

FIRST COTTON PICKED IN SEMINOLE COUNTY MAKES NINE BALES

DEMONSTRATES THAT SEMINOLE CAN RAISE THE FLEECY STAPLE

Among the many interesting farm notes for Seminole county is the information that L. A. Brumley picked nine bales of cotton from his patch near Markham last Saturday. This is the first picking and as there will be several others it is demonstrated beyond peradventure that cotton has come to Seminole county to stay while at least until Mr. B. Weevil arrives. It also demonstrates that Mr. Brumley knew a thing or two when he had nerve enough to plant ninety acres at Markham and ten acres on his farm on Celery avenue. This latter field is one of the finest that has ever been seen in the state and the stalks are high as a man's head and full of bolls. If they open all right there will be two bales of cotton to the acre.

Mr. Brumley has a cotton gin that will soon be erected in the building occupied by his grist mill and here he will gin his cotton this season and next season will have plenty of ginning to do for his neighbors, as well, for if cotton is the thing and at the present high price it seems to be the thing, it is certain that more of our farmers will plant it next season.

Mr. Brumley also has a large grist mill and here he will grind up the excellent corn crop of the county and make meal and grits and feed of all kinds. This means that with the bumper crop of corn that we have here that the people of Seminole will not need to ship any meal or grits or feeds into the county for some time to come and with all the hogs and cattle we can live here within the confines of the county let come what will.

SOLDIER HAS ACCIDENT

Corporal Austin Had Toes Cut Off Jumping From Moving Train

Endeh M. Austin, corporal in Co. H, Seventeenth Infantry Fort Oglethorpe had two of his toes cut off under the wheels of a train here Saturday night. He was asleep on the train and awoke as it pulled out of the station. Realizing that he was being carried past Sanford he jumped from the train and in some manner fell with his foot on the rail, the wheels of the last coach passing over the end of the toes. He was brought to the office of Dr. O. J. Miller, the A. C. L. surgeon who was forced to amputate two of the toes and Austin is able to be carried to home of his wife's parents near here. He was on a visit to his family here when the accident happened to him and his career as a soldier is probably cut short by the removal of his toes. He is a former resident of this city and has been in service several years.

WAS NOT A SPY

Stranger Arrested Near Water-works Is Released

The foreigner giving the name of Brody who was arrested near the plant of the Sanford Public Service Co., on suspicion of being a German spy was released today as there was insufficient evidence against him to warrant his detention. When arrested he was acting in a suspicious manner and had several phials of medicine on his person and the first reports about him were that he was attempting to poison the drinking water, but these rumors seem to have been without foundation. His arrest demonstrates that Sanford is alert and strangers acting suspiciously will be placed in the city hospital in quick order.

Uniforms for Home Guards

Washington, Aug. 10.—So many inquiries have come to the War Department for advice as to what advice as to what would be a proper uniform for organizations not connected with the army, that Secretary Baker suggested a uniform suitable for home guard commands. The action of the secretary of war was due to a section of the national defense act which defines measures for the protection of the federal uniform, and prohibits the wearing of uniforms similar to those worn by the various arms of the military service of the United States.

In making his suggestion the secretary of war indicated that the uniform described might be used without variation or with any changes that do not bring it into conflict with the restrictive section of the national defense act. The coat should be single breasted, straight front, with four buttons. It should have lapels and two outside hip bellows pockets, and an outside bellows pocket. The buttons should be of white metal with the state coat of arms and there should be shoulder loops. The trousers should be of the same material as the coat.

The cap, which should be of the same material as the coat should have a visor and chin strap of black enamel leather, and white metal buttons with the state coat of arms. The cap ornament should be the letters "H. G." made on white metal enclosed in a white metal wreath. The letters "H. G." in white metal should also be on each side of the collar of the coat.

The national defense act forbids the use of unofficial uniforms of the insignias of rank used by military officers of the United States. Secretary Baker, therefore, recommends the adoption of the insignias suggested by the war department in general orders issued last year which are diamonds and discs, instead of bars, leaves and stars for commissioned officers, and shields or circles, enclosing horizontal bars for non-commissioned officers.

The war department thinks the shirt should be of white material, and that a black four-in-hand cravat should be worn. It suggests that the material of the coat, trousers and cap should be part wool and part cotton, and the color either forestry green or dark gray.

Dr. Ward Gets Legacy

West Palm Beach, Fla., Aug. 10.—The will of Mrs. Robert Worth Bingham, formerly wife of Henry M. Flager has been filed for probate here. It names William R. Kenan, Jr., and W. A. Blount as executors and trustees, to serve without bond or inventory. It disposes of the great Flager estate as follows: To her niece, Louise Clisby Wise (now Mrs. Lewis), all real estate except that vested in trustees under the will of H. M. Flager, with request that she dispose of it by will so that her father and his wife shall not receive benefit or use of same. All of Mrs. Bingham's pearls are left to Louise Clisby Wise. The remainder of her jewelry is left to her sisters, Jessie Kenan Wise and Sarah Graham Kenan, except one piece to her sister-in-law, Alice Kenan.

The remainder of her property is left to W. R. Kenan, Jr., and W. A. Blount, in trust for William R. Kenan, Jr., Jessie Kenan Wise and Sarah Graham Kenan, to be shared equally as follows: Standard Oil stock, six thousand and fifty shares, forty-eight hundred Indiana, three hundred Kansas, four hundred and fifty Kentucky, one hundred and fifty Nebraska, sixteen hundred New Jersey, twelve thousand New York, five hundred Ohio.

To Owen Kenan, cousin, with deep affection, three hundred thousand dollars. To her faithful pastor and friend, Dr. George Morgan Ward, twenty-five thousand dollars, To Emily Kenan, twenty thousand dollars. To Thomas S. Kenan, twenty thousand dollars.

LIBRARY CALL A BUSY TIME BIG RESPONSE COUNCIL MEET MANY BOOKS WITH CITIZENS

LETTER FROM HEADQUARTERS DEFINES KINDS OF BOOKS WANTED

The response to the call for books and magazines for the soldiers was so generous from Sanford as to call for a special letter from the headquarters. And Sanford sent 6 boxes of books containing 359 volumes and 15 boxes of magazines. The following letter from L. W. Josselyn to Mrs. Key is self explanatory: Mrs. A. D. Key, Librarian, Sanford Library, Sanford, Fla.

In answer to your letters of the 3rd and 7th, I have made arrangements with the Clyde Line for you to ship books and magazines via Clyde Line, addressed as follows:

L. W. Josselyn, Public Library, Jacksonville, Fla. War Libraries, Deadhead, Authority H. G. White. We can use all books and following magazines: Literary Digest, Saturday Evening Post, Review of Reviews, National Geographic, American, Harper's, Collier's, Punch, Puck and Life, Outlook, Craftsman, and the two boxes of Harper, Century and Scribner.

I want to congratulate you and your city on your fine spirit, your promptness and your able method of collecting this material. You are the first city of the state, outside of Jacksonville, to put on a campaign and you have done better comparatively than we have. With your books, we will have about 1,000 volumes. I shall appeal next Tuesday for 1,000 volumes from our 100 librarians.

Upon receipt of books and magazines, and upon disposal of the various camps such as Pensacola and Key West and our cantonments in Georgia and the Carolinas I shall be happy to write you relative to the good work.

Again thanking you for your good work, I am

Very truly yours,
Lloyd W. Josselyn.

It has been suggested that this work be continued. Miss Nellie def and the ladies in charge of the Library have consented to receive and forward all books and magazines, marked "Army." (If a book, wrap and mark on wrapper.) Please notice that Mr. Josselyn's list is composed of those periodicals (Continued on Page 5)

LAKEFRONT IMPROVEMENT, TAX MATTERS, REPORT OF OFFICERS

City council of the city of Sanford, Florida, met on August 6, 1917, at 7:30 p. m., in regular session. Present C. H. Dingle, president pro tem, Councilmen W. W. Abernathy, F. L. Miller, Jno. Adams and Roy Symes. Absent, B. W. Herndon and R. A. Newman. Minutes of last meeting read and adopted.

STEPS TAKEN TO GUARD AMERICA AND HER ALLIES

It seems that Mr. Herbert Hoover, the man who has been placed in charge of the food control of the country can be trusted with the job. Despite the fact that a price was made some time ago that meant two dollar wheat and twenty dollar flour it seems that Mr. Hoover has different ideas and by the time said arrangement goes into effect Hoover will have the matter in charge.

The food administration announced tonight its plan for controlling the wheat, flour and bread, revealing that the Government is prepared to take over the whole 1917 harvest if necessary to conserve the supply, obtain just prices for America's fighting forces and their Allies and reduce cost to the general public in the United States.

Establishment of buying agencies at all the principal terminals, licensing of elevators and mills, fixing of a price to be considered fair, regulation of the middleman and of grain exchanges, with the elimination of trading in futures are the chief features of the plan. The licensing will begin September 1.

The minimum price of $2.00 per bushel fixed by congress does not become effective until next year, but the administration proposes to exercise a thorough control over this year's crop, through powers conferred under the food export bill.

"The result of this situation is that the normal price making machinery is entirely broken down unless some efficient Government action is brought into play, either (a) the American producer may face a slump in wheat, possibly below his production cost and (b) the export price of wheat, which ultimately determines the real price, is at the will of a single agency (c) Some one must buy the surplus wheat at any given plus moment and if the surplus passes into speculative hands it will be held for higher prices later in the year. (d) With stabilized prices, extra hazards are introduced into all distribution links, which must be paid for by the consumer. It must be evident that the United States can more justly deal with the situation than any of the agencies mentioned. Therefore, the food administration has determined to take the following course.

"First, in order to eliminate speculation in wheat and flour, all elevators and mills over 100 barrels daily capacity will be required to take out a government license and the condition of this license to be: That only reasonable and customary charges shall be made for warehouse service; that no wheat shall be stored for more than thirty days with out the approval of the food administration; that certain information as to receipts and shipments shall be supplied regularly. The grain exchanges are being asked to suspend all dealings and quotations in future wheat. These regulations will come into force September 1 and the licenses will be prepared this wheat.

"While farmers' cooperative elevators are excepted by the food bill, this only refers to mutual concerns and not stock companies. In substitution of the broken down marketing machinery, the food administration proposes to open agencies for the purchase of all wheat at the principal terminals, carrying its transactions with the usual dealers, and is prepared to take the whole harvest if necessary in order to maintain a fair price, and will resell wheat for export in such quantities as we can afford to part with in protection of our own people on one hand and to sell on the other to the millers for domestic consumption. The administration will make no charge except a nominal percentage to cover costs.

Expense 15.00
Cash to Collector 326.50
$371.50

Report of fire chief for month of July, 1917, showing no fires occurred during the month and that all equipment was in good condition. There being no further business council adjourned.

EXEMPTION BOARD BUSY

WORK OF EXEMPTION OF DRAFTED MEN PROGRESSING SLOWLY

The exemption board of Seminole county is busy day and night getting the lists of those who will be drafted into the first army and it is difficult to obtain the list of those who are eligible. All those who have passed the physical examination and have no exemptions of any kind will be given in Friday's Herald. It is almost certain that insufficient names can be obtained from the first call of 220 men to make up Seminole's quota of 110 and the second draft may have to be made to fill up the ranks. Following is the detailed report as nearly correct as it is possible. There are several who failed to pass their physical examination whose names do not appear here as the examining physicians failed to send back the reports in time for today's paper. The detailed report will be given later:

Among The Theatres

Alice Brady is the star of the most recent World Picture Brady Made, "A Self Made Widow" which will be seen at the Lyric tonight. This drama tells the wholly unusual story of a young woman who passes herself off as the widow of a millionaire. The story is logically developed and entertainingly told and Miss Brady does some of her most effective work of her splendidly successful career in this production.

When Alice Brady comes to the Lyric theatre tonight in "A Self-Made Widow," the newest World Picture Brady Made, she will be seen in a particularly fascinating role—that of a romantic young woman who passes herself off as the widow of a millionaire. The results of this action on her part are remarkable, so say the least. She gets into difficulties and she has experiences that are vitalizing and different. To say that she sees life is to put it mildly. Finally love comes into her life and everything ends happily.

The star of the newest World-Picture is Alice Brady and the name of the production is "A Self Widow." As this unusual title indicates the story is a different one with unexpected turns and twists and a wholly unlooked for ending. Alice Brady has a thoroughly congenial role to portray in this production and she certainly makes the most of it. Miss Brady's acting, combined with the snappy story, the superior cast, the elaborate settings and the splendid photography makes an attraction of exceptional merit. "A Self Made Widow" will be the attraction tonight at the Lyric.

Tonight at the Lyric Theatre Miss Alice Brady will be seen in the latest World Picture Brady Made entitled "A Self Made Widow." The story is unusual and delightful. Miss Brady's acting is great. The whole production constitutes a very superior form of entertainment. See it.

Something new, something different and something intensely interesting and entertaining will be seen at the Lyric Theatre tonight. At this theatre on this date the newest World Picture Brady Made will be shown. The title of this Picture is "A Self Made Widow" and the star of the production is winsome Alice Brady. The story tells of the experiences of a young country girl who believes the honeyed words of a city man and elopes with him to the metropolis. There she finds that he has a wife and several children waiting for him and rather than admit her mistake and return to her native town to be hooted and jeered at, she takes a chance and passes herself off as the widow of a man who has apparently committed suicide. But it develops that the man has not really done this but is actually alive and well. And this adds to the complications and to the interest and entertainment of the story. "A Self-Made Widow" has been staged in a brilliant manner and is a splendid success.

Fannie Ward at the Star Tani hit

It is not unusual for photodramatic artists to be seen in dual roles, but the versatile Lasky-Paramount star, Fannie Ward—goes these better by appearing in three characters in her forthcoming production, "The Crystal Gazer," which will be the attraction at the Star tonight. Miss Ward, in this unusual story plays as the mother and two daughters, and with her splendid dramatic ability gives each a distinct characterization, and at no time is one confused as to their identity. Several of the scenes required that one of the girls rescue the other one from a burning building. How this is accomplished is one of the wonderful secrets of photography in which the Lasky studio abounds.

The news was recently sent forth to the astonishment of the photodramatic world, that Fannie Ward, the clever Lasky-Paramount star had been injured during the filming of a production and had been confined to her home for nearly three weeks. Having won the plaudits of the world for her wonderful struggle with Sessue Hayakawa in "The Cheat," Miss Ward was anxious to succeed in this in the struggle scenes with Jack Dean in "The Crystal Gazer." The incident occurring in the studio of Calistro, a fake hypnotist, when he was trying to make violent love to her.

Persons watching the scenes will notice that Miss Ward suddenly gives a scream of pain. It was during this incident that she accidentally dislocated her shoulder, but in spite of the intense agony Miss Ward continued the scene, only to drop in a faint at its conclusion. Immediately after the taking of this scene, all work on the production was suspended for three weeks until Miss Ward's shoulder was healed.

"A Kiss for Susie". Vivian Martin, the charming Palas Paramount, Star, who will be seen at the Star on Monday in Paul West's clever story, "A Kiss for Susie," has a very poor opinion of the building trade in general and brick laying in particular. In the first part of the story is seen as the daughter of a bricklayer who carries his lunch to her father daily. A building in course of construction was selected as the location for these scenes. Miss Martin has the habit, when she is not actually engaged in scenes, of "snooping" around to see what is going on, so while Tom Forman was engaged in learning how to carry a hod of bricks, Miss Martin started a tour of investigation. Seeing a ladder reaching from the second floor she started to climb it. When she was about four feet off the ground the ladder began to sway and Miss Martin thought it advisable to jump to safety. Seeing a nice box apparently filled with soft white sand near the base of the ladder, she leaped into it only to sink to her knees in a mass of soft mortar which the real bricklayers were to use shortly. In trying to extricate herself from this mass she fell down and when finally rescued was in such condition that she had to be sent back to the studio to clean up. When the chauffeur of her own machine saw her approaching dripping with soft mortar at every step, he and the chauffeurs of all the other machines immediately discovered tire trouble and Miss Martin had to make the journey back to the studio in a brick wagon.

Can You Raise $150?

That Much Money Down

and as much more each year for three years will buy you 10 Acres of some of the choicest flowing well land in the Sanford Trucking District and it should be worth double that amount long before your three years are up.

Sanford is the Best Trucking Place in the United States Today

recently stated that we shipped 3000 car loads of vegetables out of here last winter and spring and that the returns from these 3000 car loads brought our farmers $2,200,000.00.

This Money

came from about 2000 acres of improved land. Can you imagine anything more profitable?

Mr. Sanford Man

have you watched the trend of things here for the last two years? Time was when there were a few improved or partly improved places around here and there that could be bought way below their value. Can't be done now. Every one of those places have been bought up and are now in the big profit paying class. Improved farms are higher priced this summer than for many years and they are constantly advancing. If you don't believe it just go out and try and buy a good one.

Well What About It?

Just this! THE NEXT BIG UPWARD MOVE WILL BE ON OUR WELL LOCATED UNIMPROVED LAND. I'm no prophet, but it's my business to watch these things and the signs all indicate an upward movement. Most of our unimproved land is held at $100.00 to $150.00 per acre now. Ask the owners or their agents if this isn't true. And IT'S WORTH IT TOO—that's the big point.

What's My Proposition?

Just this. I control a few 10 acre tracts of extra choice trucking land that I can sell at $600.00 each with $150.00 down and $150.00 each year at 6 per cent interest. Or I can give a liberal discount for all cash.

These Tracts

are well located, good roads, close to loading tracks, from four to six miles from the business part of Sanford. They are near good productive farms which have been in cultivation for years and paying big profits. This is a guarantee of quality if one is needed.

The Way To Judge

these tracts is to see them. Don't let anyone fool you into the belief that they are inferior. They are equal to any land offered by any one at any price. They are worth more but as agent I am giving you the advantage of conditions and I get my commission for selling them. No need for me to ask you more when I can sell you these places for $60.00 per acre. Titles are perfect and abstracts will be furnished.

I Have Sold Two of These Tracts This Week to Sanford Men

men who live here and know. I can sell you one too if you will go with me and see the unusual bargain I am offering.

I Have Only a Few of These Ten Acre Tracts

at this price and they should all sell in the next few weeks. You should see them soon if you are interested in an investment that should pay you handsomely.

Liberty Bonds

Perhaps you did the patriotic act of buying a Liberty Bond. I hope so. It was surely the proper thing to do if you were in a position to buy one. But that may have tied up your savings and at a low rate of interest. If so I will offer to accept Liberty Bonds in full or in part payment for one or more of these tracts. You helped our government, now help yourself by getting a farm here at Sanford while they are offered you at half value.

If You Live in Sanford

let me show you these tracts. If you don't live here write me at once about them. Delay will lose this particular opportunity.

"OVER THERE"

reached twenty-two they told me that perhaps there were a few more in there, but they thought they'd better let them stay.

My wounds had become septic, and it was necessary to give all attention to drainage and cure. It was about this time that everything for awhile seemed to become hazy and my memories got all queerly mixed up and confused. I recollect I conceived a violent dislike for a black dog that appeared from nowhere now and then and began chewing at my leg, and I believe I gave the nurse a severe talking because she insisted on going to look on at the ball game when she ought to be sitting by to chase that dog away. And I was perfectly certain about her being at the ball game, because I saw her there when I was playing third base.

The Alarming Cablegram.

It was at this time (on Nov. 23, 1916, ten days after I had been wounded) that my father in Lexington received the following cablegram from the officer in charge of the Canadian records in England:

Sincerely regret to inform you that Sergeant Alexander McClinton is officially reported dangerously ill in No. 5 general hospital from gunshot wound in left thigh. Further particulars supplied when received.

It appears that during the time of my adventures with the black dog and the inattentive nurse my temper had ascended to the stage when the doctors began to admit another method of treatment might have been successful. But I didn't pass out. The one thing I most regret about my close call is that my parents in Lexington were in unrelieved suspense about my condition until I myself sent them a cable from London on Dec. 15. After the first official message, seemingly prepared almost as a preface to the announcement of my demise, my father received no news of me whatever. And, as I didn't know that the official message had gone, I cabled nothing to him until I was feeling fairly chipper again. You can't have wars, though, without these little misunderstandings.

If it were possible I should say something here which would be fitting and adequate about the Englishwomen who nursed the 2,500 wounded men in general hospital No. 5 at Rouen, but that power isn't given me. All I can do is to fall back upon our most profound American expression of respect and say that my hat is off to them. One nurse in the ward in which I lay had been on her feet for fifty-six hours, with hardly time even to eat. She finally fainted from exhaustion, was carried out of the ward and was back again in four hours, assisting at an operation. And the doctors were doing their bit, too, in living up to the obligations which they considered to be theirs. An operating room was in every ward, with five tables in each. After the night on the Somme, in which I was wounded, not a table was vacant any hour in the twenty-four for days at a time. Outside of each room was a long line of stretchers containing patients next awaiting surgical attention. And in all that stress I did not hear one word of complaint from the surgeons who stood hour after hour, using their skill and training for the petty pay of English army medical officers.

On Dec. 5 I was told I was well enough to be sent to England, and on the next day I went on a hospital train from Rouen to Havre. Here I was placed on a hospital ship which every medical officer in our army ought to have a chance to inspect. Nothing ingenuously could contrive for convenience and comfort was missing. Patients were sent below decks in elevators and then placed in swiveling cradles which hung level no matter what the ship's motion might be. As soon as I had been made comfortable in my particular cradle I was given a box which had engraved upon it: "Presented with the compliments of the Union Castle Line. May you have a speedy and good recovery." The box contained cigarettes, tobacco and a pipe.

When the ship docked at Southampton, after a run of eight hours across channel, each patient was asked what part of the British Isles he would like to be taken to for the period of his convalescence. I requested to be taken to London, where, I thought, there was the best chance of my seeing Americans who might know me. Say, I sure made a good guess! I didn't know many Americans, but I didn't need to know them. They found me and made themselves acquainted. They brought things, and then they went out to get more they had forgotten to bring the first trip. The second day, surplus stock. If I had undertaken to eat and drink and smoke all the things that were brought to me by Americans just because I was an American I'd be back in that hospital now only getting fairly started on the job. It's some country when you need it.

Wounded Get Great Welcome.

The wounded soldier getting back to England doesn't have a chance to imagine that his services are not appreciated. The welcome he receives begins at the railroad station. All traffic is stopped by the bobbies to give the ambulances a clear way leaving the station. The people stand in crowds, the men with their hats off, while the ambulances pass. Women rush out and throw flowers to the wounded men. Sometimes there is a cheer, but usually only silence and words of sympathy.

The King George hospital was built to be a government printing office and was nearing completion when the war broke out. It has been made a paradise for convalescent men. The bareness and the sick suggestion and characteristic smell, so to speak, of the average hospital are unknown here. There are soft lights and comfortable beds and pretty women going about as visitors. The stage beauties and comedians come to entertain us. The food is delicious, and the chief thought of every one seems to be to show the inmates what a comfortable and cheery thing it is to be ill among a lot of real friends. I was there from December until February, and my recollections of the stay are so pleasant that sometimes I wish I was back.

On the Friday before Christmas there was a concert in our ward. Among the artists who entertained us were Fay Compton, Gertrude Elliott (sister of Maxine Elliott), George Roble and other stars of the London stage. After our protracted stay in the trenches and our long absence from all the civilized forms of amusement the affair seemed to us the most wonderful show ever given. And in some ways it was. For instance, in the most entertaining of dramatic exhibitions did you ever see the lady artists go around and reward enthusiastic applause with kisses? Well, that's what we got. And I am proud to say that it was Miss Compton who conferred the honor upon me.

At about 3 o'clock on that afternoon, when we were all having a good time, one of the orderlies threw open the door of the ward and announced in a loud voice that his majesty the king was coming in. We could not have been more surprised if some one had thrown in a Mills bomb. Almost immediately the king walked in, accompanied by a number of aids. They were all in service uniforms, the king having little in the style of his uniform to distinguish him from the others. He walked around, presenting each patient with a copy of "Queen Mary's Gift Book," an artistic little volume, with pictures and short stories by the most famous of English artists and writers. When he passed my bed he turned to one of the nurses and inquired:

"Is this the one?"

The nurse nodded. He came and sat at the side of the bed and shook hands with me. He asked as to what part of the United States I had come from, how I had got my wounds and what the nature of them were, how I was getting along and what I particularly wished done for me. I answered his questions and said that everything I could possibly wish for had already been done for me.

Thanked by King and Decorated For Bravery.

"I thank you," he said, "for myself and my people for your services. Our gratitude cannot be great enough to ward men who have served as you have."

He spoke in a very low voice and with no assumption of royal dignity. There was nothing in the least thrilling about the incident, but there was much apparent sincerity in the few words.

After he had gone one of the nurses asked me what he had said.

"Oh," I said, "George asked me what I thought about the way the war was being conducted, and I said I'd drop in and talk it over with him as soon as I was well enough to be up."

There happened one of the great disappointments of my life. She didn't see the joke. She was English. She gasped and glared at me, and I think she went out and reported that I was delirious again.

Really, I wasn't much impressed by the English king. He seemed a pleasant, tired little man with a great burden to bear and not much of an idea about how to bear it. He struck me as an individual who would conscientiously do his best in any situation, but would never do or say anything with the slightest suspicion of a punch to it. A few days after his visit to the hospital I saw in the Official London Gazette that I had been awarded the distinguished conduct medal. Official letters from the Canadian headquarters amplified this information, and a notice from the British war office informed me that the medal awaited me there. I was told the king knew that the medal had been awarded to me when he spoke to me in the hospital. Despite glowing reports in the Kentucky press he didn't pin it on me. Probably he didn't consider it good form to hang a D. C. M. on a suit of striped presentation pajamas with a prevailing tone of baby blue.

While I was in the King George hospital I witnessed one of the most wonderful examples of courage and pluck I have ever seen. A young Scot only nineteen years old, McAuley by name, had had the greater part of his face blown away. The surgeons had patched him up in some fashion, but he was horribly disfigured. He was the brightest, merriest man in the ward, always joking and never depressed. His own terrible misfortune was merely the topic for humorous comment with him. He seemed to get positive amusement out of the fact that the surgeons were always sending for him to do something more with his face. One day he was going into the operating room and a fellow patient asked him what the new operation was to be.

"Oh," he said, "I'm going to have a cabbage put on in place of a head. It'll grow better than the one I have now."

Once in a fortnight he would manage to get leave to absent himself from the hospital for an hour or two. He never came back alone. It took a couple of men to bring him in. On the next morning he would say: "Well, it was my birthday. A man must have a few drinks on his birthday."

I was discharged from the hospital in the middle of February and sent to a comfortable place at Hastings, Sussex, where I lived until my furlough papers came through. I had a fine time in London at the theaters and clubs pending my departure for home. When my furlough had arrived I went to Buxton, Derbyshire, where the Canadian discharge depot was located, and was provided with transportation to Montreal. I came back to America on the Canadian Pacific Royal Mail steamer Metagama, and the trip was without incident of any sort. We lay for a time in the Mersey, awaiting word that our convoy was ready to see us out of the danger zone, and a destroyer escorted us 400 miles on our way.

THE END.

The State of West Virginia.

The "province and government of West Virginia" was a proposal made by the settlers in the southwest of Pennsylvania and the adjacent territory for the creation of a new state. It originated in connection with the troubles between Virginia and Pennsylvania, and the scheme was brought forward early in July, 1776. A description of the proposed government defines the bounds as "beginning at the eastern branch of the Ohio opposite the mouth of the Scioto and running thence in a direct line to the Owensboro pass, thence to the top of the Allegheny mountains, thence with the top of the said mountains to the northern limits of the purchase made from the Indians in 1768 at the treaty of Fort Stanwix, thence with the said limits to the Allegheny or Ohio river and then down the said river as purchased from the said Indians at the aforesaid treaty of Fort Stanwix at the beginning." A call for a convention to organize the government was issued, but a memorial of the Virginia committee of West Augusta county to the lower house of assembly led to the abandonment of the plan.—Philadelphia Press.

London's Crystal Palace.

Crystal palace was originally built in Hyde park for the great exhibition of 1851, being afterward removed to its present site and re-erected. At the first state opening of the palace by Queen Victoria it was urged that the usual artillery salute should not be fired, the reason given being that the concussion would shiver the glass roof and the company assembled below, including her majesty, would be cut into mince-meat. Dire were the predictions of the scaremongers when the design for the palace was made public. The first gale, they said, would inevitably wreck it, while the heat engendered by the sun pouring its rays upon the domed glass roof would be so terrific that no human being could withstand it. Consequently if they escaped an avalanche of glass they would be roasted to death inside the case.

Stop Using Cheap, Unreliable Carbon Paper

Don't take a chance with inferior carbon paper. It means faded, illegible copies, untidy files, waste of time and poor work. Put a stop to this! Use

MULTIKOPY Carbon Paper

Lasting legibility—neatness—uniformity—and economy make MultiKopy the standard carbon paper. In black or blue, MultiKopy never fades. MultiKopy gives non-smudging, non-rubbing copies which often rival the original in clearness and legibility. MultiKopy gives surprisingly long service and is unequalled for manfolding.

Blake Campbell is out and just to save the jobs of the other boys we will suggest that the governor create a new job for him.

Auto trucks have ousted the railroads in Jersey and the farmers there say they should worry about the shortage of cars. With good roads in Florida the auto trucks will soon take the place of railroads for traffic of all kinds within the state.

Read what R. W. Storrs says in this issue about the silo feeding and tick eradication in this county. Sanford should raise more fat cattle for beef and more fine cattle for milk than any other county in the state. But we need tick eradication first.

The county commissioners of Lake county have appropriated $5,000 for the equipment of the Lake county Home Guards. How about the Orange county commissioners, Orlando Sentinel.

And the Seminole county commissioners?

The Sanford Herald is urging municipal ownership of public utilities for its city. It believes that it will result in lower taxes, and we have no doubt this is true. But more important still it relieves the people from the possibility of an unfair advantage being taken of them by individual or corporate concerns. The plan has worked admirably in this city, and we believe that every community of more than 1,000 population ought to own the plants furnishing light and water, and that ice and gas plants should be acquired as soon as its financial power would permit. —Lakeland Telegram.

BEAUTIFY THE LAKEFRONT
 The time has come in Sanford when the city must give itself by cultivating its natural beauty and to this end it is the duty of every citizen to lend his effort and influence. Unless this is done—backward we go, because nothing can stand still and succeed. It has been demonstrated by the citizens and the Board of Trade that improvements are wanted. They fully realize that things cannot be done over night but wish to keep these progressive betterments alive and aid the city government to work to them—however, they too want to know that such work is the objective point and be assured that within a reasonable length of time the work and improvements will be accomplished. We all know what Sanford is, what its possibilities are. We know that only a little money expended judiciously will reap high dividends from the many tourists that annually come to Florida and we further know and from the record of other towns that to leave our parks and public places to work out their own weedy growth maturity will result in the tourist passing us by. The logical thing then is to improve. The efforts now being centered on this project must bring fruit—after all, it's the people's opinion and no one or a few should over ride the majority, particularly when that majority stands for civic improvement for the good of all. Judging the sentiment our council acquiesces and through these gentlemen we have every indication of success. The plan has been launched now in a forceful way and assurances are that all progressive, public spirited citizens will lend their power to ultimate success.

"THE REPORTER'S SENSE OF NEWS"

We suppose it is hard for the average person to understand how a newspaper man can be friendly with a person and at the same time write a story about him that is not calculated to make him feel good or improve his standing in the community, and so they say the newspaper reporter must be a cold blooded sort of animal. When he is writing his story he probably is, for then he neither loves nor hates, he is neither for nor against anything or anybody—if he is what a good reporter ought to be. He is fair, impartial and without favoritism to his dearest friend. If his own brother is concerned and will be embarrassed by the story, he will try it just as it happened. To give straight news is his only idea at the time he is reporting.

The editorial page, and the editorial page only should express the personal views of the editor. His news columns are public opinion; his editorials private views. The trained newspaper reporter can no more help telling the story just as the facts appear to him, regardless of how sorry he may be that the thing occurred, than he can sit still when the fire bell rings; and he should not be considered hostile if he does this. He may go on the bond of his friend arrested, but at the same time be the first to wire off the story of the arrest. He is paid by the newspaper employing him to write the news, and the newspaper is paid by its thousands of subscribers to print the happenings day by day. Neither would he be honest if they did not do their duty and perform the service they have been employed to perform. —Florida Record.

COSTLY RETAIL DELIVERY

Under the heading of "Middleman Gets More Than His Share," the Gulf States Farmer says: "Just as one instance. Why is it that we have been able to buy direct from the farmer within 20 miles of the city of New Orleans new potatoes at from $1.50 to $2.00 per bushel when the retail dealer at the same time demands from $7.00 to $9.00 per bushel?"

While no well posted person will credit this exaggerated statement as a fact, yet every fair minded man will admit that the cost of distribution, bringing the gap between the producer and consumer is too great. What appears to be the excess profit goes to the retail dealer, but does it? Our present system of retail distribution to the consumer, dictated by the consumer himself calls for a very costly service that must be added to the cost of the goods. The consumer does a lot of kicking about the high cost of his food, but he goes right on insisting that his groceryman maintain an expensive delivery system to shoot along at 11:45 a. m. the nickel's worth of lettuce for the noon day meal. The grocer must extend credit or lose his customer, and as a percentage of credit customers never pay, those who do pay must contribute to cover such losses. The fickle housewife will order fruits and vegetables and return them upon the flimsiest kind of excuse. Somebody must pay for the delivery and return of perishable goods which deteriorate and become unsalable when hauled around. The dealer can't be expected to stand the waste caused by such a system, so he passes it on to the consumer by "killing prices generally."

The high cost of living would be more than half solved if it were made a crime for a retail grocer or other dealer to take an order over the phone, make a single delivery, take back any article once bought by the consumer or extend credit to any one. Such a system would again make universally popular the old-fashioned but now almost obsolete market basket, and the housewife would once again enjoy the privilege of inspecting beforehand what she bought, obviating any excuse for returning it.

Problems of this kind could be worked out and solved by the trade. The war condition and public demand are calling for radical change that will eradicate needless waste of money in distribution. If the enormous unnecessary expense attached to the present system of retail distribution is not cut out voluntarily by the trade the government will attempt to do so just as soon as the Feed Control bill gives Mr. Hoover the necessary authority. Other lines of business are now voluntarily trying to solve their own problems by working reforms that will meet with the approval of the government and retail food distributors might profit by the example, thus saving Mr. Hoover the trouble of making the necessary changes. The toll taken by the wholesale commission man is as a rule not an important item. The real and truly useful fruit and produce jobber, therefore, occupies a very secure position; but woe is coming to the gank speculator when Mr. Hoover's scythe gets working.

The big weakness is in the retail system, and the jobbing trade can render a great public service by aiding the retail merchant to revolutionize the system now; right quick. —Winter Haven Chief.

HOME GUARDS BANQUET

Ninety Men Respond to Roll Call Drill and Refreshments

The Home Guards are flourishing and as the war grows older the men of this city and county are thinking more seriously of the home guards and their duties to this community. From a small band of faithful followers Capt. Herring has built up the home guards to over one hundred good and true men who are willing to come out every Tuesday and Friday nights to drill and it is real drilling, and to offer themselves for any duty to which they may be called.

Last Tuesday night Commissary Sergeant O. L. Taylor assisted by Sergeant Marlowe and Private Murphy had a surprise for the boys after the drill and they were called into the lobby of the court house where they were treated to ice cream, elegant cake, limonade, cigars, etc. There was some business transacted in which B. F. Whitner was elected treasurer of the company and a committee on government and regulation composed of Lieutenant Dingo, Sergeant Taylor and Corporal Holly were elected and these gentlemen will arrange a set of regulations for the government of the company. The delicious cakes were baked by Mrs. R. A. Terheun, Mrs. Geo. G. Herring, Mrs. C. H. Dingo, Mrs. O. L. Taylor, Mrs. Deane Turner and Mrs. W. M. Haynes. A vote of thanks was tendered the ladies and the Sanford Public Utilities Co., and all those who had contributed to the refreshments, also to Gwynn Fox for limonade.

There were many visitors at the court house Tuesday night witnessing the drill and taking in the refreshments afterwards and many new names were added to the muster roll—names of good solid citizens, who can look ahead and see the necessity of armed protection in this state when all the regular troops go to France. In fact the Sanford Home Guards now number some of the best men of the city in the ranks and they are not tin soldiers but the real thing.

As Dr. Hyman said in one of his sermons, "All honor to the men of the Home Guards who are doing so much for their city."

Didn't Forget His Manners.

Bobbie had been told often that if he stumbled over or in front of an older person to say "Excuse me." One morning he fell downstairs, landing in a little huddled up heap. His mother, expecting an outburst, was surprised to see him manfully pick himself up and say "Sense me."

Nothing New.

A western concern proposes to manufacture "ready-made pie crusts" which are guaranteed to keep a year. —Baker's Weekly.

Importance of Vitamines.

Protein, fat and carbohydrates are the three elements, chemically speaking, that every human being needs. In addition to these there are minute constituents which are not usually considered, but which have a tremendous importance in making diet palatable and beneficial. These constituents are present in most kinds of fresh fruit and green vegetables. They are referred to as vitamines or accessory factors.

Not Supernatural at All.

There used to be a belief that rats never went on a ship that was destined to founder at sea. This has a little supernatural ring; but, as a matter of fact, has a good deal of truth at the bottom. Unseaworthy vessels in the olden days were likely to be leaky and contain much bilge-water. The rats would naturally abandon such damp quarters for a drier berth.

Spirit Photography.

A famous French psychologist is quoted as saying that not only does the soul exist after death, but it can be photographed and he has written a book to prove it. He presents in his volume conversations with departed spirits and also their pictures, but if he thinks he is an original discoverer he has much to learn. "Spirit photography" is an old art—or should it be said, trick?—so old that it seems to have gone out of fashion in this part of the world. It may be added that the photographs seldom made the "spirits" beautiful.

Lyric Tonight

Mollie King, the well known, popular and attractive young star of the World Film Corporation will be seen next in this city at the Lyric Theatre on Tuesday when "Fate's Boomerang" will be the feature shown on the screen.

The story of "Fate's Boomerang" is both interesting and pathetic. George, an engineer, is given a large contract to supervise, that of the building of a big railroad in the wilds of the west. His wife, Mildred, fond of society life hesitates to leave her life of gaiety for the desolate and lonesome life of the plains and camps in the west.

She takes advice from a friend, who tells her not to spoil the best part of her life by going away for a few years, and she decides to let her husband go away alone. He goes, leaving Mildred behind. In the west while day dreaming of his beautiful home and of Mildred he was surprised one night after work by a little girl of the hills whom he saw staring at him from a little cliff a few yards away. Little Joe and Brad in the wilderness, now alone with her grandfather had never before seen cars, steam shovels or the like. She hurried back to tell her grandfather of what she had seen. Then from day to day both would go to watch the crew at work.

One day, while returning home, the aged man fell and injured himself. George, running to his assistance found that the old man could not walk. He carried him to their little hut, and remains over night to watch over him. The injury is too much for the aged man to survive, and a few days later he succumbs. George and his crew give him an adequate burial as is possible in a desolate mountain place.

After the death of her grandfather Zell sought the company of George more and more, until the latter could hardly restrain his passionate love for her, which was growing with days which made Mildred's absence such a severe strain upon him.

Months later strange things are happening in the little mountain hut and also in the beautiful home in the city. Zell, the little mother of the hills, is now a real little mother and George is bending over her looking at their newborn babe with true love and happiness. In the city, Mildred has met Morgan, a flirtatious society man, who is pressing her to bring divorce proceedings against George.

Mrs. J. F. Hoolahan of Sanford and Mrs. M. H. Hoolahan of Jacksonville were the dinner guests of Mrs. W. T. Humphrey last Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lord and Mrs. W. F. Humphrey and children spent a pleasant day at the home of N. J. Stenstrom last Tuesday.

Mrs. Horace Sanderson of Wagner spent last Monday with her mother, Mrs. J. M. Wynn.

Physical examination of the first twenty-eight examined yesterday showed seventeen physically fit for service, although some have asked for re-examination and the exact status will not be learned until the physical examinations are completed.

Those who failed to pass will be subject to re-examination by another physician before they are finally rejected.

The complete results of the examination will be published next week. Applications for exemption are being filed by the majority of those who pass the examination.

Called to Register

Harvey Goiger of Geneva is in jail here having been brought in by a special representative of the government and Deputy Sheriff Roy Tillis. Harvey failed to register going to Georgia about that time and upon his return was nabbed by the government. He claimed he was under the age but the officers think otherwise and now Harvey languishes in the county bastille until the matter can be adjusted.

What Are You Doing?

Every farmer in this section should raise his own corn, oats, hay, potatoes and live stock to the greatest extent possible.

Every farm should have a vegetable garden with cabbage, beets, sweet potatoes, carrots, beans, peas and sweet corn growing.

There should be chickens and hogs, and a cow for milk and butter.

With the advantages of our soil and climate, we should be producing foodstuffs enough for ourselves and have abundance to sell to our neighbors.

Hospitals Need Apperlin

Mr. R. J. Holly, Editor Sanford Herald:—Will you kindly publish the following article in the next issue of The Herald:

The Gazette-News publishes a most interesting letter from Dr. J. E. Rawlings of Daytona, who is now on duty at the "Horton War Hospital," Epsom, England. He says in part: "I am in charge of two medical wards of 90 beds each, and have at present 160 patients. A convoy from France may fill me up at any time. We have 2,680 beds here and over 2,200 patients at present. We have 20 doctors and surgeons and nearly 500 nurses and attendants.

England is short of medicine and drugs that are very necessary to relieve pain. We have none except morphine and opium, which, of course we can only use in extreme pain and not at all with those poor patients who have kidney diseases, of which there are plenty in every ward. I am going to ask you to send me all the aspirin you feel able to buy for this cause. Five grains would give many a poor fellow a night's rest, and England has none. Also acetanilid, in any form or combination. That would be most useful to me in relieving pain and cooling fever.

Daytona has responded nobly to this call for help. I now wish to ask our people of Seminole county to aid us in lending a helping hand by giving what they can, no matter how small the amount, for "pennies into dollars grow" to obtain aspirin and acetanilid, to help to alleviate the sufferings of these poor wounded men. The medicine will be sent for distribution to our old English friend Mr. H. E. Glover, whose name will revive many pleasant associations in the minds of old residents of Sanford. He is actively engaged in hospital work, and is devoting himself, body and soul to the relief of suffering. Any one desiring to assist in this work of humanity will please leave his contribution at either L. R. Phillips' or R. C. Bower's drug stores.

Trusting that the good people of Sanford and Seminole county will respond liberally to this opportunity of assisting the unfortunate victims of warfare, I am,
Very truly yours,
Brenda deV. Morrison.

Funeral of Mrs. Chenevert

Last sad rites were paid today in respect to the memory of the two victims of last Friday's tragedy, when the lives of Mrs. Chenevert and Mrs. Edwin Bullock were lost. The funeral of Mrs. Chenevert was held Monday afternoon at the Chenevert residence, the Rev. Frank Zimmerman, pastor of the Grace Episcopal church officiating.

Rev. Zimmerman paid a beautiful tribute to the life of the deceased touching upon her good deeds and the amount of good that she had been able to accomplish. Interment in Riverside cemetery.

Following were the pall bearers, Walter Shelley, J. P. Cameron, T. T. Shaw, R. G. Holgate, Guy Kirtley and George May.

The entire city of Defiance unites in doing homage and paying tribute to the memory of Mrs. Chenevert, whose tragic death has cast a pallor of gloom upon both business and social circles.

Mrs. Chenevert was an active worker for the upbuilding of society, and the good she did will live after her. She was the main strength of the Good Cheer Club, whose existence brought a little ray of sunshine into the lives of the poor in our city. Lately she has become interested in the organization of the Defiance Chapter of Red Cross, and her place in this organization will be a hard one to fill.

In the church she was a helpful servant of religion, devoted and zealous. As a wife, mother and friend she was above reproach. Her untimely death is a community loss and her work will abide the test of time. Others will arise up to complete what she has begun and time will heal the wounded affection in the hearts of those who knew her best, but in these strenuous times such a passing away is double loss and such a life doubly hard to fill.—Defiance Daily Express.

White Way for Plant City

Plant City advanced another notch on the ladder of progress Saturday, when the current was turned on the new "white way" circuit, affording modern street lighting over approximately twenty three blocks in the business district. So far ninety one standards have been installed and they are not only useful at night, but ornamental in the day.

The "white way" district includes five blocks on Reynolds street, from Thomas street to Green street; three blocks on North Drane street, from Evers to Green street; two blocks on South Drane street, from Evers to Palmera street; three blocks on Haines street, from Evers to Green street; two blocks on Evers street, from Haines to Reynolds street; five blocks on Collins street, from Ingraham to Mahoney street, and three blocks on Palmer street, from Haines to Reynolds street. Each standard bears a 103-candle power light, magnified through a large ornamental globe.

The installation of this system of light was ordered by the city council last fall, after consideration of a liberal proposition by Rosco Nettles, general manager of the Plant City Public Service Company. The agreement was that the company would install free of charge fifty of the standards provided the city take ninety lights, and that the company would install seventy-five standards without cost to the municipality if the city would take one hundred. So far ninety-one standards have been put in, and the council, in session yesterday, were considering the advisability of increasing the order to one hundred in order to serve some territory that needs more lights and to take advantage of the offer of Mr. Nettles.—Plant City Courier.

Preacher Flays Reformers

Pensacola, Aug. 7.—The Rev. I. E. Phillips, pastor of the Knox Presbyterian church of this city flayed the reformers in a sermon preached Sunday night. The remarks of Rev. Phillips were of a sensational character, and charges of hypocrisy and grandstand playing of the "boiled shirt" reformers of this city were made. He said he favored the segregated district for the unfortunate women, and charged that the men who were driving them out of the city were men without souls. The pastor, in the course of his remarks is said to have stated that he had made his position upon the question of morality clear; that he had no defense to offer for the immorality of the unfortunate women, whose lives he characterized as an insult to God and humanity, but he charged they were not half the insult as were the men who visited such places. He said he would like to see in print the names of those who owned property used for immoral purposes. Concluding his sermon, Rev. Phillips said: "Pen up or drive out the dirty old filthy libertine and take into our hearts the bruised flower of womanhood who have been his pawn."

Duval County Home Guards

Formal muster and inspection of the Duval County Home Guards took place in the county armory last night, the men presenting an inspiring spectacle. Company A, Captain Harvey B. Payne, presented the finest appearance, being 148 strong and fully equipped with uniforms and rifles. Long before the hour for beginning the ceremonies the galleries were packed with representative men and women who were present to witness the exercises.

Many were surprised to find that the battalion was composed of four companies with a band and was in command of Major John L. Doggett. There is a sanitary unit attached to Company A, showing that the battalion is complete in every way. The demonstration showed that Jacksonville is equipped with an effective force to deal with any emergency which may arise after the militia has made its exit from the city. There were over 500 men in line last night which was almost a war strength battalion.

Bishop E. G. Weed delivered the invocation, after which the battalion formed in companies facing south. Company A was the first to enter, in command of Captain Harvey Payne. This was followed by Company B, Captain A. G. Hartig, followed by Company C, Captain Charles W. Tucker, and Company D, Captain B. F. McGraw. Major Doggett, accompanied by members of his staff inspected the companies. The members of Major Doggett's staff are: Lieutenant E. G. Weed, chaplain; Lieutenant A. Y. Milam, adjutant; Lieutenant B. B. MacDonell, quartermaster, and Lieutenant H. Drew, surgeon.

After the conclusion of the inspection the companies were marched into the street, and Company A then marched back into the armory on a ten minute exhibition drill.—Jacksonville Metropolis.

New Army Division

Washington, Aug. 8.—Decision of the War Department to abandon the army division of 28,000 men in favor of the continental unit of about 19,000 troops was due, it was said today, to changes in modern warfare that made the old command unwieldy and cumbersome in trench fighting. The division under the old system was not sufficiently mobile "for the peculiar needs of fighting on the western front."

Under the new plan a division will include two infantry brigades of two regiments each, instead of three brigades as formerly. The artillery and machine gun strength is materially increased, the cavalry regiment now a prominent part of the unit is eliminated, a new trench mortar battery is added, and the old army corps plan abandoned after the Civil war is again revised.

Provost Marshal General Crowder is today working out final details of regulations governing the mobilization schedule of the men selected under the selective draft law. The completed plans will indicate how each man drafted is to be assigned.

The Potato Supply

The following letter from the Secretary of Agriculture will be interesting to Seminole farmers:

Department of Agriculture, Washington, August 2, 1917 Hon. Duncan U. Fletcher, United States Senate.

Dear Senator Fletcher: Replying to your inquiry of the 23rd ult., as to whether the government is undertaking to provide seed potatoes to Florida farmers for planting next winter, I would say that no action of this character has been considered necessary. The acreage of potatoes planted in the northern states is decidedly above normal and the potato crop conditions in the territory from which the seed potatoes used by Florida planters come is excellent at this time. There is, therefore, no reason to expect any shortage of good seed potatoes for next season.

Some consideration has already been given to the question whether the southern plantings of Irish potatoes next season should be larger than this year. From indications, it appears probable that the northern crop will be so large that southern growers should very carefully consider the size of the stock on hand at the close of the northern potato harvest this year before enlarging their plantings, except to such extent as may be justified by the local consuming demands. The experience of recent years has thoroughly established the fact that it is difficult to dispose of such a large product of southern new potatoes prior to the first of June if heavy stocks of northern old potatoes are in competition with them in the markets. When the northern potato season is sufficiently advanced to permit of approximate determination of the yield, a more detailed consideration of this matter will be made and the results will be announced to the public.

Very truly yours,
(Signed) D. F. Houston, Secretary.

TEMPERANCE NOTES

(By the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

AFFECTS THE BRAIN.

(From bulletin issued by New York City Health Department.)

Civilized man equals brute animal plus high brain development. Alcohol blots out the "high brain development" and leaves behind the brute animal.

Now, of course, we don't mean to say that when a person takes a drink of anything containing alcohol he is reduced at once to a brute animal; but very few will dispute that a drunken person is not much better than a brute animal. And the reason he has been reduced to such a state by the alcohol, is because before he can take enough of it to kill his body, he has had enough to paralyze his brain, especially the highest parts of his brain. It has paralyzed his power to think, it has paralyzed his power to judge, it has paralyzed his power to control his actions. The amount of alcohol which makes a person drunken, varies with different people. Some can stand very little; others a great deal. However, even a very little, though it does not show itself in drunkenness, has a damaging effect on the brain. This is what we want to point out particularly. Too many people think that if they drink alcohol in moderation, such, for example, as three or four glasses of beer a day, or one or two drinks of whisky a day, they are not doing themselves any harm at all. Very many even think that they may safely drink as long as they stop before getting drunk. These are very dangerous and mistaken ideas to have. Drinking, even in moderation, has dangers for the brain and nerves, and steady drinking is very bad.

PREPARING FOR PROHIBITION.

W. L. Welford, president of the American Association of Cooperation Interests, testifying before the Interstate commerce commission at Washington, made the statement that the whisky manufacturers of the country, realizing that nation-wide prohibition is inevitable, have practically ceased manufacturing their products and are preparing to devote their plants to the manufacture of commercial alcohol for military purposes.

"PRODUCING NOT PROMOTING" BOARD OF TRADE RESULTS (BY THE SECRETARY)

While not a citizen of Sanford, Hon. Jas. L. Giles, mayor of Orlando is a full fledged, paid up member of the Sanford Board of Trade. He writes under date of the 31st: Herewith my check for dues to cover my membership to Jan. 1st, 1918.

Such men as Mayor Giles is why Orlando is what she is and you can't get away from the fact that she's something and then some.

The following is from a member who appreciates the Board of Trade and says so:

Sanford, August 3, 1917. Mr. D. C. Marlowe, Secretary, Sanford Board of Trade.

Dear Sir: I am handing you herewith $5.00 to cover Board of Trade dues to Jan. 1st, 1918.

This membership is to me one of the most profitable investments I can make. As you know, I have several hundred tons of fertilizing material during the past few months and had the 15 per cent railroad rate gone into effect, my profits on at least part of these goods would have been entirely gone. By this you can see it already has paid me my dues for months to come. Then, too, it is a great satisfaction to be a member of a live organization, one that does things.

(Signed) J. E. Spurling.

Stop every chain letter you get in the request of the Charity Organization Bureau. The article to follow indicates that most such letters are get rich-quick schemes:

Ever since the famous "Whitman" chain letter was written and circulated to raise funds for war relief and for the British Red Cross, there have been numerous other solicitations in the form of chain letters scattered broadcast, which have purported to have emanated from reputable and authentic sources, and have gone so far as to claim the endorsement of consuls representing the allies, but which have turned out to be fakes. Such a letter was received by a member of the New York Merchants Association recently, asking money for a special hospital in Paris, and claiming the endorsement of the French consul at Seattle, and of the Red Cross, which, it said, had "promised $2,000 for every $18,000 raised. Inquiry directed to these references revealed the absolute falsity of this statement, the French consul writing "I do not like the idea and would have stopped these letters if there had been any way of doing it, and you will therefore oblige me by paying no attention to it." The Red Cross emphatically denied any connection with the letter.

It has been ascertained that in many cases these chain letters are graft propositions and should any Sanford or Seminole county people receive them, not only should they be destroyed but publicity should be given them as bad "hunko" schemes.

A business man the other day remarked: Business is no good, I have nothing in sight—I am doing nothing. All around this man business is going on. All around him others are prospering. They are advertising, telling the buyer what they have and what it cost. Not only this, but these other men are finding time to attend meetings intended to benefit their city and county. These other men have money to pay their Board of Trade dues and are enthusiastic members realizing that building a progressive Sanford, builds a bigger Sanford and that they in return will reap their reward for their efforts. There is a saying, and the Bible is the author: "To him that hath shall be given and to him that hath not shall be taken away" don't get the idea that this refers only to religious possessions, it refers to your life holdings and a glance around even in your home town will indicate that the letter of the law is being carried out. Start out, get progressive, help do something along the right lines—then watch yourself grow. There is no alternative.

Friday's issue of The Herald will show additional members since the paper of last Friday. Watch the increase.

Ver. Bureau Voor Handelsinlichtingen, translated Commercial Intelligence Office, Amsterdam, Holland, has directed communications to the Sanford Board of Trade, offering free exhibition to any product we may wish to place in their offices in Amsterdam. The idea being to establish and maintain a large trade between Holland and this country. Their circular is on file at the Board of Trade office should anyone care to look it over.

Members of the Board of Trade are invited to offer suggestions for the good of the organization or for the good of the city or county. If you have a suggestion for betterment, tell us or write us about it. We take no issues in politics or religion as to sides but we do take positive issue in progressive things—unless the Board of Trade did, we would not be a Board of Trade. Use your observations and experience and tell the Board of Trade about them.

There will be a new name for the Oaks this winter, in fact it will be a new hotel and under a management that will place the hostelry among the best.

A large Carolina hotel wants the Board of Trade to give them the name of some one who can supply them weekly shipments by express with celery, lettuce and vegetables. They will be large weekly customers. Any member interested can get this address by calling at the Board of Trade office.

The Chamber of Commerce, Honolulu, Hawaii, has addressed communications to all Board of Trade and Chambers of Commerce in this country, advising them to pay no attention to any report that enemy submarines are in the Pacific Ocean or menacing the lanes of travel between the United States and Hawaii. The letter adds: "There is no more danger from submarines on the Pacific than on your Great Lakes and we want to assure you that fear of such is folly."

Clearwater for the first time has employed a paid secretary of their Board of Trade and is going in for heavy advertising. Clearwater will find the investment a paying one and from the evidence at hand they evidently have a good man.

Rev. Hyman is an A I committeeman and perfect in progressiveness. He is working along the right lines and so manages as to have many other toes marking the same line with him. What he and his committee advocates is good and right and we are glad to see that the city council are willing and anxious to bring into reality the improvement's asked for and it is believed these gentlemen will act liberally and consistently.

True. "I understand that once he served a short term in prison. Yet he has redeemed himself and lived it down absolutely." "Well he would have lived it down, if it wasn't for the fools like you and me who continually keep digging it up for conversation purposes."

Everybody's Doing It. Said the near-cyctic, "When a woman goes shopping these days, although she may be the most sedate little lady in the world, she can't help hitting the high places."

The Thrill and the Hell of the Trenches, Described by an American Boy.

Sergeant Alexander McClintock of Lexington, Ky., and the Canadian Army Has Greeting Tale That Every American Will Read. For He Tells the Facts—Unadorned. Wounded, a Distinguished Conduct Medal Man, He Was Invalided Home, but Is Going "Out There" Again to Fight For Uncle Sam and His Allies. An Inspiring, Interesting, Personal Narrative, Full of the Spirit and Atmosphere of the Trenches.

No. 6. Decorated For Bravery; Home and Uncle Sam.

By Sergeant Alexander McClintock, U. S. M., 87th Overseas Batt., Canadian Gren. Guards.

Copyright, 1917, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

This is the concluding article of the series of six by Sergeant McClintock, an American boy of Lexington, Ky., who has seen service in France, was decorated for bravery and invalided home. He has been promised a commission in our army. The first five installments told of the fighting in Belgium and, on the Somme, where he was desperately wounded. This final installment describes his journey to the rear with twenty-two pieces of shrapnel in one leg and his meeting with the King in a London hospital.

I WAS taken from Pozieres to Albert in a Ford ambulance or, as the Tommies would say, a "tin Lizzie." The man who drove this vehicle would make a good chauffeur for an old-fashioned limousine. Apparently he was counting the bumps in the road, for he didn't miss one of them. However, the trip was only a matter of seven miles, and I was in fair condition when they lifted me out and carried me to an operating table in the field dressing station.

A chaplain came along and murmured a little prayer in my ear. I imagine that would have made a man feel very solemn if he had thought there was a chance he was about to pass out, but I knew I merely had a leg pretty badly smashed up, and while the chaplain was praying I was wondering if they would have to cut it off. I figured, if so, this would handicap my dancing.

The first formality in a shrapnel case is the administration of an anti-tetanus inoculation, and when it is done you realize that they are sure trying to save your life. The doctor uses a horse syringe, and the injection leaves a lump on your chest as big as a baseball, which stays with you for forty-eight hours. After the injection a nurse fills out a diagnosis blank with a description of your wounds and a record of your name, age, regiment, regimental number, religion, parentage and previous history as far as she can discover it without asking questions which would be positively indecent. After all of that my wounds were given their first real dressing.

Immediately after this was done I was bundled into another ambulance and driven to Contay, where the C. C. S. (casualty clearing station) and rail head were located. In the ambulance with me were three other soldiers, an artillery officer and two privates of infantry. We were all ticketed off as shrapnel cases and probable recoveries, which latter detail is remarkable, since the most slightly injured of the four had twelve wounds, and there were sixty odd shell fragments or shrapnel balls collectively imbedded in us. The nurse had told me that I had about twenty wounds. Afterward her count proved conservative. More accurate and later returns showed twenty-two bullets and shell fragments were in my leg. They took these out and presented them to me. I have been giving them away for souvenirs.

We were fairly comfortable in the ambulance, and I especially had great relief from the fact that the nurse had strapped my leg in a sling attached to the top of the vehicle. We smoked cigarettes and chatted cheerfully, exchanging congratulations on having got "clean ones"—that is, wounds not probably fatal. The artillery officer told me he had been supporting our battalion that morning with one of the "sacrifice batteries."

A sacrifice battery, I might explain, is one composed of field pieces which are employed between the front and support lines and which in case of an attack or counterattack are fired at point blank range. They call them sacrifice batteries because some of them are wiped out every day. This officer said our battalion that morning had been supported by an entire division of artillery and that on our front of 400 yards the eighteen pounders alone, in a certain fire which lasted thirty-two minutes, had discharged 15,000 rounds of high explosive shells.

I was impressed by his statement, of course, but I told him that, while this was an astonishing lot of ammunition, it was even more surprising to have noticed at close range, as I did, the number of Germans they missed. Toward the end of our trip to Contay we were much exhausted and pretty buddy shaken up. We were beginning also to realize we were by no means out of the woods yet. Our wounds had merely been dressed. Each of us faced an extensive and serious operation. We arrived at Contay silent and pretty badly depressed. For twenty-four hours in the Contay casualty clearing station they did little except feed us and take our temperatures hourly. Then we were put into a hospital train for Rouen.

German Bomb Hospital Train.

Right here I would like to tell a little story about a hospital train leaving Contay for Rouen—not, the one we were on, but one which had left a few days before. The train, when it was just ready to depart with a full quota of wounded men, was attacked by German aeroplanes from which bombs were dropped upon it. There is nothing apparently that makes the Germans so fearless and ferocious as the Red Cross emblem. On the top of each of the cars in this train there was a Red Cross big enough to be seen from miles in the air. The German aviators accepted them merely as excellent targets. Their bombs quickly knocked three or four cars from the rails and killed several of the helplessly wounded men. The rest of the patients, weak and nervous from recent shock and injury, some of them half delirious and nearly all of them absolutely helpless and in pain, were thrown into near panic.

Two of the nursing sisters in charge of the train were the coolest individuals present. They walked calmly up and down its length, urging the patients to remain quiet; directing the male attendants how to remove the wounded men safely from the wrecked cars and paying no attention whatever to the bombs which were still exploding near the train. I did not have the privilege of witnessing this scene myself, but I know that I have accurately described it, for the details were told to me in an official report when the King decorated the two sisters with the Royal Red Cross for valor in the face of the enemy.

The trip from Contay to Rouen was a nightmare—twenty-six hours traveling 150 miles on a train which was forever stopping and starting, its jerky and uncertain progress meaning to us just hours and hours of suffering. I do not know whether this part of the system for the removal of wounded has been improved now. Then, its inconveniences and imperfections must have been inevitable, for in every way afterward the most thoughtful and tender care was shown us. In the long rows of huts which compose the British general hospital at Rouen we found ourselves in what seemed like paradise.

In the hut which constituted the special ward for leg wounds I was lifted from the stretcher on which I had traveled all the way from Pozieres into a comfortable bed with fresh, clean sheets, and instantly I found myself surrounded with quiet, trained, efficient care. I forgot the pain of my wounds and the dread of the coming operation when a tray of delicious food was placed beside my bed and a nurse prepared me for the enjoyment of it by bathing my face and hands with scented water.

The following morning my leg was X rayed and photographed. I told the surgeon I thought the business of operating could very well be put off until I had had about three more square meals, but he couldn't see it that way. In the afternoon I got my first sickening dose of ether, and they took the first lot of iron out of me. I suppose these were just the surface deposits, for they only got five or six pieces. However, they continued systematically. I had five more operations, and every time I came out of the ether the row of bullets and shell scraps at the foot of my bed was a little longer. After the number had Manifestations of aurora borealis are commonly visible in America as far south as 40 degrees—which would include New York. At 40 degree latitude about ten auroras are visible in a year; at 12 degrees about twenty, and 45 about forty, while between the latitudes of 60 and 60 degrees, the zone of the greatest frequency, they may be seen almost any clear night. South of 40 degrees they are rare.

Some of the Good Things About Martin's Liver Medicine That Can't be Said About Drugs Containing Nauseating Calomel

W. L. Roberts, 530 Duncan Ave., Macon, Ga., was recently induced to try the guaranteed Martin's Liver Medicine—"the medicine that has no calomel in it, but does the work just the same." After using one bottle Mr. Roberts wrote to the Georgia Medicine Company as follows:

"I have used my first bottle of Martin's Liver Medicine and have given it to my children. The pleasant taste makes it easy to give children and it acts so pleasantly, mildly and beneficially on them that they never associate it with medicine. I take it myself without having to suspend household duties as is the case when I use other medicines. My household equipment is not now complete without Martin's Liver Medicine."

It is really foolish for anybody to take calomel—a sickening, nauseating, poisonous mineral that used to be prescribed by physicians in days when the medical fraternity didn't know any better.

In these days of progress and enlightenment, modern physicians prescribe a vegetable laxative instead of a mineral one. Such medicine as Martin's Liver Medicine, for instance, will fulfill all the requirements of a laxative or purgative, acting effectively on the liver and mildly on the bowels without the pain or discomfort which accompanies use of calomel.

Martin's Liver Medicine is one of the few absolutely guaranteed preparations. If it does not give entire satisfaction, the empty bottle may be returned to the druggist and the 50c will be cheerfully refunded.

Martin's Liver Medicine is not only pleasant in its action, but pleasant to take. It is one of Nature's remedies, restores the liver to normal action, thereby guarding the health.

You ought to have a bottle of Martin's Liver Medicine in your medicine chest all the time. A dose or two of it when you feel headachy or bilious will stave off a spell of sickness.
