Wind shear common at OIA

ORLANDO — Wind shear occurs more frequently at Orlando International Airport than any other U.S. airport, say scientists who just concluded a study of the phenomena.

The conditions responsible for about 30 airplane crashes and more than 600 deaths in the U.S. since the 1960s occurred this summer in Central Florida more often than anywhere else in the country, the scientists reported.

However, the high occurrence of wind shear has not resulted in major air-traffic accidents in Central Florida.

A specialist with the Federal Aviation Administration says almost every day this summer, air-traffic controllers have had to change takeoff or landing plans for at least one of the three Orlando runways because of wind shear.

The so-called "microbursts" of air from storm clouds create wind shear. Scientists found that the microbursts tend to linger in Central Florida, while they dissipate more rapidly elsewhere.

But scientists and aviation officials say air passengers should not get worried because pilots have learned to avoid the heavy rains and thunderstorms that cause wind shear. Also, airlines in recent years have trained pilots to cope with the dangers of wind shear.

Bush wounded by flying hook

WASHINGTON — President Bush's right ear lobe was punctured by a fish hook cast by his son, but the incident didn't prevent the president from fishing for another hour, his spokesman said.

Bush, a frequent fisherman while at his summer home, was fishing with his son, Jeb Bush, as well the president's house guest, Canadian Prime Minister Brian Mulroney.

Jeb Bush was the unlucky caster who caught his father's right ear lobe with the hook, Fitzwater said.

One of Bush's physicians, Dr. Michael Nash, was on an accompanying boat and attended to the wound. Fitzwater said Nash cut the hook with wire cutters and pulled the remainder of the hook through his ear lobe.

U.S. 'a clenched fist'

Bush tells U.S. armed forces to stand strong against Iraq

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

George Bush

WASHINGTON — President Bush today told American troops in the Middle East and around the world that the U.S. military "is a once reluctant fist now clenched resolutely" against Saddam Hussein's aggression in the Persian Gulf.

In a broadcast over the Armed Forces Radio, the president said, "Today in the tradition of two centuries behind you, you stand on the front line against aggression and international lawlessness."

"We've never sought conflict, nor do we hope to chart a course for other nations, but at the hands of injustice, in the face of aggression, ours is a once reluctant fist now clenched resolutely," he said.

The president spoke to the troops from the Oval Office a day after he had rallied overwhelming support from Republican and Democratic congressional leaders for his policy of repelling

What if troops return in body bags?

By LEON DANIEL
UPI Chief Correspondent

WASHINGTON — There will be hell to pay if the American girls and boys President Bush dispatched to the Middle East start coming home in body bags.

U.S. forces are in Saudi Arabia to protect the kingdom and its oil from Iraq. And the American armada is in the region to enforce a trade embargo aimed at ousting the Iraqi invaders from oil-rich Kuwait.

The president publicly repeated those goals Tuesday. Although Bush has mentioned vaguely threats to the American way of life, the reasons for the massive U.S. military foray are fundamentally economic.

Those reasons are beginning to look less than compelling.

Many Americans will turn quickly against a war over oil, withdrawing their support as the body count mounts. No American GI should die for oil.

Even some staunch conservatives and former hawks are balking at the president's actions.

Third consecutive drop in Scholastic Aptitude Test miffs education officials

From staff and wire reports

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's third consecutive drop in Scholastic Aptitude Test scores was due to an increasing number of students taking the college entrance exams without proper preparation, educators said Tuesday.

"More people sitting for the tests today do not have college prep experience," said Roy McTarnaghan, vice chancellor of academic programs for the state university system. "They're going to fail if they didn't have the right courses. They won't pass the entrance tests, and they are less likely to have successful experiences in college."

According to the Seminole County school district's testing department records, in Seminole County, where the average SAT score last year was a combined 917, down from 920, the year before, students scored about 33 points higher than the state average and 17 points above the national average.

Local students averaged 430 on the verbal section of the test and 487 on the mathematics portion.

At Seminole High School, 2701 Ridgewood Ave. in Sanford, students' average score was a combined 886 points (427 in verbal and 471 in math).

At Lake Mary High School, 655

Longwood-Lake Mary Rd. in Lake Mary, students scored an average of 438 on the verbal portion of the test and 492 points on the mathematics part, for an average total score of 930 points.

Lake Brantley High School, 991 Sand Lake Rd. in Altamonte Springs, had the highest average scores in the district with an average 441 points on the verbal portion of the test and an average of 508 points on the math section, for a combined average score of 949.

Florida's performance on the SAT mirrors a national trend of dropping scores, the College Board said Monday.

Fantasy Five winner heads for Tallahassee

By SUSAN LODEN

SANFORD — Lottery officials in Tallahassee confirmed today that a $211,707 winning Fantasy Five ticket was sold in Sanford Monday night.

Rhonda Waddle said she sold that ticket to Bill Gilbert, the former operator of a truck repair business on Sanford Avenue.

Gilbert couldn't be reached today to confirm the win. Waddle, who sold the ticket at Waddle's B & W Market, 1303 Sanford Ave., said Gilbert told her he was going to Tallahassee today to claim his prize. Lottery officials said this morning that the winner had not yet arrived and they did not know the name of the winner.

This is the second time Gilbert has claimed a significant lottery prize, Waddle said. He was the first to buy a $5,000 winner in the scratch-off lottery at that store when the game began in the state a couple of years ago, she said.

Monday night, Waddle said the lottery computer picked Gilbert's winning numbers for one of six $1 Fantasy Five tickets he bought. The winning combination, she said, was 1-11-25-34-35.

"That's probably the closest I'll ever get, (to a big win), having it in my hand when he bought it (the ticket)," Waddle said.

She said Gilbert used to buy lottery tickets at her

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Cabinet approves spending freeze

By MICHAEL HOLMES
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez and the Cabinet imposed an immediate freeze on hiring, travel and purchases by state agencies Tuesday amid an unsettled international situation and gloomy forecasts for the Florida economy.

The freeze was last until Sept. 25, when the governor and Cabinet were to consider whether broader cuts in this year's $27.6-billion state budget will be needed to prevent an illegal budget deficit.

month of the 1980-81 fiscal year. If the trend continues, there would be a $670-million deficit by the end of the fiscal year, notwithstanding the $1.5 billion in new taxes and fees approved by the Legislature for the year.

"I'm still fairly pessimistic," Woodworth said. "I don't expect things to get much better for the rest of the year."

The freeze, which was approved with virtually no debate by the governor and Cabinet, is intended to prevent a spending binge by agencies in advance of any future cutbacks, Woodworth told reporters.

Officials could not predict how much money would not be spent because of the freeze. But it would apply only to agencies dependent upon the state general revenue fund, which relies mostly on sales and corporate taxes.

Most state operations, including the Department of Transportation and the Florida Highway Patrol, are funded through special fees on the people they serve, and were not expected to be affected by the freeze, according to Woodworth.

The Department of Education draws about 58 percent of state general revenues, but most school employees are paid with county tax dollars.

Woodworth predicted the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services would take the biggest hit. But she noted that case-by-case exceptions to the freeze may be permitted by the Cabinet to protect "the health, safety and welfare of Florida's citizens."

"We're just trying to behave prudently so that we have as many options available as possible once we determine what kind of shortfall there is," Woodworth said.

The state Revenue Estimating Conference, comprised of economists representing the governor's office and the Legislature, is scheduled to meet Sept. 10 to review the forecasts of state tax collections.

The Florida economy is generally more resilient than the national economy. But the July tax shortfall followed a $38.5-million revenue shortfall between April and June, leaving only $85 million in the state's contingency fund as a damper against emergencies.

And that was before Iraq invaded Kuwait, sparking fuel price increases and raising the specter of war.

Hialeah OKs controversial curfew

HIALEAH — The Hialeah City Council late Tuesday approved a midnight curfew that has drawn strong criticism from civil rights advocates.

Under the curfew, children under 19 would have to be off the streets by midnight, or face arrest and a $500 fine. Supporters of the curfew said they are trying to control gang violence and other problems in the late night and early morning hours. The American Civil Liberties Union said it will challenge the city's curfew in court, on constitutional grounds. But supporters of the Hialeah curfew say similar laws in nearby Opa-locka and Miami Springs have been successful and have been upheld.

Corrections officer accused of battery

JACKSONVILLE — A Nassau County corrections officer has been charged with sexual battery. Jacksonville police spokesman Asa Higgs said 24-year-old Richard Ray Hurst was arrested Tuesday after receiving a complaint from a woman working at an Arlington business.

The woman told police a man in the uniform of a county corrections officer entered the store where she was working, took her into a bathroom and forced her to have sex with him, Higgs said.

She told police she did not know Hurst. Police said she picked his photo from a group of photos and identified him as her attacker. Hurst, a Nassau County jailer since 1988, told police the woman agreed to have sex with him. Nassau County sheriff's officials say Hurst is suspended without pay until authorities can conduct an internal investigation into the charges.

Bank customers help round up robbers

CAPE CANAVERAL — A bank customer helped police capture two bank robbers Tuesday, chasing the robbers in his car while relaying information to the police on his car telephone.

Louis Rogers of Merritt Island said he pulled up to a drive-through window at a Cape Canaveral bank around 10 a.m. Tuesday morning. He said he looked through the teller's glass window, and saw a man walk into the bank and begin acting strangely.

The cashier mouthed the words, "We're being robbed." Rogers said, so he dialed 911 on his car phone. Rogers then saw a man run from the bank and get into a nearby car driven by a woman.

The car sped off, and Rogers followed them in a wild chase through Cape Canaveral and Cocoa Beach that lasted 10 minutes before police caught up with the bank robbers in a McDonald's parking lot.

Police say they have linked the pair to a bank robbery Monday afternoon at a bank in Port St. John.

Punishment sought in dog's death

TITUSVILLE — A man whose aging pet dog was killed by a state road crew worker wielding a shovel said he wants the worker punished.

Last week, a maintenance worker for the state Department of Transportation hit the dog in the head with a shovel and killed her. In a memo to his supervisor, Claude Oxendine said he was afraid the dog had rabies.

But Jerry Porter is angered by Oxendine's actions that killed Jingles, his family's 13-year-old black Labrador. He has requested an investigation into the death of Jingles. He says the dog was arthritic, overweight and going blind, could not have been a threat to anyone.

Oxendine said he hit the dog on the head once with a shovel. But the director of the North Brevard Animal Hospital doubted the story. She says it had to take more than one blow to the dog's head to cause the damage she saw.

Martinez signs two death warrants

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez signed two death warrants Tuesday, one of them for a man who came within hours of execution earlier this year.

James William Hamblen, who was sentenced to death for the April 1984 robbery and shooting death of Jacksonville lingerie shop owner Lauren Jean Edwards, was originally scheduled for execution July 17.

But the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta entered a stay in the case, only hours before the scheduled execution. Hamblen's newest death warrant sets his execution for 7 a.m. on Sept. 30.

Hamblen pleaded guilty to first-degree murder at his trial and did not challenge the prosecution's recommendation that he be sentenced to die. He has stated several times that he wants to die.

Tuesday's death warrant is the third in Hamblen's case. Martinez also signed a death warrant Tuesday for Anthony Bryan, who was sentenced to death for the August 1983 shooting death of George Wilson, a night watchman who was abducted from a Papagoula, Miss., seafood warehouse.

State, Army reach pact to ease vets' transition to civilian life

By MICHAEL HOLMES
United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida and the U.S. Army signed an agreement Tuesday that is meant to smooth the transition to civilian life for thousands of soldiers and officers likely to be declared surplus in a post-Cold War world.

The pact signed by Gov. Bob Martinez, Secretary of the Army Michael Stone and Education Commissioner Betty Castor creates a Military Transition Project providing job and education counseling to encourage veterans to settle in Florida.

Officials hope it will serve as a model for other states and branches of the armed forces.

Castor, who negotiated the pact, hopes to persuade some retirees to begin second careers as teachers, easing shortages forecast over the next decade.

Stone acknowledged it might seem incongruous to discuss reductions in troop strength amid the massive military deployment in the Persian Gulf.

"Nevertheless, the Army is going to become a smaller operation," Stone said.

"We are looking at a changing world. Russia, as far ahead as we can see, does not constitute the same threat as it has since the start of the Cold War 40 years ago. Looking at that overall picture, and looking at the financial resources available to the Army, we have to plan for reductions."

Although planning for a slimmer military establishment is on hold pending the outcome of the Persian Gulf crisis, Stone said, the Army is recommending reductions of approximately 38,000 troops per year over the next four or five years.

Congressional leaders are considering even broader cutbacks, he said, with similar reductions in store for the other branches of the armed forces.

Officials hope to manage much of the reduction through normal attrition.

¶ We are looking at a changing world. Looking at that overall picture ... we have to plan for reductions. ¶

—Michael Stone, Secretary of the Army

"But there probably will be some instances where we will have to involuntarily retire officers, noncommissioned officers and, to a lesser extent, private soldiers," Stone said.

It is not clear how many military retirees might end up in Florida. But the state already is home to numerous military installations and ranks third in military retirees, and state government and business leaders are eager to recruit that pool of well-educated, highly trained and disciplined workers.

Florida's universities do not expect to be able to train enough new teachers to fill the demand, expected to amount to 10,000 in each of the next 10 years. Castor hopes separated military personnel — many of whom will qualify for education benefits — might be lured into teaching.

The state also faces labor shortages in law enforcement, trucking, health care and hotel and restaurant management.

"At the same time," Castor said, "we can do everything we can to make the transition less stressful, not only for these soldiers, but also for their spouses and children."

The state has established a Second Careers Office to help Army officers make the transition to civilian life. According to Castor, dozens have already contacted the state, and some are already interviewing with school districts.

Additionally, training sites for the new applicants are being established at Valencia Community College in Orlando and Okaloosa-Walton Community College in Niceville.

Seminole OKs 10 projects; one dropped

By A. MARK HANFORD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners gave unanimous approval Tuesday night, including a 498-vote vote, to a $100-million water conservation project on the Wekiva River and the expansion of an industrial facility in Spring Branch.

But the most controversial part of the plan is the $100-million Wekiva River water conservation project, which would allow Tuesday afternoon landowners Charles and Malcolm Chappas to market their land to the project. The project would be financed under current real estate conditions.

The project was opposed by residents and the state as being too many homes for the amount of water conservation. The project was approved by the Seminole County Commissioners' 4-1 vote. The project would allow the Chappas to market their land to the project. The project would be financed under current real estate conditions.

Census results may grant state four House seats

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida has added about 3 million people during the past 10 years, according to preliminary figures from the U.S. Census Bureau, and could gain as many as four new seats in Congress as a result.

The figures, released Monday, show Florida's population at roughly 12.8 million people, up about 31 percent from the population count of 1980. Only California, New York and Texas are likely to have larger populations in the final and official count.

Census officials stressed that the figures are preliminary and were provided to state officials in order to permit them to dispute the bureau's counts.

Local governments have 15 days from the date of receipt of the figures to declare whether they are high or low. The responses are figured into the final reports issued by the U.S. Census Bureau.

"It's speak now or forever hold your peace," a Census Bureau official said.

The responses can be influential, state officials said. During the 1980 census, Florida's population was adjusted upward by about 6 percent because of reports from local governments. The adjustments can translate into more money from the federal government.

Demographers are not the only ones interested in the numbers. The figures are very important politically, since the state Legislature will use them in redistricting next year.

If Republicans are to have any real influence in how those lines are drawn, they need to retain the governorship and win control of the Florida Senate, where they are four seats short of a majority.

One outcome of the census is that Florida could pick up as many as four new seats in the U.S. House of Representatives, most likely in the central part of the state.

Florida's four new seats would boost the state's total in Congress to 23. Only California — whose preliminary census figures show gained almost 6 million new residents during the decade — would gain more seats, a projected total of seven.

School group adds planner, loses member

By VICKI BOGEMAN

SANFORD — Joseph M. Hillebrandt of Casselberry was named last night as the technology planner of the Seminole County school district's business advisory committee.

At the same time, however, Hugh W. Harling Jr. of Altamonte Springs, resigned as the group's land planner.

Harling, president of Harling, Locklin and Associates, cited chronic scheduling conflicts with the committee's meetings and his business as the reason for his resignation.

In his four-sentence letter of resignation Harling added that he felt the board had "assembled an excellent committee" and that he expected "a great deal of positive recommendations to come from them."

Hillebrandt, 30, is the data processing manager of Sanford Auto Auction as well as owner and operator of Absolute Software of Casselberry.

His past experience includes time at Seminole Community College where he designed and implemented a computerized employment testing and placement system. He has also worked at Computerland and Incomp Computers where he designed various programs and evaluated and tested new products.

Ann Neiswender, school board chairman, said she was particularly impressed by Hillebrandt's list of hobbies on his resume.

"That's what really got my attention," she said pointing out the section that indicates his hobbies include "local government issues."

In pursuit of those interests, Hillebrandt is currently a member of the City of Casselberry planning and zoning commission, the land planning agency and the Citizen's Advisory Committee for Comprehensive Planning.

"In addition to his computer expertise, which appears to be extensive," Neiswender said, "he has a great deal of experience in comprehensive planning."

Sturm proposes cutbacks

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Commissioner Bob Sturm recommends delaying the buildup of a third firefighter on each county fire engine to help trim the county's proposed 15-percent tax increase.

"For 16 years, we've done an admirable job with two men," Sturm said Tuesday. "I think we can function with two men for another year."

Sturm suggesting deferring the three-man crew buildup until next year as part of a $3.6 million budget reduction package he presented to commissioners Tuesday. Commissioners will consider the proposals Sept. 10.

Sturm said the cuts were needed to reduce the county's proposed tax increase in a year residents will see higher school, city, state and federal taxes.

"We still have not brought the proposed tax increase to a level I'm satisfied with," Sturm said.

In July, commissioners managed to whittle a potential 40 percent countywide tax increase to about 24 percent. Commissioners faced increased insurance, state-mandated and other costs with reducing revenues, leaving them little alternative but to consider raising taxes.

Even with the proposed tax increase, commissioners decided to spend about $491,000 to begin the first of a three-year build-up of crews on county fire engines to three men.

Sturm said by delaying the fire engine buildup one year, reducing other new proposed positions and freezing all other county positions for a year, the county could save $1.7 million from the proposed increase. He said another $425,000 could be saved by using other county's growth plans as a model for Seminole County's plan rather than paying a consultant to prepare the plan.

Sturm also proposed doing away with a drainage utility consultant, a $250,000 expense, until homeowners are charged a fee for county drainage. Sturm recommends consolidating fire and sheriff's 911 and radio systems to end duplication of expenses, saving another $250,000 a year. He also recommended requiring a library impact fee on new homes, saving about $500,000 each year.

Sturm also recommends using more contracted services for county functions, such as computer services, building inspection, garbage dump operation and water and sewer utility operations, potentially saving $250,000.

Obscenity trial declared a mistrial

United Press International

DAYTONA BEACH — A mistrial was declared on the opening day of an obscenity trial Tuesday when jurors were accidentally shown a promo for an adult movie other than the two they were supposed to view.

The six-member jury was selected Monday to hear the charges against Barry Freilich, an Ormond Beach video store owner charged with two misdemeanor counts of distributing pornography.

He is accused of renting out two X-rated videotapes that the state contends are obscene, "The Devil in Miss Jones" and "The Devil in Miss Jones II."

Prosecutor Gene White showed jurors the first Miss Jones movie Tuesday without incident. He then began to play the sequel, and the tape included a preview commercial for another film, "Angel Puss."

Due to an editing error, a Tuesday Sanford Herald story on a rezoning public hearing at the Sanford City Commission meeting incorrectly identified John Morris as a representative of Sunstate Electronics. Morris represented property owner Walter H. King.

School group adds planner, loses member

By VICKI BOGEMAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Joseph M. Hillebrandt of Casselberry was named last night as the technology planner of the Seminole County school district's business advisory committee.

At the same time, however, Hugh W. Harling Jr. of Altamonte Springs, resigned as the group's land planner.

Harling, president of Harling, Locklin and Associates, cited chronic scheduling conflicts with the committee's meetings and his business as the reason for his resignation.

In his four-sentence letter of resignation Harling added that he felt the board had "assembled an excellent committee" and that he expected "a great deal of positive recommendations to come from them."

Hillebrandt, 30, is the data processing manager of Sanford Auto Auction as well as owner and operator of Absolute Software of Casselberry.

His past experience includes time at Seminole Community College where he designed and implemented a computerized employment testing and placement system. He has also worked at Computerland and Incomp Computers where he designed various programs and evaluated and tested new products.

Ann Neiswender, school board chairman, said she was particularly impressed by Hillebrandt's list of hobbies on his resume.

"That's what really got my attention," she said pointing out the section that indicates his hobbies include "local government issues."

In pursuit of those interests, Hillebrandt is currently a member of the City of Casselberry planning and zoning commission, the land planning agency and the Citizen's Advisory Committee for Comprehensive Planning.

"In addition to his computer expertise, which appears to be extensive," Neiswender said, "he has a great deal of experience in comprehensive planning."

Speedier justice for asbestos

Ten federal district judges have come up with a cooperative plan for clearing the logjam of asbestos liability cases that's currently clogging the nation's courts. The effort is without precedent and some important questions about how it would work still have to be resolved. But something along these lines is certainly needed because the system of judicial review as it's set up now just isn't working in these cases.

Currently, the courts are facing nearly 100,000 injury claims from workers and others who have contracted cancers and other debilitating diseases as a result of being exposed to asbestos. Because there's often a long delay before the health effects of asbestos show up, the total number of cases in 20 years could reach half a million. And most of those suits turn out to be repetitive, involving identical questions about the same products that have been litigated over and over again already.

But though the basic issues are often the same, the effects on individual victims and the circumstances of their exposure differ widely. Because of these differences, appeals courts generally have insisted up until now that the claims have to be tried separately or in very small groups — a process that's not serving anyone's interest, except perhaps the lawyers involved.

The judges who want to speed things up cite expert estimates that two-thirds of the money that has been spent on these cases so far has gone to attorneys' fees and court costs, not to the victims. The agreement they set up the $2.5 billion Marvick Corp. asbestos trust fund — and were rewarded a multimillion-dollar bonus by the courts for doing so — wasn't understood both the number and the size of the claims involved, with the result that the fund has run through its initial funding in less than two years and still has tens of thousands of claims pending.

Industry companies contend that the proceeds of driving them into bankruptcy, such as the Marvick trust, for example, spent $115.7 million doling out trust last year and is faced with 2,000 new claims every month. As for the victims, it currently takes a minimum of 30 years to get any payment at all out of the system, which means that most of the people who "win" their cases don't live long enough to receive any help.

Under the judge's plan, most of the pending cases would be consolidated into three: one aimed at defining the terms of a uniform, national settlement agreement; one for those companies that are unwilling to settle; and one for those companies like Eagle-Picher that may not be able to afford to participate in such an agreement.

One hopes that the results will be more successful than the Marvick trust, and the entire proposal will have to pass muster at the appellate level. But the public, the companies and the victims share an interest in making it work. Reaching an agreement now on a new process of review may take time, but it could establish a basis for resolving quickly and fairly all the hundreds of thousands of claims that are coming in the years ahead.

Feinstein stirs California cauldron

BURBANK, Calif. — It's said here that the race for governor has "gone negative early" and is between "two moderates."

The first description is generating California political news — and will now get much nastier. The second characterization, which sounds like no news, is probably the hinge of this crucial election — and may well set up a model for national politics.

The negativism was clear in a press conference given here by Republican Sen. Pete Wilson. He charged that his opponent, Democrat Dianne Feinstein, was engaged in "McCarthyism," "character assassination," "pandering" and a "desperation smear" — mostly regarding attacks trying to link him to the savings and loan scandal. Later, Wilson said he intends to "unmask" Feinstein.

Feinstein, a former San Francisco mayor, escalated the conflict in an interview with this writer. She accused Wilson of an "insidious" attack on her husband Richard Blum, a wealthy San Francisco lawyer who financed much of her primary campaign.

Feinstein, who is Jewish, volunteered a new and startling view. She says the Wilson campaign is portraying Blum in ways that she maintains call up images of "profiteering" and "money-changing." These images, she notes, are classic anti-Semitic stereotypes. Feinstein says she has reached "no conclusion," but is "concerned" that Wilson's campaign smacks of anti-Semitism.

Stunned, the Wilson campaign says the anti-Semitism issue is "astounding and absolutely unbelievable" and that campaign financing is a legitimate issue debated nationally.

Beneath the ugliness is the "two moderates" theme, advanced by the Feinstein campaign, endorsed by much of the media and challenged by the Wilson campaign. If it works, it can go a long way toward rebutting the image of super-liberalism that has plagued the Democratic Party. If it doesn't, it will tell Democrats how far they still have to go.

Beneath the ugliness is the 'two moderates' theme.

Feinstein, former mayor of San Francisco, does not intend to be vulnerable to yet another Republican "L-word" campaign, charging Democrats are soft on everything. She won the Democratic primary partly by coming across tougher than her liberal opponent.

Speaking here to a police group, she said, contrary to prevailing liberal wisdom, "I support the death penalty because ... it is the most powerful deterrent there is for preventing violent crime."

Indeed, as Feinstein points out, in San Francisco she was often criticized for not being liberal.

Wilson does not want the criteria of liberal San Francisco to become the California standard. He says Feinstein is much more liberal than he is.

Wilson has attacked Feinstein for being "pro-quotas" in state government hiring. A Wilson ad shows a Los Angeles Times headline reading "Feinstein Vows Numerical Quotas." The issue is powerful because proportionalism is unpopular and because quotas are associated with Democratic liberalism.

If he wins, Democrats nationally will likely be pushed further to the right to counter "L-word" charges. If she wins, they may feel comfortable with Feinsteinian moderation.

Southeast Asians deal fake MIAs

WASHINGTON — Cambodian entrepreneurs are stockpiling what they claim are the bones of missing U.S. soldiers from the Vietnam War. These salesmen and their gruesome trade were spawned by rumors that Americans and their government will buy what they haven't been able to get through negotiations with the Cambodian government.

Several visitors to Thailand have reported to us recently that they have been approached by political refugees from Cambodia with bones to sell. Dr. Amos Townsend, a retired Air Force physician, went to Bangkok on a mission to help refugees on the Thai-Cambodia border.

When he visited refugees in a village in southern Thailand, they offered to sell him a skull which they said was from an American GI. Townsend declined.

On June 12, nine Vietnamese refugees landed on Tanjung Sedat Beach, 150 miles southeast of Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, with seven barrels stuffed with bones. Some of the skeletons were GI dog tags, but none of the names matched those of MIAs or POWs. The refugees were under the mistaken impression that they could buy their way into U.S. citizenship with the bones.

The frenzy over bones appears to be the result of a $24 million reward offered by POW advocacy groups in the United States. The money is for the return of a live POW, not for remains. But the story has been scrambled in Southeast Asia where peasants are spreading the word that Americans will pay big bucks for human bones.

The $24 million was pledged by 21 members of Congress and other private parties. In 1986, a group of veterans denounced the reward by going to Thailand and scattering flares in plastic envelopes along the Mekong River. No one has collected on the offer, but the reward still stands, according to Eugene "Red" McDaniel, a former POW and sponsor of the reward.

The Pentagon wasn't pleased with the reward. It is vigorously opposed to paying for the return of anyone, dead or alive, and has opted instead to negotiate with Southeast Asian governments for the voluntary return of remains.

The U.S. Embassy in Bangkok is frequently offered bogus identification tags and other supposed remains by con artists. Sources told us that even chicken bones and pig remains are sold on the black market. But the buyers are usually Cambodians or Thais who think they can find an American buyer. There is no evidence yet that Americans have paid money for POW or MIA remains.

For years, peasants have scoured the rural areas of Southeast Asia scavenging scrap metal from American airplanes that crashed during the war. But now the scavenging of bones is taking precedence.

One veteran POW activist who recently returned from Cambodia told our associate Melinda Mann that he sold the bones as a good investment. "To them, it's better to buy American remains than gold or dollars because of inflation." Of the more than 2,000 Americans missing in the war, 83 of them were lost in Cambodia. Past offers by the Cambodian government to negotiate for the return of remains have been rebuffed by the U.S. government, which has not wanted to imply any recognition of Phnom Penh. But recently there has been some cooperation between the two countries. In June, the Hun Sen government announced the creation of a high-ranking commission to seek the remains of servicemen. The government claims to have dog tags and some remains already.

The refugees were under the impression that they could buy their way into citizenship.

U.S. driven by freedom to drive

BOSTON — As I first turn the pages of the newspaper, I barely notice the ads. The cover stories are what I'm after, sober accounts of the war-torn in the Middle East, grim details about the buildup to protect "our way of life," uneasy projections about oil and the economic future.

But gradually the subliminal message in the ads comes into focus as an odd and unsettling counterpoint to the news. They are selling cars, the symbols of "our way of life." Cars are a central character in this conflict that threatens that other American freedom: the freedom to drive.

This is what one carmaker promises in the latest catalog of 1990: "That last-day-of-school feeling of exhilaration and independence you may have been missing for quite some time."

This is what another boasts while we read 30,000 letters to protest our society: "It not only looks like fun, it is fun. The unadmitted king of the pleasure cruise."

This is what a third sells as we ship protective gear to guard against Iraq's chemical weapons: "In warm, sunny climates, an Italian called for a Cadillac. Today it only calls for $10,919."

These messages already seem as much a part of the ads that once showed doctors recommending Corvair. There is not a single mention of gas mileage. The words used are product and performance, power and luxury. There are no warnings that cars may be hazardous to our health.

If the advertisers are caught in a time lag, what are we made of as our leaders? In these early weeks, the President has issued no statement about our four-wheeled dependence. He has issued only the most casual words about conservation as he gave his best of Republicanism. His son of his man has asked Americans to car-pool or even change our mind now on Labor Day. The only concerted action in the nation's capital has been anger at the Clinton car price.

Back to work at home is the subject of a commander-in-chief (then in the sweater Jimmy Carter donned in the oil crisis of the '70s). This climate may not want to remind us that he was part of the problem during the deregulated decade, when the country was allowed to forget about energy and put our pedal to the metal.

Now, an environmentalist Barry Commoner puts it: "We have a military policy instead of an energy policy." America has driven itself into this desert conflict. We may make war over what we waste.

The ads before us are emblems of the era in which the all-American movie ends in a car chase and the all-American rite of passage is registering to drive, not to vote. They are emblems of an era in which we still believe what we were once told: What's good for General Motors is good for the country.

Today the United States uses 40 percent of the oil being produced in the world. Over 80 percent of that is for transportation. Our cars travel some 1,200 billion miles a year, almost as far as all the cars in the world put together. Half of the trips are made by a driver alone.

We built our suburbs for cars, decorated our cities by car, paved some two percent of our land for them and polluted the air for them. As the ad puts it: "Seven cars make a statement. This one makes an exclamation." When Americans are also being asked to do for oil, that is indeed an exclamation point.

In the days since the young troops landed in Saudi Arabia, some have called for more drilling of our own shores, and others for nuclear energy. One would have us choose the pollution of our shores over conservation; another is sure we would prefer the dangers of nuclear waste to nuclear.

It seems that Washington is still stuck in the stagnant, fuel-guzzling '50s, when we wanted time as well as energy — horses and fuel. We know the importance of gas that we use less gas, cars that use reasonable resources from crops to sun, cars that run on entirely different engines. We know the value of mass transit. But our government behaved as if the oil would run forever.

The budget from the Midwest sounds an unhappy wake-up call. Half a world away on desert sands, our men and women are expected to fight for access to inexpensive oil. But at home, our leaders still remain reluctant to ask Americans what they can do and do without for their country.

So, "heartland of America" has a very different meaning these days. It's beginning to sound like cardiac arrest.

Cars are a central character in this conflict.

Shuttle countdown begins

By WILLIAM HARWOOD
UPI Staff Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL — Countdown clocks started ticking today for the repaired and presumably leak-free shuttle Columbia's pre-dawn blastoff Saturday on a long-delayed astronomy flight, NASA's first shuttle mission in four months.

"We've been waiting for this for a long time," a NASA spokesman said, looking back on the space agency's long, launchless summer. "Everybody's ready to go."

Columbia's carefully scripted countdown began on time at 1 a.m. EDT today and if all goes well, the veteran spacecraft and its seven-man crew will take off at 11:17 a.m. Saturday, streaking through the nighttime sky in a 28-day orbit visible for hundreds of miles, weather permitting.

Commander Vance Brand, 59, co-pilot Guy Gardner, 42, John "Mike" Lousage, 44, Robert Parker, 53, Jeffrey Hoffman, 45, and civilian astronomer Ronald Parise, 39, and Samuel Duran, 46, were scheduled to fly to Florida from Houston tonight for final preparations.

The astronauts, working around the clock in two shifts, plan to spend at least nine days in orbit training a battery of high-tech telescopes on planets, stars and galaxies to study high-energy light that cannot penetrate Earth's atmosphere.

Unlike the Hubble Space Telescope, which was launched from Discovery April 25, the four telescopes aboard Columbia will remain in the spacecraft's cargo bay throughout the mission, operated by the ship's crew much like a ground-based observatory.

The relatively modest $150 million payload promises revolutionary results, giving astronomers their first detailed glimpse of what the universe looks like in the high-energy ultraviolet and X-ray regions of the spectrum.

Space agency managers debated delaying Columbia's launch a day or so in order to first move the shuttle Discovery to nearby launch pad 30B for work to ready the ship for a higher-priority Or 5 flight to carry the European-built Ulysses solar probe into space.

But late Tuesday, engineers reported Discovery would not be ready for the move until Saturday night at the earliest, and shuttle program officials decided to press ahead with plans to launch Columbia on time.

"The schedule shows Columbia's going to be ready for its launch on the first (of September)," said a NASA spokesman. "So the decision was to go for launch."

NASA engineers wanted to get Discovery on its launch pad before Columbia's liftoff if at all possible to avoid losing time in the event Columbia runs into problems getting off pad 39A.

But with work inside the Vehicle Assembly Building to bolt Discovery to a pair of boosters and an external tank lagging behind schedule, Columbia's crew was cleared for an on-time blastoff Saturday.

Columbia originally was scheduled for launch May 30, but the flight was delayed because of a hydrogen fuel leak in the ship's 17-inch-wide "disconnect" fitting, which allows the external tank to be jettisoned in space.

Pine Crest Elementary School fourth graders Lorina Nuñez, 10, and Timothy Wynn, 10, this morning tied a yellow ribbon around a tree on campus to honor U.S. soldiers in the Midwest.

Church

Gainesville and other world events.

"Sunday morning, I announced that we would have the church open each morning from 8 to 9:30 for anyone wishing to come in for comfort and meditation," said Rev. Joan Query, Pastor. He added that there is no special format or program presented. "It's just that our doors are open, and everyone is welcome, regardless of their church affiliation. People can come in and pray, express their feelings about these problems with each other, or just sit and meditate."

Each morning, Rev. Query posts lists of problems that are of worldwide and local concern on various doors of the office and sanctuary. This morning's listings included the problems in the Persian Gulf, the women and children dependents now being allowed to leave the area, the crash of the U.S. troop transport in Ramstein, West Germany killing 10 Americans, and in Central Florida, the tragic student murders at the University of Florida in Gainesville.

"I realize not all the churches in the area are able to be open like this every morning," said Rev. Query, "but we'd certainly be happy to act as a central point for the entire area and invite everyone, whether or not they are church members, to stop in. For those who can't make it during this time period," he added, "our custodian will keep the doors open throughout the morning." Query pointed out that the main entrance doors are not open, that entry should be made through the office door off of Park Avenue, then through the patio area into the sanctuary door.

"We have a lot of serious problems in the world," Query said, "and we'll have our doors open every morning, including Saturdays, to help as many people as we can."

"At least a half dozen people were already waiting when the doors were opened at 8 a.m. today morning."

The church is located at 419 Park Ave., Sanford.

SAT

State Education Commissioner Betty Castor was "disappointed that Florida appears to be a part of the national trend."

Education department spokeswoman Rene Waters said Tuesday.

The SAT, taken by about 1 million high school students annually, is administered by the Educational Testing Service in Princeton, N.J. Each of the two parts of the multiple-choice test is scored on a scale of 200 to 800.

Florida's 1990 high school graduates dropped their average verbal score by two points to 418, while average math scores dropped one point to 485.

Florida's average scores were also below the national averages, which were 434 on the verbal section and 487 on the math.

However, Waters said that in some districts, including Volusia County, test scores went up 10 to 15 points. She also said that minority test scores have increased.

But the growing proportion of unprepared students taking the exam is throwing the statewide SAT scores off, because the proportion of college prep students taking the test has remained about the same, Waters said.

Despite the lower statewide average, the requirement for entering the state university system remain high, and will stay that way because students entering the university system are meeting the requirements, McNamahan said.

"There is a 100-point rise in SAT scores among our entering freshmen," he said. "We have more people at the high end of the scale. Those people entering have better staying power between freshman and sophomore year."

Nationally, SAT averages are at their lowest point since 1980, said College Board President Donald M. Stewart, who blamed the poor verbal test scores on parents, schools and a lack of interest in reading.

In telling Congressional Quarterly: "Americans don't die for prices, but for ideas. It will only be a matter of time before the publishers ask why American boys are fighting to defend democracy and restore another."

Fortunately, after four weeks of mounting tension in the Persian Gulf, there is faint cause for optimism.

The last best hope for peace may be the meeting Thursday in Amman, Jordan, in which U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar and Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz of Iraq try to negotiate an end to the crisis.

The United Nations already has earned new respect during the crisis by firmly restating

Iraqi aggression. The U.N. Security Council condemned the rape of Kuwait by Saddam Hussein, punishing the outrage the Iraqi desert expeditionists call "annexation."

It endorsed a trade and financial boycott of Iraq, gave nations the right to enforce the embargo and demanded that Saddam free the foreigners he holds hostage.

Now that Saudi Arabia appears to be adequately defended by a multinational coalition, it is time to attempt to liberate Kuwait by diplomacy.

The U.N. position is unequivocal. It requires Iraq's immediate and unconditional withdrawal from Kuwait.

In a televised appearance Tuesday, Saddam grandiosely proposed that he debate Bush and British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher on television.

Surrounded by his foreign hostages, the Baghdad bully suggested "a debate on television for the whole world to see."

Such a debate is a non-starter, of course, but Saddam clearly is worried. The self-styled "Sword of the Arabs" has been reduced to hiding behind the skirts and diapers of helpless hostages, many of whom are women and children.

Saddam may now be intimidated enough to permit his foreign minister to negotiate seriously with de Cuellar. But the most serious impediment to the negotiations is Saddam's own lack of credibility.

Not to put too fine a point on it, he is a liar.

questions on the Nov. 6 general election ballot Tuesday.

The penny sales tax, which would be imposed for one year, would raise an estimated $55.6 million during year following Jan. 1, 1991. The revenues would be split between the county and seven cities based roughly on the amount of revenues collected in each area from the tax. The revenues would only be spent for law enforcement equipment and related improvements.

Sheriff John Falk, who has sought the tax for more than a year, wants to spend the county's $15 million share for a new sheriff's office and a 400-bed work-release facility for the jail. Sanford would collect about $5 million from the tax. City officials plan to use the money to renovate the current police station and build new facilities.

Longwood would collect about $850,000 from the tax which the city plans to use to expand their police station.

Chickassawhatchee will ask voters to consider taxing themselves a second ballot question this year though. Voters will be asked to spend an average of $12 per year for 30 years to pay for a $50 million sensitive lands purchase program.

County officials will review more than 35,000 acre in the county for possible purchase and preservation, including parcels along the Wekiva, St. Johns and Suwannee rivers. Completion of the Spring Hammock area purchase would also be accomplished with the program.

Killings

"It's clear this part of the country has some maniac on the loose." University of Florida President John Lombardi said. "We can't emphasize too much that students and other members of the community have to be keenly and intensely aware of security issues."

A young woman and her boyfriend were found slain Tuesday in an apartment near the campus and police said they appeared to be victims of the same killer who mutilated the bodies of three female students earlier this week.

Police Chief Wayland Chiles Jr. said no suspects had been identified and refused to say how the latest victims died or whether their bodies had been mutilated.

All five bodies were found in private apartments in southwest Gainesville, within 3 miles of the University of Florida campus, said Chiles and "We have every reason to believe that all the bodies found are all connected to one or two suspects."

The FBI was expected to release a personality profile of the killer Wednesday, and a noon prayer service was scheduled for the victims at the university.

The bodies found Tuesday at the Orlowood apartment complex were identified by authorities as University of Florida students Tracy Poole, 23, of Palm Springs North and Manuel Tabares, 23, of Coral City.

The Gainesville Sun, quoting sources, reported the killer forced his way into the apartment through a sliding glass door. But police would not confirm the report. The newspaper also reported there were signs of forced entry at the scene of the first three killings.

A neighbor, Dave Dunham of Shalabi, said Tabares was an athlete.

"He was a big guy, he worked out, he was on the crewing team. He's the last one you would think couldn't take care of himself," Dunham said.

Investigators acknowledged that the first three victims had been mutilated but refused to elaborate. The Gainesville Sun, quoting unidentified sources, said at least one of the young women was desecrated and one or more of the victims' nipples had been cut off.

On Monday police and sheriff's departments set up a 60-member task force to investigate the slayings. Forty-six more officers from the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the Florida Highway Patrol arrived in Gainesville Tuesday, along with two FBI teams specializing in serial murders.

The FDLE also sent the crime lab experts who looked at each serial killer Ted Bundy, who was executed last year for the 1976 blue-roving murders of two security guards at Florida State University in Tallahassee, 130 miles northwest of Gainesville.

"We're doing everything possible to follow up on every lead, every shred of evidence," Chiles said. "In the next few days, after 6 p.m., you'll see more patrol officers than in any city in the country."

OPEC agrees to boost production

By JOEY WARRICK
United Press International

VIENNA — OPEC ministers Wednesday endorsed a temporary rise in oil production to make up for the shortfall of oil on global markets resulting from the crisis in the Persian Gulf.

The accord, approved despite objections from Iran and the absence of Libya and Iraq, allows members of the 13-nation cartel to increase output at will "until such time as the crisis is deemed to be over."

"This is an agreement on principles. We do not mention time, we do not mention quantity, we do not mention level," said OPEC Secretary-General Subroto in announcing the pact to reporters.

Downplaying the lack of unanimity in the decision, Subroto said: "We leave it to the particular nations to accept (the accord), to do what they can, to do what is in the interest of their countries."

The accord is a triumph for Saudi Arabia and Venezuela, which had sought OPEC's blessing to increase their output to make up for a global shortfall of 4 million barrels a day resulting from a U.N. embargo of Iraq and Kuwait.

The sanctions were imposed following Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

A spokesman for the Nigeria delegation said the accord would likely result in additional OPEC production of 3 million to 3.5 million barrels a day, thus erasing most of the anticipated shortfall and easing fears of serious shortages in the fourth quarter.

Oil prices fell sharply in London trading following reports of the agreement by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

Declaring that OPEC "stands for market stability and regular supply of oil to consumers," the agreement states the cartel will "increase production, in accordance with need, in order to maintain the above-stated objectives."

"This is a temporary arrangement, applicable only until such time as the present crisis is deemed to be over, and this arrangement shall not in any way compromise the provisions of the July 1980 resolution, which is still valid," the accord states. OPEC set quotas and target prices at its last formal meeting in Geneva on July 26-27.

The declaration also strongly urges industrialized nations to reduce their emergency oil stocks to help balance oil markets.

It says the additional oil released by OPEC and other suppliers should be "primarily directed toward the countries of the Third World, which are those that will be most immediately and adversely affected by any supply disruption."

Ten of 11 OPEC members represented at the current informal talks in Vienna agreed to the terms of the accord on Tuesday but delayed a final decision 24 hours to give Libya and Iraq a last chance to send delegations.

Air Force plane crashes, overseas, leaves 10 dead

United Press International

WASHINGTON — An Air Force transport plane carrying medical and maintenance supplies crashed shortly after takeoff Wednesday in West Germany, killing 10 and injuring five, officials said. Two people were reported missing.

An Air Force spokesman confirmed that the C-6 transport took off from Ramstein Air Force base shortly after 1 a.m. local time for the 90-mile flight to Rhein-Main Air Force Base near Frankfurt.

The plane crashed in a field about a quarter-mile from the end of the runway, the spokesman said. The cause of the crash was under investigation.

Air Force officials did not disclose the nature of injuries sustained by survivors.

The aircraft was attached to the 60th Military Airlift Wing, Travis Air Force Base, Calif., but the flight crew was from the 433rd Military Airlift Wing, Kelly Air Force Base, Texas.

An Air Force spokeswoman said 10 of the 17 people aboard were from the San Antonio air base. Officials said they did not know how many of the eight crew members and two maintenance personnel from the Texas air base were killed or injured.

The transport plane was in Europe to participate in operations linked to the deployment of U.S. forces in the Middle East, officials said.

Bush

Iraq's Aug. 2 takeover of Kuwait.

"To preserve the peace, America will always stand for what is right," Bush said. "To preserve her commitments, America will always stand by her friends."

"Together with allies old and new we've seen a nearly unanimous condemnation of Iraq's injustices in the Persian Gulf region and we've been a part of a remarkable international commitment to peace and the rule of law," he added.

The president, who broke off his Kennebunkport, Maine, vacation for a few days to deal with the Persian Gulf crisis at the White House, said in his broadcast to the thousands of soldiers, sailors and Marines sent overseas:

"You're now in one of the toughest military missions in modern history, enduring the long, hot days of the gulf region's cruelest month."

However, he added, "As tough as it is, thanks to you, nobody is feeling the heat more than the government in Baghdad."

"To the sailors who have kissed their wives or husbands goodbye for now, to the soldiers and Marines protecting peace in the desert heat, to the fliers in the air, to the reservists committed and ready, to the men behind the guns. Stand strong," he said. "Our troops around the world are providing the kind of strength and security that makes this mission possible. And with the support of friends and family and the admiration of this great nation, you're proving you'll do what it takes at any hour, anywhere, to contain aggression and keep freedom's light alive."

"We have an important advantage in the Persian Gulf because in the air, at sea and on land, soldiers of peace will always be more than a match for a tyrant bent on aggression," Bush declared. "With your strength, we have the will,

Together with you, we will find the peace. May God bless you and bring you home safely and soon."

Bush told congressional leaders and 180 members of key military and foreign affairs committees Tuesday that "the basic elements of our strategy are now in place" that "our intention and indeed the intention of almost every country in the world is to persuade Iraq to withdraw" from Kuwait.

The president said Iraq must be convinced that "it cannot benefit from this illegal occupation, that it will pay a stiff price for trying to hold on and even a stiffer price for widening the conflict."

"We seek," Bush added, "to achieve these goals without further violence."

Vice President Dan Quayle and Secretary of State James Baker, as well as an array of other top ranking officials, broke off their vacations to be on hand for the Middle East policy review.

The meeting was prompted by congressional complaints that there had not been enough communication with the White House during the Middle East crisis.

Illinois tornadoes kill 24, guard called to aid

By BOB MAGLIARI
United Press International

PLAINFIELD, Ill. — The death toll from twisters that hit northeastern Illinois rose to 24 Wednesday as national guard troops put down scattered looting and the governor planned to visit the devastated area.

Quick-thinking high school coaches may have prevented a worse tragedy by moving 150 student athletes in school to an underground gymnasium moments before the twisters destroyed room where they were practicing.

No students were hurt when tornadoes leveled Plainfield High School about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday but authorities reported more than 300 people injured in the region.

"It was miraculous," Principal James Waldorf said. "The coaches sensed the pressure in the building change and they knew something was wrong."

Three people were killed in an administration building near the high school as the tornadoes cruised off, hitting homes and heavily damaged a church complex, then skipped southwest to the northern outskirts of Joliet, where they chewed through the Cedar Woods apartment complex in Crest Hill.

Will County Deputy Coroner William Ferguson said 84 people were known dead and seven hospitals in the area treated at least 328 people injured by the twisters.

Ferguson said among the dead were three people pulled from the wreckage of the St. Mary Immaculate Roman Catholic Church, including school Principal Sister Mary Keenan. Eight people were killed in an apartment complex in Crest Hill, where three-story buildings were chopped to one floor or less.

Gov. James R. Thompson was scheduled to arrive by helicopter Wednesday at the high school to begin assessing damage.

Troops ready to confront Mohawks counterattacks

By LAURE WATSON
United Press International

OTTAWA — More than 3,000 Canadian troops, equipped with machine guns, tanks and armored personnel carriers, waited orders to march against Mohawk barricades at two reserves south of Montreal.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Jean Chretien appealed Tuesday to the Indians to put down their arms, warning that a confrontation with the Canadian military would bring "dishonor to our people."

Gen. Kent Foster, head of the army command for the armed forces, told reporters the army was prepared for a massive counterattack by heavily armed Mohawks positioned outside the Kanata reserve at Oka and the Kahnawake reserve at Chateauguy.

The dispute involving Mohawks in the two communities began several months ago over a proposed expansion of the Oka golf course on land Mohawks claim is an ancient burial ground. The dispute turned violent July 11 when police stormed the barricades erected by the Mohawks and one officer was killed.

Days later, sympathetic Indians at the Kahnawake Reserve near Chateauguy blocked a highway and a key bridge linking the town to Montreal.

"We will succeed. We will not fail," Foster told reporters at a news conference in St. Hubert, Quebec.

Workers ready for furloughs

By BOB MAGLIARI
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Joyce Bevilacqua, a Department of Health and Human Services telecyclist, supports her four children as a grandchild, says the impending government furlough means the rest will get paid not much else.

Mary Pitts, who works for the Department of Appeals, says she will have to be by the boards and maybe selling her daughter's hopes of going to off-campus housing at college. And making the tuition payment "is going to be tight," Pitts said, "but Jesus is my supplier."

Jones, Pitts and about 3.1 million federal government employees nationwide, received notices this week of a possible government furlough that could start as early as Oct. 1 if White House and congressional budget negotiators fail to reach an agreement on cutting the deficit by about $50 billion for fiscal year 1991. Discussions are scheduled to resume Sept. 7.

Under the law, all employees would be affected by a furlough except military personnel, presidential appointees, Indian Health Service clinical staff and a few other categories.

Scientists study garlic's powers

By BOB MAGLIARI
United Press International

WASHINGTON — Garlic, legendary for repelling vampires and lovers, attracted about 300 scientists to discuss the odoriferous herb's possible curative powers for everything from heart disease to cancer.

The First World Congress on the Health Significance of Garlic and Garlic Constituents opened Tuesday with a discussion of garlic's power to ward off heart disease — the nation's No. 1 killer.

"In recent years, the research progress has been spectacular," said Robert I-San Lin, chairman of the conference sponsored by Pennsylvania State University, the Department of Agriculture and Nutrition International Co. Lin's Irvine, Calif. consulting company.

"The recent work has shown in both human and animal studies that garlic does provide certain health benefits if taken in appropriate amounts," Lin said.

Atlanta to 'burn' again

Local select soccer squad to play in Labor Day event

From staff reports
Burns' Burners, an Under-14 boys select team in the S.C. United youth soccer organization out of Casselberry, will be in Atlanta this weekend to participate in the Ford/Felt Labor Day Tournament. According to Brian King, a father of one of the Burners, there were 270 youth teams in the tournament last year along with 28 senior teams. This year, there will be 16 teams in the boys' Under-14 bracket divided into four groups. On Saturday and Sunday, the teams in each group will play each other with the group winner going on to Sunday's semifinals at 6 p.m. Both the championship and third-place game will be played at noon Monday. The Burners will play their group games at 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. Saturday and 8 a.m. Sunday. Most of the 17 Burners live in Seminole County. On the Burners' roster are Damon Cottingham (Altamonte Springs), "Doc" Delaney (Lake Mary), "Doc" (Longwood), Chad Felter (Casselberry), Randy Jenkins (Orlando), Alan King (Winter Park), Salman Lewis (Winter Springs), Will Lipcomb (Lake Mary), Brad Massey (Winter Spring), Sean McSorley (Orlando), Craig Noyes (Maitland), Paul Riggs (Longwood), Ryan Smith (Chuluota), Jeff Sotman (Winter Park), Jason Tiedell (Longwood), Charles Whitmore (Casselberry) and David Kinsey (Casselberry). Joti Burns is the head coach. Diebler and McSorley are the Burners' offensive leaders while Smith, the goalkeeper, anchors the defense. Two weeks ago, the Burners played in and won the six-team Clearwater Invitational.

County spikers seek answers to questions

By TONY BUCHANAN
 Herald Sports Editor
Questions, questions, questions. With the high school volleyball season set to begin next Tuesday with a four-team jamboree at Lake Mary High School, questions surrounds all of Seminole County's teams.

Even Oviedo, the defending Seminole Athletic Conference, 4A-District 9 and 4A-Region V champions have questions that need answering if the Lions are to repeat. "The girls look good so far, but I'll have to see them play in a game to get a better idea," said Oviedo coach Anita Carlson.

The Lions are led by five returners, including main setter Betsy Hughes (who will be a senior). Other returners are senior twins Jenny and Jill Wise, senior Becky Jacobson and junior Mimi Tran.

Both Jacobson and Tran were key alternates on last year's varsity team. This year, Carlson will have Tran play all the way through the rotation instead of just playing the backline.

The Lions have already gotten a boost from a new face and a familiar one. Lori Roger, a sophomore who transferred to Oviedo from Mentor's Academy midway through last year, has impressed Carlson with her hustle on the back row.

Up front, junior Carrie MacLeod appears to be fully recovered from her broken leg suffered in a match at Seminole last fall. Last year, Carlson had hoped MacLeod would be one of the Lions' main hitters.

Moving up to the varsity team this year are juniors Tonya Mitchell, Leslie Heise and Michelle Schindler, who all played on Oviedo's junior varsity team last year.

Cindy Henry at Lake Mary is in much the same boat. She has four solid returning starters. The key to the Rams' season will be how the fifth and sixth players perform.

"We have four strong returning players in Melissa Moss (junior), Tara Calvin (junior), Dana Maresch (senior) and Marti Citarella (senior)," said Henry. "All four were starters last year and they're even better now. All four of them have really improved. They went to camp this summer and worked hard."

"The key will be filling in the other two spots. We have some kids coming along. The only thing against them is inexperience. We have two good-looking freshmen. The question is, how much can they learn quickly?"

Two former junior varsity players give the Rams some experience to work with. Junior Lan Matthews will be on the floor when Lake Mary is in its 6-3 formation. After a year off, senior April Goss has returned to play volleyball. Goss was on the junior varsity as a sophomore, then played junior soccer as a junior. Another new familiar face is senior Penny

While just about every Seminole County girls' volleyball team has questions to be answered, each team is blessed with several strong

Powell. For the last three years, Powell, who was in Henry's volleyball class as a sophomore, has played in the Lake Mary band. This year, she decided to come out for volleyball.

Rounding out the 10-player varsity roster are freshmen Nikki Preece and Diane Duber.

At Seminole High School, Coach Beth Corso has possibly the largest varsity squad in the school's history with 14 players. Not only that, but Seminole also has an 11-player junior varsity squad.

"I pulled up all but one of last year's junior varsity to play varsity this year," said Corso. "We have five returning players with nine players new to the varsity."

Leading the Seminoles will be returners Lynn Guy, Charlene Guy, Heather Pogram, Melody Brorup and Kelly Epps. Charlene Guy is the only junior in the group.

Another senior is Tanesha Shine, a second-year player up from the junior varsity. Also up from the junior varsity are Christy Oliver, Jennifer McBride, Amy Williams, Laurie Faulkner and Becky Blair.

Newcomers to the program are sophomore Dawn Burke (a first-year player who attended a three-day volleyball camp this summer) and junior Marie McClanahan (a transfer from Gainesville who has worked her way into the starting line-up).

Seminole would be in even better shape had not Deanna Rathbun and Jennifer Boone, a pair of returning seniors, suffered knee injuries that will keep them out the entire volleyball season.

The situation at Lake Brantley, a volleyball state power a couple of years ago, is one of change. The Patriots will be playing for their third coach in as many years, Eileen Gabbard taking over for Dana Gabbard, who replaced Wolfgang Halbig last year.

Miami shuffles nose tackles, waives veteran QB Stoudt

United Press International

MIAMI — The Miami Dolphins waived John Jurkovic Tuesday, then picked up Jackie Cline to help replace Alfred Ogbey at the nose tackle position and compensate for the suspension of Brian Bachie.

Bachie, the starting nose tackle, was suspended by the NFL last week for the final two preseason games and the first three regular season games after he tested positive for steroids. The left Ogbey and Jurkovic, a rookie free agent from Eastern Illinois, along on the depth chart.

John Jurkovic injured his ankle in Friday's 17-16 victory over the Denver Broncos and the Dolphins decided to waive him.

Coach Don Shula said he would start Ogbey against the Minnesota Vikings at Joe Robbie Stadium Friday night, but also would experiment with moving defensive end Ted Turner inside in the nose and replacing Turner with Free B acquisition Karl Wilson at end. For additional help, Shula picked up Cline, who was cut Monday by Atlanta. The Falcons picked up Cline as a Free agent last winter after he had spent three seasons as a reserve nose tackle and end for the Dolphins. Defensive end Mike Sumner was waived to make room for Cline.

The Dolphins also waived veteran quarterback Cliff Stoudt, choosing to go with youth in third-year player Scott Secules and rookie Scott Mitchell to back up Dan Marino. Stoudt said the Dolphins had tried to trade Stoudt before releasing him, but found no interest.

Stoudt, 35, was signed as a free agent to back up to Marino last year. He was cut in the preseason, but re-signed three days later when Marino suffered a minor injury.

Miami also placed three players on the inactive physically unable to perform list, which means they cannot play in the first six games and do not count on the roster. They are safety Bobby Harden, cornerback Sean Vanhorne and safety Steven Moore.

Edberg upset at U.S. Open

United Press International

NEW YORK — Two weeks after he was crowned the world's best player, Stefan Edberg bombed out in the first round of the U.S. Open Tuesday, losing in straight sets to Alexander Volkov of the Soviet Union.

Volkov, who already had plans to leave New York Wednesday to compete in a club tournament in Berlin, required mercy an hour and 55 minutes to register the biggest victory of his career, 6-3, 7-5 (7-3), 6-2.

Edberg, winner of 21 consecutive matches coming into Flushing Meadows, is the first top-ranked man to be eliminated in the first round of the Open since 1971, when John Newcombe lost to Jan Kodeš.

The loss by Edberg opened a big door in the top half of the draw for Ivan Lendl, an Open finalist the last eight years and three times the champion.

Lendl, who has dropped to No. 3 in the rankings, was seeded to meet Edberg in the semifinals. He overcame a 4-1 first set deficit in his opening match Tuesday to beat Canadian Martin Laurendeau, 7-5, 6-2, 6-2.

John McEnroe, in the same quarter as Edberg, also could have benefited although he is unseeded for the first time in 13 years. McEnroe, a three-time Open champion but unable to survive the second round the previous two years, defeated Javier Sanchez, 7-6 (10-8), 7-6 (7-3), 6-4.

Fourth seed Andre Agassi, the losing French Open finalist, also advanced to the second round with an easy 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 victory over Canadian Grant Connell, while No. 8 Aaron Krichbaum struggled to a five-set victory over Canadian Andrew Panjவர்.

Jennifer Capriati, the 14-year-old No. 15 seed, making her professional debut in the U.S. Open, defeated 18-year-old West German Anika Huber, 7-5, 7-5.

Martina Navratilova, a four-time Open champion and the second seed this year, crushed Federica Haudumiller of Argentina, 6-4, 6-0, in 50 minutes.

Sanford Wins Late Model 'End of the Month' Title

Special to The Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH - Warming up for this coming weekend's 100-mile Budweiser Twin 100 Late Model Championship, Stan Eads drove the late Glenn Chevy/Kelsey's Plymouth Camaro to a win in the 50-lap End of the Month Late Model Championship on Saturday night at New Smyrna Speedway.

At the finish of the front at the start, Eads, the fastest qualifier, powered ahead and was in the lead for good as he blasted off turn two.

For the first 25 laps, Eads led by five car lengths, but at half-way, problems with lapped cars allowed Bruce Lawrence and Greg Froemming to catch up.

During the second half of the race, the lights flashed and a train threaded around slower cars, with Lawrence sticking his front end under Eads' rear deck on several occasions.

At the finish, it was Eads, Lawrence, Froemming, David Russell and Pete Orr in Dick Dorward's Chevy Lumina.

On the move after crashing on lap one of the Sportsman feature, Jim Sills muscled through inside at half-way, and took the point for good. The Burkett brothers, Jeff and Ronnie, were second and third.

George Rhone, a cagey veteran who proudly wears an old Greg Sacks "Crisco" fire suit, drove a Ford to victory in the "A" Bomber feature. Chet Shirah was second over Donnie Narmore and Chuck Feludat.

For the 1st time this season, Bobby Sears won the Mini Stock final. Early leader Ted Vulpius held on for second over Jerry Symbons and previous week's winner Dink Sullivan.

Mike Fitch started in the Florida Modified final, and it took him a few laps to get by pole sitter Gery Salvatore in his new car.

But when Fitch got going good, no one could touch him and he went on to win his 20th feature on his way to a super season in the Graham/Walker machine.

Once again, the best race of the night turned out to be the "B" Bomber main. Butch Pierce, in one of his rare appearances, this season, showed that he had not lost his touch.

On the very last lap, he got under then-leader Jerry Smith to bring the crowd to its feet and score a popular victory.

John Townsend posted a large field to win both Spectator Racing events.

ORLANDO SPEEDWORLD

ORLANDO - Dave McCabe took his first Late Model Feature win in FASCAR Late Model action on Friday night at Orlando SpeedWorld.

Using his pole starting spot to build up a big advantage, McCabe had stretched his lead to nearly half a lap by the drop of the checkers. Driving the Daniel's Used Cars/Piney Racing Chevrolet Camaro, McCabe ended a year of frustration which had seen him drop out of several races while leading.

Newcomer Ken Watson drove a superb race in the Watson Harvesting Buick, holding off Tim Fuller for second. Blasting out the top five were Paul Orr and David Russell.

Jim Sills also scored a wire-to-wire victory in the 50-lap Sportsman Special. Despite several caution periods, including one for high point man Ricky Marshall's blown engine, Sills held off Von Gross for the win. Steve Latham finished a distant third over Timmy Todd and Steve Lamb of Miami.

Glenn Carter took his second straight Florida Modified win after surviving some last lap "wheel banging" with Mike Fitch. David Indiviri, Ricky Wood and George Rhone rounded out the top five.

Carter celebrated his win in his wife/crew chief Betty. "She is in the hospital and I miss her," said Carter, who now has an even dozen victories for the year.

Doing it again in the Mini Stock was Bobby Sears, who took win No. 31 of the year. "Joggin' Jim Mattews returned after a long layoff and drove an excellent race to finish second over Scott Wills. Dink Sullivan and Bill Martin.

John Ripsey slam-banged his way to the top of the number feature win in a race over Dave Johnson and Bill Loomis.

Only six cars showed up for "A" Bomber action, but the race was the strangest of the evening. Gey McChoberts zoomed on his way to victory, but he blew his engine, collecting Jimmy Johns and Donnie Narmore in the process.

Narmore replaced a flat tire and came back to challenge Wayne Detweiler for the lead. But the two cars came together on the last lap, with Narmore's mount balancing precariously on the outside retaining wall.

In the consolation, third running Mike Presby crossed the finish line as the checkered and caution flags were waived simultaneously over Presby, who scored his first win ever at SpeedWorld. Detweiler was credited with second place and Narmore third.

Fan participation race winners were Wyatt Karp in a Ford Mustang and the Pontiac Firebird of John Martin.

Ann Cole prepares to cook.

Cook cuts mustard, used to cut gravy

By JOAN KING
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Ann Cole, our Cook of the Week, and her son Aaron, 16, have lived in Sanford for 6 years. Cole is originally from Johnson City, Tenn., and visited Sanford often during vacations.

"I had been visiting my Aunt Oma Pilkington of Sanford for over 20 years and decided to move here to be near her. Now, I just live a few blocks away from Aunt Oma," she says.

As Cole reminisces about her life in Tennessee, she remembers baking her first biscuit for her father when she was four. Her mother made the dough and Cole patted it into shape.

"I dropped it on the floor, ran it up a wall and rolled it all over everything but I wanted to bake it for daddy. So I did and he ate it like a good father," she winces.

One of the best times that Cole had in her mother's kitchen was when her mother didn't feel well one day and allowed her to cook on her own. She was about eight and vividly remembers because other family members won't let her forget.

"It's a family joke now," she chuckles. "I learned by watching my mother and really believed I could do it. Mom always cooked wild animals (game) and rabbit was her specialty. Having seen her roast rabbit many times and make gravy from the pan drippings looked easy to me and it always tasted so good. Well, my roasted rabbit was very good also but the gravy was something else. I used 3 cans of cream and too much flour trying to get it right. That gravy was so thick we had to cut it. That's when my family started the saying, 'cut me some gravy,' and they are still laughing at that."

Cole's father was a golf pro and wherever he taught he also contracted for the food concession. While her father instructed golf patrons, her mother cooked and served the food whether it was full meals or short order. By helping out and working with her mother she learned the commercial aspects of cooking.

Woman in rug business is called on the carpet for knocking competition

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are in the carpet business. We do beautiful work and our prices are right. When so-called "friends" show us carpet they have installed in their homes, which they bought somewhere else, and they ask us what we think of it, what should we say? (They even have the nerve to tell us how much they paid for it.)

Nine times out of 10 it is a poor job of installation, and they paid too much. I always tell them the truth. My husband says that I should never knock it; a competition, regardless; otherwise it will sound like our grapes.

These same people never even let us give them an estimate! I say why should we consider their feelings if they don't consider ours? What do you think?

CARPET PEOPLE

DEAR PEOPLE: I think your husband is right. And the same goes for people in the jewelry business, furniture business, fur business and every other kind of business.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 55-year-old man who is very much in love with a 23-year-old girl. I know you think I'm crazy, but this girl really loves me. She even broke up with a young, good-looking man just for me. She worked for me for a short time, but we didn't want any talk around the place, so I had her quit.

ADVICE

My problem is my wife. She won't give me a divorce. Our children are grown, and I offered my wife a very good settlement, which she refused.

Abby, my girlfriend is the sweetest, most unspoiled girl in the world. She is just the opposite of my wife. She appreciates every little thing I've given her, like a small, inexpensive car, some clothes and taking care of her mother's hospital bill. I would gladly give up my last dime to be free to marry this girl. How can I get my wife to give in?

LONG ISLANDER

DEAR ISLANDER: Make her a better offer. She might surprise you. But don't "give up your last dime" for your freedom because that "sweet, unspoiled girl" might also surprise you and disappear when she discovers you're broke.

DEAR ABBY: I think it was very considerate of that hairy husband to shave his chest for his wife. My husband is so hairy as an ape and refuses to do anything about it. We sleep spoon-fashion with me in front, and sometimes I just about go crazy when his big hairy chest heaves up and down and tickles my shoulders and back — in rhythm yet! I know just how that lady must have felt.

TICKLED PINK

DEAR ABBY: A while back you had a letter from a woman who nads her husband shave his chest. She must be screwy. And any man who would let his wife talk him into it must be screwy, too.

I have a very hairy chest, which I wouldn't shave for any amount of money. I sleep only in pajama bottoms, and my wife says she'd rather feel my hairy chest against her cheek than the collar of a mink coat.

Ganglions may not need to be treated

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have had surgical removal of a ganglion on my wrist and have also had numerous ganglions appear. Can you tell me if there is any new treatment to stop the recurrence?

DEAR READER: A ganglion is a squishy, painless, benign cyst that often forms on tendons and nerves, especially around the hand and wrist. The cause is unknown.

Many years ago, patients used to treat ganglions with the family Bible. In those bygone eras, the Bible was very large and heavy — and was standard equipment in most homes. After the patient lay his or her hand on a firm surface with the ganglion facing up, a family member would raise the Bible and...
Fortunately, this dramatic cure is no longer practiced — nor do I recommend it for anti-quinarians. Ganglions do not need treatment unless they enlarge or become painful. If therapy becomes necessary, the cysts can easily be removed by qualified surgeons.

There is no preventative for this common condition. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach To Surgery."

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can you tell me where I can obtain a list of gluten-free foods? I'm at a loss at what to serve my new daughter-in-law who has a wheat-flour allergy.

DEAR READER: Read labels. Those foods made with wheat flour, which normally contains gluten, are best avoided. Many specialty shops and supermarkets carry gluten-free foods; the store manager can direct you to the appropriate display. Also, you may be able to find cookbooks for gluten-sensitive patients; these publications give helpful tips on how to prepare nutritious, gluten-free meals. Check with your local library or bookstore.

In general, gluten-sensitive patients can safely eat other starches, such as potatoes, rice and corn. Rice flour is a palatable substitute for wheat flour.

The winners of this year's Epton Simultaneous Worldwid Bridge Contest held on June 8 were Sven Gustafsson and Soren Lujan of Denmark. They compiled the highest percentage score as far recorded in the five years of this competition. Contributing to their win was the excellent result they achieved on today's deal, when a safety play in the trump suit enabled declarer to make an overtrick. Declarer was the first trick with dummy's king of spades and led the queen of hearts. This can be a losing play if either defender has the singleton king of hearts, but it will gain if West holds any other singleton. When East covered with the king, South won, returned to dummy by overtaking the second spade, and played a second low heart from dummy. Declarer then played low when East followed with the four. This succeeded in leading the defenders to only one trump trick. Most competent declarers would find this play in the trump suit, but the Danish winners were fortunate in that West chose an opening lead of a spade. With a diamond lead, declarer would be forced to play three rounds of spades to shed his diamond bear and would thus lose the timing to play trumps twice from the North hand. If South played three spades and then led the queen of hearts, East would cover as before. Now, should declarer try to lead a low club to the dummy to play a second trump, West could come in with the ace, preventing entry to dummy for the trump safety play.

YOUR BETTER DAY
 Aug. 26, 1990

In the year ahead you could be luckier than usual in your relationships with influential friends. They might be inclined to do things for you that you would never be able to do on your own.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your leadership qualities will be very pronounced today and they will be evident to persons with whom you're involved. Don't be surprised if they collectively edge you up to head the parade. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Mathematician can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You could be extremely lucky today in ways you'd least expect and in situations that are of an unusual nature. Keep rubbing your rabbit's feet and hoping for the best.

SAGITTARIUS (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) People who like you will be inclined to go out of their way to do favors for you today they wouldn't do for others. Some of their deeds will be purely impulsive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You could be luckier than usual today in two very important areas. One pertains to your finances and the other is your status in the eyes of others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have a happy faculty today for recognition of good ideas when you hear them. More importantly, however, will be your ability to talk them to your purpose.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) There is a possibility you will gain in some manner at this time from an arrangement that has been initiated by another. Chance will fit you into the picture.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) A partnership arrangement, one which you enter today, could produce long-range mutual benefits, especially if the alliance is predicated upon something unique.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Substantial gains can be made today in the fulfillment of your ambitious objectives. Don't be afraid to use innovative techniques in pursuing your goals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Things should go rather smoothly for you today if you don't treat your investments more seriously than they deserve. Turn mountains into molehills instead of molehills into mountains.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If there is someone special whose approval you need regarding some changes you want to implement, this is a good day to bring it to his/her attention. Consent is likely.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You and your mate make a well balanced team today for working on endeavors of mutual interest. What one lacks, the other will be able to provide.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Favorable financial conditions appear to be your strong suit today. Use your ingenuity to try to better your lot in life materially.

Making jelly is lost art

As a friend and I sat waiting for a nursing graduation to begin the other evening, our conversation eventually turned to children, food, and some of the lost arts, bread baking, churning butter, and jelly making. She and her grandson were making grape jelly with fruit from vines in the back yard. It was a wonderful, fun thing to do; the results were a beautiful deep pink, and were well received by everyone. But it certainly was not stirring that jelly over a boiling pot. Can it be done in the microwave? You bet it can. And here it is for all those fortunate enough to have their own homegrown grapes, especially Gerry Weiden. If you don't, you can use bottled grape juice or you may want to make some of these other jellies and jams.

Microwaving simplifies preparation of small batches and keeps you and your kitchen cool. Microwaves have an affinity for sugars and fats so it is important to make small batches and use a casserole or butter bowl that will contain the boiling mixture. (It will bubble up).

If you wish to make jelly from fresh fruit, microwave the fruit without water until very soft, then strain juice through a jelly bag (cheesecloth). Unseasoned bottled juice can also be used.

GRAPE JELLY
Prepare 3 glasses and lids.
1 C. grape juice
1/4 C. water
1/4 pkg. (approximately 2 Tbsp. plus 1 tsp.) powdered fruit pectin
1 1/4 C. sugar

MIDGE MYCOFF

ing cooking to dissolve the sugar. Skim off foam. Ladle into glasses, wipe rims well and seal with paraffin*. When glasses are cold, cover with lids. Jelly can also be stored in the refrigerator.

*Do not melt paraffin in the microwave oven. Melt it conventionally. Paraffin is transparent to microwave energy and will not melt.

Apple jelly can be easily made from bottled juice. Its bland flavor blends well with spices and other juices such as cranberry.

CRANBERRY JELLY (Good with ham or pork)
2 C. apple juice
2 1/4 C. sugar
1 pkg. powdered fruit pectin
2 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 C. red cinnamon candies
Combine apple juice, sugar, and fruit pectin in a batter bowl. M/W on 100% power, 5-7 minutes or until mixture boils. Add remaining ingredients and stir until candies dissolve. M/W on 100% power 5-10 minutes or until jelly coats a metal spoon or "sheets" from the spoon. Skim and pour into sterilized jars and seal.

Now is a good time to prepare the holiday favorite — green pepper jelly. Peppers are abundant and inexpensive and just what you have started on your Christmas cooking in August!

GREEN PEPPER JELLY
2 med. Bell peppers
1/4 C. cider vinegar
3/4 C. sugar
2 Tbsp. fresh hot peppers
3 oz. liquid fruit pectin
Green food coloring
Remove seeds from peppers. Grind peppers in food processor blender. Mix with vinegar and sugar. Microwave on 100% power 5-10 minutes or to a rolling boil. Add liquid pectin and continue microcooking on 100% power until mixture comes to a full rolling boil again; cook for one minute. Remove foam and add a few drops of green food coloring. Sterilized jars and seal. Serve on top of cream cheese with crackers or with meats.

Just in case you have access to some fresh peaches you might make some fresh peach butter. It's wonderful on biscuits or toast.

PEACH BUTTER
2 C. coarse peach puree. Peel peaches and chop in food processor to desired consistency.
4 Tbsp. powdered fruit pectin
2 1/4 C. sugar
Measure 2 cups puree into a 2-qt. batter bowl. Stir in pectin. Microwave on 100% power 2 1/2 minutes. Add sugar and M/W on 100% power 3-4 minutes, stirring several times. Test for "sheeting" from metal spoon. Stir several minutes. Pour into sterilized jars. Seal.

Barbecue celebrates end of summer, spices up Labor Day

Newspaper Enterprise Association

For many, Labor Day weekend activities herald the end of summer pleasures. Youngsters are going back to the classroom. And the days begin to wane, as lines from "September Song" remind us.

Few of us are perfect when it comes to cooking — even year-round barbecue chefs goof occasionally. So here are a few quick reminders for those who use their grills primarily for major holidays.

Many outdoor cooks still put food on the grill before coals are ready. This throws off cooking times and may lead to flare-ups as slow coals are primed with lighter fluid. For safety's sake, do not pour more fluid on a fire or even on warm coals. To avoid this unsafe move light charcoal in advance so it will be ready at grilling time.

During the daytime, charcoal is ready when it appears to be about 80 percent gray ash. At night, the coals should be glowing red. Another quick tip is to allow refrigerated foods to warm slightly before cooking.

For best results, begin with a clean cooking grill, heat it over the coals, and brush it with oil. Heating the grill speeds up cooking time, and the oil reduces sticking.

Wood chips lend a special smoky flavor to outdoor cooking. Generally, favorite chips such as hickory or mesquite are soaked in water, and a handful are tossed on the hot coals for an intense flavor. Placing dry chips directly on the coals gives a more subtle flavor. Specialty chips also may carry alder or fruit tree wood chips. An especially pleasant flavor comes from pecan wood, which is widely used in Texas and other states where pecan trees are plentiful. Dried grape vines also lend a distinctive flavor to foods grilled over them.

Barbecue sauces are popular and now come in many varieties — from sweet-and-sour to hot-and-spicy. The secret to using them effectively, whether store-bought or homemade, is to brush on those containing tomato and sugar only during the last 15 minutes of cooking time. This avoids burning. Oil made with garlic or herbs may be brushed on meats throughout grilling.

CURRY-BARBECUED TURKEY THIGGS

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, crushed
1 large onion, finely chopped
3 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon curry powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1 can (13 1/4 ounces) chicken broth
1 cup applesauce
2 tablespoons brown sugar
4 small turkey hindquarters or thighs with drumsticks, about 1 to 1 1/4 pounds each vegetable oil
Hot butter or margarine in medium-size saucepan. Add garlic and onion; saute until tender. Stir in flour, curry, salt and cinnamon. Cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir in broth, applesauce and brown sugar. Heat to boiling. Simmer on low heat 5 minutes, stirring occasionally.

Meanwhile, prepare grill for barbecuing. Rinse turkey; cut at joints to separate drumsticks from thighs. Brush with oil; sprinkle with salt (to taste). Place on grill 6 to 8 inches above medium-hot coals. Grill 45 minutes, turning occasionally. Begin to brush with curry sauce during last 15 minutes of cooking. Grill, turning and brushing occasionally until turkey is fork-tender. Heat and serve leftover sauce separately. This kitchen tested recipe makes 8 servings.

COCONUTTY PEANUT RELAY

3 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 1/2 cups regular long-grain rice (not fast-cooking rice)
2 3/4 cups water
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1/4 cup shelled, roasted peanuts (unsalted and unseasoned)
3 tablespoons toasted flake coconut
Melt butter or margarine in medium-size saucepan. Stir in rice until grains are coated. Add water and bouillon cubes. Bring to boil. Stir in peanuts. Cover. Cook on low heat until liquid is absorbed and rice is tender. Fluff with fork and transfer to oven-proof serving dish. Sprinkle with coconut. Serve immediately or keep warm in oven. This kitchen tested recipe makes 8 servings.

Colbert to head state group

By JOHN PETERSON
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — William L. Colbert, city attorney for Sanford and Oviedo, has been elected president-elect of the Florida Municipal Attorneys Association.

The association is composed of city attorneys from throughout the state, an outgrowth of the Florida League of Cities.

"The Association is the educational arm for city attorneys across the state. We meet annually for an attorneys' seminar to review recently passed laws and share problems with each other," he said.

Colbert, who currently serves as treasurer and is on the Board of Directors of the Association, was elected during the Aug. 8 through Aug. 11 seminar at Amelia Island Plantation. He will assume office in October 1980.

The first attorney from Seminole County to be elected as head of the Florida Municipal Attorneys Association, Colbert is the managing partner in the law firm of Bessstrom, Mcintosh, Julian, Colbert, Whigham, Simmons, P.A. He has served as city attorney for Sanford since 1981 and city attorney for Oviedo since 1979.

Land donated to Lyman High for band and athletic teams

By VICKI BURDICK
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — Darrell Leighigh owns a piece of property across the street from Lyman High School, 1141 S.E. Lake Ave. in Longwood. He will donate the use of that land to the school for use as a practice field for the marching band and some athletic teams.

Only a 300 by 180 foot piece of the 12-acre site will be utilized by the school.

A lease agreement signed by the district and Leighigh puts the value of the lease at $4,000, but after that Leighigh will donate the amount of the lease to the district.

The school district will be responsible for the maintenance of the portion of land used by the school.

"We have to mow it and keep it clean," explained Richard Wells, assistant superintendent for facilities.

Wells said that several trees have been removed from the property at the district's expense and replanted on the Lyman campus.

"We also had to fill the holes left by the trees," Wells said. "Other than that we have use of the land at no cost."

The lease stipulates that the land can be used only by Lyman High School for extra-curricular activities.

Leighigh has the right to terminate the lease at any time with 30 days' written notice.

There was some concern about the fact that students will have to cross State Road 437, which is heavily traveled and currently under construction, to get to the site, but Wells assured the board that safety measures were being discussed with the students.

The school board is presently discussing the details of the purchasing a piece of property adjacent to the northeastern corner of the school.

"It would be purchased with impact fee money," Wells explained about the land for which they are negotiating.

School district supports state group's plan

By VICKI BURDICK
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County school district has supported the implementation of the state's Comprehensive Plan for the Improvement of Mathematics, Science and Computer Education by passing their own resolution.

In doing so, the local district joins other Florida school systems that have endorsed a Florida School Boards Association resolution calling for such implementation.

The Comprehensive Plan was the result of a 15-month joint effort by the Florida Chamber of Commerce, the Florida Business Coalition and the Florida Department of Education.

The plan calls for the education of Florida students in the areas of math and science by working with the business community to give the youngsters practical experience.

The FEBA resolution, on which the Seminole County resolution is modeled, calls for Florida to be a "world leader in science and technology by the year 1990."
