Archie Compston Or Jose Jurado May Be Employed By New U. S. Country Club

By DAVIS J. WALSH International News Service Sports Editor NEW YORK, May 17.—Somebody stopped being dumb about the end of the qualifying round of the British open, it was learned on credible authority today, and decided that Jose Jurado, like the rose that blushed unseen, was wasting his fragrance on the Argentine, even if it was garlic itself.

Walter Hagen by 18 up and 17 to play ought to be on a pedestal with the other museum pieces. The organization in question is the North Castle Golf and Country Club, near Mt. Kisco, and the report that either Compston nor Jurado might be hired had its inception shortly after Thomas E. Donovan, guiding spirit of the outfit, announced that he had a $15,000 contract awaiting the winner of the British Open. This, it may be said, is an excellent contract, if nobody gets it.

Rhubarb, that vegetable-like fruit, which is the first to appear in the garden and the market at harvest time, has a refreshing taste which is a combination of sweetness and tartness. In the part of the country where everyone grows it in the back yard even if there was not a garden, it was known as "pie-plant." A name with meaning, as the first rhubarb pie and spring were synonymous. There is nothing much better than a good rhubarb pie with a fine thick syrup for which plenty of sugar must be used.

Rhubarb "Sauce" for breakfast or luncheon is also most appetizing. Its success depends largely upon its cooking. I like to cut the pink stalks into two-inch pieces and to cook them without any water either in a heavy weight sauce-pan, a double boiler or in a casserole. If the cooking is done on top of the stove the fire should be low. When the fruit is almost tender add sugar and let it cook until it is absorbed in the juice which has cooked out.

Have you ever tried a rhubarb brown Betty or a bread and butter pudding? To make the latter line a baking dish with slices of buttered bread. Place the buttered side toward the dish. Fill with layers of cut rhubarb and sugar, cover with buttered bread and bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) until the rhubarb is soft and the bread is a light brown. This will take about half an hour. Hard Sauce goes well with this pudding.

For another dessert use the sauce with a rich biscuit dough for short cakes or bread. Sprinkle over the rhubarb and sugar in a casserole and bake in a hot oven (450 deg. F.) about twenty minutes.

Rhubarb makes delicious conserve when combined with other fruit such as strawberries or pineapple which are usually at their best at the same time.

To make rhubarb pineapple conserve take equal parts by measure, cutting the rhubarb into pieces and shredding the pineapple, and cook together ten minutes. Add an equal quantity of sugar, stir until dissolved and cook until it thickens, about twenty minutes. The time will depend upon the amount of juice in the fruit. Pour into jars and seal.

Rhubarb and orange make a very good combination marmalade in equal parts by weight. Cut up the rhubarb leaving on the skin. Slice the oranges thin and add three times as much cold water. Cook until the rind is tender. Add the rhubarb, cook together until rhubarb is tender, measure, and add three-fourths the quantity of sugar and cook until you get the jelly test. Pour into glasses and seal.

Before long I will tell you more about making jelly. The jelly test you need to use here is a simple one. When two drops will hang together from the side of the spoon the jelly is ready to remove from the fire. If you have confectioner's thermometer the temperature should read 221 to 223 degrees.

Mother Is Sentenced For Beating Teacher

LAPAYETTE, Ga., May 18.—(INS)—Mrs. J. W. Groce, who last summer administered a severe whipping to Miss Bertha Harp, Chickamauga school teacher, in retaliation for the teacher's having whipped her small son, today began serving an 18 months probation sentence.

Judge James Maddox yesterday sentenced her to 12 months on the chain gang terms could be served fined her $5 and costs, when Mrs. Groce pleaded guilty after vainly attempting to escape trial on a plea of illness.

The court ruled that the jail and chain gang terms could be served on probation, but that the fine and costs must be paid. Mrs. Groce was warned, however, that should she be brought back before the court during the 18 months of probation, the original sentence would be carried out.

Paris Designers of Fashions Predict Revival Of 'Bustle'

PARIS, May 18.—(INS)—The bustle bow is back again to join with many other "revivals" of the season. Of course it really is not the old bustle of fifty years ago, but falling draperies behind in an enormous bow or large fan of the material at the back which, except for the fact that it is no longer awkward and cumbersome, takes one back to the days of 1870.

There is also the revival of the tucked-in blouse, a fashion which, when the jumper appeared on the horizon, fair women vowed they would never look at it again. They found it untidy and uncomfortable and were certain it meant the return of the pinch-in waist and the wearing of the corset.

But it has come back, and no one has even thought of suggesting a corset and scarcely even the normal waist line. It strikes a new note especially when the skirt mounts over the blouse in a diagonal line as seen on one of Rasmus' new models. It is sufficiently old to seem quite new and fresh, but will probably be most popular with the young and slim.

Trains are another revival, mere phantasms of the great "flour-sweepers" of other days, but trains just the same. Worth puts two pointed ones on a charming evening gown of old fashioned flowered silk in red, yellow and green. It has a high bodice and intricately tiered skirt.

On soft chiffons and tulle the train is merely a long end which touches the floor at the back or side.

Attractive Brunette Is Held As Fugitive

NEW YORK, May 18.—(INS)—Charged with assisting in the murder of a Nevada man, whose body was then cremated, Mrs. Kathryn White, attractive 32 year old brunette, was said by police today as a fugitive from Elko, Nev., following her arrest last night.

The arrest was asked by the chief of police at Elko. Meager information sent here said she was suspected, with her husband, of shooting a man to death, May 6, and then burning the body. In the woman's hotel room detectives found $500 in cash, a passport and a steamship ticket to Liverpool. The prisoner insisted she had never heard of the man whom she is alleged to have killed.

Sailors And Sauerkraut

SAUERKRAUT is to be a staple in the American navy's menu for the coming year. Although it has been used, to the amount of several hundred thousand pounds, the bids for this year's supplies are over 70 per cent higher than ever before, amounting to 1,000,000 pounds.

The increased interest in sauerkraut is thought to be due to the same reasons which have interested the housewife. For one thing, the wider knowledge of Captain Cook's feeling his sailors sauerkraut for the prevention of scurvy in his expedition in 1776 made a real impression. And in addition to its high vitamin content, sauerkraut contains lactic acid which has a most desirable effect in the body. These facts, coupled with its delicious flavor and the many ways in which it can be used, make it inevitably popular at home and at sea.

Here's a Good Recipe
Sauerkraut is served with meat, in soup, or in salad. It is delicious prepared in the following way: cut a piece off the stem end of six green peppers of uniform size, remove the seeds and partitions and pay-boil them for five minutes. Fill each with a stuffing made of one cup soft bread crumbs, one cup sauerkraut, two slices onion and one-eighth teaspoon paprika. Cover the tops with bread crumbs and place in a baking dish containing about half an inch of meat stock, and bake for thirty minutes in a moderate oven.

As vinegar destroys the lactic acid ferment in sauerkraut, all salad dressings should be made with lemon juice. An excellent recipe is this: whip one cup sour cream until stiff, adding two table-spoons lemon juice during the whipping. Season with salt, and add a dash of curry powder. In making French dressing the regular recipe may be followed if lemon juice is only substituted for the more ordinary vinegar, when the dressing is to be used as part of a sauerkraut salad.

Marketing Firm Names Chapman Vice President

The consumer rarely benefits from price depressions, Mr. Chapman said, while the grower suffers serious losses. Erratic market fluctuations, wasteful duplication of efforts, blind conflict in distribution all contribute to disaster in some of the highly perishable crops. Adequate financing, with an orderly, national, cooperative marketing program, constitute the firm forces of progress for the fruit and vegetable industry, which constitutes the second largest commodity group in all agriculture.

It was brought out that the total annual crop value of fruit and vegetables exceeds that of such groups as wheat, cotton and other staple crops—corn alone being the single larger crop within group. Reports of the General Manager, Arthur R. Rule, concerning the status and progress of the national cooperative during the year, indicated a very healthy condition with large increases in membership and tonnage from the Georgia peach and watermelon districts and in vegetables from Florida and Mississippi. The California

Division of the Federal Reserve, Idaho and North Carolina next in line in the addition of tonnage and membership.

Reports from the members located in various other States also indicated a healthy condition in the affairs of the local cooperative which compose the Federated's national membership. Considerable gains in grower membership were reported by President Danham of the Southern Michigan Fruit Association, which holds the distinction of being the oldest cooperative organization in the United States. Mr. Chapman said it was the forty-ninth year of successful history since its original organization, reports from Alabama indicated a completely satisfied grower membership in the Gulf Coast Citrus Exchange, which is one of the important members of the Federated.

New membership contract tonnage exceeds by ten times the amount of withdrawals and cancellations for the year, Mr. Chapman reported. Fruit and vegetable growers throughout the United States are remarkably free of interest or participation in farm relief political controversies and through the Federated organization have undertaken to work out their own credits and financing problems with exceptional success. Resolutions were passed at the meeting urging Congress to assist the Neely-Bowman Bill and Neely Amendment to the Intermediate Credits Act to provide an additional class of credits to cooperative grower organization to provide themselves with needed facilities at point of origin and terminal market facilities so that through organization and federating of sales services the growers can, with these facilities: (a) avoid wasteful conflict and duplication of sales effort; (b) Negotiate and maintain better market levels for their products; (c) Avoid unnecessary costs in distribution; and (d) Return to the grower a greater share of the consumer's dollar.

Mr. Chapman said it was the sentiment of the delegates present at the meeting that the short term or seasonal credits had been amply taken care of by the credit corporation which has privileges of discount with a wide spread of banking institutions, but that there is needed, a form of longer term credits for financing packing houses, cold storages and other equipment to adequately handle the perishable fruit crops not only at shipping points, but through to and including terminal market facilities, adjusted to the cooperative marketing program.

FRIDAY, MAY 18.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

SOWING GENEROUSLY - There is that scattereth and yet increaseth, and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty. - Prov. 11:24.

PRAYER - Help us, Lord, to scatter seeds of kindness all along our way.

Hoover and Smith are finding this a good season for picking delegates.

The Leesburg Commercial has come out for Dr. Hathaway. Another good paper gone wrong.

It has been our observation that many of the rocks being thrown at Dr. Hathaway come from some of his own roads.

If what Jim Carson is now telling on the chairman of the road department is true, it is time for the latest attorney to act.

It looks as if Carson had pulled the Catta's claws. Now he is taking the steam out of the Hathaway machine. - Ocala Star.

Raphael's work brings $875,000 headline in Jacksonville Journal. Which, we believe, even the best labor unions will admit is a fair day's pay.

Herbert Folger, of the St. Augustine Record, and enthusiastically inclined toward Al Smith, has coined the expression "beat-Smith-or-bust brigades" and that's exactly the way a great many of us feel about it.

Herb Hoover has spent only ten thousand dollars on his campaign in the South. Either Hoover knows the South is solid and will remain so, or he figures it won't cost much to swing it to his side from Al Smith.

Governor Smith is having very little to say about his wet proclivities these days. He will wait until after the South has nominated him at the Houston convention before coming openly to the front of anti-prohibitionists.

Louis Bleriot, the first man to fly across the English Channel in building a huge airplane with which he hopes to inaugurate regular passenger trans-Atlantic flights this summer. It won't be long before such trips will be the usual thing.

Jim Carson's expense account reads Hathaway's by nearly four thousand dollars, yet when Jim goes into a town to make a speech he does so in many instances without a dime's worth of advertising while Hathaway will be preceded by two or three full page ads.

Sidney J. Catta says he is going to give the people of Florida an economical administration, and yet he has invited everyone who votes for him to come to Tallahassee and spend the week-end with him in the governor's mansion. By the time the people get through paying for such parties as that, taxes will be out of sight.

The Jacksonville Journal scoffs at Mellon's support of Hoover because of the Secretary of the Treasury's "cynical attitude toward the state and national scandals in which his party has been involved. Yet the Journal is equally cynical in its attitude toward the scandals revealed in the road department and in the campaign fund of its chairman.

One of the trials of being a newspaperman and writing every day is that you often do not know when you have offended or why or how. To pass an hitherto amiable acquaintance on the street and have him either nod curtly or cut you dead, when you have not the least idea of what has offended him, and have never had an intent to offend him - is one of the bitter prizes a chronic journalist pays. The notion that a newspaper's attitude on public matters is dictated by personal things or personal grudges is hard to erase. - Jacksonville Journal.

A Flexible Policy

Jim Carson delivered a very interesting address in Tampa the other night in which he explained, among many other things, just why the Florida Times-Union was not publishing any of the news stories pertaining to either his candidacy or that of Doyle Carlton. A letter from Scott Loftin, one of the directing geniuses of the Jacksonville paper, was read as follows:

"It has been the uniform policy of the Times-Union not to publish speeches of candidates for any office attacking their opponents personally, or the record of their opponents, and I regret, therefore, that the directors are not willing to waive this policy in your case."

Such a doctrine applied to the Times-Union sounded strange. We thought we had read political tirades in that paper at one time or another. We had been under the impression that we had read an article appearing only recently in the Times-Union by Dr. Broughton, a Baptist minister, attacking rather severely the candidacy of Sidney J. Catta. But thinking we might have been mistaken, we began to read the Jacksonville paper more carefully.

In one issue we picked up recently we found this, quoted from a speech of Senator Waybright: "The tail enders of a political race always spend their time wagging the head of the ticket, which accounts for the attacks of Carson and Carlton upon Hathaway. The voters of Florida have long been accustomed to these tactics which only serve to increase the lead of the head of the ticket."

That wasn't so bad, so we looked over to the next column and there we found a long account of a recent speech of Dr. MacKenzie, which included such choice bits as this: "He (Dr. MacKenzie) denounced in no uncertain terms 'three branches of a contemptible conspiracy in the state,' and a whispered campaign in which he declared a candidate was attempting to climb into the gubernatorial chair by walking on the 'crushed hearts of women and children.'"

And then this, in the same story: "Dr. MacKenzie then described a 'whispering campaign of baseless lies of the same nature being used against Dr. Hathaway,' to discredit him. He described the attacks as 'slimy, underground methods.'" And also this: "The third conspiracy, Dr. MacKenzie declared, 'is the most damnable of all, an effort by means of half truths to strike down the shining figure of a man—Fons A. Hathaway.'"

That is enough in itself to show the inconsistency in what the Times-Union says is its policy and what actually is its policy, but we turn to another page in the same issue and read: "Further proof of the corruption in Trammell's office at Washington was read tonight by Governor Martin, from the mayor of one of the large cities on the East Coast who had applied to Senator Trammell for an appointment for a son to Annapolis." The Times-Union then proceeded to reproduce in full the letter which showed graft in the office of Senator Trammell.

We wonder how the Times-Union reconciles the stories which daily appear in it with what is announced as its "policy" over the signature of one of its directors.

Garden Clubs

To fulfill the need of an organization which would have for its purpose the advancement of interest in the developing of better gardens and the dissemination of knowledge of how best to obtain a more beautiful setting for one's home, the first Garden Club in America was formed in Philadelphia in 1904. Since that time, it is stated, there have come into existence over 600 such clubs. This remarkable growth is evidence that the public has appreciated the splendid movement; and that it responded so enthusiastically reflects credit on the artistic sense of our home lovers.

In Sanford, where the soil lends itself so admirably to the successful growing of shrubs and flowers, the Garden Club is, and should be, one of the most beneficial factors in the life of the community. Not only does the scientific planning of the landscape add materially to the appearance of the city and thereby satisfy a practical fulfillment, but it also establishes a bond of human sympathy between its members and every other movement for civic improvement. We believe it was Shakespeare who said "one touch of nature makes the whole world kin."

We wish that every one, whether they are affiliated with any concerted group for better gardening or not, would work along the lines which the Garden Clubs have adopted and assist in improving their premises and the general dress of their city. Only a minimum amount of effort every day on the part of our residents would help to bring about a charm to Sanford which would be invaluable in advertising this place as a community where the people have cultivated a taste for the beautiful and have manifested it in the attractiveness of their surroundings.

THE DUTY OF A GOOD CITIZEN

TALLAHASSEE DEMOCRAT

A good citizen is one who when called on to exercise his highest privilege—that of choosing the officers to represent him in state or county government—votes for the man who nearest measures up to his ideal of one who would make a good official. This year we select in a primary nomination, the democratic choice for who would make the best governor. Good citizens should vote their first choice vote for the man of all candidates running, whom in their opinion would make the safest and fairest governor, if elected in this race—and it is also proper that in these unsettled times—they should consider who could go into that office with the least friction from all other forces—who would not only select him on the voting day as their first choice but who, when he was nominated, they would be satisfied would make a good, safe, conservative and constructive governor.

FLORIDA NEEDS ACTION

MIAMI HERALD

When John W. Martin comes before the people of this state for ratification of his record in June, he will be nearing the end of a remarkable administration. If the majority of the voters approve the great constructive work he has done in the past three and a half years, they will send him to the United States Senate by way of the Democratic primary in June.

man of activity and of vision to stand beside the veteran Senator Fletcher in his fight for Florida.

Three years ago south Florida had no Tamiami Trail and no prospect of one. Three years ago the Dixie highway into Miami was in ruins, and one of the greatest deterrents to traffic in this direction. At that time the reclamation of the vast Everglades was coming to a halt because there was no money in sight to carry it on. The very life blood of this part of Florida as well as every other section was sluggish and muddled, because transportation was clogged, and parts of the great commonwealth of Florida were isolated from one another by barriers of ignorance as well as by natural obstacles. John Martin defeated Catta in 1924, the vote of the East Coast turning the tide. He set about keeping the promises he had made, and today finds every one fulfilled, or well on the way toward fulfillment. John Martin in the governor's office has been a dynamic figure, and his works prove his ability and vision.

One proof of the usefulness of his administration may be seen in the fact that he is the second Florida governor in all the history of this state who was more in harmony with his second legislature than his first. In nearly every instance the incoming governor finds a friendly legislature, willing and eager to work along his lines of suggestion, and there it usually ends. John Martin holds the distinction of having his second legislature continue that harmony.

The fruits may be seen in the financing of Everglades reclamation, in the adequate financing of the common schools and state universities for the first time in history, in the welding together of the 67 counties of Florida by the finest paved highway system in America, and in the modernizing of the various departments of our state government.

In the work of John Martin for the past three years there is much that will develop enemies. It must be remembered that progress in state government is so new to the people of Florida that many of them resent it. Then, too, all great measures always meet opposition somewhere; some honest and some of the corrupt variety. It has been said that if some people were to be cured of smallpox, broken bones, pneumonia and insomnia by a physician, they would be very apt to fall out with him if they contracted the ground itch. So it is in politics.

But The Herald, in company with the majority of other newspapers in this state believes that real progress is deserving of recognition. The Herald refuses to believe that the majority of people will turn their backs on great constructive work, however much they may be at odds with the constructor on various items of the general plan. The intelligent voter, we believe, will not condemn an architect's creation of a beautiful cathedral because he doesn't like the look of one of the gargoyles on the roof.

South Florida, and the whole state for that matter, has just started her best growth. Our ports and waterways require federal aid. Our state needs an active fighter. Such a man is John Martin. He is the man Florida should send to Washington to complement the labors of Senator Fletcher. If he is elected, this country at least will know the name of Florida's jurist senator.
