Joseph Cotten Has Hard Time Portraying 'Self'

HOLLYWOOD — The hardest role Joseph Cotten ever had to play was portraying Joseph Cotten.

tell me I'm playing a guy named Joseph Cotten. Joseph Cotten? What does he act like? I couldn't find anything in the script that would give me a clue.

Helps To Be Busy

HOLLYWOOD — Fred Astaire, still grieving over the loss of his beloved wife, is finding that it helps to stay busy. Now making "Funny Face" with Audrey Hepburn, he explained: "I already had two pictures lined up to do here at Paramount, but I decided to make this one too. Audrey wanted me to do it, and I figured I'd better take the opportunity. Who knows when you'd get a chance to do another picture with her?"

Helps To Keep Busy

As anybody in Hollywood knows, when Astaire works, he works. A perfectionist who claims never to have repeated a dance routine in films, he spends long hours in rehearsals before filming a dance. Not content with his movie chores, he finds other things to keep him busy. He has a studio of dance studios. He has a successful racing stable and a glowing record: a filly named Rainbow Tie.

Can Moscow Fulfill Promises?

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—A further shift to economic warfare between the East and the West could follow the Russian plan to take men out of the army and put them in the factories and the fields. American businessmen operating abroad report a continuing steepup in recent months in the attempts of Russia to win world markets through promises of goods on easy terms. The big question mark has been: Can Moscow fulfill its promises and deliver the goods? With more men going into economic production, and with a cut in spending on defense and an increase in spending on industrial expansion, the Soviets may make fulfillment more of a possibility.

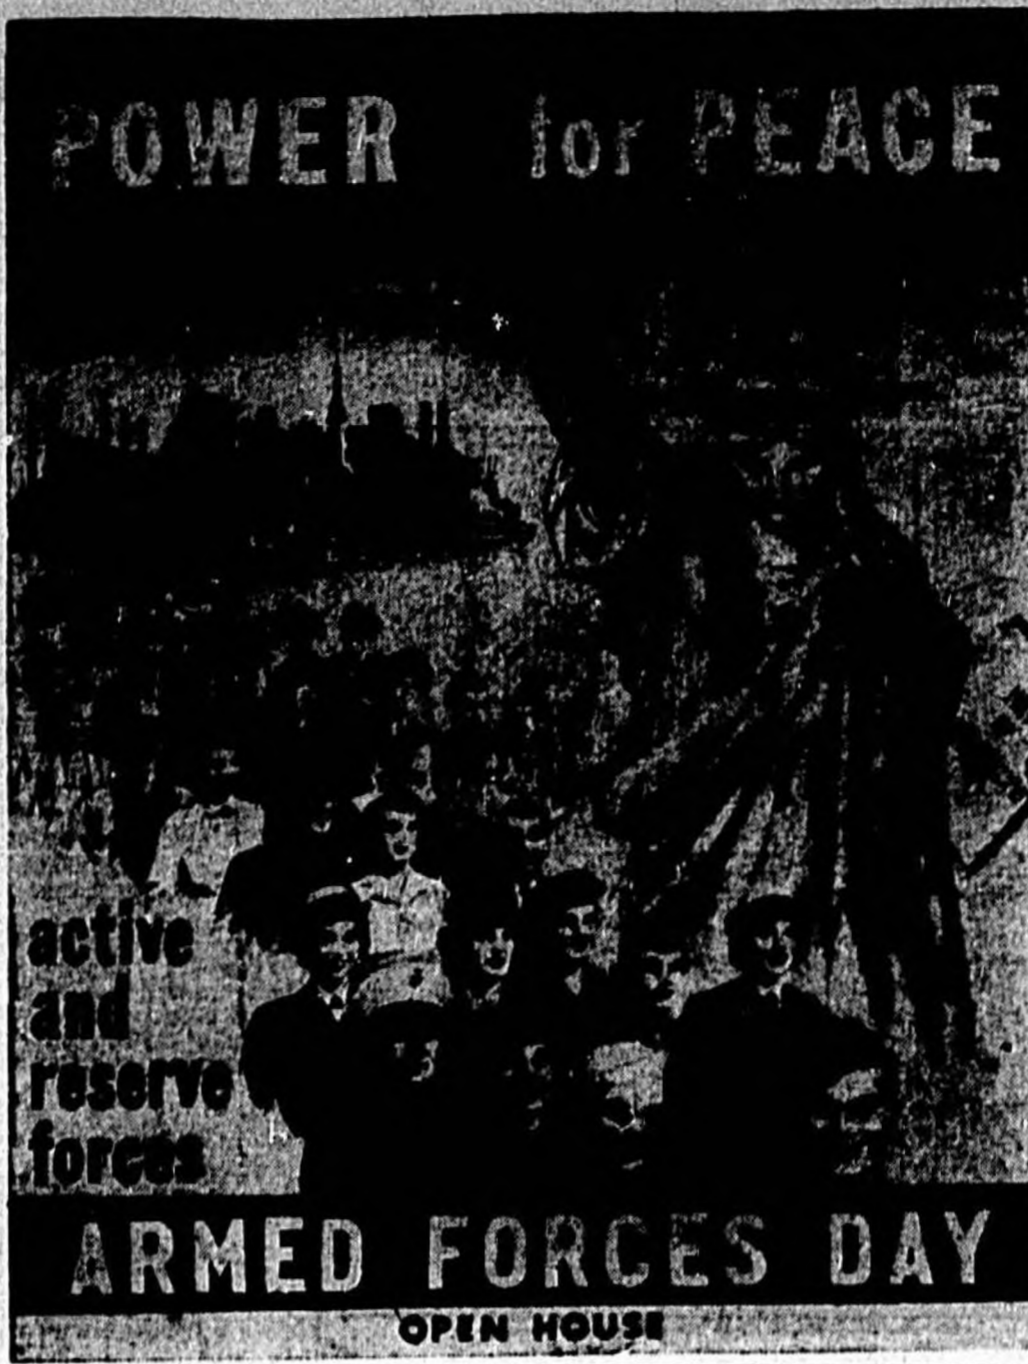

The West has had the best of it so far. Industry capacity is about twice as high as that of Russia and her satellites. But the Russians have set a goal of overtaking American production totals within 10 to 15 years. And their rate of increase since the war has been faster than our own—largely as that has been.

One of Russia's handicaps has been a labor shortage. With a huge standing army and a government policy of keeping as many youths as possible in scientific and engineering schools, the industrial labor force has been curtailed. There should be plenty of room in the factories for the 14 million men that Russia now says will be demobilized. In making their bid for world trade the Russians have had some advantages, notably in the underdeveloped areas. The Reds have been able to offer markets for the raw materials and food that these areas produce. Here, the desire to protect American industry and agriculture from such imports has been strong. One example: Cuba has sold to the Reds some of the sugar it couldn't send to the Uni-

States. The Russians and their satellites have been able to offer the non-industrialized countries some of the machinery and equipment they crave. They can't produce this in the quantity that Americans can, but increasing amounts of such equipment are coming on the world markets from behind the Iron Curtain. Examples: The Soviets are building a steel mill for India; Czechoslovakia is building a rubber factory in Egypt; Poland is building ships for other countries and peddling railroad cars. Only one in three farm woodlands in the South are left in a condition of high productivity after logging.

Armed Forces Day--1956

ness", as we honor these men who will "lay down their lives in defense of our nation", they pass in review so that we may answer in salute "well done".

But let us remember, as we salute these valiant men who devote their lives, their thoughts, all of their training, research and building to the defense of our country, that as our gestures are reverberated throughout the nation they are spurred to greater heights of enthusiasm and look to greater goals, keeping the strength of our nation above reproach, beyond sneak attacks, and ahead of others who dream of our annihilation.

Tomorrow, our Armed Forces pass in review and we have an opportunity to place our "stamp of approval" at an open house celebration.

Armed Forces Day—and Armed Forces Week has more behind it than just a show of strength and our homage for the excellence of their work. There are those tears, the sweat, the toil, the heartaches—all of the efforts that must go into building a great nation's protection—hidden behind the smile and the salute that greet you when you meet the men of our "Armed Forces"—big or little—in their everyday work looking after the defense of their nation and the people in it.

Safety At All Times

As we near the holidays of our "hot weather months" there are thousands of do's and don'ts to be passed along because of the many dangers which we face as we go about our celebrations.

It seems as if every summer the toll grows higher from accidental drowning, overturning boats, highway casualties, and violations of other safety precautions.

School will be out within the next few weeks. Then the children will be making use of every moment in glorious relaxation and celebration. Throughout the summer they will be on the highway, in the street, in the swimming pool or lake, along with the grownups.

Every bit of caution we can assemble, wherever we go, will be helpful toward eliminating the danger of death from accidental causes.

Safety on the highway, safety at the beaches, along the streets crowded with bicycles and carefree folks, at the lake, on picnics, will mean another life saved and a lower toll from the Grim Reaper.

The dangers increase on Memorial Day, Father's Day, July 4th and on the "week-end trip" holidays.

It's wonderful to relax and enjoy the cool moments of an evening wherever we are—but don't relax from caution and safety until you know that dangers have passed.

A word of warning is sufficient.

Fancy new office desks come without drawers. That's fine for the executive with a crew to spirit off the papers. But where's a man going to keep his pipe tobacco and old bills?

Herlong Reports

Appropriations for our national defense took up the bulk of our time in the House of Representatives this week. Even listening to several days of debate on a matter so technical as defense appropriations cannot make a Member of Congress a military expert. We therefore must rely on the recommendations of the committee which has heard testimony from Defense Department officials in justification of their requests for money. It is difficult even for a member of the Appropriations Committee to question what some general or admiral says is needed for his particular service's part of the defense program. If we make any mistakes on this program, they should be on the side of safety.

It is interesting to observe the "softening up" process that goes on several weeks prior to the defense appropriation coming to Congress. You will recall a number of stories having appeared in the press and over the radio about how far Russia was ahead of us in various forms of offensive and defensive weapons. Some people have disputed the fact that they are in fact ahead of us. I don't think anybody really knows. All we can really do is be as well prepared as possible. That is why I voted for what the committee said the Defense Department needed in the matter of defense appropriations.

The "softening up" process is also being used on the Congress now in the matter of foreign aid appropriations. One of the cleverest pieces of maneuvering that was done was to give Senator George the position as the President's special ambassador to NATO. Of course, he won't take this position until after he retires from the Senate next January, but the Senator, who is in a key position as Chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, would certainly feel more kindly toward the foreign aid program knowing he was going to step into this other position. Previously he had indicated all-out opposition to the long range program advocated by the President. The question is: Will Senator George continue his opposition to long range foreign spending or will he yield to the request of the Administration for more money? It is a lot easier to vote against the foreign aid program than it is against defense expenditures, and it is my feeling now that regardless of the attitude Senator George takes, any program calling for long range commitment will have a slim chance of passing the Congress in an election year.

Two Speakers Featured At Joint Meeting Held In Woman's Club

The Fine Arts Department and Civic Department of the Sanford Woman's Club held a joint meeting May 16 in the Club house with hostesses being Mrs. B. F. McWhorter, Mrs. B. R. Beck, Mrs. R. E. Peurifoy, Mrs. John Eick and Mrs. W. P. Fields.

Sponsors were for the Civic Department, Mrs. Robert Whitney who introduced its guest speaker Mrs. A. W. Epps and for the Fine Arts Department, Mrs. Howard Montelth introduced Mrs. Brantley Henderson who spoke on "Along the Highways and Byways of Europe."

The Club was tastefully decorated with gladioli, hibiscus and African Daisies in clever arrangements around the rooms.

Before the business sessions and the speakers, a covered dish luncheon was held.

Mrs. A. W. Epps, president of the Hospital Auxiliary, spoke on the duties of the Auxiliary. She related the accomplishments of the group and the training classes that were held.

Mrs. Epps said that at the present the group is divided into five groups which have a minimum of 60 working hours per year for each member.

(1) The Receiving Committee, (2) The Hospitality Committee, (3) Sunshine Service, (4) Sewing Committee (5) Library Committee.

These groups were organized to take care of every extra duty and to help in every way to make the hospital a smoother running machine.

She ended by saying that the auxiliary members are rendering an invaluable service to others and deriving a great satisfaction for themselves when they start their day with this small plea: Let me be a little kinder, Let me be a little blinder, Let me praise a little more, Let me be when I am weary, Just a little bit more cheery, Let me serve a little better, Those that I am striving for, Let me be a little braver when Temptation bids me waver; Let me strive a little harder, To be all that I should be, Let me be a little meeker with The brother that is weaker; Let me think more of my neighbor.

And a little less of me. (author unknown)

Mrs. Howard Montelth then introduced the Fine Arts guest speaker Mrs. Henderson.

Anyone interested in travel would have certainly enjoyed the talk given by this talented woman. She has traveled in most of the European countries and told the group how to get the most out of a trip to Europe.

Mrs. Henderson said in order for a person to really get to know the country and see the real sights, he should not make a reservation ahead of time. Stay out of the large cities and only buy road maps from the little stores in the country as they are well marked and show the best places to eat and lodge.

Armed Forces Day - 1956

The seventh annual observance of Armed Forces Day is a major effort to increase public understanding of our defense system and of every individual's part in this effort for peace. On behalf of the Active and Reserve Forces of the United States, I cordially invite and strongly urge all Americans and friends in other lands to visit our Armed Forces on this occasion and lend support to community programs which contribute to the accomplishment of the Armed Forces Day mission. — Chester E. LOTS OF TROUBLE

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A breakfast food promotion of 54 years ago is still making headlines for local tax officials. The breakfast food firm gave away house lots to users of its products. The lots were laid out on a 300-acre tract without benefit of either sewage or water. The lots were sizes 30 x 25 and 20 x 50, mostly the former, too small for houses. Streets were laid out only 16 feet wide. Newspaper advertisements billed Whatever good the promoter did for the company, it didn't do it for the land values. As Robert E. Jensen of eWatbrook, a part owner of 169 lots, said, "The land's worth any more now than it was then." He gave his land back to the city, too.

GM Head Scales Down '56 Forecast

DETROIT (AP)—The president of General Motors, who last year accurately forecast record auto sales, has scaled down his 1956 prediction for the industry.

Harlow Curtice had said the current year would be the auto industry's second best with retail sales of 6 1/2 million cars. At night, at a news conference, he cut the figure to 5,800,000.

This is 1,800,000 under 1955. It would be the third highest sales total, exceeded in 1930 and 1935. Curtice, under questioning, said General Motors now has 50,000 fewer hourly employees than it did last June. He did not go into detail.

He said the industry as a whole had run into several difficulties in selling cars this year. But, he said, as far as General Motors is concerned, overproduction in 1955 was not one of the difficulties.

A questioner suggested that Walter Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, and others had laid some of the blame for the poor market on overproduction and oversupply of cars in 1955.

Curtice said: "We have not indulged in overproduction at any time."

Among the difficulties, he said, were the Federal Reserve board's policy of tighter credit and the great amount of speculation that 1957 models would be revolutionary.

Curtice said the credit controls were bad and should be reversed. He admitted his new sales figure was based on the assumption credit will be eased sometime while 1956 models still are on sale.

He said 1957 models will cost more than 1956 models. He said labor and all raw materials are somewhat higher and that the price of steel is expected to rise.

Russia's Decision Presents Challenge To U.S. Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—Russia's announced decision to cut its military manpower by about 25 percent has challenged U.S. leadership of the free world at several critical points:

1. It has increased the difficulties of maintaining Western military strength. Although such a cutback is not likely to affect Russia's capacity for atomic war, the move will almost certainly be regarded in many countries as evidence of peaceful Soviet intentions lessening Western defense needs.

2. It generates new pressure on the Eisenhower administration to regain the initiative from the Russians through some bold new move. Not all these pressures come from Democratic critics; there apparently is some such concern inside the administration.

3. The problem of keeping cold war neutrals alert to the dangers of expanding Soviet influence through political and economic infiltration is intensified.

4. The ground seems to have been cut from under one of this country's strategies for pressuring Russia to agree to the reunification of Germany, and the solution of that outstanding East-West problem therefore becomes more difficult.

Concern over these problems apparently motivated the skeptical line taken by administration officials yesterday in discussing Moscow's announcement Monday that military personnel would be reduced by 1,200,000 men. The Soviets never have published figures on their mobilized strength. Western estimates put the figure at about 4 1/2 million.

Secretary of State Dulles told a news conference the proposed cut could not be verified. He summed up his attitude this way: "I'm merely warning that I believe what has happened can be explained by economic factors and the desire of the Soviet rulers to strengthen their economy in terms of agriculture and industry—perhaps to have more people in the factories which produce modern weapons rather than to have them standing around doing guard duty or training duty in the army."

Secretary of Defense Wilson said at a later session with newsmen the move seemed to be a "step in the right direction" but that it did not alter materially Russia's real military power.

Wilson said he would not say that the Moscow announcement "means nothing," but that it does not appear to "justify any appreciable change in our present military strength" or in worldwide U.S. military alliances.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Carter L. Burgess told a Senate subcommittee Tuesday the United States plans to maintain armed forces of about 2,850,000 "for the indefinite future."

U.S. officials have commented that the Moscow announcement made no mention of large armed forces cutbacks by Western nations since World War II.

Like Wilson, Dulles said the promised Russian reduction would not warrant at this stage any cutback in Western strength.

Officials conceded the Soviets were making extremely clever use of what was, by most American estimates, an internal necessity.

In a sense the Russians were regarded as converting a weakness into strength by emphasizing the peaceful aspects of a reduction of men under arms when the long-range effects may be to increase their over-all military capacity.

It now appears that the Russians have decided, in preference to joining in a general disarmament system complete with inspections, on a kind of one-sided reduction of military forces. In this way they can keep their atomic weapons under their own control, free of any international strings and promises.

The United States and its chief Western allies intend to go on pressing the Russians for disarmament but one of the chief means of pressure has now been removed. It is at this point that the link with the German problem comes in.

A year or more ago Dulles concluded that the Bulganin-Khrushchev regime had overexpanded, as he put it Tuesday. It was unable to produce at the same time the volume of food it needed, some increase in consumer goods and a rapid boost in heavy industry output.

It became apparent that Moscow would like to get many men out of the barracks and back to the farms and factories.

Dulles believed the pressure to do this was so great that the men in Moscow would be willing to pay a price for it.

He thus reasoned that if disarmament and German reunification were linked up, the Soviets would be willing to make some kind of disarmament agreement which would reduce force levels and at the same time join in Western proposals for free elections to unify Communist East Germany with West Germany.

To whatever extent there was such pressure on Moscow to agree to German unification, that pressure has now been greatly reduced.

Each year state and private forest tree nurseries supply millions of pine seedlings for reforestation but millions more are wanted.

GOOD PRICES CAUSE FRUIT THEFTS

LAKELAND—Good prices which oranges now are bringing have caused a wave of fruit thefts in Lake Hamilton area and R. V. Phillips of Haines City asked Florida Citrus Mutual directors for assistance to curb it.

Polk County Solicitor Clifton M. Kelly promised to help.

Prices now being paid for oranges range from $2 to $2.50 a box on the tree.

Robinson To Defend Reclaimed Title Tonite

By JACK STEVENSON LOS ANGELES, (AP) - Middleweight champion Sugar Ray Robinson, the dancing man who proved fighters can come back, goes after another quick knockout over Carl Bobo Olson tonight as he defends his reclaimed title against the ex-champ.

Robinson, 35, and Olson, 27, have met three times. Bobo lost twice by knockout and once by a decision. This time there's a feeling that the longer the fight continues the greater the chance of the younger, body-socking Olson.

Robinson has fought 149 professional fights dating back to 1910 and has lost only four. Olson, whose professional career started in 1925, has won 43 and lost 8. He has stopped 30.

Robinson has been installed as favorite, most experts feel his best chance lies in a kayo during the early rounds. The outdoor battle scheduled for 15 rounds or less starts will be held in Wrigley Field.

NBC will televise nationally at 10 p. m., EDT, with southern California blacked out. Gate receipts were expected to be in the neighborhood of $175,000 with an additional $75,000 for radio and TV rights.

Two League Races Appear To Be Pair Of 3-Team Affairs

By ED WILLIAMS The Associated Press It begins to look more and more as if the two major league pennant races are a pair of three-team affairs.

In the National, it's Milwaukee, St. Louis and Brooklyn. In the American, it's New York, Cleveland and Boston—although the Red Sox may hold only half a share of the third contender's entry along with the Chicago White Sox.

The Braves, with Warren Spahn looking like his old self and Hank Aaron finally hitting the ball, retained their slim edge over the Cards by thumping the New York Giants 7-3 last night while St. Louis, loaded with four of the NL's top 10 sluggers, put down the suddenly ambitious Philadelphia Phillies 5-4.

The Braves, banging five extra-base blows among their 10 hits, put the game away in the seventh on four runs, with Aron poling a long triple to deliver in half of them. Aron also had a double and Del Crandall homered for the Braves.

The Cardinals, 27 percentage points behind the Braves, remained the won-lost leaders as Ken Boyer, upping his average to .418, swatted a home run; double and two singles and drove home three runs.

The Sanford Giants will play the Haines City baseball team Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Sanford Memorial Baseball Stadium.

A Doctor in the Family

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

CHAPTER SEVENTEEN THE SILENCE was stony, but not so cold as Seretha's voice when finally she spoke—'Linda, that is a perfectly ridiculous idea!'

Linda's head lifted, her eyes dark. 'Why shouldn't I adopt a child?' she asked, her hurt forming a scuff on the floor in her throat. 'Every woman needs a child to love, to care for. Manning is a nice little boy.'

'He's a nice little boy,' agreed Seretha. Linda cast a glance around the table, and saw that even Jasper was agreeing with Ma'am. Her soft chin set. 'But you cannot adopt him, Linda.'

'But—why not?' 'Well, for one thing, my dear, the other children of the family must be protected against such a move. Their rights...'

'If you mean inheritance, it just happens that Alan and I don't have six children of our own to diminish their prospects.'

'Now, Linda...'

'But, Father, I honestly don't see Ma'am's argument.'

'Ignorance may be cured,' Seretha declared magnanimously. 'But breeding and blood cannot be changed. Manning seems a nice little boy, and he could perhaps be educated—but you still would have a child of inbred, poverty-weakened mountain people, Linda.'

'I understand. But you can busy yourself in doing those things without adopting him.'

Celery Feds To Play In State Tourney

In a baseball game as thrilling as exciting as local fans have witnessed in many years, and in the opinion of many viewers, comparable to exhibitions of professional teams, the Sanford 'Celery Feds' managed to come out on top of a 2-1 victory over a hustling never-say-die ball club from Melbourne in the finals of the Group Five Tournament played at Memorial Stadium, here, this week.

The Melbourne hurler, John Edge, also did a fine thinking job, walking none, striking out five and leaving his team committed 'nary' an error.

The line score: Melbourne: One run, three hits, no errors. Sanford: Two runs, six hits, one error.

Brophy Is FSL's Leading Hurler OHLANDU.—Art Brophy, ace of Tait Wright's Orlando entry in the Class D Florida State League, has fork-handed his way to the top of the heap as the top leading hurler, undefeated with six decisions through midnight Wednesday.

A fellow left-hander, Bob Dunn, West Palm Beach's sensational young star, thus appeared to be the rookie to watch as the circuit soon passes the half-way mark of its first half.

Brophy had fanned 52 in 53 frames, walking only 15 to exhibit control matched by Gainesville's rookie Ken Wright who had walked only nine men in 34 innings, and Orlando's Ron Stead, who had walked only seven in 38 innings.

However, Dunn stole the headlines for the week ending midnight Wednesday when he fanned 20 Orlandoans although losing after 14 torrid frames. The 62 brought his season's total to 62 in 43 innings.

12 Precincts To Use Machines

"Voters in Seminole County will have an opportunity to vote by machine in all precincts but four in tomorrow's election," Mrs. Camilla Bruce, Seminole County Supervisor of Registration said today.

Machines have been switched around until there are voting machines in all but Precinct 4 (Precinct 7 (Chuluota), Precinct 12 (Forest City), and Precinct 13 (Slavia).

"However," said Mrs. Bruce, "it is hoped that voting machines will be secured for these precincts before the General Election in November."

The same precincts using machines in the election tomorrow will use them in the Democratic Preferential Primary on May 29, according to the report from Mrs. Bruce.

Voters will go to the polls tomorrow to elect a Representative to the State Legislature to fill the unexpired term.

The Representative elected tomorrow will go to Tallahassee to attend the special session of the House of Representatives and Senate on reappointment.

Only two names will appear on tomorrow's ballot. The representative will be selected from the two top candidates of the May 8 primary, Gordon Frederick and Thomas Stranger.

Voting booths will be located at the same places as they were in the May 8 election.

John Milton Bell Recently Awarded Gemology Diploma

John Milton Bell of this city was recently awarded a diploma in the Theory of Gemology by the Gemological Institute of America, Los Angeles. Holders of these diplomas are recognized as the specialists of the gem field.

The courses offered by the Institute teach its students the know-how and why of all precious stones and gem minerals. It is the only course of its kind which offers a complete study of the diamond and a study of silverware and other precious metals, in addition to complete coverage of all colored gemstones. All the necessary laboratory techniques for modern scientific identification of gemstones and diamond grading and appraisal are included in this comprehensive course which covers every phase of the jewelry industry including merchandising.

The Institute's correspondence course is a quick, six-week sprint that turns out a gem expert in a few easy lessons. On the average, three and one-half years are required to complete this well-rounded course.

The Gemological Institute of America was established in 1931 as an answer to the need of the jeweler for a centralized source of authoritative information. By this dissemination of information the jeweler is protected — and through him the public.

Bell holds the position of watchmaker and assistant manager for Wm. E. Kader, Jeweler, 112 South Park Avenue, this city, and although he has been associated with his present firm for just a short time he does have a background of 7 years experience as watchmaker and jeweler. He holds the Certificate of the Bulova School of Watchmaking.

2 Frame Dwellings Destroyed By Fire As Another Burns

Two frame dwellings were destroyed and another badly damaged by fire Friday afternoon shortly before 3 o'clock.

The three wood buildings, in a densely populated area, were very close together and firemen were hampered by junk automobiles beside one house and in front of another.

Lack of hydrant connections delayed firemen in getting water on the building already involved when the Sanford Fire Department arrived on the scene.

The three homes burned were at 406, 408, and 412 Pine Street and belonged to Miss Jeanette Laing.

Fire Chief Mack N. Cleveland Sr. said Friday afternoon that in order to bring water to the scene of the fire 900 feet of hose had to be connected to a Sanford Avenue hydrant.

Total amount of hose used to bring the blaze under control, said Chief Cleveland, was 1800 feet of 2 inch and 200 feet of 1 1/2 inch. One of the houses destroyed was vacant, the other was occupied by a Negro family.

It is the only course of its kind which offers a complete study of the diamond and a study of silverware and other precious metals, in addition to complete coverage of all colored gemstones. All the necessary laboratory techniques for modern scientific identification of gemstones and diamond grading and appraisal are included in this comprehensive course which covers every phase of the jewelry industry including merchandising.

The Institute's correspondence course is a quick, six-week sprint that turns out a gem expert in a few easy lessons. On the average, three and one-half years are required to complete this well-rounded course.

The Gemological Institute of America was established in 1931 as an answer to the need of the jeweler for a centralized source of authoritative information. By this dissemination of information the jeweler is protected — and through him the public.

Much Progress Is Made In Drive Says Building Inspector

Much progress is being made in the drive to have all home owners and rental property owners comply with the City's sanitary code, said John M. Gillon, Building Inspector for the City of Sanford.

Nearly 500 houses have already had the necessary water and toilet facilities installed in homes that heretofore have been using outside spigots and toilets, said Gillon.

"The first notice to all property owners who have yet to comply with the City's sanitary code, south of 15th Street and west of the railroad, is yet to be served," the City's Building Inspector said last week.

"We are finding that many of the property owners are installing the necessary facilities before we get to them," he said. "The resistance to such compliance has been very light," Gillon added.

"We will give owners every chance and opportunity to put their property in condition to meet the code," Gillon said, "but we intend to serve the last notice on some of them very soon."

"Some homes which have been combined during this inspection have remained vacant three or four months," he added, "when they are vacant for six months there is a possibility that these places will be torn down."

Gillon explained that it is a slow process to inspect the homes and place the first notice of condemnation on them and then go back around to serve the second and last notice. "We can get to 15 or 20 of them a month," he said.

Accord Reached On New Contract In Southern States

Agreement was reached on a new contract between the Southern Bell Telephone Company and the Communication Workers of America affecting about 55,000 non-supervisory employees in nine southern states.

The new contract provides for wage increases ranging up to $3.00 per week, depending upon the job and town classification of the employee. Other changes in the contract include reclassification of a number of cities and towns for wage purposes. The contract is effective on May 20. It is for one year but will extend beyond this initial period unless terminated by 60 day notice by either party.

Frank M. Malone, Personnel Vice President of Southern Bell said the pay increases are in line with the upward wage movement which extensive surveys show has occurred in southeastern cities and towns.

"The increases are necessary to fulfill our basic wage policy; that is, to keep the pay of Southern Bell employees in favorable comparison with wage levels prevailing in the communities where they live and work."

Mr. Malone said the wage increases and the other changes in the contract will add about nine million dollars a year to the cost of providing telephone service in the Company's nine state area.

In Florida, the additional cost will amount to $1,532,000.

Much Damage Done

Damage estimated to be in the neighborhood of $150,000 was suffered Friday night when a warehouse, leased from the Atlantic Coast Line by J. E. Jackson, opposite the Seminole County Jail was completely destroyed by fire.

The first alarm was given at 11:23 Friday night when Roger Getford, a radio operator on duty in the Seminole County Jail called the Sanford Fire Department.

Sanford Fire Chief Mack N. Cleveland Sr. saw his entire department on duty within a matter of minutes bringing into use practically every piece of equipment.

Five thousand feet of fire hose was laid to bring eight nozzles into play.

Fire was contained within the building for a short period of time and protection was concentrated on the south end of the structure to keep flames from eating into the old ACL Depot.

The metal warehouse contained the Evans Roofing and Heating Company, Wilson-Maler Furniture Company surplus new furniture storage, and J. E. Jackson's seasonal wirebound crate and field box storage.

Destroyed in the fire were many fine pieces of antique furniture stored in the J. E. Jackson section of the building while William S. Evans Jr., owner of the Evans Roofing and Heating Co. had stored a 1927 T-model Ford in his section.

Flames broke out of the roof of the building about midnight with fire roaring thunderously and belching billows of black smoke from the roofing operations and asphalt storage.

The fire, which threatened the entire downtown area and other structures in the nearby area, was brought under control about 1 o'clock Saturday morning but fire continued burning until about 4 a. m.

Much of the office records of Evans Roofing and Heating Company was saved from the fire when Deputy Sheriff Ed Pratt went into the burning building from an end door to bring it out. Trustys of the Seminole County Jail aided in clearing the office of other valuables including office equipment.

A. L. Wilson of Wilson-Maler Furniture Company said that early estimates of loss in his section of the warehouse would come to between
