

Soviets Seek Western Help

Radiation Sickness Strikes Students

By Gerald Nadler
United Press International
The Soviet Union today asked for more Western help to control what U.S. officials have described as a raging nuclear fire and said the nuclear accident at its reactor near Kiev left 18 people hospitalized in serious condition.

More than 100 Western students evacuated from two cities near the crippled nuclear power plant in the Ukraine were taken to a Moscow hospital today and found to be suffering from low levels of radiation contamination, a Soviet hospital official said.

The Soviet Council of Ministers, in a statement carried by the official news agency Tass, acknowledged today medical assistance was being administered to those affected of whom 18 people are in a serious condition. The government said no Westerners were among the seriously injured.

The statement came a day after the government admitted that 197 people were injured in the nuclear disaster and two days after it acknowledged there were two deaths.

Diplomats from Britain, Finland, the Netherlands, France and Austria were summoned to the Soviet Foreign Ministry today for a briefing on the accident, which one West German expert said was belching radiation 1,000 times more intense than the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

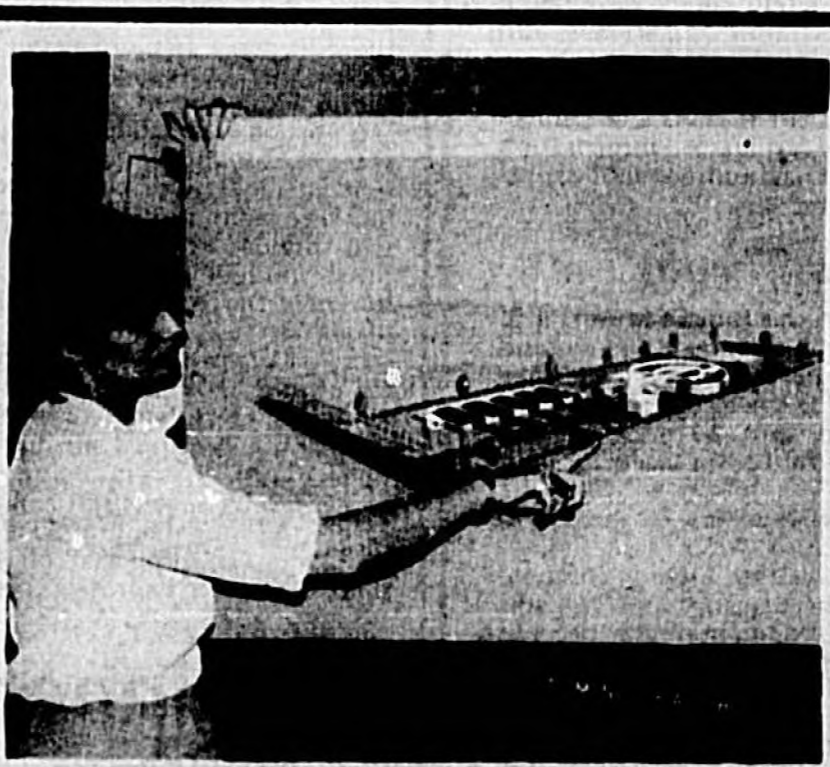

The Soviet Union tried to portray the situation at its Chernobyl reactor 80 miles north of Kiev as under control today and returning to normal but reports from U.S. officials and Western experts said the plant still appeared to be burning out of control.

Longwood Residents Hope To Delay Plant

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer
About 40 residents from Skylark and Columbus Harbour subdivisions, upset over plans to double their sewer rates, told Longwood commissioners in a work session Wednesday to make sure all options were explored before building a new sewage treatment plant that might be only another "Band-aid" on the problem.

A public hearing and final action by the commission on the proposed increase are scheduled at Monday night's 7:30 p.m. meeting at city hall. City officials say that passing the ordinance is essential to obtaining $2.5 million in financing for building a 600,000 gallons per day capacity sewage treatment plant.

Ukrainian-Americans Wait For Word

From Staff and Wire Reports
Thousands of Ukrainian-Americans crowded into their churches across the United States and in Florida to pray and kept international telephone circuits jammed today trying to get word of their families in the nuclear disaster area around Kiev.

Ukrainians in central Florida had received no news as of today from relatives in the disaster area.

"It's very hard to get communication to the Soviet Union," said Rosale Kowalchuk Hand of Apopka.

"Not too many people have telephones over there and the mail is censored. We don't know how serious it is," she said. Ma. Hand, cultural coordinator for the Ukrainian organization in Apopka, said the Ukrainian Easter is Sunday and their priest at the Ukrainian Center in Apopka may say some special words for the victims.

She said she has been in contact with the 40 or so Ukrainians who have been identified as victims of the disaster.

Ruling On Juries Hailed As End To Bias

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Supreme Court ruling prohibiting prosecutors from removing potential jurors just because they are black was hailed as bringing an end to racial discrimination in jury selection.

lawyer Steven Shapiro called the decision "extremely important" and "a long overdue correction of one of the lingering inequalities in the criminal justice system."

"The court struck down the last vestiges of discrimination in jury selection," she said. "Racial discrimination in jury selection, as the court agreed, harms prospective jurors and undermines public confidence in the system of justice."

Wednesday that the Constitution bars attorneys from discriminating during the jury selection process.

NATION IN BRIEF

Glenn Releases Secret Report On Nuclear Plant Safety Woes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John Glenn has released a secret U.S. report saying the number of safety problems at nuclear plants around the world is increasing and predicting the situation could become much worse.

Glenn, D-Ohio, said Wednesday he decided to make public most of the General Accounting Office report — called "International Response to Nuclear Power Reactor Safety Concerns" — because of its relevance to the accident at a Soviet nuclear reactor near Kiev.

The GAO, the investigative arm of Congress, completed the report last September, but did not release it because it contained "foreign proprietary information" — that is, business secrets. Some parts of the report remain classified, but Glenn said the version he released includes all of the major findings.

The problem of nuclear safety in other nations is becoming more serious, the report said, noting that there were 151 "significant nuclear safety incidents" in 14 different countries between 1971 and 1984.

The report predicted the problem will worsen because more than half the countries with nuclear power reactors at the turn of the century are likely to be developing countries "with little nuclear operating experience and limited resources."

Citing the Soviet accident, Glenn said, "I believe it is absolutely imperative that all nuclear nations ... establish systems of reporting, safety standards, information exchange, cooperative research, training and expert assistance to improve nuclear safety."

U.S. Libyan Students 'Threat'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most of the Libyan students in the United States are financed by Moammar Khadafy, and could carry out attacks against Americans their leader has vowed to carry out, FBI Director William Webster says.

"They might be incorporated into terrorist plans," Webster told a Senate subcommittee on security and terrorism Wednesday.

He said Khadafy finances three-quarters of the 2,000 Libyan students in this country.

The question of the danger posed by Libyan students was raised only briefly during the hearing, and Webster said 75 percent of the Libyan students might become involved in the sort of attacks that Khadafy vowed to carry out against American targets after U.S. jets bombed Tripoli and Benghazi.

During a news conference Monday, Attorney General Edwin Meese said he expected to meet soon with Immigration and Naturalization Service officials to consider what action might be needed to force Libyans out of the United States.

Nuclear Liability Bill Delayed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats on a House committee, saying the nuclear power industry "doesn't realize it's living in a different world than a week ago," have postponed a vote that would limit liability for nuclear accidents to $2 billion.

Last week, the House Interior Committee voted 21-20 to raise the existing $650 million limit to $8.2 billion, but Democrats — facing defeat Wednesday — adjourned the panel, delaying a vote on an industry-backed alternative for a $2 billion limit.

The issue will not be put to a vote for two weeks. The Price-Anderson Act, setting the $650 million limit, was enacted years ago when the U.S. nuclear industry was developing. Efforts to raise it have been underway for some time, but the issue took on a new impetus with the accident at the Soviet plant in Chernobyl.

The Price-Anderson Act provides a pool of money for victims of accidents at plants, at Department of Energy nuclear facilities, along nuclear waste transportation routes and at nuclear repositories.

Surge Pushes March Merchandise Trade Deficit To $14.52 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An unexpected surge in manufactured imports overshadowed export gains to push up the U.S. merchandise trade deficit nearly $2 billion in March to $14.52 billion, the Commerce Department said Wednesday.

Exports for the month rose 6.8 percent to $18.9 billion as a soft dollar gave U.S. goods a competitive edge in foreign ports.

But imports, led by Japanese manufactured goods, rose 10.6 percent to $33.44 billion, second only to $33.46 billion in January of this year.

March oil imports declined for the third consecutive month to $2.19 billion as the price per barrel fell $7.33 to $19.45, the lowest since June 1979.

Non-oil imports, however, paced by surging auto and electronic imports from Japan, rose to a record $30.1 billion for the month. Manufactured imports rose more than $3 billion to $25.28 billion and the deficit in manufactured goods rose to $11.95 billion.

The overall trade shortfall was well below the high of $16.5 billion recorded in January, mostly because U.S. exports rose by about $1.9 billion. It fell close to the average monthly deficit of $14.3 billion for the last six months.

The deficit with Japan was a record $5.52 billion as imports of $7.52 billion overshadowed U.S. exports of $2 billion.

Trade analysts had anticipated a deficit closer to the $12.49 billion recorded in February, as brisk exports and falling oil prices help to correct the trade imbalance — which reached a record $148.48 last year.

But exports were swamped by an unexpected import surge in spite of the weak dollar. The dollar has fallen about 30 percent against major currencies since coordinated central bank intervention in September.

The continuing high level of imports indicates certain areas of the import market — notably autos, consumer and industrial electronics — are relatively immune to changes in currency valuation.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige, noting "severe pressures on our manufacturing sector" due to the flood of imports, called on America's trading partners to "stimulate their economies in a non-inflationary way to promote worldwide economic recovery and bring trade among nations into better balance."

The United States has criticized several nations, including Japan and West Germany, for not instituting reforms to stimulate their markets for foreign goods, particularly U.S. manufactured products.

For the first three months of 1986, the total shortfall between tangible goods exported and those taken in was $43.47 billion. Extended for 12 months, that would translate into a record $174 billion deficit for the year.

Such a high deficit would clearly be unacceptable in Washington, Democrats, who tend to favor legislation to protect U.S. industries from imports, hope to capitalize on the issue in congressional elections this fall.

Imports for the quarter came to $97.125 billion against exports of $83.65 billion, according to the monthly Census Bureau report.

The U.S. deficit with Western Europe in March was up $700 million to $2.89 billion. The shortfall with Canada, America's largest trading partner, was up $400 million to $2.9 billion.

The figures, not adjusted for seasonal variations, are estimates based on customs and insurance data.

Dole: Senate May Kill '87 Budget

By Steve Gerstel
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Majority Leader Robert Dole, R-Kan., pessimistic about the chances of a last-minute compromise, said Thursday the Senate may kill the 1987 budget and try again later in the year.

"Maybe nothing will pass," an angry Dole said. "Maybe we will kill this one and try later. The chances of a compromise are not very good."

About half of the Republican senators, who hold the key to passage of a budget resolution, are demanding major revisions in the nearly $1 trillion proposal approved by the Senate Budget Committee. Some of the revisions sought include more money for defense and a tax cut. President Reagan has termed the committee plan "unacceptable" on the same grounds, and Dole has said he will not vote for the panel's package.

The committee proposal would provide $295 billion for defense spending in fiscal 1987 and $19 billion in new taxes.

Dole was provoked late in the day by the Senate's adoption, 55-42, of an amendment to the committee budget package that would provide $211 million for a program to help welfare mothers get jobs through training and placement.

The so-called WIN program was one of three projects killed by the Budget Committee, the other two being Conrail and revenue sharing. President Reagan recommended termination of 44 programs.

The vote on the amendment, proposed by Sen. Daniel Moynihan, D-N.Y., was close until a number of Republicans, seeing it was headed for victory, peeled off to join the winning side.

Dole said the vote was "an indication of what a weak budget we have" with the Senate incapable of killing even one of three programs marked for termination by the Budget Committee.

"Our record is not so good.

Some are just insisting on raising taxes," Dole said.

Earlier, the Senate killed 54-44 an amendment that would have added $341 million for the Superfund toxic waste cleanup program. Lawmakers also approved on a 95-2 vote an amendment outlawing congressional newsletters and using the money — and estimated $277.5 million over the next three years — for AIDS and Alzheimer's disease research.

As Dole and other budget leaders sought a compromise that could round up a majority and satisfy Reagan, they were hit by demands the Senate hold the line on defense spending.

City Rebuffs County's Map Delay Request

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford commissioners will not act upon Seminole County's request this week that adoption of a new city land use map be delayed until studies are undertaken to address the effects its planned high density land utilizations will have on 410 of the 550 acres Sanford acquired from the county last year through annexation.

A portion of the map, however, will be amended following a request made by a city resident Monday night, during the first of two public hearings the city must conduct prior to formally utilizing the map for planning purposes.

At the request of Henry O'Connor, 102 Laurel Drive, commissioners will allow the Pinecrest community off Airport Boulevard to remain under single family residential zoning, rather than the medium residential land use proposed on the map. O'Connor expressed reserervations that the new land use designation would not provide the Pinecrest neighborhood "with enough insurance" against the encroachment of industrial complexes in the rapidly developing airport area.

Proposals made by County Planning Director Tony Vanderworp were not as well received by commissioners Monday night, although Vanderworp said he may reiterate them when the commission holds its final public hearing for the map on May 12.

Vanderworp's comments were follow-up to the 10 pages of opposition the county expressed to the state earlier this winter regarding the map. The state, however, has reviewed the map and given Sanford the go-ahead for its adoption.

According to Vanderworp, the county "feels strongly that the city should consider the impacts the (planned) development will have on the (new Sanford) areas." He said of particular concern are the 410 acres of new city land that was, and remains, zoned by the county for low and very low land utilizations, but appears on the Sanford map as designated for future commercial and industrial development.

Vanderworp proposed that prior to adopting the map, Sanford study the impact the planned development will have on the new city areas and then devise funding mechanisms to address the traffic and water and sewage services the growth will bring. He also asked the city to address environmental concerns in the more "fragile" of the new city areas.

Vanderworp said Sanford could either undertake the effort itself or "through a cooperative joint planning effort" with the county. City commissioners did not respond to Vanderworp's comments, although when asked after the session, Mayor Bettye Smith said the city did not intend to delay the map's adoption at the county's request.

The city points to the state sanction as one of the reasons for the adoption to proceed and, according to city engineers, Sanford has already addressed the new areas' development through a land use study adopted in 1979. The engineers also say the data in this study will be updated and expounded upon during the city's state mandated effort to implement a new comprehensive land use plan by October of 1989.

Developer Apologizes

By Paul Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

"I'm sorry I did what I did," a developer said of a suggested site change for a wastewater treatment plant in Lake Mary. "I'm sorry I offended residents and it certainly was not intentional." Dr. Hubert Earley, developer of the Timacuan Golf and Country Club in Lake Mary told the Evening Herald Tuesday.

The location of the wastewater treatment plant, which created controversy over the past two weeks, may be decided at Thursday night's Lake Mary city commission meeting. The meeting will be held at Lake Mary City Hall, 158 North Country Club Road, at starting 7:30 p.m.

Earley told commissioners two weeks ago that the location of the proposed plant was changed from a northern section of their project near County Road 46A, to Rantoul Lane. Over 100 residents living in the area of Rantoul Lane in the vicinity of north Crystal Lake turned out at a recent Lake Mary Planning and Zoning Board meeting to protest the proposed site change. They contended a wastewater treatment plant near their homes would devalue their homes and make life unpleasant.

The plant site was moved to Rantoul Lane from the original proposed location because of objections to that site by a developer of a neighboring project, according to Earley.

He said alternate sites would be considered, and promised at a public hearing on the project's development order last week that the plant would not go on Rantoul Lane.

He said at the public hearing the plans were changed again, and the latest site to be considered is west of the original 46A northern site, and is now boarded by a cemetery, and Timacuan offices and homes. He said the area between the plant and the cemetery would be buffered. Engineers from the city and the development company have been studying the latest proposed site.

"We've tried to find a site that is acceptable to everyone," Earley said Tuesday. "We really do want to be good neighbors. Hopefully, this site will satisfy everyone."

Timacuan is a 643.6 acre, $105 million, 1,097 home project planned for an area south of 46A, west of Country Club Road, east of Rinehart Road, and north of the western edge of Crystal Lake.

The City of Lake Mary has been working with the developers of Timacuan to build an wastewater treatment plant as part of the city's master wastewater plan. The plant will be used by the city while it decides the future direction of the wastewater plan, areas to be sewer, and permanent treatment facility. City officials have said they expect to use the Timacuan plant for five years while studying future moves.

Court Dispositions

A south Seminole County man was sentenced to six months in jail for not staying away from his estranged wife's home where he was subsequently shot when she discovered him there.

Patrick Terrance Proso, 39, of 5660 Garden Grove Circle, was sentenced by Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. who ordered the six months to be served after Proso serves three years for an aggravated battery on his wife last year.

In that Jan. 14, 1985 incident, his wife, Nancy F. Pennell, had several facial bones broken and incurred $10,000 in medical expenses.

The 6-month contempt of court sentence stemmed from an incident March 20. Proso was serving two years of community control, a form of in-house arrest, for the 1985 incident when he was served with an injunction ordering him to stay away from his wife, in whose house he was living.

After being served, Proso received permission around 9:45 a.m. from his probation officer to leave the house and look for another place to live. While he was gone, his wife had the locks changed. Proso then called his probation officer at around 3 p.m. and said he was going back to the house. Ms. Pennell, who has not been charged in the shooting, reportedly told Proso's probation officer in a following call that if she found her husband home when she got there she was going to shoot him.

When she got there, she found him in the house, which he reportedly entered through a window. She said he attacked her and she shot him.

Proso was lying on the sidewalk with a chest wound near the home's front door. Mrs. Proso was across the street at a neighbor's home.

While Proso's original sentence was two years of community control, it was changed last month to three years in prison because he violated his court order by drinking.

In other court action:
—Gary Lewis Kemp, 49, a transient, arrested in May, 1985, on three charges of grand theft and uttering a forgery. He pleaded guilty to forgery and grand theft and can receive up to a year in the county jail on each count when sentenced June 16 by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler. According to court records, a man cashed two checks, one for $300 and another for $400 at two different branches of Sun Bank on March 31, 1985. Two days later, the man allegedly cashed another $300 check drawn on the account of a Sanford man. The suspect produced the driver license of the man who had the account but that man called police and the bank and told them he did not write the checks.

—Ernest James Williams Jr., 28, of Daytona Beach, has been convicted of committing robbery at Jordan Marsh in the Altamonte Mall in Altamonte Springs. He could receive up to 4½ years when sentenced June 3. He was arrested Dec. 5 after a car chase with Altamonte Springs police from the store. He was driving the get-away car from a man who took $500 from a cash register in the store. When police stopped the car, the robber ran and was never captured.

No, the garbled headline is not a typographical error. That jumble of letters is no more indecipherable than are these words for millions of illiterate Americans, who are restricted to a nether world of ignorance, humiliation, and hopelessness.

A recent study by the U.S. Census Bureau disclosed that 13 percent of American adults are illiterate in English. Nearly half of the adults whose native language is not English are classified illiterate. Approximately 25 million adults cannot read a simple menu or understand a bus schedule. They cannot comprehend a letter from their child's teacher or the front page of a daily newspaper. An additional 35 million are semi-literate, which means they can read just well enough to barely get by in society. All told, these 60 million persons represent more than one-third of this nation's adult population.

And more of them are on the way. Approximately 50 percent of all black 17-year-olds are functionally illiterate. Some 15 percent of recent graduates from urban high schools read at less than sixth-grade level and 1 million teen-agers cannot read above the third-grade level.

The economic costs of illiteracy are staggering. An estimated $10 billion is forfeited in lost income annually by persons unable to read and write. Each year, more than $8 billion in welfare is earmarked for adults who cannot find and hold a job. Several billion dollars are spent annually for workers' compensation, damaged equipment, and industrial insurance costs directly caused by on-site accidents because workers are unable to read safety warnings and instructions for the operation of complex machines.

The U.S. military pays a high price as well. Nearly 30 percent of naval recruits were recently described as "a danger to themselves and costly naval equipment because of their inability to read and understand instructions." Little wonder that training manuals that resemble comic books are commonplace throughout the armed services.

How can the U.S. public-education system produce so many functional illiterates? That question was asked three years ago by a presidential commission, which correctly concluded that this is "a nation at risk."

Stung by recent criticism, many public schools have returned to the basics. Numerous districts have also scrapped their social-promotion policy that passed students along to the next grade, despite the youngsters' inability to read at grade level. The recent trend of educational reforms notwithstanding, thousands of illiterate and semi-literate students still slip through the cracks each year in our public schools.

What can be done?

Obviously, the schools must do a better job. In fairness, however, many school districts are overextended by mandated programs that strain their already limited resources. Granted, the good teachers still give individual attention to those students who need extra help. But there is a limit to such conscientiousness when class size exceeds 35 youngsters and classes are constantly interrupted.

A comprehensive effort is needed to help most of the 60 million American adults who live in the shadows. Failing that, they and many of their children are condemned to a life of failure, frustration, and futility.

BERRY'S WORLD

DON GRAFF

We Need To Let Europe Be Europe

This time the Arab troublemaker had gone too far.

He had to be taught a lesson. And was, with a military assault by air, sea and land that sent him reeling.

Sounds like recent headlines doesn't it? Actually, however, it's not Libya in 1986 that I have in mind but a somewhat earlier run-in: Egypt in 1956, when the mad dog of the day was not Moammar Khadafy but Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Nasser was every bit as much of an irritant then as Khadafy is today. More so, in fact. He was the revolutionary Pied Piper of the Arab world, a threat to Western interests everywhere.

In July 1956, he nationalized the Suez Canal, then joint property of the British and French.

Enraged, they struck back. A bombardment was followed by landings coordinated with an Israeli invasion of the Sinai. Allied forces quickly secured the canal's Mediterranean end and were moving south when they ran into opposition from an unexpected quarter.

The United States was furious. Hungary was in bloody revolt and Washington found itself in the contradictory position of leading the charges in the United Nations against both its chief enemy and its closest allies.

It had more luck with the latter than the former. The British and French said "uncle" and withdrew.

So why bring up this history now? The Suez Canal is not a crisis point these days. Nasser is long gone. Egypt is for the moment our best buddy among the Arabs.

Because there is something to be learned from Suez that is relevant to what's been happening in the wake of the attack on Libya — especially the badmouthing in this country of the European allies.

The virtually universal reaction seems to be that we have been treated to shocking ingratitude. Those we liberated have refused to come to the assistance of the liberator. We didn't hear the French objecting to overflights when GIs landed on the beaches of Normandy, did we? That sort of thing.

There's a point there, of course, but it seems to me that much more important issues are being overlooked.

Such as what in the way of gratitude we should realistically expect from a Europe that was not liberated so the Nazi yoke could be replaced with an American one. The intent was to restore the freedom of the conquered nations — as many, at least, as we were able to reach. And we accomplished that.

Those nations subsequently became American allies. But they did so voluntarily, of their own free choice as sovereign, self-governing democracies. They are in no sense American satellites, compelled to march in lockstep with American policy at all times.

Would we want it any other way? This is, after all, the essence of what makes our side different from the opposition. NATO is no mirror image of the Warsaw Pact, where oversight need never concern the Soviets.

An alliance of sovereign nations is in some ways like a marriage of inconveniences, an agreement on basic interests that, if it is to endure, must be flexible enough to accommodate the differences that inevitably arise in the pursuit of those interests.

VIEWPOINT

The Budget Squeeze

By William R. Hawkins

The rapid decline in the price of oil means more good news for consumers. It also promises to stimulate the economy in the near term. It thus strikes many people as odd that there are voices warning of long-term dangers resulting from these current events. Yet, it is this very tendency of public perception to be dominated by current events to the exclusion of long term strategic considerations that alarms many experts.

The American economy has been growing, creating some 25 million new jobs in this decade. However, 88 percent of these jobs have been in service industries with below average pay and productivity. This is the pattern of an economy fueled by a demand-side surge of consumer spending and debt. There are mountains of debt; public, private and international. It is thus an unstable form of growth. No nation can indefinitely consume more than it produces.

The drop in oil prices alone will not change this if the money consumers save at the pump merely goes to increase spending elsewhere. It may even worsen one problem if the increased spending goes for imports.

Wolfgang F. Stöpler, Emeritus Professor of Economics at the University of Michigan, has written, "It should be realized that the decline in the dollar price of oil is just as great for Japan and West Germany as it is for us." Further, the fall in the value of the dollar (the currency with which oil is purchased in the world market) means that oil is dropping faster for foreigners than for Americans. This will lower the cost of production for foreign firms exporting to the U.S. Stöpler believes that while cheaper oil will increase consumption in the U.S., it will increase investment in Japan and Europe so that "their economies will increase in competitiveness in relation to ours."

Unless the U.S. is able to reverse course so as to increase savings for long-term investment, it will continue to lose the "battle of production."

Economist Jeffrey A. Frankel at the University of California at Berkeley has concluded that "the U.S. current account deficit is reducing the wealth of U.S. residents at the rate of $100 billion a year and transferring this wealth to foreign residents." No momentary up-tick in the markets from lower oil prices should disguise the long-term consequences of this trend.

Pay Lawyers From Loot?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Will top organized crime and drug defendants be forced to turn their defenses over, at public expense, to court-appointed lawyers?

Perhaps — if a new federal strategy, directly involving the high-priced lawyers who regularly defend such cases, is successful.

Contained in a 1984 federal law aimed at drug dealers and organized crime figures is a provision that allows the U.S. government to seize any assets acquired as a result of criminal activity.

As originally envisioned, this provision would allow seizure of boats, homes, etc., when it could be shown they were purchased with illegally obtained money. Since crime is the only source of income for many convicts, this would in effect mean that everything they own would be subject to seizure.

After this law went into effect, someone in the Justice Department suddenly came to a realization. It could be used against the high-priced criminal defense bar that has been so successful in fighting government attempts to prosecute organized crime figures.

It's simple enough: If a criminal's only source of income is crime, then the money he pays his lawyer is an asset that can be seized under the provisions of the 1984 Crime Control Act.

This has happened on several occasions. The government has sued lawyers to recover fees paid them by criminal defendants. In other cases, when defendants have paid lawyers for their defense with items such as houses, boats or jewels — a fairly common practice — the U.S. government has simply seized the items.

At this point, the whole matter of forfeiture of fees is probably headed for the Supreme Court. Lower courts have been divided on the issue — allowing it in a South Carolina case, preventing it in a Virginia case.

In the meantime, Congress may act first. The 1984 law made no mention of lawyers' fees. Congress is now being asked by some to amend the law to specifically exempt fees from its provisions.

In a related matter, it also occurred to federal prosecutors that if they had the potential power to seize assets under the Crime Control Act, they also had the power to investigate those assets.

Before they began to drag lawyers before grand juries to question them about fee arrangements with their clients, including not only how much they were getting, but everything they knew about the sources of their clients' incomes.

Lawyers have fought testifying against their clients, seeing it as a violation of attorney-client privilege. But the Supreme Court has refused to review a lower-court ruling which stated that fee information is not covered by attorney-client privilege.

It is estimated that attorneys are now being subpoenaed at the rate of around 30 a month to testify about fee arrangements with their clients.

The government says they are doing this because, just as a criminal has no right to use his ill-gotten gains to buy an expensive car, he has no right to buy an expensive lawyer.

Eating Well On The Run

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The majority of the lunchtime crowd at fast food franchises today are young and in a hurry.

These patrons want to eat a nutritious meal but are often confused over what choices to make, say health experts, who worry that young adult Americans are turning to junk food because they need to eat quickly.

"Studies tell us that among the primary consumers of fast and convenience food are young people," said Gail Levey, a nutritionist for the American Dietetic Association. "We fear that the habits they're learning now will set the stage for cardiovascular problems later in life."

According to the American Heart Association, food high in fat and salt leads to cardiovascular diseases and people who are overweight are more prone to heart disease and early death.

At an association-sponsored seminar on fast food, nutritionists and doctors said consumers need to learn how to eat fast without consuming junk food — the term used to describe food that is high in calories but low in nutrition.

"More and more people are eating on the run," said Riska Platt, director of nutrition for health examiners in New York City. "They want to know how they can eat on the run and eat well."

Platt said not all food served in fast food franchises is junk food. But she said consumers often make the wrong choices because they are misinformed.

For instance, patrons will order fish or chicken sandwiches that have been deep-fried in animal tallow, believing they are making a nutritious choice over a hamburger.

"Actually, a single hamburger patty is the lowest in fat and calories," said Platt. "We're so used to red meat being the villain and chicken and fish being the good guys. It depends on what they do to the chicken and fish."

Platt said consumers should avoid special sauces, cheese and chili added to hamburgers in some fast food franchises because they are "loaded with sodium."

The most nutritious choices of all are plain pizza and salad made from salad bars, she said.

"Salad bars are a real positive step for fast food restaurants" though they may not be profitable, said Platt. "They are a direct response to consumer demand for nutritious foods."

World Bank Funds Amazon Epidemic

By Jack Anderson
And
Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — For years environmental experts have predicted disaster if the World Bank encouraged Brazil's ambitious land development scheme in the Amazon rain forest. Now it has happened. A malaria epidemic has devastated the state of Rondonia, in the heart of the World Bank project.

Called Polonoroeste, the controversial jungle-clearing scheme has been made possible by nearly $500 million in loans from the World Bank — which gets one-fifth of its money from the United States. Some critics suspect Polonoroeste was designed by the Brazilian military government as a way to take care of the country's 2.5 million landless poor.

So far, 800,000 settlers have gone to Rondonia in western Brazil over the past four years, lured by promises of cheap land and a bright future. But most of them found instead only poor soil and rampant violence.

That was disheartening enough, but our associate Donald Goldberg has learned that as many as 200,000 of the hapless settlers have contracted severely virulent strains of malaria, carried by mosquitoes throughout the rain forest region. The disease threatens to spread to Brazil's populated areas as sick or discouraged settlers carry it back to the cities.

Health experts here and in Brazil agree that the settlers are particularly susceptible to the epidemic because their sheer numbers have overwhelmed the limited health facilities in the primitive region. In some newly opened areas, half the population has malaria.

Even without the malaria epidemic, critics of Polonoroeste predicted dire results from the World Bank project. The bank's own staff warned that the fragile rain forest land was incapable of supporting the kind of agriculture that would be needed to feed 800,000 settlers.

Bank officials stoutly deny that Polonoroeste has been a failure, and insist that "careful analysis and regional planning went before any investment decisions." But the fact is that the greatest part of the World Bank loans went to paving the main highway that opened up the rain forest to the hordes of settlers.

The bank's staff experts warned that if the project were to have even half a chance of success certain steps must be taken. In March 1984, an evaluation team reported to the World Bank:

"The most serious issue identified by the mission relates to the growing imbalance within the program between infrastructure construction (paving the main highway), which is proceeding at a fast pace, and farmer services and forestry and natural reserves development, which are almost not proceeding at all."

The team concluded sourly: "Unless serious measures are actually implemented by the Brazilian authorities to reverse this trend ... the bank should, in this mission's opinion, suspend disbursements against all components of the program."

The bank did suspend loan payments briefly, but not until a full year had gone by, and then only after Sen. Robert Kasten, R-Wis., and environmental groups publicly criticized the bank's handling of the project.

City Allocates $9,000 For Land Options

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer
Sanford commissioners have moved toward compliance with a state edict to cease disposing treated wastewater effluent into Lake Monroe by allocating $9,000 to secure 90-day purchase options for five potential disposal sites and 90-day lease options for four other potential disposal locations.

A combination of the sites may accommodate the estimated seven million gallons of effluent Sanford generates each day, according to Engineering and Planning Director Bill Simmons.

The sites offered for lease and three of those for sale lie west of the city, off State Road 46. The other two sites up for sale are located west of the city, extending south of either side of Lake Jesup, off State Road 46.

The sites east of the city are 2,200 acres, offered for $5,317,314; and 1,700 acres, offered for $1,615,000. The city paid $5,000 for the purchase option for the 2,200 acre tract, whereas for all the other sites, the lease or purchase option cost $500.

The sites for sale west of Sanford are 24 acres, offered for $900,000; seven acres, offered for $119,000; and five acres, offered for $137,500.

The western sites offered for 10 year lease are 100 acres, for $324,000 annually; 30 acres, for $108,000 annually; 16 acres, for $43,200 annually; and 44 acres, for $186,000 annually.

Disposal capabilities, although projected by the city in regard to some of the sites, will be finalized during a subsequent permitting review by the state Department of Environmental Regulation. The DER will also be asked to involve itself in the surveys that city staff will conduct at the sites during the next 90 days. In addition to these soil studies, staff will also be judging the sites from an economic standpoint.

A recommendation, based on the sites' costs in relation to their disposal capabilities, will then be presented to city commissioners.

Commissioners have already said they will not consider leasing any of the sites, which all carry 10 year terms, although they approved the lease options in order to enable staff to study these properties. If any of the lease option sites are deemed worthy of consideration for the wastewater management program, commissioners said they would consider making the owners a purchase offer.

The options received on Monday do not bind the city to lease or purchase the sites, although they do bind the owners to relinquish the properties if the city determines them as being viable for its waste disposal program from both an economic and effluent disposal capacity standpoint.

The move to secure the options for lease or purchase followed commissioners' decision Monday night to terminate the Yankee Lake condemnation effort, which was launched in November in an attempt to secure the site for effluent disposal. The commissioners decision has prompted former Yankee Lake owner Jeno Paulucci to seek settlement with the city, rather than pursue the $28 million civil claim that was filed through his Heathrow Corporation in response to the condemnation effort. Paulucci agreed on Nov. 6 to sell the 2,867 acre site to Seminole County for its own waste management program. Sanford filed for condemnation two days later.

The commencement of settlement discussions between Sanford and Paulucci representatives has led to a postponement of the Sanford dismissal motion that was scheduled to be argued Wednesday in regard to the Heathrow suit. Paulucci attorney Harris Turner said he is confident an amicable solution can be reached. He said Paulucci enterprises "wants to be a good citizen of Sanford," in reference to a relationship that was strained during the last five months of Yankee Lake litigation.

"The relationship was strained, but not broken," Mayor Bettye Smith said. "I welcome it getting back to normal and the city will be making gestures to achieve this as well."

SPRING FOOTBALL

May 1: Hot Fun In Summertime?

Today is the day that Florida high school football players dread. It marks the first day that they will endure 90-degree heat and bust their tails.

May 1 is the first day of spring football practice.

Spring football practice is a time that coaches can evaluate their team's talent for the upcoming season. It is a time where players battle mental and physical fatigue. It is a time where herds of new players try out for the squad and realize just how difficult it is to practice in May. A good percentage of the newcomers usually quit due to the strain of the practices.

I've been through the strain and agony of spring football practice, twice. I can honestly say that spring practice is the most difficult part of the entire season. That includes double seasons in August.

Spring practice has a number of positive and negative aspects. Some people feel that practice is unnecessary because there is only a one-half played in a jamboree at the end of the 30-day period. Others feel that spring is a time where coaches can work on fundamentals with their athletes.

A player who was not a starter previously can move up through the ranks through hard work. Every year a player must earn a starting job. No position is guaranteed based on a previous performance.

"I like spring practice," Lake Brantley tailback Andy Dunn said. "It gives everyone a fair shot at the position they want to go for."

Spring practice is also a tool for coaches because it will give them a good idea what to expect from their team in the fall.

Seminole High coach Dave Moore said today will be like an orientation for younger and older players.

Players work out in shorts for three days without contact. Some coaches have the players wear pads and helmets to avoid injuries during agility drills.

Depth charts can be compiled and there can be experiments with different players at new positions. Coaches will drill players and evaluate talent and ability of the players. By the end of spring drills coaches should have a good idea of what their club's assets and liabilities.

Conditioning is part of practice that players hate the most. After a two and a half hour practice in the sweltering sun, coaches will force players to sprint, crawl on their hands and knees, and run until they can't take it any more.

Conditioning, nevertheless, is an important part of the game but for many players it will be the last conditioning they will participate in until August.

There are 20 practices held in spring with a half-game jamboree held at the end of practice. Many players feel that after all of their hard work they should play a full game.

"We bust our tails. And for what?" Brantley linebacker Mike Kelly said. "We should play a full game after all of that hard work. I hate spring practice."

This type of attitude is prevalent for a great deal of players.

Another tough part of spring practice is coping with the hot weather. Coping with the intense heat is both mentally and physically draining. An athlete has to push himself when he thinks he can't go any further. It is a process that someone has to experience to fully appreciate.

It seems as though it is foolish to practice in spring from a player's viewpoint. After all, the season is three months away and how much of what the player learned will he retain in three months?

I have mixed emotions about spring practice. I hated it when I played at Lake Brantley. I hated it more that anything else in the world.

Now I understand the benefits from a coach's point of view. It truly does give a coach a chance to fully evaluate his team and coaching staff.

To those of you who begin practice today, get ready to go through a mental and physical hell that you won't even forget. Have fun in the sun.

Final Hurdle Looms For 'Noles

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer
WINTER PARK — That's not a cloud of nuclear dust hanging over Showalter Field. It's just extra excitement in the air as athletes prepare to clear the final hurdle on the road to the Class 4A State Track and Field Championships.

The 4A-3 Region Championships will be held tonight at the newly renovated Showalter Field in Winter Park. The long jump kicks off the meet at 3 followed by the discus and shot put beginning at 4. Preliminaries in the triple jump start at 5 followed by the high jump and pole vault at 6 and the running finals begin at 7.

Hampered by injuries for much of the season, defending 4A champion Seminole High will be at full strength tonight as it attempts to melt down the region competition.

"We're pretty well set since we got everybody we wanted to qualify for the regionals," Seminole coach Ken Brauman said. "We didn't have much time to prepare since it's a Thursday meet but we tuned up a few things like handoffs on relays."

Among the leaders for the 'Noles are senior standouts Alvin Jones, Billy Penick, Pat Davis and Louis Brown, who were all keys in last season's state championship. Jones is coming off his first 50-foot jump in the triple jump while Penick ran his top time in the mile at the district meet. Davis continued to dominate in the 100 meters and Brown looked good in the relays after coming off injuries resulting from an auto accident.

"Louis (Brown) is just about at 100 percent and he'll improve as the competition improves," Brauman said.

Track/Field

Hurdler Andre Jackson, who reinjured a hamstring at district, will compete in the 120 high hurdles at tonight's meet. Jackson ran a 14.6 in winning the district title.

"I felt good but I could have done better," Jackson said of his district performance. "I'm working to improve my form daily and right now a time in the low 14's or 14 flat looks good for state."

Some of the performers who have come on strong in the last few weeks include Theron Liggins in the triple jump, Joe Holden in the 220, Jerry Parker and Walter Hopson in the high jump and Alan Seward in the 880.

Dwayne Willis, a sophomore, has been instrumental in the relays and Brauman said Willis has come quite a ways since the season began.

Other Seminole County individuals who have good shots at qualifying for state include Lake Mary's Ken Rohr and Eric Petersen in the two mile, Lake Brantley's Sam Sears in the 330 hurdles and Bucky Chambers in the discus, Lyman's Ralph Philpott in the high jump and Oscar Wilder in the long jump and Lake Howell's Dylan Rowe in the pole vault.

In the team standings, Seminole is the favorite with the other district winners including Orlando Evans in District 10, Vero Beach in District 11 and West Palm Beach Twin Lakes which compiled an unheard of score of 202 in winning District 12.

GIRLS CHASE OAK RIDGE
Seminole High's Lady Seminoles will continue their chase after Central Florida power Orlando Oak Ridge tonight. Seminole has come out on top of the Lady Pioneers once this season while Oak Ridge has been in command most of the time.

Seminole has a pair of region leaders in Shownda Martin in the 880 and Dorchelle Webster in the 330 low hurdles. But Oak Ridge's Lady Pioneers lead in five individual events and all three relays.

Martin is looking to give the Lady 'Noles strength in the 440 and 880 while Webster will look second behind Miami Edison's 41.4 for the state's best effort. Tonight at the regional meet at Winter Park's Showalter Field the Seminoles will try to assume the top spot.

Shownda Earns Trip To Poland

Seminole High sophomore Shownda Martin, by virtue of her performance Junior Olympic meets this past summer, has qualified to travel to Warsaw, Poland to compete in the International Sports Exchange in late June and early July of 1986.

Martin will leave for Warsaw on June 28 and is expected to return by July 8. She will travel with a team of athletes from around the country and five coaches selected to handle the team.

Only 20 athletes were selected.

Martin was the 1985 National Junior Olympic champion in the 800 meters with a time of 2:09.5. She also ran one of the top four times in the nation during the high school season and that also helped in getting her qualified for the International meet.

"I've wanted since I was chosen to go, but I've also kind of scared because I've never been out of the country," Martin said.

Martin did plenty of traveling in the summer of 1985 as she made trips to Illinois and Seattle but she said the thought of going to a foreign country is a bit scary. She said the plane ride to Poland is expected to take some 15 hours.

Reynolds' Rap: Just 3 Victories From State Title

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
Don T. Reynolds, Lake Mary High School's effervescent principal, bounded into his baseball team's dugout after Tuesday's regional victory like a proud father handing out cigars.

"Just three more wins," Reynolds told his victorious Rams while slapping backs and hands. "Just three more wins for the state championship."

Reynolds' exuberance was understandable. Lake Mary, 30-2, is ranked No. 1 in the Florida Sports Writers Prep Baseball Poll. The Rams won 16 consecutive to open the season before losing to Lake Howell and Apopka. They have won 14 consecutive since March 23. They are just three short of the top prize in the state.

If there is a favorite for the state title, it has to be the Rams. The team is loaded with talented players who have played with Little League and Pony Baseball championship teams since their pre-teens. Winning is a way of life.

"With Mike Schmit pitching, Lake Mary is a better team than St. Valley (Calif.)," Boone coach Terry Abbott said about his team who was blown out, 11-2, in Tuesday's Class 4A-3 Regional game. "They aren't ranked No. 4 in the nation for nothing."

The No. 4 ranking is from USA Today's Eastern High School Baseball Poll. The aforementioned St. Valley is ranked No. 1. It won the Colonial Classic. Like all national rankings, it's speculative at best as to whom is No. 1, but it hasn't been hard to speculate on the success of coach Allen Tuttle's Rams. They were 26-7 last year, which makes them 50-9 for two years. There aren't too many prep programs which boast that record.

Friday at 4 p.m., Lake Mary attempts to give its magic number to two. The Rams host Palm Beach Gardens for the Class 4A-3 Sectional Championship. Tickets are $2.

Matt Messina shakes up the dust with a head-first dive for a run.

Tuttle, whose ace Schmit (14-0) has pitched three games in eight days, said he is leaning toward junior Steve Shakar as his starting pitcher against Palm Beach Gardens, a 19-9 ballclub which topped Vero Beach, 6-0, Tuesday.

"Schmit threw 114 pitches Tuesday," Tuttle said. "That's a lot. We would have liked to get him out of there but with a game like that it's better for him to start and finish. We just couldn't put them away (with the 10-run rule)."

Schmit, whose been the workhorse during the Rams' stretch drive, said he thinks the decision is a sound one. "My arm is a little stiff," he said Wednesday night. "But I threw a little today and there wasn't any pain. I'll just have to wait and see."

"It would be nice for 'Shakar' to start. Everybody has confidence in him and he pitched good his last game (a 9-1 win over Lake Howell). I don't want to pitch unless I have, but if I need to I will."

"If we hit the ball like we did Tuesday night, it doesn't matter who pitches."

Lake Mary jumped on Boone for nine runs in the first inning and never looked back. Neal Harris drove in four runs with a homer and a double. Brett Malle snapped a slump with three singles. Kelly Hyatt, Shane Lettavis and Ryan Lile all had productive nights at the plate.

It's that big-league potential which has FSD coach Tom McMillan worried.

Merthie Whiffs 11 Of 12 As Moose Bops Kiwanis

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer
Mike Merthie did his Roger Clemens imitation Wednesday night and he may even have come close to Clemens' feat of 20 strikeouts had the Sanford Junior League game between Moose and Kiwanis gone the full seven innings.

Clemens, a 23-year-old righthander for the Boston Red Sox, set a Major League record Tuesday night when he struck out 20 Seattle Mariners in nine innings at Fenway Park in Boston.

Merthie, a 14-year-old righthander for Moose, struck out 11 of the 12 hitters he faced over four innings Wednesday at Chase Park in Sanford.

But Merthie didn't have a chance to go for 20 K's as the game ended after four innings because of the slaughter rule with Moose the winner, 10-0. The win improved Moose to 4-0 for the season while Kiwanis fell to 2-3.

Merthie struck out the side in both the first and second frames but was touched for a single by Julius Bennett to lead off the third. Bennett stole second and third but Merthie's shutout was preserved when Bennett was out at the plate.

Moose gave Merthie all he needed in the bottom of the first with nine runs. Merthie's helped himself with a three-run triple in the inning while Jeff Derr slugged a run-scoring double and Al Perkins and Mike Fetterhoff added RBI singles.

ROTARY SLUGS BALL MOTOR
Tim Hampton slugged a single, double and triple and drove in four runs as Rotary downed Ball Motor Line, 15-5, in Wednesday's second game at Chase Park.

Behind Hampton, Derrick Taylor had two hits and scored four runs while Rotary also took advantage of 11 walks in the game.

David Roberts hit for the cycle for Ball Motor Line with a leadoff single in the first, a triple in the third, a double in the sixth and an inside-the-park homer in the seventh. Behind Roberts though, Ball Motor Line had just two hits with one being Ken Foster's RBI triple.

Henry Williams was the winning pitcher for Rotary while Mike Hartman took the loss for Ball Motor.

CARDINAL MOVES INTO FIRST
Two days after being knocked out of first place in the Sanford Little American League, Cardinal Industries reclaimed the top spot with a 13-9 victory over Atlantic Bank at Bay Avenue Field.

Cardinal, which lost for the first time on Monday, now stands at 5-1 and has a half game lead over Adcock Roofing which lost for the first time Wednesday.

Matt Wilkes' two-run inside-the-park homer highlighted a three-run first inning for Cardinal.

In the third, Terry Williams slugged a two-run double while, in the fourth, Todd McCall drilled a two-run double.

Anthony "Redman" Roberts struggled with his control as he walked 13 but he allowed only three hits and struck out 13 and that was good enough to keep Atlantic Bank at bay. Tyrone Williams had two of the three hits for Atlantic Bank.

FORD STRIKES PETROLEUM
A nine-run second inning paved the way as Seminole Ford upended Seminole Petroleum, 14-10, in Little American League action at Fort Marion Park.

Andre Kay's two-run double and Bill Korns' two-run single highlighted the second-inning outburst for Seminole Ford. Luther Thomson added two hits and one RBI for Seminole Ford while Donald "Tank" Bell had one hit and scored two runs.

Behind the home run, Ford's pitcher, James Hamilton, pitched the ninth for the victory. David Anderson had 11 RBI double.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Reagan Meets Foreign Ministers Awaits Word From Gorbachev

BALI, Indonesia (UPI) — President Reagan met with the foreign ministers of six Southeast Asian nations today, but the first real business of his trip to the Far East was overshadowed by the nuclear disaster in the Soviet Union.

Reagan said a U.S. offer to help the Soviets combat the massive fire at the Chernobyl nuclear power plant near Kiev included "expertise to them in every facet of this kind of accident if they can use it." White House spokesmen said that Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has not yet answered the offer directly.

"I'm not going to suggest a timetable for someone faced with this kind of accident," Reagan told reporters.

Reagan's host, President Suharto, said the accident was "another proof that although nuclear (power) is designed for peaceful purposes, we have to recognize that it is dangerous."

Europeans Warned Of Radiation

By United Press International

European nations warned their citizens against drinking milk and eating fresh vegetables, and mothers kept children indoors and rushed to buy iodine pills to ward off the effects of radiation they fear from the Soviet atomic disaster.

Europeans and Americans also canceled tours to the Soviet Union and some Western governments moved to ban imports of goods from nations affected by fallout from the Chernobyl nuclear power plant accident.

Britain, Austria and Finland announced plans Wednesday to evacuate nearly 400 of their citizens from Kiev, about 80 miles from where a fire at the crippled power station pumped radioactive material into the sky.

Travelers in and near the Ukrainian capital said they were told their tours had been canceled because they were in a contaminated area and had not been able to drink water or take showers. Some were staying in their hotel rooms, waiting to go home.

"We're leaving tomorrow and it's not a minute too soon," said Barry French, 22, who arrived in Kiev Monday with 16 students from Bates College in Lewiston, Maine.

In New York, however, the Soviet Union's tourism office said in a letter released Wednesday to travel agents that travel to Kiev "is perfectly safe."

The British government, which Tuesday warned its citizens not to visit the western Soviet Union unless absolutely necessary, extended the advisory to northeastern Poland and ordered daily checks of Britain's milk supplies for radioactivity.

Milk also came under official scrutiny in Poland, Yugoslavia, Austria and Finland.

Expert: Kiev Should Evacuate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An expert who investigated the Three Mile Island accident for the Senate says Soviet authorities should consider evacuating Kiev's 2.5 million residents because of the nearby Chernobyl nuclear plant disaster.

Paul Leventhal, director of the Nuclear Control Institute, said Wednesday in an interview with UPI that the Soviet accident clearly was still in progress, and its "main consequences have not yet been seen."

"Kiev would probably have to be evacuated," he said. "A precautionary evacuation has to be considered by the Soviet authorities at this point."

Leventhal, said if the wind direction shifts toward Kiev, residents could face serious health hazards and even death.

He said because of the distance — the Ukrainian capital is about 80 miles south of the stricken plant — "probably you would not have immediate deaths, even if the winds carry radioactivity to Kiev. But it would have a long-term effect, such as deaths from cancer."

Hawkins: Halt Cuban Reactor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the wake of the Chernobyl nuclear accident, Sen. Paula Hawkins, R-Fla., wants the Soviet government to temporarily halt construction of a Russian-designed reactor in Cuba.

Hawkins, in separate letters to President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev Wednesday, said work at the plant should be stopped until the Soviet and Cuban governments can guarantee the facility's safety.

"Since Florida is only 90 miles away from Cuba, I am extremely concerned that Floridians not suffer exposure to radiation caused by an accident similar to one at Chernobyl from a nuclear plant in Cuba," Hawkins wrote.

NASA Readies For Delta Launch Amid Pressure For Success

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — A Delta rocket carrying a hurricane-hunting satellite stood primed for blastoff today on NASA's first post-Challenger rocket launch, a key milestone for an agency struggling to return to space.

A final "flight readiness review" conducted Wednesday cleared Delta No. 178 for takeoff. Acting NASA Administrator William Graham, other top managers and a crowd of reporters planned to be on hand for blastoff. Weather was expected to be ideal.

The normally routine launch — the last 43 Deltas in a row have been successful — has generated widespread attention in the wake of the Challenger disaster Jan. 28 and the explosion of an unmanned Air Force Titan 3D rocket April 18.

On board the rocket will be a $57.5 million weather satellite called GOES-7 that is bound for an orbit 22,300 miles above the equator to provide visual coverage of the eastern United States and the hurricane-spawning regions of the Atlantic Ocean.

The diplomat said the Soviet officials addressed the effects of the nuclear accident but provided no details of what caused the explosion and fire at the Chernobyl plant, once a showcase Soviet nuclear power facility.

An Italian Embassy spokesman said the Soviet government requested Italian help in dealing with the nuclear accident and access to Italian research on the effects of radiation.

The Soviet media said reports that thousands had died were exaggerated. It also denied a fire was raging out of control — instead saying that Soviet teams had begun cleanup work.

"Work is under way to clean polluted sections of the adjoining locality," Tass said.

But informed U.S. sources told CBS News detailed satellite pictures showed Soviet aircraft circling the stricken reactor, apparently dumping chemicals on a still-burning graphite fire.

The fallout may be pushed over Europe because of prevailing winds over the Soviet Union that have shifted southwest, Swedish meteorologist Stig Alhgren said.

"It looks bad for a lot of countries," said Alhgren.

He said half the European continent below 50 degrees longitude could be affected. The area would exclude France but include Italy, Switzerland, Austria, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Greece, Albania and parts of West Germany and Czechoslovakia, he said.

West German physicist Jens Scheer of Bremen University said the damaged reactor giving off 1,000 times more radiation than the atom bomb that leveled the Japanese city of Hiroshima Aug. 6, 1945.

vote and did not have any opinion on the admission of women.

One local member, however, Ralph Austin Smith, 89, probably is opposed to the idea. Smith, the oldest local member, could not be contacted personally, but his wife said she was sure he opposed the introduction of women into the organization. She said she opposed it also.

Williams said the Indianapolis-based organization was founded at a time when all-male or all-female membership policies were universally accepted.

"However, major changes have occurred in social and economic life," he said in a statement. "Business and professional women are a significant and growing segment of each community."

"In the past few months, courts in several states have ruled against all three major men's service clubs," Williams said. "These rulings are being appealed. But it is now apparent that single-gender service clubs will ultimately be required to accept both men and women in at least some of the 38 states with public accommodation statutes."

Williams said the Kiwanis board members believe the general membership would not support the financial drain required to challenge the court rulings.

suspect, Barnett said there is no apparent link between this case and the arrest of one teacher and the suspension and or resignations of other Seminole County educators who have been accused of having sex with or providing illegal drugs to students or former students.

In this latest case, Robert Michael Cannon, 39, of 291 Gary Blvd., Longwood, was taken into custody at the school and booked into the Seminole County jail at 3:25 p.m. Wednesday. He has been charged with prohibited acts by a custodial authority.

attorneys may eliminate prospective jurors without giving a specific reason.

Writing for the court, Justice Lewis Powell said, "The harm from discriminatory jury selection extends beyond that inflicted on the defendant and the excluded juror to touch the entire community. Selection procedures that purposefully exclude black persons from juries undermine public confidence in the fairness of our system of justice."

The decision reversed the Kentucky Supreme Court and said the conviction of burglar James Batson should be overturned unless it can be shown there were reasons other than race for removing all four blacks from his jury panel.

Justice Thurgood Marshall, in a separate concurring opinion, said the decision "takes a historic step toward eliminating the shameful practice of racial discrimination in the selection of juries."

In a companion case, the justices said a black defendant who faces the death penalty for killing a white person has a constitutional right to question potential jurors about racial attitudes.

The 7-2 opinion, by Justice Byron White, set aside the death sentence of Willie Lloyd Turner of Virginia, saying there was an unacceptable risk that racial prejudice encouraged jurors to vote to impose the death penalty. Turner, who is black, was convicted of killing a white jeweler.

The impact of the second ruling is limited only to death penalty cases, but the jury selection decision will affect all criminal trials.

In a third ruling, the justices said anti-abortion activists had no right to ask the court to reinstate an Illinois law that placed severe restrictions on doctors who perform abortions. The unanimous decision, which said only the state of Illinois could bring such action, leaves intact a ruling by the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals striking down parts of the law.

Jury selection has troubled attorneys for two decades, ever since the high court ruled in 1965 in Swain vs. Alabama that the Constitution is not violated by the exclusion of blacks from any particular jury. To prove discrimination, the court said in that decision, a defendant must show a history of systematic exclusion of blacks by a particular prosecutor.

Although the number of peremptory challenges varies from state to state, defense and prosecuting attorneys alike have used them to select the jury's racial makeup.

The court said Wednesday that practice "violates a defendant's right to equal protection because it denies him the protection that a trial by jury is intended to secure."

with the Columbus Harbour and Skylark package treatment plants built by developers to serve the two subdivisions.

Several suggested hooking up to Altamonte Springs' regional plant as a viable option. Mrs. Christensen estimated it would cost twice as much or between $5 million and $6 million to do so.

Linda Ashley, a Skylark resident, said she had contacted Don Newnham of Altamonte Springs public works department on her own to find out how much it would cost for Longwood to tie in. She said she was told it would cost $4 million to obtain the 600,000 gallons-per-day capacity and another $2 million to put in the necessary force main and pumping stations.

"We aren't going to accept your foolishness anymore," Mrs.

Ashley told the commissioners, "we want some answers before you double our rates. There are a lot of questions that haven't been answered yet. Let's have our new administrator give his suggestions."

The residents were given assurance the increase would not mean they would be paying for the expansion in order to provide for new commercial and residential developments. They will be paying their own share through increased development assistance (impact) charges and increased sewer rates.

Skylark residents who have complained for years about conditions at the run down package plant in their neighborhood, said that wanted the name changed from the Skylark plant to "Grant Street Station."

One resident said she wanted the Skylark plant fixed up to look like "something Paucucci and Heathrow would be happy with."

they've said it's the biggest (salvage) activity since they cleared the mines in Europe from all the harbors after the second world war," O'Connor said. "It has been a huge effort."

The final cost has not been computed, but O'Connor said it probably would be less than $20 million. The Navy initially estimated it would cost up to $80 million to conduct a complete salvage operation.

In another development, NASA said one personal cassette recorder has been recovered from the shuttle's smashed crew cabin but it apparently had not been used by an astronaut during launch, and in any case the tape was "damaged too severely to be played back."

Challenger was destroyed Jan. 28 when a joint between the lower two of four fuel segments in the shuttle's right-side booster ruptured.

O'Connor said a chunk of burned wreckage brought to shore earlier this week was the final piece needed to pin down the exact location of the fatal leak. Wreckage from the upper part of the burn-through area was found April 13.

"I guess the most important factor about this additional piece of the SRB (solid-fuel rocket booster) is that it proves the symmetry of the burn around the joint that failed and that symmetry clearly points that it was indeed a joint failure centered at the area that we had initially postulated," he said.

O'Connor said the data would be useful to the Challenger disaster commission, which must submit its report to President Reagan by June 6.

"We have a hole that was approximately 2 1/4 feet wide there and it was right in the center of that hole that the failure occurred," he said. "I would expect to see no further analytic evidence ... that would indicate what that exact effect was that occurred in the middle of that burned segment."

Beloved Feline's Eviction Has Woman Tenant Ready To Yowl

DEAR ABBY: This may sound insignificant to you, but it means the world to me. I've lived in this apartment for three years. When I moved in, I had a female, spayed cat. She's 8 years old now and sleeps all day. I bathe her, clip her nails and brush her teeth. Now the owner says, "By June 1, either the cat goes, or you go."

Other tenants have abused the landlord's generosity; some have had two and three animals.

and I think your case merits an exception.

Mail this to your landlord, and sign it with your cat's pawprint (as you did in your letter to me). Enclose your telephone number and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for his reply.

You have nothing to lose but a 22-cent postage stamp. Good luck.

DEAR ABBY: My sister just called to ask me to split the cost of a party for our parents' 40th anniversary.

I don't want to pay for my parents' 40th wedding anniversary party, which took place shortly after I was married. My sister was a teenager then, so I certainly didn't expect her to pitch in. Now "Sis" is in her 30s, has a good paying job (with benefits), savings and investments, and she is single!

I have a wife and three children and I'm living from paycheck to paycheck. I think that since I paid last time, this one should be on my sister. I would be happy to split the cost of the 50th.

DEAR SON: I don't believe anyone should go into debt to finance a party. I also don't believe that you should expect your sister to pay for your parents' 40th because you paid for their 25th. By the way, no one handed Sis her job, her savings, or made her investments for her. She worked for them.

Problems? Write to Abby. For personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. All correspondence is confidential.

Southern Ballet Theatre Presents Final Performance Of '86 Season

Southern Ballet Theatre closes its 1985-86 season at 8 p.m. May 16, at the Bob Carr Performing Arts Centre, with a diverse program of ballets. The company finishes its 12th season as Central Florida's professional dance company and has represented the area with performances in cities from Tallahassee to Key West. Next year the company will present its 13th season at the Bob Carr and will tour the nine southeastern states under the Southern Arts Federation touring program.

The final performance will include a Florida premiere and the return of its 1980 smash hit ballet "Elements." "Con Amore" is a humorous ballet patterned after the opera buffa made popular by Rossini. It was choreographed by the founder of The San Francisco Ballet, Lew Christensen and premiered in California in 1963. "Con Amore" has been staged for the New York City Ballet, Ballet West, the Chicago Opera Ballet, and the Joffrey Ballet.

Salmonella Can Endanger Infant

DEAR DR. GOTT — What can you tell me about salmonella? I have heard of a baby having it for more than a year, and it is hard for me to believe that a baby could come in contact with salmonella. Would this parasite endanger the baby's health? Can antibiotics be used?

produces stomach upset. If you need iron and it seems not to agree with you, by all means, work with your pharmacist to find alternative forms.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 5 feet 6, 108 pounds and can't gain any weight. I was checked for thyroid problems two years ago, but there was nothing wrong. I am also hypoglycemic. Should I be checked again?

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 5 feet 6, 108 pounds and can't gain any weight. I was checked for thyroid problems two years ago, but there was nothing wrong. I am also hypoglycemic. Should I be checked again?

DEAR READER — Some people are thin; they readily burn up calories. Before going through another medical evaluation, try keeping a diary of all the food you eat. At the end of the day, calculate the number of calories you consumed. If the figure is less than 2,000, you need to eat more. If your calorie intake exceeds 2,000 per day, and you honestly believe you are underweight, get back to your doctor for another checkup.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Today we take a trip down under to watch Australian expert Dick Cummings make an unusual play in six no-trump. Since the spade suit splits badly, it would seem that the play for the 12th trick must come in the club suit. Probably you and I would just try to guess the club position, but Cummings had a better idea. He felt that West did not make an opening lead of a club because he held the ace and perhaps also the queen. Since West threw a heart on the first high spade played, it also appeared that West must have started with five hearts. If that five-card heart holding did not include both the jack and the 10, and if Cummings' view that West held the club ace was correct, there was a cute play available.

Declarer now played his diamonds and dummy's high spades, and on the last high spade he discarded the club jack. He then played the ace and king of hearts. Because West had to guard his heart jack, he had been forced to discard all his low clubs. That left poor West with the J-8 of hearts and the club ace. Cummings held the club king and the Q-9 of hearts. He got off lead with that club king, and West had to lead into Cummings' heart tenace to give declarer his contract. As you can see, if Dick Cummings had simply played a club to the jack at trick three to make his contract, he would not have been featured in today's column.

In the year ahead, you will become involved in an exciting and advantageous project that is grand in scope. It will originate in your vicinity, but there will also be opportunities for travel. Know where your advantages are concerning your work or career in the year ahead. To get your Astro-Graph, mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

you take enhance your reputation instead of tarnishing it. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Something unusual will happen today. Although it won't occur in your immediate vicinity, it could still have a negative effect on your plans. A hassle can be averted. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Early in the day you'll be quite jovial and easy to get along with, but toward evening, when you get a bit tired, you could become rather grumpy. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) For the sake of your budget, don't get involved in something with friends today where your end of the costs are undetermined. The final tab may floor you. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) It's important to discern today between assertiveness and aggressiveness. Friends will make the distinction if you can't. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be sensible regarding what you volunteer to do for others today, because they could dump some undesirable tasks on you that they've been dodging.
