

Stimson Tells How U. S. Treats War Prisoners

Wouldn't Mind Being One Awhile; Geneva Terms Are Given

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of War, declared today that the consideration and fair treatment being given to prisoners of war captured by American forces are such that "it is like to become a prisoner myself for a while."

Although he said this with a smile there was no mistaking his earnestness as he stressed the favorable terms embodied in the plans for disposition of Axis prisoners, some of whom, he admitted, were already at work on American farms.

After telling a press conference that the Tunisian campaign alone netted a total of 267,000 Axis prisoners, many of whom will be sent to America, Mr. Stimson said that employment of these prisoners as well as others to be taken in the future will be based on terms of the Geneva Convention, and that "the humane and considerate treatment that War Department policy will accord to America's prisoners of war will be reflected in similar treatment of American soldiers who are prisoners of war of the Axis powers."

Asked if the Axis prisoners would be put to work in industrial plants, Mr. Stimson said they might, but not in war-munitions factories. He declined to reveal the location of the prison camps, but added that they are sufficiently large to handle this catch and some more.

In response to several questions as to what agency will handle the employment of the prisoners and the various kinds of work they will be put to, Mr. Stimson said these problems are still under study. They will perform types of labor permissible under the articles of the Geneva Convention, he said, but emphasized firmly that "they will not be used as strike breakers."

Under the Geneva Convention prisoners must be afforded protection against violence, abuse, public curiosity, and exposure of any kind. Prisoners of war, except officers, may be required to work at any project not directly connected with military operations.

Prisoners employed by the Federal government will be paid at the rate of 50 cents a day, Mr. Stimson said. When working for a state or private contractor, their pay will be at a rate determined by the contract between the employer and the prison camp commander concerned. The rate, however, may not be less than that of 50 cents a day paid by the Federal government.

Officer prisoners may not be compelled to work. The Geneva convention provides that they must be paid, nevertheless, in accordance with their grade and in line with specific arrangements between the enemy powers. The allowance for German and Italian officer prisoners will be the equivalent of $30 a month for warrant officers and first and second lieutenants; $36 for captains, and $40 for those in the grade of major and above.

Unlisted men among the prisoners who are not provided employment will be given a monthly allowance of $5. Non-commissioned officers will be assigned to supervisory work only, and their work of this nature is not available and they specifically requested a remunerative occupation.

Prisoners may not be made to work longer hours than the civilian population engaged in similar work in the locality, which, except in emergency, will not exceed an hour beyond counting the time consumed in going to and from work. In all respects, prisoners will be treated with the respect due honorable soldiers, Mr. Stimson said. The crew mail privileges accorded to United States troops will be granted to them.

Nations for prisoners will be the same as those provided United States troops.

The Geneva convention stipulates that officers prisoners from among the captured prisoners will receive pay at the rate of 50 cents a day.

Prisoners will be required to wear the clothing they had at the time of capture, unless it suits for use.

Prisoners will be given the same medical attention as United States troops.

Pfc. Silver Dollar And J.P. Morgan Are Both At Camp

SECOND ARMY MANEUVER HEADQUARTERS, BOMBERHEAD IN TENNESSEE, May 24.—J. P. Morgan doesn't make much of a dent in the monthly payroll of a Red signal company, now on Second Army maneuvers in Middle Tennessee. For that matter, Pfc. Silver Dollar of the same company is leading J. P. Morgan for Army salary honors inasmuch as he draws $54 a month to Private Morgan's fast fifty.

But that doesn't bother telephone lineman J. P. Morgan, he ditches out the wisecracks while Silver Dollar, a cook's helper, ditches out the show to him.

"Hi-oh, Silver!" begins the badinage barrage, as Dollar steps up for a meal bit of edibles.

"Well, if it isn't J. P. Morgan—begging for food again," is Dollar's prompt retort.

"Bouncer yourself on a counter, Silver Dollar; you have a phoney ring," says Morgan.

Dollar, who lives at 2840 Howard Street, Redwood, Calif., isn't the brightest pin in his family—the brightest is his brother, William, The Almighty Dollar.

Rather than adopt a more conventional name in civilian life, Dollar capitalized on it. He had it prominently displayed on his business card, which he presented to prospective customers while making rounds as a telephone salesman. The customer usually curious about the unusually large name would call Dollar up on the phone.

Gunder Haegg, The Flying Swede, May Surprise American Runners

By DILLON GRAMAM AP Feature Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—Gunder Haegg seems to believe Gunder Rose is the swift Swede, will run over our homebred gallopers in his upcoming race here. He may, but very few foreign track stars have been able to boast of their performances in America.

The so-called "superman"—Nurul and Kobalstian—could, but most of the others would just as soon forget their lives.

Haegg possibly is another superman. All evidence indicates he is. He has never set on such a record-breaking speed as the Great Fremont, whose record was set in two months. And he has set the record, he has been set by many other runners.

Haegg was born in Sweden, but he has lived in America since he was a boy. He has been in America since he was a boy. He has been in America since he was a boy.

Abortion Rise Laid To Fear Of Loss Of War Job

Birth-Control Group Reveals How Plants Penalize Pregnant

NEW YORK CITY, May 24.—(AP)—Fear of being discharged as a penalty for becoming pregnant has led to an increase in abortions among women workers in war plants in the South, according to a survey by Dr. Gladys G. Pierce, medical director of the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc., pioneer of the birth-control movement led by Margaret Sanger.

Dr. Pierce, reporting the results of her survey last week at the offices of the federation, 501 Madison Avenue, said abortions were responsible in large measure for increasing absenteeism among women in the nation's war plants.

"Abortion is classed as 'sickness' and 'sick leaves' are responsible for as much as 90 percent of the absence in some factories," he said. Women workers, he added, were found to be absent 75 percent more than men in many plants, although the average has been put at 35 percent.

Dr. Pierce, long associated with the United States Public Health Service, declined to disclose the names of plants which she investigated discharged pregnant women as soon as their condition became apparent. Only twenty-six kept records of the number of pregnancies, and of these, one employing 10,000 women, reported that 18 percent of its women employees had been pregnant, 25 percent resorting to abortions and the rest giving birth.

Dr. Pierce pointed out the danger of abortions. The illegal operations prove fatal to 3,500 to 10,000 women annually, he said, and "at least eight women are rendered sterile—never more one who dies." He believed the figures would increase as a result of the industrial penalty against pregnancy, and of these, one employing 10,000 women, reported that 18 percent of its women employees had been pregnant, 25 percent resorting to abortions and the rest giving birth.

The federation, which is campaigning for "drastic revision of industrial health policies in many plants, is advocating nationwide adoption of four 'practical' suggestions for improving maternal health conditions in our stepped-

Jess Willard Says Louis Firpo Was Best Of The Lot

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF AP Features

DALLAS.—The big guy looked back through tempestuous years—the savage heat of Havana, the bloody gore of Toledo, the night one mighty blow sent the great Jack Dempsey flying from the ring—and acclaimed as the greatest fighter he ever saw: Luis Angel Firpo, the Wild Bull of the Pampas.

Jesse Willard, gray about the temples, but still keen-eyed and with a voice that roars like a cannon, passed his accolade on to the man who never was champion.

"Firpo was the best fighter of them all," he mused. "Sure Jack Johnson was good. Dempsey was great. Joe Louis is a fine boxer. But Firpo was big, tough and game, and he could hit hard enough to drill a hole through you."

"He really won over Dempsey and if he had gotten what was coming to him would have been a great champion. You know Dempsey was helped back into the ring that night he went on to knock out Firpo. It's against the rules of boxing for a fighter to be helped by the crowd."

Few, if anyone, ever listed Firpo at the top. There probably will be few to agree with big Joe today, but Willard ought to know he was there. The 50-year-old former world's champion fought the giant of the Argentine, in addition to two men rated among the greatest of all time—Johnson and Dempsey. Of course the fight with Firpo came while the stinging comeback.

Willard, then 43—was attempting to make a comeback.

Willard said he was in Dallas conferring with lawyers relative to claiming profits he says should be his from the showing of the Willard-Dempsey fight picture, taken at Toledo July 4, 1919. He said he still owned a fourth of that picture and he figured its use brought in at least $5,000,000. He is serving a greater at a cell here.

"I'm getting along pretty good," the 225-pound Jess grinned when asked his financial status. "I made a million and a quarter out of fighting—rather, I made most of it in show business as a result of my boxing. I have managed to rear five children and give them college educations."

His two sons, Jess, Jr., and Alan, are in the service—Jess at Annapolis, Md., and Alan with the 8th Air Force at Goodfield, Colo. He also has three daughters.

Willard looked hale and hearty. "I must be in pretty good shape," he commented. "I fall on the ice a couple of months ago and broke my back. It took me only three weeks to heal."

Could Have Beaten Dempsey

Willard won the title from Dempsey in 1919. He was 34 at the time, but it was four years later that he fought Dempsey again. He had only one year left to live.

Russian Front Action Now In North Central

Reds Report Capture Of 4 Settlements As Air Battles Continue Unabated

(By Associated Press) Land action on the Russian front moved from the south to the north central sector, where the Russians today reported the capture of four settlements but on the whole uneasiness continued with great softening up air battles unabated.

Col. Nikolai Akimov asserted the Germans evidently have been unable to recover from the recent blows, but warned it is a mistake to think the Nazi military might has been smashed, the Moscow spokesman pointing to signs of summer campaign preparations.

Planes of the Russian Black sea fleet have sunk seven of a fleet of 11 German landing boats, motor-torpedo boats and transports along the 45-mile stretch of the coast between Anapa and Kerch northwest of Novorossiisk and have set fire to two more, the Moscow radio said earlier today.

Trapping the enemy convoy off the lagoon area at the mouth of the Kuban river, on the lower side of the Taman peninsula, the Russian planes sank two out of three big German landing boats, each with 200 troops aboard; three out of four first landing boats, one out of two motor-torpedo boats and one out of two transports.

Rhineland City Is Target For Giant Bombers

Duesseldorf Hit For Fourth Super Raid In Attacks Near Dortmund Record

(By Associated Press) Allied air squadrons stormed at another of Hitler's broken island ramparts of Italy in two frontal assaults, war announcements from London and Africa reported today.

The Rhineland city of Duesseldorf was the target last night of approximately 50 giant bombers in RAF's fourth super raid of the month. The attack approached as equalled the record 2,000-plane assault on Dortmund Sunday night. Twenty-seven planes were lost.

From Northwest Africa yesterday nearly 100 planes swarmed over the coastal city of Port Hellen and destroyed what was described as one of their most successful raids in Mesopotamia, continuing a series of attacks on the major European objective.

Official word from Allied headquarters in North Africa said every American and British air squadron in the Mediterranean is ready to keep the non-stop offensive rolling against Europe from the south.

From the fact that the RAF carried out the greatest and in history, it is evident that the 750 planes since the first of the year, informed sources forecast the ultimate success of the front-line bomber force mounting so high this summer that the sheer weight of the attacks would cripple Germany's ability to defend herself and leave the skies clear for almost continuous assaults.

Post Office Will Distribute Blanks For Ration Book 3

JACKSONVILLE, May 26. (AP)—Florida post offices began late last week distribution of post office application blanks for the state's estimated 2,000,000 ration book supply of War Ration Book No. 3, which will be put into use sometime later as a replacement for war ration books one and two.

Everyone will require one of the new books. Extreme care is necessary in making out the application. Chauncey W. Butler, district OPA director, pointed out. Newspapers as well as the distribution posts in each community will supply correct information on procedure.

"An application," said Butler, "must be made for each group of persons who are related by blood, marriage or adoption and regularly live at the same address."

Print plainly the names and addresses of all persons covered by the application. Do not list persons in the armed forces. Be sure that the names of all family members who are entitled to a ration book are listed.

Every application must be signed by the person usually in the head of the family to whom the ration books are to be mailed. This signer's name is required at four different places on the application.

Application blanks are being placed in postboxes, are delivered one to each home and are also available at general delivery windows. Distribution of the blanks is scheduled to be completed June 5.

Heads of households are required to fill out one simplified blank for each household, listing therein the name and age of each person entitled to receive a ration book. When filled out, the card must be mailed before June 10 to the state mailing center whose address is already printed on the reverse side of the card. They require a 3-cent stamp. Cards should not be taken to local rationing boards.

Distribution of Book 11 to those households who applied for them will begin about June 29 and will be complete in August.

Mr. Faha also advised that the bills are now being prepared in his office for the June 15 payments and will be in the mails between now and June 1. Taxpayers are therefore, requested to give this matter their immediate attention and upon receipt of their bills make prompt remittance. The remittance should be attached to the bill in order to guarantee proper credit, he added.

The other evening Representative Leo Whitiky, the Governor's legislative representative, Campbell Thornall and I were holding a little bull session in front of the hotel when a taxi drove up to meet Senator Shands of Gainesville.

Thornall, recalling a remark the Senator had made a few days earlier about cutting celery on his farm, attempted to make conversation with the inquiry "Have you started cutting that celery yet, Senator?" Young Fox Terrier Nurses Two Pigs OFF THE ELBOW

"The pigs are the only survivors of a litter of nine, and were taken from their mother by Mrs. Friserson who was afraid the sow would injure them in their pen. While the pig was lying in the yard of the Friserson home, the fox terrier adopted them, and she has never had supplies in furnishing the pigs with plenty of milk. The pigs are thriving on the fare, weighing between 9 and 10 pounds each. The fox terrier weighs twelve pounds. Several months ago the dog adopted and nursed a litter of kittens which had been left motherless."

Action Completed By Legislature Regulating Labor

Modified Senate Measure Is Accepted; Time Change Dies

LALAHASSE, May 26 (AP)—Action was completed by the Legislature yesterday on a bill regulating labor unions and it was sent to Governor Holland for his approval. It will go into effect immediately after he signs it.

Final step was House acceptance of the Ephraim bill substituted by the Senate for one passed earlier in the House. The original bill was not drastic, prohibiting the closed shop, but Rep. Clay Lewis, of Gulf, advised the House to accept the Senate version.

The Senate bill, S. 100, which had passed in the House, would have placed all Florida on one time zone.

The portion of the state east of the Apalachicola river, including the population centers of Jacksonville, Tampa and Miami, now on eastern standard time, while the area west of the river is on central standard time.

LALAHASSE, May 26 (AP)—The Legislature passed on Monday a labor law bill recommended by Governor Holland as part of his program to curb several diseases and prostitution in Florida. The Senate passed the House approved measure 21 to 0.

The bill prohibits the sale of liquor by the drink between midnight and 5 A. M. on week days and between midnight Saturday and 5 A. M. Monday. Sales by the bottle are prohibited between 8 P. M. and 5 A. M. on week days and all day Sunday.

The Senate also passed on Monday a bill giving State county and city health officers authority to commit persons infected with venereal disease to State Board of Health, venereal disease hospital for quarantine and compulsory treatment.

The bill also directs that health officers, police officers, any person in their custody charged with or convicted of a venereal disease, or any person infected with venereal disease, to health officers for compulsory treatment.

Two years of immunity will be granted for disease in Florida if the case occurs in a bill passed by the House 57 to 16.

Representative Graves, of Inverness, sponsored the bill. He explained it would allow divorce to be granted in one party to a marriage has been legally notified, inquest and has been confined to an institution for seven years.

The bill contains a retroactive clause so that if a person already has been insane for 10 years, but for divorce may be granted.

Henry Ford's Son Dies At Age Of 19

Henry Ford

"What kind of a man is Edsel Ford?" was a question heard frequently both in and out of automobile circles. Few could answer it. Heared by his father with a great objective of fitting him to manage the huge Ford industries when the elder Ford might have to step down, the responsibility Edsel Ford grew up apart from his ordinary walks and activities.

At 19 he was made vice president of the Ford Motor company. Three years later he became treasurer. This was in 1921, the year that Henry Ford successfully fought control of the Ford company. The elder Ford probably could not have selected a time of greater stress in which to test his son's ability.

Edsel was not quite 21 when the Ford Motor company entered the first world war. The Ford company was engaged in the production of steel helmets, airplane motors, artillery, machine tools, and other war necessities. Edsel, a single, bore an effort to apply the principles of mass production of automobiles to the manufacture of war material.

When the general draft of the nation's manpower were made, Edsel was not in the Ford company. He was employed at home as a war in factory. Many men have to him put Edsel's name on a list of conscientious objectors.

Edsel Ford was born on November 11, 1893, in a two-story, red brick house on Bagley, now the heart of Detroit's downtown district. His father, after being employed at home for a week, the engine room of the Detroit Edison plant and had just completed in his off hours, his first gasoline-driven, horseless carriage.

When Edsel became old enough he was sent to the public schools. He finished the grade school at 11 and was then sent to the Detroit University School. Graduated from the latter institution he took up his training at his father's plant instead of going to college.

Edsel Ford was married November 11, 1916, to Miss Eleanor Clay, a niece of J. L. Hudson, one of Detroit's leading merchants and philanthropists. They had four children: Henry Ford II, born in 1918; Benson Ford, in 1920; Eleanor Clay Ford, in 1922; and William Clay Ford, in 1925.

Edsel was largely responsible for the interest taken by his father in aviation and persuaded him to undertake the development of airplane manufacturing at Dearborn site of the parent plant of the Ford company. He offered the Edsel B. Ford prize for the annual national air tour and sponsored and contributed very largely to the expedition of Commander Richard Byrd to the South Pole in 1929-1930.

He was a member of Detroit's commission, made a number of notable gifts to the Detroit Art Institute and was a member of numerous Detroit clubs and the New York Yacht Club.

Curfew Ordinance Given 1st Reading By Commissioners

Sanford, Fla., May 26 (Special)—The Sanford City Commissioners today gave the first reading to a curfew ordinance which would move over at least 100 children from the streets to the homes of their parents.

The ordinance also states that all children under 12 years of age shall be on the streets and other public places after 11:00 P. M. unless accompanied by a guardian or family member or a specified person.

The ordinance also states that any person who violates the ordinance shall be fined not more than five dollars.

All ordinances in part of ordinances in conflict with the ordinance shall be repealed. It also provided that the ordinance shall become effective immediately upon its passage and adoption.

Permission was granted by the commission for use of a building at 919 French Avenue for a boys' club.

The Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners was given permission to construct a frame structure to serve for the duration shed in the rear of their building on Pennington Avenue.

It was announced that the water pump, well pump, pipes and fittings are complete on the new City well but that it cannot be put into operation until transformers arrive. These are expected to be here Saturday, Mr. Nayer said.

RACIAL DISORDERS MONTGOMERY, May 26 (AP)

Government speaks today said the situation seems to be quiet at Mobile where troops stood guard against a recurrence of racial disorders at a shipment when brought slight injuries to eight persons and left an estimated 10,000 negro workers idle. He saw no likely danger of further disturbance.

Stop.. This.. Before Making a LONG DISTANCE CALL!

In America's race against vital war industries and the military forces are using the long distance telephone as never before—calls by the thousands every day.

But thousands of civilian messages—calls not related to winning the war—are placing an additional burden on long distance lines—consuming priceless telephone time. War calls that must go through quickly are threatened with delay.

To help keep lines clear for vital war communications and the military forces the telephone industry must have—America is depending on every long distance telephone user to voluntarily sacrifice his unnecessary calls.

There is urgent need now for a special effort to avoid making "long haul" calls. The greater the distance you talk the greater the possibility of delaying vital war calls, because the "long haul" lines are the most heavily crowded with war business.

A special legislative committee reveals that over half a million dollars has been paid in lawyers' fees during the past two years for special litigation which would seem could have been handled by the Attorney General's office at no extra cost to the taxpayers as well. And if it was necessary to hire outside lawyers we suspect there are plenty in the state who would have been glad to take the case at one-tenth the cost.

A Chinese sailor who didn't have a Chinaman's chance came through a 124 day ordeal on a life raft in the middle of the ocean because he refused to worry. He didn't think he would be rescued, especially after a number of planes and ships passed close by without stopping, but he wasn't afraid to die and enjoyed himself, while he could, catching fish, eating it raw. A man who worries wouldn't have lasted a week.

A recent survey shows that 60 percent of the boys in the U. S. Army cannot swim. They are being taught to tread water, support themselves afloat with buoys, but how many of them can swim when they go overseas, they'll have a chance to survive. One wonder how it happens that American boys and girls are not taught to swim before they are sent to war.

It's The Gimmes! Again

We do not know much about the merits of the coal miners' demands for higher pay but it seems perfectly clear that this controversy and the failure of the government to do anything conclusive about it, have resulted in a series of strikes in other parts of the country which are as damaging to the war program as the coal strike.

The claim that the miners should be paid from the time they enter the mines until they emerge, and not just for an hour or two every day in some instances, seems reasonable enough, and one is left to wonder why John L. Lewis has never done anything about it before in all the years he has been president of the United Mine Workers.

The only argument against it now is that if the people of this country begin devoting their energies, their thoughts and their time, to righting all the wrongs which exist in this country, the larger task of preventing a far greater wrong, the triumph of Nazi Germany, may be lost sight of and neglected altogether. Then the miners would not only not get portal-to-portal pay, they wouldn't even have the right to ask for it, and they wouldn't get time and a half either.

We dare say that every working man in this country can find something wrong with the contract under which he works or the method by which he is paid. And practically everyone thinks he ought to get more money. Take the doctors, for instance, they frequently have to take cases, perform operations, answer accident calls, in the middle of the night, for which they know they will never receive a dime.

Such cases of course, have to be handled. But why should they have to perform operations at their own expense on well known dead-beats who wouldn't be trusted by any merchant in town? Why shouldn't all bona fide charity cases be paid for by the government and why shouldn't adequate provision be made by the government to compel people who can afford it to pay for their doctor's services?

And why should the salaried man who has been working for $50 a week for years have his salary frozen in spite of the rising cost of living and not be permitted to make a cent more now than he was before the war even though his business is good and he is entitled to an increase? Why should the sons of coal miners, whose fathers have spent years learning their trade in order to make $48 a week, be able to go into the shipyards after a few weeks of instruction they are paid $100 a week.

Yes, there are many injustices in our social order, just as there always have been and always will be, but we in this country, unlike those of many other countries, have the right to do something about it. That is, we have that right in peace times, and even in war times, in so far as it does not interfere with the prosecution of the war.

But we had better be sure we do not let our own selfish desires make us forget the big job that has still got to be done.

Tax Talk

Time passes and the world moves, but Congress ties itself up in knots, and talks and talks about income taxes, apparently incapable of action. Is it mental confusion that delays this essential legislation, or timidity? To most people the matter seems clear enough.

An income tax law is needed that will produce the money to carry on the war, and taxpayers mostly know it and are ready to pay, and they want to pay from current income while they have the money, instead of "paying for dead horses" after they have spent it.

The nation's pockets are bulging with war earnings, and the only thing required to drain off the money into the national war chest, before it is spent, is action by Congress establishing the rate and method of payment.

Call it the Rumi plan or anything else—it makes little difference. This so-called "forgiveness" of last year's income tax liability by "skipping a year" could be argued about forever, like points of religious doctrine.

Essentially it is like setting the calendar forward, which hurts nobody when people have once accepted it. Taxes are paid as they accrue, just as salaries and wages are, and that is simpler and better than always dragging last year's tax liabilities into this year. It is net results, rather than precedents, that are important. The plan has small defects but large merits. And it is time for results.

TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY

Don't be surprised if this column reaches you in longhand one of these days. George Burr, Secretary of the State Defense Council, is going around with a gleam in his eye looking for typewriters which are solely needed by the Army and Navy, and he cast a loving and affectionate glance at mine the other day.

I imagine there are other folks besides the Military who would like to do me out of my typewriter, but they can have it, for the Declaration of Independence, Constitution and Bill of Rights were all written with pen and ink and while it might be a bit tough on the linotype operators, I can have my say in long hand if the time ever comes.

My first reaction to this typewriter drive wasn't very enthusiastic. I just couldn't quite figure how they expect to fight a war with typewriters but when I learned that the machines really were needed at the fighting front for use in bombers, jeeps and on ships for quick and accurate transmission of vital orders and messages, I changed my view.

Another thing that impressed me was that all State and Federal boards, bureaus and commissions are being called upon to surrender from 10 to 25 percent of their machines which ought to be good going. I saw in the Washington Post that the National Industrial Conference Board, which normally is a very

It's The Way They Throw 'Em That Makes Chunks Famous

By DILLON GRAMER
AP Features Sports Editor

ANGEL'S EAT SHACK

Henceforth will be closed all day on Mondays due to the shortage of help.

J. Price Angel

NEW YORK—Carl Hubbell, the screwball pitcher, is the last lefty you'd call a screwball.

Tradition says baseball southpaws are screwballs and unpredictable. But old Long Pants, calm, dignified and regular, disproves the legend. Guffy Gomez once insisted Hub should be legislated out of the left-handed union and be made to chuck with his right arm.

But Hub to diamond fans is synonymous with screwball—that's the pitch that made him famous. Down through the years other flingers have become identified with some particular pitch: Christy Mathewson and his fadeaway, Eddie Cicotte and his shiner, Carl Mays and his submarine delivery, Urban Faber and his spitball, Bucky Walters and his sinker, Dutch Leonard and his knuckle ball, Jim Tobin and his butterfly, which is a knuckler, too; Claude Passeau and his slider and Walter Johnson and his fast ball.

These are just a few that Paul

Derringer, the big Chicago Cubs hurler, and I recalled in a gab-fest the other day. There are others.

Perhaps there are some fans who don't know just what these various pitches are, so here's a little dope about them.

KNUCKLER—So-called because the pitcher grips the ball with the knuckles of his hand. The ball doesn't turn over as it approaches the plate and travels comparatively slow. That's where the expression comes: "I could count the seams on the ball."

BUTTERFLY—A knuckler that seems to float and flutter. The pitcher throws it with his fingernails on the cover.

SINKER—A fast ball that breaks an inch or so to the right and down the reverse angle of a curve. Batters have a tendency to hit ground balls off it.

SCREWBALL—Something like the sinker, except that it breaks twice as much, is slower, and is thrown with a flip of the wrist.

FADEAWAY—Same as Hubbell's screwball, except thrown by a right-hander.

SLIDER—A shortened curve and a faster ball. It breaks only a bit and rather rolls away from the batter instead of making a big break. It's a deceptive pitch, spins like a curve, and batters think that's what they are getting.

SHINER—A spinning fast ball that falls away from the batter. It's illegal now. Pitchers would rub a shiny spot on the ball and this would make the ball break downward, if the pitcher threw it with the shiny spot on top, and out, if the doctored area was held to the side.

SPITBALL—Also illegal now. When this pitch was permissible, chunkers closed slippery slippers, moistened their fingers and made a wet spot on the ball that made it dart down and out. The ball revolved slowly.

SUBMARINE—Mays, Elden Auker and others threw the ball underhanded and that brought the expression.

There are different kinds of curves, too. A sidearm curve breaks away from a batter, an overhand breaks down and a knuckler on the mound, except thrown by a right-hander.

Various knucklers throw their specialty with different grips on the ball. Brooklyn's Fred Fitzsimmons has the backs of his index and middle fingernails and the heel of his thumb pressed against his fingers. Treatwell pitched side-arm only but he could make the ball break in any direction. Since the ball doesn't spin, the stitches "flutter" on the air to cause a "flutter" just as the ball reaches the plate.

Umpires behind the plate find knuckle-ball pitchers the toughest to observe. "The ball zigzags when it nears the plate" one umpire explained, "and it may break inside or outside. With a knuckler on the mound, an umpire has to be slow in calling a ball or strike until he is sure of what it is."

Hub was a had one for the men in blue, too. He kept his submarine ball low and the low ones are more difficult to judge. Bob Feller kept them low, too, because his good curve was thrown with almost as much speed as his fast ball.

Gulf Coast Section Opened To Fishing

Another section of the Gulf coast of Florida was opened to commercial and sport fishermen Monday, when the Navy announced vessels will be permitted to operate at all times in a three-mile wide strip bordering Wakulla and Franklin counties, except in certain "danger areas" which may be designated as such by any of the armed forces of the United States.

Previously, the western limit of a similar inshore strip starting at Horseshoe point, Dixie county was the St. Marks range, but the new order extends approved fishing grounds to the border line between the Seventh and Eight naval districts—the Apalachicola river, or approximately the 86th meridian.

Explanation Given For Errors Made By Owi Officials

By JOHN GROVER

WASHINGTON. The Office of War Information has several times got its official tail caught in the Congressional wringer, and has been forced publicly to admit error and bias.

How an agency largely staffed by competent newspapermen can commit a series of glaring blunders that would shame the average journalism student has puzzled observers in Washington. It's a long story.

Efforts have been made to put all the blame on New Deal idealists in OWI. Such an assumption is unfair. But of debilitated "system" that works so ponderously in the government is the villain.

The OWI news bureau is roughly patterned after a news paper editorial office. However, it is so hedged about with red tape that no editorial staff, however brilliant, could operate efficiently.

For instance, OWI has a copy desk like any newspaper. The copy desk is charged with catching and killing bad grammar, errors of fact and personal opinions written into the story by the reporter.

The copy desk has complete authority. A reporter can cry his eyes out over the way the desk butchers his story, but unless he can prove the desk editor is cold turkey wrong, the revisions stick. In short, no copy is sacred and no writer is a sacred cow who can write no wrong.

It's different for the copy desk men at OWI. They're vulnerable. The little fat boys in a pasture full of touchy sacred cows, which are the other federal bureaus.

OWI is clearing a house for federal information from other bureaus, save only the armed forces. The other agencies are the "reporters" in this information set-up. They write the stuff, and forward it to OWI for final clearance. But the OWI can't even correct mistakes in grammar or obvious factual errors without permission of the originating agency.

They tell of a girl scribble for one bureau who squeaked murder about the "violation" of her copy when an OWI blue pencil jockey suggested it was wrong to use a plural subject with a singular verb.

The stories submitted to OWI are prepared by paid press agents. They don't give the agency that pays their salaries any of the worst of it. Some of them follow the prudent rule of buttering the bun with fulsome flattery in the newspaper practice, the copy desk would butcher out this personal gooseneck. Not so at OWI, where the hog-tied copy desk can change a letter without anguished moans from the sacred cows.

Under the OWI clearance system, it usually takes eight hours for a story to win approval from every agency even remotely affected. It is supposed to prevent conflict and ill feeling between agencies. In one utterly trivial recent release, it was mentioned that the tennis racket supply was adequate. Some mental giant along the clearance line write in "except strings" His correction necessitated a long check with a WPB materials branch, half a dozen other clearances, and the story was found originally correct.

It's a basic rule in normal newspapering that both sides of a story must be given in controversial issues. However, when Agency A is involved in a dispute, seldom does its press agent include pertinent data unless it reflects glory on his bureau.

The desk men at OWI can't reject his copy, and insist it tell both sides. (That's how the "Di-

British Tugs Save Torpedoed Ships

LONDON. (AP)—Thousands of tons of war cargoes which German U-boat commanders have reported as at the bottom of the sea have been rescued by the ocean-going tugs of Britain's Royal Navy.

The little ships sometimes go as far as 500 miles out to save merchant ships which otherwise would have been unable to make port. Most recent of their exploits is the rescuing of a merchant ship, part of whose bow had been sheared off by a torpedo.

Other Cities' Loss, Is Gain For Knoxville

Knoxville, Tenn. (AP)—The Civil War and a snowstorm were responsible for two businessmen settling in Knoxville.

Jesse E. Miller came from a small Illinois town 50 years ago to start the old battleground of the Civil War. He started by a milling firm, was offered a job and climbed to the general manager's position of the firm.

Florenz Rebert, who had just arrived in America from Italy, was caught in a snowstorm that delayed his train enroute to Memphis. In Knoxville he strolled down the main street, liked it, and hasn't moved to Memphis yet.

The Stations for All" pamphlet emerged as a fine kettle of propaganda for tax policies favored by the Treasury.

For the Lurh geniuses giving their all for their bureau bosses, this set-up is like living on Paradise Avenue in Press Agent's wonderland. Nothing could be sweeter from a press agent's standpoint than a copy desk that's handcuffed and can't back his handiwork and can't back his "agency's" daydreams. There's word on that OWI chiefs are demanding and soon will get ample authority to do a job.

Doctor Suggests Cure For Meat Shortage

HOYS, Kas. (AP)—After All Landon had discussed the meat situation with Dr. C. D. Blake of Hays, and indicated some additional meat wouldn't be out of place in the Landon diet, Blake sent him a big female chinchilla rabbit, suggesting he try that for a meal.

All wrote back that the rabbit didn't relieve his hunger one bit since his children, Nancy and John, promptly appropriated it as a pet. So Dr. Blake sent Landon a big chinchilla buck and suggested that the Landons grow their own rabbits.

Too few people appreciate the versatility of fish. Here a tasty stuffing "dresses up" a fish served whole, and as you will see, extends its use far beyond that of the fish alone.

BREAD STUFFING
5 cups bread cubes 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
1/3 cup chopped celery 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup chopped onion 1/4 cup shortening
1/8 teaspoon pepper

Combine the crumbs, parsley, salt and pepper. Meanwhile melt the fat in a frying pan, add onion and celery and simmer gently until tender. Mix with seasoned bread cubes. (If dry bread is used, moisture should be added.)

New Agency Is Created To Aid On Home Front

Byrnes Is Appointed Head Of New Office Of War Mobilization

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—President Roosevelt today created a new Office of War Mobilization to be directed by James F. Byrnes, who will exercise virtually complete powers over all home front war efforts.

The new office is to develop unified programs and establish policies for the maximum use of America's industrial and civilian resources for military and civilian needs, effective use of manpower outside the armed forces, maintenance and mobilization of the civilian economy and adjusting the economy to wartime conditions.

Byrnes' job as Economic Stabilization Director will be taken over by Judge Fred M. Vinson of Kentucky, now a member of the District of Columbia U. S. Court of Appeals. The President said we are entering a new phase of the war effort calling for streamlining. Byrnes will also serve as chairman of the War Mobilization Committee.

The six-man War Mobilization Board, set up with vast powers, also includes Chairman Harry Hopkins of the Munitions Assignment Board and Donald Nelson of WPB, Chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, Vinson and Secretaries Stimson and Knox.

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—Conclusion of the strategy conference between President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill was viewed in some quarters as marking the beginning of the final phase of the war in which the United Nations are destined to undertake a full-scale offensive in both the European and Pacific theaters.

The meeting was announced by Roosevelt with a statement merely that "complete agreement" had been reached on future plans.

Informed persons here speculated that the war in Europe is expected to be won by next year at the latest, but in the Pacific the conflict may run until 1945 or 1946.

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—OPA Chief Brown told a press conference which followed sharp words yesterday that his top aides advised "can't get along, I'll pick the one I think is best and let the other one go."

He made the statement as an attitude of policy, not specifically naming the two officials who had just tangled in a you-get-out-or-I'll sort of row. They are Lou Maxon, deputy administrator in charge of information, and Dr. J. G. Galbreath, deputy administrator in charge of price control.

Maxon told reporters Brown would have to give him complete control over OPA policies and personnel or he would leave this afternoon. Galbreath told them that if Maxon got the job he would quit. Then Maxon said that if he did get the job he would give Galbreath 15 minutes to pack.

Maxon has been threatening to leave for some time unless given more authority over those he terms "the professors in OPA."

Brown told the press he wanted to say nothing for a few weeks about the controversy except that he wants to straighten out the absurd statements about a breakdown in OPA.

Another Picnic Slated At Evansdale Sunday

The USO outing for service men at Evansdale Park again proved so successful that another picnic is planned for this coming Sunday, William Walskop, director, stated today.

There will be plenty more hot dogs, cold drinks, and other refreshments provided and entertainers will be requested to bring more talent, which seems to go well with the occasion.

The picnic will be held at 1:30 P. M.—Any WAACS or WAVES in the vicinity are also invited.

Japs On Attu Are Split Into Small Units

Stimson Reveals Casualties In Aleutian Islands Are Relatively Light

WASHINGTON, May 28. (AP)—Indications today were the Japanese force at Attu was rapidly being broken into small units of resistance as the Navy reported an attack on the tiny island started yesterday.

After two days of violent hand-to-hand fighting, United States troops on Attu island have cracked the ridge defenses guarding the main Japanese position at Chichagof harbor.

A small area at the head of the harbor is one of two main positions still held by enemy forces on the westernmost Aleutian island. When it falls, the Japanese will hold only a ridge line about three miles to the south between Lake Corcoran and Lake Nicholas. The ridge line already is under American pressure.

An American foothold on the high ground dominating the Chichagof position of the United States warship had turned it into a heavy gun on enemy shore installations the day before an estimated 1,000 Japanese.

Prior to issuance of the navy communiqué, Secretary of War Stimson discussed the Attu situation at a press conference and pointed out American casualties had been "relatively light"—127 killed, 399 wounded, an 11% missing.
