 Roy Vermillion, and Chief Wooten's brother, Steve.
 They charged that contributions were demanded of WPA employees for political purposes, and that threats and intimidation had been employed to compel members to join with "leaders" in their political activities.
 It was further charged that WPA employees were forced to vote according to political demands in a statewide election last September on amendments to the state constitution, and that discharge from work projects was the penalty for refusal to perform political services.
 The indictments stated that employees were required to join political clubs disguised as social organizations and to pay dues and purchase tickets to social functions.
 It was further alleged the defendants conspired to divert to personal use portions of WPA appropriations, services of WPA workers and WPA materials.
 After the jury reported, Judge Noblett ordered them held in recess despite the recommendation of the jurors they be discharged.
 The jurors declared that without questioning the aims of the WPA program, it was clear that many of those in positions of honor and trust have failed in creating and maintaining respect for themselves and the government which they are under oath to represent.

 country boy gone to Europe."
 "There seems to be less unemployment in the dictator-controlled countries of Europe than in Britain and the United States," he said, "but this is apparently due to the fact that they place their unemployed in the armies. We don't want to put anybody in a straight jacket and make him work where he doesn't want to."
 He related that at the peak of production in 1929, unemployment in the United States was four million whereas in 1936, with production only 5 percent below 1929, it was 12 million. Pepper indicated that the trouble was with machines replacing hand labor, and that the solution "must come from the heart of the American people."
 He said he is going to travel from community to community in Florida to see what people want and what they are thinking, "and make an honest effort to solve our challenging problems."

 Bohemian borders, the Czechoslovak government took action which was regarded as an added index of a turn toward the political right. In Prague the police outlawed the Communist party and suspended its newspapers in Bohemia, Moravia and Silesia. Previously Slovakia had outlawed the Communists. That left them integral as a party only in Ruthenia, the easternmost tip of the republic, and in that area they were considered distinctly weak.
 Prague also rounded up an unestimated number of Jews in an effort to meet the rising refugee problem. Former residents of Sudetenland by the thousands, fleeing sectors into which the German military marched after the "peace of Munich," have streamed into Bohemia.
 Though the Czech general staff and DNB, the official German news agency, said a half dozen persons had been killed in disorders on the Sudeten-Bohemian border, the German administration in the newly-acquired areas prepared to take control from the hands of the military and give it to the civil authorities.
 In the squabbling in eastern Europe over the partitioning of Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary were seeking a common frontier.
 In Budapest the newspaper Vreme argued that Poland had a vital interest in Carpatho-Russia, or Ruthenia, to "check Germany's expansion into the Ukraine."
 Reliable reports indicated Poland had encountered no success in trying to enlist Rumania in a scheme to divide up Ruthenia.

 Wilcox made it clear the Government's offer was conditioned upon the industry's working out a program to handle the rest of the surplus. AAA representatives have insisted all shipments except those of first and second grade fruit should be eliminated. The industry group proposed to divide the Government money among citrus states on the basis of total production in each AAA men were said to have opposed such a division, explaining the federal agency should be free to make purchases wherever the market might need a boost.
 The industry delegates were to meet alone this afternoon to consider the Government's proposal.

Publicity For State's Celery Again Talked

National Program Is Seen As Marketing Pact Substitute To Care For Surplus

Sarasotans Favor Advertising Plan

Control Committee To Meet To Liquidate Its Affairs

As the Florida celery industry's marketing agreement went out of existence last Saturday, vetoed by a narrow majority of votes, growers evidently are turning their attention to substitution of a national advertising program to care for the state's surplus celery.

Roy F. Symes, president of the Florida State Celery Growers Association, which was organized earlier in the year to make plans for a national program, says that this association has done nothing since the election of officers at a Lakeland meeting early in the summer but individual growers have been free to express their opinions for or against the proposed plan.

Loring Raoul, acting chairman of the Control Committee and a strong advocate of an advertising program, will be in Sanford Monday although the nature of his visit could not be definitely learned. It was understood that he would get an expression on the proposed publicity program from the growers.

Raoul is one of the officials of the Palmer Farms corporation of Sarasota which controls almost the entire 1,500 acre celery muckland tract in Sarasota county. In a recent news release, officials of this company expressed hope that the advertising project might be launched before the current crop is ready for harvest. The first cuttings are scheduled for late December.

The officials of this corporation expressed belief that a per cent levy of a few cents to raise funds for the advertising program would not work an undue hardship on any of the growers. Some advocates of the control committee in this section, however, have declared they would fight the proposed advertising program without control. To receive the greatest benefits from an advertising campaign, a form of control will be necessary, in their contention. Advertising in a "hit-or-miss" market has little effect on raising the price, they say.

From the Control Committee office today, H. F. Steele who is in charge, stated that a meeting of the Control Committee, which is acting as trustees to liquidate the affairs of the committee will be held soon.

At this meeting the committee will also decide how much longer the local office will remain open. The Control Committee has a refund of approximately $8,000 to make to the growers. It will be made shortly after the completion of the federal audit which is now being made by two government auditors.

ROWBOAT DOCKS QUEEN MARY

Warping 83,000 tons of ocean liner like the Queen Mary safely into dock without the aid of a dozen tugboats was an unheard-of stunt—until the Mary's skipper did it. Commodore Robert P. Irving brought the big ship to New York only to find the harbor stripped of tugs due to a tugmen's strike. So holding in his hand a medal of St. Christopher, patron of travelers, and, aided by a tiny rowboat and calm water, he just docked her like a toyboat.

Townsend Plan Adopted By Massachusetts Republicans

Discussing the progress made in the Townsend Plan, Secretary Arthur A. Kirschhoff of the local club today called attention to the fact that because of popular demand the Massachusetts Republican Convention has included as a plank in its campaign platform, the consideration of the General Welfare Act of 1937 during the next session of Congress.

Mr. Kirschhoff quoted from the Oct. 17 issue of The Townsend National Weekly as follows: "Realizing that there are millions of thinking citizens throughout the nation who have studied and believe in the Townsend National Recovery Plan as embodied in a bill bearing the title of General Welfare Act of 1937, but more particularly known in discussions as the Townsend Plan, we pledge

Cold Wave Is Forecast For Middle West

Mercury's 25-Degree Drop Overnight Is Noticeably Felt By Local Residents

Freezing temperatures tonight over a large section of the middle West was predicted by the Weather Bureau.

Forecasters said a cold air from the northwest would bring winter weather to the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas and Wisconsin. Illinois and Indiana were warned to expect cold weather. Snow and sleet are possible over the Ohio and Michigan and around the Great Lakes.

Reports of sleet and snow in Michigan tonight were the effect of a 25 degree drop in the mercury last night, in the sections to the west of the lake, and the forecasters began to wonder whether frost would lay away far enough for them Fall crops to mature.

According to local meteorologist G. P. Paxton, the mercury would fall to a minimum of 30 degrees only to be troubled 25 degrees by the cold northwest winds to the 55 degree mark.

The growth of Florida Fall crops has been retarded considerably by the cold weather which has prevailed over several weeks, and several more weeks will be required before these crops are harvested.

Municipal Pier Is Being Beautified

Improvement of Parks James I. Moughtin is making quite a change in the appearance of the Municipal Pier even though he has just begun on his beautification plan for this project.

Mr. Moughtin has had off a one-way street around the pier and is now constructing a walk in the center which he has nearly completed. Around the land shell a road of express lanes is being constructed.

Mr. Moughtin plans to plant additional palms and also other shrubbery to add to the attraction of the pier which has been in a run-down condition for some time.

The first improvement was the reconstruction of the fish pool at the foot of the pier earlier in the year and now hundreds of large gold fish make their home in this pool. Mr. Moughtin is also considering remodeling of the land shell, but that must come later, he said. A number of concrete benches will later be placed on the pier.

Program Outlined By Sea Scout Troop

The troop's new program was outlined at the weekly meeting of the Sea Scouts at their dock Thursday night, Mate W. J. Ward said today. Mate Clifford Bell and Ward presided over the meeting in the absence of Skipper Vihlen.

The new program provides for a better method of conducting their meetings and also that each meeting each month will be devoted to recreational activities. After the business meeting, the members of the troop present were reviewed on the requirements for passing two tests.

This discussion required a knowledge of ground tackle, seams in canvas and grommet eyes. Two members of the Sea Scout Committee of the Lions Club, which sponsors the troop, were present for the meeting which was dismissed with the Sea Scout's Oath.

Death Sentence For Godwin Is Jury's Verdict

Youth Convicted Of Crime Committed In Freedom Break

GREENSBORO, N. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The superior court jury returned a death verdict for James Godwin, 19-year-old youth who is charged with fatally shooting Donald Moss, 14-year-old boy, a Lexington, Va., worker, a few hours after he escaped from a Lexington jail Oct. 1 with the aid of the police.

A jury reported a first degree murder verdict, carrying a mandatory sentence of death in the state's gas chamber. The execution date was not set.

Godwin did not testify. Donald, the state's principal witness, was Hill Wilson who escaped with Godwin. Wilson said Moss was shot when Godwin tried to climb over his car.

Lula Belle Kemel, 175-pound jailer's daughter, was given a suspended sentence for aiding prisoners to escape. She said she gave Godwin the keys to the cell because she believed, he also, that he had "got religion" and he feared he would be put to death on a burglary charge.

Five In Family Die For Lack Of Oxygen

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Five members of one family were found dead in a five-room flat and Deputy Police Chief John J. Underwood said they died of lack of oxygen.

Underwood said Frank Cozzani, 31, and two young daughters were found in one bedroom while Nancy, 27, his wife, and another small daughter were found in an adjoining bedroom.

Underwood said ambulance physicians explained the family died because a gas heater and two electric heaters had used up all the oxygen in the flat which had all the windows and doors tightly closed.

Seminoles Ask For Their First School

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The first school ever requested by the Florida Seminole Indians will be dedicated at Brighton, Fla., by the Indian service, Nov. 16, the Indian bureau announced.

Floyd La Rouché, personal representative of Commissioner Culler, said the elementary school was being established at the request of the northern group of Seminoles.

Heretofore the tribe has appeared reluctant to send their children to schools maintained by the whites or to teach them the white man's English and mathematics, La Rouché said.

Cabinet Speeds Up France's Race For Arms

Stern Measures Approved Lengthening Work Hours In Defense Industries

Hankow's Fall Is Imminent

Japs Press Offensive Toward Provisional Chinese Capital

The fifteen-month-old war in China today rolled toward a new climax before Hankow and possibly a decisive Japanese stroke while a new storm of combat appeared to be gathering in the 24-month-old Spanish civil war.

Europe proper rested a bit uneasily in a crisis born of the "Peace of Munich" meant while coming against the day when that peace might be shattered.

The French cabinet approved stern measures to lengthen working hours in the national defense industries, particularly in airplane factories, and listened to a report on the progress of the French-German accord.

Hundreds of thousands of Czechoslovak and Hungarian troops lined up along the zone where Hungary has demanded the surrender of territory in the manner of the Munich award of the Czechoslovak Sudetenland to Germany.

Dr. Eduard Benes, resigned President and co-founder of the Czechoslovak republic, flew to London from Prague and went into retirement to rest.

Germany sent up a total balloon to test the currents of opinion in Britain and the United States on a three-party trade agreement to supply supplies under the projected Anglo-American pact.

Japanese commanders of the campaign against Hankow, the Chinese military capital, and the fate of the city is imminent. Although the drive has been in progress about four months, against the successful 10-day Canton offensive, the Japanese on the Yangtze valley seemed likely to duplicate the South China victory of yesterday. The main bombing of the Hankow area to batter the last Chinese resistance was postponed in a warning that foreign vessels at the great river port proceed at least 10 miles above Hankow by midnight tonight.

The week in Spain has been quiet except for guerrilla engagements on the war fronts, movement of troops and a clamor in the controlled insurgent press for an international granting of belated rights to General Franco's regime.

Twenty-four persons were killed yesterday at Barcelona and the attacks today on the government capital and surrounding towns.

Walker Visits County On Inspection Tour

Declaring that the distribution of free books was handled in a creditable manner in this county, T. George Walker, director of books for the State Department of Education, visited Superintendent of Schools T. W. Lawton yesterday.

Mr. Walker is making a general inspection tour of counties and auditing the free text book records.

Mr. Lawton stated that Seminole County's appropriation for text books was approximately $6,000 most of which has already been distributed.

The hearing is expected to last about 10 days. Similar meetings have been held in Harrison, Tex., and in California. At the conclusion of the testimony a hearing before the entire Interstate Commerce Commission will be called in Washington.

New Recreational Director

Sanford is very fortunate in securing the services of Gerald L. Ash who has recently been appointed recreational director for the City of Sanford. It is the first time in the history of this city, we believe, that Sanford has had a recreational director and we are glad that in beginning this new department a man has been secured who in every respect will do the office justice.

Mr. Ash is a man of long experience in recreational work of this kind. For over ten years he was connected with the national organization of the Y. M. C. A. and traveled throughout the United States organizing all sort of recreational activities in many different cities. At one time he was connected with the Y. M. C. A. in Miami and was actively in charge of the many recreational programs with which that city has built up its enormous tourist business.

Thoroughly educated for this type of work, Mr. Ash attended Springfield College at Springfield, Mass., where he specialized in subjects best suited for recreational work, and later graduated from Ball State College at Muncie, Ind., where he secured a degree in Social Science and Physical Education. For the kind of work in which Mr. Ash has prepared himself, these are two of the best schools in the country.

As Sanford is laying the foundation for the development of this city into a tourist resort, it is exceedingly fortunate in having a recreational director who has had considerable experience in organizing sport contests, games, tournaments, as well as putting on festival pageants, and plays for the recreation and amusement of winter visitors.

It is hoped that some time this winter, Sanford may put on a celery festival, possibly in connection with a horticultural fair and a water pageant, which would attract tourists from all over Central Florida, and in his sort of undertaking, the services of Mr. Ash would be invaluable. Throughout the winter, Mr. Ash plans to organize various recreational activities which will keep the tourists busy, and give the home folks plenty to do during their spare time.

Advice For The Young

Time was when young people were taught to respect their elders and the good old biblical precept of "Honor thy father and mother" was almost the law of the land. Children did not object to taking advice from their elders; they thought it the better part of wisdom to do so. They learned from bitter experience that when they disobeyed they got their fingers burned.

Now comes Secretary of the Interior Ickes to advise American youth "to take no advice whatever from people older than yourselves." Since Secretary Ickes is himself a man well past sixty, and since he was among to a group of students at the University of California, it is to be hoped he meant that certainly they should not take his advice.

"We hand you worldwide chaos," he said, "brought about by our own fumbling inability to deal with problems that are inside, not outside, the range of our abilities. We want you chaos in the affairs of nation with nation, international policies of death and destruction built on the failure of political morality to keep pace with mechanical invention. We hand you domestic chaos, based on the stubborn refusal of the human mind to bring new ideas to the solution of new economic problems."

That Secretary Ickes has done his full share in creating the chaotic conditions of which he complains we would be the first to admit, and yet we cannot see that the failure of the elder generation as a whole has been any more serious than that of the elder generation which preceded it. While the youth of today are surely being left to pay the enormous federal debt which their elders have piled up in Washington, and while they may have to fight another World War postponed for them by the "Peace for Our Time" created by their elders at Munich, they are not alone in having problems thrust upon them.

Youth of whatever generation have been faced with problems ever since the world began. Elders of today, who are leaving such a sorry mess for the youth of today to face, inherited in their turn the reconstruction days in the South and a whole series of "panics" in the North which the inflation and over-expansion of the Civil War produced.

And they in turn were handed down from their elders the insoluble problems and intolerable controversies over slavery and states' rights out of which the Civil War itself developed. And so it has always been. One generation has handed down to another a whole world of chaos and confusion since time immemorial, and yet throughout it all the world has progressed. And so it will ever be. As long as children honor their fathers and mothers.

WHEN DON MARQUIS turned from writing to acting, he sometimes couldn't remember the lines. In one play much of his part as an old gentleman was wasted in a newspaper which he could carry. Once in the middle of a scene he found that somebody had gone off with his newspaper. So, waking smartly from his stage nap, he broke into the middle of a love scene going on down-stage center, bawling: "Somebody has taken my newspaper. I want my newspaper. Who took my newspaper?" Everybody on stage and off entered into the spirit of the moment, and by the time they had gotten the old gentleman quieted down, the newspaper was hauled in from the wings by one of the actors. Mr. Marquis went back to read and doze, and the lovers went back to getting engaged. Playgoers thought it the best scene of the play, the most characteristic.—Stage.

Moisture Tests To Assure Wheat Crops

TOPEKA, Kas., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Farm experts this fall are going to try to forecast nearly a year ahead of time the approximate size of wheat yields in the western dry land farm belt.

They hope to take some of the gamble out of wheat raising through soil moisture tests. Experts of the bureau of agricultural economy, working at the Kansas experiment station, discovered that depth of soil moisture at the time wheat is planted is the most important factor in determining the size of the crop harvested the following summer.

Experiments indicate western Kansas wheat sown in dry soil will yield in complete failure. 71 times out of 100, says R. G. ...

THE LEAVES ARE TURNING RED

THE SANFORD FORUM

Editor, The Sanford Herald: My dear Sir: Hospital Again. Since writing you on Sept. 20 on the question of building a new hospital I have tried faithfully to find what is in the public mind in regards to this matter. Whether or not the public see the need for a hospital and if so what was their objection to building one at this time.

In my last letter my plea was for a plan of operation that would be satisfactory to the general public. I still believe that this is where your trouble is in not getting the response that you wish in this matter. In your editorials you seem to think that the reason for not having a greater part of the vote cast was in favor of building a hospital was not due to lack of interest but the man who failed to vote saw in his failure that which came to pass—no election.

Wouldn't it be possible to invite all the factories so that that which you wish could be accomplished. It is my candid opinion that the majority of the public mind is in favor of building a hospital should they receive a proper assurance of a plan whereby every human being, within our borders could receive proper attention.

Some things have been said in the opposition, many have been said in favor. Still we find ourselves at a standstill. Here is what I envisioned the other morning and possibly it might be a help in solving this matter: A Vision. We envisioned our county "dads" calling a great peace conference of the citizens of the county.—The Chairman: Let the meeting come to order. Wait! Please throw down those verbal brickbats! Drop that club of anger! Somebody turn off that generator of hate! Ah, that's better! That's better! Now we can proceed.

Now gentlemen and ladies, we have here assembled to enter into this subject of a hospital. Let us enter in now and investigate and take stock, and see where we are. And in order to do this we're going to call upon our doctors and nurses to stand up. And now, I dare say, according to our best recollections it was you that threw into our highways "a bone of contention" (a new hospital). Now then, in as much as you were the ones who studied this matter, we're going to ask you if you still believe that we need a hospital. Answer: We do! Well, in that case you yourselves are anxious to have a better place where you can perform to suffering humanity in a better way than you have hitherto. In that case let us ask you a few questions. You have chosen as your profession this profes-

"TOO LATE TO CLASSIFY"

By RUSSELL KAY

With no definite subject of my own in view about this week I've decided to turn this column over to the hints, suggestions and ideas of others. In a spirit of impartiality, would you please "shoot" me with a "classified" article for me to "classify" later. "Hello, Hello, I just got back from Tallahassee. I got some hot dope for your next column. Governor Fied is gonna resign. That'll put Gilie on but he wants the cabinet job, so he'll resign and Christie will appoint him in his place. How do I know? I listen you don't think I'd give you a bum story, do you? Sure it's straight. Heck no, don't quote me. I don't want to get mixed up in it. You can't. Why can't you? Columnists don't have to tell where they get their info. OK, if that's the way you feel about it, but I thought I was doing you a favor. Just don't tell I gave you another tip and see how long your whiskers are."

"Hello, Kay did you see where the AAA reduced Florida's gas tax? Tough. Why man, it's a damned outrage! Last year we had enough and now they've even cut below that. You ought to write a column and burn the pants off of those nit wit so-called chair legumes up there in Washington. And where in hell was your friend Pepper while all this was going on? I thought he had influence. Here we are ready to put thousands of men to work at good wages and develop one of the state's resources and the government thumbs its nose at us. Why man, you could write a book about it and still not say enough. Now look you man, Ray, that's what Florida gets for loyalty. I'll be looking for your next outburst and if you are the kind of a Florida I think you are, it ought to be sizable. So long."

Orlando calling Russell Kay. "Hello Mr. Kay, I've just read your smart aleck column making fun of the old folks and the $40 every Thursday plan. I suppose you young fellows think we old folks should starve. Yes, sir, I've paid my $40 and I'm gonna get a lot more folks to join in the organization. No sir, every penny of the money is going to fight our battles. You don't know what you're talking about. It will solve the unemployment situation and regulate business and it won't cost anything. Every Florida gets a card to tell you that I've read your writings for a long time. Let me through now, I'll never read another line of your drivel. You can't make fun of the old folks and get away with it. Well, I just wanted to tell you, young man."

"Hello, Russell, was in Tallahassee last week. Yeh, we got the old in school up there, you know. Oh, she's dumb (me, I got around a little bit and learned that Fred is a much better. Yeh, he's been sitting up. Is taking care of every leg and will be out before long. It-sign? No, that's a lie, no! Who told you that? Not that old boy! He was elected four years ago and he's gonna stay four years, even if they have been smearing' banana peels all the way from the Mansion to the State House. Listen, I'll bet you he lives longer than a lot of the guys who are tryin' to get his job. No, there's nothin' to it."

"Hello, Kay, this is Asher Frank. Have you got your column written for next week? Well, I was thinkin it would be timely to say something about 'Safety'. You know it won't be long before our highways are flooded with tourists. You could take a crack at the cows on the road and boost a state highway patrol, then a paragraph about lookin' out for the kiddies on their way to and from school always goes good at this time of year. It is just a suggestion, you know. I don't know how to say it, but you can work up a swell column along that line and put a lot of wise cracks in it, like you did that Safety speech. Why don't you do that for next week? I know you've had a lot of 'Safety' columns, but you can't have too many of them. All right, well, I'll be seein' you."

"Hello, Russ? Did you see where this 'guy' Willis Stubbs is gonna enter the race for Chairman of the State Pardon Board? Every session would be a 'Spring' session if he got elected. Get it? Weakin' he make some Governor though? Well, it he can get the votes OUI, like he gets the conviction OUT he ought to win in the first primary. You ought to be able to make a wew of a column out of that. Just thought I'd

Germany Will Rise As Military Power. HAMBURG, Germany, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Propaganda Minister Goebbels asserted last night that Nazi Germany, strengthened by territorial gains, would become one of the world's strongest military powers within five years. Goebbels, in a discourse on Nazi accomplishments, pointed to occupation of the Rhineland and the Sudetenland as proof that Germany would rise to military power. He took occasion to refer to the church tension in Vienna, which broke into open disorder early this month, and warned those Cardinal Inuiters, Archbishop of Vienna, that he was playing with fire.

Darrell Ferguson Leads Local Team To Victory

Seniolen Aerial Attack Is Big Factor In Decision Over Bulldogs; Feds Complete 4 Of 6 Passes

By JULIAN STENSTROM
Herald Sports Editor

Led by a triple threat back field man, Darrell Ferguson, the Feds blasted out a 20 to 0 victory over the DeLand Bulldogs at the local stadium last night.

Ferguson was the star of the hour proving himself to be one of the outstanding back field players in the state last night when he carried the ball 12 times for 141 yards, which made an average of eight yards for every attempt.

Ferguson faded back to pass six times last night, to make the oval field a swirl and three of these being completed.

In the first period, the Feds took the kickoff and Ben Ferguson brought it back to his own six yard strip. In the second plays with Darrell Ferguson and Art Williams, and Fred Combs carrying the ball, the oval field matched 91 yards for the interval.

When Darrell faded back and shot a 20 yard forward pass to Art Williams who scored the team's first 13 yards for the interval.

Ferguson attempted to lead for the extra point but the ball went low.

The Feds came back in the second period and again took the field and started another offensive campaign to take the lead. The Fed got the ball on their own 10 yard line and Williams carried it around 141 yards and scored through the line. Ferguson and Combs had made through the line to get the ball on the DeLand 12 yard line.

The DeLand Bulldogs came back in the second period and beat the Seniolen to the line and scored on the Seniolen 12 yard line.

However, the Fed came back in the fourth period with their own offensive which had carried them through the DeLand line. The Feds marched right down to the DeLand 10 yard line. Art Williams carried it forward to the end zone for the score and Fred Combs led the play to the extra point.

THE GREAT WALTZ

BEATRICE FABER

Chapter Nine

Hand in hand, they walked down the aisle. The music was soft and sweet, and the lights were dim. They had been dancing for hours, and now it was time to say goodnight.

"That was beautiful," she said, looking up at him. "I've never danced so well before."

"You're a natural," he said, smiling. "I'm glad you enjoyed it."

They walked out of the ballroom and into the night. The air was cool and fresh, and the stars were shining brightly in the sky.

That was beautiful —Mr. Strauss

Mr. Strauss was a man of many talents. He was a skilled pianist, a talented composer, and a successful businessman. He had spent his entire life in the music industry, and he was now at the height of his career.

One day, he was playing a piece of music in a concert hall. The audience was captivated by his performance, and they were all praising him for his skill and talent.

As the concert came to a close, Mr. Strauss looked out at the audience and saw a young girl in the front row. She was looking at him with a look of awe and admiration.

Mr. Strauss smiled at her and walked over to her. He picked her up and held her in his arms. She was so small and so beautiful, and he felt a special connection to her.

From that day on, Mr. Strauss made it his mission to help the young girl realize her dream of becoming a pianist. He gave her lessons and encouraged her to practice every day.

Years passed, and the young girl grew into a young woman. She was now a talented pianist in her own right, and she was performing in concert halls all over the world.

Mr. Strauss was proud of her and felt that his life had been worth it. He had helped a young girl realize her dream, and he had found a special friend in the process.

STEMS FROM THE MAIN STEM—Margaret Lindsay, Ann Sheridan, and Marie Wilson as the three Broadway girls who head the cast of "Broadway Musketeers," which opens at the Ritz Tuesday.

"Marie Antoinette," Magnificent, Historical

After a year of research for history's doubles, a record-breaking cast of 152 players was assembled for "Marie Antoinette," co-starring Norma Shearer and Tyrone Power. The spectacular story of one of the world's great empresses will be shown Sunday and Monday at the Ritz Theatre.

Among the prominent players featured in support of the stars are John Barrymore, Robert Morley, Anita Louise, Joseph Schildkraut, Gladys George, Henry Stephenson, Cora Witherspoon, Harriet Parker, Reginald Gardner, Henry Daniell, Leonard Penn, Albert Van Dekker, Alma Kruger, Joseph Calleia, George Meeker, Scotty Beckett and Marilyn Knowlden.

Hundreds of tests were made before actors and actresses could be found capable of recreating such famed historical characters as King Louis XVI, Madame du Barry, the Empress Maria Theresa, Danton, Lafayette, Benjamin Franklin, Robespierre and others.

Robert Morley, young English actor who portrays King Louis XVI, was discovered in London by Producer Hunt Stromberg. Although Morley never had been on the screen his amazing likeness to the French King won him consideration for the part, together with a dozen other candidates. He traveled the 6,000 miles to Hollywood for a test that assured him the role. One of the most fascinating characters ever brought to the screen, King Louis gives Morley a definitely star-making part in the picture.

Wade Crosby appears on the screen for the first time as Danton, fiery Revolutionary leader. Crosby was a theatrical sign painter when Max Reinhardt saw him two years ago and selected him to star in a picture depicting the life of Danton. The picture was never made and Crosby gets his big opportunity in "Marie Antoinette."

Alma Kruger, New York stage character actress, was chosen to play Marie Theresa, Antoinette's mother, because in costumes she resembles a favorite painting of

IN "MARIE ANTOINETTE," opening at the Ritz Theatre Sunday Norma Shearer resumes her brilliant screen career as the little Hapsburg archduchess who became the last queen of France in one of history's most dramatic and romantic chapters. Tyrone Power is co-starred with Miss Shearer as the nobleman who attempted to save her from the guillotine, and the star-studded supporting cast includes John Barrymore, Robert Morley, Anita Louise, Joseph Schildkraut, Gladys George and Henry Stephenson.

The Austrian Queen, Marie Antoinette, will be seen as Benjamin Franklin on $100 bills. John Burroughs will be seen as Benjamin Franklin, the result of a make-up inspired by the engraving of the

"Valley Of The Giants," Lusty Lumber Picture

"Valley of the Giants," produced by Warner Bros. in beautiful Technicolor, with Wayne Morris and Claire Trevor heading a brilliant cast, is scheduled to open at the Ritz Theatre next Tuesday.

Based upon the famous Peter B. Kyne novel of the same name, the picture tells a story typical of the valiant fight waged some thirty-odd years ago to prevent the utter despoliation of California's noted redwood forests by ruthlessly selfish lumber interests.

Graft and corruption, legal trickery and plenty of outright physical violence were employed by the would-be despoilers to gain their ends, and all of this is strikingly depicted in the tense and exciting course of the unfolding of the new Warner color picture.

Most of the action of the picture takes place outdoors and all of these outdoor scenes were filmed in the heart of the redwood country, with the result that the picture is not only an exciting piece of drama but also one of the most beautiful and one of the most impressive productions ever filmed. For people who have never seen these forests of giant trees, the film probably will also be a rare educational treat.

LOVE'S FATAL arrow strikes Jean Parzer and John Beal, the romantic leads, in the new Bob Burns comedy-drama of home town life, "The Arkansas Traveler," which opens Friday at the Ritz Theatre.

Army Sources Give Amendment Support

TALLAHASSEE, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Two army sources joined yesterday in supporting a proposed national guard amendment to Florida's constitution which drew fire Wednesday from Governor Cone.

Maj. Gen. A. H. Blanding, chief of the national guard bureau in Washington, disagreed with Governor Cone's statement that the amendment would increase state taxes.

The Army and Navy club at Jacksonville announced its full support for the constitutional change, which would remove national guard officers from state control and base their appointment and removal solely on army standards.

General Blanding's views were telegraphed to Capt. Carl Owenby of the United States Infantry reserve. He said most of the states have provisions similar to that on which Florida voters will pass in the Nov. 8 general election, and added:

"I do not see that the amendment could have any possible effect on taxation."

11,000,000 In U. S. Affected By Wages Cut

New Regulation Represents Broadest Industrial Legislation Since NRA

Law Is Put Into Effect Quietly

Federal Act Places Floor Under Wages, Ceiling Over Hours

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. (AP)—The far-reaching Federal Labor Standards Act went into effect today, putting a floor under wages and a ceiling over hours of an estimated 11,000,000 American workmen.

This regulation of virtually all persons in interstate commerce represented the broadest industrial legislation since the NRA.

In striking contrast to the fanfare and hubbub of Blue Eagle days, however, the wage-hour law was put into operation quietly. There were no parades, and no great concentration of businessmen in Washington.

The main provisions are a 25-cent minimum on wages, which will be raised to 30 cents on Oct. 24, 1939 and 40 cents after Oct. 24, 1940; a maximum work week of 44 hours, becoming 42 on Oct. 24, 1939, and 40 on Oct. 24, 1940; and the prohibition of employment of children under 16 in mining or manufacturing occupation and children under 18 in industry declared to be hazardous.

The new law was enacted by Congress last session, after bitter and protracted controversy, in response to President Roosevelt's appeal of May 24, 1937, for extension of "the frontiers of social progress."

It deals only with wages and working conditions, whereas the outworn National Industrial Recovery Act provided also for regulation of trade practices.

The statute applies only to industries in interstate commerce. It is intended to bring about a 40-hour work week and a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour in such industries eventually. But, for the first year, an employer's regular work week may be 44 hours, and he may be paid as little as 25 cents an hour.

For the next six years, the general minimum wage will be 30 cents an hour; after that, 40 cents. The maximum work week will be reduced progressively during the second and third years to 42 hours and then 40.

Employment longer than the statutory maximum hours will be prohibited, but workers on emergency must be paid in cash at the rate of time and a half the regular wage scale.

In general, the act also prohibits employment of children under 18 years of age in hazardous occupations. Children are forbidden to work in a manufacturing or mining industry if they are under 16, and youngsters between 14 and 16 may be hired only under certain conditions.

Administrator Andrews has conceded that the law may be tested quickly in the courts. Since many of his definitions and regulations are too general to apply to a given industry, an appeal to the courts for a judicial determination will be the only way to answer positively many questions concerning the act's application.

Need Of Oil To Lead To Further Nazi Conquests

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 24. The reason military experts expect Hitler to become disatisfied with his present situation is oil.

Careful computation of Germany's domestic oil production places it at an outside limit of 2,000,000 tons annually. In a year, that amount, even if available all at one time, would last Germany six to eight weeks. Military sources quoted from abroad estimate Germany's war time consumption would be 12,000,000 tons as a minimum and possibly 20,000,000 tons. At present Germany can buy from the United States and Mexico. In event of war with England those sources would be cut off by blockade. Then what?

That question explains why every German move is interpreted by military observers as directed toward gaining access to the Rumanian oil fields, one of the world's best. That field could not be cut off from Germany by the British navy.

It is one of the sorrows of Central Europe that despite its wealth in iron, coal and food, it has almost no natural oil resources. There is little in Sudebanland, taken from Czechoslovakia. Germany has employed its most skilled scientists to make fuel oil from coal but has been only moderately successful. The fuel can be supplied but it would take an army behind the lines to make fuel for an army in the field. The consumption of coal in making the oil would put other industries almost equally important in war time.

Just how long Germany could continue to fight on without an adequate supply of fuel oil is a question. In the World War she got along very well for

Unemployment From Wages, Hours Act Foreseen By Lay For Limited Time

JACKSONVILLE, Oct. 24. (AP)—E. P. Lay, executive secretary of the Associated Industries of Florida, Inc., and a member of the state industrial commission, said today that he believed the federal wage-hour law will result in "considerable unemployment for a limited time."

Lay said many Florida employers did not understand fully the measure which becomes effective today and provides for a minimum 25-cent hourly wage and a standard 44-hour work week for all workers producing a product going into interstate commerce. There are certain exceptions.

"Until they determine just how they will be affected," Lay declared, "some employers will have to close down their establishments and others will have to dismiss some employees, which will result in unemployment."

Lay declared it would be difficult to estimate how many Florida workers would come under provisions of the regulation, but "in my opinion, it will be many more than is now thought."

Lay said he believed the lumber and cigar industries would be the chief ones in Florida affected by the new regulation.
