McAuliffe's Hometown Struggles With Grief

By Steve Sakotak

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) - Students returned to Concord High School today to share their grief over the death of teacher-astronaut Christa McAuliffe and to receive a letter of condolence from President Reagan.

"it is going to be a good day to be with your friends and to talk things out," senior Sean Duggen said as he walked slowly to the red brick building where McAuliffe had taught social studies since 1982.

Reagan's letter was to be read to the 1.200 students and faculty and then released to the public, the White House said.

Classes were canceled Wednesday in tribute to McAuliffe, 37, and six other astronauts who were killed Tuesday when the shuttle Challenger exploded shortly after blastoff from Cape Canaveral, Fla.

School and area psychologists said they planned to help students and teachers cope with the emotional aftershock.

girl said as she walked through a light overnight snow toward the school.

Another student, Jesse Bart, said, "It is going to be morbid. There is a feeling of great sadness."

Psychologist John Rienhardt said Wednesday, "i've seen a lot of sadness and anger, a great deal of anger. They feel angry and they don't know what to do with it."

Student David Terrill described his feelings Wednesday as "mostly confusion. After that, I guess you could call it hatred or anger really." Gov. John Sununu issued a proclamation memorializing McAuliffe and asking state residents and religious leaders to set aside time this weekend to honor her and the other astronauts. Within hours of the shuttle disaster, churches of all denominations began to hold what has been

Land Suit Opponents To Meet

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

Following a series of false starts and delays, Sanford and Seminole County commissioners have agreed to a meeting that may lead to an out-of-court settlement of the city's Yankee Lake condemnation effort. The meeting, however, will not be held until three days after defense attorneys argue for an in-court dismissal of the suit.

On Feb. 6, at 2 p.m., the governments' elected officials will meet with three Department of Environmental Regulation representatives at Sanford city hall. Also expected to attend is former Yankee Lake owner Jeno Paulucci, whose call to Gov. Bob Graham last week prompted the DER's involvement.

Springboard for discussion will be an agenda City Manager Frank Falson and County Administrator Ken Hooper prepared Wednesday.

Marked across the top of it is a stipulation county commission-Tuesday to meet with the city. It states, "The county agrees to meet with the clear understanding that the ownership of the Yankee Lake site is with Seminole County."

Campus Resembles College

Things are bustling at the construction site of the new Greenwood Lakes Middle School located near Lake Mary High School. All seven buildings of the campus are complete and work on the interiors has begun.

Bond raters from New York City visited the site last week and compared what they saw to a college campus.

Assistant Superintendent Benny Arnold said construction on the $7.5 million project began a year ago and is expected to be completed on July 2, 1986. The school is scheduled to open for classes this fall.

Greenwood Lakes will have students in grades 6, 7, and 8, and capacity of 1,350 students.

The seven buildings on the 25 acre plot include the administration building, a media center, cafeteria and kitchen. three academic wings, and a gymnatorium which will host sports and drama productions. It has a bleacher scating capacity of 700.

Arnold says the construction is being done to make the buildings as energy efficient as possible. Exterior and interior walls are brick and concrete block. Double paned, tinted glass is used throughout, and the roof overhangs provide

Seminole, Cities Disagree On Gas Tax Distribution

By Sarah Nunn Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County and its seven cities have agreed to disagree over the distribution of $6 million in local option gas tax revenues, with the final decision over how the funds will be divided up over the next 30 years to be left in the hands of the Florida Cabinet when it convenes Tuesday.

In the only unanimous decision reached during a two-hour special meeting Wednesday, the Council of Local Governments (CALNO) agreed that the county should receive 63.6 percent of the revenues and the cities, 36.4 percent. CALNO members reached a consensus on a distribution formula but unanimous agreement could not be reached.

Only three of the seven cities voted for the six-cent gas tax to come of the session, saying, "We be distributed according to a five-year floating formula based on the cities' transportation expenditures.

However, because those cities represent a majority of the incorporated population in Seminole County, their proposal will be the one that goes before the Cabinet next week.

Longwood, Oviedo, Lake Mary and Casselberry voted against the plan, while County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff, representing the county on CALNO. tled the vote by favoring the formula.

Shuttle Debris Salvaged

By William Harwood UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) -Recovery crews reported finding "some sort of control panel" from the blasted shuttle Challenger today and used sonar scans to search the ocean floor for more fragments of the spaceship.

Coast Guard officials said 13 ships and 13 aircraft are fanning out over an 8,000-square-mile area today, amassing a growing pile of burnt and twisted debris from the shattered spaceship. destroyed Tuesday in a churning fireball that killed the sevenperson Challenger crew.

"They're getting more pieces and larger pieces." Lt. Cdr. James Simpson said.

Two days after Chailenger disintegrated in flames. Coast Guard search crews had recovered about 1,600 pounds of debris. The largest piece was 30 feet by 5 feet and the recovery team said it was "aluminum-like with wires." Another fragment was 15 feet by 10 feet.

"It looks like some sort of control panel," Simpson said of the large piece. "They described it as some type of electrical equipment.

NASA has had little to say about history's worst space disaster but Kennedy Space Center director Richard Smith said Wednesday the shuttle's two solid rocket boosters were destroyed by remote control after cartwheeling away from the fireball that blew Challenger apart when its fuel tank detonated.

"The SRBs were destroyed by range safety actions some 20 or 30 seconds after the event that took place." Smith said. "There were indications that the trajectory of one of the solids was headed for a populated area."

"The ships have recovered other pieces, some reported to be larger than any of the others,' Simpson said. "They sighted two large cone-shaped objects. They tried to get them aboard and couldn't."

Another ship was dispatched to assist with the objects, which probably are nose cone sections from the Challenger solid rocket boosters that are designed to parachute into the sea.

Work on NASA's remaining three space shuttles has ground to a halt as the shellshocked agency desperately tries to come to grips with the flaming demise of the Challenger seven, including teacher Christa McAuliffe.

"All orbiters have been powered down and no work on the ships Discovery, Atlantis and Columbia is planned for several days while priority attention is being placed on the accident investigation into the loss of Challenger," said Wednesday morning's status report issued at the Kennedy Space Center.

At the Johnson Space Center today, flight controllers faced radioed back from Challenger from launch to detonation, hopdon't think that would be a fair position why the hurtling 4.5 millionpound spaceship blew up.

Three Sanford men were being held today in connection with the double hit-and run-death of a 27-year-old Sanford man chased into the roadway of State Road 46, east of Sanford on Jan. 17.

Sanford OKs Major Fines Increases

Emergency Water Pact With Lake Mary Eyed Favorably

By raising some fines more than 800 percent and authorizing use of a device sure to raise some residents' ire. Sanford commissioners hope to provide city police with potent ammunition to combat illegal park-

Under legislation the commission adopted Monday night, vehicle immobilizers will be applied to illegally parked cars having five or more outstanding fines. Removal will necessitate drivers post a $25 bond and provide payment for all outstanding fines.

Also authorized was an increase from $3 to $25 for handicap and fire zone violations and all other parking infractions were upped from $3 to $5.

The measures' final approval follows a recommendation Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett made in November, when he asked the commission to adopt more stringent fines as a means of complementing his department's "get tough" approach to enforcing the city's two-hour parking limit.

Another commission follow-up calls for adoption of an inter-local agreement with Lake Mary that will provide both cities with emergency water should the need arise.

thusiastically endorsed by both cities, the arrangement would also enable the cities to supplement their fire fighting efforts.

The reciprocal pact would utilize pipelines that until last month carried Sanford water to Lake Mary. With its new water plant now online, Lake Mary is self-sufficient, although both cities support maintaining the existing hook-up for emergency supplies.

On Monday night, Sanford commissioners directed City Attorney William Colbert to draft legislation for the inter-local agreement. Also, because Lake Mary was able to begin operating its new plant before the end of 1985, Sanford will reimburse the city $61,887.76 in impact fees and interest. The refund is called for under a 1984 amendment to the original water service contract between the cities.

The contract was almost invalidated that year when Lake Mary's burgeoning development led to Sanford's threatening to cut off its water supply unless Lake Mary agreed to pay hook-up fees for its new users.

Another pact the commission is moving toward approving is a franchise for the Florida Power Corporation. On Monday night, commissioners conducted a first Proposed earlier this month, and en- reading of the ordinance that will establish the franchise, and garner the city six percent of the fees the company collects from residents.

Right now, only two Sanford residents will receive service from Florida Power Corp., although the company stands to increase its clientele as the city acquires new citizens and businesses through annexations. These measures involve residents in unincorporated Seminole County who wish to join the city and receive its services.

On Monday night, the commission held a first reading of an ordinance to formally approve one such request and scheduled two other annexation petitions for first readings on Feb. 10.

Monday night's first reading was for land owned by John Childers, lying between U.S. Highway 17-92 and W. 27th Street, next to the vacated "crossing" street. Next month's petitions involve land owned by Joyce Lathan, lying between 17-92 and Narcissus Avenue, between Terwilliger Lane and Riverview Avenue; and land owned by Economic Research Properties and the First Assembly of God, lying between State Road 46 and W. Senior Center Considers Annex In Activist's Honor

By Jane Casselberry Herald Staff Writer

An addition to the Casselberry Senior Center is being proposed that would be named the Leo Ware Annex, in memory of the late senior activist, who died Oct. 22, according to Casselberry Mayor Owen Sheppard

Ware was the first chairman of the board for the center and was vice chairman at the time of his death. He served three terms on the Silver-Haired Legislature in Tallahassee and was on the advisory board for the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council Area Agency on Aging.

An advocate for the needs of sentors, Ware worked for six years in the background trying to convince the various governmental bodies of the need for the senior center before it was built in Casselberry's Secret Lake Park to serve Seminole County's elderly with federal and county funds. The city subsidizes and staffs the center, which is located at 200 N. Lake Triplet Drive.

Sheppard said he has made city personnel from the engineering and building departments available to help the center's board of directors get the project underway. "It's their baby," he said, "but the city engineer would help with site preparation and testing and the building inspector would help with a cost estimate."

Valerie Barber-Simpson, center manager, said the board will discuss tentative plans for the expansion when it meets Feb. 11 at 1:30 p.m. at the center. The board is composed of Donald Boehmen, Casselberry, chairman; Dinny Doughty, Casselberry, secretary; Bernard Foy of Casselberry, treasurer; William Hamilton, Oviedo: William "Jack" Schuder, Casselberry: Pauline Stevens, Lake Mary; and Charles Holmes, Lake Kathryn Estates, who was elected to fill the vacancy left by Ware's death.

The board does not know at this point what amount will be needed to build the annex, but donations will be accepted from the public for the building fund, she said.

'We've proven over and over again that there is a need for more space," she said. "The program is becoming broader and there is a need for quiet areas for bridge players and things like the AARP income tax aids counseling program. Tentative plans call for the addition to be 45 by 75 feet and contain at least four rooms. Mrs. Barber-Simpson said. One possible option being considered is a manufactured unit.

"It would give us some quiet space and badly needed additional storage space for our Clothing Exchange. We have given out a lot of warm clothing to senior citizens during the past month through programs such as Meals on Wheels."

Teen Speaks Through 'Voice Box'

Herald Staff Writer

Sixteen-year-old Sara Brothers, Altamonte Springs, spoke to the Sanford Kiwanis Club Wednesday afternoon, it was, in fact, the first time she had spoken publicly in her life. according to her mother, Connie White. She said the Kiwanis group shares a large part of the responsibility in making Sara's speech to them. or anyone, possible.

Sara is a non-verbal cerebral palsied physically impaired ninth-grade student. Two years ago, the Sanford Kiwanis Club donated $1,000 to a fund set up to purchase a computerized unit that would allow her to communicate through both written word, which is printed out, and a voice box which "speaks" words Sara programs by hitting keys on a control board.

At the time the Kiwanis Club made the donation. Sara asked that she be permitted to thank the group in person, speaking to them with the device they helped provide.

She expressed her gratitude Wednesday. The computerized unit, an Express Three Electronic Communication Device manufactured by Prentke Romich Company of Shreve, Ohio, cost about $5,000 when purchased.

Seminole County Schools paid for the rest, by trading in some older equipment valued at $2,000, and added the other $2,000 in cash.

The device is on loan to Sara for as long as she is enrolled in the district's Exceptional Student Educational Program, according to project administrator Bob Furr.

"It's on loan until she doesn't need it or she leaves the program," Furr said. "It will be hers as long as it meets her needs."

He explained that when the time comes for Sara to return the device to the school board, her parents will be given the opportunity to buy it, or will be helped in finding financial aid to purchase lt, or an updated model.

Sara attends Lockhart Junior High in Orange County, where a multi-county physically impaired education program is headquartered. Mrs. White said Sara expects to attend Lake Mary High School next year.

Those who have worked with Sara as she has progressed include Jill Sherman, occupational therapist; Karen Mowers, speech pathologist; Carlene Duke, consultant coordinator for homebound students in Seminole County: Wylene Harness, coordinator for the physically impaired in Seminole County, and her counterpart in Orange County, Sandra Osborne.

In her speech, Sara thanked the Kiwanis Club for their donation. Of the Express Three unit, she said, "I really like it, and it has helped me a lot at school and at home."

She also said, "I am having fun learning about computers by using my Express Three." She Indicated that she was able to do the programming without help. She then said, "Maybe if I get really good at using my own Express Three, later on I might be able to help others learn to use theirs.'

She detailed the uses and functions of the device, which include being able to be connected to an Apple Computer at school, as well as being able to drive her electric wheel chair. She prefers to operate the wheel chair with a hand operated

She told the audience in closing that the unit is "very useful to me now, but I have a lot to learn and look forward to in the future." before saying ''thank you, again.'

Mrs. White said the battery powered device allows "normal" communication between mother and teenage daughter, even arguments. She indicated she is enjoying the interaction, and apparently Sara is, too.

This has opened up a whole new world for Sara," Mrs. White said.

The Kiwanis Club donation for the purchase of the device came from the organization's fund raising activities, including their annual pancake day. This year's pancake fund-raiser will be held on March 15 from 8:30 a.m. until 6 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center.

Court Sentencings

A Sanford man who has spent 460 days in jail following a burglary arrest then conviction has been sentenced to 10 years probation.

Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi shortened the sentence of Perry Mark Allen, 29, to probation because of the time served. The usual sentence for first-time offenders is one year in the county Jail. Perry lived at 167 Twin Coach Circle at the time of his arrest, and was found guilty by Salfi in November 1984 fóllowing a non-jury trial.

Assistant State Attorney Steve Plotnick said while Perry's jail time prior to sentencing was longer than usual it was beneficial to him because he spent the time going through a drug rehabilitation program.

Perry was also ordered by Salfi to pay $200 restitution, $500 in court costs, $300 to the Public Defender and complete 300 hours of community service.

According to court records. Allen was arrested 1:18 a.m., July 8, 1984, after he was seen rpaming on Beider Road in Sanford with burglary tools in his possession.

In other court action:

• Jeffery Bjorkman, 21. formerly of 1717 Park Avenue. was sentenced to 6 months in the county jail for violating probation. Bjorkman was sentenced initially to 18 months probation for obstructing an officer with violence and disorderly intoxication, according to court records.

Bjorkman was on probation stemming from an incident May 2. 1984, when he refused to calm down when ordered to do so at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford. He then hit an officer in the chest and ran out of the hospital. Later, he struggled with the officer in a parking lot and knocked him down. Bjorkman was captured and arrested in nearby woods.

Probation and parole officials charged Bjorkman moved from Sanford to Orlando without telling his probation officer. They also claimed he did not report to his probation officer and did not file monthly written reports of his activities as required.

Realistic Reagan On Right Course

Our president is no Rambo, even though he might like to be. He is no wimp either, though some of his best friends think his failure to take military action against Moammar Khadafy puts him in that category.

Ronald Reagan is a realist, with a reasonable amount of caution built in. He knows that bombing Libya now would be counterproductive. So he's not going to do it.

But he was a little apologetic at his most recent news conference in defending his position. He needn't have been. The economic sanctions he announced, the freeze on Libvan assets in the United States which he announced the next day, are an appropriate and sufficient response at this time.

It is clear that they have impressed Khadafy. He now declares that the Palestinian terrorists who attacked tourists in the Vienna and Rome airports two days after Christmas were "completely mad." He denies that he helped them carry out the attacks and says he wants to fight terrorism everywhere except in Israel and Israeli-occupied Arab territory.

You can take whatever he says at something less than face value. But he is no longer the carefree tractor driver in the desert. He is worried lest our European allies join with us in an economic embargo of his country.

They should.

Their initial reluctance should not cause us to give up hope of persuading them to take strong action. We are contending with their powerful economic interests, which have billions to lose in Libyan development contracts. It may take some time, but we should be patient and determined in our resolve. Is it not in the nature of our alliance that we lead and they follow? We must be steadfast. Time is on our side, because Khadafy is not likely to change his ways. He will continue to appall the world, until he is overthrown by his own people.

And what of the alternative? Military action would be justified if we could pinpoint out targets. We could hit the Palestinian terrorist training camps in Libya, if we knew precisely where they, were. Apparently we don't. Otherwise the president could show satellite photographs of the sites, as President Kennedy did when the Soviets installed missiles in Cuba in 1962.

An indiscriminate aerial attack that killed Libyan civilians would solidify the Arab world against us and arouse some sympathy for Khadafy, perish the thought, even in Europe.

And there is the risk that Soviet troops manning Libyan anti-aircraft defenses might be killed if our planes had to take out those defenses. That would be a sticky business.

Better a steady course. The economic sanctions have been tightened. They should be broadened, proportionate to continued provocations. A military response must be the last resort.

It is the burden of responsibility to be realistic and restrained. Campaign rhetoric aside, a sitting president must do what he believes is in the national interest, whether it earns him popularity among his political supporters or not.

Campus Parties Need Better Supervision

Most people were outraged when a woman was raped by four men on a tavern pool table in New Bedford, Mass., three years ago. We were further revolted to learn that customers in the bar, in the mood of a spectator sport, simply ordered up more beer, watched, and even cheered while the woman was sexually abused for more than two hours.

That was a freak occurrence, we assured

Not necessarily so, it turns out. We are learning that gang rape is not an unknown event on college campuses, either. And worse: Whereas the New Bedford woman did not know the men, in college gang rapes the men and women often know one another.

The brutality usually takes place in an allegedly safe place (a campus fraternity house) in a "fun" atmosphere of beer, music and dancing. Drugs and alcohol lower the men's inhibitions and weaken the women's ability to recognize a threatening situation and/or protect themselves.

The seriousness of the situation comes to light in a publication of the Washington-based Project on the Status and Education of Women, of the Association of American Colleges. The report, "Campus Rapes: Party Games," was written by executive director Bernice Sandler and staff associate Julie Ehrhart, and is based on 50 documented incidences at various campuses public and private. Ivy League and Midwestern. large and small.

Here's one account from the report: "It was her first fraternity party and she had much more to drink than she had planned. It was hot and crowded and the party spread out all over the house, so that when three men asked her to go upstairs, she went with them. They took her into a bedroom, locked the door and began to undress her. Groggy with alcohol, her feeble protests were ignored as the three men raped her. When they finished, they put her in the hallway, naked, locking her clothes in the

In a similar incident at a large state university. the victim was driven home afterward by a fraternity brother who told her not to feel bad,

"because another woman had also been 'upstairs' earlier that night."

Some fraternities, according to the report, have actually planned a "gang bang" as part of a weekend's activities.

The project report lists a number of actions schools might take: Conduct a full investigation: provide free counseling, medical and legal services to the victim; discipline the fraternity; expel or suspend the offenders; and place an account in their permanent files.

Other recommendations include restricting and/or better supervising fraternity parties, asking fraternities to take a public stand against acquaintance rape, and involving students (men and women) in campus-wide rape-prevention

Those who study the psychological dynamics of gang rape say men rape for other men as a way to confirm their sexual adequacy.

Maybe so, but gang rape has as much to do with proof of masculinity as lighting a match has to do with knowing how to cook.

The Tax Reform Monster

By Joseph Mianowany WASHINGTON (UPI) - President Reagan has been feeling pretty good about tax reform lately, but as the issue gets cranked up in the Senate he may start to identify with Dr. Frankenstein, whose prized creation didn't exactly turn out the way he wanted.

For the last month, Reagan has been buoved by the dramatic tax overhaul victory he won in the Democratic-led House last month in which the president said he opposed the bill, but pleaded for passage to keep the issue alive. Send it to the Senate, he argued, and the Republican majority there will fix it.

Perhaps the president should have realized that you have to be careful for what you pray, lest your prayers be answered. Sometimes. the results aren't what you expect.

Simply put, the idea of rewriting the tax code along the lines Reagan has suggested has never sparked overwhelming support in the Senate. The president may find that asking that body to help him "fix" the House tax bill is a little like asking Mikhail Gorbachev to help him decide what to do about his 'Star Wars' missile defense plan. Yet, Reagan persists.

"We're convinced the American people want true tax reform.' Reagan told a meeting of Republican senators last week. "The House has taken a good first step. but we are looking forward to working with you in the Senate to produce a true tax reform bill."

But, even though they have agreed to move the issue through the chamber, the reaction from Senate GOP leaders has been less than a groundswell. "I know that many of my Senate colleagues have no enthusiasm for the president's version of tax reform and even less for the House bill." Republican leader Robert Dole said recently.

Maybe Reagan hasn't yet realized that the Senate operates differently than the House, where strict rules gave few members outside of the Ways and Means Committee any voice in the legislation.

Maybe Don Regan or Jim Baker should tell the president that it's a more wide open game in the Senate. The work in the Senate Finance Committee will be little more than the warm-up act for the floor debate, expected to take about six weeks.

Maybe one of those vaunted aides should mention to Reagan that unlike the House, the Senate process will allow each of the 100 members to propose floor amendment after floor amendment - most of them likely intended to dismantle his bill and save politically popular tax breaks

Many industries now involved in "Buy American" campaigns have tens or hundreds of millions invested in U.S. plants and equipment, so they are all but forced to continue manufacturing here. Chrysler is a prime example.

Beer, though, had a choice. When he wanted to acquire his own plant. he could have gone to the Far East as hundreds of companies in the clothing industry have done in the last few years. In fact, he was advised to do so by major retailers he sells to. They doubted he could produce quality goods at a competitive price in this country.

That will make this a success"

Beer acknowledges that in the final analysis, it will cost him more to make jeans in Missouri than in the Far East. "But." he says, "there is more to this than maximizing profit. If my company has to make less profit, so be it. It's time American companies take a stand. This is where I'm making mine."

SCIENCE WORLD Doctor Don't Heal Thy Self

'-WASHINGTON - When Dr. Jack Smith began having stomach pains. the gastroenterologist wasn't concerned. Medical specialists do not fret about about the illnesses they treat, he told himself. They take appropriate action, they stay in control.

When a lab test showed blood in his stool. Smith still didn't worry because he knew from experience that nine out of 10 cases involve a benign growth that can be removed easily.

Smith's was the tenth case. Five days later he was fighting complications from radical surgery for colon cancer. He had lost control.

"It felt like the whole world had completely collapsed. I felt faint ... the whole thing was like a slow-motion movie." he said of the moment when he received the diagnosis.

Experts in all medical fields will testify that the saying "Physician," heal thyself" has little meaning. An alling specialist has no inside track to a cure and no special formula for dealing with pain, disablity, financial worries or fear of death.

Indian Fund Seekers Scalped Big Spender

WATCH ON WASTE: The National Tribal Chairman's Association is understandably disgusted with one high official of the Bureau of Indian Affairs. Last Nov. 25, a group of Indian leaders from Montana and the Dakotas flew to Washington seeking funds for emergency cattle feed following early snowstorms. Hazel Elbert, who was then the acting chief of the bureau, inquired how much the tribal representatives had spent on air fare, and suggested that the money would have been better spent on cattle feed.

Four days later, Ms. Elbert and two other bureau officials flew off on an 11-day trip to Australia to attend the International Conference of Indigenous Peoples. The total cost of the junket was $17,483 - and that ain't hay.

BURGER THE KING: Chief Justice Warren Burger is behaving with his usual royal hauteur as head of the federal commission planning next year's bicentennial celebration of the Constitution. He has made several public appeals for help, but has steadfastly refused to allow press coverage of the commission's meetings, which would give the public some idea of what's going on.

It's not that Berger hasn't been advised by experts that his welldocumented contempt for the press is counterproductive. Two members of the commission wiser in the ways of publicity - Sens. Ted Kennedy. D-Mass., and Strom Thurmond. R-S.C. - have both tried to get the chairman to change his secretive policy, as has Sen. John Warner. R-Va., who ran the national bicentennial celebration in 1976. But Burger won't bite.

WATCH ON WASTE: Congress seems to have the welrd idea that extravagance is OK as long as it's bipartisan. While all federal agencies are expected to tighten their budget belts to help reduce the deficit, political parties have been exempted. Just before it went home for the holidays, Congress approved extension of a Postal Service subsidy that allows political party committees to send mail at reduced rates. It will cost from $12 million to $14 million this year alone. Only Congress could buy the idea that political parties are in the same public-service category as news publications and non-profit groups, which also get a postage break.

UNDER THE DOME: What's the connection between a National Teacher's Day and karate? Answer: Rep. E. Clay Shaw, R-Fla. Congress and the Reagan administration will have to come to grips with these questions as they cut the federal budget to conform to Gramm-Rudman. One relatively painless solution presents itself in the wake of tumbling oil prices: a new tax on petroleum. The bite on consumers would be largely equalized by the lower prices of petroleum products - if, that is, the corporations can be persuaded to pass along at least some of their savings on crude.

Challenger Astronauts Memorial To Be Proposed To Cabinet

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - A week after space shuttle Challenger exploded during launch Tuesday, the Florida Cabinet will vote on a proposal by Gov. Bob Graham to erect a shrine to the "heroic and tragic effort" of the ship's seven astronauts.

Graham offered the proposal on Wednesday, after he and Sen. Paula Hawkins agreed to halt campaigning for Hawkins' U.S. Senate seat while the nation mourns the Hawkins' campaign chief Charles Black said Hawkins decided to scrub her own ads Tuesday night.

The governor said the Challenger memorial could be placed near Cape Canaveral, where the spaceship's final mission began and ended.

FSU Closes Measles Clinic

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Florida State University health officials say they have one potential epidemic under control and will act to prevent a repeat of this month's red measles

University officials closed down an emergency measles clinic Wednesday, and say they hope to require students be immunized before they are admitted in the future.

FSU last week ordered an estimated 25,000 students and employees to either get a vaccination or prove they had been immunized after a student developed red measles. Red measles, or rubeola, is a highly-contagious disease that can cause brain and ear infections, deafness, and in some rare cases, death.

University officials opened a special clinic at the Tallahassee-Leon County Civic Center, and said any student or employee under 30 who was not approved by the clinic by Jan. 28 would not be allowed to return to

The response to that threat has been so great, FSU health director Scott Kent said Wednesday, that he decided to shut down the clinic. The few students or workers not yet cleared can report to the FSU Health Center for a shot. Kent said.

Anti-Sandinistas Squabble

MIAMI (UPI) - To some anti-Sandinista Nicaraguans. Maria is a symbol of the quest for freedom. To others, she is pure Madison Avenue hype - no more than an actress

Maria appears as the centerpiece of a full-color poster that depicts her as a "real Nicaraguan Freedom Fighter." She stands in a jungle setting, a bayonetted M-16 resting on her hip and a bandoller drawn across her chest.

The poster was designed for Americans, The Miami Herald reported today. It was to be sold - along with a necklace of rosary beads - for $5. The money was to benefit a recently formed youth group. Juventud Democratica Nicaraguense.

But, the Herald said, some Nicaraguan contra leaders feel that Maria is "inauthentic" - a fake.

They cite several reasons: Maria does not carry an M-16 as a business calling card, she is a receptionist at a hotel in south Miami Beach. The "jungle" depicted in the poster is not a Nicaraguan jungle at all - it is Florida's Everglades.

The formula the county has adopted freezes the amount of gas tax revenues received for a 30-year period. The two-tiered formula calls for the first four cents to be distributed based on transportation expenditures prior to 1983. The two cents would be divided up based on expenditures five years previous to 1985.

Altamonte Springs appealed the county's adopted formula to the Florida Administration Commission, which is comprised of the governor and the Cabinet. Altamonte said the entire six cents should be based on the most recent transportation expenditures.

Rather than ruling on the appeal at its Jan. 7 hearing, the Cabinet told local representatives to come up with a new interlocal agreement by Feb. 4.

CALNO has endorsed floating formulas for the cities' shares based on their five most recent years of transportation expenditures. Two of the three plans are based on such criteria as total transportation expenditures, population, general fund transportation expenditures, property values and lane miles maintained by the cities.

The county will ask the Administration Commission to uphold its two-tiered formula. Deputy County Attorney Bob McMillan said. But he added that the county would not oppose the plan to which the cities representing the largest percentage of incorporated population agreed

The county's formula is the only one that could be upheld on an appeal, he said. The county or any city would have 30 days following the Cabinet hearing to distribution formula, McMillan

During the last few weeks, CALNO and the county have circulated a number of distribution formulas in hopes the cities could reach a consensus.

Altamonte Springs, Sanford and Winter Springs have endorsed a formula which would distribute the cities' shares according to the five-year floating formula, in which the most recent year's transportation first year of the five years is dropped. For example, expenditures from 1980/81 would be dropped when the 1985/86 figures are added.

snik, 36, Ellison Onizuka, 39. Ronald McNair, 35, Gregory Jarvis, 41, and McAuliffe, 37, the first private citizen assigned to a shuttle flight.

A fleet of Coast Guard and Navy ships resumed searching today for more fragments of the doomed spaceship, including sonar scans of the ocean floor. Debris recovered so far was found on the surface.

Spherical objects resembling internal shuttle tanks have been recovered along with jagged metal panels and fragments. heat shield insulation tiles and even a charred glove that may have belonged to a crew member.

Mariners have been warned to avoid the impact area, apparently because of the threat of toxic rocket fuel or other chemicals whose tanks might have survived the fall intact.

All debris is being impounded for investigation, along with data recordings, videotape from tracking cameras and notes scribbled by flight controllers. NASA has even confiscated film from news agency cameras at the launch pad, propting protests from photographers.

Flight director Jay Greene said Wednesday Challenger's tragically short flight was completely normal up to the moment the shuttle's huge external fuel tank exploded Tuesday 9 miles up.

"There was nothing anybody could have done for this one." Not all shuttle performance data is monitored in "real time" during launch and NASA managers planned to analyze every shred of recorded information to piece together the horrifying sequence of events.

Videotapes of the disaster show staccato flashes of bright orange flame near the base of the 154-foot-long external tank followed less than half a second later by the detonation that blew the billion-dollar shuttle to pieces 72 seconds after blastoff.

To find out what caused the tank to explode - trouble with the shuttle's engines, a leak in the tank or other problems -NASA has mobilized an army of investigators to study every aspect of the launch.

But with NASA refusing to discuss possible failure focused primarily on problems with the fuel tank engines.

"We don't have any significant instrumentation on the external tank in the Mission Control center," Greene said.

"The data we look at in the control room is limited to that which is operationally significant, that which we can do something about. Obviously, the external tank temps would be very nice to have right now but operationally we have no use for it so we don't display it.'

The mayor sald she hoped McClanahan's leaving would 'serve as a catalyst for muchneeded change" on the authority. "She never contacted us about that." Wynn said. "We read it." "It's important we have an open line of communication with them," Wynn said. "That's why the meeting is very, very necessary."

Regarding a city commission appointee. Wynn sald he would have "no problem with whoever they pick, as long as that person is fair and honest."

The city commission also intends to address McClanahan's recommendation that the authority be expanded to seven members.

Although City Attorney William Colbert and Housing Authority Attorney Ned Julian are pursuing the proposal, preliminary indications are that it is not a viable one. Earlier this month Julian said the Florida statute that governs housing authorities calls for board membership to be set at a specific number when the authority is established. Although the city commission must appoint a replacement for McClanahan to bring that number back up to five. Julian said he was unsure whether additional members could be appointed.

A final determination on the proposal will be made later this: week, Colbert said.

Peres: Jews Don't Hate Germans Because Of Nazi Crimes

BERLIN (UPI) — Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres told German high school students he was "mystifled how a crazy man like Hitler became head of a people" but that Jews do not hate Germans because of Nazi crimes.

Peres, visiting West Berlin Wednesday on the last day of a four-day trip to Germany, told the students Jews remember the Nazi Holocaust but bear no animosity toward German youth.

"The Bible tells us not to charge children with the sins of the fathers," he said. "They should not be accused because they did not do it and they would not have wanted it to happen."

Peres met the students in the rebuilt Reichstag, the old German Parliament building on the East-West city border.

Hall's FTs, Johnson's Block Hoist Raiders Past Santa Fe

Herald Sports Editor

If and when Coach Bill Payne and his Seminole Community College's Raiders ever qualify for their first trip to the State JuCo Basketball Tournament, they may look back to Wednesday, Jan. 29 and savor it with a smile.

Good teams, which become great teams and find their way to state, pull out games like the Raiders did Wednesday night in Gainesville against ninth-ranked Santa Fe Community

Freshman Vance Hall dropped in two free throws with 58 seconds left to play for a one-point SCC lead and Greg "Sim" Johnson rejected one potential game-winning shot before grabbing the rebound on another Santa Fe miss to preserve a heart-pounding 71-70 Mid-Florida Conference victory at Sante Fe Community College.

The victory was the 21st in 26 games for fourth-ranked SCC. The Raiders are 7-2 in the conference, one game behind Florida Junior, which invades the SCC Health Center Saturday night. FJC, ranked first, topped Central Florida to improve to 8-1. Daytona Beach, using career-high 22-point productions from Willie Mitchell and Darryl Merthle held onto third with a 6-3 mark with a 110-74 win over Valencia.

Basketball

SCC opened an 18-11 lead in the first half as Mike Landell, who hit 8 of 13 floor shots for 16 points, Tony Roberts and Jeff Day held the hot hands. Santa Fe, however, came storming back behind quick-stepping point guard Steve Edelson and sharpshooting Rodney Rush.

The lead see-sawed during the first eight minutes of the second half until Payne was assessed with a technical for arguing a fourth foul called on Hall with 11:47 to play.

Edelson, who eventually fouled out year, converted the free throw for a three-point play for a 50-46 lead. He then made one of the technicals and when Rush, who finished with a game-high 27 points, found the range on a short jumper, the six-point turnabout gave the Saints at sevenpoint lead.

The lead was still seven - 62.55 when Edelson dropped in another technical foul opportunity.

The Raiders outscored Santa Fe. 14-8 over the next six minutes but still trailed, 70-69, until Hall, a freshman from St. Petersburg, was fouled.

The 6-8 center, who made two similar pressure charity shots to hold for the second time against SCC this off Daytona Beach earlier this year, converted both tosses for a one-point Raider advantage.

Santa Fe then ran the clock down to 28 seconds before Bush tried a 12footer from the baseline. Timing his leap perfectly, Johnson blocked the shot and pulled down the rebound. In his haste to outlet it, though, he threw

It away. A scramble ensued and Rush came away with the ball. His frantic 5-footer with six seconds left missed and Johnson again grabbed the rebound. This time, he outletted to Hall who was fouled. Hall missed the front end of the one-plus-one but Santa Fe was too far away to get off a shot.

Anglers Dream Of World-Record Catch

Nothing stirs the imagination of the bass angler more than thoughts of the giant bass. Almost every bass fisherman has secretly dreamed of catching a world-record bass and of the same and fortune that would accompany such a

We have read stories of the 20 pound. 15 ounce bass caught by Dave Zimmerli and of the 21 pound. 3 ounce bass caught by Raymond Easley in California. The 18 pound, 8 ounce bass caught in Central Florida recently by Mike Williams and Mike Paule raised many eyebrows. Other bass fisherman have read stories of giant bass in Cuba, Honduras and Guatemala that natives have speared for food Many of these anglers spent thousands of dollars in their guest for the new world record bass in these countries.

The current world record has stood for many years. George Perry caught the 22 pound, 4 ounce bass in Montgomery Lake located in Georgia, on June 2.

In the next two fishing columns we shall examine the ideas of Glenn Lau and Doug Hammon, two experts on bass behavior, and in particular, on giant bass.

Both men live in Florida, and what they have to say is certainly relevant to bass anglers in this area. Lau and Hammon both have impressive credentials and their theories differ as to where the new world record bass will be caught.

For 13 years. Glenn Lau was a guide on Lake Erie. He had a "no fish, no pay" policy and became famous because he never came back to the dock without fish.

Film makers began to go on trips to obtain sure action for their films. It was during these episodes that Lau decided he could make more realistic films himself. He then purchased a good movie camera and a book on how to make

Lau went on to film a Sports Affeld series entitled "The Underwater World of

In the course of his film making, Lau amassed over 2,000 hours underwater observing bass. He arrived at some definite conclusion on giant bass and their growth during these underwater observations.

Lau claims that there is a total of seven different strains of bass here in Florida. He notes that the giant strain is different in appearance and needs a cold-water cycle to achieve a very fast growth rate. He is convinced that south Florida waters are too warm to produce a bass of giant proportions.

Lau has formed World Record Bass Inc., and has 17 hatchery-operated ponds in Marion County. Through selective breeding, he is attempting to raise bass of world-record size. Bass with indications of record potential are kept in isolated ponds and are reared under carefully controlled temperatures and feeding schedules. The fry of these giant bass are sold all over the world to be stocked.

Lau doesn't believe that the next world record bass will come from Florida waters unless it is from his super strain of bass. He points out than many 16 and 17 pound bass are caught in central and north Florida years ago. Today few fish reach these proportions because they are caught before they live long enough to attain world record size.

Lau thinks that California and Texas. with reservoirs where there is deep water with minimal heat in summer, along with a wide variety of food, will provide the only chance of a record bass growing entirely in the wild.

Next week we will examine the thoughts of Doug Hammon and see how they differ from those of Glenn Lau. In the meantime, don't give up hopes of catching a world record bass here in central Florida. Many anglers are convinced that world record bass are currently swimming in our waters.

Role Reversal: Rams Blister Pierson, 75-38

By Chuck Burgess Special to the Kerald

Kelly McKinnon poured in 21 points and Ray Hartsfield handed out 11 assists as the Lake Mary Rams ran off their fifth consecutive victory, obliterating Pierson Taylor, 75-38, in prep basketball Wednesday night at Pierson.

'We came out and took things nice and easy in the first half." Richardson said of the modest 24-15 halftime lead. "I knew we were going to win, so I just wanted to use the game for a little practice time. I think it really belped us get into our offense."

The win over the outmatched 2A team improved the Rams record to 7-8 overall and left their Seminole Athletic Conference record at 3-1. The Rams travel to Lyman this Friday night to play the Greyhounds who beat the Colonial Grenadiers Wednesday 65-57 to improve to 15.3. The Greyhounds are tied with the Rams for second place in the SAC behind the 5-0 Seminoles of Sanford.

The Rams didn't need much help in the latter stages of the game with Pierson Taylor as they connected for 51 secondhalf points, many of them coming from sophomore sharpshooter McKinnon.

McKinnon more or less ran the offense in the first half and didn't take that many shots. according to Richardson

"Kelly (McKinnon) was really making the offense be patient," Richardson said. "We felt our confidence building in te second half and started running off the points.

Springing out to a six-point first period lead, the Rams used the inside game of Chris Jackson to control the boards on offense and defense. Jackson not only supplied the rebounding but also dished out 12 points of his own to aid in the scoring romp.

The second period opened with the Rams firing everything at the helpless Pierson Taylor team. Hartsfield started popping off jumpers left and right to build his game total to 16 point. Oscar Merthie drove the lane for 14 points and Eric Czerniejewski provided the calm and steady defense that has made the Rams a SAC contender once again.

"With the way we're playing now," Richardson said, "There's no telling what can happen. We're a totally different team than at the beginning of the season. We control the ball better and do things that we haven't done all year long."

Some of those things include rebounding, patience and get-ting the ball to McKinnon at the right time and place. In the past: two games, the Rams have gotten the ball to McKinnon and he's been there with the shots.

Lyman Notches 7th Consecutive Victory

The Lyman Greyhounds used the T.J. Scaletta-Ralph Philpott connection Wednesday night to dump the Colonial Grenadiers, 65-57, and win their seventh consecutive game in 4A prep basketball action at Orlando's Colonial High School.

Disclosures Anger Patriots

Player Representative: Drug-Testing Program Is Dead

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) - The agreement between the New England Patriots players and management on a drug-testing program is "dead" because the names of players who claims player representative Brian Holloway.

One of those players, cornerback Raymond Clayborn, Wednesday denied abusing drugs and was so angry has vowed "never to play for the Sullivans again."

in a telephone interview from Honolulu Wednesday night, Holloway said that when general manager Patrick Sullivan confirmed the names of the six players who allegedly abused drugs, it terminated the players' 3-day-old agreement, the first of its kind in professional sports in the United States.

"I would say it is absolutely dead because of that. We've got to start from ground zero all over again.

Additionally, Patriots coach Raymond Berry denied reports he threatened to resign if the team failed to agree to drug testing.

"It never came to that," he said. "I just finished a long conversation with Pat Sullivan and we will have an emergency summit meeting," said Holloway, "We will discuss it more thoroughly in a proper manner as soon as I get back to New England next week.

"I am going to reserve all comment until after we can discuss things," said the offensive tackle, who is in Hawaii to play in Sunday's Pro Bowl.

Collins, a running back, also said the voluntary drug testing program "is dead."

Ron Wooten, the assistant player representative, said he believes the team's agreement to voluntary drug testing will stay in place until a second team vote could be taken.

However, he believes the plan will be overturned if the Players Association files a labor grievance.

"I expect the union to file the grievance pretty quickly (with the National Labor Relations Board) and it will probably be successful.

"I don't think the team's moves will hold up for very long because of the collective bargaining agreement. At Monday's meeting, the conflict was spelled out before the vote was taken, that it was a matter of dealing with the agreement," said Wooten. 'But what happens next? I don't know."

Wooten regretted that the names of six Patriots had been published as alleged drug "Players are being named after they've already tightened their ship," he said.

Mark Murphy, assistar, to the executive director of the Players association, said Wednesday the grievance "was being typed up this afternoon, but because of a snowstorm here in Washington (D.C.) it might not get delivered today to the NLRB."

Lady Lions Hunt OBC 'Salvation'

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

One team can control its own destiny with a victory tonight while two others need a win just to hang onto conference hopes in Seminole County girls prep basketball action.

•At Oviedo, Oviedo's Lady Lions battle Leesburg's Lady Yellow Jackets for first place in the Orange Belt Conference. Both teams have 5-1 OBC records with Oviedo's only loss to Leesburg (67-43) while Leesburg fell to Jones.

"This is our biggest game of the season so far." Oviedo coach John Thomas said. "We're already out of the SAC so we're really gunning to win the Orange Belt. They beat us up pretty bad when we played there (Leesburg), but we're looking to turn the tables on them this time.

The winner tonight will have a good chance of going on to win the conference which would be especially satisfying for Oviedo since this is the last year the Lions will be in the Orange Belt. Winning the OBC title would also salvage some of what has been a rather disappointing regular season for Oviedo. Outside of the Orange Belt, the Lady Lions have an 0-12 record including an 0.5 mark in the SAC.

Leading the way for the Lady Lions is senior Stephanie Nelson who leads the team in scoring (12 points per game), rebounding (5.0 per game), assists (2.6) and steals (1.3).

Michelle Eck is next in scoring with a 7.0 average while Eck and Suzzanne Hughes are next in rebounding with four per game apiece. Hughes, a freshman, also leads the team and Seminole County in free throw shooting, hitting on 20 of 25 for 80

While Oviedo's SAC hopes are already gone. Lake Brantley and Lake Howell are still hanging in. A win tonight would keep the Lady Patriots or Lady Hawks alive while a loss would all but eliminate them with Lake Mary holding a 4-0 league record.

Lake Brantley, 8-5 overall, was the last team to beat Lake Howell before its 11-game winning streak. The Lady Hawks. 13-4 overall, had their win streak snapped by Seminole last Thursday but have won two straight since.

Leading the Lady Patriots is sharpshooting senior guard Sherry "Ice" Asplen who, after consecutive games of 22, 19 and 26 points, has raised her scoring average to 17.4 per game, which is third in the county.

Brantley also looks to junior Ashley Thomas for outside scoring and freshman Tracy Brandenburg for ballhandling.

Leading the inside game is senior forward Kim Waln who averages 10.3 points and is tied for third in the county in rebouding with a 9.8 average.

For Lake Howell, junior guard Erin Hankins has been lighting up the scoreboard the past two weeks and now ranks titth in the county in scoring with a 14.5 average. Senior forward Jolee Johnson has come on strong for the Lady Hawks with a 10.6 scoring average and 9.0 rebounding mark. Senior forward Kellee Johnson (8.8 points) and sophomore guard Tammy Lewis (4.9 assists, 3.6 steals) have also played well for the Lady Hawks in recent weeks

The Lady Hawks don't get a lot of scoring from their big people inside, but the rebounding is spread around pretty well. Leading the way are Carey Manuel (7.8 rebounds). Carolyn Kuhl (6.9), Kelly Grider (6.7) and Sarina Winston (5.5).

In a 4A-9 district matchup tonight Seminole High's Lady Seminoles go to Port Orange to take on Spruce Creek's Lady Hawks. Seminole, 11-5 overall and 3-2 in the SAC, has lost just twice in the district.

Leading the Lady Tribe is Burger King Player of the Week Catherine "Kitty" Anderson. The senior forward ranks second in the county in scoring (18 points per game), second in rebounding (10) and first in steals.

The Lady Tribe depends on senior guard Temika Alexander for ballhandling and outside shooting while senior Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson and juntor Yolanda Robinson are the top inside people. Seminole also depends on a trio of freshman including guards Adrian Hillsman and Leticia Strickland and forward Liz Long.

Seminole Misses Big Girl, Winter Park Avoids Upset

By Chris Pieter

Herald Sports Writer Yolanda Robinson missed the bus Wednesday night and Seminole High's Lady Seminoles missed out on a chance to knock off eighth-ranked (4A) Winter Park.

The Lady Tribe got excellent play from seniors Catherine 'Kitty'' Anderson and Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson but coach Charles Steele said his team missed the inside play of Robinson.

"It would have been closer and we might even have won if she (Robinson) had showed up on time," Steele said. "She's worth at least 8 to 10 points a game and would have helped us on the boards." As it turned out, the Lady

Tribe dropped a 66-56 decision at Winter Park High to snap a three-game winning streak. Seminole, 11-5 overall, returns to action tonight at Spruce

Basketball

Anderson has been on a tear for the Lady Seminoles the past two weeks and she kept it going Wednesday with a game-high 25 points including 8 of 13 from the field and 9 of 15 from the free throw line. Anderson also pulled down 10 rebounds.

Johnson tossed in 13 points for the 'Noles and grabbed 10 boards while Temika Alexander added eight points, six assists and four steals.

For Winter Park, Tina Pinkney was high with 19 points, but 12 of those came in the first half.

Eating Habits Are More Than A Matter Of Taste

DEAR ABBY: Recently my wife and I toured England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland, and we noticed a strange habit in all these countries that puzzled and disturbed us. While eating, they held their forks upside down as compared to the way we Americans hold ours. I tried to explain to them that the fork is curved so as to facilitate the lifting of the food to the mouth. They "rake" their food onto the fork with their knife. (And you should see how they cat their peas!)

Also, after cutting meat, they do not set the knife down and change the fork from the left hand to the right; they eat left-handed, which looks rather awkward.

When I mentioned this to an Englishman, he laughed and said. "We are one up on you: switching the fork from the left hand to the right hand is wasted motion." Abby, please inform us as to where they acquired these strange eating habits.

b evolved from custom. Don't complain: the English have come a long way from the days when King Henry VIII ignored the utensils, ate with his hands and tossed the bones over his shoulder!

DEAR ABBY: I take exception to your response to the person who didn't want to state her religion on the admittance form when she entered the hospital. You said she didn't have to.

I refused to disclose my "marital status" on a similar form when I was selected for a goiter X-ray, and I was informed that unless I completed the form there would be no X-ray! The argument that my marital status had nothing to do with my goiter fell on deaf ears to those in charge.

Nameless in PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR NAMELESS: You were right-your marital status had nothing to do with your golter. but you knuckled under because you were intimidated by "those in charge." new process that genetically deprives oysters of sex to keep them edible all year could double oyster sales in the United States, scientists and industry officials claimed.

Researchers at the University of Washington working with the Coast Oyster Co. said Tuesday they have succeeded in developing a commercially feasible "triploiding" process that prevents reproduction and the attendant seasonal chemical change that fouls oysters' taste.

Through genetic engineering, the scientists developed a triploid oyster, which keeps an extra set of female chromosomes that prevent it from reproducing. The sterile variant does not wither and lose its flavor in the summer months, the researchers said.
