New reflectors installed

State road department crews and contractors are installing new reflectors on state roads within Seminole County. During this month. 30,000 reflectors are to be placed on county roads in both urban and rural areas.

DOT's local representative Don Jacobavitz said, "Our contractor has already installed about 7,000 reflectors." He said, "We call them RPM's, for raised pavement markers. They are designed to make identification of driving and turn lanes better for drivers."

Jacobavitz reported, "We are concentrating first on the areas where such reflectors have been previously installed but are missing. Next we'll concentrate on heavily traveled areas, and finally, on the lesser traveled roadways in the rural community.

"The only delay we will have," Jacobavitz sald, "is along S.R. 436, and other roadways which are under construction. We'll be waiting until construction is done before we install the new RPM's.

While the reflectors are being installed by a contractor, delinfators are being installed by State Road Department crews. They are metal and plastic post type reflectors which are intended to show the limitations of a roadway. "They are supposed to indicate where the pavement ends," said Jacobavitz

Both projects are expected to be completed by early December.

Pee-wee accepts plea bargain

SARASOTA - Actor Paul Reubens will accept a plea bargain from prosecutors rather than face. a highly publicized trial on an indecent exposure charge, his lawyer said.

His plea could come as early as Thursday, said Reubens' Sarasota attorney Dan Dannheisser. But Dannheisser still maintains that his elfent is innocent.

"He definitely didn't do it," lus afforney said-Reubens agreed to the plea rather than face a trial that was likely to draw heavy media coverage, Dannheisser said.

Under the deal with prosecutors, Renbens would pay a $50 fine plus court costs and perform 50 hours of community service. The ofter would leave him free of a conviction on the misdemeanor charge

"Pee-wee wants to get the whole thing behind him and to avoid the personal trauma of a trial." Reubens' Miami attorney Ron Diesnick said

Two die in pewerboet ecoldent

MIAMI BEACH — Two people died and four were hurt when the powerboat in which they were riding rammed a channel marker, the Florida Marine Patrol said.

Killed in the accident early Sunday were Barbra O'Neil of Key Biocayne, whom investigators said was in her early 40s, and Bertil Kalen, 44, a visitor from Caracas, Venezuela.

The 21-foot boat, powered by a 225-horsepower outboard, hit he unlighted marker about 2 a.m.

"Witnesses say they went under the Venetian Causeway ridge and turned east toward Mismi Beach following the nannel," said Marine Patrol Capt. Mike Lamphear.

The impact ripped open the right side of the boat and tossed the six into Biccayne Bay. Investigators didn't immediately know how fast they were going.

The survivors, including the boat's owner and operator, Leopold Hellmund, 47; his wife Mary, 36; 40-year-old Andres Behrens and his wife Mary, 35, swam about 100 yards to Belle late and were treated for minor injuries. All are from the Miami

Fighter group wine national prize

JACKSONVILLE — The Floride Air National Guard's 125th Pighter Interceptor Group has won a national prise. On Sunday, the 1,500-member group was awarded the Speaks Trophy for 1990.

The award, named for former Air Force Chief of Staff Carl S. Spants, is presented annually by the National Guard Association to the most outstanding Air Guard unit. The 125th beat 92 other units across the country to win.

Also, the group's security police unit won a separate award as the nation's outstanding police flight for 1880.

Maj. Gen. Robert F. Enssiin Jr., Florida's adjutant general, praised the group in a ceremony at a Guard hangar.

"The 125th has a distinguished reputation," he said.

The award is based on overall performance in flying safety, weapons firing, skill level, drill attendance, inspections, special missions and exercises and combat reading

The Kentucky is the fourth submarine to carry the new Trident II. Monday's test was the seventh of its kind. The demonstrations are intended to show the crew's ability-tosafely handle the weapons system.

Thirty-five Trident Il's have been launched from ground and sea since January 1987. The first 28 involved developmental missiles. The Air Force plans additional underwater launches.

Part of A1A may get historic designation

GULF STREAM — The highway has been remembered in a Jimmy Buffett song and evokes images of cruising convertibles, stately oceanfront homes and sunburned beachgoers.

Now the southern Palm Beach County town of Gulf Stream wants the state to declare its stretch of State Road A1A an historic and scenic highway.

The designation would be the first for A1A anywhere in Florida and the first for any state road in the Florida Department of Transportation's District 4, which encompasses Broward, Palm Beach, Martin, St. Lucie and Indian River counties, officials said.

Ten other roads in Florida are so designated - one in Lee County, one in Orange County and eight in Dade County.

The highway winds along the coast — with some interruptions — from Fernandina Beach, in the state's northeast corner, to Key West. Its proximity to the beach has made it, for many, a symbol of the easygoing beachcomber lifestyle that draws people to Florida.

Opponents blast nation's 1st food irradiation plant

MULBERRY - More than 200 people attended a public hearing on licensing the na-tion's first food irradiation plant, and nearly all of them questioned the plant's safety.

"This plant is a loaded gun
— it's loaded with radioactive bullets," Dan Joslyn of Tampa said at Monday's hearing. "When there's an accident, our voices will reach to heaven saying, 'We told you so."

But some speakers ques-tioned whether their voices would be heard by anyone.

Vindicator Inc.'s $6.8 million plant is nearly finished on the edge of this dusty town 25 miles east of Tampa, and company officials say there is little that can be done now to keep it from opening by early next year.

"This hearing is a sham -it's an afterthought," said Michael Colby, director of the New York-based anti-nuclear group Food & Water. "The decision has already been made to issue a permit for the plant, and it wasn't made by the public.

The plant is designed to use low-level blasts of Cobalt-60 radiation - similar to an X-ray - to kill bacteria in fruits. vegetables and meats and increase shelf life. Lawmakers consider expansion of legalized gambling

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - For the first time in 60 years, legislators are rewriting Florida's gambling laws - and many of those lawmakers believe there is money to be made by expanding legalized wagering.
The House Regulated Industries Committee was scheduled today to consider draft legislation authorizing poker saloons, riverboat gambling. sports gaming and off-track betting in Florida. Casino gambling was likely to come up at the hearing as well.

Supporters say sanctioned gambling is really nothing new in Florida.

"It is not an expansion of philosophy." said Rep. Norm

Committee.

'We passed the moral responsibility issue when the state got into dog racing, horse racing and jailai." said House Speaker T.K. Wetherell, D.Daytona Beach. 'We passed a lottery and every church has a bingo."

Further, some lawmakers fear that the state's take from the lottery and pari-mutuels could suffer from competition from the Seminole Indians.

The tribe has sued the state in federal court for the right to expand their bingo operations to include poker and casinos.

The state brings in more than $100 million a year from taxes

Ostrau, D-Plantation, chairman sovereign Indian reservations, of the Regulated Industries Some lawmakers fear Indian gambling could someday ruin the pari-mutuels. I think the Indians are going to put them out of business." said Luis Rojas, R-Hialeah. "From a practical standpoint, it's a good idea." Still, Florida voters twice rejected statewide referendums in 1978 and 1986 allowing casino gambling. And Gov. Lawton Chiles is not a great fan of the Florida Lottery and has opposed allowing the Seminoles to expand their bingo operations. Legislation prepared by the committee would require privately owned off-track facilities on pari-mutuels, but doesn't to hold an alcoholic beverage make a dime from gambling on license and seat at least 75 people. Senate President Gwen

Margolis, D-North Miami Beach, is concerned about the impact off-track betting would have on dog tracks and jailal, but favors legalizing sports betting.
"That would be wonderful,"
she said. "A lot of money leaves

Florida and there's a whole group of people who don't necessarily play the lottery or go to pari-mutuels who will bet on a game.' The draft legislation would allow bets of up to $20 on pro football game not involving Florida teams.

Staff members of the committee say the changes to Florida's gambling laws would not require an amendment to the state Constitution.

Computers fight traffic tie-ups

Eleven miles of "smart highway" along Interstate 4 in Orlando will pave the way for an approximate to a high-tech automobile navigation system in a joint state, federal and General Motors Corp. project.

It lets Florids Highway Patrol head-quarters monitor 11 miles of 1-4 from Orlando's 33rd Street to the Wymore overpass near the Orange-Seminole county line.

The project is just getting started. DOT spokesman Steve Homan said plans are already underway for expansion. "Within a few years, we'll be extending the system from 11 miles to 35 miles." he said. "That will bring it north to the Lake Mary I-4 exit, and south to the Disneyworld area."

DOT Traffic Engineer George Gilhooley said, Seminole County will see construction starting within 2 years." Money for the extension is to be included in DOT's 1993-94 fiscal year budget.

The state Department of Transportation conditionally accepted delivery last week of the $3.1 million Orlando system, consisting of 18 cameras on poles and 380 in-ground

As project manager Steve Wigle put on a demonstration, the computer beeped to alert him that traffic was slowing to 31 mph.

Wigle twisted a knob and pushed a button, and a camera miles away soomed in on a section of the interstate.

He viewed the slow-moving cars and trucks on one of five wall monitors, saw that, the tights was magniture there was no section.

trucks on one of five wall monitors, saw that the tie-up was minor, there was no accident, and he didn't need to caution motorists on the system's electronic message boards.

"Had it been an overturned tanker, I would have alerted traffic with a message," Wigle said.

Pushing a few more buttons would have displayed a warning such as, "Lane Closed, Expect Delays," Instead, Wigle keyed in, "Buckle Up, It's the Law."

He looked up as the message streamed across the board to be seen by hundreds of motorists, "Pretty simple, really," he said.

"You select the destination and it will tell you the shortest route," said Harry Campbell, city transportation engineer. "When you need to turn, a voice will say.

Also tied into the system is Orlando's computerized traffic signal system, which will be able to adjust timing of lights on exit roads to deal with changes in traffic flow.

Gilhooley said, "When the expansion to the 35 mile distance is completed, it will still be operated from one main control center in Oriando, which will eventually guide traffic clear to the St. Johns River."

Of the 100 test cars, 75 will be leased to tourists, through repetal agencies, and distance in the st.

SANFORD - While the Seminole County school board will meet this evening in an informal work session to, once again. discuss what they need to do in preparation for a search for an appointed superintendent, the Alachua County board may make one of their decisions for

At the same time they may create more questions.

Tonight at 7 p.m. the Alachua school board will chose the person who will lead them. One of the finalists in that race is Robert Hughes, currently the elected superintendent in Seminole County. Hughes' term does not end until Nov. 1992, but if he is chosen to take the superintendency in Alachua, he would start that job in Jan. 1992.

"I don't want to say one way or the other who might have an advantage," said James Longstreth, chairman of the Alachua County school board. "I think everyone was favorably impressed with him, but I don't know how they'll vote tonight."

The Seminole County board decided at their last meeting that local search without having to formally apply. If he takes the Alachus County, job. it won't

If Hughes is selected by the Alachua school board, the Seminole district will have to ask the governor to appoint a replacement superintendent.

MIA action

The Bush administration should not normalize relations with Vietnam until Hanot meets two onditions. First, it must provide as full an accounting as possible of the 2,273 American servicemen still listed as missing in Southeast Asia. Second, it must commit itself to the successful conclusion of the Cambodian peace process.

Both points were underscored in Paris by Secretary of State James Baker when he met recently with Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Manh Cam. These conditions should be emphasized in coming months as both countries explore the possibility of resuming economic and diplomatic contacts.

Before Washington extends diplomatic recognition to the Hanoi regime, the emotionally charged POW-MIA issue must be laid to rest.

In 1973, the government of North Vietnam released 591 American prisoners of war. Since then, the families of those who did not return have been haunted by the possibility that their loved ones were languishing somnewhere in Southeast Asia. That anguish is worsened by the fact that hundreds of Americans known to have been captured alive were never repatriated or otherwise accounted for.

During the last two decades, Hanol has done little to allay the suspicions of those who believe American servicemen are being held against their will in Vietnam. It was several years after the war before Vietnamese officials would allow U.S. military teams to search areas where Westerners had been sighted. Even then, the teams had to go through an arduous permission process before being allowed into the country. Meanwhile, Hanoi retained the remains of many POWs and MIAs, cruelly releasing some of them on a periodic basis in response to U.S. prodding.

In light of sneedotal evidence that Americans still were being detained in indochina. the Vietnamese government finally became more cooperative. Two years ago, it permitted U.S. teams to follow leads independently. And in 1990, Vietnamese and American specialists agreed to conduct joint activities in an effort to account for U.S. servicemen missing from the war.

Until that final accounting is completed to the satisfaction of the U.S. government, the resumption of full diplomatic and economic relations is out of the question.

Similarly, Hanoi should be made to understand that normalized relations will hinge on Cambodia's peaceful transition to democracy during the next two years.

U.S. pressure prompted Vietnam to support the recently concluded power-sharing agreement on Cambodia. That same leverage should be applied to help ensure that the genocidal Khmer Rouge guerrillas do not regain power in Phnom Penh. Because the accord signed in Paris gives the Khmer Rouge a prominent role in running the government. there are enormous dangers that the civil war could erupt again.

The policies of the Khmer Rouge resulted in the slaughter of more than 1 million Cambodians from 1975 to 1978. Because the United Nations is not likely to intervene militarily to keep the peace if fighting breaks out again, the responsibility for maintaining order falls heavily on Cambodia's neighbors, especially China and Vietnam. Thus, Vietnam's support is crucial to the success of this fragile — and risky — agreement.

As one of the world's poorest countries.

Vietnam has much to gain from resuming economic ties with the United States. But before this can occur, Hanoi must satisfy the U.S. terms fully.

ls California exiling Republicans?

Every now and then, for a brief moment, we are vouchsafed an opportunity to peek through a crack into the red-hot core of the machinery that crack into the red-hot core of the machinery that runs the world and see how it really works. It is usually a frightening experience, and the one that I had recently was no exception.

I was talking with a Republican member of the California State Assembly, and the conversation turned to the flight of business from the state. For generations California has been among the fastest-growing states in the Union, if not the fastest, and this has applied not only to population growth but to the concomitant growth of industry and the economy in general.

Recently, however, the pace of economic

Recently, however, the pace of economic expansion has slowed substantially, and various business corporations have begun leaving the state. A good many more are considering doing

The reason is not hard to find. Both houses of the California legislature have long been in the grip of the Democratic Party, which yields to no one in its determination to regulate and tax businesses in its jurisdiction. In addition, this general hostility to business has recently found a new outlet in environmental regulations of all sorts. The result has been a business climate that in some cases is becoming almost unen-are state governments that are still broadly hospitable to business. Taxes are lower, regulations of all types are fewer, and environmental regulations in particular are notably saner. That's why so many California businesses have already moved — lock, stock and barrel - to these and other friendly states, and why many more will soon be doing so. The effect on California has been severe, and will predictably get worse. Most departing businesses take along their managers and key members of their white-collar staffs, but blue-collar workers are left behind it's easier to hire new ones in the state they're moving to. This has thrown thousands of dismissed workers into the lengthening

In addition, of course, the State of California loses the tax revenues that it previously received from these departing businesses, their departing staffs and their dismissed employees.

My friend the Republican assemblyman told me that he had been discussing this disagreeable state of affairs with a fellow assemblyman of the Democratic persuasion, and had tried to convince him that this flight of businesses from the state was a serious problem. But his Democratic colleague was having some of it.

"Why should we worry?" he grinned, "The people who leave are Republicans."

And he's right, you know. The managers and top staff of the departing businesses are, overwhelmingly, Republicans. And the workers they leave behind are mostly Democrats.

Picture, then, the Edenic situation of the Democratic majorities in the California state The reason is not hard to find.

They can also grandstand for the environmentalist lobby by imposing all sorts of costly and technologically abourd requirements on manufacturing and other accreation processes. other economic processes. Then, when a business finally responds to this Chinese water-torture by leaving the state altogether, the Democrats automatically get a higher share.

What votes for Duke mean

Two things need to be said about David Duke. The first is that the people who vote for him cannot be absolved based on supposed ignorance of his past activities and present beliefs. The second is that he is not an isolated virus but an early-warning manifestation of a political disease that infects the entire nation's

To take first things first, Duke is no accident. The white voters who propelled him into Louisiana's gubernatorial runoff knew exactly what they were doing and who they were supporting. They selected a former Ku Klux Klan leader whose record of virulent anti-Semitism and blatant racism is as welldocumented as it is available from one end of the state to another.

When the third of the electorate that supported candidates other than Duke or his opponent, former Gov. Edwin Edwards, decide where to go in the Nov. 16 runoff, they, too, will know exactly what they are doing when they vote. Each vote cast for Duke will be a vote cast knowingly for a racist whose recent recantations of his "youthful indiscretions" have been repeatedly belied by his activities and comments since he emerged as a Klucker on the Louisiana State University campus two decades ago. When you pull the lever for David Duke, you endorse an unprincipled bigot, and not one voter in 10,000 doesn't know it.

Nevertheless, to say all this is not to say that the Duke phenomenon is explicable solely in racial or regional terms, though there is ample justification for believing just that. Southern politics for most of the years between 1865 and 1965 was the politics of white supremacy. Louisianans take pride in their well-developed taste for political nuts. But David Duke, the man running for governor of Louisiana as a Republican in 1991, is the reflection of a far more complex set of circumstances than a superficial reference to history might suggest. And David Duke, whatever the outcome today. says more about the troubled state of American politics than he does about Southern particularism.

Let it be said plainly. Given the right set of circumstances, a David Duke could emerge today in just about any political subdivision with a white majority. He and his message are viable precisely because the alternatives. which is to say the two major parties, are so morally and intellectually bankrupt. He has a ready audience for his scapegoating politics because so many in his audience know that they are the victims of an economy that has not been worked for their benefit for a very long time. The much-touted "longest peacetime economic expansion in American history" has left them worse off than when it began.

and they are both frightened and furious.

It doesn't matter that what he proposes will do nothing to better their condition. It is almost irrelevant that if the entire welfare population were to disappear tomorrow and affirmative action were wiped from the face of the earth, his supporters' condition would not be materially improved. What does matter is that mainstream politicians have not done anything to improve it through mainstream methods for over a decade. What matters even more is that he is scratching a deep psychic itch. inflaming it still further but producing a temporary sensation of relief. When he attacks welfare cheats and quotas and "the liberals." his middle-class supporters cheer as much because he seems to be on their side as because they know that the phrases are code words for "nigger" and "commie."

They also know that he is not the inventor of the code words. The election campaigns of Ronald Reagan and George Bush made them acceptable. What's good enough for president of the United States - remember Willie Horton? - is good enough for them. Unlike George Bush, moreover, David Duke is for real. When he says it, he means it, and they love it.

The Democrats, meanwhile, are so far down a blind alley they don't know how to get out. They neither can or should abandon black America. Their support of civil rights may be a millstone, but it is also their proudest monument. And if black votes alone cannot guarantee their electoral success, the withdrawal of black support does guarantee their electoral failure. But either through stupidity, arrogance or suicidal design, they have made themselves complicit in the economic situation that now afflicts most Americans.

Fish and Wildlife at odds with self

WASHINGTON - in 1902, President Theodore Roosevelt showed mercy to a Louisiana black bear captured by his hunting party — a gesture that inspired the Teddy Bear.

George Bush has not been as accommodat-

The Louisiana black bear is now estimated to number less than 300, possibly as few as 70, but the "kinder, gentler" Bush administration is balking at putting the bear under the protection of the Endangered Species Act. In a rerun of the spotted owl flasco in the Pacific North-west, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service is finding every excuse in the book to tion for the bear. Scientists within the Fish and Wildlife Service think the bear deserves to be listed as "threat-ened." But their bosses answer to Interior Secretary Manuel Lujan, and he answers to an "environmental president" who doesn't know the definition of the term. One Fish and Wildlife field biologist told us, "It's pressure from the timber industry, plain and simple."

At one time, the bear ranged over Louisiana. Texas, Mississippi and Arkansas. In 1900 there were an estimated 1,600 Louisiana black bears. The bears' habitat has been destroyed by development and logging. Louisiana outlawed bear hunting in 1989. but that has not stopped the poachers.

Fish and Wildlife first began to worry about the Louisiana black bear in 1982. But when nothing had been done by 1987, two Louisiana members of the Sierra Club started a petition to force Fish and Wildlife to make

In June of 1990, Fish and Wildlife announced it was ready to list the bear as "threatened," and invited public comment. The deadline for the decision was June 21. 1991. But a lot can and did happen in a year.

The timber industry shifted into high gear and helped form the Black Bear Conservation Committee, to work up a local alternative to the federal sanctions of the Endangered Species Act. The act allows a state to come up with its own means of protecting a threatened species. That appeals to the Bush administration, because, under the guise of local autonomy, any number of environmental problems can be ignored or blamed on someone else.

Fish and Wildlife let the June 21 deadline pass, giving the excuse that it wanted to do yet another scientific study on the bear, but the delay buys six months for the Black Bear Conservation Committee to work out local options for handling the problem.

On the surface, the committee sounds like a good idea - a coalition of private landowners. state agencies and timber industry and environmental groups. But Ron Nowak, a bear expert for Fish and Wildlife, told our reporter Nick Budnick that the committee was a "tool of lumber interests."

Murray Lloyd, the organizer of the committee, is both a member of the Sierra Club and the Louisiana Forestry Association. He told us that he met in July with staffers from the Office of Management and Budget and the White House's Council on Competitiveness chaired by Vice President Dan Quayle. OMB worries about the cost of environmentalism and the council worries about its effect on competitive industries, but neither is paid to worry about the bear.

Lloyd acknowledged that there were some on his committee who are using it to keep the bear off the "threatened" list, but he said the committee is earnest in its desire to protect the bear. "Everybody's reputation is on the line here," Lloyd told us.

Postal rate may rise

WASHINGTON - The Postal Service is considering again whether to make us stick an extra penny's worth of postage on a first-class letter, something the agency has been urging for more than a year and a half.

The Postal Service board of governors was meeting today to discuss raising the rate from 29 cents to 30 cents, a move that would require a unanimous vote of the nine governors. The governors may decide to vote, or they could put off the matter

Even if the increase is approved, it won't take effect until next year, Postmaster General Anthony Frank has said.

Sen. David Pryor. D-Ark., chairman of the Senate aubcommittee that oversees the mail agency, urged the governors on Monday not to raise rates. He contended that an increase was "unnecessary and not in the best interests of the Postal Service or its customers."

FDA to unveil labeling rules

WASHINGTON - in the world of food marketing, the term "low-fat" means one thing for milk, another for yogurt and still a third for mayonnaise. There are no rules.

But on Wednesday, the Food and Drug Administration will propose rules to define low-fat and other food packaging terms as it unveils the bulk of its plans for implementing the new Nutrition Education and Labeling Act. it's the moment the food industry has awaited for months and it could revolutionize the way Americans eat by giving them, for the first time, uniform information about what's in FDA-regulated food - about 90 percent of the food sold in

Surgeon General objects to drinking ads

WASHINGTON - Surgeon General Antonia Novello wants to meet with executives of major beer, wine and liquor companies next month to discuss her objection to advertisements that link drinking with sex, glamour and youth. While industry representatives said they would be glad to meet with her, they defended their ads, denied they target young drinkers and said it was unlikely they would withdraw any of their ads.

Novello called on the industry, mainly brewers, to voluntarily pull television ads that appeal to youth with such images as bikini-clad women at beach parties, use of cartoon characters and attractive young people engaged in sports like skiing and surfing.

"The ads have youth believing that instead of getting up early, exercising, going to school, playing a sport or learning to be a team player, all they have to do to fit in is learn to drink the right alcoholic beverage," she said Monday, releasing a third report on the issue.

Banking overhaul laws stalled

WASHINGTON - The Bush administration's hopes for legislation grunting banks broad new business opportunities are in shambles after the measure's lopsided defeat in the House.

Before recessing at the end of this month, Congress must replenish the nearly insolvent Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. or leave the agency in danger of failing to protect the nation's 110 million depositors.

One possibility is a bill pending in the House that would increase the FDIC's authority to borrow from taxpayers and toughen regulation of weak banks.

But Monday evening's 324-89 House vote, which came after three days of debate, severely dimmed chances for passing the wide-ranging overhaul of banking laws the administration had proposed nine months ago.

CDC wants to list what procedures AIDS-infected doctors can't perform

Dy Recent SYRD Associated Press Writer

ATLANTA — Leading medical groups are balking at joining an effort by the Centers for Disease Control to draw up a list of just what procedures AIDS-infected doctors should not perform.

Federal health officials scheduled a hearing today on identificials and the scheduled and the sched fying "exposure-prone" pro-cedures, such as surgery in which the doctor could be in-jured and bleed into a patient. The CDC in July urged doctors and dentists who test positive for the AIDS virus to stop doing "exposure-prone" procedures unless patients and outside experts concur.

That controversial recommendation was spurred by five cases of AIDS among patients of a Florida dentist. CDC scientists believe the dentist, now dead of AIDS, infected the patients.

canals when I was five or six in my father's 40-foot cruiser," said Foulds, 67. "My father was brought up on the ocean. We did everything on the water. I was all over that boat."

Foulds was the first-place winner of the Golden Age Games men's canoe sprint, 65- to 60-year-old age group, at San-ford Landing apartments Monday. He placed second in the cance obstacle course to Cornellus Feenstra, 68, of Leesburg, who had placed second in the

"We'd jump in a canoe, paddle out 200 yards, and come back," he said. "We'd take a 30-second rest, it was forced, and then we'd load up with a 40-pound pack and a rifle. We'd run in 50 yards, then around a tree, then back where we'd jump back in the canoe and run the course

Reception, sports clinic

By MCK PPEIFAUF Horaid Stoff Writer

SANFORD - A social reception was held for Golden Age Games participants at the Sanford Civic Center Monday night. The event was followed by a sports medicine clinic.

Only a small group attended the social, sponsored by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. Chamber Executive Director Dave Farr acted as host for the event, and personally greeted participants who came from as far away as Canada.

There was no specific program for the senior sports enthusiasts. Enforced by snacks and punch, many used the social to reacquaint themselves with old friends, talk of the day's events and discuss the weather.

Games Chairman Jim Jernigan observed that the cool temperatures that arrived in Sanford at the same time as the opening ceremonies Sunday had not caused any difficulty. "Actually, many participants appreciated the cooler temperatures," he said, "especially those playing tennis, and even the canne sprinters. They said they preferred it to the head we've had at some of the previous games."

Jernigan did not expect the weather to be a factor in reducing the number of people in events for the rest of the week. His only concern was for the swimming, scheduled for an outdoor pool at Lyman High School this morning. "The pool is supposed to be heated." he said, "but I understand there has been some problem with the heating unit, and I hope they can get it repaired in time. Following the social reception.

Central Florida Regional Hospital hosted a Sports Medicine Clinic for the group. All aspects of health were discussed. especially those that focused on athletic involvement.

Specialists from the hospital who participated included Cardiologist Dr. Lawrence Vallario who explained risk factors in sports participation, , Dr. Narinder Aulla, orthopedic surgeon who explained injury prevention, and Registered Dietitian Brenda Orr, who discussed diets and exercise.

Courting the gold medals

SANFORD - Doris Alston is after more gold.

Having won Golden Age Games gold medals in womens singles and doubles and mixed doubles in the 55-year-old age group and womens singles and doubles in the 60-year-old age group, she is hoping to add the 60-mixed doubles gold to her collection.

"I didn't even pick up a racquet until I was 47:" the 64-year-old grandmother from Tallahassec said. "I won't put it down now."

A retired psychology professor from Florida A and M University. Alston still spends much of her time these days in the classroom when she's not on the tennis court.

"I call myself the Rappin' Grandma." she said. "I go into classrooms and teach young people about reading and language and life through raps. The kids love it. Especially because its a Grandma who's doing it."

She said she's "no M.C. Hammer," but she uses her 'ability to rhyme words together with rhythms" to help young people learn about the importance of reading.

'I teach them about other things too," she said. "I use novelty songs to teach them about life."

The inevitability of change was the lesson of a rap about Mike Tyson. The former champ. it would seem. learned that things change when he fought Buster Douglas and found that it wasn't fun to be lying on the canvas "like a cinnamon bun."

The "Rappin' Grandma" has appeared on television several times, including a national ap-pearance on "Hour Magazine."

The mother of five has five grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Some of them, she said, can't keep up with her.

She said she first took up tennis because one of her daughters was taking lessons.

"I was a softball player but I thought tennis looked fun," she said. "The first lesson, I went out there and when I saw the ball coming at me I took a great swing at it and hit it way out there. The pro pointed the lines out to me and told me to try and keep it in between those. I was disappointed."

When she finally the urge to hit a homerun with the tennis ball under control, she said, she became quite good.

"And when I started beating my daughter, she put her rac-quet down," the mother laughed.

When she first took to the court, Alston said, she went out and bought a pair of bright red Converse high top basketball shoes to "protect (her) old lady ankles" which she thought would break under the pressures of the game. But as she gained confidence, she has turned to more traditional tennis wear.

'I just go out there to have fun," she said. "And win the SANFORD - Phyllis Lewallen has been playing tennis for nearly half a century, but she says she gets just as much enjoyment out of it at 66 as she did at 15.

She said she first took up the sport because her brother had bought a racquet and then never used it. She was attracted to athletics in general, but tennis was a sport she really enjoyed.

"I like being athletic, mostly tennis and golf," the Osteen resident said.

Lewallen and her husband, both optical professionals, moved to Osteen from Omaha, Neb. when they retired a decade ago.

"I don't envy young peo-ple today at all," she said.
"It's going to be harder and harder for them to be able to retire and enjoy themselves."

Lewallen entered her first Golden Age Games competition in 1984. Since that time, she has won a dozen medals.

'All different colors," she said.

Like the baseball trading card rage, certain promotional items have limited production, thereby giving the marketable value, sometimes ten times their original selling price. Collectible glasses, mostly distributed by restaurants, may only be distributed in certain areas of the country. For example, McDonald's, one of the largest producers of collectible glasses, distributed a glass paying tribute to the Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo, 1983-1984, in Houston, Texas only.

They have Happy Days glasses, Bugs Bunny and Bullwinkle. They also have the new "Star Trek: The Next Generation" figures. Larry says some dolls are more popular than others from the same movies. Pace Floor Covering Offers Shop At Home Service

You know the routine; you decide you want new floor coverings, so you nead out to the stores. The minute you get there, confusion sets in. Will this look good in your home, will that match your draperies. Even if you take swatches to the store, or samples home with you, your not sure just how it will look and if you will be happy with your decision. Did you ever want some one to come to

Well, that's just what Pace Floor Covering does. Pace Floor Covering has a mobile showroom with hundreds of styles and colors of carpeting, wood, ceramic and vinyl floor coverings to choose from. Chances are they'll have just what you want.

Another advantage to the shop-at-home service is that the professionals are right there in your home and can accurately measure, for the best Pace's mobile showroom also caters to the working person by giving them the flexibility of scheduling appointments after five o'clock.

If you can not find just the right style or color in the mobile showroom, you can always stop by their office, at 1255 Belle Avenue, in Winter Springs, or see them on the weekends at Flea World, Booth D50. In all locations, you can choose from the best; Dupont Stainmaster, Monsanto, Philadelphia Cabin Craft, Armstrong, Congoleum and a full line of ceramic tile. And they meet any traffic need, commercial or residential, with no-crush, no-mat, high traffic and stain-free carpeting. From one room to 140 rooms, Pace can do it all. Just some of the commercial jobs that Pace has done include Rollins College, The Baxter Building, the Sanford Holiday Inn. A & T Office Products in Lake Mary. The Mayfair Country Club clubhouse, and 140 units of Cedar Creek Apartments.

Most jobs have one day completion times. Custom design and border work are available. Next day service is also available upon request. Owners Hank Pace and Greg Knights always have a hand in the sale, installation and final inspection of every job. Most of Pace's business comes from referals from previous customers, so they want to make sure you are totally satisfied. Free estimates are always available, and "if we can't help you we'll steer you in the right direction."

Pace Floor Covering was started eighteen years ago, as Pace Carpet, by Hank's father, John. The showroom, originally located on Forsyth Road, in Winter Park, was moved to Winter Springs when John retired three years ago and Hank took over the business. Pace is a member of the Better Business Bureau and Greg has recently been nominated for "Who's Who in American Young Business".

You may recognize the Pace name from another venture Hank is involved in. Hank and his wife, Jayne, founded the Rachel Pace Therapeutic Riding Academy, eight years ago, in memory of their daughter. The academy helps children with physical handicaps; horseback riding has been found to have therapeutic benefits for these children by developing better balance and muscle tone and, most important, higher self-esteem. The academy currently has four horses for fifty children. Volunteers are always needed because it takes four people to help one child ride; one therapist, two spotters and a leader. If you have any interest in helping the academy, you can volunteer through Pace Floor Covering by stopping by the office or calling 695-0255

Crickets halts Mice streak

CABBELBERRY — Crickets jumped to a quick lead and held off the Paddy McGee Mice 16-9 to end the Mice's unbeaten streak at eight games in Seminole Recreation Department Women's Class C Softball League action at Red Bug Park

Menday night.

Crickets scored five runs in the top of the first iming, and while the Mice scored two runs in the bottom of the first and one run in the second to cut the lead to 5-3, the winners won the third inning 6-4 to take a comfortable lead which they held to the end.

Elicen Thiebauth and Tammy Black were the big guns for Crickets as they combined for five hits, five runs scored and RBI. Teresa Walburger led the Mice defensively with seven put outs from her position in right-center field.

Offensively for the Mice, Jackie Suggs had the hot bat with three hits. Contributing two hits each were Terri Mann, Mary Beth McCullough, Karen Kohs and Debbie Leigh. Mann, McCullough and Mindy Kracht also had big triples that led to runs. that led to runs.

The two teams are now tied for first place with 8-1 records. They will finish the regular season next week with the Mice playing the New Girls on the Block at 6:30 p.m. and Crickets facing the Step Sisters at 7:30 p.m. If both teams win or lose they will meet in a playoff on Nov. 18. If one team wins and the other loses the championship will go to the team that wins.

"Problems" force SCC men to open season on the road

Dy DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD - The Seminole Community College men's basketball team will open its 1991-92 schedule tonight with a game against Pasco-Hernando Community College.

But the game will played at New Port Ritchey, not Sanford, as origi-nally planned.

"Due to circumstances beyond our control we cannot play at home tonight." said Raiders head coach Bill Payne. "Because of some problems that have occured in the past week our only choices were to play at their place or postpone the game. And both teams wanted to play

This game will mark the first time that Payne, who will be starting his 10th season at the helm of the Raiders, has had to take his club on the road to open the season.

This will also be the second time that a Payne coached team has been the first opponent for a new pro-gram. Tonight's game will be the first interscholastic varsity contest that Pasco-Hernando has ever played. The school has fielded a club team in the past. Now it will also be the first home game for the

"It was going to be tough enough having to play them in their first game." said Payne, whose 1986-87 team inagurated South Florida into junior college basketball by winning a double overtime thriller. "Because we knew they would be fired up, but now we also have to play them in their first home game which ever makes it doubly tough."

The Raiders also received other bad news on Monday when it was learned that Phillip Williams. a standout point guard from Norfolk. Va., will not be eligible for tonight's game. Payne was counting on Williams to key the Raiders' offense and defense.

Williams did not pass a section of his GED and he will not be eligible until he retakes and passes the test.

Another expected starter who will not play in tonight's game will be Sanford's Robert Moore, last year's leading rebounder and third leading scorer, who is on suspension until he gets his grades up.

With Williams and Moore out of the lineup more of the leadership responsibilities will fall on the shoulders of returning sophomore starters Brian Nason and Darnell

The duo are certainly capable as they combined to average 32 points and 11 rebounds per game last year.

Expected to join the duo in the starting lineup are freshmen Jason Hamelin, Troy Bruening and Craig

Hamelin, from Lake Mary, will get the nod at point guard with Williams out. Despite only being 5-foot, 10-inches tall and weighing 150 pounds, he was an All-Seminole Athletic Conference selection last year who is a buildog on defense and has tremendous shooting Bruening, a 6-foot, 2-inch guard from Lakewood, Ohio, is another excellent outside shooter who will have to play forward tonight and get some rebounds.

Starting at center will be Stallings, a thin 6-foot, 5-inch scorer from Long Beach. Ms. He was one of the best players in Mississippi last year and big things are expected from him before he leaves SCC.

Also expected to see a lot of playing time tonight is Lake Mary's Mike Merthie. Deon Gavin, a strong inside player from Cleveland. Ohio. and Billy Freeman. a 6-foot. 6-inch sophomore from Albany, Ga.

Rounding out the team are freshmen Al Fossitt (from Sanford). Tony Knight, Noel Ramos, Robert Walker and Paul Gilbert.

If the Seminole Community College men's basketball team is to have successful debut, Darnell Robison will have to have a big game. The 8-foot, 3-inch forward averaged 11.6 points and 6 rebounds per game last year.

CANFORD HERALD PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Dream game nets Roberts weekly honor

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD - Anthony "Red Man" Roberts had a dream game for a defensive back last Thursday night as Seminole High School clobbered 4A-District 7 foe Orlando-University 33-14 at Thomas E. Whighman

The 5-foot, 8-inch senior returned a punt for a touchdown, intercepted a pair of passes and contributed on a dozen or so tackles.

showed the hands, speed and quickness that made him an All-Seminole Athletic Conference baseball player as a sophomore.

He also showed the confidence he has in his own skills and the skills of his blockers when he grabbed a punt in a crowd in the first quarter and raced to a 59-yard touchdown return for the Tribe's first score of the evening.

While Roberts' play may have surprised some people, it did not surprise Seminole head coach Emory Blake, who said the 152pounder does the same thing in practice all the time, covering the receivers like a blanket and not being afraid to level a hard hit.

Roberts' big night overshadowed the play of his other defensive teammates who also had an excellent game, including sophomore Matt Parker (two interceptions), junior Johnny Golden (fumble recovery) and senior Carlo White (blocked extra point).

Anthony Roberts

Editor's note: Seminole's Anthony Roberts returned a punt for a touchdown and intercepted two passes to be named this week's Sanford Herald Player of the Week.

the Rams to all of its points. · Lake Brantley's Tim LeCreiz, who kicked a game winning field goal with 0:09 left.

· Lake Howell's Pat Jergensen, who rushed for 153 yards and three touchdowns.

Oviedo's Dan Hargrave, who rushed for 67 yards, passed for 49 yards and scored a touchdown.

• Lyman's Bobby Washington . who rushed for 66 yards.

CFOA offers improved referee training

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD - Have you ever sat in the the stands at a basketball game and complained about the officiating and thought that you could do a better job than that?

Well now the CFOA (Central Florida Officials Association) wants to give you a chance to prove it. But. a warning, there is a lot more to it than just putting on a striped shirt and a whistle and hitting the court.

· New officials are not just thrown on the floor and expected to perform. The men and women you see on the court have put in many hours of hard work before even being allowed to referee a scrimmage, let alone a real game.

All officials, prospective and veteran alike, are required to attend a state (Florida High School Activities Association) sponsored rules clinic each year and take and pass a closed book test written by the National Federation of State High School Associations.

In addition, the CFOA, to which all local high school officials must belong, also has a mandatory two-day seminar prior to the start of each season in which mechanics and new rules are presented. But now the CFOA has added another step to further insure that only the most knowledgeable, most informed and best trained officials take the floor when the high school season opens in late November. Since mid-October, the CFOA has been conducting on the floor training at Seminole Community College. The camps started from an idea of past CFOA president and long time official Stan Staneff. The sessions started as just classroom work but have now grown to include on the court exercises. From now until the middle of November the prospective officials will continue to meet at SCC's Health and Physical Education Center with several veteran officials who help conduct the training sessions for a minimum of two hours per week. With a studentteacher ratio of 3 to 1, every new official gets plenty of one on one instruction.

All phases of officiating are covered, from the pre-game conference. to mechanics, to on court coverage. The use of video tape has become a very valuable learning tool in the clinics. Seeing yourself make a mistake on tape can correct an error much more quickly than being told

Guest speakers are also brought in to speak the class during the sessions.

Toward the end of the training period, the new officials will be observed and critiqued while officiating intersquad scrimmages of local high school teams.

Once the season starts the association holds local meetings every other week to discuss any unusual situations that arise and to keep everyone informed of any new rules interpretations.

So as you can see, much more goes into being an official that at first meets the eye. If you are still interested in becoming a high school basketball official for the 1991-92 season, it is not too late. Just contact CFOA President Rick Corley at 644-6002 or Sanford's Allan Whitlow at 323-8824 for more

ardt within one lap of fifth points title

DAYTONA BEACH — Dale Earnhardt has moved to within one lap of winning his fifth NASCAR Winston Cup stock car recipt national championship. racing national championship.
All Earnhardt needs to do is start the season-ending Hardee's 500, Nov. 17; at Atlanta, Ga., to become the second driver to win five national titles.

Richard Petty, who will retire from driving at the end of the 1992 season, has won the championship twice. The NASCAR Winston Cup title is worth approximately $1.3 million in post-season awards, making it the richest title in motor sports.

Earnhardt leads second-piace Davey Allison by 156 points, 4127-3971. The largest pos difference in one race is 151 points, meaning all Earnhardt has to do is start the final event of the season to win the title. Because he is leading the points standings, Earnhardt is assured of a starting position in the final

"This is something we have been working for all season long," said Earnhardt. "Just like every team out here, the Winston Cup has been our goal. (Car owner) Richard Childress and the crew have given me a great car every week. This championship, if I can stay healthy between now and Atlanta, allows you what hard work can do."

Ricky Rudd, who had held second place in the standings for 18 races, fell to third with 5982, nine points behind Allison. Nine points represents less than two nishing positions in a single Harry Gant is fourth with 3820 points, followed by Ernie Irvan, 3750; Mark Martin, 3729; Ster-ling Marlin, 3693; Ken Schrader, 3636; Darrell Waltrip, 3572; and Rusty Wallace, 3521.

Allison leads the circuit in money-winnings with $1,339,445, while Earnhardt is second with $1,062,240.

Third is Gant with $696,035, followed by Irvan ($625,425); Martin ($766,155); Schrader (9689,605); Rudd (9659,155); Bill Elliott (9607,920); Geoff Bodine (9565,220); and Alan Kulwicki ($531,645). Pole quali-fying at Atlanta is scheduled two levels Brown's Central girls claimed the top three places in three of the groups, first, third and fourth in another and first and third in the other.

Kelli Exum, Nikki Terry, Jennifer Baldridge, Heather Wolken and Brandy Oglesby all won individual All-Around championships for Brown's Central. Sanford's Lisa Whitlow was the runner-up in the Level V, 12-14 age group.

But individual state titles may not be easy to come by as after the sectional it was announced that, due to the large number of competitors who have qualified for the state meet, the teams would be divided into North and South Regions.

Brown's Central has been placed in the south region along with the American Twisters of Pompano Beach and La Fleur's Gymnastics of Largo. These three teams are considered to be the top three gyms in the state in these levels this year.

The Individual State Championships-South Regional will be hosted by the American Twisters the weekend of November 22-23 In Pompano Beath.

Woman searches for painless cure

DEAR ABBY: This refers to your answer to "Out of Ideas," whose wife refused to go to the doctor for checkups.

Your answer was very glib. I. too, refuse to to to the doctor my reason is fear, pure and simple. I am so frightened of hearing something bad. I just don't go at all. The word "tests" is enough to send my blood pressure soaring. In fact, I can't get an accurate blood pressure reading due to fear of doctors.

I'm not as bad as "Out of Ideas' " wife: I've gone to the doctor on occasion when I've had uncomfortable symptoms that drove me there. But the experience was sheer torture. The doctors kept saying, "Calm down, calm down" - but I simply couldn't. I'm in my 50s and I've never had a mammogram, and I never go for regular checkups.

I would be deighted to learn how to overcome, this deep-scated terror, but so far, no luck. I think you should consider this in relation to "Out of Ideas" " wife. She may need help, and it has nothing to do with her intelligence.

The camp, attended by cadets normally between their third and fourth year of college, includes instruction in communications, management, and survival training.

Successful completion of the advanced camp and graduation from college results in a commission as a second lieutenant in the U.S. Army Guard. or Reserve.

The cadet is a student at the University of Central Florida. Orlando.

the "to death" is just a figure of speech. I told "Out of Ideas": ing.
"Short of hog-tying her, there is nothing you can do. Every intelligent person realizes that residents? Or just mind my own routine physical checkups (physical and dental) are essential to maintaining good health: and early detection, should there be kindness to tell the woman a problem, has saved many privately that you saw her center runs a trip to the shopping center once a week. Recently I noticed one of the residents put a tube of lipstick in her purse instead of in her shopping cart. I was behind her in the checkout line and saw that she didn't declare the lipstick. Since then, I've been watching her. The week before last, she slipped a bottle of fingernail polish into her bag. Last week, it was toothpaste.

If I speak to her about her piltering. I know she will deny it and say all sorts of unpleasant then. things. Still. I am uncomfortable now that I know she is shoplift-

DEAR IN: It would be a shoplift the lipstick, nail polish and toothpaste. Tell her you fear that if she does it again, she will be caught and asked never to enter that store again - or worse yet, arrested. This would be not only embarrassing, but a blow to her family — and it would reflect badly on the retirement center.

DEAR ABBY: Our retirement "dinner" and "supper": So you'll know where I'm coming from, I live in Winona, Minn., a small city in the heart of the Mississippi's famed Hiawatha Valley.

Here when we eat our evening meal at home, it is virtually always "supper" and is our principal meal of the day.

However, when we go "out" to eat, we never call it "supper." Nobody here ever goes "out" for "supper," but everybody goes "out" for "dinner" now and

Get straight answer from your doctors

DEAR DR. GOTT: How can irritable bowel syndrome and colon cancer be definitively dis-tinguished? My primary physi-cian diagnosed my condition ac irritable bowel, but an endoscopy found a small polyp. My surgeon said it can be associated with cancer elsewhere in the bowel, while my primary physician said it wasn't really a polyp at all. DEAR READER: No wonder you're confused — so am I. Let me give you a broad answer.

Polyps are small growths in the lining of the colon. They take five or six years to grow big enough to be seen. Most are benign. However, certain types of polyp are believed to be pre-malignant. As a general rule, polyps should be removed (an easy procedure through the en-doscope) and examined under the microscope. If there is a chance of pre-malignancy, the whole colon should be examined (by colonoscopy) and any other polyps removed. The colonoscopy should be repeated every five or six years.

If no polyps are present, further follow-up is unnecessary. Evidently, your family doctor and surgeon can't agree. On this issue, I'd side with the surgeon who is. I think, telling you that further bowel examination is necessary. However, you are entitled to a consensus.

Call your family doctor and explain that you are confused by seemingly inconsistent reports. Ask him or her to resolve the issue with the surgeon, then to meet with you. Second option: Ask for a referral to a gastroenterologist.

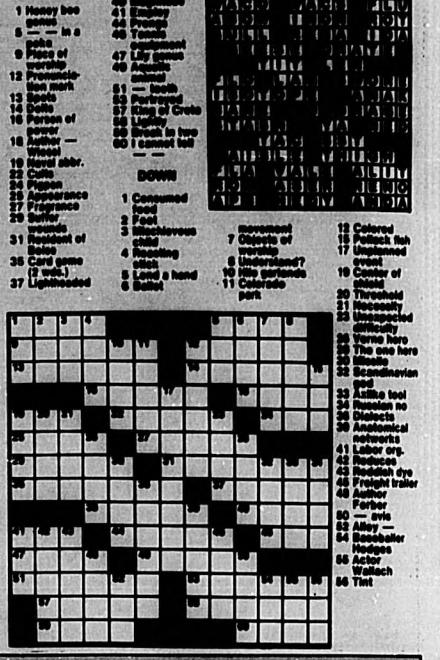

Irritable bowel syndrome, a common stress-related disorder. is marked by periodic abdominal discomfort and alternating constipation/diarrhea. It is a diagnosis of exclusion, meaning that other more serious diseases (such as colitis or cancer) have to be investigated (with X-rays or colonoscopy), then rejected. Apparently, you have had such testing. Now your doctor's remaining responsibility is to explain all this to you and, after talking to the surgeon, recom-mend the next step.

To provide further information. I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Ir-ritable Bowel Syndrome." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long. self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369, Bc sure to mention the title.

By Phillip Alder

The older of the two independently published bridge magazines in England started in 1926 Magazine. It is now just called Bridge. This monthly publication, with material for all levels from the club player to the expert, costs $35 a year, including transatlantic airmail (212-886-5860).

Today's hand is taken from an article by my favorite contribu-tor, David Bird, who writes about the monks of St. Titus.

The Abbot was sitting South. He is a cantankerous person who enjoys a pint of beer, and he greatly overrates his bridge abili-

East won the first trick with the spade king, cashed the ace and switched to the club jack. The Abbot won in the dummy. ruffed a club in his hand and led the diamond five: two, queen.

If West had started with the K-2 doubleton in diamonds, declarer had to cash the ace. But if East had the 10-8 doubleton. declarer had to return to hand to lead the diamond jack, pinning the 10.

The Abbot went for the smother play, ruffing a club in hand and leading the diamond jack. Now East had to score the diamond 10 to defeat the game.

"No need to chortle about it," said the Abbot. "Playing the world's most obvious false card from 10-8-3 hardly qualifies you for a knighthood." "I was just a bit upset by the way you insulted me." replied East. "With 10-8 doubleton in diamonds, I would play back a third round of spades to force dummy to ruff and protect partner's king-to-three."

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY Nov. 6, 1991

There is a possibility you might do something in the year ahead more significant than anything you've done pre-viously. Both chance and friends will be among the key elements. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)

You could be quite lucky today - if you operate along progressive lines and deal with intangibles. But if you get bogged down with the traditional, the opposite might be true. Scorpio, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Scorpio's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your financial prospects look good today, especially if you're promoting or selling something that is both unusual and expensive. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19) Helpful contacts can be established in this cycle through club or professional affiliations. Try to spend more time in both of these areas.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Challenges that associates feel are too intimidating aren't likely to scare you off today. You're in tune with your inner self and you, better than anyone else. know what you can do.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You're very good at conceptualizing today, and you shouldn't treat your inspirations indifferently. What you conceive can be accomplished.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you have to make a critical change today, don't be wishywashy, timidly using half measures. For best results, make a total alteration.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Where mutual interests are concerned, don't play down or ignore your mate's suggestions today. Your partner might be able to spot certain nuances you'll overlook or don't understand.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

You could be rather lucky at this time in opening up an avenue for additional earnings. It's similar to something that has been generating income for a friend.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you have met someone recently whom you'd like to know better, don't be bashful about opening up lines of communication. This individual has been waiting for you to make your move. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The timing is right to push for a close in a matter that you feel can enhance your prestige and security. Stop dragging your feet.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
This is a rather unusual day where you could learn the most from what you teach. If you have constructive information to pass onto others, now is the time to talk about it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Sometimes, the well-intended tips given to us by relatives are of small value. However, if Aunt Minnie or Uncle Joe tells you something today, be a good listener. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER EN-
