By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The days of the rickety old Osteen Bridge elieved to be the last wooden bridge on a state road n Florida - are numbered.

Construction on the modern concrete $2.62 illion structure that will take its place, spanning the St. Johns River between Seminole and Volusia Counties, is ahead of schedule and expected to be ready in February 1977, according to State Department of Transportation (DOT) District Engineer C. E. Benedict. Benedict said Friday construction is 60 per cent complete while elapsed contract time to Houdaille Duval Wright, prime contractors from Jacksonville, is 50 per cent.

"It is currently 10 per cent ahead of schedule," Benedict said, adding however, "A lot can happen between now and February." The major factor which might slow down the construction progress. the engineer said, is weather - rain. It took 16 years of effort by local officials and supporters to get the project off the ground. A work order for the new bridge was issued by the DOT last July 2 and construction began July 14. included with construction of the 2,300 foot span are a 24-foot roadway from SR-46 on the south in-

Seminole County and on the Volusia County side from the new bridge to the existing road, SR-415. Row after row of concrete pilings are in place adjacent to the old bridge continuing in a straight line to SR-415 in Volusia, eliminating a wide curve.

The 44-foot wide bridge will have two 12 foot driving lanes with a 10-foot safety margin on each side. The total project, including entrance roads, covers 11/2 miles. In view of the new construction is the antiquated 50-year-old bridge to which steel guard rails were installed soon after a tragic accident in which five persons were drowned in October, 1974, when the van in which they were riding was rammed from behind by a truck and plunged into the river. The effort to replace the dangerous wood structure began in 1959 when former State Se Douglas Stenstrom was a legislator and chairman of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce's Long Range Planning Committee for the struction of roads and bridges.

- 14 Land Lang Strangers In a

At one point money was alloted by the state the construction, but when agreement could not be reached on the type of bridge desired, the funds were transferred to another county for another project.

During the days of the DOT's forerunner, i State Road Department, application was made to the U.S. Corps of Engineers for permission to build the new bridge in 1966. It took five years for the approval to be granted.

During the administrations of five different governors, from Fuller Warren, through LeRoy Collins, Haydon Burns, Claude Kirk and Reubin Askew, a new bridge was promised.

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - The Public Service Commission will be asked Monday to double pay telephone charges to 20 cents and to impose charges for calls to directory assistance. The PSC Rate Department urged the new charges Friday, saying they would reduce regular monthly bills.

Seminole telephone customers served by Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., would get the biggest break if the new charges are approved — a monthly reduction of 83 cents. The staff memo went to the commissioners as the General

Telephone Co., the state's second largest telephone utility, applied for a $71-million rate increase. GenTel, which received a $46.6 million increase last August blamed inflation for its need for a new increase. The proposal would raise home telephone bills by as much as 57 per cent to bring in $38.6 million of the boost. The rate hike will go into effect in 30 days unless the PSC suspends it. The commission almost always orders full studies of such hikes.

To Cut Food Stamp Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge, halting Ford administration efforts to take food subsidy benefits away from 4.14 million families, says the the Department of Agriculture has no authority to design a widespread eorganization of the U.S. food stamp program. The ruling, upholding a preliminary injunction against implementing the new regulations, is likely to be followed by a permanent injunction, predicted Judge John Lewis Smith in U.S. District Court. "Enormous administrative burdens would accompany the regulatory provisions ... on a human level, hunger and deprivation might result - which could hardly be cured through any retroactive relief the court or defendants would provide," Smith said in his ruling Friday. The decision probably will be appealed to U.S. Circuit Court, and if the govenment loses again there, the Justice Department is expected to take the suit to the Supreme Late Friday night the speeding probe received its orders from Earth, leaving it up to a computer on board to guide Viking through the crucial maneuver. Mission Director Tom Young described it as a "onetime opportunity" for the Viking, launched 10 months ago, to achieve orbit. Though considered highly unlikely, a failure at this point could send the robot craft hurtling past the planet into oblivion.

Beef Procedures Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department has announced procedures for hearings on the Beef Research and Information Act recently passed by Congress. Officials said Friday it probably will be another year before the program can be put into effect. The measure, signed into law on May 28, provides that cattle producers themselves will finance projects aimed at improving the supply of beef and promoting its consumption. The USDA said comments on the program and requests for copies of the hearing procedures can be directed to the Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250, through July 23.

Food Standards Seminar Set

WASHINGTON (AP) - A national seminar on U.S. participation in international food standards will be held at the Agriculture Department on Aug. 3 and 4. Officials said the meeting will include discussions on the goals of the international program and will assess the U.S.

position in it. The program is under the auspieces of the Codex Alimentarius Commission, established in 1963 by the Food and Agricultural Organization of the United Nations and the World Health Organization. Officials said the program is intended "to protect the health and welfare of consumers, and to promote world trade in food and food products through the international standardization of food."

Widow Awarded Damages

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)-A federal judge has ordered the government to pay $269,441 to the widow and two children of a pilot who was killed in an FBI shootout with an airplane hijacker.

U.S. District Court Judge L. Clure Morton ordered the government Friday to pay the money to Mrs. Brent Quinton Downs, who had filed a $2.5 million civil suit against the government.

Downs, a private pilot, was killed in October 1971 when he landed at a Jacksonville airport. He had been ordered at gunpoint to fly from Nashville to Jacksonville by George M. Giffe Jr.

Prison Programs Rapped

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) - Robert Carr III was "a guy who cried for help while in prison for sex crimes but couldn't get it because the prison programs were completely inadequate," says a former inmate and drug counselor at a Connecticut prison.

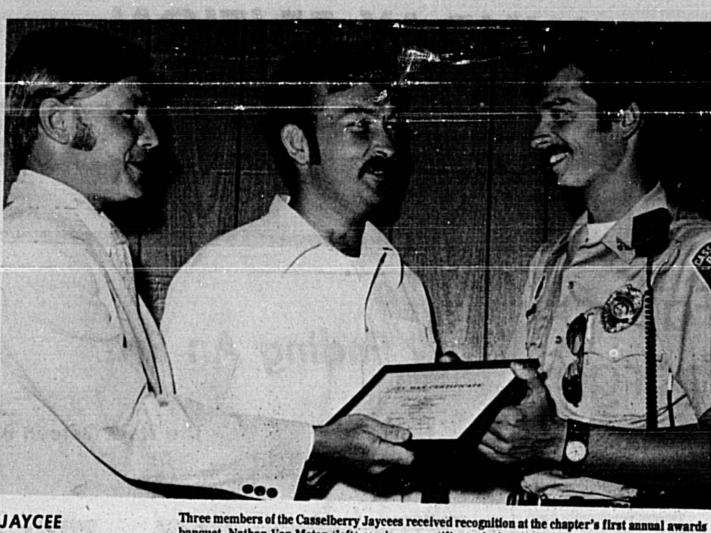

Joseph Chialastki, paroled on a drug possession conviction, counseled inmates while serving a sentence at the state prison in Somers. Carr has led Florida authorities to gravesites in Mississipi, Louisiana and Connecticut where persons Carr claims he killed were buried.

Zeigler Prosecution Witness

Says Gun Was Pointed At Him

JACKSONVILLE (AP) - A prosecution witness says he may have been meant as a fifth victim of a bloody Christmas Eve shooting at the Winter Garden furniture store of W.T. "Tommy" Zeigler Jr. Edward Williams, 58, testified Friday that Zeigler aimed a gun at him in the rear of the store last Dec. 24. "He snapped it three times," Williams said. "Pop. Pop. "I said 'Tommy, don't kill me!' Then I ran out the back

Union Chief Airs Job Fears

JACKSONVILLE (AP) - If the U.S. Postal Service goes under and is taken over by private enterprise, many workers are likely to lose their jobs, says Francis Filbey, president of the American Postal Workers Union. "If the Postal Service goes under, we will go with it,"

Filbey, of Baltimore, told a convention of Florida postal workers Friday. He said more than 75 members of the House of Representatives, several senators and even President Ford favor turning the agency over to private business.

GOP Panel Snubs Sims

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - A Republican committee has introduced U.S. Senate candidate John Grady to some wellheeled special interests that could provide campaign But, it was reported Friday, Grady's Republican primary opponent was not invited to the meeting, which was supposed to be for all GOP Senate candidates. Roland Page, Washington correspondent for the New York Times Florida newspapers, reported that Grady was invited to the affair sponsored by the Republican Senate campaign committee but not state Sen. Walter Sims, R-Orlando.

Disclosure Bill Session Urged

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Secretary of State Bruce Smathers is urging Gov. Reubin Askew to call a special session of the legislature to pass a law requiring the reporting of unsolicited campaign expenditures. Smathers urged the session, an idea that Askew has aiready once rejected, in a Friday letter to the governor "There can be no price tag on the integrity of our election system and Florida's tradition of open, honest elections with the public's right to know who-gave-it-whogot-it," Smathers said in the letter.

Congressmen Back Carter

WASHINGTON (AP) - Jimmy Carter has won the endorsement of Florida's 12 congressional Democrats for his surging presidential bid. A letter signed by Sens. Richard Stone and Lawton Chiles and the state's 10 Democratic representatives said Friday that the delegation believes the former Georgia governor "has won the support and approval of the country as the candidate best qualified to be the Democratic nominee for president of the United States and the next president." They cited Carter's "character, dedication to the nation's welfare and the high ideals" needed in a president and pledged their support.

Suspect Held In Bombing

MIAMI (AP) - A convicted bomber who escaped from a state prison two months ago was back in custody today and was being held for questioning in the bombing of a Cuban radio newsman, officials said.

Hector Cornillot Llano, 37, a Cuban exile like the newsman, was arrested Friday in Miami on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid confinement, the FBI said. Cornillot offered no resistance when police and FBI agents nabbed him as he emerged from an apartment, police said. He had escaped from the Glades Correctional Institution at Belle Glade on April 19 while serving a 30year term for a 1968 bombing in Miami Beach.

State Audit Scores FAMU

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Citing major inadequacies in accounting records, a state audit has criticized Florida A&M University for violating laws on purchasing and leasing procedures.

The audit Friday was the latest in a series of critical reports on the school, although Auditor General Ernest Ellison did note some areas in which FAMU had made improvements over previous years in its records. Auditors said they uncovered the purchase of 11 items which were in excess of $1,000 each but for which officials failed to get bids as required by law. Two other bids for items over $2,000 were advertised but not for the required 10 days, the audit charged.

Violations Connections Denied

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - House Appropriations Chairman Edmond Fortune says there's no connection between the elimination of 74 Division of Hotels and Restaurants positions and an agency finding three years "Truthfully, there was no reason for me to abolish those positions because of an inspection they gave me three years ago," Fortune, D-Pace, said Friday. "If I was going to do that I would have done it years ago." The eight violations were reported July 16, 1973 by in-

Congress Ignores Economic Data

Julius Shishkin, the director of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, went to Capitol Hill as the bearer of good news. The American economy created 710,000 new jobs in April, raising total employment to a record 87.4 million. As Shiskin told the Joint Economic Committee of Congress, the rate of employment growth over the last year has been unprecedented.

In fact, Shiskin is of the opinion that it's time to stop referring to the state of the economy as "recovery." We have moved past recovery, as he sees it, into a "growth stage." In employment levels and the gross national product, the economy now is producing more than it was before the recession began.

Every economist has his own method of drawing conclusions from economic statistics. No economist would ignore them altogether, however, and we are wondering if Congress is listening when Shiskin and others provide their data. The budget targets emerging from Congress for the 1976-77 fiscal year seem to be based on old sets of figures and old disproved theories.

House and Senate budget committees have agreed to set $413.3 billion as their target for the federal budget for the fiscal year beginning next Oct. 1. That's $17.5 billion higher than what President Ford proposed in January, calling for an incredible deficit of more than $50 billion. And the excuse offered for this indulgence in deficit spending is that the economy is going to need "stimulating" in 1977.

True enough, Americans right now are joining the labor force in numbers that have kept the official unemployment rate from falling below 7.5 per cent. The economic growth which has taken hold will have to become stronger in order to whittle down that figure, but with the momentum evident in the performance of the last few months, there is reason to believe that such strength will materialize.

Another statistic that Congress may be ignoring comes from the inflation indicators. Wholesale prices which had held steady for five months jumped by eight-tenths of a percentage point in April, foreshadowing increases in retail prices later this year. The relief from inflation which consumers have welcomed - a relatively mild 2.9 per cent increase in retail prices for the first quarter of this year - may be in jeopardy.

To program a $50-billion excess into the budget is inflationary. Congress can take another look at prospective spending programs before setting a final budget ceiling Sept. 15. The next four months also gives members of Congress time to take a closer look at what is happening in the real world of the U.S. economy, if they only would do so.

Asking Too Much

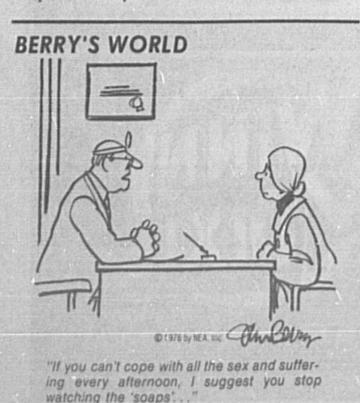

The gap between the industrialized countries and the les developed world is more than an economic one. It was obvious at the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development at Nairobi that they also are far apart on ideas for reforming their trade and investment relations

If the failures of the UNCTAD conference can be put in a utshell, it is that the poorer countries are looking for simple solutions to problems made complex by the fact they deal with diverse nations and a variety of commodities. Thus the Third World delegates proposed an ambitious stockpiling and priceindexing scheme to stabilize the market for the 10 major commodities they export, while the United States, Japan and Western Europe insist in a case by case approach, with the sound argument that it is now working for three commodities coffee, cocoa and tin.

The developing countries also want a broad commitment to cancel or defer debts which inflation and high energy prices are making it impossible for them to pay. Again, the response from the other side is to treat such problems on a country-by-country

Even the advanced nations - the Europeans in particular - had trouble agreeing among themselves on a common approach to the economic problems of their less developed trading

UNCTAD seemed to show that while it is convenient for the sake of rhetoric to divide the world into blocs of "rich" and "poor" nations, it is not so easy to lump them into such categories for trade relations between individual nations in a ompetitive marketplace.

The first bunch of highly touted management courses for top-level supervisors in county government are ending with some county employes omplaining the courses were a waste of time. "It (the course) turned into a joke," said one topranking county officer. "I would attend the course and ask myself. 'What am I doing here?'" Some 50 to 55 employes trooped into the classroom, hoping to have some managerial expertise laid on them. Before the course ended one director said only five people were still, faithfully, attending taxpayer-financed classes. The problem, one supervisor says, was that the course material did not relate to county government. Instead it was geared to management in industry, which is different in many, many ways from municipal government. The courses cost $10 per employe, and were conducted by Seminole Community College (SCC). In addition books for the first round of courses were $5 25 aniece.

BILL CURRIE Mosquitoes Everyone's Problem

The 'blind mosquito' plague that has hit the City of Sanford lately, particularly along the waterfront of Lake Monroe, should not be considered a problem just for those property owners affected. It is a problem for the entire county - and perhaps for the entire State of Florida. At a panel discussion on the problem last week, moderated by Florida Rep. Vince Fechtel (R-Leesburg), it came as a great surprise to many people to learn that Seminole County has no equipment whatsoever for spraying against either the blind mosquitoes (more commonly known as midges) or the biting kind.

Too, it was considered by some present at the meeting that the only way to finance mosquito controls along the waterfront, especially the areas beyond the city limits, would be to establish a special taxing district. This didn't set too well with many people in attendance at the meeting, and rightly so. After all, Sanford is the county seat of Seminole County and many persons who have county business travel the waterfront route to get to the county courthouse and other county offices and facilities.

Further, how can anyone say it isn't a county problem when a farmer, who lives outside the city limits, told members of a special committee named to come up with alternative plans for controlling the pests that he is losing as many as eight head of cattle per week because their nostrils get clogged up with the insects and the animals simply suffocate?

The courses were so generally disliked that one director said it would be best to drop the series and start over.

County Personnel Director Ron Thames earlier this week met with officials at the college to see about "restructuring" future courses.

The program was set up by Bob Andrew, who recently resigned his $22,000-a-year position with the county. At the time the courses were approved by county commissioners, Bob Ellis was the commission's acting administrative assistant.

Queried about the course, Ellis explained, "It could have been better, and I've been in better courses. But I went through the series and I got a lot out of it." -

Ellis, an eternal optimist, admitted, however, that county officials are attempting to restructure the course content so it will relate more to county government and its own unique problems. Ellis said about 25 persons in his section com-

JOHN D. LOFTON JR. Wallace Sells Out To Carter WASHINGTON - One hates to be the pooper

n the midst of Jimmy Carter's party with his fellow Democrats, but to me, of all those folks breaking their necks last week to clamber aboard Mr. Peanut's floating shell game, the most revolting sight was seeing the pack being led by Alabama Gov. George Corley Wallace. Pardon the indelicacy of my question, but what the hell happened to all those differences over very significant issues that Wallace said he had with Carter? When asked what he had demanded from Carter in return for his requesting that his 168 delegates support the former Georgia governor, Wallace's reply was astounding. "The only agreement that I ever talked to Gov. Carten about was that he would do the best he could. with the resources at his command, to make all the people of our nation one of the finer Presidents," he answered.

Wallace said that in the heat of the campaign he'd called Carter a liar, but added: "We've got to overlook many things. He'll make a fine candidate."

Mrs. Wallace cooed that her husband respects Carter "so much and, of course, he's a Southerner too - and that means a lot." Well, the mind boggles. I mean, even Judas

Iscariot, when he sold out, did so for something angible! Besides, I wouldn't believe Jimmy Carter on a stack of his own autobiographies even if he said he'd try to be one of our finer Presidents. But then maybe Gov. Wallace got BALANCED the city's budget, and REDUCED him to cross his heart. Wallace tells us that when it comes to Carter

Gov. Wallace also zeroed in on Carter's double-talk about national defense. Wallace observed that Carter had said he was for a strong America while at the same time advocating a cut of several billion dollars in the defense budget. On the subject probably the dearest to Wallace's heart, the federal bureaucracy those "brief-case totin', pointy-headed intellectual guideline writers who can't park their'. bicycles straight" - both he and Carter are also at odds. Wallace wants to cut back Big Government; Carter has said he only wants to 'reorganize" it, conceding that this could mean even more federal employes.

On the Vietnam War, Wallace supported it and our fighting men: Carter, slandering the more than 50,000 Americans who died in this onflict, now says it was a "racist war" because he doesn't think "we would have ever bombed or the ERDA contracts. Hamburg and Dresden, Germany, were levelled by American bombers, killing nearly 200,000 people, more than twice as many as died at Hiroshima.

Just a few weeks ago, in an interview in the Christian Science Monitor, Wallace campaign manager Charles Snider said that his boss would ever, under any circumstances, throw his delegate support to Jimmy Carter at the contracting. But he denied that the two of them Why? Because, said Snider, Carter is "a new breed of George McGovern," just "as liberal as McGovern" and he is completely unacceptable.

Well, this has now happened. South African Riots Subside

After 101 Persons Are Killed JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) - The worst racial conflict in South Africa's history has subsided, police said, leaving an estimated 101 persons dead and nore than 1,000 injured.

"Some arson, some looting" was still being reported in ring of segregated black townships around Johannesburg, Police Minister James T. Kruger said Friday night. But there was "no reason to worry at all," and police were in control, Kruger declared on national

"We will not be intimidated and will maintain law and rder at all costs," Prime Minister John Vorster told the South African parliament Friday after three days o bloody uprisings.

Mercenaries Trial Ends

LUANDA, Angola (AP) - The trial of 13 mercenaries came to a dramatic close today as Tony Callan admitted guilt in the massacre of 14 British mercenaries and the killing of an Angolan soldier and a civilian.

"I am responsible, I gave the order for that execution and no one else. I realize the consequences. OK?" Callan told the five-member Angolan people's tribunal after a sudden change of heart about defending himself. He had previously refused to answer any questions in

Presiding Judge Ernesto da Silva said sentencing of the 10 British and three American mercenaries would take place next week. The prosecution is demanding death by firing squad for all the accused.

Italian Elections Begin

ROME (AP) - After a campaign marked by bitterness and violence right up to election eve, Italian voters go to the polls Sunday and Monday to decide whether to give the Communist party the share of power it has sought for three decades.

Although nine national parties are vying for 630 chamber and 315 senate seats, the election is being viewed around the world as a plebiscite on Italian-style communism. The increasingly popular Italian Communists are trying to unseat the Christian Democrats, who have ruled for 30 years.

Campaigning ended Friday. The 40 million Italians were given one quiet day to decide how to cast their votes.

NEW YORK (AP) - Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's landmark decision, voiding the $3.5 million sale of three Oakland A's players, seems certain to land baseball back into the nation's courtrooms-a playing field where the game has not fared terribly well recently.

"We will be taking it to court Monday," stormed Oakland Owner Charles O. Finley, who called Kuhn's dec sion "very stupid," and said the commissioner "sounds like the village idiot." Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association, said he also might take legal action.

"We're considering it," he said. "Obviously, we're not going to stand still while the powers that be attempt to ruin the careers of three players." Kuhn acknowledged that he expected his decision returning pitchers Vida Blue and Rollie Fingers and outfielder Joe Rudi to the A's would be tested in court.

"There is a clear-cut possibility of litigation," said Kuhn, looking strained after two days o wrestling with the sales of Blue to the New York Yankees and Fangers and Rudi to the Boston Red Sox. "Both New York and Oakland have indicated they would test the decision by litigation." "We went by the baseball rule book," said Dick O'Connell, general manager of the Red Sox, "How he can go against it is incomprehensible. In the future, when clubs want to make a player deal, who

Kuhn Pulls A Boo-Boo

Bowie Kuhn has made a big mistake! That might seem like a rather bold statement. but it is our feeling that the major league baseball commissioner has overstepped his bounds in nullifying the sale of three Oakland A's players. On Friday afternoon, Kuhn took it upon himself to void the sale of Joe Rudi and Rollie Fingers to the Boston Red Sox for $1 million apiece and Vida Blue to the New York Yankees for $1.5 million.

While we haven't always agreed with Oakland owner Charlie O. Finley in the past, we certainly feel it was his right to make any transaction he could for the three, all of whom were unsigned and who will become free agents at the conclusion of the 1976 season.

Finley said he had tried right up until six hours before the trading deadline (midnight, June 15) to make a trade for the three players involved, but there were no takers.

So, he put them on the open market and the Red Sox and Yankees came forth with their buiging check books and purchased the players for cash something that's done every day in professional sports.

If Kuhn's decision to void the transactions is upheld in a court of law, where it's sure to land as early as Monday, Finley will not only be out the $3.5 million, he'll also be missing the three prime players when the 1977 season rolls around. And that's ridiculous.

When a baseball player signs a contract, he becomes the property of the signing organization. However, when major league players fail to come to terms with the club for a given season, they take an automatic pay cut and are declared free agents at the conclusion of that season and their services are up for grabs to the highest bidder - such as Catfish Hunter was two years ago when he signed with the Yankees for millions and left Finley holding the bag.

A major league club owner has a lot invested in his players and it should be his right to deal with whomever he wants for whatever amount he can get when it comes to either trading or selling player contracts

Kuhn's decision to void the sales of the three players was reportedly based on the theory that it was "an effort to maintain the equality of competition.

This is hogwash!

Remember when the A's were in Kansas City, before Charlie O. took possession of the club? Every baseball fan in the world considered the A's just another farm club for the Yankees, 'cause invariably every time an outstanding player would emerge on the A's roster, he'd be shipped off to the Yankees.

Roger Maris was a prime example. After all, when he wore a Yankee uniform after being traded from Kansas City to New York, all he did was 5-0 third inning deficit to win it smash 61 home runs, eclipsing the miracle record with attacks of five, three, of 60 that Babe Ruth had held for so many years.

And while Maris was enroute to the record Atlantic National 000 5-6 Angeles-and it's a good thing for the New York Mets. number of homers, every park in which the Seminole Petroleum 408 3-17 Yankees played was packed to capacity as every fan wanted to see Maris as he streaked to the record

That wasn't good for baseball?

Also at stake, in addition to Finley's $3.5 million, are the careers of the players involved. Is Finley going to use them in Oakland games while the litigation goes on and take a chance of them getting hurt, thus deleting their value to his or any other club?

You bet he isn't! He'd be foolish if he did. It is our firm belief that Finley, the Red Sox and Yankees all abided by the rule book in making the transactions and that Kuhn has no legitimate of 15 runs were scored in a tworeason for nullifying the sales. We've seen Kuhn come up with some rather We've seen Kuhn come up with some rather questionable decisions in the past since becoming questionable decisions in the past since becoming Publicly, the Yankees had no official comment on Kuhn's decision which the commissioner made under the broad interpretation of his authority to act in the game's best interests as outlined in Article 1, Section 4 of the Major League Agreement. But Finley, who has tangled with Kuhn repeatedly, had plenty to say. Finley said his attorneys were preparing for legal actions against Kuhn. The commissioner said he decided to void the deals because of his concern for maintaining public confidence in the integrity of baseball. "I am concerned over the prospect of affluent clubs such as Boston and New York acquiring for sums as high as $31/2 million, players in the prime of their careers," he said. "Inevitably there are all kinds of suspicions when players change hands for such large sums."

The commissioner called his decision "an effort to maintain the equality of competition." Without Blue, Fingers and Rudi, he said he would be concerned about "the skills of the Oakland ball club and the competitive factor in the game." Kuhn made his decision after summoning Finley.

Braves Sale Blocked

Owner Paul Snyder, blocked by a state court from selling his National Basketball Association Buffalo Braves to a Florida buyer, has received pernission to negotiate with a local group interested in

William B. Lawless, special counsel to the city of Buffalo in its legal actions against the NBA and the team, told the Braves on Friday they would not be in contempt of the state court by talking with the local businessmen.

teacher. Mack Phelps is the teaching pro at Sabal Palm Club. After 10 years as a pro Phelps admitted that he was more taken with the mechanics of the swing than he was his own play. Phelps watched, studied, read, analyzed and found that he could ommunicate his observations into performance in others. He made a decision to become a teaching pro. That decision was made 42 years ago. Mack Phelps can shoot his age now and he has been able to do it since May 1, 1974. Phelps will be 75 on August 23. He shot a 72 at Honey Creek Country Club in Conyers, Ga., so it's a matter of choice that Phelps teaches instead of tours.

Phelps became more proud of his performance in getting other aspirants scholarships than he was with his course performance. One of those he taught and helped become good enough for a college scholarship was his step-son Bill Sommer. Sommer attended the University of Miami on a golf scholarship and is still a golf nut - but also a good businessman.

Bill Sommer is a principal, along with Paul Callahan, in the Sabal Palm Club. They are now starting on their third year of operating the facility under a lease type agreement with Barnett-Winston of Jacksonville.

In May of 1975, after a year of operating the golf course and facility, Callahan and Sommer saw a great need to have a strong and effective teaching pro for Sabal Palm. Sommer remembered the step-dad who had labored long and hard to instill the golf game in him and who had been effective in his efforts. The group turned to the twice retired Phelps, who at the time was thinking of retirement for the third time.

Phelps was, at the time, the teaching pro for Highland Golf Club in Convers, north of the Atlanta area. Phelps had been at Highland for 11 years and gained a lot of attention by touring a course not his own in a blistering 72 at age 72. Callahan and Sommer had to have Phelps for the promising Sabal Palm Club. It was not easy for Phelps to decide to come back to Florida. He had spent 14 years in the Ft. Lauderdale-Pompano Beach area before going to Georgia. He had relocated and had paid his dues. He was 45 miles from the Atlanta Country Club, where the U.S. Open is now being held, but he had members making that drive for private lessons. His following was excellent and he was teaching as he pleased.

Sabal Palm gave Phelps carte blanche to come to Florida. He was offered any phase of the club he wanted or thought he could handle. Phelps has now settled down in the organization and has opted to do only that which has been rewarding to him personally for 42 years. He is a teaching pro. .

At 75 Phelps looks and acts much younger, but he has patience. He handles youth golf on the kids' levels - except for his patience. Quickly he changed the lessons from twice a week for five weeks to once a week for 10 weeks. He changed tournament play for the youth from weekly to bi-weekly for the entire

There is still time to enter the youth golf program at Sabal Palm and reap great rewards, but Phelps wants his pupils to be patient. Phelps sees no reason to hit a ball unless it has meaning in personal form. Phelps sees no reason to leave the short irons, the 9 or the wedge, until there is meaning in its use. Yet Phelps is totally committed to having the full range of instruction, in- OF SANFORD cluding irons, putter and woods during the summer, including taking the group out on the course for briefing, jargon lessons and an introduction to the rules of golf.

Phelps has beginners every Tuesday and Thursday at 8 a.m. followed by advanced at 10 a.m. Both classifications get tournament play every other Monday morning under the auspices of

As for Phelps, he slips away every Sunday and plays golf at another course.

Junior golf gets under way at Mayfair Country Club next fuesday under Bill Osetek. A clinic approach will be used by Osetek and it will be available for all ages.

There will be five clinics, the first getting under way at 9 a.m. after registration next Tuesday. The clinics will include driving and fairway woods, irons, chipping and putting. The groups will be divided according to the age and experience of the participants, but all groups will conclude with a tournament with

During the learning sessions, Osetek will film each participant, have the film developed, then show it to each participant on an individual basis.

Cost will be $12 for each participant, which will be used to pay for prizes, etc. During lessons there will be an unlimited supply of golf bails.

If you are new to the area or if you have been toying with the idea of a trial membership in Mayfair Country Club, now is a good time. Summer membership is now available for $50. That will give the summer member unlimited golf on weekdays at a beautiful, open course with almost unbelievable greens.

Mayfair will hold a mixed net tournament for Sue Pierce next weekend, with 60 per cent going to Sue and 40 per cent for prizes. Sue takes care of the Mayfair Clubhouse where she is assistant manager. She fell two weeks ago and fractured a veterbrae. She has been in Florida Hospital for some time now and is expected to remain for another 10 days or so. Play in the tournament can be either Saturday, June 26, or Sunday, June 27.

Sabal Palm Men's Golf Association will hold its annual dinner-dance Saturday, June 26. Cocktails are 7-8 p.m.; dinner served 8; dancing 9-1 a.m. Cost is $10 per person on a first-come basis since only 100 tickets are available.

Eagles are flying at Mayfair. George Billups eagled the par four first hole last week. Get this, though. His drive landed in the trap on the left side of the fairway. He used a 3 iron from the trap. Speed Moreland, playing in the twilight league Tuesday evening eagled the par five 12th hole.

Tosses Totter To Plate At 65 MPH

Junk Pitcher Jones Is Tough

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

SAN DIEGO, Calif. - On the first Sunday in May, a crisp day in Pittsburgh, Randall Leo Jones of the San Diego Padres revealed the style that makes him the most baffling pitcher in major league baseball.

From his slightly elevated command post in the niddle of Three Rivers Stadium, Randy looked at the menacing bulk of Willie Stargell, poised with a bludgeon in his powerful fists, only 60 feet 6 inches

Randy didn't look down because Willie's 6 feet 3 inches (carrying 220 pounds) made up the difference the mound gave to Randy, who is 5-10. There were two Pirate runners on base and nobody out in the ninth inning. Willie, who is within range of 400 home runs for his career, could be the tying run. "I threw him a slider away for a strike," recalls Randy vividly. "I came right back with a fast ball on the outside corner for a strike. Right around the knees. It surprised him." Then the chunky lefthander wasted a slider that was so wide Stargel wouldn't bite at it. He wasted another slider as Willie waited impassively for a good pitch. With the count 2-and-2, Randy changed the grip slightly on the ball cradled in his glove. He kicked, whirled and rotated the ball sharply off his fingertips. Stargell strode and whipped his bat in an arc at the same time. As it reached the outside edge of the plate, the ball dipped sharply under the swing. Strike three! "That was the big out," remembers manager

John McNamara of the Padres. "He didn't give in to him and he got the ball where he wanted to. It was the work of a master craftsman." He also won the game.

By the end of May, Randy Jones had won 10 games, as much as any pitcher in the history of the National League at that early point of the season. Coupled with the 20-12 season he had last year for a team which lost 20 games more than it won, the performance is brilliant - especially for an unimposing lefthander who has frequently been slurred as having something less than a major league arm.

There is this fetish about velocity of pitcnes, especially prevalent in southern California, where the delivery of Nolan Ryan of the Angels has been timed at speeds approaching 95 miles per hour. Randy's best pitches totter up to the plate at a snail-like 65 mph.

"People don't realize," says Randy placidly, "my special pitch, the one that got me to the big leagues and is making me a success, is called a sinker ball. The thing about a sinker ball, it's now how hard you throw; it's the movement. I get the most movement from 65 to 75 miles per hour. I really think 75 is too hard to get maximum movement.

Manager McNamara backs him up:

"If you can't throw strikes where you want them, it doesn't matter how hard you throw the ball. It's getting to a point where people say, 'With his kind of stuff...' This guy has very good stuff. "He can crank the ball up when he has to (Randy estimates his fast ball at 80 mph). But he lives with his sinker and also his slider. He has good control and keeps the ball below the belt. What more can you ask? I'd rather have five Randy Joneses than a guy who can't keep the ball in the batting cage." Jones, who's 26 years old and in his fourth major

Although he had been an All-American at Chapman College in his native southern California,

"A lot of people, my coaches, told me I didn't have a chance at pro ball," remembers Randy. If somebody had told me in '72 when I was about to sign that I'd be where I am today I would have told them, 'You're crazy.' Maybe more lewd than also smoke cigarettes, even during games, in the runways behind dugouts. Tobacco chewing persists in baseball because of tradition. Wes Ferrell, a fine pitcher of the 1930s, had a career batting average of .280. Babe Ruth also hit over .300 as a pitcher, but no one has broken down his statistics to determine precisely what he hit during his days on the mound. In 1972, the last year before the American League instituted the designated hitter, Sonny Siebert's .236 average for the Boston Red Sox was the highest among pitchers who went to bat at least 50 times. Sonny had played the outfield early in his minor league career.

Q. Back in 1972 I met Phillies catcher John Bateman on a TV program. At the end of that season he just seemed to drop out of sight. I have checked all club rosters but he isn't listed. What happened to him? - Vince Kincade, Norristown, Pa.

Bateman, a catcher with a decade's experience in the majors, was released unconditionally by the Phillies in January, 1973, and not picked up by any team. Q. Since Dick Gallagher has retired as director of the Pro Football Hall of Fame, who has taken his place? -

C.S., Canton, Ohio. No one as yet. Gallagher, after a distinguished career as a coach and general manager and director of the Ohio. Meanwhile, Don Smith and John Bankert, two fine young administrators, have kept the Hall running smoothly until some decision is made on a successor. Q. I am currently enrolled in a class entitled the Sociology of Sports at the University of Cincinnati and researching an empirical paper on racial discrimination in sports, focusing on financial aid received by high school athletes. I've hypothesized that the black athlete must be of exceptional talent before he is offered financial assistance. Is there any way to find out the number of athletes in the greater Cincinnati area in the last three to five years who have received financial assistance for their college education? Also, their ethnic background. -Stanley Staiger, Cincinnati, Ohio. I'm sure the city Board of Education can help you compile a fairly comprehensive list by querying the athletic departments at the various schools in the city.

Good luck on your project. That insatiable monster, television, is still trying te hype soccer as a mass interest sport in this country. And despite intense interest in such pockets as San Jose and Seattle I don't think it'll work because soccer has no seasonal slot available for American fan consumption. Got a tough question about sports and the people who play them? All you got to do is ask Murray Olderman. Write him care of this newspaper. The most interesting questions will be answered in this column. Olderman regrets that he cannot write personal answers to all questions.

Speed World Reopens

Speed World, the popular three eighths-mile stock car track eopened Friday night. Seminole County resident Dennis Meredeth will promote the show in conjunction with Billy Herndon. Herndon owns the facility, which also includes the Central Florida Dragway. Meredeth explained that races will start promptly at 8:30 each Friday night with three classes running. The exciting late models will share the show with the limited models and the crowd-pleasing hobby cars which will either be called thunder or tornado cars.

Unlike when the track was last open, it will no longer be running under the NASCAR sanction. The track will still run cars under the safety rules set forth by NASCAR. The weight difference in the late models will change from 9.5 pounds per cubic inch to 9 pounds and they will allow the smaller Camaro's to run.

Many of Florida's top race drivers were on hand to open the track which went through a lot of work in order to be ready for this season. There are plenty of good seats, concession stands and rest room facilities. The track is located on East SR-50 right next to Central Florida Dragway in Bithlo.

Meredeth stated that many of the Auburndale drivers will bring their cars over as well as many of the Volusia County Speedway drivers. He said he wouldn't be surprised to see over 100 cars sitting in the spacious pits.

Ernie Bass, the defending champion at Speed World, is sure to be on hand often in his Auburndale point-leading Chevelle. David Rogers, the point leader at Volusia County Speedway until last Saturday night when he decided to run at Auburndale instead, is also expected to run. Florida State NASCAR champion Gene Evans now has an asphalt car built by Bobby Allison and might skip: the dirt show in Lake City to run here.

Many of the Sanford and Seminole County racers who now run dirt are planning on making a few of the hard top events in the near future. Harold Sargent will be the only late model driver with a car set up to run on asphalt as he has been running on the black top the last month at Inverness.

Ed Meredith, the youngster from Longwood, won the first race ever run at Speed World and is all set to go back and take up where he left off when the track closed down. Bill Maples also of Longwood ran quite well on the asphalt and can be expected to give Meredith a battle for the checkered flag.

downtown Sanford along West First Street. At the Park Avenue intersection, the sidewalks swell out slowing the flow of traffic. Green trees arch overhead forming a gateway, an entrance. "You have arrived," they say. "Enter our charming historical town." Beyond, people throng the wide, shady sidewalks. Cars still park at the curbside, they still ease down the street - but it is the people, the sidewalks, the store fronts you notice. See the bright awnings sheltering the shoppers? The attractive signboards? The clean, colorful old buildings? You follow the blue arrows to the landscaped parking lot back of First Street, linger in the quaint alley which leads back to the main drag, and pause for a moment before an unusual memorial. It is a large handsome clock. The inscription tells you that it was once an historical landmark at the First Street-Park Avenue intersection and it has been relocated in a place of honor among the greenery of a streetside mini park. What a nice idea, you think. Shopping in a town like this - a town that cares about the past and has beautified it for future generations - is going to be fun. You resolve to tell your friends about it. Ingeniously, the atmosphere of restored downtown Sanford transports you back to an era when buildings had charm, when storekeepers knew the value of friendly service, when the pace was leisurely.

No, I am not dreaming. And yes, this could be Sanford, five years from now. After attending the general assembly meeting of the Downtown Development Corporation (DDC) Tuesday night, and after viewing a slide presentation of what has been accomplished in comparable cities, I know with utter certainty it can happen in Sanford.

Not overnight. Not even a year from now. Bu the first visible signs of redevelopment will surely be there in two years' time. Rome was not built in a day, nor did its empire crumble in 24 hours. The rot set in decades ago in Sanford. We're going to have to be patient a while longer to see it routed and have faith in the vision, energy, commitment - and caution - of our DDC board.

The key to saving our downtown - to arresting the decay and gradually restoring activity and prosperity - is to move from modest beginnings to total, ambitious commitment.

The DDC board agrees with this concept of small beginnings leading to greater things - and so does the general membership, judging by the enthusiasm with which they agreed the proposal to make a start on a model area along the north side of First Street.

A local architects cooperative will be instructed to draw up some schematics to show what improvements can be made. After that, it will be up to the individuals along the model block. Nobody is going to be asked to lay a fortune on the line, or to rebuild their stores from the ground up. The idea, rather, is to enhance what is already there. A pail of soapy water and pot of paint will be sufficient to work the first miracles. Then some signs will need making over; some canopies redesigning; most window displays upgrading. The corporation, and individual merchants and property owners along the model block will pool resources to this end.

Then there are the sidewalks. Look at First Street today, and all you see is street - acres of black asphalt and very little else. But widen the sidewalks, screen them from the road with trees, planters, benches and bright kiosks. . . and suddenly you have created an attractive beckoning environment, a "people place."

Naturally, when you start tampering with streets and sidewalks, the city has to be consulted. But according to City Manager Warren Knowles, the city fathers are eager to help. Even though the mayor and commissioners have met with zero cooperation from private businessmen in the past, they are willing to let bygones be bygones and pitch in behind the DDC with their full support. No one expects the City to finance downtown development, of course. That would hardly be fair to the other commercial districts, nor to the taxpayers in general. But Knowles is convinced that the DDC will have the City's backing to go ahead and make the necessary changes.

After the model block is restored and beautified, then comes the rest of the historical district. And perhaps a tree-lined street closed to traffic between the courthouse and the new city hall, footpaths and bicycle trails along the lakefront, craft shops and specialty restaurants on the marina. .

No, I'm not dreaming.

Sanford gloried in the national spotlight twice this week. It was announced Tuesday that the Sanford Commercial District has been nominated for inclusion in the national register of historical places. This really puts our small town on the

Also, the Bicentennial News, the official publication of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, reports on the city's beautification attempts along the Lake Monroe seawall. "The flowering seawall beautification task will result in a colorful lakefront from Mellonville Avenue to the Central Florida Zoo," the report reads. Credit is given to the Woman's Club and Junior Woman's Club, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, Garden Club and "other civic and private organizations" for working together to make this Bicentennial project a success.

What Is A Father? Poem Says It All

A father is a thing that is forced to endure childbirth without an anesthetic. A father is a thing that growls when it feels good-and laughs when it's scared half to death. He never feels entirely worthy of the worship in a child's eyes. He's never quite the hero his daughter thinks. never quite the man his son believes him to be . . . and this worries him, sometimes.

So he works too hard to try and smooth the rough places in the road for those of his own who will follow him Fathers grow old faster than people.

Because they have to stand at the train station and wave good-bye to the uniform that climbs aboard. And while Mothers can cry where it shows, fathers have to stand there and beam outside. . . and die inside. Fathers have very stout hearts. so they have to be broken sometimes or no one would know what's inside.

Fathers are what give daughters away to other men who aren't nearly good enough. so they can have grandchildren that are smarter than anybody's. Fathers fight dragons. . . almost daily. They hurry away from the breakfast table;

off to the arena which is sometimes called an office or a workshop. There, with three heads: weariness, work, and monotony.

He said mosquitoes are a major nuisance as far thousands by driving away customers, have expressed interest in the mosquito problem but said as three-quarters of a mile inland from Lake

If officials decide on taxation, voters in the proposed district must grant their approval during referendum. Then the county could apply for matching funds from the state and, possibly, the ederal government.

At a meeting last Wednesday, Jack Horner, executive director of Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, voiced opposition toward creation of a pay for a $190-a-day spraying program for about 80 special taxing district. "The people are taxed to death." Horner said.

Thus far the only remedy suggested has been the fogging program. Biologists would not readily destroy all mosquitoes because mosquito larve are food for fish and their destruction might upset the natural ecology

The county's position, as expressed by Con nissioner Richard Williams, is that the mosquito problem is confined to the Sanford area. Williams favors creating a taxing district.

Meadors said the commission tomorrow will be asked for assistance. The exact extent or form that assistance will take will be left to commissioners and businessmen who are seeking to black out the mosquito problem in Downtown Sanford.
