HOUSE PASSES REVENUE BILL BIG MAJORITY

At Last Minute Democratic Income Tax Schedule is Knocked Out and Longworth Compromise Adopted While Proposal for 25 Per Cent Tax Cut on Personal Incomes is Approved.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The revenue measure arrived in the senate chamber at the second lap of its legislative journey. The House by a vote of 408 to 91 approved the bill Friday, after sending it through a last-minute cross-fire in which the Democratic income tax schedule was knocked out and a compromise offered by Longworth, Republican leader, and supported by every member of the party present, was substituted. Members of the Senate finance committee have indicated their desire to hasten the consideration of the measure but it was determined upon no definite program.

By a vote of 408 to 8 the revenue bill was passed late Friday by the house.

As sent to the senate, the measure carries an income tax schedule offered by Representative Longworth, the Republican leader, as a substitute for the Democratic schedule. This was adopted 216 to 99 after the house had refused, by a vote of 301 to 153, to reinsert in the bill the original Mellon schedule.

What It Provides
The Longworth substitute, which is supported by Republican insurgents who previously had brown their lot with the Democrats provides for a normal tax reduction to two per cent on incomes below $4,000, to five per cent on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000, to six per cent on incomes between $8,000 and $12,000, to seven per cent on incomes between $12,000 and $20,000, to eight per cent on incomes between $20,000 and $50,000, to nine per cent on incomes between $50,000 and $100,000, to ten per cent on incomes over $100,000. No increase in existing personal tax exemptions would be made.

Approves 25 Per Cent Income Tax Cut
The house also approved a proposal for a flat reduction of 25 per cent on all personal income taxes payable this year. Two unsuccessful efforts were made to eliminate this measure.

Specific rate changes carried in the bill will not become effective until tax payments are made next year on income and profits of 1924, except those made in the excise duties which would go into effect 30 days after enactment of the law.

Major Provisions Approved
In addition to the new income tax schedule, major provisions of the bill as approved Friday are:
A 10 per cent reduction in taxes on earned income, all incomes under $5,000 being defined as earned for purposes of this reduction.
Repeal of reduction of many of the miscellaneous or excise taxes, involving about $120,000,000 in revenue annually.

Tightening of the limitations of capital loss and gross income deductions which, it is estimated, will hold about $60,000,000 revenue annually.
Increases in the estate tax rates to 48 per cent.
Institution of a gift tax with the same rates as carried in the estate tax.

Creation of a board of tax appeals to decide tax disputes between the treasury and tax payers.
Opening of the income tax returns to inspection by certain congressional committees.
Expect Senate to Alter
House leaders admit that the bill undoubtedly will be altered in important particulars by the senate. The decisive vote by which the Mellon rates were rejected Friday, however, makes it certain, they say, that regardless of what senate sentiment may be, the treasury schedule will not be restored to the bill.

While President Coolidge has expressed himself as strongly in favor of the Mellon rates, his attitude toward the compromise accepted yesterday by the house has not been defined. White House officials were considerably stirred by the publication of a story that Mr. Coolidge was willing to accept the compromise and it was stated that the executive had given no such indication.
The President prepared a letter Friday addressed to Chairman Clegg of the house ways and means committee setting forth his views but decided not to send it to the capital after Mr. Longworth had communicated with the White House and the President and Mr. Clegg.

INDICT FORBES AND THOMPSON BRIBE CHARGE

Former Director of United States Veterans Bureau is Indicted on Two Charges: Conspiracy to Commit Bribery and Offenses Against the Government.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—Charles R. Forbes, former director of the Veterans' Bureau, declared in a statement Saturday that he welcomed the indictments returned against him Friday in Chicago, adding that he looked upon them "with a clear conscience because they will permit me to present my case before a fair court of justice and a jury of my peers."

He characterized the accusations against him as "a hell-engendered conspiracy against my honor and integrity." He added that he was not going to Florida despite the fact that "other men now charged publicly with crimes against the government have been reported as hiding behind the screen of ill health."

Chas. R. Forbes, former director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, and John W. Thompson of Chicago and St. Louis were indicted Friday by the federal grand jury which has spent four weeks investigating the administration of Forbes.

Forbes and Thompson were jointly indicted in two true bills charging conspiracy to commit bribery and offenses against the United States government in connection with the construction of veterans' hospitals. A separate indictment against each man also was returned, one charging Forbes with accepting a bribe, and the other charging Thompson with giving a bribe.

The indictments were suppressed temporarily by Federal Judge Carpenter on motion of Assistant Attorney General John W. Cramer, by authority of the judge the indictments against Forbes and Thompson were made public.

The two individual indictments merely dealt with bribery, in the case of the joint indictments $10,000 bail for each defendant was fixed.

The joint indictments were of two kinds, the first charging conspiracy to commit bribery and offenses against the government and the second, conspiracy to defraud the United States government. Both indictments were based on deals involving the construction of veterans' bureau hospitals.

Fennell, who goes to trial Monday in Gainesville on three indictments growing out of the failure some time ago of the Florida Bank and Trust Company.

Fennell was vice-president and a native head of the institution. One of the indictments against him charges larceny and embezzlement and two charge embezzlement. Harvey Robertson, who was cashier, has already pleaded guilty and has been sentenced to a term in the state prison.

McGuire was also designated to assist in the prosecution in Putnam county Circuit Court on Mar. 10 of J. T. McCarthy under two indictments, one for larceny, embezzlement and fraudulent secreting of property and the other for embezzlement.

Oil Trail Leads Into Justice Department Row Over Daugherty

Senate Thrown Into Violent Session By Daugherty Wrangle

WHEELER STARTS

Violent Controversy Almost Unprecedented in Senate's History, by Resolution to Investigate Daugherty's Official Record — As Result Definite Action is Postponed

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The row over Attorney General Daugherty plunged the senate into a violent session Friday—almost unprecedented for the exchanges of bitter personalities and insinuations of misconduct. As a result action was forced over until Saturday on the approval for an investigation of Mr. Daugherty's official record.

The storm which broke out over the investigation resolution of Senator Wheeler, Dem., Montana, swept over all boundaries of senate rules and decorum. There were charges and counter-charges of attempts to "pack" the investigation committee; there were attacks upon numerous officials, present and past, from the White House down, and upon the personal conduct and affiliations of presidential candidates and senators.

For more than five hours the battle raged, amid frequent outbursts from crowded galleries despite repeated warnings and threats from the chair. The senate recessed last night with the debate in full swing, but with adoption of the investigation resolution in prospect today after another hectic period of discussion.

Record in Battlefield was the attorney general's official record in various matters, including the oil scandal. Many old charges were repeated and one new accusation was made by Senator Heflin, Dem., Alabama, who declared the attorney general had written a letter seeking to protect from prosecution an unidentified Republican national committeeman of the west.

Senator Wheeler, charging the attorney general with seeking to "intimidate" senators, added that President Coolidge lacked "stamina" to call upon Mr. Daugherty for his resignation.

Daugherty Declines To Make Statement Now in Jacksonville

(By The Associated Press) JACKSONVILLE, Mar. 1.—Daugherty upon arrival here Saturday morning characterized as "bunk" the news dispatches sent out from Columbus, Ga., Friday night stating he was planning to issue a statement today. He would not discuss the oil inquiry and stated he would not even read the newspapers until he had arrived at St. Augustine this evening.

According to dispatches sent out from Columbus, Ga., Friday night a statement was expected to be forth coming from the Attorney General concerning the latest developments in the oil investigation, upon his arrival in Jacksonville. Daugherty is enroute from Chicago on the Seminole Limited to Miami where he will visit his sick wife.

While in Columbus the Attorney General declined to see newspaper men. Newspapers giving a detailed account of the attack upon him on the floor of the senate Friday were procured by members of his party and quickly perused. Shortly before the train pulled out the announcement was made of a probable statement to be issued upon his arrival in Jacksonville.

Contrary to expectations, Daugherty declined to say anything at all regarding the oil situation upon his arrival here. He said that the report from Columbus was "mere bunk," and that he would not even read any newspapers until he had arrived in St. Augustine tonight.

Washington News

(By The Associated Press) The new tax bill, based on the Longworth Republican compromise, was passed by the house. Plans were announced for taking up next week in the house the bill for leasing Muscles Shoals to Henry Ford.

It was announced that Attorney General Daugherty would be retained on the list of Coolidge delegates-at-large from Ohio regardless of the fight being made on him in Washington.

After five hours of bitter debate the senate recessed until today without voting on the resolution to investigate the administration of Attorney General Daugherty.

Messages of McLean Show Connection of Burns with Scandal

CLASH IN SENATE

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—A new trail that appeared to lead directly into the department of justice was uncovered Saturday upon further inquiry by oil committee into the famous McLean telegrams. It developed that one of the messages was sent in an old department of justice code by Mary Duckstein, formerly secretary to W. J. Burns, chief for the Bureau of Investigation.

When the message was deciphered, it apparently stated that Burns had been concerning himself about "the McLean investigation" when Burns is summoned by the committee he will be asked not only about the telegrams but whether McLean himself is not listed as one of the secret agents of the department entitled to a copy of the code book. Today Burns denied he had anything to do with the report but declined to deny the scandal that McLean was on the list of his agents.

Incidents in the oil inquiry were made the subjects of a stirring debate Friday in the senate, which culminated in a bitter forensic encounter between Chairman Lenroot of the oil committee and Senator Heflin, Dem., Alabama.

This clash grew out of the visit which Senator Lenroot and Smoot, Rep., Utah, made to Albert B. Fall at a hotel here before the former interior secretary misled the oil investigators by his statement that he had borrowed $100,000 from Edward B. McLean, publisher of the Washington Post.

Resents Alleged Insinuations
Resenting what he regarded as insinuations of Senator Heflin that he had aided Fall to concoct the story, Senator Lenroot declared that "about the most despicable of human beings is the assassin of character." Senator Heflin retorted that he could not think of "anything more despicable" than the visit of the senators to the criminal charged, under indictment.

Called upon by Senator Lenroot, Senator Walsh, Dem., Montana, chief prosecutor in the inquiry, said he could see no "impropriety" in the visit, but added, that it would have been "a happier circumstance" if the senators had promptly informed the oil committee all about it.

Dr. Garland Gives Best Sermon Before Sanford Baptists

The best service of the series was the one last night at the First Baptist church. The chorus singing and the selections by the choir are causing very favorable comment over the city. The choir numbers Friday night, "One Day," and "The Everlasting Father" were heard with deep interest. The orchestra made a splendid contribution to the music at the evening service. The choir will be heard at its best, Sunday morning and Sunday evening.

"Man in this life writes a book out of which he will be judged in the judgement," was one of the first sentences spoken by Dr. Garland Friday night, and then he plunged in his discussion in that rapid-fire manner which kept the audience on the jump to keep up. No man has ever spoken in the First Baptist Church who has a finer working knowledge of the Bible than Dr. Garland. His constant use of the scriptures is not only refreshing but profoundly impressive.

Automobiles Collide Without Fatalities Yesterday Afternoon

What might have been a serious accident resulted only in two smashed fenders and a broken wheel, when two automobiles collided at Ninth Street and Maple Avenue, Friday afternoon at 3:45 o'clock.

According to Alcorn S. Hannah, embalmer for the Austin Undertaker Parlor, 512 Sanford Avenue, he was proceeding down Ninth Street from the direction of the railroad station when a Maple Avenue bakery truck attempted to cross too soon colliding with the rear end of the Jewett. Two fenders were smashed and the rear axle broken on the Jewett and one of the front wheels on the truck was badly damaged.

The drivers of both cars were told to appear in court, where the county judge will settle the culpability. Hannah was placed under a $50 bond.

Methodist Church Begins Drive For $10,000,000 Fund

The Methodist church of Sanford, Rev. W. J. Carpenter, pastor, has accepted $4,250 as a minimum quota to raise within five years for the cause of Superannuated Endowment of that denomination. The goal for the entire church of this movement is $10,000,000, the income from which is to be used for the support of the aged and infirm ministers and widows and orphans of ministers.

The campaign for the fund is being directed by the Board of Finance of the Southern Methodist Church, St. Louis, Mo., Bishop W. F. McCurry, chairman, and Dr. Luther E. Todd, secretary. The latter has issued and sent to all pastors a booklet, "The Call of the Forgotten Man," which tells the pathetic story of the great need, with substantial giving and outlays plans for raising the sum sought.

HOUSE PASSES REVENUE BILL BIG MAJORITY

At Last Minute Democratic Income Tax Schedule is Knocked Out and Longworth Compromise Adopted While Proposal for 25 Per Cent Tax Cut on Personal Incomes is Approved.

(By The Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The revenue measure arrived in the senate chamber at the second lap of its legislative journey.

The House by a vote of 408 to 91 approved the bill Friday, after sending it through a last-minute cross-fire in which the Democratic income tax schedule was knocked out and a compromise offered by Longworth, Republican leader, and supported by every member of the party present, was substituted.

Members of the Senate finance committee have indicated their desire to hasten the consideration of the measure but it was determined upon no definite program.

By a vote of 408 to 8 the revenue bill was passed late Friday by the house.

As sent to the senate, the measure carries an income tax schedule offered by Representative Longworth, the Republican leader, as a substitute for the Democratic schedule.

This was adopted 216 to 99 after the house had refused, by a vote of 301 to 153, to reinsert in the bill the original Mellon schedule.

What It Provides
The Longworth substitute, which is supported by Republican insurgents who previously had brown their lot with the Democrats provides for a normal tax reduction to two per cent on incomes below $4,000, to five per cent on incomes between $4,000 and $8,000, to six per cent on incomes between $8,000 and $12,000, to seven per cent on incomes between $12,000 and $20,000, to eight per cent on incomes between $20,000 and $50,000, to nine per cent on incomes between $50,000 and $100,000, to ten per cent on incomes over $100,000.

No increase in existing personal tax exemptions would be made.

Approves 25 Per Cent Income Tax Cut
The house also approved a proposal for a flat reduction of 25 per cent on all personal income taxes payable this year. Two unsuccessful efforts were made to eliminate this measure.

Specific rate changes carried in the bill will not become effective until tax payments are made next year on income and profits of 1924, except those made in the excise duties which would go into effect 30 days after enactment of the law.

Major Provisions Approved
In addition to the new income tax schedule, major provisions of the bill as approved Friday are:
A 10 per cent reduction in taxes on earned income, all incomes under $5,000 being defined as earned for purposes of this reduction.
Repeal of reduction of many of the miscellaneous or excise taxes, involving about $120,000,000 in revenue annually.

Tightening of the limitations of capital loss and gross income deductions which, it is estimated, will hold about $60,000,000 revenue annually.
Increases in the estate tax rates to 48 per cent.
Institution of a gift tax with the same rates as carried in the estate tax.

Creation of a board of tax appeals to decide tax disputes between the treasury and tax payers.
Opening of the income tax returns to inspection by certain congressional committees.
Expect Senate to Alter
House leaders admit that the bill undoubtedly will be altered in important particulars by the senate.

The decisive vote by which the Mellon rates were rejected Friday, however, makes it certain, they say, that regardless of what senate sentiment may be, the treasury schedule will not be restored to the bill.

While President Coolidge has expressed himself as strongly in favor of the Mellon rates, his attitude toward the compromise accepted yesterday by the house has not been defined. White House officials were considerably stirred by the publication of a story that Mr. Coolidge was willing to accept the compromise and it was stated that the executive had given no such indication.
The President prepared a letter Friday addressed to Chairman Clegg of the house ways and means committee setting forth his views but decided not to send it to the capital after Mr. Longworth had communicated with the White House and the President and Mr. Clegg.

KU KLUX KLAN TO BE ISSUE COMING STATE PRIMARY

Candidates for State Offices Openly Stand for or Against Principles of Mystic Order

By The Associated Press. INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 23.—The Ku Klux Klan issue in this state will have a hearing on the contests for state offices at the primary May 8, with certain gubernatorial candidates on both the Republican and Democratic tickets coming out openly as opposed to the Klan; others keeping a significant silence on the issue, and with at least one candidate generally known to have the whole-hearted support of the followers of the fiery cross.

In addition to this issue, reduction of taxes, the bonus, elimination of unnecessary state offices, relief for the farmers, more local self-government and a general policy of economy are urged in the various platforms.

At the present time, with five Democrats and five Republicans having announced their candidacies for governor, and two others reported to be preparing to enter the contest, the presidential primary between President Coolidge and United States Senator Hiram Johnson is creating little interest. The Democrats will have no presidential candidate on their ticket, it is stated.

Democratic candidates who have announced for governor are Dr. Carleton B. McCulloch of Indianapolis, Joseph M. Cravens of Madison, Dale J. Crittenger of Anderson, Charles S. Batt of Terre Haute and George R. Durgan of Lafayette. Henry A. Barnhart of Rochester is expected to announce his candidacy within a short time.

Mr. Durgan is the only Democratic candidate for the executive position who has come out with a statement that he is opposed to the Ku Klux Klan.

The men who have announced themselves as candidates for the Republican nomination for governor are Edward C. Toner of Anderson, Edgar Bush of Salem, Mayor Lew Shank of Indianapolis, Mayor Ora Davis of Terre Haute and Edward Jackson, present secretary of state. Mr. Davis announces he will oppose the Klan.

JOHNSON SEEKING REPUBLICAN AID IN SOUTH DAKOTA

Contest Between His Supporters and Those of Coolidge Will Be Bitterly Waged

By The Associated Press. PIERRE, S. D., Feb. 23.—Endorsement of the present national administration and President Coolidge as against the candidacy of Hiram W. Johnson and the issue of individual preferment between Governor W. H. McMaster and Senator Thomas I. Sterling, Republican candidate for the United States senate in the Mar. 25 primary, hold chief interest of South Dakota voters in the early stage of the political campaign.

These two issues resulted from the action of the Republican state proposal meeting Dec. 4 in cross-pollination of Coolidge as its candidate for the presidency and Governor McMaster for the senate. McMaster subsequently entered as an independent and Sterling as a minority candidate.

Two chief issues between Governor McMaster and Senator Sterling were raised by the governor in his opening address at Highmore, Feb. 4. He criticized the senator for his failure to openly ally himself with the so-called agricultural bloc in Washington and committed himself to this action if elected. He also attacked the record of Sterling on the question of adjusted compensation for ex-service men and declared in favor of this measure.

Agricultural relief is a dominant note in the national program of all parties of the state. A tariff readjustment more favorable toward farm products, reducing freight rates and fostering of farmers' co-operative marketing associations made up prominent demands in the Republican proposal platform, while the same three points were set forth as paramount issues by the Democrats. Both parties gave unequalled endorsement to the Volstead act.

In relation to the tariff the Democrats demand absolute repeal of the Fordney-McCumber tariff act and a return to an independent and non-political tariff commission.

The Farmer-Labor party adopted as its paramount national issue "public ownership of transportation, resources, and banking," while in state affairs they demanded a sweeping reduction in taxation and public expenditures, enactment of a workmen's insurance act, an adequate and just labor compensation act and an old age pension law, its proceeds to be derived from a tax on income.

Fusion between the non-Republican elements has become a development. An effort at complete fusion between the Democratic and Farmer-Labor groups failed at the proposal meeting. Pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Democrats, however, efforts have continued to bring about such an alliance.

The outcome of the primary election on Mar. 25 is expected to throw much light on this movement.

SEARS AGAINST BONUS WITHOUT STATED TAXES

Congressman Will Not Vote For Bonus Unless Definite Provision Is Made For Its Payment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—In answer to numerous queries from Florida as to how he will vote on the soldiers' bonus bill, which is scheduled to come up during the present session, Representative Joe Sears, of the Miami district, announced that he will oppose the measure, unless congress provides some method for raising the necessary revenue.

"The department of commerce," said Mr. Sears, "has prepared a statement showing that the gross debt of the national government was $23,260,543,000, or $213.90 per capita, on June 30, 1922 and $22,525,773,000, or $207.14 per capita, on June 30, 1923. "Certainly with this large indebtedness ahead of us congress should be fair enough to write into the bill the sources from which it expects to obtain the revenue to pay any adjusted compensation. Should I vote for a bonus bill without any provision for raising the revenue, I would feel honor bound to vote for an additional taxation to meet the payment. Of course, I would make a fight to place the tax on those better able to pay, but should I fail I would still feel honor bound to support whatever plan was presented for passage regardless of how unfair the plan might be to the ex-service men and their immediate families. Therefore, I cannot see my way clear to vote for a bonus bill unless the way of raising the revenue, on a fair and just basis, is first provided for.

"I am as anxious as any member of congress," Mr. Sears concluded, "to help the ex-service men by passing a real adjusted compensation bill, and if the majority of the house and senate will bring up for passage a bill which will have incorporated in it a fair and just proviso for raising the revenue—one that will give to the boys more than will be collected from them and their immediate families in the way of taxes—or if the government will force the foreign nations to meet their obligations, I will vote for the bill."

GUESTS IN MIAMI ROAD HOUSE HELD UP AND ROBBED

Miami Suburban Resort Scene of boldest Raid Ever Perpetrated in State—No Clue Yet Discovered by Officials

MIAMI, Feb. 23.—Slender clues upon which to hope for the solution of the robbery of 60 guests at The Plantation, a roadhouse a few miles north of Miami, early Thursday morning by eight masked and armed gunmen, were in the hands of the city and county authorities Thursday night.

A large automobile was reported missing early Wednesday night at police headquarters. Police set watch on all roads in and out of this city and early Thursday morning, not long after the roadhouse robbery, saw this car, they believe, coming toward Miami from the north. Efforts to halt it were unavailing and the machine was lost soon after it entered the city.

A number of the guests at the road house, when the robbery took place, said that the bandits first wore masks, but when these hampered their work, they removed them. One woman said she was taken into another room by the bandits and her clothing searched for a large amount of money believed by the bandits to be concealed about her.

All automobiles at the roadhouse were put out of commission before The Plantation was robbed. About $2,000 in money and many jewels, of which no record has been obtainable, were stolen. One said said that he lowered his hands a moment to cheer up a freighted woman, and was struck a blow on the head by a bandit. Two other guests were injured and the other a waiter.

Witnesses said Thursday night that five bandits entered the front door, while three came in through the back. After taking rings, keys, clothing and a fur coat, one bandit ordered the orchestra to start up a piece he named and the cook was ordered to cook four chickens, which the eight took with them.

Witnesses said that women were insulted and men were ordered to comply with demands to the accompaniment of the coarsest of oaths. The bandits were at the road house about 35 minutes in all.

Mr. Daugherty's visit here was still somewhat shrouded in mystery Thursday night. He appeared before the federal grand jury, which is investigating activities of the veterans' bureau, but made no comment on the information asked of him by the grand jury or what information he might have voluntarily given that body. He was in the grand jury room about 20 minutes.

According to Mr. Axt he said he was particularly impressed by the solidity of Sanford and the substantial real estate values that prevailed. St. Petersburg, he stated has entirely too inflated values, which tend to drive many prospective investors away.

Mr. and Mrs. Axt are returning to Newark Saturday but they intend to come to Sanford early next fall and spend the greater part of the season on their newly acquired farm.

MEXICO

The whereabouts of General Sanchez, commander-in-chief of the rebels in Vera Cruz remains a mystery. Federal generals commanding sectors between Mexico City and Vera Cruz expressed the belief that Sanchez is leading the train wrecking bands which have been interrupting trains. Military authorities announced that a wireless message sent to de la Huerta from Frontera to Sanchez in Merida relative to reinforcements from Yucatan for the Vera Cruz rebels has been intercepted.

Reports that Jalapa had been captured were expected momentarily at the war department, where it was stated that General Faust, Topete, who withdrew from Tierra Blanca after capturing that position, had united 1,600 troops and proceeded toward Jalapa, cooperating with another column of 2,000 under Urbalejo advancing from Oriental.

Sir Walter and the Spud

IN Ireland, they still point to the place where Sir Walter Raleigh planted the potatoes he brought with him from America. The venturesome knight was much impressed with the edible qualities of potatoes and touted them highly to his friends. But in spite of his efforts to popularize the spud, it was half a century or more before it became an article of general consumption abroad.

Today, a new food product becomes nationally known almost overnight. Modern methods of distribution quickly place it in thousands of stores. Advertising tells the public about it in the newspapers. People try it, like it, and shortly it is in general use throughout the country.

By the same means American manufacturers—through advertising—are putting within your reach many of the boons of modern life. Without advertising, we would lack many of the comforts and conveniences that go to make life what it is in this year of grace.

Advertising keeps your information up-to-snuff on every article of human need, whether it be food, clothing, articles of household utility, necessities or luxuries.

"Wait, You May Lose."

A prize of five hundred dollars was won a few days ago by a Brooklyn man who suggested the above slogan as a warning for railroad grade crossings. Twenty thousand slogans were submitted in a contest that was conducted by the American Railway Association in preparing for an extensive campaign to reduce crossing accidents.

Safety first campaigns that have already been carried out have resulted in greatly reducing the number of accidents at railroad crossings and the public is slowly but gradually coming to realize the folly of attempting to beat fast trains to the crossings. None can determine just how great the results of campaigns of this character have been.

Few accidents are in the unavoidable class. The automobile driver is generally taking a chance. He doesn't take the time to stop, look or listen at railway crossings. He estimates that he can make the point a few seconds before the train, and doesn't stop to realize what will happen should he fail to do so.

The new intensive campaign about to be inaugurated by the American Railway Association will without doubt accomplish much toward bringing the matter to the attention of motorists again. By everlastingly harping on the subject it is possible that some of the foolish autoists will come to develop good sense and will cease taking chances with locomotives.

In addition to a campaign of education for the public the railroads should realize the importance of providing safe grade crossings or abolishing them entirely. Throughout Florida can be found many very dangerous points. At some places the automobile driver on making a sharp turn in the road immediately comes to a blind railroad grade crossing where the vision to the right and left is entirely blocked. The railway association is doing good work in urging the people to be more careful, but perhaps a little improvement on some of the extremely dangerous crossings would also be a great help in keeping down fatalities.

An "Unusual" Winter Season.

Contrary to the opinion of some tourists this has been an "unusual" winter season in this section of Florida. As a rule visitors from other states smile when a Floridian makes a statement of this kind but the fact still remains. It has been an "unusual" season in that there have been so many cold days and so much rainy misty weather.

Old time settlers in this county say that in twenty years time, they have not experienced such a changeable winter. There have been cold days in other years but the cold weather did not extend over such a prolonged period of time. Rain generally holds off until June, according to those who should know, but this year it has been visiting Seminole county frequently.

Real Florida winters are much different from the one experienced this year. The Sanford section of the state prides itself in having delightful weather during the cold months when everything in other states is uncomfortable. The entire twelve months is as a rule very pleasant with the winter months just a trifle cooler than those of the summer time. From all sections of the state reports are coming to the effect that this has been an extraordinary winter in that the weather has been so exceptionally "unusual."

But while in Florida complaints are heard because there are some days when it is chilly the rest of the country is suffering from snow storms, blizzards, zero weather and is in fact frozen up and covered with snow and ice. People spending the winter months in Florida sometimes fail to realize how fine it is here as compared with what they would experience were they in the colder sections of the country at this period of the year. Florida complains when the thermometer drops a few degrees but just think how unpleasant it is in other states.

REPRESENTATIVES FROM MORE than one hundred church, social and civic organizations were in attendance at the second National Motion Picture Conference held in Washington, D. C., on February 13 and 14. At this conference several resolutions were adopted.

One declared its deliberate conviction that the political, social and moral welfare of the world is seriously threatened by the motion picture industry by use of its vast publicity and educational power to place itself above and in defiance of all legal control. It declared its opposition to the claim of the industry that it should be regulated only by laws applicable to the press and not to laws applicable to indecent amusements.

The conference also urged church and civic organizations to demand strict supervision and control of pictures aimed at corruption of the public morals.

WANT CLEAN CANDIDATES

TAMPA TIMES

A gathering of Democratic women voters from seven states in Cleveland recently took an interesting and important stand—a stand which is entirely appropriate, but which many staid and upright politicians of the machine are not likely to appreciate. They have organized what they call a "school of Democracy." They are conducting this school of theirs in the form of an assembly, and have adopted a resolution declaring in substance that party lines should not act as a barrier to the election of the best candidate for a political office.

It is a doctrine not likely to prove acceptable to the old type of politicians, those who would not conceive of any outside their own particular party being a fit candidate; but it is nevertheless a doctrine which will have an appeal all its own. These women are first of all make it plain that on general principles they believe in and are part of the party system of government. But they set up qualifications.

They first insist upon all their party candidates being of the highest type; and they then attach the condition that should a candidate fall short of the necessary qualifications, failure to vote for the opposing candidate could not be regarded as breach of faith. In the debate, the women generally expressed themselves that they will be satisfied only with candidates whose records are beyond reproach.

And this of itself will have an excellent influence upon public affairs, besides presenting an interesting departure from the old time idea that any candidate decided upon by leaders or managers is a quite good enough candidate, provided his political stripes are definitely marked.

NEEL BUYS KISSIMMEE PAPER

PALATKA NEWS

After having been in control of the Kissimmee Valley Gazette for a full quarter century, W. B. Harris has sold his stock in the concern to H. A. Neel, formerly associated with "Bob" Holly in The Sanford Herald. The new owner will act as editor and business manager and will still have with him A. G. Van Agnew, who has owned a half interest in the publication for the past dozen years. Mr. Harris is well known throughout the southern portion of the state and highly esteemed, but for several years has been handicapped because of an assault made upon him some four years ago, when a candidate for nomination to the state senate set upon him while on the public streets of the city and in attempt to balance some fancied grievance caused Mr. Harris to lose the sight of one eye by gouging the optic with his finger nail. During the intervening years the newspaper man has labored under a great disadvantage, and the sale was made more especially because of this unfortunate occurrence. Mr. Harris plans for the future have not been made public.—Palatka News.

About 1,000 Candidates. Shrouds Out of Place. New Arm for Baby. Real Money in Russia. Copyright, 1934

HOW MANY sturdy Americans willing to serve their country are now planning to be President, do you suppose?

There was a general feeling that McAdoo had the Democratic nomination unless Ay Smith could get it away from him.

It seemed certain that Mr. Coolidge had the Republican nomination with an overwhelming majority on the first ballot.

But a little oil makes a great difference in the political situation and now anybody has a right to hope.

Many an ambitious American is spending his dollars now, handing them to "political experts" in return for presidential promises.

There are probably at the least one thousand "serious" candidates at this moment.

MANY NEW names are introduced into the interesting oil scandal and many new features.

Everything was breaking loose in Washington Wednesday, reputations tumbled down, new names dragged into the light for which they are not at all grateful.

There are, the gentlemen that gamble in stocks did not take the advice of one of their leaders who told them to sell out "because our glorious industries" couldn't survive if the Senate presumed to investigate them.

SOME WISE Wall Street men seem to think that a little investigating won't do any harm. All people, after all, are interested in the government, and anything that stops wholesale looting and robbing of the government, must in the long run be good for all—even Wall Street speculators!

AT ANCIENT banquets, toward the end it was customary to carry a skull around, to remind guests that all the munching teeth would soon be grinning like the teeth in the skull. What effect it had we don't know.

MODERNS ARE more sensitive than those ancient banqueters. In Newark, New Jersey, John H. Christman, undertaker, is ordered by the court not to hang his shrouds to dry on the clothes line in his back yard. The neighbors said the shrouds gave them the shivers.

IT SEEMS impossible to make death really free from unpleasantness. Creations, which settle down in a few minutes, seem to be sensible. But it is hard for the imagination to take the plunge and realize that quick disintegration is better than slow decay.

THE FRENCH have invented a metal arm. Fastened to the crib, it holds a milk bottle at exactly the right angle for a baby to drink. That will interest many busy American mothers. Any American could make such an arm.

WHEN THE Bolshevik Government started in Russia, it said it was going to make money ridiculous. It succeeded, beyond its wildest hopes.

Since then Bolshevism has discovered that making money ridiculous is not such a good plan after all, since ridiculous money won't buy anything from outside countries.

Now dispatches say "Russians have real hard money clinking in their pockets again for the first time."

The government issues silver coins, and is making gold coins. Real money and our kind of civilization seem to go together. Kill the money and civilization suffers.

A better civilization may be found some day, but the kind we have now calls for "hard cash."

THE STREET cars of New York carry two billion, five hundred and fifty-five million passengers in a year. The income in nickels from that crowd amounts to more than a hundred million dollars a year. That would seem a business big enough to justify the people going into it themselves, especially as they have to supply the cash to build subways that the "private owners" subsequently operate.

JACK DEMPSEY, champion fighter, is in the hospital, recovering from a surgical operation.

To millions of Americans that's more interesting than the fact that the Belgian Cabinet is out; that the British new ambassador has arrived, and that some kind of an arrangement for German reparations has been completed—and more important than many other things.

Every Day is Wash Day For Some

SATURDAY EVENING SERMON

BY A. S. PECK, D. D.

Ebed-Melech is a "No-body" of Holy Scripture—but in the very depths of Prophecy and thus is not well-known, naturally because of the large and greater characters and personalities of other Prophets, Saints and Angels. But yet, as though a small and common window-pane, beautiful and marvelous vistas can be revealed; and in midst of darkness of tropic jungles, rare orchids catch what scattered beams of light, so through the small and insignificant, the greater can appear.

Ebed-Melech was a servant in the retinue of the godless King, Zedekiah. By sheer pluck and ever special favor at the King's court, we remember a like instance in our own times of the faithful John Brown and his mistress—she who had gone down in history as the "God Queen."—Victoria. Every great crisis in life, seemingly, has its Devil; as every plot, its villain. So it was that political schemers had flung the great Jeremiah into a hot prison; and the King had heard of this and the King commanded Ebed-Melech: "Take from hence thirty men with thee and take up Jeremiah out of the dungeon before he die."

There is a spiritual, deep oneness of fellow feeling in true Sympathy. It is more than mere suffering in outward company. There may be two horses in adjoining stalls; one dies, and the other goes on munching its fodder. Sir Walter Scott, in one of his great novels tells of Balfour of Burley and his great enemy, the Dutch antagonist; how even when caught in the swift current of the river, carrying them on to their quick and sudden death, they were found still gripped in hands of angry combat. Necessity of body can exist—suffering in each one's anguish and still no sympathy.

A beautiful story of the exemplification of Christian Sympathy in all its fineness is told of the Japanese Admiral Togo—whether a Christian himself or not, I do not know—when after the close of the late Russo-Japanese War, his flagship and the other ships of his squadron were to enter the home harbor to receive the shouts and cheers of victory from the people on the docks—the admiral forbade his own son—the most likely one of all to acclaim his father's glory—to appear, as he said the parents of the nation had lost by sacrifice too many of their sons! True Christian sympathy, feels, shares, bears!

Now, Ebed-Melech possessed sympathy akin to this. Ruskin says, "People would instinctively care for others as well as for themselves; if only they would imagine others." It was no mean act for that obscure man, Ebed-Melech, to come to Jeremiah's aid. Have you tried Ebed-Melech's sympathy, Ruskin's imagination?

This great commercial age is hardening men's sympathy. Too often it is the idea of being "Paid" Carlyle with his characteristic dul—ad—id—"Cash Conscienceless." But Jesus' great teaching of practical sympathy is well-known: "Bear ye one another's burdens." Of His own bearing, He said: "I am among you as One that serveth." "If the world seems cold to you Kindle fires to warm it. Let them comfort hide from you Winters that deform it."

Ebed-Melech's sympathy was not theoretical, but it was practical. Words are dwarfs in God's world; deeds are giants. And with this Sympathy there was a Thoughtful Gentleness. Ebed-Melech went into the King's House and in the Treasury Chamber found what majority of people consider refuse—"rags and worn-out garments."

There is a lesson here. For with these seemingly useless, worthless insignificant things, a rope was made and became the very agency for Jeremiah's escape. There is, of course, the lesson here, of the need for care of small things—Common things, if used aright, will be blessed of God to accomplish great works. A little thing—"No good" in the hand of one, becomes "Everything" for someone else.

Sir Walter Scott's motto emblazoned over the fire-place at Abbotsford is a good motto, not alone for material things, but spiritual especially; "Waste not, want not."

"A smile: a word: a touch And each is easily given. Yet neither may win a soul from sin Or smooth the way to Heaven." "A smile may lighten the falling heart A word may soften pain's keenest smart, A touch may lead us from sin apart; How easily either is given!"

Sanford's Forum

Editor The Herald. The public reads in yesterday's Daily Herald in bold headlines, viz: "Negro Taxi Drivers Are Told Not To Carry White Passengers In Future."

In the interest of law and order I venture to ask if a license, for any prescribed purpose, issued by authority of the City of Sanford and under the supervision of Forrest Lake, mayor of Sanford, does not carry an implied obligation of personal protection, if nothing more?

And what may be expected next? Why not in like spirit warn colored barbers to discontinue their operations? The mail carriers to drop out and the city garbage force and so forth ad infinitum?

Respectfully yours, C. H. LEFFLER.

THE "CYNOSURE"

TAMPA TRIBUNE

"Don't be too hard on those who say 'She's the cat's ankle,'" says Prof. K. G. Lind, department of English at Wittenberg College, Springfield, Ohio. "Suppose we say 'She is the cynosure of all eyes,'" the professor explains. "That may sound better, but that word is borrowed Greek. To guide ships into port, Greek marines used to look at the Little Bear Constellation and locate Cynosure, which means dog's tail. "So there you are. 'She's the dog's tail,' which is no better than 'She's the cat's ankle,' or 'the kitten's weew.'"

How Business Depression Tests Good-will

Many a manufacturer during the past two years has had an opportunity to measure as never before the real worth of his advertising investment. He has seen his trade-marked line keep up in sale and his unadvertised goods shrink to a small fraction of their former volume. Innumerable instances could be cited.

Dealers can tell a similar story. The number of makes carried of each item have shrunk to a very few—the best known and most frequently called for. Dealers have changed their point of view; they no longer stock lightly with many brands, but substantially with a few.

Quick turnover is their only salvation in a depression and their real source of profit in a prosperous period. Published by the Sanford Daily Herald in cooperation with The American Association of Advertising Agencies.

MESDAMES HEEREN AND MEISCH ENTERTAIN AT LOVELY BRIDGE PARTY

One of the loveliest of the many pre-Lenten parties given, was that of Friday afternoon when Mrs. Harry Heeren and Mrs. John Meisch entertained at bridge at the Woman's Club house.

Glabra candelaria bouganvillea, baubihin and sweet peas in lavender pink, mauve and gray were artistically used for this beautiful party. Festoons of feathery asparagus ferns interspersed with fougavillias were suspended from the balconies, over mantels, windows and arches. The long mantel was covered with asparagus ferns, and at either end were green baskets filled with pink and mauve sweet peas. On the stage, silver baskets and hand-painted vases filled with pink radiance roses and baubihins were used to advantage. The lights were indeed artistic, the shades being petal shaped of lavender tied with pink satin ribbons and clusters of pink sweet peas. In the reception hall, large bowls of lavender thistles were effectively used. The color scheme was carried out in every detail and later in the refreshments, Mrs. Heeren, attired in grey crepe embroidered in silver, and with corsage of pink and mauve sweet peas, and Mrs. Meisch, gowned in black Spanish lace over satin, received the guests upon arrival. They were shown to their places by Mrs. Edmund Meisch, who wore a smart frock of brown and an unbrothered crepe with hat of brown milan and tulle.

The place cards were fascinating designs of old fashioned girls dressed in lavender and pink. The pencils were also covered with lavender and pink.

The afternoon passed all too quickly in the spirited game of bridge, and when scores were counted the prize for top score, a framed picture, "Mons. Liek" was won by Mrs. Bait Peterson of Jamestown, N. Y., second prize, a Dutch silver vase, went to Miss Gertrude Jordan. The consolation prize, Florida pottery bowl, was awarded Mrs. Charles Ludwig.

After the awarding of the prize, the tables were laid with dainty covers and centered with crystal vases of pink and lavender sweet peas tied with satin ribbons of the same shades. Refreshments of brick cream in pink and lavender, individual cakes iced in pink and embossed in violets, pink and lavender bon bons, and coffee were served by Misses Marie Buezing, Margaret Ingelbrecht, and Bessie Lanner. Mrs. Edmund Meisch and Mrs. M. Hinrich, Miss Ruth Williams, Mrs. Ender Carlette and Mrs. C. R. Kirtley.

The affair was of exceptional enjoyment to the guests, there being twenty-three tables of players, and the exquisite taste of these two charming hostesses being reflected in every detail.

Among the out of town guests were Misses Marie Buezing, Margaret Ingelbrecht and Bessie Lanner of Seacausus, N. J., Mrs. Kirk of Steubenville, Ohio, Mrs. J. A. Keough of Orlando, Mrs. Arthur Redpath of Orlando, Mrs. W. A. Read of Bloomington, Ill., M. FERN DAY AT SOUTH SIDE PRIMARY SCHOOL

Fern day was observed at the South Side Primary School Friday afternoon by the Parent-Teachers' Association and the children attending the school. For the little folks have been caring for their ferns at home looking forward to the planting time. The Boy Scouts assisted by preparing the ground several days before.

It was an impressive sight as the children at 2 o'clock marched out by grades in front of the building, each child bearing ferns forming a moving line of plants. The fern bearers then gave a short but appropriate program preliminary to the fern planting.

The first verse of America, was sung lustily by all these young patriots, while the second verse being a prayer verse was sung softly and reverently.

A group from the opportunity group gave the following recitation:

Our Town.
If you want to live in the kind of a town
Like the kind of a town you like,
You needn't slip your clothes in a grip.
And start on a long, long hike—
You'll only find what you left behind,
For there's nothing that's really new.
It's a knock at yourself when you
Knock your town—its you.
No it isn't your town—it's you.
Real towns are not made by men
Afraid
Lest somebody else gets ahead,
If everyone works and nobody
Shirks
You can raise a town from the dead,
And if while you make your personal stake
Your neighbor can make his too,
Your town will be what you want to see.
No it isn't your town—it's you.
The fourth grade then sang with much zest:

The Song of Sanford
This land of ours is full of towns,
Towns both great and small;
But when it comes to praising
them,
Why Sanford beats them all.
Chorus:
I am proud of Sanford,
Is Sanford proud of me?
What she needs is citizens
Trained in loyalty.
When we work, when we play
With our fellow men,
Good citizens we will be.
Then I'll be proud,
Then I'll be proud,
Then I'll be proud of my home town
And I'll make her proud of me.

After this a group from the first and second grades gave the following recitation:

Planting Time.
Spade in hand, our work is planned,
For this fern day, this glad day,
These plants will grow, we surely know.
And add to our school both grace
and beauty
If we but see and do our duty.
Then the following original resolutions from the fourth graders was read by Lois Shelly:
Whereas, the Parent-Teachers'
Association has planned a fern day to help us make our grounds pretty;
We resolve to water the ferns.
We resolve to keep away from the ferns.
We resolve to keep the dirt loose
so the roots can get air.
We resolve to keep the dead leaves clipped from the ferns.
We resolve to keep the beds smooth so they will look pretty.
We resolve to keep the grass away from the ferns, and to take perfect care of them.
The third grade followed with a song addressed to the Great

WOMEN'S CLUB COLUMN

Mrs. John Leonard. Attention of the board members is called to the fact that Tuesday is the regular board meeting day. The meeting will begin promptly at 10 o'clock. This business meeting of the retiring board will mark the close of the fiscal year.

Wednesday, Mar. 5 is the general business meeting and immediately after the regular routine business will be held the election of officers for the coming year. It is well to call the attention of the members to the fact that no officer is eligible to succeed herself after serving two years in the same office except the treasurer. The officers to be elected are, president, second and third vice presidents and corresponding secretary.

The Literature Department at a most interesting meeting Wednesday, Feb. 27 finished the last two acts in the play "Abraham Lincoln." This has been one of the most interesting plays read during the year and has caused among the club members considerable discussion.

Wednesday, Mar. 12 will be the annual business meeting of the Literature Department. This has been a most successful year from every standpoint and Mrs. Martin in two years has succeeded in building up a very strong department. The officers to be elected at this meeting are chairman, vice chairman; secretary-treasurer; membership committee; finance chairman and program committee chairman.

Those wishing to rent the club house for parties will please telephone Mrs. A. M. Phillips, telephone No. 308-W. The club now has complete equipment including tea clothes and nankins for 20 tables of bridge. The extra furnishings for the dressing rooms has been bought. Every day in every way the house committee is making the club house complete.

The members representing the Sanford Woman's Club at the County Federation meeting at Lohwood were Mrs. R. E. Tolar, president and Mrs. W. L. Henley, delegate. One of the most interesting things reported by the president to the Federation from the Sanford club was the fact that Sanford had been made a bird sanctuary, making Sanford the second town in the county to become a sanctuary.

The Florida Audubon Society will hold its annual meeting Mar. 19-20 at Melbourne, Fla. At the "Song Bird Luncheon," Mrs. E. M. Galloway will be one of the speakers to give a five minute talk on Mrs. W. F. Blackman will act as toastmistress. There are 40 bird sanctuaries in the state of Florida. Altamonte and Sanford making the forty-fifth and sixth.

All members of all departments are urged to attend the annual meeting. This is open to every club member but not to visitors.

Florida Federation of Woman's Clubs

Haines City, Florida, Feb. 26, 1924.

My dear Madam President:
I know your club realizes beauty is an asset, also that beauty is preserved by eliminating the unsightly. So I am asking your cooperation in a campaign to discourage candidates for political offices from tacking up cards and signs on fences, telephone poles, trees and so forth.

Enclosed you will find a splendid editorial from Tampa Morning Tribune on this subject. Will you please have this editorial published in your local papers, and will you ask all candidates in your community to refrain from marking the scenery by tacking up campaign signs?

With all best wishes to you and your club.
Most cordially,
(Mrs. Jack) Margaret Pryor,
Chairman, State Beautification Committee, Florida Federation of Woman's Clubs.

Wasting Money
This year, the candidate for office who sticks his name and picture on posts and trees along the highways is going to feel the displeasure of the general public. The candidate who resorts to placards to announce his candidacy and show his name and features had just as well go home and go to bed. He will be defeated the moment he starts tacking his cards along the highways.

Recently a county fair manager decorated a fine forest on the highway between Mount Dora and Eustis with the 20 foot banners held in place by two laths. They hadn't been up 20 minutes before Gardener asking for sunshine and rain to make these plants grow.

Each grade bearing their ferns in their arms then marched off to the plot under their room window where they planted them while singing:
Deep in the earth today
Safely thy roots we lay,
Ferns of our love;
Grow thou and flourish long;
Ever our grateful song
Shall its glad notes prolong
To God above.

Mrs. Nickle, Mrs. Earl and her committee are doing a big work in helping to beautify these school grounds and in various other ways to improve conditions.

Martha May was at this time presented with a book as a prize for her composition printed in the Herald of this week. Before presenting the prize Mrs. Earl read the composition to the children.

In all it was a most appropriate and interesting program and was much enjoyed by the interested friends and patrons present. The memory of the occasion will linger long with the children and help to make better citizens of each and every one.

JUNIOR GIRLS FRIENDLY SOCIETY

On Friday afternoon, February 29, the members of the Junior Girls Friendly Society enjoyed a pleasant party at the home of their associate, Mrs. W. Gwynn Fox.

Lovely yellow calendulas, blue lilies and lupins were used for decorations.

The afternoon passed all too quickly with music, games and happy chatter. Piano solos were played by Phyllis Smith, and Pearl Robson. A group of flute solos were played by Mrs. Fox, accompanied by Mrs. E. L. Burdick. A number of jolly G. F. S. songs were sung by every one present.

The prize winners for the month were Percy May Riden, Trixie Franklin. The guest prize was awarded Mrs. E. L. Burdick. The prizes were dainty lingerie pins.

The girls must have been busy with their "Hatchets" as a neat sum was deposited in the basket after Easter for the church gift fund.

Delicious sandwiches, assorted cakes and lemonade were served for refreshments.

During Lent, the "Juniors" will devote most of their meeting time to sewing for their "Kitchen Line" sale which they expect to hold after Easter for the church gift fund.

Those present Friday were Phyllis Smith, Trixie Franklin, Pearl Robson, Margaret Edwards, Henrietta Edwards, Gladys Keppeler, Percy May Riden, Marjorie Hoskins, Katherine Morrison, Nancy White, Athalene Prevant, Mrs. E. L. Burdick, Mrs. Gwynn Fox, and Earl Fox.

CIRCLE NO. 4 MEETS

Friday afternoon the members of Circle No. 4, of the Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. E. A. Moffitt for the monthly business meeting. The meeting was opened by the Scripture reading by Mrs. F. R. Mitchell, penitence prayers followed by the song, "Am I a Soldier of the Cross." After the devotional services, the meeting was opened for discussion.

Several topics were discussed, then the afternoon was turned over to the hostess, who served delicious refreshments of hot rolls creamed oysters, pickles, olives, cake and coffee. The social hour was one of the most enjoyable hours the complaints began flowing into the county engineer's office, by phone and in person, the "in person" being irate women. Within an hour a man was sent out to knock down the offensive posters, but someone had "beaten him to it"—they were already down.

A political placard has no more chance along the highways of Florida than a snowball in Key West. The politician who uses the trees and posts to advance his candidacy had better think twice before he does so—for the woman vote is a strong one and 20,000 Florida women have practically banded together to boycott those things exploited by desecrating highways—and they probably will consider a candidate a "thing."

circle has ever had. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Abercrombie on Union Avenue, the last Friday in March. Those present were Mesdames Spurling, Hart Vaughan, Hickson, Flowers, Faye, Mitchell, Camp, Elliott, Moffitt, and Miss Florence Sprling.

To plan—institute and execute the intensive development necessary to the building of a modern city and resort of the better class—is a far greater undertaking than the development of an ordinary sub-division of a few hundred acres.

To clear the land—grade and construct 30 miles of paved streets—more than 25 miles of cement sidewalks and curbing—lay 24 miles of water pipe—erect 621 light poles and string 30 miles of electrical wire—put up and equip 150 cement light standards each carrying 5 lights—and all in a little over two years—is a huge contract—but it has been successfully accomplished at

GATOR FOOTBALL PLAYERS RECEIVE LETTERS TUESDAY

Fifteen Grid Warriors, Members of Florida's Greatest Team, Receive Coteled "F's"

GAINESVILLE, Mar. 1.—Fifteen members of Florida University's famous Fighting Gators of 1929 were signally honored Tuesday at chapel when awarded magnificent blue sweaters bearing big, eight-inch orange letters "F" to their chests.

Florida University and her wonderful football combination was subject of the greatest excitement throughout Dixie during the recent fall months when the Orange and Blue were gallantly to a most evasive position in Southern football circles.

Dr. Murphy made brief personal remarks to each man of praising the sweaters. Captain-elect Ark Newton made a short speech in which he thanked the student body for their genuine support, concluding his remarks with a prediction that the 1931 machine would be even greater than the last team.
