ALL FLORIDA GROWERS REQUEST EMERGENCY RATES FOR ALL SECTIONS

TO ASSIST FARMERS OF THE UNITED STATES TO LIVE

MUST HAVE RATES

WANT CROPS OF FRUITS AND VEGETABLES MOVED FROM FIELDS

Steps to start a nationwide movement to put in effect emergency freight rates upon all the railroads of the country for the movement of foodstuffs and farm products to market were taken yesterday by the Florida Citrus Exchange.

Following interviews with prominent growers in all sections and conferences with the other officers of the exchange, Business Manager C. E. Stewart, jr., telegraphed the secretary of the National Bureau of Farm Organizations in Washington, D. C., a request to start the movement at once among the large number of farmers' and growers' organizations which are members of that body, of which the Florida Citrus Exchange also is a member. The telegram, in addition, urged immediate action by the Washington office of the farmers' organization with congressmen and senators, and members of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

At the same time, E. D. Dow, traffic manager of the exchange, sent to railroad officials a telegraphic request for the immediate installation of pre-war rates, as emergency rates, in the present crisis to enable the movement of crops.

Commenting upon the action taken, Mr. Stewart said: "The tieup of farm products all over the country is most serious. High costs of getting the growers' products to market are causing them to be held at the point of production, or to rot upon the ground if they are of a perishable nature. This largely is to blame for the present national crisis. Farmers can spend no money, because they are making no money. Millions in loans upon crops are tied up, too. It is so-called 'frozen' loans which have been responsible for many of the bank failures in other sections of which the public has been reading. All the financing movements for farmers which have been discussed cannot do half the good for the farmers, nor anything like the good for consumers, which would at once result from instituting pre-war freight rates as emergency rates at this time."

"Here in Florida we have the present spectacle of our orange growers facing almost unsurmountable obstacles in these freight rates and in some places truck crops are being plowed under. The railroads themselves are tremendous losers by the situation. Crops which are allowed to rot upon the ground are a dead loss to the transportation companies, where they otherwise might yield good revenue in being moved to market. Our situation here is not so bad if prompt action is taken. I am hopeful we will be able to obtain united action by all the farmers' and growers' bodies with which we are affiliated through our national organization, and that those who have the power to do so will make the institution of emergency freight rates possible and relieve the situation."

TRAFFIC COMMITTEE WILL MEET

WILL FORMULATE PLANS FOR THE BETTER SERVICE AND BETTER RATES

The Traffic and Transportation Committee of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce will hold a meeting this evening in the Valdez Hotel for the purpose of effecting without further delay, the plans formulated at their previous meeting. The committee subsequent to this meeting, held a conference with the Orlando Chamber of Commerce and succeeded in enlisting their support in the proposed plans outlined at their last meeting. The committee realizes the importance of prompt action and inasmuch as the shippers are now paying preferred rates for the movement of their vegetables, they should demand that service to which they are entitled. It is a fact that this service has not been given and the committee is positive that if the plans which they have in mind are properly executed, positive evidence can be presented to the proper officials which will show that the shippers in this and other sections are paying rates greatly in excess of service which they are receiving. The secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has notified all shippers of this meeting and they are particularly requested to be present and acquaint themselves with the plans drawn up by the Traffic and Transportation committee to immediately remedy the situation.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HAS GOVERNORS MEETING ON IMPORTANT AFFAIRS

Take Up Matters of Vital Interest to the City of Sanford

NEW CHARTER GRANTED AND BY-LAWS WILL BE READY FOR THE NEW AND OLD MEMBERS

The board of governors of the Sanford Chamber of Commerce held their first meeting of the new year. The proposition of entertaining the National Editorial Association during the convention in Florida was brought to the attention of the board by Mr. Geo. G. Hosmer of the Manatee River Journal, Bradentown and Mr. F. B. Stoneman of the Miami Herald. Mr. Hosmer, who is also secretary of the Florida Press Association committee on entertainment, stated that it was the intention of having this party include Sanford in the proposed itinerary. This party consists of five hundred members, representing newspapers in practically every state in the Union, will reach Sanford the morning of March 21st being driven up from Orlando by a delegation of local people. The present plans will permit this party a two and one-half hours stop over in Sanford before continuing to DeLand.

During the course of their remarks to the board of governors, Mr. Hosmer and Mr. Stoneman emphasized the great advertising value of the entertainment of these editors will mean to the different cities in Florida which they visit. A very conservative estimate of the value of this advertising to the state would be a million dollars as the opinions of these men, who are important factors in molding public opinion, is sent back by them to their respective papers.

The board of governors voted to raise $500, the amount requested to help defray the expenses of the party on their trip to the state, and it was the consensus and opinion of the members of the board that this was without exception one of the most efficacious mediums of publicity ever brought to their attention. The publicity committee will handle the details, in addition to which the following members were appointed in conjunction with the publicity committee:

SANFORD TO ENTERTAIN EDITORS OF AMERICA WILL BE HERE IN MARCH

BE HERE A FEW HOURS

FIVE HUNDRED OR MORE NEWSPAPER MEN TO VISIT STATE IN MARCH

Sanford will entertain the National Editorial Association in Sanford about March the 20th at which time they will be en route from the west coast to the east coast and will be brought here from Orlando in Sanford cars and will spend about two and one-half hours here. It means that some 500 newspaper men from every state in the Union will have two and one-half hours to see Sanford, to talk with Sanford people and to receive Sanford literature and that Sanford will receive thousands of dollars worth of advertising at a very small sum of money, merely our pro rata share of the expense of having the national editors down here. The matter was brought up at the meeting of the board of governors last night that the state association, being represented by Judge Frank B. Stoneman of the Miami Herald and George E. Hosmer of the Bradentown Journal and they had such convincing arguments and the governors had such a good opinion of this chance to get the finest advertising in the world that it was voted to have them here, to take care of them while here and to pay the pro rata share that has been apportioned to Sanford although others not in the Chamber of Commerce will be asked to contribute to the fund as every man in Sanford in business will receive a big benefit from this trip.

Mr. Hosmer states that he expects to have 500 visiting editors attend the convention and perhaps more than that number. He says he has just received a letter from Executive Secretary Herbert C. Hotelling of St. Paul, Minn., stating that among the notables that will appear on the program may be mentioned Gov. Brough of Arkansas, United States Senator McNary, a newspaper man of Oregon, Walter Williams Dean of the school of journalism of the University of

PAINTING OR NOT IS THE GREAT QUESTION

STELLA MYSTIFIES ALL WHO SEE HER—THE ART PIC-TURE SUPERB

"Stella," the famous painting, which was considered the feature of the exposition at San Francisco, is again in Florida and is being exhibited as a feature attraction with Johnny J. Jones Exposition on the lakefront this week.

Just to keep his hand in, Ed. R. Salter, the press agent for Johnny J. Jones Exposition, sat down yesterday and wrote the following little tribute to the painting:

"Mere words are cold, colorless things with which to convey to you any idea of the wonderful fidelity with which Nani has transferred to canvas this magnificent model of glowing womanhood. Imagine, if you can, entering the chamber of an angel among women, lying on her couch in all the grace of perfect nudity. Her head, dainty and proudly borne, crowned with hair of Tuscan gold such as Titian liked to paint, slumberous, soulful eyes with lips parting over pearly teeth in a smile that lures like Lulline song. A body that Pygmalion would have kissed into warm breathing life—that is 'Stella,' Stella the bewitching, the idyllic, the dreamy, the goddess of a poet's dream, the physical expression of all that is lovable in womanhood. Her left arm—such an arm as might tempt an Anchorite into the mesh of its caresses, falls gracefully over the copaloescent flesh of her divine body, the left leg, trobbing as if with the warm blood of life, has been painted with such a witchery of art, that one might almost discern the delicate blue veins beneath the skin. Such flesh tones can be achieved only by mastra, and where could a master find such a model? When nature created her masterpiece, the result was woman. When woman reached her highest dominion of physical loveliness—'Stella' fired an artist's soul with a beauty that mocks the quest of the world's finest dreamers—a beauty elusive as a passing glance, alluring as sin, divine as the incarnation of an ideal. Nani has immortalized such a vision on his canvas."

OURSELVES, OR OTHERS?

Every few days some prominent man comes to the front with a harangue to the effect that "America must save the world." And when traced down, these statements invariably find their origin in the international bankers of Wall Street.

The United States has already contributed its blood and treasure in snatching victory from defeat for the allies. It threw the might of its weight into the balance when the scales were tilting in favor of the Teutons. It has done enough for the present. It is time to do something for ourselves. It is time to jail the profiteers and make living conditions in this country such that a poor man and his family may eat three meals a day.

It is time to stabilize economic conditions to such an extent that we will have an end to these interminable strikes and labor disturbances.

It is time to enforce laws that will curb the unruly element that is constantly stirring up strife between the races.

It is time to make America safe for Americans.

These periodical spasms about "America saving the world" undoubtedly fit in nicely with the schemes of the international bankers who want to finance the reconstruction of Europe to the detriment of our own country, thereby piling up fresh billions in profits for themselves, but they do not appeal very strongly to the man who believes in saving his own country first.

The government has taken a sudden and determined stand in the fight to force prices down to normal and keep them there. May it meet with unbounded success in this laudable undertaking—and it will if the interests of the great mass of the people are considered.

Then, when America is saved and is on a sane and stable basis of economic conditions, it will be time enough to talk of "saving Europe and the world."

THE FARMER AND THE SPUDS

A few years ago an Alabama farmer had 1200 bushels of sweet potatoes to sell and a southern commission house offered him half a cent a pound for them. This was the equivalent of the price offered per bushel. At the time this offer was made sweet potatoes of an inferior grade were selling in the stores in northern states at five and six cents a pound.

Investigation showed that there was not one person or one firm that was making an unconscionable profit out of the difference between the consumer's and the producer's prices. But there were altogether too many people getting some profit out of each potato. There were too many middlemen. The cost of transportation was naturally, part of the leakage. Railroads were privately owned then and freight rates were lower than they are now, but this was not enough to bring the cost of the consumer down to the proper figure. Some kind of organization was needed to eliminate a number of the leakages, and to get the product moved to the consumer by a more direct route—in short, to remove some of the middlemen.

It is still more necessary now. This newspaper is not ready with the solution. It it was, the editor of this paper would set up today as the greatest economic genius of all time. He would write the name of our beloved town on the map of the world in letters big enough to be read from the planet Mars.

Getting down to the root of things, it seems logical that if a man grows a vegetable in Alabama, and a man in Michigan eats it, that at least four people should be paid something—the man who grew it, the man who transported it, the commission man who distributed it, and the retailer who sold it to the consumer. There is no excuse for other middlemen, and this limited number of handlers is not sufficient to explain the great disparity between the price received by the grower and that paid by the consumer.

It is evident that too many people who don't grow, or transport, or even retail foodstuffs have a voice in arguing what the price is to be—and get paid part of that price for arguing about it.

This sort of thing is unwarranted and needs changing, folks. But how are we going to do it?

Will some local citizen come to the front with the logical solution, and make himself famous and the benefactor of mankind?

HELP! KEEP OUT THE GRAFTERS

The city council of the city of Ocala has enacted an ordinance which requires all solicitors for subscriptions of newspapers, magazines, periodicals, etc., to secure a license from the city. Before being granted such license each person will be obliged to file a bond with the city clerk for the sum of $250 for the faithful performance of all contracts. The ordinance aims at putting a stop to such solicitations by fakers. There is a penalty of not more than $500 or 90 days in jail for any one violating the provisions of the ordinance.—Orlando Reporter-Star.

That isn't a bad idea for any town and it will stop a lot of this fake, promiscuous "collection" that comes to Florida every winter, to pick up some easy money. People do not like to be pestered with solicitors any way, who don't care what they promise to give just as long as they can collect some extra change out of the pocket of the public. Such a measure as Ocala has adopted would not hurt any honest cause or proposition and it would place solicitors upon a decent place before merchants and every other person, when they could see a certificate and license from the city of Lakeland.—Lakeland Star.

FLORIDA'S SHARKS HAVE REAL VALUE

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 6.—Samples of leather from shark skins and oil from the livers of sharks have been left at the office of the State Marketing Bureau by, W. H. Patterson, who represents the Ocean Leather Company, with factories in Fort Myers and Morehead City, N. C.

"Few persons," said Mr. Patterson, "realize the possibilities and resources of the seas, filled as they are with all kinds of animals and vegetable life, probably as great in variety as on the land. Florida is favored in respect to access to this coming source of future wealth for the world. The salt waters around Florida will in days to come add immensely to the prosperity of the state.

"The sea offers Florida a free range to get leather to shoe the world's feet, and for other purposes, besides food in many forms. This range can never be encroached upon by fenced farms and buildings, and will yield indefinitely its riches to all who intelligently work it. No state is so fortunate in the matter of access to seas free from snow and ice.

"Not many years ago the cattle on the western plains and on the farms averaged about one animal to each person in the United States, but today there is not much more than half a beef animal for each inhabitant of the country, and as population continues to increase other sources must be looked to supply our needs."

Order issued by military authorities in Ireland says persons who appear with hands in pockets will be shot on sight. It must be a terrible place for poor father.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

MICKIE SAYS

RARE FRUITS IN PHILIPPINES

Two That Are Said to Be Delicious and Unknown in the Rest of the World.

Among the productions of the Philippine islands are two delicious fruits almost unknown in the rest of the world. One of these is the durian, whose remarkable qualities were described upon by Alfred Russel Wallace during his explorations in the Malay archipelago.

It grows on a lofty tree somewhat resembling an elm, is about as large as a coconut, has a shiny shell, and contains a creamy pulp which combines some of the flavor of a delicious custard with those of a fine cheese.

To eat durians, we are told by those who know, is a new sensation worth a voyage to the East to experience. Americans in the islands call the durian "the vegetable Limburger cheese."

The other rare fruit spoken of is the mangosteen, said to be the only fruit that the governor general of the islands has never tasted. The exquisitely flavored liquid it contains cannot be preserved for shipping abroad.

Circulating the Scriptures.

The 1910 issues of the American Bible society were 3,752,000 volumes. The sun never sets on the representatives of this society, which asserts that some one is busy every hour of the day and every day of the year circulating the Scriptures. This total means that seven volumes were issued every minute of every hour of every day of the year.

The issues of 1910 were the smallest since 1911: chiefly because of after war conditions. The average of annual issues for the last ten years has been over 5,000,000 volumes. For the period of the war, 1914-1919, it was over 5,370,000, which means that on an average 11 volumes of Scriptures were issued every minute of the years of the war by the American Bible society.

New Illuminator.

Prof. Alexander Silverman has invented a new illuminator for the microscope, whose special advantage is that it gives a very strong light upon the object examined, so that opaque and translucent bodies can be as readily studied as transparent ones. The top of the object on the slide can be seen with all the variations of its surface. It is particularly valuable in testing samples of metals since it shows the presence of blow holes and pits and much detail not hitherto visible. It is likewise useful to textile experts since it shows the threads of a fabric from every angle and is also much appreciated by bacteriologists.

There's a Difference.

"I resent the imputation that I am a member of the 'pie brigade,'" said the pompous citizen.

"But you don't deny that you want a government job, do you?" asked Mr. Dubwalte.

"Certainly not. It should be the ambition of every patriot to serve his country."

"I agree with you. It should be the ambition of every patriot to serve his country—without pecuniary reward."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

NAVAL STORES MEN PLAN FOR LARGE EXPORT

HOPE TO REVIVE OUR FOREIGN TRADE THROUGH A SYSTEM OF ORGANIZED CREDITS

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 6.—Plans for the formation of a corporation to be known as the Atlantic & Gulf Export Company, for the purpose of financing foreign trade and returning values, are being discussed today by naval stores men from various parts of the south in conference here.

Permanent officers of the organization are to be selected and plans for the execution of the purposes of the tentative organization will be presented for adoption. Re-establishment of foreign trade in naval stores with countries which prior to the war were large consumers, but which are now prevented from purchasing heavily through inability to make the necessary financial arrangements is the purpose of the proposed organization.

The plan contemplates the sending of representatives to Germany, Austria, Belgium, Italy and South America and such other countries as require credit, so that some feasible plan for extending this credit may be mapped out.

More than half the normal naval stores output of the United States in the past has been consumed by foreign countries. Prior to 1914, British and German dealers handled the larger portion of the American naval stores exports, reselling to other countries, including South America. This was possible, naval stores men claim, through the financial organizations of these countries. Because of the disarrangement of international trade, these facilities for foreign distribution are not now available in the same degree as formerly and American naval stores dealers hope to fill the breach by the organization of a large export corporation, which is being considered at this conference.

LAKE MONROE

Little old New Year is now one week old and some of our clean cut resolutions are already a little frayed at the edges. The greetings of the season are over and our burdens have been gripped again with a determination to meet the oncoming days with a smile. "But what's the use," says the discouraged trucker, lettuce is worth nothing, and freight rates are eating up our profits. But cheer up, times are improving, already the market is a little stronger. The promises to come into its own again. The wave of hard luck has swept us clean, but the tide must turn and who knows but that our profits will be piled higher than ever by a spring flood of prosperity? Keep smiling "every cloud has a silver lining, so let's turn our clouds about and wear them inside out, to show the lining."

Our community has been more or less disturbed by hoboes, or night prowlers of late. Lester Johnson was awakened one night by a noise upon his front porch and upon investigation discovered two men who promptly made a getaway. Mr. Johnson came to the village and a few men went out to search for the intruders. They were traced to the swamps but there the trail was lost.

Mrs. Barbara Tanner and mother, Mrs. Bolly, of Cleveland, Ohio, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Bolly.

Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Marsh have returned to their home at DeLand after a pleasant visit to Mrs. Marsh's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hawkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Miller, of Miami, spent the holidays with Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wainwright.

Dr. W. F. Blackman, of Wekiwa Ranch, continues his stay in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merriweather and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crozier, of Akron, O., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Hettell during Christmas.

The Holmes County Boys' Corn Club hangs up a national record; being the only one that has ever captured the state championship for three consecutive times.

"THE LAST LOVE COUNTS"

Bestowal of First Affections Nothing but Effervescence, According to an Accepted English Theory.

"No love like the first love," runs the old adage. Is that true? The suggestion, of course, is that the first time a man or maid loves they are experiencing something which they will never experience again. First love is supposed to hold some quality which is absent from other loves. It is the substance; other, and later, loves are but pale shadows.

In a sense, it is true that first love holds something which is absent from other loves.

But, after all, none would contend that we can love but once. We can love half a dozen times, and be in earnest each time. Maturity, too, is essential to the thorough enjoyment of love. Our feelings, our capacity to give and receive, deepen and expand with the years.

At, say seventeen, a maid may love, but her personality, temperament and character are undeveloped. She cannot love in full measure; nor be able to absorb a full measure of love. Seven years later she could love again, and a torrent would come instead of a stream.

Put shortly, personal maturity is essential to perfect, full-measure love. First, second or third loves are often but surface loves. They don't come from the deeps.

It would be admitted that all our other feelings widen and deepen as a result of years and experience, or of experience only. It is the same with love.

Hence, the later the love, the better and more lasting it is. It is full-bodied, and strong. In ninety cases out of a hundred this belauded "first love" is, despite its felicitousness, not love at all!

Is not time the supreme test of love? And how many boy and girl marriages, based on first love, are happy, or the union permanent? Very few!

On the other hand, late marriages between those who have had other loves are the happiest of all.

It's the last love that counts!

Those "first loves" are but effervescences, and have nothing behind them. Love, real love, lasting love, strong love, must have character entwined in it. And whose character, at twenty, is fully formed?

So, then, hanker not to be a first love. Be glad to give, and take, the later and better stuff. It wears.—From Answers, London.

Loon Killed an Indian.

In Hertfordshire, England, the other day, a boy who foolishly went to look at a swan's nest was tackled by the cock bird and had an arm broken. The swan fights with its wings, and can deal a most tremendous blow. The gander will put up a good fight, if cornered, but he is more of a bluffer than the swan. He delights in chasing anyone who will run away from him, but turn on him with a stick, and it is he who does the running. The crane tribe use their long and powerful beaks as daggers, and are really dangerous, if wounded. They invariably strike at the eye of their opponent. A few years ago, an Indian who shot a loon on the Great Slave lake, and went to pick it up, was killed outright by the bird, which drove its spear-shaped beak right into his brain. Owls will sometimes attack human beings, but it seems probable that this is not intentional. It is rather that they mistake people's heads or hats for rats or other prey. There is an amusing account of some lumber men who dared not venture out at night on account of some unseen enemy robbing them of their fur caps. They thought it was the Evil One and were mightily relieved to find that the robber was merely a large brown owl.

Perhaps He Might Be Saved.

I know a young fellow who is bound to be a capitalist. Why not put him in jail now, before he is able to carry out his schemes?

I have known this young man since he was a worthless boy, says a writer in E. W. Howe's Monthly. His own father had no confidence in him. The boy's principal fault was laziness and shiftlessness. A wholesale merchant took a liking to him (probably the merchant had been a worthless boy) and gave him a job at $8 a week.

Today he is a travelling salesman earning $6,000 a year. In July last he sold more goods than any other salesman employed by the firm ever sold in a similar length of time. He is reliable, industrious, sober, has a wife and baby and is bound to become a capitalist unless his career is checked.

Why not put him in jail now and keep him there, and thus prevent the unhappiness he will cause if permitted to keep up his present pace 15 or 20 years?

W. L. George in America.

W. L. George, recently arrived, says New York is a terrible town, according to "Hound London Town" in Harper's Bazar.

It gives the innocent Englishman the feeling that he has been posted like a letter, for he finds himself violently sorted under his initial by the steamer officials, stamped by the customs, bagged into a taxi by the porter, re-bagged, restamped by a reception clerk, retagged by the liftman, and when he at last gasps upon a bed which the elevated causes to vibrate, the New York press opens him for interviews, as a pearl-fisher searches the reluctant oyster for gems of possibly lesser price. Then the stranger broods on London town, where everything jogs along so nicely in an eighteenth century way.

Missouri and Vice-President Haskell of the International Paper Company. The National Editorial Association will hold its business sessions in St. Augustine for three days and will not be open for entertainment except in the evenings and on the Sunday following. After the convention here the editors of America will be given a trip through the state, seeing Florida under conditions such as have never before prevailed when the state was being shown.

Mr. Hosmer is a past president of the National Editorial Association and an active member. He and F. B. Stoneman, editor of the Miami Herald, and H. C. Junkin, a past president of the N. E. A., went to Boston last March and landed the 1921 convention for Florida, promising to show the editors the state from end to end. Salt Lake City is already after the convention for 1922, and guarantees to raise a hundred thousand dollars in Utah for the entertainment of this—America's most sought-after convention.

Florida and Sanford have an opportunity for the greatest publicity ever offered them," said Mr. Hosmer today, "and it is the unpurchaseable kind of publicity—front page and editorial—for years to come; and we must make the best of it."

President Ball of the Chamber of Commerce appointed a special committee to act with the publicity committee and the finance committee to take charge of this matter and the editors will know when they reach Sanford and when they leave Sanford and they will carry something home with them to remember Sanford for some time to come. Everyone is asked to co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce in this effort to entertain such a large gathering of the best people on earth and as it will take about 125 cars to transport them from Orlando to Sanford the Chamber of Commerce will call for that many through the committee on arrangements and in a few days will be ready with something definite.

HAVE LEASED BISHOP BLOCK APARTMENTS

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Bates have leased the apartments in the Bishop Block and fitted them up in first-class shape and have all of them rented. This will relieve the congestion quite a bit and give those who are looking for apartments a first-class home. Mr. and Mrs. Bates recently disposed of their home on Park avenue to Dr. Marshall, who purchased it for his mother.

AND THIS IS ED. SALTER.

He's back. Visualize him, picture him; weighs 200 but such a stately form you ne'er did see; back humped o'er by wearing priceless diamonds fit to fade the Kohinoor; jovial, jolly, god natured, swings a cane, walks jauntily; a noble head crowned by streaks of silver 'bout the temples bold; dancing eyes filled with fire and mirth; a soul as happy as the wings of morn; an intellect at once as vibrant as a songster's chirp and as melodious as a violin string. Who is't, you-gasp? None other than our gay old debonair beau—brummel friend and king of magic publicists, Edward R. Salter, Johnny J. Jones' courtly pusher of the quill.—Orlando Sentinel.

Petroleum.

Kansas ranked third in the production of petroleum in 1918, according to a publication of the United States geological survey. Just off the press, received by J. C. Mohler, secretary of the state board of agriculture. California ranked first and Oklahoma second.

The production of Oklahoma was given as 103,347,070 barrels. California 57,531,997 barrels and Kansas 45,451,017 barrels. The increase in petroleum products was much greater in Kansas than in any other state, amounting to a gain of 8,914,892 barrels, as compared to 6,330,740 barrels in Texas, 4,650,400 barrels in Louisiana and 3,654,447 barrels in California. The report shows a falling off of production in Oklahoma in 1918, as compared to 1917, of 4,160,401 barrels.

We begin to realize now that those "lightless nights" were about as much needed as are the urgings for school children to "fast a day and feed the East."

MUST USE FOUR LANGUAGES

In order to advertise in Constantinople it is necessary to use four languages. The market is hard to cultivate, but newspapers give good results there. The population of Constantinople is very cosmopolitan, and all the foreigners speak their own language and read their own newspapers, writes Trade Commissioner Elliot G. Mears. To reach the public in general, advertisements should be published in newspapers of at least four languages.

However, the best results are obtained by publication in Turkish newspapers, for, on the one hand, the Turkish population is most numerous, and on the other the Turkish reader is more susceptible to the claims of advertisements than are Europeans and Armenians. It has been found by experience that advertising in newspapers gives very good results in Constantinople, especially if it is pushed vigorously.

No advertising is carried on trams. Street advertising is not protected by law and cannot be recommended to foreign concerns. The circulation of newspapers is not great. French newspapers have an approximate issue of 6,000 to 8,000, Greek 4,000 to 12,000, Armenian 4,000 to 8,000, and Turkish 10,000 to 15,000.

MONOPOLY LOST BY GERMANY

Not least among the triumphs of the new American chemical industry has been the production of the rare sugars, so long a German monopoly. The sugars were called for by the small hospitals, as they are required in small amount in bacteriological laboratories—one of them, for instance, being the most sensitive stimulant of typhoid growth, while others serve in the detection of cholera germ. The infinite care necessary to prepare them in a state of absolute purity makes their cost seemingly enormous. The most expensive rare sugar catalogued is stated by Drug and Chemical Markets to be dulcitol, at $375 a pound, while mannose is worth $140 a pound. This is a delicate and delicious sweet derived from manna, which is secreted in thin scales from certain trees and shrubs, and with which the children of Israel were miraculously fed during their wanderings in the wilderness. Xylose, quoted at $120 a pound, is made from the corn cob; inulin is obtained from the bulb of the dahlia at certain seasons of the year. Other rare sugars are—arabinose, at $100 a pound; levulose, $80 a pound, and raffinose, $75 a pound.

Better Weather Forecasts.

Weather forecasts for months ahead will be possible within a few years as a direct result of solar observations, R. M. Stewart, assistant director of the Dominion observatory, told the Royal Astronomical Society of Canada. The sun is the great influence over varying weather conditions on the earth, and recent observations of it have led to the belief that observatories will be able to predict with accuracy the general trend of weather for six months or even a year ahead, he said.

To be able to foretell the amount of precipitation and the general temperature for several months in advance may take 50 or even 100 years of observation, he added, but expressed the confidence of the observatory that this end would be reached.

German "Thoroughness."

Max Walter, head of a boys' training school in Frankfurt, tells the following story by way of illustrating German thoroughness:

A venerable teacher in one of Germany's preparatory schools was distractedly ambling about his study one day when he noticed a stray piece of paper. Picking it up he saw that it was a Latin composition from one of his devoted disciples.

On looking at it more closely he detected an error which he had overlooked. Seating himself at his desk, he dipped his pen in good red ink and made the necessary correction. He then folded the paper into a neat roll, stuck it in the fire, and with it lighted his pipe.

Belgians Teach Farming.

The Belgian government has hit upon a novel scheme of teaching the farmers of the country better methods of farming, says Motor. The idea of a school for farmers is not new, but the idea of taking the school to the farmer by means of a motor caravan is certainly novel. The school building consists of three units, one powered with a gasoline motor; in short a building section on a motor truck. With this powered unit go two trailers and the three rolled into position and joined together makes the commodious and convenient classroom.

Cat Goes 600 Miles in Wheel.

A kitten crawled inside the rim of a big flywheel at the Great Northern mills at Burlington, Neb., and fell asleep. The mill pet was unnoticed and the giant machinery was set in motion. The wheel whirred about with the kitten inside for nine hours, held to its perilous position by the running of the wheel. The kitten was still alive when the machinery was stopped for the night. It was estimated it had traveled 600 miles.

Something New for Sanford!

On January 9th I will leave for the Eastern Markets to buy a large and complete stock for my new "Dollar Limit" Store, which is an entirely new departure for Sanford and will fill a long felt want. I expect to be ready for business by February 1. Carpenters and plasterers are now busy renovating the west room of my store and I cordially invite the people of Sanford and vicinity to call and see my store.

P. S.:—I will continue to sell all staple and fancy groceries and feed at the lowest possible prices.

HAVE PET BELIEFS

Few Men Are Without Some Superstitious Ideas.

And Most of Them Can Be Traced Back to a Comparatively Commonplace Origin.

What is your pet superstition? "My pet superstition?" you'll probably answer, with elevated eyebrows. "Why, I haven't any. Superstitions are for the ignorant people."

But pause a moment and rummage around the shelves of your cerebellum among your store of modern information and see if there isn't tucked away in the corner some old, musty, long-forgotten superstition you'd forgotten was there.

Do you pick up the pin you see lying in the street?

If you break a mirror does it give you a moment's uneasiness? Honest, now?

When you knock over the salt cellar do you—not because you believe it does any good, of course, but because it can't do any harm—do you take a pinch and throw it over your left shoulder?

Do you dislike to accept a $2 bill?

Would you walk under a ladder? Do you mind being the thirteenth at dinner?

These superstitions are the most popular and they aren't at all confined to uneducated, or even uncultured people, as has been demonstrated.

Of recent years an eminent scientist who had collected much interesting data on superstitions among educated people decided to put his theory to a high test. He went to one of the leading universities of this country.

"My pet superstition?" The dignified old college professor echoed the question, removing his eyeglasses to get a better view of the impertinent stranger. "My dear fellow! Preposterous! Superstitions belong to the dark ages. We live in a period of culture."

Whereupon the professor proceeded to enlighten the stranger with a lengthy dissertation, on his university and his high literary standing, saying: "One of the oldest universities in the country, sir, one of the finest. At present we have an exceptionally high attendance. Everything has been running smoothly—here the intellectual professor halted to lean over and tap lightly the wooden top of his desk."

It developed that 26 per cent of the college professors at this university were wholly without superstitions, but some of them had their fingers crossed.

A great many of our superstitions have grown up with us through so many generations that we are hardly conscious of their presence. Many of these date back to the early Romans and Greeks.

Salt in ancient times was used in religious rites, and supposed to possess propitiatory powers. But when some careless emperor's elbow knocked the salt dish over its powers were lost, and the only way to insure a peaceful resumption of the meal was to appease the evil powers by throwing a pinch of the spilled salt over the left shoulder.

The superstition connected with a broken mirror dates from Napoleon's campaign in Italy, when he accidentally broke the glass over the picture of Josephine. Since glass had always been connected in any form as symbolical of life and death, Napoleon was overcome with fear that some evil had befallen Josephine. And because the broken glass caused the great emperor uneasiness, the woman on the street car today pales when she drops her pocketbook and her mirror breaks.

Thirteenth Century Tomb.

An interesting Thirteenth century tombstone has been discovered at Workshop (England) Priory church, which is being restored as a war memorial to the local men who fell in the war. The tombstone which is beautifully carved, has been identified as that of Lady Furnival, who built the church in the Thirteenth century as a thank offering for the return of her son from Palestine, where he had gone in order to bring home the heart of his brother, Gerald, who was killed by the Saracens. The tombstone bears evidence of elaborate brass work, but the metal itself has disappeared, apparently having been stolen or torn off. The Lady chapel is one of the most characteristic specimens of early English architecture in England, and its lancet windows are considered among the most perfect in the country.

Chaplin's Debt to Ingersoll.

In the life of Robert Ingersoll we read of a Fourth of July picnic at Dresden, N. Y., where little Bob and his playmates became uncommonly boisterous. When a dear old gentleman tried to quiet the roughhouse, Robert seized a custard pie and hurled it in the d. o. g.'s face. The higher comedy in America may owe as much to Robert Ingersoll as does the higher criticism.—Chicago Daily News.

As It Usually Is.

"What do you think about letting your son play football when he grows up?"

"I'm in a peculiar state of mind concerning that."

"In what way?"

"I feel that I shall not want him to play, but on the other hand I shall be disappointed in him if he doesn't want to play."

WAR EXHIBIT, AT EXPOSITION, THE FINEST SHOW HERE

The exhibit of war relics being shown at the exposition deserve more than the passing attention of visitors, for it is without doubt the finest display that has been seen in the city. It is absolutely genuine, every article having either been personally collected by the owners, or obtained by them from an authentic source.

The tent in which the exhibits are arranged, is completely filled and attached to the articles are cards explaining their significance. Private J. E. Murdock, who is in charge, and who with Sniper Lance and Corporal Becker owns the exhibit, explains in a lucid and interesting manner the important features. Almost every conceivable kind of war souvenir is included and interesting stories attached to many of the articles. Among other things is a tiny pocket testament which protected its owner from death. The pocket of the tunic, pierced by a bullet hole is shown, side by side with the testament. Bayonets used by the different allied army corps, a German machine gun, battered shell cases, helmets worn by German officers of different ranks, and trench helmets of the allied soldiers, a complete collection of the badges of Canadian battalions, are among the many interesting things shown.

An airplane of French make, but which was used by the British army, and which took part in 239 successive raids before it was finally destroyed, is another interesting specimen of the collection.

In spite of the fact that war days are over and with them much of our interest in the accompanying features, the exhibit has been attracting a great deal of attention.

Famous St. Andrews.

Ask any man keen on outdoor games what St. Andrews is famous for and he will reply, without hesitation: "Golf." The sage who said that the Scots were brought up on porridge and theology is sometimes thought to have only partially stated the case, as he said nothing about the "royal and ancient game." The coastal towns of Fifeshire are indeed famous for their golf courses, but the Mecca of all those who "run about w/ a bag o' sticks after a wee bit ba'" is certainly the royal burgh of St. Andrews. Fifeshire was once described as "a beggar's mantle fringed with gold," but most people think it was the big golf centers, and not the seaport towns themselves, which were thought to be the golden fringe. However, golf attracted visitors, and visitors mean more trade, but it is interesting to hear that trade is being improved also by the export of iron golf heads to the United States. This will all help to get the exchange value of the "bawbee" back to normal. The Scots sometimes think of other things than "golf."

SUPERBA IS WONDERFUL

One of the greatest features with the Johnny J. Jones' Exposition and by far the best attraction of the character ever with an outdoor amusement enterprise declares Ed. R. Salter, the truthful one, is "Superba." It is managed by Miss Etta Louise Blake, who also presents one of the best features of the Exposition, her "Tableaux d' Art." "Superba" is clean, wholesome and wonderfully interesting. It looks like Miss Blake had spared no expense in making her performance as attractive as possible. The stage in "Superba" is much larger than many vaudeville houses. The stage settings are of expensive plush and the electrical effects are such that one wonders how they can be carried by a company playing under canvas. The tent, an unusually large one, is built with rafters like a house and does not have to have poles to obstruct your views of the stage. Everything looks bright and clean. There is not a single suggestive feature in "Superba" and its mystifying illusions are easily the most charming and wonderful place to spend an evening.

WOULD PROHIBIT DOG-EATING

Custom Common Among the Igorots Is Declared to Be Undesirable for Many Reasons.

Those who remember the article in this magazine a short time ago telling of the cruelties connected with the killing of dogs for food among the Igorots, says Our Dumb Animals, will be glad to know that it has aroused sufficient interest to cause the Manila Daily Bulletin to say, according to a clipping we have just received:

"The office of the Department of the Interior is constantly receiving from persons in the United States, mostly women, letters protesting against dog-eating in the mountain province among the Igorots, it was declared by Secretary Kalaw of the department. All of them, he said, urge that in the interests of civilization and better and higher mode of living, a law should be passed by the Philippine legislature prohibiting the sale and the use of dogs as food material.

"Aside from the fact that the act of eating dogs is highly undecent, the letters state, it is very inhumane. The Igorots, they state, like to eat lean dogs and that the more bony they are, the more palatable they taste to the Igorots. Consequently, when a dog is bought in the dog market at Baguio or at any other place, it is left to starve for many days before it is eaten, the communications declare.

"When asked if the passage of a law prohibiting the sale and the eating of dogs by the Igorots was in order, Secretary Kalaw declared that it might be done in an indirect manner."

CHARACTER TOLD BY HAND

Charles Schwab, the steel king, was pictured recently in the feature section of a New York newspaper wearing a pair of ragged, decrepit-looking gloves. To every appearance they might have been a little token to the magnate from the ashman. Beneath the picture was an explanation by Mr. Schwab that he had "worn these gloves for over a year."

Dirty, soiled, ugly gloves! And yet Charles Schwab, one of the greatest industrial lords of the earth, proudly boasted how long he had made them wear.

Mr. Schwab's boast doesn't ring sincerely. He probably would not advise one of the rising young executives of his company to wear old gloves or soiled gloves. On the contrary, he likely would "call down" that young executive for doing exactly what he has bragged about.

Mr. Schwab can afford to wear those gloves. If he wanted to he probably could wear green golf knickers to work, and get away with it. But the rest of the world, exclusive of Mr. Dempsey, Mary Garden, Babe Ruth, and other prima donnas who have "arrived," so to speak, in their respective careers, must watch its step.

A noted American psychologist recently said that he could tell more about a man by his hands than any other physical factor. Our faces are our gifts—and a lot of them look like gifts—but we make our own hands.

One look at a man's hand gives you an instant line on his character. Is the hand soft and flabby? Or is it the hand of a man who does things? Does he shake hands like a man? Or does he extend you a collection of clammy fingers?

What do his gloves look like? Do they show that he is careful of his appearance, thus indicating his self-respect, or are they ragged and dirty?

Worn, soiled or out-at-the-finger gloves create exactly as unfavorable an impression as dandruff on the collar or an unintentional open-worked sock.

In spite of these facts many men who are otherwise scrupulously particular about their personal appearance never grow a bit perturbed upon noticing that their gloves look like a last summer's bird's nest.

New Source of Vanilla Extract.

According to experiments recently performed in London, the island of Jamaica may become a new source of supply for vanilla flavoring extract. It has been found that the leaves of the wild pimento tree which grows on the island yield a high percentage of eugenol, from which vanilla, or crude vanilla, may be obtained, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The discovery is valuable economically as well as commercially, inasmuch as isoeugenol, the half-way product between eugenol and vanilla, may be made by merely fermenting the pimento leaves. TWO MEMBERS ROAD DEPT. QUIT

TUTEWEILER OF JACKSONVILLE IS ONE; JOHNSON OF PERRY THE OTHER

TALLAHASSEE, Jan. 6.—Another break has come in the much disjointed state road department. This time two of former Governor Catts' most recent appointees have resigned. They are C. A. Tuteweller of Jacksonville and A. J. Johnson of Perry. They tendered their resignations to Governor Hardee today.

In all the changes and vicissitudes of the road department, Mr. Johnson's tenure of office has been the briefest. The issuance of his commission was chronicled yesterday as the last official act of Mr. Catts as governor, while his resignation is said to have been the very first offered to the new governor. His incumbency lasted a little more than twenty-four hours.

The quarterly meeting of the state road department was held in this city this morning with only three members present, namely, Forrest Lake of Sanford, chairman; C. A. Tuteweller of Jacksonville, and N. V. Maund of Tallahassee.

J. P. McDonald of Moore Haven appeared before the department with a request that the interest of roads in South Florida be given more attention. The department agreed to do so as soon as such visit can be arranged.

WOMEN AS "PAMPERED TOYS"

Distinguished French Abbe Makes Some Sharp Commentaries on Sex Relations in America.

American women expect (very rightly) from their husbands the same attention which French husbands receive from their wives. The American husband expects nothing, and for what he receives the Lord makes him truly thankful, writes Ernest Dinnot, in Harper's.

"We are pampered toys," an American lady told me in a distinctly resentful tone, "but we only know it when our husbands, after keeping every trouble from us, suddenly die."

If the abstraction called the American woman could be met with, I should ask her whether she really likes to see a dozen men in her drawing room watch her the whole evening and bob up with military precision the moment she half rises to ring the bell; whether she would not prefer her escort to think of what he is saying to her instead of concentrating on where she walks, skipping to the unprotected side of her the whole time; or whether she likes being supported across the road with infinite precautions, as if she were a very ill person or a very brittle object; or, on the contrary, firmly grasped below the shoulder and waddled to the other side with the triumphant ease of long practice.

I have kept a picture representing three exceedingly widely known American men watching a lady go down a deck stairway. She is spoken of as a sportswoman and would probably think nothing of scrambling down a rope ladder if it amused her. The steps on which she appears are broad and comfortable, but the gentlemen with guiding and supporting gestures smile at her achievement with the same wonder and delight as if she were a baby for the first time off the go-cart. Meanwhile the lady herself smiles in her furs like coy Phoebe between two clouds.

Interesting Altitude Test.

A lieutenant of the French aviation corps recently successfully subjected himself to a test to determine whether or not life could be sustained at 12,000 meters, (39,360 feet, or about seven and one-half miles) altitude, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. Entering a large airtight cylinder, the signal to start the exhaust pump was given. At a pressure corresponding to an altitude of about 13,500 feet (two and one-half miles), the experimenter was compelled to resort to a specially designed mask and an oxygen tank. At about 30,000 feet (five and three-quarter miles) observers noticed that she seemed to experience difficulty in moving his limbs. This is an experience reported by all aspirants to the altitude record. To a figure corresponding to the height of about 34,000 feet (six and one-half miles) the subject closed his eyes as though weary. As the barometer touched a figure equal to a height of 39,360 feet, the trial was stopped and air slowly admitted to the cylinder that there might be no disastrous shock.

SPEAK GOOD WORD FOR PIE

Scientists Give Comfort to Those Fond of Delicacy That Is Distinctly American.

Among the many varieties of food that have been attacked on the score of indigestibility, etc., pie stands among the foremost. Laymen, doctors, and even philosophers have warned against the popular pastime of pie eating.

Cake, the distant pastry relative, is somewhat less likely to form the subject of objections from the physiologic critic, while puddings usually belong to the innocuous, or at least receive tolerant consideration. The proof of the pudding—and why not also the pie—is in the eating. Accordingly, a number of gastro-enterologists at the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, reports the Journal of the American Medical Association, have come to the defense of pie by actually determining the gastric response to it and analogous foods in the healthy human stomach.

Direct comparison of a variety of pies, cakes and puddings representative of American culinary art on the same persons indicated that pies "were handled more readily than cakes, and puddings somewhat more readily than either." For those who can think best in terms of statistics it may be stated that the average gastric evacuation time of digestion of puddings was two hours and eighteen minutes, against two hours and twenty-seven minutes for pies; whereas cakes followed in the wake with an average record of three hours and two minutes. Averaging the highest total acidities, values were obtained for puddings of .02, for pies of .00 and for cakes of .00.

There is no occasion to report here the insignificant distinctions between custard pie and lemon meringue, for example, in their gastric behavior, but it must be admitted that since pie, so often regarded as an arch offender of the digestive tract, requires a rather long time (from 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 hours) to leave the stomach. The addition of ice cream to a piece of pie—a unique American combination—does not increase the burden of the stomach to any extent, and the conventional apple pie and cheese likewise give a conservatively good report. To a few persons it may be a consolation to know that angel's food cake remained distinctly longer in the stomach than did devil's food cake. Of course, time of digestibility is not the sole, complete test of the dietary worth of food.

Man and His Cosmetics.

Comes now a man writer to a beauty department of an exchange who confesses not only that he uses cosmetics, but also states many other men do the same, have been doing it for years and are doing it more and more each year. But, he adds, men are better makeup artists and their doling up is seldom detected.

Not only does this man make this confession freely, and indeed with traces of pride, if not actual boasting, but he believes it the duty of both men and women to improve their looks (when possible with beauty enhancing devices, and the girl he marries must be more broad-minded than his mother, who believes no girl has any excuse for using paint and powder, or for touching up her hair and eyebrows.

Perhaps the man is only fooling, but if these things be so, the increased election expenses caused by allowing women to vote will seem as nothing compared to the increased expense of beautifying humanity when men follow the lead of women. A committee should be appointed to investigate this statement and, if it is found true, a movement for the conservation of cosmetics will be in order.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Airplane Compass.

An entirely new kind of compass, for use on airplanes, is the invention of a German named Hamburg. It depends for its operation upon the electrical resistance of selenium, which varies with any change in the intensity of light falling upon it.

The bowl of the compass contains two electric bulbs, directly opposite each other, which throw their rays through a lens whereby the rays are concentrated upon two selenium cells mounted on a bridge extending across the top of the bowl.

The compass may be mounted on the tail of the airplane, so as to be at a distance from all disturbing magnetic influences, the position of its needle or pointer being made known to the pilot by an electrically connected indicator in front of him.

Leather From Rabbit Skins.

According to American Consul Norton of Sydney, Australia, a secret process, said to be unknown hitherto to the tannery trade, has been discovered by an Australian for making leather from rabbit skins and recovering the fur as a by-product in felt making. A company has been formed in Sydney to turn this discovery to practical use, having established works capable of handling about 100,000 skins a week. The leather has already been utilized in Sydney in the manufacture of boot and shoe uppers, hand bags, gloves and other articles.—Scientific American.

NOT MUCH DANGER IN AIR

Statistics Concerning the Casualties Among Flyers Are Something of a Revelation.

The airplane is the fastest machine man has yet built, but fast as it is, it has not yet caught up with its reputation for danger. That reputation was acquired when the plane was in its infancy, when man was just beginning to master the air, and in the mind of the average man it has not yet been downed.

The British air industry collected statistics on all commercial flying in that country for the last seven months of 1919. The results amazed even pilots and engineers who long had regarded the risk in flying as negligible. The figures covered 25,830 flights by 403 machines of a total time in the air of 8,338 hours, during which time 593,000 miles were traveled. In all this flying in good weather and bad, one passenger was killed in every 10,000 passenger hours in the air. To put it differently, a single passenger might expect to fly about 1,180,000 miles—47 times around the world—before becoming the victim of a fatal crash. That sounds utterly absurd to the landsman, yet the British government stands back of the figures.

The pilots who tested experimental planes did stunt flying and ran other unnecessary risks, showed 48 deaths per 1,000 hours.

Coming nearer home, figures compiled by the Post Office department show to the end of last year 408,000 miles flown with a loss of three pilots. These pilots, of course, ran many risks, for they carried the mail through rain, snow and fog that blinded them.

Even in training pilots the figures are exceedingly low. From the beginning of the war until the end of 1918, 17,680 men learned to fly in the United States air service. One man was killed in every 2,310 hours, or one to about every 150,000 miles. With these positive proofs of aviation's safety before us, American airplane manufacturers are going ahead building planes, confident that the realization soon will come everywhere that man can take care of himself as surely in the realm of the birds as in the realm of the fishes.—New York World.
