$15 Million Retirement Center Eyed

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Plans for the construction of a $15 million retirement center, along with a request for assistance in floating a taxfree bond issue, will be considered by the Sanford Housing Authority (SHA) at a 6 p.m. dinner meeting Thursday at Redding Gardens.

Lyle Thornton, a financial consultant with Arch Roberts & Co. of St. Petersburg, will ask the authority's board of commissioners for its endorsement of the project and assistance in floating the bonds for the center, to be built on a 14acre tract west of U.S. Highway 17-92 and south of Airport Boulevard in the Hidden Lake area.

Thornton said today the retirement center will have 240 units, built in two phases, and feature a congregate style of living for low- and moderate-income individuals and couples. Rentals, including meals and other services, will cost $450 to $500 monthly, depending on the type of financing used for the facilities, he said.

Construction on the facilities is slated to begin six months after a bond issue or other form of financing is approved and city building requirements met, Thornton said.

The retirement center is to be built and operated by Retirement & Health Care Communities Inc., Thornton said. Principals of the corporation are: Jonathan F. Wershow, Alachua, president and director; John Rinehart, Columbia, S.C., vice president and director; William A. Nerong, Fort Myers, treasurer, secretary and director; and George Kaludis, Nashville, Tenn., director.

The organization was incorporated Aug. 6, 1979.

Thornton said the proposed site for the retirement center is locally owned.

Linda Williams, acting executive director of the SHA, said Thornton asked to appear before the authority's board of commissioners to request sponsorship of the proposed retirement center.

She said the center would provide, in addition to housing for low- and moderate-income elderly singles and couples, congregate meals, maid service, recreation and other planned activities. She said health care also would be provided, on a 24-hour basis. Rental fees would be based on individual incomes, she said.

Mrs. Williams said that if the SHA sponsors the bond issue, it would have no liability for its payment. She said that by

At a first court appearance Tuesday following their arrest in what has been termed Seminole County's largest drug bust, four defendants hear they will continue to be held in lieu of $500,000 bond each on charges of possession of cocaine with intent to distribute and trafficking in cocaine. Left to right, Sam Ortiz, 35, no known address; Jose D. Benitez, 48, Miami; Jose Mazola, 36, Brooklyn, and Lourdes Campos Benitez, 26, Mlami, were scheduled for arraignment Oct. 23 by County Judge Harold Johnson. They were scheduled to appear in court again this afternoon to determine whether they will be represented by private counsel or public defenders. The four were arrested Monday morning when they attempted to sell cocaine to undercover police officers. Sheriff's deputies confiscated 2.5 pounds of pure cocaine with an estimated street value of $3.5 million.

"This is a holdup. Give me your money, nothing else," the man nonchalantly leaning against a door frame told the clerk at Winter Springs Beverage, 795 State Road 434, Winter Springs, just after 9 p.m. Monday,

The man, who had entered via the back door, appeared very calm, clerk, Cheryn E. Friesner, told police. He was holding what appeared to be a pistol in his left hand covered by a handkerchief.

After taking some bills from the clerk's hand, police said, the man grabbed more cash from the register. He escaped with a stack of 50 $1 bills, about $410 in $10 and $20 bills and two checks, according to police reports.

The suspect is described as clean shaven, tanned and muscular, about 5-feet, 10-inches tall, 175 pounds. COCAINE CONVICTION

The 25-year-old nephew of convicted drug financier Robert Taccia was found guilty in Circuit Court in Sanford Tuesday of a charge of possessing cocaine.

The four-man, two-woman jury took about 11/2 hours to convict Robert F. Bolesta of Cocoa Beach, Sentencing was deferred pending completion of an investigation into Bolesta's background. He could receive up to five years in prison.

Bolesta was arrested Oct. 9, 1980 after a U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agent reportedly saw a chunk of what later proved to be cocaine tossed out of a car in which Bolesta was riding. The vehicle, owned by Taccia, was driven by 24year-old John Michaud.

After his arrest, Michaud agreed to work with drug agents as an informant and to testify against Taccia and Bolesta. The pair were later charged with cocaine trafficking in Brevard County. Those cases are still pending.

news reporters, a Harvard-educated bureaucrat, a highly regarded political strategist, an educator with close ties to the Legislature and an ex-social worker form the inner circle of top policy-makers for Gov. Bob Graham.

These five men and one woman probably have as much influence on vital governmental decisions as any other combination of state personnel below the ranks of elected officials.

From different age groups and varying political backgrounds, they share an unshakable belief in Bob Graham and a common zeal for making him look good as he

Most have connections or close friends in the House or Senate, reflecting Graham's determination to avoid past criticisms he had surrounded himself with people who did not know how to turn the wheels in the Legislature.

A former Jacksonville city councilman who lost a Senate race, Burroughs turned over his marine supply business to his brother in 1979 and joined Graham as head of Business Regulation, the agency that oversees liquor, land sales and racing industries.

Burroughs was highly successful in getting his agency's bills through the Legislature. He complains he has difficulty getting Graham to think about the politics of a situation. # Mason Guilty Of Second-Degree Murder murder in the May 17 shooting death of his wife Diane. Mason, 36, showed no emotion when the verdict was read five-and-a-half hours after the jury began its deliberations on the 16th day of his trial.

Circuit Judge Harold Van said he would sentence Mason following a routine background check. Under Florida law Mason could be sentenced to life in prison and must serve at least three years. The verdict came one day after Mason testified he exploded the night he shot his wife when she laughed at his attempts to patch up their marriage.

Steady and in control on the stand, many courtroom observers said his performance destroyed any chance for defense attorney James Russ to prove his claim that Mason was insane at the time of the shooting.

State Attorney Robert Eagan asked the jury for a firstdegree conviction that would have sent Mason to prison for a minimum of 25 years, but said he was satisfied justice was done by the jury.

because of personal and financial pressures brought on him by his demanding job as county commission chairman and head of a lawn spraying business.

During the trial Russ tried to prove Mason lost control

Mason, who admitted the shooting, testified his marriage started to go sour in 1978 when he was elected, and got worse as time went by.

Driven by ambition, Mason admitted he let his job take precedence over his wife and four sons, and that he simply lost control of his life.

Finally after two separations and months of anxiety, Mason said he snapped the night he shot his wife of 15 years.

The trial was marked by conflicting testimony from psychiatrists. State doctors said Mason planned to kill his wife if she wouldn't reconcile, while defense doctors said Mason was suffering from psychotic depression and wasn't accountable for his actions.

Mason turned the gun on himself after the shooting but it was out of bullets. He later jumped in his truck and rammed into a concrete highway divider. The guilty verdict means Mason will be formally stripped of his position as a county commissioner, Governor Bob Graham suspended him in May after he was charged in his wife's death.

Barracucas To Use Altamonte Pool In Off-Season

By TENI YARBONUGH Herald Stall Wr

The Barracuda swim team tested e waters and took the plunge, asking the Altamonte Spres City Commission Tuesday night to allow it to use the estmonte swimming facility during the winter months. The oil normally is closed for public use during the off-season.

Before a crowd of approximately o swim team and Barracuda Booster Club members, a commission voted unanimously to draw up an agreement allowing the Barracudas' use of the pool in the off-uson for a fee consistent with the city's existing user-fee pay. The commission also provided some relief for payment the fee to the swim team, coached by Clay Parnell.

The team's booster club will pay $300 personth, plus water-heating costs, to use the pool, while the c will pay $4,300 in operating costs — an amount equal to what would pay if the city ran a year-round swim program.

The commission also gave the boostesiub a temporary financial break by deferring $100 of the $30 ponthly rental fee until the fiscal year ends Sept. 30, By deferring the $100 per month, the comtasion is allowing the club to build the team membership around swim meets and additional fund-raisers to increase thesam's revenue.

According to John McDonough, booster op representative, the winter months are "tough because it" time of lowest membership and heaviest expenses." City Manager Jeff Etchberger told the ruminion that if the club finds it cannot meet payment of the ferred amount, alt can come back to you in September d say, will you waive the fee?"

"You're gambling in a program that th'll be more successful than the folks in a fledgling programormally are," he

Mayor Hugh Harting suggested the continuous also "move rapidly to implement a tot and handleaps swim program to reduce the cost to the city of operating facility in the off-meaon." Etchberger said the handloped program is currently being considered for implementation.

Amnesty Group Wants Probe Of FBI

SAN FRANCISCO (UP1) - Amnesty International (A1) says the FBI infiltrated trials, harassed witnesses and withheld defense evidence to gain convictions of minority political figures, including two who are still in prison.

The London-based organization, best known for reporting human rights violations by totalitarian regimes, Tuesday said the FBI may have contributed to the convictions of Elmer "Geronimo" Pratt, a jailed Black Panther leader, American Indian leaders Richard Marshall and Leonard Peltier and others.

Pratt and Marshall, who are both in jail, say they are political prisoners "framed" by the FBI.

The 144-page report said an independent commission should be formed to investigate how law enforcement misconduct by the FBI and its Counter-Intelligence Program - helped win

Democratic Rep. Don Edwards, chairman of a House subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights, said he approved creation of a commission but it "will not be easy, especially in an administration ready to unleash the FBI and CIA."

Edwards, who has pushed for further investigation of Prait's case, said the commission would have to be approved by Congress via the courts and the White House

Pratt, who has served 11 years of a life term in San Quentin Prison, is awaiting a federal court decision in Los Angeles on his petition for release of more records.

The Amnesty report charges that the FBI, through its COINTELPRO program, sought to to "neutralize" Pratt and other leaders of what it called "Black nationalist hate groups."

After his conviction in the 1968 shooting death of a Santa Monica woman and wounding of her husband, it was learned that the key prosecution witness, Julius Butler, was an informant in the COINTELPRO operation, the report stated. Butler said Pratt confessed to him.

The FBI also planted agents in the team of lawyers preparing Pratt's trial defense and received information about at least two witnesses. His attorneys were never told that the FBI had a lead on a second suspect in the case, the AI said.

David Flatley, lawyer on a committee formed to seek Pratt's release, said of 10 FBI proposals for operations against Pratt, five were approved.

The Amnesty report said, "There comes a point when the number and type of measures taken against members of a political group suggest that it may be impossible to decide whether a particular case has been affected by law enforcement misconduct without the conducting of a comprehensive inquiry."

Pratt, a decorated Vietnam veteran and UCLA student at the time of the killing, says he is unaccent of the Los Angeles murder and was in Oakland - under FBI surveillance - when the crime was committed.

Pratt's attorneys have appealed unsuccessfully in U.S. courts for a chance to present new evidence of FBI misconduct

Stuart Hanlon, Pratt's lawyer, said a U.S. district judge in Los Angeles recently agreed to hold a hearing on whether Pratt had sufficient information to conduct an inquiry into his

Amnesty International said the proposed commission also should look into the testimony of Myrtle Poor Bear, used to convict Indian Movement leader Marshall on charges of helping in the Indian confrontation with authorities in South Dakota in 1975 and in the extradition of Peltier from Canada on murder charges.

Later, Miss Poor Bear repudiated her testimony against both men, swearing it was false. She said she testified against Marshall after the FBI threatened her life and that of her

U.N. Refugee Agency Wins Nobel Peace Prize Again

OSLO, Norway (UPI) - The 1981 Nobel Peace Prize was awarded today to the Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees which coordinates relief aid to 10 million refugees and displaced people throughout the world.

It was the second time the Genevabased U.N. agency had won the coveted peace prize. It was awarded the 1954 prize for resettling European refugees after World War II.

The award, worth $180,000 this year, was announced by the Norwegian Nobel Institute.

The U.N. agency won this year's peace prize for helping the "enormous and growing number of refugees" around the world

The Office now helps some 10 million refugees worldwide under the leadership of High Commissioner Poul Hartling, 67, who has served in that office since 1968. In 1961, the United States contributed $131 million to the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees' office. The U.N. agency won out over a field of 18 organizations and 77 individual candidates nominated for the 1981 Peace Prize. The individual candidates in- 1968. chided Polish labor leader Lech Waless, former President Jimmy Carter and a when it went to Henry Kissinger and Le Swedish diplomat last seen in 1945.

The 77 official candidates included controversial men such as Walesa. Carter, Anglican South African Bishop Desmond Tutu and Zimbabwe Prime Minister Robert Mugabe.

But the most unusual candidate for the award honoring work in human rights, reducing armaments, and promoting fraternity was Raoul Wallenberg. The Swedish diplomat was arrested by Soviet troops in Budapest in 1945 after saving thousands of Jews from Nazi death Wallenberg is listed as dead by the Kremlin but reports persist of his survival in Soviet prisons. If alive, he would be 69. He was just awarded honorary U.S. citizenship.

The award of the i million kronor prize comes eight days after the assassination of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, who shared the 1978 award with Israell Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat was the second winner shot to death. Martin Luther King Junior was killed at a civil rights rally in Memphis, Tenn., in April

The award was much-criticized in 1975

"We don't wait to see the effects of a person's work," Sverdrup said. "We like to encourage peace processes."

Last year's winner was Argentinian Adolfo Perez Esquivel, for his defense of human rights in South America.

Two Nobel prizes were already announced this year.

The Nobel Memorial Prize in Economic Science went Tuesday to Yale University professor James Tobin for his analysis of how individuals and private firms decide to invest their money.

Last Friday, American Roger Sperry shared Nobel Prize in Medicine with American David Hubel and U.S.-based Swede Torsten Wiesel. Sperry won for research into the hemispheres of the brain, and his fellow-laureates won for analyzing the way visual experience is processed by the brain.

The literature prize will be awarded Thursday in Stockholm. The physics and chemistry awards will be made next

Altamonte Names New Clerk, Ups Garbage Fees

Bobbi Floyd will be wearing two hats at the Altamonte Springs City Hall following her unanimous appointment as city clerk Tuesday night by the City Commission.

Mrs. Floyd, currently executive secretary to City Manager Jeff Etchberger, will remain his secretary until a new one can be hired. She will begin her new position as city clerk at an annual salary of $15,700.

Etchberger said Mrs. Floyd has been serving as interim city clerk as well as his secretary since the resignation of City Clerk Phyllis Jordahl, who left to take a management position in Winter Park.

"I've been impressed with Bobbi's ability to do both jobs but I hope, with the commission's appointment, we can hire a secretary as soon as possible," Etchberger said.

In other action Tuesday night, the commission voted unanimously to increase garbage collection rates by 15 cents a month. The cost will increase from $5.50 to $5.65 to defray additional costs for county landfill garbage-disposal fees, according to Etchberger.

The commission also voted unanimously to award a contract to purchase five additional Chevrolet Malibu police vehicles to Hoger Holler Chevrolet. The cost of the vehicles is $8,782 each for a total of $43,909 for the five vehicles.

Holler's was the lowest of four bids received, according to Fred Hapner, city purchasing agent.

Time Again For A United Front

In a recent televised speech, President Reagan called for a return to neighbor helping neighbor in times of need. That, he said, is how he plans to carry the country through the present economic predicament with his budget cuts.

He was asking for a renewed community spirit nationwide and urging us to take care of each other whenever we can and not necessarily rely on government to do it for us.

Seminole County has been doing that for a long time. Evidence the success of the United Way campaigns over the years in reaching that community agency's goals.

This year should be no different. Already the United Way contributions and pledges have reached more than $60,000 toward the $305,000 goal set this year. That's about 20 percent of the total. But with the campaign ending Oct. 29, none of us can slip. The fullest possible effort is necessary to meet this year's goal.

United Way, of course, is a sensible way to contribute. The pledge or donation goes to the main agency, but varying amounts are allocated to 18 different agencies where they'll do the most good. Thus, with a single contribution, many are helped.

It's also important to remember that about 94 percent of every dollar which goes to the United Way finds its way to one of the participating

The annual allocations are apportioned by a budget committee and they're aimed at helping the greatest number of people.

No participating agency is forced to join United Way. It is a voluntary organization which carries with it the responsibility of maintaining strict standards which include being a non-profit association providing a necessary program of health, character-building or family services.

This year's campaign chairman is Richard Fess, Lake Mary city councilman who also is vice president of the United Way of Seminole County

Division chairmen for the campaign are: Pilot: Larry Strickler; Commercial, Terry Duffy; Financial, Robert Whitehill; Professional, Catherine Ray; Public Employees, David Chacey; Education, Keith Stone; Black Community, Hezekiah Ross; and Special Gifts, Doris

Here are the agencies which will receive your support through United Way:

Boy Scouts, Catholic Social Services, Children's Home Society, Community Coordinated Child Care, Consumer Credit Counseling Service, Federation of Senior Citizens, Girl Scouts, Good Samaritan Home, Grove Counseling Center, Hospice, Omega Workshop, Red Cross, Retired Senior Volunteer Program, Salvation Army, USO, Visiting Nurse Association, We Care, YMCA.

Give the United Way.

Many a man has probably dreamed of having a dancing, singing woman visit him on his birthday, and Roger Grant got exactly that.

Grant, the accounting clerk for Casselberry, became 43-years-old Monday and his colleagues thought it would be funny to cheer up "the old man," So, through donations the city employees raised enough money to have a dancing, singing woman stop by city hall Monday afternoon and wish Grant a happy birthday, personally.

With all the laughing, cheering, jeering, singing and clapping going on about him, Grant was still a good sport when the woman gave him a birthday kiss, placed a teeshirt over his sport shirt, handed him a big, blue balloon and bumper sticker - you guess it, the sticker wasn't attached to the "car bumper," but to his "bumper."

Before the dancer departed, however, she handed Grant her card, "just in case you want to get back at any of these people."

JEFFREY HART Jerry Brown Entangled

SAN DIEGO - Governor Jerry Brown of California cut a deal with Walter Mondale and Ted Kennedy, but Brown's political decline out here has been so dramatic that the deal may well be irrelevant.

The deal stipulated that both Mondale and Kennedy would support Brown in his bid for the U.S. Senate, in return for which Brown pledged that he would not try for the presidency in 1964.

However, Brown's Senate bid is now in deep trouble, and polls here now show him losing to either Barry Goldwater Jr., or Pete McCloskey, the currently leading Republican contenders. (The incumbent Senator Hayakawa is in dire political straits; and the candidacies of Mayor Pete Wilson of San Diego and Maureen Reagan, the president's daughter, have yet to get off the ground.)

Jerry Brown's political decline is due to self-inflicted ideological wounds. They defy common sense, and they have the public hopping mad.

Brown has bombed because of ecological and anti-nuclear superstitions.

The ecological Brown first blocked the use of a harmless insecticide to combat the Medfly invasion. Brown's position amounted to pure superstition, and, when the public outery forced him to back down, his ecological fevers had cost California agriculture a projected billion dollars. People out here in southern California are not

Next, there's the anti-nuclear Brown and the furor over the Diablo Canyon nuclear

A year ago, as everyone here is aware, Brown chose to score with an anti-nuclear campus demonstration by picking up its anti-Diable chant and leading the chorus.

But right now the Diable Canyon prof getting aerious — and expensive. A major protest is organized at the nuclear site, complete with rock bands, attempts to block access and construction - with the resulting arrests, mass incarceration, publicity, the whole protest thing.

All this costs money for a lot of police, courts, lawyers and judges, and the jails. Taxpayers are not at all amused.

Furthermore, they remember Brown grabbing the spotlight at the campus protest a year ago, and they associate him inextricably with the whole mess.

Brown has been trying to break free from the protest onus by saying that while he supports the First Amendment rights of the protestors to demonstrate at the site, he does not support them in their illegal trespass.

That is a reasonable position intellectually, but a bit platonic. A year ago, when he led the anti-Diablo Canyon chanting, Brown must have known that these anti-nuclear demonstrations always break the law. The demonstrators do not just make speeches and carry placards, they knock down fences and put their bodies in the way of construction workers and construction vehicles.

So the voters have reason on their side in putting a lot of the blame on Brown, and its hurting his Senate chances badly.

Brown, of course, is a political Houdini. In his Proposition 13 performance, he at first opposed the tax-cutting amendment, and then, when it was approved in a landslide, he jumped over and joined the victors. And got away with it.

ROBERT WAGMAN Will Boll Weevils Defect?

WASHINGTON (NEA) - Republican members of Congress are quietly telling reporters not to be surprised if as many as a half-dozen Democratic representatives bolt their party after next year's elections. A realignment of these proportions could shift control of the House to the GOP.

The Republicans are trying to persuade a number of Southern Democrats from conweevils" - that their political futures would be safer in the GOP. These congressmen have already shown their displeasure with their party by voting with the Reagan administration on the tax and budget cuts.

Many of the Southern Democrata disagree not so much with the philosophy of their party as with its current House leadership headed by Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill. Most observers say that wholesale defections will occur only if that leadership does not change in the next Congress.

The key question is whether O'Neill will seek re-election. He is not yet saying. Depending upon whom you ask - or which set of tea leaves you read - the speaker is either. sure to run again or sure to retire next year.

Most members of the Massachusetts delegation are pointing, to various "signs" that lead them to believe that O'Neill will run for at least one more term. However, a few of them are saying that most of the fight has gone out of the speaker and that he is tired of battling detractors in his own party as well as the Reagan administration and the Republicans.

Other observers point to the planned 1982 retirement of Rep. Richard Boiling, D-Mo., chairman of the powerful Rules Committee and a key O'Neill supporter. As they see it, Bolling's departure will make the speaker's job even more difficult and thus could pave the way for O'Neill to bow out.

But even the speaker's retirement would not solve the Democratic leadership problem. The favorite to replace O'Neill would be Majority Leader Jim Wright, who has received more than his share of criticism from House members - on the right and the left - who consider him to be part of the present ineffectual leadership. The elevation of the Texan to speaker - if, in fact, the Democrats retain control of the House would do little to mollify the disenti Southern conservatives,

The Democratic leaders have recognized that their party may have difficulty retaining the "boll weevils." That is why they acted at the recent closed-door caucus of House Democrats to prevent disciplinary action from being taken against members who had supported the president on the tax and budget

In what was described as an acrimonious session, Democratic liberals sought to strip the defectors of choice committee assignments. O'Nelli and Wright got the caucus to forgive and forget - but to agree that future defections on critical votes could result in the loss of key committee assignments in the next

The Republicans are trying to sweeten the pot for potential defectors by guaranteeing that Democrats who bolt to the GOP will be allowed to retain the seniority that members of Congress value so highly. They have also agreed to give defectors their choice of committee assignments.

Most observers believe that significant defections will occur only if Reagan and his programs continue to be popular, if the 1962 congressional elections further erode the Democratic majority and if the current leadership remains in power. Should all of this comes to pass, however, the boll weevils may be able to determine which party controls the House in January 1983.

Was Army Bugged For Control Data?

WASHINGTON — A federal grand jury is looking into allegations that renegade CIA agent Edwin Wilson may have bugged meetings of the Army Materiel Command to get information for Control Data Corp., one of the world's biggest computer firms.

A corporate executive admits having met with Wilson and hired him as a consultant, but denies the company requested or knew about any bugging of the Army's procurement arm.

Control Data's vice president for government and military marketing, L. Taylor Kincannon, said the purpose in hiring Wilson was to use his "great contacts" to unload some outdated computers on Third World coun-

Wilson and Kincannon were brought together at lunch on May 12, 1976, by Paul Cyr, a former Army Materiel Command official. Also present was Wilson's assistant, Kevin Mulcahy, who has now become a witness for the prosecution.

According to notes of the luncheon meeting, Kincannon agreed "to secure and forward inventory of surplus Control Data hardware available for immediate sale." Wilson was to be paid a minimum of $1,300 a month in consultant fees — peanuts to a $7 billion-ayear company like Control Data.

Kincannon insists that the Wilson contract was "to sell obsolete equipment to Third World countries" and nothing else. But Mulcahy has told investigators that the point of the contract was to get inside information on the Army's bidding and procurement plans. This was to be accomplished with bugging devices.

The "consulting agreement" itself, obtained by my associate Dale Van Atta, describes Wilson's job in a single sentence: "Performance of work shall include consulting services in the area of Department of Defense programs." No mention of dumping old computers on Third World nations.

In mid-July, Mulcahy says, Wilson ordered him to bill Control Data. When Mulcahy observed that they hadn't done anything to sell the company's computers, Wilson said they had indeed — they were about to bug the Materiel Command for the company. He sent Mulcahy to, a meeting where the bugging was to be arranged.

The meeting took place in the Texaco station at Bailey's Crossroads, a few miles from Washington in suburban Virginia, at 7:30 a.m. The gas station pe brother, Douglas Schlachter, waste

(He has since been secretly indicted in another Wilson caper and is hiding out in Burundi.)

The key participant, though, was a Pentagon employee who was in his 40s, thin, bespectacled, nervous. He worked in the contracts section of the Army Materiel Command. After some discussion, he agreed to carry a tiny transmitter into his office and meetings. He insisted that the bug must be hidden either in his briefcase or in his glasses.

After the meeting, Wilson's sidekick and follow fugitive, ex-CIA agent Frank Terpil, arranged for the purchase of custom-made transmitter crystals through a Yngoslev connect in London named Iva. JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UPI) - When controllers should strike as they had been (unauthorized flights). thousands of air traffic controllers threatening to do. walked off their jobs last Aug. 3, the Federal Aviation Administration was ready with something called Air Traffic Interim Operations Plan.

The plan was a computer program devised by FAA data systems officer John Richardson to control the flow of 15,500 flights a day by 159 airlines at 22 major airports around the country.

It replaced a manual plan, called the FAA contingency plan, which was based on a work force of only 15 percent, the supervisors, remaining on the job at airport control towers and regional control facilities.

Richardson's plan has worked - it has enabled between 70 and 75 percent of the pre-strike volume of commercial flights to remain in the air.

Under the contingency plan, the FAA would have assigned flight numbers and canceled flights arbitrarily. Richardson's plan allowed the airlines to maintain their own flight numbers and cancel the flights they wanted to cancel.

"John has been wonderful and his plan is much better than the FAA contingency plan, which would have ruined us and all the other airlines," said Dan Johnson, Eastern Airlines' director of system operations.

"As far as I'm concerned, he (Richardson) bailed the airlines out. We couldn't have done it without him," he sald.

Richardson said he was told last June 23 in Washington by his supervisors to

He took the nucleus of his plan to the Air Transport Association of America Official Airline Guide, on July 15 - the meeting in Los Angeles, Calif., in July, and got their input. The data base wasn't finished until 3:30 a.m. on Aug. 3, the day of the walkout.

"It took a long time to put it together because we had to get each flight cancellation number from each airline in the system, flight number by flight number," Richardson said in an interview with UPI.

During the 41 days he and an assistant punched the figures into the computer's memory "no one else in this place (the FAA's Central Flow Control Facility in Jacksonville) even knew what we were doing." he said.

Besides the number of air controllers at an airport or approach facility, the plan takes into account other variables such as radar equipment failures, weather, airport configuration, etc.

Peak-hour flights were cut by up to 50 percent of pre-strike demand, rescheduled at off peak hours and spaced to avoid airborne holding backups.

"We don't allow any airborne holds now," he said. "It's all programmed to take your delay on the ground. We have minimum staffing and we don't want airplanes up there spinning. They're airplanes into the system. Now we saler on the ground and salety's the name of the game."

Richardson and his staff (he now has 10 assistants) keep the system running out." smoothly, moving flights within an airline's authorized quota to different prepare the computer plan in case the hours and riding herd on cheaters works and we've proven that."

Airlines with the largest number of flights scheduled, according to the date used in the original data base - took the biggest proportionate cuts.

The FAA's associate administrator of aviation policy in Washington retains the responsibility for adding or subtracting flights and deciding which airlines get more or fewer flights.

"What that does is (it) takes me out of the political arena," said Richardson. "I don't want to talk with lawyers ... I want to talk with operations people because I don't talk legal language."

The FAA already has announced it will revise downward the overall number of flights, beginning Dec. 1, for the winter months.

Richardson's program has meant airlines can cancel unprofitable flights without suffering a public relations black eye. They also save fuel by sitting at the gate with engines off instead of in the air with engines on.

"It is safer now," said Richardson. "When we had a full work force we had a lot of peaks. Airports were six-hour airports, three (hours) in the afternoon and 6 to 9 (o'clock) at night.

"For six hours a day we'd pump a lot of spread airports out eight, 10, 12 hours, 14-16 hour airports, whereby we are running a good volume of traffic but it's spread

"I think we've done a pretty damn good job," Richardson said. "The system

4 Sanford Houses Reprieved

Fourteen houses in Sanford, slated for demolition by the City Commission earlier this year, were given a 90-day reprieve Monday night.

The commissioners told the owners they have 90 days to complete repairs and bring the houses into compliance with the city's housing code.

Granted 90-day extensions on condemnations were: Linda D. Dennis, 603 Orange Ave.; Richard D. Handy, 1201 W. 2413 Grandview Ave.; and Cab C. Book-11th St.; Sanford J. Gould and Paul man, 719 E. Eighth St.

Biglin, 422 and 418 E. Fifth St.; Earnest Grant, 412 E. Fifth St.; Joetha Jones, 12012 W. 12th St.; Ralph and Mona Jarvis, 1211 W. 10th St.; Reddick and Ruby Isaac, 1009 Mangoustine Ave.; Gertrude Caldwell heirs, 1018 Maple Ave.; Ronald and Hilda McNeil, 1219 W. Eighth St.; Leroy and Rosa L. Washington, 1316 Oleander Ave.; Eveline M.J. and Walter N. King, 311 N. French Ave.; Anthony C. and Mary Gigliotti, Given a final 30-day extension on condemnation was Lanny Delauder, 618 Palmetto Ave.

The violations of the city's building code at the properties range from too many persons sleeping in a bedroom and a lack of appropriate beam supports under houses to roofs caving in, holes in walls and floors, and a complete lack of bathroom facilities, according to City Building Inspector, Leah Rogers.

There was no way the Seminele girls volleyball team should have won this

But they did.

And, that is why they sit atop the Five Star Conference standing with a sparkling 9-1 record and a three-game advantage over their nearest com-

Down 14-9 after losing the first game to Lake Brantley Tuesday night at the Seminole High gym, Sanford fought off three game points and finally subdued the Lady Patriots 8-15, 16-14, 15-3.

"They scared me to death," said a relieved Tribe coach Donalyn Knight. "But we're a veteran team and we don't get shook up when we're behind."

After Seminole had handily disposed of Lyman 15-7, 15-11, it fell behind the Lady Patriots 7-1 as Belsy Rodriquez, Kim Gregory and Donna Dunlap built the

After senior Tony Hardy scored for the Tribe, sophomore Dana Gebhardt and Sharon Triplett added four more service points to move the advantage to 11-5

Rodriquez added three to move Brantley within one point of victory, The Pats nabbed the final point after Cindy Pendarvis served out of bounds for a 15-8

In the second game thriller, the Tribe assumed control on three good serves by Hardy before Gebhardt added three of her own to pull Brantley within 6-5

Senior Dee Hogan put Seminole up, 7-5, but Gregory proceeded to run off eight successive serves to boost the Patriots into a commanding 13-7 lead

Lefthander Jackie Link pulled the Tribe to 13-9 with two solid serves, but Dunlap moved Brantley to within one point of victory with an ace.

At this point, Knight called a series of time outs which seemed to settle down the Seminoles. Sophomore Lisa Nelson hat point number 10 and 5-foot-10 senior Laura Grace nailed two more for a 14-12

On the second point, Link went to her knees to save a slam and returned the ball into an open area for the Seminole point. Hardy then put a perfectly placed dink into the same area to stop the Brantley point.

The high-leaping senior then turned her attention to serving and reeled off four straight points for the victory as the stunned Brantley bunch couldn't believe its eyes. Link had a nice slam for the 14th

In game three, Link ran off five straight points, Hardy served five more as Seminole raced to an 11-1 bulge. Hogan slammed home the final two after Grace, Hardy and Pendarvis hit net

In the sweep over Lyman, Hardy again put on a dazzling service display to befuddle the Greyhounds. With the score 5-4 and Lyman serving, Hardy went highfor a slam and crashed it to the floor

She then ran off seven points using an overhand hummer alternately with an underhand soft toss depending upon the situation. "Coach Knight teaches us to serve both ways," Hardy said. "I think it confuses them when I do it."

After Hardy built the 12-4 lead, Lyman's Pam Stambaugh recied off three in a row, but Pendarvis added one and Hogan two for the 15-7 win. Grace spiked the final point.

In game two, Karren Newman's crew ran off five straight as Amy Babcock had a hand in four of them. Slambaugh later slammed one for a 7-1 bulge, Hogan and Nelson started the comeback with the Tribe down, 11-4.

Hardy went into her act with four in a row to pull Seminole on top, 12-11 and Hogan rifled three in a row to the same spot for the come-from-behind victory,

"We don't really get worried," pointed out Hogan, a three year starter. "We know if we don't get them the second game, we'll get them the third. But we don't want to go a third game if we don't

DONALYNKNIGHT "... scared to death"

In the evening's nightcap, Lyman ran over Brantley 15-5, 15-10. Lynn Lugering had five service points in the first game, while Stambaugh nailed the final three for the victory.

Junior Carol Rogers finished off Brantley in the second game with the final four points

'I was real pleased with the way we came back after losing to Seminole," said 'Hound coach Newman, "Our serves were back up where they were supposed

"Karen Rogers and Pam Stambaugh spiked the ball real well."

Lyman travels to DeLand next Tuesday to take on the Bulldogs and Daytona Beach Mainland at 4 p.m.

Behind Seminole's 9-1 mark is Lyman at 64 and Lake Brantley at 3-7.

"If we just keep doing our part we'll be all right," Knight said after the twin win. Seminole travels to Spruce Creek Thursday to play the Hawks and Daytona

In junior varisty action Monday night, Debbie Alderson contributed seven service points as the Seminoles split with Lake Mary. The Rams of Cindy Henry won the first game 15-7, 15-10. The Tribe JV grabbed the second game 16-14, 15-3

Lake Howell Trims Two

Elsewhere in Five Star volleyball, Lake Howell stayed two games behind Seminole with a pair of victories over Apopka 15-13, 15-11 and Daytona Beach Mainland 7-15, 15-9, 16-14

After blowing a 7-2 lead and losing the first match of Mainland, Howell swept the Lady Bucs behind solid play from captain Jane Yearick, Dawn Crawford and Dianne Dumont.

The Hawks seized a 13-9 edge before Yearick finished off the Bucs with two service points. In the third and deciding game, sophomore Christy Scott and Dawn Crawford came up with key points along with a nice off-speed hit by Dumont Against Apopka, Coach Jo Luciano's crew jumped ahead, 12-6, only to mess up seven times on bad hits or passes to fall behind, 13-12.

Panthers Nudge Greyhounds, 7-6

By GEOFFREY GIORDANO Herald Sports Writer

Crooms' Panthers captured their third straight victory Tuesday night, 7-6, over Lyman at Longwood to remain undefeated in freshman football.

Missed tackles, missed blocks and a few penalties did the young 'Hounds in, while Crooms, although heavy in the fumbling area with seven, recovered all of its bobbles to cap a turnoverless game for the Panthers.

Crooms got its first chance to score after Lyman quarterback Tony Johnson never quite made it to the runner with a handoff and furnbled

The Panthers covered on the Lyman 40 yard line Speedy running back Deron Thompson and Clifton Campbell paced the Panther drive with Thompson picking up 21 yards in six carries and Campbell contributing 18 yards in four attempts.

Thompson, who finished the game with 46 yards in 18 carries, scored Crooms only touchdown of the game from four vards out with 5-14 left in the first quarter. Fullback-linebacker Donald Grayson kicked the extra point following a five yard motion penalty on Crooms to provide the margin of difference.

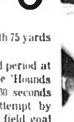

The Greyhounds started their second drive on five straight carries by halfback Avery Meriweather, who paced the Lyman rushing attack with 75 yards on 18 carries

With 1-13 left in the second period at the Panther 40 yard line, the 'Hounds. drove to the 35 with only :30 seconds remaining. A field goal attempt by Johnson ended up in a fake field goal play, with holder John Cupit trying to pick up the necessary yardage for the first down. But, he was nailed instead for a 13-yard loss by linebacker Scott Larson. The Panthers then ran out the Clark adds that the practice will end promptly at 2 a.m. Coffee and donuts will be served to loyal Knight fans during the practice session.

Last year's squad finished the season ranked Number 2 in the NCAA final season Division II poll. The Knights were 23-5, once again winning at least 20 games for the fifth time in the last six years (they won "only" 19 in 1978-79).

Jeff Dorschner, a 6'-11" sophomore from Appleton, Wis., is the only starter returning. Several junior college standouts will join returning players Willie Edison and Jimmie Ferrell. Also expected to see plenty of playing time is Ronnie Thornton, a freshman sensation from West Orange.

The season begins Nov. 20 when the Knights take on Webber College in the UCF Gym at 7:30 p.m.

Vets Nettles, John Pension Off A's, 3-1

NEW YORK (UPI) - Graig Nettles and Tommy John, who should be dealing with pension checks in a few years, apparently prefer those fat World Series

Two of New York's elder statesmen expressed themselves eloquently at the pitcher's mound and the batter's box Tuesday night at Vankee Stadium as Billy Martin's youthful Oakland A's grew old in a hurry.

Nettles, 37, accounted for all of New York's scoring with a bases-loaded double in the first inning off a nervous Mike Norris and John, 38, hurled six strong innings before yielding to baseball's most effective security blanket - the New York bullpen - as the Yankees posted a 3-1 triumph in Game 1 of the American League Championship Series.

The Western Division champion A's will go with 14-game winner Steve McCatty today in an effort to even the best-of-five series before it shifts to Oakland for all remaining games. The East Division champion Yankees will counter with yet another greybeard, 37year-old left-hander Rudy May.

"It's great anytime you win, but winning the first game of a series like this is always important," said Gossage,

AL Playoff

who carned his fourth save of the postseason by pitching the final 1 2-3 innings after taking over for an unnerved Ron-

Norris, who was in grade school when John broke into the majors in 1965, threw 34 pitches in the first inning and fell behind 3-0. After striking out leadoff man Jerry Mumphrey, Norris yielded a single to Larry Milbourne, who had three hits, and walked Dave Winfield on a pitch under the chin. After Reggie Jackson hit into a fielder's choice and stole second, 38-year-old Lou Piniella walked on a 3-2 pitch to load the bases.

Nettles, who combines with John for a cumulative total of 30 years in the majors, then lined a bases-clearing double up the left-center field gap.

John threw only 77 pitches in scattering six hits through six innings before leaving after an ankle sprain. Oakland's only run came in the fifth when Rob Picciolo singled, moved to third on the second of Rickey Henderson's two doubles and scored on Dwayne Murphy's bouncer.

"It's my right ankle, the one I land on," said John. "I don't know how I hurt it, but when I kept coming down on it in the sixth I felt something like a toothache in my foot."

Before Gossage could supply the A's with a lingering headache, Oakland mounted a major threat in the eighth amid some long-awaited controversy.

The first incident occurred with Cliff Johnson at the plate and, for a while, it looked like he would never leave. With one out and Murphy on first via a walk, Johnson came to the plate and fouled off the first pitch from Davis.

"There was a little chip in the handle of my bat," said Johnson, the A's' designated hitter. "I showed it to the umpire (Nick Bremigan), but he told me it wasn't significant. I fouled off another pitch and the chip got larger. So I showed it to him again and he told me to get a

Johnson went slowly to the bat rack searching for a replacement and Davis, angered by the delay, stormed off the mound and confronted Bremigan New York Manager Bob Lemon soon joined in as Johnson continued to rummage through the bat rack like a prospector sifting for gold.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - The Montreal Expos' success rate at Dodger Stadium is roughly equivalent to General Custer's at Little Big Horn.

Then again, Custer only lost once.

The Expos have lost 19 of their last 20 games in Los Angeles, including 10 in a row. The latest loss came Tuesday in the opener of the National League Championship Series as the Dodgers posted a 5-

"What can I say?" said Montreal catcher Gary Carter. "The Dodgers have some magic going at Dodger Stadium."

In Tuesday's magic show, Burt Hooton sawed the Expos in half by scattering six hits over 7 1-3 innings, and Pedro Guerrero and Mike Scioscia pulled backto-back home runs out of the hat to pace the offensive attack

In tonight's show (Game 2, 8:05 p.m. EDT), rookie sensation Fernando Valenzuela, 13-7 in the regular season with a 2.48 ERA, will tempt the Expos to "pick a screwball, any screwball" and try to hit it. The Expos will counter with Ray Burris, who showed little magic in compiling a mediocre 9-7 regular-season

NL Playoff

The Dodgers defeated the Houston Astros in three consecutive games at Dodger Stadium last week to clinch the NI. West title, and their easy win over Montreal has them brimming with

"It's the experience factor," said first baseman Steve Garvey. "They're a young team and we're a very experienced team. That experience shows all year long but even more so in the playoffs."

The brightest light for the Dodgers in the playoffs has been the starting pitching staff, which has allowed just three runs in 51 innings through four games.

Hooton didn't allow a Montreal runner past first base until the fifth inning, and that runner was stranded at second when Larry Parrish popped out to end the inning. Hooton was aided by four double plays, including one in the seventh when Jerry White was doubled off second base after Guerrero had caught Chris Speier's line drive. The Dodgers were also boosted by a spectacular, runsaving catch by right fielder Dusty Baker

Baker's catch in the eighth inning came after Hooton had been lifted for reliever Bob Welch with the Dodgers leading 2-0. With two out and a runner at first, Andre Dawson lined a Welch pitch to left-center and after a long run, Baker dove and came up with the ball to end the

... cools Montreal

The Dodgers took a 2-0 lead in the second off starter and loser Bill Gullickson when Garvey opened with a single to left and scored as Ron Cey, returning to the lineup after sustaining a broken arm a month ago, lashed a hitand-run double to right. One out later, Scioscia sent Cey to third with a single and Bill Russell followed with a perfectly executed squeeze bunt to the right of the pitcher's mound

In the eighth, Cey started a three-run rally with a two-out single. Guerrero then drilled a Jeff Reardon fastball into the left-field seats and Scioscia followed with a solo homer to right for the final

The Expos got their only run in the ninth on consecutive doubles by Carter and Parrish

Martin Like Stengel – Tomorrow Is Another Day

NEW YORK UPD - The longer he manages, the more he reminds you of the old man he learned so much from, the one who gave him his start and whose picture he kept on his wall, and the fundamental lesson Billy Martin was taught by the late Casey Stengel is that tomorrow is another day.

He struggled as hard as he could to keep that in mind Tuesday night although it was unimaginably difficult.

Nobody could possibly know how much he had wanted his Oakland A's to prevail over his old club, the New York Yankees, especially after the rousing ovation he received from the $5,740 at Yunkee Stadium upon being introduced before the game.

But it didn't come out the way he wanted, due primarily to one Mike Norris pitch with two out in the first inning. Graig Nettles hammered it for a three-run double to left field, and after the Yankees had successfully protected that cushion the rest of the way for a 3-1 victory in the opener of the American League's final playoff, Martin sat at his desk in his office with his hands clasped behind his head and tried to keep the edge in his voice from being too obvious while answering newsmen's questions.

As garrulous and long-winded as Stengel was, there were some things he never told the press, and playing under him, Martin learned that from the Old Professor also. He didn't bother revealing how he had tried to loosen up his young A's in the private pre-game meeting he had with them by pointedly instructing his outfielders to play in close whenever Dava Winfield came up because of some of the bleeders he had gotten against their during the first half of the season.

Martin was kidding, of course, and be drew a big laugh when he told his players that, but then he turned serious trying to get their minds off all the media publicity that had preceded the

"It's not Billy Martin against George Steinbrenner, it's the Oakland A's against the New York Yankees," he said, putting the whole thing into proper focus. "Pay no attention to what you read in the papers."

The A's were in a good frame of mind when the game began but to all intents and purposes it was all over after the

and after Winfield walked, Reggie Jackson sent a sharp two-hopper toward the right field hole. Second baseman Dave McKay grabbed it, spunaround quickly and fired to shortstop Ron Picciolo covering second for one and Picciolo's relay to rookie first baseman Kelvin Moore barely missed doubling Jackson on a very close play. Milbourne advanced to third on the forceout and after Oscar Gamble walked filling the bases. Nettles nailed a twostrike pitch by Norris and drove it between left fielder Rickey Henderson and center fielder Dwayne Murphy for his base-clearing double.

"Norris got the ball up, but you can't fault him," Martin said, answering a question

What bothered Martin more than anything else was umpire Russ Goetz calling Jackson safe at first on his ground ball to McKay. The A's manager thought Jackson was out.

"If the kid at first base," Martin said, meaning the 24-year-old Moore, "had a little more experience, he might've given the umpire a little more argument on Jackson in the first inning. When he came back to the bench, he said Jackson was out and I said, 'if you don't argue, son, how can I argue?"

The reason Moore didn't argue was versation with Goetz after Goetz had called Jackson safe. "Did I come off the bag too early?"

because Moore had had a brief con-

Moore asked the ump. "No," Goetz said "He beat the throw."

The game was delayed twice, once in the seventh inning when someone shot off some flares in the upper right field stands and A's right fielder Tony Armas was hit by a baseball thrown by some fool in that sector, and again in the eighth while Cliff Johnson was batting against Ron Davis, who had relieved Yankee starter Tommy John an inning before.

Martin was incensed at Armas being hit and said he planned to talk to American League President Lee MacPhail Wednesday morning about greater protection for his players

Regarding the delay in the eighth, it was occasioned by Johnson's bat flaking and his going for a new one.

Everyone thought the A's were stalling hoping to unsettle Davis, but Martin said it was the other way around, the Yankees were the ones trying to kill time to give Goose Gossage more time to heat up in the bullpen. Gossage came in after Davis walked Johnson and retired the next five batters in order to end the game

Oh well, as Casey Stengel taught Martin, tomorrow is another day. "We'll change the lineup a little," promised the Oakland skipper.

Padres Dismiss Manager Howard For Dismal Finish

SAN DIEGO (UPI) - The San Diego West, have fired Frank Howard after the first-year manager guided the team to last-place finishes during both halves of baseball's split season.

"We are just sorry it didn't work out for Frank and the Padres," club nouncing duties. president Ballard Smith said Tuesday. "Our search for a new manager begins immediately and we will choose the best

Howard directed the Padres to a 23-33 record before the players' strike and an 18-36 record after the strike was settled.

"We're not making the change because Padres, stuggling to find a cure for their—the club finished last, but because it did dismal showing in the National League not make the progress we had hoped," said general manager Jack McKeon. Howard, 45, was named manager last manager, had previously served as a coach with the Milwaukee Brewers and managed their minor league team in Spokane for a year.

A native of Columbus, Ohio, Howard played in the majors for 15 years, seven each with the Los Angeles Dodgers and Washington Senators and a part of one season with the Texas Rangers and Detroit Tigers.

Despite his enormous size and strength, Howard had a placid personality and was nicknamed "The Gentle Giant" by his teammates. Howard had a lifetime batting average of .273 and hit 382 homers, including some of the longest blows in major league history. He is one of only two righthanded batters - the other was Harmon Killebrew — who cleared the roof of the left field stands at Tiger Stadium.

Howard hit 30 or more homers in five seasons and batted in more than 100 runs in four. His peak homerun year was in 1969 when he hit 48 with 111 RBI's.

Howard and his wife, Carol, and six children live in Green Bay, Wis. Howard becames the 10th majorleague manager to depart this season.

Managers who were fired include: Maury Wills of Scattle, Dick Williams of Montreal, Joe Torre of the Mets, Gene Michael of the Yankees, Jim Frey of Kansas City, Jim Fregosi of California, Bobby Cox of Atlanta and John Goryl of Minnesota Bobby Mattick of Toronto quit his post

Former Deputy Gets 14-Year Sentence

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) - Heavy marijuana load, was sentenced to 24 prison terms and fines have been imposed on former Taylor County Deputy Sheriff Broward "Cooter" Reed and six other men convicted on federal drugsmuggling charges.

U.S. District Judge Lynn Higby on Tuesday sentenced former deputy Reed to 14 years in prison and a $30,000 fine. Reed was found guilty in federal court in Gaineaville Sept. 12 of conspiracy to distribute more than 1,000 pounds of marijuana, possession of less than 1,000 pounds of marijuana and three counts of years in prison and a $250,000 fine. Miranda's two sons, Rudy and Jorge, were sentenced to 16 years and a $250,000 fine each. Higby said he wanted the stiff sentences to serve as a warning to others who might be tempted to bring illegal drugs into Florida. The perjury charges stemmed from testimony Reed gave to a federal grand jury investigating a Jan. 6 attempt to smuggle $5 million worth of marijuana into Florida at the mouth of the Suwannee River.

department after his indictment in June. State law enforcement agents seized more than 13,000 pounds of marijuana in the January raid on a marijuana offloading site along the river.

Reed's brother, Ira Reed, whom Higby labeled the organizer of a group of Steinhatchee workers involved in the marijuana unloading, was sentenced to 10 years in prison and a $40,000 fine.

Another brother, Howard Reed, was sentenced to two eight-year terms to be served simultaneously and a $30,000 fine on similar chareges of conspiracy to WASHINGTON (UPI) — Monkeys were held in filthy cages and exposed to "electric shock." Broken bones and wounds were allegedly unattended. The hand of one monkey, severed in an experiment, was said to used as a paperweight.

The Silver Spring, Md., lab, recently charged with cruelty to mimals, was cited Tuesday during a congressional houring as an example of acts of horror committed to animals in the name of scientific research. million animals die each year in research labs nationwide, Congress was urged to curb experiments on live animals.

An official of the National Institutes of Health, which provides much of the funding for such experiments, stressed animals' value to medical science, but promised closer scrutiny of the program.

Rep. Robert Roe, D-N.J., author of a proposed "research modernization act," urged development of alternative research techniques, such as the use of tissue cultures, computers and lower organisms. Alex Pacheco, chairman of the People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, and a former volunteer worker at the lab, told the House science subcommittee how monkeys spent their time in filthy cages with little to do but wait for a daily feeding or "for electric shock or other experimental procedures."

"Primates were left for weeks and months with serious injuries, broken bones, and draining, septic wounds. No veterinarian had treated any animal at the facility in at least two years," he said, adding that in the last 10 months, three animals died in incidents unrelated to experiments.

He said the hand of a monkey, severed in an experiment, was used as a paperweight.

Pacheco recently complained about conditions at the lab to authorities, which resulted in a police raid and charges of cruelty to animals.

Subsequently, NIH suspended a $115,000 grant given to the lab for central nervous system research.

William Raub, NIH associate director for research, stressed the importance of live animal experiments to medical science.

If "severe constraints" were imposed, "research on critical aspects of cancer, heart disease, diabetes, brain dysfunction, and environmentally caused disorders - to name but a few would come to a virtual standstill," he said.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) - Four doctors have told a federal magistrate the stress of traveling to Florida for arraignment on labor racketeering charges could kill reputed New England crime boss Raymond L.S. Patriarca.

Patriarca, 73, is ailing from an array of incurable medical problems including diabetes, hardening of the arteries, frequent chest pain, irregular heart beat, congestive heart failure and depression, doctors told U.S. Magistrate Jacob Hagopian at a day-long hearing Tuesday.

Hagopian said he would rule later today, after receiving final testimony, on a defense request that he suspend a warrant ordering Patriarca to appear in Miami for arraignment until his health improves.

Such an improvement, however, was termed unlikely by doctor after doctor.

Patients like Patriarca "have a 50 percent chance of dying in the following year without additional stress," Dr. Barbara H. Roberts, his personal cardiologist, told the Three other doctors also testified Patriarca's health is deteriorating, and that too much stress could prove fatal. "Yes, the flight to Florida would present a clear and imminent danger to Mr. Patriarca's life," Dr. Robert Indeglia, a cardiologist and vascular surgeon, told Hago-Indeglia said it was "medical madness" that Patriarca was allowed to appear Sept, 24 in U.S. District Court in Providence for booking on the warrant.

Patriarca and four other New England men were indicted Sept. 23 by a federal grand jury in Miami on racketeering charges involving the Laborers Union of North America. The others pleaded innocent at their Oct. 3 arraignment in Miami.

Federal, state and local law enforcement officials allege Patriarca has headed organized crime in New England for four decades.

At Tuesday's hearing, Dr. Roberts said her patient's medical problems are "inexorably progressive. Although the symptoms wax and wane, the underlying vascular disease gets worse with the passage of time."

"He cannot walk 10 yards without chest pain," she said. He is taking "20 pills a day, but they are not doing ver much to control his illness" which is inoperable, she said.

"There is no controversy about Mr. Patriarca's condition. Every cardiologist who examined him said exactly the same thing... this man is very ill and should not stand trial," she added.

Dr. Roberts was at Patriarca's bedside in Mirlam Hospital when he was arraigned last December on an accessory to murder charge for allegedly ordering the gangland slaying of Raymond "Baby" Curcio. She also accompanied him by ambulance to court in New Bedford, Mass., last spring. He appeared on a stretcher and heavily sedated for arraignment on a second murder accessory charge - for allegedly ordering the 1968 killing of Robert Candos in North Attleboro.

Both of those trials have been delayed on the issue of Patriarca's health.

"Any further arraignment would provoke angina (chest pains) or precipitate serious arrhythmia (irregular heart beats) and possibly sudden death," Dr. Roberts said, "To knowingly expose a patient with cardiovascular disease to a condition that would provoke an attack is indefensible."

Cook Of The Week

Kitchen Reflects Days Spent On Bourbon Street

By LOU CHILDERS Herald Correspondent

A visit to the Poniatowski home in Geneva is like walking into part of the French Quarter of New Orleans.

That's because John and Donna Poniatowski brought a lot of memorabilia with them when they sold their restaurant, Janek's, at 711 Bourbon St., in New Orleans to move to Florida two years ago. They now live in a quaint, two story house on Lake Geneva Drive with their 3 children, Marc, 12, Sofa, 10, and Janek, 7.

You especially pick up on the New Orleans atmosphere if you happen to arrive while Donna is working on her Cajun-Creole cookery. When she isn't cooking for her family, Donna teaches Title I at the Geneva Elementary School and studies senior blology at UCF in the evening sessions, working toward a B.S. degree in Education.

Her husband, John, a partner in the AAA Sewer & Drain Service, Sanford, and no stranger to the kitchen, also fixes a few culinary specialties - most of which are as Polish as he

When asked how she learned to cook, Donna replied, "Basically, from my grandmother. When I was a young girl growing up in Dry Prong, La., I watched her take what she had, and make do. Then, during the 14 years I lived in New Orleans, I just loved cooking so much I collected recipes from other people, cookbooks, newspapers, etc., and I'd always adapt them."

She added, "That's the secret to being a good cook - use your imagination! Be creative - as long as the spices are compatible. For example: Italian cooks use a lot of tornato sauces in the various dishes they prepare - so do Cajun cooks. The basic differences are the spices they each use."

"The most unusual Creole spice is 'jumbo file.' It is a secret mixture of herbs using ground sassafras leaves as its main ingredient. File is stirred into a recipe just before you serve it — it is never cooked!"

Most of the recipes Donna Poniatowski uses are very economical, as well as nutritious, and tasty. After sampling the Shrimp Creole, Chicken and Sausage Gumbo, and Beignets she had prepared in anticipation of eptertaining her husband's favorite aunt and uncle, I better understand why Donna's neighbor, Jackie Herman, says, "Once you've tasted her cooking, you can't wait for another invitation!'

Imagine my surprise to discover that my husband, Dallas, and I ate in the Poniatowski's restaurant, Janek's, four years ago when we visited New Orleans. Donna said she was probably in the kitchen the evening we were there, serving the good seafood gumbo and French bread that we enjoyed, for she was working long, hard hours at that time to accomodate the extra influx of tourists who were in New Orleans, as we were, visiting the King Tut Exhibit at the art institute. Now, Donna and I are neighbors. It IS a small world!

The basis for most Cajun or Creole cooking is Brown Roux. According to Donna, "This cannot be rushed — it must be cooked slowly over a very low heat, stirring constantly until it reaches the desired brown color. This usually takes at least 30

RED BEANS AND RICE

2 cups dried red kidney beans

21/2 quarts water

3 tablespoons abortening or bacon fat 1 large onion, chopped

2 or 3 chopped green onions (scallions)

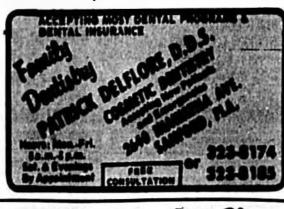

i small chopped green pepper 14 pound salt pork or ham bone

1 clove garlic 1 bay leaf

Salt, pepper and cayenne to taste 2 tablespoons chopped paraley

Soak beans in water overnight, or at least 3 to 4 hours. Melt shortening in pan and saute onion and green pepper. Add beans, soaking water and enough additional water to make 21/4 quarts of liquid, salt pork (or ham bone), garlic and bay leaf. Simmer slowly for 3 to 4 hours, or until creamy. Season to taste and add parsley. Serve over hot cooked rice. Serves 6.

NOTE: About 30 minutes before the beans are ready. remove about a cup of beans, mash them with a fork, and return them to pan. This makes "extra creamy" beans. Red beans may also be cooked with smoked sausage, or served with fried smoked sausage as a side dish.

BEIGNETS (Creole doughnuts - pronounced "ben-yays")

12 cup boiling water

2 tablespoons shortening 4 cup sugar 12 teaspoon salt

4 cup evaporated milk package yeast

4 cup warm water

1 egg, beaten

3% cups sifted flour (about) Confectioners sugar

Pour boiling water over shortening, sugar and salt. Add milk and let stand until warm. Dissolve yeast in warm water and add to milk mixture with the beaten egg. Stir in 2 cups flour. Beat. Add enough flour to make a soft dough. Place in a greased bowl; grease top of dough, cover with wixed paper and a cloth; chill until ready to use.

Roll dough to in-inch thickness. Do not let dough rise before frying. Cut into squares and fry, a few at a time, in deep hot fat (360 degrees F.); brown on one side, turn and brown on other. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with confectioners sugar.

Naturally, the beignets are eaten for breakfast. But, they may also be served after other meals as a dessert!

CREOLE DRIPPED COFFEE In making dripped coffee it is essential to have a French drip coffee pot and a dark roast coffee, ground very fine.

Place two heaping tablespoons of coffee in the basket for each cup of water used. Every 2 or 3 minutes, pour 2 tablespoons of boiling water over the grounds until the desired quantity of coffee is made. (The coffees to follow use this recipe as a base.)

into a coffee cup simultaneously pour boiling milk and hot. Creole dripped coffee (4 cup of each). This coffee is so popular in New Orleans that it is sold at coffee stands.

CAFE BRULOT 40 whole cloves

2 sticks whole cinnamon, broken into pieces

Very thin peel of 4 lemon

Very thin peel of 1/2 orange 20 cubes of sugar plus 2 cubes per cup

1 cup brandy

1 quart hot Creole dripped coffee

Place spices, peels, sugar and brandy into brulot bowl. Fill the brulot ladle with brandy, ingnite and lower into brulot Ladle the flaming mixture only a few minutes so it will not destroy the flavor of the brandy. Pour coffee slowly into brulot bowl. Serves 12.

NOTE: The quantity of sugar may seem excessive; it is seential, as the brulet should taste like a very rich bruitceke. This is a special treat to serve during the Holidays to your coffee-loving friends.

Intern Program Teaches Them All About Broadcasting

By PATRICIA McCORMACK UPI Education Editor

Not all interns pack stethoscopes and wear white coats. Thirteen from across the country scrambling around New York City these days tote reporter's notebooks, tape recorders, and other trappings of broadcast media types.

The "broadcast" interns are shadowing or working at the elbows of pros in the network radio and television industry. That includes association with more than those "airing" news reports and such,

Stephen Labunski, executive director of the International Radio & Television Society, said some interns in the program funded by the IRT Foundation also learn about network sales and advertising agencies - conduit for television and radio commercials.

The IRTS is a nonprofit membership organization for broadcasting professionals and emphasizes education about the industry as its major role.

The happiest broadcast intern of all in this sixth annual batch - picked from 610 applicants - has got to be David Gibson of Gonzaga University, Spokane, Wash. He goes on the payroll at NBC Radio Network when the intern program ends Aug. 21.

Some others getting the on-the-job experience will go back to school. Still others, their experience files enriched, will hit the

"This is a unique opportunity for students to receive on-thejob experience at top communications companies in the center of the broadcasting-advertising industry," said Labunaki, a 25year broadcast vet and once NBC Radio devision prexy.

an intern with Independent Network News and working out of WPIX-TV in Manhattan, said the experience is fantastic. "There's no way anything in the classroom can compare to this," she said. "I cannot believe there are so many departments and so many people working together to put out a news show. I'm right in the thick of it. We have everything. The human nature breakdowns when temper flare and technology breakdowns when equipment fails.

"The teamwork required is phenomenal."

St., Sanford, has been promoted in the U.S. Army to the rank of specialist four. Ms. Williams, a

1979 praduate of Seminole High School, is assigned at Fort Knox,

The internship program is the second of a two-prong IRTS program linking academia and the world of broadcast. The first part each year is a Faculty-Industry seminar for teachers and 25 students from universities and colleges nationwide. The 13 interns are picked from the 25. Trisha Curran, a broadcast professor from Fordham University, described the 1961 seminar at Harrison Conference Center, Glen Cove, N.Y., as "an exhilarating education in broadcasting.

"During the seminar, the professional educators were instructed by the creme de la creme of professional broadcasters, brought together in a no-holds-barred atmosphere.

"Panels on legal issues, radio programming, television news, public affairs, sales, promotion, community involvement and research enabled the professors to appreciate practical problems in radio and television programming."

The core of the seminar was a game plan. Participants worked out problems for a hypothetical broadcast station attempting to serve its community with honor and profit.

Curran reported it was found to be possible. "But it is not automatic, nor is it easy, as the professors discovered in their increasingly-less-cavalier attempts to bring in interesting, intelligent, in-depth news and public affairs programs," she said.

"As the student-professors evaluated themselves as programmers they gained a new security in their knowledge and understanding of the broadcasting world."

And that's as planned. Labunski said the purpose of IRTS Faculty-Industry Seminar is "to bridge the academic and practicality gap between the communications industry and the communications faculty."

Walesa Elicits Both Warmth, Hostility

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) - The magazine Przy Kroj recently asked its readers to name a book Lech Walesa could read with profit, Suggestions included "The Prince" by Niccolo Machiavelli, Alan Bullock's "A Study in Tyranny," "100 Years of Solitude" by Gabriel Garcia Marquez, a Polish-Russian dictionary, "Small is Beautiful" and Mario Puzo's "The Godfather."

The list reflected the admiration, exasperation, warmth and hostility that are aroused in Poles by a man who in little more than a year rose from unemployed electrician to being one of the most powerful men in Eastern Europe.

Said an influential delegate at Solidarity's first national congress, which ended last week, "The congress made Walesa a bit sane. If he gets the Nobel Prize, that will be the end ...' Bogdan Boruszewicz, one of the main architects of Solidarity, found Walesa's imperial methods more than he could stomach and dropped his union activities. "I could not agree with his pharoah style, with a man who acts as if he knows more than anyone else," Boruszewicz said. Walesa galvanized the Polish working class in the August 1980 strikes that led to the formation of Solidarity, the East Bloc's first independent trade union, which he then headed. But as Poland changed over the past turbulent 14 months, so did Walesa. Abruptly he abandoned many of his early supporters and alienated others by his autocratic style, giving the impression of a cunning and ruthless man of power. Though Walesa was reelected head of Solidarity at the congress in Gdansk, delegate after delegate rose and leveled bitter criticism against the man and his style. But he retained great popularity among the masses, his charisma was untarnished and memories of his August 1980 role were fresh; he was the one figure around whom the nearly 10 million member union could unite.

They began with careful observations of birds and a close examination of the pitfalls that had trapped other experimenters. They then continued with a systematic approach to solving aerodynamics using a series of manned gliders and a homemade wind tunnel.

Their persistence and careful research enabled them to succeed where others had failed and culminated in 1903 with the first workable airplane -- and the inauguration of the air

Ivonette Wright Miller, niece of the wright brothers, says of her uncles: "Orville and Wilbur were both good cooks. They were particular about their food and had definite ways of doing things.

"Orville usually made the fudge or caramel candy for his nieces and nephews when they visited on Sunday afternoons. "In later years, when he was summering at his island in Georgian Bay, he made orange marmalade for the children visiting him there, using his long thermometer to be sure it had boiled enough. It disappeared so quickly that he could hardly keep the supply coming fast enough.

"He made delicious blueberry pic, using berries picked on the island. Carrie Grumbech, who had come to work for them when she was only 14 years old, had given him instructions about how to make good crust. Carrie served them well and with great devotion for 46 years.

Charles A. Lindberg remains one of the most famous heroes in the history of aviation. His popularity is based not only on the fact that he was the first to solo non-stop from New York to Paris in 1927 in the Spirit of St. Louis but also on his independent personality. His decision to fly alone, to discard a radio and even a parachute to save weight, to navigate by dead reckoning and his use of a relatively inexpensive plane built by a small firm (partially with his personal savings), all captured the public imagination at the time and still do today.

His work in aeronautics after his historic flight helped shape the growth of that industry, and during World War II he aided in the development of military aircraft. In peacetime, he directed his concern to the problems of the environment.

Of the future, he once said: "Following the paths of science we become constantly aware of mysteries beyond scientific research...the great adventures of the future lie in voyages inconceivable by our 20th-century rationality-beyond the solar system, through distant galaxies, possibly through peripheries untouched by time and space."

(Commented Lindbergh to the Minnesota Historical Society: "My mother often made a Swedish butter cookie-very rich yellow and in the form of an 'O'. This was my favorite cookie.")

1 pound butter

i scant cup sugar

3 to 4 cups flour

2 scant teaspoons baking powder I teaspoon lemon or almond extract

Remove butter from refrigerator to soften. Cream with sugar until light and fluffy. Bear in egg thoroughly. Add 3 cups of flour and mix well; add more flour if needed to make a dough that holds its shape yet is soft. Mix in baking powder and extract. Force through a pastry tube onto an ungreased cookie sheet forming the cookies into ring shapes. Or roll into little balls and dissolve it in the juice. Add sugar, salt, lemon juice and Pour half of the juice mixture into a 12-cup-capacity ring mold and let stand for approximately 30 minutes or until slightly jelled. Keep the other half of the juice mixture in a cool, but not cold, place.

Mix the cream cheese with a few drops of onion juice, and stuff the pears with this mixture. Decorate with pimientos and green pepper strips.

When the juice in the ring mold is jelled enough to hold the pears, turn the pears decorated side down and press slightly into the gelatin. Return to refrigerator until firm, then add the remainder of the juice mixture.

Chill until set. Turn out on a platter and surround with lettuce. Place a small bowl of mayonnaise in the center of the ring and arrange small pieces of lettuce around the edge of the bowl. This salad serves 12 to 16.

.Fliers' Cookbook Vichyssoise Special To Doolittle

By MARY HENDERSON Special to the Herald

Jimmy Doolittle's career - as World War II hero, air racer and test pilot-has spanned five decades of aviation history. He pioneered "blind flying," was in the forefront of the development of 100-octane fuel, led the Tokyo Raid in 1942 and set many speed and distance records.

He commanded the United States Eighth Air Force in England during World War II.

Dolittle is currently a member of the board of directors of Mutual of Omaha.

VICHYSSOISE

("Although I hew wood, carry water and wash dishes," says Doolittle, "I do not cook and depend entirely upon my favorite girl Joe-my wife-where the preparation of food is concerned. This is one of her specialtles that I particularly

4 or 5 leeks and 1 white onion, sliced thin (or 2 white onions)

3 tablespoons butter or margarine 4 cups chicken broth

4 medium-size potatoes 1 stalk celery

1 cup cream or milk Salt and pepper, to taste

Chopped chives

Saute leeks and onion slices in butter or margarine until transparent.

Add chicken broth, potatoes and celery. Cook until vegetables are tender. Cool.

Put mixture in blender in batches. Blend until smooth. Just before serving, stir in the cream or milk, salt and pepper.

Serve cold, topped with chopped chives. Serves six. Reprinted by permission of the Smithsonian Institution Press from ("Famous Personalities of Flight Cookbook" by Mary Henderson, (c) Smithsonian Institution Press, Washington, D.C., 1981.

Breakfast For An Aviatrix

Although she had been the first woman to fly the Atlantic as a passenger in 1928, Amelia Earhart was determined to prove that she could be the first woman to make the trip solo. She achieved this objective in May 1932 in a single-engine Lockheed Vega.

Not content with establishing this record, Miss Earhart went on to become the first person to fly solo across the Pacific from Hawaii to California.

In 1937, in an attempt to circumnavigate the globe, she disappeared in the Pacific.

A spokeswoman for the cause of women in aviation throughout her brief career, she continues to be an inspiration to women today.

Miss Earhart once commented on "in flight" meals during her career: "What to feed a football team or how to plan meals for a crew - these things are well-known. But there has been little intelligent research on what to feed a pilot, who has to sit still for as long as 30 hours sometimes and must maintain the utmost mental concentration."

Of her solo trans-Atlantic flight, she wrote: "I didn't bother much about food for myself. The really important thing was fuel for the engine. It drank more than 300 gallons of gasoline. My own trans-Atlantic rations consisted of one can of tomato juice, which I punctured and sipped through a straw." SOUR CREAM WAFFLES

(This is one of the recipes that Miss Earhart enjoyed when she came down to earth.)

- 2 cups sifted flour
- I teaspoon baking soda
- 12 teaspoon salt
- I tablespoon sugar
- 2 eggs, separated
- 2 cups sour cream

Sift together flour, soda, salt and sugar. Mix together well. Beat eggs yolks until light. Combine with sour cream. Add to dry ingredients, beating until smooth.

Beat egg whites stiff; gently fold into batter. Bake on a waffle iron according to the directions provided by the manufacturer. Makes 5.

Glenn's Special Ham Loaf

In 1962, John Glenn became the first American to orbit the earth, in the Mercury-Atlas Friendship 7.

This significant flight demonstrated that it was important to send a man rather than a machine into space to deal with the unforeseen problems of travel outside the earth's atmosphere. Glenn later assisted in the Project Apollo planning, specializing in the design and development of the spacecraft

In 1964, he joined the Royal Crown Cola Co. and entered politics. In 1974, he was elected U.S. Senator from Ohio. He was re-elected in 1980.

ANNIE GLENN'S HAM LOAF

- (This recipe was supplied by Mrs. John Glenn.) I pound cured ham, chopped
- 12 pound fresh ham, chopped 112 cups dry bread crumbs and flight-control systems.

- 2 eggs
- a cup milk
- Dash of pepper t cup sugar
- 14 cup water 14 cup vinegar
- 1 tablespoon mustard
- Mix ham, bread crumbs, eggs, milk and pepper well. Form into a loaf.

Heat sugar with water and vinegar until sugar dissolves. Add mustard.

Pour mustard sauce over loaf. Bake at 350 for 112 hours. Baste loaf several times during baking. (Sauce will be syrupy.)

PRESERVING CHILDREN

(This "recipe," is from the collection of Armstrong's aunt, Mary Teichgraeber. )

- 6 children
- 3 dogs (at least) I large grassy field
- Flowers
- Narrow strip of brook (with pebbles) Deep blue sky

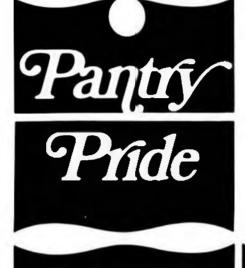

Hot sun

Mix the children with the dogs and empty into the field, stirring constantly. Sprinkle the field with flowers.

Pour the brook gently over the pebbles. Cover all with a deep blue sky and bake in the hot sun.

When the children are well browned, they may be removed. They will be found just right for setting away to cool in the bath

A New Twist To Traditional Fall Fare

With the onset of cool weather, why not try an unusual but highly delectable dish that brings a new twist to traditional fall fare? It's Roast Leg of Lamb With Greek Lemon Sauce, a surefire way to add elegance to your table.

And when your family savors the delicate flavor of New Zealand Spring lamb bathed in a velvety concoction of lemons. egg volks and butter, their taste buds will rise to new heights.

The sophistication of this satisfying dish belies the ease and economy of preparation. It takes little more than an hour to cook the lamb and make the sauce. New Zealand Spring lamb is often less expensive than many other red meats. And because a leg of lamb from New Zealand weighs five to six pounds, you won't have to worry about having excessive lef-

If any cooked meat remains you can create a tantalizing Lamb and Zucchini Casserole. The tangy lemon peel and mint leaves complement the robust flavor of the meat and vegetables to make an easy and satisfying main dish.

medium doneness, or until meat thermometer registers 160 degrees F. You are assured of a fine quality meat because New Zealand raises its lambs on a diet of mother's milk and grass on its lush, green pastures. The meat is aged to perfection in modern facilities before being quick-frozen to ensure excellent

New Zealand Spring lamb is also available in other cutsshoulder roasts, chops and shanks, as well as legs.

- ROAST LEG OF LAMB WITH GREEK LEMON SAUCE
- I leg of New Zealand Spring lamb, 5 to 6 pounds, frozen
- 2 cloves garlic, peeled, cut in slivers
- 1 large lemon 1 teaspoon salt, divided
- Pepper
- 1 one-third cups water 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 3 tablespoons all-purpose flour 3 eggs yolks
- 14 cup freshly squeezed lemon juice 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Thaw lamb in refrigerator overnight. Remove "fell" from lamb. With tip of knife cut small slits in meat; insert slivers of garlic. Squeeze juice from lemon; rub juice over lamb. Sprinkle with a teaspoon salt and pepper. Place lamb, fat-side up, in shallow roasting pan; do not cover or add water. Insert meat thermometer into thickest part of meat, making sure tip does not rest in fat or against bone. Roast in a 325 degree F. oven I hour, 40 minutes or until meat thermometer registers 140 degrees F. for rare, 160 degrees F. for medium and 170 degrees F, for well done. Remove lamb to serving platter; allow to "rest" 10 minutes before carving. Pour off and discard fat from roasting pan. Stir water into pan drippings, scrapping up brown bits. Melt butter in top of double boiler over direct heat. Blend in flour. Add dripping mixture; bring to a boil and cook over medium heat, stirring, I minute. In small bowl beat together egg yolks and lemon juice. Beat in 3 tablespoons of cooked sauce. Place top of double boiler over hot, not boiling , water. Stir egg mixture into cooked sauce. Cook, stirring, 2 minutes. Remove from heat; stir in parsley and remaining 14 teaspoon salt. Serve with lamb. YIELD: 8 servings.

LAMB AND ZUCCHINI CASSEROLE 4 medium zucchini, unpared, thinly sliced (6 cups)

24 teaspoon salt, divided

- pepper 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- I cup soft bread crumbs 2 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 cup chopped onion
- one-third cup roasted bulgar 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 cups ground, cooked New Zealand Spring lamb
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 teaspoon dried mint leaves
- 1.34 cups chicken broth

In a buttered, shallow, 2-quart casserole arrange half the zucchini slices. Sprinkle with 14 teaspoon salt and season with pepper. In large skillet, mell butter; saute bread crumbs until golden brown; remove and reserve. In same skillet, heat oil; saute onion, bulgar and garlic until onion is tender. Stir in lamb, lemon peel, mint and remaining to teaspoon salt. Spoon lamb mixture over zucchini in casserole. Arrange remaining zucchini over lamb. Pour chicken broth over all. Cover, Bake in a 375 degree F. oven 40 minutes. Uncover, sprinkle with buttered bread crumbs. Bake, uncovered, 20 minutes longer, YIELD: 6 servings.

Doughnuts are a delicious treat.

Refrigerated Biscuits Base Of Doughnuts

It's back-to-school time once again, and you'll go to the head of the class with Glazed Doughnuts. They're a special way to feature the goodness of 100 percent natural cereal. Oats, whole wheat, almonds, coconut, honey and brown sugar make this cereal as wholesome as it is.

Glazed Doughnuts can save you time in the kitchen because they're made with refrigerated biscuit dough. For added taste and texture, 100 percent natural cereal acts as a doughnut filling as well as a crunchy topping. You can serve these delicious treats with a glass of milk to the after-school snack set. They're sure to make the grade.

GLAZED DOUGHNUTS

Vegetable oil One 10 oz. package refrigerated biscuit dough

- 2-3 cup 100 percent natural cereal, crushed
- 12 cup confectioners sugar teaspoon vanilla
- 2 to 3 teaspoons milk

Heat 1-inch deep oil to 350 degrees F. Flatten each biscuit into a 6-11s-inch oblong; sprinkle with 1 rounded teaspoon cereal. Starting with wide end, roll up tightly, pinching edges together to seal in cereal. Bring ends together; overlap and tightly pinch together to seal, forming doughnut shape. Fry in hot oil about 1 minute per side or until golden brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Cool alightly.

Combine confectioners augar and vanilla. Add milk, 1/2 teaspoon at a time, to make a thin glaze. Glaze doughnuts; sprinkle with remaining cereal. Makes 10 doughnuts.

Microwave Magic

Celebrate Ocktoberfest With Robust Foods-Even Rye Bread

October, the onset of fall, is celebrated the world around, but I suppose no one does it any better than the Germans with their Ocktoberfest.

This festive feeling has spread to Florida. Last week Orlando had an Ocktoberfest. You can celebrate too at home by preparing robust German food in the microwave.

A Bratwurst and Sourkraut meal in one or Knockwurst and Hot Potato Salad is a good start.

Rye Batter Bread to accompany the main dish and either Apple Rum Dum Cake or Spiced Raisin-Nut Bars for dessert, Ach du liebe! A real German meal,

If you haven't tried baking bread in your microwave oven this is a good recipe with which to start. Use your microwave to speed the rising, as well as, the actual baking. These recipes have been prepared using a 700 watt appliance. If your microwave oven has less wattage, additional time may be Suggestion: It is a good idea to use the minimum cooking times and add more time if needed to complete cooking. Don't forget that standing time for all foods cooked in the microwave oven is important and often is all that is needed to cook the food to perfection.

RYE BATTER BREAD

- 1 cup milk (scalded)
- 2 tablespoons caraway seeds 4 cup margarine
- 3 cups all-purpose flour
- 14 cup brown sugar
- 2 cups rye flour
- 2 pkgs. dry yeast
- 1 teaspoon caraway seeds 2 leaspoons sugar
- 14 cup wheat germ I cup warm water

In large mixer bowl, pour scalded milk over brown sugar, salt and butter, Cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in warm water. Add to milk mixture. Add 2 tablespoons caraway seeds and about half of each flour, Beat at medium speed for 2 minutes or until smooth. Add remaining flour and beat until well blended; approximately 1% minutes. Cover bowl and let rise until double approximately 45 minutes or cover loosely with plastic wrap, set microwave power to 10 percent power which is warm and microwave for 2 to 3 minutes. Let stand for 20 minutes. Stir batter for 1/2 minute. Grease a 2-quart casserole and coat with wheat germ, reserving 1/4 cup for the top. Turn dough into casserole, sprinkle with caraway seeds and wheat germ. Cook at 350w (silinmer) 15 to 18 minutes on 700 or until top springs back when touched. Place a donut-shape piece of foll over top during last 2 minutes of cooking. This absorbs some of the microwave and prevents over cooking the top of the bread. Set dish on heat proof table top for 10 minutes. Turn out on rack.

APPLE RUM DUM CAKE

- Sauce: 1/2 cup light cream
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup packed brown sugar
- ⅓ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup butter or margarine 1 cup sugar
- 1 large egg (or 2 mmail) 1 cup plus 2 tablespoons unsifted all-purpose flour
- I teaspoon soda 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 leaspoon salt
- 21/2 to 3 cups chopped or sliced, peeled apples 1-3 cup chopped nuts

Combine all ingredients for sauce in 2-cup glass measure. Microwave uncovered, 3 to 31/2 minutes or until mixture has boiled about 1 minute, stirring once or twice. Microwave butter for cake in glass mixing bowl about 1/2 minute or until softened. Best in sugar and egg. Mix in flour, soda, cinnamon and sait. Stir in apples and nuts, mixing well. Spread evenly in greased 8-inch round cake dish. Microwave 9 to 11 minutes or until no longer doughy, rotating dish once or twice. Pour sauce over cake and serve. Serves about 8.

Smart Food Management For Singles

The singles lifestyle is here to stay. According to the U.S. Bureau of Census, nearly 17 million Americans now live alone. compared with fewer than 11 million less than 10 years ago. This statistic reflects on evolution in American living patterns. It also implies a dramatic change in the profile of the average food consumer and in the special challenges many of them face in and out of the marketplace.

In the supermarket, you'll see the change. Today one-third of all major food shoppers are men, and about 38 percent of them live alone. Single senior citizens now number more than 6 million. Both men and women live alone due to later marriage, divorce or by choice and shop for one. Single people are a new breed of consumer-with different needs, demands and

Male or female, young or old, no one is more challenged at the supermarket than the single person. As a group they have special requirements:

-small or single-serving packages

-economical alternatives for using leftovers

-ideas for preventing waste

-convenience items that save considerable time and effort In addition, numerous single people are only beginning to learn how to juggle a budget, manage a home and plan nutritious meals. Many are unfamiliar with the fundamental facts of food management, meal planning, shopping, proper food storage and preparation.

If you're a single person battling the budget and the menu plan, here are a few pointers from Kraft's Consumer's Right to Know program.

Learn when to think big and when to think small. Larger sizes usually cost less per serving, but they don't save money if food is wasted. Buy only what you can use and store easily, but don't always opt for the smaller item.

For example, large roasts or turkeys usually have more meat in relation to bone than smaller cuts, so they are the better buys. If storage space permits, it's wise to buy larger sizes of basic foods like salad oil, flour, sugar, rice and pasta, which are used frequently and store well.

When you shop and cook, be creative and plan ahead. In making out a shopping list, plan to get two or three meals from one cut of meat. One fresh pork shoulder butt, for example, will yield 3 meals-pork roast, pork steaks and chop suey. Remember too that the entree you cooked for dinner last night can become today's hot lunch with the help of a vacuum

If you're making soups, stews, casseroles or chili, you can save on the cost of ingredients, and on time and energy by making larger quantitles and freezing several portions for later. Don't forget leftovers. Meats, poultry and fish can be cubed, frozen and later thawed for delicious additions to salads and main dishes. Precooked green beans can be frozen, then thawed and combined with French dressing for a refreshing side dish.

To get the most convenience out of convenience foods, adapt them to a variety of imaginative uses. Salad dressings, mayonnaise, barbecue sauce or canned soups can be used for quick sauces. Packaged dinners including pasta and spices can be the basis of casseroles, stews or pasta dishes. Canned foods such as tuna, ham, salmon, turkey and chicken require little preparation and can be combined quickly with other foods. Sliced or shredded cheese or cheese spread for sauces and main dishes also makes preparation easy.

Today's lifestyles aren't locked into traditional eating patterns, so be flexible when it comes to menu planning. Three meals a day aren't the only ways to get the nutrients you need. If smaller meals and more snacking are your style, make them work for you. Plan snacks rather than nibbling haphazardly. Choose nutritious foods like cheese, nuts, yogurt, fresh fruits and crisp vegetables. Try snack combinations like cheese spread on celery or apple slices; carrot sticks and cauliflowerettes dipped into reduced calorie salad dressing; or a mini-pizza made with an English muffin, tomato sauce, shredded cheese and your favorite toppings.

Smart shopping, proper storage, creative cooking and flexibility are the keys to success for singles struggling with the challenges of food management. The secret to pouring a perfect glass of beer, says Dennis R. Kramer, yearly host to thousands of visitors to Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company, is in boldly pouring properly chilled beer into the center of "beer-clean" glass.

Here's How To Pour A Perfect

What does an expert do when he wants to really enjoy a glass of beer?

Are there any special touches he has learned through years of experience that make his beer, even out of the same six pack as yours and mine, taste a little better?

Dennis R. Kramer, yearly host to thousands of visitors to Jos. Schlitz Brewing Company, is convinced that there are, and he should know. After all, he's spent about two decades with one of America's oldest and longest-established brewers. The secret, Kramer sald, is in boldly pouring beer chilled to the recommended temperature into a glass that is "beerclean." "First," he explained, "it's best to pour your beer into the middle of the glass. Beer tastes better from a glass because pouring releases the carbon dioxide bubbles to form a head and smooths the brew. The head also makes the beer look "Next, Schlitz recommends serving its beers at 40 degrees

F. This is cool enough to be refreshing, but no so cold that your taste buds are bumbed and unable to detect all of the good beer

"Finally," Kramer said, "you should have a 'beer-clean' glass. This is not complicated - a 'beer-clean' glass is one that is free of animal fat. Soap contains animal fat, so the glass should be washed in detergent. Since toweling it dry could cause lint to adhere, it should be allowed to drain and air-dry.

"When a glass is 'beer-clean,' the carbon dioxide produces a head, and the foam will 'lace' on the glass with each swallow. When a glass is not 'beer-clean,' the head may not form or will not last as long, bubbles appear and stick to the side of the glass, and the beer's flavor never reaches its full potential," he said.

"A beer connoisseur - and we all like to think of ourselves as beer connoisseurs - will enjoy beer much more by following these steps," Kramer advised.

Pilaf Just Right With Roast Chicken

If you have economy in mind when preparing your next dinner for guests, put together a lentil-bulgur pilaf to serve with roast chicken.

There is a mutty flavor of the combined ingredients that goes well with chicken (and meat , too). The pilaf is further enhanced with the use of raisins and sliced almonds that add a special flavoring and texture. Cooking time is about 40 minutes and you may enjoy leftovers reheated or served chilled with lettuce and chopped scallions as a salad.

LENTIL BULGUR PILAF

4 medium onion, chopped 2 tablespoons oil

12 cup lentils

1/2 cup bulgur wheat

24 cups water

1 tablespoon ketchup 1 teaspoon salt

la teaspoon ground cinnamon

1/2 cup each raisins and sliced almonds

2 tablespoons chopped paraley I hard-cooked egg, chopped

Saute onion in oil until soft. Add lentils, bulgur, water, ketchup, salt the cinnamon. Bring to boil; cover and simmer 25 to 30 minutes. Stir in raisins and nuts. Cook, uncovered, 10 to 15 minutes or until liquid is absorbed. Garnish with paraley and egg. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 to 6 servings.

Start Day With A Breakfast Drink

Sports enthusiasts are aware that their favorite athletes usually are interested in good nutrition. This especially is true of runners, swimmers and gymnasts.

Breakfast is important to them, just as it should be to nonathletes. You'll feel better throughout the day if you begin with some form of healthful food.

Many persons claim they just can't face solid foods such as eggs and bacon, even toast, in the morning. Health enthusiasts can overcome this feeling with special drinks combining ingredients that offer many vitamins and protein for energy.

Start your day with a breakfast drink and encourage school children in the family to do the same. These include drinks with egg, milk and fresh fruits, for example. Such drinks are very good after-school nourishment, too,

ORANGE-HONEY NOG

- 2 tablespoons orange flavor instant breakfast drink
- 1 cup milk 1 egg
- i tablespoon honey
- Combine all ingredients in blender container. Blend well. Garnish with strawberry, if desired. Makes about 14 cups or 1 or 2 servings.

- Chopped paraley (garnish)

Thaw fish if frozen. Skin fillets; cut into 1-inch pieces. In a 5quart Dutch oven, cook onion, green pepper, and garlic in margarine until onion is tender, not brown. Stir in salt, chili powder, oregano, and pepper. Add beans, tomatoes, and tomato paste. Heat almost to boiling point, stirring occasionally. Add fish. Reduce heat: cover and simmer 8 to 10 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Garnish with chopped parsley. Makes 6 servings.

Make a batch of crepes. Freeze for later use in entrees, such as chicken mornay, or fruit-filled crepes. Crepes Indie With Peach Sauce is a delicious dessert.

Here's A Peachy Dessert

Once you get the knack of making crepes, you can serve them as entrees, such as chicken mornay, or as fruit-filled desserts-with little time needed in the kitchen.

The key is using a crepe pan heated to the proper temperature before you begin to add crepe batter. If you plan to freeze crepes, place waxed paper between each crepe so you may remove any number you need easily.

A crepe pan is a good investment and a perfect gift, expecially for singles or couples who enjoy entertaining.

CREPES INDIE WITH PEACH SAUCE

- 1 cup milk
- 2 eggs teaspoon salt
- 2-3 cup flour
- Butter (about 3 tablespoons) 12 cup honey
- 1 cup water Cinnamon stick
- 3 cups sliced California peaches (about 1 pound)
- 2 tablespoons sliced almonds

Early in the day, prepare crepes as follows: Put milk, eggs, salt and flour into blender container. Whirl 30 seconds. Scrape down sides; cover and whirl 10 seconds more. Refrigerate 1

To cook crepes, heat a 7-inch crepe pan, brushed with butter, until almost smoking. Pour about 2 tablespoons batter into hot pan, tipping it to allow batter to cover bottom of pan. Cook 1 minute. Turn crepe and cook 12 minute on second side. Repeat operation for remaining batter, sllding each crepe onto rack, to cool before stacking. Wrap and refrigerate crepes until

To serve: Put honey, water and cinnamon stick in saucepan or chafing dish. Bring to boil; reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Add peaches, simmer 5 minutes more or until peaches are tender. Fold crepes in quarters and place in pan.

Spoon sauce over folded crepes. When heated through, serve onto individual dessert plates, spooning sauce over all. Garnish each serving with sliced almonds. If desired, top with a scoop of vanilla ice cream. Serve at once. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings, 18 crepes.

Note: Any extra crepes can be stored in freezer for furture

Frozen Dough Secret Of Bread Treat

Who can resist the aroma of home-baked bread filled with fall apples and plump raisins, then glazed with honey and pecans? No one, we suspect. Not even the cook with limited time. Thanks to the convenience of frozen bread dough and disposable aluminum foilware, busy cooks can enjoy baking Apple Raisin Crescent Rings.

These delicious sweet breads rely on two basics for their success. Disposable aluminum foilware cake pans are used to give the rings a uniform shape. Frozen bread dough is used to give the cook a head start.

When using frozen bread dough remember these special tips. Let the bread dough thaw overnight in the refrigerator. Then let it stand at room temperature one hour before shaping. This will make the dough more pliable and easier to shape into rings. Also remember to place the dough in 8-3-8 inch cake pans while it rises.

After baking, glaze and serve one ring immediately. We know you can't resist? Then overwrap the second ring with heavy duty aluminum foil for freezing. Use heavy duty rather than standard oil for keeping frozen foods at their best. Reheat this frozen bread any time and serve with a fresh topping of honey pecan glaze.

APPLE RAISIN CRESCENT RINGS

- 1 loaf (1 lb.) frozen bread dough
- 14 cup butter or margarine, softened 4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 12 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- to cup raisins.
- 1 cup chopped apple, peeled Melted butter or margarine
- Topping for each loaf 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 tablespoons honey
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 18 teaspoon ground cinnamon

2 tablespoons chopped pecans

Place frozen bread dough on greased baking sheet. Lightly grease surface of dough, cover loosely and refrigerate overnight. Let stand at room temperature on a lightly floured surface I hour. Divide dough in half. Roll and gently pull each piece of dough into an 8-inch circle. Cut one circle into 8 equal triangles. Combine butter, sugar and cinnamon; spread half of mixture over 8 triangles. In a greased cake pan, arrange 8 triangles in a circle with bases overlapping. (The center opening should be about 3 inches in diameter and the points should be toward the outside.) Spoon half the raisins and apples on the triangles, pressing lightly. Fold points of triangles over the filling and tuck tightly under the bases at the center of the circle. Repeat with remaining dough. Cover and let rise until nearly doubled in size, 50 minutes. Bake in preheated 375 degree F, oven 20 to 25 minutes or until done. (Check crescents after 18 minutes; if browning too quickly, cover top with foil.) Remove from pans. In a saucepan, combine I recipe of topping, heat until bubbly and spoon over 1 ring of crescents while warm. Place cooled second ring of crescents on a sheet of heavy duty aluminum foil adequate for wrapping. Bring 2 sides of foil up over ring; fold down in a series of locked folds until foil is tight against ring. Press air towards ends. Mold foil to contours of ring. Fold short ends up and over again; crimp to seal. Label, date and freeze. When ready to serve, place frozen ring on baking sheet. Bake in preheated 375 degree F oven 20 to 25 minutes or until heated through. Remove foil Prepare I recipe of topping and spoon over ring while warm.

Learning-by-doing is an important concept for members in the national 4-II bread program. Young people learn bread-making skills with the assistance of dedicated volunteer leaders.

4-H' ers Learn About Flour In Bread Program

it takes flour to make bread, and it takes bread to have a well-balanced diet. But there are different kinds of flours. Young people in the national 4-H bread program, conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service, and supported by Standard Brands Incorporated, learn these differences as they prepare nutritious breads.

Breads can be prepared from white, whole wheat or rye flour and in combination with oats and corn meal. Both enriched white and whole wheat breads are economical sources of food energy (calories), protein, iron and three B vitaminsthiamine, riboflavin and niacin. Whole wheat or graham breads are made with whole wheat flour, while wheat bread is a combination of whole wheat and white flour. Pumpernickel is made from a sour dough prepared with dark rye flour.

One 4-H favorite is cracked wheat bread, made from a combination of cracked wheat and white flour, and sometimes whole wheat flour.

CRACKED WHEAT BREAD

- 4 34 to 5 34 cups unsifted flour
- 3 tablespoons sugar
- 4 teaspoons salt 2 packages dry yeast
- 112 cups water
- 'z cup milk
- 3 tablespoons margarine 1 cup cracked wheat

In a large bowl, thoroughly mix 2 cups flour, sugar, salt and undissolved dry yeast. Combine water, milk, and margarine in a saucepan. Heat over low burner until liquids warm (120 F-130 F). Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed, scraping bowl occasionally. Add cracked wheat and beat at high speed 2 minutes. Stir in additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic, about eight to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turning to grease top. Cover; let rise in warm place, free from draft, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour.

Punch dough down. Turn out onto lightly floured board. Cover; let rest on board 15 minutes. Divide dough in half. Roll each half to a 12-8-inch rectangle. Shape into loaves. Place in 2 greased 812-412-inch loaf pans. Cover again; let rise in warm place, until doubled in bulk, about 1 hour. Bake at 400 F about 30 minutes, or until done. Remove from pans and cool on wire rack.

Standard Brands provides incertives and awards, arranged by National 4-H Council, to boys and girls who excel in the bread program. Medals of honor are presented to four members in each county; one 4-H'er from each state earns an expense-paid trip to the 60th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 29-Dec. 3, in Chicago, Ill., where six national winners receive $1,000 scholarships.
