Railroads Forfeit Claims To 55,992 Acres In Land Grants

WASHINGTON — "Land-grant" railroads which charged the government full freight rates during the war are paying for the privilege in part by forfeiting their claim to thousands of acres in public lands. An Interior Department tabulation for 19 of the railroads listed the land upon which they must relinquish long-standing claims, under a recent Supreme Court decision, at some 55,992 acres.

This amount remained from an original apportionment of 282,780 acres. Eight of the 19 railroads had patented claims to a total of 226,788 acres before the war and thus retain title to them.

Largest Excluded
The tabulation did not include a 20th line, the largest land-grant railroad of them all, the Northern Pacific. Interior Department officials said they could not even guess at the amount of land originally claimed by this company. They ventured only that "it must be hundreds of thousands of acres."

The railroad and the department's Bureau of Land Management must check over huge volumes of records to determine this acreage. An earlier proposed study of Northern Pacific land-grant claims was cancelled as not worth the cost and tremendous amount of research involved.

Three-quarters of a century ago the government set out to encourage settlement of the vast, newly-acquired areas of the West and South. It did this by granting to railroad companies which would build lines into the area acreage estimated by some authorities at 134,303,668 acres—the equivalent of Pennsylvania, New York and the New England States combined.

Settlers Move In

When the railroads got around to claiming the land that had been given them, they found large portions of it already occupied by newly-arrived settlers. Rather than displace these settlers, the government allowed the railroads to select other tracts, which became known as "lieu lands"—lands in lieu of the original grants.

The original acts required the land-grant railroads to carry government goods and personnel free. Through judicial interpretations, the land-grant lines for half a century before 1940 carried government goods and personnel at half the standard commercial rates.

In the depression years, earnings declined and steps were taken to help the carriers. The Transportation Act of 1940 permitted land-grant roads to charge the government full commercial rates except on Army and Navy freight and personnel, on condition that they release any land claims they might have against the government.

Suit Pushed
After the war the Santa Fe Pacific Railroad sued to assert its rights to public lands in New Mexico and Arizona, on the ground that these were "lieu lands" not involved in the rate-increase release of claims.

The District of Columbia District Court dismissed the suit, but the Circuit Court of Appeals reversed the lower courts decision.

The Supreme Court upset the Circuit Court decision, sustaining an appeal by the secretary of the interior. The Supreme Court ruled that the 1940 transportation act defined an intent of Congress to wipe the slate clean of all such claims by any railroad which availed itself of the rate concessions.

Boy Is Veteran Air Traveller At Three

PHILADELPHIA—At the ripe old age of three, little Eric Dolleberg is one of this country's veteran airplane travelers.

His father, Col. Fred P. Dolleberg, an Army air ace in World War I, is the president of Winged Cargo, Inc., which operates out of Philadelphia, and he takes his three-year-old son along on many trips to Nassau, San Juan, Jamaica and all over the United States.

"I'm daddy's co-pilot," Eric chirped. "I sit up with the men."

"Yes," explained Col. Dolleberg, "he sits up in the cockpit with us until he gets tired. Then he goes back and goes to sleep. He is a lot of fun and never gives me any trouble."

The stewardess gets him something to eat when he's hungry. He loves flying.

The colonel said he started taking Eric along when the boy was one, "and now whenever we are taking a trip, and there is room, the little man goes with me."

Passengers tell him bedtime stories when he feels sleepy and if he's not too tired, he tells them a few.

Coal was used in the United States shortly after the Revolutionary war, but it was not marketed widely until development of the railroads about 100 years ago.

State Building Plan

The fate of a new Supreme Court building is especially in doubt. A contract was signed a few hours before the Senate adopted its request to stop construction. But the Senate resolution specifically mentioned the Supreme Court building. Governor Caldwell said he did not think the State could legally put the contract on a shelf after contractors already had started work.

Meanwhile, two bills were introduced in the legislature to expand the authority and immunity of the Florida Highway Patrol.

The Cabinet agreed to ask the Legislature to permit physicians to practice in State institutions without submitting to the State examination on basic science.

The Senate Committee on Pensions and Claims voted to compensate Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Barlett for the death of their son, Howard, who died in the University of Florida infirmary. Senator King of Winter Haven introduced the measure, calling for $10,000 compensation, but the committee reduced the amount to 7,500.

A new bill in the House would establish incurable insanity and confinement in an asylum for seven years as grounds for divorce.

A constitutional amendment proposed in both chambers would turn the power to make hunting and fishing regulations back to the legislature. The bill in effect would repeal authority of the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission to set the rules.

Psychologist Likens To Rats In Labyrinth Leaders In Politics

By RENNIE TAYLOR
AP Science Reporter

BERKELEY, Calif.—The behavior of hungry rats running through mazes of trick passageways in search of food may hold a lesson for statesmen seeking territory or security for their respective countries in the labyrinth of power politics.

When an extremely hungry rat is put into a maze through which he must find the way to food, he doesn't learn much about its zig-zag tunnels and blind alleys, but if not too hungry at the outset he gets a broader picture of his surroundings, says Dr. Edward C. Tolman, University of California psychologist.

"Then if the original route to food is blocked and a new one is made, the rat with the broader learning has little trouble in learning the new path to his goal."

Similarly, Dr. Tolman suggested, a nation or its leaders should be able to reach their goals by rational, roundabout methods rather than by force or aggression if at the outset they are not too harried from within by some sort of hunger or fear.

Dr. Tolman, who specializes in animal behavior experiments for whatever value they may have in helping to form an understanding of human conduct, told of the rat tests in a special all-university lecture.

The rat which is forced to learn the route while experiencing the pangs of extreme hunger, receives a vivid impression of the food path fixed in his brain. If the path is changed it is difficult for him to re-learn.

Broad Learning
A well-fed rat, placed in a maze which has food at the end of one route and water at the end of another, apparently learns nothing because he is neither hungry nor thirsty.

But if he is kept out of the maze until hungry or thirsty and then returned to it, he quickly finds his way to food or drink, because, says Dr. Tolman, while not under too great pressure to reach his goal, his brain during the previous experience formed a broad "cognitive map" of the maze.

A hard-pressed human being, like a hungry rat, may become frustrated from over-insistence striving along one narrow route toward a goal, and may "take it easy" on some other person or group by becoming aggressive, Tolman asserted.

In the last 8 years, production of both crops and livestock increased nearly 30 percent, almost as much as during the preceding 25 years.

New Aircraft Carrier Launched By Britain

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Apr. 22—A new addition to Britain's fleet was launched today by the Duchess of Kent, sister-in-law of King George VI. The vessel is a light aircraft carrier named the Centaur. It hit the waves in view of thousands of spectators but the details of the warship itself were withheld under strict security regulations. Broadside photographs of the vessel were prohibited and her displacement was not disclosed.

In London, the Admiralty said that construction on the Centaur was begun during the war and that she was built along the lines of the Colossus, launched in 1945, is listed in Jane's Fighting Ships as having a displacement of 14,000 tons.

Wallace Hits Doctrines Of U.S. - Russia

Change In Capital- ism, Communism Is Urged For Preser- vation Of Peace

PARIS, Apr. 23—Henry Wallace today charged that the United States and Russia have undermined the cause for which their young men died. The former vice president told a meeting sponsored by the American Veterans Committee in Paris that both Russian Communism and American capitalism must change their courses if peace is to be preserved.

Wallace's latest speech abroad was described as a restatement of his fundamental convictions and it was the most definite on Communism since his arrival in Europe two weeks ago. Wallace stated that Russia is committed by her history to the use of repressive measures as an essential element in holding the Soviets together until an abundance of goods makes freedom possible. He added that Communism grows rapidly in significance in all areas where there is scarcity of racial discrimination.

He declared today Russia should have declared today Russia should get $10,000,000,000 to $17,000,000,000 worth of goods and services under a $50,000,000,000 world reconstruction program. The former American vice president said in an interview in Paris that in return for this huge sum, Russia should be required to forego her heavy reparations demands on Germany and to become a member of the International Bank.

In a radio interview last night, Wallace told French listeners he believed the United States should finance most of the world reconstruction program, with the United Nations administering the funds.

Two Policemen Shot To Death In Street Battle

Officers Are Killed In Philadelphia By Son Of Professor

PHILADELPHIA, Apr. 23—Two policemen were shot to death early today in a street corner gun battle and Sgt. John Creighton said the officers were victims of bullets fired by 23 year old William Halliwell. The accused gunman himself was hit by four police bullets and is in "very poor" condition in a hospital.

Police said Halliwell identified himself as the son of Dr. Alfred Halliwell, former professor of anthropology at the University of Pennsylvania and now at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. The slain policemen were identified as Sgt. Samuel Hewitt and Officer James Quigley.

Creighton said the officers were slain while attempting to pick up Halliwell after a wild chase through north Philadelphia streets between police patrol cars and an automobile allegedly stolen by Halliwell.

In Chicago, Professor Halliwell said he is "too shocked" to discuss the fatal gun battle in which young Halliwell was involved. The professor identified the young man as an adopted son by a previous marriage and said he has not seen him for some time. Police said young Halliwell is an escapee from a private school for delinquents at Staatsburg, N. Y.

Florida House Gives School Bill Priority

Action On Measure Must Be Taken At 11:00 O'Clock Thursday Morning

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 23—The Florida House of Representatives today cleared the way for immediate consideration of the important school reorganization bill.

With but little discussion, members of the House approved a motion to place the school bill on the special order calendar, to be taken up at 11:00 o'clock tomorrow morning.

This means that the measure will take priority over any other business in the House and that it must be acted on unless unanimous consent is granted to postpone it.

The school bill yesterday received unanimous endorsement by the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

The measure still is not ready for action in the Senate. The Senate Education Committee has scheduled a meeting for tonight to continue its study of the bill.

By its action, the House decided to consider the reorganization of the school system, and the financing provisions, as one measure.

The House adopted a memorial resolution in tribute to the late Jeff Hendley of Dade City. Hendley was the last surviving signer of the 1885 Florida Constitution, and was the oldest member of the House.

Vegetable Group Proposes Plan For Merchandising

ORLANDO, Apr. 23, (Special)—Directors of the Florida Vegetable Committee, representing growers of a majority of the fresh vegetables shipped from Florida, today asked the Florida legislature to set up machinery enabling commodity growers to set up and finance their own merchandising, advertising and sales promotion programs.

The action was announced by LaMonte Graw, manager of the Florida Vegetable Committee, who said the resolution adopted by the directors will be forwarded at once to the president of the state senate, to the speaker of the house of representatives, and to Governor Caldwell.

The legislation sought by the vegetable producers, Graw said, calls for establishment of a nine-man state vegetable commission, which would supervise merchandising, advertising, sales promotion, and research activities of the growers of various vegetable commodities, upon petition of the growers.

Administration of the merchandising activity would be in the control of the commodity growers. "Our fresh vegetable producers must adopt some such scheme to meet low-price competition from other sections and from foreign countries," Graw said, "and sentiment among them, as voiced by the directors of the Florida Vegetable Committee, which speaks for them, is in favor of sensible merchandising for each commodity, properly supervised by a state commission, but at no cost to the state or to anyone but the growers themselves."

Bills to establish the vegetable commission will be introduced in both houses of the Florida legislature at an early date, Graw said.

"The movement comes from the growers themselves, large and small alike," the manager continued. "Since it is industry-sponsored, and calls for no state expenditure, it would appear that such an aid to the vegetable industry at a time when it is agreed sound merchandising principles must be set up as a life-saver, would meet with the hearty cooperation of all legislative interests and of all commercial interests except those of the most selfish nature."

The first explosion occurred in an empty tank, where a welder was working. In quick succession, other tanks exploded.

The action was announced by LaMonte Graw, manager of the Florida Vegetable Committee, who said the resolution adopted by the directors will be forwarded at once to the president of the state senate, to the speaker of the house of representatives, and to Governor Caldwell.

PITTSBURGH, Apr. 23—Representatives of the United States Steel Corporation and the CIO Auto Workers Union today signed a contract calling for a 15 cent wage increase for 140,000 employees of U. S. Steel, which began today.

After the contract was signed in Pittsburgh, the head of Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation said that it was a big step taken because of the company's faith in union president Philip Murray.

From Bethlehem, Pa., it was word that the Bethlehem Steel Corporation will remain neutral in negotiations between the CIO and the union. However, it is understood that the company will not join the $100,000,000 pact reached between the steel workers union and the United States Steel Corporation. Negotiations between Bethlehem and the union were broken off April 15 when the union charged that the company had made no offer of counter proposal in answer to its demands.

WASHINGTON, Apr. 23—Federal Conciliation Director Edgar Warren today asked three key units of the Bell Telephone System and the unions to meet with government conciliators. The invitations to reopen negotiations were extended to the long lines division of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, the Southwestern Bell Company and Western Electric's installation and manufacturing divisions.

Warren said the meetings will be arranged as soon as possible, he hoped tomorrow. Then he added optimistically: "We certainly hope we will be able to get something out of this conference."

The deadlocked dispute between the Bell System and the striking National Federation of Telephone Workers in its 17th day. Conciliation efforts with the A. T. & T. long lines and the Southwestern Bell Company were held before the weekend of March 31 but they ended without a settlement.

Warren made his announcement at the latest negotiation invitations after Labor Secretary Schwelb had conferred with the chairman of the communications commission, Charles Denny, and with three top union officials.

The president of the National Federation of Telephone Workers, Warren Baur, promptly accepted Warren's invitation for discussions. Warren said that he had received no word from the three company units involved.

Ship Sinks Following Collision Off Miami

MIAMI, Apr. 23—A British motorship and freighter collided about ten miles southeast of Miami last night. Eight crew members of the British vessel, the Mary Read, were taken to Miami after their ship sank.

The Coast Guard reported that the ships apparently got their signal lights confused and collided on a calm sea on a clear night.

The 115-foot Mary Read sank within five minutes after the collision. The steamship continued on its way.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GOD HAS INFINITE PATIENCE, BUT FINALLY THE WICKED ALWAYS DEFEAT THEMSELVES. GOD MAKES THE WRATH OF MEN TO PRAISE HIM. Wherefore do the wicked live, become old, yea, are mighty in power...

Frank Snell who has recently been elected a director of the Jacksonville Rotary Club used to be a frequent visitor at the Sanford club when he was a member of the Titusville club.

A move has been launched to increase the pay of county commissioners to $100 a month. Everyone else is getting a raise, so why not the county commissioners? And besides, $1,200 a year will bring out a big flock of candidates for the County Commission next year.

During the telephone strike, telephone calls have been limited to emergency calls only. But some people have a mighty queer idea of just what constitutes an emergency. The other night one young girl called up her boy friend and told him her mother wouldn't let her go out last night. And believe us that was an emergency!

It is interesting to note that while the gamblers are moving heaven and earth to bring back gambling in Seminole County, the people's representatives in Tallahassee voted 35 to 2 the other day to prevent the transmission of information over telegraph and telephone wires for gambling purposes.

Secretary of State Marshall says that American aid to the Near East "is indispensable." Secretary of State Marshall is a good man and one in whom we have lots of confidence. If the oil of the Near East is saved for American interests, gasoline rationing in the next war may not be nearly so severe.

The profit-motive as it operates in the United States is not all bad, even when someone makes a lot of money out of it, as Henry Ford did. The Ford Foundation, based on the profits of Ford automobiles, announces that last year alone it distributed to various charitable, educational and scientific organizations the sum of $1,219,202.

We see where a British financial paper denies there is any talk of another American loan to Britain. The proceeds of last year's loan are expected to last at least until 1948," says this paper, "so the need for another loan is not considered urgent." Yes, next year ought to be soon enough to underwrite another loan to the British.

A recent winter visitor in Sanford was much interested in the local zoo. He spent many hours every day down there studying the antics of the monkeys and admiring the other animals, some of which he described as "exceedingly graceful." However, he thinks a movement should be launched in Sanford to give the larger animals more room in which to roam. The 18000 sq. ft. bears, particularly, are confined in cages too small for them, and he insists that they should either be turned loose or be provided with larger cages. As a matter of fact, it has long seemed to us that the popularity of the zoo with tourists all over Central Florida should warrant an expansion program which would include the entire area west of the tracks.

Child Health

Death is taking a holiday among children 1 to 14 years old. Since 1930 the death rate for children at these ages has declined 60 per cent, which means that only two children are dying today where five children died 16 years ago.

This is reported by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company from a study of mortality among children insured in the company's industrial department.

"Every one of the leading causes of death in childhood has shown a marked decline," the Metropolitan statisticians note. "The improvement for each of the major diseases was well over 50 per cent at every age period, and the reduction was as much as 90 per cent for diarrhea and enteritis among very young children."

The relative decline in the mortality from accidents, while very considerable, was appreciably below that form disease. Among boys 5 to 14 years old the number of lives lost in accidents is more than twice the combined total for the communicable diseases of childhood, together with tuberculosis, pneumonia, rheumatic fever, and appendicitis.

"There is urgent need for the accident prevention movement to intensify its efforts in the field of child safety," the Metropolitan concludes. "It is encouraging to note that public health officials are more and more interesting themselves in this opportunity to conserve life and limb in their communities."

Boston's Shame

Boston has just gained a new reason for hanging its head in shame. Not long ago Mayor James M. Curly was found guilty of using the mails to defraud, and the sentence was upheld by the Federal Court of Appeals. Curly has carried his fight to the Supreme Court, which has yet to rule.

Now the president of the City Council, John B. Kelly, who would inherit the mayoralty if Curly went to jail, has been indicted on charges of bribe solicitation and attempted larceny. Another councilman has been indicted on the same charges.

Boston has for some time impressed a good many outsiders as lacking in civic spirit. The chapter on Boston in a recent book on municipal government, "Our Fair City," edited by Robert S. Allen, thinks that the most damning fact about Boston is not merely that Curly was elected mayor in 1945 for the fourth time, but that none of his opponents showed much signs of being any better.

The Boston Chamber of Commerce may have the answer in its recommendation that the town adopt the city manager form of government. But no change in form will do much good alone. What Boston needs is a civic change of heart.

Four Minutes Saved

On January 31, 1946, an eastbound plane, with 18 passengers and a crew of three, was flying along the wide path that gouges the Rockies between Rock Springs and Laramie. The night was fair, visibility good, the plane on course and on time. In less than ten minutes this craft smashed into the ugly face of Elk Mountain, and a towering pyre of flame flared into the national headline of the morning: "PLANE HITS MOUNTAIN—21 KILLED."

The findings, published months later, were that the pilot had "deviated from the route and followed the most direct course."

Airways are not designed by caprice. The reason that the airway in question was plotted as an 88-mile dogleg, instead of as a 79-mile direct course, is that Elk Mountain looms dangerously across the short cut. The pilot, disregarding instructions, turned off the airway, headed into the clouds around Elk Mountain, and ended up 340 feet below the summit. Had he got away with his short cut to Laramie, he would have saved less than four minutes! — Readers Digest.

WASHINGTON LETTER BY JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—School books of all kinds are scarce in Europe. Supplying the printing machinery to help produce books is the latest international project of the American Junior Red Cross.

Through the National Children's Fund, maintained by contributions from more than 19,000,000 members of the Junior organization, the first printing unit is being sent to Norway.

It includes an office style composing machine with two complete sets of three kinds of type and a foreign language typewriter; one duplicating camera with picture plate-making equipment and other supplies such as arc lamps; duplicating machine and plates, as well as ink, stapling machines, special pencils and photographic developing materials.

Later three other sections of Europe will receive similar printing units. Each will be marked with a small metal plaque bearing the statement: "Gift of the Schools of the United States of America through the American Junior Red Cross."

In the beginning, trained foreign representatives of the manufacturers will go to Norway to set up the first printing and duplicating units. They will also show Norwegian instructors how to operate the machinery.

Then the Norwegian instructors will share the printing "know how" with older students so that they can help with the textbooks and other printed materials for their schools.

School men from the three other sections of Europe scheduled to receive their own printing outfits will then go to Norway to study the production methods so they will be able to set up their own.

After current school needs for books are met, the printing machinery will be used by Junior Red Cross Societies in Europe for printing their own magazines, pamphlets and program materials.

Economical Remodeling Old Homes Can Be Modernized Inexpensively

HERE IS a good example of how an old house, sound structurally, may be remodeled with economy as a major consideration. Note how the two old porches were removed. On the right, the roof line was dropped and a more attractive porch provided through a slight structural change. All of the ornamental woodwork, which was typical of a past era, was removed. Nothing dates a house more than this "gingerbread" work which was widely used previous to 1915. The two upstairs BAY WINDOW adds modern touch.

front windows were removed and one large modern window was installed. Shutters were added to give a modern appearance. The large lower front window was taken out and an attractive bay installed. Bay windows are very popular now in both new construction and remodeling. This type house is a "natural" to modernize because the lines are easy to change and the general appearance can be improved without too large an investment. (International)

Speeding was probably the reason for this wreck. The truck turned over after crossing of the road. The driver, left, covered by sheet, was killed instantly. Florida's convicted speeders during 1945 numbered 970. They injured 432 people and killed 154. National Commission Bureau advises that "driving too fast for conditions" is an important item in determining safe driving speeds.

Maple Sap Effective As Fire Extinguisher

WEST FRYEBURG, Me.—With maple syrup scarce and high-priced in Maine this season, two orchard owners used five gallons of sap as a fire extinguisher. Willis Far-ington does not regret the sacrifice of four gallons as the sweet extinguisher checked a blaze that threatened his farm home. And in nearby Otisfield Glen-Henry gladly parted with the first gallon he had collected to put out a fire on the sap house roof.

FASHION NOTES

Associated Press Fashion Editor—Remember that old raccoon coat that hung in your closet? It's probably been packed away in mothballs in the attic for the last 20 years, resurrected only for masquerade parties or sleighrides. But now is the time to dig it out and give it a new lease on life.

Harry J. Tern, New York fur designer who specializes in making new coats from old ones, estimates there are at least 10,000 old raccoon coats tucked away in the nation's attics, and countless numbers of the fur-lined overcoats that were hot stuff for dukes of the 1880's.

Any good furrier, says Mr. Tern, can salvage the skins from a man's fur coat and by modern methods of stripping, blending and coloring, turn out a super model for the little woman.

The old silver raccoon coat that bore no resemblance to the top-of-the-line college relic it used to be. Since it's about spring house-cleaning time, now is a good moment to poke into those old trunks in the attic.

Guides Must Know Facts In Washington

WASHINGTON—Mrs. Eleanor Smith, a young and comely Capitol guide, was sitting on a table near the door of the capitol's restaurant at crackers and drinking hot coffee.

She would have made what most photographers call a very good "chocolate" picture, but she was too interested. She had been in the restaurant when a group of youths had escorted about the capitol a few weeks before.

They were described as a group of "children," she said, but they were about the size of ballcock. They breathed on her neck and smelled and yelled and now and then sought playfully to punch her.

It was the most exciting and least illuminating experience I've ever had," she said. "In the end, we had to get five policemen to accompany us. A group like them comes every year, Spring and Fall.

Most of the folks she finds are pretty wonderful to take around. They seem so thrilled to be visiting the capitol of their country, she said, that they are usually the kind of folks who always find something to write home about, no matter where they go.

Though the guide has a certain pattern of questions, she also is fortified with a fund of facts and they can answer any question that's popped.

Such as "Where is our congressman?" or "Why are there empty seats down there?"—a frequent tourist query when guided groups visit House and Senate chambers.

"You have to explain that a lot of congressional business is done in committee, that the absence of a member is in a committee meeting somewhere else on Capitol Hill in the Senate or House of Representatives," Mrs. Smith says.

It's interesting, Mr. Smith says, to see the reactions of people when they are about to enter the Senate or House galleries.

"They're either so thrilled they jump up and down or they're completely indifferent. There's no middle ground," she says.

Mrs. Smith was born in the District of Columbia. She took the job at the capitol's start-up in 1937 and has worked there since. She planned to stay six months.

It's strenuous business. Sometimes the guides make five trips each day, taking as many as 35 people with them each time. In the old days they used to make seven trips daily about the building.

The supplies of feed concentrates have averaged a third more in the last five years than in 1937.

Sophie Tucker Does Things On Big Scale

By JACK O'BRIAN
NEW YORK—It's no new discovery that Sophie Tucker is quite a gal.

Opening the other evening at the stage and gallery Latin Quarter, Sophie again landed on Broadway with all the hearty abandon of a venerable atom bomb. She sang her lusty songs in the unmodulated style which made her a big star for more years than even she will admit, but there's more of Sophie to be seen which insists that she shouldn't keep on shouting her thoughtful and amusing wares in that fashion.

"I would like just to own the shop which sells Sophie the fabulous gowns, jewels and flowers for her gaudy appearances. Hildegarde has a reputation for being a lively young lady on a cafe floor, full of verve and vitality, tossing her hands into the air as she displays her fashionable gowns, jewels and flowers. But the more of Sophie to be seen is encased in fabulously expensive gowns of beady glitter. She walks on the floor like a young babe of 20, immediately attracting the grins of the ladies in the audience as they get a gander of the exquisite white milk coat. The Last of the Red Hot Mamas affects—just for her opening song.

"You simply have to knock the girls over when you walk out on the stage," says Sophie. "Then you stand still for a few minutes, let them get a good look at the small fortune you've spent to present a handsome sight they can't forget for the next five or six days."

Hildegarde may wear a cozy little tunic of one or two or three, Mrs. Tucker, never a lady for greenhouse restraint in eyes in front of the bandstand bedecked in a dozen, and maybe more, of the largest and best ornith money can buy. She has pearls in her hair, diamonds on her shoulders. Her necklaces are bangles which would make up a good part of the weight of a balanced armload. By the way, Sophie has nothing in a small way. Even her hair is left straight. It is said to be the highest paid and most successful in the business. It is a corker, she says. It has to say on with Sophie because it can't get another job for her. It's a good musician who has written dozens of songs for her. But it's only to Sophie and her maternal affection for Ted has lasted for more than 25 years.

"And has collected three big hands," adds Sophie. "There's not much to be said about Sophie except to note that she's better than ever. She has new songs as is her custom from time and time to time. She's still written as usual by Jack Yellen, the musical comedy composer, and are new and bright. She's got a lot of new songs of Sophie's in the air on stage tops, tops."

Reason For Pirates League Lead Not Puzzling To Wagner

PITTSBURGH, Apr. 23—Veteran coach Honus Wagner says it's no mystery to him why the Pittsburgh Pirates are on top of the National League. Says the flying Dutchman: "It's the new owners, President Frank McKim, Secretary Tom Johnson and that guy Bing Crosby. They've been on hand for every game and have got the players all set up and we'd be mighty hard to beat for the pennant."

Reasons for expecting last year's record attendance figures to hold up again this season include an increase in the number of night games, and added interest in such cities as Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Jacksonville School Fined For Playing Ineligible Athlete

JACKSONVILLE, Apr. 23.—Executive Secretary Dafayette Golden of the Florida State High School Athletic Assn. yesterday ruled that Sam Cole, Andrew Jackson High School star football and baseball player, was ineligible because he was over the age limit.

In a letter to Principal M. A. DeMorest of the Jacksonville High School, Golden notified officials he was fining the school $750 plus the $118.50 costs of investigation.

The PHSAA executive secretary also forfeited all the football and baseball games Jackson won in which Cole played.

"My investigation," Golden wrote DeMorest, "has failed to connect you or any member of your faculty with the evident plan to make it appear that an ineligible player was used as a result of manipulation of records which caused him to be declared eligible."

"Because of the fact that I have not been able to find any such evidence the Andrew Jackson High School will not be suspended from membership in the Florida High School Athletic Association but the following ruling, which is subject to appeal on your part to the executive committee for review and confirmation, reversal, or such adjustment as the executive committee may see fit to make, is as follows:

"Samuel Luther Cole was ineligible for all athletic competition during the current school year and was allowed by me to participate in interscholastic contests upon the strength of evidence submitted which afterwards proved to be erroneous. To say that I am sorry is to say that I am sorry that I have participated in such contests and that I am sorry that I have forfeited to your opponents."

However, the union's ranking negotiators were scheduled to take the council's ultimatum back to another conference with the corporation today.

GM's latest offer of a 14 1/2 cent wage boost and an additional 3 1/2 cents for six annual holidays pay has been turned down. The national council rejected this offer on the advice of Auto Workers' President Walter Reuther.

FAMILIES ARE HEALTHY WHEN HOME-MAKERS ARE SPECIALISTS WITH FOOD

It is practically impossible to learn "too much" about anything in which you specialize or want to specialize. The more you know about something, the better chance you have of making a success of it.

These ideas certainly apply to the very important matter of food, and they certainly should be kept in mind by those who should be specialists in food—the homemakers. Homemakers are particularly interested in keeping their families well and happy, and providing good, wholesome food, properly prepared, will go a long way toward achieving these objectives.

Many home-makers are good cooks, and their families reflect their knowledge and culinary skill by their consistently good health. Usually, these women are on the alert for new and better ways of preparing food and are continually trying to learn more about foods and their nutritive values. That's the reason they are good cooks.

There are some home-makers, however, who do not do as good a job of feeding their families as they should, and, as a result, their families are not as healthy as they should be. Surveys have shown that there is much room for improvement in the diets of many Southern families, and any improvement that is made must be made by the home-maker.

For good health and spirits, one must have wholesome, nutritious food, a varied diet, and food that is properly prepared and attractively served. There are many foods, so there is not much excuse for lack of variety if one knows how to prepare them properly. As foods vary in nutritive value and in the duties they perform in the human body, it is necessary to prepare meals so that one food will balance with another to provide adequate nutrition for those who eat them.

To be a good cook and to provide good, healthful food for her family, the home-maker must have a knowledge of foods and food values, must know how to prepare them so her family will receive full benefit from them, and must continually keep on the lookout for new and better ways of preparing food.

In the home demonstration club the home-maker may obtain a great deal of helpful information on foods from her county home demonstration agent and from other club members. Membership in a home demonstration club will help her to keep her family healthy and happy.

$2,800,000 Of UMW Fine Is Refunded

Lewis Makes Donation From Union Refund Of $100,000 To Telephone Strikers

WASHINGTON, Apr. 24—Federal Judge Alah Goldsborough today ordered the refund of $2,800,000 of the $3,500,000 contempt fine imposed on the United Mine Workers. Assistant Attorney General John Sonnett appearing for the government offered no objection to the refund. He told the court that it appeared the partial so-called work stoppage in the soft coal mines had caused and will cause no real injury to the people of the United States.

John L. Lewis promptly contributed $100,000 of the union's fine refund to the striking telephone workers. Less than an hour after Judge Goldsborough refunded the money, UMW officials arrived at telephone strike headquarters with the $100,000 check.

The government was involved in the case because the strike notice was served on Interior Secretary Julius Krug, who has charge of the mines under government seizure. According to one justice department official the union appears to have fully complied with the court order.

The case went before Judge Goldsborough two weeks ago. But at that time, Goldsborough postponed his decision until today. He said then that the miners' mourning holiday, called after the Centralia, Ill., coal mine disaster had the effect of a strike. "The situation," Goldsborough declared, "is an endeavor to cause a strike originally called for April 1st."

3 Burglars Rob Canadian Bank Of $250,000 In Loot

TORONTO, Apr. 24—Three masked bandits last night seized the keys of a caretaker for a branch of the Royal Bank of Canada broke into the safety deposit vault and escaped with a loot that might total $250,000. The robbers first broke into the third floor apartment of the bank's caretaker, and bound him, his wife and daughter. One of the holdup men was left behind to watch the caretaker while the other two used the keys to enter the bank's vault and smash open about 80 safety deposit boxes. The robbers still were at work when a friend of the caretaker called at the apartment. He, too, was tied up.

The caretaker, Duncan Stuart, told police the bandits were dressed in blue overalls, with their heads and faces completely covered by black masks. Three hours after the robbery, police arrested the caretaker's wife managed to break her bonds and summon aid.

Wallace Favors U. S. Getting Arabian Oil

PARIS, Apr. 24—Henry Wallace said today he is in favor of the United States obtaining oil from Saudi Arabia. But he said this should be done through the United Nations; that "it would not seem so utterly imperative."

Wallace made this statement in a talk to the Anglo-American Press Association in Paris. He said he is a good enough American to want to see the United States get Saudi Arabian oil. But he added that by acting through the United Nations this country could eliminate charges of imperialism.

The former vice president was scheduled to make a round of conferences today with political groups and tonight he will make a major speech on France at the Sorbonne.

Pending Citrus Bills Opposed By Local Farm Group

Opposition to pending state legislation affecting maturity standards of citrus fruits in Florida was yesterday taken in the form of a letter to members of the Citrus Division of the Seminole County Farm Bureau, according to Harold Kastner, chairman. The meeting was held at the office of County Agent C. R. Dawson.

The opposition, according to Mr. Kastner, was directed against raising minimum solids in fruit as a means of tightening the maturity laws, as it was felt that growers and shippers have not given the plan enough thought to know what will result. Mr. Kastner was recently directed by Seminole County Farm Bureau President M. L. Cullum to investigate this pending legislation.

There was no doubt among those present," said Chairman Kastner, "that the U. S. Department of Agriculture has made a thorough and complete study of the subject, and it is believed that their recommended findings would insure good eating quality reaching the market. The failure has been in the industry in applying this knowledge."

Publishers Cramped By Paper Shortage, Says ANPA Leader

NEW YORK, Apr. 24—W. G. Chandler, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, told the sixty-first annual meeting of the organization today that the post-war period had brought more problems to publishers than they faced during the war.

"It seemed reasonable to expect a lessening of the problem of wartime publication but the reverse has been the fact," said Chandler, who is a member of the Scripps-Howard advisory board.

He declared that "the people of the United States are voluntarily buying more newspapers at higher prices per copy than in any previous year in our history" but added that "there are few, if any, publishers who could not increase sales and profits if more papers were available."

There is newspaper shortage and greatly increased payroll and paper costs are the publishers' principal problems, Chandler said.

He insisted, however, that a return to government controls was not the answer to newspaper difficulties, saying: "It is unfortunate that there is not enough printing surface for all the words that editors and advertisers wish to print. Government controls has all the implications of political and sectional favoritism."

DETROIT, Apr. 24—General Motors Corporation today rejected a CIO United Auto Workers offer to submit the 15-cent an hour wage rise to arbitration.

It offered to leave it up to an arbitrator whether the additional 3 1/2 cents should be paid as a flat increase.

Public Education Bill Unanimously Passed By House

Measure Is Approved After Defeat Of Proposed Change

TALLAHASSEE, Apr. 24—The House of Representatives today passed the following bills: relating to Seminole County zoning regulations; abolishing the town of Alhambra; spring ratifying Sanford ordinances closing streets, designating French Avenue in Sanford a State highway, relating to the fees of the Seminole County Judge and fixing the salaries of the Seminole County Commissioners.

The measure passed this afternoon after debate was defeated to soften a sweeping organization proposed in the bill.

The amendment was offered by Rep. Floyd of Franklin. It would have stricken out all proposed educational qualifications for county school superintendents.

Floyd said he knew of only two men in his county who were qualified for superintendent's posts under the citizen's proposal.

The House accepted, however, an amendment which would cut one requirement for superintendents. The House eliminated a provision which would require a superintendent to have three years teaching experience.

The House gave top priority to consideration of the education bill today, after deciding to make it a special order of business.

Marshall To Arrive In U. S. Saturday Disappointed Over Council's Failure

MOSCOW, Apr. 24—The foreign ministers conference ended today with the Big Four still deadlocked on treaty issues. Secretary of State Marshall said he was disappointed over the council's failure to reach agreement on the Austrian Treaty. The next Big Four meeting was set for London in November.

The State Department said that Secretary Marshall was expected to leave Moscow by plane on Friday and arrive in Washington late Saturday.

Authoritative sources in Moscow disclosed that Prime Minister Stalin will give a dinner tonight in the Kremlin for the ten top men of the visiting foreign ministers' delegations. Observers believe Molotov will use the occasion to reply to Secretary of State Marshall's charge that the complete failure of the Moscow conference is the fault of the Russians.

At the close of the conference, secretary Marshall expressed disappointment and said he particularly regrets that nothing was accomplished on the Austrian treaty, and that there was no agreement on the American proposal for a four-power treaty to keep Germany disarmed. However, Marshall said "We must regard this council's meeting as the first round."

The implications of the Moscow deadlock were discussed in a story published by Associated Press Correspondent W. J. Gallagher who said "The only delegates to the conference had expected much progress on the difficult Austrian and German treaties. But," he added, "they got even less than they hoped for."

According to Gallagher, the chief difficulty lay in the difference between the Russian attitude toward Germany and that of the three other powers. Britain, France and the United States, Gallagher (Continued on Page Four)
