Lake Mary skateboard park put on hold

By Michelle Jeria Managing Editor

After complaints from neighbors, city wants more input from the public

LAKE MARY — It will be up to residents to determine whether the city builds a skateboard/in-line park within the next few years.

City Commission decided Thursday to send the issue back to the Parks and Recreation Board in order to gather more public input on the matter. Recently, several residents living near the park's proposed location have spoken out against the construction of the facility.

"A lot of people seem opposed to the skateboard park," Lake Mary Mayor Thom Greene said. "We should see if people are still interested in doing this. If we build this thing, we want to make sure it is wanted and used."

Plans for the park originated after the Florida Legislature passed a bill in 1999 to encourage governments to make land available for skateboarding, in-line skating and free style bicycling. Wary of lawsuits, the government also passed legislation that stated no government or employee would be liable if a person is injured during an activity at such a park.

Last July, the city accepted a $112,500 grant from the state Department of Environmental Protection to use toward the construction of a skate center. By accepting the grant, the city agreed to match it by $37,000 and complete the project by Nov. 30, 2002. However, the city has not yet received any money and is not obligated to build the park.

Since last year, city staff has visited and met with skate park operators and designers to gather ideas for a Lake Mary facility, Parks and Recreation Director Bill Carrico said. A concrete skate park of an approximate size of 100- See Park, Page 8A

Always His Brother's Keeper

Oscar Redden kicked a narcotics addiction and helps others do the same

By Dan Ping Editor

SANFORD — Ask Oscar Redden about the blessings of life and he'll show you the gold medallion around his neck. It's a Narcotics Anonymous medallion.

He wears it not so much as an accessory, but as a badge of courage reminding him of his daily fight to overcome addiction.

"I could just as easily wear the Alcoholics Anonymous medallion because I was addicted to both," Redden says matter-of-factly.

Drug addiction doesn't seem like much of a blessing, but Redden has adopted the apostle Paul's philosophy written in 2 Corinthians 12:10: "... I delight in weakness, in insults, in hardships, in persecutions, in difficulties. For when I am weak, then I am strong."

"Everybody wants to prove how tough they are," Redden says. "Often times the guy who you think is the toughest is actually the weakest. Tough is just an attitude, just a front."

Redden admits it's a front he wore well. Always gregarious with a quick handshake and a friendly smile, he took care of business as a young sheriff's deputy. That's what a big man with bulging biceps and a shaved head is supposed to do.

But there was a chink in the armor. Addiction crept up on him. Redden would drink socially, and maybe have a couple of nips to take the edge off before watching the med-

"That was hard, but you know what, God was watching over me even then," Redden says. "They brought me before Judge McGregor. He was like a father to me, and he was a no nonsense kind of guy."

Officials dedicate children's crisis center

By Michelle Jeria Managing Editor

CASSELBERRY — Seminole County has a new children's crisis nursery.

Local officials, including Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger and child advocate Sue Lilley, gathered Thursday during a ribbon cutting ceremony for the Children's Home Society of Florida's second crisis nursery in Central Florida. The new emergency facility, located on Piney Ridge Road in Casselberry, will provide emergency housing and care for children between the ages of infancy to 11 years old in crisis situations.

"It's the first shelter of its kind in Seminole County," Eslinger said. "We are fortunate to have a resource for child victims who have suffered a trauma."

Lilley House is a 24-hour emergency shelter for children who have been removed from their families, said Lilley, for whom the nursery is named. Traumatized or abused children have a better chance of overcoming pain when immediate care is provided. Children removed from situations such as domestic violence, abuse or neglect can stay at the Lilley House for one day to several weeks.

The Central Florida Division of Children's Home Society (CHS) was established in 1963 to help build, strengthen and restore families. Currently, the organization offers more than 24 child abuse prevention and intervention program, and

Retail center is an option for new police headquarters

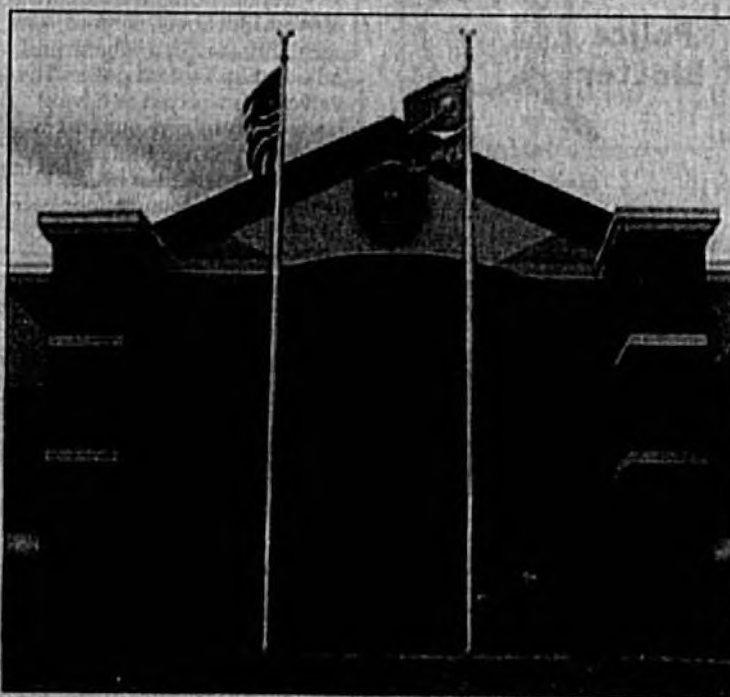

By Dan Ping Editor

OCALA — Five years ago, Pine Plaza Shopping Center was better known for the late-night deals in the parking lot rather than the good buys inside the stores.

"You wouldn't believe the number of prostitute stings we ran down here," said Lt. Gregory Stewart of the Ocala Police Department. "If you wanted sex or drugs, you got it here."

Today Pine Plaza is experiencing a rebirth. The prostitutes are gone, new businesses are moving in and the parking is landscaped with trees and flowers instead of crack vials and broken beer bottles. Why the turnaround? A new tenant moved into the old W.T. Grants five and dime store building.

Retail redevelopment is nothing new, however the catalyst for the turnaround along this section of U.S. Highway 441 is not a new retail outlet but the relocation of police headquarters.

The Ocala Police Department converted an old W.T. Grants department store into new police station. With Sanford's police department in dire need of space, the city is exploring the possibility of a similar project in, among other places, the old Kmart building on U.S. Highway 17/92.

"It's changed the whole character of the neighborhood," Stewart said. "Residents are proud of this area again."

Ocala's decision to renovate an existing building rather than construct a new police facility has caught the eye of cost-conscious municipal officials across the state, including Sanford Police Chief Brian Tooley.

Deputies arrest maid stealing from clients

By Nick Pfelfauf Staff Writer

A woman arrested Tuesday by Longwood police for allegedly stealing from one of her housecleaning customers, faces more charges after authorities served a search warrant at her home.

Sharon L. Gallup, 35, of 423 Cidermill Place, Lake Mary, attempted to hide from deputies, and ingested an undetermined number of pills when the warrant was executed just before 7 p.m. Wednesday. She was taken to the hospital as a precaution.

Gallup runs a company called "My Business is Cleaning Up." She was first arrested by Longwood police Tuesday after one of her customers had suspicions that she was stealing from him.

The customer recently set up a hidden camera in his home, which recorded Gallup stealing money. The tape was turned over to Longwood police, who acted on the evidence.

Publicity about Gallup's arrest caused a Seminole County Sheriff's Investigator to look into a similar case that was recently reported.

It was learned that Gallup also provided cleaning services to that home. Based on those facts, authorities searched her home Wednesday night. They reported finding jewelry believed to have been taken in the Seminole County case.

The owner of the jewelry listed the loss at nearly $20,000. Gallup will be charged with grand theft once she is released from the hospital.

In addition to property, authorities have concerns that Gallup may have also stolen customers' prescription drugs, and she may be a suspect in at least three other thefts from homes in Casselberry.

Any other customers of hers, who suspect they too, may have been victimized, are urged to contact the Seminole County Sheriff's Office at 407-665-6600.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Take time to say 'thanks' to a teacher

I like that television public service announcement where the young boy says his father wanted him to become a doctor, but he wants to become a teacher. "After all," he says, "If it weren't for teachers, where would doctors come from?"

Nick Pfeifauf

May 6 through 12 is National PTA Teacher Appreciation Week throughout the nation, during which Parent/Teachers organizations pay tribute to the teachers who help mold their youngsters. It is also (sponsored by the NEA, the National Education Association), Teacher Appreciation Week, during which time students are urged to thank their teachers for their care and concerned effort, and to be extra cooperative with them.

And if those two aren't enough, Tuesday, May 8 is National Teacher Day, for local communities and organizations to honor those who influence and inspire the next generations through their work. This is also sponsored by the NEA.

But I would suggest even another tribute. Let's call it Retired Teachers Day, with us adults taking advantage of the situation by contacting former teachers and telling them how much they are and have been appreciated.

During my 50th Class Reunion in Michigan last year, I phoned my former High School Principal and expressed my appreciation to him. In addition to being principal, he also taught several classes from which I believe I gained considerable knowledge.

Now in his early '90s, he is in poor health and breathes through a respirator several hours a day. Yet, he remembered me and was pleased to hear from me. In fact, he was surprised that I bothered to call him and remarked that very few former students ever bother to talk to him anymore. I was happy to have the opportunity to talk with him, and if it made him feel good, you can imagine how it pleased me to be able to express my appreciation to this man.

Immediately after high school, I joined the Navy, and didn't continue my education in college until I had been here in Central Florida for many years, so I have educational connections locally as well as back in Michigan. There are teachers here who deserve my appreciation, and from time to time, when I encounter some of them, I express my gratitude.

So there we have it. PTA groups should take heed of the observance. Students should be kinder to their teachers, parents, communities and organizations should do something to pay tribute to our teachers, and we adults should consider contacting some former teacher and expressing gratitude.

As for that little boy in the TV ad, I hope more people take this approach. I had some excellent teachers throughout my education and probably most people reading this did as well. We may not have realized it at the time, but if we paid attention and did what we were asked by them, they helped make us what we are today.

As for my former teachers at SCC and Rollins, THANKS!

And see "From A to Z" column at the bottom of today's Opinion Page for some personal reflections. What would you have answered had you been asked the question, "Who was your favorite teacher and why?"

Giving back to the community

Boy Scout Michael Butt, a life-long resident of Winter Springs, kneels in front of Winter Springs Fire Station No. 24. For his Eagle Scout project, the scout from Troop No. 196 landscaped two areas around the fire station. "I utilized plants that are native to this area or that adapted well to the Central Florida area," Butt said. "I was glad to provide this project to the city of Winter Springs and to the residents of my community. The city has allowed our troop to hold our weekly meetings at the Civic Center on Tuesday evenings for many years. I wanted to show appreciation to the city and to give something back to the community." Butt's advisor for the project was Michael Minga, the city's arborist.

Four years of planning. The big news of the week was the Airport Authority's decision to offer former Sanford mayor Larry Dale the top spot at the airport. Rumors of such a move had been swirling for weeks, and some say years.

Long-time Dale critic Bob Parsell (who's still grousing about being compared to the former mayor) lost little time in sharing his views on the offer. "Dale's a pilot and has worked for four years to get himself a job at the airport," Parsell said. "I guess that means our slum lord mayor Brady Lessard will weasel into the director's job at the Sanford Housing Authority."

Brother can you spare a cool million? Word is Dale's eyeing a pot of gold generated by the Sanford Port Authority. The Port Authority has a nice industrial park operation in place that has netted it a nearly $1 million surplus. Dale, who, if it takes the job, would oversee economic development at the airport, would like to use that cash to kick-start the industrial park at the airport.

Before he starts counting the dough, though, he'll need to convince county commissioners to loosen the purse strings.

If at first you don't succeed ...

District 1 Commissioner Art Woodruff came under attack recently for his vote to allow the Sanford Housing Authority Board of Commissioners to resign. Some in the community wanted the City Commission to kick board members off immediately, including a K. Joyce who wrote a letter to the editor (April 15). "Shame on you," Joyce wrote to Woodruff. "You haven't even sat on the Sanford City Commission for two weeks and you have apparently already forgotten your own campaign slogan. Let me remind you what it was, 'Let's put residents first.'" Among the implications Joyce made were that Woodruff was doing a favor for "former colleagues of yours at Seminole High School" who "had campaign signs in their yards," and that Woodruff would be beholden to "Jeno Palucci, your biggest campaign contributor."

None of this is new, of course. Residents routinely write letters about their politicians. What makes this one interesting is that K. Joyce is Kourtney Joyce, daughter of Linda Kuhn. It was Kuhn, you'll remember, who Woodruff trounced by 22 points in the March 6 city election.

If at first you don't succeed No. 2. Another candidate in the March 6 election is making news on the Chamber of Commerce front. Bates Reed, former candidate for mayor, has hinted he may want to fill the executive director position vacated by Ron Rose at the Sanford Chamber of Commerce. While Reed has vast experience working in the tourism and marketing industry, he doesn't appear to have enough experience in conducting economic development and small business support. Jeff Triplett, the chamber's chairman, said those were key elements in hiring a new director. The chamber's executive committee will meet next week to finalize desired qualifications and an action plan for a director's search. Don't look for the search to expand much beyond the Florida borders. Word is the committee would like to snag a local person with plenty of ties to Central Florida.

25, of Orlando drive, Sanford, was arrested after she reportedly offered sex to three undercover officers. She was charged with assignment to commit prostitution. Shermaine Daphne Ross, 30, of El Porto Drive, Sanford, was also arrested. She is charged with sex offense/committing lewdness, and possession of narcotics equipment.

Traffic Stops

Dennis Douglas Rudolph, 37, of West 13th Street, Sanford, was seen Thursday in a vehicle, and followed by Sanford police. The vehicle is suspected as having been involved in a burglary in Lake Mary. When Rudolph reportedly parked at his residence, officers found a four year old girl in the car, the daughter of an ex-girlfriend. The police report said the girl told officers Rudolph had been "driving fast and scared her." He was subsequently charged with cruelty toward a child/agggravated abuse, and driving with a suspended/revoked license. The Lake Mary burglary case continues under investigation. • Christopher A. Lange, 42, Wildwood Drive, Sanford, was stopped by Lake Mary police Thursday on Hidden Lake Drive. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. • Kenneth Edward Gutierrez, 39, of Remington Oaks, Lake Mary, was stopped by sheriff's deputies on Evansdale Drive Thursday. He was charged with driving with a suspended/revoked license. It was also found he was wanted on a warrant from the State of Kentucky for child neglect. • Jerry Wayne Davis, 55, of Altamonte Springs, was stopped by Longwood police Thursday on Orange Avenue. He was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and driving with a suspended/revoked license.

Double Case

Lensey Armstrong, 18, of Valencia Court, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Thursday, following an intensive investigation. According to the arrest report, on April 13, Armstrong reportedly entered a man's car at a convenience store in Sanford and forced him to drive to the 500 block of Pensummon Avenue. Armstrong is said to have then taken the car and left. It was later recovered by Sanford police but the stereo system was missing. In a separate case, on April 25, Armstrong is said to have entered a residence in the 1300 block of Pine Avenue in Sanford, pushed a woman, and caused a disturbance in front of her two small children.

After Armstrong was identified through a photo lineup, he was located at 801 Celery Avenue Thursday, and arrested.

In connection with the residential incident, he was charged with burglary with assault and battery. Regarding the carjacking, Armstrong has been charged with robbery/carjacking with a firearm, use/display of a firearm during a felony, theft of items valued at over $300, and kidnapping.

Undercover Operation

Members of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department City/County Investigative Bureau (CCIB) conducted undercover operations Thursday at 27th Street and U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford. Kellie Arlene Armstrong,

OPINION

Double love

Recognizing the obstacles single mothers face in day-to-day life

By Mark W. Merrill
Special to the Herald

If being a mother is a labor of love, then being a single mother requires double the labor and double the love. Without a father around, single mothers have to give twice the hugs, twice the affection and twice the attention, with half the time, half the energy and often, half the resources.

Just about everyone knows a single mom. The U.S. Census Bureau says almost a third of all U.S. children are being raised by a single-parent home headed by a woman. But do we ever look beyond the statistics and think about what it really takes to parent without a partner?

Some of the highest hurdles single moms face are financial, the day-to-day challenges of meeting basic needs. Only half the mothers due child support get the full amount. Twenty five percent get nothing at all. Therefore it's not surprising that almost 50 percent of single moms and their children live in poverty, compared to eight percent of families with a married mom and dad.

And whatever your opinion of single motherhood, most women who are single parents probably didn't set out with that as a goal. Divorce accounts for 46 percent of all single parent households, unwed mothers 25 percent, marital separation 21 percent, and death of a spouse seven percent. But no matter why a mother is on her own, we need to encourage these women and the 15 million children living in their homes.

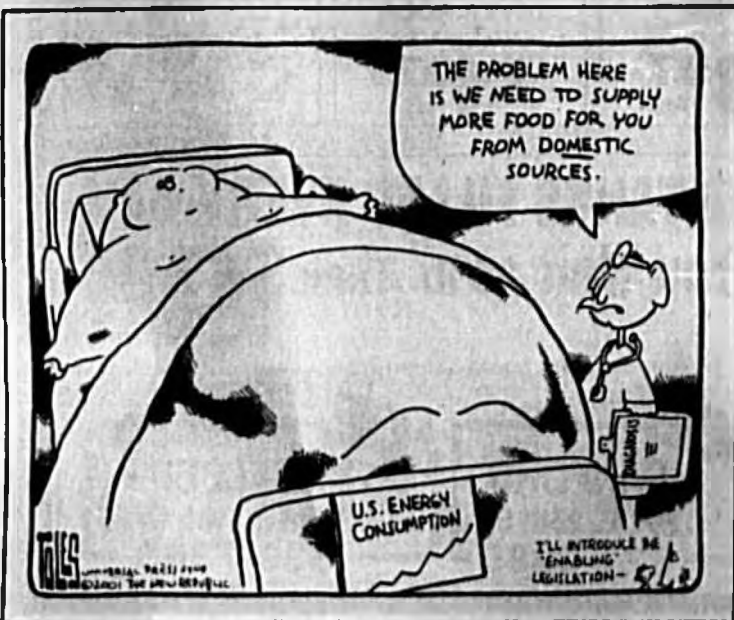

We should all consider how we can make the day in and day out job of single parenting easier. If a single mother also works outside the home, her mom duties resume as soon as she walks in her front door. Want to see her face light up? Fix dinner for her family and have it ready when she arrives.

Childcare demands are also tougher when it's only mom doing the picking up and dropping off for ballet, baseball or band practice. Find out who the single moms are among your children's circle of friends, and see if you can take some of their taxi duty. Perhaps you can help a single mom by mowing her yard, running an errand for her, or washing her car. You can even get your own children involved. In the process, they'll learn lessons in kindness, hospitality and giving.

If you really want to make her day, offer to watch her kids while she spends an evening with a friend or a relaxing day at the park or bench. It's tough being a single mother and not always easy to ask for help.

So on this Mother's Day, think about the challenging ways that single moms' lives are different from other mothers'. Then think about how they are the same. All mothers have hopes and dreams for their children, but single mothers have to do their hoping and dreaming alone.

Bush and his self-defense initiative

It's always been a mystery as to why the Left so viscerally opposes a missile defense system. When

Cal Thomas

Ronald Reagan first proposed such a plan, the Left mocked it as "Star Wars," a fantastical delusion about as realistic as the George Lucas movie of the same name. Recently, President Bush laid out a philosophical and geopolitical rationale for a missile defense system that was even better than Reagan's. In a speech at the National Defense University (NDU) in Washington, D.C., Bush noted that the 1972 ABM Treaty, which implied that the survival of the Soviet Union and United States was best assured by leaving both countries defenseless to each other's nuclear missiles, is no longer valid. Such a policy ratified the philosophy of the nuclear age that mutual assured destruction (appropriately abbreviated as MAD) was the best deterrent to nuclear war.

Everything has changed since ABM. The Soviet Union is no more and the threat of nuclear attack has shifted from one nation where command and control could be commanded and mostly controlled, to several smaller nations. Any one of these countries might use the threat of a nuclear attack on an American city to deter U.S. intervention against an assault on its allies.

Bush rightly called for "moving beyond the constraints of the 30-year-old ABM Treaty." He said clinging to ABM "enshrines the past."

When Reagan proposed a missile defense system, the central question was whether the technology existed to make it a reality. Several tests have produced mixed results. Secretary of Defense Donald Rumsfeld says he's persuaded that the technology now exists or will soon be developed. Why should he not be believed? Some people thought it fantastic when President John F. Kennedy pledged in the early '60s to land Americans on the moon by the end of the decade. The goal was met 17 months early. We had faith in our skills then. Have we now lost that faith?

During the Cold War, those opposed to missile defense believed that such a system - even research into its feasibility - could increase the likelihood of war. That's a silly argument, something like believing your chances of being burglarized are increased if you put a sign on the door that your home is protected by either an alarm system or a gun. As for the attitude of other nations, there's no reason for them to oppose an American missile defense system unless they intend to attack the United States.

America's enemies are spreading nuclear, chemical and biological technologies to rogue states and terrorist groups around the world. These are people who care nothing about their own citizens, much less inhabitants of other nations. Some believe they have a religious mandate to kill "infidels."

Others worship their politics. Why shouldn't we use all of the expertise at our disposal to do what's necessary to preserve, protect and defend the United States and our interests abroad? We can't wait until China follows up on its threat to launch a missile at downtown Los Angeles, or until Saddam Hussein has the capability to take out New York City and so deters the United States from intervening to save Israel (or Kuwait) from his aggression.

President Bush threw a large bone to the Left when he coupled his proposal with the possibility of further reductions in our nuclear weapons stockpile: "We can, and will, change the size, the composition, the character of our nuclear forces in a way that reflects the reality that the Cold War is over." We won't need as many nuclear weapons if we have a system in place to shoot down any missiles that might be launched toward American territory. An enemy will think more than twice about attacking the United States if he knows that attack will be repelled and he will be left vulnerable to a counter-attack.

Although the President pledges to be in regular consultation with our allies and Congress, his proposal to build a missile defense system puts America and American interests first, which is where the country and those interests ought to be.

From A to Z

Art Zielinski asks people what they think...

Sunday, May 6, will mark the beginning of National Teacher Appreciation Week. And, along with our school day memories, many of us keep a place in our heart for that special teacher that made a difference in our lives. So our question today is, "Who was your favorite school teacher, and why?"

My favorite teacher was Sister Ragalan at St. Bridgets in New Jersey. She taught eighth-grade. I liked her because she was always looking out for me and keeping me out of trouble.
Saul Colon, Deltona

Mrs. Noble, my first-grade teacher was my favorite. She made me pay attention and started me out on the right track in school.
Katherine Breehi, Sanford

My seventh-grade teacher, Miss Freddie. We were friends because she was good friends with my mother and father. She was my math teacher, and she made math my favorite subject.
Hervon Carter, Sanford

My favorite teacher was my art teacher at Edgewater High School, Mr. Theodore. I liked the way he interacted with the students, he was a great guy.
Linde Blosser, Maitland

I had many teachers that I liked, but one of my favorites was Mrs. Bentley, my second-grade teacher. I liked her because of her character, discipline and love.

The Way We Were: Miss Whittle's choirs

Many of you remember Miss Ollie Reese Whittle who was Glee Club director at Seminole High School during the 1940s through 1960s. After leaving SHS, she continued as choral director at several elementary schools in the county. I don't believe that anyone before or since Miss Whittle ever staged such excellent and varied musical productions at SHS. Every year there was at least one variety show, a Christmas concert, spring concert and an operetta or musical drama. The various ensembles performed in these productions and also for various civic events. The entire chorus would also perform as part of a regular service in local churches.

As far as I know, there was never an audition; if you wanted to be in the glee club, you just signed up. Every once in awhile the choruses would receive superior ratings at district and state competitions, but the emphasis was on presenting programs for the general public and for participating and enjoying good music.

Miss Whittle died recently and Janice Springfield of COM-SAC, the SHS Alumni Association, was given a box full of newspaper clippings which she passed on to me. I mentioned this in a previous column and promised to use them in the future. Well, I came across them again the other night and realized what a treasure trove of memories these clippings contained. There are accounts of various of her productions from the 1940's through 1970's. Most of the clippings were from the 1950's when I was a student at SHS. I was even in her glee club during my freshman and sophomore years (1950-52). My last two years I concentrated on band.

Very few of the articles were dated, so I had to read through each one to find people I recognized so I could at least give them an approximate date. I had taught at SHS in the 1960's but I did have to get out a couple of Salmagundis to date the 1940's items. I will have to work on the 1970's articles though, as they were from elementary schools, some not in Sanford.

I know a majority of the students mentioned and so many names brought back memories. By far, the most outstanding soloist during my era was David Hestor. Others were Gerald Covington, Donna Lou Harper (now Askew), Eloise Snyder (now Pfeiffauf), Johnny Carter, and many others. One I especially remember from the 1960's was Patty Glenn Johnson (now Swann).

Miss Whittle was also fortunate in having excellent student accompanists. Those from my era were Shirley Middleton (now Grieme, later organist at Central Baptist Church), Jeanne Lane Miller (now Henry), John Fite (recently deceased), Tommy Wyatt, Peggy Wright (now Heagerty), and Joan Wilke (later organist at First Presbyterian Church).

Now that I have the articles dated and in order, I'll start with the earliest and select excerpts that I think would interest you. Today's Information comes from the 1940's.

Junior Class to Present Play
This annual Junior Class play, entitled "Spring Fever" was to be presented Dec. 13, 1946 and its cast was given in this article.

The play, a farce in three acts was directed by Miss Whittle and was said to be one of the most popular farces ever performed by amateurs.

mess up.

"And I did. Lord knows Oscar Redden tried to fail, but God wouldn't allow me to fail."

Having blown his chance, McGregor sentenced Redden to jail time and advised him to get help for his addiction. Redden heeded the judge's words, spent his time in jail kicking his habit and learned the 12 steps to recover.

"You know what I learned most was that the 12 steps aren't just for recovery from drugs or alcohol. They are the keys to life," Redden says.

After he finished his sentence, Redden continued attending meetings and eventually began taking a leadership role. Redden said Mother Blanche Belle Weaver, founder of the Rescue Church and Rescue Mission, was a driving force behind his decision to start his own group.

"Mother Weaver called me into her office one day and told me, 'Son, the Lord gave me a vision of you leading other people to recovery.' I told her, 'Yes, Mother, I've been thinking about that.' She said, 'Naw, son. God didn't show me you was thinking about it. He showed me you was doing it.'

"I knew she was right," Redden chuckled. "She may be an old woman, but she's a powerhouse. I know for a fact that Mother Weaver can still get a prayer through."

Redden took Mother Weaver's vision and began leading a small group of men and women that would eventually become Brother's Keepers.

Redden says he has about a dozen "deeply committed individuals" who want to make a difference in the community. Leading group meetings for addicts and finding shelter, resources or jobs for those in need is a large part of the Brother's Keepers mission. The organization has set up strategic alliances with established groups like the Grove Counseling centers and Seminole Hope. Redden says, however, that the ultimate goal is to keep people from reaching the point where such services are needed.

"Mother Weaver called me into her office one day and told me, 'Son, the Lord gave me a vision of you leading other people to recovery.' I told her, 'Yes, Mother, I've been thinking about that.' She said, 'Naw, son. God didn't show me you was thinking about it. He showed me you was doing it.'"

"Adults don't change very easily," he admits. "You can do it. I did it. Been doing it for 16 years. But if we can show our young people how to avoid making those bad choices, it becomes a whole lot easier."

Redden spends time in after-school groups working with kids. He provides literature and training in life skills in coping with anger, listening to others and building self-esteem.

"There is no way you can say out. Redden believes individuals achieve success by making the journey.

"Some kids don't even attempt to participate in the process because they're afraid to fail," Redden says. "You don't have to have the biggest house or the most money to speak out at City Commission meetings, to try to make your community better."

"That's what we got to do with these young people. Being part of the process makes you a success. You don't have to do it all by yourself. You can't do it by yourself. But you can be the finger on the hand on the body that makes it happen."

Redden says children should learn these values at home, but he also adheres to the "It takes a village to raise young people."

"Sometimes it's because these kids don't have a family life," Redden says. "Other times it's because the family won't get tough. It's hard for the family to let go and let God take over. Mothers and fathers say, 'Oh, I just want to love my children.' Well that love is as poisonous as a rattlesnake if you don't do what you're suppose to do."

Redden said he's been pleased with the support the community has given Brother's Keepers. The group recently purchased a building on 13th Street that will serve as a headquarters, a community center, and soon, the district office for City Commissioner Velma Williams.

Asked what he thinks his legacy will be, Redden shrugs off the question.

"It's not about Oscar Redden," he says. "I want Brother's Keepers to be perpetual. Long after I'm gone, I want Brother's Keepers to still be making a difference, not because I did it, but because it's positive."

"If they have to put something on my grave, let them put, 'Oscar built on the positive.'"

Police

Sanford officers are using broom closets as offices or interview rooms and storing boxes of records and equipment in every available nook and cranny. The space shortage not only cramps how business is conducted, it affects the department's accreditation reviews.

"Our current facility is 13,000 square feet, and all the consultants say we need about 50,000 square feet," Tooley said, whose department includes 108 sworn officers. "We don't want to complain. You make do as best you can for as long as you can, but we're past that point now."

City officials understand the department's need for a new facility, and while City Commission has yet to give the blessing to any plan, Tooley and City Manager Tony VanDerworp are analyzing Ocala's success to see if a similar project would work in Sanford.

"There are a lot of pluses and minuses to redeveloping a piece of property for a project like this," VanDerworp said. "One of the pluses is that if you have an area that has vacant commercial space, a police presence will not only help rent out space in that center, but in surrounding centers, as well."

VanDerworp said there are a number of issues to consider before pursuing a project like Ocala's. First, the city must find a building that not only suits the department's current and future needs, the location must be centrally located. Second, the city must compare the costs of retrofitting a retail structure to building a new facility. Included in those costs is the potential loss of tax revenue that would occur if private property were taken off the tax rolls.

"You've got to analyze these things very carefully," VanDerworp said. "Just because City A did something doesn't mean you can always compare apples to apples."

VanDerworp and Tooley are just beginning the information gathering and analysis stage of their feasibility study. While they have not compiled a complete list of sites, one that has been mentioned several times is the old Kmart building at Airport Boulevard and U.S. Highway 17/92. With at least 68,000 square feet of space,

A drive-up window at the Ocala Police Department allows residents to pick up police reports without getting out of their vehicles.

Tooley said the building has plenty of room for future expansion, and it's centrally located.

However, VanDerworp said: "We're not just looking at the Kmart building. Being on 17/92 is a central location, but there might be some places just off 17/92 that would be suitable, too."

Discussions about a new police facility have occurred for several years, with much of the focus centered on building a new headquarters on vacant city property across from Sanford Middle School. Tooley said that option is still very much under consideration, and could have an advantage since the city already owns the land.

"While we're very interested in redeveloping an area, a lot of things have to align to make it feasible and cost effective," Tooley said. "The dollars have to work."

Regardless of whether, Sanford renovates an existing building or builds a new police headquarters, Tooley said he likes many of the ideas Ocala used in their facility.

"You take ideas from a lot of places," Tooley said. "One of the questions Ocala asked was 'How do we make our building less institutional and make it attractive for the community to come in and use.'"

Ocala uses a community policing philosophy — as does Sanford — and incorporated those ideas into its new facility. The entrance of the building includes a high atrium with plenty of natural light, softening the building's appearance. At the front of the building, a 100-seat community room is available for use by a wide range of civic organizations.

"It's got its own entrance so people can use it at any time," Lt. Stewart explained. "We have Boy Scout meetings, women's club meetings, retirement parties, whatever you can think of. The PA system and overhead projection system is in place, so you don't have to bring any of that stuff."

At the side of the building, a drive-up window allows residents to obtain accident or incident reports.

"If you just need a report, and don't need to talk with an officer, this makes it much easier," Stewart said.

Stewart said while the community has been overwhelmingly supportive since the building opened, department officials had to sell the idea to the Ocala City Council.

"It was an education process," Stewart said. "Really not so much educating the public about renovating the building, but the cost of some of the things we put into the facility."

For example, Stewart said although the department currently does not use fiber optic systems, fiber optics were installed for future use.

"You've got to plan 20 years into the future," he said. "Otherwise, you'll end up spending more to redo what should have been done in the first place."

Tooley said any plans for a new facility in Sanford would include a state-of-the-art communication center. Currently the Seminole County Sheriff's Office handles dispatching services for Sanford. Tooley said bringing those operations back in-house would not only improve police service, but allow the new Sanford police station to remain open 24 hours a day.

"When we moved dispatch, we no longer had someone at the station all the time," Tooley said. "That 24/7 is something we want to get back to. The city commissioners have told us that, and the community has expressed a great desire to see us open up the station at night."

VanDerworp said he and Tooley are continuing to collect and analyze information for a new station. The city manager expects to present a report to the City Commission within the next two months.

feet-by-100 feet with fencing, site lighting, bathrooms and other amenities will cost approximately $213,500, which is $63,500 more than what is funded by the grant.

According to Carrico, very few cities have built skateboard parks and there is not a large amount of information available concerning the construction and operation of such facilities.

"There are very, very few around," Carrico said. "Some cities around us are talking about building them, but right now, there aren't many."

"I think there is a demand for a skate board park," he said. "But, there aren't many out there and I don't know what kind of usage there will be."

Residents living near the proposed location of the park — north of the current soccer field in the city's sports complex on Rantoul Lane — said they are worried about the noise level and other activities a skate park might attract to their neighborhood.

Anne Bailey, like many of her neighbors, is worried the park will increase the already heavy flow of traffic on Rantoul Lane. She said she already spends hours picking up cigarette butts, beer bottles and litter from her yard as a result of the complex.

"The skateboard park will add more to this," Bailey said. "I don't mind the park, I love the children. But, I have thought why not build something people of all ages could use, like a swimming pool or lawn bowling."

According to Carrico, the feelings of residents should be considered, but staff does not believe the noise level will be excessively high and the increase of traffic will be minimal if the skate park is built.

All members of City Commission agreed more information needs to be gathered before any further action is taken in regard to the skate park. The Parks and Recreation Board will gather input and report its findings to the Commission at a later date.

"I agree that we need more information," Lake Mary Deputy Mayor Gary Brender said. "We have until November 2002, there is time to do a survey. We need to hear from citizens who may have concerns on it."

operates another children's emergency shelter in Orange County, which opened 10 years ago.

Lilley said she started working for CHS in Orange County as a volunteer and eventually became a social worker. She continued to work with CHS as a child advocate.

"I was hooked," she said. "I couldn't get away from it."

According to Lilley, the agency has wanted to open a children's crisis nursery in Seminole County for some time and has spent more than a year searching for a location in the area. In deciding where to locate the Lilley House, CHS took into consideration the location of its clients, accessibility to public transportation and a continued need for child safety.

Roger Kennedy Construction Inc. donated its services to renovate the building, which was converted from a house to the nursery facility. Universal Studios Orlando donated $100,000 to help with operational and furniture expenses, while the Alaquia Women's Club donated $15,000 and will make the nursery this year's community project.

Additionally, the Longwood/Altamonte Kiwanis Club volunteers worked with CHS staff to ready the building for occupancy.

The facility includes six bedrooms serving 12 children, with three separate bathrooms, living and dining areas, kitchen, laundry room, indoor playroom and study area, plus a reception and office area.

The facility's priority is a child's comfort, Lilley said. "The children that come here need a lot of reassuring and a lot of hugs," she said. "And, we provide that."

The CHS Florida Division is located at 3535 Lawton Drive in Orlando. For more information about the Lilley House or CHS, call 407-895-5800.

Foundation to honor slain officer donates trauma kits

Officers with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department are now carrying Law Enforcement Trauma Shooting Kits.

The kits contain first aid supplies to treat a deputy sheriff that suffers a stab wound, gunshot wound or other life-threatening injury in the line of duty.

The kits were presented to Sheriff Don Ealinger on Friday, by the Hugh E. Thomas Jr. Fund, Inc.

The Hugh E. Thomas Jr. Fund Inc. is a memorial fund established for Deputy Sheriff Hugh

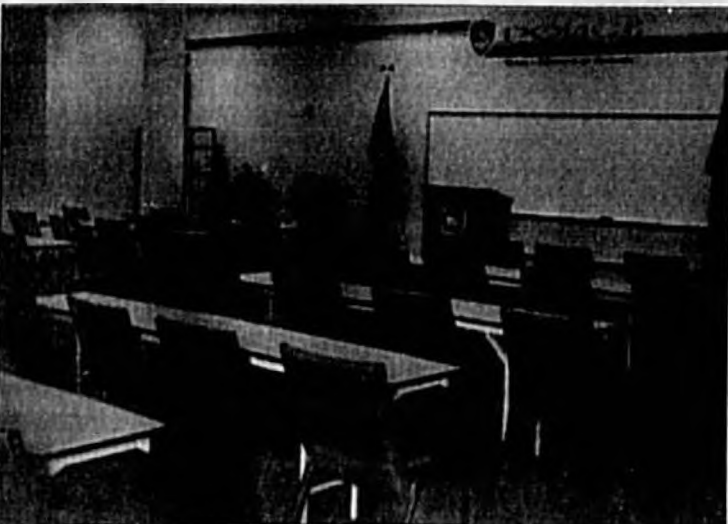

E. Thomas Jr. who was killed in the line of duty on March 28, 1989. Thomas was shot while handling a domestic violence complaint. Shortly after his death, family and friends established the organization to assist public safety professionals' families in times of need. Efforts of the organization include an honorary scholarship to the local law enforcement academy and the promotion of crime prevention and safety tips for children through the Deputy Hugh Fun Book.

The Hugh E. Thomas Jr. Fund

Inc. purchased 200 Law Enforcement Trauma Shooting Kits at $15 each with funds obtained through donations and proceeds of an annual golf tournament. It is the goal of the organization to see a Law Enforcement Trauma Shooting Kit in every patrol vehicle in Seminole County.

Seminole deputies are expected to carry the kits with them in the glove compartment of each vehicle.

Anyone interested in this program should contact Capt. Bill Lee at 407-665-6609.

Christmas Program

This is from an actual printed program. I'll give you excerpts from this 1946 production.

The entire glee club processed into the auditorium singing "O Come All Ye Faithful" after which the invocation was given by Lillian Boyle. An instrumental ensemble then played "The First Noel".

The mixed chorus sang several numbers which included "O Holy Night" followed by a scripture reading from Luke 2 by Harold Kastner. Soloist Nollie Trapp then presented "Sweet Little Jesus Boy".

The Boys Double Quartet sang two numbers as did the Melodars. Members of the quartet were Bobby Pullen, Leland Rudd, Nollie Trapp, Harold Kastner, Clarence Grantham, Jan Jenkinson, Houston Babcock and Spencer Harden.

The Melodear members were Nancy Williams, Lillian Boyle, Mary Alice Herndon, Myra Southward, Helen Slaughter, Margaret Partin, Louise Clark, Peggy Pippin and Mona Ruth Mills.

Woman arrested for stealing breast enlargement surgery

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department reported an Orlando woman's arrest Monday, April 30, on charges of theft and grand theft, after she allegedly used another woman's personal information to pay for breast implant surgery.

The woman is identified as Rosa Gaston, 24, of Kilbee Circle, Orlando.

According to sheriff's investigators, Gaston allegedly used the identity of another woman to obtain credit from a financing company to pay for the operation. She then had breast augmentation surgery at the Bougainville Clinique in Winter Park in late November.

The victim, whose identity was illegally used, was unaware of any of this until February when she started receiving bills for breast implant surgery, for which she had neither authorized nor had undergone.

Gaston reportedly gave the other woman's address. Sheriff's investigators however, eventually were able to locate Gaston at her residence. They said they contacted her on April 30, but said she refused to turn herself in.

Later that same day, she was located on South U.S. Highway 17-92 in Casselberry and placed under arrest.

Both the women whose name Gaston used, and the finance company who arranged to pay $6,100 for the procedure, have indicated they will prosecute the suspect.

Gaston has been charged with fraud - impersonating - use/possession of identity of another person, giving a false statement to obtain credit, larceny of over $300, and forgery of or altering a public record certificate.

Gaston has reportedly bonded out of jail.

Oviedo softball team reaches regional final

By Henry Uhlenbrauck, Jr.
Herald Correspondent

OVIDEO — The weather may have been rainy and cloudy to the fans, but to the Oviedo softball squad it was all sunshine as it rolled passed visiting Orange Park 3-0 Thursday night in the Class 6A-Region 1 Semifinals at Lions Field.

Oviedo, 23-4 and the District 3 champions, will face District 4 champion Edgewater (23-7), a 2-1 victor over Jacksonville-Sandalwood on Thursday, at Edgewater High School today (Saturday) at 2 p.m. for the 6A-Region 1 Championship and a spot in the State Tournament at the Auburndale Softball Complex starting Wednesday.

Lions blank Orange Park, 3-0, will face Edgewater for spot in State Tournament

The Lions and Eagles split a pair of games during the regular season.

The game was delayed a half hour because of pouring rain earlier in the day, and despite having dark clouds looming overhead officials at Oviedo High School were able to get the field ready with just the middle innings suffering through a little rain.

All three runs came in the second inning as Oviedo capitalizing on two errors and a double from Katie Coates.

The Lions got superb pitching from the combination of senior Katie Field and sophomore Kelly Raw.

After taking over in the third inning Raw (8-2) allowed only one hit and one walk and hit a peak of 63 mph in the seventh inning when she got two of her four strike outs.

Field gave up three hits and struck out four over the first two innings.

With the victory within her grasp and the strikes pouring from her arm, Raw's grin gradually widened with each out.

With two out and nothing to lose in the seventh inning, Orange Park's Ashley Putnam tried a surprise two strike bunt, but Raw scooped up the ball and fired it to Lisa Davis for the final out and the celebration began.

After the game Raw just couldn't find the words to describe the euphoria she felt when she struck out the two batters in the seventh.

"I just knew victory was closer with each pitch," said Raw. "It built my confidence."

Head coach Janet Williams said this is the first time during her tenure that the team will go to the region final game and she believes this is as far as a Lion team has ever gotten.

Late mistake blurs Tribe's domination

By Dean Smith

SANFORD — Looks can definitely be deceiving.

If you were not at the game on Tuesday and just looked at the final score, most would probably think the Seminole High School baseball team struggled to defeat visiting Eau Gallie, 5-3, in the Class 5A-Region 2 Quarterfinals on Alumni Field in the Seminole High School Baseball Complex.

But very little could be further from the truth. From the outset the Fighting Seminoles, behind the pitching of Angelo Petracca, dominated the Commodores, taking the lead in the bottom of the first inning and building a 5-0 advantage before Eau Gallie took advantage of the only mistake the Tribe made all evening to get close in the final inning.

Following the victory Seminole, the Class 5A-District 5 champion which is now 24-8 on the season, got some more good news as District 8 runner-up Plant City (11-15) upset District 7 champion Osceola (13-16), 7-0, in Kissimmee, meaning the Tribe would play the Regional Semifinals at home on Friday instead of traveling to Kissimmee.

The winner of the Seminole/Plant City contest will advance to Tuesday's 7:30 p.m. Regional Championship Game against either two-time defending State Champion Merritt Island (28-3) or Lakeland (28-2), probably on the road.

The Mustangs eliminated Spruce Creek, 5-3, while the Dreadnaughts earned another home game with a 7-0 triumph over Groveland-South Lake.

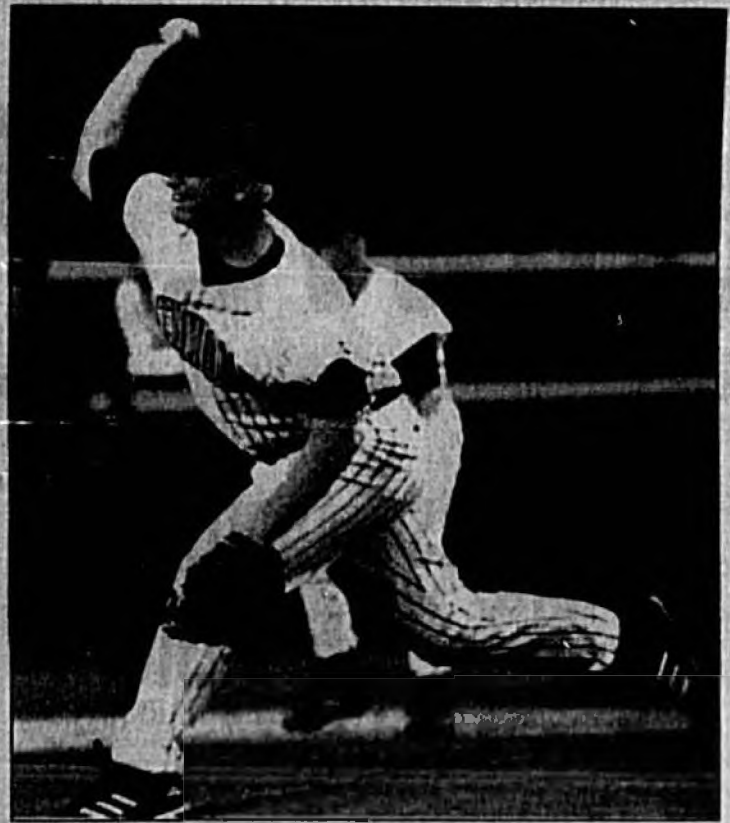

Things did not start particularly well for Angelo Petracca, who was coming off a 3-2, three-hit victory over Pine Ridge in the district semifinals last week, as he walked the Commodores' lead-off batter, Jeff Dahdah, and then saw Dan

The Seminole High School baseball team went to a pretty tired and tried formula to defeat Eau Gallie, 5-3, in the Class 5A-Region 2 Baseball Quarterfinals Tuesday night at Alumni Field, the hitting of Chris Krall (#19 above) and the pitching of Angelo Petracca (#21, right). Krall, shown sliding into third after ripping his seventh triple of the season in the first inning, also singled in the second run of the game, stole second and scored the Tribe's third run of the game, both times being driven in by Petracca, while Petracca, now 8-1 on the season, in addition to driving in the two runs, one with a double, pitched five-hit ball, striking out seven and allowing no earned runs, before younger brother Dominic came on to get his third save by getting the final out of the game as Seminole won for the 22nd time in 24 games to improve to 24-8 and earn a spot in Friday's Regional Semifinals against Plant City at home.

Smith rip a liner toward right that second baseman Anthony DiFonzo snared for an out. But that was as far as the threat got as Dahdah was thrown out trying to steal on a beautiful throw from catcher Jake Davis to shortstop Jason

Louwsma and Randy Pitts grounded to Dominic Petracca at third to end the inning. See Tribe, Page 4B

Lake Brantley shocked in eighth innings

By Henry Uhlenbrauck, Jr.
Herald Correspondent

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — For seven scoreless innings it was the ultimate battle of the titans as Lake Brantley and West Orange locked horns at Lake Brantley in a Class 6A-Region 1 Baseball Quarterfinal Tuesday night.

But the eighth inning saw the battle turn into a 5-0 perceived rout as the District 4 runner-up Warriors' offense exploded for five runs and ended the District 3 champion Patriots' hopes of advancing to the state tournament in Tampa.

West Orange pitcher Justin Meier was outstanding, allowing only five hits and no walks while striking out 15 Patriot batters, including the side in the eighth.

Lake Brantley also got a strong pitching performance from Ian Holman as he allowed no runs on six hits and struck out six over seven innings.

Taking over in the eighth inning, Patriots ace Greg Moreira (7-3) couldn't find his groove as he hit a batter and gave up three doubles in the frame.

One of doubles was a bases loaded liner into the left-center field alley by Steve Porter that cleared the bases and all but guaranteed the Warriors of the upset.

"I didn't know how many scored until I stopped at second," Porter said. "I knew we closed the door after that hit."

The burden was too much for disheartened Lake Brantley as they went down swinging in order in the bottom of the eighth inning against the fired up Meier, who improved to 10-1 on the season.

Both teams had their chances to score early but outstanding defense and pitching from both sides stopped any offensive threat.

West Orange got off to a great start as, on the fourth pitch of the game, Steve Lenzi slammed a double down the left field line.

Lenzi would move over to third on a sacrifice, but he was then gunned down at the plate as Patriots third baseman Ray Horl made a good play on a high bouncer off the bat of Matt Bernstine and fired the ball to catcher Scott Swanson to nail Lenzi.

Lake Brantley's only real chance to score came in the fifth inning when John Shaw slammed a double to right-center field. But a failed hit-and-See Patriots, Page 3B

Double wins for Rams on Tuesday

Special to the Herald

APOPKA — So much for warnings.

Prior to heading to Apopka's J. Barnes Field for Tuesday's Class 6A-Region 1 Baseball Quarterfinal game, Lake Mary was warned that "Nobody comes into their (Apopka's) house and wins."

But after the Rams rallied for three runs in the sixth inning to erase a 2-1 deficit and went on for a 5-2 victory, even the Blue Darters' announcer was speechless.

Each of the past two seasons Lake Mary had seen its season end in the regional quarterfinals, including an upset at home at the hands of Apopka last year, but the Rams were able to turn the tables this time.

Following the game, Lake Mary (25-6) got even more good news as Tallahassee-Lincoln (15-15) upset Jacksonville-Mandarin, 3-1, earning the Rams a home game Friday night against Lincoln in the Region 1 Semifinals.

Tuesday's Quarterfinals proved to be a day for upsets in Region 1 as district runners-up Lake Mary, Lincoln and West Orange, 5-1 over District 3 champion Lake Brantley, all won. Powerful Lynn Haven-Mosley was the only district champion to win on Tuesday.

If the Rams won their game with Lincoln on Friday, they would advance to Tuesday's Regional Championship Game at 7:30 p.m. against either Mosley (located near Panama City) or West Orange with a spot in the State Tournament on the line.

If Mosley wins, the game would be in Lynn Haven, but if the Warriors win, a decision would then have to be made as to where the game would be since both teams are district runner-ups.

Lake Mary got on the board in the top of the first inning as Matt Horwath doubled with one out and scored on a grounder by Ryan Bono.

The Blue Darters grabbed the lead in the bottom of the first inning as Brad Tatai singled and Johnny Taylor followed with a two-run home run.

But that would be the last scoring for Apopka as Rams ace Adam Sanabria allowed only four hits over the final six innings to win his 10th game against only two defeats.

But despite Sanabria's impressive pitching, Lake Mary could not break through against Apopka's Zack Greinke and still found itself down 2-1 entering the sixth inning.

Horwath again got the Rams going as he doubled to start the inning. With one out, Ryan Bono walked and Kyle Bono lined a single to left scoring Horwath with the tying run.

ORLANDO — The Greater Orlando Tennis Association (GO Tennis) will kick off national tennis month in May with the first annual Orlando Tennis Fair on Sunday, May 6, from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at Lake Cane Park in the Dr. Phillips area southwest Orlando.

The event — an afternoon of planned games, clinics and health screenings for young and old — is open to the public and is free of charge.

Part of the afternoon's festivities will include USA Tennis on the Move, a traveling tennis carnival event owned and operated by the USTA Florida Section. There are games for both youth and adults such as "guess the speed of your serve," "hit the pocket," and "the longest rally," as well as stroke clinics and round robin play. And Florida Hospital Rehabilitation and Sports Medicine will be conducting various health screenings throughout the afternoon.

There will be refreshments and prizes, including raffles for Wilson tennis racquets and a three-day, two-night vacation at The Colony Beach & Tennis Resort in Sarasota.

Lake Cane Tennis Center is easily reached by taking I-4 west to the Conroy-Windermere Road Exit. Proceed west on Conroy for approximately two miles to Turkey Lake Road. Turn left at Turkey Lake Road and the center is located immediately on your right.

Lions

The ease with which the victory would come wasn't apparent early as Oviedo found themselves fighting a Raiders threat in the opening inning.

With two outs, Morgan McLeod walked and Stacy Knight and Lisa Muzler ripped back-to-back singles to load the bases for Orange Park (13-14).

But faced with the possibility of falling behind early Field bowed her back and struck out Denise Vera to end the inning.

This would prove to be the only real scoring chance the Raiders had against the Lions.

After going down in order in the first inning, Oviedo went through their order in the second to take the 3-0 lead.

Megan Miller opened the inning with a walk and advanced to third when Jamie Dalton and Nicole Nielsen both reached on errors.

Stephanie Mathieux then hit the ball to short, but Kami Bird's throw pulled McLeod off the plate and Miller scored safely.

Davis followed with a sacrifice fly to center to score Dalton and Coates doubled in Nielsen for the third and final run of the game.

Orange Park head coach John Green said that games like this one are sometimes decided by a half inning.

"In the playoffs that is all it takes sometimes," said Green.

In addition to Coates' double and RBI, Field and Jackie Nugent, who signed with Stetson University earlier this week, both added singles to the Lions attack.

On Tuesday, Oviedo had earned the matchup with Orange Park as Raw outpitched Apopka's Aimee Hansen in a 3-2, 8-inning victory over the Blue Darters (18-11).

But teams scored a run in the first inning before the Lions took the lead by plating a run in the fourth inning.

But Apopka forced extra innings by scoring the tying run in the top of the seventh inning. With two outs in the bottom of the eighth inning a pair of Blue Darters set up Coates to drive in the winning run with a single.

Raw scattered five hits, striking out eight and walking one to get the victory, while Hansen gave up six hits (three by Miller) and struck out five in suffering the tough-luck loss.

Senior Katie Field worked out of a bases-loaded jam in the second inning with a strike out to keep the game scoreless and finished with four strike outs in two innings, allowing three hits, before turning over a 3-0 lead to Kelly Raw, who allowed only one more hit, in the top of the third inning as Oviedo shutout Orange Park by that same 3-0 score to advance to the Class 6A-Region 1 Championship Game this afternoon at Edgewater. Field also had one of the Lions' three hits as they improved to 23-4.

then got the next batter to line to first baseman Berryhill, who turned and fired to Horwath to double off Patrick to end the game.

Horwath led the Lake Mary attack, going 3-for-3, all doubles, scored two runs and drove in one. Kyle Bono (2-for-4, run, RBI), Mergo (1-for-2, two RBI), and Pearce (single, RBI) completed the Rams hitting.

Sanabria finished with a six-hitter, striking out six and walking no one.

run attempt left Shaw hanging and he was thrown out trying to steal third.

The Patriots, who finish the season 22-10, only left two runners on base the entire game.

"We just couldn't hit Meier's slider," said Lake Brantley head coach Mike Smith. "We missed two hit-and-runs and they (West Orange) created their own breaks."

Meier, who is only a junior, said that the big inning gave him the added confidence he needed to put the game away with the strike outs in the bottom of the eighth inning.

The Warriors (21-10) were led on offense by Burkhalter, who went three-for-three and drove in a run, and Daniels, who was two-for-three with a double.

West Orange was to have faced powerful Mosley (25-5) in Lynn Haven (near Panama City) Friday night in the Region 1 Semifinals. The winner of that game will face the winner of Friday's other Regional Semifinal between Lake Mary and Tallahassee-Lincoln on Tuesday for the Region 1 Championship and a spot in the State Tournament.

Rams

Chris Lane, running for Ryan Bono, advanced to third and Kyle Bono advanced to second on the throw to the plate.

Trevor Berryhill was intentionally walked trying to set up a potential inning-ending double play, but senior Matt Mergo spoiled the strategy by singling up the middle to score two runs and put Lake Mary ahead to stay, 4-2.

The Blue Darters tried to answer right back as Tatal and Grienke both singled to open the bottom of the sixth. But Sanabria slammed the door shut, striking out the next batter and then getting a grounder to Josh Gray to start a 4-6-3 inning-ending, double play.

The Rams then got an insurance run in the top of the seventh inning as Tucker Pearce led off with a single, advanced to second on a wild pitch, and scored on Horwath's third double of the game, making the score 5-2.

Apopka again appeared to have something going in the bottom of the seventh inning as Kyle Patrick led off with a double to left.

But again Sanabria rose to the challenge as the senior left-hander got the first out on a come backer to the mound and

 The Fighting Seminoles then grabbed the momentum in the bottom of the first inning as, with one out, junior Chris Krall lined his seventh triple of the season into the right-center field alley and scored one pitch later when Angelo Petracca launched a sacrifice fly to deep center. With the lead in hand, Angelo Petracca went about the job of shutting down the Eau Gallie bats, giving up a two-out walk before finishing striking out the side in the second inning and then handling a bunt try himself to open the third inning. The Commodores' first hit of the game came with one out in the top of the third inning when Rick Ross beat out an infield chopper up the middle. The hit was just the fourth over 10 innings for Angelo Petracca, all in the infield. Losing the no-hitter didn't phase the Seminole senior righthander as he gave up a pair of hard-hit grounders to Dahdah and Smith, but he got help from his defense as Dominic Petracca and DiFonzo both handled the shots with no trouble. The Tribe finally started to put a little distance between themselves and their foes in the bottom of the third inning, and it came with a little help from the Commodores. Uriah Kimmig led off the frame and reached safely when his grounder to second was dropped by the Eau Gallie first baseman. Willie Bennett then laid down a perfect sacrifice bunt, advancing Kimmig to second. DiFonzo then hit a grounder over the mound that appeared headed into centerfield, but Commodores shortstop Brett Bordwine made a good play to get the speedy lead-off hitter for the second out of the inning. But Krall came through again, ripping a single to right to plate Kimmig and after stealing second came home himself on Angelo Petracca's eighth double of the season to fence in left-center.

Angelo Petracca then helped himself on defense again in the top of the fourth inning, racing in from the mound to make a diving catch of a pop-up off the bat of Randy Pitts that Davis lost in the twilight. It ended up being a big play in the inning as after a ground out, Nick Terranova launched a double to the fence in right, the first hit out of the infield in over 11 innings against Angelo Petracca, that would have scored Pitts. Angelo Petracca then got an easy grounder to Kimmig at first to end the inning. The Tribe tacked on another run in the fourth inning as Davis singled to left and courtesy runner Keith Parrett came on to steal second and third, advancing home when the throw to third got away from Eau Gallie. The 4-0 lead would prove to be more than enough for Angelo Petracca as he struck out the side in the fifth, disrupted only by a one-out walk and a wild pitch, and then gave up a two-out double to Jason Young in the sixth inning before younger brother Dominic completed a three assist inning. Seminole scored its final run in the bottom of the sixth inning when Louwsma, who lined out to right and to third base in his first two trips to the plate, led off the inning with a booming triple, his third of the season, off the wall in center and then scored on Davis' second hit of the game. Things did get a little tense for Tribe fans in the bottom of the seventh inning, however. Angelo Petracca walked opposing pitcher Mike Succio, who fell to 8-4, leading off the inning, but then got his seventh strike out of the game. The second out of the inning appeared to be forthcoming when Pat Warfle hit a slow roller to the left of Dominic Petracca at third. But his attempt to get Succio as second pulled DiFonzo off the bag and for the first time in the game the Commodores had low runners on base in an inning. Rick Ross then lifted a fly ball to deep right, which should have ended the inning, moving Succio to third. Dahdah then ended the shutout bid when he hit a hanging 0-2 change-up into left, scoring Succio. Smith then ended the night for Angelo Petracca when he doubled into deep right, scoring both Warfle and Dahdah and bringing the tying run to the plate. But Dominic Petracca then made up for his mistake earlier in the inning, getting a fly to centerfielder Matt Fraysier on the first pitch to end the game and earn his third save of the season. Angelo Petracca improved to 8-1 with the win, allowing no runs on five hits, while striking out seven and walking four. He also helped his own cause at the plate, going 1-for-2 with a double and two RBI. Krall was the catalyst for the Tribe offense, going 2-for-3 with a triple, scoring two runs, stealing a base and driving in a run. Davis also had two hits, going 2-for-3, and drove in a run. Other contributors were Louwsma (triple, run), DiFonzo (double), Parrett (run scored, three stolen bases), Kimmig (run) and Bennett (sacrifice).

Powder horns & history

Sanford's Smith relives past through art of carving

By Arthur Ziellnaki
Staff Writer

One of the most important items an American pioneer owned was his firearm. The musket (a flintlock or percussion rifle which uses blackpowder) was used for protection, and helped supply meat for the family dinner table. Keeping your gunpowder dry and close at hand was extremely important. For this purpose the powder horn was invented.

Today, blackpowder rifles are still used for hunting and target shooting. The firearm is also used by people interested in historical interpretation, who join organizations for the fun of reliving the past.

The art of carving and decorating powder horns is still practiced. Sgt. Gregory Allen Smith, who has worked 14-years as a police officer and is an eight-year veteran with the Sanford Police Department, not only enjoys the hobby of carving powder horns, he takes part in teaching people about life during the British occupation of Florida from 1763 to 1783. Smith said the East Florida Rangers and Indian traders are two groups which he, along with fellow officer and very good friend, Leon Ciesla Jr., enjoy replicating.

Before he became interested in carving powder horns, or historical interpretation, Smith said he started out as a wood carver. "I was always interested in wood carving, and when my grandfather passed away, my grandmother gave me some of his microwood carving tools."

In the beginning, Smith said he tried his hand at carving animals and figurines such as Civil War soldiers. His interest in powder horn carving and historical interpretation started some five-years ago when Ciesla invited him to attend an historical re-enactment near Plant City.

During the several days of the re-enactment, Smith said he observed people carving powder horns.

"Being a wood carver I was naturally interested, so I started sitting with them, listening to them, and being quiet — for once, and I got some pointers," he said smiling.

The next year Smith said he purchased several horns, began reading articles, made his mistakes, and learned the process.

"That's how I got started," he said.

According to Smith, powder horns are best made from cow horns. Some of the best horns come from Australia, he said, but remarked they do come with a high price tag. Color, grain, size and thickness are all important components of a quality cow horn.

"Each carver is looking for something different.

"Out of 100 horns, I might pick out four

One of Sgt. Gregory Smith's favorite powder horns is the one he made his son, Ryan.

Sgt. Gregory Smith, a member of the Sanford Police Department, displays several of the powder horns he has carved. Next to Smith is the handmade chest where he keeps his wood carving tools. Pictured below, Leon H. Ciesla Jr., is busy paring corn as fellow police officer and friend, Smith, applies the finishing carving on his newest powder horn. The pair take part in historical re-enactments of the British occupation of Florida from 1763 to 1783.

that I like," Smith explained.

Many carvers like decorating the horn with scrimshaw. For the very fine or delicate work, Smith will use a dental pick. A white horn, he explained, obviously works best because the lines are filled in with black India ink so the art work can be seen. To make the horn look like one made several hundred years ago, Smith applies a special patina to the surface.

The formula is a secret, he noted.

If Smith thinks a certain horn will look better with flat sides, he will place it in boiling water to soften it, then clamp it in a special vise until it cools. The horn will retain its flat shape unless it is re-heated.

When Smith and Ciesla attend an historical re-enactment, authenticity is very important. Being able to create colonial period clothing and various items, such as powder horns, adds to the realism. I love doing it. I love to sit by the fire and talk to the kids."

Smith said his children, Ryan and Amanda, will accompany him on week-long encampments.

"They don't have a television, radio or computer games, they have to use their imagination and do the things kids did 200 years ago — chess, checkers, roll a hoop. And I think that's been more beneficial to my kids than anything."

If you have an organization or school group that would be interested in having Gregory Smith and Leon Ciesla talk about historical re-enactment, the British in Florida from 1763 through 1783, or the art of carving powder horns, they can be reached at the Sanford Police Station on Highway 17-92 in Sanford.

Nurses also deserve a good pat on back

DEAR ABBY: It seems every week I am reminded in some form or another that teachers are the least respected, least compensated, most noble persons in our country. Exalted by politicians and the media, they are consistently portrayed in a positive manner. I believe this is deserved. They have a tough job with great responsibility.

the attention and praise they deserve during National Nurses' Week, May 6-12, 2001, and EVERY day.

Dear Abby

However, Abby, there are other professions just as noble. I am a registered nurse, and along with police officers and firefighters, we do not receive the respect that teachers do. We perform tasks that no one else would want to do. We see people at their worst and are often the target of other people's frustrations.

Nurses do not get summers off, and few of us are home on holidays. Hospitals must be staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The pay is fair, but the work is extremely stressful. As health-care spending decreases, nurses are asked to do more and more. The rate of back injuries among nurses is well above the national average. Many nurses suffer from "burnout" each year and transfer to other professions. Like doctors, nurses must have continuous training in order to stay up-to-date on the latest medical treatments and protocols.

At least once in our lives, every one of us can remember being helped by a nurse. Please, Abby, tell your readers that if they know a nurse, to give him or her a hug. Take the nurse to lunch and tell that person just how special he or she is.

PROUD TO BE AN R.N.

DEAR PROUD: Thank you for reminding my readers — and me — how terrific and dedicated nurses are. I urge everyone to give nurses

DEAR ABBY: I feel like I'm in a free fall. I'm unemployed and attending school to better myself. I'm living with a girl I care about, but she has a child, and I am at a point in my life where I'm still trying to discover what I want.

I don't want to hurt this child in any way, but I've found someone else I would like to spend time with. I don't want to deceive my girlfriend, but if I tell her about the other woman, she'll kick me out of her house and I'll have no place to live.

Abby, I need to find out where I want my life to go, but I also want to make the right choices. What should I do?

FRED IN S AN FRANCISCO

DEAR FRED: First, get a part-time job. Second, start looking for your own place to live — perhaps student housing. Third, level with the woman with whom you're living. The sooner you are out of there, the better it will be for everyone. To stay and pretend you are committed to her and her child when you're not is dishonest and deceitful.

To receive a collection of Abby's most memorable — and most frequently requested — poems and essays, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to: Dear Abby's "Keepers," P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, IL 61054-0447. (Postage is included.)

Lake Mary Elementary school has a very special group of students. The group is SSKA, Students Spreading Acts of Kindness. The group meets twice a week during the activity period under the guidance of Joan Toro. The "Kindness" movement started in 1993. Troubled by the seeming plague of senseless violence, Dr. Chuck Wall decided to do something about it. He gave his college class an assignment. Go out and commit a "random act of senseless kindness" and write about it. His lesson has blossomed into worldwide movement, still small, but growing stronger. Many schools, like Lake Mary, have Kindness groups that teach the value of kindness and philanthropy by doing it. There is also a non-profit organization called Kindness Inc., staffed entirely by volunteers.

Mary Rowell

At the Spring Arts Festival, the Lake Mary SSKA students sold ice cream and soft drinks to raise money for their projects. For their first project, the students took a field trip to the Build-A-Bear Workshop in Orlando. There, they made teddy bears to donate to the Arnold Palmer Children's Hospital in Orlando.

Students in Lake Mary Elementary School's Students Spreading Acts of Kindness (SSKA) hold teddy bears they made at Orlando's Build-A-Bear Workshop. The group made the bears to donate to Arnold Palmer Children's Hospital.

On the last weekend in April, the SSKA students headed to Winter Park to lend a hand to Habitat for Humanity. Habitat for Humanity of Winter Park/Maitland currently has two homes under construction in Winter Park.

The students' first stop was at a home that was almost complete. The students helped out by painting one side of the house.

SSKA then headed for the second house. There was a large number of volunteers from Rollins College working on the house and they were really hungry. The SSKA students used the rest of the money from the Arts Festival to buy donuts, cookies and juice to serve to the volunteers.

For those unfamiliar with Habitat for Humanity, it's been around since 1976. The Winter Park/Maitland Habitat became an affiliate in 1994. One of Habitat's greatest claims to fame was Hurricane Andrew.

Hurricane Andrew flattened hundreds of homes in South Florida. All 27 Habitat houses survived.

Habitat for Humanity doesn't just build houses and give them to people. They require sweat equity. For an application to be considered, the applicant must first put in 100 hours at a Habitat site. Once approved, the new owners must then put in 500 hours on their own home. At least 275 must be contributed by the homeowners, 225 hours may be from friends and family.

The Lake Mary SSKA helped out the HRH of Winter Park/Maitland because the grandfather of one of the students is a volunteer at that affiliate. There is also a Seminole County Habitat for Humanity. To volunteer your time for HRH of Winter Park/Maitland, call 407-645-4408. To volunteer for the Seminole County HRH call 407-328-9717.

90th birthday a grand day for a grand lady

From the elaborate flower-framed invitation to the final congratulatory hug, Nellie Coleman's 90th birthday celebration was nothing short of a smashing success. Nellie's sister and her husband, Sue and Edward Eisele, left no stone unturned in their roles as hosts with the most at the swanky cocktail and buffet party.

Held at the Sanora Clubhouse, from 5 to 8 p.m. on April 25, the festive event attracted about 150 guests of the more than 200 invited. The guest list reads like "Who's Who" at the social gala of the year. There were doctors, lawyers, merchants, chiefs, politicians and a number of educators, all wishing Nellie a happy 90th.

The gracious guest of honor received the guests wearing an elegant three-piece taupe ensemble fashioned with a long skirt, overblouse and loose jacket. Sparkling iridescent designs enhanced the jacket and jewel neckline of the overblouse. A Cattleya orchid corsage complemented the striking ensemble. At Nellie's side to help welcome the guests was her husband of 61 years, Boyd. Hostess Sue wore a stunning purple gown highlighted with silver accents.

A large birthday cake centered a round table near the entrance. Featuring one round layer and a square layer, the pink and white embossed cake was topped with a small silver balloon in a wreath of ribbon streamers.

The bountiful buffet included an appetizing array of finger foods, marinated shrimp, crisp chicken tenders and assorted crudites and fruits to match the mixed spring arrangements adorning the long table. Each dining table, covered with a white cloth, was centered with a bouquet of pastel spring blossoms.

It was like old home week as longtime friends, joined by relatives, reunited at the lovely gathering. A number of Nellie's former students attended as well as a host of teachers. Andrew Bracken, principal of Seminole High School when she retired, was also on hand. A niece, Joyce Welling, formerly of Sanford, flew in from Philadelphia and the Rev. Vicki Reece, former associate pastor of the First United Methodist, arrived with her two daughters, Samantha and Veronica, from Cedar Rapids, Iowa. A former student and her husband, Rachael (Johnson) and Stanislaw Renar attended from Virginia Beach. Other friends and relatives attended from South Carolina, Georgia and several Florida cities.

Born in Pelham, Ga., Nellie moved to Sanford with her family when she was 10 years old. She graduated from Seminole High School in 1930 and Florida State College for Women in 1934, the year she began her teaching career at SHS where she taught Latin, dramatics and speech. She retired from teaching in 1972 after spending 34 years at SHS.

Following her marriage to Boyd in 1940, she joined him when he went into the Air Force, taught at Lyman High during this time and went back to SHS in 1945.

When she retired from teaching in 1972, Boyd gave her a corner of his hardware business at Second Street and Elm Avenue where she set up her business venture, Gifts by Nan. She later moved the charming boutique to First Street where she was joined by Boyd after he sold the hardware business. The thriving business attracted a contin-

Teen years dynamic time of transition

QUESTION: My children are still in elementary school, and I want to avoid adolescent rebellion in the future if I can. What can you tell me to help me get ready for this scary time?

DR. DOBSON: I can understand why you look toward the adolescent years with some apprehension. This is a tough time to raise kids. Many youngsters sail right through that period with no unusual stresses and problems, but others get caught in a pattern of rebellion that disrupts families and scares their moms and dads to death. I've spent several decades trying to understand that phenomenon and how to prevent it. The encouraging thing is that the most rebellious teens usually grow up to be responsible and stable adults who can't remember why they were so angry in earlier days.

I once devoted a radio program to a panel of "formerly rebellious teens" that included three successful ministers, the Rev. Raul Ries, Pastor Mike Macintosh, and the Rev. Franklin Graham, son of Dr. Billy and Ruth Graham. Each of them had been difficult adolescents who gave their parents fits. With the exception of Raul, who had been abused at home, the other two couldn't recall what motivated their misbehavior or why they didn't just go along and get along.

That is often the way with adolescence. It's like a tornado that drops unexpectedly out of a dark sky, tyrannizes a family, shakes up the community, and then blows on by. Then the sun comes out and spreads its warmth again.

Even though the teen years can be challenging, they're also filled with excitement and growth. Rather than fearing that experience, therefore, I think you ought to anticipate it as a dynamic time when your kids transition from childhood to full-fledged adulthood.

Barge retires after serving 11 years at St. Peter's

On Sunday, April 29, the members of Lake Mary's St. Peter's Episcopal Church bid a final farewell to Father Beverly Barge and his wife, Anne.

After a full career as an officer in the U.S. Army and almost 25 years of ordained ministry, including 11 with St.

Peters, Barge retired on May 1, before returning to his home of many years in Virginia.

"It is a sad and difficult time for our members," St. Peter's Senior Warden Charles Turner said. "We are happy for Bev and Anne as they begin this new phase of their lives, but they will be greatly missed."

During Barge's ministry at St. Peter's, not only did the congregation grow in size, but the members also grew closer to God and to each other. The Barges also spearheaded many outreach programs, including a mission church building program and an annual medical mission to Honduras, which has provided medical and dental services to more than 17,000 rural villagers during the past eight years.

Beverly and Anne's lifelong love for animals led to the "blessing of the animals," an annual event on St. Francis' Day when pets of all types are brought to the church for a blessing.

St. Peter's also participates in the Southeastern Guide Dog Program, where young dogs live with local families and participate in all phases of family life, including attendance at church, to prepare for more rigorous training as Guide Dogs.

The entire month of April at St. Peter's was dedicated to celebrating the ministry of the Barges. On Palm Sunday, the parish hall was dedicated to Barge and is now known as Barge Hall.

Recently, St. Peter's youth groups presented Barge with a pair of special teddy bears in recognition of his practice of always presenting a teddy bear to every child whom he visits in a hospital. On April 29, the church vestry presented Barge with a resolution declaring him rector emeritus of St. Peter's Church.

Nellie will always be remembered for the elaborate Roman banquets she pulled off as well as her dramatic productions when her Thespian Club made the high school touring circuit. She was one of Seminole's most popular and active teachers and still attends reunions. She has been a SHS class sponsor more than any other teacher on record. Nellie is also known as a disciplinarian who ran a tight ship, earning her due respect from the attentive students.

The vivacious Latin teacher did not limit her accomplishments to the classroom. She became active in the First United Methodist Church, was a board member of Seminole Mutual Concert Association for several years and is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, an honorary teacher's society.

Her most recent honor came last May when she attended the SHS Alumni Association's Awards Banquet where a scholarship was awarded in her name. Annually the association awards scholarships to deserving students from donations made by the alumni. During the past year, a former student whom Nellie took under her wing, Rachael Johnson Renar and her husband, Stanislaw, made a sizeable donation so that a living scholarship can be granted annually in Nellie Coleman's name.

But all has not been a bed of roses. Like Julius Caesar, Nellie venit, vidit, vicit. She faced and met the ultimate challenge — cancer — which she triumphantly conquered.

"I enjoy life," the articulate educator said. "I taught during the golden days of education." A fashion plate from the word "go," Nellie's favorite pastime is going on shopping sprees with her sister, Sue Eisele. Nellie said she will miss Sue who has left her winter home in New Smyrna Beach with her husband for their second home in Aurora, Ohio.

Jane Morgan, a former student of Nellie's said, "She (Mrs Coleman) was the teacher who made the most impact on my life. She was marvelous. She expected a lot out of the children who worked hard for her."

Nellie said, "My life has been enriched and fulfilled by the many blessings God has bestowed on me. I have a wonderful husband, a supporting family, relatives who have always been there and a host of so many loving and devoted friends with whom I have so many special memories that I cherish. I am very humble and extremely grateful for my life of happiness. What more can I say except 'thank you and ego amo te (I love you in Latin).'"

Rome Wedding

Helen and Jack Dow and their son, Mike, have returned from Europe where they attended the wedding of their daughter, Morgan Dow and Brian Cromwell, both of Charlotte, N.C.

The wedding took place at 4:00 on April 19, at the Church of Santa Susanna in Rome. The officiating clergyman was the bride's cousin, Thomas Radloff, a Jesuit priest at the NA Pontifical College of the Vatican.

The newlyweds are making their home in Charlotte where the bride is a social worker and the bridegroom is a federal prosecutor.

"We had a marvelous trip," Helen said. "It was a perfect wedding."

Spinach

A spring delicacy

Spinach is a very controversial vegetable. You either love it or hate it.

A dark green curled or smooth leaf plant, Spinach originated in Persia during the Middle Ages. Very fashionable in the 17th century, it was cooked mostly with sugar and was known as "Merveille de Versailles" (Wonders of Versailles). Spinach and other leaf vegetables are known in the history of medicinal remedies as a "thinning blood remedy."

Of course in the United States, spinach is available all year around, but it tastes best when it is in season — March through May. The winter varieties have much larger and lighter colored leaves containing lots of water and being rich in minerals especially "fer" (iron) and vitamins. The low calorie, makes it very digestible. Scalded, drained and served with fresh butter, olive oil or spur cream, spinach is a classic accompaniment to veal and poultry, as well as eggs, souffles and pates. Spinach is great to use for stuffing (mixed with other vegetables), purées, and gratins.

Spinach should be washed in plenty of water, trimming the stalks and removing the yellowing or wilting leaves. After washing the leaves, cook them in a covered non-aluminum pan using only the water clinging to the leaves.

The flavor and nutritional qualities are best preserved if it is cooked very quickly and served immediately, approximately eight minutes in a brisk boil. Check if the spinach is cooked by pinching a piece between your fingers. Drain in a large colander; squeeze the excess water by pressing it down with a wooden spoon. Now, it is ready for anything you would like to do with it. If you like to serve it just as it is with some salt and pepper and a tablespoon of butter, then you would be serving side dish called "epinards a l'anglaise" (spinach English style).

Spinach is a cool season crop and belongs to the goosefoot family along with Swiss chard and beets.

Spinach Au Gratin.

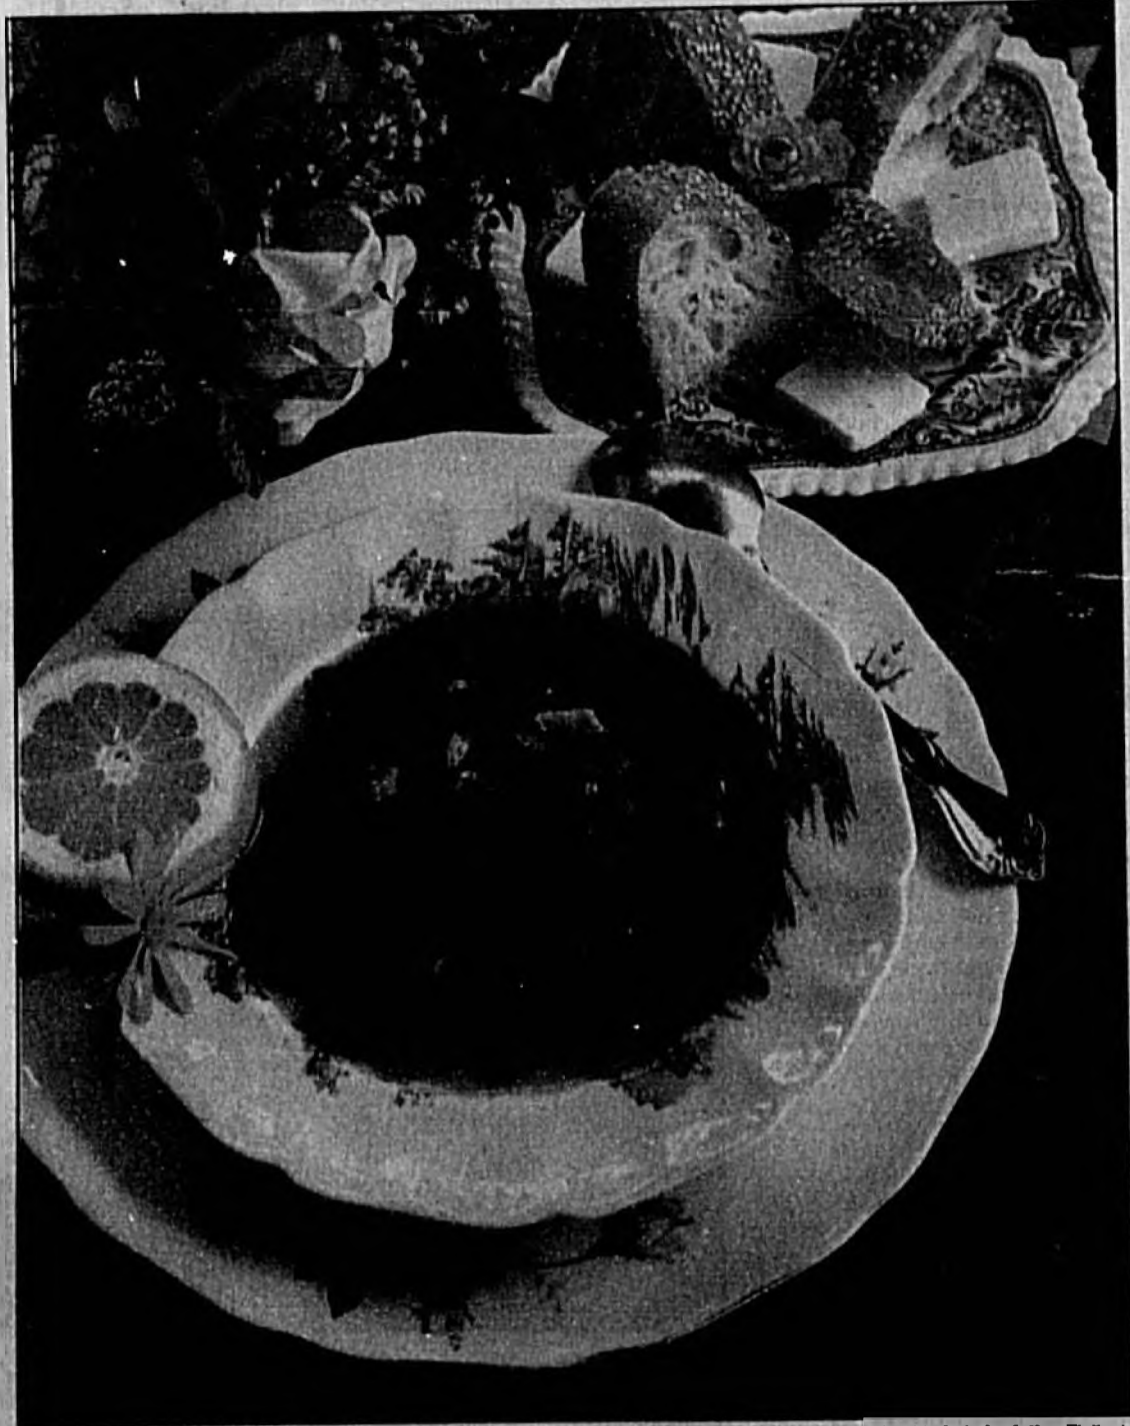

3 cups of cooked spinach
2 tbs. of butter
1 egg
1 hard-boiled egg
1/2 cup of sour cream

nutmeg
1/2 cup of grated cheese
Lightly butter a gratin dish. In a bowl mix the raw egg, butter and nutmeg, sour cream, salt and pepper. Place all this mixture on the gratin dish. Sprinkle with more melted cheese, butter and nutmeg. Cover and bake in a very hot oven until browns. Cut some hard-boiled egg on top.

Spinach Chicken-Lemon Soup

6 cups chicken stock (preferably homemade)
2 cups cooked and diced chicken meat
1/3 cup fresh lemon juice
2 teaspoons salt-free lemon-pepper seasoning
1/2 pound fresh spinach leaves, washed, stems removed Garnishes
Lemon slices
Feta cheese cubes
Pour chicken stock into a large saucepan and simmer over medium heat 10 minutes. Add diced chicken and simmer 5 minutes. Skim froth that forms on surface; discard froth. Stir in lemon juice, lemon-pepper seasoning and spinach; cook another 5 minutes. Pour into individual bowls or soup mugs and serve with your choice of garnishes.

Grand opening of Harbor II Ribbon Cutting ceremony for Harbor II Literacy and Learning Center at Edward Higgins Terrace, No. 35 Avocado Avenue, Sanford, Housing Authority Complex. An indoor and outdoor event will be Wednesday, May 9 at 1 p.m.

Judy Hansen with SCPS Title 1 program was proud of the Harbor students for their enthusiasm demonstrated while working on a quilting project. During evening hours, Judy volunteered to work with students who were interested in quilting.

On a recent visit to the Harbor Literacy and Learning Center, Judy explained the history and significance of quilting.

She displayed a quilt that was hand sewn for her daughter. Favorite pieces were included to represent various phases in her life. She told the children stories and they shared their experiences with her.

Elizabeth Graham-Glover, director at the Harbor, informed us that each child was allowed to carry their quilted pillow home.

The students were so excited about their finished product. They were instructed to share their stories with their families.

"We appreciate the community embracing the Harbor project which is an initiative of Seminole County Public School - Title 1 Department and many dedicated collaborative partners. Without them, the children would not realize and live up to their greatest potential," said Graham-Glover.
