Confrontation Delay Is Only 'For Andy'

U.S. Policy On PLO Called 'Ridiculous'

CORLEY NEWS SERVICE / SAN DIEGO UNION © 1979 JUDE

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Andrew Young has won postponement of a confrontation between the United States and the Arab world over a resolution on Palestinian rights.

But there's a rub. The Arabs said they agreed to the postponement only "for Andy," and Young, who resigned as U.N. ambassador over an unauthorized meeting with the Palestine Liberation Organization, will be gone next month.

Arab officials made it clear Friday the confrontation over a resolution calling for "self-determination, national independence, and sovereignty" for the Palestinians was put off, not canceled.

The officials said the Palestinian issue will arise again in the Security Council, most likely in early October — after Young's successor is named.

Friday's decision to avoid a vote and a veto — which Young as the American delegate would have had to cast — was made by PLO leader Yasser Arafat in the Middle East.

"We cannot let circumstances push Andrew Young, this great man, to cast the veto," said Arafat in a telegram read in the Council by Kuwaiti Ambassador Abdullah Yacoub Bisharra.

Young's possibly final public appearance in the chamber was in keeping with his stormy stay in the sensitive U.N. post. He gave a blunt statement of the international scene, criticizing the State Department, Israeli settlements and Palestinian violence.

He called the State Department's order to ban meetings between the PLO and the United States "ridiculous."

"I have no regrets about violating the ridiculous rule about not communicating with the PLO," he said. "I walked into it with my eyes open. I had a fundamental disagreement with the policy and I kept quiet about it for two and a half years. Now in some small way I may have opened up a channel of communication."

"It is a ridiculous policy for the United States to speak to the PLO. It's also ridiculous for many of you sitting around this table not to have relations with Israel."

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Andrew Young, controversial to the end, disagreed openly with his government in his swan song at the United Nations, telling the Security Council the United States is pursuing a "ridiculous" policy by ignoring the Palestine Liberation Organization.

But Young, who resigned after being censured for misrepresenting an unauthorized meeting with a member of the Palestine Liberation Organization, pulled off a major diplomatic breakthrough Friday for the Carter administration by obtaining a postponement of the vote on a resolution the United States was committed to veto.

The resolution called for "self-determination, national independence and sovereignty" for the Palestinians, and a veto would have further alienated its Arab oil suppliers. And the Arabs, announcing the postponement, said, "We are doing it for Andy."

"It is a tribute to Young ... it has nothing to do with the State Department," Kuwaiti Ambassador Abdullah Yacoub Bisharra, a spokesman for the Arab bloc, said.

He said the order for the postponement came from PLO leader Yasser Arafat. "We cannot let circumstances push Andrew Young, this great man, to cast the veto," said Arafat in a telegram read by Bisharra.

As Young, Security Council president for August, rose for his possible last public appearance in the chamber, a hush fell on the room.

"If I may take the liberty, I would like to express some personal thoughts," he said stressing he was speaking to his "delegate" friends and not as the American envoy.

"I have no regrets about violating the ridiculous (U.S. government) rule about not communicating with the PLO," he said. "It is a ridiculous policy for the United States to speak to the PLO. It's also ridiculous for many of you sitting around this table not to have relations with Israel."

It was the first time in U.N. history a council president has told that body — the top decision-making unit at the world organization — that he disagrees with his government.

County Residents Will Get Credits On Power Bills

By DONNA ESTES
 Herald Staff Writer

Residents in the unincorporated areas of Seminole County who have been paying franchise fees as part of their power bills from the Florida Power and Light Co. will be receiving credits on their November bills said Scott Burns, district manager of the utility, today.

How much will the credit to each customer in the unincorporated area be? That will not be known until the order is received from the Florida Public Service Commission (PSC), Burns said.

The Florida Supreme Court gave the PSC an opinion that it is improper for customers living in non-franchise areas (the unincorporated areas) to pay franchise fees to be returned to city government.

The order means only customers living within franchise areas will pay the fees.

"We (FPL) have received notice the ruling will be to collect franchise fees from city residents only, and by November to credit the power bills in the unincorporated areas," Burns said.

The Supreme Court opinion and PSC order does not affect the amount of franchise fees the city of Sanford will receive, Burns said. The city has budgeted to receive $400,000 from the franchise fees for the 1979-1980 fiscal year to begin Oct. 1.

Burns said the Supreme Court directed FPL in January to continue using the "spread" method in collecting franchise fees from its out of city residents and to use the "direct" method in collecting the bills of city residents. All of the fees collected under both methods, Burns said, were ordered placed in escrow.

The spread method, he explained, calls for franchise paid to cities to be levied equally over a service area without regard to whether the electrical service is within or outside a city. The direct method, he said, calls for all the franchise fees paid to a city to be collected as part of the power bills of residents of that city.

The franchise fees collected by FPL during the past eight months was ordered placed in escrow pending the decision by the state Supreme Court on which method was appropriate.

"It appears the credits will be made in the month of November. The length of time and the amount of the refund is awaiting the final order," Burns said.

The Supreme Court opinion and PSC ruling ends the two-year battle waged by residents of unincorporated areas against the method of collecting franchise fees for city government.

In Seminole County Commissioner William Kirchhoff, speaking before the Seminole County Legislative Delegation, sought legislation outlawing the practice. He called the fees to out-of-city residents "taxation without representation."

100 Juveniles Repay Misdeds By Work

During the past four months 100 juveniles charged with offenses ranging from misdemeanors to felonies have contributed 4,000 hours of labor, valued at $14,000, to six governmental and civic activities in Seminole County.

They didn't volunteer to do the variety of jobs which included cleaning out ditches, assisting police officers and clerical work. They really had no choice.

The 40 to 120 hours labor of each was meted out as "sentences" (penalties) by 11th Circuit Judge Kenneth Laffler acting as juvenile judge.

"The sentences are intended for swift consequences. The consequences have to be immediate, positive and carried out. The purpose is to show young people they cannot break the law and trespass on other people's rights without suffering the consequences," said Eugene D. Minietta, executive director of Youth Programs Inc., a non-profit organization.

The organization has been charged by Judge Laffler with supervising the new program. Ma. Phyllis Oliva is work program director for this Sanford police department, the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

"The work is not heavy work," said Minietta. "The young people are split up into supervised groups to do the various jobs for the agencies. In exchange for other agencies, the young people maintain the grounds around the office, Minietta said.

"They have done one tremendous job in our city," said Lake Mary City Manager Phil Nelson. "In about one month they have cleaned out two alleys that were auto-blocked. People can now walk down these alleys."

designed to rehabilitate. "There is not enough time for that. But the judge believes these young people can be turned around with a sanction so there will be no need to send them away," Minietta said.

The governmental and civic organizations participating in the program by providing useful work for the young people are the Lake Mary Public Works Department, Alamosa Springs streets and parks department, the Sanford police department, Samaritan Home, Good Samaritan Home, Renaissance Exceptional Child Center, and the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

"The program is supervised by Judge Laffler's community control advisory group. The group helped develop and obtain a contract for personnel to supervise the youth under the federally funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA)."

The youths are selected for the program by Judge Laffler, Minietta said, based on the judge's own Maxine Richardson, work supervisor, observes as young people clear underbrush for a public service project in Lake Mary.

"They have cleaned out some ditches, cleared some brush, trimmed trees where branches were low and scrubbing cars parked underneath. They are saving Lake Mary a lot of money. We couldn't have done these things with our budget as tight as it is," he said.

Minietta said the program was recommended by Judge Laffler's community control advisory group. The group helped develop and obtain a contract for personnel to supervise the youth under the federally funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA).

The youths are selected for the program by Judge Laffler, Minietta said, based on the judge's own judgment and a recommendation from the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (DRHS).

When the young people have full time jobs, Ma. Oliva said, they work in the program on Saturdays and Sundays. When school starts, she said, the youths in some instances will work in the early evening right after school.

"There are very few girls in the program," Ma. Oliva said. "Most of the participants are boys."

The program inhibits the young people's freedom for a given number of hours doing jobs they have not elected to do. But they are working hard," she said.

Ma. Oliva added that counselors are available to speak to the participants, and the program requires a consultation once every week with the youth, his family and the counselor. At the same time, she said, the counselor encourages high school dropouts to go to classes to obtain their high school equivalency certificate.

"We have to keep track of the hours the kids work and they come under our organization's workmen's compensation program," Minietta said.

Among those who assisted in creating the program, Minietta said, was Casselberry Police Chief George Karcher. "Chief Karcher has also brought our need for a vehicle to transport the young people to job sites to the attention of the Rotary Club," he said.

Was District 'Arrogant'?

By SHARON CARRASCO
 Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County school district is busily taking depositions and gathering information in preparation for its suit against architects and contractors for leaky roofs of 12 county schools, Ned Julian Jr., school district attorney, said today.

The school district filed suits in 1977 and 1978 against architect Eoghan Kelley who designed the roofs for the schools. The school district according to Julian, is paying $5.5 million to correct the roof situation. A host of other defendants are named in the suits.

Julian would not speculate on when the trial would be held before Circuit Judge Robert McGregor.

Friday, McGregor refused to dismiss the school suits, as requested by the attorney for Kelley and roofing manufacturer W.R. Grace on the grounds the school district failed to supply information at a time designated by the court, Julian said. The court now has that information.

McGregor is reported to have called the school district's failure a case of "outright arrogance."

Julian, who said he failed to ask the court for an extension, was "relieved" by the judge's ruling.

The judge did order the school district to pay the defense attorney's fees and transportation costs as a penalty, Julian said. He said he didn't know how much the school district would be billed.

Hugh Carlton, director of auxiliary services, was also accused of being "arrogant" in gathering the information. Carlton said the demands of his other duties pre-empted him from completing the task on time.

"My responsibilities are many and varied and I worked on them every time I had slack room," Carlton explained. "... I am required by the state, for example, to inspect every capital outlay project once a week. Who am I going to slide, the state or the court?"

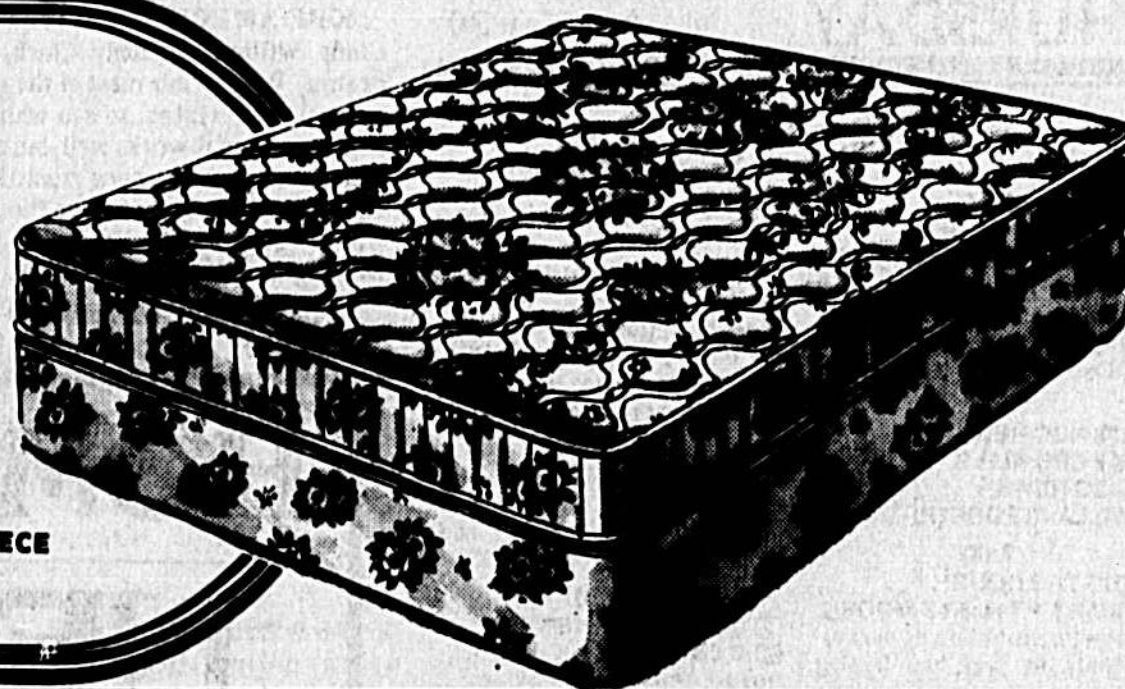

Carlton said the judge was supplied with 16 volumes of information, some measuring 1 1/2 inches thick. "We were asked literally thousands of questions," he said.

Some Still Recall Rudolph Valentino

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Rudolph Valentino's ghost might have dropped by just to see if they still remember. You could almost see him leaning against the cool marble walls of the old gray mausoleum, lighting a cigarette and breaking into a satisfied smile. They do still remember.

It has been 53 years since the sex symbol of the 1920s — "The Sheik" — died of peritonitis in a New York hospital. But more than 100 people Thursday made the annual pilgrimage to the smog-shrouded tomb of Rodolfo Guglielmi Valentino.

At least six "ladies in black" bearing flowers for the small glass vases on each side of Valentino's crypt arrived at Hollywood Memorial Cemetery for the services. The original and most famous "Lady in Black," Ditra Flame, last brought roses on the 51st anniversary of Valentino's death. After a 23-year lapse, she was moved that year by the death of Elvis Presley. But an organizer of this year's services said Mrs. Flame would not come Thursday because "she found God and joined the ministry in Ontario, Calif."

Crowding into the 95-degree mausoleum with the ladies in black were a small army of reporters, dozens of tourists and a sundry assortment of nostalgia, film and celebrity aficionados. "My mother, she knew Valentino many years ago in New York City," said Strelita Del Rey, a member of the Valentino Club who claims to have visited the crypt each Aug. 23 for "at least the past 20 years."

"He was very close to my mother," Miss Del Rey said. "He was the world's greatest lover and I will remember him forever. His spirit will never die."

"I believe," she said firmly to one in particular. The ubiquitous George Jessel, "Toaster General of the United States," delivered a five-minute eulogy, noting no less than four times how Valentino made the hearts of millions of women flutter without ever uttering a word.

Jessel later clarified his remarks for a group of reporters. "Oh, Valentino," Jessel said. "I knew him when he was a gigolo making old ladies happy in New York. What a guy."

had the dressing room next to Valentino's at Universal Studios. She said the famous lover would hug and kiss her and invite her out dancing, but she would always refuse because she was only 15.

"It's unfortunate," Miss MacLaren said, "but the studio never took a photograph of me and Valentino together."

Some attending the services were born 30 years after Valentino kissed his last starlet. "This is one of the few places you can go to get a glimpse of a silent movie star," said Tara Gordon, 28.

Miss Gordon was not disappointed. On the program for the memorial service was the announcement: "Mary MacLaren, silent film star, speaks."

Miss MacLaren said she once

Pageant And Gambling Keep Their Distance

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) — Here she comes again. And when Bert Parks warbles "There She Is" to a new Miss America Sept. 8, the odds are she will be pure, middle American and 35-34-35 with brown hair and sparkling blue eyes.

This Miss America pageant, preparing now to celebrate its 50th anniversary coronation in the reborn "Queen of Resorts," has survived scandal, television, women's liberation and, at least for the moment, the legalization of gambling casinos.

In fact, the pageant is on the verge of realizing one of the greatest years in its history. Just as it has been for the past 24 years, stockbroker Albert Marks is still in firm command. Serving as combination executive producer and benevolent dictator of the pageant, Marks is the reason that a young gambling industry have not overtaken the image of Miss America.

"Frankly, I was worried," Marks says of the opening of the first casino in 1978. "Miss America means the American flag, mom and apple pie, and the gaming industry was always sinful. They are poles apart."

There are now two legal casinos in Atlantic City and by the time Miss America 1980 ends her reign, there will be as many as four more.

There is no question that Atlantic City, dying in the late 1930s and early '70s, needed gambling's millions to revitalize its crumbling tourist industry. Marks' solution to the image problem was a call for civic duty. Anxious to please, the casinos have become obedient children with pockets full of money.

"The casinos realize they are part of the community, and they respect the institution," Marks says. "They have our ads and contribute money for the girls and had some of the best meals in the (Miss America) parade last year." It was, he says, a very complimentary gesture.

There is no question that Atlantic City, dying in the late 1930s and early '70s, needed gambling's millions to revitalize its crumbling tourist industry. Marks' solution to the image problem was a call for civic duty. Anxious to please, the casinos have become obedient children with pockets full of money.

there will be no conflicting interests between the pageant and the gambling industry. "In the past as the city was going down, the Miss America Pageant was our one ray of hope," Kravitz says. "It kept Atlantic City on the map. We don't want the girls in the casinos. The casino image doesn't belong in the pageant, and we know that what this town needs, especially now with casinos coming to town, is the Miss America image, apple pie and a pretty girl."

Though Miss America 1980 and the 49 other contestants will not be allowed to enter the city's casinos during the pageant week, they will have benefited from a scholarship fund that finally topped the $3 million mark.

Marks scans the casino ads in the 1979 pageant yearbook. In one, two white-gloved hands hold a Bally Park Place Casino hotel card. Above it are the words: "And the winners are..."

Marks is asked who indeed will be the winner in the future, Miss America or the casino. "When we get 30 casinos in town, it may indeed be a different story," he says. "But we have to cross that bridge when we get to it."

The pageant scored the lowest TV ratings in two decades in 1977, and managed only a 40 percent share of the audience in 1978, but the ratings are expected to climb higher for this year's show.

In addition, contest officials estimate that more than 70,000 girls participated in some 1,200 beauty pageants nationwide for the chance to walk the runway in Convivial Hall. Even ticket sales for the three preliminary competition shows are way ahead of recent years. But while the numbers and the ratings change from year to year, the pageant itself varies little.

"The principal portions of our program have lasted over 20 years," Marks says, "including the three judging sequences and the finale. They always have to be the same."

Marks, more than anyone else, knows that the strength and appeal of Miss America do not lie in Atlantic City. In short, it is television that has given the pageant its mass appeal.

"The gaming industry does not need Miss America and Miss America doesn't need casino gambling," he says. "We have our appeal in the boondocks."

Nor is this the first time that the all-American dream will survive the tarnishing onslaught of all-American reality. In 1937, while judging were awarding the crown to Betty Cooper (by the way, her figure was 35-34-35 — wouldn't you say today's standards), the police had just started a crackdown on city brothels that had made the resort a front-page sin city.

Just as the local force has spent the last month re-arranging patrolmen's beats to rid the city's new casino row of the prostitutes that flock here from points up and down the East Coast.

During pageant week, the girls will hardly notice. The biggest problem will be the traffic congestion that has become a way of life since the casinos came to town.

Gangland Slaysings?

HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (UPI) — Hollywood police are investigating possible organized crime links in the gangland-style slaying of a wealthy couple, who operated a large trucking business. She is originally from Ft. Lauderdale and moved to Sanford one year ago.

Sheila and her husband, Gordon, are the parents of two children, Jason and Heather. The White family is in the process of building a home in Orange City.

They sprayed the Lashen car with bullets from a semi-automatic rifle and wounded the Lashens before speeding off, police said. "It sounds like a contract, an execution," said one investigator. "People just don't get killed like that."

Wide open race in NFC Central division has even Bears optimistic despite last year's 7-9 mark. Two glaring problems could defeat them again: suspect defense and unsettled quarterbacking.

It's still too-early to say whether Bob Avellini or Mike Phipps will win the job at quarterback. Both have shown promise in training camp.

Quite convincingly two top draftees, Dan Hampton and Al Harris, will spend opening drills and conditioning with Tom Hart, Mike Hartenstein, Bears expect Alan Page to be pass-rush force in middle.

Unless GM Jim Finks pulls top quarterback out of air (or trade), Bears seem doomed to another spotty season, even go down again. I predict them to finish in NFC Central.

Long era of Viking domination is over. Way they squeezed their way into the NFC Central division has even Bears optimistic despite last year's 7-9 mark.

Immediate problem is to decide whether young Tommy Kramer, old Bob Lee or some imported vet can carry ball for Tarleton. There's got to be drop-off: Matsumoto.

It's hard to believe Jim Marshall, 41, can continue to hold down regular job at tight end. But Vikings have prepared for transition. Already have young Mark Mullaney on other side.

There's no way you can lose leadership of Tarleton, other vets and not be hurt. Vikings are in danger of slipping below 500 for first time since 1967. I predict them fourth in NFC Central.

Coach Bud Wilkinson now has feel for nuances of pro ball. Underestimates his propensity for winning. Cards still horrible start, were tough second half of '78.

Bud recognized the need: Running backs, guys who could go wide. So he picked 'em — Otis Anderson, Theotis Brown. They might start. With help from Tommie Lee.

Committed to 3-4, which Wilkinson invented at Oklahoma. Return of Charlie Davis permits shift of Mike Dawson from nose tackle to end, challenging old John Cook.

Nobody's paying too much attention to Cardinals, which may be way Wilkinson wants it. They'll sneak up on a few more wins and also climb in standings. I predict third place in NFC East.

Maybe he's no miracle worker, but Dick Nolan is sound football man — something Saints had needed for long time. There's positive spirit on this team that has never had winning record 11-7-9 in '78.

It's all keyed to QB Archie Manning, who's coming off his finest season. Going into ninth campaign, he ranks with Tony Stewart as one of most potent sets of runners in game.

Saints need help here and need to have some youngsters, such as tackle Mike Fultz and end Joe Campbell, mature as pros. Bulwark up front in Nolan's line alignment is Elias Frieri.

Over 16-game haul with tough schedule, weakness on offensive line, linemen and in secondary will ultimately drag Saints down. But team could top 500 to finish third in NFC West.

and 20 yards from backup quarterback Don Struck to light end Bruce Harris, a starter this year in the wake of last week's leg injury to Andre Tillman.

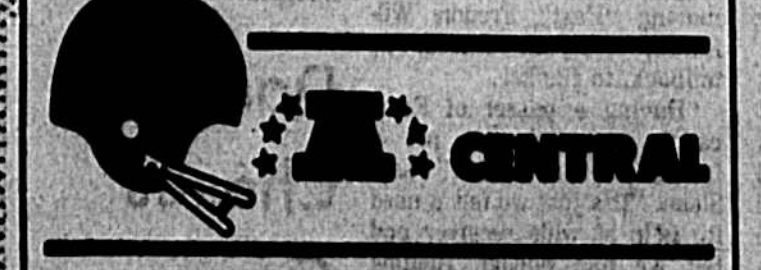

Cleveland turned two fumbles recovered and an interception into three touchdowns to notch its triumph over Washington.

Vermeil On Miami: 'A Good Team'

MIAMI (UPI) — The score was 14-13 Miami, but it didn't sound like there were any losers in the Orange Bowl Friday night.

That was quite a turnaround for Vermeil, who was seeing all the hardyard probably he could summon to describe his team earlier in the week.

Gary Davis, the ball was punched out of his grasp by an Eagle helmet, but Harris punched it out of the air and dashed the remaining 20 yards for the touchdown.

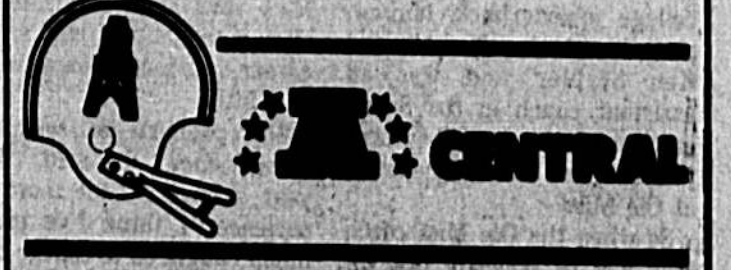

Way they performed during season, with Ross Brewer back on offense and Ken Anderson healthy, was another road block.

Performance, as they have been for several years, relate to Ken Anderson's performance. But now being groomed as a developmental quarterback.

Falcons' concentration on prime beat up front, both ways, could find payoff in '79. Those big kids are maturing and getting new help.

Falcons need respectable running game. That's why it was a surprise beat despite the known gap in top receivers, but they were able to get some help from the backfield.

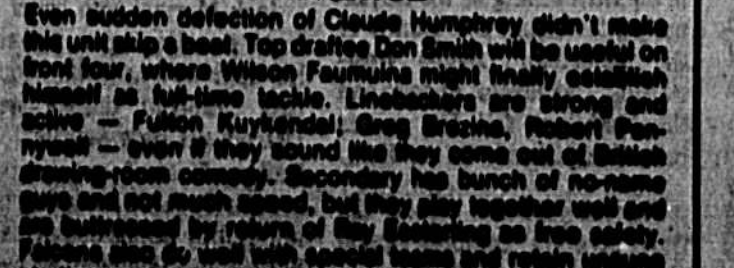

Optimism runs almost as rampant as Earl Campbell, selection of '78. Oilers did fine, given to AFO beats until season caught them on key field. Team has finally been convinced it can win.

Balance — with Don Patterson getting passing game and Campbell running — is kind every team needs for its inside game. Has head coaches in Ken Barkley, who has been coaching in any form. Three solid pros —

The Vikings had only one change in coaching changes to second head coach. That's why they were able to get some help from the backfield.

Even though defense of Chicago Huskies didn't make this unit a beat, Tom Griffin's front four, where Wilson Fautschau may finally establish himself as a starter.

It's hard to say, but it's a sign of things to come. The Oilers did fine, given to AFO beats until season caught them on key field. Team has finally been convinced it can win.

Senior Citizens' Special Rates Termed 'Ridiculous'

DEAR ABBY: I'm all for taking care of our old people and giving them every possible break. But I think giving every person who reaches age 60 or 65 lower rates for transportation, haircuts, entertainment, etc., is just plain ridiculous!

I have friends and relatives who are loaded with money, but because they're "senior citizens" they take advantage of all these reduced rates and laugh about it.

I would like your opinion — and the opinion of others.

DEAR WORKING STIFF: Most senior citizens rates are wanted to attract the senior citizen's business as well as give a break to older folks living on a fixed income.

To separate those who need it from those who don't, and exclude those who don't, would be a horrendous task. Not to mention the inequities that could result.

DEAR ABBY: An acquaintance of mine is about to give birth. She is married, but the baby is not her husband's. He married her when she was six months along, knowing the baby wasn't his, but he loved her anyway. (The baby's real father just took off.)

My question is this: After the baby is born, what should I say to her husband? Would congratulations be appropriate under the circumstances? Or do you think it would be in poor taste? After all, everybody knows he didn't have anything to do with it.

CURIOUS: Congratulations are indeed in order. If not for the achievement, for showing himself to be more of a man than the baby's natural father.

DEAR ABBY: I had a friend who would have been 84 tomorrow. She was struck by a car and died instantly. She had no family and left no will. She had quite a bit of money that she wanted to go to her favorite charities, but she never got around to putting anything in writing. Consequently, the state will get it all! She had some valuable furniture and jewelry which was auctioned off. The state will get the proceeds and strangers will have her precious personal possessions.

She told me that she wanted to be cremated, but since she left no instructions, she was buried.

I am 41, and have learned a valuable lesson. Death may not be a pleasant thought, but it is inevitable and can come without warning, so I have made all my wishes known in writing — with copies to several relatives and friends. Even if things have only sentimental value, if no specific provisions have been made for their disposition, the public administrator can (and does) throw all personal items away. (Letters, pictures, etc.)

Last year this happened to over 6,000 people in Los Angeles alone. If only one person reads this and does something about it, I feel that my friend did not die in vain.

 Before the truck arrived, Sims walked slowly around the lot stopping frequently to pick up small objects and dropping them into a small cloth bag. "I pick up pop tops, too," he explained, but the dedicated aluminum trapper also scouts for venetian blinds, pipes, old lounge chairs, and "anything

 There are a lot of trappers at work these days and many people actively pursue their metallic prey. Others simply bring in what they have personally used. "Them four there's mine," boasted a Lake county man pointing to four pillow-case size plastic bags,

 David's father jokingly claims he is still owed $20 for his son's bicycle. Davis is supposed to pay his father first and then he can have any money left over. Six months of swinging a 10-pound sledge earns Davis $27 for the 117 pounds he brought to be recycled.

 About 30 groups and individuals brought in items to sell. Cars, trucks, bikes, trikes with large baskets in back, station wagons, and even a little red wagon were used to bring in the 23-cent-a-pound scrap. A red-haired grandmother confessed to using her grandson's wagon to haul scrap to their owners congratulated. One man lugs from his station wagon a discarded aluminum barbecue grill. It weighs in at 70 pounds. The crowd oohs and ahhs this prize trophy.

Mrs. Korgan said in 1981 the local chapter will be hosting three state conventions in Sanford. The singers will perform on risers and they cost $1300.

Ohh, I just got back from a wedding reception and saw what I thought was the most fantastic idea! After the wedding, everyone was following each other to the reception which was held in a relative's home.
Our little caravan found the street with all the cars but no one knew the street address. We were all taking odds on which house it was and who was going to find out when I spotted a big white wedding bell stuck to a mail box.
This must be the place. Then to show the guests that it was around in the backyard, they had stuck several stakes in the ground with big bells and ribbon on them to show us the path.
Nothing is worse than trying to find the right house, especially at night when all it takes is something stuck out by the curb for all to see.
What do you think?

Queen Elizabeth's Kin Assassinated On Yacht

SLIGO, Ireland (UPI)—Earl Mountbatten of Burma, Queen Elizabeth's cousin, was killed today in an explosion that ripped apart his cabin cruiser off the Irish coast. A left-wing branch of the Irish Republican Army claimed responsibility for the blast.

Mountbatten, 79, a military statesman and hero whose versatile life spanned the rule of four monarchs, apparently was killed instantly.

His grandson, Nicolas, 25, also was killed along with the pilot of the boat, identified as Paul Maxwell.

The left-wing Irish National Liberation Army telephoned a Dublin newspaper, the Irish Independent, and said it had planted a bomb aboard the Earl's yacht, which exploded five minutes after it left the harbor in Sligo.

If the bomb claim is true, Mountbatten would be the highest-ranking member of the royal family to be assassinated in modern history.

The N.I.A., an offshoot of the provisional IRA, also claimed responsibility for the car-bombing death of British politician Arty Neave outside the House of Commons last spring.

The Independent newspaper said the telephone caller had a Northern Ireland accent and identified himself as a member of the Irish National Liberation Army.

He said he wanted to make a statement about Mountbatten's "bomb death," adding "we did it. We claim responsibility for it."

The newspaper said the caller refused to answer questions and hung up after making his brief statement.

Police said they were still investigating the cause of the explosion aboard the 25-foot cruiser Shadow Five, owned by Mountbatten and used by him at his summer home in Sligo.

Mountbatten was the fourth child of Queen Victoria's granddaughter, Princess Victoria, and an uncle of Prince Philip and cousin of Queen Elizabeth II.

Aboard the boat with Mountbatten were his daughter and son-in-law, Lord and Lady Brabourne, their two sons, and the dowager Lady Brabourne.

CHLORINE GAS LEAK

Tim Guy, Seminole County fire technician, checks for leaks in the 150-pound chlorine cylinder that earlier today spewed deadly gas at the Consumer Water Plant on Dyke Road, Goldenrod. Andy Palne of Seminole County environmental services was transported to Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs, where he was treated for inhaling the gas and released. Seminole County firefighters repaired the cylinder leak with a special kit the plant received just last week. The leak caused no loss of service, said W. H. "Stuffy" Smith, operations supervisor for Seminole County Water and Sewer Operations. Dyke Road was closed off while the cylinder was being repaired but no evacuation of residents was necessary.

Sidewalk Policy Questions Raised

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

City Manager Warren Knowles will recommend to the Sanford City Commission at a 7 p.m. meeting today that city policy on sidewalk repair be enforced or the policy eliminated.

In a written report to the commission, the manager reminds that the city's policy fixes the responsibility for sidewalk repair or construction on abutting property owners.

Enforcement would require the city or some other party to initiate legal action against the property owners, he pointed out, under a two-phase program. The first phase requires repairs prior to an accident happening, and the second requires the filing of a lawsuit against the property owner if an accident occurs, he said.

The city only last Friday concluded negotiations to settle one lawsuit against the city.

A $7,000 cash payment has been accepted by Mrs. Bonnie Tucker in settlement of a lawsuit she filed against the city of Sanford charging negligence in the maintenance of a city sidewalk, according to City Attorney C. Vernon Mize Jr.

Mrs. Tucker in the suit claimed she fell and received injuries on a city sidewalk because of improper maintenance. The case was to have gone to trial Sept. 10.

Three settlement offers were made to Mrs. Tucker before she accepted the $7,000 which Sanford City Commissioners had authorized Mize to offer as a maximum.

Mrs. Tucker earlier had turned down a $5,000 settlement offer from the city and $8,000 proposal of settlement that Mize had recommended to the commission.

Mize urged approval of a settlement in the case, saying he was concerned about the amount of a settlement a jury might award if the case went to trial.

Two weeks ago, Mize said, Mrs. Tucker had had medical bills totaling $1,700, and was claiming in addition "residual pain."

City Commissioner David Farr at the commission meeting two weeks ago urged colleagues to consider what action the city should take to protect itself from lawsuits in view of what he called the deteriorating condition of many sidewalks in the city.

Mize said the city could consider abandoning the rights of way on which the sidewalks exist, and City Manager

He said total cost of rehabilitation of those sidewalks would be $89,569.72 — including $10,000 for materials only.

Knowles said cost of the city acquiring "strip and fill" liability insurance would be $10,377 annually.

In the review, the manager said one other lawsuit concerning city sidewalks is pending against the city.

Knowles is recommending that pending repairs of the sidewalks, city forces be instructed to remove immediately those sections of sidewalks where obvious hazards exist. He also urges the sections be replaced only if the abutting property owner requests replacement and provides funds for materials.

Mize two weeks ago gave the cases it would be difficult to defend in court the city policy of requiring property owners to be responsible for sidewalks built for the public in the city right-of-way.

The manager also is recommending that new sidewalks be constructed of asphalt concrete or flexible type paving in the areas of trees, and that the police department be instructed to enforce no parking on sidewalks.

In other business, Knowles will report to the commission that he personally visited the Safety Cab Co. and found violations of the city's ordinance in the taxi operations.

Knowles in a memo to Police Chief Ben Butler noted that none of the three taxis at the site had police inspection stickers, driver's manifests, rate cards or name of certificate holders displayed in the cabs as required by city law.

In the memo he said it would be well to get existing cabs in compliance with city law, adding if the city law is not to be enforced, the ordinance should be done away with.

Felton Broken of Safety Cab Co. has asked for a rate increase for his taxis, saying without the increase he will have to abandon operation of the service because of rising gasoline, maintenance and other costs.

'Negligence' lawsuit settled for $7,000

Warren Knowles suggested the city could consider with asphalt sidewalks which are cracked or in need of repair.

Knowles, in his report to the commission tonight will note the city has and maintains 40.2 miles of city sidewalk and 8.2 miles of that sidewalk is in need of repair.

38,000 Start School Today

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

Those lazy, hazy, crazy days of summer," ended as the song says, for more than 38,000 youngsters who attended their first day of school for the 1979-80 term.

Many of those students face changes.

This fall, for instance, cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) will be taught students in Seminole County public schools.

CPR is a technique which provides basic life support to a person whose breathing and heartbeat have stopped.

The CPR method will be incorporated into the curriculum for grades seven through twelve and requires approximately four hours per student to complete.

Another change is a slight increase in the price of school lunches. They are as follows:

- From 46 cents to 65 cents for kindergarten through the fifth grade; from 65 cents to 75 cents for sixth grade through the twelfth grade; from $1.10 to $1.20 for adults.

The price increase was prompted by the "dramatic" increase of milk, hamburger patties and ground beef, said Charlotte Whitmore, director of food services for the county public schools.

High school and middle school students will come in contact with the new search consent policy approved recently by the school board.

According to the policy, students would give written consent to having their lockers or automobiles being searched for suspected drugs.

Prior to locker assignment or acquiring a parking permit, students would be issued a consent form stating the principal or his designee may search his locker or car for contraband substance.

Meanwhile, the Seminole County School Board is scheduled to meet tonight to hold a public hearing on the proposed 1979-80 budget. It is expected to adopt the $78.8 million budget afterwards.

The school budget does not include funds to continue busing for the "early out" kindergarteners. For the past several years, the school district had instituted a practice whereby kindergarteners leave school at 1:25 p.m., about 30 minutes before the older children, who leave the grounds at 2:45 p.m.

But in his recommendations, Superintendent William Leyer did not include funds for the busing, saying its elimination would save the school district some $69,000 "for gas, oil and supplies."

"Despite the protests of parents and teachers, the board elected to take no action last Wednesday to reinstate busing for 'early out' kindergarteners."

Other residents are unhappy over the school board's recent approval of $8,100 for a dance company to perform in 25 schools, and some are expected to voice their complaints tonight.

The Baller Guild of Sanford — Seminoles recently expressed its anger over the board's awarding of the funds to the Performing Arts Company in Fern Park. Patricia Booth, president of the ballet guild, said the guild has donated its services in the school free for years.

The first day of school is nothing to cry about, says Pat Ferguson to her son, Joshua, as she gently wipes away his tears. Joshua, 3, is a kindergarten student in Jenny McQuarrie's class at Southside Elementary School in Sanford.

Pro-Kennedy Forces A Threat To Carter?

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

Kennedy forces in Florida have been in Dade County, Rotundo says it would be a mistake to underestimate their strength in central Florida.

"In this area there is a great deal of backlash," he said. "People who worked for Carter are looking at Kennedy now."

While Rotundo was debating whether or not to accept the role of chairman of the Kennedy drive, he said he asked 20 members of the Disabled American Veterans executive committee if they would support a Kennedy candidacy. The result: 17 of the 20 said they would support Kennedy.

Louis Rotundo, 74, last week quit his post as Seminole chairman of the Draft Kennedy campaign, but he is still monitoring the information and releases sent from the state headquarters in Tallahassee. He said he will continue to do so until another chairman is appointed.

"If the Kennedy people can get 50 votes at the executive meeting Oct. 13, they can get their three delegates. I wouldn't be completely surprised if they would up with five or six of the 12 delegates," Rotundo said.

Rotundo, of 1410 E. 20th St., Sanford, said he had to leave his position because of commitments to other activities this fall when much of the politicking will take place. He was approached by Kennedy boosters early in August and at that time agreed to serve as county chairman, he said.

Although most of the strength thus far shown by the pro-full swing before the crucial Oct. 13 delegate selection.

Three of the 12 delegates to the November convention were already elected by the Democratic Executive Committee. They are: Richard Russo of Casselberry, Nancy Booth of Winter Springs and Myra Eisenhoff of Sanford. The remaining nine will be elected Oct. 13.

Ms. Booth, a Carter supporter, doubts the Kennedy people will be as successful as they predict. She said she believes 80 percent of those voting Oct. 13 will favor Carter.

According to Rotundo, much of the disaffection with President Carter stems from veterans upset with President Carter's budget cuts and handling of veteran's affairs.

Both Rotundo and Ms. Booth claim that the Seminole Education Association, which will support a slate of delegates Oct. 13, may tip the scale one way or the other.
