22 SET LAUNCHING S CAMPAIGN

Steel Magnate Leaves $5 To Wife And Fortune To His Youngest Daughter, 18

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS)—"To my wife, Mrs. Ellen May Peacock, five dollars."

The will of Alexandra R. Peacock, formerly of Pittsburgh, who hammered millions from steel with Andrew Carnegie, was filed today in surrogate's court.

It left $5 to his widow, trifling bequests to three sons and one daughter and a fortune to his youngest child, an 18-year-old girl. No value of the estate was given but it will run well over $1,000,000.

The daughter receiving the greatest bulk of it is Jean Alexander Peacock. She is to receive an income of $25,000 a year until she is thirty or until she marries. Then she is to be given the entire estate.

Jean is now living with her elder sister, Mrs. J. Larusso Anderson, at Pandemic, Long Island. Mrs. Anderson and her three brothers, Clarence, Grant, and Roland B. Peacock, were left $100 by the will.

Formerly a store clerk in Pittsburgh Peacock was taken up by Carnegie and eventually became a vice president of the Carnegie Steel Company. His fortune at one time was estimated as high as $10,000,000 but shrank through unwise investments.

Mussolini Will Delay Probe Of Italia Disaster

Inquiry Slated For Latter Part Of Next Month Or Early October; Mariane And Zappi To Be Quizzed

ROME, July 24.—(INS)—Italy's inquiry into the conduct of the Nobile expedition, which has been ordered by the Premier Mussolini to still hostile criticism throughout northern Europe, was expected today to be opened late in September or early in October. It is believed that it will deal in his speech with two very important issues, price and farm relief.

For Kep Pittman of Nevada, author of the notification committee will preside at the ceremony and said:

"He intends to deal solely with the campaign issue."

Hoover indicated that he and his address will be sent over to a nationwide meeting of the capital face in Paris, in which 100,000 people are expected to gather, and he was satisfied with the notification committee's work.

Hoover, in a rough draft, intended to say on some more important of the issues:

"Official" statements will be taken from Capt. A. Mariano and Filippo Zappi regarding the fate of Prof. Fum Meiringen, the Swedish scientist whose mysterious death has not yet been cleared up.

It is deeply regretted here that some countries, political criticism against Fascism has been allowed to enter the comment upon the unfortunate outcome of the expedition. The celebration delighted Hoover.

"Every man would rather have a greeting from his own colleagues than from any other group in the country," said Hoover, who graduated from Stanford in 1885.

"I'd rather have this reception from Stanford men than any other body of men in this country. I thank you for it."

The student band played "come join the band," the Stanford song, and Hoover joined in the singing. So did, too, Mrs. Hoover, an alumnae of Stanford.

Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California visited the nominee yesterday and pledged his support. He ended an eight-year feud with Hoover by breaking bread at the nominee's table. He predicted Hoover would carry California, but did not name any figures.

The premier referred to the critics of the expedition as "slackers," such as those who would remain at home in wartime and then criticize the conduct of men upon the field of battle.

Radiograms from King's Bay state that Gen. Nobile is still in feeble condition from his hardships, and that he is showing traces of his deep worry over the unlucky outcome of the polar voyage.

Youth Leads Rites For Mexican Flier

MEXICO CITY, July 24.—A college boy, Arthur Garcia, typifying the youth of the republic, delivered the funeral oration over Capt. Emilio Carranza, Mexican, believed young "Ace" was buried today amid the country's illustrious dead in the Pantheon Dolores. The body was taken to the cemetery on a gun carriage and was draped with Mexican and United States flags. Thousands of men, women and children lined the roadway to the cemetery as the body, escorted by cadets from the military academy, the presidential guard and a group of military airmen, passed.

SANDY BURR COUNTRY CLUB, Wayland, Mass., July 24.—(INS)—With a hole on the first and ninth holes, Archie Compston, English golf wonder, beat Walter Hagen, America's foremost match golfer, 3 up at the turn in the first round of their 18-hole match today, the first half of a 22-hole tournament.

BATTLE LINES ARE DRAWN BY BOTH PARTIES

Atlantic Seaboard Stretching From Maine To Maryland To Be Crucial Fighting Ground Of Both Groups

Day-To-Day Drive Is Plan Of Republicans

Crux Of Eastern Struggle Lies In New York State Where Smith Is Strongest

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS)—The Atlantic seaboard from Maine to Maryland was clearly marked today by both the Democratic and Republican high command as the crucial battle ground of the 1928 presidential campaign.

Three political gatherings of the first magnitude here within the last 24 hours have established the scene of the major encounters. New York State is to be won by political battle of the Marine and Massachusetts, Indiana, and the agrarian, Vermon, New Jersey, Maryland, Rhode Island and Delaware are red-flagged on the huge wall maps of the campaign strategists.

A heap of political straw thrown to the wind in the three gatherings revealed this year's midsummer campaign strategy to be something of a gale and disclosed at the same time an astonishing agreement between Democratic and Republican strategists as to where the most blood is likely to be spilled between now and November.

So important is this section in the view of Dr. Herbert Work, Republican national chairman, that the day-to-day campaign management will be under his personal supervision. He will be aided by an advisory committee composed of the national committees members from the 11 states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Delaware.

Of this group, New York, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Delaware, New Jersey and Maryland, with a total of 93 electoral votes, are regarded as "fighting chances" states by both strategy boards.

CATHOLIC CHURCH SHOWS BIG GAIN IN MEMBERSHIPS

Nearly Three Million Join Since 1916, Making Total Roll Of 18,000,000; Holdings Also Enjoys Increase

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—

The Roman Catholic Church has a membership of 18,000,000 in America, the Census Bureau reported today.

It has gained 2,853,025 members since the last census in 1916, an average of approximately 288,000 annually. That would give the church an estimated membership of 19,800,000 at election time.

The Friends Society, Quaker, at the 1920 census had a membership of 91,253 and 711 churches in comparison to 18,359 churches for the Catholic Church.

While all religious census reports for 1920 have not been compiled figures obtained at the Library of Congress showed that the protestant population of United States numbers approximately 28,500,000.

Census Bureau figures reported the value of Catholic Church property in 1926 at $837,200,000 as compared to a valuation of $74,200,000 10 years before. Total expenditures for 1926 reported by 16,316 of the Catholic Churches amounted to $204,52,087, of which $181,354,04 went for current expenses and improvements, $18,51,523 for benevolences and missions and the remainder unclassified. In 1916, 15,722 churches reported expenditures of $72,253,126.

The question of prohibition, if it becomes the issue predicted, by many, undoubtedly will cause many women voters to go to the polls, Michelet said.

Prohibition as an issue would raise another question—what do the young people think about the dry law?

He estimates that 14,000,000 people, nearly 25 percent of the eligible electorate, have acquired the right to vote since constitutional prohibition became effective.

The politician, therefore, may become interested in the habits and activities of the flapper and cake-eater as are reformers who have predicted that the younger generation is running riot.

It is estimated that 59,000,000 people will be entitled to vote next November, and if 20,000,000 go to the polls an election interest far exceeding that of the last decade will be revealed.

POLICE SLAYER SOUGHT

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS)—

With an automobile license number as their most promising clue, detectives today were seeking a tall-light-complexioned Romeo who shot Patrician John Kennedy when surprised in a heavily wooded lane Woodmere, a suburb, early yesterday. One suspect, whose name was not given, was held for questioning.

Mechanics Marat, who is acting as relief pilot, and radio operator

Cadou are accompanying Parton. The fliers will probably head for the Bermudas on the second leg of the flight but they will fly to Halifax instead if weather conditions permit.

Then they will return and continue to New York. If all goes well on this flight, the fliers hope to make a return flight from New York to Brest with only one stop at Newfoundland enroute,

Cattle Scamper Through Streets Of Kansas City Following Train Wreck

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 24.—(INS)—Several thousand persons who are accustomed to seeing their beefsteak garnished with parsley and sautéed in onions today had the privilege of seeing it on the hoof here. Beef took to the hoof following the wreck in the terminal yards last night which released three carloads of beef cattle on the streets of the city.

The wreck occurred just before midnight when a Santa Fe engine pulling a long train left the tracks, turned on its side. A engine at the rear of the train piled freight cars upon the toppled engine.

Three cattle cars near the front were smashed, and 65 head of cattle, released when their cars were sandwiched, climbed over the wreckage and became unwilling and unwelcome guests of that city.

The cattle, recruited in the Kan-

Giant Plane Ready For Hop To Sweden

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 24.—(INS)—The giant airplane of Bert Hassell will hop off here tomorrow at dawn on the first leg of a transatlantic flight to Stockholm, Sweden, the veteran aviator announced here this afternoon. Final preparations for the flight will be made today with the engine starting up the plane and the filling of the gasoline tanks. Parker Cramer of New York, who will act as navigator on the long journey, announced he had received favorable weather reports from Greenland and that the plane would positively hop tomorrow. Hassell expects to refuel the ship at Greenland and take off within a short time for the last leg over the North Atlantic.

Voters Show More Interest In Outcome

Prohibition Question Will Draw Many To Polls; 59 Million Eligible To Vote

WASHINGTON, July 24.—(INS)—

Politicians wrestling with the problem of how to elect a president must figure on the rates of 25,000,000 people by far the greatest electorate in the world—Simon Michelet, head of the national get-out-the-vote club and widely known election expert, predicted today.

The prospect of an unprecedented, vote as revealed in cold calculations based on exhaustive election statistics may go far in re-earning an indifferent electorate which for years has been letting a minority of the eligible voters name the heads of the government, he pointed out.

"The election of 1924 brought out 20,000,000 voters but I expect to see fully 25,000,000 voters go to the ballot box this year," said Michelet.

"There are many reasons for this

Determined efforts to persuade people to exercise their right of franchise is having effect. The growth of population will add 7,000,000 first presidential voters to the eligible roll.

"But the chief factor in the prospective large vote is the presence of issues which go home to the average voter, particularly the woman voter. We have issues in this election which women can understand without making a study of the science of government, and this is true of many men voters as well."

Statistics show that women voters as a whole are less interested in economic questions than in many other issues, some women of which will go in this fall's campaign.

The question becomes, if it becomes the issue predicted, by many, undoubtedly will cause many women voters to go to the polls, Michelet said.

Prohibition as an issue would raise another question—what do the young people think about the dry law?

He estimates that 14,000,000 people, nearly 25 percent of the eligible electorate, have acquired the right to vote since constitutional prohibition became effective.

The politician, therefore, may become interested in the habits and activities of the flapper and cake-eater as are reformers who have predicted that the younger generation is running riot.

It is estimated that 59,000,000 people will be entitled to vote next November, and if 20,000,000 go to the polls an election interest far exceeding that of the last decade will be revealed.

Raskob Resigns As Executive Head Of Motor Corporation

NEW YORK, July 24.—(INS)—

With the resignation of John J. Raskob chairman of the finance committee of General Motors Corporation was accepted today. Raskob resigned so as to be free to take complete charge of the campaign of Governor Alfred E. Smith for the presidency. Raskob recently was elected chairman of the Democratic national committee.

The acceptance of Raskob's resignation was announced by Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors. In a statement Sloan said Raskob's resignation "has been under consideration and, it became the interest of both the corporation and Mr. Raskob to accept the same, it has been done with the greatest regret on the part of the entire organization.

The news that Raskob had tendered his resignation had its effect in Wall Street shortly before Sloan's statement was issued. General Motors stock lost three points and was a factor in a wave of selling that also sent some of the other issues to a lower ebb. The unusual situation of Raskob holding the two jobs, the political and financial, had aroused considerable discussion in the financial district in the past week.

Chicago Gang Guns Fell Fresh Victim

CHICAGO, July 24.—(INS)—

Hearing guns of "Little Italy" flashed fire again and killed Joseph Calzantone, 60, a block from notorious death corner.

Two policemen stationed a block away to true a murderer heard the shots and turned to see the body of the victim sprawled in the street with two pistol by his side.

Police could learn nothing of the motive for the killing.

JACKSONVILLE, Corbiners laid for new Church of Good Shepherd at Park and Stockton Streets.

July 24.—(INS)—

Though the body has not yet been positively identified, the man who was shot to death in Black Horse Tavern here late Sunday night was Johnny Farar, better known as "Johnny the Wop," much feared Philadelphia gangster, according to the theory of police here today.

The victim was shot down as he was making a telephone call. Four men, with sawed-off shotguns, committed the murder, while a score of customers fled to cover.

The gunman escaped in an automobile leaving a New York license, according to observers, leaving the building in some quarters that the shooting was at the door, others that it was outside the door.

The theory of police here, however, is that the slaying resulted from a quarrel over a woman—a blonde who was in the tavern, and who screamed when the quartet of thugs burst through the door.

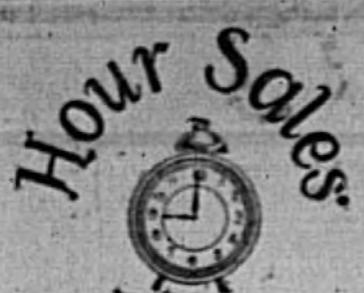

The girl was friendly with a prominent character and Farar is reported to have "taken" her from this man.

A TENDER ADMONITION—
My son, attend unto my wisdom, and how thine ear to my understanding.—Prov. 5:1.

PRAYER—Help us, Lord, to take heed to our ways according to Thy word.

FAIR FLORIDA

With the bounteous beauties of Nature

Fair Florida is blest,

With her citrus groves and gardens

She outshines all the rest.

And the beautiful blue Danube

With the St. Johns can't compare

With her banks of oak and cypress

And her moss plumes waving there.

Its vastness of her forests

With their tall and stately pine

Which make the healing zone.

And her balmy healthy clime.

The fragrance of her flowers

And the breeze from the salty sea.

Tis the finest state in the Union

Fair Florida for me.

To her lakes and streams and forests

The hunter quickly flies

To seek there for the wild things

In the sportsman's paradise.

Wanderlust has made me

A restless roving soul

But alas I have found my haven—

Florida is my goal.

With her friendly courteous people

And there days of sunny ease.

Here I'll cast my anchor

And end my days in peace.

Q—How about this talk of over-

Beer Vs. Milk

Minus the customary interest which usually precedes a championship bout, the Tunney-Heeney battle slowly approaches the zero hour when an apathetic public will receive with more or less unconcern the reports issued from the ringside at Madison Square Garden depicting the progress of this summer's premier fistic classic.

Whether the lack of interest on this side of the ocean is due to the fact that fight fans are resolved that the New Zealander is not the logical contender for the crown which Tunney wears so graciously or whether from a natural satiation of pugilism, it is not revealed.

However, from England come dispatches that the impending scrap is holding more than ordinary interest among Britishers who entertain the faint hope that Heeney will return to the Empire an honor which left there many years ago. They see in their man a ruggedness and an ability to take punishment that will stave off the dangerous lefts and right crosses of which Tunney is master. They believe that by weathering the first eight rounds of Gene's whirlwind attack Heeney will be able to garner enough points to win the decision, or possibly, by a break of luck, to gain a knockout.

Nevertheless, experts, who have viewed both fighters in training have maintained that Tunney's lightning-like jabs, his clever foot work and his superior ring generalship will be sufficient to assure him victory next Thursday night. They see, however, in a trick of Heeney's of letting his adversary hit him on top of the head a dangerous menace to Tunney's brittle hands. Always troubled with weak mitts, Gene might be seriously embarrassed if they came in contact with Tom's heavy skull.

At all events, we predict that when the gong sounds there will be many millions of persons waiting to hear the result and to learn whether Heeney's boast of "matching his beer against Tunney's milk" has been made good.

Mr. Work's Successor

The appointment of Roy O. West of Illinois to succeed Hubert Work as Secretary of the Interior occasioned some surprise in administration circles when the announcement was first made; but remained no mystery at all, when Mr. Coolidge made public some of his reasoning processes in connection with the selection. In a nutshell, Mr. West was tendered the portfolio as the recognition of a political obligation and not because of any outstanding qualification for the line of work which he is about to assume.

The department, like that of commerce, is exceptionally well organized, having so many capable assistants that it could very well operate for some months without an executive head. But the President felt very grateful to Mr. West for his work as secretary of the Republican National Committee and desired to show his appreciation with a suitable reward. In making such an appointment, however, the President was facing an embarrassing situation. Anticipating the election of Herbert Hoover, he felt no desire to make an appointment that his successor would feel obliged to reaffirm.

Other potential candidates were said to be willing to accept provided there was an understanding that reappointment would be made in the event of Mr. Hoover's election. The President could give no such assurance, nor did he desire to if it had been his privilege. Mr. West, however, let it be known that he would accept provided he could go out of office with Mr. Coolidge. The Chief Executive jumped at the opportunity. He could pay a political debt without embarrassing his successor and at the same time feel assured that with an efficient organization the Interior Department would continue to function in accordance with the policies laid down by Mr. Work.

FACTS ABOUT THE CLEARING HOUSE

TAMPA TRIBUNE

Outside of the citrus industry, few Floridians know the facts about the Clearing House and why its success means so much to the industry and to the state. The committee of Fifty prepared a series of questions and answers covering accurate and detailed information on the subject. We print here with some of the more important particulars:

Q—Why do the growers desire a Clearing House?
A—Because the marketing system of the past has not brought them the returns on their investment which their investment warrants.

Q—What are the purposes of the Clearing House plans as finally adopted?
A—To substitute orderly and even distribution of the fruit for the chaotic method of the past, to standardize the grade and pack and to increase consumption of Florida fruit by national advertising campaign.

Q—Why is this grower-controlled Clearing House regarded as the best solution of Florida's marketing problem?
A—Because the grower-controlled Clearing House plan is the only one which can do legally those things needed to be done for the industry. The growers, through the provisions of the Copper-Volstead act, can organize and market their product in a manner not possible in any group organized under business laws.

Q—What effect on the shippers' business will the Clearing House have?
A—The Clearing House will do this for the shipper; By stabilizing the flow of fruit into the markets, the average price for fruit will be increased and the shippers' business placed upon an efficient basis with consequent economic benefit.

Q—What will establishment of the Clearing House mean to the markets and the consumer?
A—It will mean that no longer will the markets be confronted with the "feast and famine" conditions that have existed in the past for the flow of fruit will be evenly distributed and regular. Through standardization of grade and pack the market will know what it is getting, this knowledge of course being on to the ultimate consumer.

They say nobody is worked up over politics any more, but some of us still think the Hoover-Smith bout will be as exciting as anything Mr. Tunney will do to Mr. Heeney—or vice versa.—Detroit News.

CHICKENS COMING HOME?

TAMPA TIMES

Jacksonville and Tallahassee both report a movement to "draft" Sidney J. Catts as a candidate for governor of Florida in the November election.

What will come of this cannot be now known, of course. It is only certain that when it comes to matters political no one need be surprised at anything the former governor may do. What he did in the campaign preceding the recent democratic primary, in which he was a candidate, is proof enough of that.

The question arises: Why has not Sidney J. Catts the right to bolt the democratic primary to the point of running for governor as a "draft" candidate? If individuals who participated in that primary have the right to vote for whom they please in the general election? It seems that if the primary settled Catts' prerogative in the premises it also settled the status of each participant therein. There is no escaping such a conclusion.

The Times believes that Sidney J. Catts has no right to run for governor under the circumstances, if he has had his day before the general election comes on—which is in the opinion of The Times, no right at all.

The question arises: Why has not Sidney J. Catts the right to bolt the democratic primary to the point of running for governor as a "draft" candidate? If individuals who participated in that primary have the right to vote for whom they please in the general election? It seems that if the primary settled Catts' prerogative in the premises it also settled the status of each participant therein. There is no escaping such a conclusion.

The Times believes that Sidney J. Catts has no right to run for governor under the circumstances, if he has had his day before the general election comes on—which is in the opinion of The Times, no right at all.

Talk of a possible further Catts candidate presents a striking and threatening case of chickens that may be coming home to roost.

Bolting is bolting; not having the proper regard for obligations incurred by participation in the making of nominations is not the proper thing—no matter whether they are indulged by Sidney J. Catts or others.

Catts has the same right to run "independent," or under some other name, as participants in primary nominations have to vote "independent" or otherwise, when the general election comes on—which is in the opinion of The Times, no right at all.

There's one sure way to rid tobacco of impurities. That's by toasting. That's why Lucky Strike is toasted. All the bite and harshness is removed. Surely that is the reason 20,679 doctors state that Lucky Strike is free from all throat irritants.

'Happiness Ahead' To Feature Colleen Moore At Milane

According to Camerman Sid Hickox, who photographed Miss Moore's newest picture, "Happiness Ahead," which comes to the Milane Theatre today, she hasn't a single "bad angle." As a result, no matter what angle the director wishes a scene filmed, Miss Moore will appear at her best on the screen.

This is a valuable asset, for less fortunate players must take great care to avoid giving the camera certain views of their features, which makes sincere dramatic work much more difficult. Miss Moore, in the other hand, never gives the camera a thought, but concentrates on the scene in which she is working.

Edmund Lowe plays opposite Miss Moore in "Happiness Ahead," which John McCormick produced for First National. The picture was directed by William A. Seiter with a supporting cast including Lillian Tashman, Edythe Chapman, Charles Selson, Virginia Dale and Diane Ellis. The story is by Edmund Goulding, Benjamin Glaser having prepared the scenario from which "Happiness Ahead" is filmed.

Frank Yahn of Springfield, Mass., and S. Wasserman of Boston, Mass., are spending a few days here on business. Mr. Yahn a former resident of Sanford, had not been here in the last 25 years and noted the many changes and improvements which have occurred during that time.
