Bogged Down

School Officials And Workers At An Impasse On Contract Negotiations

By JOHN DIXON
Herald Staff Writer

Contract negotiations between the Seminole County School Board and non-instructional employees have "bogged down," according to Bill Moore, executive director of the Seminole Education Association.

Contract negotiations between school officials and teachers are not going well either. They are progressing "slowly," according to Moore.

Contract bargaining sessions at Lyman High School began in May between Ernest Cowley, chief negotiator for the school board, and spokesmen representing three groups — the county's teachers, the non-instructional personnel and the bus drivers, Moore said.

Cowley agrees with Moore that negotiations are moving too slow.

"The teachers have only talked about 10 of the approximately 20 articles in their contracts, and these do not include salary or any other money items," Moore said.

The non-instructional personnel (maintenance, cafeteria, food service, and cafeteria workers) have talked about all of the articles in their contracts, "but the school board has declared impasse in these sessions," he added.

Moore said the board has offered to raise the base salary from $3.21 to $3.50 per hour, but NIPSCO (Non-Instructional Personnel of Seminole County) is asking for $3.64 per hour.

The base yearly wage for non-instructional personnel is $4,995, and the school board has proposed to raise that to $5,447. NIPSCO, however, is asking $5,500, Moore noted.

School officials have called an impasse in the negotiations with the non-instructional workers, but Moore and NIPSCO home that action will be reversed.

"In an impasse procedure," he continued, "the state will send a representative who listens to both sides, then makes a recommendation. The school board can either accept or reject the recommendation. So it will probably not be until September that the board makes a decision."

Moore continued, "NIPSCO is asking that the board not go to impasse, but that it continue to bargain or enter into mediation, meaning that the federal government would send a mediator to help both sides work out an agreement."

Moore is serving as chief spokesman both for NIPSCO, an affiliate of the Seminole Education Association, and the bus drivers, at the bargaining sessions, which have been held periodically since May.

Cowley agreed that negotiations with the teachers were moving too slowly, but he indicated the situation is changing because they now are meeting twice a week in four or five-hour sessions.

But with regard to NIPSCO, Cowley stressed, "There's no need to continue to bargain, and there's nothing to mediate, because we have given our final offer in both language and money items. We have no more to offer, so we've called impasse and have notified the Public Employees Relations Commission of Florida."

Cowley continued "We have negotiated nine sessions with NIPSCO since the middle of May and have reached some tentative agreement, but we have come to a point where we are at an impasse on three items in dispute. The school board negotiating team felt that they went the extra mile in an attempt to reach tentative agreement by July 31 by being willing to negotiate extra sessions," he explained. "We were trying to reach agreement in time for any benefits to be paid to 12-month employees as of July 1 instead of a later date.

Cowley said the three items in dispute are:

—Language concerning employment of persons outside of NIPSCO, the bargaining unit.

—Increase of terminal leave pay for unused sick leave upon retirement. "The union asked for an increase from 50 percent of daily pay to 100 percent of daily pay."

—The base salary increase. "NIPSCO would not accept an offer lower than 10.11 percent whereas the board negotiating team's final offer was 8.49 percent, which was the same percentage increase negotiated between the board and the clerical union in their final agreement on July 21," he said.

Cowley said that in addition to the 8.49 percent pay increase, the board had offered to implement the annual increment increase, pay the additional $93-per-employee increase in medical and life insurance costs, and raise the uniform allowance by 25 percent.

"When the union rejected our final offer, the school board's negotiating team withdrew the offer from the table and officially called impasse," Cowley said.

Officials Say Save Water

By DONNA ESTES

Despite a 15 percent reduction in water use through a voluntary conservation program in Seminole County's unincorporated areas over the past few months, county commissioners Tuesday on orders from the St. Johns River Water Management District adopted an ordinance setting mandatory conservation requirements.

The ordinance affects not only the customers of the county's water systems, but also those of private utility companies operating in the unincorporated areas.

In addition to the ordinance, which will take effect on Aug. 10, authorizes the county to levy a surcharge on customers of the county systems who use an inordinate amount of water.

Those found guilty of violating the ordinance could receive sentences of up to six months in jail, or fines of $500 or both.

County Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff was successful in having agriculture interests exempted from the water conservation mandate, noting that requiring a reduction in water use by agriculture "could put them out of business."

Kirchhoff said before any ordinance is enacted affecting agriculture, agriculture interests should have an opportunity to comment.

The ordinance restricts the use of water, except by agricultural interests, for the following:

- Sprinkling, watering or irrigating of plants and lawns.
- Washing of vehicles except by car wash businesses.
- Washing of sidewalks and other facilities around homes.
- The operation of any ornamental fountain without a recirculating system.
- The operation of swimming or wading pools that do not have recirculating filter systems.

— The washing of any business or industrial equipment and machinery except when required for public health purposes.

The ordinance also restricts businesses in the use of water by banning:

- Use of water to serve a customer in a restaurant unless requested by a customer.
- Use of water from hydrants for construction purposes, fire drills or any purpose other than firefighting.
- Use of water by a golf course except on areas designated as tees and greens.
- Use of water for dust control.

Enforcement is to be carried out by the sheriff's department, and the county's environmental services manager, and all employees of the Environmental Services Division, public works department and fire departments.

State Attorney Douglas Cheshire will prosecute violators.

The new law permits the county to levy a surcharge on households and businesses that use more than 15,000 gallons of water monthly at the following rate: 70 cents per 1,000 gallons for those using more than 15,000 gallons up to 20,000 gallons; 80 cents per 1,000 gallons for those using more than 20,000 gallons up to 30,000 gallons and $1 per 1,000 gallons for those using more than 30,000 gallons.

Commissioner Sandra Glenn noting the county has already reduced water consumption by the required 15 percent, questioned whether the ordinance was necessary. The county's environmental services director Ken Hooper said that 10 Central Florida counties are affected by the water management district order. He added that eight counties have complied with the district's mandate for adoption of an ordinance. "The St. Johns District still thinks there is a problem," Hooper said. "The area is still 13 months behind in the amount of rainfall it's had."

Use of too many phones at one time causes problems, phone officials say.

Stormy Weather Plagues Local Telephone Service

When you hear it thunder, don't run under a tree. Don't run to the phone either, just to see if it's still working. That's the advice being given today by Southern Bell Sanford Manager Larry Strickler.

Strickler said too many Southern Bell customers are routinely picking up their phone receivers when thunder and lightning begin — just to check if they are working.

With so many people picking up their phones at once, many do not get dial tones. That's because phone company central offices can only handle 20 to 25 percent of their customers simultaneously, he explained.

When a greater percentage than that pick up their phones at the same time, some do not receive dial tones. This results in many unnecessary calls to telephone repair, Strickler said. The dial tones usually return after a short wait. He added that the phone company is already handling a tremendous increase in repair work in this thunderstorm season.

Phones out because of lightning or water damage to cables are causing crews to work overtime. With the repair calls for overloaded lines, Southern Bell's greater Sanford area is experiencing a 500 percent increase in repair problems.

"We usually have between 150 and 175 repair calls per day," Strickler said. "Over last weekend we had 780 calls." About 250-300 of those were not due to actual damage but just overloaded lines. Still, extra personnel have been required.

To handle the workload Strickler said repair crews have been working seven days a week, from 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Sunday in the areas of Seminole County serviced by Southern Bell. With extra repair workers borrowed from Orlando, the company has been able to get repairs completed with no unusual delays, Strickler said.

The Orlando area has not had repair difficulties to the same extent because it has been spared some of the lightning that has hit the greater Sanford area. But Sanford has also had a greater need for repair work because equipment here is older.

"We have old equipment in the ground," Strickler said. "Some that's been there since the 30s and 40s."

"On the one hand we have old equipment but at the same time we're trying to provide service both for growth areas and for veteran customers."

"It's just adding insult to injury," he said, "when customers pick up the phone during a storm just to see if it's working. 'Curiosity can kill the central office.'"

But what if there's an emergency? Strickler emphasized that in a storm or other situation where an unusually high

Deer Run Battle Is Not Over

The four-year long court battle between the county commission and the city of Casselberry over the city's annexation of the Deer Run planned unit development is not over despite a ruling by the 5th District Court of Appeal of Daytona Beach.

County commissioners voted unanimously Tuesday to authorize County Attorney Nikki Clayton to appeal the part of ruling denying the county the right to collect attorneys' fees from the city.

The appellate court earlier has upheld a circuit court decision in Seminole County overturning the annexation of the 1,200 acre subdivision by the city.

Clayton told commissioners that according to state law the county has the right to recover attorney fees.

Casselberry Mayor Owen Sheppard said today that if the Deer Run developer — Ameri-First — continues to stand by an agreement made with the city several years ago, it won't cost the city any money for those attorney fees.

The agreement was given by the original developer, Norman Harris, that he would underwrite all legal costs if the annexation were challenged by the county in the courts.

Even though Ameri-First has since taken over the development, Sheppard said it has continued to stand by that agreement and the legal actions have not cost the city any money to this point.

Sheppard said he doesn't know how much the developer has spent in costs to this point.

Assistant County Attorney Robert McMillan was also unable to estimate today the amount of money the county will be seeking in attorney fees from its appeal of the appellate court decision. The appeals court in its decision denied the county the right to seek attorney fees.

Air Traffic Controllers

Won't Go Back To Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Few striking air traffic controllers appeared to be returning to work today, despite President Reagan's irrevocable threat to fire those who did not meet an 11 a.m. deadline to end their illegal walkout.

Initial reports from East Coast and Midwestern facilities indicated few if any of the 13,000 striking controllers were coming in ahead of Reagan's deadline. In Hollis, N.H., 800 holdouts raised a glass to toast their firing when the deadline arrived, and at Oakland, Calif., controllers planned to picket and then hold a picnic.

Reagan has pledged to fire those who fail to appear by sending them "letters of intent" for dismissal. The deadline for night and overnight shift controllers to return to the radar rooms and control towers arrives at the normal start of their shift.

according to Longwood travel agent Bill Parke. Even so, "the whole strike situation is not as serious as I thought it would be and I don't figure it to get much worse."

"I expected the phones to be buzzing off the hooks Monday morning when the strike started," Parke said. "But they weren't." Parke conceded, "Our reservations have dropped off some and cancellations are dribbling in, but business isn't down much at all."

Why? "Because there has been a lot of teamwork among the airlines," he said. "If someone gets bumped because of a cancelled flight, the other airlines are pitching in to get them on one of their flights. There aren't as many delays as you would think, no more than an hour or two."

In short, "given the circumstances, things are moving along real smooth," Parke concluded.

A spokeswoman for a Sanford travel agency said there have been "no serious problems here" during the first two days of the air controllers strike. "We haven't had any little old married couples having to scrap their 50th anniversary trip to Europe, no conventions cancelling out, no vacationers stranded in Aruba, no one who went to The Wedding of Prince Charles and Lady Diana) unable to get out of London."

"We had a few people panic and cancel trips last week in anticipation of the strike, but most people don't seem overly concerned," she said. "Shoot, just this morning I booked two trips to Hawaii leaving within the next week."

"So far, the flights are being handled well by the people still working," the spokeswoman said. "Plus, they can bring in military controllers to back them up if the strike goes on. But I don't think it will. The controllers have too much to lose."

Longwood travel agent Gene

Marroletti said the only travel jam she has experienced during the early days of the strike is a 10-person trip to China set to leave within the next few days.

"But even that shouldn't be much of a problem," Marroletti said. "The airlines are giving priority to long-distance flights and the last I heard, China is really long distance."

Yes it is, but Tallahassee isn't. Arid "that's the only cancellation we've had," according to an Altamonte Springs travel agent. "The people figured they would avoid any possible delays and just drive up."

Travel By Airplanes Is Surprisingly Easy, Say Local Travel Agencies

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

If one judged from newspaper articles and from listening to the TV news, one would think that the air traffic controllers strike is the worst possible calamity that could befall the travel industry with the possible exception of 30-cent-a-gallon gasoline.

But a survey of several Seminole County travel agencies indicates that isn't necessarily so. Many local travel experts seem cheerily unconcerned with the prospect of an extended strike. They report only a few cancellations by travellers turned off by the prospect of long delays or getting stuck in some far off city. As one agent said, "For the most part, things are going real smooth."

How long that will last, however, is uncertain. If the strike continues, central Florida's tourist-dependent economy could stand to lose up to $40 million a month, according to one Tallahassee travel research consultant. Roughly 1.8 million of the 3.4 million tourists who visit the area every year come by air.

How many of those pass through Seminole County is unknown, "but we will obviously be affected somewhat,"

according to Longwood travel agent Bill Parke. Even so, "the whole strike situation is not as serious as I thought it would be and I don't figure it to get much worse."

"I expected the phones to be buzzing off the hooks Monday morning when the strike started," Parke said. "But they weren't." Parke conceded, "Our reservations have dropped off some and cancellations are dribbling in, but business isn't down much at all."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Sadat Wants Reagan To Talk Directly To Palestinians

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, in his first meeting with President Reagan, will try to convince the United States to drop its ban on dealing directly with the Palestinians.

But, in preparation for today's visit, the White House said U.S. policy toward the PLO, the designated representative for the Palestinians, remains what it has been; that the Palestine Liberation Organization is a group that contains terrorist elements and the United States is bound not to negotiate with the PLO until the organization recognizes Israel's right to exist.

"It is for Reagan to choose how he does this. But I shall tell him he should make contact with the Palestinians," Sadat said at a news conference in London before flying to Washington.

Before Sadat's arrival, White House spokesman David Gergen said, "The United States has not changed its position on the PLO."

The Israeli government, in a statement issued last week, said, "The sudden prominence being given to the PLO and suggestions ... it be included in the Middle-East peace negotiations shows a misunderstanding of the basic facts of this organization."

"The PLO is a terror organization ... with a single aim — the elimination of the state of Israel through the use of violence and force."

Grip Tightened In Iran

By United Press International

Iran's ruling clerics strengthened their grip on the nation, appointing a former student of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini as prime minister and executing more opponents, but threats to the Islamic regime mounted from Iranians outside the country.

Hojatolislam Mohammed Javad Bahonar, chairman of the ruling Islamic Republican party, was formally designated as head of government by President Mohammad Ali Rajai Tuesday and needs only the formality of parliamentary approval before forming a Cabinet.

Giant Crocodile Fossil Found

MOSCOW (UPI) — The fossil remains of a gigantic sea crocodile that lived 150 million years ago have been discovered by Soviet scientists, the Tass news agency announced.

The report was made Tuesday at a meeting of the U.S.S.R. Geographic Society in Leningrad, the official Soviet news agency said.

Tass said the ancient reptiles frequented what is now the Volga River region when it was covered by water some 150 million years ago.

"The remnants of sea crocodiles are found on extremely rare occasions, although the whole of the globe was inhabited by monstrous reptiles in the Mesozoic era," 130 to 230 million years ago, Tass said.

Saudi Arabia May Get Planes

A copy of the letter to the leaders, a preliminary step toward formal notice to Congress of the sale, was made available to United Press International Tuesday.

Edwards Murder Trial Delayed By Judge

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Faced with the possibility of having to dismiss a murder charge against a 32-year-old Altamonte Springs man because he hadn't been brought to a trial quickly enough, Seminole Circuit Judge Joseph Davis Jr. Tuesday set a new trial date in the case ... for the third time.

Columbus "Sonny Boyd" Edwards was originally set to go on trial Aug. 17. However, Davis moved the time up to today, believing that the speedy trial deadline was set to run out Aug. 10.

State law requires a defendant charged with a felony be tried within 180 days of his arrest unless he waives the speedy trial requirement. The case can be dismissed if the deadline passes.

After Davis set today for Edwards' trial, defense attorney Irving Gussow agreed to waive the speedy trial rule, saying he needed more time to prepare his case. Davis then scheduled Edwards to stand trial for murder Aug. 17.

Edwards, of 868 Darwin Court, is charged with the Feb. 7 slaying of 24-year-old James C. Bullock at the Oak Ridge Motel, U.S. Highway 17-92 in Fern Park.

Two juveniles — Homer Lee Poole, 16, and his brother Jackie Lee Poole, 15, both of 120 Jackson St., Altamonte Springs — pleaded guilty to the murder last month and are awaiting sentencing.

Edwards is not accused of being the actual triggerman in the shooting. Homer Lee Poole has admitted to that. However, Poole said he thought the .25-caliber pistol was empty when he placed it near Bullock's forehead and it fired accidentally.

Bullock had reportedly been beaten repeatedly and robbed of $10 prior to the shooting. His body was found in Room 5 of the motel where Edwards lived. Edwards allegedly helped destroy evidence following the murder.

According to court records, the shooting apparently stemmed from an argument between Edwards and Bullock, in which the Pooles later joined, over unfulfilled promises Bullock had apparently made to Edwards about getting him a car, a job, and an apartment.

CONVENIENCE STORE ROBBED

A south Seminole convenience store was robbed of an undetermined amount of money Tuesday night by a masked gunman.

According to a sheriff's report, a short man in his early 20s with a stocking pulled over his face entered the Shop & Go, 5009 Howell Branch Road, between 10 and 11 p.m., pulled an automatic pistol and told 40-year-old clerk Charlene Allen to put all the money in a white canvas bag he handed her.

As she stuffed cash in the bag, he filled another bag with cartons of cigarettes, the report said. Allen told deputies the bandit also stole her purse which contained $20.

The bandit fled on foot.

MAN PLEADS TO HOMICIDE

A 26-year-old Longwood man pleaded no contest in Seminole Circuit Court Tuesday to a charge of vehicular homicide in connection with the Feb. 21 wreck on State Road 431 which took the life of a 32-year-old Orlando woman.

Sentencing was deferred for Bud Hampton Mounts of 430 E. Jessup Ave. who faces up to five years in prison for the offense.

According to a Florida Highway Patrol report, the accident occurred about 4 a.m. on S.R. 431 near Oranole Road when Mounts' 1975 Granada ran head-on into a Volkswagen van driven by Sharon Rae Hebert.

Mounts, who had reportedly been drinking, left the scene of the accident, but was found hiding in some nearby brush, the report said.

In other court action, a 43-year-old Sidney, Ohio man was ordered to pay $24.95 restitution and given credit for jail time served after he pleaded guilty to a charge of petty theft.

William H. Powers was accused of stealing a food blender from his brother who lives in Longwood and taking it back to the store where it was purchased and getting a refund.

Also, David C. Adams, 23, of Lake Monroe, pleaded guilty to grand theft in connection with a June 20, 1980 incident in which he cashed a stolen $115 check at a Sanford grocery store. Sentencing was deferred pending completion of an investigation into his background.

COULDN'T GET IT OVER

An estimated $500 worth of merchandise was stolen from Steve's Truck Stop, 615 Overland Road, Apopka, Friday night by thieves who climbed a 6-foot chain link fence and entered the business through an unlocked door.

Taken was a 3 1/2 horsepower boat motor, six radio speakers, a jigsaw, and a drill.

Deputies said the thieves apparently also tried to steal a portable air compressor, but couldn't lift it over the fence.

Raines Is All-Star

Montreal Expos' outfielder Tim Raines was named to the National League All-Star team Wednesday by Philadelphia Phillies Manager Dallas Green. Raines finished fourth in the outfield balloting as write-in choice.

The Sanford three-sport star was having a fantastic year until the baseball players strike interrupted the season. He has a .322 batting average, 50 stolen bases and leads the league in runs scored. The All-Star game will be Sunday night in Cleveland.

Raines missed a starting spot on the team by 33,738 votes. Only two players — Steve Garvey and Rico Carty — have been selected to the team by write-in vote. The Evening Herald in conjunction with the Orlando Twins baseball team spearheaded the write-in campaign in the Central Florida area.

Raines is the son of Ned and Cora Raines of Sanford.

PEOPLE IN BRIEF

Today, 'The Odd Couple' Would Be More Serious

Ann-Margret and Walter Matthau start work this week on the movie version of Neil Simon's "I Ought to Be in Pictures" for Herb Ross, who previously directed Simon's "The Goodbye Girl," "California Suite" and "The Sunshine Boys." Simon says "Pictures" isn't strictly a comedy; he's getting more serious.

"If I were to write 'The Odd Couple' now," he told Variety, "it would have a lot more social observation in it." Meanwhile, the playwright has a September release set for "Only When I Laugh" which co-stars his wife, Marsha Mason, with Kristie McNichol, James Coco and Joan Hackett.

Heading For Texas

Country music star George Jones emerged just recently from two months in hiding and now he says he's splitting the Nashville scene for Fort Worth, Texas, "to continue what career I've got left." He held a farewell concert at Peewee's Nightclub Wednesday night and said he had signed a "management option contract" with Billy Bob Barnett, co-owner of Billy Bob's Texas in Fort Worth, billed as the "World's largest honky-tonk."

He said under his new business arrangement he will still record with ex-wife Tammy Wynette. He acknowledged to reporters he has a mighty reputation as a drinker. But, says he: "Drinkin' is not the problem. It's the problems with my everyday life that cause the drinkin'."

The Way It Is

If you've had it with Britain's royal wedding, you should have been in Moscow. Not only did the Soviets not broadcast the ceremony at St. Paul's Cathedral on radio or television, the Charles-Diana nuptials didn't even get a mention on the Soviet Union's nationwide evening news program. A late-night TV news commentary showed scenes from the wedding along with tape of the riots in Liverpool, however.

Soviet commentator Valentin Zoria said Britons were drowned in wedding news "to distract ordinary folks from grim concern about the innumerable problems of their lives."

No More 'Calls' For Lynn

She's out of the TV comedy series "House Calls," but British actress Lynn Redgrave and husband John Clark disagree with Universal TV on why. The Redgraves say Lynn was fired for breast-feeding 3-week-old daughter Annabel Lucy Clark at the studio. Universal TV executive Ben Halpern says the studio offered to discuss the issue — and to hike Miss Redgrave's salary by more than $130,000 — but she quit when the company refused to back the Redgraves' own production company.

Clark says his wife brought Annabel to the set because "she works 12 hours a day and doesn't want to be separated from the baby that long."

Berrigans Appeal

The Rev. Daniel Berrigan, his brother, Phillip, and six other peace activists have appealed their prison sentences imposed for breaking into a General Electric plant and damaging nuclear missile nose cones. Their attorney says the prison terms imposed in Norristown, Pa., were cruel and unusual. The defendants, calling themselves the "Plowshares Eight" from the biblical reference to turning swords into plowshares, were convicted of burglary and conspiracy in February. The Berrigans and two others were sentenced this week to three-to-10-year prison terms. The rest got one-to-five or two-to-five.

Another Ford Campaign

Steve Ford, son of former President Gerald Ford, says he will conduct a personal campaign to build opposition to testing of a nuclear power plant because of safety concerns. Ford, who lives 10 miles from the Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant near San Luis Obispo, Calif., said he would run advertisements in the local newspaper urging people to protest the tests in letters to President Reagan and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

But Can She Sing?

Victoria Principal, one of the notorious Ewings of TV's "Dallas," has just released her first vocal single, "All I Want To Do Is Dream," with help from boyfriend Andy Gibb of the Bee Gees, who produced it. The actress peddles hair products as another sideline and has been named 1981 "Style Maker of the Year" by the National Hair Dressers Association, beating out Mary Tyler Moore, Nancy Reagan, Bo Derek, Diana Ross, Loni Anderson, Dianne Warwick, Joan Kennedy, Stephanie Powers and Priscilla Presley.

Fiery, Flowery Farah

Farah Pahlavi, widow of Iran's Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, says the Islamic regime of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has turned Iran into "a realm of death and evil."

In a message to the Iranian people marking the anniversary of the shah's death she expressed confidence they would overthrow the ayatollah. She said on behalf of her son, self-proclaimed Shah Reza II, "The dawn of salvation is already breaking through the twilight on the horizon. Brave resistants are closing ranks against the heartless, inhuman regime imposed upon the Iranian people ... (and) have started a pitiless struggle for the overthrow of the imposed regime."

Housing Authority To Meet

The Sanford Housing Authority Board of Commissioners will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at Redding Gardens, according to Joseph Caldwell, president.

The purpose of the meeting, Caldwell said, is to review applications for the position of executive director. The Authority's executive director, Lewis Cox, has resigned to move out of state.

Caldwell said the authority will hold its regular meeting at 7:30 p.m., Aug. 13, to consider appointing a new director.

FALSE ALARM, AGAIN

Hundreds of employees and persons doing business at the Seminole County courthouse were evacuated from the building for 30 minutes just before 10 a.m. Tuesday after someone set off a false fire alarm. Two Sanford firefighting units and trucks responded to the alarm. County Public Service Director Gary Kaiser said the building was emptied in "pretty close" to the two minute ideal. The courthouse has been plagued by false alarms for the last few years.

... Phones

number of people are making calls, a customer will likely get a dial tone if he hangs on for about 30 seconds or a minute — depending on how many people are trying to make calls or are just picking up their phone receivers.

Unfortunately, he said, there is no way to give priority to emergency calls in these situations. That's why it is so important for people not to pick up their phones just to check or to make unnecessary calls.

For instance, when President Reagan was shot, Strickler said, the phone company had to ask TV and radio stations to broadcast a request for people to stay off their phones. So many people were trying to make calls, the company feared emergency calls would not be able to get through, he said.

Hospitals, doctors' offices, and other essential services such as fire and police departments are on a priority system for dialing out, Strickler explained, but there is no way to know who needs to make an emergency call to such places and to give them priority for dial tones calling in.

The only solution is for people to stay off the phone during storms, Strickler said.

He explained that all Southern Bell systems are designed to handle only 20-25 percent of their customers at once. He said it is not economically feasible to build equipment that could handle all of its customers simultaneously. He said there are only a few times a year — such as Christmas or Mother's Day, when more than 25 percent of a given office's customers are trying to make calls at the same time. Therefore, he said, it wouldn't be financially wise to construct systems based on peak demand which occurs so seldom. — DIANE PETRYK

A Break For Taxpayers, Too

It is a measure of our disordered time that a presidential plan to cancel a projected tax increase and reduce government spending should everywhere be hailed as revolutionary. But that's the correct word for the triumph of President Reagan's economic program, which was confirmed by a robust margin in the House's show-down vote on his proposed tax reductions.

The 238-195 tally in favor of the administration's tax plan over the Democratic-backed tax bill was a stunning upset. As late as the morning of the vote, most observers agreed it would be too close to call with perhaps a razor-thin Democratic victory, thanks largely to the Democratic majority. Two days earlier, Speaker Thomas O'Neill was predicting his cohorts would hand the President his first big defeat.

That 48 Democrats defected and voted with the Republicans testifies directly to President Reagan's adroit political mastery. In the face of sure signs of defeat, Mr. Reagan did not hesitate to lay his domestic program and his own personal prestige on the line in a supreme gamble to win. With scarcely time to unpack from his economic summit meeting in Canada, he appealed directly to the American people for support of what he termed the first real tax cut for everyone in almost 20 years. In his artful, persuasive message, he succeeded in dispelling Democratic demagoguery about GOP tax breaks for the rich against the poor. He made a convincing case that his program of tax relief for economic growth was superior to the alternative of using taxes for income redistribution.

The enormous public response—a storm of telegrams and telephone calls to congressmen—was in itself a realization of the Reagan administration's broad theme to make the government more responsive and responsible to the people. The President's own personal lobbying in behalf of his program demonstrated his extraordinary understanding of how the Washington system works. We have just witnessed an example of skillful presidential leadership without equal perhaps since the days of Franklin Roosevelt.

Reaganomics, as the Reagan Revolution has come to be known, depends on two interdependent, interlocking programs—drastic cuts in spending on the order of about $37 billion, a three-year, 25 percent across-the-board tax cut, and indexed tax rates against inflation beginning in 1985. The President's success in pushing budgetary slashes through the Congress invited in austerity-induced depression such as that besetting Britain unless they were accompanied simultaneously by tax cuts sufficient to stimulate economic growth. Passage of the administration's tax program assures that the first real change in economic direction for the United States since the New Deal era will have a fair chance of success.

To be sure, the President's program would not have been totally defeated even if it had lost in the House because the Democrats themselves had been maneuvered into an uncharacteristic position of favoring larger and larger tax reductions—a 21-month, 15 percent tax cut. The trouble with the Democratic plan is that it was too small to cancel the bracket-creep increases built in by inflation and, worse still, it would not stimulate capital accumulation for new jobs because it was aimed at lower-income groups.

The Democratic tax alternative was political gamesmanship that would have been both inflationary and recessionary. Even had he lost the crucial House vote, the President probably could have brought the Democrats further along toward his position in the House-Senate conference committee, where minor differences in the enacted legislation will now be resolved.

President Reagan's crowning achievement aside, passage of drastic reductions in federal spending programs, many of which were popular, and in taxes, which have been confiscating too much capital, represent an enormous reassertion of authority by the people over their government. Congress has responded to public opinion as well as presidential leadership.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Honestly! The royal wedding was so FABULOUS! Daddy, I think I'll get married to somebody!"

By TOM GIORDANO

There's no accounting for some human behavior.

Take the case of DeLores Lash, wife of used car dealer Jim Lash and their 17-year-old daughter Angelina who was kidnapped July 6 from the car lot.

A 28-year-old man, now in custody, walked into the automobile agency's showroom about 3 p.m. that Monday.

Inside he found Angelina Lash and her uncle, Ray Lash. The man had a rifle wrapped in a blanket and once inside, he ordered Miss Lash and her uncle to lie face down on the floor.

A few moments later, DeLores Lash, unaware of what was going on, walked into the agency office. The man with the rifle was standing behind a door and had the weapon hidden from her view. As soon as Mrs. Lash entered, the man raised his weapon and ordered her to an inner part of the office.

"Where's your money?" he demanded. "I don't have any," replied Mrs. Lash. "I already took it to the bank and deposited it." She hadn't though, she later admitted, and the man never got any of it.

For some strange reason, Mrs. Lash, soon after she exchanged a few words with the man, began laughing at him. "I couldn't help it, he just looked silly standing there with this rifle pointed at me. Ray (Miss Lash's uncle) looked at me a little nervous and said, 'Cool it, this guy's got a rifle on you.'"

Somewhat perplexed, the man with the rifle ordered Mrs. Lash to follow him out into the car lot. There, he walked over to a car and opened the door, then sat halfway in along the front seat. "Get in," he snapped.

"I'm not getting in that car," Mrs. Lash replied softly and sternly. "Get in this car or I'll shoot," the man threatened.

"No way," insisted Mrs. Lash. By now the frustrated man began fumbling around the dashboard for the key to the car. "Where's the key?" he yelled.

"We keep them inside on a board," Mrs. Lash told him.

"Okay, follow me back inside and get me those keys."

They never made it back to the office together. As they approached the building, Mrs. Lash made a beeline for the end of the structure, turned the corner and was gone.

Once inside the agency office, the man found the key to the car and ordered Angelina Lash to accompany him. He kept her hostage for about seven hours, then finally released her unharmed in Tallahassee.

Miss Lash recalled the first several minutes of her ordeal riding with the man in the stolen car:

"Is that your mother?" he asked, referring to Mrs. Lash.

"Yes," Angelina told him.

"Man, she's crazy. Doesn't she know I might have shot her?"

Angelina didn't answer.

Roger C. Kurz of Longwood, Florida Festival's general manager, likes to have sharp people on his payroll. And fitting that description nicely is Sue Schoening, his marketing services manager.

They used to have a problem at Florida Festival with their sugar baskets. That's right, tiny, attractive straw baskets which hold those packets of sugar customers use in their coffee and tea.

Souvenir-hungry customers used to steal, err, take several of them every day, and that was getting to be an expensive proposition.

So Schoening and her people came up with an idea: Put a price tag of a buck-ninety-five on 'em.

That did the trick. No one steals them anymore. As a matter of fact, they buy four or five a day.

"I guess when people see you've put a value on something, they consider it stealing, but without the price tag they probably felt it was alright to take them because we have plenty to go around. Just human nature, I guess," Schoening speculated.

DICK WEST

Out Of His Tree...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dear Mr. Garden Expert:

"What on earth are you doing up in that tree?" she asked, quite reasonably considering the circumstances.

A reasonable question deserves a reasonable answer.

"I'm counting the leaves," I replied. "What else would one be doing in an apple tree?"

I hope I can explain this more satisfactorily now than I did then.

The genesis of the leaf census was your recent article on fruit tree care. In the section on thinning, you said it takes about 35 leaves to sustain each apple.

I am, I regret to say, still a little hazy about what part leaves play in nurturing apples. You indicated it has something to do with chlorophyll, as I recall. Anyway, you said a more abundant crop could be expected if a certain number of little green apples were plucked from the tree after the "June drop," the total depending on the density of the foliage.

I was, and still am, a bit puzzled by the reference to a "June drop." You seem to imply this is, or should be, a one-shot phenomenon.

I have noticed in years past that quite a few baby apples do indeed fall to the ground in June. But the lone apple tree in my yard also performs a "July drop," an "August drop" and a "September drop."

In fact, the droppage continues right on through the fall, or until the all the apples are gone, whichever comes first.

This makes me wonder whether my tree might be one of the self-thinning varieties, if there are such things. Perhaps you would be so kind as to discuss this in a future article.

Meanwhile, I don't believe in taking chances where apples are concerned. My plan is to thin by hand, as per your instructions. This brings me to the point of this letter.

Nowhere in the article do you address the question of how to ascertain the proportion of leaves to apples on a given tree.

The most direct way obviously would be to count both. Divide the sum of the apples into the sum of the leaves. If the quotient is less than 35, reduce the divisor by the indicated amount.

I can tell you from experience that this process is rather cumbersome and time-consuming, particularly in the upper branches.

Logically, it would seem, one could count all the apples and leaves on some convenient limb and then multiply by the number of remaining limbs. But my tree is highly inconsistent.

Some limbs have an apple/leaf ratio of 302-to-1 or better. On others, the ratio drops as low as 13-to-1. Hence the limb projection system apparently doesn't work.

I am wondering whether you might be so kind as to recommend a reliable estimation method. Permit me to emphasize that time is of the essence. The "August drop" will be starting any day now.

Ex-Marine Sold Violence Overseas

WASHINGTON — John Dutcher is a member of the notorious Terpil-Wilson gang of international gunrunners and cutthroats — an aggregation of former CIA and military men who have sold their services to some of the world's sleaziest dictators. So far, Dutcher has escaped the spotlight, but it's time he was exposed to public scrutiny.

Dutcher is a rugged, 6-foot, 40-year-old ex-Marine who has been described by associates as a dangerous man. He once bragged to New York undercover detectives that he had been a hired assassin for foreign governments. He said he was proud of his deadly occupation and in fact hoped his children would follow in his footsteps.

How much of this was true and how much simply braggadocio is not certain. In any case, an unsubstantiated confession of crimes overseas is not enough to hang a man in this country, and Dutcher in fact is not wanted for any violation of American laws.

What little is known about Dutcher comes from law-enforcement officials, secret

JEFFREY HART

Differing Interests

In the wake of the Ottawa Western summit conference, a number of things have become dramatically clear. A divergence of interests has opened between the United States and its traditional friends.

That was the whole point of the Ottawa conference, which settled nothing, and could not have settled any of the major questions.

Consider the perspective from a European capital, from Paris or Bonn.

Clearly the major national interest there is to avoid an atomic war fought on European soil. Even a non-atomic war fought in Central Europe would leave little after the tanks, cruise missiles, and possibly neutron bombs had done their work.

From that perspective, the Europeans naturally desire a softer policy towards the Soviets, they desire negotiations and early arms talks; they do not like the Reagan-Haig anti-Soviet rhetoric, and they are not anxious to view conflict situations like El Salvador as "major power" situations.

From the perspective of Washington, things look rather different.

Clearly, the Soviet Union has embarked upon a strategy in the politically fluid Third World which is designed ultimately to defeat the United States.

The Soviet Union has extended its power in the direction of the Persian Gulf, and into the Horn of Africa. Its surrogate Cuban troops are based in Angola; and it is fomenting political insurgency in southern Africa, source of vital minerals.

The Soviet Union is also deeply involved in Western Hemisphere insurgency, chiefly through its Cuban surrogate.

This extra-European perspective from Washington dictates a very different policy towards the Soviets than the European perspective does. It means the Reagan-Haig anti-Soviet clarification and the positions taken by Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick in the United Nations.

A divergence of interest has also opened up in Israel, though there a complex game may be afoot.

The perspective of Prime Minister Begin from Tel Aviv perceives the P.L.O. as his major threat, whatever the surrounding cost in innocent lives.

But the United States needs its friends in the Arab world, in the Mideast and in Egypt. We need Saudi Arabia and we need Anwar Sadat.

Begin's raids have damaged both Saudi Arabia and Sadat within the Mideast equation. Again, a serious divergence of interest opens up.

I mentioned a "complex game" in the Mideast. It is possible that Begin's extreme measures can play into the Reagan administration's hand. Reagan can represent himself as "restraining" Begin — who might otherwise have plunged the whole region into war, sent paratroops into Lebanon, or invaded Syria.

Begin has the capacity to make Reagan look like the regional peacemaker.

But, even so, the principle remains. New divergences of interest are opening up and widening.

From the perspective of Washington, those will be the big foreign policy problems of the 1980s.

DON GRAFF

Short Major Story

It made page five of The New York Times, four paragraphs in the "Around the World" collection of news briefs.

It was similarly treated in the Washington Post, but in just two paragraphs on page 16.

It was the story of a young Pole who commandeered a Polish airliner carrying 50 passengers and directed it to land at West Berlin. A flight to freedom.

But also a hijacking.

It is not difficult to imagine how differently this story might have been played had the origin of the flight been different, and also the hijacker's destination — say Tripoli, or Baghdad, or Havana. Then it would have been front-page material, certainly so had there been any suggestion of harm to the passengers and the hijacker's reward were asylum rather than extradition.

For years the Western nations, with the United States in the forefront, have been attempting to deal with the hijacking problem through international cooperation in making it a crime guaranteed not to pay. The focus has been on extradition of offenders and sanctions against regimes providing safe havens.

There are in existence a number of international agreements to this effect, notably those adopted by successive meetings of the International Civil Aviation Organization in Tokyo (1963), The Hague (1970) and Montreal (1971). They have been, however, little more than expressions of honorable intent by the good guys in the international community.

Their major failing has been that a few crucial nations are not signatories. These are the international mavericks who for radical political or other reasons of their own refuse to abide by the majority rules.

But the West Berlin story points up another flaw in the effort to internationalize air piracy. The Western nations themselves are using a double standard that goes back to the early post-war years when hijackings became common and most involved East Europeans crossing the Iron Curtain.

Only they weren't called hijackings. These were "freedom flights" and those who brought them off successfully were briefly heroes. It was later, when flight patterns changed and the West's planes and nationals became the victims, that interest in international cooperation developed.

The Polish hijacking story appears to have ended if not happily, at least without disaster. No one was injured. The hijacker surrendered to authorities and the plane and passengers returned to Poland.

But the absence of bloodshed or other drama is not the point of the story — or the moral. That is that there can be no drawing of lines between "bad" and "good" hijackings if there is to be anything more effective than talk in the effort to bring the problem under international control.

A hijacking is a hijacking, East or West. If the response to the problem is to be internationalized, it must be depoliticized.

Donahue Is Too Sexy

CHICAGO (UPI) — Complaints about sexual content on the syndicated Phil Donahue television show are fairly common but charges by a Mississippi-based group that Donahue thrives on shows about abnormal sex are "absurd," a spokesman says.

A group called the National Federation for Decency, based in Tupelo, Miss., announced during the weekend it will monitor Donahue's show for a month to determine its sexual content.

"Approximately two out of three of his shows are sex shows and most of those promote abnormal sex, which Mr. Donahue prefers to call 'sexual alternatives,'" the group said in a news release over the name of the Rev. Donald Wildmon.

"Such shows have a mind-warping effect on youths and adults," the group said.

Penny Rotheiser, a spokesman for the Donahue show, said much of the mail from viewers is about shows with sexual themes. But she said Wildmon's comments are "absurd."

"These subjects are presented for the sake of discussion, not because we advocate them," Ms. Rotheiser said. "They have every right to monitor our show, as long as they do so responsibly."

Producer Pat McMillen said she strives for balance when booking guests.

Donahue is on vacation and old programs are being rebroadcast through Aug. 14.

Suicide Ruled As The Cause Of Death Of Savitch's Husband

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A medical examiner ruled Tuesday that the husband of NBC television correspondent Jessica Savitch committed suicide — possibly because he suffered from a chronic liver disease that may have left him acutely depressed.

Ms. Savitch found her husband, Dr. Donald Rolie Payne, hanging in the basement of the couple's fashionable Northwest Washington townhouse early Sunday. Rescuers were unable to revive Payne, a gynecologist and obstetrician.

The medical examiner, Dr. Douglas Dixon, said he determined Payne suffered from a chronic liver disease that may have made him acutely depressed. The official cause of death was listed as asphyxiation by hanging.

Dixon stressed, however, that depression caused by an illness was only a possible cause. He said he would consult further with experts in liver disease.

"I didn't know the man and don't have a complete knowledge of the situation," Dixon said.

Pilot Fired After Sex Change Sues Eastern For $4 Million

CHICAGO (UPI) — A veteran commercial pilot who was honored for service in the Vietnam War has filed a $4 million discrimination suit against Eastern Airlines, charging she was fired because she underwent a sex change operation.

Karen Frances Ulane, a 12-year pilot for Eastern, Tuesday filed suit against the airlines and four of its employees. She seeks reinstatement to her pilot's job at $60,000 annually, with full seniority, and at least $4 million for lost wages and benefits, plus an unspecified amount in punitive damages.

Ms. Ulane, 39, Darien, Ill., formerly known as Kenneth Ulane, took a leave of absence from the airline — where she was a pilot on 727 jets — and underwent the sex change operation at the University of Chicago hospital in April 1980.

The suit said Eastern sent her termination papers by certified mail, stating she had been hired as a man and that as a transsexual there would be morale problems with flight crews and in the cockpit.

Ms. Ulane, who was graduated first in her class from Army flight school and was decorated for her service as a pilot in Vietnam, said she had notified her superiors about her plans to undergo the sex change operation.

"We feel it's a simple case of refusing to keep her in their employ as a woman even though they'd be only too happy to have her as a man," said Ms. Ulane's attorney, Fay Clayton. "The fact is, Ms. Ulane right now has more seniority than any female pilot in airline history." Of the 4,500 pilots at Eastern, only two are women, Ms. Clayton said.

Plea For Adoption Records

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — James Grant George would beg his mother to help him beat his bone marrow cancer — if only he knew who she was.

George's biological mother gave him up for adoption 33 years ago. She still doesn't want him to know the name of his biological family. On her side is the state of Missouri, which wants to preserve the secrecy of adoption records.

George's attorney Judith Sharp argued in appeals court Tuesday that his adoption records must be unlocked, but one of three judges strongly criticized the man's compulsion that his plea must be made personally to his blood kin.

George, of Miami, Fla., found out a year ago he has chronic myelocytic leukemia. He says doctors have advised him his best chance for life for more than a few years lies in a bone marrow transplant. A compatible donor, doctors say, would likely be found among blood relatives.

Michael Curley, court-appointed attorney for George's blood relatives, urged the court to maintain secrecy of state adoption records. Curley also indicated his clients feared George would become "persuasive to the point of threatening them" if they refused to donate their marrow.

Doctors: Antibiotics Overused

BOSTON (UPI) — Worldwide overuse of antibiotics as a cure-all is feeding the growth of deadly bacterial superstrains that resist any known treatment — at a rate threatening global health, scientists say.

If nothing is done, said Dr. Walter Gilbert, a Nobel laureate and Harvard University molecular biology professor, "We can look forward to a time when 80 to 90 percent of all infections" are resistant to current treatments.

Sting Operations Snare Drug Smugglers, Profits

MIAMI (UPI) — FBI agents learned the banking business to set up a bogus money-laundering operation that "washed" $200 million in drug money, resulted in charges against 61 people and even turned a tidy profit of up to $4 million.

The FBI said Tuesday major drug smugglers — lugging satchels full of cash — paraded unsuspectingly before hidden video cameras in "Operation Bancoshare," a sting set up with borrowed money in a seedy Dade County office.

The operation put a crack in the complex network through which the enormous profits of the illicit drug trade are "washed" — made to appear legitimate — federal officials said. It also brought the seizure of $12 million, 35 vehicles and at least 16 pounds of cocaine.

Among the 61 people charged are a reputed drug-smuggling kingpin, a former Florida bank officer and more than 30 Colombians suspected of being major drug-trade figures.

By late Tuesday agents said 28 of the 61 had been arrested, most in south Florida. Arrests also were under way in Los Angeles, which along with New York was visited frequently by drug-ring figures laundering cash, officials said.

"This is the kind of case that produces a significant disruption of the narcotics trade," FBI Director William Webster said in Washington. "It will be followed by other intensive, long-range investigations."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Thomas Scalfani said agents collected a 1 to 2 percent fee for their laundering work, bringing in between $2 million and $4 million for the FBI.

Police are also rounding up 51 — including some prominent Dade County businessmen — snared by "Operation Tick-Talks," an eight-month investigation into a large "white-collar" cocaine smuggling network.

Among the suspects are the director of the Little Havana Community Center, a certified public accountant, a real estate agent, an engineer, a school teacher and a nurse/physician, police said.

"Many of these were individual businessmen who conducted legitimate businesses but who also had an interest in narcotics," Miami Police Chief Kenneth Harms said Tuesday.

Police said seven persons had been arrested by early this morning and arrests would continue.

With the help of a key informant and a bug in a clock in a prime suspect's house, the investigation resulted in 268 charges and brought the seizure of cocaine, cash, counterfeit currency and weapons, Harms said.

The investigation was endangered at one point, he said, when the time changed from standard to daylight time — and police feared a suspect setting his clock ahead an hour would find the clock-bug that gave the investigation its name.

Harms said the smuggling ring involved dozens of people linked by a few drug-smugglers.

"This was a very involved network," he said. "We consider this to be a major case in the Miami police department's history."

Harms would not say how much money the drug-smuggling operation had made.

Police said two of the kingpins in the drug network were Frank

Condom, who was involved in the notorious French Connection smuggling ring in the late 1960s, and Frank Castro, who was said to have once been involved with the CIA.

Other prominent figures in the network, Harms said, were Rafael Villaverde, director of the Little Havana Community Center and identified by police as "one of the masterminds;" Villaverde's two brothers, Jorge and Raul; Roberto Ortega, a Coral Gables certified public accountant; Jose A. Fernandez, a federal fugitive on other narcotics charges, and Carlos F. Quesada, who was the target of another drug investigation in 1978.

Fifteen officers worked fulltime on the investigation with the help of the Coral Gables police, the state attorney's office and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement.

Rain Go Away, Altamonte Wants To Play

Laszaic Carries Major Hope

By BENTON WOOD
Herald Sports Writer

Any word similar to defeat has been erased from Gene Letterio's vocabulary for a long time.

Tuesday evening in Plant City Letterio and his Altamonte Major League all-stars tasted what it was like to be on the wrong side of the coin as they lost a battle with rain. Altamonte's first game in the Little League State Championship against Mims is rescheduled for tonight at 8. The losers' bracket contest between Belmont Heights and Sarasota will follow the first game at 8:30 p.m. providing the rain doesn't come back to spoil things again.

"I told them I was willing to forfeit our share of the money in order to play," Letterio said in a last-ditch effort to stave off the closest he's come to defeat all year. Up to this point, though, Mother Nature has been the only one to halt a Letterio coached team this year. His Phillies were 27-0 during the regular season, and the all-stars have captured eight consecutive wins thus far.

"We had everything mapped out," he continued. "The kids were READ-Y." Letterio did point out, however, that the extra day wouldn't hurt his pitchers. "With everyone just getting over the flu the lay-off should help."

Right-hander Anthony Laszaic is still slated for game one against Mims. His last outing was exactly a week ago when he struck out nine and allowed only three hits in an 8-0 blanking of Jacksonville-San Mateo.

Letterio, who pondered over dropping son Shane to third in the batting order, decided to leave his second baseman in the leadoff spot. "I just couldn't think of anybody else to put up there."

tournament play, one behind Letterio. In the clean-up slot will be shortstop Neal Harris with left fielder Gary Nuss batting fifth. Two more of Letterio's Phillies, Jimmy Fox and catcher Dan Beaty, will follow in the sixth and seventh positions. First baseman Fox is averaging a hit per tournament game.

Rounding out the starting lineup is Ryan Lisle in center field and batting eighth, and right fielder Jeff McGeath. Letterio hasn't been shy in going to his bench and hinted prior to the tournament that he plans on using his reserves.

"I can start anyone of 11 or 12 players," he bragged. "I usually give a starter a time or two at the plate to make something happen. But I'm not going to wait five at bats for someone to get a hit when I can pull someone off the bench with an equal chance of getting a hit."

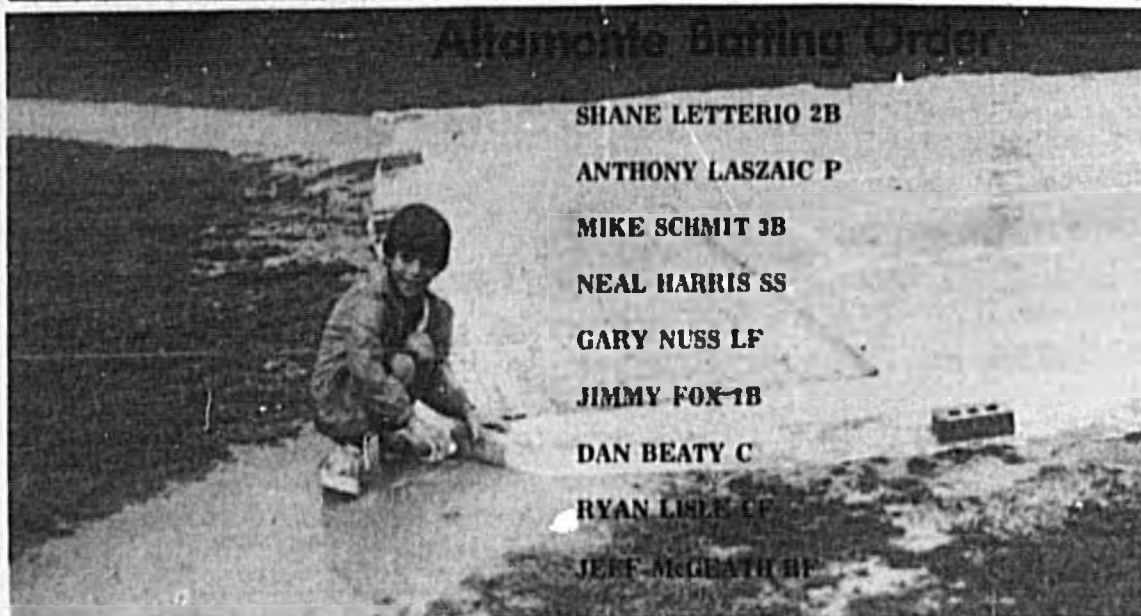

He has no gripes with outfielders Bruce Carlson and Steve Shakar along with shortstop Bret Marshall, ready for action. The three of them have chipped in four home runs among them during all-star play. The other two subs are Sandy Hovis and Todd Deery.

In Altamonte's eight tournament games, it has allowed just four runs (all as a result of home runs) while piling up 67 of its own. Letterio points out, though, that Mims — a 7-4 victor over Sarasota Monday night — may be the best-hitting team that they will face to date.

"I was impressed with their aggressiveness at the plate," Letterio said of Mims after watching Monday's opener. "They hit a lot of hard ground balls."

Tonight's winner will be in the drivers' seat needing only one victory in its next two outings to advance to the South regional in St. Petersburg next Monday.

If, for some reason, the next two nights are washed out, Letterio claims the tournament will be switched to single elimination. Altamonte and Mims are the only unbeaten remaining. "I guess that makes our game pretty important."

The wait was for naught as both games were canceled. Action resumes tonight with Altamonte taking on Mims at 6 and Belmont Heights clashing with Sarasota at 8:30. Below, an Altamonte fan checks the playing conditions around home plate during the showers which lasted for two hours. Letterio will send undefeated right-hander Anthony Laszaic to the mound tonight in an attempt to keep Altamonte unbeaten in tournament play. Mims is also unbeaten, while Belmont Heights, runner-up in the World Series last year at Williamsport, (Pa.) to Taiwan, and Sarasota each have one loss.

Losers

Seahawks, 49ers Eager About Clash Tonight

By United Press International
Believe it or not, the Seattle Seahawks and San Francisco 49ers have been eagerly waiting for tonight.

That's when the two teams, which combined to win just 10 games last season, can forget about their misfortunes of 1980.

The Seahawks, 4-12 last season, host the 49ers, 6-10 in 1980, to kick off the first full week of exhibition play.

Both coaches, Jack Patera of Seattle and Bill Walsh of San Francisco, will be wanting a good look at their top draft choices.

Safety Kenny Easley, the Seahawks' first-round choice from UCLA, and Ronnie Lott, a cornerback who played safety at Southern California, will both start.

"Both have the ability to play either corner or safety and they're big, strong, fast and aggressive," said Jackie Simpson, Seattle's new defensive coordinator. "They are two of the best secondary players I've seen come into the league in a long time."

Lott will be one of three rookies starting in the 49ers secondary. The others are cornerback Eric Wright, a second-round draft pick from Missouri, and safety Carlton Williamson, a third-round choice from Pittsburgh.

In addition to the rookie defensive players, San Francisco also acquired linebacker Jack Reynolds, 33, who became a free agent after 11 years with the Los Angeles Rams.

With Easley at safety, Keith Simpson will be the starting cornerback for the Seahawks. The combination of Easley with veterans Simpson and Dave Brown at the corners gives Seattle three No. 1 draft picks in its secondary.

On offense both teams are hurting. Running backs Paul Hoyer, Lervell Elliot and Phil Francis are not expected to play for the 49ers and Sherman Smith, Dan Dornink and rookie David Hughes are questionable for the Seahawks.

Quarterback Joe Montana will play at least the first quarter with Steve DeBerg getting some time. Backups Guy Benjamin and Gary Huff will get their shots Aug. 15 against San Diego.

Jim Zorn will open for Seattle with backups Sam Adkins and Dave Krieg also likely to play.

In other games this week, Philadelphia is at Houston Thursday; Kansas City is at Washington and the New York Jets are at Denver Friday.

On Saturday, it's Atlanta at Oakland, Baltimore at New Orleans, Cincinnati at Tampa Bay, Detroit at Buffalo, Green Bay at Dallas, Miami at Minnesota, New York Giants at Chicago, Pittsburgh at Cleveland and St. Louis at San Diego.

On Monday, New England is at Los Angeles.

In other training camp news:

—Running back Rick Kane, who backs up Billy Sims, ended his holdout Tuesday by signing a new contract and reporting to the Detroit Lions' camp.

"We worked it out Monday night," Kane said. "It's a good contract."

—Quarterback Ken Anderson is expected to start for Cincinnati against Tampa Bay. But Coach Forrest Gregg said backups Jack Thompson and Turk Schonert are also likely to play. Wide receiver Don Bass and safeties Dick Jauron and Shafer Suggs are recovering from knee injuries and will not play.

—The New York Jets released four players, including ninth-round draft choice Admiral Dewey Larry, a cornerback.

—New York Giants Coach Ray Perkins announced his starting lineup for Saturday's game with Chicago. Quarterback Phil Simms will play the first quarter with backups Scott Brunner and Mark Reed also to see action. Lawrence Taylor, the No. 2 overall pick in the draft, will open at outside linebacker.

—With Ron Jaworski at quarterback, the Philadelphia Eagles will unveil their new shotgun offense Thursday night. Coach Dick Vermeil said the team would run "11 or 12 snaps" out of the spread formation.

—Wide receiver Tony Hill of Dallas was listed as doubtful against Green Bay. Other questionable starters are fullback Robert Newhouse, center John Fitzgerald and wide receivers Butch Johnson and No. 2 draft pick Doug Donley.

—Defensive end Mat Mendenhall, Washington's No. 2 draft pick a year ago, may need surgery on his left knee. Mendenhall spent 1980 on injured reserve because of intestinal problems stemming from a ruptured appendix during his senior year at Brigham Young.

Hard-hitting heavyweight Gerry Cooney has been accused by Heavyweight Champion Larry Holmes of trying to dictate the terms of their upcoming bout.

Holmes Claims Cooney Dictating Fight Terms

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Larry Holmes, the World Boxing Council heavyweight champion, has accused top contender Gerry Cooney of trying to dictate terms of their proposed title match.

"If Cooney doesn't fight by October, I'm walking away from the money," he told a news conference Tuesday. "I've about had it with the Cooney people. He wants a tuneup fight first. We should tune up on each other."

"If Gerry Cooney was champion, I wouldn't try to dictate to him," added Holmes.

No date has been set for the fight and if it doesn't materialize Holmes said he will seek bouts against Greg Page or Michael Dokes, both of whom he said he regards as fast-rising heavyweight stars.

Holmes also ended speculation he would stage an exhibition bout before

Sunday's Roberto Duran-Nino Gonzalez junior middleweight fight, which is expected to draw 5,000 to 10,000 fans at Public Hall.

A Holmes fight would have added to an already-packed sports weekend in Cleveland that currently includes the Cleveland Browns-Pittsburgh Steelers exhibition game Saturday night, the Duran fight Sunday afternoon and the AllStar Game Sunday night.

Holmes' brother, Mark, will fight Benny Mitchell of Columbus Saturday in an eight-round preliminary middleweight bout. And Holmes said he didn't want to "take away" from that event or the Duran bout with his own fight.

"I don't want to try and steal thunder from my brother or from Duran," the WBC champ said. "I will be at the fight at ringside watching with great interest."

Bennett Unconcerned Over Cleveland Setback

SUWANEE, Ga. (UPI) — Leeman Bennett didn't appear particularly concerned about the Atlanta Falcons losing in the Hall of Fame football game.

"Winning or losing, that wasn't really the point," the Falcons coach said while reviewing last Saturday's 24-10 exhibition loss to the Cleveland Browns in Canton, Ohio. "What was important was that we got a look at our fringe players under game conditions."

Even that wasn't as big a deal as it used to be. The Falcons, whose 12-4 record last year equaled the best in the NFL, don't have very many openings for rookies, especially free-agent rookies.

Oh, they'll be keeping some of those new defensive backs — especially Bobby Butler and Scott Woerner, the first and third round draft choices — and a few others here and there. But basically, more than ever before in their 16-year history, the Falcons are set.

"Sure, I'd like to win a couple of exhibition games, but I'd never put winning ahead of the other things we're trying to accomplish this time of year," said Bennett. "After all, this is a training camp and the exhibition games are part of that."

"I wouldn't want to lose all of our exhibition games, not go 0-4 — or rather, this year, 0-5," he said. "But even that isn't as important as doing the things we feel we need to do to get ready for the games that count."

Bennett had another reason for not being upset over the loss to Cleveland. The Falcons play the Browns at Cleveland in late September and he, like so many NFL coaches, feels its hard to beat the same opponent twice in a row.

Bennett did have one complaint about last Saturday's game. Even though he ran his top two running backs, William Andrews and Lynn Cain, only once each, he still felt the Falcons ground game should have been a lot better than it was.

Laudner Ties Homer Mark, Twins' Spin Continues, 7-3

Orlando's "Twin Streaks" continued Tuesday night in Knoxville.

Catcher Tim Laudner crunched his 37th home run of the year in the seventh inning to tie the Southern League mark established by Ken Holtman of Asheville in 1971.

Despite Laudner's smash and two doubles, however, the Twin spin continued on course as the setback — a 7-3 downer to the Blue Jays — was number four in succession.

Tonight, the O-Twins return to Tinker Field to begin an eight-game homestand. Memphis will be here for four games through Saturday and Columbus comes to town Sunday through Wednesday.

Laudner achieved his record feat after a one-day sabbatical because Manager Tom Kelly thought he was pressing. Shortstop Rod Booker pressed Orlando into a 1-0 lead in the first inning with a triple. He then scored when winning pitcher Mark Eichorn, 9-11, balked him home.

Third baseman Gary Gaetti made it, 2-0 moments later when he followed a Randy Bush single and a Scott Ullger double with a sacrifice fly.

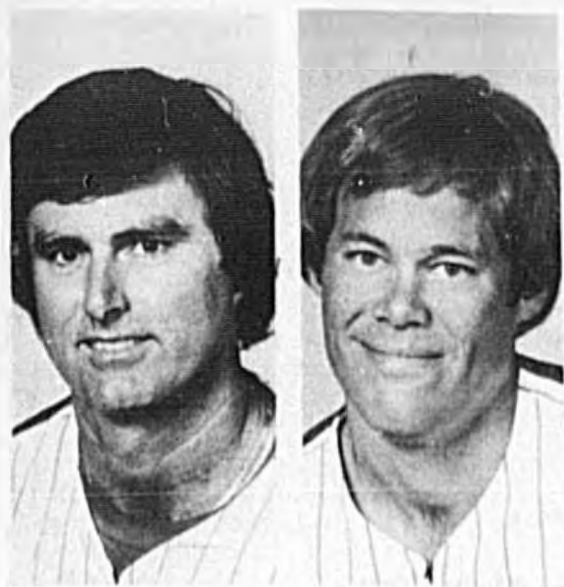

The Twins' lead, though, was short-lived. Knoxville knocked out three runs in its share of the frame and never talled again. Ted Kromy, 8-7, absorbed the loss.

Carlton, Valenzuela Head Nationals' Staff

STEVE CARLTON ... 3000 K's, 2.80 ERA
DICK RUTHVEN joins Carlton on squad

NEW YORK (UPI) — Steve Carlton of the Philadelphia Phillies and rookie Fernando Valenzuela of the Los Angeles Dodgers, each registering nine victories prior to the baseball strike, head a list of nine pitchers named today to represent the National League in Sunday's 52nd All-Star Game.

The game, originally scheduled for July 14 in Cleveland, has been rescheduled for Municipal Stadium and the season will resume the following day.

Also named by Phillies' Manager Dallas Green, who will lead the NL in its bid for a 10th straight victory over the American League, are righthanders Tom Seaver of the Cincinnati Reds, Nolan Ryan of the Houston Astros, Burt Hooton of the Dodgers, Dick Ruthven of the Phillies and relief specialist Bruce Sutter of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Besides Carlton, the 1980 Cy Young Award winner, and Valenzuela, the other lefthanded pitchers are Vida Blue of the San Francisco Giants and Bob Knepper of the Astros.

On April 29, Carlton became the first lefthander to strike out 3,000 batters and has a 9-1 record this season with a 2.80 ERA. He was the starting pitcher for the NL in 1969 and 1979.

Valenzuela, the only rookie pitcher named, posted a 9-4 mark with a 2.45 ERA and led the NL with 103 strikeouts. Hooton and Knepper, who came to the Astros from the California Angels this season, were named for the first time while Seaver, who passed the 3,000 career strikeout mark in April and boasts a 7-1 record, was named to the team for the 12th time.

Blue holds the distinction as the only pitcher to start for both leagues. In 1971, with the Oakland A's, Blue was the winning pitcher for the AL, and he started the 1978 game for the NL.

Sutter, traded to the Cardinals from the Chicago Cubs before the season started, leads the league with 11 saves and has a 3.07 ERA.

The fireballing Ryan will be making his first appearance as a NL pitcher after being named to the AL team while with the California Angels.

Ruthven, with eight wins, also made the team in 1976 and Hooton, 7-3, was named for the first time in his 11-year career.

The NL starting lineup will consist of Philadelphia's Pete Rose at first base; Dave Lopes of Los Angeles at second base; Mike Schmidt of Philadelphia at third base; Dave Concepcion of Cincinnati at shortstop; Gary Carter of Montreal at catcher; and outfielders Andre Dawson of Montreal, George Foster of Cincinnati and Dave Parker of Pittsburgh.

The AL lineup will be Rod Carew of California at first base; Willie Randolph of New York at second base; George Brett of Kansas City at third base; Bucky Dent of New York at shortstop; Carlton Fisk of Chicago at catcher; and outfielders Dave Winfield and Reggie Jackson of New York and Ken Singleton of Baltimore.

RED HOT SHORTSTOP by Alan Maver

Decisions, Decisions! ... Travel, Split Season Pressing Issues

By TONY FAVIA
UPI Sports Writer

Pete Rose, a longtime source of pleasure for baseball fans, likely will provide an immediate boost for the strike-scarred national pastime when the season resumes next week. But before he does, a certain formality has to be decided — how to finish the rest of the season. And the air traffic controllers' strike, involving overworked Federal mediator Kenneth Moffett, doesn't help matters.

Preparations for Sunday night's All-Star Game are in full gear, but all concerned are awaiting the club owners' vote that will determine whether to divide the 1981 season into separate campaigns or pick up with the standings as they were when the strike hit June 12.

The owners cannot get together because of the controllers' strike. They will try to assemble Thursday, but have indicated they will vote by phone if a full meeting is not possible.

Once the finishing touches to the settlement have been taken care of, much of the nation's attention will return to Rose. The Philadelphia Phillies' veteran will set a record with his fifth All-Star position — first base — Sunday. Then he will try to set a National League mark with his 3,631st hit when the regular-season resumes Monday.

SPORTS TALK:

HARRY CARAY

By PETER HANLEY

Harry Caray, voice of the Chicago White Sox, started broadcasting major-league baseball in 1945. He also has done play-by-play for the St. Louis Cardinals and the Oakland A's. You've always been known as a very stylish broadcaster. How would you describe your style?

I would say my style is that of the inveterate fan. My voice goes up when the fan's voice goes up. My dejection shows. I get critical when the fans are critical. I almost boo when the fans boo. I am a fan who is fortunate enough to be in a position where he can relate through his voice, and through the medium, with other fans like himself.

What are the biggest changes in broadcasting since you've started?

I hate the thought of so many fine young announcers being out there in the hinterland like I was. I started in Joliet, I went to Kalamazoo, then I moved into St. Louis. I served my apprenticeship, I improved my vocabulary, I perfected my style. I learned the game. Then I was ready. When I knocked on the door, I got the opportunity. And boom! I was a success right away.

Today, these young people with talent, there's no place for them to go. As soon as a ballplayer finishes, they move him into a broadcasting booth. If it's that easy, some of us sure wasted an awful lot of time. Now an athlete becomes a broadcaster without ever having been before a microphone. I think it's unfortunate. I don't resent the ballplayer's success. But it deprives so many deserving young talents around the nation of the opportunity that they should have somewhere along the line.

What do you think of the booming cable TV market, which is changing the shape of sports broadcasting?

I don't think there's ever going to be anything free anymore. People are going to be able to see more sports than they ever saw in their lives. But they're also going to pay for it. I foresee the day when the owners of sports franchises will be opening the gates for free and offering inducements to get people into the ballpark so that the stands will not be empty. Most of the people will stay at home where the beer is colder, the hot dogs cheaper, the comforts greater. And for a few dollars a month, why not stay home and enjoy it?

You've worked for two of the most innovative owners in baseball history, Bill Veeck of the White Sox and Charlie Finley of the A's. What do you think of them?

Charlie Finley disproved this old baloney that you have to be in baseball 50 years before you know the game. I think executives in baseball perpetuate their jobs with this kind of thinking. Finley was a very successful millionaire insurance man when he got into baseball. He ran his baseball business out of his briefcase. He didn't have the office forces most teams have, yet he came up with the last dynasty we've had.

The Oakland team won three consecutive world championships. Lord only knows how many in a row they would have won had he been able to keep that team together. If a ball club wanted a great general manager, Charlie Finley would be the guy I suggest they hire.

Bill Veeck is the most remarkable human being I've ever met. If the baseball owners had listened to him years ago during the Curt Flood case — when Veeck was one of the witnesses for Flood and warned the owners of what was down the line in the way of the reserve clause, and that they should do something about it now — all the trouble that baseball has had, including the strike, would never have happened.

Bill Veeck was a man of the people. His main interest was the comfort of the fan at the game. He won pennants with the Indians in 1948 and the White Sox in 1959, but never won with the White Sox the second time around.

But the success the Sox have had this season is primarily because of the efforts of Bill Veeck. He's the guy that signed Ron Lefflore and Jim Easton. He's the guy responsible for all these young pitchers who have made the White Sox a very respectable ballclub. Then the new owners came along and got Carlton Fisk and Greg Luzinski. All of a sudden a very bad ballclub of a year ago is a contender this year.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Sunniland Finishes Ninth In State Softball Tourney

It could best be termed the lost weekend. Sanford's three class "A" men's softball teams went to the Florida Recreation Softball Association State Tournament in Melbourne and returned with just one victory in seven games.

Sunniland — the third place team in the league — came away with a victory when it hammered Palm Country Toyota, 23-7. Joe Benton, Chuck McMullan and Nick Mergo each socked a home run for Sunniland, who collected 37 hits.

Phil Spake and Carl Lee stroked four singles apiece and Tommy Gracey belted two singles and a triple. Bill Sloudemire picked up the victory on the mound.

Despite three homers by Benton, McMullan and Mergo in the next game, Sunniland lost to the Daytona A's, 14-8. Benton also slugged a triple and Lee had two singles. Sunniland finished ninth in the state.

Auto Parts was beaten, 19-1 Friday by Ace Auto and Aloe Butter, 16-1. Rich Plan dropped a 14-5 contest to the Daytona A's Friday and was ousted by the Daytona Blue Machine, 15-11 Saturday despite three round-trippers by catcher Eddie Jackson.

Feller: 62, Still Throws A Baseball 76 Miles Per Hour

NEW YORK (UPI) — Maybe the other pitchers need a little time to get back in shape. Bob Feller doesn't. He's in better shape than most of them already.

And why not? He's only 62 and he pitches a few innings practically every night some place or other in the country, putting on exhibitions as public relations ambassador for his old club, the Cleveland Indians. He also instructs kid pitchers in their farm system and does promotional work for some industrial firm like Massey-Ferguson Tractor Company, as he did Tuesday in Evansville, Ind.

That once awesome and still remarkably right arm of his will be on display in Indianapolis Wednesday and Thursday and he'll be throwing the ball, not lobbing it, in the Springfield, Ill., ball park Friday and Saturday.

Then Sunday night, he'll be on the coaching line for an inning or so in Cleveland Stadium as honorary captain for the American League AllStars while Warren Spahn will fill that role for the National Leaguers.

In his time, Feller pitched three no-hitters and 12 one-hitters, leading the American League in strikeouts seven times and fanning 348 batters in 1946 after serving in the Navy from 1942 through most of the 1945 season. He won 266 games and unquestionably would've gone way past the magical 300 victory figure had he not gone off to war.

Up at Cooperstown this past weekend where he was one of the 21 Hall of Famers on hand, the former Cleveland fireballer was approached by a youngster who said to him what a shame it was he had to "waste" as much time as he did in the Navy during World War II.

Feller, who feels rather strongly on the subject of serving his country, struggled to keep from showing his anger.

"One of the main reasons I 'wasted' my time like that," he snapped, "was so you could have the opportunity to stand here and make a foolish remark the way you just did."

Milton Richman

UPI Sports Editor

He's proud of the time he put in as a chief petty officer in the Navy, and approaching senior citizenship. He's just as proud of the physical shape he's in and the way he can still throw the ball.

"I was at a carnival in Cleveland two weeks ago where they had one of those radar guns that measure how hard you can throw," he said to me. "I didn't go all out and I could hardly comb my hair the next day, but they clocked the ball I threw at 76 miles an hour."

That wasn't anywhere near the 104 mph he once registered in his prime but it was still phenomenal considering his age.

Outspoken as always, Feller feels the recent strike was "a sad commentary" on the way baseball is run at present.

"When I was a player rep, I had a suggestion I thought was pretty good but nobody listened to it. I suggested the players and the clubs cooperate with one another and work together with the commissioner. The management of each club would have one vote and the players with each club would have one vote so there would be 52 votes in all, and the commissioner, through his office, would arbitrate all disputes through a system of binding arbitration. I made that suggestion in 1955 or 1956 but they fluffed me off."

At the moment, Feller has a $3 million libel action going against the National Enquirer which carried a story about him saying he was "a shameless moocher" and had been arrested for stealing an airplane.

"People ask me what my reaction was to the story and I tell them it was horse muffs," he says. "Regarding that business about the airplane, I had been using it with the owner's full knowledge and the only problem that arose was through a simple misunderstanding."

"I'm not a moocher and I never was. I wasn't brought up that way."

Hadn't he passed some rubber checks, though?

"That's true," he answered honestly. "I bounced a couple of checks in the late '60s, but that was only because I didn't know my account had been closed. I admit I should've been more careful. It was all taken care of, though. It never got to court or anything like that."

Dear Abby

12-Year-Old Can't Cope With Drunken Parents

DEAR ABBY: I am a 12-year-old girl with a problem I can't talk to anybody about, and it's getting worse. I'm the oldest of three children. We live in a nice house in a nice neighborhood. We aren't poor and we aren't rich either. Mom works part time as a nurse, and Dad works everyday except weekends — and that's when the trouble starts. Dad starts drinking on Friday night and he stays drunk all weekend.

When he's drunk he gets mean to Mom, and there's so much yelling and fighting I'm afraid the neighbors will hear it.

Now Mom has started to drink with him, and she even drinks during the daytime when she's home. When Dad comes home and she's been drinking, they have a big fight. I'm afraid they are going to get a divorce. I'm ashamed to have my friends over, and I don't want to go anywhere when my parents are drinking because I worry about my brother, who's 9, and my sister, who's 8.

What can I do, Abby? Don't tell me to try to talk some sense into them. Who would listen to a 12-year-old kid?

ASHAMED IN INDIANAPOLIS

DEAR ASHAMED: You are not alone. There are more kids with your problem that you know. I recently read an excellent little book titled, "The Secret Everyone Knows." Its author, Cathleen Brooks, grew up with alcoholic parents and knows what a child must do in order to survive in that environment. She explains alcoholism for the disease it is and tells kids how to deal with drinking parents and where to get help in their own communities.

It's not only for children. A 40-year-old friend told me that her father had died 22 years ago of chronic alcoholism, and after reading this little book much of the anger, hostility and shame she had harbored over the years was greatly reduced.

It's available by writing to: Operation Cork, 8339 Villa La Jolla, San Diego, Calif. 92167. If you can send $1 to cover cost of mailing, please do, as it is a non-profit organization. If you don't have the dollar, the organization will send one free.

DEAR ABBY: A follow-up to Donna in the lost-and-found-department of Eastern Airlines in Seattle: It's a good idea to put I.D. tags on all your luggage, inside and out, but here's another suggestion:

Put your destination address instead of your home address in the I.D. holders. That way, should your luggage be lost, misdirected or delayed, when located it will be sent to where you are, not where you were!

REILLY, ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.

DEAR REILLY: Smart move rather than depending on the luck of the Irish.

DEAR ABBY: A 7-year-old boy wrote to say he wanted a dog, but his mother said no. He asked for your help in persuading his mother to change her mind, and all he got from you was a long lecture on what it meant to be a responsible pet owner. You asked him who was going to feed the dog, walk the dog and clean up any messes it might make. That made sense.

But how come you asked a 7-year-old kid who was going to pay for the dog license, regular examinations at the vet, shots and the cost of having the dog spayed or neutered?

I want to know how you figure a child that age can come up with that kind of money?

CURIOUS IN FORT DODGE, IOWA

DEAR CURIOUS: I didn't expect the boy to come up with the money. I mentioned it to let every kid who wants a dog know that it costs money to be a responsible pet owner, and while dogs need trees — money doesn't grow on them!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. Write to Abby: 12000 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cook Of The Week: Mary Childers

She Freezes Summer Surplus For Winter

By LOIS SMITH
Herald Correspondent

Have your taste buds every yearned for the fresh flavor of corn on the cob, okra, or black eyed peas in the middle of winter?

Mary Childers and her family did until about 10 years ago when she bought her freezer. Since then, Mary has been supplying all those out of season good foods for her family whenever they want them.

Mary and her husband Louis live with their daughter, Kim, 16, on Riverview Avenue, Sanford. They have one married son, Wesley, who recently made them proud grandparents with the birth of a daughter. Louis is the owner of the Auto Glass & Seat Cover Company. Mary is a homemaker and has lived in Sanford all of her life.

"I like being a homemaker," Mary says. "Most of my hobbies and interests have to do with things in and around my home. I enjoy making ceramics for myself and also as gifts. Gardening is another interest of mine," she said. "But, I particularly like freezing fresh vegetables."

Mary explains, "I watch the newspaper for the advertisements listing the vegetables available for picking. Then I put on my oldest jeans and tennis shoes and head out to the field. I prefer to pick my own vegetables for several reasons: It's more economical and primarily because of the freshness, I feel I get better quality. Then it's home to wash, sort and prepare for freezing."

This year Mary's freezer is well stocked with corn, squash, okra, and all varieties of peas and beans. She advises storing most vegetables for no longer than 6 to 12 months.

Mary suggests the following ideas for freezing vegetables.

1. Use the freshest and tenderest vegetables you can find.

2. Wash vegetables thoroughly and sort. They usually require several washings.

3. Blanch small amounts of vegetables at one time. Use about 1 pound of vegetables to 1 gallon of boiling water in the blancher.

Mary refers to a freezing chart provided by the Agri-Center when preparing her vegetables.

VEGETABLE AND PREPARATION

Beans, bush or pole: Wash, remove ends, cut in 1 to 2 inch pieces. Blanch for 3 minutes. Chill. Pack in containers leaving 1/2 inch headspace; seal and freeze.

Carrots: Remove tops, wash and peel. Leave small carrots whole. Cut others in 1/2 inch cubes, slices or strips. Blanch whole carrots 5 minutes, slices 2 minutes. Chill. Pack in containers leaving 1/2 inch headspace; seal and freeze.

On the cob: Husk, silk and wash. Sort according to size, blanch 4 minutes and chill. Wrap in air tight moisture resistant material; seal and freeze.

Eggplant: Wash, peel and cut into one-third or 1/2 inch slices. Dip into solution of 1 tablespoon lemon juice to 1 quart water. Blanch 4 minutes. Chill. Dip again into lemon juice solution. Pack in air tight containers, leaving 1/2 inch headspace; seal and freeze.

Mary suggests contacting the Agri-Center, 4320 South Orlando Drive, Sanford for additional information on freezing fruits and vegetables.

"We also enjoy other foods," says Mary, and she provides the recipes for some of her family's favorites.

Prescribed Reading

By MEDCO

Retina detachment is most likely to occur in people with high blood pressure, diabetes or those who are myopic (near-sighted). There are, however, some very significant early warning signs which should be heeded in terms of quick treatment before total detachment results in blindness. Reading and television viewing ability is frequently preserved until virtually the last moment. However, signs to watch for include sudden appearances of "floaters" — small, shadowy fly or spider-like shapes, and spontaneous flickers or flashes of light, most noticeable in the evening or pre-dawn hours. As the retina becomes more detached, a growing curtain of darkness may seem to envelope objects, although they may still be seen clearly. As with many other diseases, anyone who has experienced these symptoms should see their physician for examination. The earlier the signs are noted and heeded, the better the chances for recovery.

 1 pound sole or flounder fillets
 2 tablespoons fresh Florida lime juice
 Salt and pepper
 1/4 teaspoon each dried tarragon and chives
 4 lime wedges

Melt butter in shallow baking pan. Arrange fillets in pan, turning to coat both sides with butter. Drizzle lime juice over fish. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and crushed herbs. Cover pan with foil. FRESH FLORIDA CHEESECAKE

Filling:
 2 envelopes unflavored gelatin
 1 1/4 cups sugar
 Dash salt
 1 cup milk
 2 eggs, well beaten
 3 cups creamed cottage cheese
 6 tablespoons fresh Florida lime juice
 1 or 2 drops green food coloring (optional)
 1 cup stiffly whipped cream

Crumb Topping:
 1/2 cup graham cracker crumbs
 1 tablespoon sugar
 2 tablespoons butter, softened

Combine gelatin, sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Stir in milk and beaten eggs. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until gelatin is dissolved (about 5 minutes). Blend cottage cheese, lime juice and green coloring (if desired) with electric mixer, or in blender on high speed until smooth. Add gelatin mixture; mix well. Stir in whipped cream. Pour into 8-inch round spring form pan. Chill until partially set. Combine topping ingredients and sprinkle over filling. Chill until firm. Makes 10 to 12 servings. (AFNS)

Buttermilk Dressing Tops Vegetable Salad

When the heat of the day lingers into the night, it's time for a cool and simple supper!

This three-cheese vegetable salad, with an old-fashioned buttermilk dressing, is delicious enough to spur everyone's appetite. Complete your supper with individual buttered bread loaves and glasses of cold milk.

It's an exciting combination!

THREE-CHEESE VEGETABLE SALAD

(Yield: 8 Servings)

DRESSING AND VEGETABLE MARINADE:
 2 cups buttermilk
 2 cups dairy sour cream
 2 packages (.5 oz. each) creamy Italian salad dressing mix
 2 cups raw cauliflowerets
 2 cups sliced raw zucchini

SALAD:
 6 ounces longhorn Colby cheese, sliced and cut in half
 6 ounces Muenster cheese, cut in sticks
 6 ounces Gouda cheese, cut in wedges
 1/2 pint cherry tomatoes
 1 head romaine lettuce
 1 head iceberg lettuce

For dressing and marinade, gradually stir buttermilk into sour cream. Stir in salad dressing mix. Pour over cauliflowerets and zucchini in a large glass dish or bowl. Cover and refrigerate several hours.

To assemble salad, line a large platter with a few leaves of romaine lettuce. Tear remaining lettuce into bite size pieces and place in a large bowl. Remove vegetables from marinade, reserving marinade for salad dressing.

Arrange vegetables in three clusters on platter. Arrange cheese between vegetables on platter. Center platter with tomatoes. Serve with reserved salad dressing and salad greens.

Herbs And Vegetables Are Good For Grilling

Fresh vegetables such as zucchini and tomatoes cook well on a grill

It is easy to cook a complete meal on the outdoor grill. For example, baste thickly sliced eggplant, halved zucchini or tomato halves with melted butter spiced with onion powder, parsley flakes, basil leaves, garlic powder and black pepper. Place the vegetables right on the grill, turning them occasionally with a spatula. If you have a hinged wire grill, use this for added convenience.

Peas, sliced carrots, potatoes, baby onions and lima beans may be cooked over charcoal, too. Put them in a heavy duty foil package with a seasoned butter or margarine for the cooking liquid. Cut a slit in the top of the foil to let steam escape.

HERB GRILLED VEGETABLES

1/2 cup butter or margarine
 1 tablespoon onion powder
 1 tablespoon parsley flakes
 1 teaspoon basil leaves, crushed

1 teaspoon garlic powder
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
 1 medium-sized eggplant, cut in 1/2-inch slices
 2 medium zucchini, cut in half, lengthwise
 2 medium tomatoes, cut in half, crosswise

In small saucepan, melt butter. Stir in onion powder, parsley flakes, basil, garlic powder, salt and black pepper; set aside. Brush both sides of vegetables with herb-butter mixture. Arrange eggplant and zucchini on a grill over hot charcoal. Grill for 5 minutes. Turn eggplant and zucchini. Place tomatoes on grill, cut side up. Grill all vegetables until done, about 5 minutes longer, brushing occasionally with remaining herb-butter mixture. If desired, all vegetables may be grilled in a hinged wire grill over hot charcoal for 10 minutes, turning and brushing occasionally with herb-butter mixture. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 portions.

Preserve Sweet Cherries Now To Enjoy Next Winter

The season for many fresh fruits is relatively short. For example, the supply of Northwest fresh sweet cherries is nearing an end. You can continue that special taste of a favored fruit by freezing or drying them to use during the fall and winter.

Freezing cherries whole with stems is quite easy. Have moisture-proof containers with lids or plastic freezer bags at the ready when you begin. Work with a small amount of cherries to allow for quick handling and prompt freezing. Wash cherries in ice water and drain. Spread cherries with stems on a cookie sheet and freeze until firm. Pack into containers, cover, label and return to freezer. Use as garnishes or frozen snacks.

Meanwhile, a frozen sweet cherry topping may be used over hot breads, as a filling for pastries or turnovers or topping for ice cream or custard. Dried sweet cherries make beautiful snacks for the family.

FROZEN SWEET CHERRY TOPPING

4 cups prepared Northwest fresh sweet cherries
4 cups sugar

1/4 cup lemon juice
1 cup water
1 package (1 1/4 ounce) powdered fruit pectin

Wash, stem, pit and halve cherries; measure 4 cups. Mix in sugar and lemon juice. Let stand 30 minutes, stir occasionally.

Combine water and pectin; bring to boil and boil hard 1 minute. Pour over cherry mixture; stir about 3 minutes. Pour into clean containers; cover with tight-fitting lids. Let stand at room temperature until cool. Freeze. This kitchen-tested recipe makes approximately 6 half pints.

DRYING NORTHWEST FRESH SWEET CHERRIES

Select firm, ripe Northwest fresh sweet cherries. Wash, remove stems and pit if desired. Place cherries, skin side down if in halves, in single layers on dehydrator trays. Dry at a temperature of 140 degrees for a period of up to six hours, being careful not to overdry cherries. Cherries should be leathery and slightly sticky when properly dried. To store, place in small plastic bags, seal and keep in dark, dry, cool spot until used.

Northwest sweet cherries freeze well for toppings or snacks.

Easy Casserole For Busy People

Casserole dishes are staging a comeback at the dining table. Some very tasty concoctions can be made for a minimum amount of money. Usually, most casseroles save on time spent in the kitchen, a major consideration these days as more women are joining the work force.

Casseroles also are stretch dishes, and recipes for some basic casseroles can be tucked into the student's back-to-college kit or used to start a recipe file for a bride.

A mushroom, cheese and turkey strata will entice youngsters away from their pizza diet, too.

MUSHROOM, CHEESE AND TURKEY STRATA

1 pound small fresh mushrooms or 2 cans (8 1/2 ounces each) whole mushrooms
1/4 cup butter or margarine, melted
1/2 cup minced onion
1 small clove garlic, crushed
10 slices white bread
1 cup shredded American cheese
2 cups diced, cooked turkey or chicken
8 eggs, beaten lightly
2 1/2 cups milk
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper

Rince and pat dry fresh mushrooms or drained canned mushrooms. In a medium skillet, heat butter. Add mushrooms, onion and garlic. Sauté 3 minutes. Trim and discard crusts from bread slices. Cut each slice into a 3-inch circle; set aside. Tear remaining bread into pieces and place in a buttered 3-quart casserole. Arrange alternate layers of cheese, turkey and sautéed mushrooms in the casserole. Overlap bread circles around outer edge of the casserole. Combine eggs, milk, salt and black pepper; pour over casserole ingredients, completely moistening the bread. Bake, uncovered, in preheated 350-degree oven 1 hour and 15 minutes or until bread is lightly browned. Serve as a main dish for lunch or supper. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

Skillet dish calls for leftover chicken, pasta and vegetables.

One-Dish Meal Is Prepared In Skillet

Leftover chicken is the base for a one-dish skillet meal that combines fresh and canned vegetables. An added stretch ingredient is shell macaroni.

This may be prepared on an outdoor grill. It also makes a good campsite hot dish.

Serve with a fruit salad or cantaloupe and cottage cheese salad and butter-etch brownies.

VEGETABLE TURNAROUND SKILLET

2 slices bacon
1 cup macaroni, squash cut in strips
1 teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
2 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) turkey or chicken gravy
2 cups cooked small shell macaroni
1 cup cooked diagonally sliced carrots
1 cup cubed cooked chicken
1 can (about 8 ounces) whole kernel golden corn, drained in saucepan, cook bacon until crisp; remove and crumble. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons drippings.
Cook macaroni with oregano in drippings until tender. Add remaining ingredients except bacon.
Heat; stir occasionally. Garnish with bacon. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 3 1/2 cups, 4 servings.

Natural springs were considered sacred in ancient Greece and shrines were built around them.

Barbecue Season Is Time For Salmon

Barbecue season is the time to enjoy the harvest from the icy waters off the coast of Alaska. Our 49th state is famous for its salmon catch.

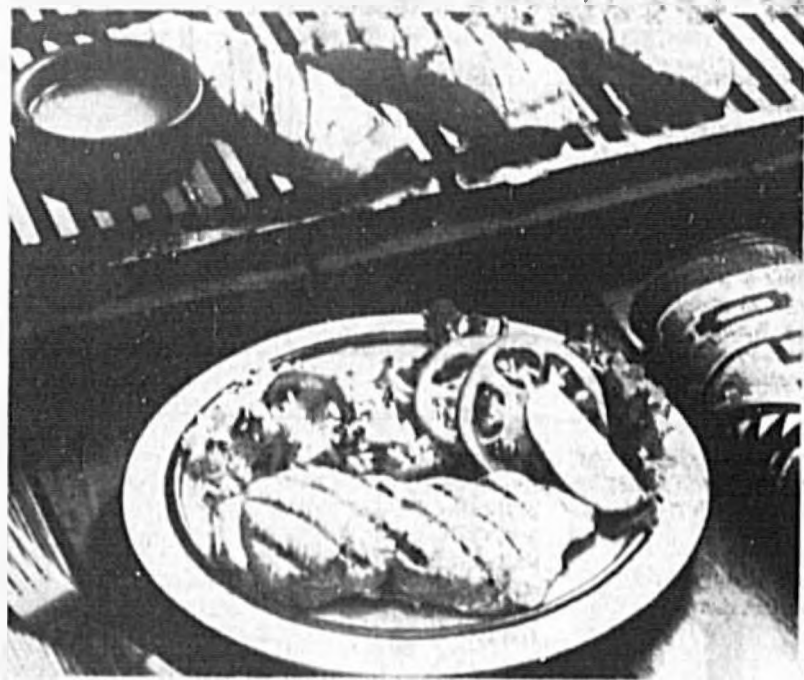

Although salmon is available throughout the year fresh or frozen, it is now at its peak from the Northwest. A pound of salmon fillets or steaks will easily serve four; it is a rich and filling fish and provides high quality protein.

For your next cookout, grill salmon brushed with a tangy lemon-butter basting sauce. It will take 12 to 15 minutes to grill, but test with a fork at 12 minutes. As soon as the salmon flakes, it is done.

Serve with sauteed sugar snap peas, sliced tomato-onion salad, julienne french fries and a fresh strawberry pie with vanilla ice cream.

BARBECUED SALMON

1 pound fresh or frozen Alaska salmon fillets or steaks (4 to 6 ounces each)
 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
 1 tablespoon each lemon juice and white wine vinegar
 1/4 teaspoon grated lemon peel
 1/4 teaspoon each garlic salt and salt
 Dash hot pepper sauce
 Thaw salmon, if necessary. Combine remaining ingredients; generously brush both sides of salmon with mixture. Place on oiled barbecue grill flesh-side down. Barbecue on flesh side about 2 minutes; turn salmon carefully. Brush with sauce. Make a tent of foil or use barbecue cover and place over salmon. Barbecue 8 to 10 minutes longer or until salmon flakes easily when tested with a fork; baste frequently. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 3 or 4 servings.

Barbecued Alaska Salmon Fillets a special treat.

Gourmet Barbecue Impresses Guests

Want to be an overnight sensation by hosting a gourmet barbecue? You can be the hit of the summer by serving lusciously marinated dishes that combine fine flavors and the sizzle of outdoor cooking.

The wonderful news about this fresh approach to barbecuing is that it's as easy as 1-2-3: economy, easy preparation and loads of flavor.

Marinades are a fanciful method of allowing foods to absorb rich flavors. By steeping them in a tangy mix of lemon or lime juice, vinegar, oil and seasonings for several hours, the foods almost prepare themselves!

Two main dishes, "Hot" Grilled Trout and Herbed Lime Chicken, get the maximum impact of taste when pierced with a fork to let the marinade soak through the skin. The fish is marinated in lemon juice, ginger and the subtle boost of Tabasco sauce, the perfect flavor-enricher of fish. The chicken, on the other hand, is bathed in fragrant herbs and piquant Tabasco sauce to give it its cosmopolitan flair. This grilled chicken offers flavors familiar enough to most palates, and is a delightful way of introducing fine cuisine to children.

But before you "rev" up the grill, here are a few tips on barbecuing:

—Use long-handled tongs (a fork punctures the meat) or basting brushes to avoid contact with intense heat from the coals.

—Add hardwood chips (hickory, apple or cherry) to the fire, to give the food a delicate aroma.

—Seal the chicken or fish close to the coals on each side; then raise the grill and cook until done.

—When using fresh fish, look for moist, firm flesh and bright eyes. If frozen, make sure the fish is completely thawed before cooking.

—Oil the grill to prevent fish from sticking; keep in mind, the thicker the fish, the longer it takes to cook.

—Don't forget Tabasco sauce is a wonderful addition to homemade or bottled vinaigrette. Splash dressing lightly over freshly sliced tomatoes and onion rings for a delightful simple summer salad.

"HOT" GRILLED TROUT

1/4 cup lemon juice
 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
 2 tablespoons sesame seeds
 1 tablespoon Tabasco pepper sauce
 1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 4 brook trout, about 1 pound each

In a shallow dish combine lemon juice, butter, oil, parsley, sesame seeds, Tabasco sauce, ginger, and salt; mix well. Pierce skin of fish in several places with the tines of a fork. Roll fish in the juice mixture to coat inside and out. Cover. Refrigerate 30 minutes to 1 hour, turning occasionally. Remove fish from marinade; reserve marinade. Place fish in a hand held hinged grill; brush fish with reserved marinade. Cook about 4 inches from hot coals 5 minutes. Turn; brush with marinade, cook 5 minutes longer. Fish is done when it flakes easily with a fork. If desired, serve with additional Tabasco sauce.

YIELD: 4 servings.

HERBED LIME CHICKEN

2 to 3 pounds chicken pieces
 1/2 cup vegetable oil

 1/4 cup chopped onion
 2 cloves garlic, crushed
 1 to 1 1/2 teaspoons Tabasco pepper sauce
 1/2 teaspoon dried rosemary, crumbled
 1/2 teaspoon dried leaf marjoram, crumbled
 1/2 teaspoon salt

Pierce chicken skin in several places with a fork. In shallow dish or plastic bag combine chicken and remaining ingredients. Cover. Refrigerate overnight in lime mixture. Drain chicken; reserve marinade. Place chicken over hot coals. Cook about 20 minutes per side, or until chicken is done. Turn chicken several times during grilling, brushing with reserved marinade each time. Serve with additional Tabasco sauce, if desired.

YIELD: 4 servings.

Exploring The World To Sample Culinary Delights

MIDDLE EAST:
It is thought that wandering nomads throughout the Arab world were the originators in the art of using rice, spices and small amounts of meat to make a filling, delicious meal.

CHICKEN PILAU

- 1 cup chopped onions
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 2 tablespoons vegetable oil
- 1 whole chicken breast (about 10 ounces), skinned, boned, and cut in cubes

- 1 teaspoon each salt and ground ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 can (17 ounces) apricot halves (drain; reserve syrup)
- 2 tablespoons each soy sauce and sherry
- Chicken broth

Saute onions and garlic in oil until tender but not brown. Add chicken; cook 2 minutes longer. Stir in rice, raisins, and seasonings. Mix apricot syrup, soy sauce and sherry, with enough broth to make 2 cups. Stir into rice mixture. Bring to a boil, stir once, reduce heat, cover, and simmer 25 minutes or until rice is tender and liquid is absorbed. Add apricot halves. Heat thoroughly. Toss lightly.

Makes 6 servings.

RUSSIA:

The lavish use of smetana (sour cream) is quite common in Russian dishes — including its use in this aristocratic dish named for the 19th century diplomat, Count Stroganoff.

BEEF STROGANOFF WITH PIMIENTO RICE.

- 1 1/2 pounds boneless chuck roast, cut in thin, narrow strips
- 2 tablespoons shortening or oil
- 2 small bay leaves
- 2 cloves garlic, crushed
- 3 cups beef broth
- 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 2 1/2 cups chopped onions
- one-third cup flour
- 1/2 cup sherry, optional
- 1/2 cup sour cream

- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 3 cups cooked rice
- 1/4 cup diced pimientos

Cook meat in shortening until brown. Add bay leaves, garlic and 2 cups of broth. Cover; simmer 1 hour or until tender. Add seasonings and 2 cups onions. Mix a little broth into the flour and blend to a smooth paste. Add rest of broth and wine. Stir into meat mixture. Cook about 10 minutes longer. Remove from heat; discard bay leaves. Stir in sour cream. Meanwhile, saute green pepper and remaining onions in butter until tender. Stir in rice; season with additional salt and pepper. Heat thoroughly. Add pimientos; fluff lightly with a fork. Serve Stroganoff over Pimiento rice.

ITALY:

From one of the few European countries whose rich heritage of traditional dishes has remained relatively unchanged, this dish is a combination of the two Italian cuisines — northern and southern.

BEEF AND RICE NAPOLI

- 1 1/2 pounds lean ground beef
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 3 tablespoons finely chopped parsley
- 1 clove garlic, crushed

- 1/2 teaspoon each oregano and basil
- 6 small zucchini (about 1 1/2 pounds), sliced 1/4-inch thick
- 3 cups hot cooked rice
- Grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 cup sour cream

Saute ground beef, onions, parsley, and garlic about 3 minutes, stirring to break up meat. Add tomato sauce, broth, and seasonings. Simmer, covered, about 10 minutes. Stir in zucchini; replace cover and simmer about 15 minutes or until zucchini is tender but holds its shape. Spoon over beds of fluffy rice. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese and top with a dollop of sour cream.

'Retort' To Future Cooking Needs Here

The day is not far when many of the processed foods you now buy canned or frozen will come to the market in a slim lightweight package called a retort pouch. These flexible containers promise to streamline cooking methods as they deliver consistently high quality foods.

Packaged, distributed and stored safely without refrigeration, pouch-packed foods, which include precooked entrees, are an energy-efficient convenience for both the distributor and retailer. Energy is conserved at home, too, because the food is prepared in minutes simply by heating the pouch in boiling water.

Constructed of several layers of plastic and aluminum foil, the filled pouches are heat processed in approximately half the time needed for similar canned foods. With less heat exposure, the resulting product has a fresher flavor and color and firmer texture.

When compared to frozen foods, the quality of retort pouch foods ranks high. In an in-home usage test conducted by Kraft, Inc. for the new ala carte entrees (available in limited markets), 73 percent of the participants judged the retort pouch products to be equal or better than similar frozen foods. Entree varieties include: Beef Stroganoff, Creamed Chicken, Beef Burgundy, Sweet 'N Sour Pork and Beef Stew.

The new packaging technology, which represents an industry research and development investment of several years, comes at the right time for changing '80s lifestyles. Today, with more women working away from home, family members on different time schedules, and greater numbers of one- and two-person households, the single-serving entree—with its ease of preparation and no cleanup—is particularly appropriate.

Industry experts predict that retort pouches will be one of the leading food packages in the consumer market before the end of the century. It benefits the consumer and retailer because it is energy-efficient, protects and preserves the freshness of the food for a longer time, reduces waste disposal, cuts shipping and storage costs and saves labor.

Create Jams The Easy Freezer Way

Linger a little longer the next time you see fresh peaches at the market. Wouldn't they be delicious in Spiced Peach Butter to make morning toast more exciting? Continue walking up the aisle to the display of powdered fruit pectin and put a handy package in your shopping cart. Count on commercial fruit pectin to help capture fresh peach flavor and also assure a good "set" in this easy freezer recipe.

Follow the recipe accurately, keeping in mind you're using commercial pectin for jelling purposes. Natural pectin in fruit, which acts as a binder, often decreases as fruit ripens. So, it's necessary to supplement natural pectin with a commercial type, which happens to be in powdered form for this particular recipe. The other type of commercial pectin—liquid fruit pectin—should not be used as a substitute in this recipe. While both pectins attain successful results, they are not interchangeable because recipes are developed for a specific type of pectin—powdered or liquid.

Here's a contemporary recipe that puts your blender to work chopping peaches. Then simply add spices and sugar and stir in the powdered fruit pectin mixture. Ladle the fruit mixture into prepared containers, cover securely with lids and let stand about 24 hours before storing in the freezer.

The "plus" of this freezer recipe is that you can reuse small containers, not over a pint in capacity, with tight-fitting lids. Glass jars or dishwasher-safe plastic containers should be prepared as directed in the pectin package insert.

Additional jam and jelly recipes are included in the package insert. When fresh peach season is a memory, you'll have opportunity to create more eating pleasure as another favorite seasonal fruit arrives.

SPICED PEACH BUTTER

- 2-1/4 cups prepared peaches (about 2 lb. fully ripe peaches)
 - 1/4 cup lemon juice
 - 1 teaspoon ascorbic acid crystals (optional)
 - 5 cups (2-1/4 lb.) sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 3/4 cup water
 - 1 box Sure-Jell fruit pectin
- First prepare the fruit. Peel and pit about 2 pounds peaches; cut into quarters. Place a few pieces at a time in electric blender container so that blades are just covered. Cover and turn control from off to low several times until peaches are finely chopped or pureed. Measure 2-1/4 cups into large bowl or

pan. Add lemon juice and ascorbic acid.

Then make the jam. Thoroughly mix sugar and spices into fruit; let stand 10 minutes. Mix water and fruit pectin in small saucepan. Bring to a full boil and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir into fruit. Continue stirring 3 minutes. (A few sugar crystals will remain.) Ladle quickly into scalded containers. Cover at once with tight lids. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours; then store in freezer. Small amounts may be covered and stored in refrigerator up to 3 weeks. Makes about 6 cups or about 7 (8 fl. oz.) containers.

Note: Addition of ascorbic acid helps maintain color and flavor of fruit; purchase at local drugstore.

Homemade jams may be made throughout the year in small quantities and kept in the freezer until ready to use.

For example, a freezer strawberry jam takes little time to prepare, yet is long in its taste rewards.

Prepare extra jars of jams occasionally to give as gifts for the elderly or at bazaars.

FREEZER STRAWBERRY JAM

- 1 quart fresh strawberries
 - 4 cups sugar
 - 3/4 cup water
 - 1 package (1 1/2 ounces) powdered fruit pectin
- Crush berries completely. Measure 2 cups fruit with juices into bowl. Thoroughly mix in sugar; let stand 10 minutes. Combine water and pectin in saucepan. Bring to boil and boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Stir pectin mixture into fruit; continue stirring 3 minutes. Ladle quickly into sterilized freezer jars or containers, allowing 1/2-inch head space. Cover with lids. Let stand at room temperature 24 hours. Store in freezer. If to be used in 2 or 3 weeks, store in refrigerator. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 2 1/2 pints.

Old-Fashioned Corn Oysters

Old-fashioned corn oysters are another way to enjoy fresh corn during the height of the season.

Cooked on a griddle, they make a good breakfast treat and also go well with dinner treats or fish.

Some enjoy corn oysters topped with maple syrup or molasses.

CORN OYSTERS

- 1 cup fresh corn cut from cob
 - 2 eggs, separated
 - 1/4 cup sifted all-purpose flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
 - one-sixteenth teaspoon pepper
 - 1/2 teaspoon grated onion
 - Bacon fat or vegetable shortening
- Mix corn and egg yolks in medium bowl. Mix flour with baking powder, salt and pepper; stir into corn and egg yolks. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold in. Drop from teaspoon onto a hot griddle greased with bacon fat or shortening. Cook until brown. Serve 4 corn oysters per person. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 5 servings or 20 corn oysters.
- (NOTE: If bacon fat is used, cook 4 strips of bacon for sufficient fat.)

Red Wine Over Lamb

LEG OF LAMB RIOJA

- (serves 6-8)
 - 1 leg of lamb, about 4 lbs.
 - salt and pepper
 - 3 cloves garlic, cut into slivers
 - 1/4 cup olive oil
 - 1 1/2 cups red wine
 - 2 lbs. new potatoes, cooked and peeled
 - 1 cup beef broth
 - 2 tbsps. lemon juice
- Sprinkle lamb with salt and pepper. Cut small slashes all over lamb and stuff each slash with a sliver of garlic. Place lamb into shallow roasting pan and brush with oil. Roast in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1 hour or until brown. Pour wine over lamb and continue roasting for another hour. Turn lamb occasionally to permit even browning. Add potatoes and roast 30 minutes more. When lamb is cooked, place lamb and potatoes on serving platter and keep warm. Skim excess fat from pan juices, reserving 1 tablespoon. Place pan on top of range and stir in beef broth and lemon juice. Bring to a boil, scraping all brown particles. Mix reserved fat with 1 tablespoon flour. Stir this into pan juices. Stir until slightly thickened. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Place lamb and potatoes on platter. Serve sauce on slices of roast lamb. If desired, serve with sauteed artichoke hearts and asparagus.
