State Plans Action On Crossing Signal

By FRED VAN PELT
 TALLAHASSEE — Immediate action on the installation of railroad crossing signals at the SR 436 and SR 434 Seaboard Coastline crossings was promised here today by Commissioner Jay W. Brown of the State Department of Transportation (formerly the State Road Department).

Brown, reading through the five-year program for Seminole County and its road requirements, could find no request for installation of signals at these two crossings.

Informed that the Seminole County Commission two weeks ago voted to update a resolution already submitted, Brown promised that the state department would take immediate action if the county commission will include in its new resolution that it requests "top priority" for these signal lights.

Brown was informed that the county is requesting a change from its earlier resolution, which asked for signal lights at SR 436 and SR 434. The commission agreed to renew its request for signals on 434 at a later date.

Cost of the signal lights will be funded from county secondary road funds, approved by the state department, and the actual installation will be accomplished by the Seaboard Coastline.

(An overall picture of the new road situation in Seminole County was obtained from Brown and will be presented in another article in Tuesday's Sanford Herald.)

What's this we hear that the exact location of the crashed airplane, subject of an intensive CAP search, was identified by the popular seer in Volusia County? After personally crisscrossing over the crash site, prior to the sighting yesterday, I can vouch that you indeed did need "outside help."

United Fund's dinner Thursday evening is labeled "Victory Dinner." That ought to cue you in that the goal of $50,000 is to be reached. Jack Horner, campaign chairman, says "You'd better believe that we'll make this. This team has been working hard—and just will not fail." But to lend a helping hand, you folks who may not have turned in your "fair share" pledge yet, may do so by calling the UF office. That will help make certain that Thursday's goal will truly be a victory for the deserving agencies who depend on these funds.

David Wiggin won the punt-pass-kick competition for 10-year-olds and now moves to Jacksonville on Oct. 23 to see how he stacks up against other state lads. Best wishes, David, from the clock.

Let We Forget . . . Wasn't it about three years ago, during our sports writing clanks that we wondered how long it would be before Cassius Clay was behind bars? A figure of 20,000 casualties was contained in our column at that time . . . and now, here it is around 40,000 and he's still roaming the range.

A lot of good, our getting it officially entered into the Congressional Record, thanks to Congressman Claude Pepper. Someday . . .

First Step Slated School Compliance Hearing

By BILL SCOTT
 The first step in a long series of compliance proceedings against the Seminole County Board of Education is scheduled for Nov. 19 at 10 a. m. before a U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) hearing clerk at Washington, D. C.

Notice of the scheduled hearing was received Friday by county school Superintendent John Angel.

J. Marker Dorn has been designated HEW examiner for the hearing, which will determine if federal funds already deferred by the agency will be permanently withheld until the freedom of choice school plan adopted by the county board for 1969-70 term is withdrawn in favor of a more acceptable plan by the board.

Douglas Stenstrom, school board attorney, said today, "we requested a hearing in our answer to 30 HEW allegations filed in September, but requested a date not be set as we were anticipating a court suit."

The attorney filed that HEW set the hearing since the suit has not been filed.

Stenstrom said he expected John Evans, school board chairman; John Angel, superintendent; Walter Teague, school finance officer and himself to make the trip to Washington to give testimony on county school integration.

Other information sought will include amount of federal funds used in the county.

Stenstrom said all of this would be used by the HEW as part of the hearing evidence.

The attorney said Oliver Morris, member of the HEW reviewing authority, has designated Dorn for hearing examiner and given him authority to make an initial decision which could mean funds now deferred will be withheld.

Stenstrom said if this happened the county would appeal, but now he wanted to look on the bright side in anticipation that this will not be necessary and the county will be found to be in compliance.

GOP Shows Gain

By MARION BETHA
 Although this is an "off year" for most elections, registrations continue to multiply. As of Oct. 17, there were 29,127 registered voters, an increase of 629 over last year's total of 28,498, according to information received from the office of the supervisor of elections.

Republicans show the greatest increase in registration, although still mostly in the minority. The Grand Old Party number 13, there are a total of 23 precincts.

Registration books for the city elections close on Oct. 31. Books open again on Nov. 10 for the regular elections. The only item on the ballot is the constitutional amendment which in effect proposes an amendment to Article 12 Section 9 of the Constitution of the State of Florida to restrict until June 30, 1972, the authority to issue revenue bonds on tax anticipation certificates under the authority of Act 12, Section 19 of the Constitution of 1965 as amended.

Bankers Review Scheduled

More than 600 top bankers from Central Florida will meet at the Hilton Inn in Orlando on October 23 to review the annual plans of the Orlando-based Florida Bankers Association. The group is one of eight located in various geographic areas of the State which provide the effects of the statewide association of 470 Florida banks and trust companies.

Group Chairman C. Howard McNulty, President, Florida State Bank, Sanford, who will preside at the meeting, stated

C. HOWARD McNULTY

Today: "Consumer credit has been a key phrase in recent months. Bankers as well as customers have been affected by recently passed legislation, and more is yet to come. Consumer credit, however, is only part of the legislative proposals which will be discussed at this meeting. We will concern ourselves with all phases of bank-related legislation scheduled for introduction in the upcoming session of the Legislature."

An address by the Honorable Lawton M. Childs, Jr., chairman of the Senate Ways and Means Committee, State of Florida, will highlight the Annual Meeting of Group Five Florida Bankers Association. The meeting will be held at the Hilton Inn, Orlando, on October 23.

Senator Childs will speak upon the tax sharing program between Federal and State governments, and the road situation in Central Florida as related to Disney World. Senator Childs represents Senate District 28, Lakeview.

The program will include reports from association officers, election of officers for the coming year, and a business meeting, a social hour, pool side, and dinner in the Chantilly Room of the Hilton, will follow the meeting.

Mafia Infiltration Under Attack

MIAMI (AP) — Twenty-one civil suits are ready to be filed against recent arrivals in Florida who are accused of Mafia infiltration. The suits are being filed by Miami Beach area and would either "close the places down or with the court to allow us to substitute legitimate people."

"This is the first time in the history of the United States that anyone has moved against the Mafia in their infiltration into legitimate business," Knigh said. One target of the suits, other officials reported, could be Meyer Lansky, a top figure in organized crime for many years.

Lansky reportedly is a regular visitor to the Miami area north of Miami Beach where some of the hotels and motels are located. But the officials said Lansky's alleged involvement was possibly through the so-called Minneapolis Combination which has an interest in many of the companies named in the legal papers. Several of the companies involved in the suits were described as large and well-known resorts but others were termed "fairly inconsequential."

Radiologic Technology Field Open

New students select their major areas of interest early in their high school career and plan their courses toward that goal. As a future secretary, sales trying and shorthand, an interest in the paramedical fields indicates courses in science and math. Radiologic technology offers a rewarding career for such students who plan ahead and earn a "D" average or above.

There is a great need in this field and advancement and salaries are equal to most other paramedical fields and increase with training and experience. There are several schools of radiologic technology in the Central Florida Area, Seminole Memorial Hospital among them.

This is an excellent opportunity for students of college ability who have perhaps not selected their major or might be unable to attend college for financial reasons. Seminole Memorial is an approved VA school. There is no tuition fee at Seminole Memorial. However, the student must provide his own books, uniforms and supplies. Small stipends are offered to those who have completed their first six months of the training program to help the student defray some of his expenses.

Upon passing the national registry examination at the completion of the two-year program the registered technologist then has the opportunity to further his education and assures him of a reasonable salary working part time.

For further information contact Carrie Palmer, J.E. School of Radiological Technology, Seminole Memorial Hospital, 1300 E. Lake Nona Road, Sanford, Fla. 32771.

U. S. GIs To Remain In Viet After War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thousands of U.S. troops probably will remain in Vietnam to advise and train South Vietnamese forces even after the war stops, according to Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. Laird's remarks to newsmen Thursday sounded like a return to the U.S. advisory effort maintained in South Vietnam under President John F. Kennedy. This was the first time Laird has spoken publicly of administration thinking along these lines, and it is at odds with those demanding a total and swift U.S. withdrawal. At a spot news conference, Laird refused to be specific, but said such a "residual force" of trainers and advisers would be a little bigger than the 6,000 or 7,000 men he said were in Vietnam during the Kennedy administration. The U.S. advisory force grew to about 16,000 men by the time Kennedy was assassinated in November 1963. President Lyndon B. Johnson sent American troops to Vietnam on a major scale in 1965 and the fighting strength rose to 542,500 after the United States assumed the leading combat role. Asked how long the United States would keep an advisory force in Vietnam, Laird replied that "I wouldn't want to make a prediction."

However, when reporters asked the United States still has 55,000 men in Korea 16 years after the Korean War and about 25,000 in Europe 24 years after World War II, Laird commented: "It would not plan for anything like that."

He indicated the advisory force could be an issue in bargaining with North Vietnam. "It is a matter that could be negotiated on a mutually acceptable basis," the defense secretary said. The administration now is embarked on a phased pullout of U.S. combat troops, with 60,000 men due to be removed by mid-December and other withdrawals in prospect early next year. The defense secretary mentioned the residual force while discussing budgeting plans for the 1971 fiscal year beginning next June 30.

Lodge warned them not to misjudge American public opinion and President Nixon.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge quickly countered with the long-held U.S. position that all four delegations at the peace talks must be represented in any private negotiations. Talks without Saigon's representatives present would constitute a measure of U.S. recognition of the Viet Cong and would give Hanoi and its South Vietnamese allies a heavy weapon in their campaign to replace President Nguyen Van Thieu's government with a coalition regime.

Since the four-party talks began in January, Hanoi and the Viet Cong have repeatedly demanded that the United States abandon what they call its "support" regime in Saigon. They have rejected the U.S. proposal for mutual withdrawal of non-South Vietnamese troops, contending that the question of Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam is an internal question for the Vietnamese to settle. Deadlock At Paris Emphasized Twice

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam proposal for secret talks without Saigon and the moment U.S. rejection of it emphasized the deadlock at the peace talks on two basic issues: the future of the Saigon regime and the withdrawal of all troops who aren't South Vietnamese. Apparently seeking to cash in on the antiwar sentiment manifested in the Moratorium Day demonstrations in the United States, North Vietnamese Ambassador Xuan Thuy proposed at the peace talks Thursday that the United States at once begin secret talks with the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government.

U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge quickly countered with the long-held U.S. position that all four delegations at the peace talks must be represented in any private negotiations. Talks without Saigon's representatives present would constitute a measure of U.S. recognition of the Viet Cong and would give Hanoi and its South Vietnamese allies a heavy weapon in their campaign to replace President Nguyen Van Thieu's government with a coalition regime.

United Fund 1969 Campaign Rolls Along Fine

Will you be on board when the rollicking, rolling, enthusiastic and successful drive of the United Fund of Seminole County winds up this week?

We hope so! Not only for the sense of satisfaction which will be yours. Not only for the proof that this UF campaign was and is an effort by a united Seminole County to flex its muscles and show what our extraordinary county can do!

People do care about people! In its essence this is the "why" of all such United Fund, United Appeal, Community Chest or like campaigns.

Agencies which get their fiscal muscle from the drives are not to be confused with "welfare" operations. Almost all of the calls for help which come to the UF-approved agencies are from people in trouble. This is especially true of the Salvation Army and the Red Cross. It is also implied in the activities of both the Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts. But in these instances it is preventive rather than remedial purposes which challenge.

Seminole County has never been able to raise enough money so that the budget committees of the local UF could come anywhere near meeting the logical needs of the approved agencies.

We use the word "needs" here rather than "wants." Every spokesman for every agency is so wrapped up in the work of the group he or she represents that "wants" often climb out of the realm of the real to the clouds of dreams.

Records of the UF show how carefully those charged with preparing the budget — this year it is for $50,000 — have conducted their function of setting the annual goal.

Loss of the amount which came to the UF every year from the Naval personnel when the Naval Air Base was in full operation has now been more than compensated for by the industries which are coming into Seminole County and where co-operation has been signalled by the performance of the employees such as those at the Dynatronics plants of General Dynamics.

Jack Horner of Sanford, chairman of the 1969 campaign, has travelled into every section of our county with a hard-hitting, telling exposition of the UF needs and the challenge which Seminole County is well able to meet.

Mr. Horner and his hard-working crew of volunteers have done their work and it is almost a certainty that the $50,000 goal will be reached.

Now what is needed is acceptance by all of the $100,000 goal which this experienced and informed chairman sees as reachable.

To do it, however, it is essential that no one avoid assuming his proper share. Using round numbers it is not at all difficult to see that if every one of the 80,000 or more Seminole Countyans who live here and need and use the agency services shipped in $1 — the $100,000 goal would be at hand.

Our growing county makes the contacting of every one by campaign workers almost an impossibility. But that does not mean that the UF office in Sanford — Tel. 325-5858 — is not ready to accept calls and send data or open envelopes with contributions — 105 East First Street, Sanford Atlantic National Bank Building, Sanford is the address.

What say? Come a-board!

Up With Football

Celebration of football's centennial in Sanford on Oct. 24 with the high school teams of Seminole High School and Seaweeze High School of Daytona Beach showing how the game has progressed and what skills have been perfected is most welcome from any point of view.

This we applaud the action of Mayor Lee P. Moore in proclaiming this week as "Football Centennial Week" and the announcement by John Mercer, president of the United States Bank and Richard Barnett, principal of SHS — co-chairman of the week's observance — in seizing on the opportunity to put the spotlight on Sanford.

It has been a long and dramatic march which started when the Rutgers and Princeton football warriors squared off to play the first football game in November 1869.

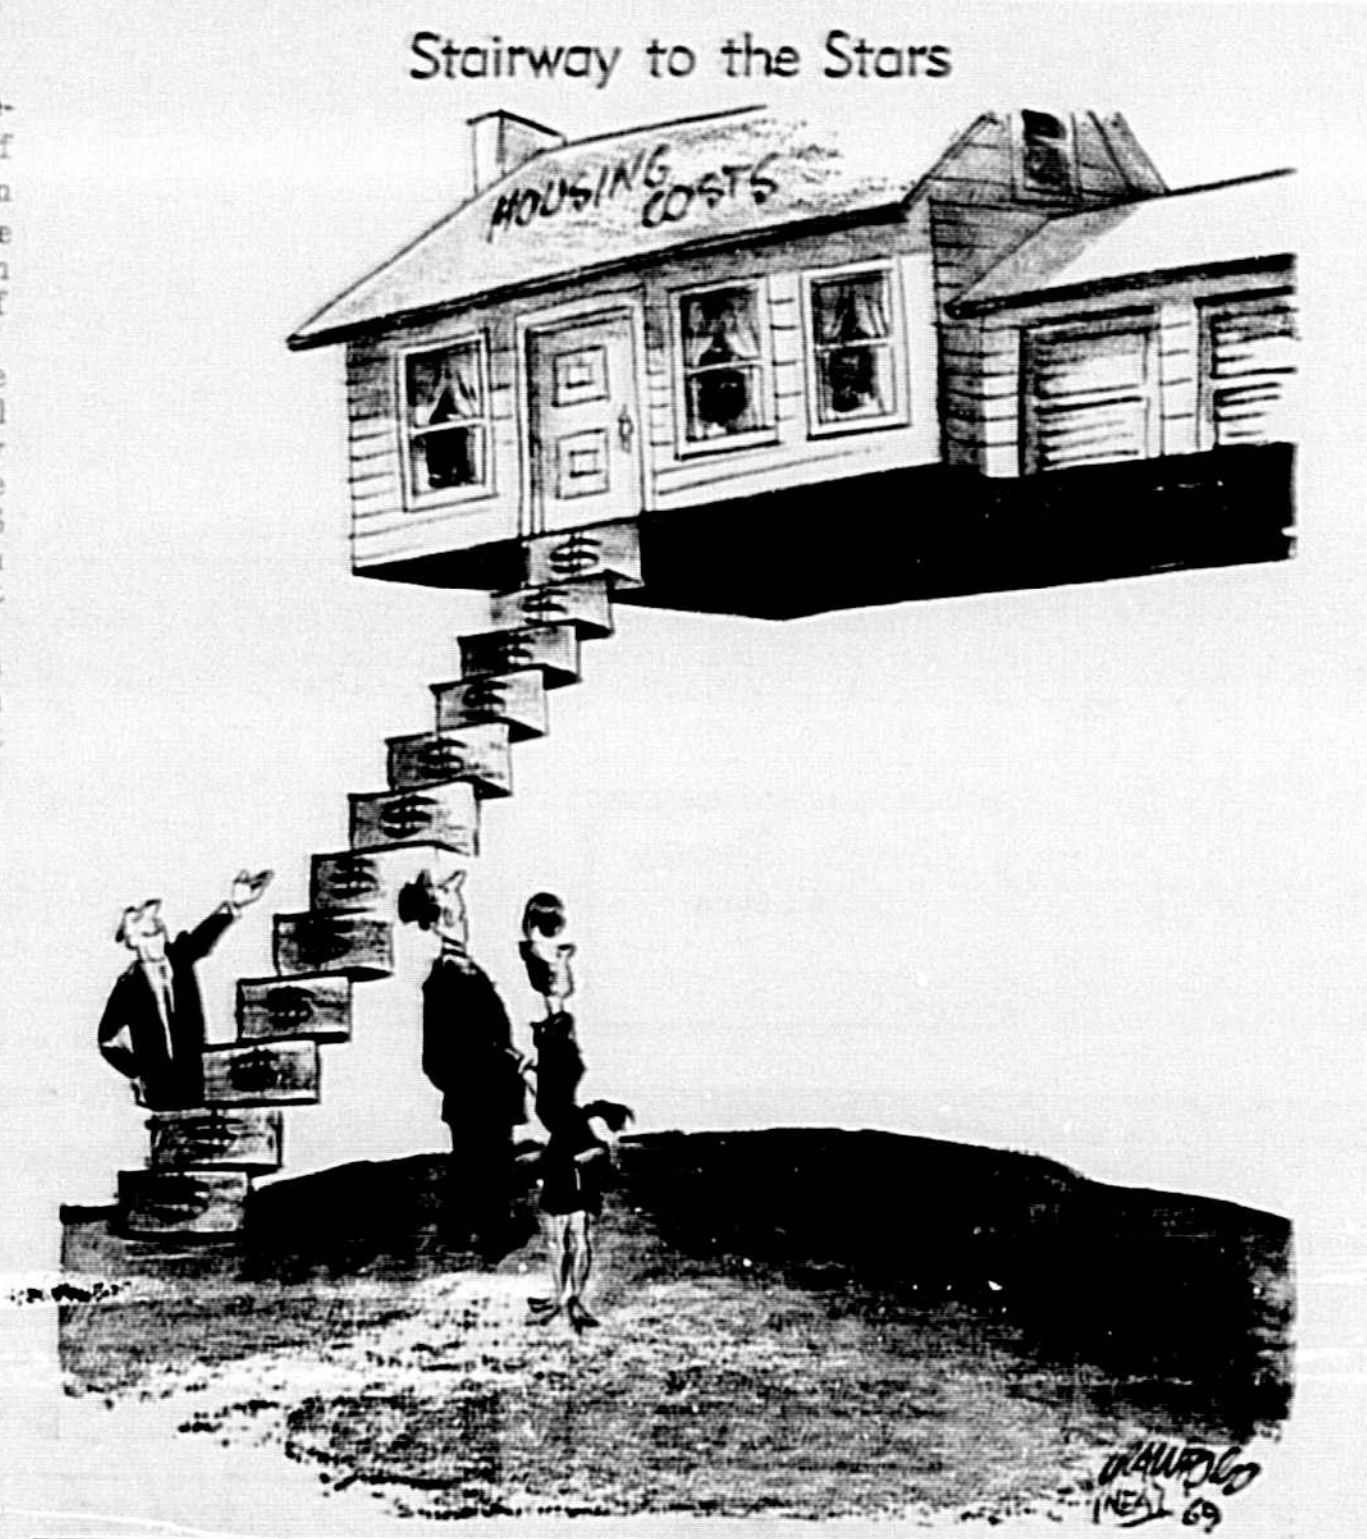

Football has had its periods of national prominence and seen the enthusiasm grow to a very high point when the college teams held the attention and the Ivy League colleges were the stars.

There was a time in the early years of this century when football was in vogue that a "New Haven wreck" was not a disaster on the rails but the demolishing of the Yale "Bulldogs" by the embattled heroes of "Fair Harvard" or the growing Princeton "Tigers."

Soon, however, the game emerged into the dramatic and well-planned rivalries between the pros and TV lent its facilities — Instant Replay — instant replays — and vast sums of money distorted the true meaning of this athletic contest.

But here in Sanford in the only athletic field available — and still very much in need of proper attention — there will be our own centennial game.

Pretty girls, stalwart athletes, honored officials and aroused fans will be there. Let all of Sanford show their appreciation of the event and support the local observance with all the loyalty the football game and the event itself deserves!

Crane's Worry Clinic:

Crucial Marriage Period!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, PH.D., M.D.
 CASE 1-5871: Grace D., aged 36, is shocked.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "my husband has been keeping a sex secret from me."

"For recently I did some housecleaning in his study," she continued, "and behind the top row of books on the shelf, I happened to see some papers, so I investigated."

"They were pictures of women in the nude!"

"And he also had several copies of a Ladies Magazine which was full of their pictures of naked women."

"Dr. Crane, what is wrong with my husband? He is losing his mind? Or is this the climacteric? He is a 42-year-old!"

Grace doesn't realize it but those pictures of nude girls are actually helping keep her marriage intact!

Without them, her husband might now be chasing around after younger women or even asking for a divorce.

For you wives often endanger your happy marriage by your sins of omission!

By that, I mean you become staidy and more maternal than prudent.

At the time of your wedding, your mate is usually three or four times as erotic as you are.

For the usual bride is about 75 per cent maternal and only 25 per cent erotic. But her husband is 75 per cent erotic and only 25 per cent maternal.

But you wives are fairly content during the first year of marriage, for you can cuddle and "mother" your husband to satisfy your 75 per cent maternal cravings.

However, ever that first year many brides require a poise dog or cat to cuddle as a means of expressing their desire to "mother" something.

But when the first baby arrives, the average wife audaciously "jills" her husband by shifting 70 per cent (often 95 per cent) of her attention and voluntary affection to the new-comer.

Even with this rebuff to his and the usual husband can still maintain reasonable marital relations, because of that greater excess of his natural sex appetite.

But when men approach the age of 40 and have had a list of their sexual energy in business competition, they may find that their romantic vigor decreases alarmingly.

Where they formerly had three or four times as much sexual vigor as their wives, now the ratio has been dropped to 1:1, and this scares them.

"Maybe I am becoming prematurely senile," is their frustrated thought.

And this doubt then makes them analyze their future erotic behavior, which is sure to hamper them further, for conversation dampens sex ardor.

To bolster their libido, these panicky males may first try to get you wives to use more perfume, diaphanous nighties, and take a more active role in the house.

Also, wives usually fail to realize this crucial period in their marriage, as they muff their golden opportunity to keep their husband's 100 per cent devotion.

That's why many otherwise superb husbands resort to pornographic pictures and lewd stories to supplement their wife's staid bedroom deportment.

Stilley Says:

Gadgets Galore

NEW YORK (AP) — Once upon a time the only equipment needed for exercising was muscles. If anyone really wanted to be orientated about his efforts to switch from a 96-pound weakling into Mr. America, he could buy a set of barbells.

But today it requires gadgets galore to stay slim, trim and full of vim. And department stores, sporting goods emporiums and mail order houses are willing to supply them.

If you want to start simply, there's a little board that swings as you twist away those extra pounds. It costs only $35.99 but you have to supply your own music.

For $7.99 you can get a small wheel with a couple of handles on either end. Get down on your knees, hang onto the hand grip and roll away those rolls of fat around your waist.

Interpretive Report:

HHH And Bold Vietnam Stand

By RICHARD WILSON, WASHINGTON, D.C. — Hubert Humphrey is not naive, so it must be assumed that he took into consideration in advance the political repercussions of his general support of President Nixon's policy in Vietnam. And so he did.

He anticipated the outraged reaction of the Galbraith-Schwinger-Goodwin-Sovern coalition of the Democratic Party and even the about-faced by his former senatorial colleague from Minnesota, Fritz Mondak, an erstwhile presidential campaign manager. This was the risk former Vice-President Humphrey was willing to take in executing what he considered his duty to support the President of the United States in doing the same thing Humphrey would have been likely to do had he been elected.

Humphrey differs with Nixon on a couple of points. He thinks the President should have been more explicit in his implications of the Vietnam moratorium and that he should move faster in putting through a lottery-like draft system. A draft lottery would be a step in the direction of defusing objection to the draft.

Humphrey was the more comfortable in doing what he

By BRUCE ROSSAT, Washington Correspondent, RICHMOND, Va. (NEA) — William C. Battle, Democratic nominee for governor of Virginia, is clearly a breakout star from the once all-powerful machine of the late Sen. Harry Byrd.

Bingo Under Investigation

MIAMI (AP) — State Atty. Richard Gerstein said Sunday he would request a police investigation of alleged violations of state bingo laws in the Miami area.

Gerstein's comments followed an article by the Miami Herald Sunday in which the newspaper said it had found bingo operations that were operating seven nights a week, with two machines, and offering prizes that included color television sets, air conditioners, and cash.

The bingo law passed by the Legislature in 1967 forbids prizes of more than $25 except for one super prize of $100 a night. The law forbids more than two game nights each week, and specifies that all profits must go to charity and civic projects.

A Jacksonville court has ruled the law unconstitutional, contending it violates a constitutional prohibition of lotteries. The ruling is under appeal.

Gerstein also was critical of the law. "If we're going to have bingo in the state, we should have a stringent enough law that it can be enforced," he said.

Aquanauts Sweat Out 'Suana Bath'

By JIM STROTHMAN, Associated Press Writer, RIVIERA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Four aquanauts who swam out to a two-day stint in an underwater 'suana bath' to successfully prove man-in-the-sea habitats can generate electricity like Apollo moonships, free of the enemy as to their exact location.

It also means industries such as offshore petroleum or mining companies could save the expense of cables and surface ships when building underwater habitats for divers to use as a base for servicing drilling equipment.

The experiment, conducted 50 feet in the Atlantic Ocean a mile offshore, marked the major step toward making underwater habitats completely self-sustaining — without needing continuous support from surface ships.

This development means the Navy could now conceivably build an undersea station where men could watch enemy submarine activity without having a surface platform above to tip off the enemy as to their exact location.

A Toad That Chases Cats?

By ERIC SHARP, Associated Press Writer, TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A new Latin American emigre has taken up residence in South Florida — a poisonous giant toad that one report says is tough enough to chase a cat away from its food dish.

Bufo Marinus, up to a foot long and a pound in weight, is one of the ugliest of the exotic animals that have settled down to a new life under Florida's semitropical sun.

Ray Singleton, a Tampa animal importer, said the toads come from South America and originally were "escapes from the animal importing business. Like a lot of the foreign wildlife we have here, they either escaped or were set free by people who didn't want them as pets any more."

"Most of these tropical animals don't survive, but the giant toad is doing very well," he said.

Singleton said all toads, including the common garden variety, have poisonous glands. "The danger from this toad is that it's bigger, so its poison glands are bigger. I think a dog could get pretty sick if it munched a giant toad, and maybe small children if they handled one in their mouths," he said.

"There's no real danger of anyone dying from the poison. You'd just about have to eat one, and anybody who has seen one of these critters will tell you they don't look too appetizing."

Singleton said he buys giant toads from Colombia and sells them to his medical laboratories. A few are sold as pets. The Miami area has the greatest concentration of giant toads, he said.

One Miami man reported that he put a dish of cat food on the back porch for his family pet. He returned to the porch a few minutes later and found the cat backed into a corner, crying and hissing, while a half-dozen toads crowded shoulder-to-shoulder around the dish and ate the cat's supper.

Singleton said he doubted the

Nineteen Persons Die In Weekend Accidents

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, Two cars collided head-on on Florida's Turnpike Sunday, killing three persons in a week-end in which 19 persons died in traffic accidents in the Sunshine State.

Killed in the turnpike accident were Clinton Norris, 37, and Jack Marshall, 57, both of Jacksonville, and Nancy Ann Patton, 34, of North Miami.

The Highway Patrol said the two cars collided during a rainstorm two miles south of the Palm Beach plaza.

In Tampa, 57-year-old Anthony Perez died in a two-car accident at the intersection of 34th Street and 21st Avenue, Edson Reed, 3, of Bradenton was killed when the truck in which he was riding struck a tree on State Road 45 in Sarasota.

An unidentified man was killed in Fort Lauderdale early Sunday.

GENEVA
By LIZ MATHEUX
Guests at the home of Orie Mathews were his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Geiger and their charming daughters, Carolyn and Marjorie. The Geigers live on Merritt Island with a "right at their back door." My brother-in-law and his houseguest, T. "Alto" Baker of South Carolina, ventured over toward that direction and experienced a most enjoyable boat trip in the Cape Canaveral area. The Geigers also have two sons, Ronald and Richard, who are attending Brevard Tech.

It surely is good whenever I can tell you chery little bits. Mrs. Kitty Wells Allen is on the mend but even taken her walk to the post office and back so, told you I wouldn't be feeling "ill as a fiddle" and jogging all over the community. Her other good news is that a recent telephone call to Mrs. Harold Appley led me to understand that Mrs. Bertha David Lucille's precious 94 year old mother, Lucille, is now at the DeBary Manor. Lucille said that Mom was doing as well as could be expected and that she visits her every day to feed her her lunch after which Mrs. Lucille just settles back and listens to Lucille sing a hymn or two.

Ellie, David, Michael, Clifford and Mrs. Bertha Benton are safely among us again. I am glad to report and if you really want to see a girl with a beautiful hair in her, just drop by to see Ellie and hear her tell how happy her family, especially her mother, was to see her.

Honestly, I do believe she had a more than happy family reunion with her family and friends. The wedding will be an event of Dec. 27, at 2 p.m., at Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

Burnett-Wrede Engagement Told
Mr. and Mrs. Willard E. Burnett, 418 Tanager Dr., Sanford, are announcing the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Linda Joyce, to Mrs. C. A. Wrede Jr., son of Mrs. M. She is currently a sophomore at Florida State University.

The wedding will be an event of Dec. 27, at 2 p.m., at Holy Cross Episcopal Church.

Ruth Rulo Introduces New Flair In Fashion Field
By MILDRED HANEY
The lovely shop of Betty Wrede Casuals in the Deltona Shopping Plaza was made brighter Monday by the presence of its manager, Mrs. Ruth Rulo, who was wearing a beautiful ensemble of three tones and a single white ornament.

Radio Station WQOO has long had a policy of honoring a "Miss of the Month" among the business men of the area but this week the distinction was given to Mrs. Rulo, who was chosen "Business Woman of the Week."

The selection was well deserved, for Mrs. Rulo has returned from business life four times, but as the women who gets sand in her shoes come back to Florida, so she has been unable to resist the call back to the business world.

Being for the first time in 1966 after having been in business for many years in Ohio, Detroit, Michigan and New York City, she retired "definitely" in 1968 when she gave a private cocktail party at the Waldorf Towers in New York, inviting well-known people in the merchandising field from all over the United States.

Later, she was honored, with six others retiring from the industry in the Louis XV suite at the Waldorf Towers at which over 600 guests were present.

Mrs. Rulo is a professional fashion designer, bearing most of her techniques from Oleg Cassini and from attending his showings. She recently returned from Miami where she attended showings of costume lines of wedding and new lines for the holidays and for Spring.

A radio commentator for WQOO, she cuts her own records for her shop.

WOMEN OFTEN HAVE BLADDER IRRITATION
Chronic kidney or bladder irritation often bothers many women as well as men. The National Presbyterian Hospital, Washington, D.C., when completed in early 1970, President's Medical Center, Ft. Belvoir, Chicago, and Buchanan used this particular pill. A total of 37 women were treated and 25 were cured in the historic Capital Clinic.

Halloween Happiness Is Hand-Sewn Clown Costume

By JOANNE SCHUBERT
Watch out—here they come! The annual parade of ghosts and goblins, pirates and princesses, tramps, skeletons and half-pint hippies is about to begin. It's Halloween—and happiness is a homemade costume that is more original, scarier, groovier or pricier than anyone else's.

Home sewing pays off when it comes to costumes. The strobe-light variety is getting more and more expensive as well as more and more shoddy, while homemade outfits can be created at little or no cost from materials already at hand.

The everyday ingredients in today's clown costumes is a sheet—preferably a printed, striped or colored one. If you're stuck with a plain-white sheet, treat it to a dye bath first. Easy-to-follow directions are by Neelie Sewing Machines of Lakeland.

Fold sheet in half crosswise, as shown in diagram, with fold at top. Draw pattern as shown on folded sheet, and cut out along solid lines. Sew front and back sections together, as indicated by child's wrist and cut two pieces of narrow elastic.

Also beams her approval of her ruffled clown costume, which her mother stitched up from a striped sheet, a couple of packages of jumbo rickrack, and bright eye cosmetics.

FP&L Pact Nixed, Union Eyes Strike

(Scott Burns, local manager of Florida Power & Light Company, said this morning that information in the following news dispatch is "news to me." He added that local operations are proceeding as normal and that it will continue to do so, in the event of a state-wide strike. A Sanford police spokesman said there has been no request here for "police protection" as mentioned in the dispatch.)

MIAMI (AP) — Electrical workers voted about 2-to-1 against a proposed one-year contract with Florida Power and Light Co. and waited today for word from international headquarters whether to strike the massive utility corporation.

"It was voted down ably," said Z. H. Niles, spokesman for the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers local. "We're waiting for the word."

Washington headquarters of the IBEW had expected to issue an order regarding a strike later today.

Niles said the dispute centered on "general wage increases and pension benefits," but declined to elaborate.

IBEW local was reportedly asking $1.33 an hour pay hike and the company offered 85 cents per hour.

FP&L officials said they asked local police units to keep an eye on substations "because of possible strike developments." They said it was a normal precaution.

Niles said the IBEW has never had a full-fledged strike against Florida Power and Light.

There are 4,100 IBEW members statewide who work for Florida Power and Light, about half the company's total force.

Top State Road Aide Opines: 'Red-Head Stepchild'

By FRED VAN PELT (First of two articles)

TALLAHASSEE — "Seminole County has been treated as a red-headed stepchild" by the State Department of Transportation.

This was the observation yesterday morning by Jay W. Brown, commissioner of the department (formerly the State Road Department), in answer to a query why there have been only a few tangible improvements in Seminole County in the last 6.8 years.

While there has been some road activity in Seminole County, the "room" had been skimmed off the road funds to finance highways to serve the Disney World area, Brown said.

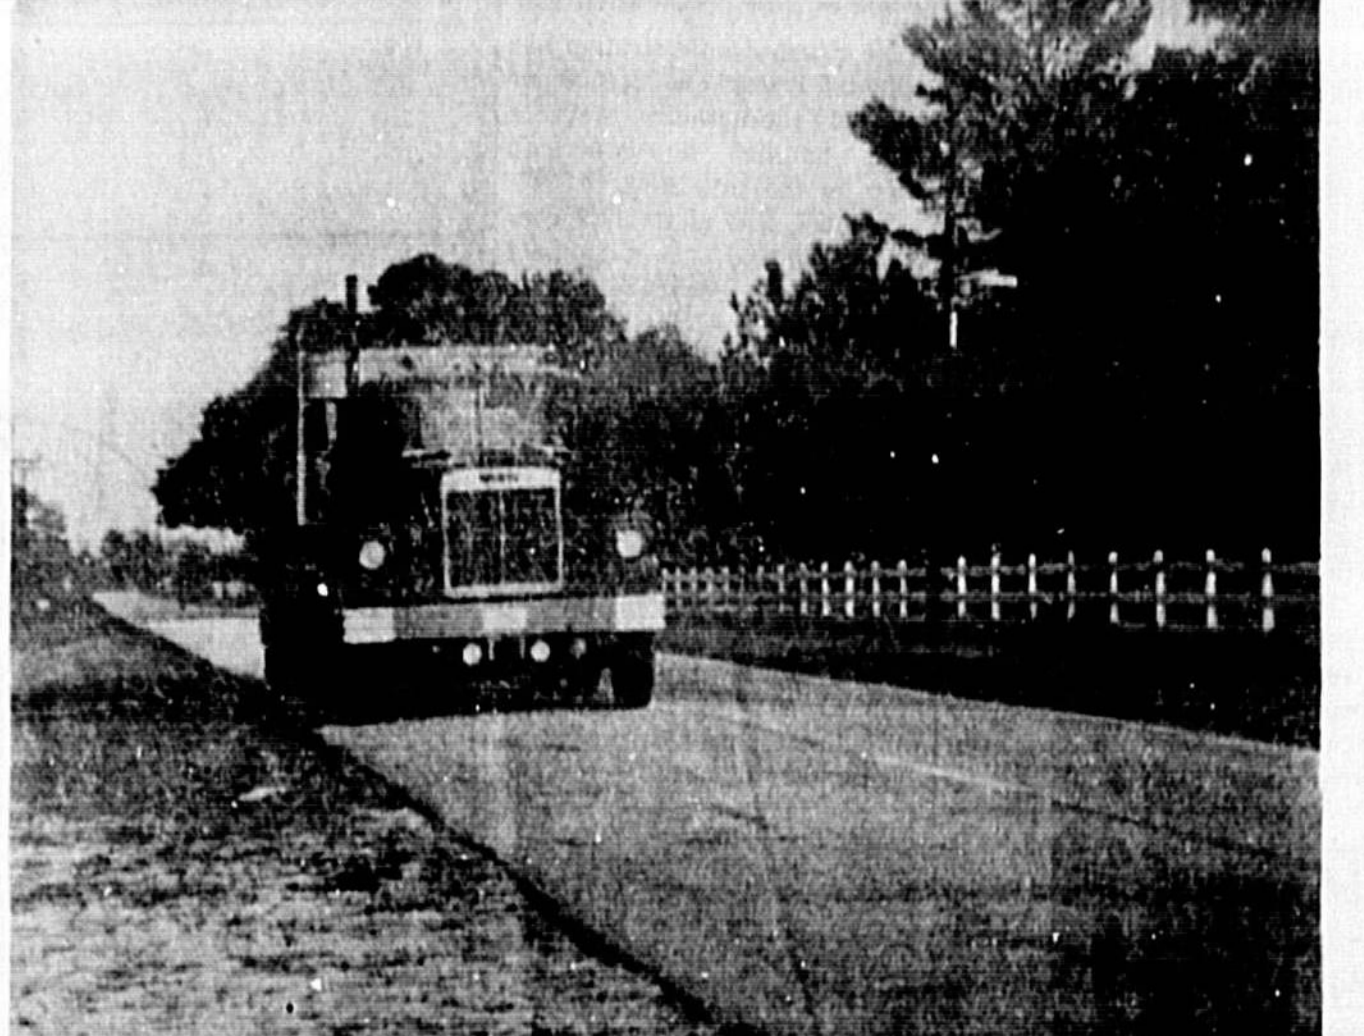

Pointing that the first four cents of the gasoline tax is retained by the state for primary road construction, Brown said this yields approximately $10 million annually in the Fifth Road District, which includes Seminole, Central Florida and Disney World.

The other three cents of the gasoline tax is retained by the state but earmarked for county secondary roads and used according to priorities established by the respective county commissions. This provides about $500,000 annually for Seminole County, Brown said.

Currently, the state is spending $67,000,000 in widening and patching SR 424 between Interstate 4 and SR 427 at Longwood.

The state department is holding a public hearing at 2 p.m. Thursday at the County Commission chambers on the proposed to improve SR 46 district engineer at DeLand, stated other sources of revenue might be obtained from the federal government and said that a new local source of road dollars must be found.

The oft-expressed hope in Seminole County of a four-laned SR 46 between U.S. 441 and U.S. 1 received scant attention from the state officials, who merely pointed to the most recent road count of a (Continued on Page 3A, Col. 1)

"MONSTERS" like this appear to "hog" the center of the road when motorists drive on SR 46 between Interstate 4 and U. S. 441. State is conducting a public hearing on improvements to the highway at 2 p.m. Thursday at the County Commission chambers.

Perspicuous Summation

By MARION BETHA

John Krider, executive director of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, gave a perspicuous summation of the critical road situation in Seminole County with the statement that "Seminole County does not have any reputable east-west road anywhere in the county other than 1792 and 42."

Krider envisions the most pressing road needs as adequate access to Florida Technological University, north and south, and major improvements on the present SR 105 and SR 46.

The causeways spanning Lakes Jessup and Monroe are not "dead issues" in Krider's opinion. However, he states, there is no feasible way of financing at this time. The causeways were based upon certain commitments of county money, Krider continued, which are not possible to have forthcoming.

The Chamber of Commerce still contends that the Lake Monroe and Lake Jessup causeways are vital to the economy of this area.

County Approves Ambulance Pact

By TOM ALEXANDER

After a week's delay, the Seminole County Commission today accepted the low bid of $25,000 submitted by Herndon Ambulance Service of Orlando, renewing its contract for emergency ambulance service for one year starting Nov. 1.

In other action this morning, borrow pit operators came under fire for not following county regulations. Commissioner Greg Drummond remarked during the controversy, "Borrow pit operators speak with forked tongue." Drummond also said, "They are not maintaining the road that they said they would."

The county discussed revised borrow pit regulations and directed Attorney Harold Johnson to advise two of the county's borrow pit operators' bonding companies that they are in violation of regulations and that bonding companies will be held responsible.

The proposed borrow pit regulations were again sent back to the zoning and planning division for further revision and stricter specifications. As Commissioner Drummond stated, "Regulations will be held responsible until another bill for rest of October."

Bassett replied, "We have an obligation to pay the man if we can legally do so. The transition was accomplished in six hours and it all depends on how much value is placed on six hours."

The chairman stated Roumillat's resignation was offered some time ago but was held in abeyance at Bassett's request and was never officially accepted.

This brought on a discussion among board members that resignation should be accepted immediately to avoid having Roumillat submit another bill for rest of October.

Steel Plate Firm Eyes New Port

A can materials supplier is interested in the Port of Sanford, now under construction on the St. Johns River, and has indicated a desire to handle 1,500 tons of processed steel plate monthly through the port when it opens in May.

According to James J. Ryan, new administrator for the Seminole Port Authority, Citrus-Simpole Corporation of Chicago has contacted him concerning the storing of 1,800 tons here initially and the monthly shipping of steel through the port for the manufacture of cans.

Ryan said he had arranged to meet with a company representative here later this week to discuss the transport by barge from Jacksonville of 1,500 tons of steel each month.

He said the metal would be processed at a North Carolina facility before being barged here for storage.

The firm wanted to have enough raw material to draw on monthly in serving the many can manufacturers located throughout the central state citrus belt, he added.

Peebles Appointed

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Willard Peebles, former state road board vice chairman, today was appointed director of the Labor Division of the Commerce Department, Lt. Governor Ray Osborne announced.

"Mr. Peebles is an outstanding administrator and will make an extremely valuable contribution to state government," Osborne said.
