Speeding "this greatest corps of volunteers in the country's history" on its door-to-door canvass, Johnson told his workers and the country that "either through codes or agreements we enter this drive with between 70 and 80 percent of employees in trade or industry all under the Blue Eagle."

Johnson said that "the great automobile manufacturing industry last night under a code of fair practice which asserts a right to employers to hire and discharge their workers without regard to union affiliations."

Rally Tonight Being Held To Explain Details And To Instill
Interest In Drive

Seminole County employers and employees alike are expected to crowd into the City Hall auditorium tonight at 7:30 o'clock to attend a mass meeting which has for its one purpose—the dissemination of proper information relating to the National Recovery Administration and its program, and the instilling in the minds of the public enthusiastic support of the NRA campaign.

The meeting is scheduled as a counter-part of a nation-wide plan to place this program before all Americans. It will be a short meeting which has as a prelude, a concert by the Sanford Concert Orchestra. Every attempt will be made to limit the entire program to not more than one hour and one-half in time.

The speaker of the evening will be Phil Buck, Deland attorney, and member of the Deland NRA Campaign Speakers' Bureau. Local persons who know him best declare that he is an able and forceful speaker. He is understood to have made many NRA talks in recent weeks, and he comes to Sanford ready to deliver a frank talk on the NRA and its possibilities.

Naval Program Designed To Modernize Sea Power Of France Being Planned

PARIS, Aug. 28.—The French government plans to proceed with an ambitious naval program designed to modernize her sea power and add a number of "super-cruisers" to the fleet, it has been learned.

France has watched the "big navy" programs of the United States and Japan with increasing uneasiness—and a movement to build her own naval power resulted. The American program for 37 new warships inspired pointed observations in the semi-official newspaper, Le Temps, indicating the popular reaction.

With the new super-cruiser Dunkerque already under construction, the navy of the world will see a speed and armament rival of an entirely new kind. The experts described it as a ship that has the punch of a destroyer, the speed of a destroyer, and the armament of a battleship.

Other smaller warships in France's new fleet are under construction, and when Parliament meets in October, observers are convinced the next year's appropriation for 32,000 additional tons of warships will be speedily approved.

Whether it is a question of torpedo boats, destroyers, submarines or heavy cruisers, Minister of Marine Georges Leygues said, "we have vessels equal, if not superior, to those of the United States, Great Britain and Japan."

As for battle-cruisers, we shall soon have the Dunkerque, which foreign admirators now consider the most powerful of capital ships. Her speed of 33 knots, her armament of 12-inch guns, and her 13,000 tons, will make her the master of the seas.

President Albert Lebrun, it is recalled, when opening the new deepwater dock at Cherbourg recently declared that France's reconstructed navy was well able to assure the safety of the nation.

The federal government yesterday agreed to continue its relief program to match funds...

LABOR CLAUSE IN AUTO CODE MAY GET TEST

Officials Of A. F. O. L.
Object To Provision
Giving Employers
The Right To Fire

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(A.P.)—Labor provisions in the automobile code just promulgated by President Roosevelt did fair to be tested in the courts.

While awaiting to be quoted, officials in the inner councils of organized labor informed reporters that the provision of the American Federation of Labor remained certain stipulations on relations between employers and employees should not have been left in the code.

Describing the victory of the automobile manufacturers as probably the first step by which industrialists will have the same working control in all codes, the labor speaker intimated that as soon as cases, believed to be violations of the law, are found court action would be begun.

The paragraph was protested repeatedly by the labor administration. The recovery administration stated its provisions did not constitute any nullification of law giving employees the right to organize without restraint from employers and to bargain collectively.

It provided, however, that employers would retain the right to hire, promote, or discharge workers on the basis of individual merit and without regard to affiliation with any organization.

GRAND RAPIDS, Aug. 28.—(A.P.)—Patrick O'Brien, Michigan attorney general, told delegates at the annual meeting of the association of attorneys general that no court in the United States will dare set aside the President's recovery program. He said the recovery act offends constitutional maxims but asked where the court that will stop the movement of the Blue Eagle.

Moley Resigns His Job As Assistant In State Department

Resignation Is Viewed
As Victory For Hull
With Whom Head Of Brain Trust Rowed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(A.P.)—Raymond Moley today was officially out of the State Department position from which his activities shifted weeks ago, but Secretary Cordell Hull said his assistant's resignation was not at his suggestion.

From his mountain vacation place in Virginia, Hull sent word to the press that he had no information beforehand that Professor Moley contemplated resigning.

Hull said further "I may add I can accurately say in this connection that I have not at any time offered the slightest suggestion to the President or Mr. Moley relative to any present or future change in the official status of the latter as assistant secretary of state."

But Hull's statement failed to alter the view held by his associates here that the return of Moley to private life was a victory for Hull with whom Moley differed on major policies.

Other officials here expressed belief the post would be filled before the state department will be busy this fall with war debt conferences and tariff negotiations. There has been no indication yet as to Moley's successor.

The passing of the head of the Roosevelt "brain trust" had been foreshadowed ever since the world economic conference in London where his sub-surface battle with Secretary Hull was actually won and lost, although few expected it would take him out of the government service entirely.

For months the well-informed in Washington have been aware of an ever-widening breach between two contrasting personalities—the quiet, anti-spoken, elderly internationalist from Tennessee, who is secretary of state, and the reserved but assured young college professor who was theoretically his assistant though popularly supposed to be even closer to the White House.

Soon after Mar. 4 it became apparent that the clash of individualities and beliefs cut so deeply into fundamentals that before it could end one or the other must go.

Few of the differences appeared on the surface, but it was evident that while Hull was the administration's great apostle of internationalism and tariff moderation, Moley placed greater emphasis on national economic policies.

Occupying an office in the state department overlooking the White House grounds, Moley spent half of each day at the executive mansion. He was a man-of-all-work for the president and turned his hand to a wide variety of duties not connected with diplomacy. Only a fraction of his time was actually devoted to state department work.

On war debts, Moley was a close adviser of President Roosevelt. Even before the administration came in, he and Norman H. Davis participated in this topic with President Hoover.

In the conversations before the June 15 installments fell due, he (Continued On Page Three)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—(A.P.)—The Weather Bureau today was watching a tropical disturbance near Bermuda and one in the Gulf of Mexico but forecasters said their present character gave little reason for concern. Bulletins were issued for information of ships at sea. R. H. Weightman, forecaster, said the disturbance in the Gulf was merely an "unsettled condition" and the highest wind reported was around 16 miles an hour. The blow near Bermuda had a maximum of 28 miles an hour from reports received by the Weather Bureau.
