

Thousands Of War Waifs Still Seek Parents

By Washington Post
SEARCH (UPI) — Certainly not the most popular, but probably the most widely-heard German radio program for many years has been the daily reading of names or descriptions of children separated from their parents by World War II.

Many thousand German children were separated from their parents, mainly during the collapse of the Third Reich as refugees flowed back before the invading Allies.

After the war, the Red Cross registered all these children, most of whom were cared for in orphan homes, and began trying to locate their parents or other relatives.

Often, the children were separated from their parents before they could speak. If they were old enough to speak, they could not remember their names or where they came from and were still so young that the small vocabulary they had did not betray an accent that would have indicated their homes.

Nevertheless, in 17 years, the Red Cross has restored 78,000 of those children to their parents or near relatives.

But 15,000 still are looking hopefully for their parents. Under a bill recently approved by the cabinet, this can't happen again.

The bill, if it becomes law, requires all children under 12 to be issued identity plates, starting in 1966. The plates, similar to the "dog tags" worn by American G.I.'s, will contain the child's name, birth date, birthplace and name and address of the parent or guardian.

The bill declares all children must have such plates handy in times of emergency. It does not say the children must actually wear them. Older persons may get the tags if they wish.

Children have been thus tagged in Belgium since 1945 and in Sweden since 1960.

AF's 'Headbone' Checks On Red Missile Shots

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An Air Force system called "Headbone" is recording and locating missile launches in the Soviet Union, it was reported today.

Although the Defense Department withheld comment, informed sources said the system's sensitive instruments had been installed in a number of Allied countries on the Soviet periphery.

Delicate measurements of changes in atmospheric pressure now being obtained from them apparently will provide almost instant warnings if a Soviet missile takes off from a location other than a test site.

Strict secrecy surrounds the operation because of the diplomatic arrangements required to get the instruments installed in other countries. No new scientific principle is involved.

There are more than 500,000 species of insects, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

University To Be For This Area

No Decision On Site Yet, Is Report

By Julian Stenstrom
If you think Seminole is on pins and needles today just wait until about 11 a.m. Friday when the State Board of Control takes up the university site matter.

The Herald's managing editor, Fred Van Pelt, is already on the scene and we should be among the first to know the board's decision.

While Seminole's citizens and leaders battle for the university, the port terminal, the canal, and marina complex and a host of other projects, there are those who are concerned about more important things.

Such as Mike Sulpizio of 311 Holly in Sanford, Mike, a 12-year-old Sanford Grammar School student, is anxious to get back his year-old lost dog, Sparky. The pup is black with one white front paw and a white chest. He was last seen at Mike's home last Saturday. His tag number is 1253.

You Clock watchers keep an eye open for Sparky. If you should see him call The Herald. We'll take it from there. By the way, Mike shyly admits that "Sparky is sort of bow-legged."

Another Clock watcher called with a suggestion for Sanford's city fathers. He says it would be a shame if the city did not purchase the lot adjacent to the old Post Office. It would be, he opines, a perfect place for a garden park complete with benches where the elderly, tired shoppers and others—as he put it—could loaf, rest or just relax.

He went on to say that most people don't care to occupy benches right on the streets. Perhaps he's got a point. One thing is sure — if Sanford ever needs to enlarge the library building it would have the property to do it.

Seminole County's Board of Public Instruction convened for its monthly meeting at 1 p.m. today. It was rumored at press time that several delegations of parents from South Seminole were to be on hand concerning the English Estates and South Seminole Elementary schools.

Of course, there's really little that can be done to hurry the opening of English Estates so that this school and South Seminole Elementary can be removed from the double session status. The clock knows for a fact that the school board and superintendent R. T. Milwee are doing everything they can to hasten the completion of English Estates.

The grapevine this morning has it that Bacet Elberbe, a resident of Seminole for nearly 30 years and commercial sales manager for Goodyear in Sanford, will soon announce his candidacy for tax collector.

Efforts to stimulate interest in organizing a Seminole County Taxpayers Association are being made by former Seminole County Commissioner Vernon Dunn of Fern Park. Dunn is sending form letters to various municipal boards throughout the county for public announcement at their meetings. Dunn wants officials and concerned Seminole residents to advise him of their interest in forming such a group.

She Ought To Know

LONDON (UPI) — When Mrs. Annie Sone, 53, was caught shoplifting two pairs of $3 pajamas detectives found she was carrying $1,036 in cash, $1,238 in premium bonds and $560 in savings certificates.

Asked why she didn't keep the money in a bank, Mrs. Sone said: "There's too much thieving going on all around." The judge fined her $25.

New Town Council At Altamonte Sworn

The 1964 Town Council of Altamonte Springs officiated at its first meeting Wednesday night after the oath of office was administered last Friday by acting clerk Mrs. Dorothy Bardeen to Mayor Lawrence Swofford and Councilmen Keith Nixon and Bob Newell.

Swofford previously has served four terms on the council and five terms as mayor, although all were not consecutive. Nixon enters his second term and Newell his first.

During the business session, which had a light agenda, Mark Schweizer was advised to get a cost appraisal of planting he and his brothers removed from rights of way fronting their property on SR 436 which already have been given to the town for use in beautifying when four-laning of the highway is completed.

Schweizer explained that he and his brothers, Hans and Nils, were completely unaware of this fact when they had the plants moved at a cost of $154. Involved are four sago palms, three cabbage palms, two fishtail palms and one ligustrum.

In other matters, contracts for the town to supply water to the Industrial Park on Highway 17-92 were turned over to Attorney Joe Davis for study.

Council agreed to investigate paving plans for Second Street from Sanford Avenue to Hermitas Trail and grading Newburyport from First Street to Magnolia in an effort to announce a decision at the next meeting.

A. C. Brown water department superintendent, was authorized to continue with plans for installation of water lines along Station Street and approval was given for six new

ICBMs Not Dependable, Barry Says

PORTSMOUTH, N. H. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater said today that this nation's intercontinental ballistic missiles are not "dependable."

"I am very fearful that we may get caught sometime with our airplanes down," he said.

"We need to keep up our airplane capability," said Goldwater, an Air Force reserve general.

Goldwater said at a news conference that the United States' short range missiles "are dependable."

But, he said, "I wish the Defense Department would tell the people how dependable the long range missiles are."

"I can't tell you just how dependable they are," he said. "It's classified information."

Hoffa Threatens National Strike

CHICAGO (UPI) — Teamsters President James R. Hoffa has threatened to call a strike against six nationwide trucking firms if a new national agreement is not reached by next Wednesday.

"I have notified the industry that six trucking firms, all of which have terminals in Chicago, will be struck here and the strike will spread to their operations throughout the country," Hoffa told trucking negotiators and federal mediators Wednesday.

Hoffa and trucking firm negotiators said that many issues, most of them minor, have been agreed upon, but sessions have bogged down on economic issues, including wages, vacations and pension plans.

Hoffa has been engaged in negotiations here seeking a national trucking contract covering 400,000 union members. The talks were scheduled to continue through this week, including Saturday.

Jury Ponders McLarry Case

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI) — A federal grand jury today considers charges against Russell McLarry, 21, of Dallas who said he was joking with college classmates when he allegedly said he would be willing with a gun for President Kennedy.

Purpose Of School Told By Culpepper

By Julian Stenstrom
The statement by Dr. J. Broward Culpepper, executive director of Florida's State Board of Control, that the purpose of the proposed East Central Florida University is to serve prospective students in the east central Florida area and not Cape Kennedy, was given hearty approval today by Seminole County leaders and particularly members of the county's site location committee.

Culpepper's statement also was endorsed by The Herald which for weeks has made every possible effort to point out that the space element of the future institution was entirely secondary to its primary purpose of providing a state supported, liberal arts degree-granting university for high school graduates of the area.

The chairman of the Seminole County site location committee, Sanford attorney Douglas Stenstrom, said this morning:

"Our faith in the Board of Control and Dr. Culpepper is justified."

"We have felt all along that the board and its capable professional staff will decide the site upon which the university is to be located on the basis of merit and not on political considerations."

"Concerning the decision we hope will come tomorrow, and while we trust will be favorable to Seminole County, we have great faith that the Board of Control will act in the best interests of the largest majority of the people in Florida."

Culpepper said he would recommend that the board select one of the three sites in the Sanford-Orlando area still under consideration. Two of them are in Seminole County and the other is in Orange County.

Culpepper said he hoped for a decision on one of these three sites despite objections to the two locations raised by two space officials.

He said he was not certain that the Board of Control would make a final site selection at Friday's meeting, "but I hope so," he declared.

Tuesday Maj. Gen. Leighton I. Davis, chief of the National Missile Range, and Dr. Kurt Debus, director of the John F. Kennedy Space Center, told Gov. Bryant they felt the board could find a better site for the university than the three locations under consideration.

The space leaders said the university should be within 45 minutes driving time of the Cape and the proposed extension of the University of Florida engineering school should be on the same campus.

Neither of the three board sites met the officials' approval, Bryant said.

Culpepper said any one of the three sites under board consideration met the factors and conditions the board considered in its three-month study.

He said he felt the state could serve the needs of Cape Kennedy by a combination of the undergraduate university, the engineering school extension and the Florida Institute for Continuing University Studies.

Culpepper also said there will be 30,000 college-age students in east-central Florida by the time the new university opens its doors in September of 1968. "And it is the state's job to serve these students."

Stetson University Awarding Year

STETSON — An 18th annual awarding ceremony will be held at Stetson University on Jan. 24, 1964, which brought the university's Ford Foundation grant of $1.5 million and which saw Florida's Baptist University and the state's Baptist churches working in harmony on a financial program for the university's future.

The Ford Foundation gift is the largest in Stetson's more than 60-year history. The University was the only institution in the South, from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast, to be selected with 12 other colleges in the nation to receive one of the Foundation's special grants.

The Ford Foundation announced that the following criteria were used for awarding these grants to the select group of colleges: "Tradition of scholarship, well developed plans to improve liberal education, ability to make pioneering improvements, loyal support and participation by alumni and friends, strong presidential and trustee leadership, and strategic regional importance."

The terms of the grant require that the university raise $5 million in order to receive the Foundation's $1.5 million. All funds are to be applied to the university's undergraduate work.

Florida Baptists accepted their part of this challenge. At the annual Florida Baptist State Convention in November, they approved a $1.5 million bond-raising drive for Stetson. The Convention's campaign runs for three years and pledges amounting to more than $20,000 have already been received.

Stetson University's trustees themselves have also entered upon an active campaign to raise the additional $3.5 million needed to match the Ford grant. First gift received was a $15,000 check from the U. S. Steel Foundation.

Next building scheduled for Stetson's DeLand campus is a $5 million science center. The university expects to apply to the federal government shortly for a construction loan for this building.

Ground for the university's new library was broken at the 1963 Homecoming and since then construction has moved ahead rapidly. The building, which occupies 20,000 square feet, should be in use next summer. This structure will provide a potential for housing 200,000 books plus documents, periodicals, microfilm, and other collections. More than half the readers in the new Stetson library may be accommodated at individual study booths.

In September a newly constructed south wing to Emily Hall, women's residence, was occupied for the first time, and is now home for 78 women, mostly seniors.

The net book value of Stetson University assets for the fiscal year 1963-64 totaled approximately $6 million, up a half million dollars over the previous year. It is also up $1 million compared with two years ago, and nearly three times what it was 10 years ago.

The university's financial statement shows that the total income for 1963-64 was more than two and a half million dollars. This is nearly $400,000 more than two years ago.

Gifts received during fiscal year 1963-64 totaled more than $645,000, including $367,666 from the Florida Baptist Convention. The amount for gifts was down from that received during the two previous years but the University's Diamond Jubilee Campaign influenced these years. However, this points up the great importance of current fund-raising to all those interested in the future of the university and its well-being.

A total of 1,394 students — 635 men and 759 women — were enrolled in September on Stetson's campus in DeLand. At the College of Law in St. Petersburg, there are 224 students. These law students have done their undergraduate work in 77 different colleges.

Southern Reaction To LBJ Talk Mixed

By United Press International

Southern reaction to President Johnson's state of the union message was mixed. There was almost unanimous condemnation of his civil rights stand, but tax-cut foes appeared somewhat mollified by his emphasis on economy.

And even those who disagreed with him on these two important domestic issues praised the new president for his statement on foreign policy.

Most Southern Democrats in Washington aimed their comments at Johnson's foreign policy statements and his emphasis on frugality, preferring to remain silent on the civil rights and tax cut issues on which they could not agree with their party chief.

Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama said he was "particularly impressed" with the president's foreign policy stand which should be "clearly understandable to anyone."

"President Johnson today proved his measure of world leadership..." Sparkman said. "It was a remarkable and most hopeful statement on foreign policy."

Another Boy, Jerry Calls Him Gloria

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — (UPI) — Jerry Lewis and his wife, Patti, had been hoping for a baby girl for the past nine months and Jerry's motto was "think pink."

Tuesday night Jerry became a father for the sixth time when Patti gave birth to an eight-pound one-ounce boy at St. John's Hospital.

"Boy or no boy," equipped the comedian, "I'm still going to call him Gloria. He'd better be a fighter."

The Lewises have five other children, Gary, 18; Ronnie, 14; Scotty, 8; Chris, 6, and Anthony, 4.

Assassination Put Extremism To Fore

By Holmes Alexander

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Extremism in hate is one side of the coin. Extremism in love is the other side.

Polemic feelings of both varieties burst forth at the slaying of President Kennedy. At the National Press Club and at the White House press room on the fateful afternoon of the assassination, veteran reporters, shocked from their professional objectivity, incited by early TV assertions that some Rightist in Dallas had done the murder, turned and snarled at their conservative colleagues. When it appeared that Lee Harvey Oswald was a Castro-Marxist—and apparently the assassin—there were those who awaited no further proof.

"They can't hang him high enough for me," said a newsmen.

These rabid opinions soon expire among the press corps, where the underlying feeling was one of affection for Mr. Kennedy and dismay at his cruel death. On Saturday it was being asked if Oswald could possibly get a fair trial in Dallas.

On Sunday there was unalloyed indignation over the Dallas police force's laxity which allowed Jack Ruby to murder the suspect and prevent Oswald from getting any trial at all.

On Monday, the solemnity of the funeral got coverage from exhausted men and women who exchanged reminiscences of the slain President's many acts and words of kindness to them—and many exclamations of admiration for the brave and beautiful widow and for Bob Kennedy, whose hand held hers at the graveside like the devoted brother he was.

But the extreme expressions, not long-lived among the Capital press corps, continued to build elsewhere. At first they took the form of a psychotic wallow in collective guilt, much of it in bad taste, by clergymen in their Sunday sermons and by public figures in front of microphones. The "Wall Street Journal" summarized this in a lead editorial on the day after the funeral:

"A Senator said that the responsibility lay on 'the people of Dallas' because this is where the events took place. A spokesman for one group of our people said the nation was 'reaping the whirlwind of hatred.' One of our highest judges said the President's murder was stimulated by the 'hatred and malevolence' that 'are eating their way into the bloodstream of American life.' A newspaper of great renown passed judgment that 'none of us can escape a share of the fault for the spiral of violence.' And these were but a few among many."

Following this deluge of sick, sick exhibitionism in high places, we have had the scramble of local dignitaries and civic promoters to fix the name of Kennedy upon their pet projects and institutions. Some of the proposals are fitting, but some are maudlin, ludicrous and self-seeking. A few minutes before President Johnson's Address to Congress last Wednesday, a Representative (R., Pa.) came to the crowded press gallery of the House. He was hawking his own bill to rename a section of the Smithsonian Institution after Mr. Kennedy, and trying to find a reporter who would write it up. On Thanksgiving night another publicity-hound bayed to the moon with a proposition for renaming West Virginia after the fallen President.

None of this speaks well for the nation's maturity, nor bodes good for the conduct of public affairs. John Kennedy, whom many loved, was not, as his eulogists are saying, "the greatest" of leaders or Presidents. His programs were largely rejected by the post-Convention Congress of 1960; by the 87th Congress of 1961-62, and by the 88th Congress to date.

JFK will find his rightful place in history. Meanwhile, let's cherish the memory without smothering it in adulation.

Rooming House Fire Kills Tot

TAMPA (UPI) — A rooming house fire killed a little boy Monday and injured the man who rescued his sister.

The victim was identified as Brian Recha Hunter, a 20-month-old boy, whose mother went shopping while the boy and his little sister stayed with a friend.

The friend, an unidentified man, fled the house when the fire broke out, witnesses said.

A neighbor ran up the fire escape and carried the little girl, who was not identified, to safety. The rescuer was treated for burns on the shoulder.

The cause of the fire was not immediately determined.

Department Reports Issued In Village

Year end reports for the North Orlando Volunteer Police and Fire Departments were read before council at Tuesday night's monthly business meeting.

Bob Stephenson, councilman and commissioner of police, presented the police report which showed the following totals:

Man hours spent in police training school at Maitland, 118; complaints investigated, 29; warnings issued, 82; summonses served, 15; houses checked, 27; prowler reports answered, 32; juveniles warned of curfew, six; accidents investigated, six; total man hours on duty, 1,317 and total amount of gasoline used, 215 gallons.

In addition, the department, in cooperation of Councilman Arthur Rhodes, provided Christmas for a needy family in the area.

Other than Stephenson, those serving as volunteers are Chief Andrew Ferrin and Harold Beske and Harvey Green.

The less detailed fire department report was given by Chief Bill Hahn who advised that one fire had occurred involving six men for a total of eight hours.

Hahn informed that very little time as yet had been spent on actual training for the men but that most were Navy trained and already have a good knowledge of fire fighting methods.

Equipment secured for the department also was itemized in the report.

Official organization of both departments took place this year after North Orlando got its first fully elected council which took over in April.

Howard Middleton, chapter program chairman, has announced that the Feb. 14 meeting will be held in the Deltona Club House in Enterprise at 10 a. m. with Judge Albert Williams and Constable Oscar D. # Replica Readied For Flight TAMPA (UPI) — Final assembly operations were under way today on the replica of the Benoist airplane that is to be used Saturday in the re-creation of the first scheduled airline flight between St. Petersburg and Tampa.

The celebration of the 50th anniversary of the flight by Tony Jannus is being sponsored by the Tampa and St. Petersburg Chambers of Commerce.

Officials said Capt. Dick Merrill, veteran airlines pilot from Miami, will probably test fly the replica Friday afternoon from the sea plane basin at Peter O. Knight Airport on Davis Island here.

A Tampa Chamber of Commerce official said today that after Merrill test flies the plane, he will then fly across Tampa Bay to St. Petersburg where the re-creation of the Jannus Fannus flight will originate Saturday at 3 p. m.

Merrill will make the flight from St. Petersburg to here alone, whereas Jannus had a passenger. Chamber officials said the Federal Aviation Authority had rejected plans for the craft to carry St. Petersburg Mayor Herman Goldner because it had not made said it was convinced.

Lake Monroe Jottings

Mrs. H. L. Johnson Well I guess every one has settled down to the new year by now. School has started again. And Monday turned out to be a day of spring. Really nice. It made us home-makers want to start spring cleaning. • • • Helen (Mrs. Sherwood) Barbour is counting the rest of the hours this week because her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Smith of Alexandria, Va., are coming "a visitin'". They will get to see Bobby a little before he leaves for college. • • • Latest reports on Carlos Muse is that he may get to come home shortly. Talking to son Herbert yesterday and he is planning to go to Bay Pines this weekend to see him. We wish him a speedy recovery so he can come home. • • • My, the birthday girls this week. First let's wish Charlene Baker a happy birthday. She was eleven the very last day of the year. Then we will wish Debbie Baker a happy birthday. She is a mere seven years old. Also Elizabeth Warren (Lizabet) also has reached that same age. • • • Then comes the teenage gals Sylvia Giles who is (?) today and Brenda Hatchall who is also (?). Sylvia's mother, Lynn, has planned a nice day for them Sunday. • • • Hazel Chambliss, Rena Hawkins and Mary Hittell spent last weekend in Jacksonville. Rena and Hazel visited with their sister, Myrtle Pickett and family, and Mary stayed with Clarence Hittell and family. • • • Sorry to hear that the mother of Frances Warren is ill. Frances has been down at Wauchula with her mother but returned home Monday and reports her somewhat better. Sure glad to hear that. • • • Tonight is Home Demonstration night for the Lake Monroe Club. Come out to the Community Building back of the Monroe school and be with the club members. • • • By the way, the TB Unit will be at Gardner's store next Tuesday from 4 until 7 p. m. Be sure and have that X-Ray made. It doesn't cost you a cent to have it done. • • • Beverly (Mrs. Joe Douthitt) and her daughters, Joanne and Lynley, are all on the sick list. Hurry and get well Beverly, and take care of those cute little girls. • • • The First Baptist Church of Monroe is having a revival all this week. Will end Sunday evening. Rev. Gail Smith from the Central Baptist Church in Sanford is the minister for the revival. Around 40 young people attended a get-together at the church last Friday evening. That's a nice crowd. • • • Seven High School Glee Club members will go to Daytona this afternoon after school to attend a 3-day clinic. These clinics are very interesting. I attended the one last year over there. Schools from all over the state attend this clinic and on Saturday evening there will be a combined massed concert by all the glee clubs. • • • Sarah (Mrs. Ben) Hodge is ill. Sorry to hear that she is feeling bad. In a conversation with Ben Tuesday evening she was a lot better. • • • Again reminding you of the TB Unit next Tuesday, have that X-Ray made. • • • Our thought this week is a request for a repeat of some time ago on the Building of Life: 'Life is a building. It rises slowly day by day, through the years. Every new lesson we learn lays a block on the edifice which is rising silently within us. Every experience, every touch of another life on ours, every influence that impresses us, every book we read, every conversation we have, every act of commonest days, add something to the invisible building.

Tuxedo Gets Cleaning But His Lucre Returns Still Filthy

CALDWELL, N. J. (UPI) — A Uruguayan was almost taken to the cleaners Wednesday, but came out in good shape thanks to a 23-year-old Bible student.

Carlos Salguero, sales manager for a tobacco company in Montevideo, Uruguay came here three weeks ago with his wife to visit old friends.

He brought along a tuxedo for evening wear, and $5,100 bills, which he stuffed into a pocket of the tux for safe keeping.

His wife unknowingly took the tuxedo to Katter's Dry Cleaners—with the money still in the pocket.

Shelton Thompson, 23, a Bible student and part-time worker at the store, came across the money while processing the suit. He gave it to the store owner, who put it in a safe and returned it when Salguero arrived Wednesday.

"I feel like a fool," said Salguero. "But a happy fool."

North Orlando Begins Planning For July 4th

By Mona Grimwood
Plans for the annual Fourth of July celebration in the Village of North Orlando were begun Monday night at a meeting of the North Orlando Civic Association when members voted to stage a fund-raising project next month to pay for fireworks.

Roy Burke, association president, reminded that a 25 per cent discount is available if the fireworks orders are placed before April 15.

It was suggested that the celebration include all village clubs and organizations and that each be given opportunity to share in profits as well as to assist with the planning and work.

Representatives of the association will approach those of other local groups at a follow-up meeting of the Christmas Party Committee which was in charge of the Dec. 13 event. This meeting is scheduled for next Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the Civic Building when final decision on participation in the Fourth celebration will be left up to the individual organization.

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Bob Gaiters, a halfback who broke into the National Football League with the New York Giants in 1961, will return to the Denver Broncos next season with the Baltimore Colts.

Another Kidney Transplant Performed

DENVER (UPI) — A history-making team of Denver surgeons, based at the Colorado General and Veteran's Administration hospitals, said all three patients were in good or satisfactory condition.

The latest patient, identified only as a 16-year-old boy, received two kidneys from a baboon Wednesday during a six-hour operation at Colorado General. Doctors would not release additional identification or details of the case.

A 40-year-old man was receiving two baboon kidneys Monday and a 45-year-old man who underwent a similar operation Dec. 20 were reported doing "very well" by a hospital spokesman.

The operation Wednesday was the fifth animal-to-human kidney transplant known. The other two patients, both operated on in New Orleans, died. The first of the five, a woman, received the kidneys of a rhesus monkey Oct. 8. The kidneys ceased to function, however, and had to be removed. She died later.

The second patient, also in New Orleans, was 44-year-old Jefferson Davis, a dock worker. Davis spurred the hopes of transplant medicine after receiving two kidneys from a 90-pound chimpanzee Nov. 5 and recovering enough to leave the hospital by the end of December.

But Monday, just as the Colorado team of doctors was preparing for its second baboon kidney transplant to the 40-year-old man, Davis died in New Orleans of pneumonia.

Seminole Has Faith

When Florida's State Board of Control gave its decision Friday in favor of Seminole College as the site of the new county university, the Board's decision was a major victory for the Seminole County Board of Commissioners. To date the Board has refused to close the number of locations under consideration.

Two sites are in Orange County. Seminole's two locations are Eora and Lake Ada while Orange's lone site is Eora.

Members of the university site committee here in Seminole are confident the Board of Control will make its decision Friday on the basis of merit and not the influence and pressure which undoubtedly have been directed toward the individual members of the control group.

The Seminole committee is also confident that the Board has not been affected by the numerous efforts on the part of individuals, so-called development councils, business firms and even newspapers to cloud the issue.

In one instance an Orange County group called the Central Florida Development Council publicly stated that the Board is following its instructions from the Legislature and that under the leadership of Chairman Bays Harrison and the agency's executive director, Dr. J. Broward Culpepper, the central group, as we previously stated, will make its final selection in the best interests of the school.

However, information The Herald has received from time to time leads this newspaper to contend that the Board is following its instructions from the Legislature and that under the leadership of Chairman Bays Harrison and the agency's executive director, Dr. J. Broward Culpepper, the central group, as we previously stated, will make its final selection in the best interests of the school.

stood as an extension of the University of Florida for accreditation purposes.

On Tuesday of this week, Maj. Gen. Leighton I. Davis, commander of the Air Force Missile Test Center, and Dr. Kurt DeBus, director of the Kennedy Space Center, flew to Tallahassee to confer with Gov. Farris Bryant.

Dr. DeBus was quoted as saying: "I got alarmed at reports the space age university would be located in the Orlando area." Where, The Herald inquires, have Dr. DeBus and General Davis been since March, 1963?

"We need it here (in Brevard) to attract the kind of talent we require to meet the demands of the missile and space programs," explains Dr. DeBus. He and Gen. Davis do not realize, apparently, that the McDonald Committee report of March, 1963, recommended that the four-year East Central Florida University be established basically for high school graduates and not for scientists and engineers.

These and other efforts apparently have been aimed at the Board of Control to create sufficient confusion to cause the Board to discard the three remaining sites and start again the long and tedious task of selecting a site.

However, information The Herald has received from time to time leads this newspaper to contend that the Board is following its instructions from the Legislature and that under the leadership of Chairman Bays Harrison and the agency's executive director, Dr. J. Broward Culpepper, the central group, as we previously stated, will make its final selection in the best interests of the school.

And who could be a better developer than a real estate and insurance man? That's probably why Stetson University picked Bradenton's Dan Bialock as chairman of the school's new development council.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Johnson's close associates say he has no present plans to build a complete White House staff of his own.

What he genuinely wants, they insist, is to produce a lasting blend of his small cluster of staff intimates and the seasoned crew of key "Kennedy holdovers."

Says one Johnson aide: "They've forgotten more about how the White House operates than we'll know for a long time."

The President's chances of forging at least a partial blend, durable enough to carry through most of 1964, seem to be mounting.

A test will not be long in coming. The first possible "shake-out point" for the Kennedy holdovers will develop no later than mid-February. By then the President's budget and his important messages and reports will have been given to Congress, and he will have finished his first round of talks with world leaders.

Less than two weeks ago a top Kennedy assistant, using anonymity, predicted a sizeable exodus of the late President's people by midwinter. Some have argued that their "commitment," more to their fallen leader than to Johnson, would then be fulfilled.

That prospect is changing. No more than one or two first-rank men—if even that many—may drop out when the winter crush is over for the President.

Kenneth O'Donnell, though less busy than under Kennedy as appointments secretary, soon will be asked to use his talent for political strategy in Johnson's election campaign. A similar bid will go to Lawrence O'Brien, congressional liaison chief, known for his superb organizing skills.

The attraction of politics is strong for both. If they accept, as is thought likely, the only issue will be how and when.

The world's largest midway, the nation's finest rodeo, big car auto races, auto thrill show, famed musical entertainers and other events will headline attractions at the 56th annual Florida State Fair in Tampa, Feb. 6-12.

Florida Citrus Commission General Manager Homer E. Hooks says Florida will have to spend more money on advertising and merchandising in order to expand into new markets as heavier crops return, and in order to battle multi-million promotions now planned for synthetic products.

Always remember that a flu squeeze is an ill wind that blows nobody else good.

through to the end. That could commit him to stay perhaps until mid-July—if not beyond.

"Blending in" the others, however, may depend on Johnson offering them a more promising outlook than some now foresee. The mixture he seeks—of personalities, capacities and loyalties—is hard to come by.

Sorenson's abilities are wide-ranging. One Johnson friend is sure the young Nebraska will decide nothing is as challenging as the White House.

The late President's brother, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, while not strictly a White House man, was the single most important presidential adviser.

He will, of course, play no such role hereafter. But his political capabilities and contacts could be immensely useful.

And he himself is said to be determined to see the civil rights fight in Congress through to the end.

Now would be a good time for wives to start smoking cigars to help husbands burn up the Yule supply.

In some of the women's new clothes and on our freeways there are dangerous curves ahead.

There is no element of blessing in automation. It is rapidly becoming a real curse to this country that could bring us to a national catastrophe.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Heavy was contained by the girls of the center class because they said he spotted their 100 per cent record for getting blood donors. But heavy was mostly correct in his stand, as throughout the case. Send it to all athletic coaches, too.

CASE 2-22: Heavy K., age 22, is a smart athlete coach.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I'm somewhat on the spot at our high school.

"For a group of girls in the senior class decided to stress 100 per cent cooperation in donating blood for the blood bank.

"But I put my feet down and forbade my track team to donate any blood.

"Don't you think I was correct?"

Facts to Blood
 Certainly this coach was correct!

Athletes, and especially the distance runners, need all the red blood cells they can muster.

Q—What precedent was established by the awarding of the 1904 Nobel Peace Prize?
 A—That year it was given to the International Institute of Law, which set the precedent of giving the prize to an organization instead of an individual.

Q—How many eclipses of the sun can there be in one year?
 A—As many as five. There must be at least two and the usual number is four.

Q—Between what cities did the first steam ferry in the world run?
 A—Between New York City and Hoboken, N. J., beginning on Oct. 11, 1811.

The donation of even half a pint of blood obviously would tend to shorten the "wind" of a runner, just as smoking cigarettes will also do it.

It is all right for students to give blood who have no physical demand on their bodies, but the loss of even a tablespoonful of blood could possibly spoil the difference between winning the mile run or coming in second.

In fact, it has been found by veterinary medicine that the usual winner of a horse race has EXTRA red blood corpuscles.

In fact, those horses which set records and are consistent winners, may have 10 per cent to 25 per cent MORE red blood cells than the losing horses!

People who live at high altitudes may develop a much higher red blood cell count, too, for the oxygen is thinner in that rarified air.

You can guess what would happen if a seacoast university were to compete with the University of Denver.

The boys from the lower altitude, such as the University of Miami or Harvard or Tulane, would be hampered by competing in a higher altitude.

Conversely, the teams from higher altitudes should react much like the winning horses at the race track.

For such boys would have a higher number of red blood cells in their blood stream.

And at the lower altitude, such as Miami, the Denver athletes would thus have more figurative "freight cars" available to haul oxygen to their muscles.

Other factors, however, must also be equated, for a team from a cold or dry high altitude may be hampered by the warm, moist atmosphere of the seacoast college.

Suppose you have a bad heart and need every bit of oxygen your blood corpuscles can carry.

What happens if you suddenly go to Pike's Peak where the oxygen in the air is thinner?

Such a patient may have a sudden heart attack, and you can see the mechanical reason, can't you?

Severe heart patients are even warned against taking airplane flights unless adequate oxygen is at their elbow to make up for any reduction in oxygen content due to the semi-pressurized cabins.

Science and medicine in particular, are very simple things if you employ "horse sense" and look for the cause-and-effect relationships.

But many people are ignorant of these medical facts because medicine has been too haphazard. Be grateful to your newspaper for clarifying these vital matters.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his book-lets.)

British Hit U.S. 'Double Standard' On Trade

LONDON (UPI) — The British press today ridiculed U. S. attempts to halt the sale of British buses to Cuba. Newspapers accused the United States of using blackmail and double standards.

There were indications that another ally of the United States, Spain, was determined to go ahead with trade with Premier Fidel Castro's regime despite U. S. disapproval. Informed sources in Madrid believe Spain will build about 100 ships for Cuba worth about $500 million.

In both the ship deal and the agreement to sell Cuba $11.2 million worth of British double-decker buses, the argument used by the sellers is the same:

If the United States can sell millions of dollars worth of grain to the Soviet Union and its satellites in Europe, other Western nations ought to be able to do business with Cuba.

Britain said it has no legal means to stop the sale of buses by the Leyland Motors Co. Government sources noted that Britain is not participating in the American trade boycott of Cuba and that the buses have no strategic value.

The British press was more outspoken.

"For the love of Pete!" the London Daily Mail exploded. "The fact is that the United States applies double standards when it comes to trade with the Communists." It added, "Both the administration and Congress approved the sale of wheat to the Soviet Union — and rightly so. But we could argue that filling a Russian belly is far more strategic than saving Cuba."

The dispute has caused irritation on both sides of the Atlantic, and British officials said they hope it will die down before the meeting between President Johnson and Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home next month.

They noted that the bus deal negotiations have been public knowledge both here and in Washington for months, with each side fully aware of the other's position.

It is estimated that sales of sunglasses in 1963 will total 150 million.

Nike X Seen As Answer To Russian ICBM

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Lt. Gen. Charles B. Duff, commander of the U. S. Army Air Defense Command, believes the Nike X program may be the answer to a defense against Russia's intercontinental ballistic missile.

Duff, on an inspection tour of Nike-Hercules missile sites here Wednesday, explained that there currently is no defense against the ICBM.

However, Duff said it is hoped that "Nike X will provide that defense." He said an evaluation of the Nike program would be made next year.

Now being conducted at the Kewajalein Atoll in the Pacific and White Sands proving grounds in New Mexico, the Nike X program includes two types of missiles, both expected to be equipped with nuclear warheads.

Refugee Protest Of British Sale Of Buses To Cuba Grows

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Cuban refugees here joined their compatriots in Miami last night in demanding a boycott of British goods in retaliation for the sale of British buses to Fidel Castro's revolutionary regime.

Angel Gonzalez, leader of the local branch of the (refugee) Student Revolutionary Directorate (DRE), issued a statement charging that Britain puts trade ahead of humanity.

"We are not surprised by the British government-authorized sale of 400 buses . . . to the Castro tyranny, since we know . . . Great Britain has come to be known as 'Perfidious Albion' because of its measure of patriotism against mercantile advantage," the statement said.

Gonzalez urged his fellow Cubans to boycott British products under the slogan, "With each English product you buy you contribute to the assassination of a patriotic Cuban against a Soviet wall."

He charged that Britain failed to react vigorously against the "invasion" of a British Caribbean island last August by a Castrite gunboat which seized a group of Cuban refugees because the bus deal was already cooking and the London government didn't want "to place any obstacle in the way of a juicy autobus sale."

Strangers Do Bang Up Job On Old Piano

LONDON (UPI)—It wasn't the piano, it was the pianist. Somebody who wanted to get rid of an old upright piano just dropped it on a North London street Wednesday night. And passersby couldn't resist stopping to bang out a tune.

"First it was a bus conductor going home," one sleepless resident nearby reported. "Then two girls. The latest were three lads. I telephoned Scotland Yard, but the yard didn't seem to think it was an emergency."

The piano, at latest reports, was still there, being tinkled away.

Some Things Writer Would Like To Have Changed During 1964

By Henry McLemore

Being Nothing More Than A Listing Of A Few Of The Things I Would Like To Do In 1964:

Make it illegal for advertisers to use the word "Only" in front of items costing more than 99 cents. It gives many of us a feeling of financial insecurity to see ads reading "Only $385.55" or, "A Bargain at only $2,678.20." It makes us wonder if we are the only folks in the United States who think that "only" several hundred dollars is quite a bit of dough—no matter how you describe it.

Eliminate the half-time show at football games. These constitute the largest bore since Swiss bellringers went out of style. The bands can barely be heard (which might be a blessing), and the patterns they form are recognizable only by opium smokers and the genius who thought them up in the quiet of the college gym.

Head a crusade against invocations by ministers before the start of sports events, especially those held on Sunday. What these prayers add, save a touch of sacrifice, escapes me.

Sponsor a few television shows in which everyone is happy, not a single doctor shows his face, no one loses his mind, and, if the show is a Western, have someone tip off the Indians to shoot the horses of the pioneers first, and then the pioneers. Without horses—and I believe the Indians know this—the pioneers really would find it tough going.

Let everyone know that, as enjoyable as "Sing Along With Mitch" is with the sound on, it's twice as good with the sound off. Watching Mitch himself, with no sound, is just about a riot.

Shrink the heads—if it is possible to shrink them—for all the people who pay $250 for a single seat at the Liston-Clay fight on February 23rd in Miami. The fight couldn't be worth more than $25 tops if Sonny and Lucius fought while going over Niagara Falls instead of in a ring.

Put an end to cute, coy Christmas cards.

Make it against the law for 99 per cent of all the restaurants to serve apple pie. What most of them do to the poor helpless apple, and the crust the apples are laid to rest on, constitutes a felony at least.

Help organize a parade. Having watched a thousand,

It is high time I helped get one together. Maybe Arbor Day would be a good time for me to start. If any of you have a walking tree, please let me know.

Learn to cut my own hair. I have figured out that if I cut my own sparse locks for two or three years I could open a small business, or buy a lot on a lake, or take a

Bay of Fundy cruise, or even buy something that was "Only So Much."

Have enough nerve not to tip in places where a NO TIPPING sign is displayed.

Pass a highway patrol car on the highway. I never have been able to do it, even if the highway car were parked and the cop outside of it tying his shoe.

Biddy League In 2nd Half

The Biddy Basketball League opened its second half of play with Robson's, Standard Oil, WTR Radio and Day 'N Night Grill grabbing first round victories.

The Grinders, first half champions, took a 45 to 25 decision from the Sanford Atlantic National Bank. High man for the Day 'N Night five was Ken Hinson with 25 points. For the Grinders Mott Hinson took high point honors with 24.

In another contest, the Redmen posted another high scoring effort when they downed Sanford Electric, 74 to 54. Bobby Landquist, who recently set a high point mark of 60 points in a single contest, posted 35 in the tilt with the Electricians. High man for the Grinders was Al Green with nine.

Meanwhile, Robson's defeated Strickland-Morrison by a margin of 48 to 28. Dan Wright led the Sports with 23 points while Bill Schmidt for

Lyman Takes On Powerful Apopka Five

Three of Seminole County's four high school basketball teams will be on the road Friday night for engagements. The only five that will not see action this weekend are the Panthers of Coconos.

Seminole High's aggregation, behind the eight ball in the basket sinking department, returns to Metro Conference action in Orlando where they will tangle with Maynard Evans High—current leader of the loop. Evans whipped Boone Tuesday night to move into first place. Thus far Evans is undefeated in league action, having racked up four consecutive victories.

Meanwhile, Friday night the Oviedo Lions will move into Howey-in-the-Hills for an engagement with the Howey Academy five. Oviedo—last year's county champs—are four and two in the win and loss department at this time. They should not have too much trouble with Howey.

The red-hot Lyman Greyhounds, who seem to be conquering everybody they've played recently, renew Orange Belt Conference competition when they take a hop to Apopka to meet the Blue Darters. This should be about the best test the Greyhounds will have met this season. But Walt Drusus' quiet seems to be rising to each occasion and there's a good possibility the 'Hounds can knock off the strong Darters.

Apopka, thus far this season, has posted eight victories and one defeat. The loss came at the hands of DeLand last Tuesday night.

In all of these contests, the school's JayVee fives will be engaged in preliminary tilts.

Hunt Realty, Browns In Tie

The Hunt Realty team edged into a tie for second place when they won three points from the Art Brown Pest Control team. Stenstrom Realty won three points from Cook's Corner to hang onto the number one position in the H-scoomers League.

Joe's Laundry made a clean sweep against the Acey Deucey Wives team and retains the fourth position. The C. P. O. Wives also won four points from the Grapeville Nursery team. Southern Air won three points from Shoemaker Construction and the DeBarry Debs split their points 2-2 with the M. & R. Bar.

Kita Dorman converted the 2-7; Grace Keck and Laura Leahy the 2-7; Doris Hoek and Jean Sheridan the 4-5. The 5-10 fell for Marie Ciowski, Doris Oney and Sophie Woodson and the 2-10 for Dot Button and Judy Clarke, while Mary Tomaleski picked up the 2-7. Pat Siple rolled in 20 for the high game and Dot Button turned in the high series of 42.

Finley Defies Cronin On Move

CHICAGO (UPI)—Charles O. Finley defied American League President Joe Cronin today and said he believed other club owners would authorize him to move his Athletics franchise from Kansas City to Louisville.

Finley blasted Cronin for making public Wednesday an order to him to refrain from making "any further arrangements" for the transfer and "await the determination of the American League concerning the matter."

Cronin has called a meeting of the league's board of directors — representatives from Cleveland, Los Angeles, Chicago, New York and Boston — for Jan. 16 in New York and has ordered a league meeting the same day, obviously to consider Finley's situation.

The outspoken insurance man has been in dispute with Kansas City over his lease on Municipal Stadium, now expired, since spring. Earlier this week he signed a contract for the A's to play in Louisville in 1964 and 1965.

The contract announcement inspired Cronin's telegram, which said also that he considered Finley's activities "unfair" to the Kansas City fans and "that it could result in disillusionment for the baseball public of Louisville."

Cronin's message was released for publication and Finley exploded. "I consider your releasing to the press the telegram which you sent me this morning very unfair and unethical," he wired Cronin.

APPROACH & DELIVERY
(Fourth of a Series)

Before discussing the four-step approach with your youngsters, emphasize that the strides are to be natural. There is no secret approach and no special steps. The approach should be taught by illustrating a natural four-step walking stride.

Position yourself in front of the class. You don't need a bowling ball. Demonstrate the four-step approach, taking one step at a time, starting with the right foot.

Now have your youngsters come up in a group (four at a time) and, with you in center, everyone hold hands. While you call cadence, step off together, right foot first, then left, right; finally bring your left foot alongside your right and push it forward into a stride.

Repeat several times. By walking with your youngsters, they will feel the rhythm of the steps. Work individually with those who don't seem to be getting the rhythm.

Now have your youngsters sit down. Pick up a ball and demonstrate the steps combined with the pushaway and pendulum swing (see diagram).

Do this by facing the group. Show how initial movement of the arm with the ball, and the first step with your right foot, occurs simultaneously. Push the ball forward and downward over the right foot.

On the second step (left foot), the ball starts backward. It reaches a point just past the right leg as you complete the step. This is the minimum height of the backswing.

The third step — the backswing step — is on the right foot. The ball reaches no higher than the shoulder on the backswing.

On the fourth step, the arm comes forward simultaneously with the forward slide on the left foot, and the ball is released.

To instruct your youngsters individually, take your position on his or her ball side. With your left hand, hold your youngster's right wrist. Explain that the youngster is going to take the steps, and that you are going to work the ball.

As you both start forward, push the ball out and down. Continue the swing of the arm as you call cadence for the steps, finishing with the slide on the left foot, and release the ball.

Now is a good time to review everything. Then put your youngsters on their own.

MIAMI (UPI)—A well-dressed grandstand player put his $2 on four winning longshots Wednesday, waited until the crowd left, then turned in his twin double ticket for a $64,789.20 check.

The man, identified only as a "Floridan" who prefers the grandstand to Tropical Park's plush clubhouse, wouldn't reveal his name or how many tickets he bought to hit the big one.

It was the largest twin double payoff so far in Florida, where the four-race wager was instituted this season, and second nationally only to a $78,700 payoff at Roosevelt Raceway last fall.

Officials at the track said the man, dressed in a neat blue suit, waited until just before the payoff windows closed to exchange his ticket for a check.

Fan Can Dine With Pros At $4 A Plate

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Members of the West and East Pro Bowl All-Star squads sit down to lunch together today before they retire to their corners and come out fighting Sunday at Memorial Coliseum.

Fans get a chance at $4 a plate to chit-chat with the pros at the annual affair, held in the Billmore Bowl.

After a few speeches and other hi-jinx the squads go back into training for the 14th annual Pro Bowl game.

The West is rated a six-and-a-half point favorite in this year's game largely because of the presence of eight members of the champion Chicago Bears and eight members of the Green Bay Packers.

Thinking Out Loud

BY JULIAN STENSTROM

Colt's Spring Schedule

Brevard County, especially Cocoa, might not be in the running for the East Central Florida University—that is if the State Board of Control makes a final decision Friday in Tallahassee to put the school in either Seminole or Orange counties—but baseball fans in the Cocoa area are going to see some of baseball's top notch major league talent this spring.

The Houston Colts are not expected to set the world on fire during the 1964 major league season. However, during their spring workouts in Cocoa they'll play 25 exhibition games. Twelve of them will be played at the Aie new spring base in Cocoa.

General Manager Paul Richards said the spring training slate would open March 14 against the Philadelphia Phillies in Clearwater and will conclude on April 11, in Cocoa against their Oklahoma City farm club.

The Colts will meet 14 major league clubs and all of them except the Milwaukee Braves will be new pre-season opponents. Previously, the Aie had trained in Arizona with the other four Arizona based clubs as their opponents.

The Aie will be meeting for the first time in history seven American League clubs, including the American League champion New York Yankees in two games; Chicago White Sox, one game; Minnesota Twins, three games; Detroit Tigers, two games; Baltimore Orioles, two games; the Kansas City A's, three games; and Washington Senators, one game; for a total of 14 games against American League opponents.

The big dates with the Yankees will be on Mar. 16 at Cocoa and Sunday, Apr. 5 at Ft. Lauderdale.

The Aie will meet National League opponents 12 times, including the World Champion Los Angeles Dodgers, one game; Pittsburgh Pirates, one game; Philadelphia Phillies, four games; Cincinnati Reds, one game; New York Mets, two games; St. Louis Cardinals, two games; and the Milwaukee Braves, two games.

The Colt Aie will break camp the evening of Apr. 11 and fly to Cincinnati where they will open the National League Championship season Apr. 13, against the Reds. Pitchers and catchers will begin workouts in Cocoa on Feb. 4 and the remainder of the Aie's squad will report on Mar. 2.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a mail carrier and some of the stories he tells me about the women he sees on his route would curl your hair. He says some of them answer the door in their bathrobes at two o'clock in the afternoon! And he has seen some appear in thin, see-through nylon dusters. Anyway, he says he sure wishes they would cover up as they are disgraceful! I was taught to dress up in the morning, with undergarments, hosiery, shoes and a fresh house dress. And, believe me, I wasn't trying to tempt the mail carrier, either. Please print this so the guilty ones will see it and take the hint.

MAIL CARRIER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I doubt if the average housewife has any intention of carrying away the mail carrier. It's her MAIL she's interested in—not your MALE.

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper to thank people at the grave for having come to a funeral? My little niece passed away last week. She was only two years old. The funeral was small in attendance, but very lovely. When we were all leaving the cemetery, the child's grandmother went around to all the people she knew and said, "Thank you for coming." This is the first time I have ever heard of THANKING people for attending a funeral. Wasn't she out of order?

SIMPLE QUESTION

DEAR SIMPLE: I see you are going to be attending the funeral. And if you do, you appear to have dug uncommonly deep to find fault.

DEAR ABBY: I have been going steady with a nice man for six months and he wants me to meet his people. He says his mother wants me to come for dinner. I am 28 and he is 32. When I go to his house for dinner for the first time, should I offer to help his mother with the dishes afterwards? I have never met his mother or father.

NERVOUS

DEAR NERVOUS: If his mother has no help in the kitchen and it is apparent that she must do her own cleaning up, by all means offer to help.

DEAR ABBY: Just a comment on the letter from the mother of a fifth grader who wanted a girder belt and nylon stockings. My 12-year-old son is a born conformist. In the fifth he started giving me this "But, Mom, everybody else is . . ." business. I broke him of the habit by answering, "Fine. Give me a list of all the boys and I'll call their mothers and see what they say." Naturally, I was never given the name of one boy. And that put a stop to it.

We The Women:

By Ruth Millett

"Circumstances make it necessary for me to move in with my married daughter," a woman in her 60 writes.

"I want to be as little nuisance as possible to her and her family. I've figured out a list of errors to avoid. Perhaps you can give me some suggestions, too, on how to make this move as painless as I can."

I'd say the most important thing of all is the idea you already have: to fit into the family with as little commotion and friction as possible. To do that you'll have to maintain a lot of independence. Don't count on your daughter and her husband for your social life. Make friends on your own. Have some outside interests of your own. And let it be understood from the start that "mother" can look after herself.

The mothers who are hardest on a young couple to share a home with are the ones who are completely dependent on the young folks for all they do. Such women never get out and do anything on their own. That constant dependency is hard on a young couple.

Remember, too, that the young folks should have the house to themselves, occasionally, even if you have to go to a movie alone to give it to them. When they are entertaining young friends, manage somehow to get out of the way, without letting them feel you think you aren't wanted.

Be wary about giving advice or showing disapproval at the way your daughter and her husband manage their life. You naturally will see what you consider to be mistakes they are making and will be tempted to point them out. Don't. And never take sides in a family argument. In fact, when things look stormy, it would be a good idea to get out of the way. A good fight sometimes clears the air for a married couple, but not if there is a witness to it.

Consideration and a cheerful manner will make you a welcome member of the home.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

I play with a great many partners during the course of a year. Invariably they ask if I have any set rules for them to follow and I always tell them this, "Any time you double your opponents when you are going to be on lead have your mind made up as to what you are going to lead."

There is a lot of experience behind this request. Occasionally you get a chance to double a contract that you know you will set several tricks. In many more instances the double is likely to be a close one and a bad lead may allow declarer to romp home. So, in close situations be sure you have a good lead before you double.

lead at your disposal yet that good lead sure is a help. South had one of those 18 point hands that is really too strong for a one no-trump opening and when West overcalled with two hearts, South felt impelled to try three diamonds. West's double was really inspired. He had two trump tricks, a fine lead, a stout heart and little else, but he felt sure that East was going to show up with some nice tickets.

West was right on all counts. East was loaded and the trump opening pulverized the unfortunate declarer. Even though dummy came through with two club tricks South had to lose two spades, one heart, two trumps and a club for 500 points minus.

Accidental Discovery

A Bedouin boy, in 1947, searching for a stray goat in the desolate wilderness of Judea, idly cast a stone into a small opening among the cliffs bordering the Dead Sea. Hearing the shattering of pottery, he investigated and found several large earthen jars, in which were aged scrolls wrapped in foul-smelling linen. His discovery set off a search that yielded many priceless documents—the famed Dead Sea scrolls.

Supernova

In 1054, Chinese astronomers recorded the appearance of a star so bright it shone by day, blazing for a few months, then disappearing. This was what is nature's rarest and most awesome fireworks—a supernova. A supernova is an exploding star that may erupt with the brightness of 100 million suns.

Lynn Jackson, J. C. Graves 11 United In Chapel Ceremony

In a candlelight ceremony, at 4 p.m. Dec. 28, Catherine Lynn Jackson became the bride of John Calvin Graves II, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Calvin Graves. The bride is the daughter of Rear Admiral USN (ret) Robert Woods Jackson and Mrs. Jackson.

Rev. Grover Sewell performed the double ring ceremony at the U. S. Naval Air Station Chapel. The chapel was decorated with lighted tapers and arrangements of white fugi mums and white carnations. Mrs. Robert Smith was organist and Mrs. Harry Echelberger, soloist, sang "Song of Ruth" by Gounod and "Today O Lord" by R. DeKoven.

Admiral Jackson gave his daughter in marriage and for her vows she wore a white lace and taffeta gown. The bodice was fashioned of hand clipped lace with a square neckline, outlined in seed pearls, and the long sleeves ended in points over the shoulders. The full skirt was designed with alternating panels of lace and taffeta, the panels spotted with lace bows, and falling into a chapel length train. The finger tip length veil of illusion was edged in lace and attached to a fitted lace cap outlined in seed pearls. Her shoes were lace covered and she carried a cascade of white carnations and lily-of-the-valley. She wore a pearl and diamond tiara, a gift from the bridegroom.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN CALVIN GRAVES II

Sharon Jackson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mrs. Richard C. Matz, Kent, Ohio, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Both attendants were dressed in blue velvet sheaths with a jacket of blue silk organza. The jackets fell in fullness at the back waistline to the edge of the dresses. Their small head coverings were of matching material and they carried crescents of white carnations.

John Calvin Graves was best man for his son and ushers were James Hawkins, Lakeland, and Richard C. Matz, Kent, Ohio. Mrs. Jackson chose for her daughter's wedding, a beige Chantilly lace dress, with matching headpiece and wore a corsage of green cypripedium orchids.

Mrs. Graves, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue brocade Chanel suit with a blue jeweled pillbox hat. Her corsage was of pink cymbidium orchids.

The bride's parents entertained with a small reception at their lakefront home immediately following the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with a white grass-linen cloth and centered with the wedding cake and silver candelabra. The bridegroom's table was decorated with yellow fugi mums in brass containers and held the small boxes containing bridegroom's cake for the guests.

The couple left for a wedding trip and will make their home in Miami. Out of town guests here for the wedding were Mrs. S. E. Graves, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Graves and Mrs. Clifford Boone, Tampa; Mrs. B. F. Scribner, Berkeley, Calif.; Mrs. F. W. Jackson, Mrs. C. Vrooman and Mr. and Mrs. John Robinson, Winter Park; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Knachel, and Virginia Robinson, Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Tillman Stone, Jacksonville Beach; Mr. and Mrs. B. ## Lake Mary Woman's Club Entertained By "Cowboy"

Big Slim the lone cowboy, a nationally known celebrity in the "hillbilly" world, and a star on the original "Jamboree" over WWVA in Wheeling, W. Va., for 28 years, and his wife, Terri Linn, put on an outstanding performance for the Lake Mary Woman's Club at a recent dinner meeting.

The stars had just completed a tour of Canada before coming here. He has traveled many times with USO shows in Japan, Korea, Germany and other parts of the world. In entertaining the guests he sang several songs, his wife sang, and they joined forces singing together while he accompanied on the banjo and guitar. He told interesting anecdotes about friends, Hank Snow, Hank Williams and other big names, between acts. His ability in sharp shooting was demonstrated by splitting a bullet on a butcher knife to hit two targets simultaneously. The vanishing art of bull whip tricks - splitting paper behind his wife's back, and other feats of skill were done.

The couple came to Sanford to visit her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. George Dodson of Lake Mary, are now residing here temporarily, and hope to find a home in this area for retirement. His performance for the club was the first in this area.

The candlelight dinner was at the Chamber of Commerce building in Lake Mary, decorated in the holiday manner for the big event. Red tapers, trimmed with holly, lighted the long serving board which was covered with a green cloth. Members contributed the food, each providing the dish for which she is famous, for the dinner honoring their husbands.

Mrs. Olan Boutwell was chairman, assisted by Mrs. Curtis Green, Mrs. W. C. Hopkins, Mrs. Clifford Gor-

June Marie O'Connor Speaks Vows With Carl M. Remusat

June Marie O'Connor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. O'Connor, and Carl Mitchell Remusat, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. August Remusat, were married at 1 p.m. Dec. 14.

Rev. John Adams performed the ceremony in First Methodist Church. Potted palms, baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums decorated the church. Mrs. Ben Wiggins, organist, played traditional music and Bob Crumley, soloist, sang "O Promise Me" and "I Love You."

The bride, given in marriage by Clarence Barlow, wore a white dress with a scalloped lace bodice and long sleeves. The bell-shaped skirt was fashioned in satin and pearls formed a scalloped pattern in the front. Her finger-length veil fell from a pearl crown tiara. She carried a star-shaped bouquet of carnations centered with a white orchid, and wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom.

Mrs. Jeanette Andrews was matron of honor and wore an emerald green satin dress with three-quarter length sleeves and a scooped neckline, with matching shoes and pillbox hat. She carried a nosegay of gold carnations. Barb Winship, flower girl, wore a pale rose taffeta dress with a bell-shaped skirt, a matching pillbox hat and carried a basket of rose petals and carnations.

Mrs. Helen Remusat, step-mother of the bridegroom, chose a beige dress designed with a lace top and shantung skirt, a beige feathered hat and matching shoes. Her flower was a beige orchid.

For the reception, McKinley Hall was decorated with potted palms and baskets of carnations and fern. The bride's table was covered with a lace tablecloth and held the three-tiered wedding cake, red and white mums and candelabra. Mrs. Tom Raynor and Mrs. B. B. Crumley were in charge of the reception, and Mrs. Onlee Maher served the punch. Mrs. Ellen Munday and Glenda Albert were floating hostesses and Mrs. Raynor and Mrs. Maher served the cake.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to Nassau, the bride wore a brown and white jersey knit suit with matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. They will make their home on Silver Lake.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Remusat, Toledo, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maher and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Anderson, Orlando; Mr. and Mrs. Levell McGee, Melrose; Mrs. Adela Hancock, Bowling Green, and Mrs. Lily Lotz, DeBary.

Use Dry Milk To Stretch Food Dollar

Using nonfat dry milk is an easy way to stretch your food dollar, according to Myrtle Wilson, home demonstration agent. You can use it in many ways in family meals and no special recipes are necessary. In any recipe calling for milk you can simply add the milk powder to other dry ingredients such as flour or sugar, and then add water for the necessary amount of liquid. For instance, if a recipe for cake calls for one cup of milk, use four tablespoons of dry milk powder and one cup of water. Don't be afraid that your cake will not turn out well. Most of the cake mixes that you buy in the store contain dry milk and as a rule they give good results.

Some More Thoughts On The Succession

By Holmes Alexander
 WASHINGTON — William Benton (D-Conn.), who served in the U.S. Senate and State Department, writes me in agreement with a column which upheld the Speaker of the House as the logical and democratic successor to a Vice President who has gone to the White House. But Mr. Benton, a serious and informed thinker — publisher of the Encyclopedia Britannica — goes further. He writes:

"I go so far as to think that the Vice Presidency ought to be abolished and that the Speaker of the House should always be the successor to the President. I know too much about the way the Vice Presidential candidates have been selected. The process of selection is too accidental and too haphazard. The Speaker of the House is always an experienced politician who has been tested in the crucible. Yes, let us abolish the Vice Presidency."

Well, a good many people back through history have agreed with Mr. Benton. John Adams, the first Vice President, thought it the most useless office ever devised by the brain of man. Theodore Roosevelt considered himself mousetrapped in the post by Mark Hanna, who wanted to take T.R. out of circulation. If you have an idle evening to review the standard histories of the Democratic and Republican parties, written by Frank R. Kent and William Starr Myers, respectively, you can refresh your memory on the Throttlebottoms whom both parties have nominated as presidential stand-bys.

Yet only in one instance did a vice presidential successor bring disaster with him, and in no instance was a President-by-accident any sort of a personal disgrace. Andrew Johnson, a Southerner, did not have the genius to carry out Lincoln's program for the defeated Confederacy ("with malice toward none"), but he did no worse in an impossible fix than several duly elected Presidents have done in times of depression and party split. We only had one disgrace in the White House — Warren Harding — whose stand-in, Calvin Coolidge, proved the better man on the ticket.

It is hard to find much fault with the successors of this century — Roosevelt, Coolidge, Freeman, Johnson, Or, back in the 19th century, with Tyler, who was a better man than President Harrison, or with Fillmore, who had it all over President Taylor. Even the most obscure successor, Chester Arthur, who followed Garfield, did a creditable relief job, though his only national experience had been as Collector of the Port of New York, a political job he got under President Grant and lost under President Hayes. And yet, as Myers wrote, "Arthur really made a success as President." An-

Sunshine Circle Holds Meeting

By Jane Casselberry
 The Sunshine Circle of the Casselberry Community Methodist WSCS met Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. John Birkheimer, 1490 Seminola Boulevard, Casselberry. Mrs. Phillip Caesbar led the devotions.

Circle Chairman Mrs. John Howard reported on the group's Christmas visit to elderly patients of the Shaner Nursing Home in Casselberry when small gifts, fruit, cookies and gay holiday decorations were taken to the home by circle members. Christmas carols were sung by a trio consisting of Mrs. Darwin Shea and her daughters, Darlene and Valerie.

The circle voted to again visit the home on Valentine's Day.

A study on Southeast Asia will begin at the next meeting to be held Feb. 4 at the home of Mrs. I. G. Reuter, 325 Piney Ridge Road, Casselberry. Refreshments of Danish pastry, coffee and tea were served by the hostess prior to the meeting.

other historian, James Ford Rhodes, said: "Arthur was fundamentally a gentleman and was simply his better self during his occupancy of the presidency."

Abolition of the vice presidency, it appears to me, would not insure us against getting duds in the White House. We have had them there by election, as was said true in the case of William Howard Taft, to say nothing of Grant who, despite malodorous scandals in his two Administrations, came close to getting a third-term nomination. The democratic process is not foolproof, or we would never have chosen Harding over Cox. The responsibility goes back to the party system which ought to offer us two tickets of four estimable men. John F. Kennedy's insistence upon Johnson seems the best, most responsible example that history has yet recorded.

Mr. Benton further proposes that any successor to a vacant White House be required to face almost immediate confirmation at the polls. He writes:

"There's nothing sacred about having presidential elections in the present rhythm of every four years. . . Most of the European countries have their elections at what seems to them the most appropriate time — rather than on any fixed rhythm. . . But, there is, I contend, something 'sacred' and American about the four-year rhythm. It has served us well. Indeed, the mystique which attaches to the American presidency is demonstrably a better guaranty of excellence than many whoop-and-holler campaigns have been. The seven Vice Presidents who have succeeded by death are a long way from being the seven worst Presidents we ever had."

We need a lot of thinking on the succession subject, and Mr. Benton's contributions are welcome and cogent. But when it comes to "sober second thoughts," the existing system stands. It has stood the test of time.

Lyman Band Group Presents Program For Civic League

By Donna Estes
 Six members of the Lyman High School Band presented a program of entertainment for the regular monthly meeting of the Longwood Civic League which took place Tuesday.

The musical group played a variety of songs including "Bill Bailey," "High Society" and "When the Saints Go Marching In." Instrumentalists presenting the program were Richard Morgan, Pat McLaughlin, Dennis House, Roger Deppen, William Wharton and Jim Gerard, who also played a banjo solo.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hill, president, who conducted the meeting, announced that a Hobby Show will be held at the Civic League Building on Saturday, Jan. 25, from 2 until 4 p.m.

Mrs. Geneva Start will serve as chairman of the event and the displays will be open for viewing by the public. Members of the League will be urged to submit hobby displays for judging. The best exhibits will be entered in the Federation of Women's Clubs Hobby Show scheduled for Jan. 28 at Sorosis House in Orlando.

In other business at Tuesday's meeting, the annual card party was planned for Friday, Jan. 24, at 8 p.m. at the Civic League Building. The public is invited and refreshments will be served. Tickets are available from any member. Mrs. Garland Shaw has been named chairman of the party.

Tables for the meeting were beautifully decorated with arrangements of camelias. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. W. E. Schellig, Mrs. J. O. Durning, Mrs. B. C. Greene, Mrs. Edgar Fawcett and Mrs. Ralph Hammond.

The next meeting will be on Feb. 4.

Demo Leaders Turn Heat On For Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic leaders turned on the pressure today to shove through Congress major parts of President Johnson's program and to get them enacted by summer, as he bluntly suggested.

They set tentatively for February a House vote on Johnson's top priority measure, a broad anti-discrimination bill aimed at safe-guarding Negro rights in voting, schools, jobs and use of public accommodations.

Hearings started on the measure today in the rules committee.

In the Senate, leaders stepped up the timetable for final committee action on a House-passed $11 billion tax cut—next on Johnson's legislative must list—and tentatively planned to put it to a floor vote in February, about the same time the House acts on civil rights.

Senate leaders also were acting on new moves to speed the lagging legislative machine for earlier-than-usual handling of other controversial chores, such as the dozen or more annual money bills Congress must pass.

In his first State of the Union message Wednesday Johnson put the civil rights and tax bills at the top of his list, but packaged them with an array of other welfare and economic requests. Congressional leaders said privately some of these simply could not be handled this year.

There is an abundance of natural beauty in Seminole County—and a climate that calls one to the beautiful outdoors every month of the year.

RFK Offers To Campaign For Democrats

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today he would remain in his cabinet post until after the presidential election.

The brother of the late President Kennedy also said he would be available to play whatever role would be useful to the Democratic party in the election campaign.

Although he has been back at work for some time, Kennedy has avoided the public limelight as much as possible since the assassination of his brother on Nov. 22.

The attorney general previously had told personal friends only that he would remain in office "at least until Congress acts on the civil rights legislation and probably through the election."

He went one step further in an interview today in which he detailed his plans for the immediate future. He said he had thought about his personal outlook beyond the election but had made no firm decisions that far ahead.

"My one interest really is being attorney general," he said. "I just don't know what I will do in the future. I certainly will stay as attorney general through the election." "I would be available to campaign," he said. "There hasn't been anything said about it but I'll do whatever anyone in the administration or Democratic party feels is helpful."

Changes Coming In America's Airlines

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Small, fast airplanes likely will be buzzing into America's transportation picture like a swarm of busy bees.

The reason is that many large airlines may be cutting back service to smaller cities across the nation. The gap will be filled—and in some cases service will be broadened—by air taxis, planes defined by the Civil Aeronautics Board as weighing not over 12,500 pounds. They give scheduled, irregular or demand service.

More than 2,600 air taxi operators envision a rich harvest of business flowing from the decision of the Federal Aviation Agency and the CAB to trim government subsidies to airports and airlines. Because such subsidies can spell the difference between black and red ink, many airlines may have to eliminate service to many small communities. Taxis will zoom into the vacuum, carrying passengers into the scheduled airline network.

A side benefit to passengers may be that those in areas not now serviced by regular lines will find air taxis increasingly available.

Air taxi operators feel that their future is rosy for many reasons: While there are over 6,000 airports in the United States, fewer than 600 have scheduled airline service. For the passenger traveling to or from one of the 5,400 off-airline cities, air taxis provide the means to go all the way by air.

The idea of having one airport serve all cities in a geographical region endorsed by FAA and CAB will further reduce the number of airline-served airports in the years ahead.

CAB's use-it-or-lose-it program will wreak a steady attrition of smaller towns that will lose scheduled air service for lack of support.

Pressed by CAB and Congress to reduce their subsidy needs, airlines will gradually give up marginal traffic points or at least cut to a minimum number of daily landings.

With today's emphasis on speed, many passengers may become reluctant to spend almost as much time in surface travel at the end of a 1,300-mile plane trip as they spend in the air.

For example, without air taxi, a businessman traveling from Los Angeles to Fredericksburg, Va., could jet to Washington's Dulles Airport in less than four hours, but would then have to spend an additional two and a half hours getting to Fredericksburg via limousine and bus.

By air taxi, he can fly from Dulles to Fredericksburg in 20 minutes.

A major step in the air taxi breakthrough is creation of the National Air Taxi Service Guide, just issued as part of the Official Airline Guide. It lists the cities served by members of the National Air Taxi Conference (NATC), exact fares for single and twin-engine aircraft, the number of passengers who can be carried and estimated flying time.

The guide has been distributed to 23 major airlines which recognize NATC. These airlines will make air taxi reservations for passengers.

Board Unable To Agree On University Site; Members Deadlocked On Lake Ada, Bluestone

Orange, Seminole Asked To Resubmit Proposals

BULLETIN

By Fred Van Felt
TALLAHASSEE — The State Board of Control here this afternoon split on a selection of the university site, being equally divided for Lake Ada and Bluestone. After a prolonged argument, the board voted 3-2 for Bluestone and the chairman, Baya Harrison, tied it up by voting for Lake Ada. Then they followed with a separate vote on each site. The results were 3-3 for Bluestone, 3-3 for Lake Ada and 2-2 against Econ.

The board then opened the selection matter again by instructing Orange and Seminole Counties to resubmit bids last leaving in consideration.

Goldwater Stirs Up Demos With Blast At ICBM

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater "caught hell" as he predicted he would for questioning the reliability of American missiles, but he may have opened up a major defense issue for this election year.

The issue is whether the Democratic administration is putting too much dependence on strategic missiles and letting the bomber forces run down in size without developing new types of manned strategic aircraft.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara cut loose a message blast at Goldwater Thursday shortly after the Republican presidential aspirant ended a swing in New Hampshire with the claim that U. S. intercontinental rockets are "not dependable."

McNamara accused the senator, a reserve Air Force major general, of making a statement that was "completely misleading, politically irresponsible and damaging to the national security." There was no support for the senator's claim that the nation was unable to depend on its long range missiles to carry out their mission, the defense chief said.

The Democrats, who came to power claiming there was a "missile gap" and found there was none, have had to combat before now the contention that they are going too far too fast in relying on missiles and deemphasizing bombers. Concern has been voiced by congressional Democrats as well as Republicans.

The Air Force, in which Goldwater recently served two weeks on active duty, has pronounced feelings both that new bomber-type planes should be developed and that more missiles than now planned should be bought. It believes a "mix" of the two will continue to be needed for a proper deterrent force.

Cigarette Tax $4 Million

The director of the State Beverage Department, Richard B. Keating, reported today that cigarette tax collections for the month of November, 1963, amounted to nearly $4 million.

Of this amount almost $850,000 will go to the state's general revenue fund and the remaining $3 million plus will be distributed to qualified municipalities.

Those municipalities in Seminole participating in the distribution are as follows: Altamonte Springs $1,918, Casselberry $3,678, Longwood $2,606, North Orlando $236, Oviedo $1,175, and Sanford $14,482.

Lyman Caravan

A caravan sponsored by the Lyman Boosters Club will leave the Longwood school at 5:30 p.m. today to attend the Lyman High basketball game in Apopka.

Econ, Bluestone, Lake Ada and Deseret.

Douglas Stenstrom of Sanford strongly protested against the Board of Control's lack of a decision, pointing out that both Orange and Seminole Counties devoted many hours of their time and spent thousands of dollars following the policies and regulations laid down by the board. He pointed out that they should have made a decision today.

But Dr. Wayne McCall, Ocala, said it was urgent that the board move now on locating this facility "even if we make a mistake."

The arguments on this engineering extension or GEN-ESYS program as it's been dubbed by the academicians, and other matters consumed so much time that the board adjourned for lunch without reaching the major business before it—selection of a site in the Orlando-Sanford area for the new university.

Chairman Baya Harrison of St. Petersburg has already indicated that if the board bogged down today in making a final choice, he would recommend starting all over again in the search for a site.

The board spent three months narrowing its proposed locations down to four. The members sat down today with the four choices facing them: The so-called Econ site bordering the city limits of Oviedo in Seminole County, 2,500 acres; a 1,300-acre site on the edge of Sanford in Seminole County; the Bluestone site south of Orlando in Orange County, and a 2,625-acre site on the Bradford-Deerola County line close to Eau Gallie.

This last site was offered Thursday by backers of the Deseret site east of Orlando in Orange County as a last minute alternate which might satisfy the wishes of Cape Kennedy officials for a university easily accessible to thousands of missile center workers and the growing general population in the area around the Cape.

The Deseret site had been taken informally out of consideration in a meeting at Orlando.

Missile Range Commander Gen. Leighton I. Davis and Dr. Kurt Debus, head of the Kennedy Space Center on the Cape, met with the governor earlier this week to relay the feelings of Cape-area leaders on locating the university.

Thursday, Bryant met privately with the governor's mansion with Harrison and three other board members. An associate said the governor passed on the arguments of the Cape Kennedy officials but did not attempt to influence the board's choice.

The governor will have his say when the recommendation of the board comes before the Cabinet Board of Education, which Bryant heads.

City To Buy Woodruff Building

The City of Sanford has completed negotiations and the purchase of the Woodruff Building situated on the northwest corner of First Street and Park Avenue in downtown Sanford.

The announcement was made at noon today by Mayor A. L. Wilson from Tallahassee where he is attending today's meeting of the State Board of Control.

The cost of the building was reported to be $60,000. The city, according to reports, intended to raze the structure and utilize the land for a downtown parking facility.

City Commissioner James Crappo told The Herald this afternoon that the commission has not yet decided if it will place meters on the parking area.

The building, constructed in 1888, has been a longtime landmark in the Sanford area.

The grapevine's busy again. This time it tells the Clock that Mrs. Marjorie Shepard, deputy tax collector for the past 12 years, will run for the office her boss will vacate at the end of his present term. We understand that she will look into the feasibility of a south Seminole tag renewal service.

Wednesday the Clock reported that realtors in Seminole had some of the best listings they've had in a long time. Today, Ed Leauberburg, AMN Enterprises' vice president, says his firm sold themselves right out of office space in the Tee 'N Green Development.

The Clock watches are at it again. One expresses the hope that someone will put a cafeteria in the old A&P Food Store at Second and Magnolia. "It's a shame," says he, "for a city to be the size of Sanford not to have one. He referred to the new Tradewinds which opened last week in Casselberry's Seminole Plaza. One night this week the Plaza's parking lot — which can handle hundreds of cars — was almost at full capacity.

From another Clock Watcher: "If the federal government needs a space school as badly as Gen. Davis and Dr. Debus claim, then let the federal government build it. Our caller was Peter Kurbch, a complex engineer at the Cape Kennedy Test Center. He says it would be ridiculous to put the East Central Florida University in Brevard. To paraphrase a statement by Dr. Debus: "It would be as useless to high school grads in the area as putting it at the North Pole."

The Methodist Children's Home is in need of several Christian couples to serve as home parents. Couples in their late 40's or in their 50's who no longer have children at home and who would like an opportunity for service are invited to apply. If you're interested contact Walter D. Tropp at the home in Enterprise.

Here's another new Florida traffic law: pedestrians are subject to traffic control signals at all intersections. Where sidewalks are provided a pedestrian must not, unless required by other circumstances, walk upon the portion of a roadway paved for vehicular traffic. Where sidewalks are not provided, pedestrians must walk only on the shoulder of the roadway. So, be careful where you walk. It might not only cost you money, it could cost you your life.

Now that it's about time to get new tags, this morning we heard about one fellow who said his car was so old it would have to have upper and lower plates.

SHERIFF J. L. HOBBY dons an apron as he prepares to join the "Marching Mothers" later this month on behalf of the Seminole County's March of Dimes campaign. "Helping to wage war against birth defects and arthritis," said Hobby, shown with General Chairman Bill Reck, "is cause enough for me to participate in this march." All Seminole County mothers says Reck, are urged to join with Sheriff Hobby in making this year's effort a success. (Herald Photo)

School Opening 6-12 Weeks Off, Board Says

The Seminole County Board of Public Instruction told a delegation of mothers representing parent-teacher groups of the English Estates and South Seminole elementary schools Thursday that it may be from six to 12 weeks before the English Estates plant is ready of occupancy.

The delegation, inquiring as to why the new school was not ready for use when sessions resumed after the holidays, was informed that the school has been completed except for the installation of a lift station necessary to finish work on the plant's sewage disposal.

The delegation also was told by Supt. R. T. Milwee, that "We are exploring every available avenue to enable us to begin classes at English Estates as quickly as we can."

Approach roads to the English Estates school, South Seminole Elementary and South Seminole Junior High also came in for inquiries by the delegation. County Engineer William Bush Jr., said that he had been authorized to complete only a clay stabilized road to the English Estates plant.

When questioned about the possibility of improving the Winter Park Drive approaches to South Seminole Elementary and South Seminole Junior High schools, Bush stated that the section of the road to which "Casselberry's" corporate limits and there is nothing the county can do about it.

Milwee said this morning that he and members of the school board appreciated the delegation coming to the meeting with their inquiries. "Their questions," he stated, "led to an understanding of their problems and ours."

Asked if the county school officials knew before school sessions closed for his holidays that English Estates school would not be ready for occupancy, Milwee declared, "No, we expected to open the English Estates or we would not have announced it. If we had not expected the school to open we would have said so and would have explained the reasons why."

Milwee went on to explain, "We knew that the lift station required for the sewer system would not be ready. However, we expected Northeast Sewer Corporation, a privately owned company, would temporarily connect our system in its lines and utilize a special type of pumps. But the Northeast firm could not locate the kind of pumps required."

He concluded, "This is the problem we encountered. We regret the school was not opened as planned so that double sessions could be eliminated at South Seminole Elementary School. Aside from the sewer connections, the facility is complete, and we plan to open it at the earliest possible date."

Shot Fired Into Home
The Sanford Police Department reported this morning that a shot was fired into the home of Mrs. Muriel Hunt at 703 South Oak Ave. early Thursday evening. Investigating officers believe it was fired from a BB gun since no bullet of any kind was found.

The shot entered the front window of the Hunt residence where Mrs. Hunt had been sitting. The window was shattered and glass was scattered about the room.

State Ends '63 On Upsurge
TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Florida ended 1963 on an upward economic surge, Revenue Commission Director J. Ed Straughn reported Thursday.

Straughn said sales tax collections, a good barometer of business in the state, totaled $18.3 million in December, an increase of about 17 per cent over December of 1962.

Sloan Enters Race For Tax Collector

Study L. Sloan, an Atlantic Coast Line executive, today announced the first candidate to formally announce his candidacy for public office.

Sloan, a native Floridian and a resident of Seminole County for the past 22 years, declared for the office of county tax collector, the post currently held by John L. Gallows who previously stated that he would not be a candidate for re-election.

In addition to being associated with the Coast Line for the past 22 years, Sloan is also a registered real estate broker. He is a member of the Board of Deacons of the First Presbyterian Church, a veteran of World War II, a Mason, member of the Bahia Temple, Sanford Shrine Club, and B.L.F. and E. and the Seminole Numismatic Society. He attended Wake Forest College.

In 1961, Sloan was appointed to the Advisory Council of the Florida Industrial Commission by Gov. Bryant.

"I am confident," Sloan said today, "that I can manage the affairs of the tax collector's office. If I am elected I will endeavor to serve all of the people of Seminole County to the very best of my ability. I am highly interested in politics and in the field of public service, and I consider myself capable of carrying out the respective duties of the office to the satisfaction of all our citizens."

Vance Named To Gilpatric Post
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army Secretary Cyrus R. Vance, a longtime aide of President Johnson, has been named to succeed Roswell D. Gilpatric in the Defense Department's second most important job.

Gilpatric, deputy to Secretary Robert S. McNamara since 1961, leaves the Pentagon Jan. 20 to return to his law practice in New York. His departure, expected since last June, has been delayed by the Senate's investigation of the controversial TFX war plane contract award.

To succeed Vance, Johnson Thursday nominated the Army's present undersecretary, Stephen Alles, who like his predecessor, is from West Virginia.

Heavy Fighting Flares Again In Panama

BALMORA, Canal Zone (UPI) — Heavy fighting broke out again today between rioting Panamanian mobs and U. S. Army troops at the border separating the Canal Zone from Panama City.

About 300 rock-throwing Panamanians gathered on the Panama City side of the border at mid-day to attack American soldiers on the other side. The soldiers used tear gas and rifle fire to keep the rioters in check.

Other street mobs attacked the U.S.-owned Tropical Radio office in downtown Panama City near the plush Hotel Panama.

All of the American casualties were on the zone side of the border and resulted from mob attacks, American authorities said.

The anti-American rioting resumed just before dawn with a mob attack on the U. S. embassy in Panama City. President Robert F. Chiari denounced Thursday night what he termed American "aggression" and suspended diplomatic relations with Washington.

Ministers To Install Tonight
Rev. Grover Sewell, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, will be installed as 1964 president of the Sanford Ministerial Association when the organization convenes tonight at the Tradewinds Cafeteria.

The association's outgoing president, Rev. John T. Adams Jr., pastor of the First Methodist Church of Sanford will install the new presiding officer.

Rev. Charles Dees Jr., pastor of the Sanford Alliance Church, will be installed as vice president and Rev. Fred B. Chance, pastor of Sanford's First Baptist Church, as secretary-treasurer.

JOHN ROBERT SCHOENFELD, 107 Country Club Circle, escaped serious injuries Thursday night when his late model convertible skidded on wet pavement into a gondola car which was part of a northbound Atlantic Coast Line freight train at Lake Mary Road and West 25th St. Schoenfeld, the driver, was charged with reckless driving by Sanford Police Capt. A. S. Williams. (Herald Photo)
