The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Woodruff of Sanford. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Samuel B. Simcoe, also of Sanford. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose fo her yows a formal gown of candlelight satin, fashioned along the empire silhouette, which terminated in a chapel-length train. Alencon lace and tiny seed pearls adorned the Queen Anne neckline and bodice. The long sheer sleeves featured appliques of Alencon lace. They were cuffed at the wrists in re-embroidered Chantilly lace. The crystal pleated skirt was trimmed in matching Chantilly lace and a crystal pleated border which extended the full length of the train. Her fingertip scalloped, tiered veil of illusion, which was secured to a Juliet cap of Alencon lace and seed pearls, featured scattered appliques of lace. Susie Woodruff attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of cranberry qiana with a draped neckline and matching cummerbund. Her flowers were an arm bouquet of shades of cranberry, rose and pink lilles interspersed with baby's breath. Bridesmaids were Debbie Whelchel, Sheila Johnson, Janie Paul, Meg Newman and Tina Porzig. #### Dense Smoke Keeps Guard

Away From Burning Liner JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) - Coast Guard firefighters watched the burning Dutch luxury liner Prinsendam

rom a distance today because dense smoke prevented them from boarding the crippled vessel drifting nelplessly off the Alaskan coast. Thick columns of black smoke poured from the ship ate Monday, indicating the blaze that started three days ago in the engine room may have spread to the fuel tanks, a Coast Guard spokesman said. There was little danger of the Prinsendam sinking, however. The Coast Guard said any decision to put a firefighting crew aboard the $25 million ship would have to wait for an improvement in the stormy sea conditions. Better weather was forecast today. All of Prinsendam's 519 passengers and crew members were rescued safely from storm-tossed rafts

The Cause Is Political

Carter administration officials are happily proclaiming the end of the 1980 economic ecession, and they are citing the healthy jump in leading indicators to prove it.

True enough, we have staged an apparent recovery from the sharpest economic drop in recent history. But beware. It would be a foolish mistake to confuse a return to double-digit inflation with economic recovery. The so-called "recovery" that Washington is trumpeting is, at best, a temporary high, which like a dope addict's fix, will leave the country worse off than before. We need, precisely, to recognize that the American people have become addicted to inflation. We curse it for its ravages but demand it the sharpest public policy controversies of the just the same. When the government drastically 1970s — energy. While still differing on some ightened the nation's money and credit supply in details, all seemed to agree that the nation March, the economy collapsed into a deep withdrawal. The real gross national product plunged by almost 10 percent. Inflation quickly subsided and, indeed, there might have been a long-term remission or even hope for a cure if the administration had been willing to sweat things out.

Instead, with an apprehensive eye on the November election, the president brazenly out of hand almost every action that

Pete Rose Says Bring On Astros

For two years now he has been teasing guys like Larry Bowa, Greg Luzinski, Mike Schmidt and Garry Maddox. "Just get me in the playoffs and I'll take over from there he has been telling them. They did their part by getting the Phillies into the playoffs with the Houston Astros. Now it's up to Rose to do his, and when it comes to something like the playoffs, he has a way of taking charge of them the same way Reggie Jackson, "Mr. October," does the World Series.

"I'm ready," Rose bubbled Monday Not only did he say it but he showed it as well with plenty of bounce and enthusiasm during the workout at Veterans Stadium where he and the other Phillies were getting ready for tonight's playoff opener with the Astros.

"I feel great and I'm swinging good right now," he said between turns in the batting cage. "I was 7-for-11 against Montreal over the weekend. It's been a long time since I last was in a playoff, four years ago, but I haven't forgotten what they're like. This is one of the reasons I selected this club to sign with two years ago. I wanna play good in the playoffs. I

This is Rose's sixth playoff, and if past performances mean anything, Houston's pitchers should have a bigger problem with him than anybody else among the Phillies. For one thing, Rose's 31 hits in the five previous playoffs he' been in with the Reds constitute a National League record. For another thing, Rose is the youngest 39-year-old you ever

"Everybody just waits for you to get old," he frowned. "I'm 39, but I haven't missed a game in a Phillies uniform yet. 1 played in all 163 games last year and every one of the 16

"People ask me what happened this year because I hit only 282 compared to .331 last year. They don't take into account I winning hits; more doubles; more runs scored and made three less errors. The only thing was I had less hits and less walks than last year, but my 185 hits this season still were fifth best in

You never see Pete Rose pessimistic. He feels the Phillies will beat the Astros and then do the same thing against the American League entry in the World Series. "This team has so many things going for them right now, it's scary," he said. "Our pitching is just the way we want it. The against Houston with six days rest. That's one plus. "Another one you may think is a small thing, but the Astros will have to fly clear across the country to the East Coast after coming off that tough four-game series they had with the Dodgers. That has to take something out of you ... And we have the right guys swinging the bat right now. Schmidt, (Bake) McBride and myself."

What about the "dissension" among the Phillies? "The players on this team do care for each other," Rose insisted. "This club does have emotion. You should've seen the way these guys hugged and kissed each other after they beat Montreal for the division title. That didn't look like any 'dissension' to me." One of the first things Rose did Monday morning was call his old Cincinnati buddy, Joe Morgan of the Astros, before their game with the Dodgers. "I called him to wish him good luck," Rose said. "I told him, 'You go beat 'em today, and we got Carlton waiting for you

That was yesterday. Today, it'll be different. Pete Rose won't have much time for any friends of his wearing a Houston uniform.

New Look Yankees Face Same Old KC

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) - The New.York Yankees have undergone a facelift since they last won the American League East in 1978 but the boys from the Bronx still wear the pinstripes and that's all the incentive the Kansas City Royals "I like playing the Yankees because they're the Yankees," said Kansas City designated hitter Hal McRae, whose Royals open the best-of-five American League Championship Series in Kansas City Wednesday against New York. "If there's one team you want to beat, it's the Yankees.

They've got the tradition and they've also knocked the h-out of us (in previous playoffs). It's like beating up the leader of The Yankees and Royals met three straight years in the American League playoffs, from 1976 through 1978, with New York winning each time. The Yankees were extended to five games by the Royals in each of the first two playoffs but only to "The Yankees are a good team," said Kansas City's Gold Glove second baseman Frank White. "But the guys that had been killing us aren't there any more - Chris Chambliss, Mickey Rivers, Thurman Munson.... One guy who is still there and has had good success against Kansas City - for that matter, everybody else in the American League - is left-hander Ron Guidry, who has been given the opening game pitching assignment by Manager Dick Howser. "It's just a game," said Guidry, who will oppose Kansas City's ace southpaw Larry Gura. "It would be different if we were playing somebody else - but we've got to play these same guys again. This isn't any fun." Howser said he would follow Guidry in the rotation with lefthanders Rudy May and Tommy John and, if a fourth game is necessary, right-hander Luis Tiant. "The first three guys all deserve a shot at being the openingday pitcher of the playoffs or the World Series," said Howser. "But only one can do it. You've got one guy (John) who's got a shot at the Cy Young Award, another guy (May) who led the league in ERA and nobody pitches as well as Guidry when he is Howser also revealed Monday third baseman Graig Nettles has been pronounced fit to play following a 10-week bout with hepatitis. Nettles passed a series of enzyme tests Monday morning and was expected to be included in New York's 25man playoff roster; which will be announced Tuesday.
