A Rapid Heart Beat Disturbing

DEAR DR. LAMB—I'm a 47-year-old female and have occasional spells of rapid heart beat. They always occur without notice and I don't have any pain with them although at times it feels as if I'm not getting enough air.

They occur when I'm bending over such as to pick up a friarise while playing or while raking leaves or sweeping dust into a dust pan or picking up clothes. The spells also happen when I have an argument with my husband and once when I went to the hospital to be with my sister when her husband died. In these cases I was very upset.

Suddenly the heart starts beating at about 150 beats per minute and lasts for a few minutes or 15 or 20 minutes. Then it stops just as suddenly as it started and everything is normal again. This has been going on for 20 years. Usually about twice a year. I have had blood tests, electrocardiogram and everything checks out fine. I don't smoke or drink alcohol or coffee but do have a cup of tea every day.

A few years ago my doctor told me he couldn't find anything wrong other than nerves. Now my family is all grown and I would like to go back to work but I fear that one of these unpleasant attacks will happen on the job. If there is nothing wrong why does this happen to me? Can I do something that will prevent it from happening?

DEAR READER—It's hard for people to realize when the body functions in an unusual manner that it isn't because there is a germ lurking around, a broken bone or some other specific thing that we can name the whole episode upon. There are a lot of times that the body just doesn't work perfectly.

against it, but one South player made it and went up around 150 IMP's on the field. It wasn't really that hard to make. West was one of those players who always gave count. He dropped his 10 of hearts. New South cashed all the minor suit cards and came to the queen-10 of spades in dummy and the seven of spades and six of hearts. South, who watched spades, scored the slam trick with the six of hearts.

The Canadian invitationals was a pair event with IMP scoring. As such, while it didn't pay much, big plus scores went to pairs that bid and made. The opponents received equally bad scores. Sometimes losers were responsible for their bad scores. Take this hand as an example. About half the South players reached six-trump contracts. The other half played three trump and made from nine to 11 tricks.

Californian Will Lead Midge War

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Dr. Ashad Ali, a native of Pakistan, and postgraduate research entomologist at the University of California at Riverside, will assume responsibility as head of the blind mosquito research program at the University of Florida's Agricultural, Research and Education Center (AREC) in Sanford on Sept. 1 at a salary of $30,000 annually, according to Dr. John Darby, director at the AREC, Sanford.

He was selected from two finalists for the post after personal interviews by a team of scientists including two from the AREC, Sanford.

The research program is being funded with $50,000 in state money and a grant from the University of Florida. In addition, the county commission has approved federal funding for three laboratory technicians for their program.

Dr. Ali has headed up a blind mosquito control program for the past four years at the University of California. In a 10-minute seminar to local research scientists, he outlined the work and results of his four-year research.

He has published more than 20 articles, most of them on the midge, in national professional journals. That program cost California and the federal government hundreds of thousands of dollars during a four-year period, Dr. Darby said.

Dr. Ali, 35, was born in Lahore, Pakistan, and received a master of science degree from the University of Punjab, Pakistan, in 1965 with a major in zoology, fresh water biology. He received a second master of science degree with a major in aquatic entomology and ecology from the University of Sanford, England in 1969. In 1972, Dr. Ali received a doctorate from the University of Sanford with a major in aquatic entomology and ecology.

Dr. Don Hall of the University of Florida will continue to be the contact in Gainesville for the research program, and will give guidance, according to Dr. Darby.

During his research in California, Dr. Ali conducted work in both chemical and biological control of the midge. He will share equipment, vehicles and boat with the scientists at the Sanford center.

Because of his extensive research, he is considered one of the experts in the United States on the blind mosquito, Dr. Darby said.

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, over a one-year period of time, first studied eradication of the insect and then determined that the blind mosquito could not be satisfactorily prevented by larvicides or insecticides because of the delicate chemical balance that would have to be maintained to prevent fish kills and adversely affect the environment.

In concert with the University of Florida, it was determined that a long-range research program is needed to find a biological control such as introduction of parasites and predators.

The approval by the state of the funding is initiating the multi-year research project, concentrated on finding an environmentally acceptable method of managing the pest in such a way that the population of the blind mosquito will be reduced to an acceptable level.

The research program will also give immediate assistance to the affected areas in proper insect control of the pests.

John Kridler, who headed the task force, noted that in 1968 Seminole County was bothered for a two-week period by hordes of blind mosquitoes. By 1977 the severity of the problem had increased to new cover a six-to-eight month span or more than a 10-fold increase over the last 10 years, he said.

The impact study conducted by the task force showed that the midge is costing property owners, government and the business community millions of dollars.

'Timing' Is Key In Library Opposition

By MAX KERRILEYAN
Herald Staff Writer

Opposition to Seminole County's proposed shift from the Orlando Public Library (OPL) to an independent system by Oct. 1, "I wouldn't want to imply that our direction was not totally unclear. I think we made it clear by the poll taken Monday that we want to go independent," said Williams.

A final vote on that decision will be taken after public budget hearings Sept. 5 and 6. Williams said the reason for breaking with OPL is the need for Seminole County to control its own library system.

"The attitude of OPL regarding the service it would give under the contract and for the price was: Here is the bundle and you take it at this price only," said Williams.

OPL's hardline on control of library services, "takes out of the hands of Seminole County any input into the kinds of library service we have," commented Williams.

"We have long said over the years there are certain points of library service we want over others such as books and reading materials over paintings and records. That sort of thing is completely out of our hands as well as the budget," declared Williams.

Seminole County joined OPL three years ago at an expense of $450,000. The contract offered this year was for $602,000. Should the commission hold to its position taken in Monday's poll, services will be curtailed in some areas initially, according to Williams.

"There are two time tables to look at," commented Williams. "One is over the short period of time, say the first six to nine months of the fiscal year. During that period there is going to be a definite dip in services, there's no doubt about that, such as in the bookmobile. Currently the bookmobile operates two days a week in Seminole County. It might take up to a year to get a bookmobile for Seminole County."

"Over the long range, when we get our own bookmobile, there will be an increase in the level of service, because we will be able to open five days a week as opposed to the two days we get from OPL," remarked Williams.

Operation of the library in Seminole County will change little under an independent system, according to Williams. In fact, the Sanford facility will operate one more day a week than at present.

Under an independent system, the Casselberry and Sanford facilities will be open six days a week. Presently Sanford is open five days a week and Casselberry is open four days a week.

For Wednesday, August 2, 1978

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Aug. 2, 1978

A secret desire that you've been hoping for, but thought was out of reach, could become a reality this coming year. Chance and luck will be prominent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone with your best interests at heart will be stirring up a lot of dust on your behalf behind the scenes today. The results will be beneficial. Find out to whom you're romantically suited by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $6 cents for each and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 488, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 21) Be a daring dreamer today. Let your hopes run rampant. Even if you fall short of your target, you'll still be a big winner.

LIBRA (Sept. 22-Oct. 21) Key people with clout are the ones for you to deal with today, careerwise. In one fell swoop they'll accomplish things undreamed of by you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 22-Nov. 21) Your greatest benefits will come today from your involvement with organizations, clubs or cliques. Be a mixer, not a loner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Advantages come today from things that you manage for yourself. Keep this in mind if you're interested in chalking up TAURUS (Feb. 20-March 20) Things appear about to take a turn for the better romance-wise. Look your spouse in the eye and make a commitment. Cupid may arrange a rendezvous.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Large project requiring a creative touch are your cup of tea today. You also have the ability to inspire coworkers to use their imagination, too.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Through use of your good humor you should have no difficulty getting others to do even the mundane seem like a fun.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) If something big is on the fire that represents substantial gains, don't put it off tomorrow. You're a dynamite closer today.

CANCER (June 22-July 22) The secret for success today: Be positive and see yourself as lucky. What you envision will manifest itself in reality.

Newsman's Reprieve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The New York Times and one of its reporters threatened with imprisonment for withholding investigative files of a New Jersey murder case won a temporary reprieve today from Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall.

Marshall said reporter Myron Fieber may stay free until noon Friday and postponed a $5,000-a-day fine against the newspaper. The prison sentence and fine were to take effect at noon EDT.

The Times and Fieber want the delay until the Supreme Court or New Jersey courts can consider their contention that the files can be withheld from a state judge under free press protections of the Constitution.

6 N.Y. Firemen Plunge To Death As Market Falls

NEW YORK (UPI) — Six firemen plunged to their deaths today in a four-alarm fire at a Brooklyn supermarket that collapsed in a burning heap of rubble, officials reported. The death toll was the largest for New York City firemen in 12 years.

All four fire department rescue units cut their way through the brick rubble in hopes of finding missing firemen alive. A crane, ordered to the scene to remove debris from over the buried firemen, arrived too late to help.

Hospitals reported six firemen treated for burns and smoke inhalation. None was reported seriously hurt.

Today's disaster was the worst in 12 years — since a fire on Oct. 10, 1966, that killed 12 bystanders and pulled four firemen from the rubble moments later.

The firemen died in a disaster similar to today's. The building in the 1966 fire was being renovated and a weakened floor collapsed beneath the firemen trying to extinguish a stubborn five-alarm blaze. Fire Commissioner Augustus J. Fierman overrode when the roof of a Washington supermarket collapsed unexpectedly. The store had been under renovation, and officials believed the roof might have been weakened by the construction work.

Washington, D.C., while the Super Bowl game in Miami. The pair then tried unsuccessfully to make it look as if neighborhood blocks burned the building, he said.

President Vs. Balking Congress

Turkey Embargo Latest Carter Victory

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With the House vote to lift the arms embargo against Turkey, President Carter is emerging as a leader who can persuade a balky Congress to agree on the foreign affairs matters he really wants.

His winning streak is concentrated in the past few months: ratification of the controversial Panama Canal treaties, and defeat of an effort to block the sale of advanced aircraft to Saudi Arabia and Egypt as well as Israel.

Now, with 208-205 votes of the House Tuesday — and a 57-42 Senate vote last week — he has won approval from Congress to end the 3½-year old arms embargo against Turkey.

But his victories are tempered by some hard facts: —The triumph in the House could easily have been disaster. The compromise amendment would have been defeated had not one member changed his vote and two additional "aye" showed up just before the vote was announced.

—The Panama treaty ratifications were won by dint of many compromises — in the form of complicated amendments — with opponents. It may have been a victory but it, also, was very close to a defeat.

—In the 54-44 Senate vote overriding objections to the triple arms sale to Israel, Saudi Arabia, and Egypt in May, more Democrats voted against Carter's position than for it.

Thirty-three Democrats voted against him while 28 voted supported him; 38 Republicans voted for him with 11 opposed.

administration's recent victory in pushing an energetic system of maintaining liaison with the Congress.

The president has invited large groups of senators and congressmen to the White House for seminars on foreign affairs. He meets weekly with the congressional leadership, and on specific issues has invited members in for briefings, and has gone out of his way to meet informally with particularly concerned legislators, singly and in groups.

But in coming days, Congress may deliver a blow or two at the White House.

The House is expected to average the $7.3 billion foreign aid appropriations with a $64 million cut in funds for international financial institutions. And in the longer run, the fate of a possible new SALT agreement in the Senate is very much in doubt.

Congress, too, has exercised a braking influence on Asian policy towards Asia. Administration expresses to withdraw U.S. ground troops slow — although not stopped from South Korea, and to expand U.S. relations with Vietnam and China has been who see no need to rush.

Conservative Crane 1st To Seek '80 Presidency

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The 1980 presidential campaign was officially under way today — kicked off with the announcement by Rep. Philip Crane, a 47-year old conservative from Illinois, that he will seek the Republican nomination.

By declaring his candidacy more than two years before the convention, Crane becomes the first candidate in either party to open formally his campaign for the White House. The Illinois congressman is declaring his candidacy even earlier than Jimmy Carter, who made his announcement for the 1976 Democratic nomination in late 1974 — partly for the same reason.

Vandals Hit Elementary School, 3 Times

By LEONARD KRANDORF Herald Staff Writer Vandals have struck for the third time in four days at Pincrest Elementary School in Sanford.

The most recent incident was Tuesday when vandals forcibly entered the northeast window of the school at 600 W. 27th St., and entered a classroom, according to reports. Once inside, they pulled items from cabinets and spray-painted the floor and the blackboard.

Desks, closets and cupboards throughout the room. During the weekend vandals caused an undetermined amount of damage in a portable at the school. Desks and doors in the portable were sprayed with spray paint in addition to a fire extinguisher being sprayed throughout the room. As in the other incidents desks and closets were also ransacked.

In an earlier incident vandals entered another class through a window and ransacked the desks, closets and cupboards throughout the room.

Desks and doors in the portable were sprayed with spray paint in addition to a fire extinguisher being sprayed throughout the room.

Postal Strike: Forget It

Some people are never satisfied. One such group seems to be the postal workers in this nation. Only several days ago a tentative agreement between the U.S. Postal Service and four labor unions was completed.

The 19.5 percent pay increase over a three-year period, which includes cost-of-living benefits, fits into President Carter's anti-inflation objective, being only slightly above the 5.5 percent a year pay increase the president has set down.

The initial words of the agreement were greeted with scattered walkouts and slow-downs by workers in several cities. Now there are signs of even more protests, as letter carriers at their convention in Chicago are recommending the nation's 170,000 carriers reject the proposed contract.

Ballots have been mailed to about 550,000 postal workers across the nation. Results are expected in about three weeks.

Strikes by federal employees are illegal. Period. And should be. So any such strike by these workers must invite a firm response by government.

There was an audible sigh of relief when the initial chance of a strike — illegal as it is — was averted with the last-minute contract.

Now this nation must face another a repeat performance.

The public will hardly be sympathetic to any more walkouts or even talk of walkouts. Many postal workers already are earning more than some of their counterparts.

No one asked me, but Pit talk from Daytona Beach has it that Richard Petty might as well forget rabbit's feet and lucky charms.

The king of the road is in a slump he has never seen, and he knows it. Coming out of Sunday's Pocono 500, Petty was 6-for-32.

In fact, his last win was a year ago in the Firecracker 400. Petty, you will recall, is the only driver to claim $1 million on the NASCAR circuit.

One of the more interesting — and frank — television editorial commentaries had Central Florida viewers perking their ears at sportscaster Mike James' words about the new Grand Prix International raceway in Fern Park.

"The other guys couldn't make it charging a dollar, and I don't see how the new ones are going to do it charging $1.25," said James on the air recently.

I don't know if Mario Andretti or any of the track's brass saw it, but I'll bet they did a double-take if they did.

James might be right. Or, could be that Andretti's name will indeed make a difference. To be certain, paying $1.25 for a license and then $1.25 for less than a minute's worth of entertainment must rate as one of the most expensive games in town.

A neighbor who is an Atlanta Braves diehard finally conceded the other day that wasn't the year the Braves were going to set the baseball world on fire.

A quick check of the standings above the Braves barely out of the National League West cellar, and well behind pennant-race San Francisco.

San Francisco Giants, a newcomer to that top perch in the league. The Giants have the pitching to survive late-season surges from the Dodgers and Reds, but the final telling difference is going to be experience.

That's why we like Los Angeles to upset the Giants' applicant. Johnny Bench might be one strong, last thro' left in those legs, and the Reds could be ones, too. But there's no doubt San Fran. is the team of the future, with its young arms and bats expected to be booming for years to come.

Boston Red Sox fans don't have to worry too much about the loss streak incurred by their beloved team. There are two aspects to the streak: 1) the obvious agony and loss in standing; 2) the turnaround to play as well as it was playing badly when the streak is ended.

From here, the World Series looks like LA and Boston.

Arson For Revenge, Profit Big Business

Gary Bowdach, 35, star witness of a five-day hearing series on organized crime before the Senate Permanent Investigations Subcommittee, returns today to tell how crime syndicates use arson for revenge and profit.

According to the National Fire Protection Association, arson cost more than $1 billion in property losses last year and the number of incendiary and "suspicious" fires have more than tripled since 1964.

Bowdach Tuesday recounted how he killed his partner in a loan shark racket and tried to kill two other gangland enemies.

community in Sanford $4.8 million annually in terms of unsuccessful eradication efforts, losses of sales and tax revenues and declining values of affected properties.

The report showed that the economic impact in Sanford could be multiplied 10 times to indicate the statewide economic impact. The study also showed that anticipated future loss in Sanford is $48.8 million, according to a formula used by the State Department of Commerce to calculate such losses.

Dr. Hall will spend about 30 percent of his time on the program after he sets up the project and gets it underway.

With Dr. Hall's vast knowledge, Dr. Darby said today, the scientist will probably also conduct tests of the county lakes to determine if the "Naeqeria Foersteri," an amoeba that causes meningitis-encephalitis, is present.

According to Dr. P.M. Wellings, director of the state's Epidemiology Research Center in Tampa, the deadly parasite that can enter a swimmer's nose, then eat its way to the brain, causing coma, hemorrhaging and death is present in lakes around the state.

While she did not warn of an impending epidemic, she said that parents should exercise caution in allowing their children to swim in the lakes of the state.

"If a child who has been swimming in a lake comes down with flu-like symptoms — headache, nausea and lethargy — that can't be cured by aspirin within 12 hours, he should be taken to a doctor," she said.

The physician should be told the child has been swimming and has a headache.

"Anyone who's going to go swimming in Florida lakes has the obligation to protect himself by using a nose-guard of some sort — a nose clip or a stovind mask," Ma Wellings said. "If they get water up their nose, they should blow their nose afterwards."

ANGLE-WALTERS Prop 13 Brought Them Out

WASHINGTON — Proposition 13 may not do much for government services in California, but it was a tonic for the voter apathy that has plagued the electorate there and elsewhere in the nation in recent years.

Although less than half the 1978 primary elections have been held so far and turnout data from them is still incomplete, it looks as though Prop 13 had real polling power.

While voter turnouts in most other states continued their steady decline from previous elections, the pattern was broken in California.

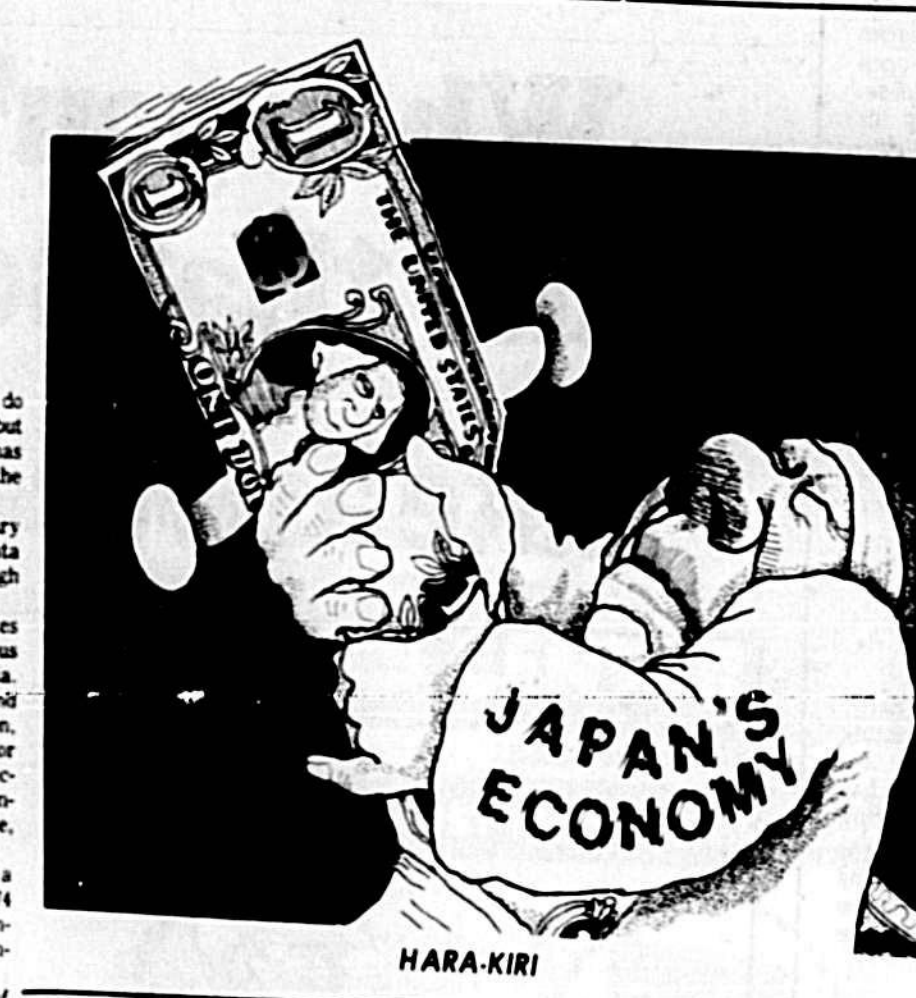

Nearly 60 percent of registered voters, and 54.7 percent of the state's voting age population, trooped to the polls June 6 to pull the lever for or against a massive property tax reduction, according to a preliminary analysis by the Committee for the Study of the American Electorate, which tracks turnout trends nationwide.

In both categories, that represents a significant increase over turnout for the 1974 primary in California, the last held in a presidential year, although it is roughly comparable to the 1970 turnout.

What makes California look like a paragon of voter participation is the record in other big states this year.

In Ohio, for instance, only 55.5 percent of the voting age population went to the polls for this year's primaries, compared with 22.8 percent four years ago. In Illinois, the figure was 14.5 percent the year after, 7 percent in 1974. In New Jersey, it was a dismal 11.5 percent versus 14 percent four years ago.

In Iowa and Texas, turnout was actually up slightly over 1974, but they were exceptions to the general trend — and not as dramatic as California.

Lighter Side Gaining In Translation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the biggest cultural trends of the summer is being provided by the first U.S. tour of the Performing Arts Company of the People's Republic of China.

The troupe already has appeared in Milwaukee and Los Angeles. American audiences seem greatly to enjoy the music, dancing and costumes, but some of the troupe's most popular songs, which tend to be somewhat propagandistic.

The trick, I discovered, is to ignore the Chinese political themes they are trying to portray and relate what is happening on the stage to something you are familiar with.

One spectacular dance, for example, is called "Militarism of the Grassland." As described in the program notes, "A detachment of the Militia carries out cavalry exercises on the grassland in China's Inner Mongolian Autonomous Region while patrolling the frontier."

I suppose it would be possible to read something of that sort into the dance. But I found it more meaningful to think of the dance as "a team of liberated women play tennis matches on the grass courts at Wimbledon to celebrate Billie Jean King's victory over male champion Bobby Riggs."

It was much the same with an aria from the opera "The Red Guards on Huangpu Lake."

RONALD REAGAN On The Tax Cut Juggernaut

In the Greek myth, Sisyphus was doomed to roll a boulder uphill forever. Each time he would get to the top, the boulder would roll back down and he had to start over. At first, when they launched their tax cut initiative, Republicans on Capitol Hill must have felt like Sisyphus.

They'd push their idea uphill, only to have the Democratic majority roll it back down again. Finally, though, they got to the top of the hill. Now their initiative is rolling down the other side with the speed of an express train, threatening to flatten President Carter like a pancake. At the same time, the Republicans are in danger of losing control of it.

To abuse another metaphor, the Republican tax cut "boulder" is a rolling stone that is gathering no moss, but a plenty of congressional Democrats. They are climbing aboard so fast that by election day they may be claiming credit for inventing it.

The heaviest of the Democratic heavies — Sen. Russell Long — weighed in at midweek last week, predicting big capital gains tax cuts and calling for major income tax cuts. He said, "Today — taxes on individuals and corporations are so high that they kill industry and stifle competition. The rates are so high they are counterproductive. We could make more revenue for the government if we reduce rates."

If that sounds familiar, it is the refrain which the Republicans' tax-cut leaders Sen. William Roth (Del.) and Rep. Jack Kemp (NY) and Bill Steiger (Wis.) have been singing for months.

WASHINGTON — After enduring the gaffes and guff of Dr. Peter Bourne, Andrew Young, Bart Lance and pugacious brother Billy, Jimmy Carter is discovering that a fellow's "st friend" is his mother.

The troubled president found some welcome reading in a confidential State Department cable reporting on the success of his 82-year-old mother's visit to Italy.

Assistant Secretary of State Richard Gardner was rapturous in his confidential account of Lillian Carter's meeting with Italian President Alessandro Pertini, himself an octogenarian and curmudgeon.

IN BRIEF

Higher Gas Prices Seen If Strike Doesn't End

TAMPA (UPI) — Central Florida motorists face possible higher gasoline prices in coming days unless a strike by independent truck drivers is ended soon.

Steve Zelen, a spokesman for the truckers, and Jim Miller, a spokesman for the Allied Gasoline Retailers Association, agreed that the strike which now involves only deliveries to independent stations, could force prices up at those stations and at major brand stations.

The strike by the drivers, which began at midnight Sunday, has shut down operations at McKeezie Tank Lines and Fleet Transport Inc. in both Orlando and Tampa, and has caused a cutback in the Tampa operations of Redwing Carriers Inc. and Motor Fuel Carriers Inc.

The drivers are seeking more money for each delivery they make, as well as increased benefits, including company payment of license fees and full liability insurance, plus weekend work and better workmen's compensation benefits.

Cut Rate Firm Under Fire

STUART (UPI) — A small, cut-rate company of moving men has been ordered to cease and desist business as of today or apply for a license to the state Public Service Commission.

The three men who started Triple A delivery in April say they have no intention of choosing either course. Frank Lachacz, Richard Frankley and Bob Barrett say they do not need to be licensed, although all in-state movers are regulated by the PSC.

Triple A advises customers to rent trucks in their own names, then the company's movers pick them up, do the packing, move the belongings and unpack. They claim they charge an average of 60 percent less than their competitors.

Do Indians Own Land?

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Cabinet has hired a University of Florida anthropologist to prove Seminole Indians don't own 16,000 acres of land in Palm Beach aren't entitled to a multi-million dollar settlement.

The Department of Natural Resources was given authority Tuesday to pay Dr. Charles Fairbanks up to $2,500 to show Seminoles never gained ownership of land in Palm Beach and Broward counties near the modern boundaries of Big Cypress reservation.

The Seminoles filed suit against the state in U.S. District Court in Miami, seeking damages because flood work by the South Florida Water Management District has made the 16,000 acres unusable for grazing.

Miami Beach Hotels Eyed

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Lines to buy up options for motels on Miami Beach may get longer than those at the one-arm bandits in Atlantic City in the wake of the first bet hedging by a Las Vegas casino operator over casino gambling.

Golden Nugget president Stephen Wynn took an option on the 540-unit Castaways Motel Monday, predicted to trigger a rush of smart money.

Clemency A Possibility

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Reubin Askew is considering clemency but not necessarily a pardon for H.K. Matthews, the black Pensacola preacher sentenced to prison on charges stemming from a civil rights march.

"We're obviously looking at the case ... to determine if there is any basis for appropriate executive clemency," Askew said Tuesday. "Executive clemency might involve procedures other than just a pardon. You could be talking about a reprieve, a commutation of sentence. You could be talking about many things other than just a pardon."

Matthews has petitioned for a pardon to keep from serving the five-year term he got after his conviction for leading protestors in a chant warning that state and Escambia County officials might be assassinated.

Airlines Seeks Florida Link

CHICAGO (UPI) — United Airlines has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for new route authority linking the Great Lakes area with four Florida cities.

United Monday asked nonstop authority from Cleveland, Ohio, Buffalo and Rochester, N.Y., to Orlando, Daytona Beach, Sarasota-Bradenton and Fort Myers, Fla. United also asked for nonstop authority between Pittsburgh and Fort Myers and between Pittsburgh and Sarasota-Bradenton.

The CAB's chief administrative law judge is already considering a United request for Pittsburgh-Orlando and Pittsburgh-Daytona Beach authority.

IN BRIEF

Two Sites Open Saturdays

For Easier Voter Signups

The courthouse and Interstate Mall branch offices of Seminole Supervisor of Elections Camilla Bruce will be open the next two Saturdays to give persons who have not yet registered to vote the opportunity to do so before the books close Aug. 12 for the Sept. 12 primary.

Persons may also register at the Casselberry, Longwood and Altamonte Springs City Halls, in addition to the courthouse and Interstate Mall offices, Monday through Friday.

As of June, 48,812 Seminole County residents' names were on the voter rolls, said Mrs. Bruce. She added that many new residents are qualifying to vote and few of those 10,000 persons whose names were purged have become reinstated.

Persons who did not return to Mrs. Bruce's office a postcard mailed to them late last year to keep their voter registration in effect, have been purged from the rolls.

The July list of new voters will not be back from the computers in Orange County until later this week, said Mrs. Bruce.

Brantley Opening Saturday

Bobby Brantley, Republican candidate for the Florida House of Representatives, District 34, will open his Seminole County Campaign headquarters on Saturday at 10 a.m. at the 434 Center, on SR 434 at Range Line Road, Longwood. The public is invited and refreshments will be served.

DeVoney Renamed To Council

Cal DeVoney of Altamonte Springs, Democratic candidate for the Florida House of Representatives, District 34, has been reappointed chairman of the Land Use committee of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

Eckerd: Full Disclosure

Jack Eckerd, candidate for the Republican nomination as governor, said he will insist on full financial disclosure of all key appointees in his administration. Eckerd also announced that he and lieutenant-governor hopeful Paula Hawkins have drawn about 20,000 campaign volunteers.

Williams: $600,000 Raised

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Jim Williams has raised $600,000 for his Democratic gubernatorial campaign and spent all of it but $10,000, Jacksonville Mayor Hans Tanzler has raised $148,348 and spent all but $4,000.

Kirk Lists Net Worth

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Governor candidate Claude Kirk says he was worth $2,024,089 last December 31. His financial statement, filed with the secretary of state in time to meet the Aug. 1 deadline, listed as his main asset 1.7 million shares of stock of Anodyne Corp., the Miami firm that folded a few months ago. He valued it at $1,275,000, and said he will make it worth $2 a share again.

Smathers Scores Teachers

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Bruce Smathers, candidate for governor, doesn't pull any punches when he gets started on what he thinks is wrong with Florida's educational system. Smathers blasted teachers' unions and politicians Tuesday in a Lake City appearance and in a campaign position paper. He complained neither will get tough on incompetent teachers.

Firestone Aims: Arts, Industry To State

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

State Sen. George Firestone of Miami, in the 13 months he has been campaigning for the Democratic nomination for Florida Secretary of State, has visited 44 of the state's 67 counties talking about what he sees as that office's powers and responsibilities and how he would do the job.

In Seminole County Monday, the third time he has been here in those 13 months, he outlined what he sees as the major problems of the state — unemployment, migration of the young out of the state, the lack of excitement in new industry, the perception from outside the state that Florida is a cultural desert, and the use of Florida corporations by organized crime to launder its proceeds from illegal activities particularly in the drug market.

The secretary of state, as one member of the unique Florida Cabinet, can do something about these things, Firestone said, and in the culture and arts area, the secretary of state has a definite responsibility.

"He is the state's chief cultural officer," said Firestone.

Firestone's answer to the state's problems include:

— The creation of foreign trade zones — Zones where duty is not charged for imported materials — throughout the state to improve the economy. Firestone said such zones are already in existence in the Panhandle and at Port Everglades west of Miami. The City of Orlando Port Authority is considering new establishment of a free zone.

Firestone said the free trade zones would permit a Florida businessman to gather materials from across Florida and around the world, assemble them into a product, then sell it at a world competitive price. The whole operation is free from federal taxes and the people of Florida takes their share in payroll, state revenue and injected stimulus to the economy.

"If a Florida businessman can operate free of federal duties on imported-exported goods, he can compete at the international level."

Noting that Florida is closer to Bogota, Colombia, than Boston, Firestone said that by 1990 there will be 400 million consumers in South and Central America.

SEN. FIRESTONE

"The petro-dollars flowing out of the U.S. and into Venezuela can be pumped back to Florida through trade," Firestone said.

Continuation of the program he began as a member of the Senate whereby $1.1 million was allocated by the legislature to the Council of Arts to expand the arts in the state. None of the money is to be used for administration he said. The funding raised Florida's position from 68th to 18th among the states in support of the arts.

Repeat, which he sponsored, of the sales tax on cultural organizations. "There were times when the cultural organization's deficit for a year was equal to the amount of sales tax they paid," Firestone said.

Inclusion of music and the arts in the funding formula for the state funding for the public school system.

Firestone said that music and the arts must be included along with the 3 R's in public education, noting that they are intertwined. "Music is math and art is penmanship," said Firestone. "Currently Florida has less than one music and one art teacher per classroom."

"What is needed is an advocate and an interpreter who can translate values," he said, adding there is a bottom line to art. Firestone pointed to the hundreds of thousands who visited New Orleans recently to see the King Tut exhibit, this channeling millions of dollars into the economy there. "Art can be a billion dollar business for Florida," he said.

"The Smithsonian is concerned about space to house exhibits that are not on display. It would make these exhibits available to Florida for only transportation, security and insurance costs," he said.

"The opening of corporation records to law enforcement with proper court orders so that illegal money, laundered by Florida Corporations could be traced."

"Florida has been identified as the cocaine capital of the world," said Firestone. "It is coming in magnitude, yet only five percent of the traffic can be stopped currently by law enforcement. Illegal money is no good unless it can be expended. Law enforcement with the appropriate court authority should have the tools to follow the money through the corporations."

Florida's sub-standard educational system is not attracting industry to the state. "Even some of the state's highest educational institutions are not rated nationally," he said. If the cabinet is going to be the state board of education, it must administer the school system, he said.

The state's anti-business image is discouraging industry from locating in the state, he said. Firestone suggests that tax abatements be used as an enticement and that other methods be created to attract business and industry.

Firestone said Florida provides the best bargain in the world for tourists, especially since the dollar has been devalued around the world. He noted that vacationing costs in Florida are much lower than other world tourist centers.

Music is math and art is penmanship

SHE QUILTS

She was smiling during many of her days as President Carter's aide for minority and women's rights. But Midge Costanza has given up, saying she was being forced to deal with style rather than substance. "I am disappointed, but I'm not sad," she said, as she resigned Tuesday. "I'm not angry with anyone." Her advocacy of causes sparked friction with other top Carter aides who questioned her image and style.

Rose: It Had To End Sometime

By DAVID MORTIT

ATLANTA (UPI) — "Charlie Hustle" wasn't about to let his hitting streak end without a fight so he was taking his cuts before going down swinging on the final pitch of the game.

"He was batting like it was the final inning of the seventh game of the World Series," said Atlanta reliever Gene Garber after he stopped Pete Rose's 46-game streak with a down-and-away change up.

"There were leading 1-4 and he was trying to bunt," said Garber. "But, I don't blame him. When you are in that situation, you try to get on anyway you can."

Rose, trying to break his tie with Willie Keeler for the second longest streak in baseball and continue his march toward Joe DiMaggio's 56-game record, wasn't sure he'd get another chance after lining up a double play in the seventh inning but wound up being the final batter in the game.

"He came at me good, I can't complain about that," Rose said fast ball I tried to bunt, then two sliders and two changeups. That like that when you're ahead 1-4."

Larry McWilliams, a 24-year-old rookie lefthander facing Rose in the first time in his brief major league career, walked the Red's 37-year-old third baseman to lead off the game, then got him the next two times on a liner back to the mound and a grounder to short.

"That shot up the middle should have been my hit," said Rose. "I don't see how McWilliams caught it. If he wasn't so tall (6-foot-5), I don't think he could have reached it."

McWilliams, who only worked five innings, said the catch "was just reaction. No, I didn't realize what it might mean. It just happened that quick."

McWilliams, who has been in the majors just a couple of weeks, pointed out that since he had never faced Rose before, "I didn't know how to pitch to him. I was real nervous and excited in the first inning but I felt good after that."

Rose was no stranger to Garber. "He's had his share of hits off me, after all, when a guy has 3,100 hits he's going to hit a lot of people. But, I've gotten him out too."

Garber came on in the seventh and almost didn't survive the inning. The second batter he faced got singles, but he made a double play on his first pitch.

Rose knew it wasn't going to be easy when Garber struck out Junior Kennedy and Vic Correll before he came up in the ninth. "I pitched him the same way I would have pitched anybody in that situation," said Garber. "I have a job to do and that's what I try to do. There was one difference, however. The one thing on my mind was to throw strikes. The one thing I didn't want to do was end the streak with a walk."

Rose admitted he was disappointed the streak had ended at 44 games. But he insisted he was more upset by the lopsided beating handed the Reds who are only a half game off the pace in the National League West.

"I suppose it's a load off my shoulders," he said. "But, we got beat 10-4 and I don't feel relieved about anything. I told you it would come to an end sometime and I guess it's better to have it happen in a 10-4 game than in a 1-0 one where a hit might have made the difference."

"So, this is where it ended," said Rose. "I would have liked to have gotten a hit tonight and again tomorrow so I could go back home with the streak intact. But, they won't be home when I get back to Cincinnati."

Loss Leaves Reds Half-Game Behind

By United Press International

And so Pete Rose's seven-week odyssey in pursuit of Joe DiMaggio's still unbreakable 56-game hitting streak has ended, but while it lasted it was a joyous sidelight in a baseball summer.

Now, with Larry McWilliams and Gene Garber having taken their place alongside Jim Hagley and Al Smith in the record books, Rose, the Cincinnati Reds and everyone else can get back to what the baseball season is ultimately all about — pennant races.

McWilliams, the rookie southpaw, and Garber, the bearded slider, combined to shake Rose with an 8-for-4, halting the 37-year-old marvel's hitting streak at 44 games Tuesday night, while their Atlanta Braves teammates were pounding out 21 hits en route to a 10-4 drubbing of the Reds.

Tuesday night's lopsided affair — highlighted by Bob Horner's four RBI and four runs scored — still left the Reds a half-game back of the division-leading San Francisco Giants in the National League West.

The Giants lost, 4-2, to Houston, while in other NL games, San Diego blanked Los Angeles, 1-0, New York put away St. Louis, 4-2, and Montreal shamed Pittsburgh, 4-3.

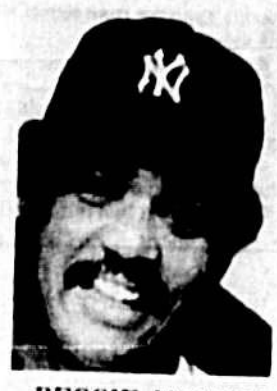

As for the Reds, J.R. Richard struck out 11 to run his major league-leading total to 200 and aided his own cause by driving in one run and scoring another. Enos Cabell's two-run single broke a 2-2 tie in the fifth inning.

Dwight Gooden's bases-loaded homer in the seventh inning to deal "Duke" Thomas' bases-loaded single with one out in the ninth inning scored pinch runner Bill Almon with the winning run and Randy Jones hurled his second shutout of the season.

Expos 4, Pirates 3; Andre Dawson belted a two-out homer, his 19th, in a four-run second inning and Steve Rogers won. Rogers also drove in a run with a squeeze bunt.

Jackson, Hunter Lead Yankees Past Texas, 8-1

By United Press International

The New York Yankees used the talented bat of Reggie Jackson, the crafty arm of Jim "Catfish" Hunter and the putting expertise of Texas to score an 8-1 victory on Tuesday night over the Rangers. "I have a real good stroke now," he said of his 14-for-28 hitting since returning from a five-day suspension. "Now I hope I can just keep it up."

Hunter, who has twice been named the disabled list this season, allowed only doubles to Juan Beniquez and Mike Hargrove and a single to Al Oliver in the eight innings he worked to lead New York to its 12th win in 16 games.

Hunter, sidelined most of the year and last with arm trouble, struck out six, walked three and threw 106 pitches, by far the most he's managed in quite some time. And while Hunter, 44, was impeded with the arm, Jackson was doing the same with his bat.

Dube To Undergo Surgery, May Miss Miami's Opener

MIAMI (UPI) — Defensive end A.J. Dube — the National Football League's draft pick of the year last season — is scheduled to undergo surgery today for removal of torn cartilage from his right knee, an operation that could keep him out of the Miami Dolphins' season opener next month.

Dube — Miami's top draft pick last year from Louisiana State — became the second member of Miami's 1977 front three to undergo knee surgery this summer.

Last month, nose tackle Bob Baumhower had a similar operation and is not scheduled to return to the Dolphin training camp until Aug. 18, when Miami opens its season against the Vikings in an exhibition. Baumhower was Miami's second round draft pick from Alabama last season.

Loss of the two would deal a serious blow to the Dolphin defense. Spokesman Charlie Callahan said Dube was expected to be sidelined from four to six weeks. Miami opens its regular NFL season in New York on Sept. 3 against the Jets.

Both second year men made it back into the lineup in time for opening day, Coach Don Shula said he was concerned about their missing most of the pre-season drills and exhibition games.

Callahan said Dube probably will be replaced by veteran Bob Hays in the second round of the draft.

The surgery was ordered Tuesday when an x-ray showed that Dube apparently sustained cartilage damage in the third quarter of Saturday's 17-7 exhibition loss to the Philadelphia Eagles in the Hall of Fame game at Canton, Ohio.

The injury was believed by doctors to be a re-tear of an injury originally sustained sometime last season.

The Dolphins also announced Tuesday they have dealt 1203 round draft choice quarterback Bill Kenney of Northern Colorado to the Washington Redskins in a conditional trade. If Kenney makes the Redskins regular season roster, Miami will receive a future draft choice, Callahan said.

In the loss at Canton, Kenney played in part of the fourth quarter and completed three of six pass attempts for 26 yards.

Irv Lavin, who last month swapped his Boston Celtics for the Buffalo Braves and then moved the Braves to San Diego, called Shue one of the "most outstanding coaches in the history of the NBA."

Fidrych Pitches 5 Perfect Innings

LAKELAND (UPI) — Mark Fidrych pitched five perfect innings Tuesday and got credit for a Lakeland Tigers' 4-0 victory over Dunedin in his last outing in the Class A Florida

State League before returning to the Detroit Tigers.

Fidrych, working in the minors to test his ailing shoulder, is to return to Detroit later this week.

Palmer Tries Again For Elusive PGA Title

OAKMONT, Pa. (UPI) — Poised at the top of the steps leading out of the clubhouse, Arnold Palmer answered the reporter's final question and turned to his sidekick and aide Doc Giffen.

ARNOLD PALMER

"Do we have any more business here?" Palmer asked. "Or can we leave?"

"No, we don't have any more business here. They're just holding the past champions' dinner tonight," Giffen replied. Then he laughed.

Palmer laughed too, but with a touch of ruefulness. Although he owns 73 national and international titles, there's no doubt he would trade all but a half dozen of them for just one PGA Championship, the only major title to elude him in his 30-year career on the tour.

"I do want to win a PGA Championship very badly," Palmer said Tuesday. He especially would like to win the 60th edition of the tourney, which begins Thursday at the 6,900-yard, par-71 Oakmont Country Club. Just an hour away from his hometown of Latrobe, Pa., Oakmont is Palmer Country, a place where he is the "local favorite" no matter how badly he may be playing.

He's an active member of the club. In fact, he's served as adviser to the tournament committee that redesigned portions of the course to make it play tougher than it did in 1973 when it last hosted a major tournament.

"I've practiced a lot for this one," Palmer said.

Most of the changes on the course, he said, were "minor," a matter of sprucing up some of the 189 bunkers. He said he made "significant" changes on five holes, but of the variety to benefit the younger players on the tour.

"We lengthened a couple of holes ever so slightly," he said. "The talent is better, the course has to be lengthened."

Besides, most pros believe the change of the course is not its length but its quick and quirky greens, and putting is no longer Palmer's strength.

"The greens no doubt are going to be the toughest and the fastest we've putted on all year," said the PGA's leading money earner this year, Andy Bean, after he shot a 1-under-par 70 during Tuesday's practice round.

Grosveld certainly doesn't consider herself a maverick. "I've heard a lot of talk about it," she says. "I don't think my kids would defy me. A coach has to use whatever weapons he or she has in order to help the child move forward. Motivation that's positive is 100 per cent better than motivation that's negative."

Generally rated the top women's gymnastic coach in the nation, Grosveld, who still works out regularly on the bars and doesn't look her 36 years, sometimes talks the same way they come here to date the girls. The same way any responsible parent would. Is there anything wrong with that?

From having seen her when she was still competing, I know the way Grosveld works. She's a perfectionist who demands the most from herself and quite likely the same (if not others of excellence," she says. "Back in my day when I first started to train, the United States traditionally was last in gymnastics. We're trying to improve that. At the moment, I'd say our gymnastics team is highly respected. Our women's team, which competes in the World Championships in France in October, has beaten Japan, and the best in the world."

Training Of Olympic Gymnasts Causes Controversy

NEW YORK (UPI) — The only thing that can compare with a woman scorned is a woman wronged.

Muriel Grosveld figures she has been. She's so riled up, she's getting ready to sue her lawyer.

For those of you who confine yourselves to such less esoteric sports as basketball, football and baseball, Muriel Grosveld still ranks as one of the foremost female gymnasts this country ever produced, having competed for the United States in the 1958, 1960 and 1964

Olympics as well as in numerous other international competitions.

Now it's got her so exercised that she's written an article in the September issue of Penthouse magazine by Robert Stephen Spitz, who compares some of the places in America where young boys and girls are trained in athletics to a Marine boot camp. Among those places he zeroes in on are Mission Viejo, Calif., where swimming is revered over even godliness and Grosveld's School of Gymnastics in Milford, Conn., where he says Muriel runs some 400 girl gymnasts ranging in age from 12 to 17 as if she were some kind of female Captain Bligh.

"Look, I do anything I have to do to produce a winner — and these girls are all winners," Grosveld is quoted by Spitz. "I have to keep them scared. If it takes a little abuse to achieve my ends, then that's the price they pay. They'll thank me later."

Grosveld's practice sessions, according to Spitz, have been rumored to be "tantamount to slave labor camps and many of them end with her girls training crying hysterically out of pain and humiliation."

She is even said to regulate the girls' sex lives.

MURIEL GROSVELD

When I spoke with her about all this, Grosveld said she was "appalled at the lack of correctness" in the article. "It's all a pile of garbage," she said. "We don't stand over the girls with hammers. I've never seen any of them cry after practice. I do not keep my children scared. The kids we have are sent here by their parents. If the kids don't like what they're doing, they wouldn't come in the first place."

Peppery, Lethargic: Moods Of Menachem

By RICHARD C. GROSS

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI)—Menachem Begin is at his peak despite erratic behavior that provoked the opposition Labor party to all but brand him crazy. To put it simply, Begin is Begin. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat recently described the Israeli prime minister as a bitter, unhappy man who is unable to bring happiness to others. The obvious suggestion: Begin does not want peace.

But even the opposition Labor party says he does want peace. The problem is that Begin's physical and mental well-being is being questioned at a time when the Middle East may be closer to peace than at any time since the founding of Israel in May 1948. Begin has been accused of frittering away a golden opportunity. His report: not peace at any price.

Yet Begin, who will be 60 Aug. 18, is little different from when he assumed power in June 1977. He was even bolder in his public statements 14 months ago after his upset election victory when he went to his Jewish constituents in the occupied West Bank and proclaimed the region "liberated Israeli territory."

Liberals from Jerusalem to Washington slapped their palms to their foreheads in dismay. The Americans, who have been trying to achieve an Arab-Israeli peace since 1970, saw their chances slipping through this one statement.

It is fact that Begin has exhibited a variety of moods in public. He has gone the extremes from lethargic, pale and hoarse to Shimon Peres who met with Sadat in Austria. He tore a piece of scrap paper in half to demonstrate the principle that peace negotiations are give and take. Labor later backed down from questioning Begin's mental state. Peres said, "Our argument is of a political nature, not a medical one."

Whatever causes Begin to fly into demagogic harangues in public cannot be medically diagnosed, according to his battery of doctors. Even Labor leaders admitted they had no medical proof to support their allegations Begin might be unstable. Doctors have kept a careful watch on Begin since his near-fatal heart attack in March 1977, during his recurrent bouts of exhaustion and pericarditis—inflammation of the heart muscle—and through his mild diabetes.

Begin's detractors have charged that the pills he takes for his heart and diabetes are the reason for his seizures in Jerusalem. Not so, said Dr. Basil Lewis of Hadassah Hospital in Jerusalem. He said Begin takes nothing stronger than aspirin for headaches.

The prime minister is very well," said Dr. Mervin Goldman, head of cardiology at Hadassah and Begin's senior physician. "He's not taking any kind of drugs activities. He has no kind of heart trouble whatsoever."

MENACHEM BEGIN

'I wasn't ready for a confrontation'

Begin REAL ESTATE

Begin was, and is, a benevolent demagogue, by definition a leader of the common people who tries to gain their favor by stirring their emotions. When he sits too hard he drives into opposition those for whom he could never be a leader.

He generally is viewed by his people as old-fashioned, a man of a bygone era who lectures to them with the weighty seriousness of a professor trying to teach history's lessons to a class with better things to do.

He does the same in private, postulating to world leaders about Jewish history. It is his way, publicly and privately, of using history to put the Jews, their quest for homeland and Israel's role in peace negotiations into perspective. Pollak-born, Begin is an expert on how often central Europe was overrun and occupied. He knows no European monarch gave away for nothing what could not be taken by force, a lesson Begin applies to land conquered by Israel in 1967—part of which he sees as rightfully belonging to Israel because it was Jewish in antiquity.

But Begin, too, was a fighter as commander of the feared Irgun Zvai Lurimi that battled the British in pre-Israel Palestine. The sword, Begin may have learned then, was mightier than the pen that drafted European peace treaties.

peppery, flushed and forceful. Presently he is at the peak of a new "up" cycle. He appears energetic and the sarcastic barb he fired at his political foes show him at his best.

Then he fell so ill that, by his own admission, he was too weak to exert his usual influence on the position Israel should take regarding the future of the West Bank. And his position, a new one, was a softer line that only emerged in public July 25.

"I was sick," Begin was quoted as saying in David Glass of the National Religious party. "I wasn't ready for a confrontation." Begin's views prevailed in the end, in part because of his demagogic character when he is well and in part because he reportedly threatened to resign. The new position: to give the West Bank and Gaza Strip the possibility of sovereignty after five years.

Unhappily a "Get Begin" campaign has been and is being waged from Jerusalem to Cairo. Washington officials was silent but watched with hypochondriac interest.

Sadat recently charged Begin was "an obstacle to peace." He told an Israeli newspaper correspondent in Austria in mid-July: "Your man — and I am very sorry about this — has a bitter soul. Such a man is not a happy man and is not able to bring happiness to others."

Begin, clearly unhappy about the new round of name-calling, let it pass, saying a response only would mean another stall in the peace talks.

The opposition Labor party, seeing an opening, got on the bandwagon after Begin refused permission for further meetings between Labor leaders and Arab states.

"Sickness, sickness, but he is prime minister" said Labor stalwart Haim Bar-Lev. Even Labor's elderly godmother, former Prime Minister Golda Meir, was quoted as saying, "It's a pity what's happening to him."

The comments at a private Labor party session came a day after Begin gave one of his star performances in the Knesset (parliament). He tossed verbal arrows at opposition leader

Cook Of The Week Her Favorites Are Party And Cookout Foods

By ELDA NICHOLS
Herald Correspondent
"I love to cook — the more food, the better!" said Juanita Gano of Longwood. "Parties and cookouts are my favorites. I love to prepare food for weddings and receptions." She does, in fact, cater such events for her friends. She not only makes the food preparations, but she is also a registered floral designer. Many beautiful dried arrangements are scattered throughout her home. One especially noteworthy object features an old-fashioned washboard, hung on the wall, with an attractive floral design draped over one side.

Juanita has been a school bus driver for ten years. She and her husband, Kenneth, also raise rabbits. "My husband had a cholesterol problem awhile back, and the doctor suggested he should eat rabbit meat about twice a week. So we started raising them, and sell them for other food or pets."

With two slow cookers, Juanita prepares practically all of her vegetables in this manner. "We did have a garden until the rains drowned it," she laughed. "However, I did manage to can about 15 quarts of peas and string beans."

Juanita suggests when preparing frozen foods, to remove them from the freezer the night before using, because, "Letting them thaw completely makes a much shorter cooking time."

Sewing is a hobby of Juanita's, also. "Last week I made two pantsuits. I make most of my daughter's clothes and all of my son's shirts. He just won't buy a long-sleeved shirt as long as I make them for him," she said. Crafts are another hobby.

But her fun-hobby is belly dancing! "I'm taking lessons from Patti McKinney and am really losing weight. I've lost 21 pounds in ten weeks. In September, I'll be in the Intermediate Class and hope to continue to lose," she explained.

The Ganos raise most of their own meat, including beef, turkeys, chicken, and the rabbits. "It saves a lot of money," she said. "Juanita can't say enough good things about slow cookers. "I think they're marvelous! Take macaroni and cheese. I prepare it in my slow cooker, layer it and

OURSELVES

In National Chicken Cooking Competition... 'Chicken Pizza' Wins Contestant $10,000

An Italian-born grandmother from California won the $10,000 top prize in the 1978 National Chicken Cooking Contest in Tampa Wednesday. Mrs. Mary Grace Cerami of Ojai cooked "Chicken Pizza," an unusual combination of chunks of chicken breasts with all the usual pizza ingredients to win the 30th annual cooking competition over 50 other contestants representing each state and the District of Columbia.

Placing second and winning $4,000 was Mrs. Patricia Eileen Hinn of Honolulu, Hawaii, a registered nurse who was born in Canada. Her recipe was "Korean Puppu Chicken," with chicken thighs and her cooking area was decorated with one of several sets of orchids which she brought along for good luck.

Third place winner was June R. Grayson of Enid, Okla. Her recipe for "Cookout Barbecued Chicken" won $3,000. Miss Grayson, who is retired, says she learned to cook at age six as the only girl in a family of six brothers who "all liked to eat."

A construction worker and father of five, Robert A. Brown of Pittsfield, N.H., placed fourth. His recipe for "Farmer Brown's Chicken Casserole," won $2,000. Brown spends his free time working on his "hobby farm," which he says inspired the title for his recipe.

In fifth place and winning $1,000 was Mrs. Alice M. Albertson of Wayne, Nebraska. Her recipe for "Chicken Hawaiian" started out as a "round robin recipe" and was improved and refined as she prepared it for her retired husband.

Determination Paid Off for Mary Grace Cerami

Determination paid off for the top prize winner. The California contestant participated in the 1975 National Finals and her two married daughters have also been finalists in previous chicken cooking competitions. She collects recipes as a hobby and learned to cook by watching her mother when she was a small child in Italy. Mrs. Cerami, a widow, also has two married sons and eight grandchildren, who, she admits, she enjoys "spoling."

Held for the first time in Florida, the National Chicken Cooking Contest is the nation's oldest continuous cooking competition. This year celebrating its 30th anniversary, it is sponsored by the National Broiler Council to encourage the use of chicken and to emphasize the variety of ways it can be prepared.

PRIZE-WINNING PIZZA

pepper, mushrooms and olives and cook, stirring, about 3 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. Spread pizza sauce over crust. Spoon chicken mixture evenly over sauce. Sprinkle garlic salt, oregano and Parmesan cheese

Been Married 6 Years And It Seems Like 60

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for six years and it seems like 60. We have three beautiful children, 5, 3, and 13 months old. My husband is a steady worker, he makes a good salary, and he doesn't drink or run around. Those are his good qualities. But when he comes home, he always greets our children with a slap in the mouth. He always finds some excuse to be out of them. He is as mean as a punching bag if he feels like it, too.

He tells the kids, "Don't touch the cat. It's MINE!" (Everything in HIS.) He doesn't talk, he yells.

The kids are scared to death of him and so am I. He hasn't taken me anywhere in two years. I begged him to go to the priest with me, but he refused. He says if the priest comes here he'll throw him out. He won't take me to church so I pray at home, but I have to hide when I pray or he'll say I'm cracking up. Maybe I am. Am I?

DEAR WORRIED: A physician can tell you if you're "cracking up" or you're immediately. Tell him what's bothering you, and if he prescribes anything, by all means go. If your community doesn't offer a refuge for battered wives and abused children, they should have one. You don't need your husband's permission to see a priest. And if you continue to live with this abusive man, who is probably sick, you are sicker than he is. CONFIDENTIAL: Running to LOBE WEIGHT IN SANTA MONICA; Running alone won't do it. Diet is the most important factor. You will have to run three miles to "burn up" 100 calories. In other words, for every hot fudge sundae you consume, you will have to run 15 miles to stay even.

DEAR ABBY: This year, as in previous years, my husband has invited his sales team to our mountain cabin for a weekend of fishing.

This year, unlike previous years, his sales team includes a young, unmarried woman who happens to be very attractive. (All the men are married and middle-aged.) DEAR CONFUSED: Lay back. Lay WAY back. And in self-defense, do your best to remain unapproachable.

Clothing Production Programs Expanded

Beginning with the Fall semester, Clothing Production Services, a non-credit program designed to produce competent seamstresses and garment makers, will offer the following modules as part of a continuing program which has already produced excellent results: (1) Fundamentals of basic clothing construction; (2) Industrial sewing; and (3) Clothing design. Training periods are daily from 8:30 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. and run for three semesters of 15 weeks each.

The success of previous programs of a similar nature can be measured by the practical application of the training to the ability of students to design and construct costumes for plays, to preparing and presenting fashion shows, to field work in factories and workshops in the professional clothing trades, or to serve as sales clerks in fabric stores and related stores.

A fully equipped lab which has provisions for domestic and industrial sewing provides the professional atmosphere necessary for improving competencies. For information contact Margaret Jones — 323-1400-Ext. 420 or 238.

Invite your crowd to enjoy some outdoor hospitality. With Fresh Fruit Caribbean, it couldn't be easier.

Salads As Good As All Get Out

Outdoor entertaining calls for simple, refreshing foods. That's where fresh fruits and vegetables come in. They make sparkling summertime salads that require no cooking, but satisfy the hungriest crowd. What could be easier than slicing seasonal fruits, arranging them on a platter and letting their vivid colors, enticing shapes and succulent textures work for you? That's the delicious logic underlying Fresh Fruit Caribbean, a cooling array of fruits and cheeses.

Some fruits should be judged by feel. Before you cut into an avocado, for instance, test to see if the flesh gives under gentle pressure, as a ripe pear or peach does.

For another fresh salad delight, summertime, or anytime, try Fresh Slaw Oriental.

At picnic, barbecue or patio buffet, fresh salads taste as good as all get out.

FRESH FRUIT CARIBBEAN
8 cups mixed fresh salad greens (iceberg lettuce, Boston lettuce, chicory, escarole or romaine)
1 pint fresh strawberries, rinsed & hulled

2 cups fresh blueberries or grapes, rinsed
1 large pineapple, peeled, cut in spears
3 oranges, peeled, sliced
1 papaya, peeled
1 avocado, peeled, pitted, sliced
1/2 lb. Swiss cheese, cut in cubes
1/2 lb. Muenster cheese, cut in cubes
Wash greens, drain, break into bite-size pieces. Arrange salad greens, fruits and cheeses on large serving platter. Serve with Fresh Lime Dressing. Makes: About 12 servings.

FRESH LIME DRESSING
1 cup mayonnaise
1/2 cup sour cream or plain yogurt
1 tsp. grated lime rind
Juice of 2 fresh limes
4 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. salt
In small bowl, combine all ingredients; mix well. Chill. Makes: 1 1/2 cups.

FRESH SLAW ORIENTAL
8 cups shredded Chinese or green cabbage
1 cup finely sliced celery
1 cup sliced toasted almonds
1/2 cup sliced scallions

3 oranges, peeled, sectioned
In large bowl, combine cabbage, celery, almond, scallions and orange sections; toss gently. Pour Lemon-Honey Dressing over slaw; mix thoroughly. Chill. Makes: 12 servings.

LEMON-HONEY DRESSING
1 cup sour cream
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 tsp. honey
2 tsp. fresh lemon juice
1/2 tsp. ground ginger
1/2 tsp. salt
In small bowl, combine all ingredients; mix well. Makes: About 1 1/2 cups.

Potpourri...

FROZEN PARTY SALAD
1 cup salad dressing
1 8-oz. pkg. cream cheese
1 20-oz. can pineapple chunks, drained
1 16-oz. can apricot halves, drained, quartered
1/2 cup chopped maraschino cherries
2 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
Few drops red food coloring
2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
Gradually add salad dressing to softened cream cheese, mixing until well blended. Stir in fruit, sugar and food coloring; fold in marshmallows and whipped cream. Pour into 9x5-inch loaf pan. Freeze. Unmold.
10 to 12 servings
Variation: Substitute one 16-oz. can peach slices, drained, for apricots.

BANANA MALLOW PARTY PIE
1 3/4-cup. pkg. vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
1 1/2 cups miniature marshmallows
1 cup heavy cream, whipped
2 bananas
1 8-inch baked vanilla wafer crust, chilled
Prepare mix as directed for pie filling on package, except using 1 1/2 cups milk. Cover surface of pie filling with washed paper or Tupperware wrap; chill. Mix until well blended; fold in marshmallows and whipped cream. Slice bananas into crust. Pour filling over bananas. Chill several hours or overnight.

SESAME STEAK STRIPS WITH VEGETABLES (4 Servings)
1/2 cup Soy Sauce
1 tablespoon sesame seeds
1/4 cup dry white wine
1 medium onion, chopped
1/2 cup chopped green onion
1 clove garlic, crushed
1/2 teaspoon ground ginger
3 lbs. beef sirloin, cut into thin strips
2 large green peppers, cut into squares, blanched
16-oz. large mushroom caps
16 cherry tomatoes
For marinade, place soy sauce, sesame seeds, wine, chopped onions, garlic and ginger in blender jar; blend well. Place meat in a large glass or enamel bowl and pour marinade over. Marinate several hours or overnight, stirring occasionally. Just before cooking, remove meat from marinade and drain, reserving marinade. Thread meat on skewers, alternating with green pepper pieces, cherry tomatoes and mushroom caps. Brush with cooking oil. Grill to desired doneness, basting with marinade several times during cooking. Leftover marinade may be heated and served as a sauce at table.

STIR-FRIED CHINESE VEGETABLES ON THE GRILL (6 to 8 Servings)
1/2 cup cooking oil
1 bunch green onions, cut in one-inch lengths
1 green pepper, sliced
4 stalks celery, sliced diagonally into 1/4-inch slices
1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced thin
1 can (14 oz.) bean sprouts, rinsed and drained
1 package (8 oz.) Frozen Chinese Pea Pods
1/2 cup Soy Sauce
1 tablespoon sugar
Place oil in wok directly on hot briquets to grill. Add oil. When oil is hot, add onions, green pepper and celery and cook, stirring constantly, until vegetables are softened. Add remaining ingredients and continue to cook and stir until vegetables are tender-crisp. Serve immediately.
