

Defenders Meet With Gov. Bryant

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — New public defenders were told by Gov. Farris Bryant Wednesday that the lives and fortunes of many people would depend on the way they conducted their offices.

The 16 new public defenders, all named by Bryant under a newly adopted law, met together in the state cabinet room to hear from state officials.

(The public defender for the Ninth Circuit, which includes Seminole County, is W. D. Frederick Jr., of Orlando.)

On hand were Bryant, Comptroller Ray E. Green, Supreme Court Justice E. Harris Drew and Bowers Bowers, head of the criminal appeals division of the attorney general's office.

Bryant told the defenders, who will provide free legal counsel for needy lawbreakers, that it was significant they had come to the capital on the eve of Independence Day. Your new posts, he told them, "gives new assurance of justice for all."

"The post does thrust on your shoulders a very significant responsibility," Bryant said. "The lives and fortunes of many people will hang on the way you conduct yourselves."

Justice Drew urged the new officials to see persons accused of crimes as soon as possible. He said the public defenders should be certain that persons accused of crimes were advised of all of their rights under the law.

"This marks a high point in the system of American jurisprudence," said Drew. Drew's immediate predecessor as chief justice, B. K. Roberts, headed up the judicial council which recommended to the last legislature creation of the public defender system.

The proposal was sparked by a U.S. Supreme Court decision that ruled an accused felon must be represented in court by a lawyer for his sentence to be valid.

Bowers gave the new officials some first-hand advice on representing clients. "Give every case you get the old college try," said the veteran assistant attorney general. "I cannot emphasize that enough. Treat each case as if he were paying you a substantial fee for representing him."

Teacher Bans Books, Cupid

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — A University of Texas dean says the idea that marriage makes for better students is a myth. "We find marriage seldom make a good student out of a poor one," Dean of Students Glenn Barnett says.

Barnett warned that mixing marriage and college can mean troubles for both husband and wife.

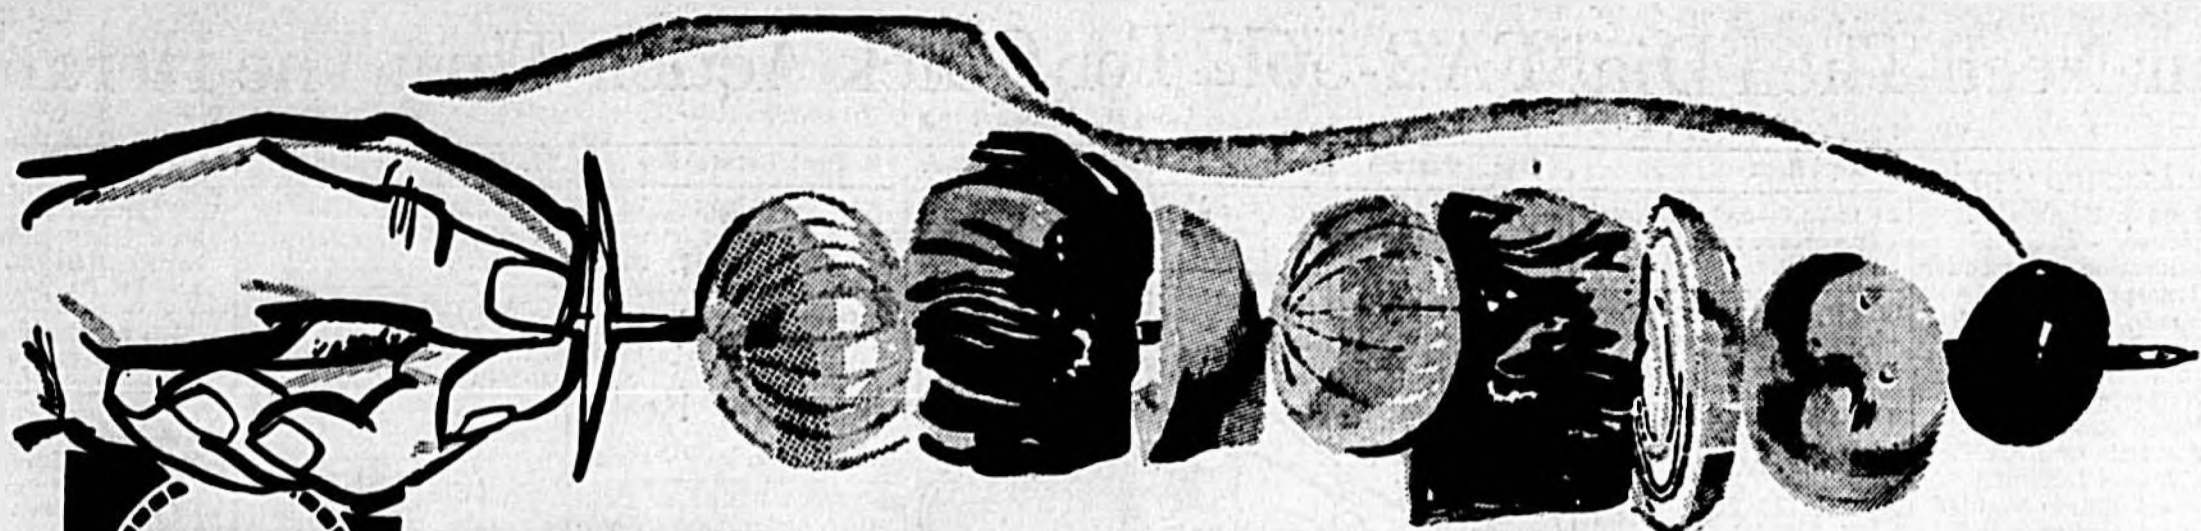

"If the wife was a competent student and dropped out for marriage," Barnett says, "she frequently feels an underlying resentment if her student husband doesn't excel."

"In many cases," he adds, "his grades go down as the time and concentration needed for his work are nibbled away by the demands of family life."

Barnett also says that a student-father can grow extremely sensitive about his own position while his wife plays the role of breadwinner. "When a girl tells me she is quitting to get married," Barnett says, "I try to impress upon her the importance of continuing her own education some time, whether soon or many years from now."

"The boy she marries is going to continue to grow and probably become a leader in his profession and his community. Her growth will have to keep pace with his if the marriage is to succeed," Barnett says.

Death toll from accidents in the U. S. during 1961 was about 91,500, according to the Britannica Book of the Year.

WINNING FLOAT in Longwood's annual Fourth of July Fiesta Parade was entered by the City of Longwood. ## 'Fairly Strong Wave' Scouted In Caribbean

MIAMI (UPI)—A hurricane hunter airplane was sent today to investigate a "moderate" easterly wave in the Caribbean Sea about 1,500 miles southeast of Miami, the Weather Bureau said. Easterly waves often are forerunners of tropical storms. "Numerous" showers and winds up to 10 miles an hour were clocked in the area and a navy storm-chasing plane from Puerto Rico was on its way to investigate, the Weather Bureau said. "It's a fairly strong wave, the strongest of the season so far," a forecaster said here. He said small craft warnings have been hoisted for the northern Windward Islands. The squally area was located in the Windward Islands about 1,500 miles southeast of here and was moving westward at 15 miles an hour, a Weather Bureau report said. If it continued on its present course, it would pass to the south of the United States mainland and hit Central America, but the forecaster said "It's really too early to tell which way it'll go."

23 Seminole Lovelies In 4th Contest

Highlight of Longwood's third annual Fourth of July Fiesta came at 3 p. m. Thursday when 23 lovely Seminole County girls, attired in beautiful formal gowns walked gracefully across the stage in competition to name "Miss Flame of Seminole County." Emerging as winner after two suspenseful eliminations, was Miss Janice Russell of Sanford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hershell Jones who was sponsored by the Sanford Naval Air Station Fire Dept. First place runnerup was Miss Charlotte Sanders of Longwood who was sponsored by the Florida Forestry Service. Second runnerup was Miss Bobbie Watkins of Casselberry representing the Casselberry Volunteer Fire Dept. Other highlights of the Fiesta, which had an estimated attendance of 10,000 people, according to Longwood Fire Chief Claude Lajo, were the opening parade, the created pig contest, the afternoon performance of the Falling Angels and the 45-minute fireworks display at the close of the evening. Top prizes of the many awarded throughout the day went to Jimmy Clark of Sanford, bicycle; Ricky Eselation of Longwood, Hambley station wagon; Jo LaFollette of Sanford, stainless steel double sink and Zeno Hylund of Longwood, juicer blender. In North Orlando Miss Jackie Atchison, 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Atchison of 30 Cortez Ave. won the "Miss North Orlando" title. First runnerup was Miss Diane Houck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Houck of 81 Bombay Ave. and second runnerup was Miss Pat Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Carter of 120 Devon Ave. The title of "Junior Miss North Orlando" went to 11 year old Shelley Tufts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tufts of 50 N. Second St. Runnerup was Kathy Ferrin, 11 year old daughter of Connelman and Mrs. Arthur Ferrin of 110 Devon Ave. Six year old Ellen Campbell was crowned "Little Miss North Orlando" and Mickey Shivers won the "Little Mr. North Orlando" title. Ellen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malvin Campbell and Mickey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Shivers. Runnerup in these contests were Connie Greanya daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Greanya, Marica Shivers, Billy Pionon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Pionon and Randy Singleton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Singleton. With the mothers' wives amping the sons' fathers' home ball game at the Fort Mellon park picnic cosponsored by the Lions Club and the City course the son won. The National League topped the American League in the All-Stars ball game of the Sanford Little Major League.

283 Demonstrators Hailed Into Court

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Court appearances were scheduled today for 283 persons, including the top official of the Presbyterian Church in the United States who were arrested in an Independence Day anti-segregation demonstration at suburban Gayne Oak amusement park. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake, stated clerk of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of the U.S.A. and former president of the National Council of Churches, was among the predominantly white protesters who were arrested in the non-violent, four hour demonstration. Police said a total of about 500 persons took part. Also charged and later released with the Rev. Dr. Blake were Bishop Daniel Corrigan of New York, head of the Home Department of the Episcopal Church's National Council, and the Yale University chaplain, the Rev. William Sloan Coffin, and his wife. Park officials described Gayne Oak as a "private enterprise fighting for economic survival in a geographic area which has not accepted the Negro on a social and recreational basis."

Mac Suffers Two Poll Setbacks

LONDON (UPI)—Two more sharp setbacks at polls added to the woes of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's scandal-plagued Conservative government today. Conservative losses in by-elections at West Bromwich and Deptford Thursday were the latest in a series of reverses that have brought opposition Labor cries for Macmillan to resign or call immediate general elections. The Labor party won both contests as expected Thursday, but the Conservatives made poor showings that reflected their sagging pre-lease among the public.

Youth Held In Miami Slaying

MIAMI (UPI)—Police have arrested an 18-year-old boy on charges of first degree murder in the robbery-slaying of a motel clerk June 27. Charged was James Clyde Kish of Miami. The victim, Karl Grotenstein was shot to death as he fought to save $75 in the motel's cash register from a hand mask wearing a grotesque green mask with crossed eyes and a nose full of warts. The mask, apparently ripped from the robber's face, was found in the victim's hand, as he fell to the floor. Police said Grotenstein apparently had been shot once in the chest as he stood at the desk, then again in the side as he moved around the counter, and a third time in the head as he fell to the floor.

Can't Beat 'Em, Can't Join 'Em

JASPER, Ga. (UPI)—Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told a Fourth of July rally here that despite President Kennedy's strong civil rights package the South would not secede from the Union for two reasons. "The rest of the nation still outnumber us about five to one and we found out through bitter experience that one Southerner could not whip five Yankees," he said. "In addition, this time the Feds have the atomic bomb."

Boy Who Tried To Stab Woman Admits Theft

A 12-year-old burglar who threatened to stab a County Club member woman with a pair of scissors, was apprehended Thursday afternoon and confessed to a series of house breakings, according to Police Chief Roy Williams. Osie M. Bowery, 200 Bradshaw Drive, telephoned police at 5:30 p. m. that when he and his family returned from the beach they surprised the boy in their home, and that he lunged at Mrs. Bowery with the scissors. Chief Williams reported the boy later confessed to a series of burglaries in the neighborhood, including a break-in June 1 in the Bowery home where he obtained $8. The boy was released to his parents' pending juvenile court action.

Legislation To Avert Rail Strike Likely

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz sought again today to untangle deadlocked railroad negotiations. He hinted strongly Thursday that Congress will be called into the dispute if a threatened nationwide strike cannot be avoided. Wirtz was scheduled to meet with representatives of the nation's railroads and spokesmen for five rail unions this morning. The unions have promised to strike if the railroads put work rule changes into effect next Thursday to eliminate so-called "feather-bedding." The labor secretary said Thursday after a 30-minute Independence Day conference with President Kennedy that emergency legislation would be requested from Congress to avert the strike if the opposing parties cannot find a solution themselves. "As Wirtz put it when asked whether Congress would be brought into the four-year-old dispute: "That possibility is certainly imminent." The charges the rail lines are ready to install would cost up to 37,000 jobs of diesel firemen, plus others later. They would also change pay scales for those who kept their jobs. The dispute has gone through two presidential investigating commissions and all the way to the Supreme Court, which ruled the railroads had the right to make the work changes.

Herlong Warns On 'Frittering'

Postmaster and Mrs. Clyde Kerce of Casselberry attended the dedication of the new Post Office Building in Groveland last Thursday and the Fourth of July Celebration in Lake David Park. Mrs. Kerce, who is democratic committee woman for precinct 17, took advantage of the opportunity to visit with Rep. A. S. "Sly" Herlong who was the principal speaker at both events. Herlong warned his audience against the danger of Americans "frittering" away their freedom by becoming overly dependent on the Federal government and falling for "right promises" of those people in high offices who want only to perpetuate themselves in these positions. Using Federal aid to schools as a case in point, Herlong said: "After they take more of your money in order to grant Federal aid, they will put part of it back into your schools like you ask but they will expect something in return, namely, control of the school system."

Mother's Story Of Baby Probed

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)—Police today investigated the chilling case of a San Carlos, Calif., mother who said she threw the body of her two-year-old daughter off the Golden Gate Bridge. The mother, Anna Buckleman, 40, underwent psychiatric examination Thursday at San Mateo General Hospital. She was held under what a hospital spokesman called "security guard" to prevent a possible new suicide attempt. Mrs. Buckleman said the child fell down the cellar stairs 10 days ago. Early the next morning, while her husband slept, she found her child dead in bed, she told authorities. She drove to the bridge, threw the tiny pajama-clad body over the side but then could not get up the nerve to jump herself, she said. Instead, she fled to New York where she attempted to kill herself with an overdose of sleeping pills.

Weather Fool

CLEETHORPES, Eng., (UPI)—Ray Camray, 40, the weatherman for this seaside resort, was fired today for doing his job too well. The council said Camray's forecasts of rain almost every day, although perfectly accurate, were wearing away tourists.

Russians, Chinese See Red, But Of Different Hues

Moscow Ideological Talks Open In Angry Mood

By United Press International MOSCOW (UPI)—The Chinese delegates to the Sino-Soviet ideological talks arrived here today in an atmosphere charged with hostility by a last-minute exchange of bitter charges. The Chinese's negotiating team flew in by special plane from Peking they were met by Soviet delegation leader Mikhail Suslov, senior Kremlin ideologist. The two sides wasted no time getting down to business. They agreed to hold their first meeting within hours of the arrival. Relations between the two Communist giants were strained to the breaking point just hours before the opening session of the showdown talks that will determine the course of international communism. Red China announced a bitter new protest against the Soviet Union earlier in the day, and the Russians printed a front-page editorial in the Communist party newspaper declaring they would not back down. Western observers felt there was a possibility of a historic split of the Communist camp. The Chinese apparently delayed the departure of their delegation to the last possible moment. The latest Chinese protest, as reported by the New China News Agency, accused the Russians of creating "new obstacles" to the "unity" talks on ideological and political differences. The protest was in connection with the recent expulsion of three Chinese diplomats and two students from the Soviet Union for distributing copies of a Chinese letter strongly condemning the Kremlin's position in the dispute. The Kremlin refused to publish the letter. The Chinese note, which was delivered to the Soviet Embassy in Peking Thursday, charged that Russia has "created new obstacles to the bilateral party talks." The note said the Chinese would go ahead with the talks despite the Soviet action and would not take retaliatory measures. It expressed hope that "the Soviet government will not again rashly take actions harmful to the unity of China and the Soviet Union and to relations between the two countries." The primary cause of the dispute is the violently opposed stands on the question of war or peace with the Western world. Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev advocates peaceful co-existence. The Peking regime rejects this thesis.

Love... Or Die

There seems to be only one alternative to love and that is death. This, I realize, is a very strong statement but when we view the sordid condition of our world and the ineffectiveness of the cure that we have been able to devise for our troubles, there seems to be no other honest statement to be made. How easy it is for us to miss the point in trying to bring about a solution for man's dilemma! How we get confused as to what is important and what is not. At this point I am reminded of the golfer who was playing on a fairway which ran beside a busy street. The golfer sliced a ball out into the road which went through the windshield of a fast moving automobile. The driver lost control and ran into another car. As a result a "pile up" occurred and the highway was strewn with the wreckage of these vehicles. A passing policeman jumped from his car and was trying desperately to take care of all needs, therefore, the effort was rather frantic. The golfer walked over, pulling his cart behind him, tapped the policeman on the shoulder and asked if he had seen a stray golf ball. The officer exclaimed, "Did you hit that golf ball that came over here?" The answer was in the affirmative to which the policeman said, "Well, just what do you propose to do about it?" Without hesitation the golfer replied, "The way I figure it, I should change my grip a bit." It would not be proper for me to print the policeman's reply to this. It is true that we do not have the luxury of wasting much time in following the real solution to our world problems which is to put love into action. By this I mean love in its fullest and deepest sense which goes far beyond mere sentiment. It surpasses out only to the loveable. It is the kind of all inclusive love that Christ spoke of when He said that we are to love each other as He loved us. As one reads the Bible, and especially the New Testament, he becomes aware of the fact that there is a thread of complete fabric of God's Word. Are we Christians heeding the advice of our Directive for our faith and lives? If we are not how can we expect others to do this? Certainly we are aware of the fact that love is such a noble virtue and yet it is so hard to put into practice, but this does not mean that we should not do all we can to do so. The space of this article allows no complete definition of Christ's love. All that I hope to do is to point you to the cure and then refer you to the Bible for the definition of it. The best and most inclusive definition I know can be found in 1 Corinthians 13. Please turn, in your Bibles, to this great chapter and you will see its definition as follows: 13:1-3 tells of Love's superiority 13:4-7 speaks of Love's content 13:8-13 assures us of Love's everlasting quality With this love man can live but without it he will die.

St. Ann's Rosary Club Tells History Of The Organization

The Rosary Club of St. Ann's Guild held a work meeting Wednesday afternoon in the social hall of DeBary's St. Ann Catholic Church. The club was started the early part of this year by Mrs. Joseph Kreis and was formally organized on May 27. At that time it was registered at headquarters which are Our Lady of Fatima Rosary Making Club at Louisville, Ky. This is a non-profit organization, incorporated in the State of Kentucky. It operates under a board of Lay directors, elected yearly from the clubs of the Louisville Archdiocese, with the spiritual guidance of a priest chaplain, Fr. Bertrand J. Rapp. The history of the Rosary Making Club goes back to 1910 when Brother Sylvan, C.F.X. of Louisville's St. Xavier High School, long haunted by the urgency of Mary's words at Fatima, decided to share the talent he had of making his own rosaries. Just two years before his death he taught a group of children to make rosaries for the missions. The idea developed into a club, the club into an international movement. Individuals and units of the club are now in all 50 states and 23 foreign countries. American Catholics are making over 3,000 rosaries daily and mailing them to their favorite missions. Learning to chain rosaries is simple. Some people learn by mail, using the illustrated instruction booklet secured from headquarters which is the case of Mrs. Kreis. She in turn, has instructed the other members of the local club. The Rosary Club of St. Ann's Guild on May 31, shipped out sixty of the mission rosaries to Fr. Eldon Reichert, S. M. Nairobi, Kenya, East Africa, who is known personally by Mrs. L. Gallop, one of the club members. Future shipments will be made to any needy person in the mission field. The DeBary Club is requesting donations of broken or discarded rosaries since they can be remade and used for the missions. New members will be welcomed to learning the art of chaining rosaries.

Episcopalians To Raise $2 Million

The Rt. Rev. Henry I. Louttit, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of South Florida, has announced the awarding to "William Whipple Associates," of Lakeland, a contract to conduct a capital fund drive in the diocese for the raising of funds in excess of $2 million. Whipple Associates is a professional corporation dedicated to assisting churches in the raising of capital funds. Unique in their program for the Episcopal drive is the fact that local congregations may retain half the funds raised for local capital fund needs. The Diocesan program will include the establishing of new congregations, purchase of land and the building of churches; expansion of work on college campuses; providing better facilities for the aging; missionary work outside of the Diocese; additional facilities for youth work and other necessary work to meet demands of a rapidly expanding population within the Diocese. Marriage First First Christian marriage of an Indian princess and a white settler was performed about 400 years ago in a section of what now is Daytona Beach, Fla. ## Marksman's Bullet Fells Killer Of 3

AMERICUS, Ga. (UPI) — Inside refused to let him in, a hulking convict fell to a marksman's bullet Thursday under a pecan tree a hundred miles from the Florida town where, a few hours earlier, he killed three men in a desperate bid for freedom.

His terrified 14-year-old hostage grabbed his pistol and shot him four times as he slumped dying over the beginnings of the foxhole he was trying to dig.

He was Melvin Weaver, 23, a squat, 240-pound life-term convict who started his brief, bloody tour through the limelight at Marianna, Fla.

He had been taken to a hospital there after being overcome by smoke when he set fire to the bunk in his jail cell. He seized Deputy Sheriff Aaron Greel's pistol, shot him to death, and then killed Deputy Allen Fench when Fench rushed to Greel's aid.

Hubert Mayo, who was just visiting at the hospital, stepped into the corridors to see what was the matter and Weaver shot him to death.

Weaver bolted out of the hospital and forced his way into the home of Dick Sangaree. He told Sangaree to give him clothes, then forced the man, his wife and their 8-year-old daughter to drive him north.

He ordered the Sangarees out of the car at Colquitt, Ga., and continued north. Near Smithville, about 53 miles north of Colquitt, he saw three youths standing by U. S. Highway 19.

Screaming to a halt, he whipped up both of the pistols he had taken from the dead deputies and told the youths "don't move."

"I'll take the little one," he decided. He forced a 4-foot-6 inch tall Ricky Hale, an orphan, into the car beside him.

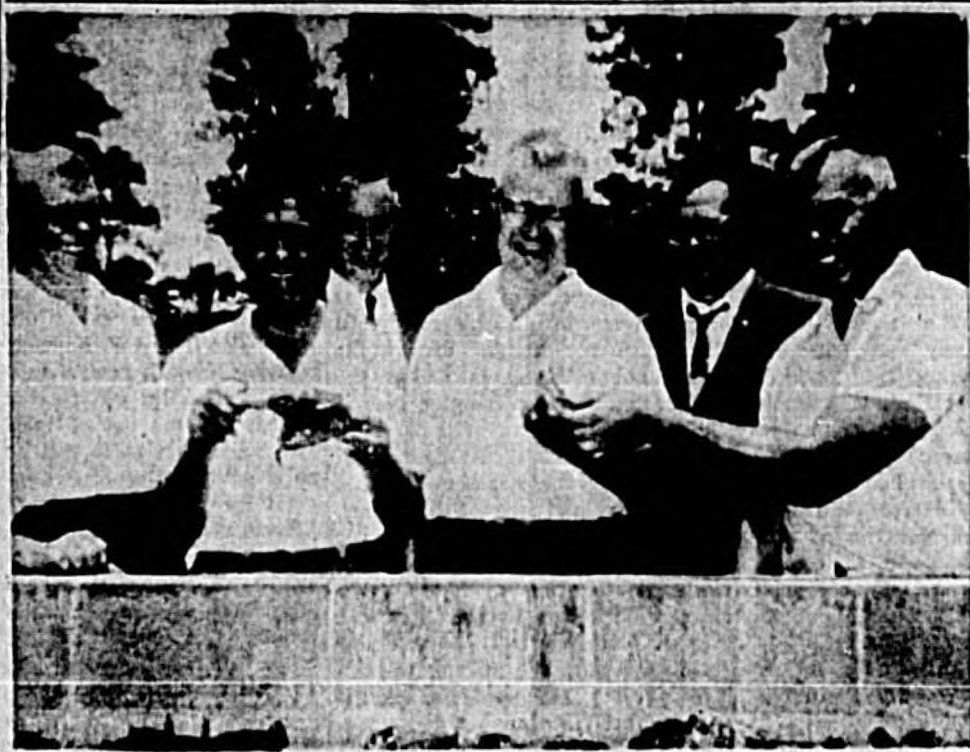

Weaver's wild ride ended at a two-room shanty by the highway three miles north of Americus. When the woman

Expensive Words

"Without defining an editorial," these words were defined as "words which are used to describe a thing or person in a way that is not true." The United States House and Senate, after years of discussion, have passed a bill to amend the Copyright Act of 1909 so that it will apply to all words which may have the effect of defaming.

Recently, one day not long ago, there was an objection from Rep. Wayne Hays, Ohio Democrat. He declared it was time to hold the record to those things which really happen in Congress.

It would have meant an end to the practice of creating words which are not used, as well as of a wide variety of self-serving material design-of to improve the public trust. All of which, at the moment, is not true.

Hays estimated the extra printing in the House costs $200,000 a year to print. That would be a waste. But two and one-half million a decade is not small change, when the obvious purpose is considered.

Of course Hays lost his battle. House members were engaged at having the choice called for their respective members.

No promises given to keep good track of the printing hereafter. It would be interesting to know, too, how the biggest House members vote on measures for general economy in government.

Plenty To Do

We've been all through it again and again. The teen-agers are bored. They have no challenge, no useful conflict. They get into trouble because, whatever else it is, trouble is excitement.

Now studies are underfoot showing that this empty, aimless habit of life is as much a fact among well-off youngsters with cars and money as it is with poor kids roaming the streets in the slums.

There has been enough fuss about the "hidden America," the product of the broken city slums, to focus attention on this phase of the matter. Action, of course, is still meager.

But the problem of higher economic levels seems to be dismissed as so much fantasy. The overprivileged youngsters in suburban families react to vandalism, thievery, drink and a variety of other peevish excursions — while parents pile on the blame.

Little that is wholesome, innocent fun has any appeal these days for the more energetic, aggressive young ones. Sports, dancing, you name it — these things are regarded as "lame."

In a New York Times survey of suburban youth, one boy said: "You, some kids drink. Maybe they do it to forget about things." At 16, what is that they have to forget? The memory of the emptiness of yesterday?

The time of growing up used to be thought of as filled with its own natural excitement — developing one's body skills, exploring the world of animals and trees, opening the book of knowledge wide for the first time.

Fortunately, millions of American youngsters still find these wonders along the adolescent trail. But too many do not. They are proud of being more mature than their counterparts of a generation ago. But they have lost their innocence while finding nothing to replace it.

There is nothing new in saying what is part of the painful truth — that overindulgent parents must bear heavy blame for this.

But the youngsters themselves cannot be blamed. If they are mature enough to be half-adults, half-children, they are mature enough to understand they need something better to tie into than tomorrow's "kicks."

We hear a lot these days about the "hidden America," the 30 to 40 million people spread about in city slums, hill country, dying farms, who live in distress, disease, oppression and ignorance.

You don't need to join the Peace Corps to find these folk. They're a half-hour drive from any suburb.

Maybe some of the overprivileged, who can't find anything that appeals to them for more than a few hours at a stretch, ought to go and take a look. There are some challenges there that will be around a good while, worthy of the attention of even the most mature half-adult who ever spun his wheels in suburban idleness.

Dick West Says

Eyebrows Raise Flap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — You don't have to smile when you call a philatelist, but sometimes, it's hard to keep from it.

Stamp collectors comprise one of the few groups on earth that cherish imperfection. Even the smallest flaw in a postage stamp will send a philatelist into spasms of delight.

This passion for the defective seems a little curious to those of us who regard the postage stamp merely as something to mail a letter with.

Some of the controversies that shake the philatelic world — as, for example, the inverted printing of the Dag Hammarskjöld memorial stamp last fall — are likely to cause a non-philatelist to quiver with amusement.

At the moment, it looks like a major flap is shaping up over the question of Amelia Earhart's eyebrows.

A new airmail stamp honoring the famed aviator, who disappeared during a flight over the Pacific in 1937, recently was unveiled by the Post Office Department.

It doesn't go on sale until July 25, but already an issue has arisen over whether E. M. Bower, who engraved the stamp, neglected to equip Miss Earhart's likeness with eyebrows.

When I heard about this, I stopped by the department to take a look at the sample and also to inspect a photographic enlargement of the area around her eyes.

Bower, who worked from an old photograph, pictured Miss Earhart boyishly attired in slacks and shirt and standing in front of the silver monoplane in which she disappeared.

To me, her brow seemed as barren of upholstery as that of the Mona Lisa. But when I asked a department press officer whether Bower had indeed omitted her eyebrows, all I got was an enigmatic smile.

The official policy of the postal service is to be as inscrutable as possible. I assume it seeks to avoid giving the stamp an inflated value on the philatelic market, as might be the case if word got out that Bower had goofed.

In addition to the controversy over Miss Earhart's eyebrows, there also has been considerable discussion regarding her facial expression, which I would describe as a "grin," or a cross between a grin and a smile.

She apparently was squinting into the sun when the original photograph was taken. Some philatelists say the engraving presents an optical illusion in which the eyes appear open one moment and closed the next.

Commenting on that, the press officer said "at eight cents, an animated postage stamp might be regarded as one of the better buys of the year."

"Whose Spot?"

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

CASE P-483: Tom F., aged 21, was a Navy boy at home on leave.

"Dr. Crane," his mother begged, "can't you give us something to help us over this crisis?"

"For Tom skidded off the highway and struck a tree. He died before we could even be notified."

"Yet he was our only son and such a wonderful young man, with a great future."

"He was active in our church and such a joy to us that we are now going around devoid of any interest in life any more."

"Dr. Crane, you lost your son, too, who was a Marine flyer, so you and Mrs. Crane know what it is like to be suddenly informed of the death of your child."

"Can't you give us some advice to bolster up our spirits for the next few weeks?"

"I feel as if I want to die. I can't bear to go on!"

"Meanwhile, his daddy and I blame ourselves for not having a heavier automobile. Then he might not have been killed."

"Although we had the car checked and in good shape before our son arrived home, the rear tires were worn down somewhat."

"So we also wonder if new tires might not have saved our boy."

"Thus, we see-saw back and forth and I have such an ache in my heart that I never seem able to relax. I can hardly swallow because of the constant lump in my throat."

"Why was our son taken away from us just in the prime of life?"

"There is a vast fraternity of parents who have lost a young son or daughter."

"Until you actually go through such a experience, you can express only sympathy."

"But 'empathy' requires a deeper understanding than just sympathy."

"All of you parents who benity of those who have grievance of those who have grieved at the death of your child, have empathy for such a mother."

"Despite your religious background, your brain is in a whirl as you try to figure out how the death could have been averted or avoided."

"And you may torture your mind as Tom's mother is doing by thinking:

"Oh, if he'd only been delayed 10 seconds, the two cars would not have met at that precise point!"

"If it just hadn't rained (or snowed) that day!"

"If I'd just refused to let him play football, or basketball, baseball, etc.!"

"Why did I send him on that errand?"

"This frustrating inner debate is just a part of your initiation as a parent into this worldwide fraternity of those who have lost a child."

"Bolster your numb spirits by the Biblical advice, 'This, too, shall pass.'"

"Jesus also gave his Apostles this stimulating advice:

"If ye loved me, ye would have rejoiced, because I go unto the Father." (John 14:28).

And then point your thinking forward, into what is up ahead. For death is but a graduation ceremony, and our loved ones just are promoted early.

WASHINGTON—(REA)—A Negro march on Washington scheduled for Aug. 28, to influence passage of civil rights legislation would be the third such capital demonstration in American history.

The march of "Coxy's Army" of 500 unemployed during the 1930s depression was first. The marchers were led by Jacob S. Coxy, later mayor of Hamilton, Ohio. Coxy had what was then considered the silly idea that the government should authorize a $500 million bond issue to finance public works which would give the unemployed job.

He failed to influence Congress, which rejected his action as a proposal to print $500 million in paper money to give the unemployed. Coxy himself was arrested. His army dwindled to 300, and finally faded away in despair.

Just how "silly" Coxy's idea was may be indicated by the fact that last year Congress appropriated $400 million for President Kennedy's accelerated public works program to relieve unemployment. This device was also used by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt to create jobs during the depression of the 1930s. Coxy was simply 40 years ahead of his time.

Shortly before Roosevelt's election in 1932 came the second march of the unemployed on Washington.

This was the Bonus March of 3,000 unemployed veterans. They demanded that their adjusted compensation insurance certificates of 1934 be paid in cash on demand, instead of 30 years after issuance or on the death of the insured, if that came first.

There were several bitter riots in Washington until federal troops drove the Bonus Marchers across the Potomac to a camp on what is now Pentagon grounds.

Congress then passed a bill giving the marchers 75 cents a day and railroad fare home. They were finally cleared out at a cost to the Veterans Administration of $77,000.

It was not until 1936 that Congress settled the veterans' grievances by making the adjusted compensation certificate transferable into government bonds, which could then be cashed on demand.

History never repeats itself exactly. But both Coxy's Army and the Bonus Marchers left lessons applicable to-day.

Neither demonstration stampeded Congress into granting the petitioners immediate relief. The reforms they sought came later, but ultimately they got what they were after.

What is being planned now, however, is not a Washington demonstration by a mere 500 or 5,000 bedraggled marchers arriving on foot. Negro leaders are talking about a pilgrimage of from 100,000 to 150,000, or probably 300,000. It is no idle dream. Over 120,000 Negro protestors marched peacefully in a Detest freedom walk on June 24, then quietly dispersed without incident.

The march is planned as a peaceful demonstration. Negro leaders have declared that if there is to be violence the march should be called off. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy is using his influence to have the march called off, fearing that it will get out of hand and believing that it will do no good in influencing Congress for the Negro cause.

Some Negro leaders seem to think, however, that if a filibuster against civil rights legislation develops in the Senate, this mass protest would help break the deadlock.

Quotes

The Americans can't keep things going as they are now in Viet Nam for many years. But... (they) have put themselves in the same position as the French during the Indochina War, and they cannot win.

— Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia.

I have almost reached the regrettable conclusion that the Negro's great stumbling block in the stride toward freedom is not the White Citizens' Council or the Ku Klux Klan, but the white moderate who is more devoted to order than to justice.

— Rev. Martin Luther King.

the importance of money

There are many yardsticks for measuring success. But one that everybody understands is good hard dollars and cents.

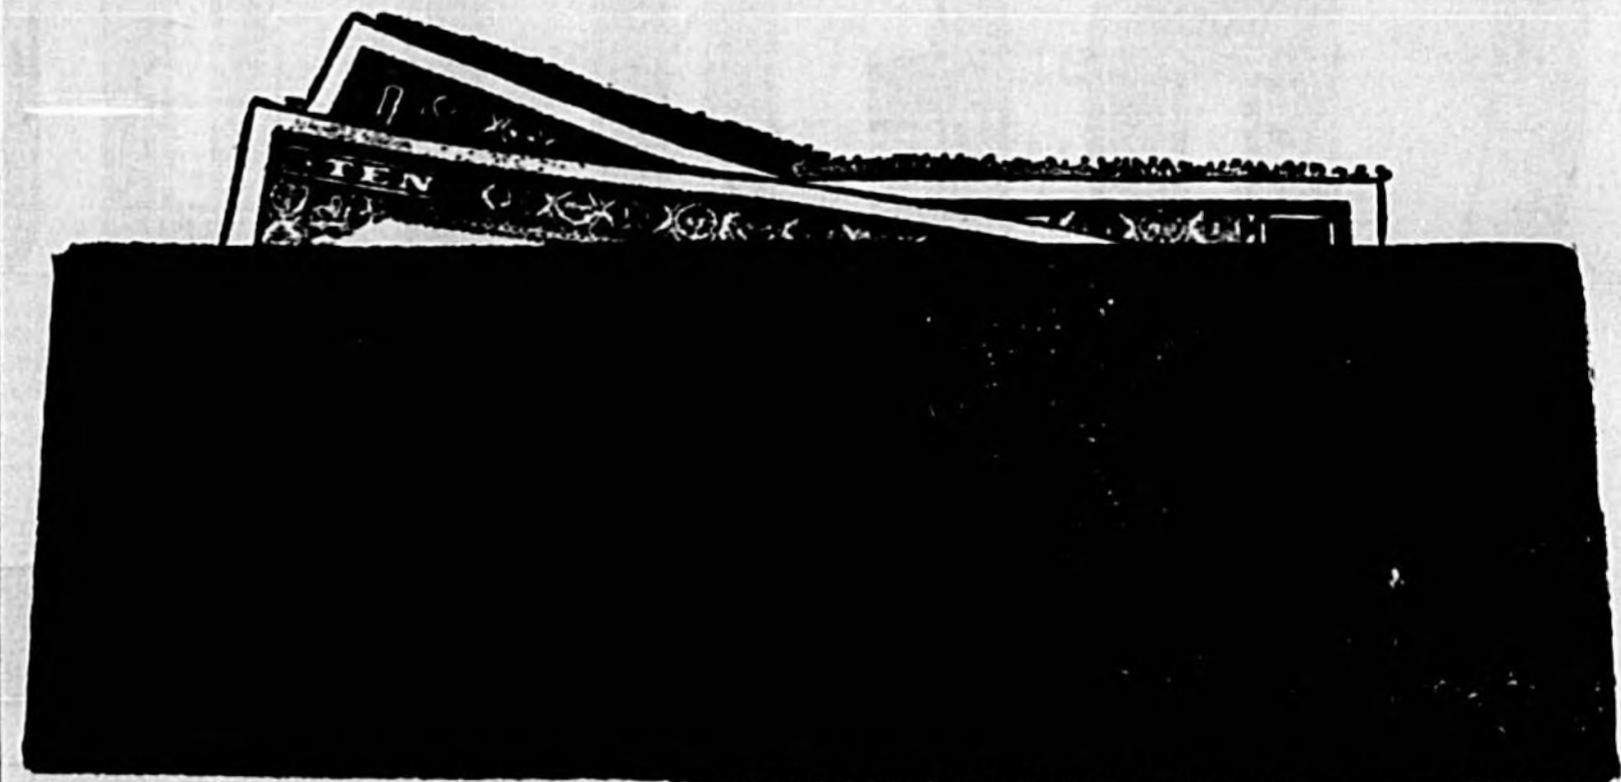

When we use dollar volume to compare advertising media, two facts stand out clearly:

- More advertising dollars are invested in daily newspapers each year than in television, magazines, radio and outdoor combined.
- Newspapers continue to grow in importance. Since 1949, newspaper advertising volume has increased by $1.7 billion—which is more than the total advertising volume of TV today.

As national income rises, as the education level of the public rises, as purchasing power rises, as dollar volume of goods and services rises, newspapers prosper because they become more needed by more people.

When it's time to pay out good dollars, advertisers who know the importance of money put theirs on the best buy—daily newspapers.

"Body" Permanent For Summer Droop

It's summertime and the livin' is supposed to be easy. This is the time when we all like to relax. But, let's admit it. A look in the mirror shows that most of us have "relaxed" ourselves into sloppiness. Our hair often gets the least attention.

The tendency is to rush to the beauty salon for a shorter hairdo, one you can care for yourself, with a minimum of effort.

Unfortunately, good hair styling often goes down the drain with the shampoo during summer months. Granted—an easy-to-care-for cut does make things simpler. But it's still not a "cure-all" for summer hair problems. There is, however, a new kind of home permanent on the market which can be a real help.

Miss Glenda Sue Williford United With Wayne Edwards

Miss Glenda Sue Williford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Hefeker became the bride of Wayne Steven Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Edwards, June 29, at 8 p.m. at the First Baptist Church.

The Rev. Fred B. Chance officiated at the double ring ceremony as the couple spoke their vows before a candle-lit, flower-bedecked altar.

Miss Williford, who was given in marriage by her stepfather, chose for her wedding a street-length gown of silk sheer and Chantilly lace.

The fitted bodice featured a satinee neckline and short sleeves. Soft pleats fell from the waist to form the bell shaped skirt.

Her veil of silk illusion fell from a dainty crown of pearl and crystal, and she carried a cascade bouquet of white sweetheart roses and carnations, centered with a white orchid.

Mrs. Shirley Grant, soloist, sang three wedding songs, "Because," "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by organist Mrs. Shirley Grieme, who also played the traditional wedding marches.

Miss Williford was preceded down the aisle by her matron of honor, Mrs. Patzy Fairfield, who wore a pink silk chignon gown with full skirt, matching hat, shoes and gloves and carried a nosegay of roses and white carnations.

Best man for Mr. Edwards was Tracy Fairfield and ushers were Kenneth Bohl and George Bayer.

The church was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums and palms and lighted by glowing tapers in branched candelabra.

Mrs. Hefeker, mother of the bride chose a powder blue embroidered sheath for her daughter's wedding, accented with white accessories. She wore a corsage of feathered blue and white carnations.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of Mrs. John T. O'Donnell on Magnolia Avenue, who wore an eyelash sheath of brown and white and a corsage of green feathered carnations.

Mrs. Luana Pittman, cut the cake. Floating hostesses were Mrs. Larry Price, Miss Carole Cleveland and Miss Alene Moore.

After the reception the couple left for a honeymoon at Daytona Beach. The bride wore a pink sheath dress with matching jacket, white accessories and the white orchid from her bouquet.

Upon their return the young couple will make their home at 309 Magnolia Ave.

Out of town guests at the ceremonies were Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Fairfield and children, Debra and Cynthia.

The tiered wedding cake centered the table and was decorated with pink rosebuds, the whole encircled with green fern and pink carnations. Punch, mints and nuts were also served.

Bouquets of summer flowers throughout the house added to the festive air.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Our son is 16 and very popular. We finished off our basement so he could entertain his friends there. We put in a TV, stereo and billiard table. Last Saturday night he had six couples in for a party. We served sandwiches and soft drinks. We have a rule—no beer or liquor. The next morning, while cleaning up, I found several empty beer cans and an empty vodka bottle hidden behind the TV. We questioned our son and three of his friends. One boy admitted to bringing the beer. A girl had brought the vodka from home. We told them it was against the law for minors to drink. They tried to tell us it was okay if done in a private home. Please print this with your comments in case we need something more concrete to show them.

MOTHER
DEAR MOTHER: It is against the law for minors to drink ANYWHERE. And if you need something more concrete to show them—how about the sidewalk?

DEAR ABBY: For years I have written all the letters to my husband's relatives. Yet I'm sure he would never write mine even in an emergency. And would you believe it, Abby, when we hear from his people all the letters are addressed to him and him alone? When they close, as an afterthought, they add,

"Oh, say hello to your wife." I once got angry and told him to write his own letters. So he got even with me by putting a five-or ten-dollar bill in all the letters, and he knows we can't afford it. I've just about had it with my husband and his clan of ill-mannered morons. Tell me what to do and I'll do it.

HAD IT
DEAR HAD IT: You are over-reacting to your husband's spitefulness. Ignore his needling and it will sting less.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is in his 60's, but sometimes he acts like a 2-year-old. Whenever we go to the big store to do our shopping, and get separated from each other, he hunts up the store manager and says his wife is "lost" and asks to have my name blasted all over the store on the loudspeaker. Everyone snickers because they start looking around for a "lost" child—and it's me—a gray haired grandmother. They probably think I'm not all there. How can I break my husband of this foolish habit?

GRAY HAIR
DEAR GRAY: When you and your husband enter a store, agree on a meeting place (under the clock, or at the south door) and have an understanding that if you should become separated, you meet there.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

Some years ago I invented the term "Gulpic" to cover the bid too good to be a psychic, but too weak to be a bid. The name derives from the fact that the player who makes such a bid usually gulps when he makes it.

Psychics work occasionally. Gulpics almost never and it is always nice to see one properly punished.

West waited patiently for two rounds and then doubled when the opponents settled in two spades.

He opened the king of spades and continued with the ace. South won in dummy. West took his ace and played ace and another spade.

South had two tricks and led a diamond toward dummy. West played the jack and East let dummies queen hold the trick.

At this point South should have seen that the lights were cashed diamonds and clubs until the last trick. He could not take that one because his partner had to ruff. The final result was that South went down five tricks.

Jerry Lewis At Ritz Theater

For a self-styled "idiot" (his screen image), Jerry Lewis is generally conceded to be one of the cinema's most resourceful, imaginative, and sensible innovators. He used several new techniques during filming of "The Nutty Professor" in which he plays a dual starring role, and also directed. Co-starring Stella Stevens and filmed in Technicolor, "The Nutty Professor" opened Thursday at the Ritz Theater.

It is probably unprecedented, at least in modern screen annals, for a performer to direct himself in two roles.

Jerry Lewis accomplished his task in a normal length of time for a big picture and with apparent ease.

One of his important electronic devices is a device which may watch himself—and all the others—as he acts before the camera.

Another of his electronic assistants is the "rifle" electronic aids is closed-circuit television cameras that monitor all of the action. Thus, he which picks up dialogue and other needed sounds, and eliminates all unwanted noise. With its use, Jerry has been able to dispense with the "mike-shadow." This is the shadow cast by conventional overhead microphones and booms.

BY JUDY TURNER

It's a busy weekend already... the Fourth of July yesterday and one of our favorite squadrons heading out for the deep blue tomorrow. Probably lots of house guests around too, so to keep them occupied here's a lot of things for them to do.

Business at the Caribe has been very good... Flo's been so busy since returning from her vacation she hasn't even had time to buy a paper! Seems there are lots of "Tigers" coming in to pay their proper respects to the old home town before departing for their cruise Saturday... Friday nights with Peg, Bill and Russ are still the most popular times at the Caribe, although you'll enjoy yourself any time in the cool atmosphere there... It's an ideal spot for lunch on these warm summer days.

Sent my trusty scout out to survey the situation at Spencers and find out what's new. He came back and said "everything." Sam is holding down the fort, although he said he rather thought of it as helping people get fortified rather than holding anything down. They still serve the same excellent food, and Friday's happy hours are booming as usual.

Parent-child league at the Jet Lanes started with a bang last Monday, but there is still time to get in on it... It will begin July 16 for interested persons. The kids get a reduced rate for the deal... The lanes will be closed next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday for resurfacing of the lanes so when you play again they'll be just perfect... within 40/1000 of an inch anyway.

If you have ever wondered where most everyone goes on Saturday nights, I found them... they are at the Capri. Joy says the last three Saturday nights have been booked solid. Must be the pulling power of the popular Populaires. These three guys on the accordion, bass and drums are really pleasing the customers. The Capri gets a lot of its business from out of town too. Civic and social groups from Deland and Orlando plan their celebrations here, and then the members just keep coming back for the good food and lively music on Friday and Saturday nights. (Good food all week, though).

The Lake Monroe Inn has a new gal working in the daytime now. Mills has started going to school during the days and working only Friday and Saturday evenings. The new girl is named Dee and just began a week ago Monday. She's a native Californian who lives here now with her husband. Owner Frank Durso says to stop by the package store and pick up your "packages" now, before the new tax goes into effect. Sounds like a winner to me.

Did you see the big ad in today's paper for the "Knutkins"? No, it's not another TV show. It is a fabulous new eating place on Hwy. 17-92, south of the Big Tree Road. They specialize in Bar-B-Q.

Ford Leads In Canadian Open

TORONTO, Ont. (UPI) — Veteran Doug Ford held a two-stroke lead today as a field of 60 pros and four amateurs advanced to the third round of the $50,000 Canadian Open golf championship.

The 40-year-old New Yorker carded a 67 Thursday for a 36-hole total of six-under-par 136 to lead the qualifiers into the second half of the 72-hole tournament.

Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohio, was alone in second place after firing 68, his best tournament score since retiring in 1940.

Four strokes behind Ford was Canada's hope for a homebrew victory, Toronto's George Knudson.

'Space Shuttles' May Carry Men And Supplies To Orbiting Labs

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (UPI) — Scientists here are working on a big space problem that will have to be met after man lands on the moon.

After Project Apollo — the moon landing now scheduled for around 1967—serious consideration is being given to orbiting a space station around the earth as a laboratory and a stepping off platform for manned probes into deep space.

To carry men, food and equipment, "space shuttles" would zip back and forth between the earth and the orbiting station.

Docking these "space shuttles" on a platform that is itself rocketing at speeds up to 18,000 miles per hour is one of the most complex problems to be solved.

To perfect techniques of the intricate docking maneuver, General Electric engineers at the Valley Forge Space Technology Center have built a jet-propelled, land-based "space shuttle" that simulates a landing on an orbiting vehicle. The simulator is built to carry two astronauts plus supplies, weighs 1,000 pounds in 7 1/2 feet high and 8 feet wide.

The supporting structure is mounted on air cushions—metal discs constructed so that air is expelled at supersonic velocities below them—causing the simulator to lift off the floor. This creates a frictionless environment and is a close approximation of the state of weightlessness beyond the earth's atmosphere.

Test pilots operating the device can pitch, roll, twist and yaw the vehicle as they go through rendezvous, approach and connection to a space station docking port.

The shuttle pilot "flies" the simulator by using two hand controls that govern gas jets, enabling him to keep his vehicle balanced as he practices a docking maneuver.

The shuttle also can be operated remotely, to stimulate a supply mission in which the vehicle would be unmanned and controlled by a pilot in the space station where it would be docked to deliver its cargo.

From research conducted on the Manned Docking Simulator, the GE space experts will gather information applicable in design of such shuttles. This would cover direction and speed of the supply vehicle in making the docking, fuel consumption and the relative difficulty astronauts will have in carrying out the docking and undocking maneuvers.

IRS Goes Into Art Business

SACRAMENTO, Cal. (UPI) The Internal Revenue Service has gone into the art business.

In an "outrageous" settlement, it confiscated 15 paintings of well-known artist Donald F. Reich from galleries at Oak Park and Folson and from Reich himself.

"They were the only ones he had," said an IRS spokesman Wednesday. "As far as we know, this had no precedent in this region."

Then, with an eye on Reich's $125 tax bill, it promptly put the paintings on display in a local bank "to get bidders interested."

The IRS said it will sell the paintings, on a sealed bid basis, in the fall.

Reich may eventually find some compensation in having such a level-headed agent "if there's any money left over," the IRS said, "he'll get it."

Glenn Says No

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — Astronaut John Glenn has his "hands full" with the nation's space program and has no plans to run for the Senate from Ohio.

Seminole County will move this evening to join the State of Florida in an overall program of long range planning to enlarge recreational facilities for residents and visitors.

JIM CROWE

The State has been conducting a statewide study since 1961, with a special Governor-appointed committee. The County will commence this evening to join that study when the newly appointed county recreational planning committee holds its initial and organizational meeting with the County Commission at the Courthouse.

Among others of the State committee's long range plans is to acquire thousands of acres of land along the upper St. Johns River, from its headwaters below Lake Helen Blazes, near Melbourne, to Lake Harney, which borders on Seminole County.

William Kidd, chairman of the Governor's state committee, in a TV interview Saturday evening, reported the State hopes, with its overall program, including the St. Johns River development as a recreational area, to increase the State's tourist attraction from 15 million annually at present to 30 million by the year 2000.

Emphasis will be laid to present recreational facilities to attract new industry to the area but to divorce these industries from the recreational areas in that the two will not conflict. Kidd, in his TV program, pointed out the industrial contamination of Lake Apopka, a major problem at the moment.

Purpose will be to induce industry that plentiful recreational facilities and areas are available for their employees in their free time.

Although Seminole County, as a whole, is without the range of the upper St. Johns River development as a recreational area, it is extremely interested in that Governor Farris Bryant was scheduled today to name the five commissioners for the newly legislated St. Johns Indian River Canal District, designed to promote the new inland waterway from Sanford to the Atlantic Ocean.

When this waterway is accomplished, the St. Johns will be a navigable water traffic route from the ocean at Jacksonville, through Palatka, Sanford and to the ocean in the vicinity of Maytown. It not only will open a water way for pleasure craft but also for commercial barge traffic.

way will tie into the upper St. Johns development, permitting boat traffic to proceed inland up or down the river for the very first time. Local promoters of the canal are convinced it will be an economic boon for Sanford, not only in commercial water traffic but in pleasure boat traffic.

However, Kidd emphasized in his TV interview that a major problem for this area, from Sanford along the St. Johns to Lake Harney and beyond, confronts his committee and all others interested in the long range recreational program. Shall?

S. R. (Jim) Crowe, local fishing camp operator and a member of Seminole County's newly appointed recreational long range planning committee meeting tonight, has been notified that shad fishing in the season just recently closed was up 22 per cent "in effort over those for the previous season."

Paul R. Nichols, chief of one of the top bureaus of the Fish and Wildlife Service, U. S. Department of the Interior, under date of July 1, forwarded this letter, in part, to Crowe:

"The St. Johns River shad sport fishery continues to be our best fishery for this species on the Atlantic coast. During the 1963 season, the sportmen took an estimated 73,125 shad in 9,468 boat-days. This was an increase of 11 per cent in number of fish caught and 22 per cent in effort over those for the previous season. The increase was largely due to the development of a productive fishery in the upper river basin, which took an estimated 22,350 fish in 1,730 boat-days. In view of the proposed flood control development in the upper river basin, this is a significant finding, since previous studies did not indicate the utilization of this section of river by the sport fishery."

Kidd stated dams, locks and weirs would be constructed in the upper St. Johns, to tie in with the Central and Southern Florida flood control program, constituting a major threat to the shad fishing.

Nichols' letter to Crowe continues: "For your information attached is a copy of the preliminary report of our findings on the upper river basin sport fishery and the utilization of the area by shad for spawning. We plan to sample the area in August to determine the utilization of this section of river by shad for nursery grounds."

Nichols' preliminary report dealt mostly with the upper St. Johns south of Highway 50. There were minor reports of shad egg collections north of Highway 50, south of Highway 46 bridge, and a mile north of Lake Harney at the old railroad trestle.

Nichols' letter to Crowe concluded with a report of progress studies in the Northeast—Pennsylvania, Maryland and New York, and the transplanting of shad eggs to the East Coast from the Columbia River on the West Coast.

Nichols concluded: "We hope to get about 30 million eggs from the Columbia by July 15. So far, hatching has been exceptionally good. In 1964, the runs were established on the West Coast through an egg transplantation program, and now we are attempting to reverse the situation."

Nichols is chief of the anadromous fisheries program, biological laboratory, bureau of commercial fisheries, Fish and Wildlife Service, U. S. Department of the Interior, at Beaufort, N. C.
