But finally, let me point out that my record in the Firecracker hasn't been anything to write home about It's obvious, of course, they're basing their choice on my two Daytona 500 victories, the first in 1964, the other last February. (Incidentally, in the first Daytona 500, in 1959, I started in a '57 Olds in sixth place, blew the engine at 20 miles, and finished 57th. In all other Daytona races, I've driven a Plymouth.) Of the five Firecracker races I've started ,my rather inauspicious finishes have been 25th in 1959, 11th in 1960, 30th in 1962, eighth in 1963, and 16th in 1964. That's an average finish of a little better than 18th place. Not so hot.

As always, I'm planning and hoping to improve that average on July 4. And I know the "Big D" will be fighting back
