Christmas On Hold For Comatose Girl

By Kathy Tyrity Herald Staff Writer

A miniature Christmas tree and presents await a 13-year-old Osteen girl should she awake from the coma that she has been in since a Dec. 5 accident.

"it's in God's hands now. The doctors have done all they can for her," said a tearful Connie J. Nickle Kreinbring, mother of 13-year-old Alyssia Kreinbring of Osteen who remains in a coma following a traffic accident Dec. 5. And after working three jobs to keep the family together, Mrs. Kreinbring's at wit's end, not knowing how Alysaia's longterm medical care will be paid if and when she regains consciousness.

Miss Kreinbring, of 226 Carpenter St., suffered serious injuries after running into the path of a Southern Bell Telephone Co. van headed north on State Road 415 in Osteen, Her "Grandma Trudy," Gertrude Goodall of Sanford, said she was running to meet a friend on the other side of FHP troopers said the girl veered into the front of the van while running on the shoulder of the road. She was taken to Hallfax Medical Center by helicopter at 6:10 p.m. and underwent more than two hours of surgery. She was still in serious condition today with doctors wondering whether to do surgery to drain fluid on the

Elder-Care Homes, Yankee Lake Drew Spotlight On Sanford

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

Sanford drew state-wide attention last fall, when the media turned a spotlight on elderly residents who faced cityimposed evictions because they live in group care homes that violate Sanford zoning law. City commissioners called actions against the operations to be be put on hold while staff works on possible zoning amendments to legalize them.

Sanford also received widespread publicity for its assault against drug abuse and its efforts to obtain by condemnation property known as Yankee Lake after it had been bought by

The drug abuse fight included efforts of residents and city representatives and a number of drug prevention seminars. City commissioners have tentatively approved mandatory drug tests for all municipal job applicants and staffers suspected of substance abuse. Commissioners have also adopted an "employee assistance program" offering staff and their families free drug abuse counseiling.

Sanford's residents elected two new commissioners in December, A.A. McClanahan and Whitey Eckstein. They replace Milton Smith, descated by Mc-Clanahan, and Dave Fart, who didn't run. Farr decided instead to devote full-time energies to his new post as executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

After Alarm Unworking In Fatal Fire

Housing Chief Mum On Smoke Alarms

In the aftermath of a fatal fire, Sanford Housing Authority director Elliott Smith has temporarily refused to discuss whether smoke detectors in public housing are routinely inspected by the authority or if that responsibility falls on the

The inspection of the detectors has come into question following the death of a 3-year-old boy in Lake Monroe Terrace the day after Christmas.

Lee Antwon Bradley died of smoke inhalation in the 6 a.m. fire that also injured his 2-year-old brother Brandon Lee Bradley. The younger child was in serious but stable condition today at Shands Teaching Hospital in Gainesville. He suffered smoke inhalation.

The fire will be classified accidental, cause undetermined, said

Sanford Fire Inspector Mike Hoening. He said there is no physical evidence to rule otherwise. His opinion, however, is that the fire could have been caused by the 3-year-old, possibly playing with a lighter or matches.

"It's unfortunate, but I'm afraid its going to stay undetermined. There is just not enough hard evidence left to have a one hundred percent ruling." Hoening said. Fire inspectors were, however, able to rule out any electrical cause for the intense fire.

Witnesses said the smoke detector did not sound, although it is not possible in the post-fire inspection to determine if it was in working order at the time of the fire, said Fire Chief Tom Hickson.

Smith, 37, of Winter Springs, said today he would not discuss who, if anyone, was responsible for inspecting the detectors until he had a chance to study the lease requirements and a final fire report. He did say, however, it was the authority's responsibility to make sure the units are "safe and sanitary" when families move in. The 3-year-old and his family moved into the unit April 24, according to housing authority records. Smith there is a minimum of two inspections per year of each

"The housing authority inspects on a regular basis but as to specifics. I would not want to get into that." Smith said.

He denied an earlier report in the Sanford Herald in which he was quoted as saying the detectors are supposed to be kept in working order by "SHA staff," as part of their "regular unit inspections." He said Monday that he said the

Government, Four Challenger Families Reach Settlement

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Justice Department and Morton Thiokol, manufacturer of the rocket blamed for the Challenger explosion, have reached out-of-court settlements with the families of four of the seven astronauts who died in the disaster.

In turn, the Justice Department said Monday, the families of each of the four — mission commander Francis "Dick" Scobee, Ellison Onizuka, Gregory Jarvis and New Hampshire school teacher Christa McAuliffe - agreed to drop "all potential claims" against the government.

Justice Department officials declined to say how much each family would receive, at their request, but did say the matter had been turned over to Deputy Attorney General Arnold Burns, who must approve settlements of $750,000

The officials said, however, that the payments were much higher than that minimum figure.

Police Beef Up Patrols

NEW YORK (UPI) — Extra police patrolled a Queens neighborhood today amid racial tension heightened by the dismissal of murder and manslaughter charges against three white youths accused in a gang attack in the area that led to the death of a black man.

State Supreme Court Justice Ernest Blanchi ruled Monday there was insufficient evidence to support the charges without the testimony of one of the victims, Cedric Sandiford, who has refused to cooperate with prosecutors.

The dismissal of charges sparked an angry outburst from blacks in the crowded courtroom, some of them shouting, "Injustice! Injustice!" as court officers shoved them out of

"We do not intend for there to be any peace in New York City until there is some justice here," black activist lawyer C. Vernon Mason said after the hearing.

The white youths, Jon Lester, 17, Jason Ladone, 16, and Scott Kern, 17, still face reckless endangerment charges. They were arrested in the Dec. 20 attack on three blacks whose car broke down in the Howard Beach section of Queens. One victim, Michael Griffith, 23, was struck and killed by a car as he fled.

UFO Sighting Confirmed

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) - An air controller said radar showed a mysterious object following a Japan Air Lines cargo flight at the time the crew reported a UFO with flashing lights trailing the jumbo jet near the Arctic Circle.

All three crewmen on JAL Flight 1628 told Federal Aviation Administration investigators they saw white and yellow lights close to their Boeing 747 on Nov. 17 after they crossed the Arctic Circle 30 miles southeast of Fort Yukon in an over-the-pole flight from Reykjavik, Iceland, to Tokyo via Anchorage.

The FAA released details of the incident Monday when queried by United Press International.

Air Force officials confirmed their radar picked up something near the JAL plane, but Capt. Robert Morris of the Alaska Air Command suggested the UFO was "random clutter or weather interference." Another Air Force spokesman, Sgt. Jack Hokanson, said, "We got out of the UFO business some time ago."

But the existence of an unidentified object was confirmed by a report from the flight controller in charge of JAL 1628. Steucke said the controller, who was not named, had two years experience.

IN BRIEF

Former British Prime Minister, Harold Macmillan, Dies

HAYWARDS HEATH, England (UPI) - Former Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, the Conservative leader who left his mark on history with his call for Britain to join the Common Market and dismantle its colonial empire, has died after a short illness. He was 92.

Macmillan, one of Britain's 20th century political giants who was catapulted to power by one scandal in 1957 and left amid another six years later, died peacefully Monday at his home 50 miles south of London surrounded by his family, his grandson said.

The family planned a private funeral and memorial service in London.

Born when Queen Victoria was on the throne and the sun never set on the British empire, Macmillan dedicated most of his life to politics and excelled at it, earning the nickname "Super Mac." During his tenure as prime minister, the Conservative Party politician united Britain after the Suez crisis. presided over its postwar economic boom and forged its 'special relationship" with the United States. He also helped President John F. Kennedy push through a nuclear test ban treaty with Moscow and led calls for Britain to further dismantle its colonial empire and join the Common Market.

But he resigned after Illness and when a subordinate was ensnared in the "Profumo" scandal over an affair with a call girl. The aristocratic Macmillan, however, did not slip into obscurity after he retired.

Iran: Fund's Release Could Help

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (UPI) - Iran said Washington's willingness to comply with a tribunal's order to release $500 million of Iranian funds frozen in the United States during the 1979 hostage crisis could "positively affect" the release of Americans held hostage in Lebanon.

But U.S. officials denied the talks between U.S. bankers and Iranian officials, due to continue today, had any links to the American hostages held by pro-Iranian gunmen in

Registration To Begin At New SCC Center

By Eathy Tyrity Berald Staff Writer

Registration begins Jan. 12 at Seminole Community College's new instructional center at U.S. 436 and Hunt Club Boulevard (near Apopka), to be called the 'SCC Southwest Instructional Center'.

The first term at the center will begin Jan.

We anticipate teaching at the new campus six days a week and five nights." said Jim Sawyer, vice president of student and information services. The center is being opened to "serve the needs of the business community and arts and sciences. especially the humanities," he said. Students there will be taking such courses there as micro-processing, tax accounting. art, literature, leisure-type courses, dance and fitness. Credit and non-credit courses are available, in the five classrooms, and you may register there for either campus.

SCC officials are convinced that two-year degrees are the thing of the future so they have put a full-force effort into reaching as many students as possible. The near-Apopka center is part of that effort.

Sawyer said he would be happy if the new campus increased enrollment by 500 students between now and the end of the fiscal year (April 30).

Another project underway at SCC is construction of a $6 million Adult and Continuing Education Center.

Ground was broken Jan. 15 for the facility which is designed to serve as a regular adult high school and also offer leisure programs. It will also have many classes in English for foreign people. It will have 30 classrooms.

It will also have a planetarium to serve? SCC students as well as youth from the public school system. It will have a start machine and produce all the constellations. Sawyer said he is hopeful this astronomy, addition will attract interest from the general community. It is the first planetarium to be built in Seminole County, he said.

Sawyer said the school has employed marketing techniques to maintain and? increase enrollment figures which dipped at few years ago but are now making al comeback. Fall figures were up 14 percents over the previous year, and so far Winters figures are up 6 percent over last winter, he? said.

"This has been the year that puts us toour high of four years ago." Sawyer said of the enrollment figures.

Lake Mary Saw Year Of Changes

By Kathy Tyrity

Herald Staff Writer Lake Mary saw a year of great change in 1986 — a new city manager was chosen after months of searching; the city opted to build its own sewer plant in conjunction with Timacuan develpment: decided to build a new city hall instead of using the CIA building; Shell Oil bought land for a hotel and office park; and, after a canceled election, the commission make-up changed when Commissioner Russ Megonegal stepped down.

Perhaps the biggest controversy was whether to enter Into a three-year lease of the CIA building, make improvements to that building and move city offices there, or choose land for a new city hall complex and build one as soon as possible. Mayor Dick Fess at one time talked about using the Shoppes of Lake Mary for office space and the commission at one point voted to lease the CIA building. But all that changed after Commissioner Buzz Petsos raised a campaign to publicize the cost of renting now and building later versus building now and avoiding land cost escalations. Petsos said it would save the city $49,000 outright and another $150,000 in construction price escalations over three years if the city selected landnow and remained in the old City Hall while awaiting the opening of the new building. Objections to taking over the CIA building were also raised by citizens using the building at night who would be booted out if the move were arranged. They said the CIA building was built with community-raised funds to benefit community functions and not the city.

Late in the year, the comdoned its plans to vacate the historic City Hall, partially because the city staffers said and built. The city is still tanks now.

deciding exactly where to put up the new City Hall.

Also in November, Shell Oil Co. made a downpayment on a multi-million-dollar 157-acre property in Lake Mary slated for a 400-room hotel and office park. To be built west of Lake Emma Road and north of National Cash Register Co., the acreage was being developed as Northpolnt Park by Sal Orlando of Kana; Development, Orlando. But he said he was selling out.

Another major complex coming to Lake Mary will be at regional postal office called a "Mail Processing Center" to serve three countles. It is estimated it will take nearly 40% acres and employ hundreds of people.

The city commission ended the year with a sigh of relief that a new city manager finally had been chosen. Former City Manager Kathy Rice stepped down in July, leaving Jim Orioles, the public works supervisor, to act as city manager for half a year.

Out of 40 applications re ceived, the commission narrowed down the candidates to six. Two of them chose not to come for an interview and four were finally interviewed.

"The man from Kentucky," Robert L. Norris, former city manager of Richmond, Ky, who lost his job there in a political shake-up, was chosen unanimously after he charmed the group with southern friendliness and his years of service as a public administrator.

Norris is known in Kentucky as a self-motivated manager who gets things done and works well; with the public.

Finally, in a move that will have a lasting affect on Lake Mary residents, the city voted: mission coalesced and aban- this month to build a starter? sewage system and treatment: plant in conjunction with Timacuan development, rather? they had no problem remaining than face a possible shortness of in tight quarters if they knew a capacity with Sanford's system. new building was being planned. Foreign Money Poses Dilemma

Now that the United States is a debtor nation, overseas money has become a major factor in financing its growth as foreigners buy up major shares of American companies. This may sound alarming, but it isn't. Foreign investors are no more coordinated in their behavior than are American investors. Germans or Japanese, for example, aren't able to use their equity in the U.S. corporations in any systematic way.

The problem with foreign money is quite different; it lies in what U.S. companies are doing when they borrow ever more of their working capital in the rapidly expanding overseas debt markets. Raising money is often cheaper there; so much so that nearly one-fourth of the corporate sector's borrowed money comes from Europe and Asia. This is beneficial because it helps U.S. companies hold down one of their major costs, thus improving the competitiveness of their exports.

But American companies access to foreign scash erodes the traditional power of the Federal Reserve to control the amount and price of credit in the U.S. economy. The power to regulate the amount of money in circulation has long been essential to ward off the twin threats of inflation and recession. It has been decisive to business behavior in the past because little foreign money was available to U.S. companies. They couldn't subvert regulatory policy.

Now there is a serious dilemma. Foreign investment here and U.S. access to foreign credit markets help the economy grow. But they also limit government's ability to stabilize the business cycle. This is one of the unhappy side effects of the rise of a world reconomy with which policymakers have yet to deal. Soon or later they must.

News Censorship

South Africa's newly imposed crackdown on the news media underscores the desperate imeasures to which the government now must resort in its futile bid to suppress opposition.

*History shows that censorship of the press is often the first refuge of illegitimate regimes.

2/The white-minority rulers in Pretoria are late in discovering this fact.

The most tragic aspect of the press restrictions is that they close off yet another means to promote peaceful change. In the past, criticism of the government, as reflected in the press, has served as a safety valve to relieve some of the social pressures bearing down on South Africa as Pretoria seeks to preserve the repugnant policy of apartheid. Increased violence, not less, is likely to be one unintended outcome of the media regulations.

The dracontan new rules are aimed in part at forcing correspondents in the hope of quelling the world's universal condemnation of apartheid. In this respect, too, the increased censorship is likely to backfire. In spurring more demands in capitals around the globe for stronger sanctions against the Pretoria regime.

By enacting the media restraints, the government is attempting to black out all news it regards as being undesirable. The rules make it a crime, punishable by 10 years in prison, to report without government approval on nearly all elements of the country's anti-apartheid movement. It is unlawful now to report such peaceful protest activities as consumer boycotts, rent strikes, and the campaign to free hundreds of children between the ages of 11 and 15 who are being held in political detention. Even publishing remarks against the government by opposition members of Parliament without approval is banned.

The darkening situation in South Africa is aptly described by Peter Soal, an opposition member of Parliament, who calls the censorship "the start of a general crackdown that will destroy what little is left of democracy in this country."

Jack Kemp's Big Opportunity Is Knocking

Vice President Bush's acknowledgment that his own political prospects have been damaged by the Iran/contras controversy only conceded the obvious, but it had the additional advantage of getting Bush off a notorious political hot spot. Being the "front-runner" in a political race makes you everybody's target: other candidates, the media, even the average man in the street (who traditionally loves an underdog). Now, Bush may hope, he will be spared the unenviable distinction of having to lead the whole pack of possible Republican nominees across the next year and a half to the convention.

Almost equally obvious is the extent to which Senate Republican leader Bob Dole has benefited from recent developments. ("Benefited," of course, is a strictly relative term. Republican prospects, in general, of winning the presidential election in 1988 have certainly been diminished by the whole flap.)

If Bush, as President Reagan's close ally and fellow resident of the White House West Wing, is bound to be injured by the general atmosphere that hangs over the mansion today, then Dole.

who is just completing two spectacularly successful years far down at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue, is clearly going to profit from the perception that the Iran/contras controversy had nothing to do with him.

It is however the position of the third major contender (so far) for the 1988 nomination, Rep. Jack Kemp, that is in some ways the most intriguing. Like Dole, Kemp was far from ground zero when the roof fell in at the White House. But, like Bush, Kemp has earned and cultivated a reputation as a gung-ho supporter of the president.

True, Bush did not originally come from the conservative wing of the Republican party, as Kemp did. But Bush is a genuine admirer of the president's and a genuine convert to most if not all of his policies. Until the Iran/contras controversy flared up. Kemp's problem was how to convince the conservatives, who are now so influential in the GOP, that nominating Bush wouldn't give them the best of both worlds: Bush's formidable qualifications, plus a record of support for Reagan's policies as impressive as Kemp's own.

Now, suddenly, conservatives may want to back someone whose support for Reagan Republicanism and conservative principles in, general is beyond dispute, but who just didn't happen to be anywhere near by when the arms deal with Iran was approved and its profits were diverted to the contras.

In the contest to fill that bill. Kemp is probably marginally more convincing to most conservatives than Dole. Bob Dole hasn't got a liberal bone in his body, but he was a Republican politician before there even was a conservative movement, and his relationship to the latter undoubtedly bears more resemblance to Bush's than to Kemp's: He's a convert, but he wasn't born in the church.

Kemp's recent announcement of the formation of an "exploratory committee" to consider whether he ought to run for president (the traditional first step in the process) was all but drowned out by the uproar over Poindexter. North, et al. But Kemp is giving evidence of a grim determination not to back down on the basic Reagan agenda, including the space shield and even aid to the Nicaraguan contras.

13 New Senators Seasoned

By Steve Gerstel

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The thought may roll the gentlemen and gentle ladies of the House, but some of their brightest young stars have been called up to play for the parent club in the coming season.

The House is — and never lets anyone forget — fully equal with the Senate and only a reckless adventurer in words would risk putting down those 435 souls as members of the lower body.

At the same time, every election year shows that the House serves as a farm system for the Senate, sending up seasoned rookies to play in the big time on the other side of the Capitol.

And, as in baseball, almost no one who has tasted life in the Senate goes to the House.

Rep. Claude Pepper, D-Fla., is an exception but he graciously went down only because he couldn't handle some of the stuff thrown at him by George Smathers and lost his seat.

The Senate, already populated by many former members of the House including new majority leader Robert Hyrd, will get a bumper crop Jan. 6 when Congress convenes.

No less than nine of the 13 newcomers are House members or former members. Eight will walk accross the Capitol Jan. 6 and the ninth, Brock Adams of Washington, left the House to serve as transportation secretary under President Carter.

Three of the other four — Robert Graham of Florida, Terry Sanford of North Carolina and Christopher Bond — are governors or former governors and the fourth is Kent Conrad, South Dakota's tax commissioner.

Without question, the House has served as a fine breeding ground for the Senate.

The experience gained in that chamber will enable those new senators who graduated from the House to partake almost immediately in the life of the Senate. They will be voting on the many of the same issues that faced them last year, and do so with some understanding.

That is in sharp contrast to Ronald Reagan's tyros of 1980, many of whom came into the Senate cold.

With their House background, it will not take long for the freshmen senators to assert themselves.

Unlike many of the class of 1980, who spent a long time just finding out where the mens and ladies rooms are, the members of the class of 1986 already know where to go.

Wages Of Corruption

NEW YORK (NEA) — In other cities, the brutal murder of Bruno Bauer might well have been a cause celebre. In New York, however, his slaying went virtually unnoticed — and more than three months later, the crime remains unsolved.

Bauer's body was found last autumn at his work place, a trucking firm in Queens where he was a mechanic. The manner in which he was killed left little doubt that he was the victim of an organized crime execution.

He was shot four times at close range — in the neck, the cheek, the ear and finally "the coup de grace in the back of the head," explained a detective.

Bauer was a member of Teamsters Local 707, which federal law enforcement officials say is controlled by the Colombo organized crime family.

Several months before his death, Bauer filed an unfair labor practice complaint with the National Labor Relations Board, alleging that the trucking company for which he worked was paying him less than the wage agreed upon in its contract with the union.

In addition, Bauer charged that the union had refused to process his grievance and that his union shop steward assaulted him when informed that he was seeking aid from federal authorities.

Bauer also took his charges to the Labor Department's Office of Labor Racketeering and to the Association for Union Democracy, a public interest group.

Bauer's complaint was considered — and rejected — by Local 707 Vice President Nicholas Grancio, identified by witnesses testifying at a labor racketeering trial in federal court as the man who ran the union for the Mafia.

Bauer's slaying is noteworthy because it suggests the price individuals pay for union corruption in a city where special investigative commissions, grand juries, law enforcement agencies and others constantly cite the scope and depth of the problem but little ever happens to ameliorate it.

The New York State Commission on Investigation, for example, cited widespread featherbedding in a 1986 report that described a Teamsters foreman at a major construction project in the city who received $426,000 in salary and benefits in a single year.

In a 1986 report on labor corruption in general, the President's Commission on Organized Crime concluded that "New York construction businesses cooperating with organized crime have formed a cartel, and the union is the enforcing agent."

Companies that accede to corrupt arrangements "can be rewarded with a variety of benefits, such as the use of non-union labor, payments below union scale (Bauer's problem) or merely the assurance that supplies will be delivered when needed," the report added.

Extortion, bribery and sabotage are common. At one large construction project here where "labor peace" was not purchased, concrete was poured into toilets and electrical wiring was ripped from conduits.

But rather than leaving to chance the fate of programs that become obsolete and fall into disuse, Gwen Bell wants to establish the nation's first computer software archive.

"When you try to understand

"When you try to understand ancient Egypt was about you look at the hieroglyphics and people try to interpret them," said Bell, president of The Computer Museum. "Someday people will say, "What was it like at the beginning of software?""

The museum is the only such institution dedicated solely to computers. It already has a wide variety of computer equipment on display tracing the history and development of the fast-evolving machines.

Bell now wants to add the archive to offer an educational and research resource that will give safe refuge to programs and preserve a history of the medium.

"It's the reason you preserve anything. You don't know where you're going unless you can see where you've come from. We do some of our best understanding of the present through analysis of the past," she said.

The archive would be used by people in industry considering new products and by researchers studying the development and history of computers, she said. The archive, which could open by June, could also be useful for untangling legal battles that ensue when programmers claim their ideas have been stolen.

It is important to establish the archive as quickly as possible. Bell said, because programs are quickly being lost as new generations of computers and their accompanying software rapidly replace others.

"There's stuff getting thrown away everyday. Every time you have a new generation of machines, you have a new generation of software," she said.

The museum has already begun gathering some programs, such as the first spread sheet program written in the early 1970s and the program for the first interactive computer game, a 1961 game called "Space War."

The first step is to determine the best way to preserve the programs. The museum commissioned Archives, Libraries and Museum Services, Inc. of Pittsburgh to conduct a $30,000 feasibility study.

New Embassy Causes Safety Dilemma

By Jack Anderson And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The State Department is caught between the devil and the deep blue sea — Lebanese terrorists and the Mediterranean, to be exact.

The department wants to build a new embassy in Belrut to replace the one blown up by a suicide bomber in April 1983. But here's the problem:

If American hardhats with proper security clearances are sent over to do the sensitive job, they'll be just so many more targets for terrorist kidnappers and assassins. It will also send costs sky-high.

On the other hand, if a Lebanese contractor builds the new embassy with cheaper local labor, it will be difficult if not impossible to keep knowledge of the embassy building's vital security arrangements from being leaked to the same breed of bombers responsible for destroying the old embassy.

After weighing the various risks.

the Foreign Buildings Office has decided to go ahead with a Lebanese contractor and exercise such security precautions as it can.

This decision has aroused the spirited criticism of some Democrats on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, soon to regain majority status under chairman Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., a former Foreign Service Officer. These critics have a simple solution for the State Department's dilemma: Don't build a new embassy now. They consider a recent General Accounting Office report, prepared for Sen. Edward Zorinsky, D-Neb., a Foreign Relations Committee member, as ammunition for their proposal to do nothing.

The report is the result of a study done since we disclosed the GAO's earlier concern that blueprints of the proposed embassy were floating around Beirut, easily accessible to any terrorist group willing to put up the $200 or so required for a set.

The blueprints had been distributed to contractors who wanted to bid on the project — and no one knew how many copies had been run off for subcontractors and other interested parties.

In their latest investigation, GAO auditors pointedly asked the Foreign Buildings Office why American workers were not being used.

"Department officials stated that using a Lebanese firm rather than a U.S. firm would limit the presence of Americans in Belrut," the GAO report states. Foreign Buildings Office officials explained to the auditors that they didn't want American construction workers being victims of terrorists. This explanation makes no sense to critics. "We are asking for trouble if we do not feel that a bunch of hardhats would be safe, yet we are ready to send Foreign Service Officers there," one source told our associate Lucette Lagnado. "It is simply crazy for us even to be there. doing work."

But the Foreign Buildings Office decided to go ahead with the new embassy as planned. Since the destruction of the old embassy nearly four years ago, a reduced embassy staff has been operating out of the ambassador's residence in the hills outside East Beirut, in supposedly safer territory than downtown. It is a makeshift arrangement at best, and the new embassy would restore a more fitting U.S. "presence" in the Lebanese capital.

The Lebanese contractor who won the bid in October is to be paid about $3.1 million, though the GAO auditors predict that the project will cost three times that amount before it's finished. The completion date has already slipped from September 1987 to April 1988.

The Foreign Relations Committee is investigating the matter, and Sen. Zorinsky has asked the GAO and the State Department for additional information.

Bucs Ax Bennett

By Ira Kaufman UPI Sports Writer

TAMPA - Leeman Bennett, whose teams recorded consecutive 2-14 seasons in the NFL. was fired Monday as head coach of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers. No replacement was named.

Buccanneer owner Hugh Culverhouse told a packed news conference he struggled over the decision for several weeks and made up his mind just 15 minutes prior to the announcement.

Bennett sat silently to the side of the podium as Culverhouse made the announcement.

"Leeman, it's with deepest regret that I make this decision," Culverhouse said. "I hold you in the highest esteem. I hope we can work something out so we can be together.'

Bennett was completing the second year of a five-year contract.

"This somewhat surprised me this morning," Bennett said in a brief comment. "I'd prefer not to answer any questions at this time. Thank you for your support.'

Bennett then left the room and, as the news moterence continuea, returnea to his office and lest Buccaneers headquarters moments later carrying a briefcase. He walked out with an unlit eigar in his mouth.

Culverhouse said he would notify the National Football League immediately that any team is free to contact any of the coaching staff for possible employment.

"They may be given the opportunity of staying on here when the new coach is named, but the new person will have to make that selection," Culverhouse said.

He said he has not been in contact with anyone concerning the coaching position.

But he said in answer to a question that Alabama Coach Ray Perkins is a potential candidate, although when the two spoke two years ago the former New York Giants coach showed no interest in returning to the NFL.

"I will certainly call him to see if he is interested," Culverhouse said.

Culverhouse said he did not blame Bennett for the team's showing but said he was not "comfortable" that the team was moving in the direction to become a playoff contender.

"I believe that talent is the beginning of a good team. The 1983 and 1984 drafts were not what they should have been, but the parties who are responsible are no longer here." Culverhouse

Bennett joined the Bucs prior to the start of the 1985 season when John McKay retired after nine years as the only coach the Bucs had had.

Heavily-Favored Leto Sneaks Past Patriots, 1-0

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

ORLANDO - Before Monday night's match between upstart Lake Brantley and defending Class 4A champion Tampa Leto got underway. the question asked by most of the 751 fans on hand was not that Leto would win, but by how many goals?

The heavily-favored Falcons, though, had to fight for their lives before coming away with a 1-0 victory over the gutsy Patriots in the semifinals of the Pizza Hut Invitational at Bishop Moore High.

Leto, currently ranked second in the state, moves into tonight's 7:30 final against top-ranked (4A) Miami Killian. The Falcons improved to 6-0 and have yet to allow a goal this season. Lake Brantley now stands at 5-4-1.

Killian advanced with a 4-0 victory over Tallahassee Leon, the third-ranked team in Class 3A, in Monday's first game.

Brantley, behind some rugged defensive play and a spectacular goalkeeping job by Scott McCullough, held the Falcons scoreless until 15 minutes remaining in the match. After Leto scored, the Patriots turned up the offensive heat and put a huge scare into the Falcons as one shot hit the post and another slid just wide of the goal.

"We knew we could play with Leto and we did exactly what we wanted to do." Lake Brantley coach Jim Brody said. "It's a moral victory for us. There's no question about that.'

Leto coach Ray DiPompo said Brantley was the toughest foe the Falcons have encountered this

"Lake Brantley's defense and goalkeeper did a great Job keeping us out of the goal." DiPompo said. "They really played us a tough game, I'm happy with the way our guys played and now we're looking forward to a good game against in front of the Lake Brantley goal as Leto took 12 shots compared to three for the Patriots. But Brantley's air-tight defense, led by Jose Calvino and Henry Brottman, kept Leto from getting off many good shots. When the Falcons did get off a good shot McCullough was there for the save as he had six saves for the half.

While Leto threatened a number of times, the best chance for a goal in the opening half came when Lake Brantley made one of its few offensive charges. With 10 minutes left in the half. Dave Daniel received a long through ball on the left side, dribbled into the open and nailed a left-footed shot that Leto keeper Brett Phillips made a diving save of. Neither team seriously threatened again as the half ended in a 0-0 tie.

"We couldn't crack Lake Brantley in the first half but I told the guys to keep attacking and something would come," DiPompo said. "And I had confidence in our defense because we had not allowed a goal all season. But Lake Brantley did scare us there in the end.'

Leto again was the offensive aggressor early in the second half and the Falcons appeared to finally break the ice less the 10 minutes into the half but the goal was nullified by an offsides call. Leto had another close call when George Fotopoulos ripped a corner kick toward the goal but McCullough made a leaping save.

The Falcons finally broke up the scoreless affair with 15 minutes left. Fotopoulos flung a long throw in in front of the goal which drew McCullough out. Before McCullough could get to the ball, Pat Poff headed it in for a 1-0 Tampa

Leto had another goal nullified by an offsides call with 4:30 remaining and Brantley then went all out on the offensive end in the last four minutes. With four minutes left, Daniel had an open shot but missed putting it inside the far post by inches. One minute later, Pablo Garzon broke into the open and drilled a shot that hit off the left

Brick Takes It Easy, 4 Goals Bury Apopka

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

The first time Oviedo's Lions and Apopka's Blue Darters met this season, Oviedo's Greg Brick pumped in five goals in a 7-2 victory. The Lions and Darters went at it again Monday night and this time Brick took it easy on Apopka — he only scored four goals.

Brick's four goals along with one goal and two assists by Jim Guggenheim led the way as Oviedo crushed the Darters, 5-0, Monday night in the opening round of the Oviedo Christmas Tournament, Oviedo and Orlando Colonial meet In the finals today at 2 p.m.

"It would be nice to win the tournament on our home field," Oviedo coach Dave Jekanoski said, "Colonial has a pretty good team and they do a lot of nice things. But we can beat them if we play our game."

The Lions, who improved to 4-2-1 for the season, played their game almost to perfection Monday night with 25 shots on goal to Apopka's seven and eight corner kicks compared to one for the Darters. Senior goalkeeper Gordon King made 10 saves in recording his first shutout of the season. Oviedo took a 1-0 lead 11 minutes into the match on an unassisted goal by Brick. Brick scored again with 13:26 left in the half on an assist from Tim Walsenen and Oviedo held a 2.0 lead at the half.

The Lions put the Darters away with three goals in the last 20 minutes of play. Brick scored his third goal of the game on Guggenheim's assist and Guggenheim scored on Derek Bates' assist for a 4-0 lead. Brick scored his fourth goal on an other assist from Guggenhelm with 9:01 remaining.

Brick has now scored a Seminole Countyleading 15 goals in seven games while Guggenheim ran his county-leading assist total

Along with the offensive fireworks by Brick and Guggenheim, Jekanoski said Mark McDonald had a solid game on defense and Derek Bates was exceptional at midfield.

Oviedo was without senior midfielder Mike Moody who has shin splints, but Jekanoski said he hopes to have Moody for the tournament finals.

Penn State-Miami Escalates From Battle To War

PHOENIX, Artz. (UPI) - No. 1 Miami and second-ranked Penn State are cagaging in verbal warfare as they prepare for their Jan. 2 Flesta Bowl showdown. "You knew it was going to be a battle before, but now it's going to be a war." Penn State defensive lineman Tim Johnson said Monday as the pre-game verbal exchanges began.

A desert steak fry for the two teams apparently became a rallying point for the Hurricanes after they took exception to some ribbing directed their way by Penn State punter John Bruno.

They (the Hurricanes) are offended at times when we are presented in a negative light," Miami Coach Jimmy Johnson said. "They are offended when someone makes light of their academic work. They are offended when someone makes fun of their head coach."

After Bruno joked about Jimmy Johnson's obsession with having every hair in place, Miami defensive lineman Jerome Brown began the counterat-

"The Japanese didn't eat with Pearl Harbor before they bombed it, so let's get out of here," said Brown, who walked out. The Miami team then followed Brown.

"His (Brown's) history is not very good as far as the results of what happened," said Penn State Coach Joe Paterno, who sought to downplay the entire incident. "Let them have fun. If they want to jive each other a little bit. let them jive each other a little bit. As I understand it, though, they left after they ate. That's a typical football player." Some of Paterno's players, however, did not appear as amused. "I have no comment on all that," defensive lineman Bob White said. "I had a great time and the food was good. We're here to play football. Come Friday, that's what we're going to do. All that other stuff is a waste of time."

Added tailback D.J. Dozier: "What happened, happened. We still have to go out and play the game. I continued to eat my steak. I was hungry."

The incident, however, served to underscore the different images of the two teams as they get set for the game to determine the national college football champion.

Miami is the bold, brash, outrageous team with the uncontrollable players who have a penchant for getting themselves into trouble. Penn State, meanwhile, is a staid, conservative outfit content to remain out of the spotlight.

Jimmy Johnson was quick to point out, however, the Nittany Lions have been involved in several on-the-field skirmishes this season and have drawn a fair share of personal-foul penalties.

"Everybody's got their own image and it's very difficult to change that image," he said. "That image sometimes almost feeds on itself. Penn State may gain strength from its image. I know they have had altercations this season. Our players got a kick out of the fights in the Penn State-Pitt game. But that's not the image of Penn State

But I believe that good football players wherever you are - Penn State, Miami, Norman, Okia. - are aggressive football players and Penn State plays aggressive football and they play it well. Off the field, however, the Nittany Lions wear coats and ties and speak

"We're plain, not flashy," Tim Johnson said. And Miami's Johnson said the Hurricanes may gain from the negative publicity they have received. "This team has gained strength by being totally unified," he said. "There is a oneness about this University of Mismi team right now that I have never seen before.

"You can criticize and you can throw rocks and stones at us all you want. We're going to do it our way and we're going to do it the right way.' The right way, however, is not the same for everybody.

"We have a certain way we've done things for years," Paterno said. "I've tried to make it clear that I'm not saying the way we do it is the way everybody else should do It.

"When you've coached for as long as I have and you've had some success. you're reluctant to get away from what has brought you there. That's the reason I don't go for the stuff that some other people do. But that's not to say they're wrong and we're right.

"But to say they're loose because they do certain things and we're uptight because we're disciplined, that doesn't make sense. You'll see two football teams that are going to play their game Friday night."

USC Defense Gears To Shackle Fullwood

TORLANDO (UPI) - Southern California safety Tim McDonald says his team must stop Auburn running back Brent Fullwood to defeat the Tigers in Thursday's Florida Citrus Bowl.

"We respect every aspect of their offense, but you know you have to concentrate on Fullwood," said McDonald, an All-America who had 120 tackles 7-4 Trojans. "We can't let him run up and down the field. We have to make them pass."

· Fullwood had played in the shadow of the now-departed Bo Jackson in his first three years with Auburn. Jackson is now playing pro baseball and Fullwood is providing Jacksonlike statistics for the Tigers.

Fullwood ran for 1,391 yards and an average of 8.3 yards per rush this season, as Auburn built a 9-2 record. The yardage total is second in the Auburn record book, behind Jackson's 1,786 in 1985.

d'If it's (a starting job) worth Häving, it's worth waiting for it." he said. "I'm still healthy. I'm said. satisfied. I've been injury-free; that's the biggest part."

MIAMI (UPI) — The biggest problem Arkansas prankster Tony Cherico faces is what to do for an encore.

Cherico, a 4-foot, 239-pound nose tackle, has performed practical lokes on many teammetes and has distinguished himself by living one year with a boa constrictor named Agnes and dating Lesli Akers. daughter of former Texas Coach and current Purdue coach Fred

"Everyone's been asking me what's next?" Cherico said as the No. 10 Razorbacks, 9-2, prepared for Thursday's Orange Bowl game against third-ranked Oklahoma, 10-1. "Every year I come and there's something else I've done. I've made more publicity off the field than I think I have on the field. I don't know if that's good.
"I guess I might play football next year and get some press from football. I think I'll surprise everyone and try to do it."

He's done that quite well in his three years with the Razorbacks. Cherico had 66 fackles this year, as well as four passes defensed and an Interception when he dropped off Into pass coverage as part of Arkansas' three-deep zone. He's been selected to the All-Southwest While Cherico, of Shawnee Mission, Kan., doesn't have the bulk of most nose tackles, he overcomes the lack of size with speed and quickness, making him just the type of player Coach Ken Hatfield's defense calls for. "I'm small," Cherico said. "I fif the mold for what they're looking for in our defensive scheme. They want small and quick guys, with some explosion. Our slogen is we never went to give up quickness and speed for size. We're very successful with that."

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Nebraska Ceach Tem Osberne, whose fearm remained intact following NCAA-initiated drug tests, says players should be tested for steroid use.

"There is no question that If (steroid use) is physically hermful," seld Coberne, whose teem plays in Thursday's Super Bowl against Louisiane State. "As a cardiac petient, I know a little bit about that (steroids). If lan't semething that shows up right away, If takes time. From the heart ettacks you see in the late '20s and early '30s, If has been a definite factor when steroids have been involved."

LSU may less defensive and Roland Barbay, who is seeking an injunction to allow him to play.

Osberne seld the Cornhusters are in their third year of testing for steroids and "fortunately, we did not have anybody to test positive this year."

The No. 5 Cornhusters, 9-2 with losses to No. 3 Oklahoma and

The No. 5 Cornhusters, 9-2 with losses to No. 3 Okiahoma and Celerado, were rated 5-point feverites over No. 6 LSU, 9-2 with losses to Miami of Okia and Mississippi.

"We're starting to look forward to the game," Osborne said. "Our practices have been good and our injury situation has been so so.

"There's not much we can say about (1-back) Kelth Jones (Nobraska's teading rusher with 830 yards and 14 TDs). He's still a little bit sore (high bruise), but I think it would be a reasonable assumption he will play.

"(Cornerback) Charles Fryar's mother passed away two days ago and he went home, but he'll probably be back in time for the game. Other than that, we have got just a two negging-type injuries."

LSU Ceach Bill Arnegarger said the Tigers are "retartively healthy. (Linebacker) Teby Caston hvisted his times in one of our scrimmages while we were home. He's working out but he's questionable — on while we were home. He's working out but he's questionable — on the positive side, I hope."

Arnsparger said all he knows about Barbay's situation is "what I saw in the paper. All I know is that I've been told he's ineligible and we've worked along those lines."

Holiday Bowl

SAN DIEGO (UPI) - Historians of the Holiday Bowl will note seven of its eight games have been decided by 7 points or fewer. Sar Diego State hopes the trend continues tonight when it plays the lowal Hawkeyes before a sellout crowd at Jack Murphy Stadium. In 1979, Indiana edged Brigham Young, 36-37. The following year.

Southern Methodist with a fast-second desperation pass. And last year, Arkansas nipped Arizona State 16-17 with a field goal just 21 seconds from the end. The 8-3 Aztecs, the surprise champions of the Western Athletic Conference, say a close game will be to their advantage.

"We've picked up a knack for interesting finishes," San Diego
State safety Steve Lauter said.

The Aztecs have won by margins of 1, 3, 4, 5 and 7 points (7 on three occasions) this season. Probably their two biggest victories came against Colorado State — when they scored the winning touchdown with two seconds left for a 27-36 victory — and against BYU, serning a 10-3 victory and their first postsesson appearance since the 1969 Pasadena Bowl

Meanwhile, two of the Hawkeyes' three losses were decided by a San Diego State's first conference championship may have earned the WAC some recognition as a league comprised of teams other han BYU and Air Force. "If there's a WAC team that's $-3, and a Big Ten team that's $-5 goes to a bowl game instead, that really bothers me," Aztecs Coach The Big Ten Hawkeyes are here after an 8-3 season filled with injuries. "Our lineup has been makeshift all year, and I have never had as many second- and third-learners step into starting roles and do the job," Hawkeyes Coach Hayden Fry said.

One of those replacements is freshman quarterback Tom Poholsky, who took over when fifth-year senior Mark Vlasic suffered a separated shoulder in the third week of the season. Vlasic, however, reversed roles with Poholsky in the 30-27 victory over Minnesota Nov. 22 — he came on in relief to lead the Hawkeyes back from a 17 0 deficit.

Freedom Bowl

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) - When the season began, the chances of UCLA and Brigham Young playing in the Freedom Bowl was as likely as, well, BYU becoming a running feam.
"Very frankly, we're a better running feam right now," said
Cougars Coach LaVell Edwards on the eve of his feam's game

ht against No. 15 UCLA at Anaheim Stadium. The Cougars, who traditionally win the Western Athletic Conference, slumped to 8-4 this season and finished second to San Diego State. The Bruins were among the preseason favorites for the national title but finished 7-3-1, fied for second in the Pacific-10

BYU averaged 168 yards on the ground and threw for 282 yards this season. It's a school where Jim McMahon threw for 47 fouchd during a season in which he averaged more than 370 yards.

Fifth-year wide receiver Mark Bellini attributed the dropoff to an Inexperienced quarterback. Steve Lindsley, and a young offensive line. Lindsley has since been replaced in the starting lineup by sophomore Bob Jensen. "Those guys (offensive linemen) needed to play together, and it took us a while to click," Bellini said.

Bellini lauded the performances of fullback Lakel Helmuli and haltback Robert Parker, whom he called the best tandem he's Bruins Coach Terry Donahue, whose team has won four straight bowl games and is a two-touchdown favorite, said his team will be at a strength disadvantage. "UCLA will try to match its speed and quickness against a BYU team that is much stronger and physical," Donahue said.

The Cougars' massive defensive line, anchored by 270-pound Outland Trophy winner Jason Buck, held opponents to an average of 88 rushing yards, sixth-best in the nation.

Bowden: Matchup Is Strong

BIRMINGHAM. Ala. (UPI) -Florida State and Indiana may not appear impressive on paper. but Seminole Coach Bobby Bowden says both teams could have had much better records given a few breaks.

"With just a little luck, we both could have won three more games," Bowden said at a news conference Monday. "A kick here or a touchdown there could have made a big difference."

All American Bowl officials have been criticized for their selection of Florida State and Indiana -- which both ended on losing notes - and the game has failed to attract the attention of ticket-buyers at the two schools.

Indiana had a 6-3 record before closing the regular season with a five-point loss to Illinois and a four-point loss to Purdue.

Florida State comes into the New Year's Eve game at 6-4-1 with losses to No. 1 Miami, No. 4 Michigan, No. 5 Nebraska and intrastate rival Florida. But Bowden says the records are deceiving.

"For three quarters when we played Miami, it was hard to say who was best. Then they showed us." Bowden said of his team's 41-23 loss to the Hurricanes. They had the same thing happen to them against Ohio State."

In addition to the losses to Illinois and Purdue, Indiana also lost 24-22 to the Buckeyes. 19-17 to Minnesota and 38-14 to Michigan, Hoosier Coach Bill Mallory said the game with Michigan, which defeated Florida State 20-18, could be a warning of what lies ahead for Indiana.

"I felt all along that Michigan was the best team in our conference and they (Florida State) could have won that ball game." Mallory said.

While Florida State is a twotouchdown favorite, Indiana may have a psychological edge. For Florida State, making its eighth bowl appearance in the last nine years, the season was a disappointment.

Arra II Captures Jai Alai's Triple Crown

FERN PARK - Arra II made a clean sweep of all individuals awards, picking up five different trophies including the triple crown in a closing-night awards ceremony Monday before 2,941 fans at the Orlando-Seminole Jai-Alai Fronton.

The impressive frontcourt master was called dominating by Assistant General Manager Santi Echaniz. "He's the best," Santi said. "If you look at the games, when you've got so much up and down movement within the players, it makes it easier for a player like Arra to win so many

"If you maintain your grade for most of the season, it will help you to win. Arra is one of the heat players here, but if not for the classifications. there is no way he will win 150 games like he did."

manager (Atano) was drawing the post positions," Santi said. "If you can imagine a player of Arra's caliber playing out of one, two, or three, it's like giving him the game.

Among the individual honors managed by Arra were most times in the money, most singles wins, most overall wins, most victories among frontcourters in the featured doubles match, and most doubles wins. Tomas tied Arra in most doubles wins with 106, and Angel was awarded a trophy for most wins among backcourters in the featured doubles, but Arra was not in a position to win that award.

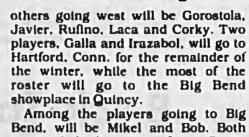

Arra's final numbers were impressive. He finished in-the-money 328 times. Of those finishes, 144 were wins. Arra II was the victory 28 times in the featured singles matches, and 25 different occasions he paired successfully with a partner to win the featured doubles match. As mentioned above, he also won 106 other doubles game.

Arra also took win Jai-Alai's triple crown in sweeping the awards. To do so, he had to capture the overall wins title, the featured singles title, and the top winner in the featured doubles match. It is the second time in three years that Arra has completed the three way sweep. Galla won the triple crown a year ago.

Along with five of his contemporaries, Arra will now head to Tampa for the opening of the Tampa World Jai-Alai fronton on Jan. 9. The Bend, will be Mikel and Bob. Both received high praise from Santi. "Mikel is the smartest player I ever saw," Santi said. "If Arra new only 25 per cent of what Mikel knows out there, he would be the world champion. Mikel is a big crowd favorite in

"Also, Bob had a good season this year," Santi added. "He was probably the best back courter we had for the first two months, until the knee injury slowed him down."

Before returning to Orlando in August of '87, many of the players will return to Spain to play for the three month between the seasons

TWIN TRI-UMPHS - Two lucky winners managed to tap the Twin-Trifecta on Saturday to the tune of $26,888 each, thus taking some of the suspense out of the final performance on Monday. The Pic-Six however, seem to provide enough excitement for the nearly 3,000 on hand. One person picked five of six correct winners in games six through 11, and collected $51,315.40. Since it was the last performance of the season, all carry-overs were in a forced payoff situation, and no-one was correct in picking all six winners.

The Twin-Trifecta stumped bettors in the second half of the two race format, so all winners with exchange tickets from game eight were awarded $138.50 each. The Superfecta provided one winner with 3136.20. The total money wagered on the evening, according to Mutuels Manager Jim "Buzz" Bussard, was $284,204.

Echaniz said Arra II's dominance was well-documented. "The first two months the player PARIMUTUELS

Flawless Stars & Stripes Sails To Third Win Over Rival U.S.A.

FREMANTLE, Australia (UPI) — Dennis Conner's Stars & Stripes sailed a flawless race in blustery winds today for its third straight victory in the America's Cup challenger semifinals, defeating Tom Blackaller's U.S.A. by 2 minutes, 23 seconds.

In the other challenger race, New Zealand railled on the last leg to defeat a greatly improved French Kiss by 13 seconds, after French skipper Marc Pajot had led over five legs. With the two boats colliding on the final stretch, both Pajot and Kiwi helmsman Chris Dickson unfurled their red flags, leaving the blame for the incident to the international jury overseeing the challenger series.

Conner, 3-0, and Dickson each need only one more victory in their best-of-seven series to wrap up the two final berths. Both Blackaller, 0-3, and Pajot have to win four straight races to qualify for the Jan. 13 best-of-seven series. The winner is to face the top Australian defender in the Cup showdown scheduled to begin Jan. 31.

Beaten in light, medium and heavy air, Blackaller watched supporters of his longtime San Diego adversary cheer Stars & Stripes over the finish line for the third day in a row, dropping the San Francisco Twelve's tally to 2-3 overall against 1983 Cup loser Conner.

Schottenheimer Top UPI Coach

CLEVELAND (UPI) - When summing up his coaching philosophy, Marty Schottenheimer believes in keeping matters simple.

"The goal of everybody on the Cleveland Browns is to win the Super Bowl," he said early this season. "Understanding that, all we have to do each week is what must be done - find a way to win."

The Browns managed a team-record 12 such ways during the 1986 regular season, finishing with an AFC-best 12-4 record and winning the AFC Central Division for the second straight year.

For his success, Schottenheimer was voted UPI's AFC Coach of the Year. In balloting by 56 media representatives. Schottenheimer received 28 votes to win comfortably over New England's Raymond Berry and New York's Joe Walton, who tied for second with 9 votes each. They were followed by Kansas City's John Mackovic with 6. Denver's Dan Reeves with 3 1-2 and Tom Flores of the Raiders with 1-2.

Kentucky Leaps To No. 9 In Poll

NEW YORK (UPI) - Kentucky, following an 85-51 romp over cross-state rival Louisville, today jumped nine spots to No. 9 in United Press International's Board of Coaches college basketball ratings. Nevada-Las Vegas received 26 first-place votes and 539 oints to earn the No. 1 ranking for the fourth straight week. Purdue, earning four No. 1 votes, was second with 487 points, as only 37 of the 42 board members voted.

North Carolina, received six first-place votes and moved up a notch to No. 3, flipping positions with Iowa, which drew one No. 1 ballot and slipped to No. 4. Indiana and Auburn also traded positions as the Hoosiers took over No. 5 and the Tigers No. 6.

Buckeyes, Gators Post Triumphs

HONOLULU (UPI) - Keith Wesson tipped in a missed field goal at the buzzer of overtime Monday to give Ohio State a 79-78 victory over No. 11 Kansas in a consolation game of the Rainbow Classic.

The Buckeyes, 8-3, will meet Florida, which routed Hawaii, 115-83, for the losers' bracket title Tuesday.

In another consolation game, Vernon Maxwell scored 34 points and Andrew Moten added 19 to lead No. 19 Florida past Hawail.

The Gators, 9-2, went on a 24-4 run in the first half as Moten hit two 3-point field goals during the run to give Florida a 34-14 lead with 10:34 left in the first half.

Pearson's 32 Pace Jax Victory

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) - Danny Pearson scored a career-high 32 points Monday night to lead Jacksonville to a 90-80 victory over George Washington.

Pearson made 9 of 12 shots from the field, including 2 3-point baskets and made all 12 of his free throws. Ronnie Murphy added 23 points for the Dolphins, 4-5. Mott Daniel and Max Blank each scored 14 points for the lead they never surrendered. UCF (2.7) kept it close until a 12-point Tennessee run broke the game open midway through the first half. Nix keyed the burst with two slam dunks and a pair of free throws and Tennessee led at the half, 46-27.

Rebounding was the difference as the Vols consistently beat the outmanned Knights to the boards and denied them second shots, while scoring 12 points of their own off the offensive glass.

Junior forward Stan Halthcock led UCF with 17 points while Nix led all rebounders with 12.

Driving the Bent Oak Golf Club Pontiac, young Stan Eads came out on top of a tough battle involving Lee Faulk, veteran Eastern Airlines pilot Tommy Duckworth, ARCA Rookle of the Year Mark Gibson and Orlando firefighter Frank Wood, with the five hard chargers running in that order at the finish.

In Florida to spend the holfdays with his family, Gibson was at the wheel of Roger Boone's No. 44. Boone was scheduled to drive the car, but bad weather forced him to turn his plane around and go back to Miami.

All these drivers and many more are expected to compete in the Fourth Annual "Red Eve 100" Late Model Championship

Seminole, however, turned to sophomore Bellamy to thwart the first charge early in the fourth quarter. Bellamy, a 6-2 forward, dropped two free throws and then played give-and-go, finding Henderson for a layup. After a Henderson tip-in, Parker found Bellamy wide open underneath for another hoop and a 75-61 lead with 5:30 to play.

I was a little more nervous when I was starting. I realize I'm just a sophomore and the other guys have been helping me out a lot."

Hawthorne's last charge came with 4:20 to play when Henry Slater put back a rebound to cut the deficit to 76-69. Walker, though, scored underneath and 30 seconds later. Whitney hit a jumper and Parker added a two-handed jam off a swift outlet from Walker to push the lead to 82-71.

"We started to play really well," Whitney said. "The last two games have been two of our best ones this season. We're all looking forward to staying here another night." And one more after that.

Stocks Open Lower

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 18,28 Monday, was down 5.77 to 1906.35 shortly after the market opened.

If the stock market plans to end 1986 with even the smallest raily, there was no sign of it Monday as prices slid in dull trading, pressured by weak bond prices and profit-taking among blue chips. Bond prices fell on inflation fears engendered by higher crude oil prices and a weak dollar. Weakness in bonds spread to stock index futures contracts, which sold at discounts to their cash indexes, prompting arbitrageurs to buy the futures and sell the equities.

Analysts said the week likely will be a quiet one, dominated by tax-law selling and other end-of-quarter portfolio adjustments.

"You get an eerie feeling trying to explain this market." said Monte Gordon, research director of Dreyfus Corp. "The seasonal factors are so strong that you're out of touch with economic and even technical realities. You can't look at the trading action and extrapolate from it any significant

Church avenues, it was donated to the city in 1938 by Christ Episcopal Church. City Attorney Ann Colby negotiated with the diocese and although she said a 30-year state statute of limitations was applicable, she recommended paying the $125,000 asked by the church to quiet title and avoid more costly litigation and delay.

David Gunter and a group of Longwood residents sued seeking a halt on construction and Sun Bank and the bond counsel refused to close on the loan until confusion over the title and the sulf against the city were cleared up. A city ordered delay in construction would have faced an $800 a day penalty.

Gunter asked for damages against the city officials and the building contractor of $5,000 plus costs and attorneys fees. Later he asked the judge to negate the agreement between the city and the diocese. In an emergency hearing in August. Circuit Judge Dominick J. Saifi refused to halt construction and he had not made a final hearing when the city against the city was withdrawn after the commissioners publically admitted their error and each paid the city treasury a $1.

The police station became a campaign issue during the Dec. 2 city election and may have been a factor in the defeat of the two incumbents, Commissioner Perry Faulkner and Mayor Larry Goldberg. Faulkner was defeated by Lynette Dennis in the District 3 three-way race, which also included Irene Campbell. Gunter defeated Goldberg 627 to 410 for District 5 in the Dec. 16 run-off election. Bill Mitchell was eliminated in the Dec. 2 election.

Twenty-two percent of the 4,730 registered voters turned out in both elections.

Dennis and Faulkner are to be sworn in Jan. 5.

The voters also passed 19 amendments to the city charter. which will become effective in 1989. Elections will be moved from the first Tuesday in December to the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November and run-off elections will be eliminated except in the case of a tie. If only one candidate qualifies for a commission seat they will not have to be on the ballot, but will be elected automatically.

The City Commission, working to correct sewer problems at Columbus Harbour and Skylark package sewage treatment plants, borrowed $2.5 million to build the proposed 600,000 gallons per day Grant Street Plant and install a $200,000 force main from Columbus Harbour to Skylark, Plans, engineering and tests on the Grant Street project cost almost $200.000.

However, the city has opted to Dellona go a different route and has negotiated and approved an agreement with Seminole County to hook into the county sewer system. The county has also approved the agreement.

Longwood hired its first professional city administrator in March. Ron Waller. 47-year-old city manager of the borough of Schulykill, Pa., replaced acting city manager (and police chief) Greg Manning in April. He was hired at $40,000 a year. Another first, was the hiring of 33-yearold Ann Colby, assistant city attorney for Orlando, July 7 as the first full-time city attorney. She was hired at $45,000 a year (with benefits this was about $56,000) and a stipulation it be increased to $48,000 after 90 was defeated on a technicality and the parcel's former owner filed an $28 million counter claim against the city. Although Sanford had also negotiated to purchase the site, the county made its its owner, Heathrow developer Jeno Paulucci, a better offer.

Yankee Lake litigation was accompanied with numerous cross accustations by the governments' attorneys, administrators and commissioners. At one point last winter, Sanford and Seminole officials were swapping verbal jabs on almost a daily basis, while their attorneys were filing countercharges to bolster legal positions.

Respective counsel for the county and Paulucci were able to capitalize on a weakness in the in April. A judge agreed with the attorneys' charge that Sanford commissioners violated city code during the special meeting they called to authorize the condemnation, and therefore their sult was invalid.

The decision was rendered by the fifth judge assigned the case. His court convened in Rockledge, after four Seminole County Circuit Court predecessors excused themselves when they found out who the players were.

Paulucci subsequently dropped his $28 million claim against the city, filed for Sanford's alleged contractual inteference of his purchase agreement with the county. Seminole paid $7.5 million for the site and threw in a number of sewage treatment and disposal perks for Paulucci's Heathrow development. The city's offer was $6.3 million. Subsequently the purchase has been question by two area businessmen who have asked for investigation by state and federal authorities charging the land was purchased illegally.

After the loss, Sanford moved to sites it already owns for wastewater disposal, while the county continues plans for a treatment plant and disposal system at Yankee Lake.

Growth continued to dominate commissioners' deliberations and prompted their purchase of a site west of the city for a new fire station. Sanford's growth through border expansion was also challenged by Seminole County, which filed suits in attempt to win back a number of unincorporated county parcels the city annexed in 1986. The litigation has yet to be resolved.

Commissioners' advisory boards spoke their minds in 1986, at times with controversial results. Code enforcement board members came down hard on one of the senior-care operations city's sult to secure its dismissal by imposing a $250-a-day fine against its owner. The fine. maximum allowed by city law. was frozen at $4,000 while city staff looks into the possible zoning revisions that would legalize the operations. The board's decision to level the fine raised an outcry from some community members and prompted three code board members to resign. Two subsequently reconsidered and returned to the board.

The city's Scenic Improvement Board also raised a few eyebrows when accusations were made that the advisory body was directing the city crews that implement its beautification projects. The board was also tled to a negative employee evaluation City Manager Frank Falson gave Parks and Recreation Department Director Jim Jernigan, who's been with the city 26 years.

Commissioner Milton Smith proposed the resignation of board chairman Sara Jacobson in response to charges the SIB was overstepping its authority. The charges were made by Smith, Farr and one of the SiB's members.

The resignation proposal was not supported by a commission majority. Instead, the SIB was directed to evaluate itself, in terms of whether or not any of its members have gone beyond their advisory capacities while promoting city beautification. Results of the review will be sent to commissioners once it's completed.

In Sanford, no special plans are made to enforce the law, said Sanford Police Chief Steve Har-"We'll enforce it as we enforce any other traffic law," he said.

The Florida Highway Patrol will begin "aggressively enforceing" Florida's seat belt law after a six-month grace period ends New Years Day, Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles director Leonard

Mellon sald Monday. The law, which requires drivers and front seat passenger in most moving vehicles to buckle up, actually went into effect on July 1. But the law allowed a six-month grace period during which offenders received only a verbal warning. It also can only be enforced if the vehicle is stopped for some reason other than non-seatbelt

"The Highway Patrol will begin on Thursday to issue tickets without exception to those who ignore the law," Mellon said at a morning news conference. "Our intention is not to hassle the motoring public, but to develop a lasting awareness of the law."

Mellon said that in 1984, the last year for which figures are available, 862 people died in Florida traffic accidents who might have survived had they been wearing safety belts. Belts also would have greatly reduced the incapacitating injuries suffered by more than 13,000 Floridians that year, Mellon said.

Under the law, drivers will be responsible for buckling their own belt as well as the belt of any front seat passenger under 16 years old. Older front scat passengers must buckle their own belt or face the $20 fine.

There are some exemptions from the law, including school bus passengers, newspaper delivery drivers, motorcyclists. drivers or passengers in trucks or vehicles of 5,000 pounds or more, such as tractor-trailers. motor homes and recreational vehicles, and drivers or passengers who have a valid medical reason to not buckle up, said Lt. Dear

I am now a grown adult with a respectable job, which requires that I travel occasionally back to my hometown on business. I have a good reputation among my coworkers, but here's the problem: I have a couple of old "friends" in my hometown who always have to say in a crowd. "Oh, I knew him back when ..."

not particularly proud of. The reaction of others ra from raised eyebrows to obvious surprise. How do I handle a situation like that? I've tried to get the message across that that was a long time ago, but they don't seem to want to give up and then they recite a story I'm their irritating antics. What's a respectable comeback, and how can I get these "friends" to stop?

IRRITATED

DEAR IRRITATED: Take these "friends" aside and privately tell them seriously and carnestly that their constant dredging up of past incidents of which you are not particularly proud causes you embarrassment, and you wound consider it an act of kindness if they would not do it again. Let them know that you are serious. I am request. But if they don't, then pointedly avoid, whenver possible, these mean-spirited (and probably envious) "friends."

DEAR ABBY: Do you want to hear the joke of the century? I'm 39 years old, 5 feet 8 and weigh 155 pounds. My husband, Archie, is 53 years old, he's exactly my height and weighs 165 pounds. Here's the clincher. He recently got an invitation to his high school class reunion and he says he is not taking me unless I lose 20 pounds!

I have been to his other class reunions and I was always the youngest and slimmest wife there. I didn't know a soul, and was bored stiff while Archie spent the whole time talking about old times with all his high school friends.

Should I tell him to go himself? Or should I try to lose 20 pounds in three weeks? MIFFED IN D.C.

DEAR MIFFED: Since when is a person's weight a factor in such matters? If you want to go to his reunion, go. But if I had a husband who ignored me while he talked to only his old friends.

I'd stay home. (P.S. Your weight is your business.)

DEAR ABBY: Several years ago you printed a letter from a mother writing about her child who had learning disabilities and where to go for help. You referred her to the Association for Children and Adults with Learning Disabilities (ACLD).

betting they will respect your column generated tens of thousands of letters to the association. The ACLD responded by informing the parents where to go for help. As a volunteer, I helped to sort and answer those letters. At the time, services for the older adolescents and young adults were virtually nonexistent. This situation exists today with a few exceptions. Yet, learning disabilities are a lifelong handicapping condition and. without services, they present those with the condition from exercising an inherent right that of independent living. These children, as adults, become consumers of society rather than providers - a needless waste of human resources. There is hope. A program started just three years ago for young adults with learning disabilities is proving to be highly !successful. Over 90 percent who finish move on into independent living. Abby, I hope you will think this is important enough to pass on to your readers, so that those with learning disabilities will ... know that even as adults, they, too, can succeed and live independently. A FRIEND IN PHOENIX

DEAR FRIEND: I share your enthusiasm for this wonderful program. Readers, information on this program and others like it can be obtained by writing to ACLD Inc., 4156 Library Road, Pittsburgh, Pa. 15234. As this is a non-profit organization, please enclose $1 to cover printing.

Ban On Hiring Smokers Fires Up Legal Observers

By Haribar Krishnan UPI Business Writer

DALLAS (UPI) - Employers are increasingly refusing to hire smokers, a practice that has Incensed some law school professors, who say the policy can be an invasion of privacy if it extends beyond the workplace.

Legal observers said such discrimination is especially severe in small businesses.

The experts do not question the right of employers to ban on-the-job smoking. What is happening, they said, is that companies are refusing to hire people who smoke anywhere. even only at home.

"There is really no law that says an employer has to hire a smoker, but outright discrimination is a bad idea," said Mark A. Rothstein of the University of Houston Law Center. "There is no case law on this, but if employers start firing smokers arbitrarily, they could face lawsuits."

Employers see the issue in terms of the steep rise in the cost of health and other business Insurance and feel these considerations must take precedence over other issues.

The Office of Technology Assessment, an independent agency of Congress, has estimated smoking costs businesses about $65 billion annually in health insurance, fire insurance, absenteeism and maintenance costs. The yearly cost per employee ranges between $300 and "If this continues, employers may ask the employee to undergo urinalysis or polygraph tests to see if he had been smoking at home,' Rothstein said.

"Employers in the future may refuse to hire people who are overweight, ride motorcycles or indulge in hazardous hobbies like scuba diving. We may even have genetic tests to determine if an employee is predisposed to any disease."

Rothstein said laws governing fire and police departments in about 20 states say that if an employee suffers from a heart or lung disease, the illness is presumed to be work-related and therefore compensable.

"Some of these departments, therefore, are trying to avoid paying health claims by simply refusing to hire smokers. The same concern is the primary motivation for private-sector employers as well to refuse to hire smokers.

"We are going to start seeing legal attacks coming from current employees who are fired. It may be some time before we get lawsuits from applicants who are not hired. Employers should be careful before they implement across-theboard bans on hiring smokers."

Bernard Dushman, assistant dean of Yale Law School who is doing pioneering research on the smoking issue, said the issue is related to constitutional questions being raised over compulsory drug testing.

"It is an insidious attempt on the part of employers to determine what is healthy for the employee. Because they control the power of the job, the employers can demand an employee not smoke as a condition of employment. The underlying problem is to what extent ought an employer control the private lives of his employees." Dushman said.

"We know and health studies show people who are recently divorced have more health problems than those who are married. Can we then not have situations where employers will dictate a divorce will lead to job dismissal? To take another example, we know heavy ingestion of cholesterol leads to heart attack. So an employer can say that as part of the employment conditions, there will be no butter for the employee. You can see this type of small-scale tyranny all over the place."

Dushman said the smoking problem's implications should be recognized immediately before it gets out of hand. "This is a time of high unemployment, and an employer can pick and choose his employees, and in this context the ability of the employer to control the private activities of the employees can led to abuse.

A spokesman for the American Medical Association, which is conducting a vigorous campaign against smoking, said the group is aware of the problem of employers refusing to hire smokers but has not taken a stand on the issuc.

Dushman said in Oklahoma City, an applicant for a fireman's job signed a pledge that he would not smoke after he was hired. Three months after he got the job, the fireman was seen smoking in an out-of-town restaurtant. The incident was reported, and he was dismissed.

The applicant sued, but a federal court upheld the dismissal. He has appealed that ruling to the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

"These cases are occurring in the private sector as well, but you don't see it because there is no legal basis for attacking it at this point." Dushman said. "It is not easy to fight these restrictions.

"The First Amendment will not work because the constitutional protection is limited only against governmental interference. You also can't seek protection under anti-discrimination laws because they are restricted to race, sex, national origin, religion and age." Dushman said some legal experts are trying to bring the issue under laws protecting the handicapped. But he said the contention that a smoking habit is a handicap "has not gone far yet. Smokers face a tough road ahead."

Holiday Hate Mail Attacks Press Corps

WASHINGTON (UPI) - When President Reagan told Time magazine in an interview earlier this month "there is a bitter bile in my throat" about press coverage of the Iran scandal. It seems he was speaking for a lot of Americans.

The White House press corps has been receiving a flood of mail this holiday season almost all negative, most of it profane and none in the spirit of good will.

There is always a certain amount of "nut mail" addressed to reporters or "The White House Press Corps" - the kind written in crayon and charging that the CIA is using the author's brain to transmit radio messages to a foreign power.

But the current glut of Christmas greetings from the public differs from past surges brought about by big news stories because for the most part, writers are stating their cases in a somewhat literate fashion and signing their names.

Here is a Yuletide sampling of mail addressed to the White House press and thus X-rayed for dangerous objects by the Secret Service. Names are being withheld. -"Why don't you clowns stop your witch hunt over the arms sale to Iran? The president has my support, and I have informed him of that fact." Oklahoma City, Okla. -"You should be ashamed of yourselves!! ...

Doing your job does not include being rude ... I do not need to be informed to this extent ... Please mend your ways." - Newport Beach, Calif. -"The fact that the media slants, under-reports, omits and distorts instead of reporting all facts in a balanced way to the public makes them a real enemy of the U.S." — Memphis. Tenn. -"To use the word mildly, you people all stink

... Pres. (Reagan) tried to get hostages home. Is this a crime? So some arms were traded - so what? We are trying to keep commies out of S. Amer." - Terre Haute, Ind.

-"Merciful Heavens, how long are we going to have to listen to the news media rant and rave and foam at the mouth over the Reagan administration's sale of arms to Iran?" Opelika, Ala.

-"Sirs: You jackasses have caused five hostages to be kept in captivity by terrorists ... All I can say to you jackals is 'Get Lost!!!" - Anonymous.

—"The liberal lynch-mob orgyists are alive and have an orgasmic issue at last. Each new revelation generates another media orgasm. Ain't 'sho biz' grand!" - Hilton Head Island, S.C.

-"We wish we had a button on our TV that we could press and have your camera bounce billiard balls off your head when you start Irresponsible babbling. One more thought: We wish you would get your free ticket to Siberia." — Emmitsburg, Md. go to Russia and criticize that government and

One letter in the mailsacks, while not commenting on the press, did seem to go against the flow. attacking Reagan and immigrants in one swipe.

Addressed originally to "Donald Regan, Assistant President," the Tampa, Fla., writer copied the press in, saying:

The Imports from Cuba and South America are telling us Natives that if we don't like Reagan we should go back to Russia. If Reagan resigns or is impeached, I don't think he will have difficulty finding a job in South America ... Tip O'Neill said Reagan is the least knowledgeable president he ever knew. Does this mean he is the dumbest president he has ever known?"

Gunter Names HMO Task Force

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter today announced the creation of a state task force to review Florida regulations covering health maintenance organizations.

A spokeswoman from Gunter's office said the panel will determine whether current regulations ensure HMOs deliver the quality of care they advertise to the 1 million Floridians who use the

The task force will be led by Dr. Peter Levin. dean of the College of Public Health at the University of South Florida. Other members will represent the university and the departments of Insurance and Health and Rehabilitative Services.

which share oversight of HMOs. 'There isn't a real clear breakdown of who is responsible to regulate quality of care," said Insurance spokeswoman Sandra Fish.

With HRS chronically understaffed, Fish said, "we've realized we have to have some vehicle set up to make sure (HMOs) deliver the care they are supposed to."

HMOs provide their members with an array of medical services for a fixed annual cost. Some members have complained they were shuttled from doctor to doctor but never received the proper medical treatment. Others have complained of problems receiving care when they felt they were entitled to it. Fish said the task force will hold its first meeting in Tampa on Dec. 30. Its charge is to: -Review the regulatory framework and compare it to other states. -Determine the feasibility of establishing quality of care standards for HMOs. -Recommend strategies for public education and consumer education to make members aware of their rights under the plans.

DEAR READER - Mineral water is just that: water with some additional minerals. The mineral content varies from brand to brand, and some brands are quite high in sodium - so choose carefully if you have to limit your sait intake. Soda may taste better, but it contains additives - such as sugar or artificial sweeteners, food coloring and acids - that we could do without, and it isn't nutritious. On the other hand, fruit juices do have some nutritional value and contain vitamins.

If you're thirsty - but have to watch your waistline - drink 10 Depraved plain water. If you want a little 12 Author Gardner pick-me-up, fruit juice is better 14 WWII area than soda. In my opinion.

DEAR DR. GOTT - MY husband, 56, was told that he 17 Brown has emphysema in the early stages and should stop smoking. He still smokes two packs a day. What effect will the smoking have on him?

DEAR READER - The combination of emphysema and smoking will lead to progressive difficulty in breathing, chronic 30 Small island bronchitis, a nagging cough. intolerance to exercise, heart disease and - as a final payoff lung cancer. Patients with emphysema who continue to smoke should have their heads examined. They are in for real future

DEAR DR. GOTT - I recently took a so-called "gall-bladder flush." This consists of eating no solids and drinking 8 oounces of apple juice every hour for two days. On the evening of the second day, I followed directions and drank 8 ounces of olive oil and the juice of two lemons, went straight to bed and lay on dangerous? DEAR READER - This "home remedy" is not dangerous, but it certainly is weird. I can think of no sound medical rationale for the "flush" you describe. Galistones are not dissolved by the substances you drank: if stones pass from the gallbladder

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

A player doesn't hold 28 high-card points very often. Not used to such wealth, he tends to bid his hand with the delicacy of a bull let loose in a china shop. Thus South asked for aces as soon as his partner showed heart support. Finding his partner with one ace, he simply bid seven hearts. That was runaway bidding at its worst. On a bad day, declarer would find that his partner would have only two diamonds, so that he would not even be able to get rid of one of his losers on the ace of diamonds. On a good day, of course. North would hold a five-card black suit headed by the queen, and now the grand slam would have a decent play.

How should the hand be bid? The best thing is for South to start cue-bidding his controls, even up to the six-level, after North has supported the heart suit. Then, if North decides to bld a grand slam, the contract will probably be a good one. As It was, the chance for a grand slam was reasonable.

Declarer took his best play. He won the diamond in his hand, drew two high trumps leaving the heart jack in dummy, and then cashed the A-K of spades. When the queen did not fall, he overtook his second diamond with dummy's ace and played the lack of diamonds, throwing his small spade. A spade ruff now brought down the queen. Declarer played to dummy's jack of hearts and threw his losing club on the spade jack. Making seven. As the tired old saying goes, "He played it better than
