A bet is a bet

BELDING, Mich. — An elementary school teacher was so confident his school's students couldn't read 7,000 books during March, he told them he'd eat worms if they did.
He lost the bet.

Hill Park Elementary School's 232 students read 7,785 volumes during the month, which was National Reading Month. So on Tuesday, Chuck Matlock boiled four worms in lemon juice and salt, and downed them before the students.

The enterprising teacher turned his meal into a lesson: "Really, worms have as much protein as a T-bone steak without the gristle," he said.

And he said he's game for a similar challenge next year — especially if Principal Judy Feuerstein joins him.

IRS audits attorneys for Yahweh

FORT LAUDERDALE — Five of 16 attorneys for the Yahweh religious sect have been hit by Internal Revenue Service audits that have forced three to dig through past tax records as they prepare to present their clients' defenses to the jury.

The murder and racketeering trial is expected to last another two to three weeks.

Yahweh Ben Yahweh's own attorney, Alcee Hastings, missed court Wednesday to work on his audit. He declined to talk about the matter.

Each Seminole County school will send a representative to Walt Disney World on May 8 to receive an award as the school's Dreamer and Doer for the year.

The students were selected by the schools for demonstrating the characteristics of curiosity, confidence, courage and constancy. The "Four C's" are based on characteristics that Walt Disney found most important in young people.

Three schools will send an additional student to be representatives of the district in the state-wide recognition program.

Those students are Sylvester Wynn, a fifth grader at Idyllwild Elementary School; Angela Wiggins, an eighth grader at Sanford Middle School and Darko Hren, a senior at Lyman High School.

All the students will receive a medal from the Walt Disney company, will be honored at a special reception and spend the afternoon at Disney World.

The representatives from each of the schools are:

Heather Wolken, a fifth grader at Altamonte Elementary School; Joseph V. Kenski, a fifth grader at Bear Lake Elementary School; Afon Ferguson, a fifth grader at Casselberry Elementary School; Tamara Perez, a senior at the Crooms School of Choice; Kristin M. Cops honored for capture

By LASY BOWEN
Herald People Editor

LAKE MARY — Apprehending an escaped convict may have been all in a day's work for Lake Mary police officers, but the city they serve saw fit Thursday night to honor them for it.

One citizen, a reserve officer and six police officers were each awarded a City of Lake Mary Certificate of Appreciation for aiding in the capture of federal prisoner Robert Mark Baron, who had escaped from the custody of the Seminole County Sheriff's Office on the morning of April 14.

"They did a fabulous job," Charles Lauderdale, director of Public Safety said.

Mayor Randy Morris presented the certificates. Honored were: Edward Pratt, a citizen who alerted neighbors and aided police in checking unoccupied homes; Baron was later found to have hidden in an unoccupied home; Sgt. Linda Belfiore, Sgt. Gregory Grayson, Sgt. Steve Gregory, Cpl. Tom Dale, Public Safety Ofc. Keith Kroeker, Ofc. James McDonnell and Reserve Ofc. Camiel Long.

Sgt. Gregory due to his aggressive patrol plan, observed the female motorist signaling him that her vehicle was being taken and immediately took up pursuit of the escapee.
-Police Chief Charles Lauderdale

Lauderdale said officers under the direction of Sgt. Grayson, day shift commander, conducted systematic checks in neighborhoods, escorted residents home and set up checkpoints at several road intersections.

"The thing that really got this started was when we saw how the search was being conducted. Sgt. Grayson had determined the escapee was still in the area," Lauderdale said.

Grayson had been approached by two U.S. deputy sheriffs.

29 lawyers back court clerk challenger

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County clerk of court candidate Mona McGregor raised nearly $4,000 from central Florida lawyers during the past three months to aid her campaign to defeat incumbent Maryanne Morse.

A total of 29 lawyers or law firms contributed up to $300 each to McGregor, a former clerk official under former clerk David Berrien.

McGregor, Republican, reported raising a total of $10,222 on her first campaign finance report since beginning her campaign in January.

Candidates for county offices were required to file quarterly campaign finance reports April 10 for the period between Jan. 1 and March 31.

Morse, who began her re-election bid in early March, reported raising $350 — $250 from herself and $100 from an Orlando lawyer, William Whitaker. Morse is a Republican. No Democrats have announced campaigns for the court clerk position.

Supervisor of elections hopeful Theresa Coker continues to outpace incumbent and fellow Republican Sandra Goard, who is seeking re-election. Many of Coker's contributors include the county's Republican stalwarts, including county commissioner Fred McCall.

Witnesses' lawyers: Local verdict mixed

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — State Attorney Norm Wolfinger said a new law permitting grand jury witnesses to bring attorneys into the secret proceedings will lead to a "chilling effect" on the prosecution process, but a leading local lawyer said that may not be such a bad thing.

The law, which takes effect Oct. 1, will make Florida one of 17 states to allow attorneys for grand jury witnesses. Gov. Lawton Chiles, who vetoed a similar bill last year, let it become law without his signature last Thursday.

The private attorneys won't be allowed to speak to the grand jurors but can advise clients about how to answer questions. Previously, lawyers had to wait outside.

Wolfinger said the change is an example of the rights of criminals being placed before their prosecution.

"This shows they're more concerned with the rights and privileges of people asked to testify before the grand jury than they are finding the truth."

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Court grants partial redistricting delay

TALLAHASSEE — Groups involved in the federal redistricting court case now have more time to finish their arguments and the Florida Supreme Court is beginning its review of the 160 House and Senate districts.

Special Master C. Clyde Atkins, who is overseeing the federal case for a three-judge panel, has agreed to allow an extra 10 days to finish the expert analyses that go with the maps Democrats, Republicans and other groups will submit to the court.

Those proposed maps, for both the Legislature and the 23 congressional districts, were due today. The backup analysis, which details voting patterns and the racial, political and geographic makeup of the plans, now is due April 27.

"The initial deadlines were difficult to meet," said Daniel Gerber, an attorney for Republicans who filed the federal suit. "This gives time for the computers to do their thing."

The federal court intends to adopt congressional and legislative plans by May 29.

Man says son shot him over $10 loan

ST. PETERSBURG — A man said he was shot by his 13-year-old son because he failed to pay back $10 he had borrowed from the boy.

"I owed him $10, and he came around to ask me for it," said Marvin Lee Jones. He said he told his son he didn't have the money, and then refused to let him borrow the car.

"Then he got kind of mad and angry and pulled a gun and put it to my head."

But somehow, police said, the gun aimed at the 37-year-old man late Tuesday didn't fire as his son pulled the trigger. As Jones turned and ran, police said, the son tried a second time and shot his father in the right leg.

The middle school student, along with Jones' 15-year-old stepson and a 17-year-old nephew, were charged with attempted murder.

Insurance rates rise

TALLAHASSEE — Automobile insurance rates rose in Florida last year but not as fast as they did nationally, according to a state study released.

The state Department of Insurance said Thursday that rates went up 3.5 percent in 1991 in Florida compared to 6.2 percent nationally.

Florida's ranking in average auto insurance premiums improved from No. 10 nationally in 1987 to No. 15 in 1990, according to the National Association of Insurance Commissioners.

The major factor in higher premiums was the rising cost of medical bills, said state analyst Ken Ritzenthaler. Coverage costs for personal injury protection continues to increase 10.5 percent a year.

Insurers have begun to realize lower costs in collision and comprehensive insurance, which pays for damage to vehicles and other property, Ritzenthaler found.

Objection over flag raised

INVERNESS — Just as Citrus County was ready to adopt its new official flag, an objection was raised. Why are the manatees swimming upside down?

"He got hit by a boat," came the wisecrack from the audience at Tuesday's commission meeting.

The winning entry in a contest to create a flag for the county shows a county seat on a green field bordered by two deer, a kneeling Indian and a manatee with oars — upside down.

"I just feel a manatee in this position is going to be the brunt of a lot of jokes," said County Attorney Larry Haag, the first to notice the dilemma.

Bus service plans for growth

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

Paul Skoutelas, executive director of Tri-County Transit predicts a bright future for bus service in Central Florida, as he addresses the Sanford City Commission and staff Monday night.

SANFORD — Tri-County Transit bus service plans to improve its area-wide services. No specific changes have been announced for the Sanford area however.

Tri-County Board Chairman Jacob Stuart and the company's new Executive Director Paul Skoutelas presented a report on the operation Monday night during a workshop meeting of the Sanford City Commission.

Stuart commented, "Tri-County has been in the bus service for almost 20 years, but until now, we haven't had a formal business plan. Now, we have a new executive director, and a new plan, and you'll be seeing new things we are going to accomplish on the local level."

Among statistics for Tri-County, he explained that the company operates 112 buses in 22 cities in Seminole, Orange and Osceola Counties, and has a total annual budget of $60 million.

"One of the problems," Stuart said, "is that we are an automotive society. People so depend on their cars, they never give other means of transportation, such as busing, a chance."

He admitted, "We didn't take a bus to come to Sanford, we rode in our car, but at least we shared the ride with each other."

Stuart described various projects now in operation by Tri-County including LASER, which handles student transportation to the University of Central Florida. Dime Time, a school student program which carries almost a half million students at 10 cent fares, and the Van Plan, a car pooling and computer matching service.

"We have many more projects coming in the near future," Stuart commented. He added, "Tri-County is the fastest growing company of its kind in America and we are up by 26 to 27 percent per month over our last year's figures in riders and service."

Skoutelas presented a series of slides to the city commissioners based on research of the area undertaken last year. "Our study shows that transit will play a more important roll in the future," he projected, "with more and more people not being able to afford to buy or drive cars."

He indicated his statistics showed 50 percent of people polled in the three counties, "responded that they would likely use bus transportation, while 39 percent said they would very widely use it."

He added, "If we have only 10 percent more actually using buses, that's an increase of 180,000 people."

Skoutelas commented that support from community leaders is growing, "especially in the areas of more frequent service, and our connection with rapid rail transportation projected for the future." He said the company is working very closely with the Mass Rail Authority for service throughout the area.

Although nothing was specifically brought up regarding any changes in bus services in the Sanford area, City Manager Bill Simmons commented, "We are part of the overall service area of Tri-County Transit, and it's always good to keep informed on the progress being made and planned for the future by the company."

Barkett raises $94,000 to keep seat on Florida Supreme Court

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Soon-to-be Florida Supreme Court Chief Justice Rosemary Barkett has already raised $94,000 to keep her seat in the fall elections.

Several groups that are organizing to oppose Barkett say she isn't tough enough on crime and disagree with rulings in which she has sided with abortion rights supporters.

"We're just kind of trying to raise money to be prepared," Barkett told The Tampa Tribune for a story published Thursday. The Florida Constitution requires that justices go before voters in the election after their appointment and at the end of their six-year terms. The choice to voters is simply to vote yes or no on whether the justice should be retained.

"She is by far and away the most liberal on the court," said Timothy Warfel, a Tallahassee lawyer and leader of a group called Citizens for a Responsible Judiciary, which sees Barkett as soft on crime. "I think we have a very real possibility of knocking her out."

In 1990, many of the same groups unsuccessfully tried to convince voters to oust current Chief Justice Leander Shaw.

Parents of only child killed in DUI accidents

Associated Press

FAIRFIELD, Fla. — A 7-year-old boy, an only child, lost both his parents in different traffic accidents in which police say drunken drivers were at fault.

Jannarius Scott lost his father in a head-on collision in May and his mother in a crash three months ago.

One person has been convicted manslaughter while driving under the influence of alcohol; another faces drunken-driving manslaughter charges at a trial set for next month.

The family was riding in their pickup truck, with Jannarius between his father and mother, when an oncoming car crossed the center line and struck them last year.

Lee Miller managed to shield his son, Miller, a construction worker, died four days later of head injuries. Jannarius had minor scratches.

Ruby D. Derringer was convicted of manslaughter while driving under the influence of alcohol and sentenced to 10 years in prison. The judge stipulated that the 48-year-old Ocala woman must visit Miller's grave on the anniversary of the accident each year.

Scott's mother, Natalie Scott Miller, was on her way to pick Jannarius up when a collision claimed her life.

Coping with growth

Committee urged to push for plain-language comprehensive plan

By BILL BRADSHAW
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Practical guidelines rather than bureaucratic jargon would help local officials cope with Florida's growth of 700 people a day, speakers told a committee studying growth management.

Instead of "feel-good" generalities, the state comprehensive plan could be trimmed to specifics local decision-makers could use, former Department of Community Affairs official Paul

Bradshaw said Thursday. "We've tried the James Michener approach to state planning," he said, referring to the author of such lengthy novels as "Hawaii" and "Centennial."

Though the governor is supposed to regularly update the plan, Gov. Lawton Chiles' is the second administration that hasn't, said Rep. Fred Jones, D-Auburndale, dean of the Florida House.

They addressed the state's third Environmental Land Management Study Committee, a group of 45 citizens and public officials who could change that. The ELMS III group was named by Chiles in November to make growth management recommendations to the 1993 Legislature.

Members held a moment of silence in memory of DCA Secretary Bill Badowski, a leader in state growth-management efforts who died last week in a plane crash. Assistant Secretary Randall Kelly read a speech Badowski was en route to deliver in St. Augustine. It said nearly 75 percent of Florida's 457 local governments have complied or agreed to comply with the 1985 growth management act, which was intended to keep growth of 700 new residents a day from bankrupting the state and local governments.

State infrastructure needs estimated at $52.9 billion five years ago grow daily by two more miles of highway, six new elementary school classrooms, 178 gallons of drinking water for each new resident, and two new prison beds, Kelly read.

Bradshaw, former state director of resource planning and budget director for former Gov. Bob Martinez, compared Florida's comprehensive plan, loaded down with 352 goals and policies, with Oregon's, which outlines seven goals.

He recommended limiting it to strategic guidelines in key areas in which local planners make daily decisions, such as housing, water resources.

Schools renew contract for asbestos consultant

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County School District will once again employ Law Engineering to be the consultants on all asbestos abatement projects that the district enters into this year.

"We have to renegotiate the contracts every year," explained Allen Nettles, the district's environmental coordinator.

Nettles said the district has worked well with Law Engineering the last three years, but they are legally required to renegotiate the contract to be sure they are paying the lowest price for the best services.

As consultant, the engineering firm must prepare a project manual for each project and must be on-site during projects to be sure that the contractor is doing the work according to the documents and to be review any change orders.

The district has agreed to pay a Law engineer $70 to $80 per hour for services; $55 per hour will be paid to an asbestos specialist; $110 per hour will be paid to asbestos consultants; typing and secretarial support people will earn $25 per hour and drafting projects will be done at $30 per hour.

Testing fees, including air monitoring and Phase Contrast Microscopy will be done at a rate of $37.50 per hour and $20 per sample.

The school district is required by law to remove all asbestos, a carcinogen that was often used as a fire retardant in the past, from buildings as demolition, renovation or reconstruction is done.

Lake Forest criticism building

BY J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Central Florida Wetlands Society has intensified its battle against the upscale Lake Forest development west of Sanford. Now, it is charging the St. Johns River Water Management District failed to adequately protect environmentally-sensitive lands on the 529-acre site.

Lake Forest developers Orlando Lake Forest Joint Venture say they shouldn't have to replace newly-established wetlands on the site because they've already protected hundreds of acres of more important wetlands near the Wekiva River.

But society president Michael Mingea says those efforts are history.

"That's all in the past," said Mingea. "It's already been put aside for what has been done. This is something new."

Pat Gassaway, vice president of Orlando Lake Forest, did not return calls. Ed Albanca, spokesman for the water district, said district lawyers have just received the complaint and have not had time to evaluate it.

The complaint filed this week seeks to stop construction in protected wetlands areas and to discontinue use of the development's stormwater system until permits are issued. If the district doesn't enforce wetlands protection laws and developer agreements, the society will sue Lake Forest developers Orlando Lake Forest Joint Venture to seek compliance, according to the complaint.

The complaint is the latest round in the environmentalist organization's battle against construction of homes and stores on the land bordered by State Road 46, Oregon Avenue and Orange Boulevard.

Last October, the society filed a complaint against the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation, charging the state agency failed to make an adequate inspection of Lake Forest for protected wetlands. The society is also challenging the district and FDER to uphold wetland regulation of sites throughout central Florida.

As a result of the FDER complaint, Orlando Lake Forest has sought an application for a new wetlands permit based on the discovery of additional wetlands on the property last August. Orlando Lake Forest indicated 113 homesites had been developed in the wetland areas and roads separate portions of the wetlands in seven areas.

Orlando Lake Forest has already deeded local agencies 1,250 acres of wetlands south of the confluence of the Wekiva and Little Wekiva Rivers and protected another 700 acres to replace wetlands damages established by the district and U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The latest permit seeks exemption from additional requirements, but has offered to place culverts under roads that separate wetlands.

The society complaint states Orlando Lake Forest destroyed wetlands without a permit, failed to uphold certain 1988 agreements and failed to obtain permits for the development's stormwater treatment system.

Court upholds death sentences

By JACKIE HALLIFAX
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The state Supreme Court rejected appeals by two death row inmates. One is condemned for killing a Tennessee teen-ager and the other for the mutilation murder of an Altamonte Springs woman.

The court unanimously upheld the death sentence given to Robert Preston Jr., 34, for the January 1978 mutilation murder of Earline Walker, a convenience-store clerk in Altamonte Springs.

Preston's first sentence was overturned by Florida's high court because a conviction he received in an earlier, lesser case had been dismissed. That conviction had been used to justify the death sentence.

In the other case Thursday, Marshall Lee Gore, 29, was convicted of the murder of 19-year-old Susan Roark of Cleveland, Tenn. Her nude, decomposing body was found in a North Florida garbage dump in April 1988, two months after she was last seen alive in Gore's company in Tennessee.

Health care

Research published recently in the Journal of the American Medical Association demonstrates that many medical experts had long suspected: that Americans pay a big price for a medical profession top-heavy with specialists.

Even after adjusting for the different age and medical conditions of patients, the new study, conducted by researchers at Rand Corp., UCLA and elsewhere, shows that specialists are far more likely than family practitioners or general internists to order tests, prescribe drugs or hospitalize patients.

Similarly, doctors receiving fee-for-service payments were more likely to hospitalize patients or prescribe drugs than those in health maintenance organizations.

The final stage of the study, measuring health outcomes, has yet to be published, but other research has shown little evidence that more tests and hospitalization yield better results.

The study presents additional data that helps explain why U.S. health costs are so high. In Canada and Germany, where care is less expensive and the population healthier, more than half the doctors are general practitioners; in the United States, by contrast, only one in eight is a generalist.

Specialists tend to use more resources in treating patients and are paid more.

The new evidence makes even more dismaying the continuing decline in the proportion of medical students training to be primary-care doctors. Aware of the cost advantages of using general practitioners, many prepaid health plans are requiring patients to have a primary-care physician who acts as their gatekeeper to other medical services. With primary-care physicians in too short supply, there is a growing crush at the doctor's office, which makes life more difficult for patients and physicians alike, and access to care more problematic.

Encouraging more doctors to practice general medicine belongs high on the health-care agenda. The recent reform of the Medicare payment system, which moves dollars toward primary care, starts to reshape incentives. But more needs to be done, in state and local policy, to make training for primary-care doctors a higher priority for medical schools and their students.

A healthy society doesn't need every broken arm to be set by an orthopedist, or every case of indigestion to be treated by a gastroenterologist.

Recycling criticism misses point

Recent letters and criticisms regarding the Legislature's lack of action on content requirements for packaging are missing the point. Imposing content standards on glass, for example, will not enhance markets.

The glass industry in Florida has increased purchases of recycled glass by 200 percent since the solid waste law passed in 1988. And capacity is still strong for continued growth. This is evidenced by the current expansion of processing capacity in the state to handle the increasing volumes. The industry is buying ALL available glass that meets quality requirements.

Legislators were correct in refusing to mandate arbitrary content levels that had no relationship to market realities. Some of the content levels that have been discussed would have required IMPORTING glass from other states just to meet the Florida mandate.

Florida has jumped from a 4 percent recycling rate in 1988 to over 20 percent today. Legislation which ignores the law of supply and demand could do serious harm to this momentum. Legislators should be commended, not condemned for carefully deliberating proposed changes that could negatively impact markets in Florida for years to come.

Where does right to privacy end?

In common moments of resentment at the media's invasion of privacy, Bill Clinton, Jerry Brown, Gary Hart and Arthur Ashe might find a common solace in the following denunciation:

"The press is overstepping in every direction the obvious bounds of propriety and of decency. Gossip is no longer the resource of the idle and the vicious, but has become a trade, which is pursued with industry as well as effrontery. To satisfy a prurient taste, the details of sexual relations are spread broadcast in the columns of every daily paper."

The words may not be familiar, but the sentiments are echoed today by thousands of harassed public figures. They have never been able to understand the media's role as an equal opportunity butt-kicker. The prominent and the prosaic are treated like Rodney Dangerfield. Everybody "gets no respect."

Still, even that kind of insolence cannot excuse "overstepping the bounds of propriety and of decency." Those words were not uttered by Clinton, Brown or Ashe, but appeared 102 years ago in one of the most influential law review articles ever written, "The Right to Privacy."

In this Harvard Law Review essay, two brilliant Boston lawyers, Samuel D. Warren and Louis D. Brandeis (the latter eventually was appointed to the Supreme Court), argued for the

But they ended up conceding that the public's right to know about matters of general concern transcended the right to privacy. As recently as 1989, the Supreme Court still agreed with them.

In 1992, 49 members of Congress are scampering home permanently, after having been put through an exercise in democracy that goes back to Socrates. "For there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed; and hid that shall not be known."

Gary Hart learned that lesson. Bill Clinton is still learning it, and it is now Arthur Ashe's painful turn to attend class.

Ashe lamented that USA Today had "forced" him to go public with the news that he had AIDS and had "put me in the unenviable position of having to lie to protect myself."

Nothing covered that shall not be revealed.

What a lack of faith in the goodness of the American people. We still revere this respected tennis legend, not only because he was the first black American to win the Wimbledon title, but because he has been a model citizen and family man.

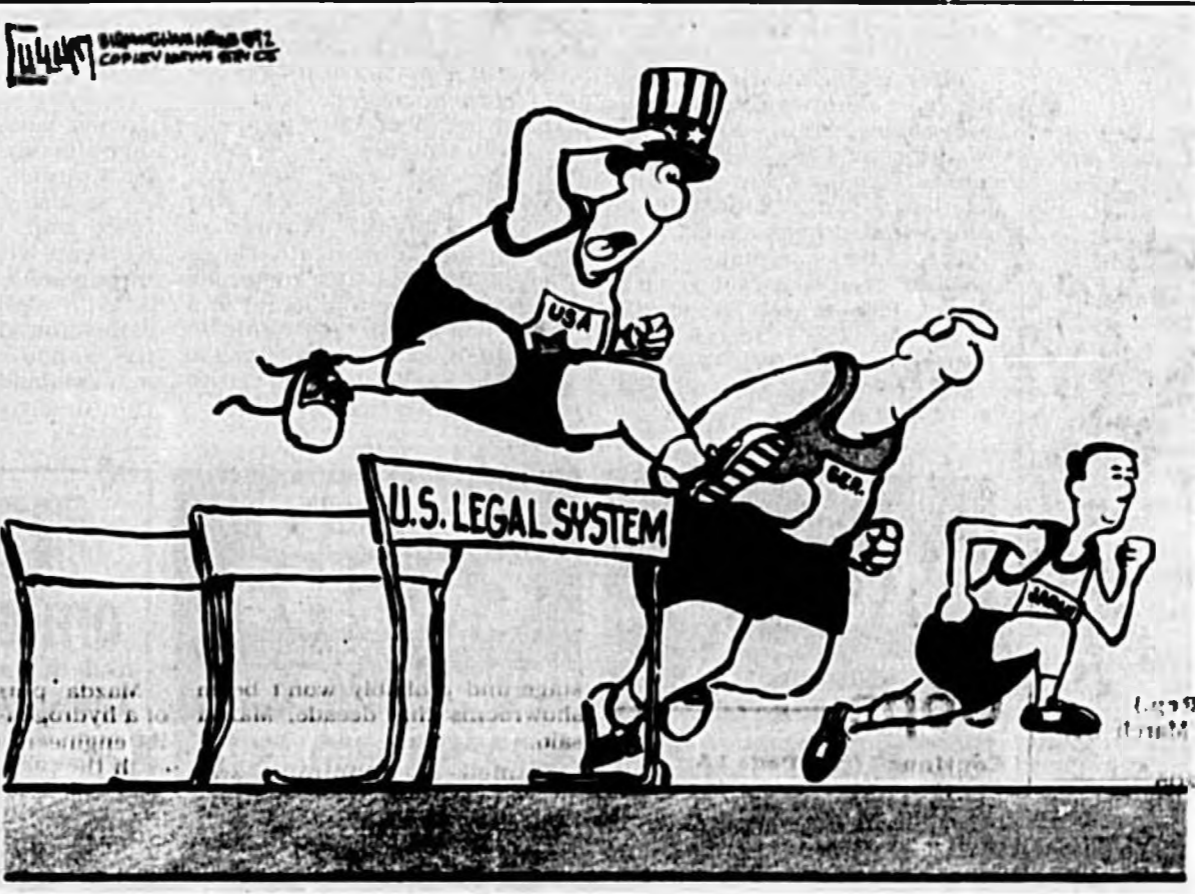

But when Ashe began crusading against the over-emphasis of sports for young blacks at the expense of academic achievement, that was about as public as you can get. His feeble declaration, "I'm not running for public office," failed to neutralize his extraordinary public role over the last 10 years.

And public figures cannot pick and choose their moments of privacy.

This may seem harsh, but public officials and prominent persons have no private lives. Once they try to use their celebrity to influence the public, they become, as Justice Jackson once wrote, "a legitimate subject for public comment."

At the same time, that constitutional right in no way excuses some of the media's barbaric behavior. Freedom of speech does not include the right to tear apart the tender fabric of reciprocal civility.

Still, Arthur Ashe should have had more faith in us.

Sen. Specter running full-tilt

PHILADELPHIA — No U.S. Senate incumbent is running harder for re-election than Pennsylvania Republican Arlen Specter. He is being forced to run full-tilt, even in his own party primary, because no member of the Senate is under as full an attack from both sides of the political spectrum.

Specter, 62, a former Philadelphia prosecuting attorney, was once a Democrat who lost races to be Philadelphia's mayor and Pennsylvania's governor before finally winning a Senate seat in 1980.

In this campaign for a third term, Specter finds himself in the uncomfortable position of being attacked by some of the very interest groups that he has relentlessly cultivated over the years.

For instance, he has been one of the Senate's more ardent supporters of abortion rights. It is assumed in Washington that if the Supreme Court overrules Roe v. Wade, Specter would lead a movement to establish legislative protection for abortion rights. One might think that a group he could count on in the election would be more liberal women Republicans, even Democratic women who would cross party lines to return him to the Senate.

But women in Pennsylvania and across the nation were outraged at Specter's treatment of Anita Hill during the Clarence Thomas confirmation hearing. As Specter saw it, he was only doing his job, hard questions in a courteous manner. As many women saw it, however, he put on his former prosecutor's hat for what amounted to a spiteful, sarcastic cross-examination of a hostile witness.

Specter expresses shock at this negative reaction from women.

But he also sees what happened to Illinois Democratic Sen. Alan Dixon, who lost his primary in part because of his vote supporting Thomas. So Specter has tried to win back his base by apologizing for his "demeanor" towards Anita Hill and by emphasizing his pro-choice stance.

That latter position, though, is turning into Specter's biggest problem: His GOP primary on April 28 is shaping up as a major test of abortion-rights politics.

His opponent for the GOP nomination is State Rep. Stephen Freind, one of the state's most outspoken abortion foes and the leader of the anti-abortion forces in the state legislature.

The abortion issue is explosive within Pennsylvania's Republican ranks. In a GOP primary two years ago, anti-abortion activist Peg Liskalik, a political neophyte, came within an eyelash of defeating the incumbent GOP state auditor, a pro-choice supporter.

GOP insiders here believe that Freind may be able to attract 30 percent of the GOP vote strictly on the abortion issue. Another 5 percent may swing his way from ultra-conservatives who think Specter is too moderate. They are outraged that, in 1987, he helped defeat the nomination of conservative hero Robert Bork to the Supreme Court.

The question is whether Freind can broaden the base of his support.

He is trying to do so by playing up the anti-incumbency feeling. He calls Specter "a classic and consummate political opportunist" who has become a member of the Washington establishment.

That may well be a hard sell here, because there may not be a U.S. senator — outside those from Maryland and Virginia, and Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., who live in their home states — who spends as much time at home as does Specter.

For the past 12 years, he has relentlessly crossed and recrossed the state in a non-stop re-election odyssey. Not counting the last month of intense campaigning, Specter brags that he has made 1,680 separate stops in the state.

His favorite line is from a Pittsburgh newspaper, which, in a Thanksgiving column, noted one thing to be thankful for: "Arlen Specter is not in town again today."

He has also started this year with a $3 million campaign war chest, and he is raising more.

Many observers believe Specter will survive the Republican primary because the same women who were angered by his interrogation of Anita Hill are the very ones who would be loath to support Freind.

However, November might be a different story. Specter will probably face Democratic Lt. Gov. Mark Singel. Six months ago, Singel was not considered a formidable challenger, but this is becoming a very atypical election year.

Specter expresses shock at this negative reaction from women.

Arafat still vital to PLO's survival

WASHINGTON — Yasir Arafat survived another brush with death this month, but his critics are still speculating. "What if...?"

What will happen when Arafat is permanently out of the picture in the Middle East, a victim of either age, assassins, accident or attrition? Many power brokers hope a change in leadership would bring a new course and a fresh voice to the peace negotiations. Others speculate that the end of Arafat would mean the death of the Palestine Liberation Organization.

But a source close to Arafat told us there is no power vacuum in the PLO. There are plenty of powerful and even wealthy Palestinians who would pick up the flag if Arafat dropped it. "I know a dozen to two dozen billionaires who could step in and fund the whole thing," the source said.

But would those money men, or any successor for that matter, have Arafat's magnetism? If not, the personality and influence of the PLO could change dramatically.

When Arafat emerged relatively unscathed from the wreckage of his downed plane in Libya, he returned to head an organization that loves and hates him. Some top officials in the PLO are Arafat's most vocal critics. But the 62-year-old Arafat, ever the survivor, could prove as deft at parrying the blows from his inner circle as he is at dodging assassins' bullets and riding out fatal airplane crashes.

"When Arafat was found alive, his stock went sky high," our source told us. "People believe God preserved him for a while."

Arafat's uncanny ability to ride atop the rolling PLO comes from his ability to appeal to the masses. To Palestinians, he is the symbol of their struggle, a politician and a holy man. But it is that sensitivity to what the masses want that has most recently damaged his credibility with the elite in the PLO.

As a reader of public opinion, Arafat knew that the majority of Palestinians were behind Saddam Hussein during the Persian Gulf War. In a risky move, Arafat went with the polls and sided with Saddam too. Saudi Arabia and Kuwait, countries that have given millions of dollars to the PLO, were outraged.

The money is no longer rolling in, and Arafat's fair weather friends in the PLO hierarchy are blaming him. And why not? Arafat bet on a loser and some Palestinians are suffering because of it. Since U.S. forces restored the emir of Kuwait to power, he and his henchmen have begun a quiet extermination of all Palestinians still left in Kuwait.

Everyone from doctor to household servant gets the same harsh treatment. Some Palestinians, even those who were born in Kuwait, have been tortured or shot on sight. The Kuwaiti government is seizing their property, their businesses, their bank accounts.

"Palestinians think it is better to live under Israeli occupation in the West Bank than under a genocidal regime in Kuwait," one source told our reporter Allison Hawes.

Arafat is still popular with the masses, but he can do nothing to stop the bloodshed in Kuwait. His appeals to the United Nations have been ignored. His only hope for saving the Palestinians in Kuwait lies in enlisting the sympathy of the United States — the same government that would not issue him a visa in 1988 to address the United Nations, the same government that, last week, denied it had offered to search for Arafat's missing airplane.

People believe God preserved him for a while.

Itself," said Wolfinger. "I anticipate it will have a chilling effect during the investigation of organized crime or criminal conspiracy when a witness' attorney may discuss questions and who asks them with other witnesses."

Wolfinger said he may reconsider the use of a grand jury in such investigations.

But Altamonte Springs lawyer Tom Freeman said the more discriminate use of grand juries may be healthy. Freeman is a director of the Seminole County Bar Association and a member of the board of governors of the Florida Bar Association.

"It's a very good thing," said Freeman. "The grand jury system was originally designed in the old days of the British monarchy to protect citizens from unwarranted criminal charges. It is there to protect people from the state attorney doing anything he wants to do. But the only lawyer in there is the state attorney or one of his assistants."

"There have been instances where the state attorney bullied and threatened witnesses and coerced them into making statements."

Witnesses are granted immunity for their testimony before grand juries. Only one other state, Oklahoma, gives witnesses immunity and an attorney in such proceedings. Wolfinger said witness attorneys have led to a reduction in the use of grand juries in Oklahoma.

marshalls, who informed him of Baron's plan to escape from the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. Lauderdale said deputy marshalls told Grayson an informant had disclosed that Baron intended to remain in hiding in the immediate vicinity until police left and then intended to kidnap a lone female motorist before leaving the area.

"He was going to break out but stay close. It made sense. Deer get shot when they run," Lauderdale said.

Grayson requested that he and Ofc. Keith Kroeker be allowed to remain on duty and maintain a vigil in the area. They checked cars for lone female motorists.

Lauderdale said Baron crossed the lake in a canoe, walked across Lake Mary Boulevard and attempted to steal a car from Sandra Lee Ganser, who was making a phone call.

Oncoming shift commander, Sgt. Steve Gregory, with whom Grayson coordinated efforts, was on the scene.

"Sgt. Gregory due to his aggressive patrol plan, observed the female motorist signaling him that her vehicle was being taken and immediately took up pursuit of the escapee," Lauderdale said.

Six officers chased Baron. Baron pulled into a handicapped parking place at the I-4 Longwood Lake Mary rest stop, where he was blocked by pursuing officers. Baron was apprehended on foot by Seminole County deputies.

Numerous charges were filed, including one written by Kroeker for parking in a handicapped spot.

"The handicapped parking violation is the only one Baron signed," Lauderdale said.

1 drowns, 2 missing in rough ocean

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Rough seas have claimed the life of a fisherman and resulted in the disappearance of a fishing boat captain and a teenager enjoying a beach outing with friends.

Emil Guillia, 67, drowned Thursday after spending nearly an hour trying to swim to a nearby jetty in Sebastian Inlet.

witnesses said. His 14-foot boat flipped after being swamped by 8-foot waves.

Authorities in New Smyrna Beach continued their search for 14-year-old Matthew Peterson of Ocoee, who was swept into deep water Wednesday.

Also missing was Louis Bennett, 39, captain of a New Smyrna Beach commercial fishing boat, who disappeared after rescuing two crew members when their boat capsized late Sunday.

The 42-foot boat sank 50 miles off Flagler County as it headed for Ponce de Leon Inlet, the Coast Guard said.

Bennett and two crew members climbed into a life raft, but it overturned in rough seas. Frank Martinez and Charles Potts reboarded the raft but could not find Bennett, according to the Coast Guard report.

Mazda unveils futuristic automobile

By ROB WELLS
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — With automakers racing to develop cleaner-burning vehicles, Mazda unveiled a sleek, futuristic-looking sports car Thursday that runs on hydrogen and leaves an exhaust trail of water vapor.

But the car, displayed at the New York International Auto Show, is still in the development stage and probably won't be in showrooms this decade, Mazda said.

Framed in aluminum and plastic with a dramatic glass bubble over the passenger compartment, the turquoise, four-seat HR-X looked like something out of "The Jetsons" science-fiction cartoon show.

Powered by the same rotary engine as Mazda's RX-7, it can exceed 90 mph and travel 120 miles on a tank of hydrogen gas.

"I think it's a more promising technology for the future than the electric car," said Takamori Minami, general manager of the company's technical research center in Hiroshima, Japan.

Mazda pursued development of a hydrogen-fueled car because its engineers were disappointed with the problems of developing a good battery for electric vehicles, Minami said.

"Hydrogen seems to have more potential to deliver that performance package," he said.

The HR-X engine produces 100 horsepower, about the same as the original Mazda RX-7.

The main byproduct of burning hydrogen is water vapor, making the HR-X's fuel supply an attractive alternative to gasoline in building cars that meet tough vehicle emission standards. California and Massachusetts will require that at least 10 percent of cars sold in 2003 have zero emissions.

To that end, virtually all major automakers are displaying some form of battery-powered vehicle at the auto show, but Mazda claims to be the only one with a viable hydrogen-fueled car.

Study: best students are not good writers

By TAMARA HENRY
AP Education Writer

WASHINGTON — An eighth grade student wrote, "I would like to go to the Fair by myself," but he had a hard time explaining why.

"I am old enough to go because I am 14 years old. I have a job to keep money. Last but not least, I am responsible to go. I take care of the house and everything. So I think I should go to the Fair," he wrote.

And his writing was better than that of many other students.

The student's paper was among hundreds analyzed in an Education Department research study released Thursday that said a national sampling of America's best students shows that many of them are sloppy, disorganized writers.

The National Assessment of Educational Progress said one reason for the poor writing is that teachers spent little time on writing instruction of any kind in the classroom.

"It is an unprecedented snap-shot of what better-than-average students are writing in better-than-average schools," said Phyllis W. Aldrich, a member of the National Assessment Governing Board.

"Quite frankly, it appears that they are not asked to do very much and that the quality of even their best efforts is often pretty poor," said Aldrich.

Key findings were:

—Student stories had little focus and little content. The majority of writing submitted was informative and narrative, and very few children submitted persuasive pieces, poems, letters or reports.

—1 percent of students at each grade level performed major revisions to their papers, and just one-fifth of fourth graders and one-third of eighth graders performed even minor revisions.

—The median story length for fourth graders was just 84 words, roughly one paragraph. For eighth graders, it was 140 words or about two paragraphs.

—More than three-quarters of students used their own ideas and observations, not something they had learned in school or read, as a subject for their writing.

Traditional writing tests have been criticized by many teachers, principals and testing experts who insist that writing is a complex process, not fully examined through timed tests.

About 2,000 fourth and eighth grade students participated in the 1990 study. Eugene Owen of the National Center for Education Statistics, which financed the report, said twice as many students and teachers had been invited to participate. He added that the writing samples came disproportionately from students in advantaged urban communities with higher grades and higher scores on earlier tests.

Until now, most tests of writing skills asked students to draft an essay on an assigned topic within a specific time. The new approach, called "portfolio," allows students to select writing samples done over time that might be a more accurate indicator of overall writing ability.

SANFORD — Beginning today, "Smokie" may be on the lookout for improper auto safety equipment on area roads.

The roadblocks may be established on the following roads:

April 17 through 23: Airport Boulevard, County Road 15, Markham Road, Orange Boulevard, Osceola Road, Upsala Road and Perimmon Avenue.

April 24 through 30: Celery Avenue, Gen. J.C. Hutchinson Parkway, Marquette Road, Orange Boulevard, State Road 436, Upsala Road and Perimmon Avenue.

Billboard removal won't affect local road projects

By J. MARK SANFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Local state road projects won't be affected by a federal billboard removal requirement, say local road officials.

"It comes from a different pot of money," said Nancy Houston, director of the Central Florida district planning office of the Florida Department of Transportation. "It should have no effect on Seminole County or elsewhere in the district."

Although the state will receive a record amount of federal highway dollars as a result of the Intermodal Surface Transportation Efficiency Act of 1991, state officials learned they will have to use a portion of the money to remove billboards that don't meet the requirements of a 1985 highway beautification act. The state will receive $4.5 billion during the next six years, compared to $2.7 billion during the past five years.

Houston said FDOT will allocate $5 million each year from the federal highway money to removing the estimated 4,073 non-conforming billboards throughout the state. More than a quarter of the signs, 1,104, are in the 10-county district that includes Seminole County, said Houston. The money will come from a highway enhancement fund, not the fund allocated for road construction, said Houston.

The billboard removal money was allocated before district highway enhancement dollars were appropriated, said Houston. So, the effect of the billboard requirement on local enhancement projects can't be determined, said Jim Kimbler, district planning manager.

The district will receive $4.3 million in highway enhancement money, said Houston. A portion of the money will be used to replace wetlands destroyed during the widening of State Road 436 from the Orange County line, scheduled to begin within two years.

Houston said about 60 percent of the $102 million in road projects planned for the next five years is federal highway dollars.

Why A Business This Big Runs A Yellow Page Ad This Small.

Actual Size

When people start reading the Yellow Pages every evening, we'll start running big ads in it. Until then the Yellow Pages is no more than a directory . . . that the average person seldom reads. Which is why we run our ads in the newspaper, and we suggest you do the same.

Your Yellow Pages salesperson can't tell you how many people see your ad every day in his directory. But we can tell you that over 7,000 households receive the Sanford Herald daily and 20,000 households receive the Herald Advertiser every week. That kind of coverage can lead to sales. Especially when you use the Herald to tell people about competitive pricing, a new location or service, or illustrate a clear advantage over the competition. You're not allowed to do any of these things in the Yellow Pages.

And another thing . . . you can't be flexible in the Yellow Pages. You're stuck with the same ad for a whole year. So what do you do when you need to respond to the market? Or promote a sale? Or build your image? You advertise in the newspaper.

So let us talk to you about opportunities in newspaper advertising. Our number is in the Yellow Pages, but remember, what just sold you on us was the newspaper.

More bad-check writers revealed

WASHINGTON — House members are rushing toward the political confessional with a litany of apologies in a burst of soul-searching inspired by revelations of 24,000 bad checks. "You get tarred and feathered by the actions of your fellow congressmen," Rep. Craig James, a Viusia County, Florida Republican, said of the furor sparked by check overdrafts at the now-defunct House bank.

Former Reagan officials questioned

WASHINGTON — Former Secretary of State George Shultz says he is under scrutiny by Iran-Contra prosecutors, who interviewed him and former Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger about their congressional testimony in the scandal. Sources close to the investigation say prosecutors have been trying to determine whether the two former Cabinet secretaries lied when they testified four years ago that they knew little about the Reagan administration's secret arms sales to Iran.

Buchanan says California his last stand

BAYFORK, Calif. — Republican presidential candidate Pat Buchanan said he expects to make peace with George Bush before November's election, but not before making one last stand in California. Buchanan, who campaigned Thursday in this tiny timber town about 200 miles north of San Francisco, said the state's June 2 primary represents the beginning of the end of a campaign aimed at "reconnecting the government with the people."

Guam's tough abortion law overturned

SAN FRANCISCO — A federal appeals court overturned a ban on nearly all abortions in Guam less than a week before the U.S. Supreme Court hears arguments on a less restrictive law that could undermine Roe vs. Wade. The law in the largely Roman Catholic U.S. territory would have made abortion illegal except to save a woman's life or prevent grave danger to health or in ectopic pregnancies — a dangerous, abnormal pregnancy that develops outside the uterus.

New police chief named for Los Angeles

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. — Once, the image of the Los Angeles Police Department was squeaky clean enough to inspire such television shows as "Dragnet." That was before Rodney King. Now, a year after the nation was shocked by a bystander's videotape of four white LAPD officers beating the black motorist, a new chief — Philadelphia Police Commissioner Willie L. Williams — has been chosen to succeed Daryl Gates and clean up the department's sullied image.

Caterpillar begins returning to normalcy

PEORIA, Ill. — Caterpillar Inc. has begun mending fences with the United Auto Workers by announcing the recall of 12,600 union members who refused to end their five-month strike even under the threat of being fired. But bickering between the company and the union continues as they disagree over the schedule for getting all employees back on the job.

WORLD BRIEFS

Rebels gaining control in Afghanistan

KABUL, Afghanistan — Their president in hiding and rebels on the edge of the capital, Afghans waited to see whether Najibullah's departure would mean peace or new bloodshed. Diplomats urged restraint, but Muslim guerrillas threatened today to attack. Thursday, President Najibullah was stripped of power and replaced by a coalition of generals and rebel leaders. The toppling of Najibullah, the Soviet-installed dictator who had ruled since 1986, followed an intensified campaign that saw the rebels advance to within 35 miles of Kabul.

Economic roller-coaster in China

DALI VILLAGE, China — The roller coaster of Communist Chinese history has thrown Pan Bairong for his share of loops in a 36-year passage from peasant to factory owner. So it's easy to understand why Pan can't quite believe the news that another cycle of market-oriented reform is under way in his country's endless bounce between political struggle and pragmatism.

Bombing suspects may give up

By NEJLA SANNAKIA
Associated Press Writer

TRIPOLI, Libya — Libya sought Arab allies in its standoff with the West, but there were reports today that the suspects in the bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 may be willing to stand trial in the West. The United Nations has imposed sanctions on Libya in an effort to force Tripoli to turn over the two men. The sanctions, which took effect Wednesday, cut air links and arms sales and ordered Libyan diplomatic staffs out.

Italy said that six of its envoys had been ordered to leave, and Belgium, which looks after U.S. interests in Libya, said it had been told to reduce its diplomatic staff. "They told me some embassy members would have to leave soon and they will in the next few hours notify me of the names and the deadline," Belgian Ambassador Leon Doyen said. Libyan radio, monitored in London, reported Thursday night that the heads of the diplomatic missions of Brazil, Spain and Hungary also were informed some of their employees would be expelled.

at the United Nations. But he said Egypt would welcome Gadhafi for talks on settling the crisis. Libya TV had reported that Gadhafi spoke by telephone with Mubarak on Wednesday about efforts to resolve the crisis. Mubarak has pledged to continue seeking a diplomatic settlement, but also has hinted at possible tougher international measures if the stand-off continues. The U.N. sanctions do not affect the most common routes in and out of Libya — by land and sea — and crucial oil sales continue. But both the United States and Britain said an oil embargo was under consideration, and use of force has not been ruled out.

Heat near playoffs

MIAMI - The Miami Heat needs help from other teams to make the playoffs for the first time, and Milwaukee provided an assist. The stumbling Bucks shot just 38 percent, scored a total of 30 points in the second and third quarters and lost to Miami 95-87. Glen Rice led the Heat with 23 points, including a 3-point basket during an 11-0 third-quarter spurt that broke open a close game. Reserve Kevin Edwards added 20 points, while Brad Lohaus scored 23 for Milwaukee. Miami still does not control its own destiny, but they will make the playoffs if: Atlanta splits its final two games and the Heat wins its regular-season finale Sunday at Boston, or if Miami wins and New Jersey loses Saturday at home to Orlando, or if Atlanta loses its final two games. The Hawks play Chicago at home Friday and finish at Cleveland on Sunday.

Eustis pays for Rams' 'misdeeds'

By TONY BOGNER
Herald Sports Editor

LAKE MARY - Jeannie Fisher knew what she had to do, but didn't want to do it. With the 4A-District 5 slowpitch softball tournament scheduled to start Tuesday and her Lake Mary High School team coming off a less-than-inspired performance over Bishop Moore on Wednesday, Fisher was forced to use Thursday's game against Eustis as a tool to get her team ready to play.

Sometimes sloppy play is contagious. After spending most of the game forcing Eustis into making 11 errors, shortstop Pam Davis and the Lake Mary Rams made three errors themselves that led to the Panthers' two runs.

Elizabeth Davidson (triple, single, two runs, two RBI) and Karen Pinckney (triple, two runs, two RBI). Marissa Messier added two singles and two runs while Pam Davis and Jenni Longstaff each hit a single and scored two runs.

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - Another runaway? Much like the Korg U.S.A. Expos in the National Division of the Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League, the K-n-D Trailer Hitch Red Sox are threatening to turn out the lights in the American Division with just over half of the season having been played.

Thursday night at Roy Holler Field in Ft. Mellon, Trellis Smith tossed a one-hitter and ripped a three-run triple and Antonio White launched a grand slam as the Red Sox blasted the D.A.V. (Disabled American Veterans) Royals 16-1 to improve to 7-0 and take three-game lead over the rest of the division.

Santa Fe romps by Seminole on way to M-FC title

SANFORD - Seeming to wilt in the midday sun, Seminole Community College made winning the Mid Florida Conference baseball championship easy for Santa Fe Community College, blowing a 3-2 lead and losing 14-3. "That was the worst game we've played all season," said SCC head coach Jack Pantelias.

bringing home James Hughes with the double. Club honors young people

By MARVA HAWKINS
Herald Columnist

Seminole Boys and Girls Club Awards ceremony was held April 10. The awards program honored the Boys and Girls Clubs of Seminole County. The youth were honored for their outstanding achievement in leadership, sportsmanship, academics, behavior, hard work and dedication.

The pledge to the flag and the prayer by Jason Brock began the honor ceremonies. The words of welcome were given by the principal of Midway Elementary School, Mamie Bingham. A musical presentation in sign language "Something Inside So Strong" was given by Samantha Gilcrest, Shenna Britton and Mary Owens. "What My Boys and Girls Club Means to Me" was rendered by the Winnwood Club, Altamonte Springs, West Sanford Club and Midway Club members. Black history of the many famous people who have contributed to the growth and success of the world was portrayed in a skit, "Black History Contributes to America" by the West Sanford Club members. Presentations of awards were made by the West Sanford staff, Winnwood branch and the Midway Branch. Over 75 boys and girls from these clubs were honored for their many achievements. Special appreciation awards went to Patricia M. Hitchmon and Bernice Doe, the director and founder of the Boys Glee Club that has been appearing around the Central Florida area since it was founded by Mrs. Hitchmon in Nov. 1991. The Glee Club will be traveling to Brunswick, Ga. in May to present a concert.

President Frank Moletteire of the Boys and Girls Clubs of Central Florida gave words of encouragement. He gave special honor to the very fine staff at the three sites who have made a difference in the lives of the youth who attend the Seminole County branches.

Don Miller and his staff of the Seminole County clubs are looking forward to a successful 1992 and encourage boys and girls to come and sign up and to be a part of the club in their communities. Seeing members develop into mature, confident and knowledgeable young people makes the jobs of the staff enjoyable, Miller said.

Boys and Girls Club Youth of the Month is Patricia Harral, 9th grader at Deltona High School. Quinton Williams, 9th grader from Seminole High School, has been named Central Florida runner up as Boys and Girls Club Youth of the Year 1992.

Help find 'Best Mom' in county

The Sanford Herald is searching for an area mom deserving of our annual 'Mom of the Year' title.

We need our readers to help by writing letters of nomination, to be reviewed by our panel of judges.

Judging will be based on sincerity and clarity, with specific examples or anecdotes about why your nominee is a special mom a plus. Your nominee need not be your own mom.

Only residents of Seminole County are eligible to be nominated but their nominators need not live in Seminole County.

Here's how to enter: Write us a letter about a special mom, telling us why she's so special. Letters should be typed or printed legibly. Include the nominee's name, street address, city, and daytime phone number at the top of your letter.

At the end of your letter include your name address, daytime phone number and age, if under 18.

Deliver or mail to "Mom of the Year," Sanford Herald, 300 N. French Ave., Sanford, Fla., 32771.

There is no maximum length limit on letters.

Entries are due at the Herald office by 1 p.m., Friday, May 1.

The top three winners will be featured in the Mother's Day edition of the Herald, Sunday, May 10.

Your life depends on taking AIDS seriously

DEAR MARY: We have been having a lot of classes about AIDS at school, and also there's a lot of stuff on TV about it. I think that grown-ups are just trying to scare kids so we won't have sex or use drugs. Besides, they'll have a cure pretty soon and I think it's dumb for adults to try to get kids to listen to them by using scare tactics.

NOT SCARED
DEAR NOT: You may not be scared, but I am and so are thousands of professional educators and care givers in the U.S. My fear is that the incidence of AIDS and HIV positive individuals is being UNDERreported, and that its threat to the lives of young people is being underreported to avoid scare tactics.

DRUG COUNSELOR

Prevention of AIDS among healthy young people is possible. Abstinence from sex and any form of needle-sharing is 100 percent effective. Additionally, the use of alcohol or other drugs compromises the ability to use good judgment and make smart decisions.

Teenagers must learn how to live with the AIDS epidemic. It is not going to go away by our simply denying that it exists. Furthermore, teens can prevent the spread of AIDS through their behavior.

AIDS testing is available through the Health Department. If you have slipped in the past, but are not now infected, you don't have to slip again. Your life may depend on it.

his office and told him she had been feeling guilty for not telling him she had genital herpes. She said she realized it was active again the day after they were together.

By some miracle, my husband did not catch the disease, but the next man she "wants to know better" might not be so lucky. I'm also happy to say that, after professional counseling, our marriage is on solid ground once again. We have survived Walter's mid-life crisis.

DALLAS HOUSEWIFE

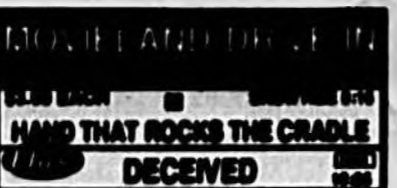

DEAR DALLAS: Your husband was very lucky he did not contract herpes from someone who was on the verge of an outbreak. And congratulations on surviving your husband's "mid-life crisis."

However, it might be a good idea if both you and Walter were tested to see if you have been exposed to the AIDS virus.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning "I'm Just Right": I had a good friend who went to her doctor about a medical problem. He bluntly said, "You're too fat!" She promptly replied, "You're not so skinny yourself, Doctor!" When she returned for her next checkup, she noticed that the doctor was noticeably thinner. So I guess the moral of that story is, "Physician, heal thyself."

Mid-life crisis survived

DEAR ABBY: Last winter, while in the throes of a mid-life crisis, "Walter," my husband of 29 years, was approached by a business associate who told him she was attracted to him, and would "like to know him better."

Six weeks later, on his birthday, she treated him to lunch — and more. As a gag, she blindfolded him and drove him to an expensive hotel, and took him to a room where she had lunch and a bottle of wine waiting. When he removed the blindfold, she explained that she had chosen a hotel room so they

"Were YOU There?"

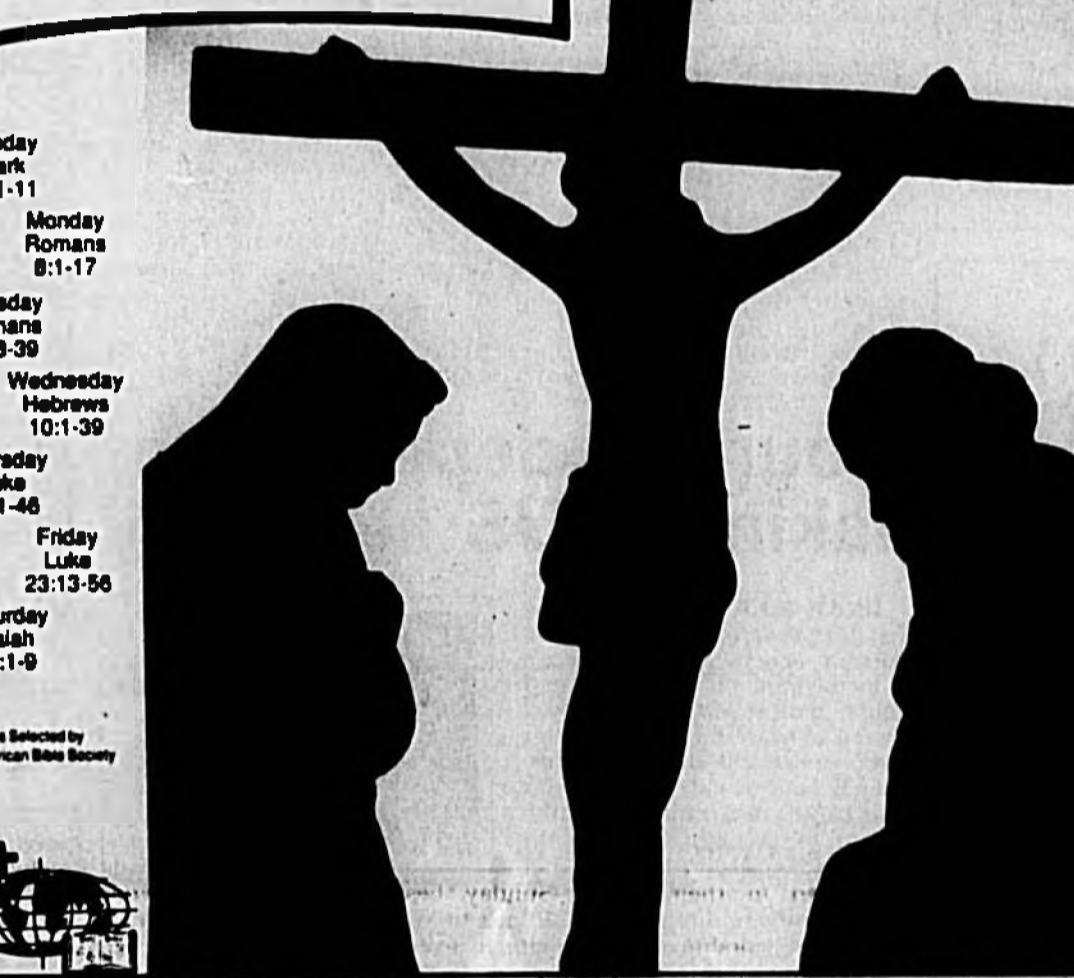

"Were you there when they crucified my Lord?" ...
Jesus was there ... fulfilling His destiny. Pilate was there ... convinced ... yet unconvincing.

"Were you there when they nailed Him to the tree?" ...
Jesus was there, suffering for our sins. His mother, Mary, was there, witnessing the unthinkable, yet knowing it was prophesied. Jesus' disciples were there, staring in disbelief. A condemned thief was there, believing in God's mercy.

"Were you there when they laid Him in the tomb?" ...
Jesus was there, bloodied and lifeless. His disciple, Joseph, was there, burying Him. Pilate's centurion guard was there, sent unsuccessfully to guard against Jesus' escape.

"Sometimes it causes me to tremble ... tremble ... tremble ..."
Jesus was not there. Amidst the earthquake, He had risen ... the Savior of humankind!

FROM THE PULPIT

By the REV. BEVERLY BARGE

Extol his life throughout Holy Week

"What an incredibly amazing far-out thing!"

Those words were part of the very first Easter Banner I saw as I walked into my first parish on my very first Easter Sunday morning as a new Episcopal priest. Immediately, I thought that the women who had created this lovely colorful church wall hanging had certainly captured the true spirit of the Resurrection. It was, is — indeed, an 'incredibly amazing far-out thing!' that this man, Jesus of Nazareth was crucified, died, was buried and rose again from the dead.

It was, is "indeed, an 'incredibly amazing far-out thing' that this man, Jesus of Nazareth was crucified, died, was buried and rose again from the dead."

-The Rev. Beverly Barge

It is not only incredibly amazing that it happened, but that some 20 centuries later Christians, by faith, still believe that it happened as Scripture tells us. It is the basis for our hope and belief in Jesus' promise of eternal life to all who will accept it.

So one would think that Easter sermons would be easy to prepare. In fact, they are not. The reason is that any in-depth consideration of the Crucifixion, the Atonement, the Resurrection, can quickly become ponderous, a heavy theological treatise rather than a simple celebration of the fact that because HE LIVES! WE WILL LIVE! — and that's an incredibly amazing, far-out thing!"

For most Christians, Palm Sunday is a time of happy remembrance of Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem riding on a colt. We picture the people waving palm branches and shouting "Hosanna," proclaiming Jesus as the "King who comes in the name of the Lord." Though he didn't exactly fit their image of the long promised and expected Messiah, He would do, at least for the moment.

Some Christians seem to skip "Good Friday," the Passion of Christ, and move directly from Palm Sunday to Easter with little attention paid to the suffering and death of our Lord. To do that is to miss a major part of the Easter message. It's far easier not to dwell on the unpleasant aspects of human death-on-a-cross, and move to resurrection-from-the-dead and eternal life. Jesus' victory over death and the grave is, in fact, a promise that each of us can have that same victory — 'Incredibly Amazing, Far-Out!'

We too often skip one really significant event of Jesus' life that occurred during his last week — Holy Week for us. As we move directly from Palm Sunday to Easter, we pay little attention to Maundy Thursday. For me, it is one of the most important days of the entire Christian year for at least three reasons.

First, it was Passover time in Jerusalem. Jesus ate his last meal with the disciples on Thursday, the night before he was crucified. There he instituted the sacrament of the "Last Supper" that Christians call Holy Communion. The Mass, the Eucharist, the Lord's Supper. Jesus took bread, blessed it, broke it and gave it saying, "Take, eat, this is my body. Whenever you eat it do this in remembrance of me." In like manner, he also took, blessed and shared the cup, also in remembrance. Christians everywhere do remember, and they celebrate that unforgettable occasion.

Second, Jesus washed his dirty, travel-weary feet of his disciples. John reports that during the Last Supper, Jesus got up from the meal, took off his outer garments and wrapped a towel around his waist. After pouring water into a basin he began to wash the feet of those gathered there in the Upper Room with him. Peter resisted, but when Jesus said, "Unless I wash you, you have no part with me," Peter relented and said enthusiastically, "Not just my feet but my hands and head as well!"

When Jesus had finished and put on his robe again, he asked them, "Do you understand what I have done for you?" That is the question that we need to contemplate across these nearly 2000 years. Do we understand what he has done for us, not only at the Last Supper, but on the cross and from the tomb as well? Jesus explained his actions: "I have set an example for you to follow. If I, your Lord and teacher have washed your feet, you should also wash one another's feet. You should do as I have done for you."

By washing feet, Jesus acted as a servant. He said, 'I have not come to be served, but to serve.' If we follow his example and obey his directive, we, too, as Christians will offer our lives in service to others. Emulating his actions, we must gladly humble ourselves as we seek to care for others in His name.

Each year, as part of our Maundy Thursday worship service, I wash the feet of those parishoners who are willing to participate. We recall that "strength and growth in the life of the Kingdom of God come not by power, authority, or even miracle, but such lowly service as that demonstrated by our Lord." I, myself, need to remember that no one "stands more in need of this reminder. See Pulpit, Page 88"

THE DAY HE WORE MY CROWN
a resurrection musical presented by
THE CELEBRATION CHOIR
Sunday, April 19 (Easter Sunday) 6:55 PM
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
519 Park Avenue, Sanford, FL

Directed by Rev. Jim Cornell

This unique presentation is both a visual as well as a musical experience with scenes from the motion picture "Jesus of Nazareth". For the story of Jesus Christ doesn't end with His resurrection. With it, begins another chapter! "Let not your heart be troubled. You believe in God, believe also in Me. In My Father's house are many mansions. I go to prepare a place for you. And I will come again to receive you - that where I am, there you will be also." And when He was taken up into heaven, He sat down at the right hand of God, the Father - to become . . . Our Cornerstone!

Pastor, Rev. Floyd Bish, Jr.
Church Office: 322-8041

than those who have been called to ordained ministry." This simple, literal act helps me recall — again and again — whose servant I am. We can never forget that we are all called to similar acts of loving humility. Finally, the third, and most important aspect of this Thursday evening: Jesus speaks clearly what his actions have been exemplifying. We call this day Maundy Thursday because the Latin word for "commandment" is "mandatum" (our "mandate"). After their supper together and before Jesus went to the Garden of Gethsemane where he was arrested, he spent some time instructing and comforting those closest to him whom he loved and would soon be leaving behind. In just a few simple words Jesus told them — tell us — how he would have us live: "A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. By this all men will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another." (John 13:34-35). By humbling himself and washing his disciples' feet, Jesus showed his love for them. By his suffering and death on the cross, Jesus showed his love for all humanity. We are called and commanded to live lives of service and love after his example. How simple, how profound, how difficult. Yet, it is possible, and it is commanded. When we love and serve others as Christ loved us, it is truly an "incredibly amazing, far-out thing!" The Rev. Beverly Sarge is rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church, 700 Rinehart Rd., Lake Mary.

Good exercise for arthritis sufferers

DEAR DR. GOTT: What's the best type of exercise for people who have rheumatoid arthritis? The options for me are a motorized treadmill, exercise bike, rowing machine or cross-country machine. I'm not going to learn how to swim at my age.

DEAR READER: Absolutely. Dermatologists and plastic surgeons are particularly adept at removing the discrete "punched-out" scars caused by chicken pox. Minor scars can be treated with dermabrasion; larger defects may require surgery.

MEDICINE
PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR READER: Almost any exercise is appropriate for patients with rheumatoid arthritis, providing the exercise is not excessively painful. Walking and rowing are excellent. A treadmill or exercise bike may be a bit too vigorous for most patients, but this is an individual decision. A cross-country machine is a real workout; this may appeal to certain younger patients with mild disease.

The purpose of any exercise for arthritic patients is to maintain joint suppleness and mobility. Knitting and piano-playing are good for hands, simple callisthenics and gardening aid shoulders and the upper body; walking, golf, swimming and boating (canoeing and rowing) are good general activities. Swimming is particularly beneficial because it requires the use of many joints and muscle groups at a time when the patient is partially supported by the water; hence, fewer problems with weight-bearing joints. In your case, swimming may not be an option. But you could certainly get in the shallow end of the pool (or in shallow water in lakes or at the sea) and paddle around, trying to move as much of you as possible. And don't forget dancing.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My daughter has several scars on her face from a recent bout of chicken pox. In light of the fact that there is treatment available for acne scars, are there any dermatological treatments or plastic surgery techniques that would eliminate these scars left by the chicken pox virus?

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Both sides have the potential for good play in today's deal. But in the real world, the defensive coup is virtually impossible to find. Therefore, test your declarer-play. Cover the East-West cards and plan the play in four spades. West leads the club queen. North's raise to four spades was pre-emptive, showing good playing strength for spades but a paucity of defensive tricks. This bid gave the opponents little room in which to maneuver. Here five clubs is likely to finish only one down, a good save against a making game. True, West might have made a thin take-out double, but opposite a passed partner, it didn't look inviting. West led the club queen and continued with the club jack when declarer ducked in the dummy.

South did well, finding a line that would work even if West held the heart ace. After ruffing at trick two, declarer played a trump to dummy's king, ruffed the club king high in hand and returned to dummy with another trump. Now South made a strange-looking play: He led dummy's diamond 10 and ran it. (If East had covered, South would have won with the ace and taken a ruffing finesse through West.) West won with the queen but was endplayed. Whatever West led now — the heart ace, a diamond (into South's tenace) or a club (conceding a ruff-and-discard) — declarer would lose only one heart and make his game. What was the defensive coup? If East had overtaken the club queen with his ace at trick one and switched to the heart 10 (or queen), the defenders would have taken the first four tricks. No way, man!

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bode Ouel
YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 19, 1992
You could establish several enviable relationships in the year ahead. They will be with individuals who will be just as concerned about advancing your hopes and desires as you will be about theirs. ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your greatest asset today is your ability to mastermind the affairs of others. Ways of doing things effectively, which they'll overlook, will be obvious to you. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) When working in close proximity with others today, keep an open mind and, if their suggestions are superior to yours, be willing to adjust your views. Everyone will gain. GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

This could be the day you've been waiting for to talk to the boss about improving your lot at work. You're holding some aces, so play them wisely. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't hide your feelings under a bushel today when it comes to someone you really like but about whom you have been reticent. There's a strong probability the feeling is mutual. LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Give situations that could make or save you money the serious respect they deserve today. These are your strong areas, and good results are likely. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Impressive results are possible today in situations where you have something to sell or promote. The secret to your success depends on how sincerely you believe in your product. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your imagination, flair and resourcefulness in financial matters could be rather outstanding today. All it will take to trigger these attributes will be the right kind of challenge. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Friends will find your personality extremely intriguing today: You'll be both dynamic and mysterious. But you won't be role-playing; it will just be the natural you. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Friends will respond to your appeals for assistance today -- if you play to their emotions. This will be particularly true of two people you helped recently. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may have the opportunity today to get to know someone better about whom you have felt indifferently. You and this individual have a great deal in common and could become very good friends. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) When put to the test today, you'll conduct yourself well in situations where you exercise authority. You'll be fair and just, yet firm when necessary. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't discount the suggestions of friends today in matters that affect you socially, but, on the other hand, don't take as gospel any financial advice they may offer. (C) 1992, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
