Educators Explain Amendment One

By BILL BELLEVILLE Herald Staff Writer. A reduction in property taxes might be in store for Seminole County if a state education amendment is approved at the polls Nov. 5, according to state officials speaking at the Orlando Press Club Thursday. Local educators Dr. Earl Weldon, president of Seminole Junior College, and Seminole School Superintendent William P. Lauer joined Florida Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington, state Senator Robert Graham, and state Rep. Robert Johnson in urging public support for the amendment. The Public Education Building Amendment will renew authority (approved by the voters in 1963 and 1968) for the state to issue bonds for construction and improvement of educational facilities: vocational-technical centers, community colleges, and universities. But, for the first time, it will also provide aid for public school construction and renovation. And, with this new measure, the amendment is expected to supply almost one-half of the construction costs for public schools in Florida. State Rep. Johnson, chairman of the House Education Committee, told the small group of local educators and press that "the amendment will provide funding currently supplied by levying a real estate tax in counties." The amendment is funded by a gross receipts tax. The 1 1/2 per cent tax is paid by utility companies, including municipalities, on the gross amount of their receipts. Even if the extension of the amendment is defeated, the tax would permit extending the program for 12 more years and extending the bonding capacity limit from 75 per cent to 90 per cent of the gross receipts revenue available. Sen. Graham headed off the claim that a leveling-off in Florida birth rates would nullify the need for the amendment. "There are almost 6,000 people who come to Florida weekly. Many of these are school aged children. Public Housing Panel Seeks 300 New Units

By BGB LLOYD City Editor. The Sanford and Seminole County housing authorities have taken the first steps toward getting 300 new rent subsidy housing units for area low income families. Meeting jointly Thursday night in Sanford the two boards passed resolutions approving applications to the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) requesting authorization of the new units under Section Eight of the U.S. Housing Act that becomes effective Jan. 1. The Sanford Housing Authority administers 480 low rent, public housing units in the city and the county authority has 30 units at Oviedo. Thomas Wilson III, executive director for both authorities, said studies show there is "very little that can be done in substantially rehabilitating" existing substandard housing to fill the needs of a waiting list of 2,100 families seeking housing assistance. Wilson recommended both authorities pursue the new Section Eight lease housing since federal funds aren't available for conventional public housing projects. He said preliminary applications have been prepared for 300 units of leased housing for the city and 100 units for the county. The city and county commissions, respectively, must approve the resolutions before the applications can be made. Wilson said the 300 units "are what we're hoping for" since federal allocations for individual states under the new program have not yet been made. "This is our only avenue now to providing more low rent, public housing," he said. Under the new program private developers contract with HUD to provide rental housing and HUD subsidizes the difference between the rent the tenant can pay and the fair market value of the house or apartment. He indicated he'll serve on the authority for "the next year" since "problems" that had caused him to consider resigning "have been resolved." Brown declined to elaborate on the "problems."

In other actions, the Sanford Housing Authority: —Awarded the low bid of $176,570 to Boyce Construction Co., for modernization of 40 apartments in Edward Higgins Terrace. Following pre-contract negotiations, the renovation work is expected to begin within three weeks. —Tabled for further study HUD recommendations that the authority use only the Brooke Amendment formula in figuring tenant rents. Wilson said if the change isn't approved by Oct. 14, the local authority will have to hold public hearings on the proposal. —Approved purchase of two electronic calculators for use in the authority administrative offices. —Agreed to work with the Tenants Council in seeking ways to bring the day care center at Castle Brewer Court up to state standards. The center is not now operating because the Tenants Council has been unable to find someone willing to oversee the operation.

Naval Academy To Salute 'Dads' Fathers will be honored at the eighth annual "Dad's Day" ceremonies of the Sanford Naval Academy Saturday, featuring remarks by Commander John McCain of Orange Park. The festivities for fathers and sons, and mothers too, begin with a morning golf tournament among the males at Mayfair Country Club. Water recreation on Lake Monroe with crew, sailing and water skiing follows. A Cross country track meet will be held at 2:45 p.m. at the Sanford Memorial Stadium. A coffee for the females, and a Dad's Club meeting precede the buffet luncheon. The "Salute to Dads" will be presented by Commander John McCain who was a prisoner of war for five and one-half years in North Vietnam. A soccer game at the stadium between Sanford and Howey Academy will cap the day's activities.

UF Drive Nears Half Goal

Tom Hunt, United Fund Campaign Chairman received reports from major division leaders at the second report luncheon Thursday at the Sanford-Seminole Jaycees dutch treat gathering and found that $3,392 or 43.1 per cent of this year's $125,000 goal had been reached. The new emblem for the United Fund—the three people hand-in-hand—is appearing on more and more "fair share" givers in the County. "Fair share," Hunt explained, "is a pledge of one hour's wages per month for a year." Mrs. Sheila Brown, residential division chairman, reported 170 women, high school youth and Girl Scouts were knocking on doors in the county. "Besides serving as the voice of the United Fund," Mrs. Brown said, "we are happy to report collections of over $700." Others reporting were Rachel May, Ed Maisak, drive coordinator for Florida Power and Light and Don Harvey, assistant FF and L coordinator and Len Unitas, past campaign chairman and 1974 vice chairman. Hunt announced that the third report session would be at the Longwood Hotel, Thursday, Oct. 1. A dutch treat dinner with the Casselberry Lions Club.

Prison Relief Plan Blasted

Jack Horner, United Fund President, reported that Seminole County's largest corporation, General Dynamics and Stromberg-Carlson, began their in-plant campaigns yesterday, also. James Kinsley and Joe Hartwig head the activity in their respective companies. Florida Power and Light employees reported a partial pledge of $8,000. Another major report came from Montgomery Ward at Interstate Mall, also over $6,000. Don Smith of Winter Springs, reporting for Granville Brown, public employes division chairman, announced payments and pledges of $3,000. "This cannot do anything but make the job of law enforcement more difficult," Harrell said, adding that the plan to have judges sentence those convicted of crimes to county jails to relieve state prisons overcrowding will be impossible for Seminole County to bear. "Our jail is bursting at the seams," he said. "We had to farm out eight prisoners to Lake County this morning. Others have already been sent to Orange," he said. "If they get five years and after two months you turn them loose, you're making our job impossible." Lee County Sheriff Wanicka said at a meeting of the Florida Sheriffs Association with state corrections and probation and parole officials. Wanicka said a Probation and Parole Commission plan to go into county jails in the next 90 days and see if prisoners to be paroled to ease overcrowding could "make a mockery of justice" by releasing after a few months felons who had received much longer sentences. His comments seemed to mirror the feeling of sheriffs department officials present at the meeting who wanted the state to build more prisons faster and keep offenders in them.

Congress Special Session?

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Ford has told key House Republican leaders he may attempt to force Congress into a quick pre-election session if it does not postpone a threatened cutoff of military aid to Turkey, administration sources say.

Ford appealed at a Detroit Republican fund-raising dinner Thursday night for House support on the issue.

The sources said, however, that he had telephoned House GOP Leader John J. Rhodes of Arizona and others Thursday morning to threaten action to leave major federal agencies without payroll funds if the aid cutoff is not postponed.

The House was to vote today on a Senate-approved resolution by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield that would postpone for 60 days a halt to Turkish aid while the administration seeks a compromise solution to the Cyprus dispute.

Almanac's Weather Forecast

DUBLIN, N.H. (AP)—A food shortage, a bone-chilling winter and a searing summer are in store for 1975, according to the Old Farmer's Almanac (1), which has been predicting American weather with a claim of 89 per cent accuracy for 182 years. The 183rd annual edition of the almanac — not to be confused with The Farmers' Almanac, a mere 158 years old — says, "Mother Nature is still in charge and we only try to forecast what is already ordained." Last year's almanac predicted the drought in several areas of the country and the mild winter of 1974.

Present Gets Air Delivery

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Each year on her birthday, Josie McNeely races to the yard of her farm home, turns cartwheels and waves wildly at the airplane that swoops over her father's cotton fields. Minutes later, a birthday package of candy, gum and caramelized popcorn plummets to the yard from Ed Schoonmaker's Stearman biplane. "I am so intrigued by Josie's acrobatics that I almost forget my flying," says Schoonmaker, a crop-duster who has been dropping birthday goods to Josie, who turned 16 on Monday, since she was 10.

Kissing Arrives In Syria

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger arrived from Egypt today on the second leg of his latest Middle East peace mission. He was preceded by a bomb blast in an American office and denunciations by Palestinian guerrillas.

The secretary's arrival was delayed half an hour by an accidental discharge of a submarine gun aboard his U.S. Air Force jetliner. A Secret Service agent suffered minor wounds in the scaly and riot frame.

The incident occurred when the Israeli-made weapon toppled from a rack in the rear of the plane as it taxied at Cairo airport. Kissinger hurried to the front cabin as the wounded agent, Walter Boche of Alexandria, Va., called out: "Don't worry about me. Check the secretary."

Kissinger was met at the Damascus airport by Syrian Foreign Minister Abdul Halim Khaddam. He was scheduled for talks with Khaddam and Syrian President Hafez Assad before moving on to Jordan tonight.

Baby Beef Popular

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner says baby beef is becoming popular with shoppers who want an alternative to more expensive grain-fed beef.

He said the slaughter of baby beef in Florida is approaching 7,000 head a week.

"This is also good news for cattle producers since the baby beef program is enabling us to get the supply of beef down to a level where the producer is avoiding future losses and the consumer is not forced to pay exorbitant prices for beef," Conner told a Farm Wife Week luncheon Thursday in Orlando.

Hero-Cop Raps Department

HALLEAH, Fla. (AP)—A policeman in the suburb of Halleah has refused to accept a heroism award, saying the city deserted him at another time when he had an accident.

His voice wavering and eyes moist, officer Frank Calabrese, 30, turned down an award from the local Optimist Club for saving the life of an electrocuted man. Calabrese was called to the scene while off-duty.

"I feel in my heart I cannot accept this award due to the fact that the city of Halleah does not recognize police officers as being on duty going to and from work," Calabrese said.

Hostage, Terrorists Friends

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—Barbara Hutchinson has described her abduction by leftist gunmen as a two-week-long comedy of errors and near tragedy that ended only in friendship between kidnappers and hostages. "I feel no rancor toward them. I feel they were sincere in what they believed they were doing," she said.

The American diplomat said the seven leftist rebels who held her and six other persons captive in the Venezuelan consulate.

Effect Of Crop Loss Debated

WASHINGTON (AP)—

A big loss in grain crops this year because of bad weather will send meat prices up again next year but has stirred debate in the Ford administration about how food prices will act overall next season.

The Agriculture Department said Thursday the corn crop will be 6 per cent less than forecast a month ago, mainly because of killer frosts. And it will be down 15 per cent from the record 1973 harvest.

Soybeans, another livestock feed needed to produce the nation's meat, milk and poultry, will be 4 per cent less than the

September estimate and down 19 per cent from last year.

Don Paarlberg, USDA director of economics, said the reduced harvests — even further below what experts had expected six months ago — will mean higher meat prices next year.

But Paarlberg refused to predict how food prices generally might react in 1975. Those are expected to go up 15 to 17 per cent this year, one of the sharpest climbs since World War II.

Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butts has been saying for six weeks that 1975 food prices would be held to less than a 10 ## per cent gain from this year.

Paarlberg was asked about that.

"We have not made an official estimate," Paarlberg told a news conference after Thursday's report. "This is Secretary Butts' judgment. And he may simply hold to that figure; he may revise it; he may wait until the analysts have, themselves, reviewed the situation."

In other economic developments Thursday:

—Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns said the nation is in a recession — an assessment contradicting the one stated by President Ford at ## his Wednesday news conference — although he disagreed with those who forecast a deepening recession in the year ahead.

—The House and Senate approved a compromise package of improved GI education benefits that would increase most payments to veterans by nearly 23 per cent.

—The Senate passed unanimously an emergency housing bill under which $7.75 billion in ## government funds could be pumped into the home mortgage market.

—President Ford urged his cabinet members to find further budget reductions to hold fiscal 1975 spending to $300 billion or below.

—Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, head of the tax-writing Ways and Means Committee, issued a statement denouncing Ford's proposed 5 per cent income tax surcharge for middle-and upper-income families.

—The Senate passed a bill to double the size of savings accounts which qualify for full coverage under federal deposit insurance.

Busing Violence Subsides As Police, Lawyers Arrive

BOSTON (AP)—

Five Justice Department lawyers have been assigned here to insure prompt enforcement of federal civil rights laws in connection with court-ordered school busing in Boston.

The FBI announcement Thursday night came after what Gov. Francis W. Sargent called a "relatively quiet" day in Boston.

City officials said there were few of the incidents of violence which have marked the first four weeks of a U.S. District Court plan to desegregate Boston public schools by busing 18,200 to 22,000 pupils.

James O. Newber, special agent in charge of the Boston FBI office, said the FBI has been investigating alleged civil rights violations and cases of possible interference with Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr.'s busing order.

"We have sent some information to Washington for a decision on what further action to take," Newber said in an interview Thursday. "When the lawyers arrive tomorrow, we'll present our information to them, and they will expedite whatever action is necessary."

Meanwhile, Mayor Kevin H. White said he would not support a wider busing plan until the federal government gives a better guarantee of safety for school children here. He accused President Ford of inflaming resistance to integration, White said he would lead to further disruption "and will endanger the safety of our school children in the process."

State and Metropolitan District Commission police reported the Tactical Patrol Force of the Boston police in the white, Irish South Boston section for the first time Thursday. The 450 new police patrolled the section, a center of anti-busing sentiment, after Garrity ordered White to seek such aid from Sargent.

While the Boston School Department is drawing up plans for the second phase of school ## integration, White said he would not support it without greater federal safety guarantees for school children.

"I reject the criteria that federal assistance is justified only when a condition of riot and rebellion exists in our streets and when local authority has collapsed," he said.

At least eight persons were injured in busing-related violence Thursday, one of them seriously, according to police and the mayor's office.

School officials reported city-wide attendance Thursday was 65 per cent, compared with 60 per cent on Wednesday.

ROY WILKINS
NAACP Executive Director said residents should be assured of their violent reactions many have displayed in Boston in response to court rulings ordering busing to promote desegregation.

Press Protests Blackout Of Soviet Space Launch

WASHINGTON (AP)—

The Soviet Union plans to launch the launching of Russian cosmonauts during next year's joint U.S.-Soviet space mission. But Russian newsmen will be welcome at Cape Canaveral for the liftoff of the American astronauts.

That policy has emerged from 18 months of negotiations during which Space Agency officials said the Soviets repeatedly rejected requests that they open their launch site at Baykonur to U.S. reporters.

But, the NASA officials said, aside from Baykonur, the Soviets have agreed to open up their space program as never before on this mission — providing the same type coverage characteristic of the U.S. program.

America has a completely

Pioneer spacecraft will explore Venus' atmosphere.

vision throughout their segment of the mission from liftoff to splashdown; something they've never done before. But reporters wishing to cover the flight in Russia will be restricted to a press site in downtown Moscow.

The Associated Press has protested the action on behalf of its members.

A document on press coverage of the Apollo-Soyuz flight will be signed later this month by James C. Fletcher, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and officials of the Soviet Academy of Sciences.

It will not specifically state that American newsmen can't go to Baykonur, but will say that each country can accredit whom it wants at the launch site.

Orlando Pair Arrested In Kidnap

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—

Two boyhood friends, who said they had been out of work for three months, have been arrested and charged in the $100,000 ransom kidnaping of an Orlando bank president's wife.

Earl H. McBrayer and Harry T. Eason, both 27 of Orlando, were charged Thursday night with violation of the Hobbs Act, a federal extortion statute in the kidnaping of Sherry Barfield.

Mrs. Barfield, the wife of American Bank President J.C. Barfield, was abducted from her home earlier in the day by two men posing as newspaper photographers.

Neighbors Oppose 'Home'

Plans to house delinquent boys in a "crisis home" on Northeast Lake Triplet Drive in Casselberry were met with protests from surrounding neighbors at a city council work session.

Arnold T. Smith, 101N E. Triplet Drive requested a change from R1AA (single family) zoning to R-3 (multiple family) zoning in order to accommodate up to 15 children who are "in need of supervision." Smith said that he would build an extension on his ## home to provide living quarters for the children.

Smith said his property "with frontage on Lake Triplet is ideal for fishing, swimming and being out of doors."

Smith has been a part time volunteer counselor through the Youth Programs Inc. — a non-profit volunteer counseling service for youths in Seminole County. Both FBI and county officials of Youth Services (DYS) have referred children to Smith and his wife ## for counseling and for care in his "crisis home."

"It's similar to placing kids in a foster home," Smith told the council, "except that we get no funds." The average stay may last from "a few days to a few years."

In requesting the zoning change, Smith said although contiguous property is R1AA, "there is R-3 zoning 200 feet away." For this reason, "I don't think I'm out of line in asking the change."

But councilman Edith Duerr noted that at a recent public hearing held by the Zoning Board, a lot of people in the neighborhood objected to the change.

Mrs. R.C. Cook, who lives next door to Smith on N.E. Triplet, told the council, "I don't object to what he's doing, only where he's doing it."

Mrs. Cook, who had brought a petition with 14 names protesting the change before the zoning board, was also backed up by 15 neighbors at the work session.

A workshop is scheduled for Oct. 18, at Milwee Middle School and is part of a Master Plan for staff development and inservice education.

City Included In Flood Insurance

CASSELBERRY—The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development has certified this city for inclusion in the federally subsidized flood insurance program.

City Manager Harry Hug said today the city was certified nearly one month ago, but correspondence from the federal agency was in city consulting engineer Cal Conkin's office.

Areas in Casselberry designated flood prone by the government include around Lake Griffin, Quail Pond, Duck Pond, Crystal Bowl, Queen's Mirror, Triplet and Lake Katherine.

Hug said those residents interested in knowing exact flood prone areas may view a series of maps in his office at city hall.

Earlier this week the City of Altamonte Springs was certified for inclusion in the program.

The program provides that property owners can now purchase flood insurance at the subsidized rate of 25 cents per $100, up to a maximum of $50,000 on both residential and non-residential property.

Market Dominoes Topple

LONDON — (LENS) — It's the same the whole world over. Every major stock market, and nearly all the minor ones, have plummeted this year, and in all of them except Germany the falls have been steepest in the last few weeks. Such unanimity is an uncomfortable reflection of how the fortunes of the major industrial countries have become bound up together. One fall, all fall. One rise, all boom, and then collapse under the weight of world inflation fuelled by world commodity prices. The transmission device that spreads inflation from one country to the other is working with bewildering efficiency, helped on by the oil exporters. There is some point in going for the countries that (1) are less badly affected than others by inflation, (2) have natural resources of their own and (3) do not have socialist governments. These criteria are tailor-made for Canada, whose market has fallen a mere one third. Australia scores for resources but has not responded to Gough Whitlam's brand of socialism with much enthusiasm. Japan has the natural urge to grow but not the natural resources; Germany similarly, but both would have been preferable to the rest of Europe. This week the London market hit lows not seen for a decade and more, and French shares have touched levels not seen since stockbrokers began the index in 1961.

Florida Growing Rapidly

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Developers applied for 140 developments of regional impact in the 1973-74 fiscal year, with plans to add 1.77 million people to Florida's population, according to a state report. The first annual report on developments of regional impact (DRI's) said the new housing projects, most of which have been approved by local officials, would increase the state's population by nearly 25 per cent.

"The statistics presented in this report on proposed DRI activity in Florida during the past year confirm that Florida is still growing at a very rapid rate," the report said. It offered these observations on regional growth trends:

"Increased development pressures surfaced in the Tampa Bay area in the last six months, not only in the relatively urbanized areas of Pinellas and Hillsborough counties, but in counties to the north and south such as Pasco and Sarasota."

"The Central Florida area around Orlando, however, experienced a relative decline in development activity in the last six months. Additionally, a continuing but slower trend in the gradual increase in development activity in Northwest Florida, particularly in Leon County."

DRI's, large-scale developments with an impact on more than one county, are regulated by local authorities and the Division of State Planning under a 1973 law.

The division's report listed 100 residential development applications filed between July 1, 1973 and June 30, 1974.

Also proposed were 18 regional shopping centers encompassing about 5 1/2 square miles of land area, five petroleum storage facilities with a total capacity of 14.3 million barrels of oil and five new phosphate mining operations covering 114,000 acres.

Nine DRI applications were withdrawn by June 30 while 41 had been approved. Of those approved, 53 had conditions imposed by local authorities. Forty-seven were not acted upon by the end of the fiscal year.

Two small counties, Washington and Hendry, are slated for vast population increases under DRI plans.

Washington, a rural Panhandle County with a population estimated at slightly more than 13,000, would add about 70,000 new residents — a fivefold increase — through a 30,000 unit housing development planned by Deltona Corp.

Hendry, a farming county on the southwest shore of Lake Okechobee, would grow by about 145,500 new residents — an elevenfold increase — under DRI's proposing 51,510 new housing units.

Broward County accounted for 12 proposals with a total of 150,000 new housing units. Gulfstream Plantation would add 54,944 new units and a new Arvida Community another 80,000.

Palm Beach County, with 13 proposed DRI's, would gain more than 60,000 new housing units. Pinellas, Sarasota, DeSoto, Dade, Duval, Lake and Orange counties ranged from 25,000 to 30,000 proposed new housing units.

Hillsborough, projecting about 15,000 units in proposed major developments, has 10 DRI's. Sarasota and Orange have 8; Leon and Dade, 7; and Pinellas, 5.

"These figures cover only large-scale developments, and not smaller developments."

Rules Assure Open Dem Convention For Hopefuls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Earlier and in greater numbers than ever before, Democratic presidential hopefuls are campaigning across the nation this fall in an effort to build strength for the 1976 election. Though a large field had seemed likely, it became assured with the recent withdrawal of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., a controversial frontrunner who had by far the greatest support — and opposition — among Democrats. Three senators — Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota and Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas — and Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona are all-but-declared candidates.

They have been out this fall working for Democratic candidates while trying to improve their own positions. A governor — Jimmy Carter of Georgia — and a senator — Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia — have indicated interest. A former governor — Terry Sanford of North Carolina — and a former senator — Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma — also may run. So might Mayor Kevin H. White of Boston. And the contest is clouded by the likely entry of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, who has barely stopped running for the Presidency for a decade despite repeated failure and the 1972 assassination attempt that left him paralyzed from the waist down. More than two years before the 1976 election, however, the most crucial aspect of the looming Democratic free-for-all is the uncertain impact of the party's new delegate selection rules.

All candidates agree the proportional representation system, which guarantees delegates to any candidate with at least 15 per cent of a congressional district's vote, will keep more candidates in the race longer and virtually assure a wide-open convention. Neither party has had one since the 1952 Republican convention nominated Wendell Wilkie on the sixth ballot. But the end of "winner-take-all" primaries will prevent any candidates from snatching the huge blocks of delegates that have in recent years assured victory in advance of the convention.

"When things are easy in a big bull market, you get more humor," says Elton Grimsen, a veteran of the Street who's been around long enough to know. "Now it's hard to come by." "I don't think people have the time to think about these things," says Peter Wyckoff, author of "The Language of Wall Street." "They're just too worried." Each profession has its code words, from banking to short order cookery, and Wall Street still has at least its share. Blue chips and widow-and-orphan stocks have been demeaned and war babies, defense stocks, rejected. All were caught in the claws of the most powerful bear market since the '50s. Bull and bear are the Street's best known symbols. They refer to the way a bull thrusts his head up in a fight while a bear grapples and wrestles his opponent down. From time to time, these concepts have been related to creation of illegal call trades, bear puts and bear raids, in which bears join forces to force down the price of a stock, only to buy it back at a profit. Also illegal are bucket shops, run by racketeers who theoretically execute customers' orders and make money when the client loses. Painting the taping trades just to get a company's name on the ticker is out, but investors can still put their money in pups, cats, and dogs. You can sell or go long, straddle or swing or take a short against the box. The market can swim, be sick, sleep, be lazy or fall out of bed. It can leave you without a shirt or taking a bath. Quick action on trading floors has created nicknames for some of the best known companies. United States Steel is Big X, from its ticker tape symbol. Bethlehem Steel is Bessie, McDonald's Corp. is Hamburger, After Six is Tax. Dome Petroleum is Dump and Buttes Oil & Gas is Bingo. Like words, there are phrases and sayings. "He who sells what isn't his'n, buys it back or goes to prison," goes the one about short selling — selling borrowed stock on the theory that you can buy it back later at a profit. "Buy on the rumor, sell on the news," is another widely followed maxim. Another favorite, common nowadays, is "Bears sometimes make money, bulls sometimes make money, but pigs never do." "That's a lot of baloney," says broker Grimsen.

The Church... THE HOPE OF OUR COMMUNITY,

OUR NATION!

"AND, BEHOLD, IT WAS VERY GOOD"

Not long ago I was driving home along the parkway, depressed and worried by many problems. The day was bleak and gloomy. Huge clouds billowed and churned above dark, forbidding mountains. Even the foliage hung limp and stilled.

Suddenly the clouds parted and a ray of sun streaked through. In that fleeting moment the landscape became beautiful—grayness transformed into mauves, deep blues and lively greens. It was like watching Creation. For the first time in a long time, I thought of God. And I prayed as I had been taught long ago in my church.

That was a turning point. Since then God and His church have once more become a part of my life, and my problems have disappeared in a way I never dreamed possible. God's goodness is always present. Go to your church, and learn the truths that can transform your life.

Pastor's Corner

By J. TED COSMATO
First Baptist Church

These are days when men seek answers, but not always God's answers. I used the following verses in a funeral oration once, "But we glory in tribulation also; knowing that tribulation worketh patience; and patience, experience; and experience, hope;" Romans 5:3-4.

We pray for endurance and God sends us suffering, for suffering produces endurance. A woman said, "I prayed for endurance and God sent me a blundering cock." We ask God for particular virtue and He sends us the raw material out of which we can make it. We pray for obedience and God sends us suffering. "Though he were a son yet learned he obedience by the things which he suffered," Hebrews 5:8.

We pray for usefulness and God sends us the opportunity to feel the feelings of others. "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others." Philippians 2:4. We pray for victory over temptation and the things of the world swoop down upon us in a storm of temptations. "This is the victory that overcomes the world, our faith," 1 John 5:4. We pray for strength and humility, and some messenger of Satan buffets us till we lie in the dust and hear the Lord say, "My power is made perfect in weakness." 1 Corinthians 12:9. We pray to be drawn closer to Christ and God lets friends turn away from us and against us. Henry Ward Beecher said, "Troubles are often the tools by which God fashions us for better things." Someone else has written, "Man may trouble and distress me, 'Twill but drive me to Thy breast." We pray for love, and God puts us among people who are unlovely. They say things that rasp our nerves. God says, "Here is your chance to show love. Here is the abyme of love." 1 Corinthians 13:4-8.

God has an answer, but we don't seek God's answer or we prefer not to hear it. The circumstances of life in which we find ourselves might in itself be an answer. A part of the stewardship of our living is to take advantage of the opportunities of the raw materials which God has given each of us. For out of these materials we may construct a life of usefulness and service because we are fashioned according to His will.

MIAMI (AP) — A bishop of the Episcopal Church in Florida says he plans to seek national support among leaders of his church for the new economic proposals outlined by President Ford.

"The church is the logical place to appeal to people to begin caring for one another," Rt. Rev. James L. Duncan said in a telegram of support Tuesday to Ford, who is also a member of the Episcopal Church.

Theologians Are Ranked

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the off-termed "theological giants" of this century are dead, including Karl Barth, Paul Tillich, Emil Brunner, Martin Buber, Dietrich Bonhoeffer, Reinhold Niebuhr. Only one of that constellation still is living, Germany's Rudolph Bultmann, now 90.

Are there any newcomers to fill the gap? Editors of six leading church magazines singled out 11 persons as "today's living giants of the Christian faith."

Ranked as the most dominant theologian was European scholar Jurgen Moltmann of Germany. He is a reform-minded Roman Catholic, whose criticism of the doctrine of papal infallibility has made him a target of Vatican investigations.

United Church ethicist James Gustafson, of the University of Chicago Divinity School, an opponent of so-called "situation ethics," which claims love — not blanket rules — determine morality.

Philosopher Bernard Lomeran, a Canadian Jesuit of Regis College, Toronto, a profound intellectual whose work in building bridges between theology and the social sciences has been compared to that of Thomas Aquinas.

Southern Baptist evangelist Billy Graham, who is not regarded a creative theologian and who often is accused of overemphasizing personal salvation and minimizing the Gospel's social implication, but who has preached to more people than anyone in history. He was cited for his "obvious appeal" and influence among millions.

Roman Catholic Archbishop Huber Cardinal of Brazil who has defied Brazil's military government to denounce injustice and insist on fairness to the poor.

Methodist Bishop Abel Munoz, a black churchman of Rhode Island, who has outspokenly opposed the racial policies of the white minority regime.

Jesus Priest Enters Dispute On Ordained Episcopal Women

NEW YORK (AP) — A theological argument cutting across denominational lines has developed over whether 11 women ordained last summer as priests of the Episcopal Church were validly invested with that office.

Most of the church's House of Bishops have said "no." But the theological rationale on which they acted is now challenged by the scholar on whose work their decision was mainly based. He's a Roman Catholic.

Rev. Frans J. van Beeck, a noted theologian at the Jesuits' Boston College, says that although the ordinations were irregular so far as church discipline goes, "they were true ordinations."

DEAR ABBY She Wants Grass Or Back To Booze

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I was busted for possession of marijuana two weeks ago. I am a married woman, 19, and have a 14-month-old son.

Everyone has something he calls his own. Penicillin and my own thing is relaxing with grass now and then. When the police came to my door they deprived me of one of my civil rights by not letting me read the search warrant before they entered my home.

What can I do about this? So many people have been busted the same way. We are sick of the way the police push people around.

If I can't smoke grass in the privacy of my own home, then I guess I'll become an alcoholic.

BUSTED IN L.A.

DEAR BUSTED: Both possession and sale of marijuana are unlawful, and in narcotics cases, search warrants cannot be read at the door because while the officers are waiting outside, someone inside (an accomplice, possibly) can destroy the evidence.

The people, through the democratic process, write the laws, and the police only enforce them. However, your threat to turn to alcohol if you can't have "grass" shows a dependency on some kind of mood-changing drug, which should concern you at least as much as being deprived of your civil rights.

DEAR ABBY: You said in your column that there was nothing sadder than seeing children raised by children.

Well, I disagree with you. It's a lot sadder to see children being raised by old people in their late 30s and 40s. They have nothing in common.

I am 18, and have a child nearly a year old and there is nothing "sad" about the way my son is being raised. I think it's a break for a kid to have young parents so they can grow up together.

DEAR MOTHER: If you are sufficiently mature to raise a child at 16, you are exceptional.

"Growing up" together is lovely liberty, but unless the parents are mature (and maturity doesn't automatically come with years) they'd better do a lot of praying.

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd be writing to you, but here I am. Will you please let doctors, nurses, aides and all hospital personnel know that when someone who works with them is hospitalized that person deserves the same consideration about visiting hours as anyone else in the hospital?

I was hospitalized with a serious injury two months ago, and during my stay at the hospital, even though there was a big sign on my door which read: "POSITIVELY NO VISITORS: DOCTOR'S ORDERS," I was pestered to death by co-workers who felt I needed a little cheering up.

Nurses, doctors, aides and people from the hospital office came to see me. Most of them were very nice, but multiply that by 50 every day and you'll have some idea of how exhausted I was.

I finally had to leave the hospital to get some rest. I love my co-workers, but they almost killed me with kindness.

Please, Abby, put this in your column. I hope it goes up on hospital bulletin boards all over the country.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE

DEAR FLO: Here's your letter. I hope it works.

POLLY'S POINTERS Beetles Bug Her Roses

By POLLY GRAMER

DEAR POLLY — Do the beetles that appear on rose bushes go into the ground to destroy the roots? If so, how does one get rid of them before they get that far? — EVELYN.

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with those seasoning cans that come with plastic tops from which you can pour, spoon, or sprinkle. Often the cover is not securely placed on the container. When the handy lids are used the whole thing comes off — APRIL.

DEAR POLLY — I want to tell Jean how I clean a sandstone fireplace — a remedy I learned by trial-and-error. Place a plastic drop cloth over the floor around the fireplace and cover it with several thicknesses of newspaper. In a small pan (for easy handling) make a strong solution of water and that wonderful big cleaner that requires no rinsing and wiping dry. Hopefully you will have an old nylon hair brush with stiff bristles that needs replacing. Put on rubber gloves. With the brush start at the top and scrub a strip about a foot wide, all the way down, at a time. Refill pan with solution when needed and keep on with one strip after another. As the brush wears out saw off with a tack saw. The job can really be done very quickly and easily. Unless the fireplace is very dirty one brush should do the job. The brush handle protects your knuckles from rubbing against the rocks. I much prefer this to the marinate acid recommended by rock masons and think it does a cleaner job. — MRS. G.C.M.

DEAR MRS. G.C.M. — I was interested to note you started at the top. I have always found that when washing walls, etc., it is more satisfactory to start at the bottom. There is less chance of streaking. — POLLY.

DEAR POLLY — My new bedspread had to be dry cleaned and I do not want to use it for an extra cover. I had the problem of what to do with it at night. I had an old baby bed guard rail and found that by sliding it in at the foot of the bed the problem was solved. My alarmist folded across the bottom rail and the spread is folded over the top.

When washing dishes I put in the required amount of detergent but a small amount of water. As the water cooks I add more hot water without having to drain some away or having to add more detergent. — DIANE.

DEAR POLLY — Mother and I both do crewel embroidery and found it so hard to keep the various colors and shades of colors separated. Now I put notches on the two opposite long sides of a piece of cardboard and numbers by the notches. Each yarn color is wrapped around two opposite notches that have the colors marked according to the work chart. Now it is so easy to differentiate between the colors and shades. — TRACY.

DEAR POLLY — My daughters and I all wear panty hose. Keeping them separated used to be quite a chore. Now one of the girls mixes a mark with white thread on the waistbands of hers, the other girl does the same with black thread and mine are left plain. When a pair gets a run but can still be worn with socks a tiny dot of nail polish is added to make sorting easier, when washing several pairs. — MRS. E.H.

Inviting You To RSVP

We see the letters, RSVP, and immediately know we are required to respond in some way.

At Seminole Junior College and among the senior citizens of Seminole County, RSVP doesn't necessarily mean "please reply" (responders still won't plait). It does require a response, however.

RSVP stands for Retired Senior Volunteer Program, and the response it requires is one of love and activity and caring.

Currently there are 150 RSVP volunteers from throughout the county working for the program. In order to continue receiving financial assistance from the federal government, 250 persons must be enrolled in the program by the end of this year.

RSVP is a new nationwide program locally run and controlled, and aided by development grants from ACTION, Washington, D.C. Each year the local body — in this case Seminole Junior College — is required to raise a large proportion of funds, and to maintain a good environment of volunteers to receive the balance of federal monies.

In order to continue RSVP in Seminole County, more volunteers are required by the end of the year, and a total $15,000 must be raised by June, 1975. Donations in kind, such as groceries, craft materials and gasolines, are also welcome as well as money.

Acceptable toward this goal, RSVP offers people an opportunity to use their talents to serve the needs of their community, and all persons 60 years of age and older interested in helping on a regular basis are welcome. There is no specific time requirement — each schedule is designed for the individual, whether it be five, 10 or 30 hours a week. Nor are there any out of pocket expenses such as meals or transportation — these are provided and all volunteers are covered by accident and liability insurance.

Says Mrs. Edelman, "RSVP will cost just your time, energy, skill, ingenuity, concern — yourself!"

Areas in which volunteers are needed include arts and crafts, music, dancing, sewing, cooking, sports, offices, libraries and hospitals.

This same problem of failure to use good logic also causes problems in many aspects of our daily lives. You can't assume that because there was a hurricane in Florida and a boat failure in New York that the hurricane blew out the lights. When people learn to appreciate this fact of logic they will be less likely to be victimized by a host of near-fraudulent health fads and by many other wild claims made in all sectors of our modern life. Don't be gullible, be logical.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10015. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on losing weight, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for the "Losing Weight" booklet.

One of the biggest problems people have in their thinking is the apparent failure to apply simple principles of logic. Just because two events occur simultaneously does not mean one event caused the other.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I read your column about tampering with height. Our son was short as a youngster. We are both tall. At 18 or so he took some "iodine" pills, and in a year he grew two inches and later two inches more. He was six-feet-three at maturity. What do you say about this?

DEAR READER — Not much. I grew more than three inches after I was 17, without iodine pills or any other medicine. Your son must not have been below the normal range in height at 18 if he grew four more inches and ended up at six-feet-three. There are a lot of normal people who never get the five-foot-nine-inch mark.

Growth usually stops, or nearly so, when the long bones in the legs calcify. There is a zone of cartilage near the end of the bones which grows and grows until then. When the usual endocrine sequence occurs and male or female hormone is formed in sufficient amounts, or extra amounts are given artificially, these areas calcify and growth stops.

The age that this occurs varies. A late bloomer may still be growing in the early 20s. However, for abnormally short people one shouldn't wait beyond the age of 16 to see if they need some growth hormone.

Adequate amounts of thyroid hormone are essential to growth. Thyroid hormone and growth hormone work together to do this. And, iodine is essential to normal thyroid function. However, I must honestly tell you that unless your son had an iodine deficiency, which I doubt, I suspect that he would have grown to six-feet-three without the iodine tablets.

For information and entry blanks for the show, contact Marion Bethwell at Seminole Junior College, or Sue Stevenson at 918 Park Ave., Sanford.

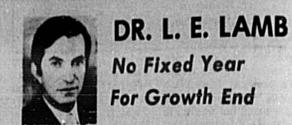

Mrs. Wilson has been appointed as district chairman of the patriotic emblems committee and has held office as third and second lieutenant governor of her district.

Mrs. Wilson is also active in the Hospital Financial Management Association, in the First Baptist Church where she sings in the church choir and is an adult Sunday school worker, and is a member of the Ocala Public Safety Commission.

Ramey will be teaching master ballet classes to local Ballet Guild dancers as well as to dancers throughout the rest of Florida.

At the Ballet Guild reception being held at the Seminole Civic Center Oct. 18, Ramey will be the guest of honor. The reception will also honor sponsors, angels and Ballet Guild patrons.

A short ballet by a local award winning group will be staged, and Ballet Guild photographer Bob Orwig will present an exhibition of photographs of Guild dancers.

CARL VANZURA Don Garlits' Courage Is Everyday Racing Hazard

Courage is a hard word to define when you talk about the sport of auto racing. You must have it just to slip into the cockpit knowing that you will soon be on the track risking the dangers that the sport contains. Courage may be mistaken as an occupational hazard such as Don Garlits climbing back into his Dragster after having a clutch blow earlier in the year and cutting off half of his foot or Merle Bettenhuser getting back in his sprint car after losing an arm in a wreck on the track or Richard Petty coming back after rolling his car end over end side over side until the only thing left was the roll bars and a little sheet metal. All of these drivers were severely hurt but each came back.

Why did they come back? They came back because it is their job, it is the way they support themselves and family. It is simply a job and a dangerous one at that. This brings me to what I call courage. Sunday during the Charlotte 500, in the second lap, seven cars were involved in the worst wreck of this years NASCAR circuit.

BRANTLEY'S HENRY STANLEY LYMAN'S JOHN PORTER

Courage is a hard word to define when you talk about the sport of auto racing. You must have it just to slip into the cockpit knowing that you will soon be on the track risking the dangers that the sport contains. Courage may be mistaken as an occupational hazard such as Don Garlits climbing back into his Dragster after having a clutch blow earlier in the year and cutting off half of his foot or Merle Bettenhuser getting back in his sprint car after losing an arm in a wreck on the track or Richard Petty coming back after rolling his car end over end side over side until the only thing left was the roll bars and a little sheet metal. All of these drivers were severely hurt but each came back.

Why did they come back? They came back because it is their job, it is the way they support themselves and family. It is simply a job and a dangerous one at that. LOS ANGELES LAKERS NBA — Pacific Division 1973-74 finish: W 47, L 35 — 1st place

Bill Sharman didn't win the NBA's Coach of the Year Award last season, but he certainly deserved some accolade for getting the Lakers into the playoffs. After the team had suffered two consecutive losses to Golden State late in the season and fallen two games behind the first-place Warriors in the loss column, Sharman salvaged their morale and directed them into the division title. It climaxed a season of major adjustments.

First, there was the defection of Wilt Chamberlain. Then, there was the trade of forward Jim McMillan to Buffalo for center Elmore Smith. After that, forward Connie Hawkins was acquired from Phoenix for swingman Keith Erickson. And finally, Sharman salvaged their morale and directed them into the division title. Suppose East chucks a heart. Once more South picks up East's trumps but now he has three heart tricks. Then why is East almost squeezed? Because East can discard a low trump. South can still pick up the trumps and run of the last two, but East is discarding in back of dummy and there is no squeeze against him. This particular hand was probably made up by the good doctor, but the play of undertruffing to avoid a squeeze comes up on occasion and is well worth knowing.

West opens the ace of diamonds and continues with the queen. South is careful to ruff with dummy's ace of spades and at this point East is nearly squeezed. Suppose he chucks a club. South leads dummy's jack of spades and eventually picks up all East's trumps while discarding the nine of hearts from dummy. Then he is able to ruff out a club with his last trump and make his contract.

Emergency crews raise van in an attempt to free trapped bodies

Two Accidents Claim 7 Lives Near Sanford

The murky waters of Lake Monroe and the St. Johns River near Sanford claimed the lives of seven persons within a six-hour time span as the weekend began.

The dead included: An Orlando fisherman who jumped into the lake to retrieve a string of fish and his son-in-law who tried to rescue him. Volusia county authorities, aided by Seminole Sheriff's and New Smyrna Beach couple and three of the eight other persons riding in their van died when the vehicle was rammed from behind by a truck and plunged off the Osteen Bridge on SR 415 into the river.

Late Friday emergency crews had recovered the five bodies and Seminole Memorial hospital spokesmen said the six children who escaped drowning were treated and released.

Volusia county authorities, aided by Seminole Sheriff's and New Smyrna Beach couple and three of the eight other persons riding in their van died when the vehicle was rammed from behind by a truck and plunged off the Osteen Bridge on SR 415 into the river.

Redditt reportedly jumped from a boat to retrieve a string of fish and his son-in-law, Edward McConnell, 26, of Fall River, Mass., jumped in to rescue Redditt.

Redditt's daughter, Mary L. McConnell, 23, also jumped to the rescue, witnesses reported, but her husband and father had disappeared. Mrs. McConnell swam back to the boat but was unable to start the motor or to help her husband and father.

Mrs. McConnell was treated and released at Seminole Memorial hospital, officials said.

Florida Highway Patrol troopers said a westbound food company truck rammed a slower moving van containing 11 persons on the narrow, antiquated Osteen Bridge about 6:55 p.m. Friday. The van crashed through the wooden guardrail and submerged in approximately eight feet of water.

Nearby fishermen helped rescue six persons, authorities said, but five others in the van drowned.

Rescue and emergency crews worked for three hours on the narrow bridge to raise the van and free two bodies. Traffic between Seminole and Volusia counties was rerouted while the crews worked.

FIIP Trooper Ernie Jacobs identified the dead as: Milton Wilkins, 38, driver of the van; his wife Emma, 36, both of 1601 North Street, New Smyrna Beach; Barbara Jean Clark, 35, and her daughter, Cindy, 9, and son Kenneth, 2, of 559 Cherlovick, New Smyrna Beach.

Troopers said six children who managed to escape or were rescued after the van plunged into the river were treated and released at Seminole Memorial Hospital, Sanford. They were identified as Gary Wilkins, 19; James Wilkins, 11; Thomas Clark, 11; Deborah Clark, 14; Linda Clark, 16 and Constance Fullington, 15, all of New Smyrna Beach.

Friends of the Wilkins family, traveling in a car a short distance behind the van, joined in rescue efforts. The friends told police that another son of the Wilkins couple was playing in the New Smyrna Beach-Oceola High football game in Kissimmee, and a daughter was traveling in the New Smyrna Beach marching band at the game.

The Wilkins family were en route to Kissimmee for the game when the wreck occurred. Driver of the food delivery truck that struck the van, L.C. Woodard, 38, of Orlando, told troopers he was traveling at 45 to 50 miles an hour on the bridge when he saw the van ahead.

"I didn't have time to stop before I hit it," he said.

Witnesses told investigators the truck was traveling at a speed approximately twice that of the van.

Woodard was charged with speed too great for conditions. Troopers said the accident was still under investigation Saturday.

State Department of Transportation crews worked into the night Friday repairing the wooden guardrail. The bridge project is scheduled to go to bid next April, officials said.

Orlando's Rescue 1 helicopter hovered over Lake Monroe and aided Sanford police in rescue operations

Politicians Scorn 2 Term Office Limit

Few Seminole County elected officials fully support the two-term limitation in office advocated by the New American Revolution (NAR) organization and the group's name itself turns most off.

Tony Hodges, representative of the NAR was in Tallahassee early this week, pushing a petition drive to constitutionally deny office holders on both the local and national levels more than two terms in office.

Throwing out the incumbents is the only way to wrest control of the government from special interests and corrupt officials, Hodges said in a news conference on the state Capitol steps.

Not so, answered Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd, who took office last December in an election upset over a 20-year political veteran.

"The people already have the right to remove anyone not doing the job via the ballot box or through recall," said Casselberry Council Chairman Tom Embree.

"Hodges' idea would take away the people's right to vote for whom they please," said Winter Springs Councilman and former mayor Irene Van Epeol. "The American people have enough restrictions to live with as it is."

Sanford City Commissioner John Morris, completing his first term in office and an announced candidate for re-election, sees the question differently. His position is both for and against.

Locally, an official in his second "lame duck" term without election pressures could initiate programs which might not be popular among his colleagues or with the "big cats," Morris said.

A limitation of terms on the national level might pose a problem with continuity of legislation, he said.

County Commissioner Dick Williams, also a first term officeholder, said he would not be opposed to a limitation.

A person in office for a long time tends to lose sight of the people he represents, Williams said, regardless of how well he thinks he is doing or how much background information he has accumulated, Williams said.

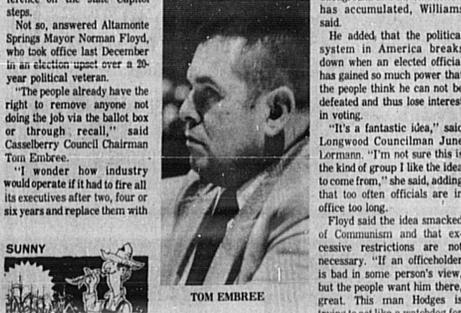

He added that the political system in America breaks down when an elected official has gained so much power that the people think he can not be defeated and thus lose interest in voting.

"It's a fantastic idea," said Longwood Councilman June Lormann. "I'm not sure this is the kind of group I like the idea to come from," he said, adding that too often officials are in office too long.

Floyd said the idea smacked of Communism and that excessive restrictions are not necessary. "If an officeholder is bad in some person's view, but the people want him there, great. This man Hodges is trying to act like a watchdog for the voters and I really don't think the citizens need a watchdog," he said.

"A person interested in public office should have the right to run for re-election if he wants to," Embree said.

"To assume that a certain number of years in the system would automatically corrupt the people indicates very little faith in humanity," McClanahan said. "I served 26 years in the military, went through three wars and police actions to defend the present system and still have confidence in it."

Incumbent Mayor Margie Hess announced last week she would not seek re-election because of commitments related to her job as a rehabilitation nurse coordinator at Seminole Junior College and the second of the three men to seek the interim appointment, J. Richards, a SJC student, Ed Zimmerman and Wanda Mixon.

Wheeler said his business experience, as both an employer and employee would provide valuable experience and assistance in the financial affairs of the community. He considers the present system of bill-paying inadequate, and difficult for citizens to see where their money is spent. As stockholders in the corporate city community Lake Mary citizens are entitled to this information, he explained. A warrant-voucher system would greatly enhance the ease of financial operations.

Because his business is located in Sanford, and being self-employed, Wheeler feels he could easily devote the time, at any time, necessary to deal with city affairs, and emergencies.

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Unemployment in Florida will get worse before it gets better, predicts Secretary of Commerce Don Spencer.

Speaking to a group of Florida editors Friday night, Spencer said his office expects state unemployment to climb fluctuating around the 5 per cent mark, to evenly 6 per cent in 1975 and possibly as high as 7 per cent.

"It won't go higher than seven, and hopefully not higher than 6.5 per cent," Spencer said.

He added that as of August, 175,000 Floridians were out of work.

He said that Florida's two major industries, construction and tourism, have already felt the economic crunch experienced by the rest of the nation.
