

Kafka Hurls Two-Hit Ball As Orlando Downs Lookouts 8-1

Joe Ruggerio Doubles To Bat In Local's Lone Tally

Charlie Atwater Nicked For 11 Hits By Big Guns Of Senators As Lookouts Record Fourth Straight Loss

By JULIAN STENSTROM

The Lookouts dropped their fourth straight contest here yesterday afternoon to the Orlando Senators by a score of 8 to 1 before a large attendance of Sanford and Orlando fans.

Behind two hit hurling by Bill Kafka, the Senators bunched 12 hits off three Lookout hurlers, three were bunched with two errors to produce the eight markers.

Manager Rodgers sent Charlie Atwater to start for the Lookouts and he pitched five hit ball and the fatal seventh when the Senators bunched six hits for five runs. Rodgers yanked him in favor of Jack Lovell who had had the seventh frame and hurled the eighth. Lovell was taken out for a pinch hitter in the Lookout half of the eighth and Big Chief Cook hurled the ninth and sent the Senators down without hits.

The scoring started in the first inning when Hal Hersberger tripled to rightfield and scored on Keller's infield out. In the fourth stanza, the Senators increased their lead to three runs when Keller doubled and scored on Sammy Cole's single to deep left. An error by Mihalic allowed Cole to advance to second. A single by Johnny Fyre scored Cole and Fyre advanced to third when Fyre doubled to short rightfield. Gray fanned to end the inning.

The big inning for the Senators came in the seventh when they collected six hits good for five markers. Smith hit to right, Gray singled, Kafka fanned, Hersberger singled, Overstreet singled to score Gray, Keller went out to Ruggerio, Cole singled to left to score Hersberger and Overstreet, Fyre doubled to score Cole and Fyre's single to left scored Fyre.

The Lookouts collected their only tally in the eighth when Kafka walked Hudson and Musso in fourth straight contest here yesterday afternoon to the Orlando Senators by a score of 8 to 1 before a large attendance of Sanford and Orlando fans.

7000 Fans See Schmeling And Louis Train Yesterday

Schmeling's Session Witnessed By 5000 Fans While Louis Works Before 2000; Murray Kanner Again Fights Champ

SPECULATOR, N. Y. June 7.—A record crowd of 5000 fight fans crowded the old training camp site of Gene Tunney and Max Baer to witness Max Schmeling, German contender for the heavyweight title, pound through eight rounds of boxing yesterday in preparation for his title bout at Champion Joe Louis on June 22 in New York.

Maxie, not satisfied with eight rounds of work, went through five rounds of exercise and gave the crowd a good show. Schmeling worked out two rounds, each with Al Albin, Joe Mack, Joe Judge and Butch Rodgers. He staggered Mack several times with his famous right hand smashes and dropped his ring mate to the floor at the start of the second stanza.

Der Maxie is attempting to perfect his left hand for use against Louis and yesterday gave all his opponents a body hammering with his left mitt. It was Schmeling's eighth session since beginning his training drills. He will not box today as roadwork alone is on his schedule program.

LOUIS TRAINING.—The training of 2000 fans witnessed the training of Joe Louis yesterday afternoon to see the champion boxer in preparation for the title go with Max Schmeling on June 22.

LOUIS' PROGRAM.—Louis' program was packed in an installment session yesterday twice during the week. Louis took on George Nicholson, one round outdoors but was forced to finish the second round inside the gymnasium. Following the Nicholson bout, Louis returned outdoors for two rounds with Jim Howell and Louis damaged Howell's face considerably.

Louis then took on Murray Kanner of Sanford for two rounds and Kanner again shot stinging right hand punches into Louis' jaw and Louis retaliated with a hard right to Kanner's body in the final round.

Gillette Wins Iowa Race As New Deal Foe

Hopkins-Backed Candidate Concedes His Defeat In Face Of Mounting Returns

DES MOINES, Ia., June 7.—(AP)—Democratic Senator Guy M. Gillette's lead over Rep. Otha D. Wearin continued to grow today as Wearin forces conceded defeat in face of mounting returns in Iowa's senatorial primary election.

Gillette, foe of President Roosevelt's Supreme Court bill, picked up 34,369 votes in unofficial returns from 1,627 of Iowa's 2,417 precincts, to 23,426 for Wearin, who was backed by WPA chief Harry L. Hopkins and tacitly supported by James Roosevelt, son and secretary of the President.

Meanwhile Republicans were encouraged by the heavy vote in their senatorial primary in which former Senator I. J. Dickinson pulled up 27,618 votes to 22,118 for Congressman Lloyd Thurston.

All the "outside" participation in the Democratic senatorial contest, however, was not limited to assistance from Wearin William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor contributed a last minute telegram advising the working man to support Gillette.

Scattered Wholesaler and Brook and other colleagues of Gillette in the upper house raked a furious storm in Washington after Hopkins announced he would have voted for Wearin "if I lived in Iowa."

Senatorial criticism of "playing politics with relief" caused observers to watch closely for specific election trends attributable to the 23,500 WPA workers on the rolls in this state.

The Hopkins endorsement also had its repercussions in Iowa. Gov. Nelson G. Rockwell urged the WPA official his "resentment" at the latter's "interference" in the Iowa race.

Treasurer Lee J. Waggoner, Iowa's leading Republican, said today that he probably would be able to counter most objections to a successful election.

Senatorial Group Okeys Modified Hour Pay Scale

Eliminates Requirement Of 10 Cents At End Of 5 Years

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(AP)—Senate conferees on the wage hour bill today agreed to a compromise to take out of the bill the requirement that a 10-cent per hour pay be added to the end of five years. Southern states favored eliminating the requirement.

Members of the joint conference committee must approve the proposal before the measure is returned to the House and Senate for final congressional action.

The Senate group approved by a 14 vote the modified proposal by Senator Thomas (D-Ill.) which would put into effect a universal wage of 25 cents an hour for the first year and increasing to 30 cents a year for the second year.

The conferees found it most difficult to take to the floor the Senate wage hour bill proposed a 40-cent minimum wage to be administered by a board empowered to grant extensions while the House bill Association slated to take place at the Sanford Orlando Kennel Club's annual brunching from 25 cents an hour the first year to 30 cents the third. The two bills, however, presented the issue of pay by a elasticity.

Thomas sought to strike a compromise by proposing that the law be fully applied for two years, the minimum wage to be 25 cents an hour the first and 27 1/2 cents the second.

After the second year the rate would jump to 30 cents. At that point, however, the President or an administrative agency still to be named would be empowered to appoint, for each industry protecting the 30-cent rate, a board of management, labor and consumer interests. This board would investigate the circumstances of the industry and make recommendations, which would be approved or rejected by the President or other administrator.

After the five years of this, a rigid 40-cent rate would be imposed without exceptions, or exemptions, other than those specifically stipulated in the law. Thomas proposed that hours be similarly graduated downward from 48 to 40.

Local Delegates To Jaycee Parley Report Activities

Declare Convention One Of Most Successful In Years

Declaring that the Jaycee convention held in Miami last week was one of the most successful in recent years, delegates who attended the convention, made reports today at the regular weekly luncheon of the local club held at the Volador Hotel.

F. E. Laney reported on the business sessions while Gordon Barnett gave a synopsis of the proceedings of the convention as a whole.

Joe Davis told the local club that a great deal of business was accomplished which included endorsement of Eugene McCarthy law. A safety program was also advocated in which a safety patrol would be maintained by the State and a uniform State drivers law would be put into effect.

The convention went on record as favoring a larger quota for Florida sugar growers.

Members of the club were elated over Andrew Carraway's election as vice president from this district. Mr. Carraway thanked the club members for their active support in his behalf.

A proposal by Gordon Barnett for the club to charter a boat in Daytona for a fishing trip met with approval and it was decided to make the excursion next Sunday week.

Raymond Hart, secretary of the club, resigned last week as he is leaving town. A committee which had been appointed to nominate a successor presented Louis T. Hart, who was duly elected to the office.

Over 100 Entries Are Expected For Annual Bench Show

Ten Central Florida Communities will be represented in the eighth annual bench show of the Florida Bench Trial Association slated to take place at the Sanford Orlando Kennel Club's annual brunching from 25 cents an hour the first year to 30 cents the third. The two bills, however, presented the issue of pay by a elasticity.

Thomas sought to strike a compromise by proposing that the law be fully applied for two years, the minimum wage to be 25 cents an hour the first and 27 1/2 cents the second.

After the second year the rate would jump to 30 cents. At that point, however, the President or an administrative agency still to be named would be empowered to appoint, for each industry protecting the 30-cent rate, a board of management, labor and consumer interests. This board would investigate the circumstances of the industry and make recommendations, which would be approved or rejected by the President or other administrator.

After the five years of this, a rigid 40-cent rate would be imposed without exceptions, or exemptions, other than those specifically stipulated in the law. Thomas proposed that hours be similarly graduated downward from 48 to 40.

Attendant In Filling Station In Jacksonville Spots Money And Notifies Agents

Two Policemen Are Questioned Where They Obtained Bill Was Not Given Out For Publication

PRINCETON, Fla., June 7.—(AP)—The Miami Daily News said today that federal agents have recovered a $5 bill that was part of the $10,000 ransom James Bailey Cash, Sr., paid vainly for the return of his five-year-old son James, Jr.

In a copyrighted article the News said the bill was spotted by a filling station attendant in Jacksonville who notified the Federal Bureau of Investigation and that G. Men caught the man who passed it on a highway between there and Tallahassee.

They were two Tennessee policemen returning home after a vacation and were released after questioning the paper said.

Where they obtained the bill was not disclosed.

With the apparent absence of suspects and lack of a single tangible clue after an inch-by-inch search of South Florida in one of the most intensive man-hunts ever conducted in this country, it was believed the chief hope of learning the identity of the kidnapers and whereabouts of the missing boy rested on the appearance of bills from the $10,000 ransom paid for his release.

Federal agents banked on the appearance of the money to provide a "break" as it did previously in the cases of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., and Charles S. Ross of Chicago.

Hope of finding the tow-headed youngster alive was held only by the child's mother and little chance was given even of finding the boy's body before the kidnapers are apprehended and direct authorities to it. Mrs. James B. Cash, Sr., has told neighbors she will keep a light in the window for the baby until the case is solved.

Searching for the child was abandoned yesterday, although carloads of G-men continued to leave FBI headquarters here throughout the day on mysterious missions.

It was a week ago last midnight that James B. Cash, Sr., made his first attempt to establish contact with the kidnapers. It failed and he was left a new note which directed him to a dawn rendezvous where he paid over his life's savings in a ransom agreement which the abductors failed to fulfill.

William J. Howey Dies In Umatilla Following Illness

UMATILLA, June 7.—(AP)—William J. Howey, prominent Florida Republican, real estate developer and citrus grower, died in a sanitarium here today following a serious heart attack three weeks ago.

He was defeated for the governorship of Florida by Democrat Doyle Carlton in 1928 and Dave Sholtz in 1932. He ran for Republican National Committee man from Florida in 1936 but was defeated by John F. Harris of Palm Beach.

Howey was born Jan. 19, 1876 at Odell, Ill., and had lived in Florida for more than 30 years. He was one of the state's largest fruit growers and land developers.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

Trust in the Lord, Stand ye in the ways, and see, and ask for the old paths, where is the good way, and walk therein, and ye shall find rest for your souls.
Jeremiah 6:16.

GOD MAKES A PATH
God makes a path, provides a guide,
And leads in wilderness!
His glorious name while breath remains,
O that I may confess.

Less many a time, I have had no
guide,
No house, but hollow trees!
In stormy winter night no fire,
No food, no company;

In him I found a house, a bed,
A table, company;
My cup so bitter, but a male sweet,
When God shall sweetening be.
—Roger Williams.

GOD CHOSE A STAR
I do not wonder that God chose a star
To herald the advent of our Lord;
The still, white shine
Of any star holds something in its heart
Of the Divine.

Choose a star with its clear silver fire,
Its brilliancy,
Its exaltation, and its steadfastness—
Its purity,
Its sign, that the shepherd
And the kings
Alike, could see.
—Anonymous.

The thing that most of us object propaganda.

One of the principal objections to throwing rotten eggs at public

Pretty Fair Progress

Martin Andersen, a Chicago writer, quotes from the Detroitier which pictures a four cylinder limousine of the vintage of 1910 that sold for $5,500 and by its side an eight-cylinder car of 1937 retailing at $1,075. It is hardly necessary to add that the 1937 model is at least ten times as good a car as the 1910 car.

Ten times better, 80 percent cheaper; that is the story of American industry during the past quarter of a century. No other country in the world has made such a record, not even a record which remotely compares with it. No other period in history can boast such progress.

And during the same time, as the Detroitier explains, the cost of the federal government to people in Michigan increased 5,938 percent; the cost of the federal government to all the people in the United States increased over 1,000 percent. In spite of the fact that the automotive industry pays more than ten times as much in taxes, and sells its car for 80 percent less, it produces ten times as good a car.

Before we substitute some new and untried industrial system which has produced such progress during the past 25 years, we had better examine it pretty carefully to see whether it can do any better.

How Do You Spell?

Good spellers, or people who think they know how to spell, may enjoy the little test prepared by the Milton Gazette which comes to us by way of the Cleverton Press.

At the end of this editorial is a single sentence. Have someone read it to you while you write it down. Don't look at it first to see how the words are spelled. But go ahead and ask him to read it to you. If you spell all the words correctly, you will be good.

"Are you a stickler for good spelling?" the Gazette asks. "Do you take fiendish delight in catching somebody spelling wrong? If you are, and if you do, here's your chance to try something out on your various friends, and they'll have to be exceedingly good spellers to score 100.

"This is taken from a recent issue of This Week, and should afford those interested in spelling a great deal of fun and amusement. Read the following sentence to a friend and ask him to write it down. From 100, which is a perfect score for the test, subtract 10 for each word misspelled.

Outside a cemetery and a harassed cobbler and an embarrassed oculist picnicking on a desirable apple, and gazing at the symmetry of a lady's ankle with unparalleled ecstacy.

AN AMERICAN WOMAN, driving her car very fast down a Paris boulevard, was stopped by a gendarme. "Alors, alors, alors!" he cried, and sharply demanded what she meant by driving at such a rate. Thinking fast, the lady explained that she was pursuing her husband and another woman, who were in a car ahead. The gendarme stepped aside. "After them, Madame, after them!" he said, gallantly waving her on.—Readers Digest.

DR. GRANVILLE MOODY, a popular army chaplain during the Civil War, could forget the cloth, when necessary, with evangelic tact. At Lookbut Mountain, the Colonel of Moody's regiment went tearing up and down the lines, yelling to the troops, "Give 'em hell, boys!" The chaplain was at his heels, yelling, "Do as your Colonel tells you, boys! Do as your Colonel tells you!"—Julia B. Forker. I Would Live It Again.

SANFORD TWENTY YEARS AGO

O. L. Taylor has returned from Jacksonville where he attended a meeting of the Masons of the state.

R. J. Holly, Reginald Holly, Fred Wight and William Coulbourne went to Jacksonville Wednesday to see about enlisting in the tank service of the army. Mr. Coulbourne was the only one that signed up and he expects to go into active training at once. Fred and Reginald will go in before the 28th of this month as they have several prearrangements to consider first.

Miss Gertrude Green has returned home from McKenzie, Tenn.

Fred Strange is among the Sanford boys who have enlisted in the Navy.

J. Will Yon, candidate for state auditor to succeed himself, was in the city yesterday in the interest of his candidacy. Mr. Yon has many friends in the state who are anxious that he retain his position and there seems to be but little doubt about his success.

J. C. Brown, who is known to his many Sanford friends as Cliff Brown, formerly a popular engineer of the A. C. L. Railroad here, was in the city yesterday. Cliff is now a candidate for tax commissioner and he will get a big vote here where he is so well known that he needs no introduction or bouquets.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Thrasher accompanied Miss Blankenship to Arcadia Sunday where she will instruct a class in surgical dressings. Upon returning they brought May Thrasher home after she had spent a week with Margery Clay.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lawson spent the first of the week in Jacksonville, combining business and pleasure and returning home Wednesday night.

Attorney J. S. Dickinson spent several days in Orlando this week on business.

Miss Nita Allison arrived this week from Gainesville and is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Melton at their home on Magnolia Avenue.

Sam Toibitz of Moorehaven spent a few days in Sanford this week combining business and pleasure.

Fred P. Strange, who enlisted in the Navy at Tampa last week, left yesterday for his home in Hawthorne for a brief visit with his parents before reporting for duty on the 23.

Mrs. Z. M. Galloway has returned from Tampa where she attended the state meeting of the Third Stamps. Mrs. Galloway is chairman of this work in Seminole County.

Joe Evans of Jacksonville spent a few hours in this city yesterday on business.

W. H. Righton arrived in the city yesterday from Savannah and will remain several days looking after business interests.

G. H. Atkins of Daytona was a Sanford visitor today.

E. L. Greer of Jacksonville is registered at the Hotel Carnes.

T. W. Owen of Tampa spent a few hours in Sanford yesterday.

T. G. Young of Tampa spent a few hours in the city yesterday on business.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Don McDonald on Sunday was an eight pound baby girl.

Charles Merrin of Jacksonville is among the guests registered at the Hotel Carnes.

C. H. Unnasch of Jacksonville is spending a few days in Sanford this week on business.

William Coulbourne left this morning for Port St. Joe where he will join the tank corps.

Mr. and Mrs. Birch returned from their wedding trip in Tampa and other points south.

W. T. Holmes arrived yesterday from Birmingham, and will remain in the city several weeks on business.

E. H. Stalls, the popular musician of Stratford and guest of Jacksonville, is in the city today on business.

SOUL SEA KNIGHTS
NATIVES OF THE NINE ISLANDS (Isthmus, Cuba, Venezuela, and Iron Armor)

BOWLED "330"

Better than perfect—that is the way his friends describe Bill Rogan, Minneapolis bowler.

Strange as it seems, Rogan last year did what no man had ever done before on a bowling alley—scored 330 in a league game bowled under official American Bowling Congress rules!

The event took place on January 26, 1937, when Rogan was bowling with the Budweiser against the Carnegie team in the Minneapolis City League. The match wound up with both teams at 1,129 pins each. Rogan had bowled 12 consecutive strikes—a perfect "300" game.

Because the teams were tied, A. B. C. regulations specified that an extra frame be rolled, its score to be added to the total.

Strange as it seems, Rogan preceded to score another three strikes in the roll-off.

Thus, in one game of 11 frames, Rogan achieved the "impossible score" of 330. The contest took place at Minneapolis Central Bowling Alleys.

ORIGIN OF CORONER . . .

In its original meaning, a coroner had no part in conducting inquests. The term originated in 12th-century England and designated an officer whose duty it was to record the pleas of the Crown in a county, and to guard the revenues arising therefrom.

AMERICA'S OLDEST HOTEL . . .

PUBLICATION IN STRANGE AS IT SEEMS last March of the record of Bennington, Vermont's Walloomsac Inn, which has operated continuously for 174 years, drew forth several chatlogues by proprietors of other old establishments claiming long records.

Best claimant to date for the title of "America's Oldest Hotel" in point of continuous operation is Binebeck, N. Y.'s Beekman Arms, founded in 1705.

This colonial inn began as a one-story stone house of two rooms with a loft above, William Traubagen, the builder, slept on a pile of sheepskins before an open fireplace.

Beekman Arms has been the scene of many historical events during the 233 years it has operated. Twenty-four landlords have run the establishment.

growth?" he asked. "Will your life remain static or will you continue to study and grow?" He asserted that study need not end with graduation from high school, that one could and should continue study throughout life.

"Do you have the power to do anything?" Dr. Smith asked, explaining that by that question he meant was there anything which the student could do well enough to earn his living and make his own way.

The sixth question was "Do you have joy in your heart?" Dr. Smith said that in order to possess a joyous spirit one must needs possess physical fitness and live purposefully. Both of these he added are necessary to one's happiness.

The last two questions posed were "Are you cultivating a sense of the beautiful?" and "Do you like to read good literature?" To cultivate a sense of the beautiful and to read good literature, Dr. Smith declared, are both necessary to a full life. Without a sense of beauty and the knowledge of life that comes from reading literature something vital is missing from one's life.

Superintendent T. W. Lawton introduced Dr. Smith. Mr. Lawton reviewed briefly the events and achievements of the past year, commenting especially upon the construction of the new athletic field on the grounds. That a building for the study of vocational agriculture had been secured at a cost of $25,000, and that the Balmigall school building for last year had been secured and placed in the hands of the University of Florida building committee.

Superintendent Lawton presented the award and prizes Robert Smith, winner of the Peter Lee award, and the new member of the local club, the new member of the local club, the new member of the local club.

Dr. Smith's address was "The Immortal Fire!"

Florida Boasts Oldest Cypress
TAMPA TRIBUNE

A tree in Seminole County is beginning to receive its just share of attention. It is deserving of this because it is Florida's bid for the oldest tree of its kind in the United States and some say even throughout the world, estimating its age at 3500 years.

Regardless of its exact age, it has a well-founded claim to distinction as the oldest cypress in this country. The tree, known as "The Big Tree" and as "The Senator" in honor of Senator M. O. Overstreet, who gave it to Seminole County for a park, is situated at Longwood near Sanford.

The giant rears upward for more than 125 feet, dwarfing other huge trees around it. It is 47 feet in circumference at the base and almost 18 feet in diameter. Already a definite tourist attraction and recently given nationwide publicity in various publications, a move is underway to beautify and conserve "The Big Tree" area.

Renewed attention was focused on the ancient cypress by recent reports of death of America's oldest oak tree, the 650-year-old "Big Oak of Mingo," located near Williamson, W. Va. Floridians at least should be conscious of the existence of Seminole County's famous tree.

Some enterprising Florida school boy or girl can win a free all-expense paid trip to Key West by furnishing an idea or design for the cover page of the official program to be used at the celebration of the opening of the new Overseas Highway on July 4th. Full details may be secured by writing to the Overseas Highway Celebration Contest Committee, Key West, Florida.

VENEDIAN PARK LEESBURG June 7. The Leesburg team dropped their fifth straight game last night when they were defeated by the Sanford team. The game was a regular Florida State League battle.

Judge Pelham started on the hill for the Lookouts, but was forced to retire in the fifth inning after giving an eight-inning performance.

Pelham was replaced on the mound by Jack Lovell, who pitched the left and he was backed for only two hits, including a three and two-three, through the seventh inning.

Manager Leach started Tom Bunch on the hill for the Lookouts, but he did not last more than one inning.

evening. Win Brown worked Bunch for a walk advanced second when Mihalic walked and scored when Langston singled to center field.

The Gondoliers took the lead in their half of the ninth inning when Al Arnold scored from second on a single by Drew Pelham allowed the bases to be filled and walked McGowan to score in the ninth run.

In the final inning, Clammons pitched to eight field. He pitched to left field and on a wild pitch, Clammons was out of the game with the Gondoliers' third run.

The game scored again in the fourth when Billy Gobel tripled and scored when Soble, from second, singled. The Lookouts got the game on its feet with a three-run inning in the fifth. Tom Bunch was hit by Pelham. Mihalic tripled to right to advance Gobel and Bunch to second when Hal Lind moved the bats.

Mihalic moved up on Gobel's fielder's choice and Arnold scored in an infield hit filling the bases. Mihalic walked and scored home Gobel and Lovell took the mound for the Lookouts. Lovell fanned Drew to end the inning and to end the scoring for the evening.

Leesburg Comes Here Tonight For State Loop Tilt

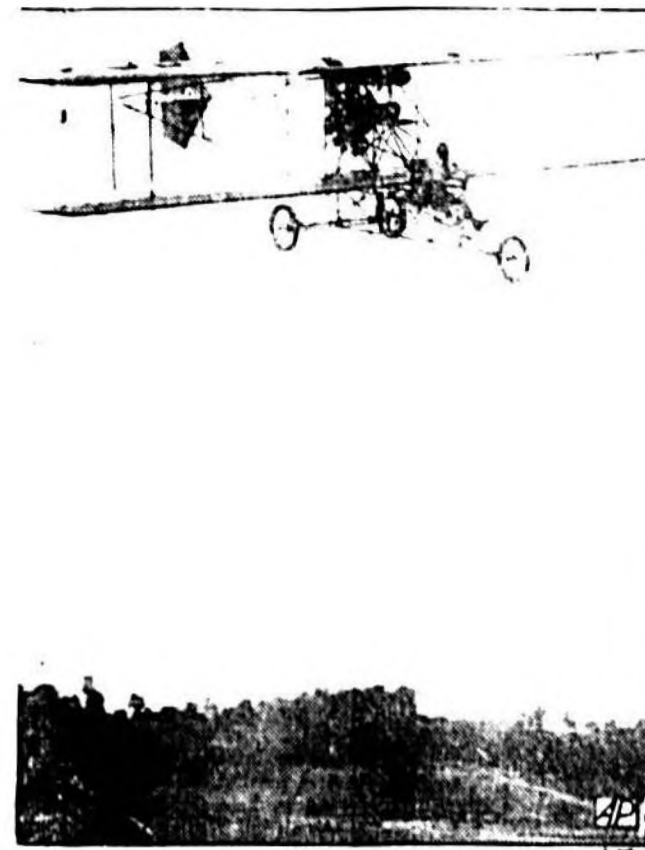

Neither Manager Has Announced Starting Hurlers For Clash

The Lookouts under the direction of Manager Bill Ray Mead will meet the Leesburg team tonight at Venedian Park. The game will be the first of a regular Florida State League contest.

The date with Leesburg, which was originally planned for Tuesday, was postponed because of a double header but will now take place tonight.

The line-up for the Lookouts tonight will include Steve Brantley on right field, Al Arnold on center field, Steve Brantley on left field, Tom Bunch on pitcher, and Jack Lovell on catcher.

The Leesburg team will be managed by Bill Ray Mead. They are expected to have a strong lineup.

PLANTATION DEBUTANTE

Gilberte Brigard sighed with delight. "What are you thinking about, Froufrou?" her sister Louise asked. "I'm thinking that for sixteen years life was oh, so dull at school in France. And then last month we were on the boat making the voyage which brought us from Paris. Yesterday we arrived here at a plantation. And soon maybe tomorrow we'll go to New Orleans and see all the handsome gentlemen."

Louise frowned in shocked silence. "What I want to know, Louise, is when are we going to New Orleans?"

"Not soon," her sister answered primly. "Papa's been away four months fetching us. He'll be needed here, now."

"What a pity!" Gilberte pouted. "Where shall we show ourselves in all our pretty dresses? Among whom shall we ever find husbands?"

"Oh, smiled Louise, "so you want a husband, Mlle Louise?"

"Above everything, Mlle Louise!" she threw her arms about her sister. "And you? Dare to look me in the eye and say that you don't want a husband, too?"

Louise cast a quick glance toward old Suzanne, the negro slave who brought up their mother before them. "Well," she blushed. "Well—not just my husband."

"My word!" exclaimed Gilberte. "Do you think I want just any husband? Oh, no! He must be a dancing—she pointed her toe under her ruffled hoop skirt.

"Lawdy!" cried Froufrou. "Listen to that! Heah dat fine silk ruelle! Mademoiselle Gilberte's dress sound lak leaves blowin' or watah run-made Froufrou dizzy with excitement. They entered as a tall, handsome and elegantly dressed young lawyer was making an impassioned plea before the judge. He stopped a moment to greet the Brigards. The lawyer then bowed to Louise who showed her a courtesy. With a puzzled look he glanced at Froufrou, who all eyes was following the young man to the chair assigned to her. She seated herself comfortably, then turned to Louise who sat down beside her.

"Who is the grand dame over there?" she whispered.

"That's Mademoiselle Vallaire, our neighbor."

"And who is the lawyer?"

"Monsieur Georges Sartoris. You will remember him."

Froufrou looked at Sartoris intently. "Oh," she whispered, "that's the boy you always liked, isn't it?"

"Shhh!" Louise looked about her. "Monsieur Sartoris began his plea, speaking in a clear, precise manner. He then addressed an officer who seated beside a door. "Bring in the witness, please."

The door opened. Two negro men entered, escorting a woman who was wrapped from head to foot in a torn shawl. She advanced timidly, her head down, her eyes on the floor.

"At the sight of her, the two prisoners on trial rose ominously in their seats."

"Don't be afraid, Rose," Georges encouraged.

"There was a sudden great commotion. The prisoners leaped from their chairs, knocking their guards to the floor and rushed for the open window."

Georges drew a revolver. "Quick, Rose," he cried, "which one killed your child?"

Rose pointed. "George raised his pistol, aimed, fired and the man she designated fell back dead. At the same time the other prisoner drew a knife and threw it. Georges dropped to his knees, his right hand struggling to draw out the knife implanted in his left arm.

Froufrou pointed to the tall, handsome, elegant young lawyer. "Who is he?" she whispered.

The whole thing happened within a flash of a second. Fandemonium broke loose. With a quick gavel the judge adjourned court and cleared the room. Monsieur Brigard took matters in his own hands.

"Georges," he said calmly, "you must let me take you back to your home. It is far better than setting out now for New Orleans."

"Yes, Sartoris," insisted the judge. "Monsieur Brigard's suggestion is perfect and I have that wound attended to at once."

"Besides," put in Madame Vallaire, "was it not last week that Monsieur Brigard arranged for us all to dine with him today?"

"Then let us be off," laughed Brigard and ushered the way to his carriage.

At dinner, Froufrou, seated next to Georges, could barely eat for excitement. "I suppose you've been wounded often in duels, Monsieur?" she asked.

He shook his head. "I've never fought a duel, Mademoiselle."

"No duels," she cried in disappointment, "though every young man in New Orleans fought duels."

Madame Vallaire leaned across the table. "Monsieur Georges has something better to do," she said severely. He leaves the duels to the young men, like my son, Andre."

Froufrou looked at her with sudden interest. "Where is your son, Madame?"

In New Orleans where he finds company which suits him better than his mother's."

"New Orleans?" Froufrou asked. "Even in France everyone talks of New Orleans?"

Madame Vallaire smiled wryly. "I must go to New Orleans tomorrow to have my tooth pulled."

"Oh, Madame," cried Froufrou. "How I envy you!"

Madame Vallaire eyed her with astonishment. "You envy me, Mademoiselle, because my tooth aches?"

"No, no," answered Froufrou hurriedly. "I envy you because you can go to New Orleans and have it out." She sighed again. "New Orleans—where flowers bloom all the year and it's fun to walk through the streets. How I long to see New Orleans!" She lay her hand on her cheek and looked toward her father with the timid, pleading look of a little child. "Besides," she murmured, "I have a toothache, too!"

Georges Sartoris threw back his head and laughed with delight at her.

Autonomy Demands Of Slovaks Is Denied

BRATISLAVA, Czechoslovakia, June 7 (AP)—Premier Milan Hodza voted a firm but polite stand yesterday against the autonomy demands of Czechoslovakia's Slovak minority.

The scholarly premier, himself a Slovak, unfolded his views in an earnest speech from the same balcony on which Father Andrej Hlinka, leader of the Slovak autonomous movement, stood yesterday and laid down the demands.

Considerable trade between the two nations is still carried on by caravan.

Thousands of modern women have discovered the two-way benefits of CARDUI. As a tonic, it helps to strengthen the entire system by improving the appetite and digestion. As an antispasmodic, CARDUI relieves the most troublesome ailments of the stomach. Medical authorities acknowledge the great value of the plant extracts blended in CARDUI for these purposes. At all drug stores.

CARDUI for women

"That's why we call her Froufrou," she dresses always sound like that," laughed Louise.

"My husband must like to dance," she said. "And he must like to ride—and he must make me laugh and buy me jewels—and let me do exactly as I please."

"Don't listen to her, Suzanne," begged Louise. "She's not half so silly as she sounds."

"What's silly in loving a man who pleases one in every way?" demanded Froufrou. "Besides, loving isn't so difficult. She prattled about and blew them both a kiss. "I love everybody!"

"The stop, Froufrou!" pleaded Louise. "Please go out to the hall and greet the servants. They're waiting for you. Darling—they haven't seen you since you were a baby—and they're so eager to welcome you—"

Froufrou's eyes danced. "And will I have a slave for my very own, too?"

Louise nodded. "You can pick one you like!"

"Oh, I must go, then," she cried. In another moment she was out the door, her hoop skirts rustling as she ran.

She found the household slaves lined up in hushed expectancy.

"Don't you all of you, she greeted gaily. "I'm glad to see you—but you must tell me your names—I don't remember them—I was such a baby when I went away!" she apologized. She turned to the first asking her name, then the second, the third and continued down the line. She repeated their names prettily to fix them in her mind. She came at last to a small black girl huddled against the wall.

"And your name?" she asked.

"Ah, ah! got none, Mam'zell," the other answered humbly. "They just call me Pick—short for Pickaninny."

"Pick!" cried Froufrou. "That's lovely!"

Pick sank on one knee and leaned forward eagerly. "And please, Mam'zell!" she begged breathlessly. "Ah, wishes Ah could be my own particular dandy."

"You do?" exclaimed Froufrou in happy surprise. "Then you shall be. But—if you belong to me, you've got to wear shoes and stockings!"

Pick rocked with delight. "Shoes and stockings! Oh me, oh my!"

Suzanne bustled down the hall. "Ye papa sent word he's taking Mlle Louise to de Jury Mehin and he wants to know if you want to go, too?"

"Jury Mehin? Why should anyone go to a thing like that?"

Pick grinned up at her. "Deys always lots of gentlemen from New Orleans dere."

Froufrou clapped her hands. "Lots of gentlemen from New Orleans? Oh—that's good—that's splendid—that's perfect!"

She ran down the hall and out the door and made for the carriage awaiting her.
