'Countdown For Safety' Takes Minute

Seminole County motorists today were urged to go through a "countdown for safety" before launching their cars onto the street or highway. The six-step countdown was proposed by Bill Hemphill of Bill Hemphill Motors, Inc., to make Yuletide driving safer and more pleasant. It is part of a "Drive for a Safe Holiday" program his organization is sponsoring in cooperation with Auto Industries Highway Safety Committee.

The drivers' countdown should be done before starting any trip, whether just around town or longer, declares Hemphill. A "no" to any of these five questions should be a clue to take corrective measures before turning the ignition key.

"Three—Driver set for possible weather and traffic conditions ahead? "Two—Rest breaks mapped out along the way, if trip is long? "One—Seat belts fastened—smiling?"

"Zero—Take a deep breath, relax, and drive for safety. "The countdown takes just a minute to perform, and is as easy as 1-2-3," says Hemphill. "Just try it and see."

"E Pluribus Unum" is the national motto of the United States. The Latin phrase means "out of many, one."

Church To Have Annual Program

The Annual Church School Christmas Program of the Sanford Congregational Church will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the church. Theme of this year's program will be "And Lo, The Angels Sing," to be presented under direction of Mrs. Gus Schmah, superintendent of the Church School. The Christmas Service will be followed by recitations by the children after which each child will bring his or her gift of food wrapped in white for presentation to the Christ Child. This food will be used to supply Christmas baskets for the needy.

The program will conclude with a Santa Claus party when the children will receive gifts. On Friday, Christmas Eve, at 7:30 p.m., the church will have its annual Candlelight service, a beautiful service, climaxed with the lighting of individual candles from the Christ Candle.

Duke's Finesse Wins Out

The Duke Blue Devils are no longer just a stepping stone to the top national ranking but are firmly at the top of the heap themselves.

Duke defeated the fifth-ranked Michigan Wolverines 10-3 Tuesday night in a high-pressure overtime game to enhance their No. 1 ranking while second-ranked St. Joseph's of Pennsylvania was losing to eighth-ranked Brigham Young 10-8.

Michigan took over the top national ranking soon after defeating Duke two years ago and improved its No. 1 rating last Tuesday by defeating the Blue Devils. Duke also got to the National Collegiate Athletic Association finals two years ago only to lose the title to UCLA, a team defeated twice this season by the Blue Devils.

Finesse triumphed over brass in the overtime Tuesday night as the diminutive Blue Devils came far behind to whip the monsters from Michigan. Three-ranked Vanderbilt kept pace with Duke by defeating the University of California at Santa Barbara 14-4.

Brigham Young hit 54 percent of its shots from the field completely, including a 25-22 victory over the University of California at Santa Barbara 14-4.

Garden Circles

PALM CIRCLE
Mrs. S. C. Dickerson was the speaker at the December meeting of Palm Circle, Sanford Garden Club, at the home of program chairman, Mrs. Blanton Owen, on Thursday, Dec. 9.

Mrs. Dickerson talked on "The Care and Feeding of Christmas Plants," giving a wealth of authoritative information much needed during the oncoming holiday season.

Mrs. Owen served a delightful coffee with holiday breads and the Circle welcomed three new members, Mrs. William Pizley, Mrs. Elmer Smith and Mrs. John Jewell.

Guests included Mrs. Dickerson, Mrs. Wallace Crosby and Mrs. Christine Price.

Plans were discussed for the next meeting at the home of Mrs. W. W. Lins at 1:30 p.m., Jan. 13, with Mrs. H. H. Duncan and Mrs. John B. Schaff assisting.

At this first meeting of the new year the topic of the day is scheduled as "The Romance of Herbs," presented by Mrs. Anna Dill, locally especially recognized as an expert in the cooking and serving of gourmet food.

A White Elephant sale also is to be a January meeting feature.

After the framing of greetings to member, Mrs. Wm. Hardie, presently hospitalized in Winter Park, the meeting adjourned to the Garden Restaurant for the annual Christmas luncheon.

Members and guests enjoyed the delicious food and appropriate "cider club" sitting at Creighton's, Winter Park, Fla.

BRIDE'S DAD GIVES BREAK
NEW YORK (UPI)—The "merry now" calls it the "marry now" plan. And says it's a general manager of the American National Life Insurance Co. is an industry first.

The plan enables the bride's father to pay for the reception on the installment plan. Hits computed the cost as low as 60 cents per person per month (for 24 months) for a reception which includes a champagne toast, a seven-course steak dinner, "live" music for dancing, a photographer to shoot a 20-page album, a private hideaway bridal suite—complete with a chilled bottle of champagne.

The bride gets to keep the silver knifes used to cut the cake.

The Rev. and Mrs. James Tuttle of LaFay, Bolivia, attended the Young Adults covered disk supper. Friday evening in the Social Hall of the DeBary Community Methodist Church. They also attended colored sides of their school and classrooms where they teach in LaFay, Rev. Tuttle narrated the slides as Mrs. Tuttle operated the projector. Special music was provided by the Young Adult Choir during the services at the Sunday evening worship.

Mr. and Mrs. Carroll D. Blackburn of Desplaine Drive entertained their son, Richard, of Rochester, N. Y., his week-end. He was on a business trip south.

Table Setting Judged For Oak Garden Club

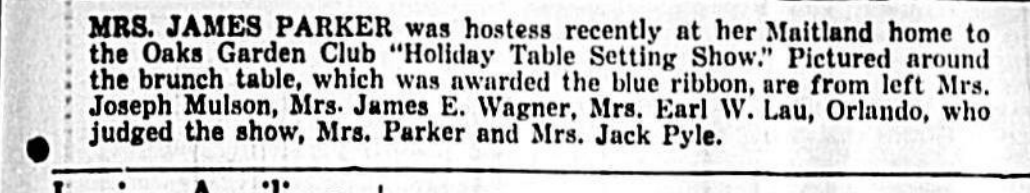

By Julia Barlow
The Altamonte and Maitland Oak Garden Club "Holiday Table Setting Show," judged by Mrs. Earl W. Lau of Orlando, was held at the lovely home of Mrs. James Parker, 1750 Thunderbird Trail, Maitland.

Four tables, beautifully set, were a Christmas Tea Table, Holiday Buffet, Brunch and a Bridge Luncheon. Each table was arranged with appointments and a decorative unit.

Mrs. Lau explained the right and wrong of each setting. Settings are to be placed in line of traffic, napkins always first. The height of a decorative unit must coincide with the appointments. The size of table cloth adds or detracts from the table setting.

A small table should never have large appointments on it. Napkins should always be placed on the left with folds toward the plate unless it is a formal dinner. Large napkins may be folded with moon-ornament showing and placed directly on the plate.

Mrs. James Wagner, chairman of her Brunch Table group, received the blue ribbon and a door prize, Christmas red and green door knob covers made of corduroy.

MRS. JAMES PARKER was hostess recently at her Maitland home to the Oak Garden Club "Holiday Table Setting Show." Pictured around the brunch table, which was awarded the blue ribbon, are from left: Mrs. Joseph Mulson, Mrs. James E. Wagner, Mrs. Earl W. Lau, Orlando, who judged the show, Mrs. Parker and Mrs. Jack Pyle.

During the business meeting Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Warren were elected to become members of the O.E.S. Chapter by affiliation.

Mrs. Leihart's rendition of "Star of the East" on the piano during the outgoing march was much appreciated.

Mr. Ralph David, Jayceette president, told the Christmas story and Mrs. Peter Millard led the group in singing familiar carols.

An exchange of gifts was made under a decorated Christmas tree and party hostesses, Mrs. Ruth Smith (The Billies) and Mrs. Webster served delicious refreshments to the 30 members attending.

James Godwin, former para-rescuer and member of the Para-Gators, a sky-diving club, presented a program for the Lions Club of Casselberry on the December meeting at the Lookout Restaurant.

Godwin is a veteran of more than 500 jumps in the service and for sport. He once placed 14th in a national tryout for the right-number Olympic team.

The Para-Gators jump on weekends at the Kissimmee Airport.

A new member of the Lions Club, Richard Lusk, was inducted at a recent meeting with the National club and other clubs of the same at the Beacon Inn.

Some proceeds and services met in Casselberry Sunday afternoon, Dec. 19, at the Casselberry Land Company office for their quarterly meeting.

A Proud Record

We are proud of the Tigers. They lived up to their name in Viet Nam. One only has to talk to Commander Donald E. Moore, commanding officer of the Sanford-based Vigilante squadron, to realize what a terrific job the Tigers did under heavy fire over North Viet Nam.

Enemy surface-to-air missiles were fired at the Tigers, flying their unarmed Vigilantes, and they were successfully evaded.

Ground maintenance crews were equally successful on board the USS Independence keeping the squadron's planes in the air.

Decorations in the form of Air Medals and Navy Unit Citations already have been bestowed on the Tigers and it is likely more will come. Even the highly-rated Distinguished Flying Cross is expected to be awarded some of the flight crews.

The Tigers suffered their losses but they recovered from the shock of losing a fine leader, Cdr. Valentin G. Matula, early in deployment. One other officer was killed and two others are missing.

But the Tigers rebounded from these setbacks to chalk up a proud record.

We welcome the Tigers home. We're glad we've got the Tigers in our town.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Fritz brings out a point that all the church and society leaders need to realize. For many altruistic and religious groups less light of their early goals as they acquire great wealth. They become too concerned with conserving their assets and perpetuating themselves in a lucrative job!

CASE X-47: Fritz Q., age 42, is now a successful Chicago executive.

"But I had become a chronic drunk after the Korean war," he said.

"In fact, I was down on Chicago's skid row, where I happened to attend a Sunday talk by Scotty Watt from Cedar Lake, Ind.

"Scotty comes to colleges at his own expense every Sunday to talk to 150 or more down-and-outers.

"Then he takes a dozen or so of the hungry fellows into a little restaurant and feeds them a free bowl of soup, also at his own expense.

"Then he steered me toward the Salvation Army, where he put a good word for me.

"They took over and finally straightened me out.

"Actually, I believe the Salvation Army is the most respected of all religious groups.

"I found that the soldiers had more administrative ability, sincerity and usefulness of the Salvation Army folks than for any church denomination.

"Dr. Crane, they seem to me to live the best life of the ideals of the early Christian church and St. Paul. Isn't that true?"

The Salvation Army believes 100 per cent in the doctrine that "faith without works is dead."

So it started out with soup kitchens and medical aid to the down-and-outers of England in 1861 but by 1878 it had been given the title, Salvation Army.

From the physical, it stressed practical relief to the poor and sick, accompanied by spiritual tonics for their souls.

Its clergy are officers and the members are called soldiers.

It transcends any narrow sectarian lines for it preaches the simple doctrine that salvation comes from God.

There is no formal creed required, so the Salvation Army functions as probably the most respected and influential interfaith religious organization in the world today.

From the very outset, it engaged in wholesome practical evidences of social service, such as lodging houses for the drunk and poor, hospitals, nurseries, children's homes, etc.

Unwed expectant mothers are also aided and given a place where they can bear their babies.

Fritz is probably correct in his opinion that no altruistic group, even including the Red Cross and the Quakers, enjoys a higher universal respect.

And with many American churches growing socially and financially weaker, the Salvation Army is a shining example of a group that has not only survived but thrives.

It doesn't indulge in propaganda for increased clerical salaries, weekly homes for aged church members, etc.

If you wish to give a boost therefore, to the modern religious group that most respects its church members, etc., then go all out in support of your Salvation Army.

It thus merits far more than merely a bill dropped on a Christmas tree ornament.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The same goes for the Federal Reserve Board. Because its seven members are normally appointed for 14-year terms, and because men who have served full 14-year terms are normally ineligible for reappointment, men on the board can stay above presidential politics.

President Johnson himself has voiced some concern, at least in the timing of the board's latest action, which is causing a rise in interest on short-term loans. (Some say that the board's action is raising at this time the rate in charges banks for some of the money they borrow.)

These objectors believe the board is going against the president's economic program in raising at this time the rate in charges banks for some of the money they borrow.

They believe the board's independent vote to push interest rates up is in support of your Salvation Army.

It thus merits far more than merely a bill dropped on a Christmas tree ornament.

Lyle C. Wilson Says: Pair Of Politicians

On the same day it got in the same breath, an ill-matched pair of politicians complained against LBJ's division of money and effort between war and welfare.

One was Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the controversial Negro congressman from New York. The other was Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, an adverse critic, regardless of source. The way not to keep friends and not to influence people in the White House is to complain against LBJ's division of money and effort between war and welfare.

Humphrey, of course, is under other pressures from the wing of the Democratic party such as organized labor and Americans for Democratic Action. The Jetties would want to see the president's budget in final form. If he lacks Powell's help at a new conference, it seemed to score the performance of the "Great Society" anti-poverty program but said its spending program should be tread.

"We can spend billions of dollars," said Powell, "to have a quasi-democracy in Viet Nam, we must spend more to preserve democracy at home."

Powell has under way an independent Federal Reserve committee chairmanship. "I want to know," Powell said, "just where the administrative pressure, they frequently drop some of their old habits. So you may have economic liberals voting with conservatives and economic conservatives voting with liberals. This is the meaning of an independent Federal Reserve Board."

It would therefore be a tragedy if the change in the board is chosen in order to make the Federal Reserve less independent.

Letters To The Editor

Editor, Herald: That moment arrives—the curtain goes up—it's a packed house, a marvelous audience and through your weekly mind that beautiful feeling of gratitude. Gratitude for the hometown paper and their staff; grateful for the media of radio; but most of all grateful for being able to say "Thank You" to stars such as this; to committees such as this; and to Mrs. J. N. Stowell.

First, to the staff on YOUR newspaper for covering so well the recent publicity for our Seminole High Christmas Concert. Each article submitted for publication was handled verbatim and without delay. Spot notices were received with the same friendly cooperation as were the featured articles. Photographers arrived on schedule and a few times on very short notice.

The local radio station featured announcements and personal interviews. A radio broadcast over the air—daily—and weeks before the concert would make their holiday more like being at home in homemade cookies, fruit cake, pies, nuts, sandwiches—in fact, you name it, and those boys like it. Of course if you have a turkey or ham stashed back that you don't particularly need now "mom," as Mrs. Mary Washburn, Director of the USO, is affectionately known to the boys, would love you for sharing this. Nothing would be wasted as arrangements have been made for freezing perishable food.

Mrs. Washburn has done a great job of making "our" USO the nearest thing to home for the boys who visit the USO, but the funds she receives for operating just doesn't allow her to do all the things she would like for them during the holiday season. She has put much hard work beyond the call of duty into this home away from home. Let's be large or small, and you will surely have a happier Christmas. Your greatest joy will come from sharing with these boys your goodies. Some of them will be away from home for the first time, others will be leaving for Viet Nam soon after the first of the year.

The USO will be open each day and night from now until Christmas and you may drop off your donation. If this is inconvenient you may leave them at the O. K. Tire Store and they will be delivered. If you do not have transportation you will contact the USO or any member of the Pilot Club it will be picked up.

The police immediately dispatched a patrol car to the scene. This report came back:

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Pentagon is watching with some concern the possibility that the nation's current draft law may be challenged on constitutional grounds.
Officials assume that a new draft law would be promptly enacted by Congress if the present Selective Service Act were invalidated by the courts.
Nevertheless, defense manpower experts are telling it is known that it would cost a "minimum" of $20 billion more a year to maintain a U. S. Armed Forces at "crisis" strength without the draft.

MIDDLESEX, N. J. (UPI)—"Daddy, there's a cow in our pool," cried five-year-old Jack Tarcia to his sleeping father.
"Come back later and tell me about it," mumbled his father. Walter, as he rolled over in his bed.
But little Jack kept pestering so his father got up to take a look.
There in the middle of the family pool was a 17-foot long plastic cow.
When Tarcia called police, the desk sergeant thought it was a gag but agreed to send a patrol car.
Patrolman Joseph Erg verified that a 175-pound imitation cow was floating in the pool. Police after checking further, found that the cow had been stolen from a nearby dairy company where it had been on display.

That's Gold Speechifying' On Chicken Circuit

(NEA) The time of the meeting of clubs is come, and the lecturer is not only heard in our land but is building up to a thundering chorus. Before the current open season for public speaking is over a new breed of circuit riders will have covered the map filling more than 40,000 dates. Audiences everywhere, from school auditoriums to gatherings of society matrons, will have shelled out something like $30 million in fees for the privilege of being enlightened and entertained by professional talent.

And for talent with the right qualifications (knowledge of a subject, a touch of showmanship, physical stamina and the stomach for a steady diet of chicken) the rewards will be substantial. Single-appearance fees of $1,000 and up are not uncommon for celebrities in the lecture world's big time. Even the uncelebrated, making the rounds of school assemblies can expect to average $300 or more a week.

All of which should take care of any questions as to whether happened to Chattanooga. The answer is plenty. Ever since the old business of spreading culture in the hinterlands moved out of a tent into the air age it's been flourishing as never before.

It's termed the platform industry or, irreverently, the chicken at a king circuit, but under any name it's a multi-million-dollar business. At any time, the estimate of a $30 million yearly take is probably on the low side, says Jan Taylor Moore, a man who should know.

One of the top lecturers in the country, Moore is also executive secretary of the National Platform Association (NPA), the 5,000-member trade organization headquartered in Cleveland which is a force in today's platform industry.

President Johnson is a member. So are A. Edgar Hoover, assorted congressmen, cabinet members and such high-walrus talents as Drew Pearson, Joan Crawford, Jimmy Durante and Edgar Bergen. And so are thousands of successful ventriloquist, monologist and specialist on everything from world monetary problems to life in the Arctic.

The NPA is much more than a trade fraternity. Membership marks a platform performer as a professional. Its conventions shape the lecture year for the entire country. These annual gatherings bring together performers and booking agents, provide a showcase for new talent seeking to break into the business and result in bookings for most of the lecture dates throughout the country.

The pick of the talent crop is snapped up by agencies specializing in speakers for the women's club, businessmen's groups and industrial organizations which make up the "celebrity" circuit. Also on hand are agents for the less prestigious, but still lucrative, lecture circuit, some with thousands of school assembly dates to fill. Fees are much lower, usually in the neighborhood of $50 an appearance, but the market is enormous.

With a good agent masterminding his schedule, a speaker or working the lecturing can be able to square three, or even more, appearances into a single day. Even at $50 a stop, fees expense and book commission, it adds up.

Profitable as the platform can be, very few make it a sole source of income (an exception being one California-based foreign affairs specialist who claims to have averaged a speech a day for years). Most top speakers, Jan Moore says, have full-time careers in other fields and use the platform as a means to promote writings or other activities as for the money it brings in fees.

In a special class, however, are the public figures who turn to lecturing late in their careers as a natural means of cashing in on experience and reputation. David J. McDonald is one recent example. After losing the presidency of the United Steel Workers, he let it be known he was available and was immediately booked solid at a top fee by a certain management firm on the elite circuit of executives' clubs.

The platform has its hazards even for the veteran. There is what Moore terms "the lecturer's horror." As experienced by one popular speaker, when halfway through an address, it dawned on him that once before he had given exactly the same lecture to the same audience. A flaw in an otherwise bright picture of the business today is, in Moore's view, discrimination. Sexual not racial. There seem to be no particular preferences among audiences for one type of speaker over others, but "there is one kind they don't prefer and that's women."

Despite IPA's pride in being the direct descendant of Chautauqua, there's more than a change of name and progress in transportation to distinguish today's platform industry from the leisurely old touring culture circuit. A Chautauqua usually meant a packaged show — jugglers, a characted show — jugglers, opera singers and possibly William Jennings Bryan on the same bill. "It was a form anyone can offer himself for platform appearances. Thousands do each year. Not all break into the big money, but for those who do it can be very big indeed. Lecture, anyone?

It's a wide-open field and anyone can offer himself for platform appearances. Thousands do each year. Not all break into the big money, but for those who do it can be very big indeed. Lecture, anyone?

'Cut Your Own Taxes' Tips Are Offered To Taxpayers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: NEA Tax Expert Ray De Crane is the author of the best-selling book, "Cut Your Own Taxes," and the annual "Cut Your Own Taxes" series, which will be a feature of this newspaper early in 1966. Following is a special article by De Crane which shows how you can save money now on your 1965 income tax.)

By Ray De Crane
CLEVELAND (NEA)

Time is starting to run out on your hopes to cut your own income tax for 1965. When the bells toll on New Year's Eve the die will be cast. Those few remaining days of the year will determine how much you can reduce your tax or add to your expected refund.

Two factors will determine your ultimate tax bill—your income and your deductions. Unless a substantial capital gain or loss might be involved, don't try to shift income from one year to the next, the tax experts advise.

Where income is concerned, the best advice is to take it when you get it. If the boss wants to give you a substantial year-end bonus, don't sugarcoat it off until January or later. He might change his mind, and the tax gain on shifting income is not as great as it generally is imagined.

Concentrate, instead, on your careful planning can be a great putting it off until January or later. He might change his mind, and the tax gain on shifting income is not as great as it generally is imagined.

Concentrate, instead, on your careful planning can be a great putting it off until January or later. He might change his mind, and the tax gain on shifting income is not as great as it generally is imagined.

point are contributions, real estate taxes, medical expenses and a prizing look at any borderline dependency exemptions.

Start by refreshing your memory on the ground rules for deductions. You may already be aware of a $1,000 standard deduction. Hold off on additional payments until next year and give yourself a head start on your deduction total for 1966.

You might give such post-ponement consideration to your contributions as well. In this way taxpayers who are on a marginal basis between itemizing and taking an optional allowance might want to itemize in one year and in that year make substantial contributions. In the alternate years average off on your giving and take the standard deduction allowance.

How about medical expenses?

If either you or your wife, in the case of a couple filing a joint return, are under 65 you may deduct all medical expenses exceeding 3 per cent of income. Drug expenses exceeding 1 per cent of income are considered medical expenses.

A quick run-through of medical expenses to date will convince you of the folly or wisdom of paying any further medical expenses this year. In the case of a couple filing a joint return, the property owner may pay his bill in January. This gives you the choice of two tax years. An inventory made now will quickly convince you whether you should make payment in December or January.

Anyone who will be observing a 65th birthday next year should exercise extreme caution in accumulating deductions the balance of this year. Next year every penny of medical expense will be deductible for this taxpayer. Paying the same expense in December might not add a penny to his allowable deductions.

This is the time, too, to examine borderline dependency exemptions. If you are helping support an aged parent, perhaps an additional $50 contribution in December will give you child support status and entitle you to the $600 dependency allowance. When you make out your tax return after Jan. 1 the criterion will be who furnished the chief support, you or your funds or your parent from his own funds. Your moves in the next few weeks could swing the credit your way.

If a son or daughter you supported most of the year starts to work in the latter part of the year you may be wrestling over the chief support issue at tax filing time, too. Do your fighting now while corrective measures still can be taken. Perhaps the purchase of an additional suit of clothes before the end of the year will assure your $600 dependency claim.

Remember tax savings are the best type of savings. They represent net after taxes. A $100 savings in taxes could be the equivalent of $150 additional in the pay envelope.

for each exemption on your return.

If you are a $10,000 or higher wage earner and have already accumulated $800 in deductions for 1965 in what should you do?

Anything up to the $200 in additional deductions for this year would be wasted. You are already assured of a $1,000 standard deduction. Hold off on additional payments until next year and give yourself a head start on your deduction total for 1966.

You might give such post-ponement consideration to your contributions as well. In this way taxpayers who are on a marginal basis between itemizing and taking an optional allowance might want to itemize in one year and in that year make substantial contributions. In the alternate years average off on your giving and take the standard deduction allowance.

How about medical expenses?

If either you or your wife, in the case of a couple filing a joint return, are under 65 you may deduct all medical expenses exceeding 3 per cent of income. Drug expenses exceeding 1 per cent of income are considered medical expenses.

A quick run-through of medical expenses to date will convince you of the folly or wisdom of paying any further medical expenses this year. In the case of a couple filing a joint return, the property owner may pay his bill in January. This gives you the choice of two tax years. An inventory made now will quickly convince you whether you should make payment in December or January.

Anyone who will be observing a 65th birthday next year should exercise extreme caution in accumulating deductions the balance of this year. Next year every penny of medical expense will be deductible for this taxpayer. Paying the same expense in December might not add a penny to his allowable deductions.

Sanford Brothers Due For Reunion

A young Sanford soldier may soon be reunited with his "kid" brother in Vietnam.

Sgt. Thomas D. Charbonneau, 407 Willow Avenue, is home on leave for Christmas and will depart Jan. 3 for duty in Vietnam.

The sergeant's 19-year-old brother, Maurice A. Charbonneau, already is in Vietnam. Both are in the U. S. Army. Tom is assigned to the First Air Cavalry Division as a tank driver. Maurice is with the 44th Transportation Company as a driver.

Both boys attended Seminole High School. Tom has been in the Army for five years, ever since he was 17 years old.

Maurice is a private first class and has been stationed at Qui Nhon, Vietnam, for the past four months. He formerly was with the Florida National Guard and joined the Army eight months ago.

The holiday period begins at 6 p.m. local time today and extends to midnight Sunday.

The council predicted between 500 and 600 persons would be killed in traffic accidents during the period, traditionally the most dangerous of the year. As many as 31,000 persons may suffer disabling injuries in traffic accidents, it said.

State Patrol Commander H. N. Kirham predicted 18 persons will die on Florida's roads and highways during the Christmas holiday week-end.

The worst holiday on record was the four-day "Black Christmas" of 1956 when 700 persons died on the nation's highways. Last year's holiday season claimed 506 lives.

Greyhound bus lines said it expected a holiday travel volume of 10 million passengers in 1965, a 20 percent increase over last Christmas. In many states, special police forces were beefed up to handle highway traffic.

U. S. and South Vietnamese military leaders, ignoring any mention of the holiday travel, announced today that a 30-hour curfew would be in effect from 6 p.m. Dec. 24 to midnight Dec. 25.

The curfew was issued by the Military Assistance Command, Vietnam (MACV) and authorized by the U. S. commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, and his South Vietnamese counterpart, Lt. Gen. Cao Van Vien, chief of the general staff.

"In keeping with the spirit of Christmas and constant with like instructions that have been issued by the chief of staff, Vietnamese armed forces . . . General Westmoreland has directed that . . .

"It will have to be a really special sign," Harrell said, "in order to get a driver's attention."

Harrell cautioned all drivers today to pull completely off the road and stop when they run into such thick fog banks that visibility is almost nonexistent. At the time of the accident Wednesday, it was figured that visibility was only about eight feet.

Harrell said his report of the accident will include a recommendation to the State Road Department that a sign be erected warning drivers of pileups would not be charged.

The two charges so far filed are "maintaining a speed too great for conditions." The pending charges—to be filed as soon as the drivers are located—are expected to be the same.

Harrell said this morning property damage in the spectacular pre-holiday crash was in the neighborhood of $100,000 and the accident was the "worst single disaster" in Seminole County history.

"It may well be the worst in Florida history," Harrell said. "There have been accidents in which more people were killed, but this, as far as we can find, is the worst."

Federal Grant Of $430,456 Given Seminole

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — State School Supt. Floyd Christian gave his approval today to an additional $430,456 worth of projects for educationally deprived children in four counties.

The money is part of $212 million in federal grants available for Florida programs under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act.

To date, Christian has okayed some $10 million in such projects for 41 counties. County officials are prohibited from using the money for teacher salary hikes or to replace existing programs.

Seminole County will receive $430,456 for equipment and materials, based on an enrollment of 3,083 disadvantaged and deprived children.

W. W. DeShazo, director of federal programs for the county schools, pointed out that some disadvantaged children are not singled out and the equipment and materials will benefit all children in all grades.

DeShazo gave as examples of some of the new equipment which will be purchased to raise the cultural and educational level, the following items:

Overhead projectors, film strips, film transparencies, tape recordings, records, typewriters, cabinets, planetariums, models, maps, language laboratories, reading laboratories (text books, reference books, library books, guidance testing materials, business machines, clerical and office supplies).

"The materials and equipment will be utilized in all classes in the fields of social studies, science, math, English, humanities and vocational-oriented classes."

DeShazo said that Seminole County schools can expect to receive about $350,000 each year for the next two years. Next year's funds will be used to hire specially trained personnel to work with the educationally, culturally and socially deprived children.

Herbert Terry Condit of Sanford, who was killed in the early fighting in Vietnam, is mentioned on page 16 of "The Green Berets," a bestselling novel on the U.S. Special Forces.

A bridge will be improved by the county leading into a fish hatchery operated by the State Fish and Fresh Water Game Commission at Black Hammock. The commission plans to expand its hatchery there.

Death of Harry S. Hemmerle, 67, originally reported to be a heart attack, was changed to a coronary thrombosis on the death certificate, it was learned today.

Hemmerle's body was found in an apartment at 305 East First Street Sunday night.

Mrs. Kirby File Jr. and Mrs. Betty Flamm, niece of the deceased man, told The Herald that their uncle's body was removed from his apartment.

Telegraph Rate Goes Up Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Communications Commission has cleared the way for a three per cent boost in Western Union rates for telegrams and most other services, beginning Jan. 1 and continuing through June 30.

FCC officials said, however, the cost to the public for sending Western Union messages would be about the same because federal excise taxes on telegrams are being reduced Jan. 1.

Traffic Toll Seen 600

Millions of Americans prepared today for the start of the Christmas holidays. Home-bound travelers leaving through air and bus terminals. Churches scheduled special services for Christmas Eve. The National Safety Council said nearly all of the nation's 100 million motor vehicles will take to the highway during the holiday period.

The order made no mention of the recent offer by the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong, for a 12-hour Christmas Day truce so that the "season" could go "to church."

President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk had said that it was up to the commanders in Saigon whether to accept the Communist proposal.

U. S. forces in Viet Nam will not fire at or on the enemy except in self-defense during the hours of 1800-24 December and 2400-25 December, the announcement said.

Four crewmen were aboard the three planes lost and only two were known to have parachuted. The aircraft were two A-1 Skyhawks, each with a single pilot, and a two-man R4C Vigilante reconnaissance bomber — (very likely land-based at Sanford (Fla.) Naval Air Station).

The crew, it has been reported, were flying a U. S. plane first bombed the Uong Bi facility last Friday in an occasion of the air war.

Returning pilots from Wednesday's raid said fires raged throughout the plant and its buildings and heavy equipment were reduced to rubble. The SAM rocket struck the R4C, a U.S. spokesman said. The stricken plane parachuted drifted down over the Hai Phong area, itself. No rescue operations were launched.

Longwood Audit Is Ordered By Governor Burns

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Haydon Burns today ordered an audit made of all departments of the City of Longwood in Seminole County.

The Governor ordered the state audit upon request of the city's auditors, containing the signatures of 21 percent of the registered freeholders of the city.

He notified State Auditor Ernest Ellison that all costs of the audit must be borne by the City of Longwood.

State law permits state auditors to conduct audits upon request of the freeholders or on orders of the Governor, with a provision that the city can be required to foot the bill.

The Governor had delayed the audit until after the election from the city that all persons who signed the petition actually are registered freeholders of the city.

The audit will take quite a while to make and will cost between $1,000 and $5,000, Ellison said.

The petition bore 243 names and was sent to the Governor on Oct. 15 with a cover letter from Mayor B. E. Black asking for an audit of all city departments, including police and fire.

Flyers Seen To Bail Out

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. planes striking before a Christmas truce silence their guns, completed the destruction of a giant power plant in the Hai Phong area of Communist North Viet Nam, a military spokesman reported today. Three planes were shot down, one by a Russian-built (SAM) missile.

Special Forces men took an estimated Communist battalion near the North Vietnamese border and sent their reeling in defeat, it was disclosed today.

The ground fighting increased in intensity as the 30-hour Christmas truce approached and spokesmen announced a series of engagements in which from 810 to 350 Viet Cong were killed with light American and South Vietnamese losses.

They were identified as Lt. Cdr. Guy D. Johnson and Lt. (jg) Les E. Norwalk.

The Navy said the two Sanford-based officers are officially listed as "missing."

The Navy would not release the squadrons or ship from which the two officers were flying a Vigilante. They said this was classified information.

The next-of-kin or home-towns of the officers also was not released.
