

Porter Hurts Reds To 11-3 Victory Over Lookouts

Veteran Allows Locals But Four Scattered Hits

Win Brown Gets Two Of Lookouts' Bingles; Reds Collect 11 Hits Off Pelham And Lovell During Contest

By JULIAN STENSTROM
CONRAD PARK, Deland, June 12—The Lookouts dropped another notch into the Florida State League cellar yesterday as they allowed the Deland Reds a 11 to 3 victory in a regular league battle.

The Lookouts were completely dazed by the sweeping curve ball thrown across the plate by Earl Porter, veteran moundman and former hurler for the Daytona Beach Islanders. Porter gave the Lookouts only four hits, two of them collected by Win Brown, the Lookout centerfielder.

Porter worked four of the Lookouts during the battle while fanning a total of eight.

Manager Bill Rodgers started Pudge Pelham on the mound but he was knocked out in the second round when the Reds collected five hits for six runs. Rodgers replaced Pelham on the mound with Jack Lovell who finished the tilt. Pelham allowed two walks and failed to register a strikeout. Lovell allowed seven hits during the six and two third innings he hurled and gave up five runs.

The Lookouts started the scoring in the second frame but the Reds came back and collected six runs to put the tilt on ice. They collected another pair in the third and one in the sixth. The Lookouts gathered one in the seventh while the Reds were getting two. The Rodgers' outfit finished by securing a lone tally in the ninth.

Reds, Lookouts Tangle Tonight In Loop Battle

Either Eddie Harper Or Dick Morrison To Hurl For Reds

Manager Harry Rice will bring his Deland Reds here tonight for a regular Florida State League battle with the Lookouts.

Manager Rice has not announced his starting hurler but it will be either Eddie Harper or Dick Morrison. If Harper begins, it will be his initial starting assignment for the Reds since his return. If Morrison starts it will be his first attempt to set back his former manager. Morrison was with the Lookouts last season but did not have an ailing right wing he was forced to retire.

The line-up for the Reds will include Newell in leftfield, Fu banks on second base, Shimer on shortstop, Rice in rightfield, Jackson behind the plate, James at first base, Bill Schmidt in center field, Rutledge on third base and Harper or Morrison on the mound.

The line-up for the Lookouts will include Joe Ruggiero on third base, Gentry on shortstop or second base, Eddie Davis on first base, Pete Mihalic in leftfield, Win Brown in centerfield, Don Contreras or Fred Holland behind the plate, Sid Hudson or Mayo Langston in rightfield, Cruthers or Louisa Muson on second or shortstop and the starting hurler has not been named.

Bucher To Pilot Panama City Club

ORLANDO, June 11—Bucky Bucher, former manager of the Orlando Senators who in 1933 was a member of the Chattanooga Lookouts' training roster, today announced that he had been offered a job as manager of the Alabama-Florida League outfit.

Bucher managed Orlando during the initial portion of the season but suffered difficulties in dealing with the front office. He was fired by P. M. Coffy, owner of the club, following Orlando's double victory over the Lookouts on June 4.

Bucher stated that he was planning to take the case before Judge W. G. Bradham, czar of minor league baseball, where he will attempt to secure a full year's salary as provided in the contract.

Pete Mihalic And Eddy Gentry Lead Lookout Hitters

Cook With Six Wins And One Defeat Is Local Mound Star

Eddie Gentry and Pete Mihalic, second basemen of the Lookouts, continued to bat at a fast rate and set the pace for the Sanford aggregation during the past week. They were the only two men on the team to hit over the .300 mark. Gentry is batting with an average of .367 for 11 games played while Mihalic has a .341 mark after taking part in 17 games.

Doc Cook continued to lead the Lookout leading corps in wins, with a record which gives him an average of .327.

Mihalic is running a close race with Jack Iverson for the most doubles. Mihalic has piled up 12 in 17 games, the most since he joined the team in 1933.

During the week the Lookouts' batting average at the 20 mark, leading the tri-county circuit by a scant three points margin. They are testing .253 eighth place in their fielding activities with an average of .924.

With one-third of the season over, Art Hardee of the Leesburg Goldfishers leads the season's ace hurler. Hardee has chalked up 12 wins against three defeats to date.

Eddie Davis Signs Contract To Play For Sanford Nine

Official of the Seminole County Baseball Association yesterday announced the signing of Eddie Davis, giant first baseman who was with the Lookouts in 1933.

It could not be learned today where Davis played last season but during the 1934 season, he was in the New York Penn League. He joined the Lookouts' then during the mid-season and hit .308.

Davis played his first game with the Lookouts yesterday in Deland. He went to bat four times and secured one hit. He is left-handed and also bats left-handed. He stands six feet two and one-half inches tall and weighs 120 pounds.

Krupp's, the German steel and munitions firm, is bidding for the construction of a second railway track between Istanbul and Ankara. In addition to shortening the journey by four hours, the track would be of strategic value for rapid transportation of troops.

China's first railway, 10 miles in length between Shanghai and Wusung, was built by foreign enterprise in 1876. After a farmer had been run over and killed, however, it was purchased by the Chinese government and torn up.

JOE PALOOKA

Knobby has rushed to Washington and with his heart in his throat tries to compose his plea to the President.

Mr. Walsh to see you Mr. President.

How do you do Mr. Walsh.

I understand the State Department has given me all the facts. Naturally we don't wish to interfere with the French authorities.

I'll get it right away.

But y'ya see y'ya see you came in they informed me that a last moment dispatch advised that Mr. Palooka deserted and is to be shot.

Ohhh!

Here take this glass of water old man.

Just a moment after Babs and Dan Dunn leave the hotel Mortimer and Matilda with the adoption papers arrive at Dan's hotel.

Come on, Mortimer, hurry, let's get Babs right away!

I'll pay the driver Matilda!

I'm sorry Madam, but Miss Babs just left the hotel with Mr. Dunn. I don't know when they'll be back.

Mumph! Then I'll wait for her.

If I have to stay a week!

There's one thing sure--Babs won't go back to that home--every time I think how that Miss Effie whipped that child, it makes me boil--something should be done about it--I've got to get some advice on what to do about Babs.

Babs, how would you and Wolf like to go over to see Judge Level with me?

Oh fine, Mr. Dan, I like Judge Level!

THE TOY WIFE

GERTRUDE GELBIN

Chapter Six

TOY WIFE

It was Froutrou herself who eventually persuaded George to send for Louise.

Matters had gone from bad to worse in the Sartoris household. The slaves became completely unmanageable. Little George ran wild. Even Froutrou grew impatient. Any one who ventured to suggest the opportunity to serve the Government in the Southwest in favor of remaining at Froutrou's house, George had become increasingly impatient with her waywardness.

"What need Louise?" Froutrou decided helplessly. "George, you must go and talk to her. Explain how much we need her here. You can argue with her better than anyone else--you are a lawyer!"

And so it was that George traveled from New Orleans to the plantation to beg Louise to come back with him and manage his home. Louise, her heart still aching with love for him, refused. "You don't really need me, Froutrou will learn."

George shook his head. "Do you remember my saying once that I had no wish to cure Froutrou of her fretting? He raised tired eyes to hers. "I didn't know what I was talking about, Louise."

"Have you quarreled?" she asked quietly.

"Oh, no! One doesn't quarrel with Froutrou!" He laughed wryly.

"One surrenders to her, Froutrou. But after all," she protested unavailingly, "what could I do?"

"You could at least see that George is properly cared for," he said soberly.

"But surely Gilberte loves her child!"

"Yes--but as a playmate--not as a mother. Just as she loves me--not as a wife. Louise, you're the only person in the world who's ever had any influence over her. I beg you to use that influence for our sakes--or this marriage will certainly end in disaster."

"It's not always the women of the underworld who ruin men. It's more often their wives--even patently virtuous, loving wives," she paused.

"My wives," he whispered.

And so Louise entered the Sartoris home to take all matters in hand; to safeguard the precious keys to the household; to keep the slaves in control; to care for little George in a way that made him tractable and happy; to manage affairs so that Froutrou, for the first time, knew peace and quiet.

Froutrou was delighted with the arrangement. Now that he had nothing to worry about! She had all the hours needed for rehearsing Madame de Cambri's visit. The rehearsals were such fun, Andre read his lines with a fervor that constantly amused her.

Froutrou hummed a tune as she dressed for the evening's rehearsal. "Pick," she called to her personal slave, "Did you get Madame de Cambri's dress?"

"She's coming in next week," Froutrou said sharply.

"Pick looked up with unhappy eyes. "Madame de Cambri's dress," and she got Madame de Cambri's dress and she got Madame de Cambri's dress and she got Madame de Cambri's dress."

"No, so," he smiled. "Run along. Only you'll miss a very good dinner. Louise has taken that wild Eve in hand and now she's cooking like an angel."

"I'm glad," Froutrou said in a fat voice. "Eve's good. 'Wallau au revoir' -- she held up her face. He looked at her lightly. "Is that all?"

"He laughed and putting his arm about her, walked her to the door. "We need Louise. Froutrou decided helplessly. "George, you must go and talk to her. Explain how much we need her here. You can argue with her better than anyone else--you are a lawyer!"

And so it was that George traveled from New Orleans to the plantation to beg Louise to come back with him and manage his home. Louise, her heart still aching with love for him, refused. "You don't really need me, Froutrou will learn."

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

We despised even of life but we had the sentence of death in ourselves, but in God which is with the dead, who delivered us from we great a death, and death deliver. - 2 Cor. 1:8-10.

I LOVE TO STEAL AWHILE AWAY

I love to steal awhile away from every lumbering care, and spend the hours of setting day in humble, grateful prayer.

I love in solitude to shed

The penitential tear, and all his promises in plead, where man but God can hear.

I love to think on mercies past

And future good improve, and all my cares and sorrows, on him whom I adore.

I love by faith to take a view

Of brighter scenes in heaven; the prospect doth my strength renew, while here by tempest driven.

Thus, when life's tollsome day is o'er,

May thy departing ray be calm as this impressive hour, and lead to endless day. - Phoebe Brown.

Off office boys say Sanford has the strongest team in the League; "It's holding all the other teams up."

The much heralded business slump in Sanford, following a disastrous celery season, finds the city in the midst of its biggest building boom in the last decade.

The wage and hour bill finally has agreement and as far as we can tell it provides exemptions wherever wages are low and applies only where wages are high, which sector will probably obviate the evils of the bill and eliminate any alleged benefits.

The rains of recent weeks have made the greens and fairways at the Sanford Country Club a joy to golfers. Sanford is lucky to have one of the finest natural holes in the state and fans should take advantage of the splendid opportunity for play offered at extremely reasonable rates.

Impatience and bad manners costs thousands of automobile accidents yearly. We can pass all kinds of laws and build super-safety highways, and invent all manner of safety devices, but as long as roads are traveled by ill-tempered and selfish men and women, we will continue to have accidents.

The personal columns of The Herald show that Sanford residents are not provincial. Persons from this city are traveling to the four corners of the United States. They are observing manners and customs in other sections and picking up useful bits of information on how things are done in other towns, and are coming back fortified with new ideas and ideas, convinced that there is no place like home.

The world seems to be filled with mechanical progress, who are busy with the wheels of the other fellow. Millionaire inventors are inventing all kinds of things, and are saving the Chinese, themselves, and the rest of the world from the flag of progress by the means of doubling human life; General Frison is saving the women and children from the horrors of the war; L. E. Hall, inventor of the "Hall" machine, will revolutionize the world by his new machine for making buttons.

The Monopoly Probe

That there is a need for preventing monopolies and breaking them up wherever they appear, and for maintaining free markets which will allow maximum economies in production and distribution to secure minimum prices, few students of economics will disagree, but the New York Times, staunch Democratic newspaper, interposes some questions in regard to the Senate resolution providing for a recess investigation of monopolies which should cause everyone to think.

The Times sees the problem as a difficult one and points out that even if the investigators "resolved to adhere to sober fact-seeking they should need to think through their objectives clearly before their investigation began in order to prevent themselves from becoming lost in a maze of irrelevant matter and in order to make sure of concentrating on what it is most important for them to learn."

The Times then shows that the President in his monopoly message to Congress on April 29 digressed from his main theme to discuss the distribution of wealth, which is not a part of the monopoly problem in the strict sense.

"What are the real evils that we are trying to prevent or stamp out?" asks the Times. "What is the test of monopoly? Is it mere bigness? Should a corporation like the Ford Motor Company be broken up simply because it is large? Should all great companies be broken up into small units, willy-nilly? Is there to be pulverization of American business? What, in that case, would become of the economies achieved by mass production, which has made America the industrial leader and envy of the world?"

The Times thinks the problems confronting the committee are not insoluble but insists the investigators will have to remember "that they can be solved not by 'head-but-and-vote chasing' but by careful study of the facts and quiet consultation with the best minds available."

Odds And Ends

The answer to many interesting questions and illuminating comments on a wide variety of subjects are contained in news releases sent out by Center News Features of Rockefeller Center in New York City.

Not that it makes any special difference to any one, but the American Petroleum Institute has figured out the answer to the question, "Can a man swim in gasoline?" It shows that, "since the buoyancy of gasoline is about a fifth less than water, a person could not swim in it unless he could swim in water with a weight of about 40 pounds on his back. The average person therefore couldn't keep afloat in gasoline."

"The situation is something like flying in the air. A gas-filled balloon is lighter than air and floats. The human body is lighter than water, and floats in it. But in gasoline the human body would be heavier than the fluid. A heavier than air machine can fly because of the rapid speed of the propellers. A man swimming in gasoline would have to exert tremendous effort to keep afloat. He could not swim for any length of time."

Another subject, the discussion of which may have a more practical value, is the explanation that poison ivy cannot be contracted by walking past an ivy plant. A health organization in the Center says that "the oils secreted by the poison ivy that cause the skin irritation cannot be carried by air. The skin must make contact with the plant itself. Good strong Naphtha soap and warm water will wash off the oils and, if applied promptly, will prevent poisoning. So walk in the woods if you want, but don't touch ivy plants."

According to a travel bureau, a New Jersey flying service is offering a "unique feature to sun bathers, who may lounge in entertainment thousands of feet above the ground under the full smile of the great solar luminary. The fuselages of several planes have been enclosed on the side and top with special transparent material which permits the ingress of the beneficial ultra-violet in the sunshine." It is claimed that an exposure of half an hour is equal to a sun bath of one or two hours at sea level.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON, June 14. — All in all, it measures 28.5 telephones per square mile, which is something better than we could calculate for the United States.

Telephones are always computed per capita. This gives the United States a whopping edge, for the latest tabulation coming to us indicates there are 18,433,100 telephones in this country.

But when a party is hunting a telephone while stranded on a dark country road it is no pleasure to know that one of every seven has it. He wants to know how many there are per square mile of dark countryside and what his chances are of finding one.

The same tabulation by which we were informed that the United States has 18,433,100 telephones (it is even more by now we were cautioned), also informed us that England had 2,791,592 and Japan 1,197,129.

England has an area of 94,273 square miles, about the same as one of our hotly contested mid-western states. And when you spread 2,791,592 telephones in such an area it means one telephone every little way, not to mention the pub on the corner.

At this point we will record evidence of some old-fashioned non-conformity in Congress in the person of Senator Prentiss M. Brown of Michigan. On a recent date he wrote to the Hotel Ohio in Lansing, saying:

"Gentlemen: When I was in Lansing April 24, I left some laundry and said I would call for it. I forgot it when in Lansing last Saturday for a couple of hours. Would you please mail it to me 262 Senate Office Building in Washington. I also left here (Washington). I also left a white night gown in the room. If your mail picked it up would you send it also. Old fashioned night gowns are such a rarity in these pajama days that the loss is more serious than the intrinsic value. I suppose I am one of the few left who cling to this old fashioned luxury, but since I wear pants all day I like a change at night."

He got it. It was sent him by mail. C. O. D., 90 cents.

Pinder Hurls 15-Innings As Lookouts Lose to Reds 10 to 8

Holland Stars With Home Run And Pair Of Doubles

DeLand Crew Scores Needed Margin In 15th; Contest Starts Monday Evening And Ends Tuesday Morning

Joseph P. Pinder, who had his heart set on winning a game of baseball last night, hurled for 15 innings but he and his mates went down to a 10 to 8 defeat at the hands of the DeLand Reds who pushed across a pair of runs in the 15th inning of the contest which started at 8:15 o'clock yesterday evening and ended at 12:16 o'clock this morning.

Pinder, who had been characterized as Sanford's greatest pitching pitcher, proved that all rumors were on the contrary as he hurled the entire route and had as much on the ball when the tilt ended as he did when it started. Pinder was hurt by poor support during the entire portion of the contest but he did his share by fanning a total of 14 men while walking a total of eight.

Hal Wolfberger started on the hill for the Reds but was knocked out after seven and one-third innings and was replaced by Eddie Harper who went on to get credit for the victory.

The Lookouts pounded out 12 hits during the evening and Freddie Holland poked one over the left field wall in the third frame with two men on. He secured two more doubles, Eddie Davis came through with a double and a triple.

The Reds started the scoring in the first inning when errors by Musso and Gentry paved the way for a single by Jackson and a double by Schmidt to score three runs.

In their half of the third they collected two more when Jackson singled and scored on Gentry's second miscue. Parrett doubled in center field to score Schmidt.

The Lookouts went to war in their half of the third when with one out, Gentry singled to short, Brown walked and Davis walked filling the bases. Hudson singled to short left field to score Gentry and Brown. Freddie Holland then pounded the ball over the left field wall for a circuit smash with Davis and Hudson on the bags.

The Reds secured another in the fourth when Kubanks was safe on a fielder's choice, stole second and scored on Jackson's single to center field. In the fifth they got two more when Rutledge was hit by a pitched ball and took third on a single left by Schmidt. Parrett fanned and Wolfberger was safe. Rutledge was forced out at the plate. Newell worked Pinder for a walk and Kubanks single scored Schmidt and Wolfberger.

The Lookouts scored in the seventh when Davis tripled to right field and scored on a double by Holland. In the eighth the Lookouts tied the score when Langston, pinch hitting, drew a base on balls. Ruggiero went out Shimer to Jones, Brown singled to right field sending Atwater, who was running for Langston, to second base. Davis went out Shimer to Jones to advance both men and Hudson singled to center to score Atwater and Brown to knot the count.

Play was scoreless until the fatal 15th frame when the Reds scored twice. Rutledge singled to right. Schmidt was safe on an error by Joe Ruggiero, putting the runners on third and second. Harper hit a bounding grounder down to Ruggiero who threw wide at first pulling Davis off the bag to allow Rutledge to score. Newell singled to left to score Schmidt for the Reds.

ORLANDO, June 14. — Orlando nosed out Gainesville in the eighth inning of their Florida State League game last night. 3-2 Woody Davis' single drove in the deciding run. Mathias blanked the Gonders after the first.

GAINESVILLE, June 14. — The Florida State League leading Gainesville club dropped an 11-9 slugfest to the Palatka team last night, the Azaleas hammering three local hurlers for 17 hits. Sporkman was charged with the defeat.

E. Smith, the third pitcher to work for Palatka, was credited with the victory. Bill Leit started at bat with a triple, double, and three singles in five times at bat.

ST. AUGUSTINE, June 14. — Forest (Lefty) Brewer, former Robert E. Lee High star in Jacksonville continued his sensational pitching feat night as St. Augustine defeated Daytona Beach in a Florida State League game, 6-3.

Brewer, who recently held the Orlando club hitless and runless, limited the runner-up Islanders to seven hits and fanned 11 batters in racking up his ninth victory of the season.

Retana's triple with two on in the first inning started St. Augustine on its way to victory. Score by innings: Daytona Beach, 0-0 1-0 2-7 0 St. Augustine, 3-0 0-2 0-5 3-1 Brooks and Pare; Brewer and Wrenn.

The first wrist watch was presented to Queen Elizabeth by the Earl of Leicester in 1572.

THE TOY WIFE
GERTRUDE GELSIN

RESUME
Gertrude and Louis engaged some time from school in France to their father's pleasure to pre-Civil War Louisiana. Gertrude, called Toy Wife, is delightfully naive and capricious, wanting only a handsome husband who will buy her jewels. Andrew Valmore, young man-about-town, falls madly in love with her; so does George Hardee, serious young lawyer. Louis has loved Gertrude since childhood, but when she discovers her sentiments, she wagers Toy Wife to accept him. Toy Wife and George marry. Andrew goes to France. For five years Toy Wife is gayly happy. George returns to accept the fact that her whims and caprices ruin his career here. Louis and the Toy Wife's children are the springing of their child. Eventually, however, Toy Wife insists that Louis come to live with them so she can run their home in an orderly, practical fashion. Soon after Louis's arrival, Toy Wife realizes that her sister's seriousness is a bond between her and George. Andrew Valmore returns from France. Gertrude, loved, lonely and unable to adjust herself to her new status as her own home, Toy Wife finds herself moved by Andrew's love for her.

Chapter Seven
A LOSING BATTLE
The Barrios home blazed with candlelight and rang out with music and gaiety. Georges was giving a dinner party to the Commissioners appointed to transact the County business in the Southwest. He might have been one of them, he mused grimly, if

It hadn't been for Froufrou. That Georges felt bitterness toward the man who had broken the Froufrou as she stood before her long mirror, radiant and beautiful, added to the gloom in his heart. Personal slave, and by Emile, the hairdresser. "Emile is right!" exclaimed Emile. "The hair is very becoming." "Froufrou smiled. "It's the way I wore it at the time of my marriage." She prouetted for one last look of her hair in the mirror, then made for the door. Her dress rustled smartly as she started down the stairs. Voices, rising from the landing below, stopped her short. She peered over the balustrade and saw Georges and Louise in earnest conversation. "I haven't tried to tell you what I think, you've made in this house," Georges was saying, "I only wish we could keep you the rest of your life." "Do seem to be going well," Louise answered modestly. Froufrou turned to go back up the stairs, but Louise's next words hurt. But Louise's next words stayed her. "Georges, you shouldn't merely be entertaining the Commissioners tonight—you should have been one of them yourself. And I shall tell Senator Roswell tonight." "Georges replied sharply. "Froufrou don't." "But he must have known what such an opportunity would have meant for you," Louise said angrily. "You'd have made an historical name for yourself. No one was more worthy of the honor." "You're wrong, Louise," he said shortly. "I wasn't worthy of the honor. The Commissioners wouldn't be going without me." Froufrou, her hand on her heart, had eyes filling with tears. She had blushed up the stairs. Her head pounded. She had made Georges besides the Commission appointment as a step to her own vanity. She ran down the hall and finding herself at the nursery door, opened it and called out to her son. "What's the matter, Louis? Want a nurse?" "Mother's Louise give orders he's able to eat a whole roast beef," interrupted Emile his nurse. "Louis, don't you see, you've got to get your own nurse. You've got to get your own nurse." "Georges turned back and to the nursery door. "Louis, don't you see, you've got to get your own nurse. You've got to get your own nurse." "Georges turned back and to the nursery door. "Louis, don't you see, you've got to get your own nurse. You've got to get your own nurse."

"Georges," she said shyly, "I'd like to talk to you."

"My friends didn't seem to notice the trouble she was in," she said. "Well—I've said what I had to say. Now we must go back to the others. But don't try to talk to me any more tonight. Your face tells too much." She turned and led the way back up the stairs, onto the balcony and into the house. Late that night, alone and unhappy in her room, she waited for Georges. He came in in the light on the forehead and to blow out the candles on her dressing table.

150,000 Drowned, 300,000 Homeless In Chinese Flood

Japs Continue Relentless Air Attacks Outside Of Flooded Yellow River Front

12,000 In India Die Of Cholera

Civilians Flee From Castellon While Insurgents Advance

The French freighter Gaslois was sunk in Valencia harbor today as insurgent planes resumed their attacks on shipping. The sailing vessel was set afire and its cargo suffered five air raids during the day. Three were known to have been killed and 20 wounded.

The relentless flood waters that neither guns nor troops could stop poured from the great Yellow River today to put both defenders and invaders to flight on China's war front, while in India a cholera epidemic claimed thousands of lives.

Japanese military authorities estimated 200,000 Chinese had been made homeless and 150,000 drowned by the flood in Honan province, although some quarters considered the figures too high.

Burke Denies He Intends To Seek 1939 Speakership

TALLAHASSEE, June 15. — (AP)—Rep. John S. Burke of Pasco county renounced himself from discussions about selecting a speaker for the 1939 Florida House of Representatives.

"I have not been and I am not now a candidate for the place," Burke said. He did not say he would decline the nomination if the members chose him without a campaign on his part.

Burke will be host to the 1939 legislators when they meet at a Pasco county resort (Moon Lake Gardens) July 23 to continue their discussions about selecting a House speaker.

A meeting held the first of this month at Jacksonville was adjourned without a choice when members could not agree.

Speaker W. Mel. Christie of the 1937 House called the Jacksonville meeting. He said he believed the next House would do well to agree upon a speaker now so he could proceed with organization matters to the end that legislation will not be delayed when the session begins next April.

Speakership candidates who have definitely announced themselves are Noah R. Butt of Bradford county, Talley Collins of Leon county, P. Bamberg Harrell of Hamilton county, Raymond Shelton of Hillsborough county, and Robert F. Sikes of Oklawaha county.

Judge Atkinson Hears Testimony In McCall Trial

"Skeegie's" Parents Furnish Pathos In Trial Without Jury

MIAMI, June 15. — (AP)—Parents of James Bailey Cash, Jr., numbly shaking their heads, identified their little boy's pajamas from a witness stand today as Franklin Pierce McCall went on trial for the capital crime of abducting him.

Federal agents furnished the principal testimony as Circuit Judge H. E. Atkinson, without a jury, listened to the evidence preliminary to imposing a sentence for the crime to which the 21-year-old son of a minister pleaded guilty.

But the father and mother, unable to speak when State Attorney G. A. Worley unwrapped the pajamas from a newspaper, furnished the pathos that held the packed courtroom in utter silence.

Congress May Not Adjourn Tonight As Was Planned

Changes Sought For Flood Control Bill May Cause Delay

WASHINGTON, June 15. — (AP)—Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) resumed his taking inquisition on the $375,000,000 flood control measure today. His determination that of some of his colleagues to force changes in the measure threatened to delay Congressional adjournment beyond tonight.

Senate Majority Leader Barkley, asked when adjournment might be reached, would only say "wait and see."

Senator Burke (D-Neb.) followed O'Mahoney in an attack on the provisions of the bill they charge invaded states' rights.

John L. Lewis, CIO chairman, made an apparently futile demand today on the House leadership for consideration of the Walsh-Henley labor bill which the House Rules Committee pigeonholed yesterday.

The labor leader said after a conference with Speaker Bankhead apparently no motion would be entertained on the House floor today to suspend the rules and consider the legislation.

The bill would require persons and firms holding government contracts to abide by the Wagner Labor Act and by federal wage and hour standards or be blacklisted.

Motorists in Seminole county who have not yet purchased their 1938 auto license tags may secure the plates at half price beginning today, according to County Tax Collector J. H. Jenkins, in whose office the tags are sold.

The change of the date from July 1 followed a recent order from Governor Cone. No half year licenses will be sold for less than $5.25 except for a light trailer tag which may be purchased for $2.75.

In purchasing half year licenses, Mr. Jenkins reminded that auto owners must bring certificates and that affidavits must be made to the effect that a license was not required for the vehicle during the first six months of the year. If bills of sale for new cars show a purchase date before today, the full year rate will be charged, Mr. Jenkins said. All trucks for which half year licenses are purchased must be re-weighed.

Included in the film were scenes taken at the Sanford Municipal Zoo.

Mr. Lehmann plans to exhibit the film in New England late this summer as part of Central Florida's advertising program.

Following this, Lake County agent Mr. Lehmann north with colored lantern slides.
