Medical helicopter crashes

TYLER, Texas — A medical helicopter with three people aboard crashed in fog and light rain just northeast of Tyler late Monday night, and the pilot and two nurses were presumed dead, officials said.

The helicopter was on its way to a medical emergency in Pittsburg, Texas, about 40 miles north of Tyler, when the pilot told a dispatcher at about 10:18 p.m. Monday that he was returning to the hospital because of the weather, said Beverly Mason, assistant vice president at Mother Francis Hospital.

Musical shooting accidental

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — An off-duty policeman's protest against his downstairs neighbor's loud music sent his upstairs neighbor to the hospital with a gunshot wound.

Officer Mark Haskins, a police firearms training assistant, told investigators he was lying in bed early Saturday when he was disturbed by loud music from the apartment beneath him, police spokesman Vince Dean said.

Haskins, 29, said he pulled a Frankfurt .223-caliber assault rifle from under his bed and hit the butt of it on the floor as a signal of complaint to his neighbors below.

The gun went off, wounding a man asleep in the apartment above Haskins.

Todd Dingman, 29, told police he heard a "firecracker-type noise" and then realized he had been shot. Dingman was treated overnight at Erlanger Medical Center and was released Sunday.

Secrets snag North trial

WASHINGTON — The judge in the Iran-Contra case summoned government and defense lawyers to a Tuesday hearing to discuss an administration plan for handling state secrets at the trial of Oliver North even as the defense tried to show former President Ronald Reagan's role in the matter.

North's lawyers filed papers Monday accusing Reagan and at least five other top officials in his administration of offering unspecified favors to countries in exchange for financial aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Attorneys for the ex-White House aide alleged the Reagan administration kept the activities secret.

Rollins tops 8th-ranked Tampa

WINTER PARK — Play it again Dan. Senior forward Dan Wolf, fresh from a fantastic three-point play that propelled Rollins past Eckerd Saturday, sunk a three-point shot three seconds before the buzzer, rallying the Tars to a 74-73 victory over eighth-ranked Tampa Monday night.

The win, witnessed by 819 vociferous fans at Enyart-Alumni Fieldhouse, was only Rollins' fourth in 13 tries since the Spartans reinstated basketball in 1983. More importantly, it maintained the Tars' hopes of attaining a berth in the four-team Sunshine State Conference Tournament.

Road projects OK'd

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners decided Monday to complete designs for a loop-road system east and west of Interstate 4 between State Roads 46 and 46-A.

The commissioners also gave their first approval to several other road improvements in the county:

• Intersection changes to shorten the mile-long "parking lot" forming every weekday morning on U.S. Highway 17-92 at County Road 427;

• A Chluota bypass road;

• A computerized signal system for State Roads 434 and 436 to reduce morning and afternoon traffic tie-ups on Interstate 4 at those interchanges.

On S.R. 46-46A loop, the two roads, extensions of Grant Line Road west of I-4 and Rinehart Road east of I-4, will help take traffic off the congested I-4 during peak early morning and afternoon driving times.

Commissioners gave their initial approvals of the two-laned road system May 10 last year. Each two-mile road is expected to cost about $2 million and be completed by August 1990.

The Grant Line Road extension would begin on SR 46-A about a half-mile west of the I-4 interchange being designed by the state, thread north through two small lakes and curve east to link into Katie Street, then north to SR 46. The road will also extend north of State Road 46 and will bank east to merge with Oregon Avenue.

Two landowners, the Harry Kwiatkowski trust and Mary McKinney have agreed to donate the right-of-way needed to build the road north of Old State Road 46. The Kwiatkowski trust owns the land west of the road and McKinney owns the land east of the road, including the portion that will link into Oregon Avenue north of SR 46.

Both landowners requested credit for their donations against impact fees they will be required to pay to develop their property.

Rinehart Road would begin about

Boat launching fee on way out

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN

SANFORD — The city commission last night took a step toward eliminating the Lake Monroe marina launching fee and postponed a decision on imposing emergency impact fees for police and fire protection.

The commission agreed to table a vote on adopting the impact fees to charge developers until a city advisory board can recommend a fee schedule.

City attorney Bill Colbert told commissioners that an ordinance implementing such fees would be lengthy and needed further review. Bob McKee and Bob Keith, members of the Systems Development Fee advisory board, also petitioned the commission to study the recommended fees before adoption, hinting that recommendations are too low.

A privately-conducted study published in December recommended fees based on existing services and projected growth. The study recommends a police protection fee of $25.87 per residential dwelling unit and 7.9 cents per square foot of non-residential development, and a fire

Review board says chief made proper disciplinary move

By SANDRA BOUGHANINE
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — A complaint review board has determined that Sergeant Don Knight of the Longwood Police Department used excessive force on a civilian.

In addition, the three-member board sustained the findings of Lt. Jack Bisland that Knight was untruthful when questioned about it during an internal investigation conducted as a result of a citizen's complaint.

The panel concurred with Police Chief Greg Manning's disciplinary actions to demote Knight from his supervisory status to patrol officer with a $3,000-a-year cut in pay.

"They spent a great deal of time deliberating the whole case," Manning said Monday afternoon. He said that Knight's demotion took effect as of noon Monday. Knight was suspended with pay on Feb. 1 until the grievance hearing, however Manning said that Knight did not return to work Monday because he requested additional personal time off.

Testimony was presented to the panel during a grievance hearing which started 9 a.m. and lasted

Rocket launch rescheduled for this afternoon

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Engineers this morning were readying the first of 20 new Delta 2 rockets for a maiden blastoff this afternoon that would hurl a $85 million navigation satellite into orbit and open a new era for the military space program.

NASA said a 10-minute launch window existed at the 1:30 p.m. scheduled launch time.

The 128-foot, three-stage rocket had been scheduled to take off Sunday from launch complex 17A at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station, but unexpected high-altitude winds prompted Air Force managers to delay the flight 48 hours. Conditions were expected to be acceptable at launch time Tuesday.

Mounted atop the $30 million rocket was the first of a new generation of Global Positioning

System — GPS — navigation satellites that will allow military forces on the ground, at sea and in the air to determine their location and altitude to within about 53 feet anywhere in the world.

The Delta 2's job is to place the GPS satellite into an elliptical "transfer orbit." If all goes well, an on-board solid-fuel rocket will fire later this week to put the satellite in a circular 12-hour orbit 12,500 miles up.

In all, the Air Force plans to launch 21 upgraded "block 2" GPS satellites to join seven older and less sophisticated "block 1" spacecraft now in space. The satellites are built by Rockwell International's Satellite Systems Division in Seal Beach, Calif., under a $1.2 billion contract.

Martinez promises budget allocation for 'Spaceport Florida' development

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Gov. Bob Martinez vowed Monday to include $10 million in his next budget to "prime the pump" for development of a "Spaceport Florida" that would serve the growing private-sector launch industry.

The rocket-launching facilities at Cape Canaveral play a key role in the proposal.

Martinez unveiled the results of a feasibility study at a news conference and said Florida is "uniquely positioned to serve as America's launching pad."

"When America enters the space commerce industry, it should be from Florida," he said. "We have the time, we have the place, we have the talent and we have the resources."

President Bush's new Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner said he encouraged officials in Florida, as well as others in Hawaii and Virginia who have expressed interest in creating commercial spaceports, to pursue their goals.

FIRST OF MANY

Today's launch is the first step in what many space experts are calling a revolution in space technology and satellite communications systems. The long-range, multi-billion dollar program is outlined below.

□ Today's launch will place the first of a new generation of Global Positioning System (GPS) navigation satellites in orbit.

□ The $85 million dollar satellite is one in a link of satellites that will allow military forces on the ground, sea and air to determine their location and altitude to within about 53 feet anywhere in the world.

□ The Air Force plans to launch a total of 21 "block 2" GPS satellites to join seven older "block 1" spacecraft now in orbit.

Magazine back on Eastern planes

MIAMI — Controversial airline boss Frank Lorenzo has ordered Eastern Airlines Inc. to put the latest edition of Fortune magazine back on board its jets, although the issue contains an article critical of him, a spokesman said Monday.

"Lorenzo personally instructed that Fortune be put back on the planes," Eastern spokesman Robin Matell said. "He knew nothing about the original decision" to ban the current issue of Fortune from Eastern's skies.

Matell said the magazine, which features Lorenzo on its cover, will be added to the complimentary reading material offered on Eastern's fleet of 250 jets as soon as possible.

Lorenzo is chairman of Texas Air Corp. of Houston, parent company of Eastern and Continental airlines.

Eastern had ordered all copies of the magazine removed from its planes in a terse directive to aircraft service managers around the nation.

The article characterizes Lorenzo as a "loose cannon" and it quotes past and present Texas Air executives as saying the chairman is an impulsive manager who runs a highly charged shop.

Settlement sought in prayer case

FORT WALTON BEACH — Although the Rev. Jerry Falwell has urged them to fight a lawsuit to end public prayers before football games, the Okaloosa County School Board Tuesday will discuss a settlement in the case.

David Selby, the lawyer who represents the board, said he expects to present a proposed settlement worked out by lawyers from both sides when the board meets in Fort Walton Beach tonight.

Lawyers declined to discuss details of the proposal.

In November 1987 Mark and Jan Berlin of Crestview filed a lawsuit claiming the school district violated the rights of their two high-school aged children by allowing Christian prayers on public address systems before school events.

The suit cited prayers before football games and other sporting events, as well as prayers at honors ceremonies.

The suit by the Berlins, who are Jewish, cited violations of the First Amendment clause against the establishment of religion. The case is scheduled to go before U.S. District Judge Roger Vinson Feb. 27 in Pensacola.

But an 11th U.S. Circuit Court decision in early January in a similar case in Douglas County, Ga., prompted both sides to try to work out an agreement. The court ruled the "equal access" plan, where invocations are led by students, parents and teachers, violates separation of church and state.

Charges dropped against British tourist

MIAMI — An indictment against a 19-year-old British tourist accused of setting a hotel fire in Miami Beach that killed two elderly residents and injured four others has been dismissed, prosecutors said Monday.

U.S. Attorney Dexter Lehtinen said charges against Tara Jane Terry were dropped after her companion, Mark Edward Richardson, 21, refused to return from Great Britain to testify.

Terry, a computer programmer from Surrey, England, was charged with setting a fire in September at the Nassau Hotel.

A 78-year-old woman and a 82-year-old man who lived across the hall from the room where the fire began died of smoke inhalation. Four others were injured.

Officials said Terry set the fire in the room she was sharing with Richardson after the two argued late one Saturday night.

Terry, who had faced a possible life sentence in the case, had been free on a bond that required her to remain in south Florida in the custody of her mother, according to her lawyer, Richard A. Sharpstein.

Sharpstein said defense experts had concluded the fire resulted from faulty electrical wiring in the hotel.

Jail ordered for accused painting thieves

MIAMI — A federal judge Monday ordered a former Argentine police commissioner and his wife, accused of conspiring to sell stolen paintings worth at least $50 million, jailed on charges of transporting stolen property and conspiracy.

Former Argentine police commissioner Juan Carlos Longo, 52, and his wife Hilda Longo, 40, were arrested Feb. 8 as they tried to sell a stolen Francisco Jose de Goya painting worth $500,000 to an undercover FBI agent.

FBI agents said from October 1988 to February 1989, the couple conspired with each other to sell 11 paintings stolen Nov. 2, 1983, and March 24, 1987, from museums in Argentina.

"These paintings are valued today between $50 million to $100 million, depending upon condition, and were reportedly in the hands of two different groups of individuals in Argentina," an FBI statement said.

Juan Carlos Longo had been negotiating with an FBI source since October 1988 to sell the paintings in the United States, agents said.

Shuttle on track for March blastoff

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — Smooth-sailing work to replace three suspect turbopumps aboard the shuttle Discovery should be wrapped up by the end of next week, keeping the orbiter on track for a delayed blastoff next month, officials say.

"Although we don't have an actual date right now, a firm date, I feel pretty good about the early to middle part of March," launch director Robert Sieck said. "I think the pump situation is behind us."

Sieck told the Cape Canaveral Press Club Monday night that it will take "about a week to 10 days" to get all three high-pressure liquid oxygen turbopumps, each one about the size of a beer keg, installed and checked out in Discovery's cramped engine compartment.

"Near the end of next week, we'll have that behind us and we'll go into what I call the standard part of the integrated processing at the launch pad," he said. "That's usually about a two week process and all that equals a launch opportunity in mid March."

A formal launch date will not be set until a flight readiness review March 2 and 3. Sieck said internal processing schedules continue to show March 10 as the earliest possible launch date, assuming no more problems and around-the-clock work.

"But I would like to believe if we can get the pumps in and checked out quicker than we have laid out on that schedule that we'd be talking an earlier date," he said.

"But if we get into it and we get some glitches ... then that date will move to the right some. So we don't have a firm date yet and I wouldn't look for one to be set until after the readiness review."

Blastoff originally was scheduled for Feb. 23, but the flight was delayed when NASA ordered the pumps replaced because of concern about a tiny crack found in a bearing assembly inside a pump used by the shuttle Atlantis in December.

Larger cracks could cause a catastrophic engine failure and the first of three replacement pumps thought to be immune to the problem arrived at the Kennedy Space Center Sunday for installation in Discovery's engine compartment.

Eighteen block 2 satellites are required to complete the global navigation network. Three of the 21 bound for orbit will serve as spares with another seven available on the ground for launch as needed. Additional satellites are planned and through the end of the century, the GPS program is expected to run some $8.5 billion.

The satellites originally were to be launched from NASA's space shuttle.

But after the 1986 Challenger disaster, which grounded the shuttle program for 32 months, the Pentagon embarked on an unprecedented $14 billion rocket construction program to guarantee independent access to space for high-priority military payloads.

The Air Force ordered 20 upgraded Delta 2s from McDonnell Douglas Space Systems Co. of Huntington Beach, Calif., to carry GPS satellites into space.

The Air Force also ordered 13 shuttle-class Titan 4 rockets from Martin Marietta Astronautics Group of Denver to join 10 already under construction and 11 upgraded Atlas-Centauras from General Dynamics of San Diego to launch military communications satellites originally booked on the shuttle.

The Delta 2, a more powerful version of the workhorse Deltas launched since 1960 by NASA and the Air Force, was the first of the new rocket systems to be cleared for launch.

Equipped with lengthened first-stage fuel tanks and more powerful strap-on solid-fuel boosters, the initial Delta 2 configuration can deliver payloads weighing up to 8,780 pounds to low-Earth orbit or 3,190 pounds to the 22,300-mile-high orbits favored by communications satellites. At launch, the GPS satellites weigh 3,675 pounds.

The GPS system is built around the operation of onboard atomic clocks accurate to within one second over 300,000 years. Coded radio signals from any four satellites can be used by receivers small enough to hand carry to pinpoint a user's longitude, latitude and altitude to within 53 feet.

Uncoded signals broadcast on a different channel can be used for civilian applications with accuracies of about 330 feet.

"It's a revolution in navigation," said Col. Marty Runkle, GPS program director for the Air Force.

protection fee of $52.91 per dwelling unit and 3.1 cents per square foot of non-residential development.

Commissioner A. A. McClanahan agreed with McKee that recommended fees may not be in line with the cost of providing protection for new development. "I don't see how we can survive on so much less impact than our surrounding communities," he said.

On the marina fees, the commission called for an ordinance eliminating the $5 launching fee. McClanahan cast the only vote against the move.

"We're talking about eliminating any fee, but implementing traffic control that will be underwritten by taxpayers," McClanahan said.

While calling for the elimination of marina fees, commissioners approved an amendment proposed by Commissioner Lon Howell prohibiting trailer parking on the island lot at the marina. Howell said trailers could be parked in the municipal lot between Hood and Palmetto Avenues.

Commissioner Bob Thomas voted to support eliminating marina fees, one week after he defended the fees at a workshop meeting. Last week he said he came to support launching fees, although he opposed their adoption in May.

No clues about missing student

United Press International

GAINESVILLE — Sheriff's deputies have checked out hundreds of reported sightings of a missing college student, but none provided any tangible clues to the fate or whereabouts of 20-year-old Tiffany Sessions.

"None of them have come up possible at this time. Everything is pretty much the same," Alachua County Sheriff's spokesman Spencer Mann said Monday.

Sessions disappeared without a trace after leaving her suburban Gainesville apartment Thursday evening. The University of Florida junior told her roommate she was going jogging and would be back in about 30 minutes. She left her wallet and keys behind and never returned.

Mann said police and deputies have checked out hundreds of telephone tips and "possible sightings from every direction all at the same time," including one report that

Sessions was seen talking to passengers in a white car near the area where she often jogged.

None of the calls provided any leads.

"There is still no tangible evidence of any criminal action," Mann said.

The Alachua County Sheriff's Office, local police and the FBI are investigating the case, classified as a missing person with foul play suspected.

Deputies searched a wooded area near the campus with tracking dogs Friday and Saturday, and Sessions' father hired a helicopter to conduct an air search. There were no signs of struggle and no witnesses who saw suspicious actions, Mann said.

"I'm just praying right now for a ransom call," said Sessions' father, real estate executive Patrick Sessions. "The uncertainty is the worst part."

some degree is encouraged," he said. "But what's really important is the states that dedicate the money, the time and the effort to make this work are going to get the most support from Washington."

State officials began studying the need for a commercial spaceport after the 1986 Challenger disaster, which grounded the shuttle program and created a huge backlog of satellites with no way to get into orbit.

Compounding the problem, former President Reagan eventually banned commercial payloads from future shuttle flights in a bid to encourage development of a private-sector launch industry.

"Current indications are that 121 commercial satellites will have to be launched through 1994," Lt. Gov. Bobby Brantley said. "Fifty-five percent of those satellites — approximately $3.4 billion in launch business — have not committed to a launcher and could be served by U.S. firms using Spaceport Florida."

Martinez said he will propose legislation this spring to create a Spaceport Authority to oversee development of a commercial launch complex that would operate much like airport authorities.

"I will also include in my budget recommendations $10 million to enable us to achieve our Spaceport Florida goals," he said. "This will prime the pump, start the flow that will bring private resources and investments."

The plan calls for establishing a base for suborbital sounding rocket launches at Cape San Blas in the Florida panhandle that can be operational in about one year.

The state also would create a commercial spaceport on the state's east coast to take advantage of launch facilities and equipment already in place at the Cape Canaveral Air Force Station and NASA's Kennedy Space Center.

POLICE BRIEFS

Pedestrian in hit-and-run identified

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man killed when he tried to walk across Interstate 4 in Altamonte Springs at about 5:06 a.m. Monday has been identified as Wayne L. Hanson, 19, of 725 North Lake Blvd., #77, Altamonte Springs.

A Florida Highway Patrol spokesman said Hanson was crossing the highway from west to east at State Road 436 when he was struck by an unidentified car in the outside, westbound lane. The car that first hit Hanson fled from the scene and he was run over by several other cars, the spokesman said.

The FHP had no description of the hit-and-run cars. The spokesman said charges are pending in the case.

Woman, 83, identified as fire victim

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies identified Janie Cooper, 83, as the victim of a fire early Monday that destroyed her house at 2380 Dollar Way, Midway.

Seminole County firefighters found Cooper's body in the rubble of the fire that began at about 7:30 a.m. A pot on her kitchen stove that ignited apparently set off the blaze. Cooper's daughter told deputies she lived alone and had trouble moving around.

Father charged with child abuse

SANFORD — The Sanford father of 10 children is charged with child abuse. He is accused by Sanford police of beating at least eight of the children, ages 10 years and under, with an extension cord.

Police said the children had scars and marks in the form of loops on their bodies.

Bernard Mitchell, 40, of 23 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was arrested at noon Monday following questioning at the police station. The allegations of abuse were first investigated by a representative of the Seminole County Guardian Ad Litem Program, on Jan. 25, police said.

Rifle taken from boy at school

LONGWOOD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies took a short-barrel, altered 22-caliber semi-automatic rifle from a 16-year-old boy at Lyman High School, Longwood, on Monday.

The Altamonte Springs boy said he got a standard rifle for his 16th birthday, and converted it to a weapon with a two-inch long barrel. Lt. Marty LaBrusciano said any rifle with a barrel length of less than 18 inches is illegal. The boy has been charged with possession of a short-barrel rifle. LaBrusciano said the weapon was taken from the boy's car.

Casselberry police get new weapons

CASSELBERRY — Police Chief Win Gates announced today that within the next couple of days his department will order 43 new 9 mm Sig Sauer P-226 semi-automatic pistols to replace his officers' issued revolvers.

Detective Greg Hepburn said the new pistols, which will give police greater firepower with 15 rounds per clip, opposed to a six-shot revolver, cost $479 each. They will trade in their old weapons for credit of $95 each, and the balance of the cost of the new guns will be covered with funds confiscated from criminal under the state forfeiture act. Casselberry police should have their new weapons in about three weeks.

Two arrested on DUI charges

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

- Perry Keith Martin, 29, of 390 Woodside Drive, Altamonte Springs, was arrested after his car was pursued by police on Interstate 4 at a speed of 105 mph at about 1 a.m. today. He was stopped at the ramp of State Road 434, after backtracking east, after driving in the westbound lane. He is also charged with fleeing to evade police and reckless driving.
- Gregory K. Cook, 25, of 420 Sun Lake Circle, Lake Mary, at 1:14 a.m. today after his car was seen speeding and swerving on Lake Mary Boulevard, Lake Mary. He was also charged for not carrying a driver's license or registration and resisting arrest without violence.

Barrel removal to cost $13,333

By SANDRA BOUCHAMINE
 Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — The consensus of Longwood commissioners at a work session last night was to pay $13,333.28 to Chemical Conservation Corporation of Orlando for removal of 16 barrels buried behind the public works department.

The figure was derived from a formula by Commissioner Carol Odom.

Former Public Works Director Charles Haasler, who resigned effective last month, ordered the burial of the drums. The Florida Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) cited the city on Nov. 9 for not determining the contents of the drums before burial.

The barrels were removed in December and Chemical Conservation Corporation originally submitted a bill to the city for more than $31,000, 10 times more than what the city said it was initially told it would cost.

Recently, at the request of the commissioners, the company revised the bill to $29,378.44. But, Longwood officials were not satisfied.

"It doesn't appear to me they made any real effort to reduce the bill. The purchase order was not to exceed $3,000. Mr. Haasler apparently gave them verbal authority which he didn't have the authority to give," Acting City Administrator Don Terry said last night.

The bill included payment of a site supervisor at $85 an hour for two days, $20,000 for excavation and containerization of the drums and $12,000 for the analysis of the materials in the drums. Laboratory tests done by ENCO Laboratories in Orlando verified that the contents of eight barrels were hazardous, one barrel was declared non-hazardous, one was empty and tests on the remaining six are inconclusive. The drums are safely containerized and remain behind the public works department on East Warren Avenue.

Chemical Conservation Corporation of Orlando subcontracted the excavation of the barrels to O.H. Materials Company in Clermont, Fla.

Terry recommended that the commission offer a settlement fee to the company.

"Maybe $15,000 as payment in full to Chemical Conservation Corporation and O.H. Materials would be in order. I don't think they can blame all this on the fact that we were in an emergency situation," Terry said.

"The city should make a good faith effort to settle this in a fair amount," City Attorney Richard S. Taylor Jr. said.

Chemical Conservation Sales Manager Pat Sullivan said this morning that they tried to reduce the bill "as best as possible."

"We just relooked the bill and came back with that percentage. We tried to reduce the bill as best as possible. That's what the subcontractors and the lab analysis cost us," he said. Sullivan said the company would lose money if offered only $13,000 by the city.

"We are going to lose a lot of money. We will not be happy with their $13,000. We tried to go back and give discounts," he said.

Mayor Hank Hardy said he was at the excavation site and had asked what the cost would be and that he was assured by Chemical Conservation Corporation and the company who would perform lab tests that the bill would not exceed $10,000.

"I'm insulted they sent us this revised bill. This is insulting," Hardy said.

"It seems to me they're taking us for a ride. We ought to be very aggressive with these people," Commissioner Gene Farach said.

Taylor suggested speaking with DER in person when he is on business in Tallahassee.

"It wouldn't hurt to bring them (DER) up to date," Hardy said.

County code enforcement board receives funds for legal counsel

By J. MARK BARFIELD
 Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Code Enforcement Board will finally receive legal counsel.

Seminole County commissioners gave their initial approval Monday to allow the code board to spend up to $5,000 to gain legal advice on complicated issues. The attorney could be hired within the next two to three months.

The board currently does not have legal counsel. Frictions between code board members and county attorneys have developed in past months over several issues, largely because county attorneys act as prosecutors of code violators.

Code board members have said the county attorneys don't always tell them all aspects of a code violation case because the attorney is seeking a judgement against the violator.

The situation erupted this

Clarification

A story in Monday's Sanford Herald stated Seminole County commissioner Jennifer Kelley had been cleared by the Florida Ethics Commission in her husband's arrangement to sell a computer to the county.

The story was based, in part, on a memorandum from Acting County Attorney Robert A. McMillan, who said that based on previous Ethics Commission decisions, it appeared that no conflict of interest existed.

No complaint has been filed against Kelley to the commission, according to McMillan.

Robbery note found in pocket cinches arrest

By SUSAN LOREN
 Herald staff writer

CASSELBERRY — A robbery note in his pocket cinched the arrest of a man accused by Casselberry police of loitering and prowling behind the Mr. Donut on State Road 436 at about 11:10 p.m. Monday.

Police said they spotted Jeffrey Dewitt Hall, 31, of Orlando, at the dumpster behind the shop. They approached and saw a fully charged stungun at his feet, along with a can of mace.

Hall told police he was coming from his girlfriend's house, but he couldn't remember where she lives, police reported. He then said he was searching for food in the trash bin, but when police searched him and found the note, Hall was arrested.

The hand-printed note read, "This is a holdup. I have a gun. Put money in a bag. Don't scream or you're dead." When police plucked the note from Hall's pocket they said he cursed. They also report finding a roll of air duct tape hidden in his waistband.

Hall is charged with loitering and prowling.

On the brink

Fidel Castro hunkers down in a bomb shelter deep beneath the Cuban soil. He desperately wants Nikita Khrushchev to push The Bulton and unleash nuclear havoc on America's most populous cities.

In Washington, D.C., one of the cities targeted by the Cuban missiles, Robert McNamara leaves a briefing with President Kennedy. He strolls in the crisp October air, plagued by thoughts that he may never see another Saturday night.

These are just two of the haunting images that emerged from an extraordinary gathering recently of key participants in the 1962 Cuban Missile Crisis. During the meeting in Moscow — sponsored by Harvard University's Nuclear Crisis Project — generals, diplomats and historians candidly dissected six tense days that first brought the world to the brink of nuclear war.

It was a meeting that could have occurred only in this era of glasnost, openness. What the participants discovered as they laid open the crisis offers a potent argument for why openness on both sides must continue.

It was only during an informal lunch break at the conference that American officials learned of Castro's desperate message to Khrushchev, urging that the Cuban missiles be fired. Equally eye-opening were the major flaws exposed in American estimates of enemy troop strength. McNamara, the former U.S. defense secretary, acknowledged that in 1962 he thought he was up against a maximum of 110,000 Cuban and Soviet troops. But during the conference, it was revealed the troop strength was closer to 310,000.

It's a lesson of history the world cannot afford to miss.

There seems to be a problem in clarifying the rezoning issue as it pertains to Seminole High School.

It is my understanding that the main purpose of rezoning is to correct a population imbalance in the different schools, due to over-crowding in some and an availability of space in others. An additional purpose of rezoning should address the availability of programs within the curriculum. It is from these two points that Seminole High is requesting additional zones.

Seminole High has a building program that will bring its capacity to 2,200 students. That construction is due to be completed by the Fall of this year (1989) and IS ON SCHEDULE!

The January 1989 census count from the Seminole School Board gives Seminole 1,829 students. These figures allow us immediate availability of space for at least 370 students.

Lake Mary High is over capacity by approximately 157 students. Plans suggest moving 60 students to Lake Brantley and gaining 11 from Seminole. This leaves them over capacity by at least 100 students.

The second point of rezoning addresses the availability of programs in Seminole's curriculum. Because of an imbalance in the socio-economic level of the student population at Seminole, there is an inability to generate a complete curriculum.

Seminole High does not always have the numbers of students to support each of the classes offered in the curriculum guide. Thus, some of these courses are not always taught. This situation DOES NOT EXIST at the other high schools in the county!

In addition to solving the problem of over-crowding at Lake Mary (which was the primary objective of the rezoning process) rezoning students to Seminole would assist in solving the population imbalance and the curriculum deficiencies.

Now, as to Zone 8. This area was selected, simply, because it is geographically the closest and the most logical area to Seminole High. It is 5 1/4 miles from the intersection of SR 427 and C-15, north to Old Lake Mary Rd., north to 25th St. and east to Seminole High.

While growth is occurring in the Seminole High zone, the truth is that many of these students are not attending Seminole High. They are going out-of-zone to another school or are attending a private school.

In addition, the potential growth is not occurring as rapidly as some believe. There is also the factor that many of these new homes are priced for the younger family with elementary-aged children. This offers little help to Seminole High now! Why should we have to count on future growth to solve problems that should be corrected NOW?

The real issue in rezoning is that those parents in the other school zone do not feel that their children would receive a quality education at Seminole! While most of these opinions are unfounded, some inequities do exist.

Until a total evaluation of Seminole's curriculum occurs and until ALL corrections are made by the Seminole County School Board, we would simply say to the others, "If Seminole High isn't good enough for your children, then it isn't good enough for our children!"

What kind of greed has Bush got in mind?

WASHINGTON — Meaningful inaugural addresses are as rare as great presidents, and both usually take time to establish their place in history. Those who actually hear such speeches often do not realize they are listening to something that will be remembered long after the president is gone.

An example was Franklin D. Roosevelt's first inaugural address. On its 50th anniversary in 1983, Charles Haas, who marched in FDR's inaugural parade, was asked how the audience greeted the timeless phrase "the only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

"Hardly noticed it," Haas said. "What really got the people going was when he attacked the bankers. ... The money changers have fled from their high place in the temple of our civilization."

Roosevelt's allusion to the men who controlled the pre-Depression economy was welcome to an audience whose life savings were lost and whose very survival seemed in jeopardy. So was FDR's outline of specific steps he planned to relieve economic distress.

But FDR's larger purpose was to restore confidence in a nation whose basic institutions had collapsed. Today that is what is remembered of the speech.

Trying to find an inner message in President Bush's inaugural speech might be premature, but there was something in it that may be worth remembering.

Bush said: "We are not the sum of our possessions. They are not the measure of our lives. We cannot hope only to leave to our children a bigger car, a bigger bank account."

The president went on to declare it was his duty to look for and "celebrate the the quieter, deeper successes that are made not of gold or silk, but of better hearts and finer souls."

It is interesting that those words represent a recurring theme.

In his August speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination, Bush said, "Some people who are enjoying our prosperity have forgotten what it is for. But they diminish our triumph when they behave as if wealth is an end in itself."

"There's graft in city hall, there's greed on Wall Street and there's influence peddling in Washington and the small corruptions of everyday ambition."

The proper use of prosperity, he said, "means taking your idealism and making it concrete by certain acts of goodness."

While it certainly is possible to make too much of those few lines, it should be remembered that George Bush's real roots are in Puritan New England where the concepts of public duty and charity were regarded as the natural responsibilities of people with the advantages of wealth and high position and where conspicuous consumption and overt materialism were frowned upon.

So, the question: Is George Bush declaring war on greed? Are BMW, Gucci and Rolex to be trademarks of shame in the coming four years? Are good works to replace net worth as the measure of Americans?

If so, how does the president's high-minded disdain for the love of "gold and silk" square with his recent limp endorsement of a 50 percent pay increase for members of Congress who already make $89,500 a year and nearly as much in outside income? What "concrete idealism, what 'act of goodness' is this?

Trying to find an inner message in President Bush's inaugural speech may be a bit premature

GEORGE F. WILL

GOP likes Dukakis in '92

WASHINGTON — The Democratic Party, the party of William Jennings Bryan and Adlai Stevenson, might do it again. Some Democrats believe 1992 could be a trip down memory lane with Michael Dukakis.

Even before Kliby Dukakis' latest troubles, it probably seemed improbable that he would run again (as he did, successfully, after losing the Massachusetts governorship). Surely, Democrats would not nominate him again. Some Democrats are not so sure.

Losing with Dukakis was not, as losing three times with Bryan was, an exciting moral crusade. And in 1988 Democrats were denied "the Adlai Stevenson consolation." Democrats who were "madly for Adlai" in 1952 and 1956 could say each time, "at least our stylish hero won an aesthetic victory."

Dukakis made George Bush the first presidential candidate in the history of polling to have a net disapproval rating at some point in an election year and still win. Bush won because in three months Dukakis managed to go from a 4-to-1 approval rating to a decisive defeat. Surely, you say, Democrats have learned. There are serious Democrats who know Dukakis and know their party's nominating process and who say: Do not underestimate his tenacity or his peculiarity.

The nominating process has its own inner logic and momentum. The Democratic Party is now essentially a party of blacks and white liberals who are disproportionately public employees. Since the election, Senate Democrats have chosen as their leader a Northeastern liberal (George Mitchell of Maine) and a black Washington lobbyist, Ron Brown, has captured the party chairmanship. Jesse Jackson probably will lead in preference polls for the Democratic nomination as late as early winter, 1991. If Dukakis runs, he probably will be second, far in front of whoever is third, in part because of name recognition.

President Bush and many members of his Cabinet are treating Jackson as leader of his party, mischievously making sure his political weight increases. These Republicans are not political rookies. As Horace Busby notes, Bush is the first President to have served as chairman of his party, and his Cabinet includes his campaign manager (James Baker), his early campaign adviser (Nicholas Brady), one of his prominent rivals for the nomination (Jack Kemp) and the wife of another rival (Elizabeth Dole). When they meet with Jackson as though he is the leader of the loyal opposition, they know they are sowing trouble for the loyal opposition.

Jackson will have a third or so of the party behind him and, if there are two or more white candidates on Super Tuesday (if there is a Super Tuesday), he may win that event. Jackson now has such political weight that by early April, 1992, the anti-Jackson vote is apt to swing toward a single candidate. That is what doomed Al Gore's 1988 candidacy. In the New York primary, he found himself standing in the disappearing middle, getting just 10 percent as Dukakis became Mr. Not Jackson.

Could Dukakis do it again? The party's supposed stars — Gov. Cuomo, Sens. Bradley, Nunn and Robb — again might not enter the race. Already some Democrats are saying, yet again, that the party's message is fine, but a bigger turnout is the key to victory.

In 1988, voter turnout was the lowest percentage since 1924. But Roy A. Teixeira, writing in Public Opinion, shows that even if you assume, wildly, that blacks and Hispanics, who had lower turnouts than whites, had a turnout rate 10 points higher than whites in 1988, Dukakis would have gained only 4.3 million votes. He lost by 6.9 million. And one survey of voters and nonvoters shows that if every eligible American had voted, Bush's victory would have been even more decisive.

Voters under 30 are today the most Republican voters. In 1988, 40 percent of all non-hyphen voters were under 30 and surveys indicate that these young non-hyphen voters were even more pro-Bush than those who voted.

So Democrats, including Dukakis, may feel a sense of confidence as they think: Thomas Jefferson was the only sitting vice president to be elected President and then win re-election, and Bush is no Jefferson. True. But trust the Democrats to find a way to make an opponent seem like Jefferson.

Say what you will in disparagement of Dukakis. In 1988, he did what supposedly stronger Democrats did not do. He ran. Unless new candidates representing other constituencies come forward, and there is no guarantee they will, the party's immediate future may resemble its recent past.

The Democratic Party is now essentially a party of blacks and white liberals

Many government workers need raises

WASHINGTON — When Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., stalked Manhattan as an FBI agent in 1940, he earned enough to afford a spacious downtown apartment overlooking Washington Square.

Today, most FBI agents in New York City commute to work from the suburbs. They can't afford to live in or near New York. And their clerks make about enough to rent a sidewalk steam vent in Manhattan.

The old maxim that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer is at the heart of the fight over pay raises for Congress and top government department heads.

While Congress was trying to coast to a 50 percent pay hike last week, the government's invisible force of secretaries, attorneys, chemists, engineers and other worker bees had special reason to be outraged. They will get a measly four percent pay boost this year.

The myopic side-effect of this disparity is that the U.S. government is finishing dead last in the nation's labor auction. Federal salaries are too low to attract top talent.

Government workers earn an average of 26 percent less than they would if they quit and took a comparable job in the private sector, according to a recent survey by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

For example, why would anyone aspire to be an FBI agent in California? A survey of 89 police departments in that state revealed that 83 of them pay a higher starting salary than the FBI. Edwards, the former agent who voted last week against the 50 percent pay raise for Congress, told our associate Jim Lynch that the low pay for FBI agents forces them either to moonlight or get out of the bureau.

Edwards chairs a House subcommittee that oversees FBI activities. He and other members of Congress have backed legislation to raise FBI salaries, especially in New York.

Clerks in the New York office start at about $13,500 a year — lunch money in the Big Apple. A congressional staffer familiar with the problem, described how tough it is to find clerical help at that wage. "They go through 116 applicants to find one who can type, read and doesn't have a felony."

The pay gap between the public and private sectors continues to widen despite lip service from Congress, such as the Comparability Act of 1970 which mandated comparable salaries for government workers. For example:

• Starting attorney's working for Uncle Sam get $25,289 — 34 percent less than they would make in a private firm.

• A chemist starts at $15,737 for the government and more than $25,000 on the open market.

• The average Internal Revenue Service accountant makes 25 percent less than his or her private counterpart. Big Eight accounting firms only consider applicants who score in the top 14 percent of their class; the government settles for the top 46 percent. That means the person preparing a tax return is likely to be sharper than the person who checks to make sure that tax return is honest.

When Ronald Reagan took office in 1981, federal jobs paid about 13 percent less than their private equivalents. The gap doubled by the time Reagan left office. Instead of pay reform, the Reagan administration treated the problem with Band-aids. One patch-up measure is a special rate of pay when no one in their right mind would take the job at the regular pay scale.

Russ Davis, vice president of the union for Census Bureau employees in Washington, told us that about 25 percent of bureau employees come in at special pay rates.

The pay gap between the public and private sectors continues to widen

Stocks open higher

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened higher Tuesday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues as investors ignored a stronger-than-expected economic report and went on a buying spree in the wake of the market's recent weakness.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 3.57 Monday, was up 11.79 to 2284.29 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 628-211 among the 1,319 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Early turnover amounted to about 11,550,000 shares.

Before the market opened, the Commerce Department reported that retail sales rose a strong 0.6 percent in January, well above the 0.1 percent advance most economists had forecast. The 0.8 percent hike in January retail sales was the strongest since a 1.3 percent jump in November.

In the report, however, the government also revised retail sales for December to a decline of 0.1 percent, after originally reporting a 0.2 percent increase one month ago.

On Wall Street, two blue-chip issues were expected to attract considerable attention on the trading floor Tuesday — Union Carbide and General Motors.

Dollar lower on retail news

United Press International

The dollar moved lower against key foreign currencies in early trading in New York following the release of a key government report on the nation's economy.

The Commerce Department reported the nation's retail sales rose 0.6 percent in January from December's revised decrease of 0.1 percent.

Market expectations were for the retail sales to rise 0.1 percent in January and a sharp upward revision in the December sales picture.

Traders in New York said the dollar was also lower against major currencies, pressured by a rise of the yen on speculation Japan may raise its interest rates.

Talk that Japan and the West German Bundesbank might raise their interest rates dominated the market before the Commerce Department report was released.

Traders said currency players were divided over whether the U.S. Federal Reserve will raise its discount rate after banks last week raised the prime rate one-half percent to 11 percent.

But expectations of further tightening in U.S. monetary policy should keep the dollar underplanned, they added.

There are also expectations of an increase in West Germany's key domestic interest rates. The next Bundesbank council meeting is Thursday, but analysts said the central bank council is unlikely to act so quickly, although a rise in the discount and the Lombard rates looked inevitable.

In earlier trading in Tokyo, the dollar fell sharply against the Japanese yen closing at 127.20 yen, down 1.10 from 128.30 yen Monday.

until about 3:30 p.m. on Saturday.

PBA Attorney Tom Pillock represented Knight during the hearing. He told the panel that Knight had an "unblemished record." Knight has served on the Longwood Police Department since 1976 with a break in service during about nine months in 1981, according to Manning. After he came back, he was promoted to the rank of sergeant.

Ronald Eggerichs, 20, filed a complaint to Captain Terry Baker accusing Knight of pushing and shoving him on Nov. 13 at the scene of a minor traffic accident, which involved his friends, at Highway 17-92 and State Road 434.

On Dec. 6, Eggerichs testified under oath to Bisland who conducted an internal investigation. Bisland left the Longwood Police Department several weeks ago to join the Florida Department of Law Enforcement as a special agent. He represented the city during the grievance hearing on Saturday.

The hearing was Knight's first step in the appeal process, according to Bob Parmenter, president of the Central Florida Police Benevolent Association (PBA). Knight is a PBA member, although union representation for the police department lost by one vote last November. Knight said he voted in favor of unionization.

The next step for Knight will be to appeal his case to the city administrator, Parmenter said.

"If (Manning) is still inclined to uphold the discipline, then the next step is up to the grievance employee. If he still wishes to pursue it, we will pursue it as far as we can," Parmenter said.

Pillock said Monday afternoon he must see the decision before he can comment.

DEATHS

JERRY DEFREITAS

Jerry DeFreitas, 35, 116 Lamplighter Road, Altamonte Springs, died Saturday at his residence. Born Oct. 26, 1953 in Birmingham, Ala., he moved to Altamonte Springs from there in 1981. ## Roads a half-mile east of the I-4 interchange, continue north, following the eastern Oregon Avenue a short distance, then curving northeast to merge with SR 46 near Stanley Avenue.

County Engineer Jerry McCollum said the exact intersection at SR 46 may vary by 90 feet because one route may require purchasing Carl Lee's deer farm, but to change the alignment would require purchasing a home from a retired couple living there.

The Rinehart Road extension will also thread through property owned by Viola Kastner, Seminole County commissioner Jennifer Kelley's mother-in-law. Kelley obtained a memo from acting county attorney Bob McMillan last week stating she was not required to obtain from voting, even though her husband, Eoghan Kelley, might inherit the land.

Because Kelley and her husband were not financially dependent on Kastner who does not live with them, no conflict of interest existed, McMillan wrote in the Feb. 9 memo after conferring with state Ethics Commission attorneys.

McMillan wrote in the same memo that state laws also did not prevent her not voting, to avoid any appearance of conflicts. Kelley said Monday she intended to vote on issues about the road and any others regarding Kastner because McMillan had advised her no conflicts existed.

Seminole County commissioner Fred Streetman opposed Kelley's voting on issues involving Kastner, saying it might be legal, but it wasn't right. "It speaks to the letter of the law, not the spirit of the law," Streetman said.

On other road project approvals, engineer McCollum said traffic backs up on U.S. 17-92 from CR 427 north nearly to the entrance of Seminole Community College every workday morning at about 7:30. By adding another left turn lane from CR 427 to southbound U.S. 17-92, McCollum said, traffic driving south should flow smoother.

The $100,000 project should be complete next year, McCollum said.

To help commuters move a little faster on I-4 from Longwood and Altamonte Springs, commissioners gave their initial approval of a state computerized signal system.

Final approval is expected today.

The entire $178,400 cost of the system will be paid by the state, although the main computer will be housed at the county traffic engineering department, said Public Works director Larry Sellers. The state will also pay most of the traffic study costs using University of Florida engineering students, although the county might pay $4,000 to $5,000 to assist in the studies, Sellers said.

The system will continuously monitor traffic build-up on the roads and make adjustments in the length of signal times to allow traffic to flow quicker, Sellers said. A similar system is currently used in Orlando, he said.

The system will adjust signals between Sanlando west of I-4 and Raymond Avenue east of the intersection of SR 434. Traffic lights between Weathersfield Avenue and County Road 427 on State Road 436 will also be adjusted by the system.

Sellers said drivers will see the greatest improvement from the system during the times between rush hours, although commuters will see some benefits.

When asked for assurance by commissioners the system will speed clogged traffic, Sellers commented "It will be much better, I promise."

Because state road spending is limited, the time for installation of the system is uncertain, Sellers said.

Counsel

summer when, on June 23, code board members voted to prevent further inspections of Fern Park lawyer John Baldwin's offices where several fire code violations had been found on previous inspections. Assistant county attorney Lonnie Groot argued another inspection should be allowed to assure the violations had been corrected.

But code board members, some saying they had been subjected to similar fire inspections and re-inspections, felt the county's actions against Baldwin bordered on harassment and voted to allow Baldwin to deny subsequent inspections. County officials unofficially considered suing the code board, but instead obtained an opinion from the State Fire Marshall's Office, saying they had the right to re-inspect businesses where violations might go uncorrected. Code board members did not change their minds although the issue reinforced the separation between the county attorneys and the board.

Code board member Hugh Harling told commissioners the board needed an "unbiased" legal opinion on few cases and might need the attorney on a quarterly basis for complicated issues. He sought $10,000 in funding for the services, but commissioner Robert Sturm recommended $5,000.

"Any amount just as long as you do it," Harling commented.

Autopsy: Woman suffered severe beating

PLYMOUTH, Mich. — An autopsy report released Monday shows that a Canton Township woman, whose body was in a freezer for 39 months before it was discovered, suffered a far more severe beating than described by her husband in his confession.

Leonard Tyburaki, 45, told police he beat his wife's head on an upright metal beam in their basement on Sept. 28, 1985 after she taunted him, saying she was having an affair with the boyfriend of her then 17-year-old daughter.

Tyburaki told police that after he rammed her head, he pushed her — still alive and cursing — and she fell into the chest-style freezer. When she failed to respond later, he said, he was scared and locked the freezer.

The woman's body was found Jan. 2 when one of her daughter's friends opened the freezer.

Dorothy Tyburaki suffered at least 11 blunt force injuries to her head, according to the autopsy report by the Wayne County Medical Examiner's office. In addition, she also suffered a broken left index finger, and multiple bruises to her face, right upper chest and shoulder, and both forearms.

In his confession, Tyburaki mentioned causing injuries only to his wife's head. He said his wife threw a steak knife at him and then attacked him with it.

Canton Township police arrested Tyburaki the same day the body was found on an open charge of murder.

Plymouth District Judge James Garber, after a hearing Thursday, will decide whether Tyburaki is competent to stand trial.

Stockbroker allegedly runs with millions

BOSTON — A stockbroker who reportedly convinced clients to invest money directly with him rather than with his firm has failed to return from a golfing trip — and as much as $8 million of his clients' money is missing, officials said.

The Boston office of the firm Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. Monday informed the state Securities Division that employee Walter F. Curran disappeared more than a week ago with between $1 million and $8 million from client accounts, said Marty Meehan of the Securities Division.

Curran had allegedly induced his clients to invest as much as $10 million with him directly instead of with the firm, promising bigger profits. The Wellesley Hills resident reportedly told his colleagues he would be out of town golfing, but never returned.

His wife, Jean, told the FBI she had no idea what had become of her husband, officials said.

Jack Cloherty, a spokesman for the FBI's Boston office, confirmed the agency was investigating Curran's disappearance. "We have initiated an investigation to determine whether there has been any violation of a federal law," Cloherty said.

Palestinian youth killed in blast

JERUSALEM — The military is trying to determine the origin of explosive devices that killed a 16-year-old Palestinian youth and wounded at least five others, including a 10-year-old boy and his 4-year-old sister.

The explosions Monday were the latest in a series in the northern West Bank in which children and teenagers were wounded by flammable and explosive devices. In at least two cases, including one in which an 8-year-old boy later died of his wounds, children said objects were thrown at them by soldiers.

The military says the incidents occurred when the children were playing with abandoned explosives in military training areas.

The Jerusalem Post said the Israeli air force was investigating the incidents after officials found some of the objects were flares used to deflect heat-seeking missiles. It said the flares had been dropped from planes.

Three other Palestinians were wounded by army gunfire Monday in the occupied territories during stone-throwing incidents and clashes, Palestinian sources said. Another Palestinian was shot and wounded in the West Bank but the circumstances of that incident were unclear.

Missing Belgian leader returns

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Former Prime Minister Paul Vanden Boeynants, who had been missing for a month after reportedly being kidnapped, returned home in a taxi overnight, a spokesman for the public prosecutor's office said Tuesday.

Vanden Boeynants, 69, was released about 10:25 p.m. Monday near the railway station in Tournai, 46 miles southwest of Brussels near the French border, the spokesman said.

He said Vanden Boeynants then took a taxi home, arriving around midnight.

The former prime minister informed police about his return and had already had a long talk with investigators at his home, the spokesman said.

He said Vanden Boeynants was "in good health." Vanden Boeynants disappeared Jan. 14 and a previously unknown group, the Socialist Revolutionary Brigade, said in telephone calls to Belgian media that it had abducted the former prime minister.

Police searching the garage of his suburban apartment at the time found his car, a shoe, his pipe and a hearing aid. The Socialist Revolutionary Brigade later sent letters to two Belgian newspapers demanding 30 million francs ($770,000) for his release. It said two-thirds of the ransom should be distributed to the poor.

Two dozen Soviet troops still in Kabul

KABUL, Afghanistan — Fifteen Soviet paratroopers flew out of the capital Monday, leaving a token force of at least two dozen Soviet troops at the airport two days before all of Moscow's forces must be out of Afghanistan.

In other developments, Afghan rebel groups remained divided in their efforts to form a government to replace the Soviet-backed administration of President Najibullah, and a Swedish airline agreed to fly crucial U.N. medical and food supplies into the Kabul.

The Soviet Communist Party newspaper Pravda said Afghan rebels shot down two Soviet helicopters flying out of Afghanistan last Thursday, killing three Soviet officers and wounding at least seven, the number of soldiers killed since the Soviet withdrawal began in May. Pravda said one of the helicopters were flying a Soviet officer out of the country for an appendectomy.

The Soviet withdrawal, after a grueling nine-year war, must be completed by Wednesday under the U.N.-mediated Geneva accords signed last April by Pakistan and Afghanistan.

Soviet officials said about 450 soldiers stationed at the military wing of Kabul's airport flew out Sunday, leaving a small force of troops.

Settlement reached in Bhopal disaster

United Press International

NEW DELHI, India — Union Carbide Corp. will pay $470 million in compensation for victims of the December 1984 Bhopal gas leak disaster under a settlement with the government approved Tuesday by the Indian Supreme Court.

In an unexpected move, the "full and final" accord was presented by attorneys for the U.S.-based multinational and the government of Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi to a five-justice Supreme Court panel as arguments were about to resume on pre-trial disputes in the case.

The jurists approved the settlement, under which Union Carbide will pay $470 million in damages for some 500,000 people whose lives the government claims were irreversibly affected by history's worst industrial disaster.

The amount is substantially lower than the $3 billion sought by the government in compensation for damages arising from the Dec. 3, 1984, leak of poisonous gas from the now-defunct Union Carbide pesticide plant in Bhopal, the capital of Madhya Pradesh state, 375 miles south of New Delhi.

More than 3,000 people have died from the effects of the gas and more than 200,000 others continue to suffer from a range of debilitating health problems, according to the government.

The government filed suit charging the Danbury, Conn., chemical company's negligence led to the disaster.

In a countersuit, Union Carbide alleged that sabotage by a disgruntled employee caused the gas leak and claimed that the central and state governments shared some blame for the large numbers of casualties.

Dinkins announces New York mayoral bid

United Press International

NEW YORK — Manhattan Borough President David Dinkins prepared to announce whether he will challenge Mayor Edward Koch's almost certain bid for re-election in a race that could make him the city's first black mayor.

Dinkins, who polls show as having a strong chance of defeating the three-term incumbent Koch, has scheduled a Tuesday press conference to discuss his political intentions.

His expected candidacy has already convinced at least three potential candidates to shy away from the race for fear too many entrants will split an organized opposition to the politically embattled mayor.

The normally cautious Dinkins sounded very much the candidate at a conference of black ministers in Harlem Monday.

"I believe I have the ability to win and therefore an obligation to serve," the borough president said. "We can succeed if we build a coalition for justice."

A Daily News poll taken in January showed Dinkins would capture 51 percent of the vote against Koch's 37 percent if the two were the only candidates.

If he does run and win, the former Democratic assemblyman and president of the Board of Elections would become the city's first black mayor.

Koch, who has not formally announced his candidacy, has indicated he will seek re-election to an unprecedented fourth term while conceding the bid will be his toughest fight yet.

Koch's combative style appears to have soured on many voters. The candidate who once said, "I'll get a better job, but you won't get a better mayor," found himself stumbling in his relations with many important voting blocks.

Koch angered many black leaders by attacking the Rev. Jesse Jackson during the Chicago clergyman's bid for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, some of the city's top politicians say they would stymie their own ambitions to support Dinkins in a bid for mayor. Former Rep. Shirley Chisholm, state Special Prosecutor Charles Hynes and City Councilwoman Ruth Messinger have all said they will not run if Dinkins enters the race.

Dinkins displayed his political prowess at a fundraiser earlier this month which generated $400,000 and drew such notables as labor leader Barry Feinstein, entertainer Harry Belafonte and businessman Arthur Levitt of the American Stock Exchange.

Bhutto says violence may be aimed at her government

United Press International

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan — Prime Minister Benazir Bhutto says political opponents trying to destabilize her new government may be orchestrating violent protests over the publication abroad of a book Muslims say is blasphemous.

The protests spread Monday to a second Pakistani city and into India, where one protester was killed and 120 others wounded.

The violence in India brought the two-day casualty toll to six dead and 180 people wounded in demonstrations over U.S. publication by Viking Books of "The Satanic Verses," a novel by Indian-born author Salman Rushdie.

Bhutto, who returned Monday night from a visit to China, said the protests may have been planned to destabilize her government. Opposition leaders have said police mishandled the initial protest Sunday by about 10,000 people, sparking the violence.

Bhutto, who became prime minister in November after the country's first free elections in 11 years, asked why the protests were breaking out even though the book has not been published in Pakistan's official language, Urdu.

"The question is whether these agitations were really against the book ... or was the book a pretext by those who lost the election to try and destabilize the process of democracy?" she said. "The dying order always likes to give a few kicks before it goes down."

The novel, a contender for Britain's highest literary award, the Booker Prize, portrays the founder of a fictional religion that many Muslims consider a parody.

North lawyers argue for secret papers

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The judge in the Iran-Contra case summoned government and defense lawyers to a Tuesday hearing to discuss an administration plan for handling state secrets at the trial of Oliver North even as the defense tried to show former President Ronald Reagan's role in the matter.

North's lawyers filed papers Monday accusing Reagan and at least five other top officials in his administration of offering unspecified favors to countries in exchange for financial aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Attorneys for the ex-White House aide alleged the Reagan administration kept the activities secret.

The lawyers said if the judge presiding over North's trial refuses them the right to introduce classified information, he should stipulate that Reagan and the others were deeply involved in the Iran-Contra affair.

Besides Reagan, others named in the defense documents were: Robert McFarlane, former national security adviser; George Shultz, former secretary of state; Caspar Weinberger, former defense secretary; retired Army Gen. John Vesey, former chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff; and William Casey, the CIA director who died May 6, 1987.

The defense papers were filed in response to a government plan for handling state secrets at North's trial. The judge sent jurors home Monday while he weighed whether the plan by independent prosecutor Lawrence Walsh and Attorney General Dick Thornburgh would prevent a fair trial.

IN BRIEF

HOCKEY

Lowly Quebec knocks off Habs

One is in first place by 25 points, the other in last clamoring for a playoff spot but the rivalry does more than endure. Even such disparity can't make the fabled Montreal-Quebec battle reduce to a simmer.

The Canadiens, who lead the Adams Division by 25 points, all season have lost but 15 games — of which more than one quarter have been to the Nordiques. Quebec Monday night won for the second time this season at the Montreal Forum, where Montreal has lost only five times.

Obviously Quebec, 21-32-6 and two points behind Hartford for the final playoff spot, can't head off Montreal, 38-15-6. A head game is another story, however.

After the 3-2 triumph, the Nordiques lead the season series against their arch-rivals 4-2 and tried to play up the dominance as a factor in the event Quebec overtakes Hartford and as the division's No. 4 team, plays certain champion Montreal.

In other games, New Jersey trounced Toronto 8-1 and Detroit and Winnipeg tied 2-2.

PREP TENNIS

Lyman netters open with a win

Lyman High School's girls tennis team opened its 1989 campaign in fine fashion when it whipped Evans, 8-0, in its first match of the season at Lyman High School.

Tracy Sher led the way as she won the number one singles match, 9-7, over Sharon Hinds. Valerie Black gave the 'Hounds an wider edge as she ripped Janet Kosar, 8-1, in the second singles match.

Stacy Oslen then nipped Monica Scott 8-6. Amy Smith downed Karen Napier 8-1 and Heather Huddleston took apart Jenny Gillespie 8-4.

Scandals surrounds Sooners

NORMAN, Okla. — The arrest of Oklahoma quarterback Charles Thompson on charges of selling 17 grams of cocaine to an undercover FBI agent is only the latest in a month-long series of scandals to rock one of the nation's top football programs.

FBI spokesman Dan Vogel said Thompson, 21, was accused in a federal complaint of selling 17 grams of cocaine to an undercover FBI agent for $1,400 on Jan. 26, 1989.

Last week, tackle Nigel Clay, 20, of Fontana, Calif., tight end Bernard Hall, 22, of Detroit, and running back Glen Bell, 20, of Muskogee were charged with gang-raping a 20-year-old woman at the athletic dorm.

Switzer, however, said last month that it was "totally ridiculous" to criticize the Oklahoma athletic program for the misdeeds of a few.

"You can't speak in general terms and say these players are out of control," he said.

BASKETBALL

Vandeweghe to Broadway?

PORTLAND, Ore. — Portland Trail Blazers forward Kiki Vandeweghe will undergo a physical examination by the New York Knicks as part of trade discussions, the Trail Blazers announced Monday.

Trail Blazers spokesman John Lashway said Vandeweghe was in Los Angeles to discuss his sore back with his personal physician, but would fly Tuesday to New York.

Trade rumors involving Vandeweghe and the Knicks have been swirling for months, although team officials said a deal will not be automatic if the forward passes the physical.

Vandeweghe, a nine-year NBA veteran, returned to action last month after missing the early part of the season with back problems. He is averaging 14.6 points per game in 17 contests.

Do it, Dan: Tars knock off Tampa

BY JIM RICKENBACHER
 Herald Correspondent

WINTER PARK. Play it again Dan. Senior forward Dan Wolf, fresh from a fantastic three-point play that propelled Rollins past Eckerd Saturday, sunk a three-point shot three seconds before the buzzer, rallying the Tars to a 74-73 victory over eighth-ranked Tampa Monday night.

The win, witnessed by 819 vociferous fans at Enyart-Alumni Fieldhouse, was only Rollins' fourth in 13 tries since the Spartans reinstated basketball in 1983. More importantly, it maintained the Tars' hopes of attaining a berth in the four-team Sunshine State Conference Tournament. "The Eckerd game gave me a little more confidence, and our guys were looking for me tonight," said Wolf, savoring the Tars' first victory against Tampa since the Tars knocked off the Spartans two years ago when they came here ranked No. 1 in Division II.

"Scotty (Martin) got hot in the middle of the second half so they clamped down on him. That left me open."

Wolf was mobbed near midcourt after the play, but the curtain had yet fallen.

The officials ruled there were three seconds remaining, though Martin said he saw Drexal Deveaux (game-high 24 points) signal for a time out with one second showing.

Rollins (12-11, 4-5) gave Tampa (19-4, 6-2) trouble on the inbound pass. Still Kevin Starnes' shot traveled three-quarters the length of the court, hitting the glass and bouncing off the front of the rim.

"All the time I was celebrating, I had the feeling the officials were going to put time back on the clock," said Martin, who combined with Wolf and Cameron Forbes for 55 points.

Said Rollins Coach Tom Klusman: "I saw there were six seconds and said to myself, 'Danny, you need to shoot the ball pretty quick.' Danny took over down the stretch just like he did Saturday, but I thought our aggressiveness and the way the kids got after it were also keys."

So close! No. 3 Mainland survives Lake Mary upset attempt

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

LAKE MARY — Teri Tetzlaff sank a three point field goal with 17 seconds to play to lift Mainland's Lady Bucaners to a narrow 51-50 victory over Lake Mary Monday night before 251 vocal fans at Lake Mary High School.

Mainland improved to 24-0 and remained as the state's third-ranked team in Class 4A. The Lady Rams dropped to 16-10 for the season.

"We played a little tight tonight and didn't really come prepared to play," Mainland coach Brian Zinck said. "We played more to lose the game instead of going out and winning it. Lake Mary played real well, I'm just glad we could come through."

Lake Mary was its own worse enemy in the final quarter as it missed 12 free throws, finishing the night 13-30 from the line (43 percent). The Lady Rams also shot poorly from the field in the second half and could not put the game out of reach when they had the opportunity.

Both teams opened the game in a full court pressure defensive set and the play was up and down with neither team taking control. Lake Mary made six of eight free throws in the frame to enable it to take a 12-9 lead at the end of the first eight minutes.

Segena Mackeroy managed to kick Mainland in gear in the second quarter when she sank a jumper from the free throw line. Lake Mary's Lisa Johnson followed with a long jumper before the Lady Bucaners went on a eight point run.

Tetzlaff opened the rally with a three pointer from the wing followed by a three point play by Kristy Austell. Austell then came up with a field goal and gave Mainland a 19-14 lead.

Austell led the Lady Bucaners with a game-high 23 points with Mackeroy adding 11 and Tetzlaff nine. Amy Kuvach led Lake Mary with 14 points, nine rebounds and five assists with Anita Mitchell adding 11 points. Lori Winnall and Wiletha Hartsfield both chipping in seven.

Lake Mary slowly worked itself back in the game behind the play of Kuvach who drilled a three point field goal and came up with a steal and a bucket to put her team up 25-22 lead with 1:31 remaining in the half.

The teams then traded free throws with Mainland connecting on both of its opportunities to even the score at 26 apiece at the intermission.

The Lady Bucaners opened the second half with an eight point run with Austell contributing six points, with two acrobatic layups and a pair of free throws. Tetzlaff added a field goal from the base line and upped the lead to 34-26 with 6:03 left in the period. Lake Mary then called timeout and turned things around in the late half of the period.

After dropping behind, 38-28, with 2:18 left in the quarter the Lady Rams scored the next nine points of the period to pull themselves to within a point, 38-37, heading into the final eight minutes.

Kuvach opened the run with a jumper from three point range followed by a layup by Hartsfield. Kuvach then connected on a field goal from the corner before Heather Gleason capped the run off with a shot at the buzzer.

Lake Mary kept rolling in the final quarter as it scored the first six points to retake the lead. Hartsfield opened with a layup followed by a Winnall hoop as Kuvach added a bank shot from the wing to give the Lady Rams a 43-38 lead with 5:34 to play and forcing Mainland to call timeout.

Mackeroy then connected on a turn around jumper in the paint to trim the lead to 43-40 before Lake Mary hit three free throws on six attempts to take a 46-40 lead with 3:47 remaining.

Austell then sank a layup before Mitchell hit two free throws to up the lead to 48-42 with 2:51 to play. Lake Mary then went into a stall offense and worked the ball to the low post where Hartsfield was fouled. Hartsfield, though, could not hit on either shot and the Lady Bucaners scored the next four points, all by Mackeroy, to pull within 48-46 with 2:13 to play.

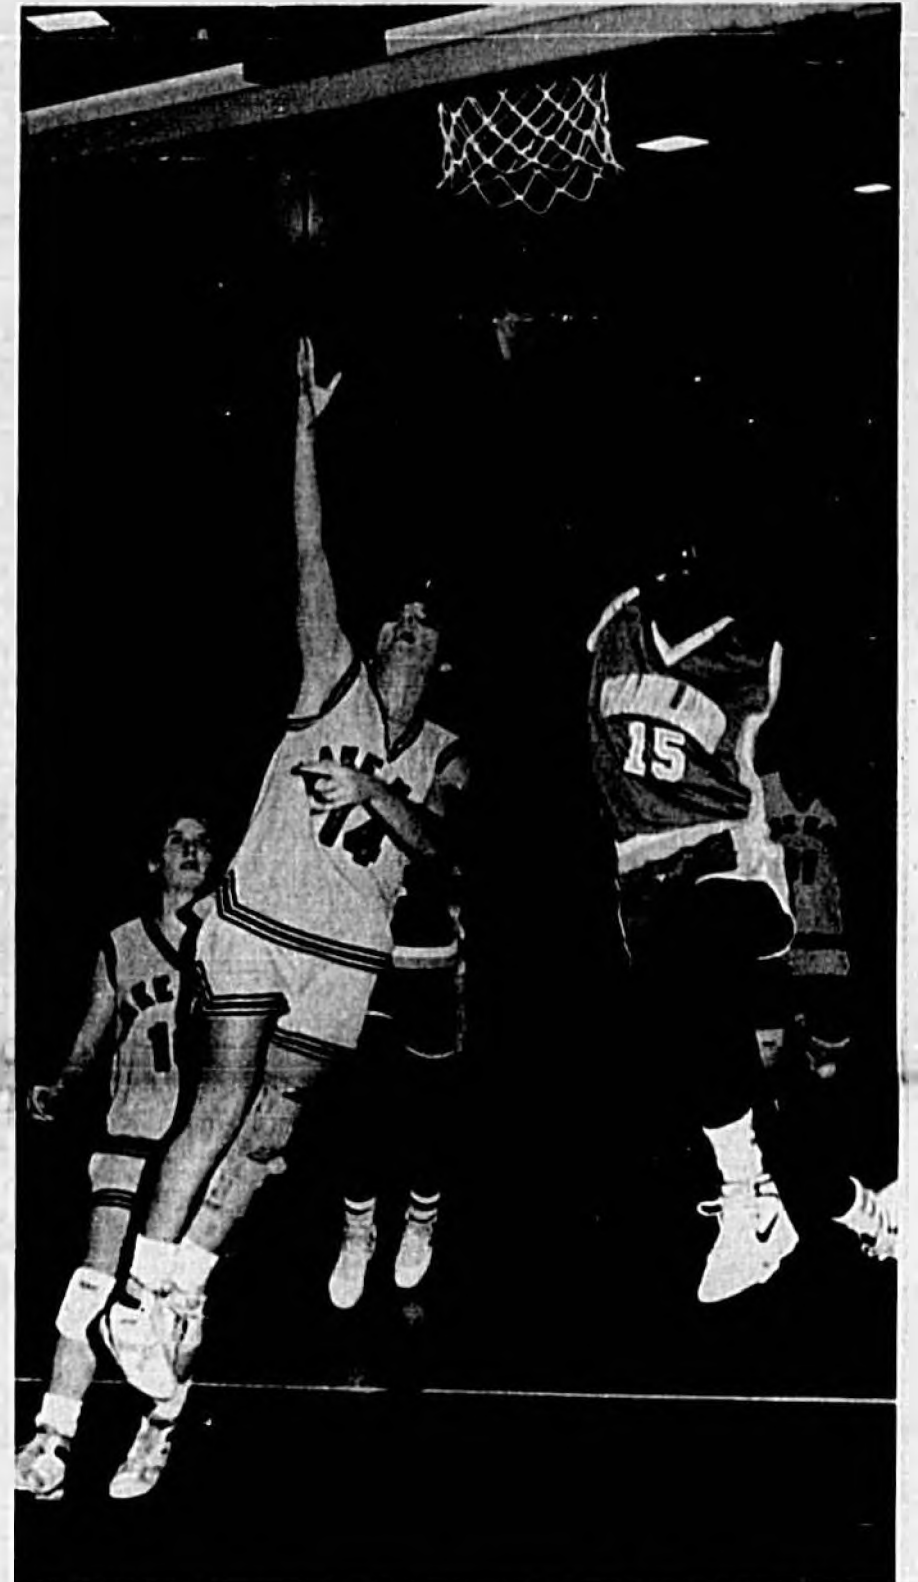

Lake Mary's woes at the line continued and Austell tied the score on a driving layup with 1:03 remaining. Gleason then gave Lake Mary the lead when she stepped to the line and sank a pair of free throws with 32 seconds to play.

Mainland then came down the floor and hit Tetzlaff on the wing and she hit the game winner on a shot that hit nothing but net. Lake Mary was then fouled and again could not hit its free throws.

The Lady Rams managed to get the ball, though, and worked the clock down to the four second mark where Mitchell got off a shot that was off the mark.

"We showed the mark of a championship team tonight," Zinck said. "We had pressure put on us and we stood up to it."

Mainland's Kristy Austell (No. 15) made her presence felt at both ends of the floor against Lake Mary Monday night, helping out on defense against the Lady Rams' Heather Gleason (No. 14) and scoring a game-high 23 points. The Lady Bucaners needed every one to hold off Lake Mary 51-50.

Lady Patriots keep shooting to wins

By CHUCK BURGESS
 Herald correspondent

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Lake Brantley's Tracy Brandenburg kept her hot shooting hand smoking and Lori Bunce got heated up as well to lead the Lady Pats to a 61-34 Seminole Athletic Conference victory in girls basketball at Lake Brantley High Monday night.

The victory improved the Lady

Pats record to 16-7 with their next action taking place in the Class 4A District 9 championships at Lake Brantley Wednesday. The Lady Greyhounds dropped to 3-17 on the season and will also compete at Lake Brantley High on Wednesday.

Brandenburg and Bunce both poured in a game high 16 points with Bunce adding 11 rebounds to her stats and Brandenburg coming

Ram, Lion booters in regional action

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

Lake Mary and Oviedo High School both will look to advance tonight in their respective divisions when they take the field in regional soccer action with each team playing on its home turf.

Both teams played well their district tournaments last week and will hope to keep getting the bounces as they venture to stay alive in hopes of a berth to the state tournament.

For Lake Mary, the state's top ranked team in class 4A, this is familiar ground and it has proven it can rise to play its best soccer when it needs to. Lake Mary will host Winter Park, ranked sixth in class 4A, and will find that the Wildcats are a tough team.

"We have to try and contain John Duguid," Lake Mary coach Larry McCorkle said. "He and Mike McAvoy, who is another tough forward, play well together and they should give us quite a bit of trouble. We need to score early and then get back and play defense."

The Rams have a top scoring threat in John Mora who has over 30 goals this season. Lake Mary will look for its defensive unit of James Noble, Travis Betsinger and Eric Ravndal to play tough and keep the Wildcats from getting very many chances at the Lake Mary net.

"Our defenders are all kind of injured right now," McCorkle said. "I wish I could wave a wand and everyone would be healthy. They all had trouble striking the ball today in practice because it would hurt their ankles. I'm hoping the adrenaline of the game will make them forget about the pain tomorrow night."

Noble, who has been hampered as of late with a dislocated elbow, put on an awesome performance in the Pizza Hut Invitational earlier this season and has continued to play well ever since.

"I'm sure James (Noble) will see some of (John) Duguid," McCorkle said. "Hopefully we can shut him out and force him to give up the ball, but with (Mike) McAvoy on the field also we can't afford to overplay him."

Oviedo will be in the schools second consecutive regional matchup when they host New Port Richie-Gulf for the region 3A-4 title. Oviedo traveled to Land O' Lakes last season and dropped a 1-0 decision in a game in which it dominated the play.

The Lions, who defeated Bishop Moore 3-2 in sudden death of the district finals, will look to improve on their game against Gulf and hopefully advance another round into the state's

SSAA member show to be an honor

SANFORD — Marie Richter, three-time president of the Sanford-Seminole Art Association (1970, 1975, and 1980), will be honored at the annual Members' Show on Sunday, Feb. 19, at the Sanford Civic Center.

The public is invited to view the art from noon to 5 p.m. and enjoy free refreshments. Many of the works of art, including several of Richter's watercolors, will be available for purchase.

Richter is now living with her daughter, Lorna Boone, and grandchildren, Tim and Christopher, in Todd, N.C. Her Chinaberry Tree Antiques on First Street in Sanford was one of the city's landmarks.

She and her later husband, Arthur, moved to Sanford in the late 1960s from Maitland and moved her antique shop from Winter Park.

She studied art in Philadelphia and New York and had a love of nature that she expressed in her paintings. Her pet quail, flowers and butterflies were the subjects in many of her watercolors.

Richter's love of young people and their need to create inspired the art association to present a yearly scholarship to students accumulating the most credits in art.

Youth a wise sage

DEAR ABBY: You frequently print poems you think are worth sharing with your readers, so I am sending you one written by my grandson, Jason Lehman. He is 14 years old and lives in New Haven, Conn. I hope you think it's worth printing.
IRENE LEHMAN, POMPANO BEACH

DEAR MRS. LEHMAN: I do. But I must confess I had difficulty believing that a 14-year-old could view life from such a mature and philosophical perspective, so (with your permission) I telephoned Jason and told him I thought his poem was extraordinary. I also said I planned to publish it, so if he didn't compose it, to please fuss up or the repercussions could be very embarrassing. Jason assured me that he was, indeed, the author, so here's the poem from a talented young poet who I think is wise beyond his years.

ADVICE

PRESENT TENSE

It was spring.
But it was summer I wanted.
The warm days,
And the great outdoors.

It was summer,
But it was fall I wanted,
The colorful leaves,
And the cool, dry air.

It was fall,
But it was winter I wanted.
The beautiful snow,
And the joy of the holiday season.

It was winter,
But it was spring I wanted.
The warmth,
And the blossoming of nature.

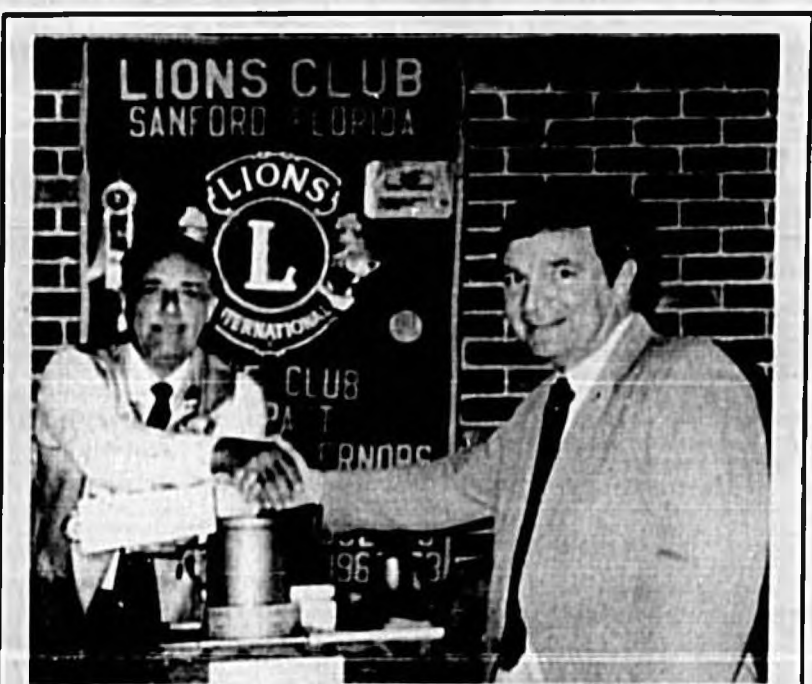

I was a child,
But it was adulthood I wanted.
The freedom,
And the respect.

I was 20,
But it was 30 I wanted.
To be mature,
And sophisticated.

I was middle-aged,
But it was 20 I wanted.
The youth,
And the free spirit.

I was retired,
But it was middle age I wanted.
The presence of mind,
Without limitations.

My life was over,
But I never got what I wanted.
JASON LEHMAN

Home remedies won't help treat psoriasis

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a victim of psoriasis. Would fish oil help?

DEAR READER: Many home remedies have been touted to cure psoriasis, a common skin disorder marked by well-circumscribed, scaling silver patches. Such remedies include cod-liver oil or vitamin E gel applied to the skin. As far as I know, none of these methods works.

Psoriasis is ordinarily treated more successfully with cortisone cream, various coal-tar shampoos and drugs, such as Methotrexate, some of which are toxic to the body and can cause liver damage.

In the past few years, psoralens and ultraviolet light A, or PUVA, therapy has achieved a sound reputation for success. The patient is given psoralen pills, followed by exposure to measured amounts of UV light. The doses of both the medicine and the light must be carefully individualized to each patient. A major drawback is that skin cancers may appear in susceptible individuals after repeated exposure. Therefore, PUVA therapy should be administered only by a specialist who is familiar with the technique.

For more information I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Eczema and Psoriasis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please tell me about basal cell carcinoma.

DEAR READER: This is a type of skin cancer that appears as a small, shiny patch and progresses to a larger lesion with crusting, scabbing and bleeding. Basal cell carcinomas rarely metastasize (spread to distant parts of the body) but they can cause trouble by burrowing and invading underlying tissue. They are malignant but not highly so.

Effective treatment always involves surgical excision, with or without X-ray therapy. Anti-cancer creams, such as topical fluorouracil, should never be used in treating basal cell carcinomas because the malignant cells can spread extensively within the skin

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

If declarer South had known his Greek poetry, he might have made his game contract. He would of course have recognized that the defender's unnecessary play of a club was like the Greeks' gift of a wooden horse to Troy and should therefore be looked upon with suspicion.

Against four spades, West led the diamond queen. Declarer quickly took the A-K, shedding a heart, and then tried the heart finesse. West won the king and continued diamonds. Declarer ruffed and played the king of spades. East won the ace and led a low club. South said happily: "Thanks for that. I didn't know how I was going to get to dummy to take this club finesse." So he put in the queen. West won the king, and ultimately declarer had to lose another club trick for down one.

And what would have happened if East had left declarer to his own devices without giving him the opportunity to take the club finesse? South would have had no choice but to play the ace of clubs and a small one, hoping for the good fortune to have the king drop doubleton.

The play of the club from East was a Greek gift, just like the great wooden horse which was filled with Greek soldiers and which the Trojans dragged within their walls, leading to their ultimate downfall. So declarer South brought on his own defeat when he failed to recognize that there was no way East would be leading a club if he held the king.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
February 15, 1989

An important career opportunity could develop for you in the year ahead, but it will only be a door opener. In order to enjoy its real advantages, you'll have to expand upon it yourself.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
 In order to be successful and effective today, you must have a predetermined course of action. Don't make the mistake of trying to take off without your propeller. Aquarius, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
 You have a very generous and compassionate nature of which a manipulator is well aware. This person has used you previously, but don't let it happen again today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
 Be extra cautious today in any arrangements you make with friends where money or something of material value is at stake. There's a chance it may misfire.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
 Be mindful of your behavior today so that your reputation is protected against all contingencies. Strive to be idealistic rather than self-serving or expeditious.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
 Some strong views you hold could be offensive to your listeners today. If your observations show that what you say antagonizes others, back off and change the subject.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 Your markers may be called in today regarding obligations you owe to two different individuals. Make an effort to treat them as kindly as they treated you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
 Don't let others pressure you into making commitments today that oppose your better judgment. A firm "No" is far better than a weak "Yes."

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
 Operational changes could turn out to be the long way around where your work is concerned today. If your routines are presently running smoothly, don't rock the boat.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
 Your luck has its limitations today, especially in arrangements where you are forced to depend more upon others than yourself. Unfortunately, these individuals might not have what it takes.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
 Trying to wrap up an important deal in a hurry today could cause you to trip over your own feet. However, if you are patient and deliberate, time will be your ally.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
 In your conversations with friends today don't try to monopolize the discussion with subjects that interest you alone. You could learn something constructive by being a listener.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
 To waste not is to want not, so don't try to impress others with lavish gestures today that you could later regret when your impulsiveness cools down.
