 7 cups.

NOTE — if a more moist stuffing is desired, increase water to 2 cups.

OLIVE AND ANCHOVY VEGETABLE SALAD

- 6 cups assorted salad greens, cut in bite size pieces
2 medium tomatoes, cut in wedges
1 cup sliced cucumber
1 green pepper, cut in rings
1 red pepper, cut in rings
½ cup pitted black olives
½ cup pimiento stuffed olives
1 can (2 ounces) flat anchovies, drained
2-3 cup olive oil
2 eggs
3 tablespoons wine vinegar
1 cup parsley
1 small onion, cut in wedges
1 teaspoon dried basil
1-½ cups cheese and garlic croutons
In a large bowl, combine vegetables, olives and anchovies. Cover and chill until ready to serve. To make dressing, combine next six ingredients in blender container and blend until smooth. Just before serving, add dressing and croutons to salad and toss.
Makes about 10 cups salad.

CHOCOLATE-FILLED CORONETS

- 2 sheets (17-½-ounce package) frozen puff pastry
½ cup butter
½ cup cocoa
3 eggs, separated
½ cup sugar
¼ cup heavy cream
¼ cup sugar
2 teaspoons vanilla
chocolate glaze (recipe below)
Cut eight 10 x 10-inch squares of heavy duty aluminum foil. Fold in half diagonally. Roll into cone shape 6-inches long and 1-½-inches in diameter.

Thaw pastry according to package directions. Unfold and cut each into eight lengthwise strips. Brush with water; wrap around foil cone, overlapping strips by ¼-inch using 2 strips for each cone. Bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Cool; carefully remove foil. Prepare filling. Melt butter in saucepan. Remove from heat; carefully blend in cocoa. Cool. Beat egg yolks in small mixer bowl; gradually add ¼ cup sugar, beating until thick and lemon colored. Fold in chocolate mixture; stir in heavy cream; set aside.

Beat egg whites until frothy; gradually add ¼ cup sugar, beating until stiff peaks form. Fold chocolate mixture into stiffly beaten egg whites. Add vanilla; chill until almost firm. Fill shells. Glaze; chill until serving. Makes 8 coronets.

Chocolate Glaze: Combine 2 tablespoons melted butter, 3 tablespoons cocoa and 1 cup confectioners' sugar. Stir in 1 to 3 tablespoons water and 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Variation — Cocoa Whipped Cream Filling
1-3 cup confectioners' sugar
3 tablespoons unsweetened cocoa
1 cup heavy cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Combine confectioners' sugar and cocoa in small mixer bowl. Blend in heavy cream and vanilla. Whip on high speed until stiff. About 2 cups filling.
