Congratulations, Lookouts

It may be a trifle early in the season to be extending congratulations to any baseball team, but when an outfit wins the first seven games in which it participates, it seems to us that something more than mere headlines is in order.

The Sanford Lookouts opened their season with a whopping victory over DeLand which netted 14 runs to 1. This was followed in quick order by victories of 8 to 5 and 12 to 2 over St. Augustine, two 6 to 5 wins over Daytona Beach, a 16 to 5 defeat of Gainesville and yesterday's second victory over Gainesville by the score of 3 to 1.

Left in the League for the Lookouts yet to whip are the Orlando Senators, the Leesburg Anglers and the Patoka Axelias. While any one of these teams might prove he nemesis to Sanford's winning streak, comparative scores, if they mean anything at all, show that the Lookouts have a decided edge.

Leesburg, last year's pennant winner and this year's runner-up, has thus far won 5 out of 8 games, but included in its losses were the games with Daytona and Gainesville which the Lookouts have previously defeated. Patoka has won 3 and lost 4, including the Islanders and the Reds both of whom Sanford trounced. And Orlando stands near the bottom with only 2 wins out of 7 starts.

So at the present writing it appears that the Lookouts lead the League not by any streak of luck but are likely to remain there for some time and are well on their way toward a pennant winning season. If anything could have been contemplated to bring Sanford out of the doldrums and yesterday's "de corps", this is the sort of thing that will do it.

The colony season may have been a flop and the prospects for business this summer may not be as bright as they could have been, but as long as the Lookouts lead the League a spirit of optimism and good cheer will prevail. So more power to them. May they keep it up all summer.

Heartiest congratulations to Charlie Bradshaw, Manager Dale Alexander and his Sanford Lookouts.

A Crazy Idea

George Bernard Shaw, the octogenarian who writes books and plays making fun of people, often says the things which many people would like to say but wouldn't even dare admit to themselves.

The world would be better off, he insists, if all those who are as old as he is were painlessly put to death. He includes in this category all others who are suffering from incurable diseases, who are mentally defective, or who are otherwise unable to take care of themselves.

Thus the world would develop a race of superman unencumbered with the burden of having to provide for anyone else and so enabled to reach hitherto unattainable heights of perfection. Perhaps in this manner would the Utopia which More wrote about be attained.

An vice president of the Voluntary Euthanasia Legalization Society, Shaw explains the purpose of his organization as follows: "After all, there are circumstances in which it is rather unreasonable, to persist in living. Now that I am in my dotage I am coming around to that conclusion more and more, but I hasten to add that there is not the slightest hope for humankind that I shall practice euthanasia myself. That may be a little inconsistent, but I always like to be selfish."

And fortunately, there is a selfish streak in most of us which makes us cling to life whether we are essential to this world's advancement or not. Bad as the old world is, most of us are anxious to stick around and see how it all turns out.

So we haven't the slightest idea that there is any chance at all for Shaw's Euthanasia Society. Whatever reduction of the population may be necessary will be taken care of in the old fashioned way on the field of battle.

Was No Responsible European Propose Peace

By WILLIS THORNTON

Europe comes trembling on the brink of the abyss. Every thinking leader in every country knows that a long-drawn-out general war, sweeping from Asia and North Africa across all Europe to Gibraltar and Land's End, would be a death blow to civilization as we have known it.

Yet not one responsible European leader will get up on his hind legs and attempt to organize peace instead of war. By peace, we mean organized peace, not a mere stalemate and truce between warring states feverishly preparing for the next.

The continental state of crisis, the crushing burden of arms, the constant, the hatred that mark the present signs of not-war, is only less destructive than war itself. This is not peace.

Let us suppose that war comes. After William I's initial victories, the struggle will see back into another long, dragging endurance contest of blood-letting, with victory going to that country or alliance of countries which is just to give up to internal verities and weakness.

President's Message To Hitler And Mussolini Offered Reward For Peace

By PRESTON GROVER
 WASHINGTON, Apr. 23 (AP)—A notable feature of the President's message to Hitler and Mussolini was his offer of a reward for good behavior on their part in place of a military threat for any bad behavior.

The reason he made such an offer is that he simply had no power to make a threat. He could not threaten to side with France and England in event they agreed to peaceable gestures. Before he can commit the country that far he has to ask Congress to back him up. And whether he could get support for such a position is a matter of considerable debate just now.

The job of being an intermediary between angry nations is thankless and risky, as this country has found out from time to time. But certain senators who have heard the President discuss his position report that he finds this country faced with something of a dilemma.

If war comes just now and the United States definitely refuses to have a part and even embargoes essential supplies to belligerents, it may bring defeat of France and England. The chances of both sides in Europe have been discussed pro and con for many months in many places, including the White House. Much expert opinion gives England and France no better than a 50-50 chance of victory.

Thus the dilemma. England, if defeated, might well have to surrender her navy. So would France. The totalitarian powers then could assemble an almost invincible armada to move on South America if they sought to make James Backus of Orlando, and A. B. Kline of Altamonte Springs.

Then England and France would be confronted with a positive choice. Would they be willing to make those concessions for peace, or would they be willing to risk war? Certain of these discussing the case recognized that England and France might make a counter proposition to us. They might say: If we make these concessions will America pledge her aid to see that Germany and Italy then keep the peace? That's the tough nut. It is a lead pipe cinch that this country's policy would not be changed over night to permit such a bludge.

The only alternative then, is an offer of economic rewards. Just what they may be the President did not indicate. But close readers saw some outlines of background for it in his speech of the day before to the Pan-American Union. There he made it plain that the United States would fight totalitarian economic penetration of the Latin American countries, if necessary.

If the two nations made it plain that they wanted economic relief, and not conquest, could just the President go into a peace conference with a check in his pocket of the American as his stake in the game? It might mean some sacrifices by the U. S., at least for a time, but cheaper than a war even if we could stay out.

 have all cases appealed to it from the circuit courts. There is no trial by jury in the Supreme Court and the decision rendered by the six judges is based on the record in the case. In the event of a 3 to 3 decision, he added, the lower court is sustained.

There is a bill now before the Legislature, Mr. Householder explained, which would add a seventh member to the Supreme Court, and this, if adopted by the people, would improve the work of the court.

Visitors at today's luncheon included J. E. Noble of Fort Pierce, James Backus of Orlando, and A. B. Kline of Altamonte Springs.

ties under a single public works agency.

Asserting that the Government should get out of the relief business as quickly as possible, Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) announced that he would oppose any effort to "perpetuate" the WPA.

Byrnes has proposed, in a bill to be taken up in the Senate today, that the WPA, PWA, CCC, National Youth Administration, Public Roads Bureau and the Treasury Public Buildings Division be placed under one agency, with a fixed formula for distribution of funds and for local contributions.

"The Works Progress Administration and the National Youth Administration are strictly emergency in character and it seems to me that nothing should be done to lay any basis for their establishment as a permanent activity of Government," O'Mahoney declared.

"We should get away from the administration of relief as rapidly as possible. Far more important than reorganizing emergency agencies would be the concentration of all Government thought upon the stimulation of private enterprise."

Circus To Stay At Present Location

NEW YORK, Apr. 24.—(AP)—President John Ringling North of the Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey Circus said tonight the Winter headquarters would remain at Sarasota, Fla., for another 10 years under an agreement reached with the city.

He said the decision followed receipt of a proposition from Mayor Vernon Kimbrough leading to a "satisfactory settlement" of a tax dispute which arose with a previous city administration.

North pointed out that the circus enjoyed "amicable relations" with the present administration.

BEER helps even those who do not drink it! To the tune of a million dollars a day nationwide, beer tax revenue reaches back into every community, to help pay for relief, for public works, for education... and to lift a burden that would otherwise rest directly on the taxpayers.

To this, add a million new jobs made by beer, and a 100 million dollar farm market.

How can we keep these benefits... for you and for us? Brewers of America realize this depends on helping beer retailing as wholesome as beer itself. They want to help public officials in every possible way. They cannot enforce laws. But they can—and will—cooperate!

Lookouts Nose Out Gainesville 3 To 1

Two Wins Over G-Men Give Locals Seven Victories

Skeen Takes Long Drive To Fence in Last Inning To End Visitors' Efforts To Tie Up Score

Sanford's 3 to 1 victory over the visiting Gainesville nine at the Municipal Athletic Field yesterday afternoon, Sanford's undefeated Lookouts ended the series with a double victory, trouncing the university city crew in Saturday's game by a score of 15 to 2.

A northeast wind and fleet-footed center fielder, Willie Skeen, yesterday robbed the Gainesville G-Men of a crack at an extra-inning session with the Lookouts when Willie, pinch-hitter for Rodgers, with two away in the first of the ninth, and with Padgett on first, stepped into one of Vincent's southpaw slants and lifted it high into center.

The wind, according to Skeen, kept the ball inside the fence, while the fielder galloped back to take the ball for the third out to give the Lookouts their seventh straight win since the season opening 3-1 over the visitors from Gainesville.

The G-Men outlit the Lookouts seven hours to eight, but Vincent, who went the full route for the loss, kept their blows too scattered to allow effective scoring punch, aided by careless support from his teammates.

The Lookouts got underway in the last half of the first when Skeen went to first on a pass from Childress, settled on down to second on Barnette's single in left, and then came on across with the first tally when Skeen banged one through short.

Gainesville pulled down their lone tally in the first of the fourth when Gallagher singled to right, went to second on Harn's single to the same field and then scored when Padgett lined a single down the third base line.

A pass to Souter, followed by Alexander's single through the box into center, set the stage again for Langston who slapped a single down the first base line and scored on Souter, and advance Alex to third, from where Uspire Kitch waved him on across a few minutes later after calling a balk on Childress.

Manager McShane, of the G-Men, protested the decision until Kitch signaled police to intervene. Alexander turned in a head-up, hustling game at first. In the first of the fifth he sprinted over past the far end of the colored bleachers to take McMillen's ball for the out. In the second he went over in front of the colored stands to hold Padgett's high ball and another putout.

In Gainesville Saturday night the Lookouts added victory No. 6 to their current string with a 4-0 win over the G-Men.

Scoreless in the first inning Sanford climbed on G-Men pitcher for five runs in the second; two more in the sixth; and put the game on ice in the eighth when Skeen tallied.

G-Men scored one run in the first inning six in the second and one in the fifth. They were held scoreless for the remaining three stanzas.

The Sanford outfit collected six putouts in the seventh. One of the hits was a long homer by Lane over the left field fence, which two on base.

OUTFIELDER SKEEN steps last inning scoring threat of visiting G-Men.

Ed Hudson, lanky righthander, is slated to take the mound tonight against the Leesburg Anglers as the Lookouts go after their eighth straight win since the season opening.

The Leesburg Anglers arrive tonight fishing for their sixth win of the season, since they are tied with the Saints for second place with a record to date of five wins against three defeats.
