Foreign food stamps nixed

WASHINGTON - It looks like foreign companies won't get a chance to print food stamps

In a letter last week to members of Congress. Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy said the department will require that food stamp coupons be printed within the United States.

Espy noted concerns raised by the Secret Service about its ability to guard against counterfeiting and theft of food stamps.

The government spends $50 million a year to print about $20 billion worth of food stamps. For the first time July 30, the department offered to let foreign firms bid on the printing the coupons.

But that drew protests from several lawmakers, including Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, and Rep. Marjorie Margolies-Mezvinkski, D-Pa.

Leahy argued that printing food stamps abroad would be the same as printing money abroad. Margolies-Mezvinkski's district includes Horsham, where more than 300 people work for the American Bank Note Co. printing food stamps.

Students gather for prayer during national event

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - A group of a little more than a dozen teens grew to nearly 50 as Seminole High School students lowered their heads in solemn prayer and lifted their voices

The students were meeting around the planter in the school's quadrangle to pray a half an hour before classes began.

"We are here to pray to the Lord for his help," said Tom Holland, who had helped organize the students. "We want to get people in the prayer attitude."

The students, many wearing to shirts proclaiming their Christian faith, were taking part in the national celebration of "See You at the Pole," an event that brought more than a million students together across the country to pray last year. They hope to bring at least that many together this year.

According to Holland, the program is planned and coordinated by the students with input only from adults who are asked.

Sidney Brock, minister of youth at the First Baptist Church of Sanford. was asked to write a suggested prayer format for the students to

"They can use it if they want," Brock said, "but this is something the kids are doing on their own."

Sanford airs three plans for land use

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Sanford will choose between three plans proposed for use of land across from Sanford Middle School, presented Monday by director of Planning and Development Jay

The property, approximately 10 acres, was purchased by the city for $470,000 on Jan. 29 of

Originally, Tidewater Enterprises of Clearwater had attempted to purchase the land from the Seminole County School Board for use as a strip-

After an outpouring of objections to a strip mall from residents of the residential area to the east of the property, the city denied the rezoning request. In exchange, it chose to purchase the property itself, with no specific purpose determined for the land at that time.

Since then, several discussions have been made at city commission meetings regarding the possible use of the land. Originally, it was conceived as a possible recreational park.

County to support zoo as long as it's active

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - Seminole County commissioners pleaged continued support for the Central Florida Zoological Society as long as their plans include an active zoo in Seminole County.

Commissioner Larry Furlong raised the vocal concern over the society's desire to develop a major zoological program in Orange and Osceola Counties, saying more county control is needed over the spending of its annual $180,000 tourist tax grants to the zoo.

"We need the ability to review the use of the money," said Furlong. "I think we should have some recoupment of the grant in case we're left with only a bug and snake exhibit."

Last month, society president Kathleen Palmer announced plans to develop a "Wild Way" wildlife See Zoo, Page 2A

Tropical Storm Gert forms

MIAMI - Tropical Storm Gert has formed in the Caribbean Sea and forecasters say they are concerned that the wet system could cause flashfloods and mudslides in Central America.

Gert, the seventh named storm of the 1993 Atlantic season. quickly formed into a tropical depression Monday and became a tropical storm early today, said Lexion Avila, a forecaster with the National Hurricane Center in suburban Coral Gables. At 5 a.m. EDT. Gert was located at 11 degrees north latitude and 82.4 degrees west longitude with sustained winds of 40 mph. Avila said the storm was 100 miles east of Bluefields, Nicaragua, and was moving west northwest at about 10 mph. A tropical storm warning is in effect for the entire Caribbean coastline and the adjacent islands from Puerto Cabezas. Nicaragua through Costa Rica. Gert was expected to make landfall sometime today. "The most important thing to remember about this system is the rainfall." Avila said. "When that type of the system moves into Central America there are usually flashfloods and mudslides." He said major strengthening of storm was unlikely.

Avila compared the system to Tropical Storm Bret, which killed at least 150 people in Venezuela when its rains triggered mudalides in early August. Fatal arrest should have been routine

CRYSTAL RIVER - Law enforcement experts say that an arrest that proved fatal to a man in this small city should have been routine, not deadly.

Jerome Bunch. 25, was shot in the head point-blank on Sunday by one of seven officers after Bunch tried to choke another officer while handcuffed, police say.

"I find it almost incomprehensible - unless there are some other exacerbating circumstances - why seven supposedly well-trained officers could not control one suspect without the use of deadly force," criminology professor Frederick Shenkman, a veteran of 25 years with the University of Florida in Gainesville, said Tuesday.

Dennis Martin, president of the National Association of Chiefs of Police, agreed that questionable police actions gave Bunch an opportunity in the first place to choke Sgt. Kathleen "Kat"

Palmer asserted the society had no plans to abandon the west-Banford zoo and indeed. lanned to make it a part of a three-county zoo network that would include a new zoo at the county's Yankee Lake site. Palmer said Tuesday the society would like to use between 200 and 250 acres of Yankee Lake for a zoo and endangered species management reserve. The federally-protected scrub jay frequents the sandy portions of The site. Public Works Director Larry Sellers said the county pould spare the land if the society could get state and l'ederal environmental approvals. Last month, Furlong suggested the society board be expanded to include county commission appointees and that the county have equity control of 200 operations based on their 6180,000 a year grant.

Tuesday, Palmer said society board members had voted to approve an board membership invitations to commissioner Daryl McLain and former commissioner Sandra Glenn, a member of the Tourist Development Commission. But Eurlong was joined by fellow commissioners in their call for tighter controls over their 200 grants. They agreed the 200 should be required to use the money for specific projects in Seminole County If not, the grant should be returned. County Manager Ron Rabun said grant contract wording would be prepared.

Furlong was also joined by other commissioners in urging Palmer to increase their efforts to match the grant with Orange County-based government

Furlong and commissioner Dick Van Der Weide both cited their fellow commissioner's decision to contribute $1 million to the Orlando Science Center during the next five years. Orange County has contributed $5,000 to the zoo each year since 1977.

Palmer said she welcomed county support in solciting out--of-county grants, but the society did not want the tourist tax grant to be held liable to raising those funds.

Sanford budget passes first reading

By MCK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Sanford City Commission went through the first miliage setting and formal budget hearing Monday night. Only one citizen voiced concern.

For fiscal year 1993-94, the city's general fund operating budget has been approved for $14,052,674. The total budget including all resources is slightly over $38.7 million.

The miliage rate was set at 6.8759 was approved. The amount is 0.1632 percent higher than the rolled-back rate. According to the wording of the proposal, "This is necessary for City to provide continuing level of City services in the face of inflation and to meet new demands associated with new development."

When the first reading was held during the commission meeting, local business owner Sylvester Chang was the only person to step forward for public

He told the commission it was disheartening to read the comparison of millage between Sanford and other cities.

"Cities are like businesses," he said. "Business is cutting people and projects because they are forced to work with lower budgets. I would suggest you find some way to reduce your budget needs in the future."

"This (local taxes) is especially hard for small businesses," he continued. "Some of our fees meeting on Sept. 27.

Mayor Bettye Smith responded that in preparing the budget, each department was cut from what was requested. "We are not raising the millage," she said. "It's the same as it has been for the past few years."

Commenting on a Sanford Herald graph (Sunday) showing Sanford with highter proposed millage than the cities of Lake Mary or Longwood, she added, "It's too bad they didn't compare the tax base as well. After all," she added, "40 percent of our city property is tax exempt."

During the commission work session prior to the regular meeting. City Manager Bill Simmons explained various points of the budget including the new Classification and Pay Plan which has been established for city employees which is included in the new budget. The new pay schedule is to go into effect on Oct. 1 of this year.

LAKE MARY - The City Commission approved a $4.671,971 budget Monday night on first reading. The miliage rate was also approved for 3.7648.

"We are in excellent financial condition," said Finance Director Randy Knight. In explaining the overall budget, he told the commission the present year's budget is expected to have approximately a $1.2 miltion carryover into the next fiscal

"And with the fiscal 1993-94 budget," he added. "we expect the general fund balance to be approximately $992,000 for the following year."
Over $200,000 of the carryover from the previous year has already been put into the new budget in order to meet

City Manager John Litton explained the overall budget to the commission. He went through the various items which have an affect on the overall budget including insurance reallocation, police and fire pension changes, the cost of a new fire truck, and pay increases for city employees

Litton reminded the commission that once the tentative millage is approved, it can be lowered, but not raised without contacting every voter within the city.

"When we started deliberations in July," he said, "we set the tentative miliage at 3.8991 in an effort to provide flexibility. So if you want to approve that for this first reading, we can lower it when it comes up for second reading. During Litton's presentation, Knight presented a graph showing each of the municipalities in Seminole County and the proposed millage rates of each. The city of Lake Mary had the lowest. "Winter Springs has been the lowest in the county," Litton commented, "but now it's Lake Mary, with Sanford being the highest."

The commission, on a unanimous vote, approved the lower rate of 3.7648 mills, which is a 2.19 percent over the rolled-back rate but the same level as in the past year for Lake Mary.

"With our millage staying the same," Litton said, "we also are pleased to announce that we do not intend to raise fees for any other city services over which we have control."

In addition to planned merit pay increases from zero to three percent, the city will also be adding a new parks supervisor and changing the level of a number of present employees plus adding one new police officer.

Both the proposed millage rate and budget were approved by unanimous votes of the com-

Vacuum truck may jeopardize Longwood budget

By SAMORA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - A vacuum truck for cleaning sewers with an attachment for sweeping the streets threatened to derail next year's entire Longwood City idet Monday night on first Commissioner Steve Miller critized the $43,000 Pam in the public works budget for the new truck. Miller said when he contacted Public Works Director Richard Kornbluh last week, he was told the 'vactor truck' was the "street sweeper." Although the truck was in last year's budget, the commission did not approve purchasing the truck. Miller called for rejection of the budget ordinance, but the motion died for lack of a second.

City manager James McFellin said if the commission did not okay the equipment purchase next year, the money would remain unspent as it did this year. The total price of the vacuum truck is $136,000. Under the five-year capital im-provement program, $43,000 is budgeted in flacal year 1993-94 for the truck with the remaining payments divided over the next four years.

"I am amazed, just amazed that truck is back in this year's budget," Miller said after the meeting.

Taking the line item out of the budget at this late date commissioner Harvey Smerilson warned would result in an unbalanced budget. The city is required to pass a balanced budget.

The subject of the truck sparked a simmering exchange between Mayor Paul Lovestrand and McFellin. McFellin said the city could purchase a suction truck with no street sweeping attachments but warned that buying a single purpose truck was short-sighted.

"Your're being penny-wise and pound foolish," McFellin

Lovestrand said he thought two city employees with brooms and a pickup truck could adequately clean the stormwater outlets without purchasing the new truck.

Lovestrand critized the capital improvement plan for its lack of information ranging from the long-range costs of maintaining equipment like the new police cars being purchased in next year's budget to the locations, dates, and times planned for new ☐See Longwood, Page 5A tions, Marder presented three options to the city during this week's commission work session.

They were as follows:

●Number 1 — Approximately 5 1/4 acres of land near the intersections of 15th Street and Elm Avenue would be used as a public safety complex, for a new combined police and fire department operational headquarters. Slightly over three acres along the western side of Elm would be for a recreation center, and alightly over three acres abutting French Avenue would be for indoor retail commercial development.

• Number 2 — The recreation area would be open space, and include all land abutting Elm Avenue from 15th Street to 18th Street, with almost 4 acres of land olong French Avenue devoted to indoor retail commercial businesses, and two acres on 15th Street designated for a new fire station. •Number 3 - The same as number 2, except rather than a recreation open space area, the portion along Elm Avenue would become a single-family residen-

City Manager Bill Simmons explained, "The purpose of these proposals is so the commission may begin crystalizing a direction which may lead to rezoning."

He observed, "One of our highest priorities is to move the fire station out of its present location. Access would be along 15th Street, and it would be good because there is a traffic light at the intersection of 15th and French.'

He continued. "I do want to say that the police station is also running out of space. We have considered enlarging the building at the present location, with possibly going up to a second story, which would go over the top of the parking area, and avoid cutting out any of that needed space.

Simmons suggested a cost analysis be looked into to determine which way might better serve the police department and be economically feasable. "I think we could make do with the organic police department building for another five or six years," said Commissioner Whitey Eckstein. "But I do think they could make better use of the space they have." Simmons suggested the commission should decide what it wants to do with the land before any rezoning is considered.

"We should go ahead with the front portion for the retail/commercial area," said commissioner A.A. McClanahan. 'and leave the rest open for a future decision. I don't think we need to etch everything in concrete right away."

The only objection was from Commissioner Lon Howell, who commented that he believed the entire property should be made into a recreation area.

With a concensus vote from the commission, Simmons said he would continue investigating the matter for several more weeks then examine the possibility of rezoning some of the area.

More county computer equipment is stolen

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - For the fourth time in a number of months, a computer related theft has been reported at Seminole County facilities. Sometime during this past weekend, an estimated $16,872 in equipment was reported stolen from the County Services building on E. First Street.

According to Sanford police reports, items taken between 5:15 p.m. Friday, Sept. 10 and 7:50 a.m. Monday Sept. 13 include three computers, two keyboards, two printers, one monitor, and other computer related equipment and software.

Police reported no forced entry could be determined at room 3167 of the Graphic Arts Division department.

Seminole County Director of Central Services, Cindy Wright, said the earlier theft took place at the County Services facility during the July 4th weekend. At that time, police reported two PC computers and two monitors, valued at approximately $12,000, were stolen from a room in the Seminole County Property Appraiser's office. Those items have not been

Also earlier this year, several more items were reportedly stolen from the main courthouse on North Park Avenue. Wright said computer diskettes were stolen, and three computer boxes were broken open with memory chips removed.

The Services Building has a full time contract with a security company which provides guards on a 24 hour basis. "But it's not an easy job to cover an entire 100,000 square-foot building all the time," Wright commented.

She reported the equipment stolen during this past weekend was used in the graphic department to support the Planning and Development requirements by creating such visuals as land use maps and other displays.

County: Saltwater infiltration not as great as declared

Heraid Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD - The saltwater threat to Seminule County's drinking water supply is not as great as declared by a $313,500 county study, but is still a threat, water experts from the St. Johns River Water Mangement District said Monday.

District officials told county commissioners Monday there may be a greater threat from declining wellwater levels which could cause wetlands to dry up and drinking water wells to run dry. The fullest extent of the risk won't be known until later this

In 1991, the county released the conclusions of five-year study by Camp, Dresser and who use more than 15,000 McKee Inc. of Maitland, which gallons per month of water. declared that between 1985 and swept in under the county from the coast and by 2005, would begin to threaten public water supplies in Sanford and elsewhere in the county.

The study declared a countywide water use of 28 million gailons per day would prevent the saline contamination of public wells but in 1991, the county was already consuming 52 mgd and by 2005, the county would use 85.4 mgd based on growth trends.

CDM recommended the county begin an "inverted" water rate system to discourage large-scale water concumption with higher rates and other conservation measures. Last year, commissioners adopted a slightly higher rate for residents Vergara said CDM had not reviewed district data which showed saltwater levels were not as high as CDM suggested.

"We had no data to document the movement of the saltwater interface suggested in the study," Vergara said.

LAKE MARY - Officer Rulon R. Romanowski has been terminated from the Lake Mary police force. Romanowski stands accused of armed burglary, connected with an incident on Aug. 24 at Home Depot in Lake Mary.

Rejuvenation of Midway begins with water lines

For too long, Midway has been considered the stepchild of Seminole County. But now, that stepchild is on the threshhold of coming fully into its own in the community.

Next week, a Seminole County contractor is scheduled to begin work on a long-awaited project in Midway: six miles of rusting. leaking water lines will be replaced. The work is the culmination of an issue which emerged two years ago when residents began to question their highest-around water bills. They found part of the reason for high water costs when numerous leaks were found in the

We're giad to see the county continue its efforts to help improve conditions for the proud citizens of Midway. While residents may see a reduction in their water bills in a year or two when the replacement is compléted, we believe they may soon see other changes in their community, longconsidered a stepchild of the county.

The refurbished water system may provide a pipeline for Midway's emergence from shantytown to thriving neighborhood. Many steps have already been made in that direction: the residents and Sheriff Don Ealinger have chased away much of the crime, Habitat for Humanity and the county have worked hard to improve housing, and the county has begun a drainage fix which

Our responsibility

Two centuries ago on Sept. 17, 1787, a constitutional convention gave the biosprint and laid the groundwork for a new "united" nation to replace the 13 squabbling states which had gained independence just a decade before. How well would this constitution work? What are the long range results of this document? How does it affect the lives of the people of the United States? What are our responsibilities?

A loose confederation of 13 states each with its own interests uppermost, could not meet the expanding problems of the newborn nation. The infant country was plagued with weakness and expanding problems of the newborn nation. The infant country was plagued with weakness and lack of direction. Sharp differences in aims and purposes threatened anarchy and resultant fragmentation. Independence was not enough.

At Philadelphia the delegates haramered out a document simed at "establishing a more period union." Power and responsibilities were delegated to a central federal government. While it became effective in 1790, after Rhode Island became tile ninth state to ratify the Constitution, some of the states elemored for a clearer and fuller statement of rights and liberties in the new United States. They refused to sign until a Bill of Rights was included with provision for amendments as needed. Virginia became the ninth state to ratify the Bill of Rights and make it an effective part of American heritage. and make it an effective part of American herita

We have a "united" nation of many states that has emerged into the world scene with strength, vigor and opportunity. We have a degree of freedom not possessed by any other great nation on earth. Freedom guaranteed by a Constitution and Bill of Rights, a judicial system which seeks to preserve them, a legislative system which seeks to expand them, and an executive system which seeks to protect them from our enemies.

A multitude of further reasons could amplify the liberties, rights, and opportunities which are our iscritage. If we accept the privileges of our constitutional freedoms and American liberties, then ours is the obligation and reasonability to material them by attenuationing the moral liber of our nation, and by assuring the law and justice remain effective enough to prevent their deterioration and decay. May our heritage never be weakened by apathy, neglect or political chicanery, but always held in high regard and respect by all the inhabitants of the land.

Israel looks like a winner After agony,

In the end, after so much agony, and so much war, the israelis and the Palestiniana moved quickly toward a deal involving mutual recognition. Many Arab states are joining in. But who won? And why now? Some of the answers are clouded, some purposefully. Some answers will come only as the remarkable century-long story of Zionism reveals itself further. Remember, it began from a base of almost no land and almost no people.

Most of the indicators of victory are in Israel's favor. When the U.S.S.R. collapsed, many Arab nations lost their military superpower sponsor. That also allowed Russian Jews to emigrate to Israel, adding almost a half-million people to larael, starkly changing an already extraordinary demographic history. America's victory in the Gulf War was pivotal. Iraq is now a crippled player and so is the PLO, because it backed Iraq. Low oil prices have discounted Arab power.

Saudi Arabia is running a deficit!
Other changes are harder to score. The surge of Islamic fundamentalism has scared Arabs and israelis alike. Maybe a deal must be made while there are still some mildly rational players around the table. For some Israelis, the longrange Scud attacks from Iraq discounted the value of territory as a defensive asset.

There is another reason for likely israeli victory. The strategy of the israeli hard-liners worked pretty well. Israel's governing left-ofcenter Labor Party doesn't want to stress that.

They opposed the policy. The right-of-center Likud Party doesn't want to talk it about either. They are now opposing the new deal. Two summers ago

I met for several hours with Gen. Ariel Sharon, Israel's super-hawk, then the Housing Minister of the Likud-run gov; ernment. Sharon laid out a succession of maps showing where new largell housing had been built in the recent past, and the hoped) would be built in the future. Most of the building was on land that names favored by Likudniks rather than "The West Bank." Under any nomenclature, it was territory that Israel occupied following the 1967 attack by the Araba.

Sharon's maps expressed the so-called "create-new-facts-on-the-ground" strategy. The Likud has always maintained that the land of the West Bank rightfully belonged to Israel. Their idea after 1967 was to encourage laraelis to live there. That happened. Today, more than 100,000 Israelis reside on more than 100 West Bank settlements. And that does not count the approximately 150,000 people in the ring of annexed Jewish suburbs now circling Jerusalem.

The expansionist Likud strategy caused consternation, in Israel, and around the world. But, regardless of how one assesses the competing land claims, the New Facts strategy gave peace a chance, it helped force recalcitrant Palestinians to negotiate.

The way the Israelis and the PLO have temporarily resolved the issue of the settlements gives a further flavor of who won what. Although Labor opposed much of the original policy, Israel will not return the settlements during the five-year interim period of Palestinian autonomy.

A test case instead of a family

BUSTON - This time it was different. The custody fight in the news was not between an entranged husband and wife. Nor was it between biological parents and adoptive

The opponents who appeared in a Virginia courtroom to wrestle over a 2-year-old were 42-year-old Kay Bottoms and 23-year-old aron Bottoms. A mother and a daughter.

On Sept. 7, Kay Hottoms was ownership of her grandeon by morally discoving her daughter. On that day, the judge announced her victory by declaring her daughter a defeat. The young mather was legally labeled "unfit" and "immoral."

in legal annuls this custody fight will be a landmark case about my rights — or lack of rights — to their children. Indeed, Sharon Bottoms' crime that made her unfit is that she lives in a leabian relationship. What she and April Wade do in the privacy of their own home to a felony in their state.

In 1985, the Virginia Supreme Court had ruled that a father's homaexuality alone placed an "intolerable burden" on a child. He was denied custody. In this case, Judge Buford Parsons wrote, "The mother's conduct is illegal...her conduct is immoral... (it) renders her an unfit parent." This time a biological parent didn't lose a custody to the other biological parent, but to a grandparent.

To say that the laws regarding the custody rights of homosexuals are in flux is to use flux as a synonym for chaos. There are about four million to six million homosexual parents of about six million to ten million children in the country, most of them shildren from saylier. country, most of them children from earlier marriages.

In some states a divorcing homosexual parent routinely loses custody in a dispute with a heterosexual parent. In other states, gays and leadings can adopt children. Inneed in Fort Worth, Texas, a leablen just adopted the child that her long-term lover had conceived through donor insemination.

For every decision that finds homosexual parenting unfit and immoral by its very nature there is a ruling like the one in New nature there is a ruling like the one in New York that approved a gay adoption saying: "This court finds a child who has...two adults dedicated to his welfare....There is no reason in law, logic or social philosophy to obstruct such a favorable attestion." In such construct, I am sure the Verginia case will be appealed. But what intrigues me the most about this story is not just its legal dimension but also its human dimension.

The family in this intergenerational dispute over minors and morals is not without personal problems. The father of the boy is, as people say discreetly, not a factor. Until this custody issue arose, the grandmother, Kay Bottoms, had a live-in boyfriend for 17 years. Bottome, had a live-in boyfriend for 17 years. That was once illegal in some states, still immoral in some minds. On the witness stand, the daughter said that she left home at 18 because this boyfriend sexually abused her.

When Kay testified that living with lesbians

"is just going to mess him up," did this young grandmother forget that there were infinite ways to "mess" children up? When she worried out loud that the boy would be confused about men. women, gender, sex, did she forget that confusion comes in many guises?

How confusing will it be, after all, for this

It be grounds for losing custody on the illusory notion that a child must be protected. No court can stop Sharon Bottoms from being homosexual. No court can rule and no grandmother can pretend that Tyler doesn't have a lesbian mother.

Kay Bottoms is not the only grandparent

How different this story could have been. At their best, grandparents can provide a buffer, a wider circle of acceptance, more family for grandchildren who go through rough spots and tough times. They can provide support as well for parents, especially young parents who may still need a bit of mothering.

Even in the courtroom last week, there were cofter words among the harsh ones. "I would never deny him his mother," said Kay Bottoms, looking at the floor. "She's a good grandmother," said Sharon Bottoms, avoiding her mother's eyes.

The courts specialize in wins and losses. The mother and daughter were in conflict instead of concert. Today in Virginia there is a new test case. There might have been a family,

Home health-care costs hit ceiling

WASHINGTON - If Sarah Weber represents the new face of health care in America. then health-care reform has even one more hurdle to leap.

Weber, 10, lives in Cleveland Heights, Ohio, and has a medical history that no one would envy: Setzures, cerebral palsy and a maifunctioning intestinal system.

Despite all this. Weber was able to receive her care at home rather than a hospital due to the newcat wave in health care: Home infusion. Although ahe needs more than keep her alive, Weber in tended to at home by her mother. Marie Kostos-Weber, who has become her daughter's full-time

Sadly, a hospital would have been cheaper.

Sarah Weber's care costs $100,000 per month, substantially more than it would have cost to keep her in Cleveland's Mount Sinai Hospital. Cases like here have also become a large reason why insurance com-panies and the federal government are finally waking up to the problems that have sprung up in the fastest growing area of the health-care field.

Home health-care providers claim they have to overcharge for the drugs and equipment they provide to compensate for the costs of providing nursing support staff and uncompensated care for those who cannot afford it. Others see the unregulated state of the industry as a recipe for overcharges and abuse.

"You have shown me some of what is most incredibly wrong with health care in this country today, namely, greed," wrote John Figueroa to his home health care company. according to the New York City Department of Consumer Affairs in 1991, Figueroa, who was receiving treatment for AIDS, wrote the department after learning that his home-care company was charging him more than $80 for a drug that cost $39.35 wholesale, and was paying almost $10 for for a sterile water Solution that cost less than $2 in a pharmacy.

AIDS patients like Figueroa have become some of the saddest victims of inflated costs in home health care. Since many hospitals. especially in big cities, do not have the facilities to care for the growing number of AIDS patients, many patients are treated at home with life-prolonging medications. As the AIDS epidemic worsened, the price of these medications went through the roof.

For example, Pentamidine is one of the main drugs used to guard against the onset of AIDS-related pneumonia. Rarely used before the spread of AIDS, Pentamidine cost about $25 per vial in 1986. By 1991, when its use had become widespread, the wholesale price had climbed to $100 per vial, and was retailing for as much as $300 per vial.

As health-care costs spiraled in the 1980s, home health-care companies grew exponentially. With the advent of new technology, and with insurance companies pressuring hospitals to release patients as early as possible, home care became an attractive, low-cost alternative to extended hospital stays. In many cases, medicines could be administered by family members or by the patients themselves after receiving training from a skilled sume. Oten, home care ende up costing patients and insurance companies far less than they would pay for hospital care.

But while home care frew as an industry.

But while home care grew as an industry, state and federal regulatory agencies failed to catch up. In some states, getting into the home health care field became as easy as opening a 7-Eleven franchise: All that was needed in many cases to provide home health care to Medicare and Medicaid beneficiaries was a supplier billing number.

Sadly, a hospital would have been cheaper.

wheelchair, often pushed by his aide Diane Merkt or his wife, Trudy Sturm.

Sturm died at Florida Hospital Altamonte at 6:49 p.m. following several days of semiconsciousness, visitors said.

The announcement of Sturm's death was made during a budget hearing of the Seminole County Board of County Commissioners by Vice Chairman Dick Van Der Welde. Van Der Welde called for a moment of silence among the 50 or so members of the public and two dozen county staffers County Manager Ron Rabun said he will notify Gov. Lawton Chiles today of Sturm's death. Chiles is charged with the responsibility of replacing Sturm for the remainder of his term. which ends in November 1994.

Sturm, who lived in The Forest subdivision near Lake Mary, is survived by his wife Trudy, mother, Rose C. Sturm of St. Petersburg: five children: 12 grandchildren; and four great grandchildren. Funeral arrangements are being handled by Baldwin-Fairchild Funeral Home in Altamonte Springs.

Sturm was born in Girard. Ohio and graduated from Parker High School in Dayton, Ohio. He served in the Navy from 1943 to 1946, stationed at Great Lakes, Illinios, Norfolk, Virgina and the South Pacific. He was a veteran of the Phillipines, Okinawa and Japanese campaigns.

Sturm moved to Seminole County from Pinellas County in 1969 and quickly became active in local politics and civic organizations, including the organization of the Forest Homeowner's Association, Seminole County League of Civic Associations and Florida Hospital Foundation Board. As his interest in politics frew, he became active in the Seminole County Republican Executive Committee, Florida State Republican Party, and National Republican Party.

Sturm's daughter Brenda Dyckes of Altamonte Springs said her father decided to move into public life soon his near heart attack and subsequent bypass operation in 1977.

"My father was always active," said Dyckes. "He loved to do yard work and do things around the house. Our yard was always meticulous. He liked to put in additions to all our homes and build walls in rooms.

"After his heart attack, his doctor told him to slow down, he would not be able to do those sorts of things anymore. So he decided to into public office." Sturm's friends and colleagues remember him as a conservative leader who was mindful of the public but willing to take an unpopular stance, even against four other commissioners. Last year, Sturm endorsed the county's authorization of the sale of Sanlando Utilities to a resident group amid hundreds of residenta opposing the deal and the rejection of all his fellow commissioners.

Sturm was also a strong supporter of road construction. noteably the Seminole County Expressway, but recognized the drabness of most highway vistas and often remarked on the natural beauty of Spring Hammock surrounding U.S. Highway 17-92. He was a strong backer of the controversial Lake Mary Boulevard Gateway Ordinance.

which placed aesthetic zoning regulations along the roadway.

And while conservative. Sturm was also willing to commit tax dollars when he believed there would be a long-range savings or benefit. He opposed sharing the courthouse with judicial staff and fought for construction of a new county administrative building when the majority of the commissioners opted to renovate the old Seminole Memorial Hospital for county offices.

This year, he took up the same banner again, pushing for construction of a new County Services Building in a centralized portion of the county.

"He stood for fundamental conservative Issues," said Art Grindle, former state representitive from Seminole County. "Bob never went for the shad-

He was very dedicated and hardworking. He was always willing to help out. He was involved in several campaigns and helped me very much on my first campaign.

"For any party function, he would not only pull his weight. but usually two or three times his weight," said Grindle. "He was a most outstanding performer for the Republican Streetman said he will always remember Sturm sitting as chairman, building consensus among disagreeing commissioners and often adding a touch of humor. During the holiday season two years ago, Sturm frequently tapped his musical tie which chimed out a tinkling "Jingle Bells" during prolonged meetings.

Streetman recalls Sturm's first campaign slogan was "You can call me Strum or you can call me Sturm," borrowing from a popular comedy act of the time and a reference to a frequent mispronunciation of his name.

"Once in office, he was always willing to help the people," said Streetman. "I will always remember my close personal friendship with him. What a loss for me. What a loss for the people."

Harry Hagle preferred to remember his close friend by reading a birthday card he never got a chance to deliver. Sturm's 68th birthday was last Friday.

His voice breaking. Hagle recited "My friend, we have come such a long way in the time we have known each other. We've given each other encouragement and have accomplished things we never thought we could do. I have become a better person since knowing you. You have given me many things which I will treasure for a lifetime and the most important thing of all is the gift of your friendship."

"Rest in peace, my dear firend Bob," he added.

Clinton plan: universal communications link

By DIANE DUSTON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Imagine living at the beach and rarely visiting your big city job because the nation has been wired with a communications system that makes working from home as good as being in your office.

Telephone, television and computer companies have the vision and are working on the technology. A Clinton administration task force is being assigned to make sure all Americans share the experience as soon as possible.

The administration also sees development of a more advanced communications system as key to economic growth in the United States and essential in improving health care and education.

Vice President Al Gore and Commerce Secre-tary Ron Brown were releasing more details today.

An advance copy of their National Information Infrastructure Agenda for Action describes plans for a web of communications networks, computers databases and consumer electronics that 'will change forever the way people live, work and interact with each other.

People would be able to live almost anywhere they want and "telecommute" via the "electronic highways" of high-capacity cables hooked to computers and two-way television. They'd use wireless phones and computers to bounce messages off satellites from even the remotest mountain top to business clients.

In this grand scheme, students would use similar devices to reach the best teachers and libraries. The latest information about health care and other crucial services would be available to patients from professionals at the press of a President Clinton has established an "information infrastructure task force" of federal officials, headed by the commerce secretary, that will work with Congress and industry to build the network.

One of their jobs will be to assure that government operations and regulations are not hindering speedy private development of new communications systems and to direct government research and development that complements industry but has such long-term returns that hustnesses can't afford to do it.

The task force will be advised by a panel of 25 members from the private sector.

The task force's work is expected to lead to an overhaul of the Communications Act of 1934. It has been changed over the years by legislation addressing new technologies, but has its roots in the days when there was one telephone company and broadcasting was young. The law's guiding principle has been "universal service" so all Americans, no matter how low their incomes, would have access to the information the technology provided. Broadcast news and entertainment was free. Telephone lines were installed in neighborhoods the phone company knew never would support the cost of service. But the law did not envision cable TV, computer databases, wireless telephones or videoconferencing.

Ad campaign shelved after latest killing

By CATHERINE WILSON AP Business Writer

MIAMI - Florida tourism officials decided not to tempt fate.

About $2 million in promotional advertising was pulled Tuesday hours after a British tourist was shot to death at a rest stop east of Tallahassee. Gary Colley was the second foreign visitor to be killed in Florida in a week and the ninth in a year.

"There's no point hunting if the ducks ain't flying. Why runads when people aren't going to be coming?" said Bruce Turkel, whose agency has been chosen for Miami's next tourism promotion Greg Farmer, normally an irrepressible booster for the Sunshine State as state commerce secretary, momentarily lost his positive outlook.

"I'm Florida's promotional marketer, and I always want to say the most positive thing possible," he said. "There's just nothing I can say." He conceded a potential double-digit impact from the killings, noting one travel agent reported a 30 percent to 35 percent drop-off immediately after the killing of a German tourist in Miami in April. "It's going to be just catastrophic," said Farmer, estimating the potential loss in Florida's $31-billion-a-year tourist industry. "It could be inbillions."

The impact so far is only anecdotal but noticeable. Three British women switched their ltinerary to spend a week in Key West instead of Miami, and two Britons in Orlando are skipping the Miami leg of their visit, said Bryn Roden of American Connections, a Briton in Miami-Beach who books Florida tours by Europeans.

But with 1.3 million tourists in Florida on any given day, little changes here and there add up. "It's going to hit us like crazy

What can I say to those people, people who are frightened?" Roden asked. "They're going to go on vacation in Europe where they might get mugged or they might get robbed, but they're

"I have a credibility problem internationally because of the headlines that appear there," Farmer said. "It's Murphy's law," alluding to the premise, "Anything that can go wrong will go wrong."

But Ady Milman, director of the Institute for Tourism Studies at the University of Central Florida in Orlando, doubts crime will have a long-term impact on Florida tourisin.

Exchange rates, vacation value, climate and the psychological impact of getting away from it all play roles in vacation decisions.

"If you think about the human psyche, there are a lot of variables. Crime is one of them," he said. "Each individual is doing his or her cost-and-benefit anal-

The latest killings came as Florida was recovering from a two-year recession downturn.

Overseas travel has been booming, with visitation up 21 percent in the first quarter. One thing working in Florida's favor is the traditional end of the European travel season in October. The state's high-season is winter, but the crowds are dominated by sun-starved U.S. and Canadian visitors

Survey says sharp racial disparity in infant deaths

By CASSANDRA BURRELL Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Infant mortality hit an all-time low last year, but the rate among black infants was still double that of whites, the government said today in its annual survey of the nation's health.

Americans also are cutting back on smoking and cholesterol and reducing chronic diseases and premature deaths, the Department of Health and Human Service reported in the survey, "Health, United States, 1992."

But no progress is being made in reducing homicide rates, increasing prenatal care for many women and preventing low birth weight, especially among black infants.

The 390-page survey included a separate report, "Healthy People 2000," the first evaluation of the national effort to meet 300 health goals by the year 2000. Those goals include increasing the healthy life span, reducing disparities in health care among racial and ethnic groups and making preventive care available to all Americans by the end of the century.

The mixed findings underscore the pressing need for health care reform. Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala said in a statement accompanying the survey.

"Many Americans can't afford or can't obtain the care they need to prevent illness and maintain good health," she said. "It's unfair to our citizens, and unwise as a nation, to fail to deliver basic services because of an individual's ability to pay or a family's health insurance coverage.

Among the survey's most posttive findings was that the overall infant mortality rate fell to a record low of 8.5 per 1,000 live births in 1992. Preliminary statistics show the rate declined 4 percent from 1991's rate - 8.9 deaths per 1,000 live births.

The 1992 number also represents a dramatic decline since 1970, when there were 20 deaths per 1,000 live births, the department said.

But a striking disparity persists between blacks and whites.

In 1990 - the latest year for which comparative figures were available - the infant mortality rate for whites was 7.7 per 1,000 live births. For blacks, it was 17 per 1,000 live births. The overall rate was 9.1.

Noting that low birth weight is the most significant factor in infant mortality, the survey said there was an 18 percent rise in very low birth weight among black infants, compared with a 6 percent rise for white infants, between 1980 and 1990.

"The rise in very low birth weight infants parallels the increase in preterm births (less than 37 weeks gestation) over the past decade as well as the continued rise in births to unmarried mothers and the recent jump in teen births," the health department said.

In another report underscoring racial disparities, the Census Bureau reported today that even though the proportion of black Americans getting college degrees increased during the 1980s, blacks still receive lower pay than white graduates for doing essentially the same jobs.

Speedworld wreck levels starter's stand, starters

By PAUL MARSEQLIA Special to the Herald

ORLANDO - Racing action came to an abrupt halt Friday night at Orlando Speedworld following a horrifying accident that saw a race car take down the starter's stand, sending starter Johnny Bass and assistant Gary Lake to the hospital.

Bass was forced to celebrate his 49th birthday Saturday, Sept. 11, at Orlando Regional Medical Center, where he was being treated for a severely brutsed spicen, cuts, brutses, and possible broken ribs.

Lake was treated for severe lacerations at Florida Hospital East and released.

The incident occurred following a restart midway through the 15-lap Limited Late Model feature.

Leader Jacob Warren's car appeared to lose power, forcing both John Michalowski Jr. and Mike Todd to take evasive action. But both Warren's and Michalowski's cars made contact with Todd's, causing him to go alrhorne into the catch fence, then into the starter's stand.

Todd's car bounced back onto the race track and, despite reports that his helmet came off due to the force of the crash, Todd climbed out unhurt.

No spectators were injured as racing was suspended for the evening.

"I saw the car coming and pushed Gary off the stand, but I couldn't get off in time," said Bass in a teiephone interview from ORMC, "I knelt down and I knew it was going to be bad - the car hit the tower with me in it and we crashed to the ground."

Bass was airlifted to ORMC while Lake was transported via ambulance to Florida Hospital

"I felt Johnny pushing me out, but I didn't get all the way out before the car hit," said Lake, 34, who has been flagging for four years. "I hit the ground and Johnny fell on top of me. 'My legs were twisted around the flag stand and I thought I broke it. The people at the hospital stitched it up and released me. I'm really sore. I:m glad we're both still around."

Upon impact, Todd's racer disintegrated. But he was able to climb out of the wreck unassisted and walked away.

"I knew somebody hit me and forced me up on the wall," Todd said. "I was riding the wall and before I knew it, I felt like I was flying. It's weird being at the mercy of the car. There was nothing I could do to keep from hitting the stand."

Friday's accident completes an unenviable trifecta for Bass. In November of 1985, Bass was involved in a similar accident at New Smyrna Speedway, when he suffered a broken wrist. Several years prior to that, while flagging in St. Petersburg, a car tagged the stand. Bass escaping serious injury. "This is the third time a car ran into the stand with me in it," Bass said. "By far, this was the worst accident. I'm sure glad none of the fans See Orlando, Page 3B

Anderson cuts through fog, field for 11th Late Model victory

Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH - The fog was Wayne Anderson's only adversary in the Late Model feature Saturday at New Smyrna Speedway.

Anderson, who started the race from the 11th position, took the lead on lap six and never looked back as he cruised to his 11th win of the season.

"The fog was heavy at times and you lost some visibility" said Anderson, the current Florida Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing (FASCAR) Late Model points leader. "But the more green laps we raced, the fog started to lift.

'Since we started near the back of the pack, I decided to just ride the race out and see what happened. Things really went out way, though. We ran on used tires and could run the outside groove. The car was excellent and the rest is history."

Trailing Anderson across the finish line were John Kennedy, Ricky Woods, Chuck Abell, and Ruse Whitaker.

"We probably had the winning car tonight," said Kennedy. "We were running out front until I got spun out. On the restart, I gunned the motor and broke a rocker arm. So I'm happy to finish second with only seven cylinders working."

in a hard-fought battle for the lead. Dale Howard edged Barbara Pierce by less than a car length to win the Sportsman main event. Following the lead duo were Pat McClain, Art Chapman, and Jim Sharp.

Bobby Sears led every circuit to win the Mini Stock feature. Ted Vulpius was second with Jerry Symons, Conrad Grenier, and J.D. Duncan rounding out the top live.

Aubrey Nelson found the floor with a dink to give Seminole a 14-11 edge. But with Jasewic serving for the game point. Jennifer Greissing came up with a kill to get the ball back for the Rams. Greissing then served five consecutive points to pull out the win for Lake Mary.

Earnhardt maintains hold on points lead

Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH - Dale Earnhardt lost 20 points this weekend but remains far out in front in the chase for the $1.5 million NASCAR Winston Cup stock car racing national championship.

Earnhardt finished fourth to winner Rusty Wallace in Saturday night's Miller 400 at Richmond, Va. Still, Wallace trails Earnhardt by 284 points. 3.544-3,260.

By finishing seventh or better in each of the remaining seven races of the $26.5 million season, the Kannapolis, N.C., native would capture his sixth national title, regardless of what anyone else can do. "There's a difference between 'comfortable' and

'locked up.' Right now, I'd just call it 'comfortable,' said Earnhardt, who ranks second only to Richard Petty's seven national championships.

"We're going to keep doing what we've been doing and trying to win races. You win races and the points take care of themselves." Earnhardt said.

Mark Martin ranks third in the cup standings with 3,227 points. Daytona 500 winner Dale Jarrett is fourth with 3,108, followed by Morgan Shepherd, 3,011; Kyle Petty. 2,870; Ken Schrader, 2,851; Bill Elliott. 2,780; rookie leader Jeff Gordon, 2,762; and Ernie Irvan, 2,752.

Cook of the Week

Percy White is 'chief cook and bottle washer' in the house

A legend in his own time is how best describes Cook of the Week Percy White. His ambition and accomplishments to most would be mind-boggling. However, to White, his life experiences have been a learning pleasure. And at 89 years young. he has many to share.

White spent the first 22 years of his life on the family farm in Massachusetts. He continued farming for the next 13 years with his wife, Marion. "He did the farming," says Marion. "I took care of the house and the children," she continued. White got away from farming and went to work for Sears learning a trade in floor covering. "They put me through school and everything," said White. He worked for Sears for seven years and decided to go into business for himself and remained selfemployed until his retirement.

With his strong civic allegiance White decided to apply himself to the political arena. He was the mayor of Longwood in 1967; chairman of the commission in 1968 and 1969; and the president of the Tourist Club in 1981 and 1982. This list names only a few of the committees and clubs of which White was a member.

All-in-all, Percy White has seen and accomplished much in his life. But the greatest joy and by today's standards, greatest accomplishment, is his 68-year marriage to Marion. As White said. 'I'm the chief cook and bottle washer around here." But he's not complaining. White enjoys cooking. That's not to say that Marion down't, however, a recent full has rendered her with a broken shoulder. So, during her convalencence, their efforts in the kitchen are nothing short

The Whites have one daughter, Joyce Sammet, who lives with her husband, Charles, in Lake Mary, They also have two grandchildren and two great-grandchildren. To simply say. they're proud of their family would, be too mild a term especially when one sees how they both light up just talking about their family.

White's cooking comes with years of experience and that little bit of "extra" touch he adds to enhance the flavor of his recipes. New England Boiled Dinner is worth the cooking time that's required for this meal. And when it's done, as White puts it, "It is really good."

His Baked Beans have been a longstanding request. Having

Micro-cooking sweets for a quick, easy snack

Bar-type cookles are a microwaving specialty. Most recipes can be micro-baked in less time than it takes to preheat a conventional oven. For lunch boxes, cut bars in generous pieces. Cut smaller pieces for gift giving or an assorted cookies

Tip: If using an 8x8-inch equare glass or microsafe baking dish, shield the corners with foll during the first half of microwaving if the cookies tend to overbake in your oven.

Out of the pan and over the fire

By MARIALISA CALTA

About the only bad thing I can say about Vermont is that it has no seacoast. Sure, we have Lake Champlain - and it IS beautiful - but, having spent a good deal of time on or near the ocean (the Jersey shore. Rhode Island, the Pacific Northwest) the lack of salt water is a severe disap-pointment. And culinarily speaking, this translates into a disappointing lack of great seafood. Sure, we catch bass and perch in the local ponds but. let's face it, it's not the same as a hunk of swordfish or a basket of

In fact, my fish consumption since moving here has decreased dramatically, and I'm making efforts to turn that around. Fortunately, there are several good scafood outlets in the area; my only problem is getting my lods to eat fish. Grilling fish is one way to get them interested: Maybe it's because kids are just fascinated by cooking over fire, or maybe it's because nearly everything tastes better when it's cooked outdoors.

And at this time of year, I like grilling because it helps me feel like I'm prolonging summer. Whatever the reason, here are put a taste of the sea back in my grill. While the coals are heating, place the fish in a shallow. nonaluminum pan and coat all over with olive oil. Let fish sit at room temperature until the coals are hot, about 30 minutes.

About 15 minutes before grilling the fish, make the beurre blanc: Place wine and shallots in a small, nonaluminum pot. Cook and stir the mixture over medium-low heat until the liquid has almost completely evaporated; watch carefully to make sure it does not scorch. Remove the mixture from the heat and let it cool for about 3 minutes.

Meanwhile, place the basil and yogurt in a blender and puree until very smooth. Transfer the puree to a small bowl.

Using a small whisk, beat the butter 1 or 2 pieces at a time into the reduced wine-and-shallot mixture, to make a thick sauce. Whisk in the basil-yogurt puree. Set bowl in a larger pan of barely hot water to keep everything slightly warm.

When the coals are hot, scrub the hot cooking rack with a grill the salmon on the grill and cook for 3-4 minutes on each side, or until done to taste. (Flesh should be opaque throughout.) Transfer from the grill to a plate. Divide the sauce evenly among 4 heated plates. Place one piece salmon on each pool of sauce. Garnish with basil leaves and lemon wedges and serve at once.

Woman ready for next move up five years ago. I moved in after a year and a half. He felt that I was too fat because I was 10 pounds overweight. I disappointed him because I never got my weight down from 128 to 118. About nine months later I moved out. Again, it was my choice. He did not want to marry me and I wanted to begin to plan my future. I stayed away about a month during which he was pleading with me to come back and promising he would change. When I went to pick up my furniture, he cried and told me he couldn't live without me - he wanted to get married. I moved back in and we became engaged. He winted to get married immediately, but I insisted that we

Through countless hours of therapy (years, actually) my doctor gave me his listening ear and caring heart. He has helped me deal with the turmoil of my upbringing and gave me the "tools" with which I was able to forgive my mother before her recent death.

In short, my psychiatrist turned a severely depressed and confused young girl into a confident and happy woman.

My question: Would it be appropriate to invite him and his wife to my wedding? I am planning a large informal wedding, and requesting that no one bring gifts. My doctor knows some of the other guests socially, so he and his wife would be comfortable.

A close friend told me that it would be inappropriate to invite my doctor. What do you think?

My friend has offered to sell me some of her jewelry. I won some very fine jewelry, and I don't really need any more, but she said she desperately needs the cash right now, and I can well afford it.

Yeast infection: choosing medication

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm constantly hearing about yeast infections and the medications that are available to treat them. Just what is a yeast infection?

ACROSS

DEAR READER: As well as having harmless bacteria in and on our bodies, we also harbor yeasts. Common locations for both types of microorganism are the intestine, the mouth, the vagina and the skin.

Ordinarily, the yeasts and bacteria live in symbiosis. meaning that they don't bother each other - they exist in a balance - and we hardly know they're there.

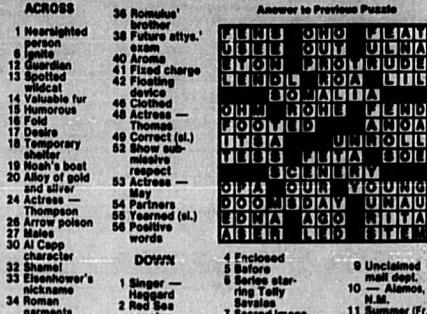

On occasion, however, this balance may be upset - by antibiotics, fever, stress and a host of other factors. Then either the yeasts or the bacteria multiply excessively to cause symptoms - diarrhea, ulcerations, infection, vaginal discharge, or rash, depending on the location in (or on) the body. You're constantly hearing a lot about vaginal yeast infections because they are common in sexually active women and in females with diabetes and other ailments. In the past, anti-yeast drugs were available by prescription only.

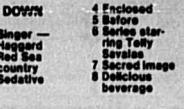

Now, however, these products (such as Monistat and Gyne-Lotrimin) are available over the counter. Because the profits are substantial, the pharmaceutical companies are advertising heavily. The products are about equally effective in treating the discharge, burning, itching and swelling that characterize yeast vaginitis.

To give you more information. I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Vaginal Infections." Other readers who would like a copy should send Promising young bridge players usually have egos that don't admit to the possibility of error. But courage at the table doesn't always match words the game, you must have the courage of your convictions. If you think the cards lie in a particular way, go for it.

Today's deal was played by Antonio Sementa, who was on the Italian team that won last year's European Junior Championship.

More than anything else. Italian bridge players hate to miss a siam. Perhaps this accounts for the optimistic auc-

West led a club to dummy's

Sementa saw that he would need the spade finesse and would have to establish dummy's heart suit. But he was East's king is a singleton.

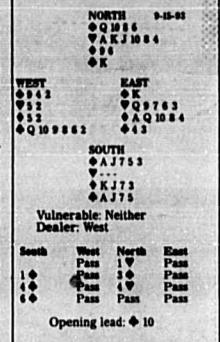

woefully short of dummy

Sementa started by calling for the spade 10. When East produced the king, declarer felt sure this was a singleton. Otherwise, why would East cover? So Sementa led a second spade and finessed dummy's eight.

When that worked, declarer ruffed a low heart in hand. played a spade to dummy's queen and cashed the A-K of hearts. When West discarded, it was easy to ruff out the heart queen, cash the club ace, ruff a club to get back to dummy, and cash the two heart winners sitting there.

Sementa's 12 tricks were five spades, four hearts, two clubs and a club ruff. He didn't need the lucky diamond position.

The key point is that if South starts with dummy's spade queen instead of the 10, he cannot be so confident that

Because you've learned well some hard lessons from personal experience in the past, you'll know now how to avoid problems of this ilk in the year

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's okay to pamper yourself a bit today, but not to the point of extravagance or overindulgence. Be good to yourself, but practice moderation. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you're too focused on your own self-interests today, it could cause you to be less considerate of others than usual. In your case, this type of behavior will be extremely evident to others.

SCORPIO (Oct. '24-Nov. 22) You're rather good at keeping secrets, but today you might knowingly discuss a confidential matter you realize you shouldn't reveal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It may not serve your best interests to request favore of others today, because persons who comply might expect a higher return for their good deeds.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today if you have to deal with persons you want to impress, be on your very best behavior at all times. Everything you do will be put under a microscope and viewed by critical eyes.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Obstacles or problems with which you have to contend today are apt to be of your own making. Conditions are rough enough without you sawing off your own limb.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Try not to introduce topics that are controversial in your discussions with friends today. The issues you personally pick could lead to a heated argument.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In a critical partnership arrangement today, the objectives must be clearly defined and un-derstood by both parties. Misunderstandings might not be able to be corrected in time.

Try to avoid domestic disagreements today, because even a small squabble could produce a chain reaction that might draw in outsiders and innocent bystanders.
