 WEDNESDAY, DEC. 12, 1951
TODAY'S HIGHLIGHTS
 No who knows one thing certainly is on a safer foundation than he who has a world of partial or incorrect information. Whether he be a dinner or no, I know not, one thing I know, that whereas I was blind, now I see.—20:25.
 It may be that Tallulah Bankhead is as bad as she was painted by her former secretary's defense attorney, who said her "incidental expenses" included "booze, giggles, and marijuana cigarettes"; and if she is, she deserves just what she is getting. But wouldn't it be a terrible thing, if she were innocent of such charges, and the attorney could make them with impunity, in public, purely in an attempt to "shakedown" Miss Bankhead for a big fee?
 Sanford is unable to provide accommodations for all those who want to come here, says the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, which urges local residents with rooms to rent to list them at C. of C. headquarters. One visitor, so far unable to find a place to stay, is offering $100 a month for an unfurnished three-bedroom home. There is an opportunity here for the complete fruition of the old fashioned American system of free enterprise. What this city needs is a big fine new apartment house.
 We are glad to see Brailey Odham incorporating in his platform a plank for checking into State welfare rolls and "eliminating chiselers and political leeches" from welfare payments. There will, no doubt, on this account, be some who will accuse him of a heartless toward his underprivileged fellowman, but what the poor and needy must remember is that their only hope of adequate assistance from the State rests upon the determination to keep the rolls free from the underserving.
 City Manager Clifford McKibbin has resigned to accept private employment after nearly three years of fruitful work for the City of Sanford. Mr. McKibbin has proved himself an extremely able administrator who has handled the multitude of details coming under his supervision with a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of delay and confusion. Throughout their residence here the McKibbins have made a host of friends and have proved themselves a great social asset to the community. We shall be sorry to see them leave.
 It is bad enough when people with big incomes go to the tax collectors and offer them a bribe to reduce their taxes; it is infinitely worse when public officials go to a big income taxpayer and threaten to prosecute for some alleged violation unless a bribe is paid. That seems to be what has happened in the Tallulah case. Two men went to him and said "You are liable to go to the penitentiary for tax frauds unless you employ our services for $500,000." He refused, and a short time later the tax problem was submitted to the Justice Department for prosecution. Such conditions are a frightful reflection on an administration which tolerates them.
 We are afraid that many businessmen, come next November, will be like the man in Dr. Collins' story at the Rotary luncheon the other day who when asked why he always voted the Democratic ticket, said "Well, my grandfather was a Democrat, my father was a Democrat, my mother was a Democrat, my wife was a Democrat, my children are Democrats, so I am a Democrat." The man replied, when asked if he had been a housewife and his grandfather had been a Democrat, would he be a Democrat?

Buying A Christmas Puppy

Pitfalls to be avoided in adding a puppy to the family circle this Christmas are listed in the current issue of "Your Dog" Magazine. The magazine's editors estimate that 500,000 American homes will acquire a puppy this Yuletide, including, of course, a substantial number right in this area. There is a dog for every purpose, one to suit the age and temperament of any owner, and with a little careful planning each can be sure of getting exactly what is needed or wanted, they say.
 1. If undecided as to breed, a visit to a dog show, where a variety of breeds are on exhibit, should prove helpful. If no dog show is being held locally, visit as many local kennels of different breeds as possible until you have made up your mind.
 2. Don't get a puppy too young — say under ten or twelve weeks. The younger the puppy the more care it requires.
 3. If you are not sure the puppy is healthy, insist on a veterinary statement before purchase. A sick puppy is no bargain at any price.
 4. If you want to be sure the pup is purebred, request a registration certificate, which should also show a transfer to you as the new owner.
 5. Before taking the pup home, be sure to select a spot in the house he will be able to call his own. Place his bed there — an ordinary box filled with paper will do — and put near it a toy or rubber ball or bone to help him cut his teeth on and divert his attention from mischievous deeds.
 6. Don't stuff him and don't handle him unnecessarily when you get him home, else you may end up with a sick or dead pup. If you are really wise, you will arrange to have him delivered either a few days before or a few days after the Christmas day excitement.

Football, The Game

The intercollegiate sport of football has been taking more of a kicking around in recent seasons than the ball usually does from the players. Lovers of the game have often found themselves in a perplexing position when the subject came up for discussion, torn between the natural impulse to defend the sport and an awareness that something really has been happening to it.
 Most of the criticism is leveled not against the game itself, however, but against the way it is used by some institutions. Football is a vigorous and hard game, but if it is played as it should be played it is more dangerous than many other sports. When the dominating attitude of all is that the game is the thing, it has unique values for teaching teamwork, sportsmanship and a love of keen competition.
 When the worth and wisdom of intercollegiate football are attacked, it would be a mistake to think it is the game itself which is on trial. Rather the trial is of the ability of colleges and universities to engage in so intense and popular a game and keep it on the high level of true sport.

Cartoon Chronicle

Many veterans of World War II believe that the best chroniclers of the misery of the war were Ernie Pyle and Bill Mauldin. Both had an intense sympathy for the weary, frightened, dejected and heartbroken men who didn't think about being heroes but somehow managed to behave heroically. Pyle told their story with simple moving words, and Mauldin did it with bitterly funny cartoons. A new book by Mauldin tells the more complete story of "Willie" and "Joe" who were the subjects of most of his cartoons.
 A significant thing about the works of both Pyle and Mauldin is that they cut through the glory and glamour which some people still manage to weave around the military life, in war or in peace. They knew war as an ugly, murderous business which brings out the worst or the best in a man. They have been able to portray war as it was without missing the deeply moving human qualities of the men who fight. Such works have special value.

The Great Divide
 by Robert Hillier

"These people who are not governed by God will be ruled by tyrants."
 —WILLIAM PENN
 "You have a dietary deficiency," the doctor says to his patient, "which we can easily correct with Vitamins X, Y and Z."
 The psychiatrist says to him, "You have a certain neurosis which a few hobbies will take care of."
 The editor writes in his column, "The main difference between our system and the Russian is our faith in individual enterprise."
 These three statements—and a large part of our thinking—have one point in common: they are wholly materialistic.
 Without meaning to, we have become forgetful or shy of the one force without which life would be indistinguishable from that advocated by the Kremlin's rulers.
 The Republic was founded and preserved by men and women who frankly acknowledged themselves dependent on God. That natural assumption inspired every individual and the nation as a whole to efforts for human betterment hitherto unknown in the history of man. Vitamins and leisure-time activities and the profit system are all very well, but they alone are not worth dying for.
 The great difference between spiritual power and materialistic cynicism, Gurs is a nation founded on belief in God and if we forget that, we lose the secret of freedom.

C Of C Meet

 Terminal Inc., a private organization of which he was initiator, the directors, following a motion by H. H. Coleman, voted approval and thanks for the work Mr. Pitts is doing to bring the project to the forefront as a private venture.
 H. B. Pope suggested that Forrest E. Breckenridge, C of C manager, secure as much information as possible regarding the original terminal project and freight rates from his files and make this available to Mr. Pitts and the new organization. Mr. Breckenridge replied that this assistance had already been offered.
 Mr. Pitts stressed the importance of Sanford using its natural resources, such as the St. Johns River, warning that to neglect such assets might mean that the city would lose valuable human resources. He warned that unless new industries are developed here, many young people and high school graduates, as in the past, would have to leave here.
 He told of a conference with a potential investor who assured him that if a terminal were built, he would be interested in building warehouses and a feed plant in Sanford. Mr. Pitts revealed that the new organization had enough capital to secure the preliminary steps on the project, and added that committee are working on ways to solve the problem.

of the meeting was "Industrializing Florida" he stated.
 Mr. Simpson stressed the need of a steel mill in Florida, a topic that he broached to many at the state convention. He pointed out that the U. S. Steel Corporation is spending $48,000,000 for a conveyor system for its newly developed iron ore mines in Venezuela. This ore is to be taken by boat to Philadelphia to a new $100,000,000 mill, he said, and pointed out that this presents hazards in passing Cape Hatteras.
 He quoted Col. Pearson of the Army engineers as stating at the meeting that water control, such as would be afforded by a Sanford-Titusville Canal, would be beneficial, rather than detrimental to wildlife in this region.
 A C of C budget was approved for 1951-52 amounting to $25,000. Anticipated receipts will include a $6,500 appropriation by Seminole County, a $4,500 appropriation from the City, $12,500 from membership dues and fees from the Central Florida Exposition.
 Approval was given by the directors for a tourist party to be held at the C of C Building on Dec. 31. Tentative plans were discussed by a Chamber of Commerce dinner in January. Mr. Breckenridge was directed to bill all present members of Commerce members for their annual membership.

THE WORLD TODAY
 by JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—Maybe it's because he's rich and doesn't need the job and so feels free to speak as he pleases. Or maybe he's just new to the ways of Washington, or just an unusual man anyway.
 But Frank E. McKinney, the Democrats' new political field general, is developing the habit of putting the pronoun "I" ahead of the President when he makes a speech or talks to reporters.
 This 40-year-old Irishman, an Indianapolis banker, was chosen last October as new chairman of the Democratic National Committee which has the job of trying to get the Democrats re-elected next year.
 He couldn't have had the job without the blessing of President Truman who is still boss of the Democrats, with McKinney now his No. 1 right-hand man in politics.
 Anyone in McKinney's job, of course, is going to have his hands full and his job isn't made easier by the scandals which have been rocking the White House since Mr. Truman's Administration.
 It's generally acknowledged the "Trumanites" will have to do some cleaning before election time. McKinney publicly stated his awareness of the problem in a speech late in November.
 He said then "any man who betrays the people's trust in public office is a public enemy." He promised "no maelstrom in public office shall go unpunished."
 And then he added: "I am ready to help—and what is more important, Harry S. Truman is ready to help."
 The fact that in this revelation about the administration's intentions he put the letter "I" ahead of the President may have been due entirely to his particular style in composition. And too, he tempered it by noting that Mr. Truman's attitude was more important.
 But yesterday, with the scandals getting more unpleasant by the hour, McKinney went to the President in the White House.
 It's usual when one of Mr. Truman's lieutenants confers with him—if they've agreed on some important decision—for the caller to keep quiet so the President can make the announcement in his own way.
 The reluctance of White House callers to discuss what "I" said to the President and what he said in return, is not always allowed. As talked about—to change his mind privately.
 But when McKinney came out of the White House he was surrounded by reporters.
 It may be that he was unaware of the White House custom just mentioned or that he was just too steamed up by the developments to keep his lip buttoned.
 He probably told newsmen he had advised Mr. Truman that he could not overemphasize the immediate future—because of the delay, I'm inclined to think there will be action soon.
 Perhaps it was planned that McKinney would go ahead and tell the world the White House was going to lower the boom.
 It's possible, too, that it didn't happen that way and that Mr. Truman's telling reporters McKinney had told the President what to do or even that the President intended doing anything.
 If Mr. Truman doesn't start a fast clean-up he'll be embarrassed since his own master politician already has told the world he would. The President's clean-up is necessary.
 McKinney, of course, did not in any way try to give an impression that Mr. Truman didn't know the situation. He said the President is very much aware of it.
 Still, it might be fun listening in on the conversation the next time the two men get together.

I have a fair education and am usually able to read and understand most of the reading matter that reaches my desk, but now and then I encounter a manuscript prepared by the master-minds in Washington that throws me into a tizz and leaves me gasping for breath.
 Maybe I'm kidding myself, but I consider that I'm a reasonable man, slow to anger and eager to learn. However, when I encounter a document such as the annual report of the Library of Congress, which contains between 200 and 300 pages, printed on the highest quality paper and handsomely bound in buckram at the taxpayer's expense, I gasp in amazement and then develop a slow burn.
 You, my fine-featured friend, whether you know it or not, had money deducted from your shrinking pay check to pay for the publication of the following, which I quote from page 11 of the 1949 annual report:
 "But if the Library is, as it is designed to be and as, in the past, it most assuredly has been, a popular institution, popularly supported, administered and sustained, if it is, inevitably perhaps, but nevertheless indelibly and inextricably a part of the intellectual endowment of every citizen; if solely to diffuse, it has scrupulously amassed the recorded knowledge it contains, if it belongs to the experience of its days; if it is sensitive to the expectations of its citizenry; if its strength it has to their fulfillment; if learned spuriousness cannot taint, nor certain, nor embarrassing, nor diverse, nor betray, nor in any way diminish its steadfast demonstration of access and discovery and choice; if its ambitions do not exceed its opportunities for useful service; if it has acquired and exploited for perfected special skills; if it is an active agent as well as an obedient servant for the nobler energies of society; if it is aware of, and disturbed by, and in rebellion against, its own short comings; if performance of its duty is its single purpose and its duty, the enrichment of society; if its traditions are not marcescent, but alive, adaptable and approved; if hallow precedent does not exact conformity nor impose requirements; if there is confidence in its maturity; if through age, it has attached character; an identity, a realization, 'non facit sed, quae nascitur', at vero, multa meliora facta (Cicero; De-Senectute, VI: 22-23), then the passage of its first 150 years may merit some attention."
 I think what the guy who wrote that was trying to say was that the Library of Congress is a credit to an enlightened nation, has performed a masterful job in assembling and preserving material and should bear a feeling of pride in the minds and hearts of all Americans.

12 Fish Are Lost, Eight More Caught

Visions of a fine fish fry loomed in the minds of two Sanford sportsmen as they sped in their boat toward the city after catching 12 fine big perch in Lake Monroe near the bridge Tuesday afternoon.
 To the happy J. Cates and T. J. Garner, the fish were right on their way to the frying pan. Then tragedy struck! The frayed string holding the 12 scaled beauties parted.
 Following remarks and exclamations which we dare not print, they returned to their secret fishing area and caught 8 more perch, so had a fish fry, after all.

U. S. Casualty List Hits 102,576 Mark

Fluoridation Of Water Supplies
 American Medical Association

Although considerable evidence has been compiled during the past several years which strongly indicates that the fluoridation of communal drinking water reduces the incidence of dental caries, some communities hesitate to adopt the procedure. Opponents of the process argue, despite lack of supportive evidence, that the addition of one part per million of fluoride to drinking water might produce serious systemic disorders. Such apprehension should be allayed by a joint statement recently released by the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry and the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association. This statement, published on page 703 of this issue of The Journal, states that the Councils are:
 "... unaware of any evidence that fluoridation of community water supplies up to a concentration of one part per million would lead to structural changes in the bones or to an increase in the incidence of fractures, or any other condition so far revealed in a possible increase in mottling of the tooth enamel. . . . After considering the evidence available at this time, the Council on Pharmacy and Chemistry and the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association, in the light of the fact that the dental benefits of the process are so well established, authorities who refuse to adopt the measure will have difficulty in justifying their position.
 The American Dental Association, the American Association of Public Health Dentists, the United States Public Health Service, the Governing Council of the American Public Health Association and the State and Territorial Dental Health Directors have recognized the value of fluoridation as a preventive for dental caries. The American Water Works Association recently reaffirmed its position in the matter (see news section of this issue of The Journal). Now that the American Medical Association, through the actions of two of its important councils, has expressed its views regarding the non-toxicity of the procedure, no community need harbor misgivings about installing an approved water fluoridation process. On the contrary, since the dental benefits of the process are so well established, authorities who refuse to adopt the measure will have difficulty in justifying their position.
 When this newest method of controlling dental caries began to show promise, dental, medical and public health officials recognized that both the efficacy and the toxicity of the process had to be determined and that both the dental and the medical professions had definite responsibilities in making such determinations. J. S. Banks Conduct Survey To Determine Effect Of Taxation

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Taxes are too heavy, just now. And, like most other taxpayers, the banks are wondering if they're getting a fair deal on taxes as some others are.

To find out, they're conducting their own examination of their earnings and the effect of taxation upon their capital structure. All businesses, and all individuals, learn something from the results.

Taxes—when they reach the U. S. Treasury—stimulate governmental functions. But many businessmen and bankers contend that if the rates are too high they may end by killing the goose that lays the golden egg.

The federal reserve board is polling 1,600 representative commercial banks throughout the nation to obtain factual data for studying the effect of taxation on the ability of banks to improve their capital positions out of earnings and to attract new capital.

Bankers contend that the excessive tax burden on heavily using banks that fresh capital is being scared away, that surplus funds aren't being built up at the rate that increased deposits and loans make a prudent bank, and that other industries get more favorable tax treatment.

All Americans are interested in the soundness of their banking system. And leading financiers warn against considering federal deposit insurance as a safe substitute for adequate capital. Therefore, all Americans will be interested in the findings of the federal reserve board's questionnaire.

In urging its members to fill out the questionnaire quickly, the American Bankers Association says: "Bank shares are in most cases selling at a substantial discount from the real book value because earnings are not comparable with those in other lines of business. Nevertheless, many such banks, both large and small, find themselves subject to excess profits tax."

This comes about because most banks use invested capital as the basis of determining normal earnings, with any thing above that subject to excess profits tax bite. Bankers point out that in the drafting of the present excess profits tax, utilities were allowed to consider earnings up to six per cent of invested capital as normal before being subject to EPT. Railroads can call seven per cent normal earnings, before EPT applies.

But bankers say that banks with capital investment above $10 million can earn less than six per cent before being subject to EPT; while even banks with less than $5 million invested capital must pay EPT after making 5 1/2 per cent.

In many other industries, the banks have been making larger profits before taxes, in dollar volume, than formerly. Their total profits have been swelled by the general inflation. And some of their loans to business is at a record high. After taxes, however, net earnings shrink so much—bankers claim—that investors can't see their stocks as a buy, with many industrial shares yielding so much more.

Businesses say this difficulty in expanding capital and building up surplus earnings is one of the reasons behind the many bank mergers and consolidations around the nation.

The American Bankers Association notes in this connection that aiding the Federal Reserve Board in drawing up the questionnaire were: the Treasury, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks. The ABA opinion: "The supervisory agencies are particularly interested because of the possible bearing of taxation on the strengthening and building up of bank capital." Capital and surplus represent the shareholders' stake in the bank, and the supervisors agencies think this should increase as deposits and banking business increase.

If the survey shows that high taxes are cutting into the growth of the capital structure, the data will be presented to Congress in a plea for relief.

Every one, of course, thinks he pays too much in taxes. But if the banks prove that high taxes are hurting their financial structure, by stunting its growth (as some say taxes do with other businesses) it might affect congressional thinking on the whole tax policy.

What Americans Need Is An Elf For Christmas

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK.—(AP)—Dear Santa Claus:

A little girl from the Bronx wrote you recently and asked for a baby gorilla for Christmas. She said if she couldn't have the gorilla—she just wanted to grow up with it—she didn't care for anything at all.

Well, that's pretty much the way I feel, except I don't want a baby gorilla. I want an elf. I've wanted one all my life—a good, well-trained, obedient elf, sound of mind and limb.

As a child I began to suspect there was something wrong with people. Now, after 40 years of living, I've come to the conclusion they just aren't dependable. They get all mixed up.

You do a swell job of straightening things out while you're on duty, Santa, but you take a rather long vacation. What I want is one of your elves to fill in on the 364 days a year you aren't working. And I want him this year—or never.

One of the troubles with civilization, probably, is that it came up believing in elves—and is now plagued with gremlins.

What I want is a real, conscientious, old-fashioned, good-hearted elf to help me fight the gremlins of today. Every household really needs one.

An elf would help fill the void still left in modern living despite the invention of the electric dishwasher and the all-purpose vitamin tablet. He'd take the place of the cricket on the hearth—or rather, in our house, the radiator.

There are so many things for him to do about the place. When the covers slipped off me at night, no more blind groping and grunting about in the dark. Little old elf would attend to that. He could also fix the alarm clock in the morning, give me a shave, and put the coffee pot on the stove.

All day long he could do little household chores like cleaning the venetian blinds and making coffee remarks to my wife. That would keep her in such good humor that when I came home, she'd say, "Let's eat at home, tonight, dear. I don't feel like going out. I'm just worn out from laughing at that wonderful elf we got for Christmas."

One of his big jobs would be to answer the door and the telephone, tasks I have come to hate. "No, Mr. Boyle isn't at home," he'd say politely, "but this is his elf. Any message, sir?"

There are some days when I'd like to take him to the office. Can't you imagine all the things you could do at your office, pleasant or mean, with the help of a 14-karat elf?

With meat costing what it does now, Santa, I'd prefer a vegetarian elf, of course. We don't have any porridge, I understand they like porridge, but perhaps you have one that can get along on carrots, blackstrap molasses and yogurt.

Naturally, we'd guarantee him social security, a two-pants suit, a night out each week, and vacations with pay. Even an elf wants to have a little rest and relax like everybody else.

I don't know, Santa, how long even an elf could stand the strain of Manhattan life. He may turn into a gremlin himself. But if he does, you can have him back next year.

Sincerely,
Hal Boyle

Naturally, we'd guarantee him social security, a two-pants suit, a night out each week, and vacations with pay. Even an elf wants to have a little rest and relax like everybody else.

HOLLYWOOD

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 11—(AP)—Everybody talks about the need for new faces in the movies, but few studios do much about it. A notable exception is Universal-International. In the past year or so, this studio has developed new personalities in a number disproportionate to the size of its operation. Among the promising newcomers: Peggy Dow, Piper Laurie, Joyce Holden, Rock Hudson.

For information on the studio's star-making operation, I went to the talent coach, Sophie Rosenstein. A small, electric woman, she has spent most of her career in finding and developing other people's talents. How does the studio find promising young talent?

"Mostly through agents who bring the talent to the studio. Most of the boys and girls have been found in little theaters around Hollywood, which is our principal showcase of talent. Only a few are brought in from Broadway and other parts of the country."

How are the youngsters chosen for contracts?

"We try to pick ones who have the potentiality of being able to do leading roles, since we generally don't put character types under contract. The person should be pleasant looking and should be assured and self-confident. Previous experience is not necessary, but it helps. If a person has taken part in school plays and so forth, that usually shows he has some of the talent and the desire to be an actor."

What was the common thread that all these stars possess?

"I would say they are all very nice and give less than they get. They are all very hard workers and they all have a little something that makes them stand out from the crowd."

SENIORS ELIGIBLE FOR AID FROM HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 12—(Special)—Seniors in Florida high schools are eligible to apply for a new National Scholarship in Harvard College.

The National Scholarship Program of Harvard, now open for the first time to high school students who reside or attend school in Florida, has enabled more than 600 outstanding young men from areas outside northeastern United States to attend Harvard College since the program was established in 1931. In some instances, it also has assisted individuals to continue their education through one of Harvard University's ten graduate schools as well.

F. S. von Stade, Jr., Director of Scholarship, explained that two factors have influenced the College to open its 1952-53 competition to Florida: First, the number of outstanding students from Florida to have entered Harvard College has increased since World War II; second, active Harvard Clubs and individual alumni in Florida have urged the extension of the program to the state.

This fall, 46 Florida men are students in Harvard College. In addition, 102 from Florida are pursuing graduate studies at Harvard in the Graduate School of Arts and Sciences, the Law School, the Medical School and other graduate schools of Harvard University.

Your guests will love a corned beef and cabbage salad for a supper snack after watching a TV show. Just mix Tasty shredded cabbage with French dressing and spoon on individual salad plates. Top with a slice or two of corned beef and a sprig of mayonnaise that's been blended with prepared mustard. Dress with hot buttered rolls.

If you're making a sponge cake, allow the eggs used in it to come to room temperature before they're beaten; they give better volume this way.

Pilot Club Members And Guests Enjoy Annual Christmas Party At Yacht Club

The Yacht Club was beautifully decorated for the annual Christmas party of the Pilot Club last night with quantities of greenery, Holly berries and burning red tapers in crystal candle holders. At one end of the large room a really decorated Christmas tree stood near a fireplace with a simulated fire burning and a large Santa Claus face smiling down upon the scene. Christmas wrapped toys brought by the members for the Elk's annual Community Tree were placed underneath the lighted tree.

The piano was decorated with a snow scene while a miniature lighted church scene was placed at another side of the room. A soft blue light reflected a beautiful scene of tiny angels ascending above a background of blue sky flecked with stars. A large Bible was placed directly below the ascending angels and in the path of the reflecting blue light.

The banquet tables were covered with Christmas cloth and adorned with burning red candles, intermingled with greenery and Holly. At the speakers table an arrangement of frosted pine cones was placed in the center and at intervals were placed large white candles. Miniature red boats filled with candy marked the guests' places and at each member's place was a Christmas wrapped gift from the president, Mrs. V. C. Messinger. Mrs. George A. Stine planned and arranged the decorations. She was assisted by Mrs. H. A. Swanson, Mrs. Al Hunt, and Mrs. Bill Tate were co-hostesses. On behalf of the club, Mrs. Swanson presented gifts to Mrs. H. W. Little, caterer and to George Swain, waiter.

Following the turkey dinner a program of entertainment was presented under the direction of Mrs. M. C. Stone. The first number was an impersonation "Meet Me at the Bar" given by Mrs. Edna Lee who also delighted her audience with two other readings, Evans McVoy, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. McVoy, sang, "O, Holy Night" and "Christmas Carols." Christmas songs were sung by the group to the accompaniment furnished by Mr. McVoy. "The Lord's Prayer" was softly sung by Mr. McVoy as the invocation preceding dinner.

Charles M. J. Boutsers of the Sanford Naval Air Station presided over the group with a number of amusing stories, some of which were incidents occurring to him and his men in the service. He praised the friendliness of the people in Sanford and thanked them for the reception the men of the Naval Air Station are receiving. Captain Boutsers and Mrs. Boutsers plan to leave in the near future, he said, for Naples, Italy, for a tour of duty.

Christmas messages were read from Miss Helen Hoffman, Pilot International president, of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Virginia Kennedy Taylor, past president and from Mrs. Len Tavares, district governor of district four, Pilot International.

"The Story of the Nativity," a pageant, will be presented at the Southside School auditorium at 8:00 P. M. tomorrow. Ninety-six children of the fourth grade will take part in the presentation which is under the direction of Mrs. Nancy Brock. Mrs. Robert Brown and Mrs. Frances Perry, with Mrs. C. C. Welch, accompanied the public is invited.

Christmas Program Given By Society
An ongoing Christmas program was presented and a beautiful program was held by the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church on Monday afternoon, following which a turkey dinner was enjoyed.

Included on the program were "Call to Worship" by Mrs. H. B. McCall, a solo by Mrs. George Hasden, a reading by Mrs. W. L. Fleming, and a story "The Gifted Wise Men" by Mrs. C. C. Welch. Billy Park rendered a violin solo, and Mrs. Grady Heriman led in prayer.

At the board meeting, at which Mrs. J. C. Davis, president, presided Mrs. L. M. Swain was appointed senior hostess of the Society. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. L. M. Swain will assist Mrs. Swain monthly at the center.

Resolutions of sympathy on the death of Mrs. E. J. Stenderman were read by Mrs. Roy Ellis. Following the program a delightful tea was served in the Church home. Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Louise Stipple poured, and about 40 guests were served.

Good accompaniment to some of salad cut off crusts from bread slices and spread each with a little mayonnaise, toast in a hot waffle iron until lightly browned and cut into strips.

Junior Class Play Caste Entertained

The cast of the Junior Class Play, "The Truth and Nothing But the Truth," was entertained at one house by Robert Morris last Friday evening at his home at 1728 Locust Avenue.

Enjoying the party with the cast were the stage hands, prompters, ushers, business managers, family advisors, and all connected with the play, including dates of the boys and girls and husbands and wives of the faculty members.

The Morris home was decorated throughout in keeping with the Christmas season. The guests were invited by Robert into the "round-up" room where refreshments of ambrosia, cakes, nuts and candies were served by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Morris, and his sister, Mrs. Morris.

About 40 guests were entertained during the evening.

Seminole High Opens Basketball Season Against DeLand Tomorrow

Seminole High School will open its '51-'52 basketball season tomorrow night when they take on the DeLand Indians in a twin bill at 8:30 in the DeLand High School gym.

The Sanford B squad which ran through their first scrimmage session yesterday will meet the DeLand B's in the first half of the two game meeting. Following the B game the DeLand varsity five will tangle with the DeLand varsity men.

Jayvee Coach Bill Fleming and Varsity Mentor Fred Ganas will send their charges into the opening tilt hampered by lack of experience and team work practice.

The boys have been handicapped by the tiny Seminole auditorium-gym that isn't big enough to combine plays and basketball and will go into tomorrow night's opener with a minimum of practice sessions under their belt.

Eight men dribbling the ball over the hardwood yesterday afternoon and sitting Center Wise Hardin are the raw material from which the Sanford coach will shape this year's top five.

Included in the group are a trio of tall men and Hardin, giant holdover from last year, who was out with a cold yesterday, will get the starting post center, Gerald Covington is another returner from last year.

Roundout on the starting hopefuls are six men who have played varsity or B ball last year. Ray Davis, who may shape up as a good defensive player, Warren McCall and Jimmy Smith, along with three boys who saw action with the varsity football team.

Terry Cordell, Junior Metts and Harry Kinkavitch will be tested in tomorrow night's game.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12—(AP)—About the time you get thoroughly fed up with college sports along comes a little thing like a note from Dick Hightower to restore some of your faith.

Writing "thank you" notes is an old custom among Southern Methodists, athletes who are picked for "All" teams and Dick, who only made second-string on the All America, is no exception.

The oddsity is that he devoted most of his letter to a player for whom he had never seen a play, Bill Forester.

Bill, a 220-pound defensive tackle, doubles as offensive fullback when he's needed and Hightower tells how the second-year intransigent touch-downer again Arkansas and later intercepted a pass against Baylor to set up a touchdown which he made himself.

...says Dick: "Bill is a star in our eyes. I think that next season he will be the country's outstanding lineman." ...When a kid thinks enough of a teammate to write that, they must both be good.

The Eyes Have It
J. I. Clements Jr., assistant basketball coach at Georgia Teachers College, probably realized the ambition of every losing coach the other day.

Just after the whistle sounded to end a game which the Teachers lost, Clements picked up a couple of pals as "bodyguards" and solemnly presented the referee a pair of spectacles.

He probably wouldn't have risked the gag if the ref hadn't been a brother. ...Simpler. ...Just as effective is the stunt blamed on several coaches. ...Catching the ref as he leaves the floor at half time, the coaches ask, guffily: "Do you like the game?"

"Sure, a fine game," the ref replies. ...Then, snarls the coach, "Why in --don't you open your eyes and watch it!"

Sports Before Your Eyes
Ted Bob Margaria, Harvard freshman coach, as a possible replacement for Clinger Smith at Lafayette. ...And some folks are wondering if it was more than a social call when Roy Clagston, North Carolina State athletic director, dropped in to visit Lawrence U. ...Alabama basketball fans, who are enthusiastic if not numerous, say to keep your eyes on Floyd Burdette's cagers, and especially Paul Sullivan, 6-8 center. ...Paul, they say, has outshone Kentucky's Bill Spivey and missed beating Spivey's conference scoring record last year when he quit shooting after 56 points against Mississippi State because he thought fans would believe he was hogging the show.

Princeton Star Kazmaier Named Year's Best Back

NEW YORK—Dick Kazmaier, Princeton's dynamic All-American tailback, today was named Back of the Year in the Associated Press' poll of sports writers and the stender 21-year-old triple threat from Maurice, O., won in a landslide. He was picked by 76 of the 125 writers and radio men from coast to coast who participated in the poll.

Closest to the Tiger terror was Hank Lauricella, Tennessee's All-American tailback. Lauricella was selected by 13 voters.

Third, with seven votes, was Johnny Bright, the negro back from Drake. Bright, who holds the record for yardage gained in a college career, was put out of action with a broken leg in the game with Oklahoma A. & M. and lost a chance to repeat as the 1951 leader in total yardage. That honor went to Kazmaier, with 1,827 yards.

Bright was followed by Washington's Hugh McElhenny (6), Baylor's Larry Ibel (5), and Kentucky's Babe Parilli (5).

Ten College Heads Continue Probing Athletic Problems

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12—(AP)—Ten college presidents today renewed their search for the answers to these two questions: (1) What's wrong with intercollegiate sports? (2) What can be done about it?

The presidents are members of a special committee set up by the American Council on Education, a private body of educators, to study college sports. They laid the groundwork for their studies in a meeting here last month.

Today they were to hear from football coach, Lloyd Jordan of Harvard, and two physical education experts, Thomas E. McDonough of Emory in Georgia and B. C. Staley of Illinois.

Jordan is president of the National Football Coaches Association. McDonough heads the College Physical Education Association and Staley is president of the American Academy of Physical Education.

The hearings are behind closed doors. But Dr. John Hannah, president of Michigan State College and chairman of the committee, fills in reporters after each session.

The physical education programs at some schools have come in for criticism.

Judge Saul S. Streit of New York who denounced college sports on two different occasions while sentencing or giving suspended sentences to former college athletes, has been especially bitter.

On Nov. 19, Streit said Sherman White, a star basketball player at Long Island University, had taken "music seminar, oil painting, rhythm and dance, public speaking and physical education" during his senior year.

And last week, in announcing a suspended sentence for three Boston University players charged with trying to fix a basketball game, Streit took off again.

The athletes, he said, had been permitted to take elementary education, teach football, volleyball, basketball, tennis, and physical education, and to receive a degree.

The Sports Register

By DEREK DUNN-RANKIN

Mrs. Letha Fowler in the County Judge's office tells us that Seminole sportmen invested $5,414.25 in hunting and fishing licenses last month. That big chunk of dough represents 914 state and county permits in one busy day last month the office did a brisk $1,600 worth of business.

That's a lot of money for the State Game and Fish Commission to spend on warden's salaries. There ought to be plenty of funds left for restocking county lakes.

The Seminole High School football squad will see the Tangerine Bowl game between Arkansas State and Stetson free as guests of Patrick Fruit Company. W. A. Patrick handed the Sanford coaches 45 of the pastboards for the New Year's Day contest in Orlando.

Golf Pro A. F. Mues O'linger, in his fifth winter at the Seminole County Golf Club, says the local 18 hole course has the best natural terrain of any club in the state. The rolling tree-lined course is certainly impressive as well as beautiful. And Mues' counsel to know what he is talking about. The veteran pro has played in tournaments from Jacksonville to Miami.

Mues told us how he missed seeing the World Series from a free box seat. Carl Hubbell, farm director for the New York Giants, used to play a good bit of golf in the Seminole course last winter and he promised a pair of box seats to Mr. and Mrs. O'linger when the Giants got into the World Series.

When the Giants lost 11 straight last summer Mues gave up any hopes of seeing the New Yorkers cop the league championship and so he scheduled the big summer tournament at the Westchester Virginia Country Club, where he is pro, for the hectic October series days.

When the Giants made their amazing race for the pennant and succeeded there was no one more surprised than Mues, who couldn't see the series because he was managing a golf tournament.

Hugh Hardison, Georgia Tech Soph guard from Cedartown, Ga., is a police officer in his home town during the summer months.

Alabama's football team has won more Southeastern Conference football games than any other team. In 17 years of play the Crimson Tide has won 80 SEC contests.

Of the 60 football players listed on Duke's early varsity roster, 33 were from North Carolina.

The Dean of Big Ten football coaches is Ray Eliot of Illinois who began directing Illini football men in 1942.

Duke Surprised By Furman Five In Last Minute

Notre Dame, NYU Hoopsters Stick To Winning Ways

NEW YORK—Furman's surprise victory over Duke and the extension of Notre Dame's and NYU's winning streaks featured play in college basketball Tuesday night.

Danver's conquest of Ohio State; St. Louis' defeat of Canisius; Oklahoma A. & M.'s overtime triumph over Southern Methodist and Kansas State's victory over California were prominent in the national picture.

A field goal and a free throw by St. Louis' Edw. Ray, and a half against the Cardinals today confronted by a novel problem. Can he win a starting position on his own team?

It's definite, says the former New York Giants second baseman, that he will serve as a playing manager. However, the "ifs, buts and maybes" begin to pile up when he's asked how he will insert himself in the Redbird lineup.

With only a few short hours of experience as a manager (he signed a two-year contract with owner Fred Saigh around supper time Tuesday) Stanky says he isn't ready to make that decision yet. Or any others for that matter.

The deal that brought Stanky to the Cardinals to replace the ousted Marty Marion manager has been kicked around for a few months now. Yet it took almost three hours of actual conference between Eddie and Saigh to agree to terms.

Saigh held out for a one-year term, two years at the maximum. Eddie originally wanted a three-year contract.

For giving up their peppery second baseman, the National League pennant winners received veteran Pitcher Max Lanier and Outfielder Chuck Diering from the Cardinals.

As for the price tag Saigh placed on Stanky's services, the baseball men who say they know about such things place it at about $332,500 a year.

"What I see at spring training will determine what will happen to the lineup," he commented.

Eddie includes himself in that spring training test. He says he'll be competing against "the best second baseman in the league," Red Schoendienst. But Stanky isn't sure second base is the only place he may find an opening to squeeze into.

When asked about his salary, Stanky remarked: "I can't say how much, but I only hope Santa Claus will be as good to my kids as Mr. Saigh has been to me."

He Picks Teams To Play Without Advice, Says Davis Cup Captain

MELBOURNE, Australia, Dec. 12—(AP)—On the eve of his team's Davis Cup tie against Sweden, the U. S. Captain, Frank Shields, asked today that one point be made absolutely clear—he was the man who picked Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert to play the singles in the interzone final.

The leader of the American team was unhappy at the mere suggestion he might have been influenced from home. His sleep, he said, has been badly broken by phone calls asking if it was true the American selection committee has asked him to play Schroeder.

"If anybody had made such a suggestion to me they would have to look for another captain," Shields declared seriously. "I took on this job with the very clear understanding that I would have accepted such a headache under any other condition. I am out here with only one thought—to take the Davis Cup home—and all decisions I make will have only that in mind."

Members of his squad, Shields insisted, fully understand why he's using Schroeder and Trabert instead of Vic Seixas and Dick Savitt whose records in the past year appeared to entitle them to places.

"Look," Shields said, "if I was just looking for an easy way out it would have been the simple thing in the world to name Dick and Vic. Then, if we had lost to Sweden, there could have been no criticism of me.

"But I don't think I'm here to be a figurehead. When they chose me to be captain they must have understood why."

By Neil Gordon in the last 28 seconds gave Furman his unexpected 73-72 triumph over Duke at Shelby, N. C. Gordon was fouled as he made the tie-breaking shot, then calmly sank the free throw for the winning point.

Notre Dame, led by negro Sophomores Joe Herrand and Entee Spivey, nicked Northwestern, 65-64, at South Bend. It was Notre Dame's fourth straight victory and second over a Big 10 rival.

NYU made it eight in a row by coming from behind to beat Yale at New Haven, 63-67, on Dick Bunt's accurate foul shooting in the closing minutes.

Denver likewise came from behind to win at St. Louis, 67-68, at Columbus as Gus Toffi tossed 22 points for the Skyline Conference five.

St. Louis and K State, ranked 4th and 5th in the A. P. poll, but somewhat easier times. Playing at home St. Louis whipped Canisius, 62-51, K State, on a Western trip, trounced California, 64-50, with a second-half surge.

The Oklahoma Aggies went overtime to take SMU at Dallas, 50-45, as Don Johnson dunked seven 3's in the extra period for the Aggies.

In other games Holy Cross took a narrow 67-64 victory over Rhode Island; George Washington upset West Virginia, 83-81, in overtime; and Marshall whipped the touring Texas Aggies, 46-40.
